LINDBERGH IS TIRED AFTER BIG OVATION

Sleeps Late This Morning and Has First Real Chat With Mother Since His Ar- rival—More Fetes Today.

New York, June 14.—For four hours today, New York lost that very well known young man, Charles A. Lindbergh.

The flying colonel slipped quietly out of town to Mitchell and Curtis fields, near Garden City, Long Island, and talked shop to the air pilots and mechanics with whom he became acquainted when he was preparing to hop off for Paris three weeks and four days ago. He had a grand time.

When he came back to the city, the rather indignant reporters wanted to know why he did it. He had caught them napping and, besides, he's an early riser.

"Oh, I wanted to see my friends more than anything else," Lindy smiled.

Upon his return he learned that the Board of Education had called off the tribute of 100,000 school children on the Mall in Central Park this afternoon, because of rain. The ceremonies were cancelled entirely.

This gave Lindy even more time to himself and he planned to spend the afternoon motoring with his mother. The only official engagement left was a dinner to be given him by the city tonight at the Commodore Hotel.

NEW YORK NOW A RUBETOWN

Coming of Lindy Welcomed by Fakirs from All Over the United States.

New York, June 14.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has made New York rural overnight.

New Yorkers, who regard themselves as ultra-urbanites, probably always hide a great deal of small town desires in their bosoms and on occasions such as the welcoming of Lindbergh they let down their hard-faced reserve and act natural, and there they are just as rural as Plymouth, Vt., or St. James, Minn.

Manhattan is just one big county fair today. The "Rubes" from 125th street jostle with the "Rubes" from Canal street—all crazy in their desires to see "Lindy."

New York is quick to cash in on popular fancy, and so the whole town has turned to buying and selling "Lindy" merchandise.

From the street hawker who insists that "Yah gotta have Lindy button" to the Fifth avenue merchant who is displaying Lindbergh scarfs; commercial New York has gone Lindbergh, just as social New York has gone Lindbergh.

Taking advantage of the county fair atmosphere that prevails when Manhattan lets down its reserve and acts natural, the fakirs are coming in from the countryside to reap a harvest from the New York Rubes. Tintype photographers who usually operate in the hinterlands of Jersey have swarmed into New York to do a rushing business, and the word has gone out to the entire fraternity and before the week ends Brooklyn bridge will probably be sold a dozen times over to born and bred New Yorkers.

New York, June 14.—Feted to within an inch of his life, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh welcomed the opportunity to enjoy a few hours rest as New York prepared to heap new honors upon him today.

The Lone Eagle of the Atlantic slept late this morning at 270 Park avenue where he and his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, are guests in the apartment of Harry Frazee. He had breakfast with his mother and the first real rest since he had come back to New York. The morning was largely Lindy's own. There was nothing official on his program until one o'clock this afternoon when 100,000 school children were to assemble on the Mall in Central Park to do him honor. The second official event is a dinner to be given by the city at the Commodore Hotel tonight.

FORMER TOWN CLERK BENTON DIES IN NIGHT

Served in Office 27 Years; Death Comes Peacefully After Long Illness; Town Mourns His Passing.

Sanford M. Benton, aged 89, Manchester's town clerk for twenty-seven years, is dead at his home on 10 Chestnut street. Death came last night while he slept peacefully. Mr. Benton had been in ill health since his retirement but was still able to be about. Sunday he took a turn for the worse.

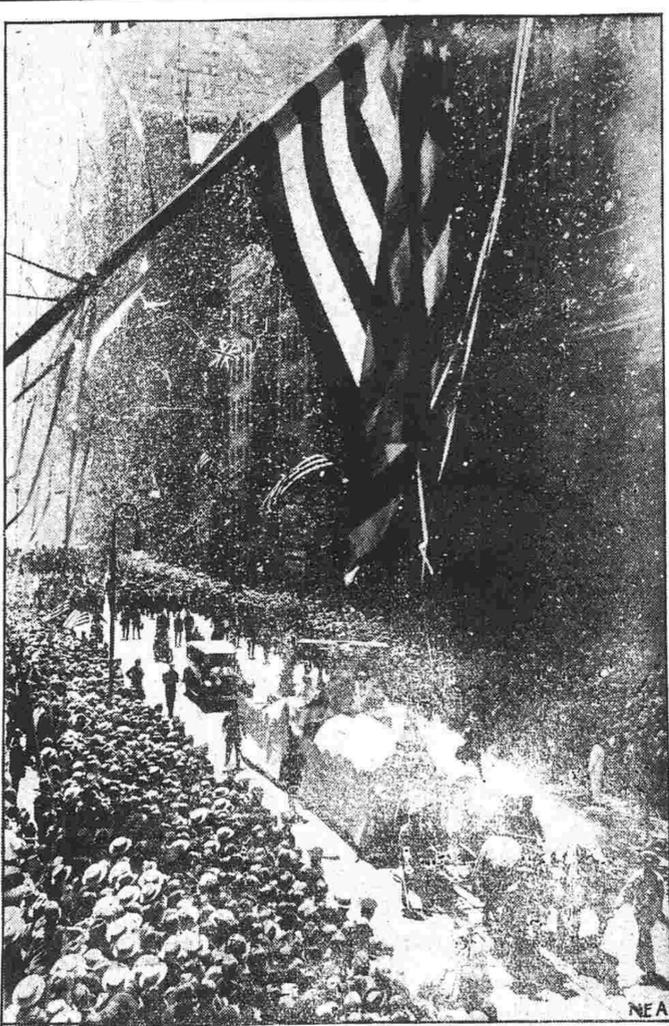

Born in Leominster, Mass., on May 19, 1838, Mr. Benton came to Manchester to live when a young man and at the time his father was pastor at the South Methodist Episcopal church. For many years he was employed as head bookkeeper for W. H. Cheney's Sons at the old Cheney store. Later when that store was discontinued, he was employed in a similar capacity at Cheney Brothers.

Named Town Clerk
When the late Daniel Wadsworth died, Mr. Benton was named town clerk to succeed him. This was in 1898 and Mr. Benton served in that office until he retired voluntarily on January 1, 1926 to be succeeded by the present incumbent, Samuel J. Turkington.

During his many years of service as town clerk, Mr. Benton grew to be widely known and everyone had a good word to say of his work. When the news of his somewhat sudden death spread about town this morning, considerable sympathy was expressed.

BROADWAY'S WELCOME

Up the canyon that is New York's Lower Broadway came Lindbergh after he landed at the Battery from his trip up New York bay on the steamship Macom, and here is the show that greeted him. A great welcome in record. Ahead in the parade came a gigantic white float, surmounted by replicas of Eiffel tower, Lindbergh's airplane "Spirit of St. Louis," and the Statue of Liberty.

GREATER EDUCATION PRESIDENT'S APPEAL

Happy, North End Police Dog, Dead

Doing police patrolling at the north end is going to be a much more lonesome job than it used to be for "Happy" is dead!

"Happy" was an old good-natured Alreadie owned by William Andrews of Taylor place. Previous to that he was owned by the late James Smith of North Main street.

Now "Happy" had a particular liking for policemen and it was his untalented habit to stay up all night long and tag after the policemen as they traveled their beats. For years the beat ended at 4 a. m. When the hours were changed to 6 o'clock "Happy" was puzzled over the two hours extra duty he had to perform, but he learned to "knock off" at 6 every morning.

Sunday night, an automobile ran over "Happy" as he was crossing the street and broke his leg.

Patrolman Leberg was called and found it necessary to shoot "Happy" to put him out of misery. And so today, many a Manchester man who during the past four or five years, has served as a patrolman on the Manchester Police force is saddened by the news that "Happy" has gone to the "Happy Hunting Grounds" of Dog Heaven.

Coolidge In Speech At Hammond, Ind., Pleads For Higher Wages For Unskilled Labor, More General Exercise of Voting Franchise, Curbing of Crime Wave and Closer Attention to Religious Devotion.

Hammond, Ind., June 14.—President Coolidge today set a new goal in national progress for which he said the people should aspire.

Speaking in dedication of Wicker Memorial Park, a great recreational area laid out in honor of the heroes of the World War, the executive outlined a program of economic and moral betterment which included:

1. Higher wages for unskilled labor;
2. Greater educational facilities;
3. A more general exercise of the voting franchise;
4. Curbing of the current wave of crime and violence;
5. Closer attention to religious devotion.

The President, who stopped off here for a few hours enroute to the Black Hills of South Dakota, extolled the tremendous progress made by this area in the field of industry and general human advancement, and then added:

"In spite of all this progress, we are still a great distance from what we would like to be. Too many of our people are unprovided with the advantages of education. The number who are lacking in religious devotion is altogether too large. While we have reached the highest point in material prosperity ever achieved there is a considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come into full participation in the wealth of the nation. Although our government is sound and our courts are excellent, too many of us disregard the obligations of citizenship by neglecting to vote, and violence and crime are altogether too prevalent.

"Don't Be Discouraged
"Our delinquencies are sufficient to require us to put forth all our efforts to work toward their elimination. But we should not be discouraged because we are surrounded by human limitations and handicapped by human weakness. We are also possessors of human strength, intelligence, courage, fidelity, character—these, also, are our heritage and our mark of the divine image."

The President reiterated his oft-stated admonition to appreciate to the fullest extent the soundness of American institutions and the American social system.

"It is necessary that this should be known and properly appreciated," he said. "Unless it continues to be the public conviction, we are likely to fall a more easy prey to the advocates of false economic, political and social doctrines."

In conclusion, Mr. Coolidge charged his audience to make this nation the leader in the move to establish a permanent peace.

Wonderful Future
"No one who is acquainted with history, who observed what is all about us, can fall to cherish the hope that we are entering on a wonderful future," he observed. "It has been said that the war was fought to make a world fit for the abode of heroes. I want to see our own country the first to make that expectation a reality. But if it is to come true, it can only be through the industry, the devotion, and the character of the people themselves. The government can help to provide opportunity, but the people must take advantage of it."

BOARD HOLDS EMIL JOHNSON RESIGNATION

Tabled Until Reasons For Withdrawal Can Be Learned; Spring St. Bridge Or- dered Built Immediately.

S. Emil Johnson's resignation as an assessor here was before the Board of Selectmen last night for action, but was tabled because Mr. Johnson had not given any reason for his withdrawal in the letter addressed to the board nor had he told any of the members why he resigned. The Selectmen felt that Mr. Johnson's services to the town were too valuable to be lost so easily.

Mr. Johnson's resignation has been in the board's hands for about a month. Considerable feeling was aroused among the three assessors here when the Linder system was adopted and a large amount of clerical work fell on to the shoulders of the incumbents. The salary question arose as did the one of who should be employed as a permanent clerk.

May Elect Three
Samuel Nelson, Jr., resigned, then S. Emil Johnson sent his resignation to the board. John Jensen, the newest member of the assessors and the least experienced, alone remained. Mr. Jensen who was blamed by many for causing the dissension on the board says he will be a candidate again for the office. If Mr. Johnson's resignation is eventually accepted the town will vote for three assessors next fall. In the opinion of many of the Selectmen this would solve the problem, and would force the voters to pick the complete Board of Assessors.

Hearings were held last night for the acceptance of the streets in the Hollywood tract, Westminster Road, Cromwell street, Scarborough Road, Wellington Road and Lancaster Road were approved and will be offered at the next Town meeting for acceptance. George Forbes, David Muldoon and Clarence Peterson, owners of property on Westminster Road, and E. J. Holl owner and developer of the tract were the only property owners present at the hearings.

Levi Wheaton of Autumn street presented a revised layout of a tract of real estate on Autumn street for approval. It was referred to Town Engineer Bowen for his approval.

Want Sidewalks
Several property owners on North street in the north end of the town appeared presenting a petition for five foot concrete sidewalks and granite curbing. Oliver Blingham who was spokesman said that all but two property owners had signed the petition. A hearing was ordered called.

Michael J. McDonnell of the Army and Navy club returned to the custody of the Selectmen Manchester's official gold star flag. This banner was entrusted to the safe keeping of the Army and Navy club after the war, but on the completion of the Municipal building it was requested that the colors be returned. The club also sent its national colors to the Municipal building and Mr. McDonnell asked that they be kept in the hall with the gold star flag.

Street Out of Repair
Charles Peterson of 20 Pine Hill street appeared and asked that something be done to repair the road from Main street up the street. The highway committee will investigate and try to remedy the condition. Comstock road and Irvine Place in the Lakeview tract were reported ready for acceptance. A hearing will be called.

Cheney Brothers requested that

MASS EXECUTIONS IN SOVIET RUSSIA

London, June 14.—Mass executions are reported from all parts of Soviet Russia as a result of anti-Soviet agitations, said a Warsaw dispatch to the Daily Express today.

It is reported from South Russia that Jaraslavski, a leading member of the White Guard (Soviet Secret Police) has arrived at Kharkov on a special mission to "root out ruthlessly counter-revolutionary activities directed against the Soviets in that district."

QUIZ FILM STAR IN RUM SCANDAL

Madge Bellamy and Her Mother Called to Answer Federal Men's Questions.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 14.—A number of prominent Los Angeles and Hollywood persons will be questioned on various angles of a rum scandal unearthed in Orange county. Federal officers announced today. Some of these will be subpoenaed to appear before the Federal Grand Jury, while others will be unofficially questioned concerning admissions of several alleged conspirators.

Film Star Called
Madge Bellamy, film star, who was to appear with her mother, Mrs. Ann Philpot yesterday before United States States Attorney Ohannesian, was reported by her attorney to be on location.

It was explained that neither the actress nor her mother has any knowledge of the liquor scandal, but the officers wished to learn of conditions in the Orange county jail, where Mrs. Philpot is reported to have visited Claude Williams, an inmate, for business talks last year.

From Mrs. Philpot and her daughter, Federal agents hoped to get information concerning the treatment given federal prisoners in the Orange county jail.

NOTED FRENCH FLYERS FALL WITH AIRPLANE

Captains D'Oisy and Gonin Crash After Only Four Minutes In Air—Were After Record.

Le Bourget Aerodrome, France, June 14.—Captain Pelletier D'Oisy, famous French aviator, had a miraculous escape from death today, when with Captain Gonin he crashed four kilometers from the Le Bourget Aerodrome, after taking off for a long distance flight in an attempt to create a new world record.

After being only four minutes in the air, carrying a heavy load of 1,200 gallons of gasoline, D'Oisy's plane crashed to the ground when the motor failed.

Both Captain D'Oisy and Captain Gonin were quick to jump from the damaged plane and had just cleared it when the gasoline tank exploded and the plane burst into flames.

The two men walked away from the scene of the accident and the first observers to arrive failed to see them and it was believed their bodies were in the burning craft.

Captain O'Isy had hoped to make a non-stop flight to India which would exceed the record made by Chamberlin in his flight to Germany.

Unconcerned and unruined, Captain D'Oisy and Captain Gonin came walking into the aerodrome about half an hour after the crash.

Captain D'Oisy sought out his wife, who saw him take the air, and as soon as she was reassured he left for the scene of the accident to try to rescue several favorite pipes which were in the plane.

NOTED WOMAN TEACHER IS DEAD IN STAMFORD

Miss Edith Heywood, Head of Girls' School Had International Reputation.

Stamford, Conn., June 14.—Miss Edith Heywood, one of the country's foremost educators, died at Lowe-Heywood school, Shippan Point, today, of heart trouble after an illness of six weeks. Born in New York in 1854, Miss Heywood came here in 1881 to participate with Miss Lowe in taking over Mrs. Richardson's school for girls, and later became co-principal. For forty-six years Miss Heywood was a leader in local educational work and acquired an international reputation.

Funeral services will be private and Miss Heywood will be buried in Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

English Flyers To Attempt London To Calcutta Flight

London, June 14.—Unfavorable weather today delayed the departure of Lieutenants Carr and Mackworth to attempt a London to Calcutta non-stop flight record.

The flyers will take off from London for Karachi, a distance of some 4,100 miles, but if conditions are favorable will continue on with Calcutta as their goal. Calcutta is 5,000 miles from London by air-line and it is hoped that it may be reached in order to break the non-stop distance record now held by Clarence Chamberlin in his New York to Germany flight.

A fortnight ago Lieutenant Carr set forth on a similar flight but was forced down in the Gulf of Persia by engine trouble.

Lieutenants Carr and Mackworth will fly a Hawker-Horsley plane which is a standard day bombing ship. The only change made in the plane for this flight is a slight increase in the radiation surface.

DESPERADOES AGAIN BREAK JOLIET JAIL

One of Them Hides Under Scaffold Upon Which He Was To Be Hanged and Then Escapes.

Joliet, Ill., June 14.—Charles Shader, who used the scaffold upon which he was to have been hanged for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Kline of the state prison, as an instrument in his escape in the Joliet jail break yesterday, was still at liberty today. Squads of deputy sheriffs and prison guards are in hot pursuit. The search centers two miles east of Joliet following a report that he was seen in that territory.

Of the five condemned killers in the jail break, Gregorio Rizzo was shot to death while Charles Dutchowsky, Roberto Torrez and Walter Stalesky were recaptured after a spectacular gun battle with guards in their third attempt for freedom. Two others implicated in the murder had escaped previously.

No Grand Jury Probe
State's Attorney Hjalmar Rehm after a conference last night with officials, stated that while reports on the break would be scanned, there would probably be no Grand Jury investigation.

Stalesky was shot through the back and may die. Dutchowsky was badly beaten. Torrez lost his nerve and returned to his cell.

Stalesky and Shader had fashioned a key to their cell, emerged, and the others and thrusting a guard ahead of them marched to the jail office and armed themselves. Torrez fled to his cell when Sheriff Albert Margraf stepped in but the others seized the sheriff, marched him through the stockade back of the jail to the sheriff's automobile.

Many Shots Fired
They pointed guns at the sheriff and told him to drive away. He

BRINGS GREETINGS OF "MOTHER CITY"

E. L. G. Hohenthal Presents Gifts From Manchester, Eng., to Manchester, Conn.

E. L. G. Hohenthal, Sr., who recently traveled through Europe, and en route visited the Lord Mayor of Manchester, England, presenting him with a copy of the Centennial History of Manchester, Connecticut, last night returned the compliment to the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Hohenthal brought four gifts to the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, from the Corporation of the City of Manchester, England. They were volumes describing how Manchester, England, is governed and were appropriately inscribed.

Mr. Hohenthal told the Selectmen that he arranged to meet Lord Mayor Swales through a friend who was Lord Mayor of a nearby city. He found that there were 75 councilmen and 35 aldermen in the city. Once elected to the council a man continues in membership until death. Each year one of the councilmen is elected Lord Mayor by the aldermen and councilmen. Mr. Cundiffe who was Lord Mayor in 1923 was, therefore, still on the council, and Mr. Hohenthal delivered one copy of the Centennial History of Manchester, Connecticut, to him. Another copy he delivered to the city.

Mr. Hohenthal told the Selectmen that he had talked with the Lord Mayor of Manchester for three-quarters of an hour. The Englishman was much interested in Manchester, Connecticut, and queried his guest considerably. Mr. Hohenthal said he learned that able sorrow and regret was expressed, not only in political circles, but elsewhere. No one except relatives, probably, was more grief-stricken by the news than Miss Hattie E. Strickland of 21 Church street, who served as assistant town clerk under Mr. Benton for a great many years.

Out of respect for Mr. Benton all offices of the town officials will be closed tomorrow afternoon. Official town flags will be flown at half mast.

Filed Checking Account Sum

Some ten years ago while holding the office of town clerk, Mr. Benton received considerable comment not only through the press, but editorially as well when it was revealed that he was the only man in Manchester at the time who had in his checking account in the grand list.

Mr. Benton's ill health was brought about to some extent by the death by drowning of one of his sons in Pennsylvania. About two weeks before his retirement as town clerk, Mr. Benton suffered a shock that eventually made it necessary for him to retire from public office.

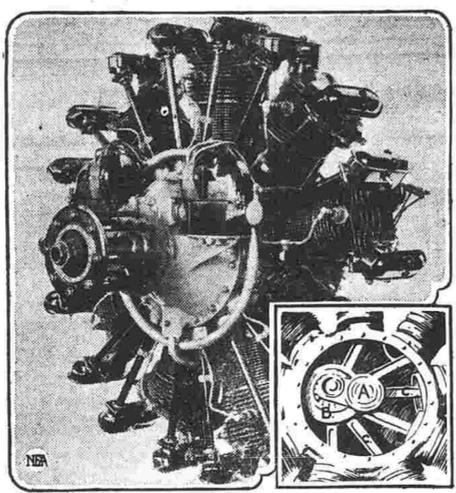

During part of his term as town clerk, Mr. Benton was town treasurer. He was also one of the earliest members of the Odd Fellows, a member of the South Methodist church and a former trustee of the church in addition to being a member of the official church board.

His Family

Mr. Benton is survived by his wife, with whom he observed his golden wedding anniversary several years ago; one son, S. Irving; one daughter, Mary A., and a granddaughter, Mary O. The funeral service will be held at the home, 230 Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the South Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

Lindbergh's Motor Is Revolution In Modern Airplane Designing

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

The motor that speeded Captain Lindbergh and his airplane across the American continent and the Atlantic in three giant hops is the latest development in aviation.

Simple as it is, it has caused a revolution in airplane design. Its remarkable success in making a trip of more than 5500 miles, at a rate of 100 miles an hour and without a hitch, is bound to make a profound impression on future aviation.

The engine is what is called an air-cooled radial motor. The one Lindbergh used was a Wright Whirlwind, made by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, a pioneer in this type of engine design.

Two essential facts make this motor different from others. First, it is air cooled. Second, and more significant, its nine cylinders are arranged in a circle around a crank shaft with only one throw.

More Efficient Type

This arrangement makes the motor more compact, lighter and more efficient than the V-type engines formerly used in airplanes and similar to those now run in automobiles.

The whole engine weighs only 508 pounds, yet it can develop 250 horsepower, a remarkable achievement for such a small motor.

The crankshaft of this motor, unlike those of the V-type or "in-line" engines we know, has only one "throw" or crankpin, just like one of a single cylinder motor. It is therefore short and reaches directly to the double-headed propeller which is whirled about by the engine.

The single throw carries what is called a "mother bearing," which is that it can whirl about the crankshaft, once at each series of power strokes of the entire engine. Attached to the "mother bearing" are the piston rods, which lead to the pistons in the nine cylinders. Each rod is placed on a bearing of its own within the "mother bearing."

Cylinders Hit in Order

As a power stroke occurs in a cylinder, the piston pushes the "mother bearing" away from it. The next cylinder takes up this power and gives the "mother bearing" another push. And so the power explosions go on in order around the circle of cylinders, with the "mother bearing" pushed around.

The whirling motion of the "mother bearing" on the crankpin turns the crankshaft and thus whirls the propeller at the front of the plane.

Each cylinder is exposed, with thin fins lining it so as to radiate its heat as fast as possible. That makes it unnecessary to cool the engine with water. Lack of water for cooling reduces the weight needed in the power plant of an airplane, including not only that of the water itself, but the radiator, water jackets and connections.

In addition, the parts of the engine are concentrated about a center so simple and compact an arrangement as further to reduce weight and aid in the lifting and carrying power of the engine.

This is the Wright Whirlwind motor which took Captain Lindbergh to Paris. Inset shows details of crankcase. A, the crankshaft; B, "mother bearing"; C, piston rod.

John Conroy, of New Haven, was fined $300 for transporting beer.

Tony Gazzi, of Bridgeport, was fined $200 for possession of beer, also Charles Markoya, Joseph Patuk and Steve Meubauer, all of Bridgeport.

David Young, of Bridgeport, was fined $100 for possession of beer.

One Dollar Fines

The only exception to the heavy fines came in the case of William Pavlick, of New Haven, who was charged with ownership of a still. He was fined one dollar without costs.

Ling Wah, of New Haven, was sentenced to jail for thirty days after he pleaded guilty to possession and sale of narcotics.

Through an agreement the bond of Enrico Esposito, of New Haven, who is now said to be in Italy, was reduced from $10,000 to $1,000 and will be paid by Mrs. Maria Julian, of New Haven.

U. S. COURT FINES RUM RUNNER $1,000

Other Stiff Sentences Handed Down Today By Judge Thomas In Hartford.

Hartford, Conn., June 14.—Heavy fines for liquor law violations were imposed today by Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of the United States District Court for Connecticut. The largest penalty was $1,000 given Julius F. St. Lucia, of Waterbury, who was charged with possession of liquor. In his case it was alleged that St. Lucia owned a building in which a "wild cat" brewery was operated.

Transportation of the brewery product resulted in a fine of $500 for John McKenna, also of Waterbury. John Danaher, assistant district attorney, said there were others involved in operating the brewery but that only this evidence could be obtained.

Other Fines

John Conroy, of New Haven, was fined $300 for transporting beer.

Tony Gazzi, of Bridgeport, was fined $200 for possession of beer, also Charles Markoya, Joseph Patuk and Steve Meubauer, all of Bridgeport.

David Young, of Bridgeport, was fined $100 for possession of beer.

FLOWER GARDENERS PLAN FALL SHOW

Members Invited to See Several Gardens Here and in Nearby Towns.

Manchester Garden club members held their last business meeting of the season at the Manchester Community clubhouse last evening. The time was occupied chiefly in discussing details in regard to the club's premier flower show which was successfully staged last week at Center church.

As the president, Miss Mary Chapman will be absent from town during August, it was voted that the vice president, J. W. Galvan, be empowered to call a special meeting to arrange for another flower show in late August or early September when the dates of the gladioli and Horticultural society shows in Hartford will not conflict.

Interesting floral exhibits at the meeting included a potted Watsonia, a plant resembling the gladiolus in foliage and grown from a bulb. The blossoms, a deep coral pink, drooped bell-shape from the stalk. A specimen of spirea, similar to VanHoutel, but with larger blossoms, attracted considerable interest, as did several blossoms of the airy, blue Siberian iris. Iris, which was the leading flower at the recent show and is still at the height of the blooming season, came in for much attention.

Invitations were received for the Garden club members to inspect the peony gardens at Talbotville of Mrs. Charles O. Britton, the gardens of Mrs. Frank Maxwell at Rockville, the gladiolus gardens of Charles Murphy at Coventry. The Misses Chapman extended a cordial invitation to the members to visit their garden while the rhododendron still remains beautiful, and suggested an excursion to the adjacent gardens of Mrs. William C. Cheney, Mrs. Marjory Cheney, Mrs. Clifford Cheney, then on to Miss Aisenring's garden. The gardens of the Misses Annie and Louise Cheney are especially beautiful in the height of the rose season and may be reached by passing on through from Miss Mary's garden.

ABOUT TOWN

A Ford touring car came to grief on Prospect street this morning about seven o'clock when the driver steered into the curb to avoid hitting another car and in so doing lost a wheel. The trouble was speedily remedied and the car again on its way with no one injured.

It was stated at St. Francis hospital in Hartford this afternoon that Jack Gordon, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Gordon of Winter street, would be permitted to leave the hospital for his home this afternoon. It was at first feared that he had a fractured skull as a result of being struck by a baseball bat while a spectator at a ball game Sunday.

The annual meeting of the 7th or Buckland district will take place at the school building next Monday evening, June 20, at 7 p. m. standard time. The present school committee includes Andrew Healey, David Armstrong and Edward Stein.

JONES PLAYS POORLY; COOPER LEADS FIELD

Louis Chiappetta of Hartford Has Card of 84 As Against Cooper's 74 and Jones' 76.

Oakmont Country Club, June 14.—Robert T. Jones, defending champion, shot one of his poorest rounds of any recent title tourney in taking a 76 this morning in the first round of the national open championship. The great Bobby's game seemed to be affected by the dank atmosphere and heavy turf, as was the case with most of the other starters, and after going to the turn in a 37, he was hard pressed to come home in 39.

Long puts pulled Bobby's game out of the fire on numerous occasions, although infrequently he lost his putting touch. Two and needed three shots to a green to make the ball disappear. His card follows:

Out ... 344 643 535—37
In ... 545 246 423—76

In Harry Cooper, the confident Californian, was well in front of the field until he struck the seventeenth hole and took a six. He was out in 35 and his 39 home gave him a 74 and the temporary lead.

Out ... 544 443 425—35
In ... 644 245 464—39—74

The first major casualty was furnished by Fred Robson, the Englishman, who walked right out on the party and called it a complete tournament at the ghost hole where he took a six. Fred might jolly well have laughed that one off if it hadn't been for the fact that he took 46 to the turn, which was no laughing matter.

Louis Chiappetta, of Hartford, shot an 84 going out in 42 and back in the same number.

Of the first 25 starters only seven broke 80 for the course, the list including Harry Cooper, the leader; Bobby Jones, in third place; Waldo Crowder, Shreveport, Pa., with a 78; P. O. Hart, Marletta, Ohio, with a 77; Jim Barnes with a 78; Larry Nabholz, Sharon, Pa., the runner up with a 75 and Ted Ray, the blustery Briton with a 76.

Ray was the only invader to make a real play for the title in the first round. George Duncan being inept all the way with a 43 and a 41 for an 84 and virtual elimination from further consideration. Ray, however, with his customary consistency, shot a pair of 38's.

DESPERADOES FLEE PRISON AT JOLIET

Delayed the starting of his automobile long enough for guards and Joliet police to surround the car. A score of shots were fired before the desperadoes were overpowered and returned to their cells.

When the firing began, Shader ducked back into the stockade, hid in the shadows and was scheduled to hang, and then, during the confusion, made his way through a garage and lost himself in the crowd that was milling about the jail.

The same five men, with Bernardo Roa, a Mexican, broke from the same jail last March. A Chicago policeman was killed in a battle with the fugitives. Roa is still at large.

These six, including Albert Price, also still at liberty, escaped from the penitentiary at Stateville, May 5, 1926, after killing Deputy Warden Kline. Execution of the men for Kline's death was stayed pending a review of their case by the State Supreme Court.

OHIO OPENS NEW DEATH CHAMBER KILLING THREE

Modern Cell and Quiet Dynamo To Keep Others Unaware of Executions.

Columbus, O.—The state of Ohio has taken steps to enable men legally condemned to death within its borders to die more comfortably.

To that end, a new "death house" is being rushed to completion at the state penitentiary here, and it will be used for the first time on the night of June 10, when three men will go, within the space of an hour, to eternity in the electric chair, for murder.

The new death house, built of brick, is 25 feet square, and has a single steel cell, in which the condemned men spend their last few hours before the final march to the chair. The chair has been moved into the new structure, the wiring inspected, and all is shipshape for the gruesome triple execution which will initiate the new quarters.

Has New Dynamo

One notable feature of the new death house is the installation of a separate dynamo, of an improved type, which eliminates the noise formerly heard throughout the big prison enclosure whenever it began "stepping up" the high tension current that blotted out the lives of the chair's victims.

This noise was a source of great inconvenience to the authorities, as it invariably had a bad psychological effect upon the hundreds of other prisoners. When the big dynamo began humming the sons of death, the prisoners hearing it, became intensely nervous and restless; they shrieked and howled, or played and sobbed, and it was sometimes hours after the execution before the population of the grim, red-walled enclosure quieted down again.

The separate dynamo also eliminates another feature of the executions which was so graphically described by Theodore Dreiser in "An American Tragedy," referring to a death-house in a New York prison.

Prisoners Nervous

Dreiser gave a vivid word picture of what takes place in many prisons, and has until now occurred in the Ohio penitentiary when the prisoners hearing the dynamo humming its requiem for the condemned man, and then suddenly see every light in the prison go "dim," as the current bites through the body of the prisoner, strapped fast in the chair.

This will not occur in the Ohio prison in the future, as the current is not taken from the general powerhouse, and there will be no "dimming" of prison lights, to tell others when the deadly "juice" is turned into the occupant of the chair.

The trio who will go to their death here June 10 are: Philip Orleck, who murdered a convict guard; John Hickman, 30, slayer of a policeman; and George Vargo, who murdered his land lady because she refused to cook corned beef and cabbage for him.

Their record was broken by Lindbergh's 2600-mile trip, the American flyer reaching Paris just an hour after the British plane was wrecked in the gulf. The two men were released.

GRAND JURY INDICTS CLINE FOR MURDER Trial Goes Over Until September Term—Accused Defiant In Plea.

Rockville, Conn., June 14.—To the coroner's finding holding Leonard Cline, novelist and playwright, criminally responsible for the death a month ago of Wilfred P. Irwin of New York city, who was fatally shot at Cline's home in Mansfield Center, today was added the accusation of a Tolland County Grand Jury, which indicted Cline for first degree murder.

Rockville, June 14.—It was six hours after the grand jury had returned to the G. A. R. room, across the hall from where the superior court was in session that the messenger brought the word that Clerk Reed was wanted. It was Attorney Dennis McCarthy that had sent for him and to the clerk he announced that the grand jury was ready to report.

Reach Decision "We have," replied Attorney McCarthy, the foreman, who had been selected by the other seventeen although the court had informed the men that it was not necessary to pick a lawyer for the position, even if the newspapers had already done so.

"Gentlemen, what is your verdict?" asked the clerk. "A true bill," replied Mr. McCarthy at the same time handing to the clerk the copy of the finding, which was murder in the first degree.

"Gentlemen of the jury is this your true finding?" asked the clerk. "It is," replied the men. "Present the prisoner at the bar that he may plea," came from Judge Yeomans.

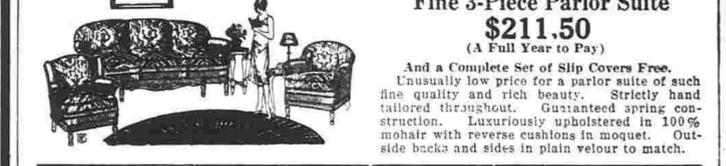

Back to Tolland Cline was allowed to return to his wife and sister. He kissed his wife, who rose on the chair to bolster reach his lips while the sister patted him on the back.

"I am not guilty," answered Leonard Cline to the warrant charging him with first degree murder when it was read to him, but his hands shook, his fingers moved and there was a slight sagging of the knees.

Heart heavy and trying to be brave was the sister of Cline, the wife posed head was not held high as was the case in the morning session, but instead there were tears, that were bound to come to the eyes, but brave-like she tried to keep them back.

THOSE MOTORING LAWS.

Disaster overwhelmed a school girl motoring party in Winsted, the driver of which was a miss of seventeen.

Just a case of lack of experience, knowledge or presence of mind—probably the latter. There is always danger in a hard setting of brakes on a slippery road.

How many scores of accidents will be added to the otherwise normal list of automobiling tragedies before the Legislature, next session, repeals the sixteen-year-old driving limit, nobody can tell.

In this same connection the elimination of the legal speed limit is having an effect that every person, not wholly blind, can see.

Watch the death list grow.

ANTI-WAR TREATY.

One of the most gratifying announcements that has come out of Washington in a good while is the statement of the Department of State that it is prepared to open diplomatic negotiations with the French government on the subject of a treaty between the two countries in which both will agree never to wage war upon each other.

Ever since Foreign Minister Briand of France, last April, made a formal statement to the press in which he proposed such a treaty to outlaw war between the two nations, there has been manifested considerable impatience on the part of a great many Americans because no attention was paid to the statement by the White House or the American State Department.

The reply of the State Department is prompt and is cordiality itself, declaring that "the United States will be very glad to engage in diplomatic negotiations on the subject of a possible agreement along the lines suggested by Monsieur Briand."

This is the most opportune of all possible times for the successful carrying out of the proposed gesture of amity. That it can be, like any such a treaty, only a gesture may be true enough.

Brought into a better relationship by the Lindbergh incident than they have been at any time since the Armistice, America and France seem to be on the verge of sealing their friendship in a way that can hardly help but make its impress on history.

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS

By DON E. MOWRY Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Turning-unsightly vacant lots from weed patches into beautiful gardens is a splendid project for any community.

New London, Conn., has shown what can be done if the city gets back of a movement of this kind.

Fifteen hundred lots were put under cultivation in New London last year.

First the Chamber of Commerce secured several large tracts of suitable land, some from the city, some from schools. Heads of families out of employment were engaged to clean, rake and burn up rubbish. If these people wanted a garden lot they got it. Men and teams plowed, harrowed and prepared for planting. Plots averaged 50 by 100 feet each.

Then there was general publicity. All who wanted a plot for a garden called at the offices. Plots cost from $1.50 to $2, depending upon size.

Some families raised sufficient foodstuffs to last them all winter. Dirty and unsightly lots were eliminated. Hundreds of boys and girls were kept off the streets in useful work. Prizes offered promoted competition. The commercial organization's reward came in knowing that a worthwhile job was well done.

The garden movement is not a war-time proposal. It's good every year.

Mr. Sharkey of Boston—and yet the world can think and talk about a Lindbergh! Evidently there is something the matter with the inside of the collective American brain. Folks must be stewed or something.

SOME PAPER.

We doubt the accuracy of the Manchester cynic who estimates that the paper used in printing pictures of Charles Lindbergh and headlines heralding his activities since he landed at Paris has cost enough to build a causeway of scrapped automobiles all way across the Atlantic and make flying across that puddle unnecessary.

We are inclined to think that the citizen in question has underestimated the number of junked cars necessary to making such a fill by at least ten per cent.

COINCIDENCE.

Coles Phillips, artist who attained to real celebrity largely through illustrations of advertisements of women's wear, had an article in the last issue of the Saturday Evening Post on the subject of pigeon breeding and squab raising. Toward the end of it he referred humorously to his own illness, the failure of travel and many physicians to do him any good and his faith that devotion to the life of his squab farm was restoring him to health.

Yesterday he died—the same illness that he touched at in the article which thousands of persons were reading, in all probability, at the very moment of his passing away.

TRYING.

How much longer the patience of Poland is going to hold out in the face of the bombastic bluff being put up by Soviet Russia over the assassination of Peter Volkoff, Soviet ambassador, in Warsaw, it isn't easy to guess; but Mr. Pilsudski is a gentleman capable of some asperity himself and it will not be very surprising if presently he sends word to Moscow to wipe off its chin or some such effect.

The Soviet Union seems to be trying to think up as many "demands" as possible in connection with the assassination, none of which will amount to a bill of beans very well knows that to attack Poland would be to bring it not quite all Europe on its back, at least a sufficient part of it to put a prompt end to the present red regime.

One of the demands, that Poland at once take effectual measures to prevent further harboring of Soviet enemies on Polish soil, is supremely silly. In view of the fact that on her own soil Russia has ten thousand enemies of the Soviets to every one in Poland. Constant executions of "plotters" against the red government in themselves constitute confession of inability to prevent such plotting. And yet the Soviets demand that a foreign country shall do, with relation to the scheming, what they cannot do in their own jurisdiction.

Surely Poland's forbearance must be nearly worn through.

Why, why, why all this Lindbergh furore? Has everybody forgotten that something of real importance is on the way? Here are New York and the whole eastern country consuming their days-of-their reserve of lung power and their tin-horn money over the fiercest reckless indifference to the fact that Jack Dempsey is about to perform the historic and tremendous function of signing for a fight. Within a comparatively short time the mighty licked gladiator is to put his name to a document agreeing to accept 25 per cent of the gate receipts of a July battle with more money for them than most men. The only difference is that most people take their clothes off when they go to sleep.

To date there may be found in Manhattan—the "Lindy" lid, a hat; a "Lindy sandwich," three "Lindy hops," innumerable Lindy songs, half a dozen Lindy badges, a Lindy airplane toy, a Lindy solo dance in vaudeville, depicting the "conquering of the seas"—and heaven knows what else.

Chicago gang tactics may have made the old rackets look cheap, but certain it is that the thug thing is more or less out of style.

The hiring of "mobs" has also undergone a change.

It is no longer a hit-or-miss proposition. The films demand definite types and trust their selection to trained casting men.

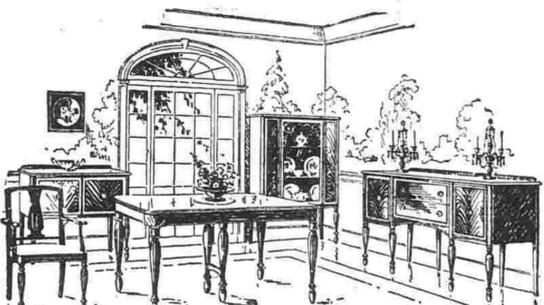

A great deal of this odd business falls to the hands of one Hieronymus, a young man who acts in the Yiddish theaters of the East Side, but who, on one hour's notice, produced six pretzel women and half a dozen pickle vendors, to say nothing of a few dozen odd tailors and patriarchs.

A story goes the rounds of how Clarence Darrow, the lawyer, summoned a number of New York reporters who have been in the habit of making paragraphic comments on his apparel.

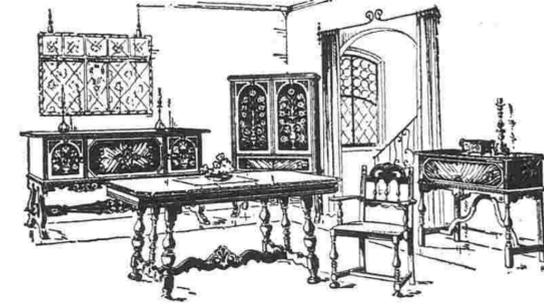

With feigned seriousness he took them to task for commenting on his clothes and, opening his coat, showed the name of one of the best tailors.

You see, I get my clothes at the best place," he commented. "I pay

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, June 14.—There's no reason why Capt. Charles A. (Slim) (Lucky) (Flying Fool) (Lone Wolf) (Lindy) (Cheese) Lindbergh shouldn't get along splendidly with President Coolidge.

Those who remember Lindbergh as a little fellow here recall that he was fully convinced of the saying that children should be seen and not heard.

The boy is older now, but he can be depended upon not to speak unless he is spoken to.

A lovely lady who knows Lindbergh and also knows John Coolidge, son of the president, says there is a certain similarity of modest bearing and honest countenance between the two boys which cannot fail to be noted by the Coolidges. This more or less intangible resemblance, she says, was even more marked in the case of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., who died.

Everyone has heard stories of prohibition enforcers who have refused huge bribes. Here's a bigger and better one about the retiring boss enforcer, General Lincoln C. Andrews, which ought to be true, considering its source.

Not long after Andrews assumed office, a prominent gent called upon him, and after some hemming and hawing, pointed out that if a certain regulation could be interpreted in the right way, it would mean a great deal to his interests and might well mean something worth while to Andrews.

Andrews began to kid the gentleman. He pointed out that if he were to follow this suggestion he could not remain long in office afterward, that he probably would have to leave the country, and that it would require quite a little money to support himself, wife and children in the manner to which they had been accustomed.

For instance, when you gazed upon the last photo of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge at the circus, you came very nearly gazing upon certain trampled remains and shattered tripods instead.

Mrs. Coolidge reached her box just as the elephants, the mahouts, the wild Siberian horses and the clown-ridden mules dashed out and formally began the show.

The photographers, meanwhile, were standing in the runway where the elephants and other animals photographer, grazed by an elephant's foreleg, was seized with such an ague of fright that he ran for cover without getting a picture.

Others clicked and ran with the breaths of jumbos upon their necks.

The visitor returned several days later, according to the story, and made an offer which would have meant something in the millions for Andrews. The general exploded and the prominent gent did not tarry long.

"What do you think?" demanded Andrews of a friend in telling the story. "That crazy fool took me seriously!"

You who look upon the pictures in the newspapers in the calm, quiet, cool of the evening have little realization of the perils to which the bright young photographers who take them are exposed.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Here after, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips."

Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

CANADIAN CHAMPIONS IN HARTFORD TONIGHT

Crackerjack Amateur Card At Velodrome If It Doesn't Rain; Wednesday Night, If It Does.

The Canadian amateur boxing team of eight men, which will engage leading Connecticut amateurs in the feature events of the Massachusetts A. C. show at the Hartford Velodrome Tuesday night, is the most representative amateur boxing team ever sent from the Dominion across the border into the United States.

The team includes seven boys who are champions in their own right—some champions of the entire Dominion of Canada and others of the Province of Quebec, where the amateur game flourishes.

The Canadians will have a good rest in Hartford after their arrival from Montreal and will be fresh and fit when they step into the ring over at the big arena on the Connecticut Boulevard.

Ed Hurley of the Massachusetts club has marshalled the pick of Connecticut amateurs to repel the invasion of the rugged youngsters from the land where Canadian Club still holds its place in good society.

These are the probable pairings:

International Bouts
112 pounds: Barney O'Connell, Canada; Eddie Reed, Hartford.
118 pounds: Art Gagne, Canada; Vin LaBella, Middlesex, Canada.
130 pounds: Art Gloutney, Canada; Jarney Younsman, Hartford.
138 pounds: Paul Stagermann, Canada; Ray Hall, Hartford.
147 pounds: Harry Chevalier, Canada; Pinkey Kaufman, Hartford.
159 pounds: George Ashe, Canada; Paul Torzo, Hartford.
155 pounds: Bill Torpin, Canada; Joe Howard, Hartford.
160 pounds: Sam Holsath, Canada; Jack Kelly, Waterbury.

Inter-City Bouts
135 pounds: Johnny Clinch, New Britain; Leo Lariviere, Waterbury.
115 pounds: Del Poulet, New Britain; Adolph D'Ontrio, Hartford.
112 pounds: Joe Nody, Hartford; Herman Fink, Hartford.
The first bout is slated for 8:15, daylight time.

The coming visit of the Canadians has made a great stir in local amateur boxing circles and it is expected that 7500 will see the international scraps tonight.

Ernie Metevier, manager and trainer of the Canadian team, has sent this wire to the Massachusetts club:

"You can tell Connecticut amateur fans we are bringing a real boxing team, in good shape and trained to the minute. Ready to make a clean sweep of your boys."

DIAMOND RING OFFERED AT THE COUNTRY STORE

State to Give Away Jewel Thursday Evening; Bebe Daniels Here Tonight and Tomorrow.

Somebody will thank his or her lucky stars for coming to the State theater on Thursday evening when the Country Store opens for another night. A beautiful diamond ring is the principal present which will be given away and those who want to see it may do so in the window of Smith's Jewelry store in the theater building.

Lou Tellegen and Virginia Valli have the leading parts in "Stage Madness," the feature and Miss Valli has not only one role but three. She plays the part of Marchia Ferrand, Madame Lamphier, and Mrs. Andrew Marlowe, three widely different characters.

Carmenalt, cast as the artist-husband, is said to do some magnificent work. Lou Tellegen, as the heavy, is suave and graceful, displaying the sure touch of the artist which has won for him the appellation of "the most magnetic figure in the motion picture industry."

Others in the cast are Richard Walling and Virginia Bradford, two of the most appealing young featured players in the film colony. Comedy situations are furnished by Tyler Brooke, who won national acclaim as a result of his work in "No, No, Nanette" and other legitimate stage successes.

The adaptation is by Randall H. Faye.

Bebe Daniels has raised her ever mounting standard of excellence opened at the State theater yesterday. "No, No, Nanette" which is the best thing that the fascinating Bebe has ever done.

That's making a pretty sweeping statement, but it is true. In "Senorita" Bebe has the best vehicle that she has had in years. The story was made for her and affords her opportunities that outdo any Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, to backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning perfectly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

The high school lineup will be Tommy Kelly, p; Wilfred Clarke, c; Principal Quimby, 1b; Chester Robinson, 2b; "Fete" Wigner, ss; Warren Humes, 3b; Ralph Proctor, lf; A. N. Potter, cf; Phil Emery, rf. SKETCHES BY BESSET
SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (5) The Sun

We can gain some idea of the tremendous size of the sun from the fact that if that great solar body were cut up into 1,000,000 equal pieces, each part would be larger than the earth. The illustration here shows an eclipse, the moon shutting off the light of the sun and casting a shadow on the earth.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

PAUL ADAMS
N.E.A. Service

A cabaret scene in Montmartre, the prices in some of these are lower than in the great America night club.

This is Chapter 56 in a series of articles written by a former doughboy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LVI.

As a matter of information, which might be remembered to the distinct advantage of any member of The American Legion who anticipates a sojourn in Paris in September, the recent experiences of two Americans are herewith submitted.

One went with a party of friends to see the night life of Paris. He summoned a taxi for his "gang" and selected Table No. 40 in the "Palermo," a smart and well-lighted spot. There was an orchestra, dancing, a Spanish lady who entertained with castanets and strange passes with a red shawl, and whatnot. The "whatnot," translated, was champagne. There were six bottles in all—at 150 francs the bottle. That's 1140 francs. A 25 per cent government tax was added—300 francs—and a 10 per cent tax for service—115 francs. Total—1555 francs.

Beaucoup Francs In addition there was the hat-check girl, the acrobat and the boy who opened the taxi—40 francs more—making 1595 francs, or approximately $64.00 in gold hard American dinero, as the Spanish dancer would have put it.

A former soldier of the A. E. F. decided to go back to Toul to refresh a few war-time memories. He allez-gazamboed around the quaint, walled city during the afternoon and then went to the Hotel de la Gare. He had a dinner consisting of soup, fish, beef steak, salad, cheese, dessert and coffee. There was no orchestra. Later on he went to bed in a clean chamber with a high bed and hot and cold water. Awakened by a ring on the telephone the next morning he dropped down a breakfast of two eggs, bread and butter, and coffee.

Toul isn't Paris Furthermore—with his dinner the night before—he consumed an excellent bottle of wine. Then he requested "addition"—which is the "note"—or, plainly speaking, the bill of particulars. The proprietor set down all the figures, reckoned 10 per cent for service, and made the grand presentation.

The total was 45 francs—$1.70 in the same brisk cash used in the Palermo. Of course, Toul isn't Paris. Mais Non! Not by several decanters and a jugful, but—

There's also quite a difference between 1595 francs—and 45 francs.

AD MEN WILL HOLD LONDON CONVENTION; 100 U. S. DELEGATES

London—More than 100 of America's leading publicity men and representatives of advertising from all parts of Europe are expected to visit London for the great advertising convention in July.

They will discuss problems of advertising in every form. They will be addressed by several members of the Government including Winston Churchill.

One session will be devoted entirely to the interests of women. During the convention, Olympia, where the proceedings will take place, will be transformed into an advertising city on which over a million and a quarter dollars will be spent.

It will have streets of all-white stands, ideal homes, and modern shops and it will be illuminated at night in many colors.

Dominating the city will be a "Palace of Beauty" with oriental arches and massive columns where, beneath a green dome, groups of lovely women will appear in a succession of characters illustrative of the modern woman's quest of luxury and beauty.

The poster artists are to have an "Academy" of their own with a boarding 750 feet long on which the best designs will be exhibited. Another feature will be the "Ideal Home" as the advertisers see it—a house in which "every brick and every stick" is advertised.

A ball has been arranged for the opening night and banquets on nights afterwards.

Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to the little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, to be the young friend of VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARRBERTY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

CHAPTER XV

VILAK stood silently looking on, half amused, half thoughtful. Elise turned to him, still holding the baby. "You're a dear," she murmured. "I thought it before, but I didn't know it before today. I take back everything that I said about you. I was a pig. And when I cried and completely lost control of myself you said nothing, made none of the caustic, sarcastic remarks that you might have made, but instead set about finding Tinky. . . . And found him. It's a long time since I broke down the way I did this afternoon. But Tinky has become a part of me somehow." She leaned over and kissed Vilak impulsively.

He bowed. "You honor me, senhorita. You do to me great honor."

gallop. Many ride past this place. Is it not so? "The horses stop for a moment, then they gallop on again. And then we hear other horses gallop. But this also is nothing. This also we hear each hour. But soon also we hear something which is not nothing, something which we work in the wild places hear never in our wanderings, the weeping of a child. An Indian baby, I think, deserted by its mother. I go to the bushes to see. And there in the weeds I find it, a white baby I am astonished. A beautiful baby, senhorita, a beautiful baby. He took one of Vilak's cigars. "I know at once when I look that it has not been deserted. It is lost or perhaps it is stolen. I am a stranger here. Also are my men strangers. I ask of one who passes on the road if he has ever before beheld the baby, if he perhaps knows the mother. 'Ah yes!' says he at once. 'Who in Porto Verde does not know? It is the nephew of the Senhorita Marberry.' "At once I send a man to ride swift to your fazenda, for I know how great must be your agony. He returns. You are gone, he says, where your servants know not. But I know. You have gone to look for

"D'Albentara. Carlos D'Albentara," the other responded graciously. Elise stepped forward and heartily shook his hand. "I shall never forget what you've done for me. If there's ever anything that I can do or anything that my fazenda has which might help you I'll feel very much hurt if you don't ask for it. I hope you'll come out and call on me." He bowed. "You honor me, senhorita. You do to me great honor." She glanced at the men shoveling gravel at the river's edge. "Do you think there is going to be a flood? The river seems to be getting higher all the time and I'm beginning to be worried about my property over at Villapa, about fifteen or twenty miles from here. It's always the first to get the water. I've got a good man over there, a chap named Wilson, who is very good, but he's been quite ill lately with fever and I hate to have him be compelled to do all the fearful work of an emergency such as a flood." D'Albentara looked surprised. "Wilson, you say this is his name? Could it be perhaps that I know him? A little man, black hair, and large feet, who has once worked on this railroad as an engineer?" "No. It's a different man altogether. The one that works for me is a blond and I brought him direct from the States. . . . Do you think we'll have the flood?" "That I wish I knew, senhorita. No one can say and perhaps afterward not be called a teller of falsehoods. But to me the river seems rising, always. And if it rises there cannot but be a flood." The stunted Indian of the enormous nose who had brought them from the road came forward and, grunting a few guttural sentences to him, pointed off to a group of laborers sawing some trees. He turned to the visitors. "I must go back to my men, amigos," he murmured. "It is to me a great pleasure to have made your friendship. A great pleasure. Goodby, senhorita, senhor."

"Don't forget to come to see me. Soon," Elise called out blithely as they climbed to the road again. She jumped into her saddle, then took the baby which Vilak gently lifted to her. "Life's a queer thing," she said as the horses paced slowly toward the fazenda, and she leaned down and kissed the child again. "At two o'clock I am heartbroken, at five I am simply bubbling over with joy. Simply because this little bit of humanity which I know I call Tinky is with me. Oh, I know I make a fool of myself over him," she added with a half apologetic glance at Vilak. "But I do love him. Whatever my sardonic cousin pretends to think about the folly of human emotions in general, and the emotion of affection in particular. Some people can go through life with a poker face and a poker face disposition. I can't." Vilak untied a knot in his horse's bridle. "A poker face in my profession is at times a necessity. I thoroughly approve of love. . . . applied to. . . . Tinky." He watched her thoughtfully as her delicate hand caressed the child. "I'm sorry. I've got bad news for you." (To Be Continued)

Vilak gets himself a ring—in a very curious fashion, for it is a very curious ring.

ETHEL Then and Now

The WOMAN'S DAY

I told you a day or so ago of the golf club for women only organized for Chicago specimens of femininity. I reprinted an irate letter concerning the habits of males on golf courses, thereby making a "for women only" course necessary, written by a fair member of the new club. Now she gets this turled right back at her from one of those despised men:

Her Say-So: Here's a woman, for instance, who said a mouthful and said it well right in public. She is a Mrs. C. T. Goodale, club woman of Kansas City, who declares that the trouble with the world is that too many dumbbells have been the mothers of the race, since men prefer their women dumb and dumber. There seems to be a fairly widespread belief that men pick only dumb bellies to wife, so that their own brilliancy may shine the brighter. One sometimes wonders, though, if Dame Nature may not know what she's up to or she wouldn't so inspire them. Perhaps all is not dumb that appears so.

Once On a Time I once knew a minister of the highest caliber, who came to a small rural community. He decided to "go slow" at first, "get next" his parishioners, enter into their life to the fullest and when really entrenched in their midst, start a few reforms. As part of his job in "getting next" he went to a "social" featured by "kissing games." Instead of expostulating at such crude pastimes, the minister kissed when it came his turn. Time for uplift later. But there wasn't time. He was "put out" of the church while the town butcher and baker and candlestick maker who also kissed are still pillars of the community.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Beauty—luxury—comfort are all will enable any one to grow gladioli successfully. * The Massachusetts Association for Educational Methods has been recognized by the state department of Education in the Bay State, and of its organizer, Miss Della O'Connor of Worcester, it is said that she has done more to advance the cause of education than any other woman teacher in Massachusetts. She has made a deep study for years of the individual needs of the children that have come under her observation and has worked with her pupils, showing them how to study. A surprisingly large number of children need to be taught the best methods of concentrating and applying the knowledge set forth in the various textbooks. There are many publications on this subject of "How to Study" including a book by Professor McMurray of Columbia University. Through the association, which is open to teachers everywhere, Miss O'Connor's principles and practices are being widely disseminated to the advantage of pupils in the grammar and higher grades.

The hats of this summer have one outstanding advantage, they will stand hard treatment. Most of them are fashioned of pliable straws so that they will stand packing well. Trimmings are very smart. One hat had a couple of little belts with buckles for its sole trimming.

A New York woman, Mrs. J. Lester Lewine, lecturer and clubwoman has come out flat-footedly to advocate leaving flapping to flappers and to urge middle-aged appearance and behavior for women who are no longer young. Mrs. Lewine is the wife of a professional man, mother of a daughter who studies art and a son at Yale and life holds for her fully as much interest as in the thrilling days of youth. To quote her own words: "What the world needs is an army of women who are brave enough to face life squarely and find the richness, beauty, graciousness and dignity that added years of experience give. They could put middle age on the map again. They could make 50 something be looked forward to. They could bring grace and order to a youth-mad age and restore a reign of sense."

In Hollywood blondes interpret the black-white mode by a preference for white, brunettes by a preference for black. Joan Crawford's dark beauty was emphasized by a stunning black evening gown in which she appeared recently, while Claire Windsor's fair type of beauty was enhanced by a cobweb with white lace frock with novel accessories.

Stylists predict a summer of lace. Instead of "lavender and old lace" it will be new lace and all kinds and colors of lace on everything. It may be that the swing back to the more feminine mode has created the demand for lace, but I rather suspect it is the beauty of the new laces that make them irresistible. As to uses, they appear as yokes, or tiers, insets, Eton jackets and even two-piece costumes of lace. Black lace with white chiffon or georgette is very popular, but never still is the idea of using sheer lace to shadow a chiffon print, which gives an ombre effect. It is much employed as a trimming for dressy summer hats.

Stuffed Tomato Salad 6 tomatoes 1 cup chopped chicken or veal. 1-3 cup chopped celery. 1 tsp. chopped pepper. 1-3 cup chopped nuts. Select bright, red, well-shaped tomatoes. Remove skin, cut a slice from the top of each and slightly scoop out the tomato. Combine tomato that has been removed with the chicken, celery, pepper, nuts and dressing and pile high in the hollow tomato. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and place a spoonful of Creamy Salad Dressing on top. Sprinkle with paprika or garnish with a slice of onion cut thin as paper. Yield: 6 servings.

To the cry of the modish man for brighter bee-vee-dees the manufacturers and haberdashers have responded with a stock of summer underwear that will dazzle the eye—apricot, green, mauve, pink, blue, grape, lemon and even scarlet are some of the hues we may see flapping off the clothes lines in the near future, the cut will help us to distinguish them from the feminine wearables.

Steamed Cherry Pudding One egg, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 cup white flour, 1-2 cups graham flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup hot water, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups stoned cherries. Beat egg well. Beat in sugar, molasses and butter using egg beater. Mix white flour, graham flour and salt and stir into first mixture. Dissolve soda in hot water and add at once to batter. Beat hard and stir in cherries. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two hours. Serve with sugar and cream.

Good Nature and Good Health WHAT YOUR BLOOD PRESSURE SHOULD REGISTER By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. Since the development of the technical device that measures accurately the blood pressure of man, physicians have given increasing attention to departures from the normal of these measurements. It must be understood that high blood pressure and low blood pressure are not in themselves diseases; they may, however, be manifestations of disturbances of the body tissues. Dr. Alfred Friedlander, of the University of Cincinnati, recently has made available a complete resume of our present knowledge of blood pressure at various ages and of the factors responsible for departures from the normal. Blood pressure is usually lower in children than in adults; thus at the age of three to ten it will average 90 to 100; between the ages of seven to fourteen, approximately 98. British investigators find that the blood pressure rises gradually with age, being 85 at 15 years of age, and approximately 115 at fourteen years of age. American children will vary from 92 to 85 at five years of age, and from 106 to 110 at fourteen years of age. The blood pressure of young men is approximately 120. Forty-five per cent of men examined in the University of California had pressures of 130; 22 per cent, 140 mm. Eighty per cent of 1,000 Danish soldiers from the age of 20 to 25 were found to have blood pressures varying from 110 to 130. Most of the insurance experts in the United States were inclined to believe that low blood pressure, particularly in persons after fifty years of age, tended to longevity. About 3 per cent of men have blood pressure under what is supposed to be normal. The evidence altogether indicates that there is a slow but steady rise of blood pressure from childhood onward, with a slight lowering of pressure in the early years of adult life. The blood pressure remains stationary until after the age of 40 in most instances, at which time there may be a gradual rise. Great variations of pressure are found in various large groups of persons, and most physicians believe that heredity, which produces different types of blood vessel systems, is largely responsible for this factor. About three per cent of normal, healthy white persons have a blood pressure of 110 or less. Chinese and Filipinos in even larger numbers have low blood pressure.

Home Page Editorials CONSIDER THE DOOR-TO-DOOR AGENT By Olive Roberts Barton

After all, we are all selling something. We're selling our sewing, or our bookkeeping, or our teaching, or our doctoring, or our cooking. It's a world of buying and selling. The door agent has a right to try to make a living. He asks very little of you, time, all told, and after all he asks only for your good doesn't mind making his speech for nothing. Refuse him if you like, that is your affair, but don't turn your apology into unkindly anger. One can say "no" kindly as well as brutally. And do you know, quite often I have found that the unwelcome salesman really did have something I wanted and needed and could not have found at a store. It is not well to get the notion that they are imposters.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

A bob-tall bull in fly time has no worse time than a bald headed man in the same time.

Figures in bathing suits don't lie.

June I know a little maiden Who wears a hat of green, All trimmed with red, red roses And a blackbird on the brim.

She ties it down with ribbons Under her dimpled chin, For oftentimes it's breezy When she comes tripping in.

Her name the roses tell you It is the blackbird's tune; This smiling little maiden Is just our own dear June.

An engineer surveying the right-of-way for the proposed railroad was talking to a farmer. "Yes," he said, "the line will run right through your barnyard."

All polecats do not send their four odor through the air. Some of them send it through the mail in the form of insulting anonymous letters.

"The Harmon's were a family of policemen—even the police dog had flat feet."

They call him Bill. Because he arrived on the first of the month.

Success is a Matter of Men and Methods—Not of Time and Territory.

Wilbur-Maybelle and I played a game of cards with the understanding that she was to kiss me if she lost. I caught her cheating five times.

A man who does all his wife plans for him during his vacation won't have any.

Life is a winding path that leads straight to death.

Imagination makes liars of all men.

"I must do something to reduce my overhead expense," said a Manchester man as he paid for his wife's new fall hat.

Some words on the end of your tongue should be allowed to remain there.

I kissed her and she sighed. Down where the lilacs fell, "That was the first," she cried "I think she lilacs heck!"

A shady creek, a baited hook, a lighted pipe—And there are other dreams that sometimes come to the man who has to work for a living.

Patient—Do you think I'll get well, doctor?

Doctor—You have every chance. Nine out of every ten cases of this kind die. You're my tenth case. I've had nine others, and they all died.

NOW YOU Ask One TEN ABOUT THE FLAG

Today being Flag Day, all the questions are about the history of American flags. Answers to all the questions will be found on another page.

1—In what battle did the Stars and Stripes get its baptism of fire?

2—Under what flag was the Declaration of Independence signed in Independence Hall, Philadelphia?

3—How are the stars arranged in the American flag today?

4—Are the stars five-pointed or six-pointed?

5—What is the president's flag?

6—How were the thirteen stars arranged in the original Betsy Ross flag?

7—How many stars were there in the flag at the time of the Civil War?

8—What is the American Jack?

9—Did the flag ever have more than thirteen stripes?

10—What was the official flag of the Continental Congress, flown before the adoption of the Stars and Stripes?

King Roar had spread the news round that Scouty sure was safe and sound, and when the Tintles went to bed they all seemed satisfied. But, in the middle of the night, wee Coppy woke, as if in fright. He couldn't go to sleep again, no matter how he tried.

soon be dawn. "I guess I'll wait till then," said he, "for Scouty may appear. If he comes up I know he'll call, and try to signal to us all. The others will be fast asleep, so I had best stay here."
