HAWAII IS ANXIOUS TO HONOR FLYERS

Maitland and Hegenberger Face Long Social Program Today—Swamped With Cable Messages.

Honolulu, T. H., June 30.—With all Hawaii anxious to honor them, Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger faced a social program today that may prove more wearing than their 26-hour flight from Oakland, California to Honolulu.

Rested, and with their hunger temporarily appeased, the Army aviators started out this morning on a round of official calls. At nine a. m., the flyers presented themselves to General Edward Lewis, commander of the Department of Hawaii. An hour later the aviators officially greeted Admiral John McDonald, naval station commander.

Call on Governor
The trans-Pacific birdmen then finished their morning schedule by calling upon Governor General Farrington of the Territory of Hawaii. At noon, Maitland and Hegenberger will be honor guests at a community luncheon.

Col. John H. Howard of the air service detail in Hawaii will give a dinner in honor of the flyers tonight. Sixty guests representing the official and civilian select of the islands, are invited.

Dinner Dance
The only other event thus far scheduled is a dinner dance at the Royal Hawaiian hotel on the night of July fourth. The public will be allowed to attend the Independence Day reception.

The flyers were overwhelmed today with invitations to social functions, but both Maitland and Hegenberger showed inclination to keep their social calendar limited to essential personal appearances.

Many Messages
Cable messages of congratulation, from President Coolidge down to unknown well-wishers, swamped the army pilots today.

In keeping with their refusal to accept a newspaper offer of $12,500 for their personal stories, Maitland and Hegenberger showed no eagerness to capitalize financially their daring 2,400 mile jaunt. They are not eligible for the $25,000 prize offered by James Dole, Hawaiian pineapple planter, as competition for the Dole purse will not begin till after August twelfth.

Search For Food
The outstanding event of the longest ocean flight on record, the modest airman maintained, was their fruitless search for the sandwiches and coffee they had taken with them in the cabin of the tri-motored Fokker. Upon arrival of the plane, the missing provisions were discovered under a bit of canvas. By that time, however, Maitland and Hegenberger had been without food for nearly 26 hours.

The flyers passed lightning over the fact that each of their three motors had, in turn, given them trouble and that one engine had spluttered badly in the early morning hours.

MOVIES ON SQUARE IN FOURTH PROGRAM
Open Air Film Exhibit In Addition to Bands, Fireworks and Dancing.

The executive committee in charge of the big Fourth of July celebration to be given by the Manchester Improvement Club announced today an important addition to its program for the enjoyment of the public. The committee has arranged what is believed to be the first public open-air picture show ever given at the north end—a free film exhibit on Depot Square on the night of the Fourth.

A full-sized, standard theater moving picture machine will be used, with regulation sized screen. To carry out the plan it will be necessary to erect a temporary moving picture booth on the park on the square, near the bandstand.

State Police Permit
Under the state law, moving picture exhibitions must have the sanction of the state police. A permit was secured from Superintendent Robert J. Hurley yesterday by Chairman William Foulds Jr. It is planned to erect the screen high on one of the buildings west of the Cowles Hotel. The installing and

ONCE NOISIEST DISTRICT DIES AS 7 LOOK ON Old Fighting Sixth Quits Functioning As Six Voters and Reporter Recall Colorful Meetings.

What was probably the last meeting that the Sixth School District will ever hold, as a separate school district, was held in the little three-room school building on Olcott street last night. Only six were present, in addition to The Herald reporter, to pass upon the last rites of the district, all feeling that it was an important event in the history of the district.

Since the day that Manchester became a town there has stood in that vicinity a small school. It was only a short distance from the first tavern erected in Manchester and history tells how this tavern was erected to take care of the "traveler and the people in that vicinity who had grown in great numbers. It was the district that was the first in the way of manufacturing, for within its day there has been no less than fifteen different mills that have operated in the district and the old building at the corner was the meeting place for years of Manchester's oldest lodge, A. F. and A. M.

Changes
Change in business centers, floods and the departure from the district of the older residents has reduced both the number and wealth of the district until in 1924 it asked and was taken under the wing of the Ninth District, Inc. The district was small in numbers, small in grand list. Its holdings were valued at $3,000 and its debt at the same amount. Its grand list was less than $1,000 and the big strong list had but a $500,000 debt.

Cost of Joining
It was decided that the part that the Sixth District must pay to the Ninth District in order to come under the care and maintenance of

300 P. C. INCREASE IN BANKRUPTCIES

State Figures Jump From 208 to 642—Tobacco Farmers In the Lead.

New Haven, Conn., June 30.—Bankruptcies in Connecticut have increased more than three hundred per cent in the past nine years, according to figures from the office of Charles Elliott Pickett, clerk of the United States District Court of Connecticut. Bankruptcies have risen from 208 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, to more than 642 in the fiscal year that ended today. The year that ends, as far as the federal government is concerned, this afternoon, set a new high record for bankruptcies.

Since the War
Bankruptcies filed in Connecticut since the close of the war were as follows in 1919, 208; in 1920, 227; in 1921, 340; in 1922, 597; in 1923, 555; in 1924, 480; in 1925, 525; in 1926, 694; in 1927 more than 642.

The year now closing saw bankruptcies filed in Connecticut at the rate of nearly two every day. They ranged from 44 in July through 77 in December to 45 in June. Bankruptcies filed by months in the year were as follows:

By Months
July, 55; August, 43; September, 41; October, 54; November, 62; December, 77; January, 55; February, 65; March, 65; April, 45; May, 46; June, 45, at least.

No particular section of the state and no class of business stood out in the list of bankruptcies during the passing year, though petitions filed by tobacco farmers in northern Connecticut were noticeable. Of business failures a majority were those of concerns in business but a very short while, apparently having started without sufficient capital.

BYRD STARTS ACROSS ATLANTIC

Like a great bird greeting the dawn was the monoplane "America" as it took off from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, for Europe with Commander Richard Byrd, Lieutenant George Noville, Bert Acosta and Berni Balchen aboard. The photo shows the "America" poised gracefully on the raised end of the Roosevelt Field runway, a few moments before the flight started.

Wireless Messages About The 'America'

London, June 30.—The air Ministry's noon weather forecast predicts rain over most of the British Isles with fair intervals and light to moderate easterly winds; also, lower temperature with unsettled conditions over the English channel and the southern part of the Irish sea.

Valentia, Ireland, June 30.—The Valentia wireless station at 6:30 o'clock (Greenwich mean time) picked up a radiogram from the America in which Commander Richard E. Byrd stated that his monoplane was passing through heavy fog and that he and his companions "had not seen land nor water since four o'clock Wednesday afternoon."

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., June 30.—The steamship Belgeland, eastbound, reported hearing signals from the airplane America, according to a dispatch from the Chatham broadcasting station at three o'clock this morning. This steamship and the liner Paris, also eastbound, are believed to be the nearest ships to the plane. It was estimated they were about 300 miles from the America.

London, June 30.—The America established wireless contact with Ireland early today. The Mallin Head wireless station, according to Lloyds, picked up calls from the America at 2:30 this morning. Greenwich mean time. Particulars regarding the progress of the flight were not given. Mallin Head is on the extreme northwest coast of Ireland.

Paris, June 30.—At 8:15 o'clock this morning (4:15 Eastern daylight time), Commander Richard E. Byrd, in his Fokker plane America, had covered about three-quarters of his long water jump from New Bedford to the Irish coast on his flight from New York to Paris, according to a radio received from the liner Paris.

COLLEGE LEADERS IN U. S. ARE REDS

Decent Women Colleges Needed Also, Says F. A. Goodwin In Address.

Lawrence, Mass., June 30.—Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin in a stirring address to the Kiwanis club today declared that:

1. College leaders head the Red movement in America.
2. It might be well for various states to found and support colleges for women where decency and morality be taught.
3. Sacco Fund
The bulk of the money back of the defense of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, doomed to die for a double killing, comes out of the $800,000 left to Charles Garland of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts "Love Farm" fame.
4. Blessings in Disguise
The Sacco-Vanzetti case is a "blessing in disguise" because it has "dragged out into the open the enemies of our country, not only those who openly plot to overthrow it by force, but those who are insidiously tearing down the institutions that have made it possible for us to become the greatest nation in the world."

He concluded: "It is an impressive fact that the nearer we get to the scene of this murder, the more convinced are the people that these men are guilty."

LITTLE ALCOHOL IN HOME BREW

Beer Seized Is Much Milder Than Before War, State Chemists Discover.

New Haven, Conn., June 30.—The range of alcohol content in ale and beer once was three to five per cent but now it is not over one-half of one per cent, according to chemical studies of these liquors made at the state agricultural experiment station here, and reported in its annual statistics for 1926 released today.

The experiment station analyzed whiskey, gin, rum, brandy, sweet and dry wines, five cordials, beer, ale, commercial and concentrated malt extract and cider. Unusual things were found, the report says, one sample of brandy found to contain 33.5 per cent of sugar. The range of alcoholic content was 35 to 50 per cent. Cider was found to have from 2.5 per cent to six per cent alcohol, while the cordials had from 35 to 50 per cent alcohol. Natural wines had six to twelve per cent of alcohol and "forfeited" wines 15 to 20 per cent. Dry wines had up to 3.6 per cent of sugar and sweet wines from one-tenth per cent to 40.7 per cent.

STATE LABOR HEAD FILLS VACANCIES

Six Women Inspectors Now On Job—State Now Divided Into Districts.

Hartford, Conn., June 30.—Seven appointments to fill vacancies for new posts created by the recent State Legislature in the Labor Department were announced today by Harry E. MacKenzie, of Bethel, state commissioner of labor. Mrs. Bertha Thompson, of Williamstown, formerly Miss Grace Norton Murray, of Guilford, and is placed in charge of the work in Eastern Connecticut.

Women Inspectors
Miss Bridget A. Lester, of Bridgeport, who is vice-chairman of the Republican town committee, has also been made an inspector, making six women inspectors in the department.

William Sandland, former mayor of Waterbury, has been named to succeed John Quinlan, of Meriden, who will be retired on a pension on July fifth. Eugene House, deputy sheriff at Glastonbury, has been appointed inspector of bake shops and other food supply houses. William Lutton, formerly an assistant in the state capitol, and Clarence Towbridge, former representative from Roxbury, have been placed on the inspector staff also.

Employment Job
Robert Grant of New Haven, has been named superintendent of the New Haven free employment bureau office.

Department inspectors met at the capitol today and the state is being redivided as a result. Each inspector will be in charge of a definite territory within thirty miles of his own home.

Commissioner MacKenzie seeks greater efficiency and a reduction in expenses by the new plan.

GORED BY A COW
Stamford, Conn., June 30.—Dominick Lorenzo, 40, was dangerously gored by a cow at Lorenzo's slaughter house on West Hill road here today.

Lorenzo had stabbed the cow when in its dying frenzy it worked its head loose and its horns raked the man's body. Lorenzo was taken to Stamford hospital suffering from loss of blood and from shock.

PARIS IS PREPARED FOR HUGE WELCOME

Another Big Demonstration In Store For Americans When They Arrive.

Paris, June 30.—Another great demonstration is in store for Le Bourget air depot when Commander Richard E. Byrd arrives tonight in his tri-motored monoplane America.

Overnight news that the America was still on the way, although encountering thick weather, strengthened the belief here that the gallant American aviators would make the long flight over the trail blazed by Charles A. Lindbergh successfully.

Make Preparations
Officials of the air depot at Le Bourget are making preparations to care for the America. Mechanics will be put at the disposal of Commander Byrd immediately if he plans a non-stop flight back home at once. It is not believed, however, that the Americans plan an immediate return flight.

Herrick in U. S.
In the absence of Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador, an attaché of the embassy will be at the field to greet the Americans.

POSTHUMOUS HONORS FOR CONNECTICUT BOY

Parents of Capt. Henry, of Greenwich to Receive Distinguished Service Cross.

Greenwich, Conn., June 30.—Posthumous honors are to be paid Connecticut hero of the World War here next Sunday afternoon when Major-General Clarence D. Edwards bestows on Mr. and Mrs. Ira W. Henry, of Sound Beach, the Distinguished Service Cross awarded their son, Captain Clifford West Henry, who died from a wound received in the attack at St. Mihiel, France, on September 24, 1918.

Captain Henry, a senior in Harvard at the time, applied for active service after training in Harvard R. O. C. at Fort Leavenworth and Fort Borden. He was sent overseas and attached to the 26th Division, getting active service with the 102nd Infantry.

Captain Henry was leading Company F, M. 102nd, when he was struck by a shell fragment. He died in a hospital at Allerey, France, October 17, 1918, at the age of 22. Harvard bestowed a degree on him and made him a member of the class of 1918.

COUNTY COURT HOUSE CORNERSTONE IS LAID

Governor Makes Address; Two Manchester Men, Members of Building Board.

Hartford, Conn., June 30.—The cornerstone of the new two million dollar county building was laid this afternoon by Governor John R. Trumbull with impressive ceremonies before several hundred spectators. Many copies of public and special records were incased in the stone. A short congratulatory message to the people of the county was delivered by the governor, and a dedicatory message by Justice William M. Malby.

Commissioners in charge of the erection of the structure are Morgan B. Brainard, Hartford; Frank Cheney, Jr., Manchester; Samuel H. Graham, Suffield; Edwin W. Schultz, New Britain; Charles E. Goodrich, Glastonbury; Henry A. Walcott, West Hartford; Raymond A. Johnson, Manchester, and Joseph F. Berry of Hartford.

Atlantic Flyers Unable to See Land or Water For Major Portion of Trip—Automatic Radio Broadcaster, However, Heard Nearly All of the Time—Now In Communication With Stations In France—American Plane Expected to Reach Paris Between Four and Five O'Clock (Eastern Daylight Time).

Reverend Father... The following log shows the progress of the America today, on its non-stop flight from New York to Paris: (Eastern Daylight Time).

2:30 a. m.—Reports by weather forecasters say America passing through heavy fog.

4:15 a. m.—America estimated to have covered three-quarters of the water jump from Newfoundland to Ireland.

6:30 a. m.—Byrd, wireless: "Covered by fog for sixteen hours. Whatever happens, I take my hat off to these great fellows with me."

7 a. m.—370 miles west and south of Ireland.

11:05 a. m.—Byrd wireless he expected to sight land within an hour.

12 noon.—America reported south of Cape Cornwall, England.

2:30 p. m.—Byrd in wireless communication with Brest, France.

Daylight Saving Time, and if no mishap occurs should alight at Le Bourget flying field at Paris between six and seven o'clock to the New York Daylight Saving Time. The flyers are now more than three-quarters of the way across.

Advices from the European continent indicate that Byrd will have to battle adverse conditions to the very end. The monoplane communicated with the wireless station at Mallin Head, on the extreme northwest coast of Ireland.

Later during the forenoon several ships at sea reported that they had heard the signals from the America. Also, the wireless station at Valentia, Ireland, reported 6:30 o'clock (Greenwich mean time) that they had picked up a message from the plane in which Byrd said the America was passing through heavy fog and that he and his companions had not seen land nor water since three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Automatic Signals
The steady buzzing of the America's radio, "WTW, WTW, WTW," heard by ships at sea, was optimistic news to the little band of faithful well-wishers juddered about the radio at Roosevelt Field. Grover Whalen vice president of the America Trans-Oceanic Co., sponsors of the flight, said: "Whatever happens concerning the flight to Paris, Byrd who had departed for her home in Boston, Mrs. Acosta, wife of Bert Acosta, the pilot, and Mrs. Noville eagerly read every scrap of radio news as it was given to them in the "Radio room" of the Garden City hotel.

Commander Byrd probably changed his course to a more southerly one because of a wireless sent to the airship advising him to take a more southerly route because of bad weather that lay ahead of him on his proposed route.

"They'll Make It"
"They'll make it," was the consensus at Roosevelt Field. Officials at the field were in constant touch with the Weather Bureau. James H. Kimball, of the New York Weather Bureau, said there was nothing so far as he could forecast from this section that might give the America serious difficulty on the final stage of the flight.

Shortly after ten o'clock this morning, Byrd flashed a message to the Weather Bureau, which was relayed to Roosevelt Field saying that at seven a. m. the America's position was 49.33 North Latitude, 15.18 West Longitude, and that the plane was flying at an altitude of ten thousand feet in a dense freezing fog.

This would place the America about 370 miles from Ireland but considerably south of the original line of flight. Byrd at this point was on a direct line from Lands

Rockville RESERVE DECISION IN FELBER CASE Divorce Action Takes All Afternoon—Loan Little Money On Real Estate.

Rockville, June 30.—The divorce action of Felber vs. Felber took all of yesterday afternoon and wound up by the reading of love letters sent by Mr. Felber to his wife after she had left his home in which he asked her to return and assured her the love nest was waiting. He also told the court that it was still waiting. In fact the place must wait, as he included in the letter a quit claim deed that he wished her to sign so he could sell the property. The last letter that was read to the court by Mr. Noonan ended by telling his wife that he still loved her, always would and it would be hard to go through life without her and William, the baby. It wound up with a postscript in which he told her, "I am a nervous wreck, all in a daze and in fact I ran by two traffic signals and when they noticed my condition allowed me to go."

Judge Yeomans did not give his decision, but informed the lawyers on both sides that he would allow them ten days in which to file their bill of particulars and he would then take the papers. Banks Within the Limit. "Rockville and Tolland money has made the progress of Manchester possible," is an expression often heard by those closely in touch with Manchester developments during the past twenty years, but there is little of that money being used in Manchester today. In fact, it is used in no place, due to a law that becomes effective on July 1 which regulates the amount of money that can be loaned on real estate as it relates to the savings banks of Connecticut. Only one percent of the amount of the deposits and the surplus or undivided earnings of a savings bank can now be loaned on real estate mortgages as it assures the bank quick assets in case of trouble.

In both of the Savings Banks of Rockville this is being met. The People's Savings Bank has not loaned on mortgages in the last six months $1,000 on first mortgages and in the Tolland bank there has been less than $750 loaned. The reason for this was to get under the limit and the deposits that have been made and the additional paid into surplus has in July 1, to show that they are within the limits. The Savings Bank of Rockville, a large savings institution was below the amount when their statement was issued in January and have been within the limit ever since. They have been doing business since 1848 and are a well established and rich bank. The three banks that are mentioned are paying 5 per cent interest, something that but few banks could do were it not because of the large amounts loaned on real estate. The surplus that each has set up and the loans that they still have will enable them to continue to pay the same rate of interest on deposits as they have been doing for the past eight years.

Recovering From Shock. Charles Coleman, who witnessed the drowning of Charles S. Carter of East Hartford, while he remained two hours in the water before being picked up by a passing boat, was resting comfortably at his home this morning. He arrived in Rockville at 1:30 this morning and was greatly upset over the accident. In his description of the case it seems that Carter who was a strong young man, must have suffered a heart attack, as when he let go of the boat he did not come up for some time and when he did it was feet first. Coleman tried to save him, but he slipped out of his hands and Coleman remained in the water for an hour and a half before aid reached him. Waneagar—Kress. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kress of Ellington avenue have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Kress to Leroy Waneagar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Waneagar of High street. They were married by Rev. Tiepjen, pastor of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church of New Haven on April 23.

Mothers' Club Picnic. The Mothers' Club held its annual picnic yesterday afternoon at the Vernon County Home. The party left Rockville at 1:30. A program of sports just for the children of the home was in charge of Mrs. George Heroy. The children gave their graduation program which was in charge of the teacher, Miss Helen Regan, and was very much appreciated by the members of the club. Then the children were presented with lolly pops and cracker jacks and as the club left for Rockville, three hearty cheers were given for the Mothers' club. Visit Iona Council. Tuesday evening eight members of Kiowa Council, D. of P., motored to Stafford Springs and were the guests of Iona Council. Those making the trip were Deputy Great Pocahontas of the local council, Mrs. Dina Heroy; Past Great Pocahontas Mrs. Mary Champagne, Mrs. Charles Willike, Mrs. Nellie Jackson, Mrs. Annie Siegfried, Mrs. Jennie Meyers, Charles Champagne and John Lary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stepp have moved from Cottage street to 65 High street. Ralph S. Harvey of the State Board of Education, was in town Monday to issue working certificates to school pupils who are planning to work this summer. Mrs. George Chadwick, who has been ill for several weeks, is resting comfortably at her home on Union street. The Three-in-One club will hold the last dance of the season in the Ellington Town hall on Saturday evening, July 2. Carlton Buckmaster and his orchestra will furnish the music. The public is cordially invited.

Herbert A. Spielman of West Man has been under medical treatment at the Newport Naval hospital at Newport, has returned home much improved.

Mrs. Ruth McKinstry Cooley will give a recital of her pianoforte pupils at her home in Ellington on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dickenson of Milford are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Milne of Union street.

Dr. Maurice Freeman Smith of Boston is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Saenger of Union street. Everett Little of Hammond street has purchased the property owned by his father, Thomas Little, at 111 Orchard street, and will move there in the near future. William Poehner of West street has purchased a Willys Knight.

TOWNS CANNOT VOTE ON OUTSIDE MATTERS

Can Only Act Legally In Subjects Included In Call. Alling Says.

Hartford, Conn., June 30.—A town meeting cannot legally act on any matter not included in the call for the meeting, and for this reason an appropriation of $95,000 for an addition to a school house in East Hampton, voted May twenty-third, is not valid. Such is the opinion of Benjamin W. Alling, state's attorney, given today to Ralph G. Sellow, first selectman of the little Middlesex county town, who raised the question.

The matter of the new school facilities has created a great difference of opinion in the town and in the view of this situation, Mr. Alling advised that "in order that a fair and full expression may be obtained, the Board of Selectmen call a special town meeting, and provide that all action of May 23rd be rescinded, that a resolution be presented to the selectmen to call for an addition and then, if the resolutions pass, vote a construction appropriation." Then Mr. Alling advised: "All of these matters should be specifically mentioned in the call for the meeting, and the town attorney should prepare the call so that no question may be raised after the meeting is held."

NORTH END ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Beatrice Johnson will give several recitations and Thomas Maxwell's Mandolin club will provide musical numbers at the entertainment to be given at the North Methodist church tomorrow evening under auspices of the Sunday school. The pageant entitled "Getchen's Wondrous Adventure," which was successfully presented on Chittenden street by a large cast from the Sunday school, and which plays about an hour, will be repeated in the auditorium of the church. The costumes and scenery have been arranged for by a committee composed of Mrs. C. L. Bach, Mrs. Marvin S. Stocking and Miss Mary Hanna. They are assisted for tomorrow evening's program by Miss Bernice Lydall and Leon Holmes.

ECONOMY HITS HARTFORD

Hartford, Conn., June 30.—Internal Revenue Department workers in Connecticut were hit during the fiscal year, closing today, by "the line of economy." Thirty-one of the staff were dropped from the rolls, according to Colonel Robert O. Eaton, department head, and office space was reduced to two whole floors of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company office building here to a single floor. In spite of decreased forces Colonel Eaton has arranged to give each of his workers a vacation of two weeks with pay.

SUDDEN DEATHS

Waterbury, Conn., June 30.—Two sudden deaths were recorded here today. Francesco Wel Rosso, 60, stumbled and fell two steps on the stairs in his home and died in Waterbury hospital from internal injuries received in the fall. Frank Bernier, 57, was found dead in a pit in the Worden Ice Cream company's plant and Dr. A. A. Crane, medical examiner, is to perform an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

KILLED BY COAL CAR

Greenwich, Conn., June 30.—Erobok Shwaikus, of Cataract avenue, Minnaus, was instantly killed this afternoon when a loaded coal car ran over him, cutting off an arm and mangle his body. Shwaikus was one of a gang unloading coal. He was standing in the middle of the track when the car suddenly moved along the siding and caught him unawares. A fellow workman, on the car, stopped by applying the hand brake but not before Shwaikus was run down.

LINDY IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, June 30.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh probably will leave St. Louis late this afternoon for Ottawa, Canada, where on Saturday he will be the honored guest at the dominion jubilee, it was announced today by Major William B. Robertson, at whose home the trans-Atlantic flyer is guest. Major Robertson said if Colonel Lindbergh does not leave today, he would depart early tomorrow. The flyer returned here from his New York visit last night.

CLINE TRIAL CHOICE CAUSES BIG MIXUP

Sure to Delay Case—Will Forestall Death Penalty Until Next Year.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, June 30.—Many legal points will be raised before the trial, or the introduction of evidence, is started in the case of Leonard Cline, accused of the murder of Wilfred Irwin in the town of Mansfield last May. It is admitted that Attorney William King is an exceptional trial lawyer, with special appeal to jurors and when, on his advice, Leonard Cline elected to be tried by a judge when brought before the Tolland County Superior Court on June 13 there was considered in the minds of those who are familiar with legal proceedings that there was something behind the view of the plea that surprised expressed that this should be the selection.

Behind this they considered a motive and that motive they are still guessing at. To a question asked Mr. King yesterday afternoon after the close of a trial in Rockville that had taken the greater part of the day, at the same time being shown the article concerning the question of the jury and also the section concerning "ignorance of law," Mr. King, the congenial person that he is, did little in the way of commenting on the question.

"Do you think that your client should have his case tried before a judge?" he was asked and replied: "It was my desire to have the case tried before a judge and at the time of the plea the law said that a person could elect as to the method by which he should be tried. It was the law then, but if there is to be a change then I feel that again my client should be given an opportunity to elect the manner in which he should be tried."

Most of the attorneys that have been spoken to are of the opinion that in electing to have the case heard before the court that the law that will be in effect in September 1, as stated in The Herald yesterday, will be the way in which the case should be tried, but in the opinion of Judge Yeomans, who will be the presiding judge here in the September term, when Cline's case comes up, this is not fully clear, as he told the reporter after court yesterday.

"If a man is to be tried must the trial be conducted under the law which governs such cases?" he was asked by the reporter. "That I am not ready to state just at present. Supposing the case had started and was on trial and the court was still in session on July 1 when the law changes, what would happen then?" he replied. He admitted that he would take advice on the question before he would render his decision, as he will when the court convenes in September.

It was noticed that at different times during the time when the divorce case was on trial yesterday afternoon that Judge Yeomans was reading from the General Statutes as of 1908 and that his attention was mostly on the top of the page, which is Section 6721 of the General Statutes of 1908. This statute refers to a change in laws while cases are on trial and does not allow the law to interfere in case the present legislation being enacted while people were on trial, or had civil suits before the court, which might benefit some friend of a member of the legislature.

This section, especially the last clause, is the one that is causing the complication. It states that a man already under trial cannot be affected by a change in the law or an act by which he is being heard, but the fact that this law was in existence for several years leads to the impression that knowing this Mr. King has taken one interpretation of the law and has decided that instead of being heard by one judge, who would be Judge Yeomans, that it is not now allowable for the addition of two more. It is true that he has been indicted, that he has been put to plea and has selected that the trial be by the court. At present the court in cases where carries a state prison sentence such as hanging or life imprisonment makes it possible that the case be tried by one judge, but tomorrow the law changes and provides for three judges to constitute the court.

Mr. King is firm in the belief that if this is not to be the case that he has at least two different selections, either a claim for a mistrial, which will mean starting all over again if the supreme court so rules and would delay the case several months before it got back to a hearing again or the securing of an indictment, or that he may be given the right to choose some other method and in that case, if he did not wish to have it heard by three judges that he should be allowed to have it tried to a judge and jury. This he made clear in his talk to the Herald reporter after court yesterday and there seems no doubt but what in September, if the three judges are decided upon as the court to hear the case that he intends to move for either a mistrial which will be denied and the matter taken to the supreme court, or Judge Yeomans may rule that inasmuch as the case has started under the old law that goes out tomorrow night, that it must be heard in that way, or give Mr. King an opportunity to again allow his client to make a second selection. At the best there is going to be an exception noted and Cline, if found guilty will not pay any death penalty during 1927.

AMERICA IS NEARING THE COAST OF FRANCE

End, the southern tip of England and below Greenland. Radio messages from the America became less frequent after the plane passed Newfoundland. Yet the automatic signals that were supposed to be of a comparatively short range were heard on the coast here by the Chatham station of the Radio Corporation of America and at the station of Malin Head, in Ireland. The Chatham station reported when the plane was 1,000 miles out that the signals were coming "loud enough to knock your head off." Thus this scientific expedition was demonstrating the value of radio communication in a trans-Atlantic flight.

Freezing Fog Dangerous. Word from Byrd that he was in "a freezing hell of fog" as he neared Ireland was regarded with some misgivings, as one of the things most feared by the flyers was the accumulation of frost on the wide, gold wings of the plane which might force them down in the ocean.

If forced to descend in the water, the flyers would take to two rubber boats which they have aboard. These boats would be blown up as they were falling, and two men would take to each boat as they dropped upon the water. The boats contain enough concentrated food to keep them alive until picked up by ships at sea.

Before he left Byrd's last words were not ideal but that he hoped to make the best of conditions. That he knew what he was talking about has already been shown, the plan entered a dense fog after leaving Bradford, ten miles from Halifax, and has been battling fogs and adverse winds practically ever since.

A forced landing at sea was regarded as improbable by Byrd. He said the chances are ten to one against it. Should it be forced to descend, Noville would immediately change the automatic radio signal from "WTTW" to "SOS." In an Emergency. Byrd would seize two small bundles from the tail of the ship. In the bundles are the rubber rafts. They would be blown up with compressed air. In each raft are two small oars. Tucked away in one of the rafts is a small waterproof radio emergency set, weighing but ten pounds. It has a coiled sending push-button and a sending apparatus of twenty to forty miles range. A brightly colored six-foot collapsible kite supports the antenna. It also serves as a sail for the raft and a position marker for rescue ships. In one of the rafts—Commander Byrd's—is a pistol for firing

NOVILLE'S WIFE WORRIES

New York, June 30.—The nerves of Mrs. Sigrid Noville, attractive young auburn-haired wife of Lieut. George O. Noville, were shaken today as her husband was flying toward Paris on the Monoplane America. She had dreamed the plane was encountering misfortune. Her cool assurance of yesterday was gone when she answered the telephone at Hotel Hargrave where she was in seclusion today. "I know they will get there but it's not over yet," she said. "And I dreamt they were having a hard time of it."

There was a tremor in her voice as she spoke. She would see no one. Otto Noville, gray-haired father of Commander Byrd's aide, retained his supreme confidence in his son today.

BIG TEXTILE FIRM CHANGES OWNERSHIP

New York Company Buys Rensselaer Factory, at Adams, Massachusetts.

Adams, Mass., June 30.—Sale of the Rensselaer Manufacturing company, producers of high-grade glinghams and colored goods and until recently the second largest maker of table damask in the United States, to William T. Irwin and associates in the F. U. Stearns company, dry goods merchants of New York City, was announced today. The book valuation of the company was over $2,000,000. The Rensselaer company had been in process of liquidation since April and on June 11 had suspended operations.

The company plant consists of three mills with 36,000 spindles and 2,000 looms. Under normal business conditions six hundred hands are employed. Whether the new owners intend to resume operations here or transfer the business to the south was not disclosed by their representatives.

been figured in the new budget, show increases in the auxiliary departments. The increase for the superintendent will raise his salary from $2,850 to $3,800 and other increases will take in the following officers and teachers: clerk, $300 to $360; nurse and helper, $2,500 to $2,800; dental hygienist, $1,300 to $1,350 physical training teacher, $1,200, and substitute teachers from $250 to $300.

Some Changes Necessary. There was considerable discussion concerning the estimates submitted by the Manchester Green and Eighth District schools. In the Green district, however, a new addition has been erected, and in view of the fact that that section of the town is growing rapidly, it was the opinion of other members that the expenditures were justified. However, it was voted to cut the Green budget from $15,500 to $14,500, the school board believing that the janitor should be paid in part by organizations using the school outside of school hours.

In the matter of the Eighth district the increase of $2,000 over the estimate of last year was attributed to the cost of textbooks and supplies. It was said today, however, that the whole estimate will be itemized more fully before the next meeting of the board and that although there may be slight changes in the amount, the estimate will be approved substantially as it was first presented.

All of the amounts submitted are expected to be approved, subject to changes. The school board also adopted

New York, June 30.—In a lengthy statement outlining accomplishments of his sixteen months in office, Major Chester P. Mills today blamed "political interference" for his transfer from the post of prohibition administrator for New York which led to his resignation. The government, he said, can control liquor supply sources "with decent administration free from political influence."

ACHIEVEMENTS

BY DON E. MOWRY Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Tourist camps are now familiar things on the American highway landscape, but tourist clubs, maintained by cities and managed by the tourists themselves are new.

Containing a piano, a victrola, many comfortable rocking chairs, writing room amply supplied with stationery, a reading room with current magazines, a bridge room, a checker and domino room, and a smoking room.

There is a large reception room wealth and the majority of them very far indeed from having money to throw away.

This is no isolated case; nor is it an extreme one. There have been other professional medics in New York who killed the charitably disposed out of sums much greater than this old man.

Watch one of these creatures on his job and you will discover that their cash comes very largely from women, and from women of two classes—worn, tired and poorly dressed women with a child or two hanging to them, and young girls of all types.

Nobody is so poor that a professional beggar will not take their money, though at a glance he can tell that he is robbing the giver of what she stands greatly in need.

PHILIPPINES On another fundamental principle, not so pressingly demanding consideration as the Chinese policy but requiring nevertheless the taking of a definite position.

It is still just as far from Newfoundland to Ireland as it ever was, and just as far from San Francisco to Hawaii. The same hundreds of leagues of deadly lonely sea lie in wait for the flier who may meet with the slightest misadventure.

Transoceanic flight is still a tremendous pioneering adventure and those who engage in it take their lives in their hands.

TEMPERAMENTAL One of the interesting sidelights in connection with the flight of the America has been the small-boy attitude of an occasional news editor toward that highly important event.

Our status in the Philippines presents at all times a question of the finest of possible balances between justice and injustice, right and wrong. It calls for ethical tight-rope walking.

His Busy Day

FUN AND PRESENTS AT STATE TONIGHT

Country Store Here Again; Two Features Tomorrow.

Hoot Gibson and the Country store—not Hoot's store, however—come to the State tonight for the usual Thursday evening frolic.

Gibson's feature this week is "The Silent Rider," the story of a fighting cowpuncher who views with an outlaw for the love of the latter's wife.

The picture starts with a young girl appearing at the Bar Z ranch-house to assist in the feeding of a score of rough but good hearted cowboys.

Two good features are offered State nights on Friday and Saturday. The principal one features Betty Bronson in Eleanor Glyn's "Ritzzy" and the second is "The Valley of Hell," starring Francis McDonald.

When flapper daughter becomes presumptuous, "high hat" or "ritzy," don't spank the darling child—just kid her along. That's what Ritzzy Brown's father does in "Ritzzy."

Ritzzy refuses to marry a clean-cut American and insists on a titled husband so Papa and a certain young gentleman put their heads together and—well Eleanor Glyn has provided a number of novel, amusing twists.

Richard Ross directed a cast headed by James Hall, Miss Bronson's leading man. "Ritzzy" is an original screen story by Madame Glyn.

"The Valley of Hell" is the first of a series of eight MGM western features to star Francis McDonald, all to be made under the supervision of Isidore Bernstein and the direction of Cliff Smith.

A permanent location camp is now being built, which has already assumed the proportions and appearance of a typical western city, which is to furnish the exteriors for the forthcoming romantic films to be made by this unit.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

An American lieutenant glances about the rows of wooden crosses trying to find the names of some of his men.

This is Chapter 70 of the series of articles written by an ex-soldier who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LXX

While thousands of American war veterans are looking forward to a happy pilgrimage to France, their comrades who never got back home are still being found, singly and in groups, in the battlefields of France.

Recent searches by the scouts of the Graves Registration Service have discovered over a score of bodies of American boys who have been lost for a year or more.

These discoveries bring the total number of bodies located during the first year to about 250. There are still over 2000 "lost" Americans somewhere in France.

Finds Kept Secret

Recently 11 American bodies were found in an old trench at St. Thibault, near Fismes. Also in the Argonne "meat" was discovered a grave dug by Germans in which five Americans were buried.

The particular discoveries are kept secret by the Graves Registration Service. There are good reasons for this. The long process of absolute identification must be undertaken, and the feelings of the beloved ones of the fallen soldiers must naturally be taken into consideration.

In the search for these bodies the Graves Registration Service is doing a great humanitarian work, and relatives and friends of the lost boys should know that even at this late date everything possible is being done to find them.

Others Found, Too Many bodies are found which are not American. If they are found to be French soldiers the proper French authorities are notified. If German bodies are discovered they are reburied with all reverence.

The Graves Registration Service hopes that when the Legionnaires come over this summer, much valuable information will be gained from A. E. F. veterans to guide the scouts in finding bodies still missing. Many officers and men will probably be able to tell where their buddies fell and under what circumstances, and possibly where they were buried.

This data will be carefully filed and worked upon, and it will certainly prove useful to the searchers.

N. Y. TO LONDON AIR PASSENGERS TO FLY SAFELY

Service Soon By Airship Instead of Planes Says Sir Arthur Brown.

London.—While agreeing with Lindbergh and Chamberlin that a trans-Atlantic air passenger service is feasible and will become a reality in the near future, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who with the late Sir John Alcock made the first flight from east to west across the Atlantic eight years ago, believes that it will be by airship and not by airplane.

Discussing the significance of the Lindbergh and Chamberlin flights, Sir Arthur said: "Without being the least domestic, I am certainly confident that within a short time, possibly a very short time, we shall think no more of passengers flying regularly from New York to London or Paris and vice versa than today we think of them flying regularly between London and Paris or London and Berlin.

But," he added, "so far as one can anticipate the future, it seems to me to indicate that a trans-Atlantic air passenger service will be an affair of airships rather than airplanes. There is one real and ever present airplane risk, while negligible in flying across country, where a pilot can choose a landing place, would lead to disaster over the Atlantic, and that is engine trouble.

"Again, if a service is to be maintained on a commercial basis the airplanes that have crossed direct from America to Europe must be able to fly back from Europe to America. And we have still to wait for the pioneer flight that will show us that this is feasible.

"Further, it is reasonable to expect to find pilots who are willing to go without sleep for thirty-six hours with the responsibility of the lives of others in their charge. An additional pilot would mean carrying more gas or the margin of safety being reduced.

"It seems to me that there are less obstacles to be overcome in the establishment of an airship service. In the first place, the airship is supported by the air, as a ship is supported by water. In an airship engine trouble can be dealt with while the airship is still supported in and by the air. Serious engine trouble in an airplane means that it has got to come down.

"What I envisage as most likely to happen in the near future, and what I forecast as the normal line of development, is the use of the airship for long-distance travel, with the airplane used as a subsidiary and feeding service. One cannot ignore the advantages the airships possess in respect to long-distance air travel."

GREENLAND TRIP TO STUDY STORM DANGER FOR ATLANTIC FLYERS

Paris.—Storm dangers to trans-Atlantic flyers could virtually be eliminated by the construction of an observatory in the southern part of Greenland in the opinion of Dr. Constantin Dumbrava, Roumanian climatologist and Arctic explorer, now in Paris preparing to head a scientific expedition to Greenland.

The expedition, consisting of three members, will sail from Copenhagen the middle of July for Angmagssalik, on the east coast of Greenland, to study weather and ice conditions for sixteen months.

"The Southern part of Greenland is the point at which all trans-Atlantic storms form," he declared. "With an observatory at the source and the necessary instruments, it would be possible to determine the path of any storm forty-eight hours in advance.

"Colonel Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris was made in thirty-three and a half hours, so that it would be possible to foretell with fair accuracy the weather conditions all along the route of such a flight. With a wireless station direct communication could be maintained with the principal air terminals such as New York, London and Paris.

The Greenland expedition planned by Dr. Dumbrava is under the patronage of the French and Belgian Royal Geographical Societies. Reports will be given by radio to the University of Michigan. Greenland expedition which is now operating on the West coast.

SIGNED SHIRTS Emporia, Kas.—Freshmen at the Kansas State Teachers College recently were assigned a novel task by the fraternity brothers. They were ordered to obtain the autograph of a girl from each sorority on their shirts. They got the names easily, but school authorities found out about it and investigated. RABBIT RACES AUTO Wichita, Kas.—Dr. H. L. Salt-house of McPherson, Kas., on his way home recently scared up a jack-rabbit which kept to the road ahead of his car. The jackrabbit matched the car's increasing speed until 40 miles an hour was recorded. Then the car gained and the rabbit took to the brush.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARHERRY, an American girl who owns and manages considerable property near the little town of FORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil.

or dynamite here, Prentiss?" The other whirled away from the window. The mark on his forehead was quivering. "Dynamite! . . . Not much . . . A little," he whispered feverishly. "Left over from the last time. 'Ar wait!' His face was flaming. 'Got a plan? Got a plan?'"

NEW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX VILAK turned his blackened face from his rifle an instant, shot a glance at the chemist, squeezed his shoulder affectionately. "Hard luck, Nanny," he said cheerily. "Work for you, Elise."

The bespecterled living became desultory. Vilak took advantage of the interval of inaction to stretch his cramped muscles and light a cigar. With all this water on the floor. Seems to me I've been living in the liquid for the past month. He splashed over to the box of cartridges, which had been put behind a heavy wooden chest. He fingered the bullets thoughtfully.

He searched among the newspapers for a detonator. "Blow up part of that retaining wall I noticed damming that first fairly large lake back of your house. Do it with a pick if we have to, but the dynamite's quicker. Our friends outside said there was a flood. We'll save them one. Nothing original. The Dutch did it all the time when the country was invaded. Cut the dikes, if you remember."

This And That In Feminine Lore

There are jewelry ensembles now for daytime as well as evening wear. An ensemble may include necklace, earrings and bracelet or in addition to these last, the finger ring and ornament for shoulder instead of flower, head-band or hat, all in the same matching combination of stones. Paris likes aquamarines for these ensembles while here sapphires and emeralds are more popular.

Two prominent business men, as the story goes, were standing on a street corner in New York watching the noonday crowd. "How many real leaders can you find in that mass of men and women. How many who set an all-around view of life?" asked one. "Ask me another," replied the other. Nobody can answer your question, but anyone can answer mine. How many have the bearing of a leader? They waited and watched the procession of tired men and women, some of them youthful enough. Then like a victorious thrust of a fresh sea breeze came a man, erect, eyes keen and direct, shoulders square, swinging his way through the crowd with easy air assurance, and not long after a woman, stepping easily, poised in body and apparently in mind. The solution is proper rest, food and exercise or play, in short balancing the day so as to include time for right care of the engine that runs our lives.

Dr. Mary S. Rose, professor of nutrition at Teachers' college, recommends for the adult a pint of milk at least a day, a quart is better; plenty of green leafy vegetables like kale, cabbage, spinach, string beans and tomatoes, as far as possible for a tomato equals an orange in food value; fresh fruit once or twice every day, or canned; an egg and a portion of meat or chicken each day. She also says that three hours is none too much to spend in the open air, sunbathing, either walking, working in the garden, picking flowers or vegetables, or playing outdoor games.

Every one who eats fish habitually has probably noticed that slices taken from different parts of the same fish will show a different degree of richness. This is also very well known to canners or preservers of fish. Many people are very fond of the so-called "chicks" of salmon, halibut and cod. These portions of flesh on each side of the head are usually rich and have a flavor all their own. The popular belief that fish was an important brain food has no foundation in fact. The only safe course to pursue is to eat a varied diet of fish, meat, eggs, dairy products, cereals, fruits and vegetables.

On the home page of The Herald we are to run a new series on a topic that is of undying interest to women—beauty. To be sure we have had similar articles on the same subject before, but these will be both practical and good.

The Fourth of July might well be called the great American picnic day for all thoughts are centered on out of doors, whether it be an auto ride to discover a new picnic spot, a trip to one's cottage at lake or shore, or a community gathering to spend the day in the open with different sports. Coming as it does this year on the second day of the week, Monday, an extra supply of eatables will have to be laid in and plenty of sandwich spreads provided, salad materials, thirst quenchers, paper napkins, plates, cups and eating utensils.

The WOMAN'S DAY

A blind man sat behind me on the car this morning. I listened in on his conversation with the man beside him. He had come from downstate 70 miles away and had changed cars three times that morning. His final destination would mean at least four more car transfers and a crossing of innumerable busy streets in one of our first five largest cities. The man with whom he talked indicated his wonder at the blind man's courage and asked him how in the world he ever had the nerve to set out alone on a complicated journey and with no arrangements for being guided.

Elizabeth Park This is rose week at Elizabeth Park and members of the local garden club or any others who have not been there this season would do well to visit the park within the next few days. The crimson rambles that cover the arches are not fully out, but the myriad choice varieties that fill the beds are lovely just now. The beds and borders near the rose garden are filled with larkspur and Canterbury bells and lower growing flowers. I noticed many yellow digitalis or foxglove, rather out of the ordinary. The rock garden is full of interesting things, many of them blossoming, although I think it is more beautiful early in the season, say late May. The beds of old-fashioned Sweet William, jillyflower or stock and any number of things, near the rock garden are a wonderful spectacle. There is a particularly handsome, semi-circular bed of deep old rose flowers, growing perhaps two feet high. I never remember having seen anything like them before and there seemed to be no name that I could find, though they usually label flowers there.

The best way to visit the park is by automobile. The trolleys do not go through Prospect avenue now and it is necessary to take a bus for the park at Pearl and Trumbull streets. MARY TAYLOR.

Preview PhotoPlays YOUR CHILD IS TO SEE Olive Roberts Barton Every night of the year except Sunday, and in some places on Sunday also, hundreds of thousands of children are sitting watching the movies, drinking in the things they teach, trying to adjust themselves to a code of ethics that is almost invariably in conflict with the moral principles they learn at home. Things told by story or picture stay with us longer than things told by commandment or precept. Home training, being too largely abstract, cannot stand up in a showdown with the movie influence. We say, "Thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not kill, and thou shalt not commit adultery." Then off goes the child with his dimes, given by the same parent who had taught him his commandments, to see his favorite hero do all three. To the mature mind, the involved plot may grow up with us, but to the child, five, there is no great disaster in his character make-up. He is past the plastic age. But to the child black is black and white is white. He knows only what he sees. True, not a great number of children under five go to movies. And character traits are formed before five. Not to go into psychology too deeply—what the child will take place before five. But all years of youth and adolescence are formative as to action. He will learn in these years loose or control. Many movies are good for him to see. Good straight adventure is splendid. Love stories won't hurt him if love is incident and not an incentive. The sex idea should never be emphasized to children. It is ridiculous for parents to think that the prurient play goes over their heads. It doesn't always by any means. Every picture a child sees should be investigated first and the parent satisfied that it is the right sort. Then he should be sent very early in the evening so as not to interfere with bed time, or on Saturday afternoon during school term. A very few movies should go a great way. A child's education will not be neglected if he never sees any at all. Eventually, and I hope very soon, we shall have children's movies where they may see pictures adapted especially for children. Movies could be made the greatest educational medium in the world. I have a hobby. It is teaching geography and history by putting the world and world events on the screen. Wouldn't it be fascinating! Children's classics, clean adventure, fairy tales! That is what children should see in the movies.

PAINTED NURSERIES Little painted beds, dressers, chairs and tables should furnish every nursery. Light, plain colors are best, and wall-paper may have an attractive flowered or fairy-tale design to stir the imagination.

Willington To Celebrate 200th Anniversary With A Big Historical Concert

Priceless Heirlooms to Be Featured In Saturday Night Pageant—Observance Lasts Three Days.

(Special to The Herald)
Willington, June 30.—The 200th anniversary of the town of Willington, to be observed here Saturday, July 2, Sunday, July 3rd and Monday, July 4th, will be an occasion of importance not only to Willington but to all in this section. Various committees are perfecting plans to make this a notable event. Beginning with sports Saturday and ending with historic pageant and parade Monday with appropriate church services Sunday and a fine Old Songs and Old Folks Concert Saturday evening, the anniversary promises to be observed in a fitting manner.

Concert
One of the features of the occasion will be the Saturday evening concert to be held in the Hall Memorial school at 8 o'clock to which the public is invited. This concert will be under the direction of A. E. Waite of Rockville. Divided into three parts the first pictures a Puritan Church service, the second an Old Home scene and the third a genuine Old Folks concert. The stage setting in each division will have some wonderful old furniture and equipment. Church benches or pews from the first Old Willington meeting house will be used. These benches are said to be 150 or more years old. In the Old Home scene priceless furniture of chairs, benches, tables, etc., will make up the home scene setting. The Old Folks concert will likewise have old and quaint properties, including a rare old melodeon.

The entire program for the evening will be done in costume, some of these costumes are wonderful creations—priceless heirlooms. The music will be most attractive, selections from the older day period, some of the loveliest old love and home songs of all time will be sung as solos and by chorus, a real treat is promised to those who like the "Old Songs."

The Puritan Church Service
A real proof of the Puritan Church Service—Call to worship is by beating of drum—no bells in the olden days—Puritans attend church guarded by men with muskets. First deacon conducts and lines the hymns, second deacon sets the tunes, third deacon receives the offering—Tithingman keeps

Dempsey Better Than Last Year, Experts Assert

BY SID MERCER
(I. N. S. Correspondent)

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., June 30.—Comparisons of Dempsey of last August and today are being made here now and few of the expert observers dispute the fact that Jack's general deportment, in and out of the ring, is much better than it was a year ago.

For one thing Dempsey isn't hinged about by bodyguards, confined to quarters and on the lookout for trouble as he was when he came here to train for Tunney.

The crowd down around Luther's hotel last year seldom saw Jack except in his training stunts in Luther's pavilion, every afternoon. When Dempsey would come swinging down from his bungalow he was nervous and alert as he passed through the wooded stretches where process servers often ambushed him. He was irritable and shy of all strangers as a result of these encounters.

That strain is not upon him now. There are no cops to shoo away intruders and there are no intruders.

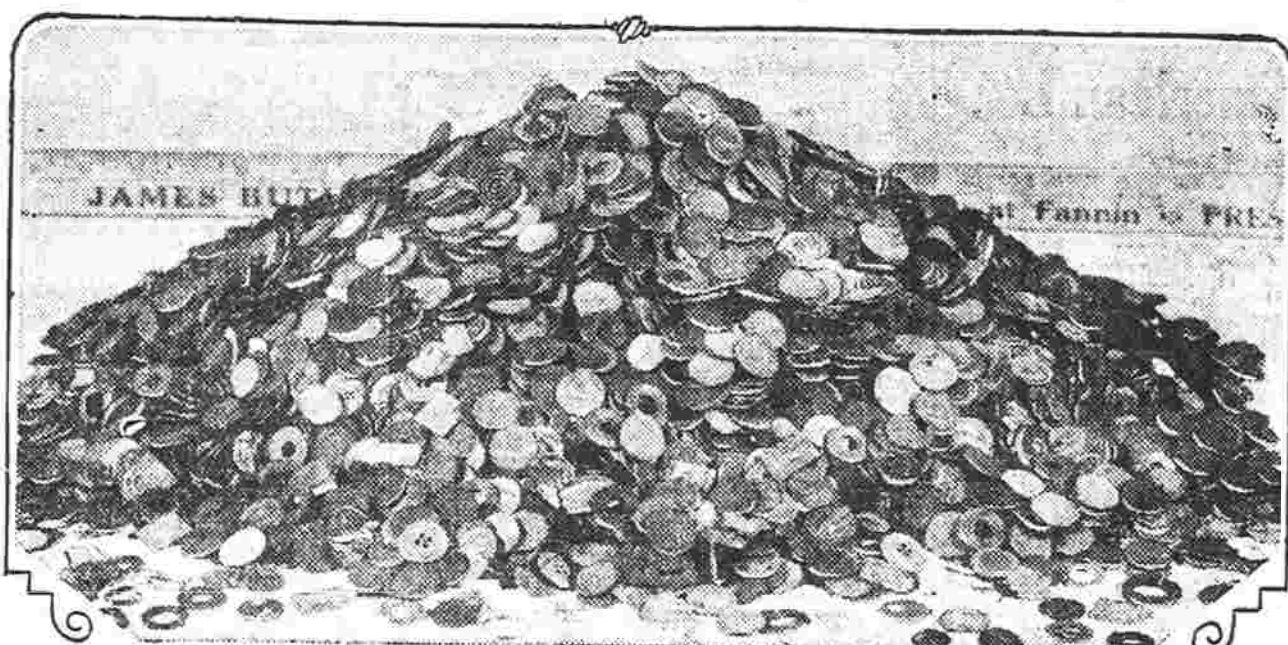

Play Baseball
Yesterday Jack seized a baseball bat and hit some fungoes and then engaged in a game of leapfrog with several friends, Charley Murray, Buffalo promoter, got in the game and when he tried to clear Dempsey's back, Jack raised up and spilled Charley on the grass.

We mention these things to show the frame of mind Dempsey is in these days. He isn't worrying, that's sure. He feels that he put his physical condition to a thorough test before he left California and accepted the Sharkey fight. It is a question now of tuning up his boxing and retaining his punch.

Several more experts dropped in on camp and all were impressed by Jack's hitting and his efforts to match the speed of his sparring partners.

ARE YOU HONEST? THIS PILE OF SLUGS REPRESENTS $2,500 LOST IN ONE DAY BY A SLOT MACHINE FIRM

Here's Exhibit A, submitted by vending machine men in their charge that people are not honest. The stack represents $2,500 losses, taken in one day by one vending machine company, each piece in the stack having been used instead of a dime.

The $2,500 was more than 63 per cent of that particular day's income. The value in the background is 38 inches long. Nearly 60 per cent of patrons of vending machines operated throughout the United States by one firm are petty thieves, the president of the firm says.

Others report larger or smaller percentages, with an average around 50 per cent, depending not on the type of merchandise, but the efficiency of the machines. And such ingenuity as these patrons had: A collection of slugs, representing losses of thousands of dollars, may be found at the offices of any vending machine company. There will be found street car tokens, beer checks, of bygone days, buttons, pieces of tin, paper clips, worthless foreign coins, coils of wire—all evidences of ingenuity put into the pilfering of a nickel, dime or quarter product.

8 Pairs Of Brothers In The Major Leagues

By BILLY EVANS

Brother acts in major league baseball are getting to be quite the vogue. Eight family trees are represented in the big show by pairs of brothers and most of them are doing mighty well, thank you.

The unusual success that the Waner boys have had with Pittsburgh has called attention to the fact that seven other pairs of brothers are doing business under the big tent.

Last year Pittsburgh secured Paul Waner from the Coast League and he immediately developed into a star. As a matter of fact, no one player contributed more to the success the Pirates attained last year than Paul Waner.

His timely batting—he hit .336 in his first year—was a potent factor in keeping Pittsburgh as brilliantly.

While Paul was shining in the majors, brother Lloyd, the property of the Pittsburgh club, was going great guns in the South Atlantic League. He finished with a mark of .346 at the bat.

This spring Manager Donie Bush surprised the experts by giving the two Waner boys positions in the Pittsburgh outfield. It is one of the few instances in baseball where brothers have played the outfield for the same team.

When Manager Bob O'Farrell signed Catcher Bob Schang as one of his backstop assistants it gave two brothers big league jobs in the same city but on different teams. Wally Schang is one of the mainstays of the Browns back of the bat, having come there in a trade with New York.

Wally Schang first attracted attention back in 1912 while with the Buffalo club of the old Eastern League, now known as the International. His ability to hit and throw were outstanding features and Connie Mack grabbed him. He has been in the American League ever since.

Six other famous families are represented in the majors, the other brother acts being the Meusels, Bob with the Yankees and Irish with Brooklyn; the Barnes, Jesse with Brooklyn and Virgil with New York; the Cooneys, Jimmy with the Chicago Cubs and Johnny with the Braves; the Falke, Bib with the Chicago White Sox and Chester with the St. Louis Browns; the Roettgers, Walter with the St. Louis Cardinals and Oscar with Brooklyn; the Sewells, Joe and Luke, with Cleveland.

It is a rather unusual fact that in most cases the brothers star at the same position. The Schangs are catchers, the Meusels and Waners are outfielders, the Barnes boys are pitchers, the Cooneys are infielders, Johnny also being a pretty fair pitcher the Falk boys started as hurlers, but Bob's ability to hit caused him to be made over into an outfielder. He is now one of the best in the game. Joe Sewell is rated the next shortstop in the American League and Luke is one of the leading catchers.

GEHRIG IS EVEN UP WITH RUTH; CLOUTS OUT HIS 24TH HOMER

Remarkable Feat As Bambino Is Not Far Behind 1921 Record; Yanks Win Four In a Row.

By LES CONKLIN
I. N. S. Correspondent

New York, June 30.—Lou Gehrig, one-time pupil of Babe Ruth, no longer needs lessons in the art of sockology for he and his former teacher are tied in home runs today with twenty-four apiece. Gehrig's feat is the more remarkable because Professor Ruth is not far behind his great 1921 record.

Gehrig got his 24th against the Red Sox yesterday. Seeing his lead endangered, Ruth deserted the bench and played with his lame knee strapped with tape. He got four hits, but was unable to dent the bleachers.

George Pipgras, a rookie, pitched for the Yankees and held the Sox to three hits, winning eight to two. It was New York's fourth straight victory and Boston's eleventh straight defeat, and increased the Yanks' lead to 10½ games.

The Cardinals scored five runs in the eighth and nosed out the Pirates, ten to nine, in a ding-dong battle, advancing to within half a game of the leaders. For the third time in recent games between these two sluging outfits, eight pitchers were used.

The Cubs kept within a game of the Cards by beating the Reds in the tenth, two to one. Carlson relieved Osborn and got credit for his fourth victory since joining the Bruins.

A hot battle for second place is raging in the American League. Detroit, in fifth place, is only two games behind Washington, in second place. In a sudden shake-up the Senators jumped to second place and the Athletics dropped to fourth.

Nats Down Mackmen
With Joe Judge back in the game, the Nats downed the Mackmen five to three.

Scoring all their runs in two big rallies, the Tigers swamped the Browns, nine to three, sweeping the series.

After Ted Blankenship had whitewashed the Indians for them, five to nothing, the White Sox lost the second game eight to six. Old Rajah Peckinpah, who has replaced Hummel at short for the Sox, checked in with five hits.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson's sixty-third birthday was a complete frost as his nephews, the Brooklyn Robins, lost to the Phillies five to four.

SAYS FENTON IS GOOD
Scout Walter McCredie of the Detroit club says Jack Fenton of the Oakland, Calif., Oaks is the best first baseman he has seen in the minors this year. McCredie claims the only reason he is not recommending that the Tigers purchase Fenton is because the Detroit club has two good firstsackers in Johnny Neun and Lu Blue.

The INSIDE BASEBALL BY BILLY EVANS

1. When is the catcher charged with a passed ball?
2. Player fails to bat during entire round of batting order and no one notices the slip, what happens?
3. Fielder muffs a foul fly but batsman is later retired, is it charged as error?
4. Batsman hits ball down the first base line and when first baseman fields it and is about to make play on runner, he runs back towards the plate. Has runner that right?
5. Runner starts to steal second, field umpire is hit by the ball which the catcher throws to retire runner, who tries for third and is thrown out. What is the correct decision?

THIS TELLS IT
1. Catcher is charged with a passed ball when his failure to hold a legally delivered ball enables the batsman to reach first base or permits a baserunner to advance.
2. No attention is paid to the oversight. In the next inning the players simply bat in their regular order as if nothing had happened.
3. The fielder is charged with an error on a palpable muff of a foul fly regardless of what later happens.
4. Yes, just as he would be between any other base to avoid being retired if possible.
5. Ball is in play and runner was properly retired at third on throw from fielder.

Local Sport Chatter

Again yesterday, The Herald scored a beat over its competitors from out of town by carrying the results of the morning playings in the state golf tourney at Hartford and also the elimination of the Kent School crew in England. Hartford newspapers did not tell Manchester fans that Bobby Grant eliminated Bud Geoghegan in the state golf championship until this morning. However, The Herald told them last night. These are just sporting instances. There are many others. Moral: Read The Herald for the latest news.

F. K. English of Waterbury and Sid Mott of Mill River meet today at the Hartford Golf club to decide the state amateur title. They won from Bobby Grant and Clive Alford, the respective scores being 4 and 2, and 1 up. Geoghegan lost to Grant in the morning's play 2 and 1.

Many baseball fans are planning to go to Three Rivers, Mass., Saturday afternoon to watch the game between the team representing that town and Cheney Brothers, it was reported last night.

It is understood from reliable sources that Sammy Massey will not be hired to coach the Community Club baseball team this season. It is said that when the proposition was put before him, he named his price at $400 for the balance of the season. Bill Brennan took the job earlier in the season on a contract of $100. This information has not been confirmed but it is said to have come from the lips of Manager Bulla himself.

Don't forget that the Hartford Eastern League Club plays here Saturday afternoon against New Haven and Monday morning against Springfield. Yesterday the Senators won another game even though Pittsfield whaled out four circuit clouts.

PRAYSE WARD, METZLER
Ray Schalk said before the season opened that problems existed at second and at centerfield and the showing of the White Sox would depend on how two problems were solved. Well, Aaron Ward and Alex Metzler came through satisfactorily and the standing of the Sox in the pennant race is the answer to how the Sox are going.

Bulla Straightens Out Difficulty in Bristol Encounters

Manager Wilfred Bulla of the Manchester Community Club baseball team announced late yesterday that he had made suitable arrangements with the Bristol New Departures whereby their scheduled doubleheader on the Fourth will be carried out irrespective of the appearance of the Hartford Eastern League Club here in the morning.

It was the original plan for the two teams to play in Manchester in the morning and in Bristol in the afternoon. Manager Bulla, however, got in touch with Manager Corroll of the Bristol team as soon as notified by The Herald that Hartford had decided to play here Monday morning. The result was that the games were reversed. Manchester will go to Bristol in the morning and Bristol will come to Hickey's Grove in the afternoon.

Sunday the Community Club goes to Westfield, Mass., for a game with the team representing that town and in all probability, Vin Farrand will get the pitching assignment. This means that two other pitchers will have to be secured for the Bristol games. Manager Bulla announces that one of them will be Russ Fisher, of Hartford, the other is as yet uncertain.

MOTOR-PACED RACES AT "DROME" TONIGHT

Tonight will be "Suburban Night" at the bike races over the Hartford Velodrome. The feature will be a motor-paced race of forty miles, bringing in to competition one of the fastest fields ever to ride at the Hartford track.

Victor Hopkins, American champion, will be one of the contenders and another will be George Chapman, the "Big Six" of the bike game, who won the American title six consecutive years until forced to surrender it to the youthful and brilliant Hopkins.

Fans are still talking about the spectacular race Chapman rode at the Hartford track two weeks ago when he made up a mile lost when his chain snapped and then sped past the entire field to win.

Other riders will be Vincent Madonna, the Italian champion, who each season is a heavy point scorer and his fellow countryman, Dan Fichione, who is fast coming to the fore.

DOUBLE MONEY EVER GIVEN TO ROWING EXPERT IN U. S.

Team That Finished Last In Poughkeepsie Classic Anxious to Get Man Who Develops Winners.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

New York, June 30.—Pennsylvania, finishing the most sincere last yesterday in the recent history of Poughkeepsie varsity races, today made ready to renew its year-old attempt to obtain the services of the coach who has produced three winners and as many runners-up during the last six years of the upper Hudson carnival. The boys thought they had "Rusty" Callow, of Washington, D. C., of Philadelphia as long as 1925 and, as evidence of their good faith, accepted Fred Spuhn, another Washington man, as a stop-gap until such time as Callow's long-term contract with Washington expired.

It expired after the Poughkeepsie race last year and so did the boys when they learned that Callow had exercised the great American prerogative. The young man, in brief, had changed his mind.

Splendid Offer
It is understood that the Pennsylvania offer on that occasion was $11,000 for the 1927 season. The bid will be raised today to a three-year contract at $15,000, which is about twice as much money as ever has been offered a rowing coach anywhere for anything. Callow's one-year contract with Washington expired last night.

If the $15,000 isn't enough, then Pennsylvania can resign itself to a life devoid of Callow, for, in this case, it will be evident that the man's duty to his college is higher than his duty to himself.

Outstanding Coach
In either event, one college or the other will have what the writer considers to be the outstanding rowing coach of the present generation or its 1924 crowd. This may smack of Hersey to Columbia's man, flushed with the success of Dick Gladson's astonishing victory over the field; as a matter of fact, it is difficult to choose between the accomplishments of Gladson and Callow. But, for the better, this match must be said: the second place in varsity gained yesterday may have been a bigger personal triumph for Callow than his victories of 1923, 1924 and 1926.

Ordinary Outfit
He had great crews then and only an ordinary outfit yesterday. Yet, but for a surprise victory by a dark horse, an ordinary Washington crew would have won over what was considered an extra-ordinary New York, June 30.—Promoter Tex Rickard said today he would postpone the light heavyweight championship battle between Jack Delaney and Mike McTigue, scheduled for the "Ankoe stadium here on July 7, if he can obtain consent of Jimmy Johnston, manager of McTigue. Pete Reilly, the champion's manager, agreed to the change. A postponement is deemed advisable because there is little demand for tickets, little interest at present being centered solely on the Dempsey-Sharkey bout here on July 21.

field. As it was, the Huskies out-rowed the crews every one said they had to beat—California and the Navy.

So much for Callow's case. That of Young Glendon fairly clamored for equal or even preferred recognition. Son of an old and successful coach of rowing at the Navy, Young Dick developed the 1925 Poughkeepsie champions from the naval academy; then agreed to disagree on the terms of his next contract and repaired to Columbia, where rowing had reached a stage of absurdity.

His varsity last year was a composite of other men's failures and Columbia progressed nowhere with much haste. But the Glendons contracted to turn out an undefeated freshman eight and that was the boat load, strictly a Glendon crew, that came from behind in the final mile yesterday to row Columbia, the early pace makers, quite silly.

Good at Distance
This sophomore eight quite evidently is a distance crew, for it lost quite a few short races earlier in the season without undue contest for the doubtful privilege in question. But yesterday the boys put on a finish that convinced the populace of their ability to row right on down to New York City if the necessity arose.

As for California, conqueror of Washington on the coast, it seemingly was an excellent three-mile crew and no more. Just when Columbia was beginning to row, the Bears were beginning to crack and they just barely lasted to the line. Washington, in fact, was the only entry to give Columbia anything of a contest in the last mile.

The Navy, pre-race favorites, were well back during the early stages and never got up. In fact, the Middies faded badly in the stretch run. So did Syracuse, which was an early contender but didn't carry the matter to an extreme. Cornell showed some evidence of life at the finish but was nowhere most of the way.

Pennsylvania was nowhere all the way, barring the start, where the pay-off would be two cents on the dollar if someone only would underwrite the two cents.

POSTPONE DELANEY BOUT

New York, June 30.—Promoter Tex Rickard said today he would postpone the light heavyweight championship battle between Jack Delaney and Mike McTigue, scheduled for the "Ankoe stadium here on July 7, if he can obtain consent of Jimmy Johnston, manager of McTigue. Pete Reilly, the champion's manager, agreed to the change. A postponement is deemed advisable because there is little demand for tickets, little interest at present being centered solely on the Dempsey-Sharkey bout here on July 21.

Dempsey's Manager Is Well Known In Manchester

LEO P. FLYNN BROUGHT MANY BOXERS TO OLD ARMORY HERE

That Was More Than Ten Years Ago; Walter Vennart Recalls Bouts He Refereed in Which Flynn's Protoges Participated; Brought Battling Lahn, Tierney and Mack to Manchester, Reminiscences.

By THOMAS W. STOWE
When Jack Dempsey steps into the roped arena at the Yankee Stadium in New York on the night of July 21 to fight whether he be Jack Sharkey is entitled to meet Gene Tunney for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world in September, he will be the remodeled product of a man well known to many Manchester fight fans of the days gone by in the person of Mr. Leo Phelonious Flynn, his new fight manager. And so when that all-important comes, it will not be at all surprising if many a Manchester fight follower who is not fortunate enough to be at the ringside, will be pulling heart and soul for Flynn's protege, as the blow by blow description comes over the radio.

Had Elaborate Stable
For it was none other than Leo Phelonious Flynn who supplied many a good boxer for cards at the old armory on Wells street in the good old days which are gone but not forgotten. That was when Jim Monaghan was doing the promoting more than ten years ago. Flynn had a stable of between 25 and 30 boxers of all sizes, weights and descriptions. For upwards of a year, Flynn brought boxers to Manchester. He stayed at the old Orford Hotel off and on during his transactions in Manchester.

Do You Recall?
Among the most notable boxers which Flynn brought to Manchester were Battling Lahn, Fighting Tierney and Frankie Mack. Lahn fought a man named Jimmy Taylor of New York, winning by a technical knockout in the ninth round of what was supposed to be a 15-round engagement. The bout was stopped by Referee Walter Vennart, who, by the way, chatted with the writer at length last night relative to Flynn's doings in Manchester. As Vennart recalls, Lahn furnished boxers for something like a dozen bouts at the old armory.

Knows the Game
"Flynn knows a fighter from A to Z," said Vennart. "And what's more, he's a man of his word. He can give the promoters anything they wish, crooked bouts or otherwise. I recall one fight Flynn brought a fighter into this vicinity under a contract of $125 but when he saw the size of the audience, demanded more. When this was not granted, Flynn said the bout would end in short order in the knockout route. And it did."

Vennart Favors Dempsey
Walter knows Flynn and his knowledge of boxing very well having refereed all the bouts in which his men participated in Manchester and it is because of this inside dope, largely, that Vennart predicts that Dempsey will whip Sharkey next month. During the course of the conversation, Vennart also recalled the terrific bout between Battling Lahn and Sammy Waltz engaged at Welles hall in East Hartford, the first of which was a draw and the second a knockout victory for Flynn's pupil.

A Spokesman Nonpareil
At White Sulphur Springs, in Saratoga, N. Y., where Dempsey is training for his bout with Sharkey the former champion of the world has made it plain that Flynn is to be the major topic of the camp. And in that capacity, Flynn can be depended upon to perform with grace and impressiveness. As a spokesman, Flynn is without a peer so far as endurance is concerned. He most certainly is a vast improvement over Jack Kearns, who, in no small way, figured in Dempsey's downfall at Philadelphia. Read what one sport's writer has to say in connection with Leo's "gift for gab."

"My Flynn has had some experience as a spokesman for prize-fighters. He has spent years, man and boy, touring the sticks with small-time fighters and taking them into the spotlight. As a rapid fire and sustained conversationalist, he has talked to a standstill such speakers as James J. Johnston and Dumb Don Morgan, who are not exactly titans of the ring."
"There have been times when some of the most talented talkers in the cauliflower industry have assembled for the purpose of conversation, only to wilt at the appearance of Mr. Flynn. Frequently, at one of these gatherings the hall has been cleared the moment Mr. Flynn arose and intimated that he was about to start talking. With Mr. Flynn, one word does not lead to another. It leads to many thousands, and Mr. Flynn's eloquence is not only vehement, but it is absolutely tireless."

"If Mr. Dempsey loses to Jack Sharkey he cannot advance as an alibi that he had nobody to put in a word for him. Between now and July 21 Mr. Flynn will put in more words for Mr. Dempsey than could be produced by a special session of Congress."
The general feeling in sporting circles seems to be that if Flynn can't make a "comeback" on the part of Dempsey, then no one can. One sporting expert has even ventured that if Dempsey beats Sharkey, Flynn will, in reality, have been the winner. Flynn was a spectator at Philadelphia the night Dempsey lost his crown to Tunney. At that time Flynn was reported to have remarked:

"I'd give half of my life to handle that boy (Dempsey). He's a fighter, and I can bring the fight out of him even though he didn't show much in that line tonight." Little did Flynn realize that his dream would come true. But today he is in his glory. Incidentally there is an interesting story about how Flynn got the job as Dempsey's manager. Billy Lahiff a sportsman, is a close friend of Dempsey, Kearns, Flynn and Rickard, and most of the other big mitt guys. He was convinced that Dempsey's weakness was in his handling and he hoped he could bring Kearns and Dempsey together again. But he knew that was hopeless. He also knew Flynn's ambition and decided that if Dempsey wouldn't work for Kearns, the next best thing for the Los Angeles hotel man was Flynn. He confided with Rickard and together they sold Dempsey the idea.

And it was not until Flynn was installed and generalissimo of the Dempsey camp that he learned what his friend had done for him. That's the story. Now we shall sit back and wait for developments.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
At New York—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., won decision over Bruce Flowers, negro lightweight, of New Rochelle, N. Y., ten rounds; Lew Kersch, New York featherweight, knocked out Jackie Snyder, of Brooklyn, seventh round; Joe Scalfaro, New York bantamweight, knocked out Lew Boscowitz, of New York, third round; Herbert Gron, Philadelphia, won decision over Tommy Francis, Corcoran, N. Y., four rounds.
At Oakland, Calif.—Jimmy Duffy knocked out Yvan Laffenur, fifth round.
At Cleveland—Phil Zwick, Cleveland, won from California Joe Lynch.
At Cincinnati—Sailer Larson, Moline, Ill., defeated Frankie Williams, Cincinnati.

CHENEYS AND METROPOLITANS PLAY TONIGHT AT WEST SIDE

TODAY IN FISTIANA

By DOC REID
YANGER VS. HANLON
June 30th, 1908
Twenty-four years ago today, Eddie Hanlon of San Francisco, Calif., and Benny Yanger the Chicago Italian lightweight star, fought twenty desperate rounds to a draw at San Francisco, in a ring battle that ranked as one of the leading fistie events of the year.
Six years later the boys again met in the ring at San Francisco and Yanger lost the decision at the end of twenty rounds.
Both Yanger and Hanlon ranked among the leading lightweights of the day and each was training Jimmie Britt, claimant of the title in that class, for a titular match.

The NUT CRACKER

Although he was nicked for 14 hits, Jess Petty robbed the Phillies of a ball game by the slim margin of 3 to 2. . . . That's Petty larceny.
Lou Gehrig hit three home runs against Red Sox pitchers in a single game. . . . Against big league pitching this would easily amount to three singles.
"Dempsey Out-Talks Sharkey"—that's news.

Last Night's Announcement

Was An Error; Daoust and Harrison With Visitors.

Through an error on the part of the writer, it was announced in the Herald yesterday that Cheney Brothers and the Metropolitan Stars of Hartford would engage in a baseball game at the West Side field last night. Instead the game was arranged for tonight. However, it is quite probable that the rain kept many fans from being inconvenienced by the false report.
With the Hartford team this evening will be Pete Daoust, former pitcher for the White Sox of this town and Walter Harrison who at one time filled a first base role for the old Atlas Club. Ed Cartier, who will catch for the visitors, is a former Springfield College star. Wiley and Boggin, former High school battery, will probably hold similar positions for Cheney Brothers tonight. Umpire Ralph Russell will start the ball game at 8 o'clock.

This is the busiest age ever known. But it knows the wisdom of taking time for enjoyment.

Busy smokers of today select Camel as their favorite smoke

PRESENT-DAY people, the fastest workers of all time, claim their right to enjoyment. And they choose Camels for the utmost in smoking pleasure.

Camel is made to please and delight the modern, experienced smoker. It is rolled of the choicest tobaccos grown. It is matchlessly blended for mildness and fragrance in the smoking.

Let Camels demonstrate their goodness and you'll know why the smokers of today choose them over all other cigarettes. For that exalted sense of taste-satisfaction, no other smoke can compare with this one.

HESS MAKES RECORD SELLING BARSTOWS

Edward Hess has received a congratulatory telegram from the Barstow Stove Works in Providence, R. I., a copy of which appears in another column of today's Herald, praising him for his fine sales record of Barstow stoves in this town and vicinity. He has sold over three hundred new stoves in the sales period just ended. This is a very high percentage in his dealer class, if not the record.

In speaking of the telegram from the factory Mr. Hess said that the Barstow people had always given him a square deal and put themselves out to get stoves to him when he needed them. Mr. Hess is thoroughly sold on the Barstow line of stoves and says that they are a leader in the stove business. There are hundreds of satisfied users of Barstow stoves of all makes right here in Manchester.

RADIO FANS CATCH RELAYS FROM BYRD

Local Listeners Keep In Touch With America's Progress Through Ship's Reports.

The fact that Commander Byrd's tri-motored Fokker monoplane, "America" is equipped with a radio apparatus has resulted in numerous Manchester radio-fans attempting to intercept his code messages on his thrilling attempts to span the Atlantic ocean from New York to Paris.

Two New York radio stations, WJZ and WEAF, worked in relays yesterday and today to furnish bulletins of the progress of the flight at fifteen minute intervals. Many Manchester fans tuned in for these reports. Several radio fans reported that they heard the code messages from ships relaying messages from the America.

According to John F. Barstow, Manchester radio expert, all the code messages heard here were relays as the airplane's apparatus is incapable of being heard as far away as this, its radius being not much over 200 miles. Among those who heard the code messages is Clarence P. Quimby, principal of the High school here.

Mr. Quimby reported that at 6:30 this morning, he caught a code message over his radio which he translated to the effect that Commander Byrd's crew hadn't seen either land or water for more than four hours and that they were enshrouded in a very dense fog. Fifteen minutes later, Mr. Quimby said, he received the same report from station WEAF.
