

FISHING STILL CHIEF PURSUIT OF PRESIDENT

Was Along Streams This Morning, Saw Reporters and After Lunch- eon Started to Fish Again.

Rapid City, S. D., June 17.—It was a case of the mountain coming to Mahomet today—if the newspapermen covering President Coolidge in his Black Hills summer White House may be called prophets.

Reversing the original order wherein the press representatives motor 32 miles from Rapid City to the state game lodge to cover the President's vacation activities and then motor 32 miles back to file the story, Mr. Coolidge agreed to come to the temporary executive offices at Rapid City this morning and submit himself to an interview, subject to the usual restrictions.

Headquarters in School

Today's press conference will be held in the Rapid City High school in a room circled with blackboards—the executive's office during the summer, adjoining class rooms house Secretary Everett Sanders, Private Secretary Edward T. Clark, Doorkeeper Pat McKenna and the stenographers, clerks and messengers who were brought from Washington that the official business of the White House might progress as usual.

Fishing Will Suffer

Meanwhile, the presidential fishing will suffer until after lunch, to be served at the state game lodge at one o'clock. The lunch was to have been subordinated to a two o'clock press conference—mountain time—but Mrs. Coolidge put her foot down on this disruption of game lodge routine.

Fishing has held over from Paul Smith's, N. Y., as a Coolidge obsession. Yesterday, the President started his piscatorial efforts at eight a. m., and following an interruption occasioned by an engagement with the movie men and inspection trip to his Rapid City office, he returned to sink a worm and hook into the rushing shallow waters of Squaw Creek until dawn.

MILLION DOLLAR ARMORY IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Barred Windows Handicapped the Firemen in Big Jersey City Blaze.

Jersey City, N. J., June 17.—Fire broke out early today in the Fourth Regiment armory and within a short time the entire interior of the building was a mass of flames. There was no one in the armory at the time.

Three alarms were turned in, but the firemen had difficulty in fighting the blaze owing to the fact there were but few windows and these were heavily barred.

Lines of hose were carried to the roof and turned upon the blaze through the skylight.

The building was gutted before the firemen got the fire under control. The damage is estimated at about $1,000,000.

During the inflammation there was a continuous series of explosions as small arm ammunition stored within the building was set off.

SHORTAGE OF $35,000 IN COLLECTOR'S BOOKS

Accountants at Work in Green- wich—Official Bonded So That City Will Not Lose.

Greenwich, Conn., June 17.—An apparent shortage of $35,000, exists in the tax collector accounts for the years 1914-25, according to an official statement issued here today by Wilbur Wright, corporation counsel, who declared that the official who was in office in that period has a bond sufficiently large to cover any shortage that may really exist. A New York accounting firm is still at work on the books of the tax office, and the ultimate shortage will not be determined for some time.

Robert M. Wilcox, present tax collector, sent out 7,000 letters when the board of estimate and taxation asked him to conduct a campaign for payment of back taxes, and so discovered the shortage.

THROW OUT TROTSKY

Moscow, June 17.—The Ukrainian Communist party, with 3,500 delegates present, today voted in favor of the expulsion of Trotsky and Zinoviev from the Central committee of the party.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, June 17.—Treasury balance, June 15: $78,414,053.29.

KILLS BROOKLYN MAN ON A BUSY STREET.

New York, June 17.—A man believed to be Antonio Diola was murdered today on a fairly busy Brooklyn street by an unknown assailant who almost decapitated his victim with a large knife. Several women, who witnessed the murder, fainted. The murderer accosted his victim and after a few angry words between them the assailant drew a giant knife from under his coat and made his attack. His victim died a few minutes later on the way to the hospital. The murderer escaped.

NORTH END VOTES SCHOOL SPRINKLERS

Four Mill Tax Rate Stands; Officers Re-Elected, No Opposition.

The Eighth Annual and Utilities district in annual meeting last night voted to spend $10,000 to install sprinklers for fire protection in the old buildings which house the school children at the north end of Manchester. A move on the part of W. W. Robertson to increase the tax rate from four mills to five mills on the dollar was voted down. I. P. Campbell and George H. Williams led the fight for the lower rate saying that the district should be able to get along with the revenue from four mills.

The reports of all the officers were read and accepted and all the officers were re-elected without contest. There were few moments of excitement for the 89 voters who were present. All the motions were made by W. W. Robertson, fifteen of them in all, and most of them were seconded by James W. Foley who sat beside Mr. Robertson.

Near Fireworks

The nearest to a display of oral fireworks came at the end of the meeting when Dr. F. A. Sweet, president of the district, asked the voters for an opinion on whether the tax collector should charge interest. He said it hadn't been done in years gone by in some cases of delinquency. Thomas Ferguson, former tax collector, told Dr. Sweet that he used discretion and good judgment in collecting interest. He brought out the fact that most of the taxes were collected on time, and the delinquent amounts were so small that the interest was negligible. Mr. Ferguson also disclosed the fact that he often paid the tax for persons who at the time were in financial straits, and collected from them later. Dr. Sweet's inquiries were met with boos and the motion to adjourn was put, seconded and carried while the district's president was trying to talk.

Reports of Officers

Wells A. Strickland was moderator of the meeting in the absence of Judge William S. Hyde who has been moderator for many years. The reports of all officers were read and accepted without comment except when Collector Mark Holmes explained the reason for not collecting.

"GORILLA" SLAYER CAUGHT IN CANADA

Police Positive They Have Man Who Strangled 22 Women to Death.

Winnipeg, Man., June 17.—Chief of Detectives George Smith and Inspector Philip Stack stated positively today that the man arrested at Killarney yesterday and brought to Winnipeg by special train is the man they want for murdering two women here in Winnipeg.

They state further that from information supplied them by United States detectives here, they are positive their prisoner is the "gorilla" wanted for at least twenty similar killings in the United States.

Tells Different Stories

Earle Nelson, as he was registered at central police station, says he was born at San Francisco. Earlier in the day he said he came originally from Lancaster, England, and never had been in the United States. Virgil Wilson was the name given a few hours earlier.

Nelson alias Wilson was apprehended Wednesday night at Killarney.

Identification was made by W. E. Chandler, who recently reached Winnipeg after a motor trip from Detroit. Chandler said that on June 8 he had picked up the man five miles north of Warren, Minn., and brought him to Winnipeg. Other identification as to teeth marks on victims in the United States are said to be beyond refutation.

BACK TO THE STARTING POINT

"We"—otherwise Lindy and his Ryan monoplane—return for the first time to the starting point of their epochal flight across the seas. Lindy suspended gadding about New York long enough to hop to Washington in an army plane and fly his machine back to Mitchell Field, Long Island, adjoining Roosevelt Field, from which he took off for Paris. Mitchell Field mechanics are seen here running to help him taxi into a hangar.

I. N. S. Reporters Wrote 150,000 Words about Slim

New York, June 17.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh carries back to St. Louis today a volume containing 150,000 words in dispatches by International News Service concerning his flight.

M. Koenigsberg, president of International News Service, presented the handsomely bound record of Lindbergh's exploit to him at Lindbergh's apartment last evening.

"This volume is a tribute to you, sir, to your character, your fine American manhood, your peerless courage and unequalled skill," said Mr. Koenigsberg.

I. N. S. Everywhere

"From the day you prepared in San Diego to hop off for New York until the sun set last Monday upon New York's greatest day of celebration—everywhere you went were I. N. S. men.

"They watched you narrowly, with cold, disillusioned eyes, used to finding cracks in public idols. They looked for flaws in you. To their amazement they found none. They all love you.

"They wrote of you with freedom from reservation that I have not seen equalled in my time and that is a tribute you may prize as coming from the hard-boiled whose very business it is to be accurate and analytical."

Reporters Hard Boiled

Lindbergh replied: "Reporters are hard-boiled all right."

He added quickly: "But they certainly have cooperated with me. I guess they are only hard-boiled on the surface."

Mr. Koenigsberg told Lindbergh that no single individual ever caused so many words to be sent over press association wires within so short a space of time—a record that perhaps Lindbergh did not know he held. He told the famous flyer the volume was presented "out of gratitude to the maker of the perfect news story.

The volume contains an exact reproduction of the dispatches carried over International News Service wires from the day Lindbergh hopped off from San Diego until his triumphant return to New York. It is entitled "The Saga of Colonel Lindbergh."

GAME PLENTIFUL IN CONNECTICUT

In 1925, 150,000 Fur-Bearing Animals Were Killed By Hunters of State.

Hartford, Conn., June 17.—An amazing amount of game is taken out of Connecticut woods and fields in a hunting season and, even if the yield does include skunks and things, it is surprising, say outsiders considering the limited hunting areas and the preponderant urban population of the state. Statistics of the state fish and game department, just put together for the public use, show interesting facts.

Some Figures

For instance, during the hunting and trapping season of 1925, approximately 150,000 fur-bearing animals were killed. Actual reports from 23,859 of the 30,000 licensed hunters in the state gave a total of 124,177 animals slain in the period. This was 25,000 more than the slaughter in the 1924 season. Reports from hunters are voluntary but delayed and it is long after the end of any season that the final check-up begins, as a rule.

No Bears

No bears were slain in the state, according to these reports from hunters, nor were any of the larger catamounts, so it seems that these animals have deserted the state. Deer, being protected by law, were not reported by any hunter as having been killed. The bags include fox, rabbit, mink, skunk, and the city favorite squirrel, which in many places can be caught by the human hand.

Rabbits Plentiful

Under the reports it seems that rabbits paid the heaviest penalties despite the fact that the open season on these creatures is very short. In a mere thirty-eight days there were 50,650 rabbits slain by hunters. Forty days of killing squirrels showed a bag of 36,926. Muskrat trappers picked up 16,447 pelts, and those who make skunk catching a specialty brought in 11,900 in 115 days.

Other catches were 454 hares, 3,044 foxes, 2,505 raccoons, 1,394 mink, 12 otter, 273 lynx and 563 weasels.

New Haven county with about a half-million population proved to be a very good hunting area. More rabbits and squirrels were killed there than elsewhere and the totals of other animals trapped and killed were large. Litchfield county supplied the largest number of hares, raccoons and mink. Middlesex had the lynx, 102 being killed in that county, while New London led with the number of skunks and weasels taken. Hartford county had five of the twelve otter that were taken and it has 3,607 muskrats to bag, the most of any county.

Old Whaler Tells a Story of Old Times.

Born and brought up beside the sea, it was natural for him to be a sailor. He tried to break away but the sea kept calling him. He answered the call and spent 12 years on the water in whaling vessels out of New Bedford.

He was one of the crew of the first steam whalers that ever sailed the seas.

POWER HOUSE THE SOURCE OF SIGNAL LIGHT

Searchers Give Up Hope That French Flyers Are Still Alive In the Canadian Wilderness.

Quebec, Que., June 17.—A belief that the signal flares reported to have been seen in the wild region north of Saguenay river recently may have been fired by the missing French trans-Atlantic flyers, Nungesser and Goll, was virtually abandoned today. It is now generally acknowledged here that the lights seen were from the power house at Chute Aux Galets.

Hope has not been abandoned, however, that the missing aviators may still be somewhere in the almost uncharted region. Some importance was attached today to the story related by George Rousseau, a trapper, who told of hearing an airplane near St. Marguerite river, on May ninth.

Dense Woods

Rousseau said the region there is so densely wooded that it would be doubtful if a searching airplane could locate the airman if they were there. He said the streams there are so full of fish at this season that the men could easily subsist for three months.

A hydroplane which passed over this city this morning was believed to be the machine sent by the provincial government to search the north district.

FLASHES REPORTED

Quebec, Que., June 17.—The mystery of the supposed flare signals reported to have been seen near St. Germaine today in the mountainous wilderness north of the Saguenay river was still unsolved today, but hope that they might have come from the missing French aviators—Charles Nungesser and Francois Coll—has almost been abandoned.

Flashes were reported Sunday night, Tuesday night, Wednesday night and again last night.

Hope Not Abandoned

Doubt is now expressed by supporters of the early theory that Nungesser and Coll were stranded in the northern part of Quebec province. However, hope has not been abandoned entirely that the men may be found alive in the wilderness.

Word was received from Chicoutimi that flashes had been seen last night about nine o'clock in the same district where the earlier "signals" were reported.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY IN DIPLOMATIC TANGLE

Moscow Peevish Over Warning Given By German Envoy; May Break Relations.

Berlin, June 17.—Russia and Germany threaten to become involved in diplomatic difficulties. Russia, it is reported, is preparing to make representations to Germany against the statement issued by the German government yesterday, announcing that German statesman had warned Russia against hasty action in the Polish conflict and had warned also against the Russian executions.

Russian spokesmen here now deny that the German statesman gave any such warning to M. Tchitcherin, Russian foreign minister. They state that the Russians first learned of the supposed warning through newspaper publication of the statements emanating from government sources.

It is charged by the Russians that the German government issued the statement to the press to satisfy Sir Austen Chamberlain, who had insisted that such warnings be voiced by Germany.

WAR TALK IS HEARD THROUGHOUT RUSSIA

Intense indignation because Man That Killed Soviet Envoy Was Not Executed.

Moscow, June 17.—Intense indignation, mixed with war talk, was expressed throughout Moscow today over the news from Warsaw that the extraordinary court had imposed a life sentence upon Boris Kowarda, assassin of Soviet Minister Volkoff, instead of ordering his execution.

The nature of the punishment has intensified the strained relations existing between Soviet Russia and Poland.

The Soviet foreign office is expected to await the Polish reply to the second note of Acting Foreign Commissar Litvinov before registering a bitter protest. It is felt that consequences of a serious nature may arise from the exchanges between Moscow and Warsaw over the sentence.

TO PICK COSGRAVE TO RUN FREE STATE

No Party Has Clear Majority and It Is Feared That Trouble Is Result.

Dublin, June 17.—President Cosgrave will be re-elected by the Dail next Thursday, despite his reported statement that lacking a majority he does not intend to accept to general opinion here.

The president is reported to have declared that he will let the majority parties in the Dail take the responsibility of forming a government. No single party has a clear majority and if the president carries out his reported threat political chaos may be expected.

It is possible that Cosgrave may permit the other parties to attempt a coalition and since there is no chance of such a coalition, the other parties may be forced to appeal to the government party to form a government.

LINDY LEAVES N. Y.; ST. LOUIS IN FRENZY WAITS HIS COMING

Population In Streets Watching Bulletins Telling of His Progress In Flight—Flying With An Escort of Army Planes Which Met Him In Ohio—Expected to Land Late This Afternoon—Last Part of Trip Being Made In Rain.

St. Louis, June 17.—The Lindbergh frenzy today had thrown St. Louis in civic hysteria.

"Slim" is coming home. Nothing else matters. The city has locked its collective rollopp desk and let itself run wild in an orgy of adulation.

Flight bulletins have usurped the place of the stock market tickers as St. Louis tensely follows the progress of his flight from the east.

Expected This Afternoon

The civic enthusiasm which followed the winning of the world's baseball championship last year threatens to become a mere ripple of excitement in comparison with the crushing wave of emotionalism which will strike the city about 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, when the "Ace of the Atlantic" will wing his way over the Mississippi river and glide down over his adopted city.

In Gala Dress

Never has the city been in such a gala dress. Men in tuxedos and women in evening gowns and pictures of "Lindy" and tiny replicas of "The Spirit of St. Louis," hang in every street.

Theaters and cabarets have their special Lindbergh song numbers prepared and ready. Lindbergh placards, buttons, posters, stickers, dolls, hats, shoes and cravats fill the hop windows and flood the streets. New York, it seems, gave this city a few ideas on the commercial importance of such occasions.

ON THE WAY

With Lindbergh's "Ace of the Spirit of St. Louis," June 17.—Lindy has resumed aviation in the United States. The war birds of America—those men who will fight the next war in the skies—paid this tribute today to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, in recognition of his heroic conquest of the trans-Atlantic ether.

While awaiting a rendezvous with Lindbergh in the skies above Dayton, Ohio, the cream of America's army birdmen declared Lindbergh had awakened the conscience of the American people to the necessity for prompt development of both commercial and military aviation.

Birdmen Speak

The army pilots who flew from Washington to New York with Lindbergh and who were to accompany him from Dayton to St. Louis, came of a single voice when it came to speaking of Lindy's feat. He put on one fine show, said one bronzed warrior of the skies and his comrades gathered around a mess table earlier than the "sure did."

To the army birdmen Lindbergh's feat came at a most opportune moment.

America first developed aviation they said and then allowed most of the great nations of the world to come along and surpass it in air strength. It was Lindy they added, whose feat awakened the people to the necessity for a revival of aeronautics in America and the revival already has gotten under way.

Gave Aviation Boost

"Lindy has given aviation a boost all over the country," observed Lieut. E. "Tiny" Harmon, who flew with the colonel in army air training camps.

"The biggest kick army pilots get out of his feat is the fact that he left New York knowing that if he would get across the ocean he would land in Paris after dark on a perfectly strange day."

"Knowing the danger of such an effort aside from getting over the ocean he just went ahead and did it. That's what gets the pilots. He's helped aviation everywhere. I know two boys who bought a commercial plane the day before Lindy landed in Paris. They paid for it out of their receipts in three days. It's the same now with all commercial aviation. Lindy has rescued it."

Surgeon's Views

The same sentiment was expressed by Captain Andrew W. Smith, the oldest flying pilot surgeon in the army.

"We give him all the credit in the world," said Captain Smith. "Lindy's flight was the biggest boost ever given aviation in this country."

The army's air escort for Lindbergh concentrated at Dayton was composed of 21 fast pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Michigan, six observation planes from Bolling Field, Washington, and a half dozen planes from Wright Field, Dayton. The army flyers had a rendezvous with Lindbergh in the skies above Dayton for one o'clock, after which they planned to escort him into St. Louis. On his flight from New York to Dayton, Lindy was expected to pass over Pittsburgh and Columbus, Ohio. From Dayton to St. Louis the army men planned

DRIVER RESPONSIBLE

Middletown, Conn., June 17.—Coroner L. A. Smith today issued a finding in which he holds Joseph Zaromba, of Deep River, primarily responsible for the death of Victor Glove, of Moodus. Zaromba is accused of having been drunk when he drove a car that on June 5 ran down and fatally hurt Glove. Zaromba is under bail of $1,500 for trial in the Superior Court.

PAUSES AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, Ohio, June 17.—Colonel Lindbergh flew over Norton Field at 12:15 p. m. today, and continued his journey to St. Louis by way of Dayton after a brief stay here. He will pick up an escort of 29 Army pursuit and transport ships at Dayton.

Passing the field and reaching the city proper, Lindbergh left his route long enough to descend and execute a series of "stunts" for the edification of thousands of persons who crowded the streets and the roof windows of downtown buildings.

Piloting the "Spirit of St. Louis" down to within a few hundred feet above the earth, Lindbergh zoomed the silver-winged monoplane between the skyscrapers, while the crowds yelled and applauded in frenzied delight.

A dozen local ships took the air to greet him, and Lindbergh continued his journey westward to Dayton.

ALL ITALY IS EXCITED OVER PINEDO'S RETURN

As Excited as U. S. Is Over Lindbergh—Mobbed Whenever He Appears in Public.

Rome, June 17.—All Italy is as frantically enthusiastic over Commander Francesco De Pinedo as the United States is over Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

De Pinedo, who has arrived here after completing a four-continent airplane flight, is mobbed whenever he appears in public. His admirers refusing to permit him to proceed about his business as he wishes.

The government is giving a great banquet tonight in De Pinedo's honor, when it is understood he will be officially advised of his appointment as chief of staff for aviation.

The Pope will receive the flyer tomorrow and is expected to confer a high honor upon him.

United States Ambassador Fletcher today sent a message to Premier Mussolini presenting the congratulations of President Coolidge and the American people on the successful conclusion of De Pinedo's flight.

What do girls fib about the most? Not their ages, as you would think, says Fred Datig, casting director for the Paramount studios in Hollywood, who talks to more girls every day than Flo Ziegfeld.

It's weight and height the girls cheat on the most, he says. If her figure is slender, her stature several inches shorter than the leading man's, and her face photographically attractive, she can still get a job in pictures.

So when girls and fit players come to the office of Fred Datig they must submit to two very important tests. They must step on the scales and be weighed. They must stand erect in stockings feet while the measuring stick is adjusted to the top of their heads.

"Women players are more careless about correctly stating their height and weight than they are about their age," Datig declares.

"I, as a casting director, have lots of times given up expecting a truthful answer to the question, 'How old are you?' It is a feminine prerogative to take advantage of a few years."

"But when it is a question of 'How tall are you?' and 'How much do you weigh?' I must have the truth. It would be a terrible mistake to sign a girl for a part who was taller than the leading man or several pounds heavier than he."

TAX AND WOMEN BIG WORRY FOR BRITAIN'S WETS

Temperance Movement As Women Get Vote Bringing Fear To Brewers.

London—Fighting high taxation on one hand, and the agitation of temperance organizations on the other, the brewers and distillers of England feel that their lot is not always as happy as it might be—and they long for the good old days.

Admitting that their is the most maligned trade in the country, the brewers have organized what they call the London Central Board to wage a counter-attack against the prohibitionists within and outside of Parliament, and to defend the rights and privileges of themselves and of the thousands of public house keepers with whom they deal or are connected with in a business way.

Pointing out that the last national Budget showed that the revenue from the excise duties on beer, whisky and spirits amounted to £735,000,000—more than enough to support the Army, Navy and Air Force—the brewers declare that there is ample ground for describing their chief function as "tax collectors to his Majesty's government."

Worry About Taxes The tax problem probably worries them more at present than the temperance campaigns, for taxation is keep up the price of beer as well as whiskey, thereby reducing the consumption of the products upon which their profits depend. To the apparently obvious suggestion that they could reduce the price of beer, the brewers' reply is that to cut the price a cent or two on the pint would wipe out what appears to be a large annual profit, leaving nothing for the shareholders.

In view of the big deficit which the Exchequer faced this year, the brewers realized that there was no chance of getting the beer tax reduced, but they will make a fight during the coming months to bring the Government into closer sympathy with their problems. One of their leading arguments against high beer prices is expected to be that a large portion of industrial unrest is directly due to the fact that the English workman has to pay too much for his beer.

Would Lower Prices This statement was made at a meeting of the London Central Board by Major Bonsor, Master of the Brewers' Company, and will doubtless be urged upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer as an important reason why the Government should reduce the tax a few cents on the pint so that prices can come down in proportion.

The forthcoming enfranchisement of several million additional women will cause the brewers new worries, and plans are already being made to circumvent the efforts of temperance organizations to line up the new voters on the side of "local option," "state control," or other restrictions on the liquor trade. Women connected with "the trade" have been urged to direct their attentions on young women who will soon have the vote for the first time, and to work for "counteract teetotal endeavors and to efface the fables and misrepresentations of prohibition propaganda." The dividing of these new votes among the kets and dries will be watched anxiously by the brewers, for the extension of the franchise will increase the female electorate in such proportions that their votes alone, would be enough to seriously threaten the position of "the trade."

KIP IS MISSING New York, June 17.—Although Leonard Kip Rhinelanders was reported to be in Reno to divorce his wife, Judge Samuel Swinburne of New Rochelle, N. Y., attorney for Mrs. Alice Rhinelanders, declared today that agents in his employ after a two weeks' search found no trace of the wealthy husband.

Moreover, Mrs. Rhinelanders, whom Kip had attempted to divorce alleging she had negro blood in her veins, is anxious to locate her husband in order to serve papers on him in a separation suit which she has brought, charging abandonment, according to Judge Swinburne.

all the district taxes. He said the times were bad and most of the people who owed could not pay at this time. George H. Williams asked...

Mr. Holmes said he would not tell the sums owed were large or small. Mr. Williams then asked the number of taxpayers who still owed, but Mr. Holmes said he could not tell exactly.

The motion to appropriate $1,000 for playgrounds was carried. W. W. Robertson moved that the district expend a sum not to exceed $10,000 for sprinkling systems in the schools. He said that the buildings were fire-traps and that the district would save money on insurance by the installation of such systems. George H. Williams wanted the voters to go slowly in spending such a large sum. He felt to believe the time had arrived when the expenditure was necessary. He brought out the fact that the school children were well drilled and could get out of the building on very short notice. William Maguire believed in providing the safety for the children. W. W. Robertson again spoke saying that four schools in the country burn up every day. Irving P. Campbell moved a vote by ballot and the result was 38 for the sprinklers and 35 against.

Salaries the Same The present salaries of the district officers were voted again; $300 for president, $200 for treasurer and $200 for committee man. It was voted to pay one half of one per cent on the total amount collected on sewer assessments to the clerk for making collections, the total amount to be left to the discretion of the directors.

The officers who were re-elected were as follows: President, Dr. F. Sweet; clerk and treasurer, William E. Hibbard; directors, W. W. Robertson, John H. Gill; committee, A. L. Brown, F. A. Sweet, D. J. Ward; collector, Mark Holmes; auditors, Charles L. Belch, John P. Limerick; chief of fire department, Edward Coleman; first assistant chief, William Medford; second assistant chief, Harlowe Willis.

"I can't describe my feelings," said Mrs. Chamberlin. "It would be foolish to try. I am going to fly on a train or walk with Clarence anywhere he goes in Europe. He shall not get out of my sight."

"I brought Clarence's dress suit and some clothes." Then she looked at her husband's new flying clothes. "I think he needs something care of. I forgot his shoes and hats though, for I only had two hours to pack."

Henry Schoenhals of New York, an old friend of Chamberlin's, arrived in Berlin in the morning on a stowaway, with $3.17. He had gone to bid farewell to Mrs. Chamberlin and the boat left before he could get ashore. Mrs. Chamberlin paid his fare.

The two flyers and their wives arrived in Hamburg. Then they will proceed to Madgesburg and will arrive in Berlin this evening.

BIG AIR TOUR OF 40 PLANES OFF JUNE 27

Annual Trip For Ford Trophy and Prizes Will Include 22 Cities.

Detroit.—Preparations have been completed for the departure from Detroit June 27 of forty aerial voyagers on the third annual national air tour, sanctioned by the National Aeronautic association and sponsored by the Detroit board of commerce. The flyers will compete for the Edsel B. Ford trophy and some $12,000 in cash prizes.

This year's route is the most ambitious yet attempted, being half again as long as the 1926 route. Twenty-two cities will be visited as compared with fourteen stops last year, but the journey is to be completed in the same length of time, two weeks.

Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, U. S. N., has placed at the disposal of tour officials the Ford-Stout multimotor transport the navy recently purchased.

Starting Eastward The itinerary extends from Detroit eastward, via Cleveland and Buffalo, through the Mohawk valley, with stops at Geneva, Schenectady, and then on to Boston. Then follow Hartford, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. This route calls for flying over the hazardous Alleghenies. From Pittsburgh the route turns southward, touching Dayton, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Memphis.

Then the Mississippi will be crossed, with a halt at Pine Bluff, Ark., before the fleet points for Dallas, southern terminus.

Turning homeward, Tulsa, Wichita, Omaha, Moline, Chicago, Grand Rapids and Lansing will be visited.

Cities Pay Expenses All the cities have agreed to post $1,000 guarantee as a share of the tour expenses, the remainder of which are borne by the Detroit board of commerce. Detroit real estate board, 30 odd civic clubs contribute through the Detroit Air Board and the Adercraft club, and subscriptions from merchants and manufacturers.

In 1925 and 1926 the Ford trophy was won by Walter Besch, of Wichita, Kansas, and if he is successful this year the trophy remains his permanent property. In addition to the Ford trophy there is an additional prize for "baby" planes of not more than 81 cubic inches displacement, put up for competition by William Stout and known as the William D. Stout Durability trophy. The award of this trophy is intended to encourage the entry of the smaller class of planes.

A large number of cities are ready to have received the trophy. The air tour is arranged to demonstrate, in a graphic manner, the essential safety of air travel.

$250,000,000 IN 120 YEAR OLD HEIRSHIP CASE

Lost Marriage Entry Is Key To Vast Wealth If Courts Grant Claim.

London.—The discovery of a marriage entry in the registers of the famous church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, London, the claimants to a fortune estimated at several million pounds have been provided with what they contend is the vital link, hitherto missing, in support of their case.

The action claiming the fortune is expected to be heard in the Chancery court in the near future. It promises to be one of the most romantic actions ever heard by that court.

Action Against Crown It will be brought against the Crown by the next-of-kin of the late Maria L'Epine, of Portsmouth, who died as a lunatic in 1738, and is for the repayment of $465,000 left by her, plus the compound interest on that sum, during the 120 years she has been dead.

An estate valued at $645,000 at compound interest of only 2 1/2 per cent, would now amount to over $25,000,000.

The claimants contend that Maria L'Epine was secretly married, and had a lawful heir named Abigail Eccles, who married Robert Coldwell, from whom they are descended. The descendants include A. C. Mason and three elderly spinsters, the Misses Mason, who live in very modest circumstances off Oxford street, London.

They have spent their lives in trying to establish the legitimacy of Maria L'Epine's heir.

Know About Marriage The Misses Mason know there was a family tradition that Maria L'Epine was married in London. For years they attempted to trace the record of the marriage to prove that Abigail Eccles was legitimate. Searching through the 18th-century registers at the church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, where the records date back to 1550, they discovered the entry of Maria L'Epine's marriage.

They have not entered what is termed a petition of right, as the first step in their suit.

Rockville EXPECT ROCK MILL WILL BE SOLD SOON

Every Indication of Sale; Superior Court Sessions; Road to Be Built.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, June 17.—The Rock Mill, owned by Fred Swindell, which has been closed for over fourteen months is about to be sold. Several times different representatives have been in Rockville in an effort to buy the mill, but the negotiations have fallen through.

Today there is every indication that it will be reopened. The report at first was to the effect that it was to be purchased by the Hockanum system, but this is denied by representative of the company in this city. The negotiations have been under way in New York and the trade journals tell of the negotiations being under way and it is expected that the mill will be sold within a few days.

The plant was closed by Mr. Swindell fourteen months ago without any reason being given, other than he intended to retire. He made no effort to sell the business and the report that gained circulation at that time was that the mill was closed because of a difference of opinion between Swindell and his son. This left about 400 out of employment. It was a hard blow to Rockville at that time, but they have overcome it and few have left the city. The woolen mills have been exceptionally busy and not only are they working full time, but some of the mills are working a day and night shift.

Just what the "Rock" will be used for if purchased is not being disclosed, but the mill has been kept up in good repair and all during the shut down men have been employed to keep up steam, watchmen have been on duty and there has been sufficient men employed to take care of the machinery. It has good water power and it is claimed that it is the oldest site of a mill in Rockville, which because of its being called "The Rock," gave to the city the name of Rockville.

This report is received by the business interests of Rockville and it seems almost an assured fact that the mill is to be sold and again started in operation.

Meet Again
State's Attorney Thomas F. Noone had occasion this morning to again meet Attorney General Kings, who in appearing for Leonard Cline in the murder charge which will be heard in September. Judge Dickenson sat today in the short calendar session when many old cases were ordered cleared from the docket, previous to those returned for the September term last year. The Farmer Co-operative Dairy Company's suits which appeared against many different defendants in Tolland county were all continued as it was explained to the court that settlements were being made in nearly all the cases.

Clerk Willis Reed was given notice to inform the attorneys in the cases that they might appear before Judge Edward Yeomans on June 28 for the request of restoration of old cases where no lawyer was in appearance or any request made to the judge.

Short Calendar
In the short calendar session Judge Dickinson allowed $50 for two weeks as an allowance in the case of James M. Ward vs. Elizabeth G. Ward to the defendant in a divorce action.

John H. Yeomans of Andover was given judgment of $601.13 on a first mortgage note given to John Lawrence.

Edward A. Standish was given a judgment of $4,480, which represented mortgage and interest on a real estate loan made to Joseph Brettrager and September 1 was given as the date to redeem. He also received judgment of $651 from the same person on a second note and the notice of judgment is to be published for three weeks and the first Monday in September given as the redemption day. Other cases were continued.

Will Not Be Held Up
When it became known about eighteen months ago that it was the intention of the State of Connecticut to build a new road from Leonard's Corner in Tolland, just over the Rockville line, into Crystal Lake the property in the section of Crystal Lake took sudden bounds in value and there were many who had property that soon found buyers. The intention of the buyers appearing to be one of speculation.

The road is to be an exceptionally wide one, forming a trunk line that will come out at West Stafford and will connect with the new roads into Massachusetts. The state had learned in a round about way that some of the land bought for speculation was being sold to the state. Two surveys were made and it was the general opinion that the road would come close to Sandy Beach, by the Crystal Lake hotel and all was great joy, especially on the part of those who had purchased the land to resell to the state.

But the state was not asleep on the work and two surveys were made, one to overcome the holding of the road by paying high land values for land that they would have to buy to put the road through where most people thought it was going and another where this would not be necessary. As a result the change is to be made and there are certain lands that were owned by the Connecticut Company that could be purchased cheaper. The present plan is to have the new highway strike in a little to the north of East's plantation and this will be some distance from Sandy Beach and out of the way of those who expected to cash in on large profits by selling to the state.

Sunday Concert
Sunday afternoon the Happiness Boys will be the attraction at Sandy Beach, Crystal Lake, in a two hour concert commencing at 3 o'clock. A fine program has been arranged by leader John Doherty and will include vocal numbers by Omar Graupner, bartone. This will be the farewell appearance of four of the Happiness Boys before leaving for Block Island where they play at the New Royal Hotel for a ten week's engagement.

Plans are now complete for the big State Championship orchestra contest to be staged at Sandy Beach Saturday, the 25th, and the silver cups to be awarded as prizes are being exhibited at Sandy Beach and will be shown in this city next week at Lee's Pharmacy, Park Place. Much interest and enthusiasm is being manifested in the event and a record crowd will be on hand to witness the contest.

HAIR-RAISER GAME AT FACULTY FROLIC
Trade School Wins 4 Per Cent Victory on Diamond; Runs By the Bushel.

A score of male members of the Trade School and High School faculties went to the Hebron Game Club yesterday for their combined annual frolic. The baseball game, which, next to the dinner was the big feature of the program, resulted in a 25-24 victory for the Trade School.

The school street instructors held a commanding lead until the eighth and ninth innings in which the Main street instructors rallied at the bat. The game was a close one and assumed the lead. With victory in its grasp, the High school team nominated Ralph Proctor to hold the lead in the ninth but he failed although the fault was not, entirely his own. Pitchers Tommy Kelley, Chester Robinson and Clarence Quimby had previously fallen at the bat.

After the ball game supper was served in the clubhouse by the members of the High school cooking classes. An entertainment program followed in which a three-act drama, entitled "Street Scene in the Vicinity of Keene Court" was especially interesting. The characters in this half-hour sketch were Clarence Quimby as justice of the peace; Edwin Dalley, town clerk; Alex Warren, scenario writer, and the following "strollers": Bill Egoce, Paul Volquardsen, Ralph Proctor, Warren Humes, Phil Emery and John Echmalian.

It is alleged that Bob Taylor and John Echmalian won the quibb pitching contest from a large field but the report is unconfirmed.

Those who attended the frolic were: Harry Kitching, John Echmalian, C. P. Quimby, Chester Robinson, Edson Bailey, A. A. Warren, William Roscoe, Paul Volquardsen, Ralph Kingsley, Ralph W. Proctor, Thomas F. Kelley, Philip C. Emery, "Pete" Wigren, Warren Humes, Wilfred Clarke, Francis Lee, William Stenger, "Bud" Fisher, Robert Taylor, Henry Miller and Stanley Rice.

HARTFORD DIVORCES
Hartford, Conn., June 17.—Charging that her husband ill-treated her and often threatened her life, Lena Schrey, of New Britain, was granted a divorce today from August Schrey, by Judge E. Yeomans, in Superior Court here. The grounds were intolerable cruelty. She was allowed alimony of $1,000 to be paid at once and allowance of ten dollars a week.

Judge Yeomans denied the petition of Samuel Snyder, New Britain coal merchant, for reduction of alimony payments of $35 a week which he is making to his former wife, Rose Lastoff.

NEW GERMAN REMEDY OUTDOES INSULIN AS CURE FOR DIABETES

Berlin—Insulin has been outdone as a cure for diabetes by a new preparation from animal pancreas which can be taken in tablet form, according to claims published in the Clinical Weekly by the celebrated Professor von Noorden of Frankfurt. Professor von Noorden's report on his experiments with the new preparation, whose discovery had been previously announced, was awaited with the greatest interest by the whole medical world.

According to his report, Professor von Noorden tried out the new preparation on sixty patients with complete and uniform success. The sugar content of the blood dropped gradually beginning with the second day, and never dropped below normal nor was any other unfavorable result noticed. Even in very grave cases in which the patients would have been ordinarily given 80 to 80 units of insulin, the new preparation worked equally efficacious.

On the basis of these experiments Professor von Noorden has released the new preparation for general use by all scientists and physicians.

HERE IS PROBLEM OF RELATIONSHIP
Man Weds Wife of Ex-Wife's Son—She Marries Ex-Husband's Stepfather.

San Francisco, Calif., June 17.—Captain Arnaldo Marson, and Mrs. Isabelle Keyes Burch were man and wife today, the culmination of a journey down a long and twisted love trail.

Captain Marson, former Italian officer, and Mrs. Burch eloped from New York, the officer leaving his wife, the mother of the man to whom Mrs. Burch was married.

When applying for the marriage license, Captain Marson had some difficulty in explaining he was marrying the wife of his ex-wife's son, and Mrs. Burch was marrying her ex-husband's stepfather.

Several months after they left New York, Captain Marson and Mrs. Burch were arrested here on a charge of violating the Mann act. They were subsequently divorced in New York by their respective mates. Yesterday they became free to marry.

Captain Marson said he and his wife intend to make their home in San Francisco.

MILLION DOLLAR OFFER UNTRUE, SAYS CHAPLIN

Los Angeles, Calif., June 17.—Attorneys for Charlie Chaplin in his divorce litigation against Lita Grey today denied reports said to have emanated "from the east" that the comedian would settle the case for $1,000,000 cash.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys have declared they would rather settle the case than carry it to court, but the figures given out as a basis differed so widely, that all efforts to reach an agreement seemed useless.

In Chaplin's answer to Mrs. Grey's complaint, his entire fortune is valued at a little more than $2,000,000, the bulk of which is not in cash. The community property was given as $226,000.

Meantime, preparations for the coming trial of the case on August 22 were under way.

INFLUENCE OF RADIO

Is radio a good thing for baseball? Is the broadcasting of the games helpful or harmful to the financial interests of the sport? Does radio by the publicity it gives the game, make more fans among those who have only a snatching of the pastime, than it keeps away by offering a running account of the game while sitting in a soft chair with all the comforts of home?

The major leagues are not certain upon this point and they are giving it much thought. It wouldn't surprise me if a special meeting was called to consider the new menace or help to the patronage, the radio.

For a time, the majority of big league managers vetoed the idea but a few permitted it. Now the practice is becoming quite general. During my recent stay of 10 days in St. Louis, judging from the attendance, it struck me as if the radio was detrimental to the gate receipts.

Any number of people told me how they enjoyed the ball game over the radio but I noted no great outpouring of fans at the Browns' Park.

Things to be Considered True, I came into St. Louis after the New York Yankees had beaten the Browns four straight games. That was a severe jolt, yet I understand a timely base hit would have won three of those games. New York was forced to the limit to win each one.

The defeat of the Browns by the champion Yankees no doubt left a sour taste, although I am told the crowds were only ordinary at the games with New York.

Another factor must also be considered. The Cardinals, the National League entry, are the world champs. Naturally that makes 'em the favorites, even though such a rating is only temporary.

While the Browns were playing at home in May, the Cardinals were being trounced in the east. That condition didn't make for enthusiasm among the St. Louis fans and, of course, reacted against the Browns.

The bad weather also must be figured in reaching a decision on the efficiency of radio as a ballyhoo for baseball. Cold and rainy weather is a great handicap.

But the fact remains. In several cities where the games are being broadcast this spring, the attendance has shrunk considerably.

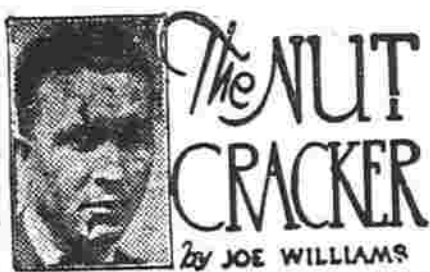

Warm Weather Will Tell When better weather sets in, I feel that a far more correct decision can be reached relative to the good or bad influences of radio on the gate receipts.

I have worked perhaps a half dozen games during the first six weeks of play that were fitted for anything other than baseball, just ideal for football.

Fans who ventured into the cold concrete stands on such days invited pneumonia. I would say the fan who lit the old pipe, dropped back into the rocking chair, looked at the thermometer to see that the house registered 70, and then turned on the radio to listen to the game was far wiser than the fan who paid real money and gambled with pneumonia.

So until the weather gets warmer more propitious for baseball, it will probably be impossible to tell whether the magnets are wise or foolish in permitting the broadcasting of the games.

Radio and the falling off in the spring gate receipts in several cities where the games are being broadcast, has offered much food for thought on the part of the magnates.

HUMOR

The friendly pro so tanned and tall I love with all my heart. He shows me how to hit the ball, And shares with me his art. He drops a pill upon the tee And socks it half a mile; "There, hit it that way, man," says he, " . . . and never cracks a smile."

FRENCH PRESS RAPS U. S. DIVORCE COLONY

Too Many Americans Coming To Paris Because Laws There Are Very Lenient.

Paris, June 17.—The statement of Marilyn Miller that she is coming to Paris to secure a friendly divorce from Jack Pickford, has caused consternation in the divorce colony here. French newspapers have published the statement and some of them have urged that the divorce be refused. The Seine Tribunal judges are reported as increasing their vigilance in divorce cases and there are some fears that the Miller-Pickford divorce may run up against barriers. Reports are also current that several contemplated divorces have been delayed for the time being, fearing that the courts will not be too kindly to American petitioners. Col. and Mrs. William Hayward are said to have contemplated a divorce action, but have not decided to abandon their petition until fall. Mrs. Hayward has given up the fashionable house which she rented, reputedly for the purpose of establishing an official residence. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Plant are also said to have decided to delay plans for divorce. Mrs. Plant, the former Constance Bennett, is staying at the hotel Royal Monceau, while her husband has gone to the American hospital, suffering from an attack of jaundice.

DOUG WITH SHOTGUN GUARDING HIS WIFE

Hears of Plot to Kidnap Mary Pickford and Hold Her For Ransom of $100,000.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 17.—A heavily armed guard was stationed around the Beverly Hills home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks today as the result of an alleged plot to kidnap the diminutive actress and hold her for $100,000 ransom. The guard was thrown around the Pickford estate when H. L.

Brady, of Palm Grove avenue, reported seeing three men following Miss Pickford. He said the movie star had been posing for street scenes and that when she left in her car, the three men followed in a large sedan. Brady said as the men passed him he overheard one of them remark: "There she goes. She'll be worth $100,000 to us." Hollywood and Beverly Hills police were notified and a guard was immediately thrown around Pickford, the movie star's home. As she rode home last night from the studio, Douglas Fairbanks, her husband, sat beside her with a riot gun in his lap. Several officers on motorcycles, followed a short distance behind the car.

WOMEN TO HOLD NATIONAL MEET JULY 7 TO 10

Call Issued By Party Heads For Convention In Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—The National Woman's party will meet in convention here July 7 to 10, according to a call issued by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York, president of the feminist organization. And a militant spirit will pervade the gathering if keynote sounded in Mrs. Belmont's call is carried out.

And join in a renewed battle to end the subjection of women, the battle cry of the New York Woman's party leader.

Included in the committee for convention arrangements are Miss Margaret Whittemore of California; Miss Mabel Vernon of Delaware; Mrs. John Winters Brannan of New York; Dr. Caroline Spencer of Colorado; and Mrs. W. Nelson Whittemore of Michigan.

International Movement One of the important matters to come before the convention, it was learned, is consideration of how the Woman's party may best cooperate with the women of other nations in an international movement in behalf of women. Representatives from several women's organizations abroad are expected to attend the Colorado Springs convention to urge greater activity in an international women's movement, and to work for a plan whereby the League of Nations may be persuaded to enact legislation favorable to equal rights for the feminine sex.

In the call for the convention, it is pointed out that since the organization of the Woman's party, the current thought in the United States has been turned away from the belief in the restriction of women toward the principle of equality.

Won Many Fights The convention called sets forth that, in addition to drafting and introducing in the national congress the equal rights amendment to the constitution, the Woman's party has drafted 527 equal right bills for various state legislatures, and claims sixty six equal rights points affecting 26,000,000 women have been won. Included in these 26 victories for the fair sex are equal guardianship of children, equal divorce rights, equal inheritance rights, and the right of women to sit upon juries and to hold public office.

While much has been done, according to the convention call, to remove discriminations against women, the Woman's party recognizes that women are still the "subject class" in this country in countless ways, and the national convention here will make plans for pressing forward with the equal right movement until complete equality between men and women has been established.

WAPPING

Miss Fitzgerald of Manchester, a former teacher at the Wapping school, attended the graduation exercises at the school hall Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Geer motored to Amherst, Mass., over the week-end. The party of Mr. and Mrs. Frank House of St. Johns Parish at Warehouse Point, held a dog roast at their Pine Grove last Wednesday evening. Rev. and Mrs. Albert Jenson chaperoned the party. Mrs. Emma Skinner was the guest of her nephew Lemuel Robbins of Manchester, for a week, returning to her home here last Sunday evening.

The graduation exercises of the Wapping Grammar school took place at the Center school hall, on Wednesday evening, before a large and appreciative audience. The class motto was "Strive to Succeed" and the class colors were blue and gold. The program was as follows: Cantata, "Childhood of Hiawatha," Cantata, "The Banquet," opening chorus, "Many Things Nominis Taught Him," solo by Edith Adams; class welcome, by Myra Wilson; "Minnewawa," said the Pine Tree, sextette girls; "Once a Warrior Very Angry," boys' unison; class history, Irene Skinner; "The Rainbow," chorus of girls; violin group, "When He Heard the Owls at Midnight," boys' unison; "Hiawatha's Brother," three part chorus; class will, Edith Adams; "Bows and Arrows," boys' unison; "Forth Into the Forest," three part chorus; class prophecy, Thomas Austin; "The Red Deer," chorus of boys; class president's address by Robert Merriman; "The Banquet," closing chorus; valedictory, Frank Neiderwerfer; address to graduates, Rev. Truman H. Woodward; presentation of diplomas, John Driscoll. The following were the graduates:

Girls: Sarah Edith Adams, Harriet Cushman Belcher, Doris Lillian Benjamine, Inez Gertrude Burnham, Amelia Marion Marouski, Lena Ida Rothe, Rose Elizabeth Sele, Irene Adaline Skinner, Myra Alice Wilson, Ruth Ethel Vollmer.

Boys: Thomas Frederick Austin, John Edward Galish, John William Kutsavase, Robert Porter Merriman, Frank Neiderwerfer, Andrew Przytulka, Paul Walter Smith, Harold Wade Snow, Russell Chestham Stoughton, William Edward Trip.

The following tribute in memory of Mrs. Harry Prior, principle of the Wapping Center school for the past five years, who died in January, 1927, was given by the graduates:

"Weary from pain and sickness All her years she spent, Helping to comfort others Everywhere she went. Earth's shadow no longer can touch her. Earth's shadows her sky ne'er dim. And she silently entered in. Dear Father, draw us closer. To Thy great heart of love, Then some day we shall see her In that bright home above."

RESULTS OF IRISH VOTE Dublin, June 17.—A slight increase in the anti-treaty strength and the failure of the Government Party to secure a clear working majority are the final results of the Irish Free State elections.

The results of the elections were as follows: Government Party, 47 seats; Fianna Fail, De Valera Anti-Treaty Party, 44; Labor, 22; Farmers, 11; Independents, 14; National League, 8; Sinn Fein, 6; Independent Republican, 1.

HALF OF STATE'S AUTO ACCIDENTS IN 6 CITIES

Six cities have supplied almost half of the motor vehicle accidents of Connecticut in the past three years, it is shown in statistics made public by the state motor vehicle department. During each of the years, 1924, 1925 and 1926, New Haven, Bridgeport, Hartford, Waterbury, New Britain and Stamford reported exactly 48 per cent. of the state's accidents.

The accident percentage is almost the same as that for the division of population between these cities and the rest of the state. In 1926, according to estimates made by the state department of education, 681,208 persons lived in the six cities, each with a population of 50,000 or more, while the population of the rest of the state was 856,214.

Despite the high accident totals, however, the big cities have been able to report a marked decrease in the number of fatal crashes. Thirty-two per cent. of all the state's fatal accidents occurred in these cities in 1924. The total dropped to 29 per cent. in 1925 and to 23 per cent. in 1926. Death from accident percentages in the other towns of the state consequently increased from 68 per cent. in 1924 to 71 in 1925 and 72 per cent. in 1926.

A steady increase in the percentage of accidents occurring in towns of 10,000 population or more has also been maintained, until last year 79 per cent. of all the state's accidents were in cities and towns of this class.

While the increase of all accidents has been constant in the larger towns, the small towns have been the ones to list advancing percentages of fatal accidents. Only 33 per cent. of the deaths in 1924 resulted from accidents in towns under 10,000 population. But the next year the increase was to 39 per cent., lowering slightly to 37 per cent. in 1926.

How closely the accident totals were matched for the three years in the small towns, while the fatality records were rapidly increasing is shown by the department's statistics. Beginning with 1924, the accident totals were 4,826, 4,784 and 4,946, while the number of fatalities in each year was 99, 137 and 124.

The contrary is revealed for cities of more than 10,000 population. Accident totals for this class for the three years were 15,955, 17,775 and 19,380, a consistent increase. Fatalities, on the other hand, increased only slightly, actually showing a percentage decrease according to the total of accidents of from 67 to 63 per cent. from 1924 to 1926. The population estimates give 1,192,282 for the cities and towns of 10,000 or more, and the total for towns under 10,000 is 354,133.

RUBBER PRICES DROP

New York, June 17.—Crude rubber futures sold at the lowest levels of the year today when persistent liquidation on the rubber exchange here swept the six active positions below the 35 cent mark for approximate losses of seventy to 140 points.

Obituary

There was a man in our town And he was a speedy guy. He turned the corner on two wheels. Crossed crossings on the fly. But yesterday, the extras say, This wise man saw the light. His flivver stalled on the railroad track— Toot, toot! Ding, dong! Good-night.

DENVER TO START BIG CAMPAIGN TO ADVERTISE CITY

Denver—The moving picture, daily and weekly newspapers, folders, booklets and pamphlets are being used by the Chamber of Commerce of Denver to "sell" the city, not only to outsiders but to local residents as well.

And the success of the "selling" campaign, at least to outsiders, is indicated by the long list of national and international conventions and events that will be held here in the "Queen of West Cities" during the coming summer.

Heading the list of conclaves that will gather in Denver is the International Advertising Association, scheduled for June 26-30, which is expected to bring 5,000 delegates from all sections of the United States and some thirty foreign countries. More than 25,000 visitors will be taken care of during the week of the Ad Men's sessions.

Securing for Denver of the James Gordon-Bennett international balloon races is declared another great achievement of the "selling" campaign of the Chamber of Commerce. The big international balloon contest will be held on Sept. 10 with entrants from the United States, England, Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland and probably other foreign countries.

The campaign of "selling" Denver to itself has resulted in the publication and distribution of 250,000 copies of folders on "What's Behind Denver," containing statistical information about the city; 90,000 booklets entitled, "Describe Denver" and 10,000 copies of "The Long Pull," a history of the accomplishment of the Chamber of Commerce since its origin. Scores of state and regional conventions will be held in the city during the summer, and on July 4 a ski tournament will be held at St. Mary's Glacier, 50 miles west of Denver, where winter sports will prevail in mid-summer.

RUMORS OF ROMANCE IN ROYAL FAMILIES

Prince Amedeo of Italy May Wed Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, Report Says.

Brussels, June 17.—A union, marriage of the Belgian and Italian royal families loomed as a possibility today.

Prince Amedeo, the Duke of Aosta, is visiting the Belgian royal family at the Chateau Laeken and it is learned from an authoritative source that both royal families would be glad to see a romance develop between the Italian prince and the Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, which would permit the announcement of their nuptial engagement shortly after the princess' twenty-first birthday on August 4.

Prince Amedeo is a son of the Duke of Aosta, and a nephew of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. He is 28 years old.

An attempt was made to keep his presence a secret just as the visit of Princess Astrid to the Chateau Clergnon two months before the announcement of her engagement to Prince Leopold, was kept a secret.

Many of the great jobs are held by men whose real education began when they tried to lick the frost from an ax blade.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (8) The Pleistocene

SKETCHES BY BESSEY SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

The great mammoth of the period, an elephant with shaggy fur and cruel tusks, is pictured above.

We can imagine man in his early days upon earth battling the great animals around him for supremacy. In those far off days we can imagine him struggling with the sabre-tooth tiger in a battle for life or for clothing for his women, or taming the hipparion, ancestor of the horse, with a club and tough thong. (To Be Continued)

The Pleistocene Period marks the beginning of what is called the Quaternary, in which we are now living. During the Pleistocene period remarkable climatic changes came over the face of the earth. Whole continents became fields of ice. The period is often called the Ice Age. The picture shows a family group of that period.

Nature covered the animals with wool then and thickened their hides. A woolly rhinoceros of the period is shown.

FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1927.

LOWDEN.

Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, desiring to supplant President Coolidge as the nominee of the Republican party in 1928, besides being an adversary of no mean stature, has entered the lists at what would seem to be the best of times from the point of view of tactical advantage. To come openly into the field a year in advance of the convention is to be neither precipitate nor tardy. It provides just about the right period of time for a complete canvass without risking lapse of interest through a too extended campaign. Also it has permitted Mr. Lowden to be first in the field among possible competitors of Mr. Coolidge for the nomination—and this is not an advantage to be minimized.

Again, the Lowden candidacy gains a point, in the view of the public if not in that of the politicians, through the fact that nothing approaching a definite announcement has ever been made in behalf of the President that the present chief executive really desires re-election. True, it is now very generally taken for granted that Mr. Coolidge would not be averse to being made the Republican party's standard bearer again if the nomination should come with practical party unanimity, but it is only among the more sophisticated of the party leaders that there is any feeling of certainty that the President would fight for re-nomination—and nobody can be sure whether they are right or wrong in their belief that he would.

Under this condition Lowden might perhaps, later on, take the position that he held a certain claim to the nomination through being ahead even of Mr. Coolidge, in putting in his bid for it. At all events, the Illinois man has become a factor to be seriously reckoned with. That he has a strong personal following in a number of states outside his own is by no means to be denied. Whether that following is numerous enough, or contains enough of the elements of practical political strength to match the prestige of the President in any important part of the mid-West, however, is something that we in the East have little real opportunity to know. But there seem to be indications that, expert politician as he is, Lowden may be falling into an error with relation to at least two of his three issues.

Apparently there is some disappointment among his supporters as to the extent of the disaffection which was so confidently expected to undo Coolidge among the corn belt farmers. These people are fast coming to realize, in considerable degree, that the McNary-Haugen type of legislation, which the President opposes, is not the cure-all which they so enthusiastically believed at one time that it would prove. At all events, we find "agrarian" relief dropping to a third place in the political creed being advertised by the Lowden boomers. In first place they are putting the "third term" and in the second place "anti-imperialism."

This is an age that is not particularly afraid of change. It is not tradition bound. The time honored outcry against a third term for a President of the United States can be imagined as a less potent war-whoop in these days than in the days of Grant. It is quite easy to visualise its being disregarded with very little compunction in favor of any President sufficiently beloved or sufficiently needed. And besides, there is a growing tendency to reject the formula—based on nothing but didacticism—that part of a term inherited through an emergency and one elective term constitute two terms. The arithmetic of the proposition is bad. It does not make real sense.

So that the third-term plank looks like a rather shaky one to be put into a candidate's platform at the point where he must stand most of the time and do most of his talking.

Frankness requires that we express the belief that of the three selling points on which Lowden means to put himself over, the best

WINNING ACHIEVEMENTS

COMMUNITY GARAGE MAY SOLVE DOWN TOWN PARKING PROBLEMS.

By DON E. MOWRY, Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Congested traffic and the parking problem are probably the two biggest puzzles facing city administrations today. No real solution has yet been found, but it is possible that an experiment being tried out in Troy, N. Y., may be of benefit to many smaller cities.

Troy is trying to solve its parking problem by building a community garage that will hold 400 automobiles. The garage is being built in two units, fifty feet wide, each about 140 feet long. The structure will be thoroughly modern, with staggered floors connected by short ramps. Provision is made for future expansion.

Everything being ready, the contracts were let, and in a short time Troy will see her community garage will solve her parking problem.

There is no dodging the fact that a great many well-wishers of President Coolidge would have liked to see a less risky policy adopted toward Mexico and a less ruthless one toward Nicaragua. But neither Lowden nor his boosters will get much change out of any attack on the President's course in China, where America's policy has been splendidly broad, liberal and just—and where it promises to continue to be so. This administration is coming out of the Mexican muddle with flying colors after all and without a splinter for the anti-imperialists to get a finger hold on. It is coming out of the Chinese difficulty—where there was every opportunity for the making of a terrible mistake—no less than gloriously. Compared with these two achievements, the roughness with which the Nicaragua episode was handled provides a rather meagre cause.

Governor Lowden's strength as a competitor for the Republican nomination in 1928 would seem to lie, then, more in the strength of his personal machine, in half a dozen states of the middle West, in the timeliness of his entry into the field and in his own individuality than in any of the so-called issues which are being put forward in his behalf.

LINDBERGH BACKS MITCHELL.
 For saying that airplanes costing comparatively a trifle could and would, in another war, destroy battleships built at an outlay of many millions each, Col. Billy Mitchell lost his scalp—was court-martialed out of the army. Now the world's greatest hero, the boy whose Washington reception put the government's stamp of guarantee upon him as a super-man serenely stood up at a great dinner, in the presence of hundreds of the leaders of American affairs—and says precisely the same thing for which Mitchell was crucified.

The navy did everything that it possibly could to impose upon Lindbergh those restrictions of speech which the guest feels obligated to respect where his host is concerned. We do not imagine it was done consciously; but bringing him over in a warship, turning out the navy's aerial forces to meet him, giving him salutes and extending to him every conceivable courtesy might not unnaturally have been expected to make him, for a time at least, tender of the feelings of the sea-going department of our military establishment.

Yet with the bluntness of a child Lindbergh has publicly told the Navy that as a means of national defense it is junk. There is not the remotest likelihood that it ever occurred to this ingenious lad that he would be expected to refrain from telling the truth as he saw it. It probably never entered his head that there might be a great many persons, some of them very highly placed, who did not want to hear that kind of truth from anybody.

COMPARISON

A newspaper item rather jubilantly relates that E. Kent Hubbard, E. O. Goss and C. L. Campbell, well-known Connecticut members of the New England Council who got into an automobile wreck at Salisbury Beach, Mass., the other day, had declined the suggestion of Henry Trumbull of Plainville to that party return from Boston to Hartford by airplane—the idea being that the joke was on the motorists for considering the automobile a safer means of travel than the plane. Perhaps the fact is being overlooked that the motorists are still alive and, in spite of their accident, very little if any the worse for it. It is undeniably true that there is less risk of traffic accidents in the air than upon the roads, for a very obvious reason. But it is also true that many things may go wrong with a car and many a collision or other mishap occur, without anybody being killed or gravely hurt. But when something happens to your vehicle and it's riding over a thousand feet of emptiness with a very tough and hard old world at the bottom of it, the chances for lilies and "Lead Kindly Light," rather than court plaster, are supremely good.

There may be a handkerchief who will have a good laugh at the Connecticut men who got bumped on the road while dodging the perils of the air, but most folks will still reckon that it's better to be a shaken-up automobilist than a shaken-down air passenger.

RAINBOW TROUT
 Whisper it not in Gath, but President Coolidge, who last year received his piscatorial initiation through contact with the beautifully colored brook trout of the east, probably experienced a sinking sensation around the heart when he caught his first South Dakota "rainbow" yesterday. The rainbow trout bellies its name. It is a good trout, a spotty trout, as symmetrical and lovely in its lines as anything that swims. But its name doth belie it in the matter of coloration. We'll bet you'd rather see a rainbow trout than a rainbow trout.

It seems the fashion among those who guide visitors about town to keep alive these moss covered traditions. Today the Flatiron building is a sort of old-fashioned, demure cousin of the flaring skyscrapers that rise all around, and the wind that whisks about its sharp nose is no more nor less than the wind that whisks about the noses of a hundred or more of the windy corners and the lady's skirt as the wagon takes the sharp turn in front of the Flatiron building.

New York, June 17.—The megaphone wailer for the "seeing New York" bus still tells the joke about the windy corner and the lady's skirt as the wagon takes the sharp turn in front of the Flatiron building.

In no place in Manhattan is it easier to get a drink than on the Bowery. . . . If you don't care what you drink, the bum who stops and asks you for a dime will, ten chances to one, savor your nostrils with a breath that confesses heavy bibbling. . . . In the Bowery's lower reaches, barber colleges hang their signs where all may see. . . . In the basements, you find, a shave may be had for a nickel and a haircut for 15 cents. . . . The prices range upward and downward and, in one second story place, there is absolutely no charge. Here you fall into the hands of barbarous freshmen and take your own chances. . . .

The bus veers suddenly near "five corners"—that spot in lower Manhattan where all the world comes where a bus in America—and shoots into Chinatown. Again the megaphone artist bursts into a moss-covered monologue. He tells of secret passages, sinister shadows, of eerie-this and menacing-that. Then he guides his passengers into a tourist-made Jose house, the price of entry to which is fifty cents. Thereafter the tour becomes one catch-22 stunt after another.

WASHINGTON LETTER
 By RODNEY DUCHER

Washington, June 17.—One of the most astonishing things about life in Washington is the fact that no man in public life ever performs a gracious or meritorious act without hearing all the smarties brand it as inspired by politics. The trouble is, of course, that more often than not the smarties are dead right.

At any rate, it seems rather a shame that this stuff couldn't have been kept out of the picture with Lindbergh's return and triumphal reception.

Instead, many of the anti-administration folk long since began to voice the suspicion that President Coolidge had finally decided to take care of Lindbergh's homecoming lest he be nosed out of some important publicity and national job by Governor Al Smith of New York, who might otherwise have done the honors in company with Tammany's mayor, little Jimmy Walker.

Somehow, Calvin Coolidge's reputation as a good politician simply won't let his ill-wishers keep off his neck whenever he speaks or acts.

On the other hand, one correspondent here wrote seriously the other day that no man in the United States was more excited and thrilled-over Lindbergh's feat than the president. This was quite absurd, for Mr. Coolidge hasn't been genuinely excited over anything whatever in recent years. The fact that stands out just now is that Mr. Coolidge has done the correct thing by Lindbergh and has done just what the country wanted him to do. More could hardly be asked.

The court action which threatens to complicate the activities of the Federal Radio Commission was predicted by Congressman Sol Bloom of New York in a recent conversation. Bloom expressed the belief that the courts would decide broadcasting to be a matter for state regulation and that the radio law, based on the idea that broadcasting was interstate commerce, would be cast out because in broadcasting there is no buying and selling. Bloom said he was in thorough sympathy with the commission's work, but feared that it had no right to interfere in broadcasting unless it was really interstate commerce.

A record unlikely to be broken has been held for 40 years or more by Carroll L. Riker, the old engineer who will attempt to convert the next Congress to his program for Mississippi flood control. Riker claims to have been the only man who ever did a government job for half the cost estimated by army engineers and half the sum appropriated by Congress. Way back in the eighties he dredged out the Washington channel and built the great Haines Point speedway in Potomac Park and all the land contained therein, after inventing a suction dredge for the work. Today this is Washington's favorite motor drive and one of the city's beauty spots. Riker saved the government a million dollars, which in those days was real money.

"I've just seen Mr. Longworth for the first time and he's my candidate for president," gushed a girl friend from New York the other day.

"Did you meet him—talk to him?"

"Nope. Just saw him."

INFECTIONS FOUND DUE TO WET HANDS

Dr. C. W. Goff Bases This Conclusion on Study Made in Silk Mills Here.

The importance of moisture in the group production of infections has been shown by the study of several groups of operatives in Cheney Brothers silk plant here, according to Dr. C. W. Goff, who made the investigation and which was reported in the N. Y. Times. The operatives studied consisted of three groups who handled the raw silk in different processes. The silk is received in the mill in the form of split cocoons and waste silk from the winding processes which is in a more or less dirty condition. This material is dumped into a large vat where it is boiled with soap and olive oil for a short time, after which it is dried in large steam ovens. In the next process it is put through a series of combings at which time it is sprayed and handled in a slightly dampened state, while in the third process which is another series of combings and cardings, more moisture is necessary and the hands of the operatives are continually damp or actually wet.

Groups Studied
There were six operatives in the first group, two of whom developed infections of the hands or forearms, which followed lacerations sustained during work. Among the forty-four workers in the second group there were sixty injuries with thirty-one infections. Twenty-five workers in this group had no demonstrable infection. In the third group of forty-one workers there was a total of 121 injuries to the hands or forearms, with 117 infections of varying degrees of severity, and there were only five in this group of workers who did not sustain any infection.

The Incidence of Infection
The incidence of infection, therefore, was shown to be highest in the last group, whose hands and forearms were subjected to a continual softening from the wet material. The workers in the first group, who handle the material directly from the bales, do not come into direct contact with it during the washing and drying process as they use gloves and applicators, and their hands are consequently not in a wet condition, while the second group, although subjected to some moisture, has very much less than the third group.

Material Sterilized
The silk material handled by the second and third group of workers in the mill studied is boiled and is practically sterile, but sticks, rollers and machines are not sterilized and it is thought by Dr. Goff that they may offer a constant source of infection though apparently not an important one. Another source of infection is seen in the workers wiping their wet hands on their overalls or on soiled towels or rags. Infection by the decomposition products of the chrysalis or fine parasites is considered by Dr. Goff of probable importance, and he also believes that this may be an important element in delaying the healing of infections and nourishing injuries to the hands and forearms.

The Propagation of Infections of Injuries to the Hands
The propagation of infections of injuries to the hands had varied from 78 per cent in the third, to 57 per cent in the second group, and 22 per cent in the first group, the amount of infection being in direct relation to the amount of moisture of the material of the material and the hands of the workers. The latter condition is emphasized, was the only variable factor of any importance. It has been shown, Dr. Goff states, that there is an order of micrococci always present in the lowest layers of the skin and that they become much more active and produce all types of infections when moisture is present in quantities sufficient to soften the hands.

As a result of the severity of the infections found in the groups of operatives studied, Dr. Goff concludes that moisture must play a greater part than is generally realized in the production of industrial infections.

TOM MIX HEADING DOUBLE FILM BILL

State Presents Zane Grey Story
With Viola Dana In "Naughty Nannette" Today and Tomorrow.

Tom Mix in a dashing Western picture, a story of Zane Grey's, and Viola Dana in a whimsical treatment of studio life in Hollywood are the dishes to be served up to the State theater patrons tonight and tomorrow.

The screen adaptation of Zane Grey's popular novel retains all the dash, action and thrills of the printed page. Lew Sells, who directed the picture, grasped every opportunity offered by the book and made the most of it.

Like other Tom Mix pictures.

"The Last Trail" has more than its share of scenic beauty. Exterior scenes were made in the famous San Bernardino Valley of California.

In the early part of the film Tom is seen as an Army scout of the Dakotas during the last uprising of the Sioux Indians. Later, he is seen as the hard-riding, quick-on-the-trigger foe of a desperate crew of stage coach-lopers.

Supporting the star are Carmelita Geraghty, William Davidson, Jerry the Giant, Tony, the wonder horse, and others.

The patrons of the State theater will have a chance to see a true-to-life story of an extra girl in Hollywood, now that "Naughty Nannette" is playing there.

Viola Dana, perennial favorite of movie fans the world over, plays the role of "one of the 10,000" and in such a manner that one moment a tear trickles down the cheek, only to be dried away with laughter the next.

Ed Brownell, handsome and athletic, plays opposite Miss Dana in this FBO picture and shows fine dramatic talent.

The direction is by J. Leo Meehan, the master director, who is responsible for bringing the Gene Stratton Porter stories to the screen and he has added to the fame of both Miss Dana and himself.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Posting at times as a barber, at others as ATTORNEY DAVIS, a curious man called Vlak has come to the queer little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, to help his cousin, ELISE NABERRY, solve a strange mystery. Elise, a beautiful American girl, has inherited a coffee plantation and other property adjoining Porto Verde. Several mysterious deaths occur, including that of one of her foremen. She herself has been threatened and warned to leave. Vlak, learning that LINDEN MANN, a famous American chemist and once a teacher of his, is in South America, sends for him.

Vlak believes that GAYLORD FRENCH, a mysterious and frightening man, is somehow involved in the deaths. He tries to visit French but is ordered to stay away. Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped and French is suspected. Vlak and French, who are on horseback, and finally he and his companions come upon the child, unharmed and being cared for by a gang of hillbills from the charge of one CARLOS D'ALBENTARA.

Vlak tells Elise she and the child must leave on the next boat. He and French then start out on a trip to reward D'Albentara and his men with some wine. Before they come away, Vlak, through a seemingly accidental fall, manages to get hold of a ring which he says he snatched from the finger of D'Albentara's half-breed forerunner.

Returning, they hear a man's cries and dash into a clearing in the woods to rescue an Indian from torture at the hands of two ruffians. Vlak is stabbed in the wrist in the encounter.

She caught sight of the bandage about Vlak's hand. "You're hurt," she said quietly. "Badly?"

NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

Vlak felt the Indian's pulse. "No. Don't worry. He'll be all right in a minute." He brought some water from a nearby pool and dashed it on his forehead. "Amazing what these jungle people can stand."

In a moment the aborigine's eyes opened again. He looked about him wonderingly, then pulled himself to a sitting posture and indicated that he wished to rise. Vlak shook his head. But the Indian, notwithstanding the tremendous pain the effort must have cost him, rose to his feet an instant, then dropped to his knees before Vlak and began a violent series of prostrations, alternately beating his chest with the flat of his hands, then rubbing his forehead against the tip of Vlak's boot.

In a few moments Vlak, though impeded by his wound, had fashioned a rude crutch from a small tree limb, and demonstrating to the Indian how it should be used, put it under his arm.

"Well, take him back to his camp," Vlak said as they moved off in the direction of the road. "Don't say anything about this to Elise. I've tried to frighten her enough when I thought it would accomplish anything, but now that she's agreed to go, there's no use of increasing her worries. Frankly, once I get her out of here I don't intend to let her back. Where things are going to end, God only knows. . . . Will you please not look constantly at my hand and shake your little pellet of a head so guiltily. It isn't your fault, I tell you, that my hand was hurt."

The old man took off his thick glasses and wiped them feverishly. "They might have killed you. . . . er . . . killed you. . . . But you can count on me. . . . I'll never do it again. . . . er . . . never. . . . Er . . . why did they torture him so?"

"Why do criminals do anything?"

Half carrying the wounded Indian and actually lifting him when they reached bad places in the path, they came to the road again. They had not walked far when they perceived three men coming toward them. As they neared, they saw that the newcomers were three other Indians from the railroad camp. By the way they combed all the dark places along the roadside, it was easy to see that they were searching for their comrade. They received the lost one with excited grunts; the wounded man himself pointed to Vlak and began a renewed natural declamation. Vlak and the old man walked toward Elise's fazenda.

Elise, as usual, came forward to meet them. She caught sight of the bandage about Vlak's hand; her thin lips quivered. "You're hurt," she said quietly. "Badly?"

He laughed. "A little cut in my hand. A test tube broke when I was working with it. Nanny has accidents like that every day in his laboratory."

"I don't believe it." Her voice was low but determined. "You were hurt on account of me."

"I'm sorry if my word means nothing to you," he replied. "Nanny can testify whether I am telling the truth. He was there when it happened. Don't give me credit for being heroic, when I was merely being careless. Look and see for yourself, then." He unwound the bandage and bared the wound. The tiny cut did indeed look as if it might have been made by broken glass.

"All right, I'll believe you," she murmured, bright once more. "But it's a nasty wound, just the same. Sure there aren't any pieces inside it?"

"Positive."

"At least let me put a proper looking bandage on it. That one you that they were locked—though the precaution seemed futile for the slight material of which they were constructed made them little a carrier—when he heard a footstep. He looked in the direction of the sound and in a moment saw Schwartz, the fat German foreman, approaching. His eyes glanced curiously at Vlak over their puffy tearbags. "Good evening, Mr. Schwartz," Vlak said politely.

"Good evening, Herr Davis." The foreman's words came in short asthmatic jerks.

"Everything all right on the fazenda?"

"All right, I think. You try der doors and windows, Herr Davis?"

"Yes, Mr. Schwartz."

The veins in the German's face glowed as Vlak struck a match to light his cigaret. "It is not I come to do also. I am afraid somebody, somedings maybe comes to bodder her in der night. Somedimes when she closes der house she is not careful, Fraulein Marberry. And ven we have no guns here der iss not nice. Nicht wahr, Herr Davis?" He grinned.

"Oh, you're right. Absolutely." "But now dot you are here I will not worry longer. No. I will go home to bed. Goot night, Herr Davis."

"Good night, Mr. Schwartz."

The German walked off in the direction from which he had come. Vlak watched his fat body roll past a tree and disappear in the darkness, then took a few more puffs of his cigaret and returned to the house. Undressing, he put his pistol on a table where it would be within instantaneous reach, then crawled into bed. The night passed without incident.

Early in the morning, before the others had awakened, he hurried down the deserted road to his house, put on the clothes he wore as a barber, being careful to conceal the wound on his hand by wearing a coat longer than usual, and walked to the town.

After an hour spent in collecting a few articles in the barber shop, he sought out the lazy, gaudily dressed proprietor of the hotel, and striking his heart forcibly with his hand, explained to that listless individual that he had been seized with a bad fever during the night and was leaving that morning for the mountains of Aviloz where the elevation was higher and the climate more conducive to recovery. He might be back in a week, he declared, he might be back in a month; perhaps he might never come back. Perhaps he might even die in the mountains.

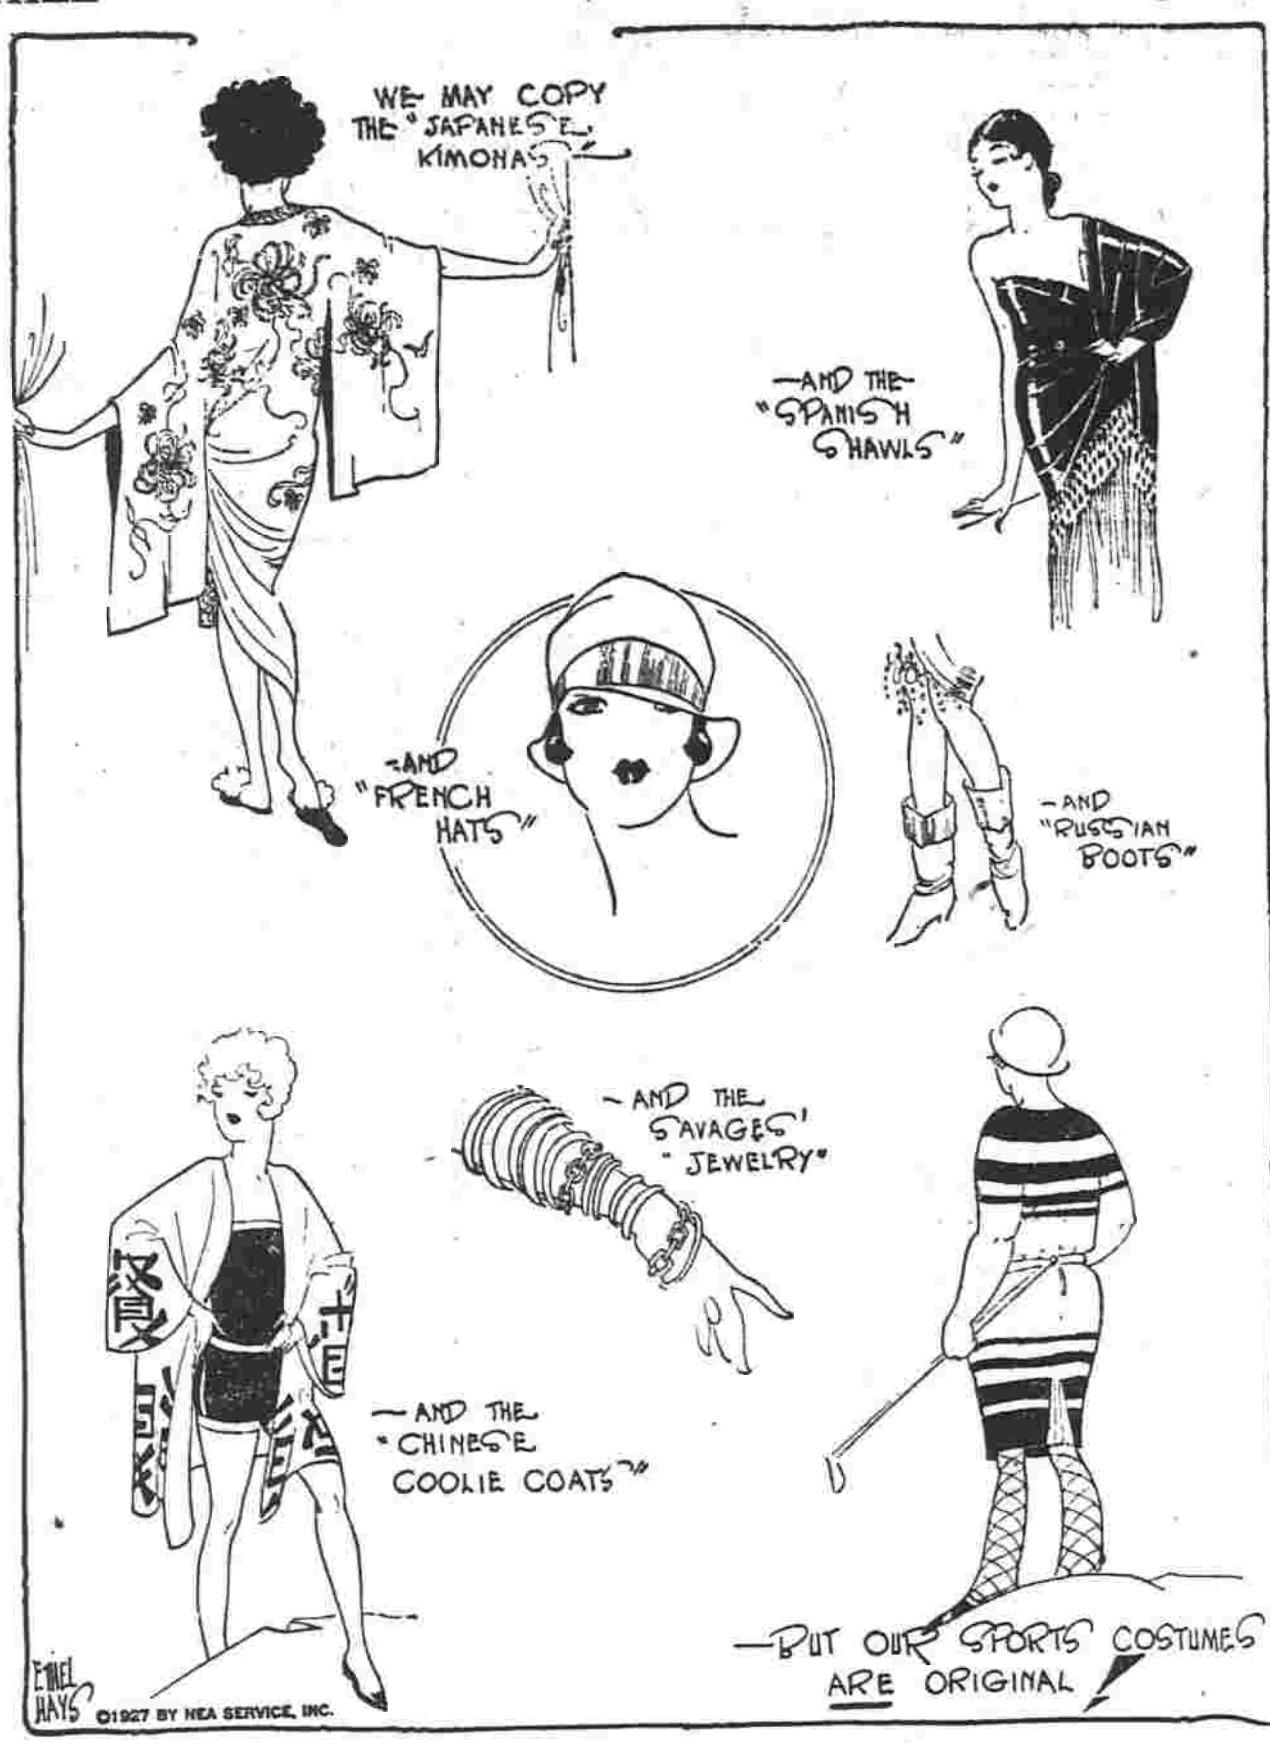

The proprietor, growlingly expressed a polite wish that such might not be the case and with pleasure accepted the month's rent for the barber shop which Vlak put in his hand. Having thus intimated barber Riggs for as long a time as he wished, Vlak returned to the tiny establishment of which he had been the head and sole employe for several months, and was making final preparations for his departure, when he noticed knots of natives gathering in the street, talking loudly and gesticulating in the excited fashion that he knew meant something had happened in the town.

Hurrying out, he strode up to one of the villagers, a barefoot old man with a long beard and a huge pancake-shaped hat of straw which rested insecurely on his hairless head. "What's the matter, Julios?" he demanded.

An urgent message comes to Elise in the next chapter. But in Porto Verde messengers are not always to be believed.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Small, mild cigars are having a large sale among young women who find cigarette smoking becoming altogether too common. This statement comes from a tobacco dealer at the London tobacco trade exhibition. He explains that a woman will not yield her cigarette for a pipe, because pipe smoking is a bit harsh for a woman, but that a small and mild cigar makes just the right sort of an after dinner smoke for her. New watch the feminine youngsters giggle at 'em! The youngsters know that it's all only tobacco selling propaganda. The elders always swallow these false alarms and start legislation again!

Spare Tire Sandwiches
Just as "the spare tire" idea has taken hold in the home realm with "us girls" buying three of a kind in readiness for the evil day when the "runs" come, now the "spare" idea has invaded the world's gastronomic. Three slices of bread make a sandwich now. Two is so plebeian!

Radio Widow
Just as "the radio widow" haled her erring spouse into court, charging non-support. She claimed that her shield and buckler spent all his earnings on the radio, even if they went hungry and the rent was unpaid. And as for any company in the home—"why judge, I haven't heard one peep out of him since he got that contraption."

The radio widow's complaint is so symbolical of the age in which we live that it is hardly news. Our day's standard of living calls for automobiles, radios, overstuffed furniture, grand pianos and phonographs, orthophonic only, electric washers and irons, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, toasters, percolators, fireless cookers, tomatoes out of season, and chiffon-to-top hose, even if we don't have money for the butcher and baker and grocer, and gas and light and water, and telephone man.

INFERIORITY COMPLEXES

By Olive Roberts Barton

Thou shalt not give the child an inferiority complex. The word "complex" means abnormality. "Inferiority complex" means that we are obsessed with the idea that we don't amount to much and that every one can do things better than we can. People of high strung nervous temperament are more apt to have the former. Those people who are phlegmatic and stolid in their nervous make-up are more likely to have a tendency the other way.

It has nothing to do with environment or caste. It is the way we rate ourselves and we cannot help it. It is all arranged for us when we are babies. I've seen young men and young women grow up with every blessing of home, money, books, and health, with inferiority complexes that made their lives absolutely wretched.

Here's the way it starts. By making fun of a little child; children are so painfully sensitive that to call attention to their shortcomings is plain downright cruelty. Physical imperfections or peculiarities mention a blemish. I knew a young married woman who had a mark on one side of her face. It was scarcely noticeable yet in her mind it had taken on enormous and distressing proportions. It had distressed her mother when she was a little child. In time it preyed on the mind of this young woman, and had her husband not been a person of infinite courage and resource, the consequences promised to be terrible.

Never make fun of the way a child walks, runs, talks or sings. Correct mistakes kindly and tactfully, but quietly and without rousing any suspicion on his part. Never shame him for an accident, particularly before others.

Praise him for everything you can. Make him feel his worth—never his futility! I do not think it will make him conceited—all things being equal. But even so, conceit won't ruin his nervous system and an inferiority complex will. An inferiority complex does not lessen with years. It grows. It acts as a brake on all honest effort and ambition. And it has a tangible effect on health. Neurosthenics are almost invariably cases of inferiority complex. It is a terrible thing.

ALCOHOL AS A MEDICINE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

WHAT SCIENCE THINKS OF MEDICINAL BOOZE

Were the governor and attorney general of Indiana justified in breaking the laws of their state to get alcoholic liquor for members of their family who were ill?

Here's the second of a series of four articles giving the unbiased opinion of the world's greatest medical authorities.

In Edinburgh, Scotland, forty years ago, the average cost per patient for the use of alcohol beverages in the treatment of disease was $10.75. Last year the average cost for this purpose was approximately 10 cents.

procedures the use of alcohol is detrimental. The value of the drug is to produce relaxation, or a diminished irritability of a super-sensitive nervous system.

The third fact about alcohol, which appeared to be generally accepted, was that in instances of fatigue and mental depression, alcohol acted as a true stimulant, in that certain faculties of the mind, such as attention and memory, were improved.

According to Prof. Starling, eminent British physiologist, the action of alcohol as a restorative in instances of faintness induced by sudden shock or injury is also dependent on the alcoholic action in diminishing the susceptibility of the nerve centers through which the action of the heart may be affected.

Using Alcohol in Emergencies
In drawing a conclusion as to what constitutes a moderate dosage of alcohol, Starling says that the safest general statement would be that any dose is moderate which diminishes a man's efficiency and his powers of performing his normal avocations.

As to the harmful effects of alcohol on the body, it is pointed out that constant exposure of the tissues to the action of alcohol leads to a general impairment of their vitality. This effect is worse if the alcohol is taken in strong concentration so as to damage the lining of the stomach and intestines.

A chronic excess of alcohol produces definite nervous disorders such as delirious tremens and a progressive deterioration of the mental and moral qualities of the individual.

The effect of the alcohol in lowering the vitality of the tissues diminishes the power of the individual to resist infection and his reactions of self-protection. In this connection, an occasional debauch is not so harmful, according to Starling, as the continuous soaking of quantities of alcohol just short of the degree necessary to produce evident intoxication.

ROCKVILLE AND MANCHESTER TO PLAY HERE THIS EVENING

Graff and Pelton With Visitors; Pospisil to Pitch For Community Club; Game at West Side Field.

Local Sport Chatter

Rockville and Manchester traditional rivals, will lock horns tonight in what promises to be one of the most stubbornly fought battles of the season. The game will be played at the West Side grounds. Play will start at 6:15 sharp.

Announcement was made last night by Manager Wilfred Bulla that Rudy Pospisil, former Trade school pitching sensation, would pitch for the Windy City aggregation which comes under the name of the Independents but in reality is the Y. P. A. team that only two weeks ago forced the Bristol News to depart to go extra miles to beat them. Pospisil has pitched once in Manchester this year, howling the Community club to a 6 to 6 tie while working for the Southern New England Telephone company of Hartford and since then has had any kind of decent support in that encounter, he would have returned the winner.

Backed up by such a strong infield as Woody Vallet, Jim McLaughlin, 2b; Jack Linnell, 2b; Captain Gil Wright, ss and Pop Edgar, 3b, with Elmo Mantelli, Lefty S. ohn and Sammy Kotsch and Sammy Massey in the outfield, Pospisil bids fair to be the winning pitcher.

Rockville is going to take the field with the following lineup: Pete Genovesi, p; Kulep, c; Caro Genovesi, 1b; M. Burke, ss; R. Burke, 2b; Doganick, 3b; Krause, lf; Pelton, cf; Bronck, rf.

Grass will also be with the visitors and if he doesn't pitch, will be used in the outfield because of his hitting power. The appearance of Pelton and Grass alone tends to prove that Rockville will be strong, represented tonight. Well, well, see.

The Aces will practice tonight at the McKee Street Stadium at 6 o'clock in preparation for their game in Avon Sunday. The Aces will have several high school players in their lineup Sunday and Monday. The game is expected to be a close one in Middletown. They are Ernie Dowd, Ty Holland, Jimmy Foley, Pop Wenzler and Lefty Wiley.

And speaking about Jimmy Foley, he is about the sweetest fielding second baseman in the C. C. I. Jimmy has pulled Manchester High pitchers out of many a tight hole by his airtight defense. Jimmy also is quite a base pilfer and leads the high school team in that respect. Best of all, Jimmy never loses his head or gets excited. He was easily one of the best players on the S. M. H. S. team.

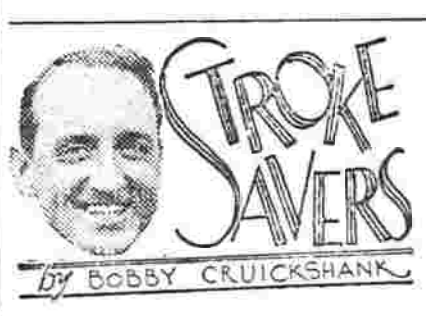

Hartford and Springfield will hook up in a doubleheader Eastern League bill at the McKee Street Stadium Sunday afternoon and another record-breaking crowd is anticipated.

Nearly fifty members of the Girls' State Bowling League gathered at the Hotel Bond in Hartford last night where a banquet was held as guests of the team. A splendid roast chicken dinner was served with all the trimmings. Dancing was enjoyed, the music being provided by Emil Heimberger and his Hotel Bond orchestra. The party did not break up until a late hour. Those from Manchester were Mrs. M. J. Murphy, Mrs. Jennie Lucas, Mae Sherman, Marcella Karpin, Kathryn Turck, Clara Jackowski, Lilian Hewitt, Edna McCourt, Nan Taggart, Ernest Sherman, Bernard Schubert and Tom Stone.

Ralph Russell is doing good work as a baseball umpire this season. He was called upon to make a somewhat questionable decision last night in the game at the West Side and took no delay in deciding the issue. The bases were loaded when a Hartford batter hit a Texas leaguer into short left field. The shortstop raced out and camped under the fly but missed it. Two runners scored on the play. Russell ruled that was not an infield fly on the grounds that the left-fielder had a better chance to field the ball. It could have been called either way and was up to the umpire's judgment. The writer thought it should have been ruled the other way, but that's only an opinion.

Berden, England.—If William Duke of Normandy had been defeated by King Harold at Hastings in 1066, Thomas Goodwin, English farmer, might have been king of the empire today. But Goodwin, lineal descendent of Harold's father, says he does not regret that history has taken the course it has.

STROKE SLAYERS
BY BOBBY CRUICKSHANK

Here I am at the finish of my favorite shot—the long iron. Sometimes when I take a real heavy wallop at the ball I finish farther around than this. My left elbow is still against my body and so is my right. I think the success of this shot depends a great deal on the compactness of it. Looseness will spoil it sure.

Getting a stop to a shot like this is a problem to most golfers. I accomplish it by hitting the ball on the downswing just before the club face touches the turf. Hitting the ball like this gives one control over it as to direction. The left hand is in control throughout the swing.

Cooper-Armour Tie For 1st. Place

By DAVID J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

Oakmont, Pa., June 17.—Harry Cooper, born to be British but glad to be American, a garrulous, confident Jack Sharkey of professional golfer, and Tom Armour, suave, well-mannered and Scotch enough to want what he wants before he gets it, will engage in a two-man assault on the national open golf championship in a special eighteen hole play off this afternoon. They finished the regulation four rounds of the championship yesterday in an absolute dead heat, for first money in a contest total of 201.

It was their only similarity; they had the same score but probably no two men in the long history of competitive golf have met at the first tie with less in common.

Cooper's Boast
"If I don't finish in the first five, if I don't finish in the first five," said Cooper with his air of swank as he came to Oakmont for the title event. He will ride.

Armour let a 12-foot putt on the last green for a tie do his talking, although Thomas is not social much in truth, he is the typical club house v-randa amateur, hair slick and smooth and back, face burned to the rusk skin by countless suns and clothes correct to a fault. Thomas "turned square" after coming to America as an amateur seven years ago but he still retains the air of one who does you a personal favor in letting you watch him play.

Cooper Natural
With all due respect to Cooper as a golfer, and as a man, he would be incapable of achieving such an impression. His emotions are too near the surface, his reactions too natural. If he thinks you are a bum, he is likely to say as much personally and himself, usually is not a victim of self-dissatisfaction.

Send Cooper into the ring with a nubbick and Sharkey a boxing glove and Rickard would sell out on the sheer personality of his principals.

No Blows Expected
However, the boys promise to deal exclusively in mashes and nubbicks and polite amenities today and there will be no blows exchanged as an official part of the program.

For neither of the principals ever.

Greens Too Fast
For the 72 greens he visited, he had 133 putts, considerably less than two to the green. Of course, a fast green may play havoc with your pitch shots in the first place and maybe that is what happened to Jones. A better guess is that he was under-prepared for the tournament and under-golfed.

In ten such tournaments, his total score possibly would be better by fifteen to twenty strokes than that of either Cooper or Armour. But they were good enough to win this tournament and Jones wasn't and you can't go behind that fact any more than you can go behind your own shoulder blades.

Today's play off will be tenth in thirty-one open championship tournaments. I trust I may be the last. The writer is for earlier and quicker victories.

THE INSIDE OF THE GOLF BALL

BY BILLY EVANS

1. Does an umpire give any consideration as to whether an interference is intentional or accidental?

2. Catcher hits ball over fence, coacher at third puts him on the back as he rounds third, is there any penalty?

3. Is it possible for a runner to score on a double play that retires the side?

4. Umpire back of plate interferes with catcher making a throw to catch runner stealing second, what is the ruling?

5. How is the advancement of runners governed on an overthrow into the stands?

THIS TELLS IT
1. The umpire gives no consideration as to the intent on an interference play. If it happens, he must call it even though purely accidental.

2. No attention should be paid for hoping in the coacher when batsman hits ball over fence for a home run, for there is no chance for a run on such a hit.

3. A run can score on any double play that retires the side, provided the third out is not a force out, or a play in which the batsman fails to reach first. The runner, of course, must cross the plate before the final out is made.

4. The moment the umpire interferes, play is suspended and ball becomes dead. Runner is sent back to his original base, in this case, first.

5. The runner or runners shall be entitled to two bases from the base last touched when the throw was started.

CHAPTER LIX

Oh, by the way! Meet the guard of the tomb of Napoleon in the Invalides.

His name is Louis Delecourt—residence address: No. 6 Boulevard des Invalides, 1er Arrondissement.

Louis is 83 years old, going on 84. He has four medals—the medaille militaire, two medals awarded for acts of bravery and the medal of the war of 1870. He fought under Marshal Bazin in that war. He was captured twice by the Germans and each time escaped to do a little more fighting for the Patrie. His beat is around the marbled railing under the dome of the Invalides. And don't ever try to lean elbows on that railing without first having removed the hat.

"Otez votre chapeau! Toot-Sweet!"

The command is brusque. Louis means business. He don't fool. Of course only those who are absent-minded make the error. But the cause of the error makes no difference. It's disrespect in Louis' eyes. So off comes the chapeau.

Not long ago Louis was doing a bit of patrolling through the throng of tourists that milled around under the dome. Business was good. Louis was flipping his cape around in the approved style used by every guard and every garde-champetre in France. An American stepped up and saluted. Louis returned the salute. He can crack down one of the snappiest salutes in the French capital.

"May I ask you age?"

"Sure!" Louis answered. "I'm 83."

"Have you been around here very long?"

"Only about 30 years," was the reply.

"Do you expect to be around when the American Legion comes over in September for the convention?"

Louis smiled. "I can't say," was his answer. And then he used the expression which was coined by soldiers of Napoleon on the battlefield of Waterloo: "Perhaps I will be eating dandelions by the roots."

In other words, Louis Delecourt probably will hold open house around the tomb of Napoleon in September.

TOMORROW: In the Toul Sector.

You can't look at a tire and tell how far it will run

YOU CAN'T SEE a tire carcass because it is covered by the tread. Yet the way this carcass is built tells how far the tire will run.

Dunlop has had 39 years to learn all the hidden points where tires wear. Dunlop carcasses are built from the best long fibre cotton, spun in Dunlop's own mills into the famous Dunlop cable-twist cord.

These cords are elastic, so they give and take as your tire runs; strong, so they resist constant load and pounding. They build the best possible foundation for the Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known.

Thus Dunlop's extra years of experience build added value into every vital tire-part. That is why, not one Dunlop—but every Dunlop—gives you more service than you can reasonably expect.

We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car

Albert Schatz, a young man who was operating a buzz saw for George Swan received a bad rash in the left wrist the other day from the "buckings" of the saw. Miss Clarissa Pendleton gave first aid as there was no physician at hand. It was at first thought that the young man had severed an artery as considerable blood was flowing but the injury proved to be not so critical a nature. Young Schatz finds life in the country rather hazardous. When a small boy living in Gilead he had his brains nearly kicked out by a horse, in fact he did lose part of the brain tissue. He was treated in a Hartford hospital and recovered. Last fall after returning to Hebron from Manchester, where he lived several years, he lost part of his little finger in an accident and was laid up in the hospital for some time.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Frost of Colchester was baptized Wesley Towne at a baptismal service held before the morning service at St. Peter's church Sunday. Mr. Frost is a supervisor of schools for Colchester and vicinity. Other members of the party present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Bishop of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram C. Towne of Boston and Mrs. Towne, Sr., of Newburyport, were sponsors.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Holcombe of Simsbury, Mr. Holcombe's mother, Mrs. Holcombe, Sr., and a friend, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thompson.

Miss Harriet Hough has returned from Hartford where she has been attending the Hartford High school. She will spend her summer vacation at her Hebron home.

The Rev. Mr. Reynolds of Hartford, in the absence of the Rev. John Deeter, assisted in the Children's Day service at the Congregational Church at Hebron Center Sunday morning. The program consisted of recitations by the children of the Sunday school, responsive readings and appropriate music. Miss Helen Hough was in charge of the program.

Frank H. Raymond has returned home after spending several days as the guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Raymond, in New Britain. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Carrie Burnham were also guests of Mrs. Lulu Lord in South Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barrows and Miss Adelaide Barrows of Hartford were Sunday guests of Mrs. Barrow's father, William T. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. William Worthington and family of Woodus called on relatives and friends here Sunday. Mrs. Worthington was formerly Miss Doris Jones of Jones street.

Mrs. Helen Hillis White is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Keefe in Gilead.

Miss Mildred Hough accompanied Miss Lillian Friedman to New York on Sunday to be present at the Lindbergh demonstrations and parade. They were guests of friends in the city.

Some of the sunsets have caused comment recently. The sunset of Sunday was so spectacular that some of the older people who remember the glowing sunsets of the '80's were heard to say that it rivaled those in splendor. It was of deep rose, flame color, brilliant yellow and lemon.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Tennant have returned to Hebron from New Haven and are occupying the upper rooms of the Post place on the green. Mr. Tennant has secured employment in Willimantic.

6,000 AMERICANS TAKE "FAST" CURE

Wendover, England.—6,000 Americans are estimated to be making for Champeys, near Pring, this year, as their "Home of Health." There they will "tone up" their systems for the coming winter, under expert direction obtaining from all foods in the hope of regaining health and vigor. It may seem surprising that so many Americans should go to Champeys when there are so many similar institutions at home but Stanley Lief, who is in charge, explains that many come for a "toning up" after spending an exhaustive time touring Europe. Lief says many Americans come here especially for the cure, and others are taking it as part of their European experience. The treatment roughly speaking, is that after consideration of the patient's life history, a few days are spent in bringing him into condition for a fast. During this period he will take fruit juice twice a day, and frequent draughts of water. After the second or third day the desire for food will disappear and the mind will grow clearer. The conclusion of the fast will be determined by the state of the tongue. If it is pink and healthy the whole body will be "full of light." Pernicious anaemia, gastritis and blood pressure are stated to be among the cases most successfully dealt with.

This census of distribution is one of a series being made this year in a few cities of the United States, of which Baltimore was the first. The work is an outgrowth of the National Distribution Conference held in Washington. At the Washington conference,

June An Unusual Month In Manchester History

Ever since Manchester started housekeeping for itself the month of June seems to have played a prominent part in the town's history.

Although the town of Manchester, as a town, was given the right to do business on May 28, 1823, when Governor Wolcott signed the bill incorporating the Town of Manchester it was not until June 16, 1823 that the town set up business.

First Town Meeting
The old town records show that the first annual town meeting was held on June 16, 1823. The records are brief in regard to the meeting, it being set down in history of the town's records the minutes appear as follows:

"At a town meeting on the sixteenth day of June 1823 voted, That Dudley Woodbridge be town clerk, and that George Cheney, Martin Keeney and Joseph Noyes, selectmen; Norman Buckland and Wells Cheney, constables; Eleaser S. Pitkins and Joseph Case, grand jurors; Ishabod Perry, Daniel Marsh, Eli Bissell, Russell Cone and Elisha Andrew, Justices of the Peace, or thinkingmen, as they were known in those days; Alexander McClean and Calvin Cheney, fence viewers.

"Ephraim Wyllys, Watson Keeney, Matthew C. Cadwell, James Brown and Deodatus Woodbridge, surveyors of highways.

"Simon Birge, Ralph P. Phelps, Russell Cone, William Cooley, John Couch, Ashman Simonds, Elisha McKee and George W. Griswold, haywarders."

Calvin Cheney and Amos Buckland together with Sidney Olcott were named pound keepers. Amos Buckland and Sidney Olcott were also allowed to keep impounded animals on their property.

Since the first town meeting Manchester has had the following town clerks: 1823-25, Dudley Woodbridge; 1825-40, George Cheney; in the last year Ralph Cheney was temporarily town clerk; 1840-44, William Jones; Ralph R. Phelps, 1845; William Jones; 1846, Ralph R. Phelps; 1847-1855, Ralph Cheney; 1855, Rufus R. Dimock; 1855-1858, Daniel Wadsworth; 1858-1925, Samuel M. Benton; 1925, Samuel Turkington.

Fatal Accident
It was on June 6, 1872 that the first fatal accident occurred on the South Manchester railroad, the victim being one Frank Gott who tried to board a moving train, the equipment at that time consisting of one locomotive and two passenger cars. He was unsuccessful in his efforts and was killed.

The police department of Manchester was organized on June 28, 1838, the first policeman being Albert Thomas, John Watson and Edward Babcock. Thomas was the head of the department and Watson was assigned to duty on the West Side while Babcock was on duty at the north end. In 1864 John P. Sheridan was made chief and served until 1911 when Samuel G. Gordon, the present chief of police was named. This means that Manchester has had but three chiefs of police in the existence of the department and the number of men has grown from three to eighteen.

The Manchester probate district was established on June 22, 1850. Ralph Cheney was the first judge or probate serving until 1854 being succeeded by David S. Calloun, who served until 1867. Rufus Dimock followed him and served until 1885. John S. Cheney followed until Judge Olin R. Wood was elected in 1889. He served until 1918 when reaching the age of 70 he was succeeded by William S. Hyde.

Civil War
The first Manchester man to be killed in the Civil War was Patrick O'Connor, who was married in Manchester, his wife being Miss Amie Burke, an aunt of James M. Burke. At the time of his enlistment he was living on Oakland street in the house known as the Hickey House. He was killed in action on June 16, 1862 and his body is buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington. His brother-in-law, Michael Burke, also served in the army and was a Libby prisoner. One of his sons, John P. O'Connor, was later a professional baseball player and in 1878 played with the Haymakers of Troy, a team that later became the New York Giants, this coming the year after his giving up professional baseball.

Manchester's first bond issue was voted on June 22, 1863, this being done because of the town's action during the Civil War. When the first call came for volunteers Manchester's allotment was fourteen. The town paid a bounty of $300 and also took care of the families of the married men to the amount of $30 a month. It was to meet this extra expenditure that the first bond issue for the town of Manchester was made.

It was on June 23, 1866 that Ashebel Wesley Case was born in what is now Manchester. He was one of the original prohibitionists and because of his stand on this matter was defeated as a candidate to the Legislature. In 1854 he removed from Manchester and went with his family to Brockton, Ill., where he engaged in the manufacture of paper and in that place he died.

Homeland Day
It was on June 13, 1914 that Manchester had its famous "Homeland Day" when all the different nationalities took part. Two months later the World War started, but it was three years after this that Manchester took a part.

The Manchester Sanitary and Sewer District, since made a part of the Eighth School and Utilities District, was chartered on June 14, 1839, but the early work was confined to but a small section of the territory that it embraced.

The Manchester Town Court was established by an act of the Legislature on June 20, 1895. The judge was also clerk of the court. The first judge was Herbert O. Bowers, who served from 1895 to 1909. Alexander Arnott followed and served from 1909 to 1921. The present judge, Raymond A. Johnson, was sworn in as judge in July 1921.

The deputy judges who have served since the court organized are: F. W. White, 1895-1912; 1912, 1915, E. J. Holl; 1915-1923, Robert E. Carney; 1923 to the present, Thomas Ferguson.

The prosecuting attorneys have been, Charles R. Hathaway from 1895-1909 and from 1915 to the present time; Harry M. Burke, 1909 to 1912; William S. Hyde, 1912-1915.

The assistant prosecuting attorneys have been John M. Shewry from 1895 to 1903 and from 1909 to 1919; Alexander Arnott, 1895 to 1909; George H. Wadwell, 1921-1923; James Rowland, 1923 to the present time.

Manchester's First Bank
The first savings bank that Manchester ever had was known as the Savings Bank of Manchester, and was by act incorporated in, approved on June 25, 1861. The incorporators of the bank at that time were: James B. Wood, H. H. White, William H. Jones, Frank Cheney, Rush Cheney, A. E. Pitkins, Richard E. Joslyn, John Winchester, John O. Spencer, Moses Scott, Lorenzo T. Salter, George G. Griswold, George S. Parkhurst, A. M. Stone, Aaron Cook, Lucius Parker, William C. Strong, Elisha E. Hillard and Ward Cheney.

The original banking business in Manchester was known as the Manchester Building and Loan association which started business in 1853 with Moses Scott as secretary and treasurer. In 1861 it had assets of $14,565 and loans outstanding to the amount of $8,320 and was paying 10 per cent dividends. However in 1861 it changed its form of business and became known as the Savings Bank of Manchester. A. M. Stone was the president and treasurer. The deposits the first year amounted to $1,613 and five years later they had grown to $7,323 and in 1871 deposits to the amount of $13,628 were shown. It then went out of business.

The charter of the Manchester Trust company was amended on May 25, 1895, but June 10, 1903 was the date set for organization by an act of the Legislature of 1901, but it was not until February, 1905 that C. G. Watkins was elected president of the $50,000 that was required for capital having been subscribed.

The Savings Bank of Manchester was approved by the General Assembly of 1906 and on June 26 of that year opened for business, which seems to give all of the real old banking history of Manchester as being organized or started in June.

The South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer District was incorporated on June 5, 1889. The construction of sewers was at once taken up and in 1895 the construction of the filter bed system in the western part of the town was started.

Spencer's Birth
Christopher Spencer, who invented the repeating rifle, used during the latter part of the Civil War, was born in Manchester on June 26, 1833. Orders for 240,000 of these rifles were placed by the United States government during the war. He invented an automatic silk winding machine for Cheney Brothers and was also the inventor of the screw machine. It was on June 24, 1895 that William C. Cheney gave up his active military duties. He had been a member of Company K of the First Connecticut and was advanced through different ranks in the company until on February 23, 1892 he was designated inspector of rifle practice with the rank of captain which he held when he retired on June 24, 1895.

Bissell's Death
It was on June 11, 1917 that Corporal Llewellyn Bissell, a member of Company G, called out for the World War and then doing duty in Hartford, died, the first man in the United States forces from Manchester to die during the World War.

It was in June, 1909 that Captain Frank Pinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Pinney of Prospect street was ordered to the "Chicago" and supervised the construction of G-3, G-4, and G-5, pioneer submarines in the United States navy. It was June 21, 1916 that he was placed in charge of Sixth Division torpedo flotilla. He is Manchester's leading naval officer, having graduated from the Naval Academy in 1893 to take part in the Spanish American War.

It was on June 7, 1884 when the final payment had been made on St. Mary's Episcopal church that the church was consecrated. This was on a Saturday and the ceremonies were conducted by the Right Rev. Bishop Williams, Rev. Beverly E. Warner being the rector of the church at that time.

These are a few of the many important events that have taken place in Manchester in the month of June.

When you're thirsty, a glass of sparkling, home made root beer is most satisfying. Your grocer carries Williams' Root Beer Extract. adv.

Trolley Cars
It was on June 6, 1894 that the charter of the Hartford, Manchester and Rockville Tramway company was granted. M. S. Chapman was the first president and R. O. Cheney, the vice president. The first cars were run on the line between Burnside and South Manchester and 'cross town from Depot Square to South Manchester on May 15, 1895. On the first Hartford trip Seth Cone and Lawrence O'Dowd were the crew. On June 2, 1896 the lines were extended to Taicottville and in 1898 to Rockville.

U.S. Tells Thousands How To Make Liquor

Washington.—Certain congressmen have worked themselves into a fever of moral indignation because the government had operated a sneak-attack to trap bootleggers.

famous recipe for beer. Thus, here are three publications with which any bootlegger can set up shop.

Gets 10,000 Requests Congressman Hull's office has filled more than 10,000 requests for copies of his speech.

Congressman Celler's office has not kept track, but there was a big rush for the beer recipe in the months following the speech and the demand continues fairly brisk.

There is still a good supply of both the Hull and Celler speeches and the government printing office is always ready to print more when asked.

Perhaps all this interest is merely academic. But it is a more than interesting situation which finds the taxpayers contributing many millions annually to keep the nation dry and simultaneously paying printing and mailing costs for the dissemination of recipes for whiskey, wine, beer and hard cider.

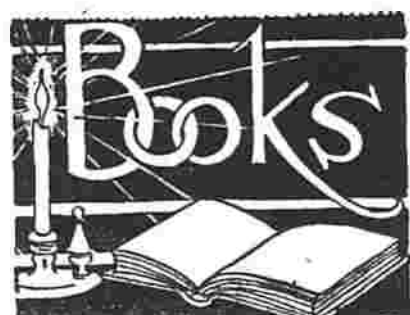

TAKES MOTION PICTURE OF NORTH END FIELD DAY

Director Washburn Will Show Boys and Girls at Play to Themselves.

With the idea of stressing the importance of visual education on the minds of school children, Director George H. Washburn took motion pictures of the annual field day program of the Eighth and Outlying Districts which was held this afternoon on the Community Club Playgrounds.

ORDERS ARE ORDERS

Mother: Why is baby crying? Nurse (in next room): He wants— Mother: Well, give him what he wants. The baby howls tender. Mother: Why didn't you give him what he wanted? Nurse: I did. It was a wasp.—Karlukuren, Oslo.

Glancing back over a literary season, it is depressing to note how much is written and how very little of importance said. Frantic youngsters, groping for expression, seek to analyze their own young emotions; others try to adjust a typical "modern" woman to her new world, or to present married and unmarried couples under varying circumstances of a changing society.

Ideas as Influence Only one that we recall was truly big. That was the translation of Thomas Mann's "The Magic Mountain," the two-volume labor of many years in which ideas were dealt with on a large scale, but not in the forced forms established by H. G. Wells or Upton Sinclair.

Sinclair Lewis' "Elmer Gantry" proved a bit exciting; Sylvia Townsend's "Mr. Fortune's Maggot" was a fine job in delicate irony; Edna Millay and Edwin Arlington Robinson seem to fight it out for poetry honors; the most readable of the season's plays seemed to us to be Robert Sherwood's "The Road to Rome"; of the many mystery tales we liked best "The Marquis de Bolibar" and T. S. Lawrence's "Revolt in the Desert" easily leads the remainder.

Hiding in College Toward the far end of the season an important writer of the American scene appeared in O. E. Rolvaag whose "Giants in the Earth" (Harpers) gives a Norwegian's eye-view of the struggles of his own people in the Dakota prairies.

A bit late we get around to Thyra Sampter Winslow's "People Around the Corner" (Knopf), a collection of short stories, character studies and vignettes. Her pictures of ordinary folk are so vivid and true as to be depressing.

Then there is a new novel by Storm Jameson who, in "Three Kingdoms," won the particular interest of women readers through her presentation of a woman's conflict when faced by love of her man, her offspring and her work. Her new book is "The Lovely Ship" (Knopf) and beyond the tanglement of loves and marriages there is an idyllic theme having to do with the shipyard in which Mary Garton played as a child and her work at the age of 20, she falls heir—still dreaming of the beautiful ship—she one day shall build.

For the Ladies Then there is a new novel by Storm Jameson who, in "Three Kingdoms," won the particular interest of women readers through her presentation of a woman's conflict when faced by love of her man, her offspring and her work. Her new book is "The Lovely Ship" (Knopf) and beyond the tanglement of loves and marriages there is an idyllic theme having to do with the shipyard in which Mary Garton played as a child and her work at the age of 20, she falls heir—still dreaming of the beautiful ship—she one day shall build.

A Wise-Cracker "The 'Majestic' Adventure" (Bobbs-Merrill) by Richard Halliburton, is the second of this young man's juvenile reactions from his travel adventures. His other book "The Royal Road to Romance" (Bobbs-Merrill) is somewhat of a best seller and the handsome hero is quite a figure out on the "autographed copy" circuit. His smart-alecky, wise-cracking attitude has put us quite out of patience with this young man, though many seem to fancy this, and his entire attitude seems to us epitomized by the picture on the cover jacket where he is shown with chest puffed out and fingers in his vest standing on the ruins of the Coliseum.

SUCH A BEST

Mrs. Green: And whom does this statue represent? Mrs. Hills: That is Diana, executed in terra cotta. Mrs. Green: Oh, the poor thing! How cruel they are in those outlandish countries.—Passing Show.

POLICE COURT

Herbert Palmer of East Hartford pleaded guilty in the Manchester police court this morning to speeding on Center street. He was arrested by Patrolman R. H. Wirtalla yesterday. Young Palmer had no money to pay his fine and costs and told the judge he had his mother to support. As a result the judge kindly remitted the fine and gave him time to pay the costs of the court, $8.32.

Tony Kupchunas, brother of Frank Kupchunas, who was in police court yesterday charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, was brought into the Manchester police court today on the charge of breach of the peace. He was represented in court by Attorney Dennis P. O'Connor of Hartford. The prosecuting attorney was not ready to go ahead with the case and it was continued until tomorrow morning.

SCOUTS COVERED WAGON IS OF SOMBRE ORIGIN

The "covered wagon" which will constitute the baggage train of the Boy Scouts of Troop 1 when they hike to Marlborough lake, starting this evening, was not always associated with so much of virility and energy as on this occasion. Nobody would suspect it, but the "Canastota" of this trip was once that sad and somber thing, a "dead wagon." It belonged to an undertaker and was employed exclusively in the crepe-hung rites of that profession.

It is a thing of different aspect now, with its roof of canvas stretched on biplanes, suggestive of resolute pioneering, Bujuj fights, etc. The boys will be at the lake until Sunday evening, camping on land given for their use by Frank Cheney, Jr.

Falconry still is a popular sport in China.

CARD OF THANKS We wish to thank all friends, neighbors and relatives for sympathy shown us at the time of the death of our wife and mother. We would also thank those who contributed flowers, and the use of their autos. (Signed) Chas. O. Steele and Family.

GOVERNOR TURNS DOWN LUCAS GIFT Refuses to Sign Bill Granting $500 Claim For Death of Asylum Patient.

The case of the Lucas family of 27 Homestead street against the State of Connecticut for damages resulting from the death of Mathew Lucas in the State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown came up again yesterday when Governor Trumbull sent back unsigned a bill allowing the family $500 for funeral expenses.

Lucas, who was taken to the Middletown asylum last February after he had become violently insane, died there, from what was said to be the result of a scuffle with one of the guards. The family was not satisfied with the finding of the Middlesex county coroner and engaged Springfield lawyers to bring a case against the State of Connecticut, alleging ill treatment.

The first step of the lawyers was taken when they had the body exhumed and a second autopsy performed by Hartford physicians. At that time their findings were brought before the state and a bill was introduced in the Legislature to give the family $500 to defray the cost of the funeral. The bill passed both houses without discussion, having been favorably recommended by the committee on claims.

According to the story told by the guard at the asylum, Lucas had refused to submit to a bath, and in the ensuing scuffle, had fallen to the floor, fracturing his jaw against the bath tub. Doctors who examined the body the second time gave out no statement as to other injuries which had been found, but it was intimated that the first injury mentioned was not the one which had caused the boy's death.

YOUNGEST STARTS CAR; IT RUNS DOWN BANK

An automobile belonging to Leroy J. Holmes, Main street insurance man, had its windshield and top broken yesterday when the machine which was parked on North Elm street was started up by Joe, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cappello of the same street. The child ran the machine over an embankment and it required Starkweather's truck and six men to haul the car back to the highway. The boy was unhurt and the automobile proceeded under its own power. Sergeant Barron and Patrolman Wirtalla investigated.

REQUEST REFUSED

New Haven, Conn., June 17.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas of United States District Court has refused the request of creditors of the time in Manufacturing Company of New Britain that sale of the company's factory in Poland, last August, be set aside and the property conveyed to the creditors. The claim was made that the property was sold within four months of the time of bankruptcy and at a time the company was known to be insolvent. ## The Lowest Rates For Herald Want Ads are given on orders for SIX DAYS and that is the right order to give to secure the most satisfactory results.

Advertising is cumulative in its effect and an ad that is published for SIX consecutive days has greater result producing power than one published for one, two, or three days. This is a fixed and proved rule in advertising and you can depend upon it.

REMEMBER

that when you get results before the six times are up you can stop your ad, by mail or telephone if you wish, and you will be charged ONLY for the actual number of times the ad appeared in the paper, charging at the rate earned.

This is a service arrangement for the benefit of our advertisers.

Business has not been so good since the hurricane and Mr. and Mrs. Gates decided to return to Manchester. They are staying with Mr. Gates' father, Olin Gates at Highland Park, but it is understood they plan to go housekeeping for themselves again as soon as possible. THE GUY WHO SAYS YACHTING IS A PLEASURE HAS WINDY IDEAS.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

As Cobby swam up out of sight, he thought of Scouty Tinymite and wondered if the octopus would do him any harm. "I wish that I could find King Roar," said he. "I know he'd help, once more." You really can't blame Cobby. He had real cause for alarm. He finally reached the water top, and made the dock with one grand hop. The other Tinies saw him and they shouted loud. "Hello! Where have you been? We've worried sick. You surely pulled a dandy trick." Then Cobby told them all about his trip way down below. It sure created quite a fuss when they heard of the octopus. "Oh, gee," exclaimed wee Clowny. "Scouty's likely gone by now. I wish that we could lend him aid but, after all, I am afraid that we can never do it 'cause we simply don't know how." And, in the meantime, Scouty stood and fought the very best he

SENSE and NONSENSE

Call a man smart and you flatter him, call him sharp and you offend him. As the horse disappears, horse-back riding becomes aristocratic and a time may yet arrive when there is social prestige in walking. Father—There was something funny about you last night, daughter. Offspring—I know, but I sent him home as early as I could. We wonder if a girl hates the task of painting her face as much as a man hates that of shaving his. Naming the Twins "So you have got twins at your house," said Mrs. Besumble to little Tommy. "Yes, ma'am, two of 'em." "What are you going to call them?" "Thunder and Lightning." "Why, those are strange names to call children." "Well, that's what Pa called them as soon as he heard they were in the house."

And Her Father Bit Her Father—"Laura is too young I tell you! Far too young to even think of marriage! Do I understand that the ring you gave her is an engagement ring?" Percival—"Oh, no, sir. It's just a teething ring, sir." Fable: Once upon a time a man went to a hospital for an operation and was told he didn't need it. The woman doesn't remember what she wants to forget. Some men borrow trouble, some buy it and some run a newspaper expecting to please everybody. 'Twould Require Tact Simmons had returned from his vacation. "I certainly enjoyed the husking bee," he said to a friend. "Were you ever in the country during the season of husking-bees?" "Husking-bees?" exclaimed the girl. "Why I never heard of that! How do you husk a bee, anyway, Mr. Simmons?" No man thinks it necessary to tell her she is the first he ever loved unless she isn't. Here lies the remains of Johnny Riddle. He pulled off the road to pass a bridge. The strenuous old days We can remember when, the labor of days upon days about to culminate in the achievement of a dress, the weary needlewoman would say triumphantly, "Well, it's all done but the buttons and button holes!" "Father," said Little Albernorn, "why are my hair grown so much longer than yours, when your's has grown so much longer than mine?" The alarm clock simply didn't ring. They often get that way. It cost him one day's pay.
