

PLAN BIGGEST JULY FOURTH AT NORTH END

Improvement Association To Ask For Funds From Townpeople—Band Concert Also on Program.

The Manchester Improvement Association, at a well attended meeting last evening, set the wheels a-buzzing for what is planned to be the town's most elaborate July fourth celebration. Encouraged by the success of the last two years when almost the entire population trekked to the north end playgrounds, the association means to surpass these successes this year, if possible.

Committee Named

As a start, this committee was appointed last evening to begin work on the arrangements: William Foulds, Mark Holmes, John Spillane, Edward Murphy, Charles I. Balch, Julian Strong, Charles Sweet, W. W. Robertson, L. N. Heebner, Robert Treat, Thomas Ferguson, Edward Coleman, Joseph Wright and Herbert Tenney. The committee will meet soon for organization and will elect a chairman.

Although the details have not yet been discussed, the general plan calls for a big band concert and at least $400 worth of fireworks. The consensus seems to be that since fireworks will be the main attraction this feature should be accentuated. If $1,000 can be raised the fireworks display will be so much larger.

Band Concert

A well organized publicity campaign will be waged from now until the week of the Fourth so as to make this year's celebration overshadow all previous efforts in this line.

Last year the Salvation Army gave a pleasing concert on Sunday evening on Depot Square. This concert was so well received and the attendance was so large that the committee is planning to secure a band if possible for a return engagement. A platform will be erected on Depot Square for the convenience of the band.

Cole's Band of Hartford

25 pieces has been secured for the concert on the Community grounds the evening of the Fourth. This band has furnished the program at both previous celebrations.

Public Subscription

Funds to cover the expense of the celebration will be raised by public subscription, and a committee will be named to have charge of the solicitation. While it is a north end organization that is sponsoring the celebration, it is for the enjoyment of the whole town and descriptions from all sections will be solicited. Everybody is invited to take in the celebration and every extra dollar that is received will be put into the exhibition of fireworks, so that the larger the amount of money raised the greater will be the display of fireworks.

Following the business of the meeting last evening, the members of the club enjoyed strawberry shortcake and coffee.

EARL CARROLL FINALLY REACHES ATLANTA JAIL

Taken Ill In South Carolina He Has Been In Hospital Ever Since.

Atlanta, Ga., June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, arrived here early today to start serving his sentence of a year and a day, imposed following his conviction on charges of perjury.

Carroll was accompanied by Henry Runnigham, United States deputy marshal of New York, who has guarded the convicted man since he became ill in Greenville, S. C.

Carroll and his guard left Greenville at 1:25 a. m., arriving at the terminal station here at 5:25. The theatre man was taken to the federal prison at once. Warden John W. Snook was on hand to greet him.

Carroll's removal to Atlanta followed Attorney General Sargent's refusal to take any action on his behalf, claiming that physicians who examined Carroll in the Greenville city hospital had stated there was nothing the matter with him.

HOME BLOWN UP.

Providence, R. I., June 8.—Unnerved by a second dynamite move against him, Morris Billings, known as "Young Montreal," Rhode Island fugitive, today cancelled his bout next Friday at Bayonne, N. J., with George Mack.

On the heels of the attempt to dynamite "Young Montreal's" poolroom in the Crown hotel, came an attempt last night to blow up his home.

The plaza was blown into the street, windows were shattered and the entire north end was shaken by the blast, but there were no casualties.

KILLS HER HUSBAND FOR TELLING TRUTH

New York, June 8.—Mrs. Margaret Thompson, thirty, of Coney Island, didn't believe her husband, George Thompson, also thirty, a cook, when he returned home at 3:30 this morning, saying he had been working.

She accused him of "cheating." She became so furious she seized an eight-inch bread knife and plunged it into his side, severing an artery. Within five minutes he was dead.

The woman, mother of two children, was arrested. The police investigated and found that the story the husband told his wife was true.

LINDBERGH IS NOW HALF WAY ACROSS OCEAN

At the Present Rate of Speed Cruiser Should Enter Chesapeake Bay On Saturday Morning.

On Board U. S. Cruiser Memphis, June 8.—(By Radio to INS)—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the homestretch of his homeward journey today. The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging 23 knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest jackie.

Eats With Crew

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment on his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

The young aviator has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burgess discussing the possibility of a trans-oceanic airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's view upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

His Life Work

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they will deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival here time will be taken up completely receiving honors from the American people. When the ovations and fetes are over he will be ready to settle down to work.

30 FLYERS ENTERED IN HONOLULU HOP

Prize of $75,000 Offered—One Woman to Take Part In the Contest.

San Francisco, Calif., June 8.—With new entries announced every day for the San Francisco to Honolulu airplane flight, the dash across the Pacific to Hawaii, it was indicated today, will be reminiscent, in a way, of the rushes into the South African diamond districts or some of the hectic scrambles for newly opened land reservations in this country.

Thirty aviators have unofficially entered the dash, it was revealed today. Competition for the $50,000 prize, which is being raised in San Francisco, and which will be augmented by an additional $25,000 offered by James Dole, Hawaiian "pineapple king," has attracted aviators from all over the country. It is expected that the flight will develop into a spectacular air race that may never be duplicated.

Word has been received here that a woman would be among those to make the dash across the Pacific. She is Miss Mildred Doran, 21-year-old Flint, Mich., school teacher who, it is reported will accompany Angie Pedlar, Michigan aviator. The monoplane in which they will make the flight is now being built at Lincoln, Neb., it is said.

The San Francisco flight committee declared they expected Pedlar and Miss Doran would hop off from Flint about June 15 in a non-stop flight to San Francisco.

CHAMBERLIN IN GERMANY

This is the first radiophoto reaching the United States of the New York-to-Berlin flyers in Germany. It shows Clarence Chamberlin (left), pilot of the "Columbia," and Charles A. Levine, owner of the plane, examining the broken propeller after their forced landing near Cottbus, 60 miles from Berlin. Rushed to Berlin, the photo was flown to London and radioed to New York, whence it was hurried by NEA Service to The Evening Herald.

REDS MUTTERING AGAINST POLAND

Assassination of Minister In Warsaw Raises Storm Of Indignation In Russia.

Moscow, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Wolkoff, in Warsaw.

The foreign office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

Blames Britain

The Russian press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people or the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the assassin's hand was directed by another," according to some newspapers.

London has become a place where it is possible to get a permit for any anti-Soviet crime," said Izvestia.

Embassy Guarded

Mounted police are guarding the Polish embassy which has been closed.

Occasional street cries against Poland are heard.

Sends Sharp Note

M. Levitovitch has handed a sharp note to the Polish minister here and declared that Russia will reserve the right to re-open the question of responsibility for the assassination as soon as detailed information is received.

The Russian note declares "this unprecedented crime is linked with a whole series of outrages against Soviet envoys abroad which menace world peace. The raids at Peking, London and the siege at Shanghai have all unleashed Terrorist activities of a group of Reactionaries, who, in their blind hatred against the class have stooped to political murders."

MAYOR DROWNED.

Quebec, June 8.—Phillippe Cote, mayor of St. Gedeon, Montmorency county, was drowned in Lake Noel, forty miles north of here, when the canoe in which he was fishing was upset by a strong wind. His brother, Napoleon Cote, and L. Lapierre, a guide, swim ashore.

FRANCE HINTS AT NEW TREATY

Wants U. S. to Stand By Her in Definitely Outlawing War.

Washington, June 8.—France has made overtures to the United States as to the desirability of negotiating a treaty between the two countries, definitely "outlawing" war. It was disclosed at the State Department today.

Through Ambassador Herrick at Paris, Foreign Minister Briand has addressed an informal inquiry to the State Department calculated to elicit a reply as to whether the Washington government desires to discuss such a treaty.

The suggestion was originally advanced by M. Briand in a speech some weeks ago.

While not desirous of appearing to reject such overtures, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are said to consider such negotiations unnecessary in view of the fact there is now in existence between France and the United States the Bryan arbitration treaty which provides justiciable settlement for almost every conceivable dispute that might arise.

The governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, state controller, tax commissioner and attorney general are ex-officio members of the same commission.

BIG PLANE PLANT FOR CONNECTICUT

Milford, Conn., June 8.—A warrant deed filed today with William A. Rose, town clerk, transfers to the Aircraft Corporation of America title to 127 acres of land extending along the Laurel Beach road here to the Housatonic river, and paves the way for starting work on a huge plant that will manufacture aircraft of both sea-plane and land type. Hugo A. Shalvoff, formerly of Norwalk, owned the property and papers indicate he received fifty thousand dollars for it. The land was once known as the Bray Farm.

$75,000 in Buildings

Information reaching Milford today indicates that the Aircraft Corporation of America intends to erect a $75,000 group of buildings on the property during the present month. AVIATORS WERE LOST TWICE ON TRIP OVER

LEVINE'S ACT TO BE PROBED BY OFFICIALS

Carried Packet of Air Mail To Germany Without Ap- proval of Post Office De- partment.

Washington, June 8.—Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the Post Office Department and the Department of Justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the War Department. There have been allegations of irregularities in some of Levine's salvage contracts with the War Department, out of which he is reputed to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case Attorney General Sereno said nothing is to say today.

New's Statement

Postmaster General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry air mail to Germany and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, Long Island, violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchell Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collector's value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

Levine has been in frequent difficulties with the post office department, starting over a bid Levine's company submitted for the New York-Chicago air mail contract months ago. Although his bid was the lowest submitted, Postmaster General New threw it out and awarded the contract to Colonel Paul Henderson's company, after Levine was said to have approached Henderson with a proposition to sell the contract. While not actionable under the law, New considers this to be "sharp practice" and refused to accept Levine's bid. The fact that Levine's relations with the War Department were also under investigation by the Department of Justice figured in the rejection.

A Legal Question

Whether Levine's connivance with Postmaster Sealy to carry the first air mail to Europe is actionable under the law is too questionable. According to postal authorities, there were more than two hundred letters in the packet, mostly addressed to Levine himself at various European capitals. The philatelic use of the stamps is incalculable, but postal officials

AIRPLANES USED IN CHINESE WAR

Bomb Shantungites Who Are Defeated After Battle Lasting 36 Hours.

Shanghai, June 8.—After a thirty-six hour battle in which 2,600 men were killed and wounded, according to a Nationalist Communiqué, Nationalist troops captured Han-chung, the northern defenders retreating toward Lincing. The battle ended Tuesday.

Airplanes Used

Airplanes attached to the Nationalist army participated, bombing railway stations and troop positions. The Nationalist communiqué said that the air attacks demoralized the Shantungites.

Large numbers of wounded are arriving at Hankow daily from Honan, indicating that severe fighting continues in that region. The hospital situation at Hankow is critical due to the intense heat and the lack of facilities to treat the wounded who are estimated at 12,000.

Influence Spreading

General Chiang Kai Shek's influence is spreading in Kiangsi, particularly in the region of Kiu-kiang, where a score of labor unions were suppressed and eighty labor leaders were beheaded on the ground they were Radicals. Many Kuksiangites have joined Chiang's army.

Chamberlin Reveals Fact In Talking to President of Ger- many—Had Two Compasses But Both Got Out of Or- der—Lost Once Over Ocean In Snowstorm and Once In Fog Over Land—Flew Within 15 Feet of Ground to Find Way.

Berlin, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany, Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the trans-oceanic flight with both compasses out of order.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snowstorm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came to Europe rather to the south of Ireland, over the English channel.

"When we were over the continent we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zig-zagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

Saw Large City

"Towards dawn we saw a large city and went down to fifteen feet above the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund out we thought it was Bernerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Cottbus. Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction because, though we had taken two compasses, both got out of order. One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without any compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way."

RECEIVED BY PRESIDENT

Berlin, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and his flying companion, Charles A. Levine, who made a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles from New York to Germany, were received today by President Von Hindenburg of the German republic at the presidential mansion.

Although the journey from the American embassy to the presidential palace is but a three-minute drive, the crowds made it impossible for the fliers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throats "hocks."

Break Through Lines

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 2,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throats "hocks."

Meet Hindenburg

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meisner, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitations to the fliers and lauded their achievement.

The two fliers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the fliers his autographed photograph in a silver frame.

To Stay a Week

The length of the Americans' stay here is problematical. It is certain, however, that they will remain here for a week; or, if they make trips beyond the city, they will return here.

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine, wives of the air voyagers, are coming here to meet their husbands and it is possible that Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin, mother of the pilot, will come to meet her son in answer to his invitation transmitted over the trans-Atlantic radio telephone yesterday.

Dinner Tonight

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited. Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the fliers at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning, and on Friday they will be the guests of the City of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

GO TO THE BANQUET IN WORKING SUITS

Berlin, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time and will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

Expected to entertain the fliers at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning, and on Friday they will be the guests of the City of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American Club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon Hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Guests of Flyers

Officials of the Luftwasa Company—Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise—will entertain the aviators at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former Kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed reports that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and which struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

A Great Reception

"It was certainly a great reception," said Levine referring to the arrival of the Columbia at Tempelhof field late yesterday afternoon when 150,000 persons roared themselves hoarse with "hocks!" and shouts of welcome. It was a sincere and whole-hearted welcome and the Americans told Ambassador Schurman that they were touched by the sincere admiration and friendship of the Germans.

Under a Strain

The Americans said that the strain of the reception upon their arrival was more trying than that of the actual flight from New York. However, they forgot this in the bustle of getting ready to call upon the German president.

A crowd began to gather in the streets around the American embassy at dawn. Thousands stood on the sidewalks straining their eyes towards the embassy building to get a glimpse of the famous Americans.

Invited To Austria

Austrian Ambassador Felix Frank invited Chamberlin and Levine, in the name of the Austrian government, to visit Vienna.

Before leaving the American Embassy Chamberlin and Levine said they hoped to tour Europe. "I am interested in commercial aviation and I wish to study it throughout Continental Europe," said Chamberlin. "I would like to visit Paris, Vienna, Rome and London. I have promised to go to London and hope to be able to do so."

CHAMBERLIN GETS OFFERS

Berlin, June 8.—Fame and adulation meant but little to Clarence Chamberlin.

"I was hoping Lindbergh's old stuff by now," Chamberlin said today when he was surrounded by a great crowd of enthusiasts. "Honestly I didn't think I'd have to get through this."

Chamberlin has received many offers for his services, the sums being offered running into huge figures. "These telephone numbers make me dizzy," said Chamberlin as he saw some of the offers and the sum they offered.

NO SNAP MARRIAGES AFTER JUNE 30TH

Licenses Must Be Obtained Five Days Before Rites Under New Law.

Legislation enacted by the general assembly at its last session, changing the marriage license laws, will go into effect on July 1.

The present laws allow the contracting parties their license as soon as the statements contained therein are sworn to. This, of course, is in the case of residents of the town in which the license is granted.

The new law, however, provides for immediate issuance of the license in cases where marriages must be performed at once.

In order to take advantage of this clause the license must be passed on by the judge of probate.

Minors must have the consent of the judge of probate, and their parents or guardians, in writing. In the case of minors whose parents or guardians do not live in this country the consent of the judge of probate is sufficient.

The law provides only for a long wait between the time of application for the license and the time when the certificate is issued.

SEEK "BOSTON BILLY" AS GEM GANG HEAD

Confession of Arthur Barry Leads Police to Search Around New York City.

New York, June 8.—Vigorous search was being made by the police today for "Boston Billy" Williams, alleged "brains" of a gang which has been perpetrating jewel robberies in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Florida in recent years.

Depredations of the gang were learned through the arrest of Arthur J. Barry, alias Arthur Gilbert, formerly of Worcester, Mass. Barry confessed that he and Williams were the two "gangster-guns" who took $32,700 in gems from the home of Jesse L. Livermore, at Kings Point, Long Island, May 29, while politely holding their victim and his wife at bay with revolvers.

Referring to Barry, Mrs. Livermore said after the robbery she "could not help admitting he was charming."

Detectives planned to quiz Barry at length today regarding where the loot from various unsolved jewel robberies was disposed of. The police will endeavor to link "Boston Billy" through Barry with the robberies at the homes of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at Poconto Hills, Pa., and Mrs. James P. Donahue at the Hotel Plaza; William C. Durant, at Deal, N. J.; the robbery of the Joshua Coston home near Fort Washington, Long Island, while the Prince of Wales was being entertained, and two recent Ritz-Carlton robberies in which Mrs. P. A. B. Widener Second and Mrs. Bror G. Dahlberg were the victims.

FRINK IS DROPPED AS DEPUTY SHERIFF

Aftermath of Argument With Judge Yeomans Seen in Andover Replacement.

Special to The Herald. Rockville, June 8.—Allison Frink's arrest of Miss Alice Yeomans, daughter of Judge Yeomans, of Andover last summer for driving an automobile without a license has lost him his job as deputy sheriff in Tolland County, was the opinion expressed today by politicians who gathered in the county court house here today.

Sheriff Frederick O. Vinton, in announcing his deputy appointments yesterday afternoon, named Harvey S. Collins of Columbia in Mr. Frink's place.

Sheriff Vinton was pressed to make a change in the deputy sheriff for the Andover section because of many claims to be a showing of persons' feeling on the part of Sheriff Frink against the Yeomans family.

Andover itself was divided in the matter of deputy sheriff. Several violations of speeding have been brought into court by Mr. Frink, while one of the charges made against him was that he took passengers from the Andover station to Columbia Lake.

Judge Edward Yeomans is a former chairman of the Democratic State Central committee and a power in Democratic politics in Eastern Connecticut. Mr. Frink is said to be seeking an appointment as a state policeman.

Rockville Silk Man Resigns Position With Belding-Hemway Company.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, June 8.—Frederick N. Belding, vice president and a director of Belding-Hemway Silk Manufacturing Company, who resigned both of those positions at a meeting of the officers and directors held in New York yesterday, was back in Rockville today.

His greeting was cheery enough, although there was something that was behind the look that indicated that he had played at a game and lost. He is a young man, just turned forty, active, and his face was brown from a heavy tan, as he has only recently returned from a fishing trip.

Do you mean out as far as an active part in the conducting of the business is concerned? he was asked. "Yes, out in every way," came the reply.

Out as far as the financial matters are concerned, he was asked. "Yes, out in every way," he answered. Six girls were in the office at that time, each being given their pay check.

It is a deplorable thing that has happened, he said, and I so told the officers and directors at the meeting. I have no fight with them or anybody else because of the change, but I could not see my way to continue and so stated and that is all there is to it.

Under Class B, L. J. Robertson Jr. took a prize for the best exhibit of six irises, three of each variety. In Class C, Mrs. Jennie Clark Robinson took first prize for the best collection of three irises.

He was asked about the story that has gained circulation that it was not until he was returning from his fishing trip and had stopped off in Holyoke to visit the Skinner company officials that he first learned of the change.

SHAKEUPS.

Sometimes it almost seems as if an air invasion, a Mississippi flood, a financial panic like that of 1893 or a visitation from the gentleman who struck Billy Patterson would be a good thing for Manchester. We don't have enough real troubles, in this man's town, for the good of our souls. If instead of sending a selective group of our young men to the World war the whole kit and kaboodle of us had had to go and live in the trenches, eat goldfish and wily and sleep in the mud for a few months, we might possibly have a clearer perspective on the element of war and not be one-tenth as much disposed to make mountains out of molehills.

Because the Cheney Bros. concern found necessity for rearranging the mills' paydays you'd think that the crack of doom had sounded. The town could hardly have gotten up a bigger or sorer excitement if a flock of bombing planes had shown up over Birch mountain. What difference does it all make? What difference does it make whether the banks are open Tuesday or Thursday or Friday—or the stores? The big thing is that the paydays come, with regularity, that the banks are right there in the old spots to cash the checks and that the stores are open a couple of evenings a week. The rest is mere inconsequential detail.

We are not so sure but it would be a good thing for all of us if we got shook out of our ruts, a bit every week of every year. Otherwise we are extremely likely to wear the ruts so deep we can't see over the sides. These little enforced changes in a settled routine of existence, so far from being hardships, help to spice life a tiny bit, help to keep one day from being too all-fired much like every other day. Why grouch because there are seven different days in the week instead of all being Mondays?

"SPIESS MUSEUM."

The Herald hastens to make its apologies to Mathias Spiess and School Superintendent Howes for touting for the proposed Children's museum at Hartford while entirely overlooking the highly important fact that Mr. Spiess had offered and Mr. Howes accepted, in behalf of the Hollister street school, the former's collection of Indian relics as the nucleus of a children's museum right here in town.

It just happened that the writer of the editorial in yesterday's paper, lauding the Hartford project, turned off that little piece in placid ignorance of Mr. Spiess' communication announcing the establishment of the museum idea at the Hollister street school.

However, nothing was said in relation to the Hartford matter that does not apply with equal force to a children's museum in Manchester. It is our firm belief that no other sort of museum can be of as much value to any community, large or small, as one planned and conducted with a view to the interest and instruction of the young people. It is probable that more real benefit is to be gained—and is gained—by a single visit to the Boston Children's Museum by one boy or girl of grammar school age than results from a hundred visits by each of a hundred adults to any other museum in the cultural hub of the Universe.

In all seriousness we can say that the gift of Mr. Spiess and the motive behind it are among the finest manifestations of intelligent public spirit that Manchester has ever experienced. The Manchester Children's Museum, unless the people of the community prove to be indifferent to their opportunities, will take its place in a very few years as one of the outstanding assets of the town. It ought to be regularly incorporated and it would be a graceful thing, when it is to give it the name "Spiess Children's Museum of Manchester."

HOOPER VS. WRIGHT.

We have a lot of respect for Herbert Hoover. He has a singularly big mind, an unusually accurate perspective on large problems, economic, business, engineering. So that when the secretary of commerce predicts, as he did at Little Rock on hearing of the success of the Chamberlin flight, that transoceanic commercial aviation is only a few years off, the forecast naturally bears more weight than if it were made by the man in the street, under the influence of a momentary enthusiasm over the two recent American adventures over the Atlantic.

Chamberlin and Lindbergh have proved," says Mr. Hoover, "that airplanes can be used practically for long distance commercial travel. It will be a matter of only a few years until planes will be making regular flights across the Atlantic and Pacific in commercial service."

Now the Herald has been a little skeptical about transoceanic flying, either by plane or dirigible, being a matter of the near future, and the Hoover forecast was not the easiest of pronouncements to swallow; but we were doing a pretty fair job of getting it down when along came this from Orville Wright, daddy of the whole science of plane flying:

"Passenger and commercial airplane inter-continental service are a long way off. Men like Lindbergh and Chamberlin take one chance in four or five. But regular commercial aviation cannot be launched until the chance of failure is one in a thousand. I don't know how long it will be before flying across the Atlantic will be safe." If it takes two hundred times as long to bring the element of safety to a thousand that it has taken to bring it to four or five, it would appear that the prospect of anyone now alive seeing regular plane service across the seas is extremely remote. Of course it may not take proportionately as long, or anything like proportionately as long, to eliminate the major part of the risk as it has taken to overcome the small part that has been conquered. But we are more impressed by the special knowledge of the subject possessed by the man who invented the art of flying than by that of even our brilliant and otherwise dependable secretary of state.

Wherefore we have returned to our doubts about there being any regular plane service between New York and Paris or London for quite some little time yet.

SMARTY CARROLL.

The mere fact that Earl Carroll is known to some hundreds of Broadway addicts as a grinning "good fellow" constitutes no reason why he should be exempt from the operation of the criminal law, but the Broadwayites do not seem to be able to get that simple truth through their more or less addled heads.

There is a settled conviction among New York firmagglers like Carroll that nothing is ever meant, except money. Of course Carroll wouldn't have to serve his sentence for perjury before a United States grand jury! Of course all that would be necessary would be to pit Broadway wits against the stodgy hicks of the Department of Justice; the result could not be in doubt. Carroll had only to be sick—get some medicine or other to say he was at the point of death—and the sentence would be called off.

However, after his fooling away several months malingering at Greenville, government doctors declare there is nothing at all the matter with Carroll save a delusion that the perjury law was never meant to apply to Broadway revue managers; the very much shocked Earl seems to be in a fair way to proceed to the serving of his time.

The next result of his smart-aleckism is that he will be out of the Atlanta pen a good many weeks later, next year, than if he had gone right ahead and taken his medicine like anybody else in his situation.

THE WHITNEY WILL.

The will of Payne Whitney, New York multi-millionaire who died suddenly a few days ago, is another development of the tendency of very rich Americans to recognize a certain responsibility toward that public which has made possible the growth of their fortunes. Mr. Whitney during his life had given many millions to important charities and educational institutions, but he did not consider that his duty had ended there. Almost one-third of his huge estate, which may inventory up to three million dollars, he bequeathed to colleges, hospitals and other institutions devoted to the welfare of the race.

Nowadays, when scores of millions are given to scientific foundations, great charities and cultural establishments, a will like that of Payne Whitney causes no surprise and brings no criticism. There are many very rich men and women who nowadays regard their wealth as a stewardship. And in that fact lies one of the most encouraging proofs of an advancing civilization.

JIM HAM TALKS.

Jim Ham Lewis, whose pink whiskers provided for the United States Senate in long gone days such adornment as it knew never before or since, declares that the next Democratic national convention will abandon the two-thirds rule, in fact if not in form, provided Al Smith at any point in the proceedings gets a majority of the delegate votes.

Jim Ham, who senated from Illinois, has been a New Yorker for years. He could always tell a funny one. Perhaps he can now tell us if the Smith delegates, too, are ready to scuttle the veto power of one-third-plus-one provided some candidate other than Smith should happen to be the chap to show a majority strength. To visualize the New York Democrats calling the fight off if somebody else, say McAdoo, should come out stronger than their man in the earlier stages is to imagine a situation worthy of Jim Ham's most talented description.

New York, June 8.—In the two or three night clubs that seem to survive the general disaster which swept this hard-boiled industry during the winter, one of the secrets of success seems to be the impolite game of "roughhousing" important people.

The most successful and "fastest" of the city's remaining night playgrounds has as its star attraction a program of stunts bred of the slap-stick school. I have seen some of the nation's most prominent men and women folk submit to astounding antics. What's more they seem to like it for more notables frequent this place than any other in Manhattan—and keep going back, again and again.

The other night a group of chorus girls appeared dressed as policemen. They carried stuffed "billes" and went from table to table "socking" the guests over the head, with the baldheads as their particular victims.

On this particular night I noticed among the guests Lord O'Shaughnessy, visiting Canadian; Samuel Untermyer, the famous traction lawyer, and any number of other prominent ones. When the antics reached their height three swallow-tailed old boys were dragged from their chairs to the dance hall while the girls played leapfrog over them.

During the course of the evening one of Manhattan's leading judges, seeming to have slipped a bit of "hip juice," insisted on singing in a voice that was a bit off key, to say the least. From somewhere in the room came the cry, "Throw the bum out!" But of course they didn't. Nor did they bother the young man who had made the crude suggestion.

TEXAS GUINAN.

Texas Guinan, who taught New York some such slap-stick tricks, has become one of the world's best known resort proprietors as a result.

Recently one of Chicago's more-or-less celebrated gunmen settled down in New York and fell in love with a Broadway chorus. The writer of a theatrical column heard about it and, in a rumor of the engagement, referred to the groom as "a former Chicago hardware merchant."

GILBERT SWAN.

The calling cards of Manhattan bootleggers, by the way, almost invariably read: "dealers in hardware."

WASHINGTON LETTER

Carmel Thompson, who proposes a Bureau of Insular Affairs to govern U. S. possessions.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, June 8.—What are we going to do with our colonies? This question is not causing many of us in this country to be awake nights, but it is one of tremendous interest to the more than 13,000,000 persons outside the United States over whom we have placed the American flag.

The Philippines, Alaska, Porto Rico, Samoa and the Virgin Islands all want a different form of government. Especially do they want to elect their own governors, although their aspirations range from the Filipino desire for complete independence to the Alaska's ambition to be a citizen of a recognized, sovereign state of the federal union.

None of them is inactive in pressing claims for attention. Seek Uniform Government.

A movement is now underway to ask the Seventeenth Congress for a constitutional amendment which would accord the several territories and possessions a uniform type of government which, while it would not immediately grant to any of them what would remove them from their present condition of political inferiority under which they are governed by presidential appointment with absolute power above that of their legislatures.

If this movement takes definite shape, it will be backed by resident commissioners and delegates of at least three "colonies"—Porto Rico, Alaska and Hawaii. It might also be joined by the two Filipino resident commissioners, who realize that independence for them is not an imminent possibility.

Felix Davila, Porto Rican commissioner and principal proponent of such an amendment, holds it necessary to break into the constitution, so that this new type of government, whatever it might be called, would be not a permanent nature and now subject to alteration at will by future congresses.

Divergences of race, aspirations and qualifications, however, seem likely to defeat this constitutional amendment plan. A letter which is seen by Carmel Thompson's proposal of a bureau of insular affairs, which would be responsible only to the President. At the present time, Porto Rico and the Philippines are under jurisdiction of the War Department. Hawaii and Alaska under the Interior Department and the Virgin Islands, Guam and Samoa under the Department of the Navy.

Hawaii, of the larger members of the group, seems the most contented of the lot and the least politically minded. Some ambition for statehood seems to be found in these islands, but there principal interest lies in the maintenance of the sugar tariff.

Filipino Demands. The Filipino legislature, elected by the people, has risen to new fury against Governor-General Leonard Wood, since Wood proposed to sell her public utilities to private corporations. The legislature and Wood have been in violent disagreement for a long time. The Philippines, the only territory or possession seeking complete independence, would be happy for the present if they could get rid of Wood and elect their own governor.

Virgin Islanders have been pushing, in their feeble way, a permanent organic act which would give them civil government instead of naval government. Alaska, as anxious as any to remain under the flag, has developed a strong sentiment for statehood. Her meager population—under 62,000—is her principal handicap, and Dan Sutherland, her delegate to Congress, accuses Secretary of Commerce Hoover of discriminatory tactics in fishery regulations which discourage prospective settlers and everyone else up there except the big canners.

Porto Rico wants to elect her own governor and develop her insular aspirations with a free hand. Her people seem to be afraid of the big corporations there and are anxious to retain Governor Horacio M. Towner as long as they must have an appointed governor, for they get someone much worse. A bill will be reintroduced in the next Congress providing for civil government in Samoa. Little has been heard from tiny Guam, although her council protested some time ago against a reported plan to annex her to the Philippines.

Have Able Delegates.

The delegates and commissioners of these territories and possessions in Washington are all able men who have obtained a great deal for their people. For instance, when it was determined which men had introduced the most bills that passed the House in the last Congress, it was found that Sutherland of Alaska stood third—that this non-voting representative had sponsored more successful bills than 432 real congressmen.

BY DON E. MOWRY.

Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association.

A good many cities have public improvement projects which they cannot carry to completion because of deadlocks with property owners. Chambers of commerce fill one of their greatest services to their communities when they are the means for breaking down these deadlocks, seeing that both parties are satisfied on their respective claims, and giving the people the advantage of their efforts.

ward connecting the southern and northern ends of the city resulted. This boulevard was a part of the Johnston city plan. Both sides were deadlocked in a dispute regarding respective financial responsibility, the city maintaining that the steel company should pay a large part of the cost because the street would become a part of the company as the abutting property holder.

The Chamber of Commerce offered its services as mediator and drafted the proposals which were finally accepted by both sides. Under the terms of the agreement the city will obtain a new river wall, two concrete bridges and a 60-foot throughfare to replace a 40-foot street. The total cost will be $300,000, half of which will be borne by the city. Industries usually do their share when all the facts are known.

An Ex-Back PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS

No sanitary waxed paper covers the long loaves of French bread. It still is hauled about the streets in little carts.

This is Chapter 51 in a series of articles written by a former dough-boy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LI The good peasant women of France have not yet profited by the advice given them by the doughboys ten years ago. They still do the family washing in the cold water of the village troughs and in the neighborhood streams.

When the American soldiers saw this in wartime they couldn't figure it out. They suggested washtubs and hot water as a quicker and more comfortable method. Mother back home washed that way, but the peasant women of France couldn't be taught.

the village gossip place as well as the common laundry. The peasant women could not live without it.

This is only one incidence in the picturesque little towns where American advice has not been accepted. The peasants still lock their windows and pull down blinds so that no night air might get into the bedrooms.

Yet the veterans will find that somehow the familiar peasants are still going strong—with plenty of vim going for old friends who pay them a visit.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: P. T. Barnum (24)

To the last, publicity was balm to Barnum. When he was in London with the circus, and then nearly 80, he was asked if he would permit his figure to be reproduced in wax. He sent the wax-worker samples of his clothing so the likeness might be more real.

He tripped over a rope in Madison Square Garden and called for the reporters, shouting that he had been seriously injured.

In November, 1890, Barnum, then 80, suffered brain congestion. He asked his wife to complete his autobiography.

Barnum died April 7, 1891, leaving an estate of more than four million dollars. Several of the newspaper obituaries he had helped to edit himself. A large box in the circus winter quarters at Bridgeport was found to contain copies of his autobiography for his oldest employes.

Jungle Breach by Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAPPENED LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE in west central Brazil...

the darkness or his haste would have sufficed to prevent his seeing the vine snare. His foot caught in the twisted fiber; his body jerked violently; the glass object he was carrying shot from his hand and shattered upon the ground.

CHAPTER X The old man paled. Vilak put a finger warningly to his lips. His hand on his pistol, he stepped noiselessly into the shadow of some bushes.

Suddenly there arose from the bowels of the house a prolonged wail, sinister, uncanny.

For a few moments Vilak stood immobile, abstracted, only his hollow jaws moving as he chewed the gummy bead. The Oriental cast of his face became more marked; his bushy eyebrows appeared those of a Tartar; a thin film like the inner eyelid possessed by birds seemed to half shroud the pupils of his brilliant eyes beneath.

Suddenly Vilak thrust the old man's pistol into his holster. "It's Elise," he said. He bounded from his hiding place. Elise recoiled. His arms shot out and seized her. "By Jove!" he flashed with bitter intensity. "I could really be pardoned for doing something desperate to you for this."

When all three had entered, Vilak closed the gate once more and carefully relocked it. Then leading the way a short distance toward the house, he halted again in a clump of low trees. "We'll wait here," he whispered.

His eyes turned from her face to her dress, the same gown of yellow silk she had worn at her home. Now the edges were torn and muddy. "You came all the way in that flimsy thing?"

When the waning light of a candle appeared in one of the windows, the front door of the house opened, and Prentiss, clad in his grimy linens, appeared in the aperture. Stalking through the doorway, he hurried down a short path which led to a low water tower some feet behind the house and disappeared through the small door which led into it.

He took off boots, gloves, raincoat and gave them to her. "Put these on. When I'll do with you now that you're here, Lord only knows. I'd send you back at once only that it would probably be as dangerous for you to go back alone as to come along with me. You'll probably be safer where I can keep my hand on you. If you know how nearly you came to being shot by Nanny you'd now be trembling a little instead of trying by your most winning smile to cajole me into forgiveness. Nanny almost took his first lesson in marksmanship with you as the target and first lesson was generally fatal."

When she had taken the chain from her neck, he fastened one end to the gate knob and the other to the iron post supporting it, then swung open the gate until the chain was taut. "All right. You can both crawl through now. Careful. Lucky none of us are fat. Let me know in a second if either of you hear or see the dog."

For ten minutes they stood motionless, Vilak silently chewing betel nut, the old man and the girl fascinated, watching a murrumara, the Brazilian black snake, rising in the jungle grass as it killed and began to devour what in the moonlight appeared to be a jararaca, deadliest of Brazilian vipers.

When you talk to me civilly I might answer you. Vilak's eyes were darting past him to the dimly lit interior. "Then you'll wait forever, you hear me?" His voice began to rise shrilly. "This is my property. It does not belong to anyone but me. You can't tell Miss Marberry that. If she ever comes around here again I'll make her sorry she was born."

Let me introduce Mr. Smith. You already know him? Well, I'm not surprised at that. He's such a good fellow. Everyone knows Mr. Smith. If you want a first-class recommendation, go to his lunch club at the corner any day. That's where the boys meet and talk over business and bills and houses and babies. Oh, yes—men do talk about their babies more than women sometimes.

My beautiful but foolish cousin, you may congratulate yourself that the stars are obviously in your favor.

DIET OF CALF'S LIVER IS AID By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The treatment of pernicious liver, as was suggested by Drs. Minot and Murphy, seems to have achieved general medical approval. The method itself is so simple that it is easily adopted and has quickly come into general use. On the other hand, many persons do not particularly care for the taste of liver and revolt against too much of this substance in the diet.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Because he stood right up in meeting and said that the really only loved and desirable women were those who knew how to be playthings for men and who knew just when men wanted playthings, Roland Pertwee, English author, is in hot water today.

Here's warning that if any woman ever riled it was Mrs. Medill McCormick, National Republican committee woman from Illinois, daughter of the late U. S. Senator Mark Hanna, when she fainted while making a political speech before some 800 women in New York.

TILDEN-JOHNSTON WILL TURN "PRO" AFTER THIS SEASON

At Least This Is Prediction Made By C. C. Pyle, Professional Promoter.

New York, June 8.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, and William Johnston, America's leading tennis amateurs, will turn professional after the close of the current season, C. C. Pyle, professional promoter, predicted yesterday.

"Johnston even offered to join us after our Madison Square Garden opening," Pyle declared. "But his representative asked more money than we had offered."

The promoter declared that his plans would come to a head after the Davis Cup challenge round and the national singles championship late in the season.

The INSIDE of Baseball BY BILLY EVANS

1. Baserunner fails to touch a base, what should be the decision of the umpire on such a play? 2. What bases must be occupied and how many out, for the infield fly rule to be effective? 3. What must be done when a batsman hits out of order? 4. Has a catcher the right to block off a runner at the plate? 5. In event of a game that is forfeited after it has gone five innings, what is done with the records made?

1. Even if the umpire has observed the failure to touch the base, he pays no attention to it unless a play is made and an appeal. 2. First and second, or first, second and third and there less than two out. 3. The attention of the umpire must be called to the play before a ball has been pitched to the following batsman. The umpire should then call the proper batsman out. 4. Only, provided he has the ball in his possession, ready to touch the runner trying to score. 5. The records in such a game go into the averages as made.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH CHAMPS NOT SO FRIENDLY AT GOLF MATCH

YANKEES INTRENCHED FIRMLY IN LEAD

By LES CONKLIN, I. N. S. Correspondent

New York, June 8.—The New York Yankees were firmly entrenched in first place today with a lead of two games as a result of some terrific home run hitting yesterday in the first game of the "crucial" series with the Chicago White Sox.

The score was four to one and four of the five runs were homers, Babe Ruth getting his eighth and Lou Gehrig his fourteenth and Clancy and Collins also hitting for the circuit.

Alphonse Thomas, sensational young White Sox hurler, came to Andy High whopped two homers and boasting a winning streak of five straight, but he has never beaten the Yankees and the jinx reasserted itself.

Ruth is now four days and three games ahead of his 1921 record. As the sprightly Braves beat the Cardinals, twelve to five, the Beaneaters knocked Jimmy Ring out of the picture.

Hornsby and Terry hit homers for "riding" him, but lost to the Athletics eleven to nine. The police put Gaston out and five Philadelphia pitchers finally succeeded in putting the Browns out.

Washington got off at a six run lead against Cleveland but barely staggered to the wire with a ten to eight victory.

League Leading Hitters: National League: Harris, Pittsburgh, .444; Harper, New York, .405; Hornsby, New York, .389; Farrell, New York, .387; Wright, Pittsburgh, .387. Leader a year ago today: Cuyler, Pittsburgh, .365.

Challenge: The "Battling" Orioles would like to arrange games with any fast team in the vicinity of Hartford, averaging from 17 to 19 years of age. BY DAVIS J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, June 8.—It was the general understanding today that Walter Hagen and the visiting British delegation will continue to bear up bravely without too much of each other's society during the next week, following a general disagreement at the Ryder Cup matches at Worcester. This British versus America series is popularly supposed to engender international good feeling but the story is that it ended with several marble nibbicks being sunk from off the green and none from the heels only because the boys managed to restrain themselves.

A Flare Back: According to information available today, the series resulted in a flare-back to the Hagen-British controversy of the last British golf season, it being claimed on that occasion that Hagen purposely was late in arriving for the match in order to discompose Abe. Later as he was leaving the country, Hagen aired a few views on the subject of British golf, just by way of pouring oil on the troubled flames.

However, everything was supposed to be serene again when the professionals of both countries convened at Worcester for the international team matches. And then the fun began!

Discussion Starts: Ted Ray, the British captain, announced his line up at an early moment. Hagen was pleased to defer his decision and, after he had reached it, wanted to make a few alterations. The British objected and a few harsh syllables were exchanged on the subject of sportsmanship. Hagen finally let the four-course arrangement go, as read, but he still was a man with plenty of ideas and tendency to use some of them.

Al Watrous had declared himself out of the series because of an injured finger and Al Espinosa thereupon was nominated for one of the singles. But Watrous changed his mind, so Hagen changed his team. Espinosa changed his clothes and Ray changed his disposition. The latter felt that somebody had slipped over what is vulgarly known as a fast one on him and didn't hesitate to say so. International fellowship was having a field day but calm finally prevailed once more and the matter went on.

Not Satisfied: However, mutual recriminations seemed to be the vogue, for after their defeat, the British were openly critical of what they termed Hagen's jugglery of positions in the singles team. They were surprised that Bill Melhora was named for the No. 2 spot instead of Joe Turnesa or John Olden and rather pointedly intimated that Hagen had connived to bring his strongest man against the weakest of the British.

Apparently didn't occur to them that, if Hagen had done this, he must bring his weakest man against the strongest of the British. But then an international argument seldom makes good sense, anyhow. The whole trouble revolves around the fact that America believes in the principle of substitutions in sport, first on the theory of sustained efficiency, and, second, to give many a chance to play instead of a few. England believes in rising or falling with its original resources, which probably is one of the reasons it rises so seldom.

There probably is much to be said on both sides but this fact won't serve to make the British love Hagen for himself alone.

THE FINMITE STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

The helmet fit on Scouty's head. Then Clowny laughed and loudly said, "Oh, gee, but you look funny. Is it hard to draw your breath?" "My goodness no," wee Scouty tried. "It's very comfy here inside." But Clowny thought if he wore that he'd sure be scared to death. They looked around for old King Roar but he was out of sight once more. Then Coppy turned to Scouty saying, "Go ahead and jump right in the water, out of sight. You'll breathe within that thing all right. I wonder if you'll land upon the sea floor with a bump." "Oh, shucks, I'll try it," Scouty said. "I have a protection for my head and anyway I'll start to swim when downward I am bound." He then jumped out. The leap was ash. He hit the water with a splash, and very shortly he was treading on the ground. At first it filled him up with fear to see the fish come swimming

ARM BADLY CUT AS BIG MACHINE TOPPLES

Ralph Taft, Jr., Hurt At Gammons Holman Plant; Treated At Hospital.

Ralph Taft, Jr., an 18-year-old employe of the Gammons Holman Company and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Taft of 87 Woodland street, was severely injured late yesterday afternoon when a heavy machine which he was helping to move at the plant toppled over. Taft, struggling to prevent the machine from falling when it was tripped by a bolt in the floor, was struck and a sharp projection on the top of the machine inflicted a jagged cut in his right arm.

At the Memorial hospital where he was removed, it was found necessary to take ten stitches to close the wound in the arm and he had other injuries, a sprained ankle and a bruised left arm. It was said, however, that he would return home today.

SCORE 21-1 AT END OF THE THIRD INNING

The seventh grade boys of the Eighth district played the seventh grade boys of the Buckland school yesterday afternoon at the north end playgrounds. The Eighth district boys won easily by the score of 21 to 1. The game didn't get past the third inning because Manager Donahue of the Buckland team refused to go on after the eighth district pitcher made a balk. The eighth district players claimed there was no balk and a perfectly good ball game came to a sudden end.

Down the Field

Forty yard line — going strong. Twenty-five — still fine. Fifteen — resistance stiffens. If you carry the ball the last ten, you're good. In the struggle for independence it's much the same. But the Life Income Plan helps all through. First, it's insurance—$10,000 protection for your family. Then, $100 monthly for you if disabled. Finally, $100 monthly for life from age 65 on—the last hard stretch. See us about it today.

Be SURE You Have a GOOD Refrigerator

Nothing can equal ice in a good refrigerator for keeping food fresh and retaining its flavor. But ice cannot do its best for you if you put it in a poor refrigerator—one that leaks air or is not well insulated, or is worn out with age. Don't blame ice for the faults of your ice box.

It will pay you to get a new refrigerator if your old one is not right. Among the reliable makes, you can get a very good refrigerator at moderate cost. Or, for a few dollars you can get an efficient little ice chest, large enough to take care of Baby's milk and also food for a small family. If you would like advice in selecting a good refrigerator, ask us.
