

LARGE CROWDS AT LAWN FETE AT NORTH END

Gaily Decorated Grounds,
17 Booths, and Novel
Games Amuse Through;
2,700 Paid Admissions.

Despite cautious predictions by the weather bureau and threatened showers yesterday afternoon, a large and appreciative attendance assembled at the "White House" grounds, at 79 North Main street, last evening, at the formal opening of the three-nights' Lawn Fete of the Manchester Community Club.

The Lawn Fete is the fifth annual of this kind under the direction of the Community Club, and the large attendance last evening gives proof anew that the workers behind these events know their Manchester and have a pretty good idea of what attractions to offer in order to bring together 2,000 or 3,000 people nightly from this community and neighboring territory. Treasurer Charles B. Loomis reported receipts last night showing 2,700 paid admissions.

Opens With Music
Band selections along Main street and on Depot Square from 7:30 to 7:50 p. m. followed by concert numbers at the "White House" grounds gave public notice that the Lawn Fete had formally opened. The music at this stage of the proceedings was provided by the Center Flute Band, of the South End. Chairman R. K. Anderson and his committee leading the band to the grounds.

When the Lawn Fete got into full swing, after the daylight saving hours and twilight had given way to night, and the illuminations were shining at their best, the spacious "White House" grounds presented an animated scene of gaiety and merriment. With strains of orchestra and flute band combining with the chatter and importuning of the booth attendants, the laughter of the young folks engaged in "beating" the monkeys and pussies—rats with baseballs in the throwing games, and beneath all the hub-bub the murmur of conversation by friends and neighbors, many of whom had not met in public since the last Lawn Fete, there was plenty of indication that those present were enjoying themselves. One of the pleasing features of the Lawn Fete, the promoters emphasize, is the opportunity they offer for promoting neighborhood spirit and sociability.

Seventeen Booths
No less than seventeen booths, decorated in white and gold, occupy places within the canvassed enclosure. From the six persons are required behind each booth, making quite an army of workers, all conducting their activities in orderly manner. The large grounds.

CAMPBELL APPLICATION REJECTED BY THE ROTA

Wife of Former Official of U. S. Legation Cannot Have Marriage Annulled.

Rome, June 10.—The Rota Tribunal has rejected the application of Mme. Hugonette De Foras Campbell for nullification of her marriage to Charles Campbell, former secretary for nullification of her marriage to Charles Campbell, former secretary of the United States Legation in Rome, according to information in the Rota records made available today.

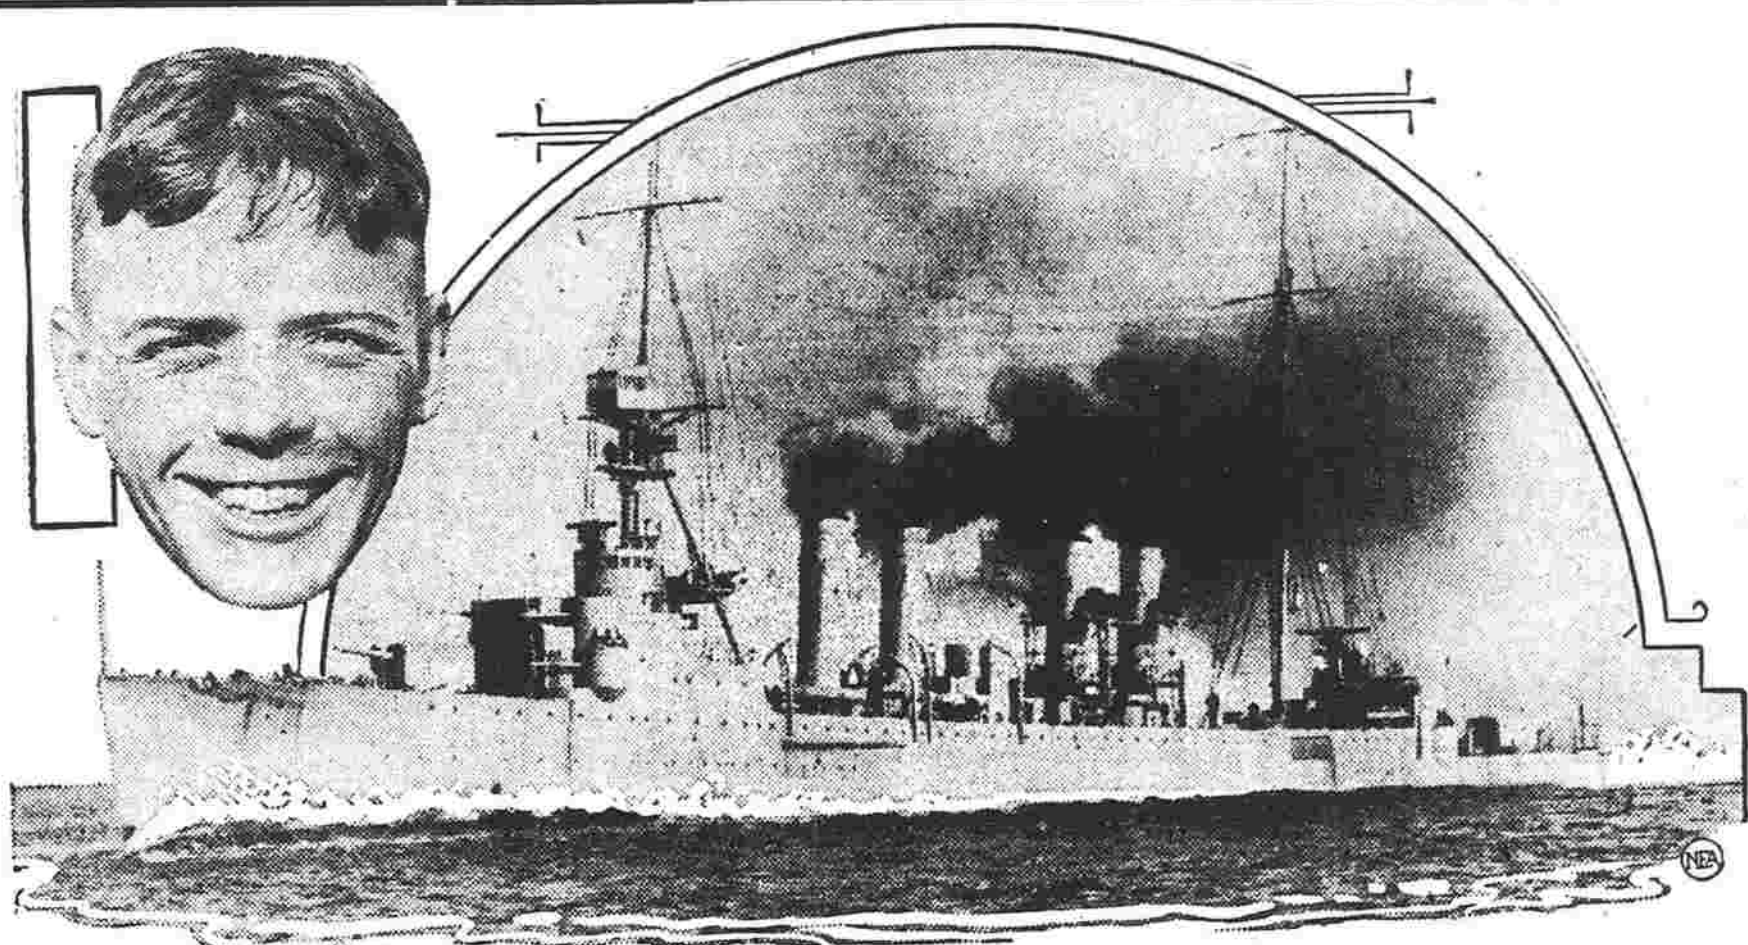

According to the application of Mme. Campbell, she based her plea for nullification on the charge that her husband had failed to live up to the spirit of a pre-nuptial agreement to become of the Catholic faith. She charged that while Campbell went through the ceremonies of being christened a Catholic, he was not sincere in his conversion.

REDS ARE EXECUTING
MONARCHIST PLOTTERS

Twenty Alleged Spies Shot; Two Princes and Seven Noblemen in the Group.

Moscow, June 10.—The political police are taking drastic steps to wipe out alleged anti-Soviet plotters. Execution of twenty alleged spies and monarchist plotters has been announced. Those executed included two princes, seven noblemen and several officers of the Kolchak and Wrangel armies, who were alleged to have been connected with the movement for the restoration of the Grand Duke Nicholas.

WARSHIP THAT'S BRINGING LINDBERGH HOME

Above is the U. S. S. Cruiser Memphis now off Cape Henry with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh aboard. It was sighted early this morning by destroyers sent out to meet it. Latest reports say that the cruiser will reach Washington shortly before 11 o'clock tomorrow morning where the nation's capital has arranged the greatest reception ever accorded an American. It is estimated that more than 150,000 persons are now in Washington. The inset gives a closeup of the famous Lindbergh smile.

DRY AGENTS KILL CHILD AND FATHER

Treasury Department Problem Told By Ex-Officer—Not Engaged In Running When Shot.

Washington, June 10.—The ruthless and murderous tactics of government officers enforcing the prohibition law were unveiled here today when a former agent of the Treasury Department related how a rum runner and his 11 year old daughter were atrociously killed by members of the border patrol in Detroit a few weeks ago.

Under Investigation
This case—one of the most revolting in the history of prohibition enforcement—is now under investigation under the charge of Deputy Commissioner of Customs Nathaniel G. Van Doren, who has assigned Elmer J. Lewis, supervising customs agent, and a staff to get the facts and prosecute the agents if evidence indicate they are guilty of deliberate murder.

Trying Out Speed Boat
James Lee, known along the border as "Jimmy the bootlegger," a large dealer, with his 11 year old daughter, and the representative of a boat-building works, were out in the Detroit River trying out a new speed boat Lee had just purchased. The boat was not being used to smuggle liquor in, and friends of Lee and government officers who investigated Lee's death, say that Lee never intended to use it as a rum runner.

RAILROADS IN DISPUTE OVER PROPOSED LEASE

B. & O. and New York Central Against Delaware and Hudson Extension Plan.

Washington, June 10.—The proposal of the Delaware & Hudson to lease the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh and to acquire trackage rights over the Pennsylvania lines between Buttonwood and Dubois, Pa., is devoid of public interest and full of possible impairment of a greater public interest, counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad told the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

The granting of the lease, it was contended in a brief, would disturb the long time relationships between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh and would exclude the former as a direct factor in the Buffalo and Canadian frontier traffic. "It will interfere, if not prevent, the development of a new short low grade route between Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, eastern New York state and New England, which route would not only afford additional and better facilities to the public, but would realize important economies," the brief said. The New York Central also filed a protest against the proposed lease and trackage agreement, contending that "railroad desiring to lease another railroad should connect with it either directly or through the medium of a belt or switchline."

420 Chinese Drowned Fleeing After Fight

Shanghai, June 10.—About 420 Chinese were drowned in a little lake west of Peichin, Anhwei province, while in flight before the Nationalist army, which occupied the town, according to a dispatch from Nanking today. In addition to the capture of the town the Nationalists claim to have taken many prisoners and much booty, routing the northern army defending the place. Nationalist chiefs announce that a battle for possession of Linchia is imminent. The municipality has begun the removal of the barbed wire barricades within the international settlement and along the boundaries. They had been erected several months ago when an anti-foreign outbreak was feared.

LINDBERGH TO LAND AT MILLER FIELD

Not to Fly to New York Monday In Seaplane As Was Originally Planned.

New York, June 10.—Elaborate preparations were taken today at Miller Field, Staten Island, to prevent disorder when Col Charles A. Lindbergh arrives there Monday from Washington in his "Spirit of St. Louis." All indications were that the city will yield to the flier's request that he be permitted to pilot his famous plane, instead of using a seaplane and landing at the Battery, as originally planned. Between 600 and 100 soldiers stationed at the field and about 150 policemen will be on guard to keep back the crowds, which may number several hundred thousand.

Public Admitted
"The gates of the field will be thrown open and the public admitted," Col. James Justice said. "But the crowd must remain behind ropes which will be strung around the entire field. Two sets of ropes will be used. Thus forming an alleyway in which the police will be stationed. Behind the rope nearest to the spectators the soldiers will be placed on guard. No one will be permitted to go beyond that, to step on the field beyond the ropes."

"I have sent an airplane photograph of the field to Col. Lindbergh in Washington. This picture shows a small grove in the center of the field. I have asked Col. Lindbergh, after he has landed, to taxi up to this grove, where he will be put into an automobile and whisked away from the field. The mayor's reception committee may be stationed in this grove."

REPUBLICANS GAIN IN IRISH ELECTION

But Government Will Be Returned to Power—Many Women Voted.

Dublin, June 10.—Work of tabulating the vote in the Irish general election was begun today following one of the quietest electoral contests in the history of Ireland. The general opinion is that the government will be returned to power although the Republicans undoubtedly gained strength in some quarters. It was estimated that about 75 per cent of the voters went to the polls, a larger percentage than in the last general election. A feature was the large number of women who voted.

EDITOR RODEMEYER IS STRUCK BY AUTO

Dean of State Newspaper Heads His Painfully Hurt Near His Greenwich Home.

Greenwich, Conn., June 10.—John Rodemeyer, dean of Connecticut newspaper editors, is in painful condition in Greenwich hospital today as the result of being run down in the street in front of his home, last night, by an automobile driven by Charles Johnson, of Port Chester, N. Y. The extent of Mr. Rodemeyer's injuries have not been determined. The left side of his face was badly cut and his left side has given him trouble. Doctors are seeking to determine whether he has sustained internal injuries or whether his ribs were fractured. Johnson was placed under bond by Judge James R. Mead in Town Court today to await the outcome of Mr. Rodemeyer's injuries.

'HORSE SENSE' IS POLICY OF NEW DRY HEAD

Seymour Lowman Arrives In Washington To Get Acquainted With Job—For Law Enforcement.

Washington, June 10.—"No fireworks—no sky rockets—just plain horse-sense enforcement." That will be the policy of Seymour Lowman, former lieutenant governor of New York, who August first will become assistant secretary of the treasury and generalissimo of the government's prohibition army and navy. "Congress has enacted the law and laid down the policy," Lowman said. "The job of the treasury is to carry out the law. I am for law enforcement."

No Recommendations
Lowman said that so far as he knew he would have no recommendations to make to Congress relative to new legislation. A considerable number of bills, proposed by General Lincoln C. Andrews, the present dry chief, to strengthen prohibition enforcement, are before Congress. It appears doubtful whether the treasury will seek reconsideration of these amendments to the prohibition and tariff laws.

The new dry chief took his first look at the treasury's prohibition machinery today after a long conference with Under Secretary Ogden L. Mills and Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner. It is said to have been agreed that Doran virtually would have entire charge of the shooting by telephone, and their escape.

Wife a Witness
Mrs. Minter, who was in the apartment at the time of the shooting and is being held for investigation. Mrs. Minter said she and Bogdon were in the apartment, partly clad, when someone was heard at the door. She ran to the bathroom to dress, and when she came out, she found Bogdon's body on the floor, and her husband was holding a smoking revolver. "I ought to shoot you, too," he is said to have told her, then ran to a telephone in the hall, notified the police and disappeared.

The extent of Mr. Rodemeyer's injuries have not been determined. The left side of his face was badly cut and his left side has given him trouble. Doctors are seeking to determine whether he has sustained internal injuries or whether his ribs were fractured. Johnson was placed under bond by Judge James R. Mead in Town Court today to await the outcome of Mr. Rodemeyer's injuries.

AGAINST DIVORCE BILL

Paris, June 10.—Declaring that the French people are becoming aroused against the Paris divorce system and the manner in which foreigners are taking advantage of it, Le Journal today predicted that a divorce will be refused Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller if they seek it in Paris.

LINDY NEARING HOME; BERLIN'S BIG OVATION

Thousands Line Sidewalks In Germany's Capital As Chamberlin and Levine Are Made Honorary Citizens; Presented With Medals—Sign City's Golden Book.

Berlin, June 10.—Thousands lined the sidewalks of Unter Den Linden today and cheered vociferously as Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine rode in state with United States Ambassador Schurman to the City Hall, where the two fliers were made honorary citizens of Berlin.

A warm sun shone down on the fliers and the reception they received from the crowds was as enthusiastic as any given them since their arrival here.

Mayor Boess received the fliers at the City Hall and offered them an official welcome. He paid them high tribute for their feat in establishing a new long distance flight, and then presented them with medals from the City of Berlin commemorating the event.

Both fliers were then called upon to sign the Golden Book, adding their names to a long list of names which rank high in history.

Berlin, June 10.—The Municipality of Berlin opened its arms to the American fliers, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, today and offered the two permanent honorary citizenship.

Berlin is not unmindful of the honor extended Dr. Eckerker when he arrived in New York, having flown the dirigible Los Angeles across the ocean, and today's ceremonies were partially as a return of this compliment, but chiefly an enthusiastic effort to demonstrate just how greatly Berlin admires these pioneers of the air.

The enthusiasm for the two fliers does not seem to recede, and Berlin, which is naturally an unemotional city has been marked with continued displays and demonstrations that have not been equaled since the war days.

Can't Change Clothes
So great is the enthusiasm for the flying men that Berlin refuses to permit them to even change their clothes, and everywhere they go it is insisted that they appear in the flying togs which they wore across the Atlantic. This despite the fact that both men have consulted tailors and are now quite prepared to appear properly dressed for all occasions.

In addition to the thousands of words of spoken and written praise, both Chamberlin and Levine are burdened down with material indications of Germany's admiration for them, for it seems that almost everyone in Germany has sent some gift to the American embassy for the two fliers.

Gives Beer a Name
Chamberlin, however, has been given a unique honor. A brand of Bohemian beer has been named for him, which seems to make it almost certain that his name will be known in Germany long after he has departed and perhaps greater feats have been accomplished.

For Chamberlin the Berlin visit will take on its greatest interest tomorrow, after the social functions climaxing in a great dance given by the Americans in Germany and tonight. Tomorrow Chamberlin will return to his own world—the world of aviation. He will be under the guidance of the officials of Luft-hansa, the greatest commercial airways transportation company in the world and all of the workings of this rather complicated institution will be demonstrated to the flier, Chamberlin, who is perhaps more of an engineer than a pilot, is greatly interested in the problems of commercial flying and he hopes that he may be able to learn many things from Luft-hansa which will stand him in good stead when and if he returns to his own business at Teterboro, N. J.

Many Offers
Cabled offers of every description continue to pour in upon both Chamberlin and Levine, but it now seems definitely settled that only those offers which have to do with aviation will get any consideration from them. Chamberlin's whole thoughts for the future are on the development of aviation and putting the results of his historic flight to advantageous use.

The future route of the fliers after they leave Berlin is not definitely settled, although they expect to visit Vienna, Munich and Prague. Chamberlin is anxious to go to Rome to meet Premier Mussolini and to study Italian aviation and perhaps pay some small tribute to the nation which gave birth to

BYRD TO FLY TO PARIS AND THEN RETURN

Plans to Stop Just Long Enough to Fill Gasoline Tanks; His Machine Ready For Hop.

New York, June 10.—Naval Commander Richard E. Byrd, the only aviator who ever flew a plane over the North Pole, plans to outdo Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Clarence D. Chamberlin in the way of trans-Atlantic flights, it was learned today.

Byrd intends to fly to Paris in his tri-motor, Fokker monoplane, then immediately fly back again. At the most his stay in the French capital will be scarcely more than twelve hours, just enough time for the American and his fellow fliers to take a restful sleep and have the "America's" gasoline tanks filled up again.

Will Have to Stop
Hence, if Clarence Chamberlin and his flight companion, Charles A. Levine, were to be the first to fly from Continental Europe to New York, they will have to "step out" speedily. Chamberlin and Levine now have under consideration an offer of $100,000 from William Randolph Hearst to fly from Berlin to New York.

Meanwhile, Commander Byrd has completed his final tests. His great Fokker plane has responded to a load of more than 14,500 pounds. So spectacular was this achievement to Byrd and his associates, that they immediately decided to risk an additional 100 gallons of gasoline, weighing 600 pounds. Thus, when the America dashes into the eastern haze, she will carry a weight of 15,500 pounds—something hitherto unheard of in trans-Atlantic aviation.

Lindbergh's Land
Lindbergh flew off in a plane weighing gross 5,130 pounds. The Chamberlin and Levine machine weighed over all 5,400 pounds.

In the America's cabin with Byrd will be Bert Acosta, one of the holdovers of the world's endurance record, and Lieutenant George Noville, flight engineer.

It is extremely likely that soon after Colonel Lindbergh sets foot on America soil and receives his official honors, Byrd will give the signal for his own flight.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF BEACH SLAYER

Murdered Girl's Watch Sold By Man in New Hampshire—Flees to Border.

Salisbury Beach, Mass., June 10. Highways and byways of the vast territory along the northern New England-Canadian border line were combed today for an itinerant barber, charged with the brutal slaying of Miss Stella Kale, pretty young photographer's assistant, whose body was found on the beach here.

The man's real name was believed to be George E. Taylor of Worcester. However, he has posed as Frank Hill, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and again as Frank N. Harrison, of Miami, Fla. His wife, child and property were swept away in the Miami hurricane, he said.

To William N. Dowe of Kensington, N. H., the man sold a watch, identified as that of Miss Kale's. A pair of tortoise shell sun glasses, found near the body of the girl, who was choked to death, was identified as having been purchased by Taylor a few days previous to the murder.

Police investigators traced the fleeing barber from this beach to Hampton, to Dover and to Canada. This is on the direct automobile road to Quebec. Customs guards at Coaticook, Quebec, reported a man answering Taylor's description having crossed the border yesterday at 7 a. m. Meanwhile, two police officials from Boston were here looking into the case in connection with the investigation of the slaying of Miss Maybelle Matheson in a West Roxbury field last fall. This girl was killed in much the same manner as Miss Kale.

Memphis Within Sight of Land—Washington Ready For Big Reception Tomorrow—85 Airships to Escort Cruiser Up the Potomac—To Land At 11 O'Clock.

Washington, June 10.—The drone of motors of a great air armada, music to every aviator, will herald the nation's joyous homecoming for Charles A. Lindbergh today.

While the sleek cruiser Memphis was speeding in a smooth sea with the youthful hero of the New York-to-Paris flight, the welcoming vanguard composed of the giant dirigible Los Angeles, a dozen airplanes and six destroyers planned to set out to meet her off the Virginia Capes.

Vice-Admiral Burrage wireless the Navy Department that Lindbergh soaring the horizon from the bridge of the Memphis, would sight land early in the afternoon.

Welcome by Boats
Before sundown he will be well within the waters of Chesapeake Bay with hundreds of small water craft joining in the welcome that will precede official reception by President Coolidge on behalf of the nation on Saturday.

The spick and span uniform of the new colonel in the Missouri National Guard will be dropped aboard the Memphis from the Los Angeles, while the first actual contact will be established when Richard R. Blythe, a St. Louis friend, leaves a destroyer to join "Lindy" aboard the cruiser.

Within Schedule
Well within her schedule, the Memphis will steam up the historic Potomac at a leisurely pace tonight and deliver Col. Lindbergh to the presidential dock in Washington Navy Yard at eleven o'clock Saturday morning. While he is whisked off for a parade and the presentation of the distinguished Flying Cross by President Coolidge, a skilled mechanic will begin to re-assemble the sturdy plane which carried him across the ocean and which, on Monday, will carry him to New York for a new demonstration of the nation's enthusiasm.

Holiday at Capital
Meanwhile a holiday atmosphere enveloped the national capital. American flags and occasionally the tri-color of France, Lindbergh pictures, Lindbergh came and Lindbergh hats all testified to the gala spirit that presages a welcome never exceeded here.

Nor was Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother, with the Lindbergh young airman forgotten. Her picture was conspicuously displayed in hundreds of store windows.

Completing Details
Reception committees were enmeshed in a maze of details, including the thousands of demanding the dues of official position and seeking preferred seats for the ceremonies which will be conducted within the shadow of Washington monument tomorrow afternoon.

Police officials said 100,000 people would pack the gentle slopes of the monument grounds, and the constant influx of visitors prompted Brigadier General Richard Byrd to order every available soldier to duty in the handling of the crowds. Window space was reported to be selling at a premium along Pennsylvania avenue through which 3,000 soldiers in khaki and bluejackets will escort the young pilot.

Program Complete
"Lindy's" program for Saturday, now virtually complete, includes the parade, presidential reception, dinner at the temporary White House and Minnesota Society of National Press Club receptions.

The flyer on Sunday will visit the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, chat with disabled veterans at Walter Reed hospital, probably attend church with President and Mrs. Coolidge, receive the Cross of Honor of the American Flag Association and attend a reception of the Missouri State Society.

He will leave Washington early Monday morning for New York, after breakfasting with the National Aeronautical Association, and dinner at the temporary White House and Minnesota Society of National Press Club receptions.

ON THE MEMPHIS

On Board U. S. Cruiser Memphis, June 10 (By Radio I. N. S.)—Exactly five years two months and two days from the day of his first flight, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is returning to the United States acclaimed the world's greatest flier.

Over 85 States

"I have flown over 85 states, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, England and Mexico, that is, the Mexican border in 1924. I started flying at the Lincoln, Nebraska, flying school and expect to continue flying for many years over many places."

Keynote of Career

This last statement is the keynote to Lindbergh's career. He has always prepared carefully for his flights and considers his trans-Atlantic flight a meticulously planned affair. "I have found flying above water smoother and frequently speedier than above land. I have been asked why I fly so low over the English channel when I was on my way to London from Brussels. My opinion is that it makes no difference whether the aviator is 2,000 feet or ten feet above water if there is no land in sight. If you are bound to fall a long fall will not help any."

STREET CAR STRIKE IS NEAR IN CHICAGO

15,000 Employees Want Wage Increase and Threaten to Quit if Refused.

Chicago, June 10.—A street car strike in Chicago appeared imminent today with the announcement of union officials that the 15,000 employees of the Chicago surface lines had voted in favor of a walk-out unless their demand for a wage increase is met.

AMERICAN PIONEER IS DEAD IN LONDON

London, June 10.—Announcement was made today of the death of Mrs. Victoria Martin, an American woman, at her home, Bredons, Norron Park, near Cheltenham. She died last night.

MRS. FULLER DIVORCED

Bridgeport, June 10.—Katherine Beuties Fuller, of Greenwich, was today granted a divorce from Homer A. Fuller, of St. Louis, on the ground of desertion, and was given the custody of their 11-year-old daughter. Judge Isaac Wolfe issued the decree in Superior court.

WAGES FROM SON.

Virginia, Minn.—Turned out of her son's home after working for sixteen years on his farm, a 67-year-old mother brought suit here against him for wages for her housework. She testified he had promised to keep her for the rest of her life. She was awarded $1,000 of the $2,800 she asked.

WAGONS FROM SON.

Connecticut's alfalfa hay crop, which is expected to be worth at least $3,000,000 this year, has advanced so far that the New Haven County Farm Bureau will hold a hay-cutting demonstration at Barnes brothers' farm, Wallingford, next Tuesday. That hay will be the first to be cut in the state. The Farm Bureau reported today, and indications are that a record hay crop will be harvested this year. Connecticut farmers are buying $5,000,000 worth of feed on the state each year and the Farm Bureau hopes the amount will be reduced one-half this year by home-raised hay.

Rockville CITY DISPLEASED AT TAX INCREASE

Residents Thought 9 1-2 Mill Rate Would Stand—Seek $1,000 Sewer Fund.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, June 10.—The announcement that the tax rate that the common council will recommend to the city meeting on Tuesday of next week will be 11 mills is not pleasing to the residents of Rockville. Last year the tax was 9 1/2 mills and at the regular city meeting the budget presented gave the impression that the tax rate would be sufficient and correspond with the old tax rate.

In addition to this tax there is also the town tax of Vernon which comes upon the city tax for those living in the city limits, which will bring the total tax rate that the residents of Rockville will have to pay to 24 mills. It is expected that the city meeting will be largely attended.

In addition to this the council is asking for an appropriation of $1,000 for the work that is to be done on the filtration system. The method of sewer disposal is one that has been long under consideration because of claims being made that the septic tank that is used is not sufficient to take care of the work expected, due to the sum and discharges that are disposed of through the mills. The state is conducting a general campaign against the pollution of streams and the money which is being asked for will be used in the general cleaning up of the septic tanks and for the surveillance of the conditions that now exist which will give to Rockville a better sewer system. This work will be done by an out of town man to be recommended by the state commissioner, who is experienced in this work.

Change in Bond Issue When Rockville issued its bonds for sewer work a year ago it provided for sinking fund to retire the bonds at the end of the thirty years, in addition to keeping to the interest payments such, it now appears, was not done and when the bonds are paid in July there will be but $15,000 in the sinking fund to pay this with.

The new bond issue of $54,000, of which amount $40,000 is being offered for sale, will not be the same kind of a bond, but must be a serial form. The bonds will be made over a period of years much shorter than in the past. In fact, it is expected that the bonds when issued will provide for a payment of about $3,500 a year and this will clear this issue up in about half of the time that it was expected the first issue was to be paid for. In order to have this change legal the agents have had the matter brought to the attention of the council and they will recommend that this particular change be made. The Legislature is no longer granting to towns, cities or districts a right to issue bonds unless they are to be in serial form, which will be the form of bond that is being issued. In the refunding of the sewer debt the method followed in the past it would have made it possible to have the full issue paid for by this time instead of requiring the issuing of a refunding bond issue as is the case now.

Pierson Leaves Tomorrow Senator Martin Pierson, who has been in charge of the highway work in the city of Rockville and who resigned at the meeting of the council held Monday night is to leave his present position on Saturday of this week.

"Not Employed Here" Yesterday's issue of the New York Journal of Commerce in commenting on the resignation of Frederick Norton Belding as vice president and a director of the Hemingway-Belding Silk Company says that Mr. Belding in his resignation did so because he nor his brother, who resigned a year ago, were not in accord with the policies of the Hemingway-Belding Company.

It further throws light on the situation of the proposed actions of the Hemingway-Belding Company in stating that it did not have any bearing on the proposed merger of a number of large silk manufacturers around which the Belding-Hemingway Company was to be the basic company. That the work of this consolidation has been under consideration for some time is evident by the statement of the New York paper and it also says that brokers and banking interests who are behind the project admit that the work of a big merger is under consideration and that the plans have not been dropped, but that they will be several weeks before the entire merger is completed.

A call at the office of Belding-Hemingway office in this place this morning brought the information "Mr. Belding is not employed here." He has moved out all his belongings and following a tip that he might be found at the postoffice the reporter went there, but learned that Belding had gone and that he had just rented a postoffice box for his own personal use and was not to have his mail placed in the drawer of the Belding-Hemingway Company any longer.

Plummer—Coughlin The marriage of Miss Margaret Mary Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Coughlin of Harrison Place, Hartford to Francis Norton Plummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Plummer of Rockville took place Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Hartford at 9 o'clock. Rev. Andrew Kelly performed the ceremony and was celebrant at the solemn nuptial mass. The church was decorated with ferns, palms and spring flowers. Miss Anna Baldwin sang during the ceremony and Miss Gladys Lilly played the violin. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of bridal satin trimmed with princess lace. Her veil was of tulle and princess lace being caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Ann C. Coughlin, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a dress of green georgette over pink and a large picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of premier roses. Miss Margaret Plummer, sister of the groom and Miss Estia Clair Ramsey who were the bridesmaids wore dresses of fresh colored georgette with large picture hats to match and carried arm bouquets of Opheila roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. and Mrs. Plummer left for their wedding trip to Thousand Islands, Canada and New York. They will be at home after June 2 at No. 150 Vance street, New Britain.

The groom's gift to his bride was a purse of gold and to his best man a white gold cigarette case. He presented the ushers with sterling silver cigarette lighters. The bride presented her maid of honor with a white gold bracelet set with sapphires and to each bridesmaid a beaded bag. The soloists were presented with gold brooches.

FAILS TO SUPPORT FAMILY; BUYS CAR

Manchester Man In Court Today—Must Pay $14 a Week, Judge Orders.

Thomas Humphrey of Birch Mountain road was brought into court this morning on a charge of non-support. Humphrey has a wife and four children, the oldest being a little over five years. From the testimony of both Humphrey and his wife in the police court this morning their marital relations have been anything but pleasant. Humphrey left his family on Memorial day without any visible means of support. It was necessary for the town to give them aid. His wife located him in Holyoke and when she threatened to bring him back, he returned to town.

Humphrey is employed by L. T. Wood the ice man. The fact that he had a wife and four children to support did not stop him from borrowing the money to buy a Ford automobile. His testimony in court that he stood ready to support his family did not tally with his actions. Judge Johnson found him guilty and sentenced him to jail for 30 days. He then suspended the jail sentence on condition that he pay his wife $14 a week for the support of his family. The money is to be paid through Probation Officer Edward Elliott. A bond of $200 was required for the carrying out of the order of the court. Humphrey was detained at the police court until bonds could be secured.

WATER AND SEWER PIPES FOR HOLL'S TWO TRACTS

Half Mile of Trench Being Dug In Two Subdivisions Here; Recent Sales.

The South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer Water Company are laying water and sewer mains through the Hollywood tract on Porter street. The work will be completed within a very few days and then the new trench digger will be removed to the West side where the same work will be done. It is estimated that about half a mile of sewer and water mains will be installed in both tracts.

Manchester has reason to feel proud of the Hollywood tract, its attractively laid out streets and restricted one-family dwellings. Bluefields will be an equally desirable residential section. These attractive home sites which abound throughout the confines of the town should prove a strong inducement to city-employed men to establish suburban homes here.

Recent sales of lots in the Hollywood tract reported by Edward J. Holl, lot 88, Wellington Road to William and Anna Waddell; Lot 49, Scarborough Road, to Sherwood H. Goslee; Lot 48, Scarborough Road, to Earl Goslee; Lot 47, Scarborough Road, to Collis Goslee; Autumn street, to Gustave Johnson; Lot 67, Wellington Road to Robert Gordon.

GRAHAM WAS DOOMED, IN PHYSICIANS' BELIEF

Brain Tumor Was Incurable and Surgery Would Have Had Little Chance.

The condition, a tumor of the brain, which caused the sudden death of George F. Graham of Welcome street on Wednesday evening, was one which medical skill could not have helped, it was said today by one of the physicians who had been in attendance upon him.

Mr. Graham, it was said, had been ailing for a long time, but the ailment was brought to the attention of his family only a week or so ago. At that time he had had a bad spell and a local doctor was called. Although at that time the tumor had become serious, it was said that the case was extremely difficult to diagnose and although physicians suspected the condition, they could not make a positive diagnosis.

The attending physician said also that there are only two or three surgeons in the country who would have had more than doubtful success in the performing of such an operation, for the procedure destroys a great deal of the brain tissue.

People along Mr. Graham's route, some of them his bakery customers, were aware of his susceptibility to bad headache spells. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 31 Wadsworth street at 2 o'clock and later at St. Mary's Episcopal church. The service at the home will be private and will be attended mainly by members of the family. At the church the service will be in charge of Rev. James Stuart Neill, rector of this town, but now of West Haven.

The bearers will be William Stevenson, Clarence Lakin, Harry Weir, Walter Wind, Leslie Robinson and Walter Walsh.

Girl Scout News

The monthly meeting of the council was held at the new Girl Scout camp, June 4th.

Following this meeting, the council entertained the Brownies and Girl Scouts at a picnic.

About 175 attended. Everyone had a glorious time in spite of the late rain in the afternoon. All the girls were delighted with their camp and are already looking forward to hikes this summer.

The drum and bugle corps will meet every other Wednesday night at 7 p. m. at the Franklin school basement beginning this week for all summer.

Monday, June 6, a home nursing course of three lessons for second class scouts was started at the hospital under the direction of Miss Ogden. Any Scout who missed the first lesson can make it up and start next Monday night.

The following have passed the First Aid Course which was given by Dr. Knapp and have received their National Red Cross certificates: Captains Shaw, Jamroga, Jensen and Stave; Lieutenants, Emily Smith, Ruth Cheney; Scouts, Genevieve Eddy, Bessie Forbes, Grace Giglio, Ellen Ries.

Last Saturday eighteen girls hiked to camp. All had a jolly good time. The troop registered this month with twenty-two girls. Margaret Waterman is the new second lieutenant.

So far two of the girls have registered for Winchelo Camp this summer. The following girls have passed the bed making test: Alice Frederick, Virginia Baldwin, Ellen Ries, Ella Peckham, Sylvia Smith.

The following girls have passed the observation test: Virginia Baldwin, Olga Hubbard, Alice Neil, Violet Phillips. Marjory Kelsey passed the health test.

The troop had ten visitors. Mrs. Edward Weeden and four girls from Vernon were among the number. Mrs. George Wilcox also visited.

JITNEY PLAYERS OPEN IN NEW HAVEN MONDAY

Mrs. Cheney Recovered From Illness—Booked Through to Middle of September.

Contrary to an impression gained in Manchester the JITNEY Players, originated by Bushnell Cheney of this town will play this season. Their engagement in Manchester was cancelled because of the illness of Mrs. Cheney (Alice Keating) but according to an announcement made by General Manager Richard S. Aldrich the Players will open in New Haven next Monday and have engagements for every night through to the middle of September.

Alice Keating, Frances Simpson, Arthur Siroom, Richard Skinner and Joaquin Southern are with the JITNEY Players again this season. Newcomers in the cast will be Herbert V. Gellendre, who has played in repertory in Philadelphia during the past winter, Gene Mafnus, who has just arrived from Australia where she played with the Sydney Repertory Company, and Kirby Hawkes, of Cambridge University, England and who has been assistant director at Hart House Theater, Toronto, Canada.

ACCLAIM WATKINS FATHER OF HOSPITAL

Trustees, In Resolution, Call Retired President First to Vitalize Vision.

C. Elmore Watkins, who recently resigned as president of the Board of Trustees of Manchester Memorial hospital after eight years' service, and who was largely responsible for the erection of the hospital, was paid a warm tribute by the members of the board at a meeting held at the hospital yesterday afternoon. The following resolution was adopted:

"The Trustees of the Manchester Memorial Hospital accept with the greatest regret the resignation of Mr. C. Elmore Watkins as President of the Board.

"That we recognize that he was among that small group of public spirited citizens who realized that a hospital was needed in the town of Manchester and that he was the first to translate that vision into action. He took an active part in the initial work which preceded the actual organization of the Board of Trustees.

"For the first eight years of the hospital's existence he has acted as president. He has given generously of his time to the problem of educating the public to the needs of the hospital. Exact knowledge of existing conditions, combined with a clever vision as to the future needs and policy of the hospital, has characterized his administration.

"He deserves and has earned the thanks of the Trustees, the Staff, the patients and the public."

Other business of the board included the appointment of Dr. Edward C. Higgins, M. D., heretofore a member of the hospital staff, as a member of the active staff in the department of surgery and the appointment of Dr. Howard Boyd as an assistant in the department of surgery.

COLCHESTER'S D. A. R. SEAT NEW OFFICERS

Meeting of Col. Champion Chapter Held at Home of the Misses Day.

Special to The Herald, Colchester, June 10.—The regular monthly meeting of the Colonel Henry Champion Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held at the home of the Mrs. Elizabeth and Susan Day in Colchester, Wednesday afternoon.

On this occasion the newly elected officers assumed their positions and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Frederick Bock, the new regent.

The presence of several visitors from various state organizations added interest to the occasion. After the close of a short business meeting Mrs. Clarence H. Wickham, former regent of Ruth Wyllys Chapter, Hartford, and state corresponding secretary, gave a short address, bringing up a conference held yesterday and telling interestingly of the work of corresponding secretary.

Miss Florence M. Crofut, also of the Ruth Wyllys chapter, and state chairman of National D. A. R. committee for the preservation of historic spots also gave an interesting address in which she made a plea for the instilling of reverence toward all places and monuments associated with the history of our country. She urged that each chapter should appoint a chairman to serve locally. Mrs. Bock accordingly named Mrs. Harriet Day of East Hampton to serve in that capacity.

She was followed by Mrs. John C. Gallup of Moosup, state counselor of the Deborah Avery Putnam Chapter, Plainfield, Mrs. Adams of the same chapter, also spotter being named Mrs. Harriet Day of East Hampton to serve in that capacity. She was followed by Mrs. John C. Gallup of Moosup, state counselor of the Deborah Avery Putnam Chapter, Plainfield, Mrs. Adams of the same chapter, also spotter being named Mrs. Harriet Day of East Hampton to serve in that capacity.

At the close of the exercises the company adjourned to the dining room where they were served coffee, tea and cake. Their visit was made to the Nathaniel Foote chapter house where the interesting collection of antiques was inspected. A visit was also made to the spacious gardens of the Misses Bigelow.

It was announced that the July meeting would be one of particular interest. At this time Mrs. Frederick Latimer of the Ruth Wyllys Chapter will speak on the subject of Ellis Island, Miss Elizabeth Day of Colchester, will speak of the life and times of Thomas Jefferson. Miss Day has made a study of this subject and has visited the locality associated with the life and times of this great patriot.

HURLEY IN CONFERENCE WITH NOONE ON MURDER

Cline Case Subject, But Neither Makes Statement for Publication.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, June 10.—There was no comment to be made today as a result of a conference held yesterday afternoon between Robert T. Hurley, head of the state police department and his assistants, held at the office of State's Attorney Thomas Noone late yesterday afternoon concerning the killing of William Irwin in which Leonard Cline, now in jail in Tolland is awaiting the decision of the grand jury which convenes here on Monday.

Sheriff Vinton of this county has selected the men to serve on a grand jury and it is expected that Dennis J. McCarthy of Rockville will be the foreman, he being a lawyer and in all cases of this kind where a bill for murder in the first degree is asked for the grand jury is headed by a lawyer. In his cell at Tolland Cline is being allowed the use of a typewriter which he is using under guard while he is pounding out a story. There is more or less interest being shown in the story that he is being shown in the trial when it is presented to a jury in this county. The name of the book, is said to be "The Dark Chamber."

JENSEN A DELEGATE AT REALTORS' MEETING

John Jensen, of the Green, was a delegate at the gathering of Connecticut Real Estate Men at the Hotel Bond in Hartford yesterday. There were sixteen state organizations represented. After the business meeting in the afternoon and a banquet those present listened to an address by Harry P. Turner, of Lynn, Mass., New England Regional Vice President of the organization.

Mr. Jensen was made a member of a committee to arrange for the annual outing which will be held at Storrs on June 22. Over 1,500 invitations to real estate men of the state will be sent out for this outing, the local man announced today.

HEBRON

J. Banks Jones, health officer and Miss Margaret Danahy, school nurse, met Dr. C. E. Pendleton of Colchester at the Center school Wednesday forenoon to investigate several cases of suspected whooping cough. The urchins affected were invited to cough for the visitors and did so to the best of their ability. It was decided, however, that the cases were probably not whooping cough. Health officer Jones thought it wise in spite of that fact, to warn parents who fear the contagion to remain away from graduation exercises which will take place next Wednesday evening or at least to keep children away. Though the cases in the center may not be dangerous there are in other parts of the town genuine cases of whooping cough. This disease is often spread

M. E. SCOUTS ALL
RE-REGISTER FOR YEAR

Troop 6 Passes Sixth Birthday
With Waiting List and Full Of Plans.

With a 100 per cent re-registration, Boy Scout Troop No. 6 of the South Methodist Episcopal church, will begin its fourth year of organization, it was stated today by Scoutmaster Raymond Mercer. In its three years of existence, the troop has never failed to hold its weekly meetings. This is considered a remarkable record. The weekly meetings through the summer months have also been marked by good attendances.

There are 33 boys in the troop with three more on the waiting list. The latter, however, will be unable to join the troop until such time as permission is given to enlarge the troop, which now has a maximum enrollment. The troop committee is composed of men connected with the church. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor, is chairman and the other members are M. A. Ferris, Louis St. C. Barr and G. E. Keith.

Three assistant scoutmasters, all well advanced in scout work, assist Scoutmaster Mercer in supervising the troop. David Hutchinson, who has been with the troop since its organization, is the most experienced of the three and has done much for the welfare of the troop. Ronald H. Hillman, well known Manchester taxidermist, has been with the troop for a year and has organized a bugle and drum corps in the troop. Robert Barr, the youngest of the three assistants has worked himself through the ranks of scouting to a commissioned officer.

The re-registration of the troop finds it divided into the following patrols with the first person named in each as the leader:

Flying Eagle Patrol: Russell Reming, Francis Lewis, Wilbert Tedford, Sinal De Mars, Jaffe De Mars, Earl Smith, Irving Prentice, Stewart Vennart.

Wolf Patrol: Robert Dickson, Herbert McKinney, James Lewis, Edward McCaughey, Russell Stevenson, Dana Cowles, Walter Lisk, Howard Holman.

Panther Patrol: Thomas Cordeur, Herbert Maguire, Herbert Blevins, William Mack, Fred Bieber, Vincent Lennon, Richard Nichols and Frank Pearson.

Among the most important activities planned for the month of June is the "Covered Wagon" hike to Marlborough which will be undertaken on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 17-18-19. Twenty-four members of the troop have already signified their intention of going. The troop will leave the terminus at 7 o'clock that Friday night and hike for a hour and a half at the end of which time it will pitch camp for the night, next morning resuming its trip to Marlborough, where camp will be made near the lake. The tents and other paraphernalia will be carried in a small wagon drawn by one horse and driven by two of the scouts. Any Scout caught "hitchhiking" a ride will be placed on K. P. when camp is reached. Saturday will be set aside

FIVE RING CIRCUS
POSITIVELY COMING

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey To Bring Sacred White Elephant and Other Big Features.

Yes, youngsters, it's really true! Meaning that a rumor heard sometime ago is now confirmed by the official announcement that the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined shows will positively exhibit at Hartford, Wednesday, June 22.

At that time the world's first and only five-ring circus will be within easy reach of local savdust fans. With it will come the only genuine white elephant ever brought to America. He is "Fawah," the world-famed sacred white pachyderm from Burma, who will be the foremost feature of a menagerie composed of more than a thousand animals.

The big show is now a third larger than it was when it last visited this locality. Enormous new displays have been introduced such as "zoo" zebras, camels and horses performed at one time on a mammoth pedestal. On a similar series of circular raised platforms thirty-two of the show's forty-three elephants dance, run and perform in unison with the throust of the ponderous gyrators twenty feet above the ground. Prior to this fantastic display five herds of elephants appear in five separate circuses. At another time the rings are given over to five companies of liberty horses. At still another juncture of the program two hundred of the show's 300 horses, each ridden by an expert, are seen in the brilliant maneuvers.

Of the sixteen hundred people carried on tour this season more than eight hundred are the world's foremost acrobats, horseback riders, ground and high gymnasts, high wire artists and super athletes. These are now on an extensive tour and troupe each display led by its particular champion, a new method of presentation that is in keeping with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey 1-2-3 plan of extending acts in equal number over the entire length of the mammoth main tent. Little folks will be delighted to learn that the bringing of a score of European clowns to America has increased the fun-makers to more than a hundred.

BRITAIN IS TESTING METAL FLYING BOAT

London—A new all-metal flying boat, driven by two Napier engines totalling 1,000 horsepower, and constructed mainly of stainless steel, has now completed tests at the British Air Ministry's Secret Marine Air Station at Felixstowe.

This flying boat is intended for use at the new Singapore Air Base, and has been designed to operate in tropical and semi-tropical climates. It is a development of the Southampton Napier flying boat which is now standard equipment of the British fleet air arm.

A number of these are to leave England early next year to fly to Singapore and Australia, and will be permanently stationed in the Far East for the defence of British Empire communications.

NASH
Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Special Six Special Sedan

For the MOST in Value at $1485—Buy this Nash!

Search as you may among cars selling for or around this price. Nowhere else will $1485 buy such VALUE, such costly, LUXURIOUS quality.

NONE have the style. NONE have such high character in finish and fittings.

Step into the front seat and SEE the luxury. A costly walnut effect on the instrument board before you, on the door panels beside and behind you.

Choice Mohair Velvet upholstery all around, cushioned deeply on the seats, tailored smartly on the side walls.

And when it comes to performance, NOT ONE comes even NEAR this spirited Nash. There is absolutely no comparison!

Step on the starter, then on the accelerator—and GO! The soft even flow of power is due to the ultra-modern crankshaft. It has 7 main bearings—three or four MORE than most other cars. A bearing at every possible place to hold the shaft firm and rigid.

It has BIGGER bearings too—wider and stronger ones. MORE bearing surface than any other Six in its price class.

Try a long steep hill and feel the EXTRA power. Nash straight-line drive sends the power DIRECT from motor to rear axle—no energy wasted by angles or curves along its route.

Bring in your old car as part payment on a new Special Sedan. Among fine sedans at this price, there's nothing to equal this Nash. Come in—TODAY—and see.

*The Nash price range on 26 different models extends from $865 to $2090, f.o.b. factory.*

BIG WILD WEST WELCOME READY FOR AD WRITERS

Denver To Greet 5,000 Advertising Men With Great Acclaim.

Denver.—A vociferous "wild west" welcome will be accorded the 5,000 delegates to the International Advertising Association upon their arrival in this city for the annual convention to be held here June 26 to 30.

Local "greeters" in chaps, tennalon hats and gaudy kerchiefs will board incoming trains and with cheers bid the delegates and their friends welcome to Denver—the "queen of host cities."

And the greeters' hospitality will immediately take on a more material heartiness when they will care for the delegates and the baggage of each individual visitor and act as escorts until the delegates are comfortably located in their respective hotels.

The meeting of the International Advertising Association here will attract many thousands of visitors to the city, hundreds coming from a dozen foreign countries. And the convalesce will witness the gathering of eighteen departmental conventions of advertising organizations affiliated with the world ad men.

Other Conventions
The vast scope of modern advertising and the complete representation of this convention are indicated by the important subsidiary associations meeting simultaneously with the International Advertising Association, declared Ralph H. Faxon, general secretary of the Denver Committee on Arrangements.

Every phase of advertising will be discussed during the week's sessions, and a wide and varied program of entertainment has been arranged for the delegates and other visitors, including motor trips through Denver's mountain park system and to the score of scenic wonders in the adjacent Colorado Rockies.

Denver is destined to be the clearing house for the nation's business during the ad men's convention week, with 5,000 men and women—business executives in their respective fields—contact agents of the world of affairs—present at the meeting here.

Representatives of virtually all the big industrial and commercial concerns of the United States, as well as from many foreign countries will attend the various sessions.

Cabinet Representatives
Two cabinet officials—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work—will be among the prominent speakers.

Other noted men on the program will include Will Mays, "movie czar"; Charles M. Schwab of the United States Steel Corporation; E. D. Gibbs of the National Cash Register company; M. W. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company of New York; Colonel Frederick Lawton of the London Times; Sir William Veno, a noted advertising expert of London; Harold E. Ritchie of Toronto, Ont.; Paul Henderson of the National Air Transport, Chicago; Harold Stamer of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, chairman of the Women's Democratic National committee, and Marcel Knecht, Paris, France, publisher.

NATTY UNIFORMS TO BE WORN IN PARIS

Boston, Mass.—Bay state Legionnaires who go to the Paris convention September 19th to 23d, will be clad in natty uniforms. Both men and women will wear the uniform on the overseas pilgrimage.

The uniforms are to be of blue serge with single-breasted coats made with a neck lapel collar, buttoned down the front with four slit American Legion buttons of adopted standard. The seal of the Commonwealth with the letters "M.A.S." below will be embroidered on the left sleeve in yellow silk, and the American Legion emblem will be embroidered on each lapel, while the post numerals in slit metal, will appear on the collars.

Trousers will be of the same material as the coats, with stripes on the side seams of yellow cloth.

BUS LINE WAR

Hartford, Conn., June 10.—Indications that the bus transportation war is to be resumed were seen here today when applications for routes between Hartford and Waterbury were filed by both the New England Transportation Company, a New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company subsidiary, and the Waterbury-Milldale Tramway Co. The Milldale concern wishes to extend its lines from Milldale to Hartford through Southington, Farmington and West Hartford. The New England Company asks for a certificate over the same route and along the tramway company's lines through Milldale into Waterbury.

Both petitions will be heard at the capitol at 11:15 a. m., June 17th.

APPLICATIONS DENIED

Hartford, Conn., June 10.—Two applications of the Central Bus Corporation of Bridgeport for routes from that city to Fairfield have been denied by the Public Utilities Commission. The request of Frank W. Decker for a route through the same territory has also been denied.

THE GREAT WAR TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

ANIMAL LOSSES IN GREAT FLOOD SERIOUS BLOW

Mississippi Waters Drown Millions of Creatures In Sudden Rush.

Memphis, Tenn.—Trapped as were people, but with no rescue fleets to save them, wild animals in the great forests of the Mississippi valley perished by the thousands when the roaring currents of the Father of Waters and its tributaries tore through levees and rushed upon them in terrific suddenness and depths.

The ruthless slaughter of animals by the disastrous floods was one of the greatest losses of the flood, according to accounts of refugees and rescue workers.

Years will be required to replace the wild animals which perished in the wholesale destruction.

Fish Destroyed
Hundreds of thousands of small minnows are being ruthlessly or thoughtlessly destroyed by fishermen in the vicinity of Memphis in their hunger for larger fry, according to an appeal issued here by Dan Wolf, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League.

A gloomy picture of conditions with some interesting side-lights on the hardships of animal life is painted by refugees from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi.

One trapper, from Louisiana, told the following story:

"Last week I saw a big black bear floating down stream, perched on a tree. I found a three foot alligator on a floating bed near a deserted house. On a knoll I saw 35 deer. Several more were on a railroad track not far away."

"In a dry spot nearby there are more than 100 quail. I fed them with chicken feed for several days. Almost a half a hundred deer are being cared for in boxcars by game wardens. The refugees in some places are sharing their rations with the helpless deer."

Wild Animals Slaughtered
"But bodies of deer and all kinds of wild animals are seen everyday by the dozens floating on the water, having been drowned by the floods or starved to death where marooned."

Wolf's appeal to fishermen to stop destruction of minnows to preserve the future fishing possibilities was broadcast over the Commercial Appeal-Evening Appeal broadcasting station, WMC.

Seiners, who are finding the catching of fish and minnows easy in sub-drains to lakes, are not limiting themselves to what they need and are carelessly leaving thousands of minnows on the banks to die in the sun, Wolf said. They keep the big fish and throw the minnows on the banks instead of back into the water.

Fish will perish by the thousands without being deliberately slaughtered, said Wolf, as many have been unfortunate enough to be in small water holes left by the flood that will soon dry up, leaving the fish lying in a muddy field.

Lakes throughout the flooded valley were re-stocked by the flood as many fish found their way into the lakes from the rivers.

Corbin Red Sox Beat C. B. 11-3

In a loosely-played baseball game replete with ineffective pitching and hard hitting, the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain easily took the measure of Cheney Brothers last night at the West Side field. The score was 11 to 3. The hits were nearly even but Manchester's four errors were costly and several New Britain scratch hits were the result of mediocre fielding.

The visitors tallied twice in the first, five times in the second, once in the third, twice in the fourth and once in the seventh while Manchester scored its three runs in the third. Mantell and Edgar divided the pitching assignment. Boyce and Huband hit well. The box score:

STOCK SUBSCRIPTION TO AID FLOOD STATES

U. S. Chamber of Commerce In Charge of Short Term Emergency Investment.

At the request of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Connecticut Chamber has announced to its members the formation of a project for extending financial credit in the regions affected by the Mississippi flood.

The request of President Coolidge, President Pierson of the U. S. Chamber called a conference in Washington on June 3, whereat the "Flood Credits Corporation" was organized. Through this organization it is proposed to secure $1,750,000 of special credit facilities to cover the planting and cultivating of this year's crops in the affected region.

Connecticut's quota is $75,000. Business men in each state are subscribing to the stock of the Flood Credits Corporation. Money so used is not a donation but a short term emergency stock subscription to help rehabilitate agriculture in the flood region.

The following is an excerpt from a sentence in a letter from President Coolidge to President Pierson: "It would be a great assistance as well as a demonstration of National solidarity and sympathy, if the business interests of America could secure subscriptions of capital, say dollar for dollar with that provided from the flood states."

Those members of the State Chamber who desire to aid President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover and the various agencies at work in building up this year's crops in the flood regions, are requested to telegraph the amounts of their stock subscription to Stanley H. Bullard, Bullard Machine Tool Company, Bridgeport.

BURNED TO DEATH

Moosup, Conn., June 10.—John Doran, driver of an interstate freight truck was burned to death at noon today when the machine was struck by a train. The train was one of the Shore Line expresses of the New Haven railroad which were routed through here because of a wreck at Shannock, R. I. After being struck the truck caught fire and incinerated Doran.

COVENTRY

The play "A Little Clodhopper" presented by the Christian Endeavor Society Wednesday evening was witnessed by a crowded house. People were even turned away. It is hoped it will be presented again for its praises are ringing everywhere.

Miss Laura K. Kingsbury, who attends Connecticut Agricultural College is home for her summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Orcutt left Thursday noon for an auto trip to Vermont.

Saturday afternoon all the children are asked to bring flowers and attend a rehearsal for Children's Day, which will be observed Sunday. The committee in charge is Mrs. N. A. Hill, Mrs. Archie Shaw and Mrs. Chas. Christensen.

A great many people in town will attend the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Palmer of Lydallville. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer lived in Coventry for a number of years prior to moving to Manchester.

Two weeks from Saturday, June 25, the Climax Chapter, Order of Eastern Star will hold an auction at the home of Herman Meyer at South Coventry at 3 p. m., standard time. Every member is asked to contribute any article they wish for the auction. Dewitt Kingsbury is giving his services free as auctioneer.

Thomas Edison has more than 1,150 patents to his credit.

W. H. PEASE NAMED ON TRAFFIC COMMITTEE

The Manufacturers Association of Connecticut announces the appointment of W. H. Pease, traffic manager of the Bridgeport Brass company, Bridgeport, as chairman of the Association's Traffic committee, succeeding Raymond L. French of Bridgeport, recently resigned. Mr. Pease, who has been a member of the Traffic committee for two years, has had wide experience in transportation matters and is well and favorably known by railroad and shipping interests both in Connecticut and outside the state.

Mr. French who held the chairmanship of the committee for the past six years has found it necessary, due to the requirements of private business in which he is now engaged, to be released from these duties. He will, however, continue as a member of the committee, the association states. His resignation was accepted with regret by the committee and by the board of directors.

James E. Rowland of Cheney Brothers is a member of the Traffic committee.

The president of the German Reichstag has adopted a series of signal lights to curb long-winded speakers. Five minutes before the time is up a yellow light shows and a red light flashes when the legislator is supposed to stop.

CARROLL FEELS BETTER

Atlanta, Ga., June 10.—Rested and refreshed after a good night's sleep, Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, ate a hearty breakfast today after spending his first night in the hospital of the federal penitentiary.

"Carroll had a good night's sleep, about what he would ordinarily need," Dr. C. T. Nellans, prison physician, told International News Service. "He seems to be getting along very well. His condition is good, considering the strain of the trip in his weakened condition."

At breakfast Carroll ate a meal differing but little from the breakfasts served in his New York home. He partook heartily of poached eggs, toast and fruit.

IS LEGALLY DEAD

New York, June 10.—For the first time in the history of New York a decision was handed down today in Supreme Court holding that a man sentenced to life imprisonment for murder is legally dead, and that his wife may inherit his property and may re-marry, if she chooses without divorcing him. The decision was given by Justice Fawcett on the application of Mrs. Blanche Irene Galloway Webster, wife of Harold P. Webster, convicted slayer of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Galloway, who was killed in Hempstead last October.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (2) The Story of the Rocks

Rivers flowing down from the mountains ages and ages ago brought mud and stones with them as they flowed to the sea. Gradually this dirt and sand part of the ocean bed, rose and hardened. A huge fish lizard, living in the sea, died and mud and stones gradually piled up over his body and formed a hard crust.

Two birds fought a fierce battle for supremacy. One was killed and fell into the sea to sink and be buried in the mud.

Then ages later a fisherman's harpoon was broken and sank. The river kept growing wider, the ocean bed rising higher and higher.

Finally the bottom of the sea has risen so high it has become dry land and men have built a city on it near the river. Digging for coal and metals, men find the head of the spear, the bird and the monster lizard. Terrific pressure and chemicals have changed all three to stone. ©1927 BY ALMA SERVICE, INC. GRATUITOUS ASSAULTS.

Assaults on Governor Trumbull, from Republican sources, because he did not appoint three old members of the Board of Finance to the new State Board of Finance and Control, seems to us to be prompted by a spirit of deliberate and gratuitous fault finding.

John M. Wadhams of Goshen, E. Kent Hubbard of Middletown and Byron D. Bugbee of Putnam are indeed gentlemen of unusual ability and have rendered to the State of Connecticut services of the greatest value over a long period of time. They have participated ably in the furtherance of the pay-as-you-go policy which has put Connecticut in the front rank of American commonwealths so far as financial management is concerned. They have earned the gratitude of the state. And they have it. No group of men in Connecticut is more fully appreciated.

But the soldiers who stopped the Germans at Chateau Thierry, to their immortal glory, were not called on to remain on the firing line without relief till the end of the war. Campaigns are not won that way. In the midst of the great battle they were sent to the rear and reserves took their places—fresh, rested troops eager for their part in the "big show."

Governor Trumbull, as a wise commander, is simply calling reserves into action. The men who are put into active service on the Board of Finance and Control are of the pick of the state. Senator Samuel R. Spencer of Suffield is a citizen unsurpassed in Connecticut for a plain, common sense understanding of state problems or in the vital quality of the highest personal record. Representative Elwyn T. Clark of Haddam is another of equal fitness. William A. Hendrick of East Haven we know less about; but in view of the other two appointments we are willing to stand with the governor on his selection, for the executive's pick is obviously made with the single view to naming the best possible material for the job.

In a democracy as genuine as Connecticut there must be some recognition of the principle of rotation of service in public office. We shall develop a bureaucracy—government by an office-holding group; and that of all things must be avoided.

Not the smallest shadow of a slight is put upon the citizen members of the old Board of Finance by the fact that they were not carried over to the newer commission. It is merely a case of their having completed their work, splendidly, and of being relieved by replacements for the next phase of the constant battle for good government and economy.

FLOATING ISLANDS.

Col. Charles Lindbergh's contribution to the guessing contest on the imminence of remoteness of transoceanic flight ought to be as convincing as any opinion, even that of Mr. Wright. Wright has said he feared commercial aviation over the Atlantic would not come about for a "long time"; which of course may mean one thing to one person and another to another, but which we suspect means a considerable string of Fourths of July to Wright himself. Lindbergh hazards a more definite guess by putting the limit inside of which there will be regular air transport to Europe at ten years.

But Lindbergh, whose head is as level as his nerve is good, anticipates that by that time the engineers will have solved a problem which, though intimately tied up with aviation, is as different from anything in aviators' experience as day is from night. The conqueror of the air is under no such delusion as a good many aviation boosters appear to be—that all that needs to be done, in order to fly to Europe, is to do it. His knowledge of the same tells him that an absolute

AVIATION ACHIEVEMENTS

BY DON E. MOWRY

Secretary, the American Commercial Advertising Association

Travel by air and shipment of merchandise by air is increasing in volume steadily, as indicated by the rapid growth of the air mail service. Cities which have realized this and have already made provisions for landing fields and air ports are the cities which will loom large on the air maps of the future.
 How American cities can make the most of their air assets is indicated by the air-minded activities of Peoria, Ill.
 The landing field used in Peoria for the operation of mail planes for the first few months was a temporary one—leased by the Association of Commerce until such time as a permanent satisfactory field could be secured and properly equipped.
 Then they secured an eighty-acre tract. This was equipped and lighted with a two-million-candlepower beacon light, boundary lights and a battery of flood lights to illumine the ground when the pilots land at night.
 The Department of Commerce has lighted the Illinois highway between Chicago and St. Louis by way of Springfield and Peoria, placing 24 beacon lights at an average distance of ten miles apart. An emergency field has been located in the vicinity of each one of these beacon lights, making night flying safe for pilots.

When that is done with stock market gamblers perhaps it will be done with farm gamblers. It isn't likely to be done earlier.

BORDER ANNOYANCE.

Ever since 1794 residents of the Canadian and American borderlands on either side of the northern boundary of the United States have moved freely over the line without being regarded by the government of either country as immigrants, so long as the domiciles of the individuals were not changed. This was under the Jay treaty, which provided as follows: "It is agreed that it shall be given at all times to his majesty's subjects and to the citizens of the United States and also the Indians dwelling on either side of the boundary line freely to pass and repass by land or inland navigation into the respective territory and countries of the two parties on the continent of North America."
 Under this practice a great many persons living on the Canadian side, particularly at Windsor and thereabouts, have been crossing the line daily to employment in Detroit and other American communities. Recently the Department of Labor determined that under the immigration law of 1924 this historic privilege was no longer admissible, and made a ruling to that effect. The Canadian government has been trying to get a modification of the ruling pending action by Congress, but has failed so far.

The ruling may be technically justifiable; it may be economically fair to the American unemployed in the Detroit area, of whom there are a good many. But it is certainly regrettable, because it is easy to imagine its bringing about reprisals and a serious diminution of the happy terms on which Canada and the United States have sat side by side for so long a time. It would almost seem as if the situation might have been left alone for a few more months, after having been permitted to exist for nearly three years since the passage of the immigration law.

FARM GAMBLING.

Nine out of ten of the arguments on corn-belt farm relief are predicated on the fact that a farm which a very few years ago was held at $200 an acre now goes begging at $110 an acre. McNaryites cite such figures to show the low estate into which midwest agriculture has fallen and the desperate straits of the farmer. The anti-McNaryite answers by asserting that if the farmers are not paying it is because the farmers have ceased to work and have permitted their methods to fall behind the times.

As a matter of fact the corn-belt farms do pay. Agriculture in the midwest is profitable. The woe comes from the fact that the farms are not profitable enough to pay interest on their value and then interest on another value, equal or in excess of the real value, which second value is entirely fictitious and was hitched onto the farms through the farmers themselves when they engaged in a wildcat orgy of speculation in land, based on excessive war-time profits. The farm falls to bring $110 an acre now simply because it isn't worth $110 an acre now, never was worth $110 an acre and never could be worth $110 an acre. The fact that some money-mad farmer refused $129 an acre for it at the height of the speculative frenzy affects its true worth not one whit. It should affect its true worth not a whit if he had refused $300 an acre, or $3,000 an acre.

The fortunes that corn-belt farmers have been losing are imaginary fortunes. None of them have lost money at farming—they have lost packs of it gambling. The farms are still there; they produce profitable crops when they are worked; they cannot produce crops fast enough or rich enough to pay the fiddler for the speculative dancing done by their owners.

The only kind of farm relief that would really meet the situation would be to pass an enforceable law compelling the winners—who are mostly retired and living on their winnings in California resorts—to give back the money to the suck-

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, June 10.—Foreign economic oppression and drainage of the island's resources is the menace which has stirred up the people of Porto Rico.

Until recently, this menace has been the concern only of the Porto Rican labor party, a minority, but it now appears that the conservative leaders of this American possession have come to the welfare of the Porto Rican people is very seriously threatened.

The first evidence of this was apparent recently when the conservative speaker of the Porto Rican House of Representatives and the conservative president of the Porto Rican Senate protested the attitude of foreign-owned corporations to Secretary of War Dwight P. Davis at a dinner in his honor at San Juan.

Porto Ricans subsequently sent many pamphlets containing these speeches to the United States in an effort to tell their story to the American people.

A few days ago a delegation of island leaders called on President Coolidge. It included the speaker of the Porto Rican House of Representatives, Jose Tous Soto, and the Senate president, Antonio R. Barcelo. Most significantly, as indicating a united front, it included Santiago Iglesias, Senate minority leader, and Rafael Alonso, minority leader of the House.

Want Governor Retained This delegation had been inspired to come here by rumors that the sugar, tobacco and other big American interests in Porto Rico had been trying to persuade the president to replace Horace M. Towner, governor of the island. The Porto Ricans want the privilege of electing their own satisfactory to all of them, but privately they expressed the thought that if the corporations obtained another governor Porto Rico would be pushed from the frying-pan into the fire.

The basis of Towner's present popularity with Porto Ricans and his unpopularity with the corporations is said by the former to be his advocacy of adequate taxation for the interests which are taking everything out of the country and not putting anything back in.

President Coolidge was not exactly cordial in greeting the delegation when it presented its long and encomiastic legislative resolution asking for Towner's retention. He told newspaper correspondents afterward that he didn't know why it was necessary for these officials to come to Washington to tell him they were satisfied, but assumed that some officeholders in Porto Rico had thought they would enjoy a trip to Washington.

The president cautioned them against raising too much money for ambitious road-building and educational programs, but urged all Porto Ricans to study the English language.

Some of the more rabid Porto Ricans immediately pointed to Mr. Coolidge's attitude as evidence that he had decided to replace Towner and that he had disapproved this unexpected flank attack from delegation.

shape, but Porto Ricans say that foreign interests are paying wages of from $2.50 to $3.50 a week to the inhabitants and taking everything else out of the country, leaving nothing for Porto Rico. Under the Jones organic act for the island, no corporation can own more than 500 acres of land, but the corporations are alleged to have grabbed thousands of acres with impunity, driving the people into the cities.

Porto Rico is not interested at this time in becoming an American state, but like our other possessions and territories, desires more autonomy as a means of permanent release from economic oppression.

Senator William H. King of Utah, who is in sympathy with this aim, will introduce another bill in the Seventieth Congress providing for popular election of the Porto Rican governor.

Tomorrow's dispatch will consider the case of Alaska.

New York, June 10.—Most of the world appreciates that whatever else New York may be, it's a glorified market place.
 If anyone has anything to sell, from brains to paste diamonds, Manhattan is the place. Talent is a drug on the market and, perhaps, one of the most fascinating things about this city is its capacity for putting even the greatest reputations on their merits.
 Most towns have a "shining light"—at least one literary figure to whom the town bows; one musician looked upon as a "master"; one artist who is properly lionized by all and sundry. But once they arrive in Manhattan they become all but lost in the shuffle of assorted talent. Here, indeed, survival of the fittest reaches its highwater mark.
 The "unappreciated talent" of every cross-roads gets here sooner or later and, pitted against the tens of thousands of other talented ones, soon learns that what was taken for quality elsewhere becomes little more than commonplace or mediocre in the welter of competition. Therein lie the bases for thousands of tales of heart-break and disillusion.

the big town. His stores had appeared in leading magazines and, in the west, he was pretty much of a figure.
 He had been in New York but a couple of months when he came back to Frisco just as suddenly as he left. He was bitter and cynical about Manhattan, making speeches about its lack of artistic appreciation and all that. We listened sympathetically—then! Now, of course, I know just about what happened to him. Accustomed to applause, he found himself just another writer. Thousands of others were here to "crack" the big magazines and many were succeeding. Everyone was too busy to give him any more attention than he deserved.
 In the world of writing, music, painting—any of the arts—it is the same. Thousands have gone back home bitter and discouraged, crying to any one who will listen of the city's callousness. In a few instances they are right. Some very great people have gone unrecognized but, on the other hand, thousands have learned the difference between talent and art.

And yet there is constant inspiration to creative talent. The outlets are countless. You may peruse through a dizzy list of periodicals and publishing concerns, watching new names flash across the scenes and realizing that, even for the mediocre, there is a great market in the "fan magazines," the trade publications, the organs that cater to clothes, to music, to hats, to umbrellas, to radios, to brides, to skydivers.

baseball, to anything and everything. Hundreds upon hundreds of anonymous folk make a comfortable living catering to these... and it is the same in the fields of music, business, theater and all the trades and arts.
 Success and despair walk hand in hand down these streets and if you can survive the first disenchantedness, there comes the satisfaction of just being able to be there at all and grow mellow through the experiences of others.

June An Unusual Month For Phenomena in Skies

Above—The sun's corona, shooting millions of miles into space, visible only when the sun is completely eclipsed by the moon.
Below—This photo of Monnehus's comet, shows what the Pons-Winnecke comet looks alike.

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

June will be an auspicious month for science and superstition. The sun will be darkened, the moon will be obliterated and a great ball of fire, with an enormous tail, will appear to threaten us in the sky.

Years ago special prayers went up, people shut themselves in and others even committed suicide under the awesome spell of any of these events. Now, we prepare differently for these as great spectacles of scientific significance.

The darkening of the sun and obliteration of the moon are eclipses of these great bodies in space, and the great ball of fire we know now as a comet.

The first event of the three to occur this month is the eclipse of the moon. The earth will come between the sun and the moon, completely shutting off direct sunlight from our satellite. This will occur in the night of June 14-15, and will be seen all over the western hemisphere.

First the moon will cut through the outer shadow, or penumbra, of the earth and will slowly cross into the umbra or dark shadow, which it will reach at 1:43 a. m., eastern time, June 15. For the next hour and a half the moon's eclipse will increase until it will be totally eclipsed at 3:13. This totality will last 21 minutes, after which the moon will move slowly out of the earth's shadow, only to be obstructed from our views by the coming dawn.

Comet Comes Next
A week later the day becomes the longest of the year, with the beginning of summer, at 5:22 on the morning of June 22.

Almost at the same time, if we happen to be up and point a weak-lensed telescope toward the rising sun, we may be able to detect a stranger in the sky, coming toward us. It is the Pons-Winnecke comet, discovered in 1819 by a doorkeeper at the observatory at Marseilles and since then noticed every six years.

Comets are a strange lot of heavenly bodies, each a collection of fiery meteors and dust particles grouped together by some sort of electric attraction and whirling around the sun at an enormous speed and over a large elliptical or flat circle. Some of them have tails of thin gas, so thin that we on earth don't feel their presence, even when we might be passing right through them.

The Pons-Winnecke comet is approaching us at the rate of 24 miles a second, faster than the earth is traveling, and on June 26 it will come nearest to us—a distance of 3,500,000 miles.

If we stay up until 3 in the morning of June 25, eastern time, we may see the comet perhaps without aid of a telescope, but barely visible in the sky almost directly above us. It will be moving south-east almost as fast as the moon seems to move, but the presence of a waning moon at the same time may draw out the view of the comet.

Sun's eclipse June 29
Of far more importance to science, although invisible in the United States, will be the sun's eclipse on the morning of June 29. As the sun rises that morning, the moon will get between it and the earth so as to cast a circular shadow 29 miles in diameter, moving north-east across the earth.

This shadow will start a little west of the Bay of Biscay, cross the Atlantic and pass over the populous of Norway, the north of Sweden and section of Lancashire in England.

It will proceed along the length of Lapland and over the desolate region of the Arctic ocean north of the Siberian coast. It will go on over the eastern end of Siberia and leave the earth at sunset at the tip of Alaska.

Scientists have been preparing for this event for a whole year. Some American scientists are going to points in Norway to set up in-

50 seconds to study this phenomenon. That's the longest the eclipse will last in totality. In England, where British scientists will study the eclipse, it will last only 22 seconds.

But enough material, it is hoped, will be gained to reward the scientists for their long preparations. Hoping that it's a clear day!

Jungle Breath

© 1927 by NEA Service

Illustrated by Paul Kroesen

THIS HAS HAPPENED LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to the little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, by his young friend, VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARRERY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

He drew nearer. It was a sheet of paper pinned to the wood with a thin bladed dagger.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XII

VILAK saluted them amiably. "You still look at the moon, Detto, Pasquale?" he queried. "Si, si, Meester Davis," they chorused eagerly.

"But there is no moon." They looked at each other in bewilderment, then at Vilak, and grinned sheepishly. "Meester Davis, he likes makka da joke," said Pasquale, the grin making the great gap in his teeth more apparent. "Pasquale and Detto like make joke, too."

Vilak gazed at the Italians quizzically. "Laugh and grow fat, and live a long time. And sleep, also at nights, Detto. This also helps to live longer. Much, much longer, Pasquale."

A few moments later they turned into the driveway which led to Elise's house. A light rain began to fall, swiftly becoming a down-pour. "Very helpful for a flood," Elise declared as she leaned over in her saddle and with her riding crop struck futility at a cascade, the Brazilian rattleman, which was wriggling across the gravel. "Well, if the dam must break I hope it does so in the daytime. I'm not at all enthusiastic about being routed out of my bed and riding up to the mountains in a Lady Godiva. Here, here!" she broke off suddenly. "We're violating our agreement. You're making me be feminine in spite of myself. You're getting drenched while I calmly wear your raincoat. Take the blessed thing. You've let me keep it just to humiliate me."

"I don't desire to humiliate you, my charming cousin. But I must insist that in a pouring rain it seems a little more sensible that you keep on the coat." She attempted to remove it. He checked her. She resisted. "Very well," he said at last. "Take it off and give it to me. Anything to make you happier."

She tossed it over his shoulders. "Thank you," he said.

In a moment the torrent had drenched her to the skin. But she rode on smilingly. They halted before the door of the dimly-lit veranda, gleaming white in the rain. Vilak wiped off water which had dripped onto the holster of his pistol. "I was going to see Nanny back to his hotel," he said, "but perhaps under the circumstances we'd both better stay here tonight. Nanny won't object, I'm sure. I'll stay in my regular room, if you don't mind. Call me if you hear or see the slightest thing suspicious."

back into the bushes, made a slow circuit of the house, black and sepulchral except for the lights which marked the bedrooms of his cousin and friend.

He watched in the rain until those two lights went out, then softly made his way to the room always reserved for him. He had arranged it to suit himself and as a room is often an expression of character of the occupant so here nature had taken full possession.

The draperies were the most vivid his cousin's ample supplies afforded; the furniture was Spanish of the flamboyant type with heavy carving around all the edges; here a monster with a tiny body and a great howling head, there a fat-bodied devil stretching out his claws to rend some unseen enemy.

For decoration he had set around idols which his cousin had obtained from the neighboring tribes of Indians and which he had speedily claimed; green idols in the shape of fish, ebony idols in the shape of dogs. Here a mere stick uncouthly carved into some semblance of a man's body showed undoubted African influence.

One of the rugs on the floor was of a brilliant Mexican pattern, the other an old Spanish weave depicting two knights rescuing a gold-haired maiden from a many-towered castle of the Moors. Near the window was a gold-striped cot. Bizarre decorations, yet by their very violence composing into a harmonious whole.

Here he stretched out, took his favorite pipe, a Philippine pipe carved in the shape of a cut-throat hand, and filling it with the curious mixture he used in his cigars, began to smoke. The room soon filled with the pungent vapor; the air gave place to a purplish haze; the tiny lamp resting on a table seemed shining through a fog. For hour after hour he lay outstretched with the pipe at his lips. The thin film resembling a bird's inner eyelid began to draw over the lower corner of each eye again while the pupils dulled until they appeared the eyes of a mummy rather than of a man; his starry skin became blea; his breath came stertorously through his open mouth.

A murky dawn began to streak the sky. He arose, threw open the window to breathe great gusts of the morning air and began to make a tour of the house again. He had gone around the flower-banked sides and rear without seeing anything unusual and had begun to think that the grounds were exactly as they had been the night before, when on reaching the screened front of the building he saw something white fluttering on the frame of the door.

He drew nearer. It was a sheet of paper pinned to the wood with a thin bladed dagger. He scanned it intently, then carefully removed the blade and, holding the paper in his hand, for a second time read the single sentence inscribed upon it. It was in Portuguese, written in a scrawled, uneven hand. "Walk once more in the moon and you shall be forever in the sun."

Vilak thrust the dagger and the letter into his pocket. "Pleasant morning greeting," he muttered to himself. "Intended for Elise undoubtedly."

His eyes roamed quickly over the ground in front of the door and on the single wooden step which led to it. The step was covered with mud, and the soil so cushiony with water that his feet sank uncomfortably at every step. Yet as with the disappearance of the guns there was not the slightest trace of a footprint. He stood pondering a moment, stroking his boy's jaw with his thin, long-nailed fingers, then took his horse and rode to the house down the road which he had pointed out to Nunnally the night before.

Here he stripped off his fashionable tailored trousers, plunged naked into a nearby brook, put on the modest suit which he wore in the barber shop, ate frugally of some mangoes, tied a piece of steel for some minutes, then made his way to the town.

He spent the day in his usual duties, shaving now the Portuguese proprietor of a neighboring fazenda, now a bronzed trader on his way to sell glass necklaces and other atrocious jewelry to the Indians of the forest, now a young South American dandy who kept him busy for two hours with shampoo and massages.

He had just finished with the latter and was breathing a sigh of relief, when a rider whom he recognized as one of Elise's laborers drew up before the shop and, hastily dismounting, hurried inside. He gave the barber an envelope. "Senhorita Marberry she say take it very fast," he mumbled. "The Senhor Nunnally has sent it."

Vilak tore open the envelope. It contained a brief note which he read at a glance: "Come as quickly as you can without creating suspicion. Something dreadful has happened. Elise needs you—Nunnally."

(To Be Continued)

A new mystery confronts Vilak. Nunnally has been at work. Read the next chapter.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

I wrote a little piece yesterday about the modern single woman who takes her independence, her equal rights with men, and her conceded and accepted right to "live her own life" so much for granted that it is difficult for her to imagine that unmarried women ever had less free lives. I learned at lunch today that I seem to be in error. I lunched with Marie, my knock-knocked friend who has the unique job of traveling the country over for a national bank's association. Marie talks before clubs of one sort and another on the joys of savings.

Still Declasse But this little piece was to be about what Marie thinks rather than about the personal wonders of my friend Marie. Because she is kind enough to be interested in "the pieces I write for the papers," I took yesterday's brain child along. Marie read it between gulps of her creamed mushroom soup. Then she commented: "It's an interesting idea, only your contrast of the single woman then and now is all wet. Where do you get this idea that the modern women is any more accepted than she was a generation ago? Let me tell you a few things, old dear. I'll begin right off with the fact that you say that the world at large, the male part of it, at least, no more accepts her honors, nor respects, nor likes our sort of woman than they did in Ellen Dyer's time. (Ellen, you may remember, was the wife of Helen Hunt's new book, "The Enders," about which I wrote yesterday.)

"Maybe you have to travel to get what I mean which is just why you should know. You said about the universe about as much as I do and you must get it."

Came Down I began to see what Marie was driving at. I did get it. I wondered if her interpretation of what it meant was not the obvious one. Only I had never happened to look upon the traveling woman's encountered inequities as an admission that we are no more accepted today than such independent types would have been in Ellen Lacy's time.

Dear Tale "I was in four different cities last week," Marie went on. "Four different hotels. I stood in line at the first one with the usual mob of just-off-the-trainers. I distinctly heard the clerk give the man just ahead of me a reservation. But when it turned he looked me over appraisingly, asked if I had a reservation and when I said 'No,' curtly informed me that they had no rooms left and passed on to the next one. I left the hotel and listened. He asked the man if he had a reservation and he said 'No' and without hesitating called 'front' and gave him a single. I stepped back and inquired 'How come?' He even had the audacity to tell the truth. We take care of men here first; if there's anything left when the line's finished you can have it!"

Sassed Back "That's very kind of you to be so condescending," I said, "but I think I'll find a hotel in this city which is modern enough to give women an even break. If you're plumbing's as archaic as your ideas, I'll pay no $6 a night here for a room." I knew he didn't know what "archaic" meant, but I felt better.

"Two nights later I was in one of the best hotels in this country. I went down to my dining room and found a line waiting. I patiently waited my turn, but when my turn was ignored and several parties which arrived later than I were escorted to tables, my 'dander began to rise' and I said to the head waiter, 'One, please. Give me a withering look and said, 'I have single seats for ladies; and in the next breath walked a man down to a vacant table for two.

Did Her Duty "I could have willed that and there, but I was mad. I resented being forced to leave the hotel for my dinner. I resented being forced to take time and energy to expostulate. But I felt it a duty to all women to expostulate. I hid me to the hotel manager and demanded to know why it was any more difficult to find a seat in the dining room for a woman alone than for a man alone. He hemmed and hawed and said that at a busy time it was necessary to use all tables; that two men could be put at one table, but that a woman might resent a seat at a table with a strange man. I laughed in his face and told him that most professional women met more difficult situations than sitting at a table with a man to whom they had not been introduced.

Righteous Wrath "To put it commonly, old dear," Marie summarized, "impossible as it may sound, men still classify the unescorted woman as a baggage and a trollope. They have heard of business women doing the work of men, but they don't recognize her for what she is when they see her. She is the same declasse creature she would have been 40 years ago." She's right. I've suffered, too!

MAID SHORTAGE IN RICH HOMES DUE TO IMMIGRATION POLICY

Washington—The restricted immigration policy of the United States is making itself felt in the homes, especially the homes of the rich. It is creating a shortage of household servants that is reaching serious proportions. Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey is authority for the statement that many persons in Washington and other large American cities have been forced to sell or lease their homes and move into apartments or hotels because they were unable to obtain servants to keep their houses in order. He lays the responsibility directly to the curtailment of immigration from Europe, whence formerly came most of the laundresses, cooks, parlor maids, butlers and other household servants to those sections depending upon white help. Senator Edwards is lending his support to a movement sponsored by wealthy women of the fashionable Long Island section of New York to obtain a modification of the immigration restrictions as they apply to the domestic servant classes. The difficulty, it is claimed, does not lie altogether in the fact that fewer domestic servants are coming over from Europe. Thousands of servants already in this country,

SOFTENED FLANNELS RUST PROOF CLEAN BREAD BOX

When laundering the smart flannel skirt or sleeves jacket, one-half teaspoon glycerine to a gallon of rinse water will keep material soft. If new tin utensils are greased slightly and warmed slowly without burning, they will not rust. The bread box should be washed and dried in the sun twice in the summer time to prevent mold on bread or a stale taste.

Life's Niceties HINTS ON ETIQUET

- 1. If walking with a friend who stops to speak to an acquaintance, should a woman stop to be introduced or just saunter on? 2. In a grand march on which side of her partner does a woman walk? 3. If a man accidentally meets a girl lurching at the same table, should he offer to pay her check? The Answers 1. Stop, unless in a terrific hurry. 2. Right. 3. No, why should he?

WHY INQUIRIES TO THE EYEBALL NEED PROMPT ATTENTION

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

The eyeball may be injured by penetration into it of bits of dust, sand, iron, emery wheel or similar material. Either the material flies into the eye and sticks in the surface or the material is a freestanding mass which rubs into the surface of the eyeball in his awkward attempts to remove it. If a foreign substance is not removed immediately it is usually surrounded promptly by a grayish white ring, indicating that infection has set in, the end result sometimes being an ulcer. An ulcer badly treated results in a scar on the surface of the eyeball that may interfere seriously with eyesight.

If pain, fear of light and constant watering are present the person may be assured that the foreign material is still in the eye and should seek competent medical assistance. The physician can use a local anesthetic to deaden the sensitive area and the reactions of the eye and can then remove the foreign material with special instruments that have been designed for this purpose.

A small wound of the surface of the eyeball will usually heal as it would anywhere else in the body, provided it be given prompt and competent attention. If, however,

Home Page Editorials THE GOOD OLD DAYS—IN THE KITCHEN

By Olive Roberts Barton

In an old colonial mansion we were permitted to see the old kitchen. Never again will I talk of the good old days! Oh, yes, it looked lovely! Romance and sentiment hung from every spout, and dresser hook, but any 1927 cook would go no farther than the second flagstone, if indeed she recognized even then the fact that she stood in the holy-of-holies that one of the P. F. V.'s called a kitchen. She would, in good high school vernacular, "beat it."

SILVER JACKET Lanvin's latest gesture to fashion takes the form of a tricky little silver jacket of lace for wear over colored chiffon frocks.

aluminum and enamel and oven-glass? It looked beautiful (and so did the old Spode platters) but think of the work! No water, of course! Out to the pump for that. Nothing to burn with wood. There was no coal or oil or gas—no railroads to get any thing there anyway. And no electricity. Wood meant business, too. Hewing, sawing, chopping, drying—all sorts of toils.

The whole magnificent place spelled work, but the kitchen most of all! And in that house had been entertained princes of Europe, presidents and diplomats. It was always full of company.

There were no grocery stores for miles. Everything was raised on the place except sugar, coffee, spices and tea—even their own meat.

But that kitchen. The Declaration of Independence could have had an amendment by the cooks of '76!

What kind of a stove did they have in the good old days of '76? None! Merely a great, ancient fireplace hung with kettles and fortified with hooks on which to hang more kettles! At the sides were iron supports for spits. Spits of all sizes, kinds and conditions. Bibbered with anything from a turkey to a cow. I guess they didn't have chops in those days—or sweetbreads or chicken a la king. I didn't see a frying pan around.

Well, to leave the spit-fire and approach one of the dressers! There were three of these. A dresser means a sort of shelf with cupboard above. Pewter and copper and copper and pewter and back again. "Shades of Mother Hubbard," said I. "All this to polish every day? Where is the tin and

BAKER-DONAHEY

SCRAP IN OHIO FOR 1928 FAVOR

State Party Leaders Are Getting Ready To Back a "Favorite Son."

Cleveland.—Will Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in President Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, or A. V. Donahey, governor of Ohio, by the Buckeye state choice for Democratic nominee in 1928?

With reports trickling in from the east that William G. McAdoo might withdraw from the race for the nomination, and pronounced opposition from national dry organizations to the candidacy of Governor Al Smith, of New York, the possibility of an Ohio "dark horse" is being seriously considered by state party leaders, who are here putting forth added efforts to bring next year's convention to Cleveland. Nothing is being left undone to welcome delegates if Cleveland is chosen. While this article is being written around is being broken for a new meeting to the public hall where the Republican convention was held in 1924.

Smith Well Liked
Waiving the chances of the former secretary of war and Ohio's chief executive, it is known that Cleveland is not unfavorable to New York and Tammany Democrats. Al Smith is well-liked here, ranking second only to Ohio's own sons.

Dispatches from Washington have quoted Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, keynote of the 1924 Democratic convention, as being favorable to Cleveland.

National party leaders have already conceded both national meetings to the west, Detroit and Cleveland being most prominently mentioned for the Democratic powwow, with Republican possibilities running further west, even to the coast.

An important meeting of the Ohio Democratic committee appointed here some time ago, is scheduled for the near future, when pledges will be asked toward accommodation and entertainment of convention delegates in order to permit presentation of the Cleveland invitation to the national committee which will name the time and place for the big event.

So far, four cities, have been mentioned as possibilities. In addition to Detroit and Cleveland, already mentioned, Houston, Texas and Miami, Fla., are said to have offered $20,000 each for the convention.

With the south assuming a so-called "cool" attitude toward Governor Smith, however, it is the belief of Ohio Democrats that the eastern powers that be will swing their influence toward the north, which would dispose of Houston and Miami angles.

It is too early for any definite conclusion. Even Baker's candidacy is in doubt. Spokesmen for the former war secretary have repeatedly denied that he will enter the race. It is difficult to believe that he would refuse to answer if the opportunity called, however.

LEGION PLANS FOR HEALTH INSURANCE ON TRIP TO PARIS

Indianapolis, Ind.—A policy that is unique in the annals of life insurance has been arranged for coverage of American Legionnaires going to the France convention to be held in Paris, September 13 to 23. It was announced by Howard P. Savage, National Commander of the Legion.

All veterans from the ages of ten to sixty years in the France movement will be insured upon payment of a nominal fee, much less than that charged for ordinary travel insurance. The Legion insurance will cover both loss of health or injury from accident. One of the unique provisions of this insurance is that it will pay upon injury arising from getting on or off moving vehicles, a feature that most travel insurance does not have.

As a double margin of safety, The Independence Indemnity Company, which will handle the insurance for the Legion has re-insured against loss with Lloyd's of London. The Legion insurance is not designed to build up an estate for the veteran but to protect him, up to the sum of $250, from the time he starts from home for Paris and until he again arrives at home. In no instance to be more than three months. The cost of the insurance is a flat rate of .275 per person.

The insurance arranged for the Legionnaire is considered sufficient to insure medical, surgical, and hospital treatment in event of injury or sickness. Under its provisions, a man will not have to lose an eye or limb to collect but will be taken care of if he is sick for a few days. Adjusters of the company will have offices at the France convention office of the Legion in the French capital and empowered to make immediate adjustments.

The custom of a man walking on the side near the street when with a woman arose from the fact that in former times water and refuse fell from roofs and upper windows into an open ditch between street and sidewalk.

TOLLAND

The officers of the Tolland Fire Department believe that the meaning of the words Fire Protection is Fire Prevention. So with this in mind Chief Wachonurka had the department called to headquarters last evening and with the assistant Howard W. Ayers and Captain Meacham put the boys through a fire drill. The object of this drill was to acquaint the members with divers methods of "Fire Control" which is really the aim of the department. It can be said without hesitating that everyone did his bit admirably. After roll call at quarters the much discussed Fire Department Day, August 6, was taken up. Mrs. I. Tilden Jewett, Miss M.

Morris and Mrs. William Ayers, Jr., were appointed the committee and they in turn are to select six other ladies to perfect plans and arrangements for night. Enchs and 500 benefit at the Town Hall in the afternoon. William Senk, Jr., was appointed chairman of the athletic committee with the privilege of selecting his aids, who will arrange for the baseball game between the married and single men, and other out of door features. William Ayers, Jr., chairman of the department; was made general director of the entertainment and musical show of the evening which is to be followed with a dance. The program for the day includes a parade by the department which will start from the court house at 1 p. m. The Ladies Aid Society of the Federated church will serve refreshments.

Believes "Man's Petty Fears" Strangest Thing In The World

William Beebe and some of the strange things he has seen—strange, but not as strange as man's petty fears. Upper right, an armored lizard; below, a tentacled "sea cucumber" (left), and a small ferocious sea devil.

BY GENE COHN

New York—Most of William Beebe's life has been a hunt for the strange things of land, sea and air. He has explored and studied that fantastic realm that lies upon the ocean's bottom; he has gone to strange jungles and islands and mountains to bring back for science the rare and unusual in plant, insect and reptile life.

So when he returned from his latest searchings among the coral reefs of Haiti, I asked Beebe this question: "Just what is the strangest thing you have ever seen?"

His answer was: "The many petty fears of mankind, which are the first thing I notice when I return to what man is pleased to call security."

This and That Bugaboo
"They fear this and they fear that. They hear of some of my delightful adventures, and they say—"

"You went to the sea bottom. . . . now weren't you afraid of sharks?" Or they say, "Weren't you afraid of snakes?" And sometimes I answer, "You crossed the street yesterday, weren't you afraid of taxicabs?"

"Of course sharks bit a man now and then. . . . But so does lightning strike. And because lightning does strike, is a man going to put on rubber boots and jump into a feather bed every time it storms?"

"I actually have heard a crowd of people laud me as a hero, or comment on bravery—and I feel like hiding, for the chances are that I just have returned from the pleasantest kind of an outing.

"Let me tell you this: my closest approaches to death have been caused by men, and not the creatures encountered during an exploration trip. And yet men, who are daily menaced by other men, will whisper their fear of a bug, a reptile or a fish. It's the strangest thing imaginable.

Oddities, Including New Yorkers
"As for individual specimens it is pretty hard to single out a rarest, an oddest or a most singular. Such considerations are so relative; one expedition will develop a fish that carries lights; the next a strange little lady who changes her dress twice each evening as she swims about, or a transparent fish that is sort of a traveling hotel, holding some 300 tiny fish about an inch long. Dozens and dozens of strange things—but tomorrow, there is another one!

"Are any of these things less odd than to return to New York and find five million human specimens firmly believing that they live in security? Or, looking in upon 'west cities, to find that the dwellers consider themselves safe and secure and shudder at the insecurity of junkie or island or sea bottom?"

"I never feel quite so insecure as when I am going about New York. I return to this human world to find it buzzing and excited over the intrepidity of a young flier—a glorious flight, a beautiful exploit. I assume men would find it annoying to learn of the analogies to such an exploit that run through the lower forms of life. But they exist.

The Lure of the Unknown
"One is always finding food for wonder in observing the instinct that sends an individual specimen out of its particular world into the hazards and change of another.

"One year I go upon an expedition. At a depth of so many fathoms, at a pressure that makes certain rigid demands upon the things that live there, I find a fish.

"A year or so later I go back to the same neighborhood, and there, near shore and toward the surface of the water, existing under entirely different circumstances, I find the same species. How many have died trying to make this change? What will the change produce in the species eventually?"

"And how is one to speak of a fish fatally that makes an ocean trek just to lay its eggs in a certain spot on the American coast line? They will never go back. They will plant their eggs and insure their offspring life—and they will be done!

Lessons in Values
"Man needs to contemplate more closely these simple epics of change. . . . of hazard. . . . of instinct! It would help him greatly in adjusting his values and his comprehensions."
Beebe, a slender man who seems built of steel and wire, soon will write another book on his Haiti experiences. Meanwhile he is going over the several hundred strange specimens he gathered for the American Museum. Then he will be off again, on what some will be pleased to call a hazardous exploit. Which, of course, will cause him to smile.

ONLY U. S. FLYERS.

Washington, June 10.—All non-government aviators will be barred from the air over Washington on Saturday and Sunday during the Lindbergh celebration, under an executive order issued today by President Coolidge.

It was the first order of the kind issued under authority of the Air Commerce Act of 1926.

All government planes will have to get specific authority to take the air.

MUST STOP MOTORS AT GAS STATIONS

State Law, Requiring Idle Engine When Gas and Oil Are Supplied, To Be Enforced.

Complaints have reached the state motor vehicle department of repeated violations of a law, compliance with which is a simple matter, while failure to obey occupants of cars in a dangerous position and subject to horrible accident. This is the regulation providing that the engines must be shut off while gasoline or other fuel is being put in the tank of a motor vehicle.

Failure to comply creates the hazards of fire and explosion, usually both. Department records show that while accidents occasioned by this sort of negligence are rare, when there is a mishap the results are always serious. Several casualties from this cause convinced the Legislature of the necessity for preventive measures and the regulation was put in force. A maximum of $50 may be imposed for violation. Both the person allowing his engine to run and the person filling the car while the engine is running are liable to prosecution.

Several filling station owners have complained that certain patrons will not comply with this law even on request, but go to another station when it is insisted that the motor be shut-off during the filling process.

Results of violations of this law are so serious, when accident occurs, that the motor vehicle department has asked the State Police to check up on the practice at filling stations. Immediate prosecution of all persons responsible will follow violations of the regulation.

WHEAT CROP POOR

Washington, June 10.—The American wheat crop this year will fall considerably below recent years, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine told President Coolidge today at the White House.

Jardine, who has just returned from a swing around the wheat belt said the government report to be issued late today would show an even greater reduction than the thirty-three million bushels shrinkage estimated in the last government report.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

Symbolic as its name, Regret, the town that once stood here, in the Verdun area, was practically obliterated by shellfire.

This is Chapter 58 in a series of articles written by a former doughboy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LIII

Just a simple journey of four hours, from the gare d'Est in Paris to Verdun, is impressive. Neaux—the furthest point of the German advance on Paris in 1914. Chateau Thierry—where U. S. infantry and marines stopped the Germans in 1918. Somme—where Mezy-Dormans-Jaulgonne—here's where the regulars of the 28th Infantry crashed the German pontoons and defeated the thrust across the Marne, which, with its scant 75 feet of breadth, still flows swiftly on to the Seine. Epernay—where the Germans drank the champagne, and, according to some authorities, lost Paris in 1914 because of a four-day debacle.

Chalons—where Attila, the Hun, who made the first German invasion of France in 451, was defeated. Chalons is on the Marne, also. The train takes another direction out of Chalons. Suippes—in the Champagne. There was Somme-Suippes, Somme-Py, Suippes, Blanc Mont and St. Etienne, where the Americans helped the French in the drive up the eastern side of the Argonne Forest in 1918. This drive made it possible for the Americans to join the French at Grand Pre. General Gouraud staged his "Elastic Defense," which was the French answer to the "Von Hutier" tactic, at Navarin Farm, not far from Suippes.

St. Menesould—where Louis the Sixteenth and Marie Antoinette spent a night before they drove off to Varennes and were captured by the Revolutionists to be beheaded later in the Place de Greve, which was later called the Place Louis Sixteenth and is now called the Place de la Concorde and is in front of the Chillon Hotel.

Les Islettes—just at the edge of the Argonne near LaHarazee and Vienne-le-Chateau—on the line where the Americans jumped off in September, 1918. There are ruined houses still, and shattered walls. Dead-shell-killed trees show stark above the dark line of the forest. There are trenches, overgrown with grass, shell-holes filled with water, and cave-in dugouts. On a sidewalk is a car loaded with bales of rusted barbed wire. Some junk dealer is still making money out of the war.

Then Verdun—And all this in a ride of four hours out of Paris—at a cost of 110 francs ($4.40).

COLUMBIA

Miss Adella Badge entertained several of her friends Saturday evening in honor of her birthday. Games were played and refreshments served.

Dorothy LaBonte the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaBonte is suffering from scarlet fever. The West street school which she attended was closed a few days and fumigated.

It was thought best to postpone until fall the Field Day which was to have been held by the town schools Friday.

Mrs. Julia Little, Horace Little, Mrs. William Lyman and Mrs. May Smith motored to Amherst recently, to call on Mrs. Carrie Lock. They also visited Northfield, where Miss Eleanor Frost is teaching.

Mrs. Emily Randall of Rocky Ford, Colo., has arrived in Columbia to spend the summer with her mother Mrs. Lucy Clarke.

The Well Baby Conference was held at the Town Hall Wednesday afternoon, with Dr. Haskins in charge, assisted by Miss Margaret Lewis, nurse.

Mrs. Anna Dart of Providence arrived Wednesday to spend the summer with Mrs. C. A. Holmes.

Rudolph Koenig of the Old Hop River district, accidentally shot himself in the arm Wednesday noon. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, for treatment.

MELLON'S VACATION Washington, June 10.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon announced today that he will spend the summer months cruising in European waters on a vacation. Mr. Mellon, who is seventy-two, said he had chartered a small private yacht, the Venetia, which he will board at Gibraltar early in July. He will be accompanied by his son Paul, a student at Yale, and Mr. and Mrs. David K. Bruce, the latter his daughter. "I want to get a rest and become reacquainted with my family," he said. "I plan to avoid all official contacts abroad." He will sail for Europe on the Leviathan July second.

LAST TRAINING CAMP CALL ISSUED TODAY

New England's Quota Over-Recruited But Room Is Found For More Citizens.

The last call for enrollment in the Citizens' Military Training Camps was issued today at the State Headquarters when Judge Gilson, the civilian aide announced that reservations for the camp to be held at Fort Adams at Newport, R. I., were rapidly approaching the quota.

The New England camps this year will be held during the month of July and although a quota has been assigned for the First Corps Area of 3,000 students, to date 3,690 students have been assigned to the camps, Maine and Massachusetts having recruited far in excess of their allotment.

Applicants are being received from many industrial organizations who are extending vacations to their deserving employees to permit them to attend the Military Training Camps, and consider this attendance when making promotions.

Throughout New England, religious, civic and labor leaders are among the hearty sponsors of the camps, and recognizing the educational value of the camps, a number of leading colleges throughout the country have offered their scholarships to the finest types of youths attending the camps.

The young man who begins his training is under no compulsion or obligation for future service in any part of the military establishment, it being both free of obligation and free of cost.

Railroad fare to camp and return is paid for by the government. Uniforms and medical supplies are furnished. Wholesome food in abundance is provided. Athletic equipment, such as baseballs, bats, gloves, basketball, and boxing gloves is furnished.

To enter the camps the applicant must be between 17 and 24 years of age, an American citizen of good moral character, and in good physical condition. Blank forms for enrollment may be obtained upon application through Judge Gilson at the Probate Court in New Haven or to Captain J. G. Mahoney, 229 Woodbridge street, Manchester, Conn.

GETS A YEAR

Bridgeport, Conn., June 10.—Judge Arthur F. Ellis of the Superior Court, today imposed a one-year jail sentence upon George Gallo, 21, of Stamford, after the youth had pleaded guilty to a statutory charge involving a young girl, James Herbert, 18, also of Stamford, who pleaded guilty as an accessory, was given a suspended sentence to the reformatory and placed on probation.

1. Ground rules give batsman two bases on balls hit into restricted territory. Ball bounds out and batsman is retired trying for third on play. What is decision?
2. If batsman is hit by a pitched ball which would otherwise have gone over the heart of the plate, what is the ruling?
3. What was the ruling made by the major leagues some years ago relative to spitball pitchers?
4. Can a batsman be removed from the game for a pinch hitter at any time, regardless of the balls and strikes on him?
5. Two strikes have been pitched to an improper batter, when the mistake was discovered by the team at bat. What can be done about it?

THIS TELLS IT
1. Ball is dead the moment it goes into restricted territory. Batsman thrown out trying to make third should be sent back to second.
2. Umpire should rule it a strike, regardless of the batter's actions.
3. In 1920 the ban was placed on the spitball delivery. Pitchers in the majors at that time, using it, were permitted to continue doing so the rest of their career.
4. Such action is permissible.
5. It is possible to substitute the proper batter, the only penalty being that he take the balls and strikes on the improper batsman.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS PLEASED WITH SHOW

Manchester Garden club members and exhibitors feel gratified at the widespread interest taken in the first flower show of the club which was organized only last fall. The two-day exhibit ended Wednesday evening and the choice of Center church with its central location proved a good one.
Spectators who have been in the habit of attending flower shows in other places commented on both the beauty of the flowers and the unusually good looking containers which raised the effectiveness of the display materially. The committee, headed by the president, Miss Mary O. Chapman, spared no pains to make the exhibit one that could not fail to delight everybody. It also affords pleasure to the members to know that their donations of flowers are doing double duty for the local W. C. T. U. who held their annual flower mission today, took over all that remained fresh for the Memorial hospital, and the sick and shut-ins of the community.

RAILROADS IN U. S. BEST INVESTMENT

Atlantic City, N. J., June 10.—The greatest opportunities for the use of American excess investment funds are in the financing of American railroad system, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, told delegates to the convention of the National Electric Light Association here today.

Need of Expansion. Mitchell pointed out that, while the United States has never possessed better and more efficient transportation than it has today, it is imperative that expansion and bettering of that system be undertaken with a view to the future requirements of the country.
"We should and must have the most modern, efficient and flexible transportation plant in the world, and it is not in sight," said Mitchell.

Good Investment. During the past five years, said the head of America's largest banking institution, the railroads spent an average of three-quarters of a billion dollars for capital improvement. In that same period, while the public utilities sold over seven billions of securities with nearly thirty per cent in stock, and the industrialists close to ten billions with 25 per cent in stock, the railroads issued only three billions of securities, of which only 5-1-2 per cent was stock.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are twenty-eight names on the list. One case was appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department of the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

DAM DYNAMITED

Houma, La., June 10.—The emergency dam thrown up in Bayou Black a week ago to protect Houma from flood waters, was dynamited early today by a party of 20 farmers. Four charges of dynamite completely wrecked the dam.
Houma was thrown into a state of panic when the four explosions were heard. Crowds rushed to the edges of the lower Bayou Black and Bayou Terrebonne to learn of the danger, while others busied themselves in preparing their goods for flight from the town.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND NORTH END'S FESTIVAL

number of booths gives greater variety in pastimes than at any previous Lawn Fete. During the course of the opening evening those present had opportunity to hear one of the town's promising young musical organizations, the South Manchester High School Orchestra, under the direction of their leader, Miss E. Marjorie Dowdard. The young musicians gave a very pleasing program, and their performance promises a real future in the field of music for these young people.

Vocal selections by members of the Community Club and their friends were interspersed with the selections by the high school orchestra. The band had a very busy evening and kept things lively with its music both before and after the program, occupying seats of vantage on the large open-air stage at the extreme north-east section of the grounds.

Railroad Wreck Jam
Right at the highest point of the automobile traffic over the Main street railroad crossing those entranced with keeping the traffic moving had an unforeseen obstacle arise. A wreck on the Shore Line made it necessary to divert through Manchester the heavy trains ordinarily going east over the Shore Line route.

As a result, in the midst of the Lawn Fete congestion, along came the crack train of the New Haven road, the Kinkadee, followed closely by the splendid excess fare train, the Merchant's Limited, and in quick succession several heavily laden meat and fruit trains loaded with perishable produce.

But careful forethought as to preparations met the situation. Police Captain Herman Schindler and five of his officers, also Freight Agent J. J. Dwyer, were on the scene, and to the credit of all concerned, the traffic was moved so safely that not a fender was scratched.

Through misunderstanding, a charge was made for parking of automobiles in the open air. This has been discontinued. Free parking will be allowed, and like the Community club does not assume responsibility, police supervision will give all the protection possible.

The Stage Numbers
In addition to the selections by the High School Orchestra previously referred to, the following numbers were given on the open-air stage and were received with much applause: Band Box Dance, Jean Castle and Betty Sykes; Irish Jig, Marcella Halloran and Herbert Wall; Highland Fling, John Cowan; song "Give Me a Little Kiss," Billy Shea; Dance, Betty Forman; Schoolmaster's Dance, Pauline Emonds and Francis Waters; Song, Corwin Grant; "June Brought the Breeze," "When Fish Eyes Are Spilling" and "Little Town in the Old Country Down."

A Busy Scene
When the crowds of visitors passed through the entrance to the "White House" at the southeast corner of the enclosed area an exceedingly busy scene met their gaze. Almost entirely circling the area bordered by the six-foot high canvas was an orderly array of booths. Each booth was appropriately decorated in white and gold, and electrically lighted. The booths were populated by numerous workers who used humor, glib, loquacity and persuasion to induce the visitors to invest in their merchandise or play their respective games.

Perhaps the first point which attracted attention was the large open-air stage. The stage was drawn there chiefly by reason of the music from the Center Flute Band stationed on the high elevation. This stage is solidly built, is thirty-two feet long and thirty wide, and is five feet from the ground. It is decorated in white and gold.

Hoop-La—It's a Game
In the center of the enclosed area on the Lawn Fete grounds is a large square booth which made lots of fun last night. The booth houses a game designated as "Hoop-La", the feat being to throw large hoops a distance of several feet to hit the proper mark. Good prizes were awarded where good shots were made, the gifts including little clocks, gold pencils, belt buckles and cigar lighters. The booth is in charge of Arthur St. John, Al Jamroga and Mrs. William Brennan.

Another busy booth which also occupies preferred space in the center of the area is the "Grain-o-Corn" booth. The amusement at this booth consisted of arranging kernels of corn in the proper way, after the cross-word puzzle fashion, and the winners were given gifts such as serving trays, Japanese trays, jars of jam, jellies, etc. The booth is under the direction of Joseph Moriarty, Nelson Smith and Mervin Balch.

Handsome Flower Booth
One of the most beautiful booths on the grounds is the flower and plant booth. This is located adjoining the refreshment booth, at the right of the entrance, paralleling North Main street, and displays a fine variety of plants and flowers. It is under the direction of members of the Home Garden Club, and those in charge are Mrs. R. K. Anderson, Miss Mary O. Chapman, Mrs. F. A. Nickerson, Mrs. C. R. Burr, Mrs. W. W. Ellis, Mrs. C. W. Blankenship.

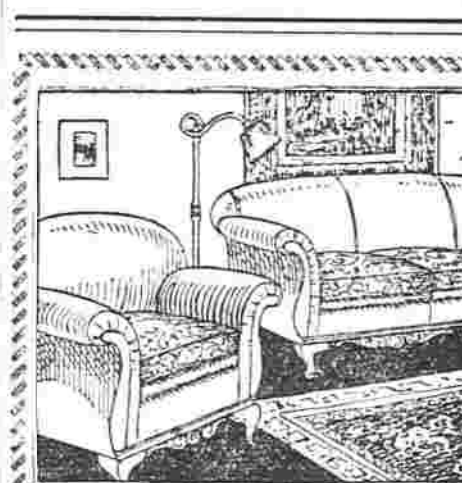

is under the charge of Aldo Pasani, Andrew Pasani, Miss Ruth McLellan, Miss Barbara Lawrence, Miss Ruth Cose, Miss Ruby Trouton, Miss Margaret Burke, Miss Mildred Laureston, Mrs. William McGonigal. Its next-door neighbor, the frankfurter booth, under the direction of Joseph Wright and assistants, was also a busy and popular point, especially as the evening wore on and the out-door air gave zest to the amusements.

The Mid-Way Bow
The "Mid-way" row of booths along the eastern border of the grounds offers many humorous games and much sport. Beginning at the southeast corner, the first is the "Drive-a-Nail" booth. The patron has three tries with a hammer at driving a nail full-length into a block. Full-length brings a prize, but half-length or a bent nail brings only heartless laughter from both attendants and spectators. It looks easy but try it once. Raymond Reid and V. Francis are in charge.

Next comes the home-made candy booth, with Mrs. James Shearer, Mrs. Charles Loomis, Mrs. William S. Hyde, Mrs. W. A. Strickland and Mrs. John Gleason in charge.

Adjoining this booth is one for testing one's skill at baseball throwing, the targets being nifty cuts of all descriptions, colors, sizes and even the long-whiskered ones of the cartoons in the comic sheets. Three baseballs are offered each patron, with gifts for successfully demolishing a cat, Howard Gates and Richard Keeney direct the pastime.

Japanese Garden
A particularly attractive nook at the Lawn Fete is the Japanese Garden, which consists of a section at the northwest corner of the grounds, covered off, lighted by Japanese lights, decorated with Japanese effects, and presided over by dainty Japanese-costumed maids. Garbed in the bright garments of the little women in the Land of the Rising Sun, the attendants passed in and out among the tables serving strawberry short-cake and other good things to their guests, under the direction of Mrs. G. H. Washburn and Miss Marion Robinson.

The home-baked foods booth was conducted adjoining the Garden, presided over by Miss Robertson, Mrs. Clifford Kelf, Mrs. Alex Shearer, Mrs. Mark Holmes, Mrs. James W. Foley, Miss Helen Moriarty and Mrs. Hayden Griswold.

More Games
For the young folks who like exercise, there are other games, including the following: "Crack-the-Bottle," which consists of milk-bottle targets; just hit the bottle and you get a prize. This is on the order of the "Old" doll-throwing game, where a good pitching arm counts, and is popular. Those in charge include: William Brennan, Charles Varick, Richard Edgar, Peter Parton, Samuel Kotch, "Woody" Wallitt, John Hunt, Vincent Ferrand and James McLaughlin.

"Ring-a-Cane" appeared to have its old fascination last evening and the booth presided over by James Gilligan and G. Trouton had plenty to do. The "monkey-ball" game, under the direction of Herbert Alley, gave opportunity for marksmanship at the expense of the ancestors of all mankind.

Of course a Lawn Fete would not be complete without Robert M. Reid's dart game, and the booth is right near the main entrance with Robert M. in charge, assisted by George Grazzido, Frank Linnell and Stanley Jamroga. Madam Lambert, of Troy, N. Y., daughter of Prince Williams, of Hartford, has a fortune telling booth nearby.

Balloon Booth
The present intense interest in aviation helped out business at the balloon booth, the attendants say, and scores of brightly colored globes were liberated from this booth. The attendants are Miss Evelyn Jones, William Foster, F. H. Jones, Miss Sylvia Hagerdorn, Miss Mary Obrenskil.

Nearest of all to the main entrance at the left is the fish pond, securely canvassed in, and with Miss Mabel Wetherell in charge, assisted by Miss Florence Shaw, Miss Laurine Strickland, Miss Ruth McMenemy, Miss Shirley Wright, Miss Bernice Lydall and Miss Agnes Jordt. Not far away is Captain Joel M. Nichols' brand new popcorn machine, and the captain and his assistants, Miss Margaret Gilman and Miss Ellen Neilson had plenty to do last evening.

Beethoven Club Tonight
The notable attraction for this evening at the Lawn Fete will be the concert by the Beethoven Glee Club, of the South End, Helise E. Pearson, conductor. This will be the first opportunity to hear at a public event like the Lawn Fete these forty trained singers who have a more than town-wide reputation for their concert work.

There will also be music by the Center Flute Band tonight, and tomorrow evening Colt's Band, of Hartford, will give a two-hour concert.

STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL WILL BE WAR TRIBUTE

Idea Broadened So That It Includes Avenue of Trees For Heroes.

Atlanta.—The Stone Mountain Memorial, originally designed as a gigantic monument to heroes of the Confederacy, has been broadened to include a fitting tribute to victims of the World war. This tribute will take the form of an avenue of trees which will lead up to the face of the mountain, on which are depicted an equestrian group of confederate generals, including Generals Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis.

Natural Beauty
The suggestion to bring the World war into the memorial was made by Augustus E. Lukeman of New York, the sculptor who succeeded Gutzon Borglum in the task which may not be finished for another five years. His suggestion is well taken because the road leading to the mountain is drab and barren and trees and foliage would be an appropriate approach as well as add a touch of natural beauty.

Each tree, according to Lukeman's idea, would be planted in memory of the deeds of some World war soldier and wherever necessary markers will be placed at the root of the trees, describing the deeds. The main idea, however, is to increase the interest in the Stone Mountain monument among organizations such as the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scouts and others.

To Dedicate Trees
Any of these organizations desiring to purchase a tree could dedicate it to some particular soldier they are interested in, and in this way the Avenue of Trees, as a memorial to heroes of the World war, would become a public undertaking without any additional expense to the management of the Memorial.

By the first of September, Lukeman predicts that the first horse and rider will be finished sufficiently to distinguish it. It will be complete, except for the finishing touches.

BREAKS PRECEDENT
Hot Springs, Va., June 10.—Joseph W. McIntosh, comptroller of currency, told the District of Columbia Bankers' association convention here today that the call for a memorial of national banks would be issued as of June thirteenth.

This is the first time in history that advance information as to the date of the bank call has been officially divulged.

200 EIGHTH GRADERS HAVE PARTY TONIGHT

Magic to Form Part of Entertainment; Players Give Books to Barnard.

More than 200 school children are expected to gather at the School Street Recreation Center this evening to attend the annual Eighth Grade party.

At the regular Thursday afternoon assembly of the eighth grade held in the Rec. auditorium, the Barnard school was presented with a collection of ten books dealing with dramatics by the Eighth Grade Boys' Dramatic Club.

ABOUT TOWN

Hal Roach Opposes Sennett As Bathing Beauty King

Hollywood, Calif.—For years Mack Sennett held a place all by himself as the bathing beauty king of Cienfuegos.

But he no longer has undisputed right to the crown. There is another producer claiming the same honors.

Roach doesn't hold the same leadership as that enjoyed by Sennett. But movieland is fast recognizing him as king of the scantily clad girls.

Lupe Velez, Hal Roach bathing beauty, who will be starred with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Gaucho."

Miss Marlon Sweet, former laboratory technician at the Medical Department of Cheney Bros., for several years, who is now studying for a degree at Yale University, is substituting for Miss Doris Langdon, who is taking a special two week's course in professional study.

Miss Emily L. House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. House of East Center street, will graduate from Abbot Academy in Andover, Mass., next Tuesday.

Miss Ailyn C. Moriarty, of Florence street, and Miss Dorothy McHale, of Center street, graduated from Mount St. Joseph's Academy in Hartford this afternoon.

The Manchester Trust Company, administrator of the estate of the late Mary I. Barney, has sold to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Guiver four acres of land on Parker street.

Dr. Anna Kugler of Hamlin street returned yesterday after spending two weeks in Atlantic City. Dr. Kugler, who has been a missionary in India for many years, expects to return to that country in the fall.

U. S. UNIVERSITIES GET 24 HONOR MEN FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard University will receive four of the twenty honor men graduates of British Universities who have been awarded Commonwealth Fund fellowships entitling them to two years' study in American universities.

Three of the graduates will go to Columbia, two each to Princeton, Pennsylvania and John Hopkins, and the remaining seven will go to seven different American educational institutions.

Fellowships have been awarded to three women this year and two will go to Yale and the third to Clark University.

The awards for this year, as previously made by a committee of leading British educators, with His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, who has from the beginning taken a deep interest in this project, as honorary chairman, and Sir Walter Buchanan-Riddell, principal of Hertford College, Oxford, as chairman.

This is the third annual group of Commonwealth Fund awards. Counting the new students with the forty Commonwealth Fund Fellows now in this country, the total number is sixty-three of whom ten have elected to work at Harvard, eight at Yale, eight at Columbia, six at Cornell, five at California, four at Chicago, four at John Hopkins, three at Princeton, three at Pennsylvania, two each at Wisconsin, Stanford and Michigan, and one each at Illinois, Minnesota, Clark, North Carolina, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

One is carrying on special research at the United States Bureau of Standards.

The first twenty Fellows appointed in 1925 will finish their studies and return to England this summer.

TREES AS FORECASTERS

Tucson, Ariz.—Climate cycles of variations in the weather are recorded in the trunks of trees, Dr. A. E. Douglas, astronomer, professor at the University of Arizona, says. By "reading" the rings in trees, he believes he can make a general forecast of the weather for years to come.

If Old Fritz Only Knew-
PHILADELPHIA WOULDNT BE SUFFERING SO

By JOHN GRAUDENZ

Berlin.—From Berlin to Philadelphia—four hours! But the Philadelphia in question is not in the U. S. It is a little village in the suburbs of Germany's capital.

After Frederick the Great had won all his battles he started to colonize the Mark Brandenburg, which had been devastated through the results of the many years' lasting battles.

Frederick the Great was a great admirer of the growing city of Philadelphia, Pa. So he named one of the colonies after that city.

One good hour's ride by motor car towards the southern part of Greater Berlin there is a sign on a narrow road pointing to Philadelphia. Thirteen houses in all, some old and crestfallen and some gaily painted up in red and blue and yellow—that is the town.

The oldest inhabitant, Ferdinand Graef, tells that his grandfather bought a small house in the year 1809 from the original colonist, who himself settled there in 1771. Since then the Graef family has been living there. Graef is 87. His daughter Minna lives there, too, with her husband and their daughter, which makes five generations all told.

Altogether Philadelphia counts about thirty souls, most of whom are living a quiet and poor life, none of them possessing sufficient land to grow enough to live from.

But they have troubles other than poverty, old Ferdinand told me.

During the time of the inflation a Berlin banker bought the big farm which joins Philadelphia and is trying to swallow all the land there. To crush the townsfolk he makes life hard for them, for instance by barring a pathway leading through a small forest to the fields of the colonists, forcing them to make long detours to get to their work.

"This pathway has always been open as long as I can think," said Graef, adding with a sigh, "Oh, if our old Fritz only knew this!"

SPAIN DROPS ARMOR WORN BY HORSES IN BULL FIGHT ARENA

Madrid.—The steel "corsets" which were tried out on the horses used in Spanish bull-fights proved to be a decided failure and the government has prohibited further use of any metal armor.

Instead of serving to protect the horse in even a small way, it made matters much worse for the poor beast. The bull's horn pierced the metal with about as much ease as if it had been a rubber balloon and the result was much more disastrous. For it left a horn as rough as any grater to make any wound which the horse might receive infinitely more painful.

Numerous small inventors have been scratching their heads over this problem of some kind of protective armor for the horse. One of them has hit upon the idea of two layers of heavy blanket felt, tightly compressed together, with hemp between and covered with a fine netting of tough rope. Preparation are being made to try this out within a short time. If the bull is unable to push his horns through the felt, the horses will not be ripped open as often as in the past, and even if they are the sight will be less disagreeable, for the armor will keep the wound together. But they will very likely be lifted into the air, corset and all.

So it is very probable that the poor horse of picadors will go on suffering as long as there are any bull-fights in Spain.

A Texas woman has asked newspapers to help her find her husband, who last was heard of when he enlisted in the Confederate army.

Comet On Way Here But Don't Be Scared

London.—Never mind making a will, putting on a life preserver, or hiding under the bedsheet when the Pons-Winnecke comet comes close to the earth June 29 next. Nothing is going to happen.

I get this straight from Pons-Winnecke's nurse, the distinguished astronomer, Dr. A. C. Crommelin. By "nurse" it is not meant that Pons-Winnecke is washed, combed, fed, and put to bed by Dr. Crommelin. He simply knows more about Pons-Winnecke than any other living astronomer.

Got The Dope on Halley's
He is retiring from the Royal Greenwich Observatory after 34 years' continuous service as comet expert. He is the head of the comet section of the British Astronomical Association.

Seventeen years ago he achieved fame by mathematically working out the prediction that the mysterious Halley's comet would appear in our orbit on April 17, 1910. It actually appeared April 19. This gave Crommelin lasting renown in astronomical annals.

Pons-Winnecke is now in our orbit and there have been various yarns to the effect that there is dire danger to the earth.

Closest? 3,500,000 Miles?
"Stuff and nonsense," said Dr. Crommelin to me. "The comet will be closest to us on June 29 and even then it will be 3,500,000 miles away."

"The thing to remember about comets is that most times the earth is between the sun and the comet, so that there is no chance of running into its tail. But even if we did run into and through its tail, the ordinary person would not be aware of it. The tail is made up of highly tenuous, highly nebulous gas stretching for millions of miles. It is quite conceivable that if we hit a big comet square on in its solid nucleus something more serious would happen. It's conceivable some people would be hit by meteorites and killed.

"Even when we are closest to Pons-Winnecke on June 27, the comet will seem only a luminous wisp of cloud. Our moon is 240,000 miles away from the earth. Pons-Winnecke will be over 14 times a greater distance away—an enormous margin of safety.

Thinks Them Eruptions
"The real nature, origin and characteristics of comets still are matters of dispute. Personally, I think they are results of eruptions of matter from the planets around which they revolve. They presumably are shoals of meteorites and other solid substances. We don't know what the solids are. When these come near the sun, gases are released by the heat. These gases are mainly hydrogen, hydrocarbons and cyanogen, the latter of course being a poisonous gas. It is these gases that form the tail of the comet streaming behind.

"Each time a comet goes far away from the sun, it loses its tail, and gets a new one when it comes near the sun again. The comets which come frequently soon have no tails at all any more. Pons-Winnecke, which belongs to the group of comets that revolve around Jupiter, makes its appearance in our heavens about every five and a half or six years. It was discovered by J. L. Pons in 1819 and rediscovered by Winnecke in 1858. Hence its name."

SHRINERS TO MEET
IN ATLANTIC CITY

"Moving Picture Pageant" To Feature 5-Day Program—25 Stars in Parade.

New York, June 10.—More than 60,000 Shriners and members of their families will descend on Atlantic City from all points of the continent June 12 for the five-day holiday and convention of the order.

Biggest Gathering
The convention, formerly the city-hill Imperial Council session, is expected to set a new standard for accommodation of such huge national gatherings, the announcement points out, because of Atlantic City's elaborate center, with its 1,200 hotels and numerous theaters, piers and other sea-side play places.

Special trains starting from Pacific coast cities three days ahead of the convention opening, from Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and other distant points will convey the fezzed thousands to the New Jersey resort city, stopping to pick up the members of temples along their routes. Unique among the spectacular features of the five-day program will be the "Moving Picture Pageant" on the evening of Thursday, June 16, in which 25 of the nation's favorite motion picture stars will appear.

Will See Movies Made
A special trainload of motion picture equipment and extra players from Los Angeles will be unloaded near the Boardwalk where sets will be erected and part of a feature picture made before the audience of Shriners. On the same evening a parade of 25 electrically illuminated floats, each bearing a current star, will be staged along the gaily lighted thoroughfare.

"LEAPING LENA" HERE;
STORY OF HER LIFE TOLD

"Leaping Lena" an erratic Ford car is the main feature in a used car promotion scheme being used by W. R. Tinker, Jr. in boosting his used car sale.

The "Leaping Lena" contraption is a flivver equipped with a motor of the intelligence of ordinary every day Lias, and can perform a number of unique feats. It has been appearing on Manchester streets during the past few days and has been the cause of much comment because of its novelty.

"Lena" has a past, according to "Dick" Tinker. She started out in the world just an ordinary respectable Ford, but has been traded in so many times her nerves have gone to pieces. She has suffered from every known nervous ailment of wrecks, has been on fire eight times, and once was left in a ditch a total loss after three pounds of dynamite exploded in her rear. This and many other harrowing tales are told about "Lena" at Tinker's garage.

The unique car twists and shivers, and goes in several directions, and rears up on its hind legs and does many other stunts not ordinarily seen in motor cars. Whenever it is seen in Manchester it creates a sensation. Lena is one of the oldest cars in captivity and one of the most interesting.

Jack Lockwill's Police Dog

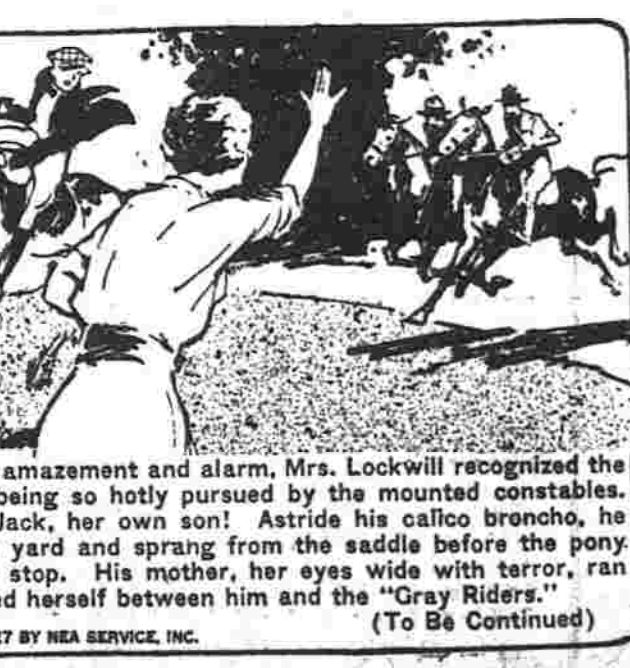

The country was wildly picturesque and beautiful. Southward rose blue, blue mountains, clothed in spring verdure. The Canadian line was not far away, to the north. Here, on "The Old Montreal Trail," stood the ancient Colonial house known as "Ivor's Loss."

Far down the road, rose a tiny cloud of dust. Watching it, Mrs. Lockwill soon saw a horseman riding madly toward her, with two riders pursuing him.

The pursuers were state troopers, as their gray uniforms showed. With a great clattering of hoofs, the chase drew near. "Stop!" shouted one of the troopers.

Choked with amazement and alarm, Mrs. Lockwill recognized the boy who was being so hotly pursued by the mounted constables. It was Jack-Jack, her own son! Astride his calico broncho, he reined into the yard and sprang from the saddle before the pony came to a full stop.

Miss Evelyn Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fayette B. Clarke of Main street and a freshman at Connecticut College, New London, returned home today for the summer vacation.

Tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock a rehearsal will be held at Second Congregational church for the Children's day exercises Sunday. The children are asked to bring flowers for decorating the auditorium.

Miss Margaret Vennard of West Warren, Mass., was a visitor yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cordner of Center street.

Miss Leora Hibbard has returned to her home on North Main street for the summer vacation. She has completed her freshman year at Connecticut Agricultural College where she is specializing in household economics.

Miss Bertha Henry of Glastonbury, a teacher at the Nathan Hale school, and Miss Ruth Hesselgrave of Bridgeport, formerly of Manchester, are among the teachers chosen as delegates by the Connecticut State Teachers' Association to attend the convention of the National Education Association at Seattle, Wash., July 9 to 9.

Noble Grand Mrs. Minnie Weeder of Sunset Rebekah lodge, and Vice Grand Mrs. Frances Chambers will be delegates to the home day exercises tomorrow at the Odd Fellows home in Grotton. Past Grand Mrs. Abigail Knowles and Mrs. Iva Ingraham will accompany them.

Gibbons Assembly Catholic Ladies of Columbus will hold its regular meeting in K. of C. hall this evening, when plans will be made for the annual outing.

Everybody is welcome to attend the special meeting this evening at 7:45 at the Gospel hall, 415 Center street. Mr. Bridges, who has labored in China for the past twenty years, will tell an interesting story of his work there.

A new fire alarm box is being installed at the corner of Cottage and Birch streets.

Edwin S. Culver of Meekville, who has been employed at the Underwood Typewriting works for the past 25 years, returned to his desk after lunch yesterday and found a basket of 25 roses and a purse of gold.

Mothers' club members are reminded to provide cup, fork and spoon for the picnic supper at Coventry lake this evening.

Russell Pratt, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pratt of 194 Center street, celebrated his birthday yesterday afternoon at his home by a party which was attended by about 20 of his little friends. Mrs. Pratt had the table beautifully decorated in pink and blue and served all the things that children delight in, together with the birthday cake with five candles. Games were played and everybody had a merry time. Russell was remembered with many pretty gifts.

Mrs. David Hopkins of Russell street left today for Newfoundland, where she plans to spend three months visiting relatives.

Mrs. August Bose of East Center street was 70 years old yesterday and a number of her friends and relatives helped her celebrate the event with a birthday party. Guests were present from Waterbury, Meriden, Portland, Hartford and this town. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by everyone. Mrs. Bose received a number of beautiful gifts.

REV. DAVID KELLY TO GIVE FAREWELL TALK

Rev. David Kelly, curate of St. Mary's church, will make what will probably be his farewell public appearance here on Monday when he will speak to the Men's Fellowship club of the South Methodist church. There will be a supper at 6:30 and the regular business meeting will take place at 7:30. Rev. Mr. Kelly is scheduled to speak at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to the talk, which will be on Ireland. Rev. Kelly is rector of an Episcopal church in Donegal, and will return to Ireland later in the summer.

SCHOOL TEACHERS DINE ATTEND SHOW

The teachers in the schools from the First to the Eighth districts inclusive, motored to Glastonbury last night and enjoyed a supper at the Hale House. Thomas Bentley, principal, was the toastmaster. After the supper an entertainment of piano solos, vocal solos, and a humorous reading about a number of the teachers in the districts, as well as a short talk by Superintendent A. F. Howes was given. Later in the evening the party motored to Hartford and attended the theater.
