

FORD BELIEVES HARD WORK IS BEST FOR HIM

World's Richest Man Reveals His Innermost Thoughts In Final Interview of the Series.

Editor's Note:—Following is the final installment of the series of interviews with Henry Ford.

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Henry Ford, the richest man in the world, the best known and the least understood, today revealed many of his innermost thoughts and intimate beliefs to International News Service.

The world's first billionaire—Could refrain from ever lifting a finger but gets the most pleasure by working.

Could stay in bed all day, yet is satisfied with six hours of sleep. Believes the greatest gift of his wealth was the increased work it enabled him to do.

Stays hungry to keep his appetite on edge, yet has no favorite dish. Could live a life of luxurious ease but prefers to work from ten to sixteen hours a day.

Employs 200,000 men and likes to be the first down to work in the morning.

Owens thousands of motor cars yet likes walking as a recreation. The possession of the greatest single fortune probably in all human history, the royal throne of motordom and the leadership of a half dozen other industrial lines give Ford no special satisfaction.

"How does it feel to be the richest man in the world?" he was asked.

Likes His Job
"I only feel I have a job," Ford replied, with serious mien.

"What was the greatest gift your wealth brought to you?"

"Just a bigger job to work at," the richest man said.

"What have you lost by being the richest man in the world?"

"Not a thing."

"Not even privacy, personal freedom or the opportunity to mix with people?"

"No, not a thing," Ford reiterated. "I get around all right."

"What do you enjoy most in life?"

Greatest Enjoyment
"Having something to do, some-

STORM DOES DAMAGE ALL ALONG THE SOUND

Shippan Point Section of Stamford Bears the Brunt of Baby Cyclone.

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Storm damage that has mounted into thousands of dollars is being repaired here today. The brunt of the storm, which was of cyclonic nature, fell on the Shippan section where trees were uprooted, poles blown over with electric and telephone wires worked into a tangled mass, windows smashed in and buildings leveled. Ocean drive, west, was particularly hard hit.

Both houses at the city's halcyon park were damaged to the extent of more than $1,500. Muzzie Brothers' boat storage houses at Shippan point were demolished. Many boats at the Stamford Yacht Club received severe damage, notably one owned by Leroy Lockwood.

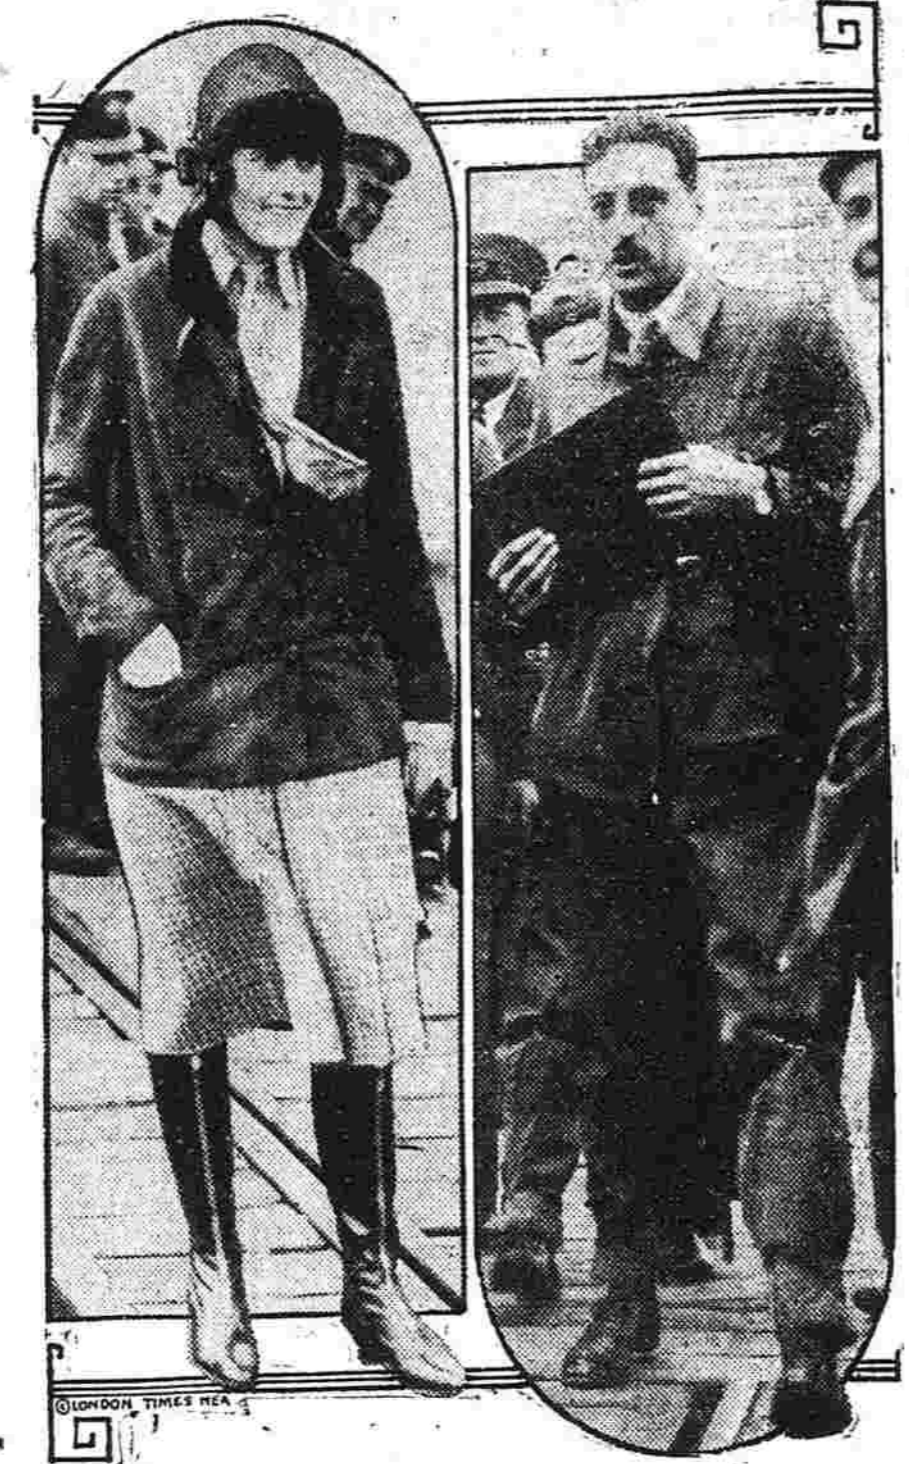

Only one casualty was reported. Andrew Hersham, of Lincoln Park, was driving in the western part of the city when a limb of a tree crashed through the roof of his car and struck him on the head, rendering him unconscious. His condition today was reported as not serious.

The storm came into Stamford from the south-west and working through a comparatively narrow path, went north-east to Roton Point, Norwalk, where severe damage was done rather less than here.

Courtney's Flying Half

Captain F. T. Courtney, the British ace who shortly is to attempt a flight from Ireland to the United States and return, has a flying half—Mrs. Courtney. Here you see them upon their arrival at Calshot, England, after an 800-mile non-stop hop from Lake Constance, Switzerland. Their plane was the 900-horsepower Dornier-Napier Courtney will use on his trans-Atlantic attempt.

SAYS DRY AGENTS MADE HIM 'FIXER'

Albany Man, Held For Extortion, Confesses He Acted As a Go Between.

Albany, N. Y., July 8.—The National Prohibition Administration at Washington has ordered a sweeping investigation of charges by Ellsworth Jones of this city and Glens Falls, whose alleged confession has involved two Albany dry agents.

Jones is now held in Schenectady county jail without bail on a charge of extortion. Police Chief William H. Funston of Schenectady says Jones confessed he extorted $400 from Patrick McDonough, Ballston Spa hotel keeper, on behalf of Walter C. Hunter and Walter D. Calnan, Albany dry agents, for a promise not to raid McDonough's place.

Reveries Confession
George W. Gay, chief of the Albany dry office, returned here today after reporting Jones' alleged confession to Andrew McCampbell of Buffalo, prohibition director for northern and western New York.

Gay said Calnan is denying Jones' charge that he is a plot on Jones' part as revenge for seizure of a truckload of beer the alleged fixer was transporting from Glens Falls to Albany.

After conferring with McCampbell, Gay said:

"The case is entirely out of my hands. I was advised by McCampbell that Washington authorities will conduct a sweeping investigation."

Gay said he did not believe the charge made by Jones. He added:

"Why should anyone believe Jones. He is a bootlegger and a confessed extortioner. It is his word against two of the finest men I have ever been associated with in prohibition work."

PICK CAPT. HARTLEY TO NAVIGATE PLANE

Commander of Leviathan Offered Job in the New York To Rome Flight.

Cherbourg, France, July 8.—The position of navigator on the proposed New York to Rome non-stop flight, for which Lloyd Bertaud, air mail flyer, has been chosen pilot, has been offered to Captain Herbert Hartley, commodore of the United States lines fleet and commander of the liner Leviathan.

The offer was made by William Randolph Hearst, financial backer of the proposed flight, in a wireless message to Captain Hartley which reached the Leviathan while it was in mid-Atlantic enroute here.

Captain Hartley on his arrival here said that nothing but his wife's refusal to permit him to make the flight could prevent his acceptance of the offer.

DRUNKEN HORSE DRIVER RIDGEFIELD, CONN., JULY 8.—State police from the Ridgefield barracks were called into action today when Edwin Smith, a farmer, drove his hay wagon wildly through the main street here. Smith was locked up charged with driving while intoxicated, and his case had to be put over until Saturday because of his condition. Smith was guiding his horses in wild zig-zag through the street to the alarm of villagers when the police reached him.

ANOTHER OCEAN HOP

London, July 8.—A round-trip flight from Denmark to the United States is the latest air project.

According to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen today the famous Danish aviator, Johannesen, has accepted the invitation of the manufacturer and inventor, Jungersen, to attempt a flight, alone, from Denmark to the United States and to return to Denmark with a passenger.

Johannesen hopes to start for America in August.

MOVE TO NAME, NOT ELECT, 9TH TAX COLLECTOR

Seek Amendment to Charter To Make Office Appointive; Graham Said Not To Be Candidate For Office.

In the call issued today for the annual meeting of the voters and taxpayers in the Ninth school district to be held in High school hall Thursday evening it is disclosed that the meeting will be asked to approve an amendment to the charter to the district making the office of tax collector and compiler of the rate book appointive rather than elective. The General Assembly in the last session approved a referendum on the question of the proposed amendment is approved the Ninth district school committee will hereafter name the tax collector and the compiler of the rate book. Thomas Graham is the present collector and the rate book has been compiled by William Taylor.

Graham Not to Run
It is understood that Thomas Graham will not be a candidate for the office of tax collector this year. He has held the position for several years having defeated George Denison in a "surprise" meeting. Whether the committee has anyone in mind for the tax collectorship, or whether anyone in particular is seeking the office, has not been divulged.

The annual meeting will hear the reports of the school committee, the treasurer, the auditors, the library committee, and the recreation committee. The meeting will also be asked to elect two members of the school committee, for terms of three years each, a clerk, a treasurer, two auditors, and a member of the recreation committee for three years. Other business will be the laying of a tax, making appropriations, and the authorization to the treasurer to borrow money.

ASLEEP FOR 97 DAYS
WOMAN IS NOW AWAKE

Doctors in Ericso Medical War Over Odd Case—To Go To Court.

Los Angeles, Calif., July 8.—Leaders of the "medical war" waged over the treatment of Mrs. Elizabeth Drummond, 21-year-old, a clerk, a "Sleeping Beauty," prepared today for a clash in court tomorrow. Dr. W. J. Peacock, chiropractor attending Mrs. Drummond, will then defend himself against charges of running a hospital in violation of city ordinances.

Dr. George Parrish, Los Angeles city health commissioner, filed the charges against Dr. Peacock when the latter turned away two brain specialists whom Dr. Parrish sent to examine Mrs. Drummond.

Meanwhile, the "Sleeping Beauty," whose brain cells were deadened by gas poisoning ninety-seven days ago, was reported showing signs of returning consciousness.

She is reported to have attempted to get up, and to have shown increased interest in her surroundings.

STATE COMMISSIONER SUSPENDS SOLICITOR

Middletown Agent Sold Insurance At Low Rate to City Without License.

Middletown, Conn., July 8.—A squabble over the liability and casualty insurance policies issued in the name of the city came to an end today when Howard P. Dunham, state commissioner of insurance, sent word here that he had revoked the license of Vincent D. Lamb, a local insurance agent, on the ground that Lamb had solicited insurance under an improper license.

Robert E. Brainard, a local agent who had supplied insurance to the city, complained recently that some outsider had looked over his contracts with the city and then sold insurance somewhat cheaper than Brainard.

Joseph H. Marve, state supervisor of licenses, investigated and found that Lamb, licensed to sell life insurance, had written contracts of city policies. Lamb's suspension is dated from July 1.

Executive Committee At Geneva Makes No Progress In Morning Session.

Geneva, July 8.—With the fate of the Tri-Power Conference for the limitation of naval armament in the balance, the executive committee met today but made no progress during the forenoon toward a settlement of the cruiser issue which threatens to precipitate a break up of the conference.

Before the executive committee assembled the committee of experts on naval affairs met and drew up a report covering the points that already had been agreed upon by the conference. These chiefly related to the definition and categories of ships.

When the executive committee convened this report was considered and adopted.

Same Deadlock
But when it came to the business of setting the cruiser tonnage controversy the executive committee appeared to be stumped. If anything the question became even more complicated when they discussed it because the Japanese took the present strength of auxiliary craft as the basis of opposing, in principle, the granting of British and American parity in cruiser strength which does not now exist.

Japan's Proposal
The Japanese proposal, experts figure, amounts to an allotment of a combined cruiser and destroyer tonnage to the three nations involved as follows:

Great Britain 450,000 tons.
United States 450,000 tons.
Japan 310,000 tons.

The Japanese are not only supporting America against Great Britain in its efforts to curtail cruiser tonnage but now show every indication of adhering to the lowest figures suggested by the United States—250,000 tonnage for Great Britain and the United States.

State's Oldest Fireman Lives in Manchester

The oldest active fireman in Connecticut, has seen hundreds of fires in Manchester. Although over 70 years old is still on the active list—30 years as a volunteer fireman. His hobby is bug collecting. Read about him in tomorrow's Herald.

"Out at Noon"

How Consolidation Can Be Accomplished Here

By Howell Cheney

This is the second in a series of five articles on the consolidation of Manchester's public schools in a single system. It has been prepared for The Herald by Howell Cheney, chairman of the Ninth District school committee.

First, the town proceeds to buy all of the school properties of the town, less the debts or loans that are laid against them. This creates a debt upon the town which is discharged by a tax upon the grand list of the whole town, distributed between districts in the ratio that the grand list of each district is to the grand list of the town as a whole. To make this clearer, let us assume a simple example of a town with three districts. The buildings are first appraised to determine what is their sound value today, and by "sound value" is meant the amount that it would cost to reproduce them at present day costs less the degree of depreciation in which they are now found, plus the value of their land at the present assessed value.

For instance, let us assume a town of three districts only, the figures in relation to which are as follows:

The "sound value" of the school property in District 1 is $10,000; of District 2, $20,000; of District 3, $30,000; making a total "sound value" of school properties of $60,000.

The debts of District 1 are $8,000; of District 2, $20,000; of District 3, $20,000; making a total indebtedness on account of schools of $48,000.

"Net Worth"
The "net worth" or the difference between the sound value of its assets and its debts is $2,000 for District 1; nothing for District 2; and $10,000 for District 3.

The grand list of District 1 is $300,000; of District 2, $500,000; and for District 3, $800,000; making a total grand list for the town of $1,600,000. Of this total grand list the grand list of District 1 is 18.34 per cent; of District 2, 31.14 per cent; and of District 3, 50.52 per cent of the total for the town.

The town now proceeds to buy all of the school properties of the districts less their debts, or their "net worth." This "net worth" is $2,000. District 1 is to pay 18.34 per cent, which is $367; District 2 is to pay 31.14 per cent, which is $625; and District 3 is to pay 50.52 per cent, which is $1,008. District 1 pays off this tax of $367 by exchanging its net worth of $2,000 plus $250 in cash; District 2 discharges its portion of the tax of $367 by turning in its net worth of $367 and has no debt or credit left; District 3 discharges its indebtedness to the town of $6,000 by offering its net worth of $1,008 and receiving a credit of $4,992.

The Results
The net result of the whole transaction is in effect that District 1 pays out $367, and District 2 pays out $367; and District 3 receives $4,992. This $4,000 funds its

EDDEL MURDER TRIAL IS STARTED TODAY

State Has 16 Witnesses and the Defense Limits Itself to Five.

New Haven, Conn., July 8.—Trial of Fred W. Edgel of Meriden, charged with first degree murder because of the death of John Mastriano of Meriden, last January, swung under way here today before Judge E. S. Dickinson and a Superior Court jury.

Joseph H. Candee, photographer, testified today as to taking pictures of the spot in the Mount Carmel section of Hamden where Mastriano's body was found. He was followed by Mrs. Mary Alling of Hamden, who was the first to discover the body. Her testimony was brief.

Dr. George H. Joslyn, medical examiner for Hamden, gave the coroner when he examined the body, and told of finding papers in Mastriano's clothes. Dr. Joslyn was on the stand at recess time and the state noon there in telling his story from his official viewpoint.

The state has some sixteen witnesses to put on the stand in the course of the trial while the defense will limit itself to five.

FLYING TWINS ARE CHEERED BY LONDONERS

Chamberlin and Levine With French Pilot Make Flight Over Channel—Levine To Remain.

London, July 8.—The Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" with Clarence D. Chamberlin, Charles A. Levine and Maurice Drouhin aboard, arrived at Croydon Flying Field from Paris at 3:09 o'clock this afternoon. The three noted flyers hopped off from Le Bourget flying field at 12:35 p. m., making the trip in a little more than two hours and a half.

Official Welcome.
Chamberlin and Levine and the French flyer who has contracted to pilot Levine from Paris to New York in the "Columbia" were welcomed officially by E. G. L. Berton, deputy director of civil aviation and Major Harmon, American air attaché.

A crowd of about 500 persons were at Croydon field when Chamberlin brought the Columbia to the ground in a perfect landing. The flyers were cheered sporadically.

Chamberlin told International News Service he planned a few days tour of England during which he will informally study the aviation situation in this country. He sails with Mrs. Chamberlin for the United States on the Leviathan next Tuesday.

He was heartily greeted upon his arrival by his mother, his sister and niece.

SHEFFIELD RESIGNS AS ENVOY TO MEXICO

Needs a Rest and Will Tour Europe, He Says—No Action Yet By President; Ambassador and Wife, Guests At the Summer White House.

Rapid City, S. D., July 8.—James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico, tendered his resignation to President Coolidge today.

Sheffield announced that his resignation would be effective at the president's convenience.

The White House for the present is withholding announcement of its acceptance, but Sheffield's determination to retire from public life is final.

Guest of Coolidge
The ambassador, who is a guest at the Summer White House, came to the temporary executive offices here this morning with the president, especially to make public the details of his resignation.

Asked whether he would return at all to Mexico City, Sheffield said:

"That is entirely up to the president. For the present I intend to take rest. I shall sail with Mrs. Sheffield for Europe on July 23 and I plan to spend about six weeks in England, Scotland and touring the continent."

Amplifying Sheffield's statement, Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, stated that the ambassador had reluctantly returned to his post last summer only with the understanding he would terminate his work in Mexico this spring.

Wishes to Retire
"When Mr. Sheffield was at Paul Smith's last summer," said Sanders, "he expressed a desire to retire, pointing out he had been putting in about eighteen hours of work a day and was tired. He also wanted to live in a lower altitude than Mexico City. Mr. Coolidge urged him to return for the winter at least and he did."

Sheffield would discuss Mexican relations, referring all questions to the State Department or the president.

He was particularly insistent on not touching in any way on the coming "supremacy" case" of the provisions of the Mexican constitution under which the United States holds American property is being confiscated.

The ambassador has served at Mexico since September 9, 1924.

Just Wants Rest
His decision to resign, Sheffield said, could not be attributed to lack of administrative support or his functions in Mexico. Neither can it be attributed to ill health. He declared he merely wanted a rest after nearly three years of very hard work.

Most prominently mentioned to succeed Sheffield in this important post is John Garrett of Baltimore, who formerly served as minister to Holland and minister to Argentina. Silas W. Strawn of Chicago, also is being urged to succeed Charles Beecher, ambassador to Mexico and Japan, and ex-Governor Thomas E. Campbell of Arizona.

SMALL BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRUCK

Driver of Horse Drawn Vehicle Did Not See Youngster Under Wheels.

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Angelo Pia, aged eight, was crushed to death beneath the wheel of a horse-drawn city garbage truck on Jefferson street just before noon today. The body and a companion were "stealing a ride." The Pia boys' legs slipped between the spokes of the wheel and his body was dragged over with the wheel until he was crushed. A motorist just behind the truck picked up the body and drove to Stamford hospital where the boy was found to be dead.

Onoria Broccoli, driver of the truck, did not know of the boys' presence until he heard a scream. The other boy disappeared. Michael Pia, the boy's father, summoned to police headquarters, collapsed when he heard the news. No arrest was made.

BOSTON BILLY PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

Bandit Arrested Near New London, Yesterday Is Arraigned In Court.

Mineola, N. Y., July 8.—"Boston Billy" Williams, arrested in a gun battle in New London, Conn., yesterday as the partner of Arthur Barry in gun robberies in Westchester county and on Long Island totalling $1,000,000, pleaded not guilty to charges arraigned before County Judge Lewis J. Smith on two indictments charging first degree burglary and first degree grand larceny.

The indictments were returned by the Nassau County Grand Jury in connection with the theft of more than $90,000 in jewels from the home of Jesse Livermore, Wall street financier, at King's Point, Long Island.

Barry, who is now serving a 25 year sentence in Sing Sing prison for his crimes, confessed this robbery along with almost one hundred others, and named Williams as his confederate in all the burglaries.

Rockville SILK CO. PENSIONS AGED EMPLOYEE

Belding-Hemingway Gives Harlow Whitlock Annuity; Yost to N. Y. Office.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, July 8.—Harlow Whitlock, graduate of Trinity College and several times honored by that institution, has been placed on a permanent pension list by the Belding-Hemingway Company. Mr. Whitlock, after his graduation was for several years pastor of St. John's Episcopal church in this city, but left the pulpit to enter the employ of the Belding Company, where he was employed for thirty-five years. The closing of the plant left him without an occupation and as he is nearing his eighty-first birthday the company has provided him with a pension and will continue to take care of him for the remainder of his life.

Stock Falling
The stock of the Belding-Hemingway Company still shows a decline and is hovering around the $15 mark, which is said to be caused by a report that the physical condition of the entire system is not good.

Checking Up On Turnpike
An engineer from the state highway department is at work today in the town clerk's office checking up the map where the new road was built last fall and this spring from Lanz's Corner to the Tolland line. This is one of the old turnpikes laid out by the state. At one time there were 121 turnpike lines laid out by the General Court in Connecticut between 1765 and 1825. This turnpike the map shows is a part of Tolland turnpike that ran through Manchester to the East Hartford line.

Mr. August Schweitzer
Mrs. Amelia Schweitzer, wife of August Schweitzer of No. 74 (re) Union street died here after four months' illness with Bright's disease, aged 69 years. Her funeral will be held at Quinn's undertaking parlor on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at the German Lutheran Church on West Main street at 2:30. She is survived by two sons, Henry Schweitzer and John Anderson, the latter born of her first marriage, also a daughter, Miss Amelia Schweitzer.

Opened New Law Office
Myron Burgess of Thompsonville has opened a new office in the Wendelizer building and moved his furniture into the building today.

Mrs. Mabel Scharf, wife of John Scharf of Market street, who has conducted the American Hotel, is in a hospital in Germany where she has undergone an operation which has shown that she is suffering with cancer. Mrs. Scharf left Rockville about two months ago to visit in Germany because of ill health and information received this morning indicates that her condition is such that she is not again likely to return to this country.

Went to New York Office
Frederick Yost, who has held a responsible position in the Rockville plant of the Belding-Hemingway Silk Company, left for New York today where he will be employed in the New York office of the Hockanum Mills System. An informal farewell party was given at the corner of Park street and Park place as he started to drive away.

Returned from Factory
Messrs Stewart Dillon and Louis Fitzgerald, of the L. P. Fitzgerald motor Sales Company have just returned from a trip to the factory of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich., where they have had an opportunity to personally inspect the plant. The company at present is devoting most of its time to tractors as there is a large demand for these and taking advantage of this they purchased a special shipment as with the new model of the cars to be manufactured there will be little time given to tractor manufacturing and nothing but pleasure cars and trucks will be given the right of way in the new models. The new models are not expected for delivery until September.

Lawn Party
The members of the Union Church Tennis club will hold a lawn party this evening at Maxwell Court. The gates will be open at 7:00 where tickets may be obtained for 25 cents. An interesting program has been arranged, consisting of folk dances, musical selections and a short play. Music will be furnished during the evening by the Church Sunday School orchestra which will include popular airs, ice cream, candy, cold drinks, balloons and old fashioned flowers will be on sale. And a feature which is always of interest to everyone is the fortune teller and she will be there to unfold the past, present and future. In case of storm the party will be held on Saturday evening.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the affair. The proceedings are to go toward the upkeep of the remodeled tennis court.

Burpee W. R. C. Picnic
The annual picnic of Burpee W. R. C. was held at the home of Mrs. Carlton Buckmaster at Longview. The members began to arrive at 11 o'clock and a social hour was enjoyed before the dinner was served, which included clam chowder, salads and various other good things for which the W. R. C. ladies are noted.

The afternoon was spent in playing bridge and straight whist. Prizes were awarded to the whist players as follows: first, Mrs. Katherine Schuey; second, Mrs. Emma Lisk and consolation, Miss Maud Smith.

THIRTEEN STUDENTS EMULATE RED GRANGE

Baker's Dozen of Manchester Boys Put In the Summer On Ice Wagons.

Thirteen Manchester college and high school boys are emulating Red Grange by peddling ice during the summer months. It was learned today at the office of the L. T. Wood company on Bissell street. They are Jimmy Mistretta, Winnifred Fox, Billy Dowd, Walter Kittel, Adolph Kittel, Raymond Shea, Bob Keeney, Lawrence Paisley, Frank Valento, Joe McCann, Billy Potterton, Charlie House and Gordon Pogg. In all, Mr. Wood is employing a force of forty men, fifteen of whom are additional help for the summer season.

Incidentally, Mr. Wood stated that the ice season has not yet reached the normal, owing to a striking contrast with the business during that unusually hot period two summers ago.

FORD THINKS HARD WORK BEST FOR HIM

thing to work at" the richest man answered without hesitation. "I like aviation now."

Then he smiled and added: "I like to be as up to date as I can."

It is aviation that gives Ford the "greatest thrill" he gets out of life. He is a huge multimotored, many passengered air cruiser, which he some day soon hopes to establish trans-Atlantic air lines, has displaced the divers as his first love.

"The greatest thrill" he responded to the question, "Why, I get more thrills out of watching and helping to develop our large planes than anything else I do nowadays."

"Helping to develop" means experimenting upon engines, plane bodies and other aeronautical problems.

Has Good Health

The auto king, who will celebrate his sixty-fourth birthday on July thirtieth, has the bodily vigor and health of man half his age. His secret of health is to keep at work. He frequently takes long walks across the countryside near his Dearborn estate and with the exception of a few old-fashioned dances at his huge Dearborn office building, walking is his chief recreation.

How do you account for your excellent health?" he was asked.

"I keep busy all the time," Ford replied. "That's all. I never get too much and I keep my mind occupied."

"How would you advise other men of your age to live in order to share your good health?"

"I can't," he answered. "No two men are alike. Just try to keep up-to-date. Everyone can do that."

Six Hours' Sleep

"Six hours or a little less," Ford replied. "Sometimes, it may be a little longer but usually it is six or less. I get up early in the morning because I like to."

The richest man has no favorite dishes nor favorite menus. He eats anything that would appeal to the normal appetite.

What is your favorite dish?" he was asked, just after he ate a lunch that, included roast, lamb, boiled potatoes, spinach, carrots, blueberry pie and coffee.

"I have none," he retorted, and added, with a smile: "The nearest food is best if you're hungry. I work enough to keep hungry and that always gives me a good appetite."

The man who rose from poverty to multi-millions in three decades, has very definite ideas about how young America can succeed in life or business.

Marry Young

"Do you advise young men to marry young?" he was asked.

"I certainly do," Ford responded. "And they should get families. I give them more experience and stability, aside from domestic happiness."

"Do you believe the young man on the farm should go to the city to seek his future?"

"There is no need for young men to leave the farms and villages," Ford replied. "Today, work and opportunity are being taken to the small towns and villages. The modern idea is to take work to the men, not the men to work as it used to be. I feel village life in America is worth preserving and that has been the plan of the Ford Company—to take work to the people. That is why we have water-powder plants in many little villages around here."

Join Corporations

"Should the city youth go into business for himself or can he get ahead best by going into some corporation?"

"He should go into the big corporation because the opportunities there are greater," Ford declared. "There is more spread for his powers. He doesn't have to go through years of experiments in attempting to run a business by himself. The corporation has tried out all the experiments and has his job all ready for him. And there is always room at the top for bright young men."

And to the young businessman, the world's greatest business man offered this parting shot of advice: "If a young man is in business and is wise, he will pay less attention to those who flatter his self-esteem and more to those who stir his energies."

There was one more question. It was "how soon do you plan to retire from business?" But Ford did not answer. As he walked away with an agility that belied his years, one of his intimate friends replied:

"Never. Mr. Ford will always work."

ABOUT TOWN

The Manchester Rod and Gun club will hold another shoot at its range at the Rainbow Inn in Bolton tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. All members of the club are asked to attend. A shoot held yesterday was attended by Manchester and Rockville sportsmen and some good scores were turned in.

The Manchester Realty company has foreclosed a mortgage on property owned by William E. Shaw and Charles M. Mikowski. The property consists of a lot 50 by 100 feet on Woodbridge street.

An attachment has been placed on Woodbridge street property owned by G. D. Fitch by the Leon Shop of Hartford. The Hartford concern claims a bill of $50.

Maurice T. Quish, proprietor of the State Soda Shop, has returned from a few days' stay at Point of Woods.

WOMAN BADLY HURT AS CAR TURNS OVER

Bay State Resident in Hospital Here After Auto Capsizes in Coventry.

Although badly injured in an automobile accident at Coventry last night, doctors are confident that Mrs. Jacob Scarenco, of 162 Main street, Quincy, Mass., will recover. In addition to other injuries, Mrs. Scarenco is suffering from a fracture of the pelvis.

Mrs. Scarenco was one of a party of five, two men, two women and a child, motoring from Philadelphia to Providence. A woman was driving. Sudden application of the brakes caused the car to turn over and injured Mrs. Scarenco who was removed to Memorial hospital by her husband in a borrowed machine.

FLYING TWINS CHEERED BY LONDON CROWDS

wife and family will be taken care of in the event of a disaster.

When the Columbia takes off for New York the big plane will be taken up by Droughin in one or two test flights, Levine announced. Levine was asked if he intended to take "the stick" at any time during his return flight. He expressed the hope that there would be no pressure in the trip if he did not.

Droughin Speaks

"There was nothing else for me to do," Droughin told International News Service. "I tried to have Farman speed up preparations to get away in the Panama plane because I was afraid another Frenchman would beat me to New York."

"Mr. Levine offered me this opportunity, with a plane that is almost ready for such a flight, and I thought I should take it."

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin next week will return flight across the Atlantic was made early this morning by Levine who was enthusiastic over the Frenchman who is the former holder of the airplane endurance record.

Mrs. Levine, too, expressed her confidence in Droughin on this occasion. "I have no objection to my husband's trans-Atlantic trip. She will not return to America with Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin next week but will remain here to see her husband off with Droughin, probably in about two weeks when the Columbia has been put in readiness for the long flight."

Farman Disappointed

Regret over Droughin's decision to fly with Levine was expressed by Dick Farman, owner of the Farman monoplane which Droughin had planned to fly to America.

"We regret Droughin's sudden decision to go with Levine, particularly since he did not notify us previously," said Farman. "We have no contract with Droughin and cannot possibly prevent him from leaving."

Droughin Has Been One of our best pilots for several years.

"You may take it for granted that we don't want him back."

"We regret that Levine did not get another pilot. There had been many more available."

"Our plane which was ready for a New York flight will take off soon despite Droughin's decision to go with Levine. We will find another pilot easily."

Chamberlin Part

When the Columbia took off this afternoon for London, Chamberlin was at the ship, with Droughin at his right. Levine was perched on top of the gas tank directly in back of Chamberlin with his knees against his hands on Chamberlin's shoulders.

The fact that Chamberlin and Levine were making this trip together further belied reports that they had come to a definite parting of the ways because Levine had sent Commander Richard E. Byrd a message challenging Byrd to a return flight across the Atlantic and signing Chamberlin's name as well as his own to the message without having received Chamberlin's authorization. Chamberlin said he was displeased with this action on Levine's part but that it had not caused a break between them.

Droughin was much interested in the instruments aboard the Columbia. Droughin advised Levine to have the instruments taken off the plane before they hop out and have new ones installed because, he said, the vibration during the trip over had damaged them. He also

When Ankles Are Abloom

Pretty ankles are a common commodity on Broadway but when Barbara Baroness, of the screen, broke out in blossoms about her comely tootsies little of New York still naturally gathered round for an eye-ful. And now, they say, no cute little chorine will feel completely dressed unless she sports a bouquet anklet.

DEVIL'S TOWER ROCK IN BLACK HILLS HAS OLD INDIAN HISTORY

Rapid City, S. D.—One of the most conspicuous features of the Black Hills where President Coolidge is spending his summer vacation is Devil's Tower, a great column of rock nearly a mile in circumference which rises almost vertically for 6,000 feet. The formation is volcanic and the sides are dated evenly with great semi-circular ridges.

ALL "GREENITES" ARE ELIGIBLE FOR OUTING

Promoters Want It Known That Everyone Is a Member Of Community Club.

"There seems to be a slight misunderstanding regarding who is eligible to go on the Manchester Green Community club outing at Elm Camp on the Salmon river at Moodus on Sunday," said Chairman Peter Baldwin of the outing committee today. "Some seem to think they are not entitled to go unless 'members' of the club. This is not the case, because it can't be. There are no non-members. Anyone who lives in the Manchester Green district automatically becomes a member of the club whether or not he or she attends any of the meetings. Nobody is elected to membership—nobody has to be. No dues are required."

"Everyone is entitled to go on the outing. The committee has made personal calls to most of the homes in Manchester Green and only lack of time has prevented us from calling at every home. The committee hopes that those who did not receive personal calls will not receive train from going." Mr. Baldwin persons have made application to participate in the outing, with more expected. The party will leave from the Green school at 9:30 Sunday morning in automobiles.

WARRANTEE DEEDS.

The Manchester Trust company, administrator of the will of the late A. E. Bowers, has sold to George N. Meier, property 65 by 160 feet on Woodbridge street.

William Ostrinski of Oak street has sold to Abe Schafer of Hartford a lot on Norman street, 150 by 50 feet.

Grains of wheat taken from an Egyptian tomb that had been closed for 4000 years were planted by a New South Wales farmer and grew to exceptional height.

BIT BY CAT

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Miss Adele Todd of New York, spending the summer at Manor Hotel here, received emergency treatment today when a cat bit and scratched one of her legs, creating a gash four inches long. Miss Todd was leading her small dog by leash when the cat made a dash for the dog.

Miss Todd picked the dog up for safety's sake and the cat attacked her in an effort to reach the dog.

Piles Relieved Quickly Or Money Refunded

ITCHING PILES are really very serious and should be checked at once! The small ULCERS, CRACKS and chronic catarrh which cause the distressing itch around the outside of the rectum must be healed, and quickly, to avoid further troubles do little good, but Prox, the new HEALING salve, which until recently could be obtained only upon a doctor's prescription, will stop the itching almost at once and insure a good night's sleep. No matter what you have tried, Prox, now recommended by most physicians, will astonish you by soothing and healing the parts in an amazingly short time, and giving you COMFORT you have never had before.

Ask your druggist what SATISFIED customers say of this marvelous PILE remedy. He will refund your money if you do not find vast improvement with the very first application. DON'T SCRATCH! Use Prox and sleep all night in comfort.—adv.

way into the pockets of the taxpayers of District 3 by receiving a credit upon their next tax bill of such a proportion of $4,000 as the assessed value of their property is to the assessed value of the whole property of the district. Districts 1 and 2 have to pay out respectively $250 and $3,750, and this is paid upon the individual residents of these districts respectively in the ratio that their property is to the assessed property of the district as a whole.

When the transaction is completed the town owns all the property of the districts and has assumed all of the debt, and the individual taxpayers in each district have either been credited or debited on their individual tax bills with the proportion of each district's debt or credit that their individual property bears to the property of the district as a whole.

Let us now apply this same process to the town of Manchester, and in doing this let us assume that the Ninth District owns the buildings which Cheney Brothers have built for the district. This is the case, but the result in figuring consolidation will be exactly the same whether these buildings are transferred to the Ninth District and by it transferred to the town, or whether they are transferred directly from Cheney Brothers to the town. The result is the same because if these buildings are transferred to the Ninth District it adds $956,000 of assets to the value of the Ninth District properties and also $956,000 of debts to the debts of the Ninth District. The net worth would remain the same, so that in an equalization no change would be made if the buildings were transferred directly to the town.

Appraisal of Schools
A careful appraisal has been made of all the school buildings of the town including those of Cheney Brothers, under the direction of the committee on school consolidation, by Messrs. Bliss and Cole, expert appraisers of Hartford. Their appraisal, plus the assessed value of the land, is for each district as follows:

First District	$ 3,025.00
Second District	78,050.00
Third District	8,450.00
Fourth District	26,775.00
Fifth District	8,075.00
Seventh District	28,850.00
Eighth District	249,385.00
Ninth District	1,540,356.82
(District	$ 634,650.00)
(Cheney Bros.	1,305,631.82)

$2,342,966.82
Including Cheney Brothers' school properties at their sound value plus appraised value of the land, if transferred to the town it will be done at their actual cost value plus the appraised value of the land, which is $956,237.30.

The debts of the several districts are as follows:

First District	$ 2,638.52
Second District	68,850.00
Third District	200.00
Fourth District	19,000.00
Fifth District	5,571.82
Seventh District	22,000.00
Eighth District	183,000.00
Ninth District	1,426,237.30
(District	$ 470,000.00)
(Cheney Brothers	$956,237.30)

$1,727,497.64
Including Cheney Brothers' school properties.
The net worth, or the difference between the sound value of its assets and its debts, for each district is as follows:

First District	$ 386.46
Second District	9,200.00
Third District	8,250.00
Fourth District	7,775.00
Fifth District	2,502.18
Seventh District	16,550.00
Eighth District	66,385.00
Ninth District	164,725.00

Grand Lists $275,774.64
The grand list of each district, and the per cent that the grand list of each district is of the grand list of the town, is as follows:

Dis.	Grand List	P. C.
First	$ 277,000.00	.5
Second	3,399,013.00	6.5
Third	1,577,193.00	2.9
Fourth	934,432.00	1.7
Fifth	714,099.00	1.3
Seventh	1,812,448.00	3.4
Eighth	6,943,479.00	13.1
Ninth	37,474,824.00	70.6

$53,132,488.00 100%
The proportion of the total net worth of the school properties of the town which would be assessed against each district is as follows, this proportion being that proportion of the net worth which the grand list of each district is to the grand list of the town:

First District	$ 1,378.87
Second District	17,925.33
Third District	7,997.46
Fourth District	4,688.17
Fifth District	3,585.07
Seventh District	9,376.34
Eighth District	36,126.48
Ninth District	194,696.90

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT THE STATE TODAY

Zane Grey Picture and Raymond Griffith Offered in End Of Week Program.

It will be seen at a glance that the major part of these debits and credits would practically result in an exchange between the Ninth School District and the Eighth School District, and between the Second School District and the Seventh School District. The reason that the Ninth School District has a debit balance is obvious. It has not owned its own school properties in large part. Also on the appraisal of its properties to determine their sound value today, $230,000 was written off from the value of the Nathan Hale School and the West Side Recreation Buildings, which were buildings constructed at the peak of the high cost of building in 1918 and which could now be reproduced at less than was actually expended upon them. If these buildings had been put in at their cost value instead of at their sound value the Ninth District would have a credit instead of a debit. The surprising part, however, of the whole process of consolidation is that all of the school properties could be taken over by the town with an equalization between the districts of only $40,000 of credits and $40,000 of debits. If the Ninth District continues to reduce its debt at the same rate as for the past three years, the debit balance against this district would be wiped out in less than four years.

The next article will deal with the relation of the Cheney Brothers' properties to the problem of school consolidation.

THREE GIRLS TO MAKE MONTH'S AUTO TRIP

Miss Schultze of Commerce Chamber and Friends to Make Extended Trip.

Miss Edythe A. Schultze, of 258 Oak street, assistant to George E. Rix, executive secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, will leave on Sunday by automobile for a month's tour which will include attendance at the International Waltham League Convention in St. Louis from July 17 to 21. Miss Schultze, a graduate of the South Manchester High school with the class of 1924, of which she was valedictorian, will act as a delegate to the convention from the Zion Lutheran church here and will go with two other girls from this state. They are Miss Ramona Sussman, of Rockville and Miss Martha Hoffman, Meriden delegate. The trip will be made in Miss Sussman's automobile. Following the convention, the three young women plan a tour which will include visits to scenic and historic spots about the Great Lakes and Niagara Falls.

DISMISSED
"Accused, your position is serious. You cannot deny that you got into the plaintiff's house at 3 in the morning."
"I don't deny it, sir. Only I mistook the door."
"Then you should have explained instead of taking flight."
"But I thought it was my wife waking up."—Fele Mele, Paris.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT THE STATE TODAY

Zane Grey Picture and Raymond Griffith Offered in End Of Week Program.

Raymond Griffith, the silk-hatted comedian, and Warner Baxter, virile Western actor, divide honors in the State theater double bill which will continue tonight and tomorrow. The former is the featured player in "Wedding Bells," a farce on the subject of honey moons and their aperturancas. Baxter is the leading light of the big Western feature, "Drums of the Desert," a Zane Grey story adapted to the screen.

"Wedding Bells" opens up with Griffith sound asleep at a friend's wedding but from that point on little sleeping is done as Griffith labors furiously and uproariously to save his best pal from the machinations of a blonde vamp and to win a charmer of the of the same preferred coloring for himself. A diamond necklace disappears and nothing contributes so much to the success of a Griffith picture as disappearing jewelry or other valuables as those who remember "Paths to Paradise," or "Hands Up," will testify.

Ann Sheridan, a newcomer to the films, who won her big chance through her work as one of the chorus girls in "Casey at the Bat," with Wallace Beery, is the leading woman for Griffith. She is a striking blonde beauty, just 10 years old and said to be exceptionally clever as an actress.

"In Paramount's screen version of "Desert Bound"—Drums of the Desert," a new tempo in western drama has been created, refreshing in that among other things it brings to the screen new faces.

Warner Baxter, long a favorite, is once more seen astride a horse as John Curry. Opposite him, in her first American role, is charming Marietta Miller, who has just been brought over from European triumphs. There's a freshness and verve to the characterizations of these two principals that is particularly likeable. Ford Sterling, Paramount's inimitable comedian, his usual funny self, as Painless Perkins, a desert faker, is able abetted by Heinie Conklin. Wallace MacDonald has the principal heavy role.

TOLLAND

GREEN-CLARK
 Riverview, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Green, Sr., in the River district, was the scene of a pretty home wedding Thursday afternoon, when their daughter, Ruth Storor Green, was married to Howard Drayton Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Clark of 116 Webster street, Hartford. The house was beautifully decorated with roses, mountain laurel and peonies. Rev. Edwin E. Sundt, pastor of the Clara Hall Elliott Memorial Church of South Willington, officiated. Mrs. Raymond Choinard played the wedding music, processional, "Lohengrin's" bridal march, "Mendelssohn's" wedding march, Songs "At Dawning," "I Love You and I Love You Truly," were sung by Mrs. Cornell A. Green, sister-in-law of the bride. The attendants were Miss Elizabeth L. Green, sister of the bride, who wore flowered georgette and carried a bouquet of roses, larkspur and snapdragons. The matron of honor was Mrs. George Nelson Bowers of Hartford, sister of the bride and Miss Grace Clark, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. They wore snail pink and rose georgette gowns and carried flowers of pink snapdragons. The bride wore a gown of white georgette trimmed with lace, and tulle veil, coronet style, and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. The best man was Whiting Clark of Boston, Mass., brother of the bridegroom. Guests were present from New Haven, Bridgeport, Guilford, Hartford, Worcester and Boston. On their wedding trip they will travel through northern New England and the White Mountains by auto.

The regular monthly meeting of the Tolland Fire Department was held on Friday evening of last week. A pleasant episode of the evening was its members in a body marched to the home of Captain C. Preston Meacham, who had just returned from a wedding trip. Captain and Mrs. Meacham received the congratulations of the fire ladies also the surprise the boys had in store for them in the way of a well thought out present. The captain in few well chosen remarks thanked the company, who then sang a serenade and said Good Night.

"BABY PEGGY" MAY MAKE A VISIT TO MANCHESTER

Manager Jack Sanson of the State theater was one of those who met "Baby Peggy", famous juvenile film star, at the Hoffman Brothers theater in New Britain yesterday. The little girl, according to Manager Sanson, is just like other little girls and doesn't seem to feel that she is world famous.

Mr. Sanson said today that he has made efforts to book the child actor for an appearance at the State theater here in the near future. Further announcement concerning this will be made later.

As a souvenir of his visit Mr. Sanson brought back to Manchester an oil painting of the star.

Postage stamps, before being perforated, were cut apart with a sharp knife or scissors. In 1853 the British government bought the patent for perforation of stamps from a man named Archer, paying him the equivalent of $20,000.

A recent order of the French war department requires all officers of the general staff to be stenographers in order to transcribe secret documents and orders that should not be seen by secretaries.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (25) Livingstone

The first great British missionary in Africa was Robert Moffatt. He transformed bloodstained Bechuanaland into a sanctuary of Christian civilization. In the homes of Boer slave-owners he persuaded the masters to let the slaves, the Hottentots, to enter the house for divine services.

News of Moffatt's deeds of mercy traveled back to England. A poor factory hand named David Livingstone heard of them.

Livingstone educated himself. Often while at his work in a cotton mill in Scotland he studied books of medicine.

Livingstone entered Africa as a doctor, explorer and missionary in 1841. His first great undertaking was to cross the Dark Continent from east to west and from west to east, between the Atlantic and Indian oceans. It was an appalling task, with such traveling companions as pestilence, starvation, wild beasts and savages.

Old Masters

"My birthday!—What a different sound
That word had in my youthful ears!
And how, each time the day comes round,
Less and less white its mark appears.
When first our scanty years are told,
It seems like pastime to grow old!
And, as Youth counts the shining links
That time around him binds so fast,
Pleased with the task, he little thinks
How hard the chin will press at last.
Vain was the man, and false as vain,
Who said—"were he ordained to run
His long career of life again
He would do all that he had done."
—Thomas Moore: My Birthday.

Have you ever made good on one job.. for 39 years?

THE extra mileage you get from Dunlop tires starts with the fact that Dunlop has had thirty-nine years of tire-building experience—more than any other tire-maker.

Each part of each Dunlop is built right. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills to spin selected long-fibre cotton into the special Dunlop cable-twist cords.

These cords mean extra strength—an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

They mean extra "stretch"—so the tire carcass will give under blows, and come back to its original shape without the slightest injury.

Every Dunlop you buy has extra miles built into it because Dunlop knows each part of its job. That is why we recommend you put Dunlops on your car.

ANNUAL COMMUNITY HOLIDAY GIVES CITIES WIDE REPUTE

By DON E. MOWRY Secretary, American Community Advertising Association As a means of giving a city a national reputation, the advantage of an annual community holiday has been realized by few American cities.

San Jose, Calif., has achieved marked success with its "Fiesta de las Rosas," however, and it offers an excellent example for other cities.

Then an up-to-date outside world would never have discovered, perhaps, that their town was so jim crow as not to have a golf course at this late day.

A NAUGHTY CRITIC

We have our own opinion of the prize-fighting game, and it is not a flattering one. But we regard with more or less suspicion a contributor to the New York World who signs his letter as "A" and who, in its course, says:

And how do they satisfy the intelligent witnesses watching them? Appealing to their minds or finer sentiments? No! But by opening up a gash from which the blood flows profusely, or by blinding or paralyzing each other, or by striking one another so hard that one of them falls stricken to the ground.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Back in George Washington's time, a negro coachman one day drove the pole of his team into a pedestrian with fatal results.

The latest instance of the intermittent warfare between diplomatic folk and cops involved Sarfield Smiddy, the son of the minister from the Irish Free State who was undiplomatic in more ways than one.

After Sarfield had been stopped early one morning for speeding across a bridge at 34 miles an hour instead of the permitted speed of 22, he was asked for his driver's permit. He replied that he was a legation attache and had left it at home.

Although it is still dangerous business for a cop even to touch a diplomat, a profound impression on careens diplomatic drivers was exerted by the experience of Mme. Entozam, an American girl who married the erstwhile first secretary of the Persian legation.

Mme. Entozam, driving a car in which were two Latin-American attaches, speeded up at an intersection, crashed into a car which she should have missed, and found after recovering control, that the occupant of the other car had been killed.

Occasionally one of the big boys gets into a jam, however. The Swedish minister some time ago smashed into a newspaperman's car, damaging it considerably.

Traffic Offenses Traffic offenses however, provide the principal complaint of the cops. This may give away a secret of state, but one is given to understand that Mr. Kellogg's department has sent to all legations and embassies a selected set of rules of the road with the suggestion that it might help all around if everyone followed them.

The district traffic director M. O. Eldridge, had a run-in with a secretary of the Serbian legation recently which resembled the crash of an irresistible force against an immovable object.

The heads of mission are generally tactful enough to keep out of trouble, feeling that any gross breach on their part would react on the prestige of their respective countries.

and that the offer was indignantly refused. The State Department had an ear in before the matter blew over, but the newspaperman paid the bill from his own pocket as the minister pleaded personal poverty.

Department acted with firmness. The brunt of the business fell upon the unfortunate Secretary Entozam, whose government subsequently removed him from the Washington scene.

"This incident has the salutary effect on other diplomats and their people," explains a police official.

Well, that touch of success headed her for Broadway. She was a darn pretty youngster of about 19, with lots of dark hair, curls and lots more of brown eyes.

To all intents and purposes, she dropped out of sight, like so many other little beauties. But all the time she had been fighting to get on in New York and no one seemed to know the difference.

That, also, was that. The youngster had been swallowed up by mediocrity and she was getting sick over it. In order to make good she tried to break into a musical show while holding down her cabaret job. She couldn't stand it.

The other day in a morning newspaper I noticed a couple of paragraphs about the death of Kitty Banks. She had developed tuberculosis and death came in a sanitarium.

Yet somehow, somehow she had been struggling right along.... a kid beautiful enough to win a prize from the big parade of lovely professional beauties.

Well, that touch of success headed her for Broadway. She was a darn pretty youngster of about 19, with lots of dark hair, curls and lots more of brown eyes.

To all intents and purposes, she dropped out of sight, like so many other little beauties. But all the time she had been fighting to get on in New York and no one seemed to know the difference.

That, also, was that. The youngster had been swallowed up by mediocrity and she was getting sick over it. In order to make good she tried to break into a musical show while holding down her cabaret job. She couldn't stand it.

The other day in a morning newspaper I noticed a couple of paragraphs about the death of Kitty Banks. She had developed tuberculosis and death came in a sanitarium.

Yet somehow, somehow she had been struggling right along.... a kid beautiful enough to win a prize from the big parade of lovely professional beauties.

But that's the way with Manhattan. Only those who rise to the top or slide to the bottom are noticed. The in-betweens just disappear—or die!

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

PAUL ADAMS
SPECIAL SERVICE

You'll have these gentlemen to deal with if you take pictures in the Bois de Boulogne. It is "detendu."

This is chapter 76 of the series of articles written by an ex-soldier who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LXXVI

The amateur photographers of America, including those who will come to France with the American Legion in September, might have lost two of the most picturesque subjects for their out-of-focus lenses during the entire 1927 season but for a buck private who went back.

In Cantigny, where the First Division staged the first battle of the war in which American soldiers participated on May 28, 1918, Armand Cordier and Ernest Dubos reside. They are withered branches, both of them, and are always on the streets of the village. Consequently they have been exposed to the tourists' rapid recumbent fire since 1920.

Every tourist who has asked them to pose for a "snap" has promised faithfully to send back some prints. And not one of the 100,000 (for Cantigny is a popular objective) has ever made good—save one.

Too Many Shots

Recently a penetrating buck fastened eyes that were filled with desire on the ancient figures. He asked them to pose and, to his great surprise was met with a curt refusal. Ernest explained:

"We've been subjected now for six years to the click of every kind of camera from a German 77 to an English four-point-nine and an American double-prismatic with a roller-towel attachment," he said. "We've been posed 'hat on hat off' on the steps of the church, sitting astride the fountain erected by the National Geographic Society and in every conceivable position.

"Every photographer, even in the honest-looking old men with thin whiskers, have vowed they would return some prints. Our names and addresses have been written in every script in the world except the style used in Hopstanz, New Jersey. But, to date, we have never seen a single copy . . . not even a fuzzy one with a black spot where the sun shone in through the lens."

Go On Strike

So they decided in a long talk over a bottle of wine in Madame Wattlelet's buvette one dreary evening last winter, to rebel. They would go on a strike, and from the day of the declaration they would tell all tourists who asked them to pose to go and take a jump in the Cantigny duck pond.

The situation, as the buck found it, was alarming. It began to look like a season of unexposed films for 1927. But he argued lustily, bought five rounds of wine in a row (which were participated in by five other villagers) and finally obtained a consent. Furthermore, he is sending a print to both Armand and Ernest. They should have them in hand before the tourist rush starts. And Cantigny will again be available as a battleground for the kodak clickers. (Contributions to reimburse the Buck for those five rounds of "vin blanc" should be put under the door).

TOMORROW: Sergeant Feltow.

DRY AGENTS TAKE

NEW EXAMINATIONS TO RETAIN JOBS

New York.—Pity the poor prohibition agent—his school starts at the time his children's vacation days begin.

Confronted with the new regulations of the United States Department of Internal Revenue, regarding that all members of the prohibition enforcement staff qualify themselves for their posts by passing new civil service examinations, the agents attached to the New York office entered upon an intensive scholastic campaign for the purpose of holding their jobs when the new regulations go formally into effect in the fall.

Most of the men attached to the New York squad, one of the busiest in the country, enrolled for

SELF-SERVE CUSTOMERS COME FROM MILES AROUND

HALE'S SELF-SERVE GROCERY

IT PAYS TO WAIT ON YOURSELF

WHY?

HALE'S HEALTH MARKET

WE'LL TELL YOU

Our Health Market which was opened in 1924, has developed such an amazing business that we really need twice as much room. We are adding six feet more to our present large display case, which will give us room for one more man and an additional scale. This will help relieve the pressure on Tuesdays and Saturdays, but at best this is only temporary, as we shall have to double the size as soon as arrangements can be completed. "Why?" you ask.

The only reason we can give is that apparently people appreciate our attempts to keep the Health Market immaculately clean. The entire market is scrubbed down with boiling water and strong soap every day. The floors and walls are of tile. Artificial refrigeration gives the maximum of protection. Then, we have skilled butchers in charge—men who know good meat, know how to cut it, and above all, see that you get the utmost for your money. Courteous, willing and efficient service make up the total, a combination hard to beat.

Our Self-Serve Grocery and Health Market are probably the most unique food departments to be found anywhere in the United States. We average better than twenty-one turnovers a year. Our stock is always fresh. There isn't a store doing a telephone, charge and delivery business that, on the average, can anywhere near meet our prices. Our prices on advertised branded merchandise are always as low, or even lower than any of the chain stores.

We carry ninety-six feet of automatically chilled show case, devoted to the display of fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products and meat. So far as we know, it is the only case of its kind in existence. When we put on a ham sale, one of the large packers admits that we sell more hams than any store in the city of Hartford.

People who are in a hurry can come in, immediately find what they want, and get out quickly. People who have plenty of time and wish to look around, are not in any sense hurried by some clerk anxiously urging them to decide what they want.

Without question, we have the most complete variety of staple and fancy groceries to be found anywhere in this vicinity. We carry a complete line of National Biscuits in bulk, and you may buy just as you wish, and have them fresh. They are delivered to us daily.

Many of our good customers tell us that their savings average over 10% as compared with the larger Hartford stores. In a town of five thousand homes, we are now averaging more than six thousand customers a week in our food departments alone.

If you are not a Self-Serve customer, you should be. If you live in a neighboring town or city, come in once a week and load up. Free parking space in back of store. You will discover as thousands of others have that

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE BARBERY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the absence of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who masquerades as her attorney under the name of D. V. VILAK, a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood, in a student of criminology. He tries to persuade Elise to leave the country, leaving him with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, to solve the mystery.

After her two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped, and another attempt is made on their lives, Elise agrees.

Her departure is prevented by threat of floods. Messengers warn the natives. VILAK decides to go to the home of GAYLORD FRENCH, a recluse and a forbidding man and an enemy of VILAK, whose she suspects of a knowledge of the conspiracy against her. Nevertheless, she agrees to their duty to warn him.

VILAK learns that the good warning was a ruse to get French out of his house and so informs him. The paralytic French, in a small stone tower next to French's house by ancient attackers. VILAK finally disperses them by dynamiting a dam and causing a real flood. When the water recedes they discover French has gone.

The next day, TINKY, Elise's little nephew, is stolen again. The trail leads into the jungle. The native reports French has been seen with a baby. VILAK makes preparations for a long journey in pursuit. With natives trackers, they take up the trail.

The flare of the tiny flame was as though lightning had struck the assembly.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

FOR two more days they traveled without seeing a sign of either humanity or human habitation except the sharp machete cuts in the branches and the crushed vegetation underfoot which showed them their course.

Then on the morning of the fifth day out from Porto Verde, on a low mound rising slightly above the level of the forest, they came to what appeared to be a secondary trail coming from a slightly different direction and joining their own.

Here VILAK examined the ground carefully. Between clumps of tall grass he found a number of cigar stubs. They were filled with a cheap, coarse tobacco, rolled by hand. Evidently the smoker had exhausted his supply of papers, for most of the cigars were rolled in bits of newspaper, torn envelopes, and other odds and ends a man ordinarily carries in his pocket.

Quickly VILAK picked these up and deftly unrolling them, spread them out upon a log. He concentrated his attention upon the bits of envelope. A moment later he grunted, then extended two of the scraps to Elise. "Look at that," he flashed.

The fragments bore part of an English postmark and the full name of Elise's English foreman who had escaped from the Porto Verde jail after the murder of Tony Barbetta.

When they halted at noon for the midday meal, VILAK distributed rifles to half of the natives who had hitherto been permitted to carry only spears. "We're being watched all the time now," he said to Elise and NUNNALLY, who had glanced at him inquisitively. "No use worrying about it, but I'm certain it's so. I've heard rustles in the trees three or four times this morning. They weren't caused by monkeys or we'd have known it by being screamed at, or having sticks and fruit rained down upon us."

That night the guard was doubled. The hidden watchers, however, gave no sign of their presence.

It was almost a week later when the sun was high in the sky that they came within sight of their first Indian village, twenty or thirty red huts built in the shape of low cones so that in the distance they appeared like great gray anthills. As they approached, the Tartar-like guide suddenly gave three loud cries and began a long noisy rhapsody in a high-pitched, wailing dialect.

Four warriors of the village came hurrying out from the rush shelters, holding drawn bows. They planted themselves squarely in the path of the newcomers. Completely atoned except for a breech cloth and undecorated except for a little striped tattooing around the elbows and knees, they stood rigid, shining bronze statues barring the way.

"Marvelous bodies," VILAK murmured to NUNNALLY, as the guide continued his shrill oration. "Pronounced Oriental strain in them, too, undoubtedly. Look at the shape of their heads and the slant of their eyes. That tattooing also is absolutely the same as I could swear you in a hundred places in the islands of East Asia. Judging by the way they're looking at us, we're the first white men they've seen."

The guide's declamation at length ceased. The headman of the village, a grizzled, withered shell, who appeared as though three centuries had passed over his long gray head, stalked gravely out from the largest hut. Behind him tod-one by one drifted back.

"Lord, what an effect!" chuckled VILAK to NUNNALLY, as the chief advanced with some hesitation to them. "Silly of me, though. Should have known that practically all the tribes we'll meet are fire worshippers. Commonest thing in all savage life. Undoubtedly never saw a match before. They'll be turning us into gods, and making us eat rancid butter the way they do in Tibet if we're not careful."

The chief warily set down beside him. VILAK felt him feel the box, examine the match itself, then painstakingly demonstrated how the fire was created by striking the stone against the flint.

The old man grinned, then eagerly followed his example. His delight was unbounded when VILAK presented him with the marvel. The broken line of dancers reformed; the dance proceeded to a furious climax and ended. More tapir and berries were brought.

VILAK now tried talking to his host in the Guarany dialect, which extends like a mother-tongue through most of the savages of South America. Finding himself understood, he inquired whether the Indians had seen any other travelers lately pass that way with a child.

The chief shook his head. His village was a hunting village; regularly all the men went off to the jungle, leaving none but the women and children behind. At these times the women dared not venture far from their houses, and consequently knew nothing of what passed in the nearby forests. The men had just returned from a week's hunt the day before; therefore he could tell them nothing.

The chief asked VILAK his destination. VILAK pointed vaguely off into the direction the trail had been constantly leading. The chief shook his withered head again and grunted. "No go there. Listen me, Bagarundi. Spirits there. No go. Devils there. In valley. Green valley. On mountain. Red mountain. Devil mountain. Kill you. Kill girl. Too quick. Listen Bagarundi. Bagarundi wise."

At the chief's urgent invitation, they pitched their camp in the village for the night. Then a smudge fire was kindled to drive away the swarming mosquitoes; the old man began dropping out the legends of his people to all his visitors who could understand. Shortly before midnight the Americans entered the hut which had been reserved for their reception. VILAK poked a suspicious-looking corner with a stick to rout out any tarantula that might be hiding within the hangings. "I'm convinced now that these South American Indians were Asiatic in their origin even if I hadn't been before," he said to NUNNALLY as he disentangled a hook which had caught in the mesh.

"Those legends of the old man related tonight can be reproduced in half a dozen places in Eastern Asia and the Asiatic islands. That story about the man who walked through the fire and thereby became a god, particularly. It's almost like being in the Malay archipelago to hear it again. They still walk through fire, for that matter, in some of the Malay Japanese islands and Fiji and Guinea. A trick, of course. Know exactly how it's done. It's the way the shamans and priests keep their power."

"World's a pretty small place, interesting chap, this old man. Doesn't seem very encouraging about our prospects ahead."

(To Be Continued)

Disaster catches up with the excited and VILAK ends traitors in his tracks.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

Shakespeare bracelets are the very latest offering in Fashion's kit. The bracelets, made of slender tinkling silver circles, are inscribed with "suitable" Shakespearean quotations. Thus, no doubt, the dishing girl's bracelet would read, "Oh, that this too, too solid flesh would melt!" The flirtatious girl's bracelet would ask, "To be or not to be, that's the question." And I suppose it's just as terrible to wear the wrong inscription as to use the wrong perfume. What next, Old Dame, what next?

Baby Killers

A woman checked a suitcase in a depot baggage room. Soon after, the baggage master heard a faint crying. He thought the woman had left a kitten in the bag, opened it, and found a baby boy, his mouth and nostrils plugged with cotton so that it was evident that the woman had tried her best to murder the baby. If the woman was his mother, she was insane, of course. It is not only sad, but scientific knowledge which but without exception that, the mother instinct being what it is, nothing short of insanity ever alters the mother's passionate desire for the well-being of her child.

Fisherman's Luck

Somehow the fishing tales of Mrs. Grace Coolidge ring a little more true than the fishing tales of her eminent husband. One very readily catches the animal. First, lady in wading boots standing midstream, whipping it with her rod and reel. Her background and her personality prove that this is the very thing she would do on doing. But the pictures of Cal and his rainbow trout—well, I don't want to doubt all my fellow human beings. But I will tell you that the boy next door thinks the president never catches with his rod.

"I Smashed More!"

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who probably did more for woman suffrage than most any other living woman, complains, in reminiscing over those days, that the papers never reported one-tenth of the things she did. That's the president's smash-up. That's the president's smash-up. That's the president's smash-up. That's the president's smash-up. That's the president's smash-up.

Cal's Sweet Nothings

"You look nice and sweet and pretty." Who do you suppose said that, and who do you suppose he said it to? Well, according to dispatches, that was said by President Calvin Coolidge of These United States of America. And he said it to a girl, too. A little Indian girl, 7-year-old Naomi Gill, a pupil in the Indian school near his summer camp. And yet some folks say the president has no pretty nothings in his dignified system.

HINTS ON ETIQUET

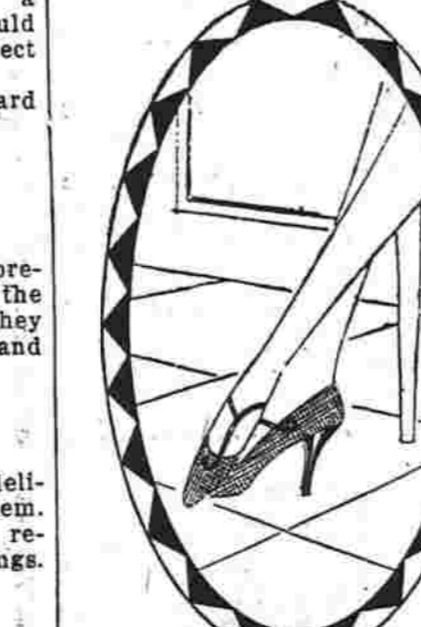

1. If your hostess has arranged for entertainment for every single minute of your visit, it is proper to try to beg off just to rest?
2. When inviting guests it is customary to state the time of their departure as well as their arrival?
3. Should a prospective hostess tell her guest when inviting and outline the entertainment?

The Answers

1. No. Rest when you get home.
2. Yes.
3. The considerate hostess will. It helps a guest plan her wardrobe.

STRIVE FOR YOUR CHILD'S CONFIDENCE

By Olive Roberts Barton

Behind every economic urge is the child. The child is the future. And what is man struggling for if not to build for the future world and plan for posterity?

Heretofore the position of the child in the home was vaguely but aptly illustrated by the saying, "Children should be seen and not heard."

They were supposed to be well-mannered, silent little puppets without individuality or impulse.

Now we know them to be real people—grown-ups in embryo, with every potential quality of their elders. If they were nonentities, empty vessels to be set aside conveniently until they were eighteen years old, when we could pour into them the commandments and all the living virtues, the old time method might still hold good. But we now know that the vessels are full and something must be done about the contents.

Nothing is so worth while as the child, so nothing is so worth while as child training. To strike a fine balance between discipline and self-expression, to be careful not to develop selfishness while drawing an inferiority complex, to teach truth telling and at the same time keep fear out of his make-up—all these require parental patience, tact and sympathetic understanding.

A busy mother and father may not have time always to delve too closely into the matters of child training. But they can do much. The things I would stress most particularly are: Never to frighten him; never to make fun of him or shame him; but on the contrary praise him for everything you honestly can; begin to discipline him at one year of age or before; make few laws but see that those are obeyed to the letter. Of these laws I would put truth and honesty first.

Often parents do not know their children. They don't talk to them enough. The amount of good done by parents talking heart to heart with a boy or girl is beyond all counting. Get them to talk to you no matter how little they are. And don't send them away to play so you can read or play bridge. Hear all out and tell him, or her, where he is wrong and where he is right. As they get older they will not get farther away, but closer to you. Lucky is the mother and father who have the confidence of their children.

OPERATION FOR BUNION RELIEF NOW RECOGNIZED PRACTICE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

During a period from 1917-1924, about 300 operations were done in a New York hospital for the relief of bunions. In this work some 25 surgeons co-operated and one of them has recently reviewed the results of 200 operations performed on 108 patients were women. Pain was the chief reason for operation in more than half the cases, but one-fourth of them had the operation because the foot was badly deformed by the bunions. Indeed, one of the patients had had bunions for 35 years and five of them had had them for more than 20 years.

Most of these patients had tried wearing broad shoes, arch supports and other devices. Fitted by none too competent chiropodists, before they finally decided to have the bunion removed by an operation.

While the operation is simple, it is necessary for the patient to stay in the hospital in bed for from 12 to 18 days in order to permit good recovery before an attempt is made to walk on the foot. In most instances the operation consists in the removal of part of the overgrown bone that is responsible for the pain and the deformity. After the operation patients were able to move the great toe freely in most instances.

In many instances the bunion may be associated with a chronic inflammation of the joints that has localized to a certain extent in the great toe. When this is the case, operative removal of the bone does not always insure complete elimination of the condition. A physician who is thoroughly informed as to the general condition of the patient is therefore able to decide whether or not the operation may be indicated in any case. The proper selection of the operative procedure in each individual case is conceived by the New York investigators to be of the greatest importance.

Hero Worship Is All Very Fine, But—

Olive Roberts Barton

Hero worship and heroine worship is all very fine, but let us be sure that the persons who are the guiding star of our lives is a real hero or a real heroine, and not just some one it suits us to emulate.

When I was a girl a school friend of mine visited the daughter of a very rich family. When she came home she told the rest of us all about the butlers and coachmen, the art gallery and ball room, and all the other things that spelled fairyland to use of the uninitiated.

But none of us knew then the greatest and most lasting thing that had come of that visit. The mother of the family was a "grand dame" whose word was law in her social set. Her motto of living like "Trafalgar" in "Trelawney of the Wells" was "It isn't done."

Things were correct or incorrect not if they were right or wrong in themselves, but if they were properly done.

It was a new world to a little school girl in her formative years, and the result was inevitable. What the grand lady said had more effect on her little visitor than the counsel of her own good mother. The visits were repeated, and in time we noticed a change.

The first thing that brought us up suddenly to what had happened was that our friend announced to the crowd one day that she never intended to have children. Mrs. So-and-So didn't want her daughter to have any it seemed, because it wasn't necessary and only interfered with her social career. She added on her own account that it was silly to have children, anyway.

We followed her through part of her married life for some years and lost sight of her eventually. But not before we had seen enough to know that the warped and false set of living standards she had adopted in her youth had stuck to her hard and fast. She was blissfully unconscious of that they had bleached her life into nothingness.

Convention we cannot discard. But what torture it would be to stop each time before we made a choice, to say to ourselves, "Should we do it? Is it the correct thing to do?"

That is a false and silly standard to follow.

THE DU PONT WIVES AND DAUGHTERS-- THEY'RE NOT GIVEN TO SOCIAL PARADING; GIRLS, HEIRESSES ALL, MARRY FOR LOVE

Mary B. du Pont, who gave up Bryn Mawr to study nursing.

Mrs. Coleman du Pont

The Conservatory at the Pierre du Pont home—Mrs. W.K. du Pont

In this last of four stories about the du Ponts, "most interesting American family," Hortense Saunders turns her attention to the du Pont womenfolk—the wives and daughters of the colorful tribe of Delaware millionaires.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Wilmington, Del., July 8.—The women of the du Pont family have not matched socially the commercial achievements of the men, nor have they figured in the business except as stockholders. No social dictator has been produced by the du Ponts—no celebrated beauty or professional genius. No Nancy Astor or Anne Morgan of du Pont blood has yet arrived to add lustre to the name. Naturally the du Pont women dominate Wilmington society—they would by their numbers and their wealth. But they travel and entertain without the brass band accompaniment.

Mrs. William K. Socially prominent and politically inclined is Mrs. William K. du Pont, who is the national reputation committee woman from Delaware. She is a capable executive and a hard worker.

Mrs. Coleman du Pont has been more interested in social welfare than the rest. She was a war worker in France, and is on the national board of the Y. W. C. A. Her daughter, Mrs. Hollyday S. Meeds, is president of the Fine Arts Society of Wilmington.

Miss Amy du Pont is a successful stock breeder, and her estate is famous for its thoroughbred horses. Mrs. Pierre du Pont cares very little for society, but she shares her husband's fondness for orchids and azaleas and his pride in their famous conservatory.

Eight Daughters Mrs. Irene du Pont, with eight daughters, naturally has quite a career laid out for her without going outside the home. The two eldest daughters are married to chemists in the du Pont company.

The daughters of Lanmot du Pont have displayed a tendency to lead their own lives and support themselves, even though the necessity of pocket money can never be a consideration.

Natalia, the older daughter, graduated from Bryn Mawr, went into the statistical business and for the past three years has been employed by a Wilmington brokerage concern.

"I have always wanted to devote a part of my time to study or business," she explained, "because I believe it is every woman's right to earn a salary, no matter how small, by her own efforts."

One Turns Nurse Her sister Mary graduated from the fashionable Mary Baldwin Seminary at Bryn Mawr, but instead of going to college, she went to the Johns Hopkins Hospital training school and enrolled as a student nurse.

"I think," she said, "nursing would fulfill something more useful and practical in my life than college. I shall give up social affairs for the time being and do some real work."

Ernest du Pont once was sent to Johns Hopkins hospital with a fractured leg. A nurse of the regular staff was assigned to care for him, and later to continue the treatment on du Pont's yacht, along with du Pont's personal physician. Ernest proved her last case. She gave up her career to become his wife.

Elopes With Clerk Recently Frances du Pont eloped with a young clerk who was earning $150 a month. The bride's family seemed quite as satisfied with the match as with that of another du Pont heiress who announced her engagement to a social registerite at the same time.

A few years ago Alicia du Pont, the step-daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, married Harold Glendinning, Rhodes student, the son of a Connecticut mail carrier. She met him while he was employed as a chemist at the du Pont company during the war. Though the du Pont women have not been famous social lights, they have been allowed to follow the dictates of their own hearts, and so-called "brilliant marriages" have not been insisted upon. And if there have been no famous international alliances, there have been surprisingly few divorces for so large a family. A large percentage of happy endings compensated for romances that did not call for headlines.

The Chaldeans are believed to have been the first people to use the sun dial as a means of telling time. The average person has only eleven minutes of actual sleep each night, according to Dr. Alfred F. Haake of New York.

MANCHESTER PEOPLE SUE IN WORCESTER

Car Overtaken In Sturbridge Causing Personal Injuries and Damage to Car.

(Special to The Herald) Worcester, Mass., July 8.—Two residents of Manchester, Conn., have started suits for a total of $6,000 in the Worcester Superior Court against the inhabitants of the town of Sturbridge, as the outgrowth of an automobile accident on the highway leading from Sturbridge to Union, Conn. The plaintiffs claim the automobile in which they were riding was caused to overturn, because of a depression at the end of a culvert, at which there was a lack of suitable barrier to safeguard travelers. Raymond E. Hagedorn of 89 Oakland street, Manchester, sued for $4,000 and seeks to recover for personal injuries and damage to his car. Miss Gertrude Angell of 113 Glenwood street, South Manchester, sued for $2,000 for personal injuries. Attorney W. W. Buckley of Southbridge, is their counsel.

STATE EMPLOYMENT Hartford, Conn., July 8.—The five free employment bureaus of the State Department of Labor received 827 applications for jobs from workers during the week ending yesterday. Among the applicants were 451 men and 370 women. Jobs were secured for 509.

BALCHEN IN HOLLAND

Rotterdam, July 8.—Bernt Balchen, member of the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane America, who is flying from Paris to Amsterdam, arrived here at 12:29 this afternoon.

Paris, July 8.—Bernt Balchen left for Amsterdam from Le Bourget flying field at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The plane, however, was forced to return because of engine trouble. Balchen had breakfast and hopped off again at 9:45. He is to consult with officials of the Fokker plant in Amsterdam regarding the plane Commander Richard E. Byrd will use on his South Pole expedition.

SHARKEY STARTS HIS TRAINING AT MADISON SQUARE GYM TODAY

Has Only 13 Days to Get Into Shape But Experts Say He Is Fit to Enter Ring Now.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

New York, July 8.—Jack Sharkey, the man of few words usually beginning with the personal pronoun and ending very seldom, if at all, will confront the public eye and confound the public ear this afternoon in New York for the first time since he slapped James Maloney for a slaughter late in May. The famous raconteur will work five or six rounds and talk, possibly as many as five or six hundred at the Garden gymnasium, the act coming to town only thirteen days before its one-man cast is scheduled to frolic at the Yankee Stadium with Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey will spend those thirteen days in trying to taper off from the exigencies of three months preparation for the biggest issue of his life but, for Sharkey, he will be thirteen very active days, in fact, the only really active days he has put in since the Maloney incident or accident or whatever it was.

In Good Shape

Sharkey, young, healthy and full of saffras, doesn't need more than a comparative few days to be as fit as rat poison for anyone. For whereas Dempsey is thirty-two and has fought only six times in seven years, Sharkey is twenty-four and has fought five times in the last ten months. He could be actually "sharper" if he worked less than a week for Dempsey.

Rules a Favorite

The only factor that can't be taken either for granted or otherwise happens to be Sharkey himself. According to Wall Street, he continues to rule a favorite at odds verging on 7 to 5, and considering his youth, ability and the abiding fact that he has fought his way up to this match, these odds are not at all unnatural.

However, men close to Sharkey in Boston inform me that he is a gentleman of complexes, although probably he would deny this charge with the statement that his health is perfect. He thought he could lick Willis and he did. He had nothing but contempt for Maloney and he made the idea stick. But, because of an absurd notion, he regarded doddering, old Charley Welbert as a man among men and this congenial push-over, in consequence, was poison.

Dempsey Once His Idol

That being the case, it might be rising to a point of order to inquire as to what Sharkey thinks of Dempsey. He thought so much of him several years ago that he is alleged to have sat, enthralled, in a theatre while a news reel displayed Dempsey's preparations for Firpo. He thought so well of him that he is said to have made the then champion his idol.

But it seems possible that later he may have changed his mind. He went to Philadelphia for the Tunney fight and anyone who wandered off into that night of rain with the impression that Dempsey still was a neophyte simply laid himself open to suspicion as being a super-idiot.

Besides that, Sharkey only has been Sharkey for ten months and what happened before that possibly can be thrown out like an ex-shoe. If it can't be, perhaps someone had better wire Freud to come on and cover this fight.

Kayo Artist

Tom Sayres

It's a record word talking about, this one of 23 knockouts in 30 fights credited to Tom Sayres. Sayres, just turned 21 and weighing 155 pounds, is Detroit's entry in the heavyweight ranks. He has a famous name, that of an old English fighter, and he stands ready to meet all comers in order to live up to it.

DEMPSEY OPENS UP AND TELLS A STORY

By GEORGE BARRY
Special Correspondent

Saratoga, N. Y., July 8.—Jack Dempsey yawned a bit when someone informed him today that Jack Sharkey promises to knock him out on July 21st and then said: "I hardly can believe Sharkey said that. He's such a nice fellow this Sharkey. I hardly think he'd ever consider being so brutal as to knock out an old, old man like myself."

Dempsey's eyes seemed to drift back along the trail of the years. He grinned a bit and finally added: "You know when I think of Sharkey I just sort of think of the Boston Bearcat that I fought eleven or twelve years ago."

"The Boston Bearcat was a big burly dark boy who had beaten everybody in and around Salt Lake and Ogden and he was constantly looking around for some new blood to spill. A great fellow the Bearcat; very talkative and very savage in his ring manners. I was careful to believe the Bearcat, well, the only reason he wasn't world champion at the time was because Jess Willard was ducking him."

"One afternoon I bounced in on a promoter looking for a fight and he asked if I would take on the dusky Bearcat. I said 'sure' and the match was made but not until the Bearcat had his way about all of the purse going to the winner. No sooner had we been matched than he hunted for the newspaper folks and in his good old fashioned way told everybody that he would ruin me and he begged and pleaded with everybody through the newspaper columns and also when he met 'em on the street to bet on him."

"A day before the fight the Bearcat insisted that the promoter place a big canvas over the orchestra pit which was just in front of the stage where we were to fight. Naturally, folks began to get suspicious. Sets the Stage. So the Bearcat, who felt he was a great goat getter, and who tried to win his fights razzing and jeering at fellows even before the first bell rang, told 'em—like this: "A nice boy, this Dempsey and so I don't want to break his neck when I knock him off the stage. That's why I put the canvas there to catch him when I knock him on the stage."

"When we were in our corners the Bearcat scowled over at me and tried to scare me dizzy. So I just grinned back at him and pointing to the canvas in the pit, I yelled: "You're a smart bird putting that there so as to save your own neck."

Knocks Him Out

"The Bearcat who outweighed me about 25 pounds came tearing at me. I kept jockeying around so that I could edge him along the edge of the stage. It took me about a minute to get him placed right, then I put everything I had into a left hand drive for the body. The Bearcat doubled up and his body shot off the stage into the pit and his neck was saved by the canvas that was put there."

"Why does that incident remind you of Sharkey—or visa-versa?" Dempsey was asked.

"Well, that's the little riddle you fellows can try to figure out all by yourselves," answered the champion after which he began to ready himself for a long jaunt on the road, to be followed with an afternoon's stiff workout with his entire staff or sparring partners.

Tulsa's Mighty Casey

There was grief in Casey's manner As he stepped into his place. There was pride in Casey's bearing And a smile lit Casey's face. And when, responding to the cheers, He lightly doffed his hat, No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'Twas Casey at the bat.

There is no grief in Oilville when Casey comes to bat, because Peter Casey, Tulsa, Okla., star, has already hit 17 home runs this season. He has played only since May 1. Casey, who happens to be a motorcycle policeman during the off season, is an outfielder, but can play first or triple. His batting average in early June was .448, and included three catches and ten doubles.

"There'll Be No 'Ex' Before My Name Next Fall"—Dempsey

By JIMMY POWERS
New York, July 8.—The idols of sport die hard.

For years Dempsey stood on a pedestal. He rocked dizzily once. One hectic, heart-tingling night a hairy-chested bull-like man battered him through the ropes. That was Luis Firpo. Then came the inevitable crash. Another night, a murky night and a rain-lashed canvas was splashed with crimson blotches from a bleeding nose, a puffed eye and a pair of split lips. Gene Tunney did that.

The shock chilled millions of fans. Now is the comeback. Nine out of ten persons this writer has talked to here want to see Dempsey regain his pedestal. They want to think that horrible scene in the shadows of the Sequi stadium as just a vague nightmare.

And so we have Jack with us again—bronzed with a deep coat of California sunshine, eyes bright and clear, manner brisk and confident, a slap on the back and a cheery word. He looks like the Dempsey of old.

Here is the tragic undertone of our interview. It gives a little insight into the heart of the man who was once, it seemed, idolized by every kid and every kid's father in every city block in America.

"You don't know what a year I spent since that thing at Philly," mused Jack, flashing darkly with the memory of it all. "Eyes stung at me in hotel lobbies and trains, in every city block in America. All pitying me, all thinking 'You poor sucker, you.'"

"It was enough to break the spirit of any man. I'm not a broken-down machine. I'm a man who had the championship of the world and lost it in a single fight, outpointed for the title.

"But I've had plenty of time to weigh my friends. I've got friends now who are REAL. That bunch of hangers-on who robbed me and lied me dry and kicked me over the board—and say I'm glad I know my pals now who are REGULAR."

He grinned and playfully tousled the head of his trainer, Jerry the Greek, who thinks, "there's nobody in the world like the champion." "Sharkey? I hear he's good," said he. "I hear he's better than Tunney. Fine! When I beat him it will make the Tunney fight seem lots easier."

"They say he's going to 'put the eye on me.' Now, that's rich. I'm pretty good at that 'eye business myself. If you will remember, 'I know when I'm right. I never brag. I just wasn't right last September. If I had to go a couple of more rounds then I believe Gene would have KNOCKED ME OUT!'" And Jack looked very serious as he said that and for a moment he must have permitted himself to review the painful debacle. Then he grinned.

"I'm out to win that title back. I know I'm in good shape. I'd never risk the humiliation of a worse beating for all the money in the world. I don't need it that bad. But I'm going to win. There'll be no 'ex' in front of my name next fall. Remember that."

So there's Dempsey for you. A sensitive, popular idol hungry for the plaudits of the roaring mob who cheered themselves hoarse every time he thrust his scowling head between the ropes and every time he left them. Every time, that is, but one.

Hope; it's written, springs eternal in the human breast. And you can't hang a man for trying.

DESERVED ODDS
When Joe Dundee fought Pete Yatzro for the welter title, he entered the ring a 6-5 favorite to win.

FOREIGN BRAINS AND NATIONALIST ARMY IN CHINA

German General In Pay Of Moscow Is Leading Military Mind.

Peking.—The military successes of the nationalist armies of General Chiang Kai-shek have been due entirely to foreign brains asserted an American military observer here.

A pure soldier of fortune and a very modest one at that, Gallens for two years or more has been the push behind the Cantonese armies and yet he is little known and until now has been thought to be a Russian.

Descendant of Blucher Instead of that, General Gallens is asserted to be a German, probably related to the Blucher of history. During the war as a lieutenant general he commanded a German Army Corps and was either a Russian prisoner or else made his way into Russia after the revolution.

ary Army. With that nominal title, he is actually Chief of the General Staff.

The thoroughness and push of the Nationalist army is German without doubt, say the American army men although the staff work more closely resembles the Russian. That is explainable by the fact that General Gallens has a Russian staff.

Although documents seized in the raid on the Soviet Military Attache's office here proved that General Gallens received his salary from the Moscow government, nevertheless American officials think that General Gallens has little interest in politics, whether they be red or not, and that he is first and last a soldier and a very successful one at that.

HOLD ROXBURY MAN AS MURDER SUSPECT

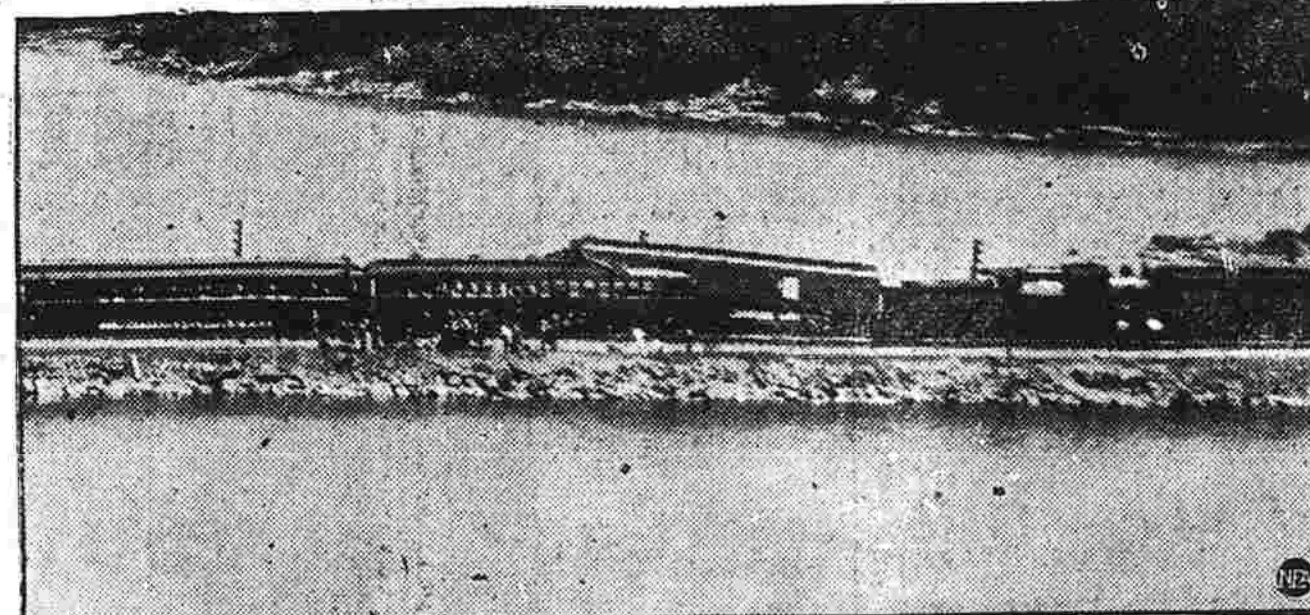

Been Searching For Him Since January—He Surrenders To Police.

Boston, Mass., July 8.—Anthony Zona, 25 of Roxbury, was held today by police for questioning in connection with the unsolved murder of Miss Maybelle Matheson, 19-year-old factory worker, in West Roxbury, last January.

The charge which Zona was held pending the grilling was one involving larceny of an automobile eight months ago. Zona voluntarily surrendered to District Attorney Thomas J. Foley on the auto charge. Police had been searching for him in Albany and Chicago.

Zona was a resident of the Cherry Valley district of Roxbury, a section of the city which Miss Matheson visited frequently. Miss Matheson's body was found in a field near the home of relatives with whom she lived in West Roxbury. She had been struck over the head by a blunt instrument which police never found.

STORM HITS NORWALK

Norwalk, Conn., July 8.—Damage done by the cyclone here last evening will total upward of $5,000 in Roton Point alone, according to a survey made here today. The entire stock of fireworks intended for the season at the Point was destroyed when the wind lifted the shed that sheltered them and blew the shed into Rowayton. One concession was crushed when a tree fell on it, and the roof of the dancing pavilion was lifted away.

THIS LOCAL OPTIMIST SEES HORSE COMEBACK

Blacksmith Says Dobbin Is Getting Back Jobs That Motor Trucks Took Away.

"Do I think horses are coming back? No, I don't think they are. I know they are." That was the emphatic declaration made today by Paul Chartier, Manchester blacksmith with 43 years experience. "Why, listen young man; do you know that there are more horses in Manchester and the vicinity today than there were ten years ago?" Mr. Chartier declares that in not a few cases horses are replacing the motor trucks that did them out of their jobs several decades ago. The total cost of operating a truck compared with the cost of feeding a horse, has figured out in favor of the "hay burners," declares Chartier, and so a considerable number of persons are buying horses again.

"No sir! These fellows who say the horse is fast fading are talking through their hats. Mark my word. Just wait a few more years and see. Why, this spring fourteen carloads of trucking horses were sold in Hartford and vicinity. A few years ago, dealers had a lot of trouble getting rid of one carload. Now it is a case of scarcity of horses."

I show on an average of from six to a dozen horses a day and sometimes more than that. Does that look as if the horses were fighting a losing fight. "Say," said the blacksmith by way of a clincher, "I know several farms where tractors can be bought good and cheap. The farmers that tried them have gone back to horses."

125 FT. PYLONS IN BIG MEMORIAL TO PA. SOLDIERS

Will Decorate Entrance To New Bridge Which Is To Cost $15,000,000.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Two mammoth pylons, towering 125 feet in height, will stand at the head of Pennsylvania's new $15,000,000 Memorial bridge leading to the State Capitol, honoring the soldiers and sailors from Pennsylvania who served in the World War.

The pylons, one of which will be dedicated to the soldiers and the other to the sailors, will form entrances to a subterranean memorial room, wherein will be housed relics of the war, together with regimental flags.

Works of Art The pylons themselves are to be works of art, each being carved to a height of thirty feet with sculptured bits depicting the Commonwealth's part in the war. Surmounting one pillar is to be a Roman chariot, in heroic size, symbolizing the army, while on the other is to be an ancient galley, symbolizing the navy.

Huge bronze doors will open on marble stairways in each pylon, which will lead into the memorial room. Here will be displayed cases of flags of the various Pennsylvania regiments, together with tablets bearing the names of the soldier and sailor dead.

Landscape artists plan to lay out miniature parks at the base of each pylon, around which are to be grouped cannon and field pieces. Pictures of War On the sides of the pylons will be a pictorial history of the state's participation in the war, from the enlistments and drafts to the embarkation of troops after the armistice was signed.

The Memorial bridge will be several blocks in length, connecting Capitol Hill with an old residential district and bridging the city's railroad yards and factory district. The bridge will lead up to the Capitol buildings, on the other side of which the boulevard continues to the broad Susquehanna river, a towering obelisk to the State's Civil War heroes standing at the head of the street.

A WOMAN'S AGE

"May is at least 25 years old." "She never told you, did she?" "Not exactly, but she said a girl shouldn't marry before she's 25." —Answers.

Yesterday's storm did little damage to Manchester; it was learned today through a canvass of the public utilities companies. Probably the most serious occurrence happened when a Rockville trolley car was struck by lightning. The car was due out of Stafford at 5:30 and had gone almost to Crystal Lake. Just on the other side of that station a bolt struck the car, putting its motors out of order. The following car picked up the passengers on the disabled trolley and carried them through to Rockville and Hartford. No trolleys were lost between Rockville and Hartford. Damage to telephone wires in Manchester was very slight, it was reported at the office of the South-New England Telephone company.

Ephraim Cole, who has been working here after school for the past two years, started in full time this week. After working with us for a year, Eph plans to study accounting.

Many of our customers are having very good luck with Potato Flour in making Sponge Cake. Saturday we will have some dandy ripe Georgia Peaches. The four quart baskets will sell at 55c and 59c a basket. These are the first yellow Elberta peaches this year.

We are sorry to see the Amos Adams Company closing out their business. Mr. Williams, the owner of this store, was a very friendly competitor and we always found him willing to cooperate with his fellow merchants. Incidentally, it was in the store now owned by Mr. Williams, that the writer received his first experience in the grocery business, working spare time after school. This was back in 1911, the store then being known as the Public Market and operated by Brannick and Cushing.

If you like Lean Bacon—try the CANADIAN STYLE. And, remember, please that at Pinehurst you can get some tasty Lean Scotch Ham.

Several months ago we advertised Fowl at so much each, in this way of selling them seemed to please our customers. Therefore, this weekend we will run to Fowl Specials—No. 1 will be small fowl $1.33 each (just right for two people)—and No. 2 large fowl $1.99 each.

Al Nackowski is on his vacation this week. Mr. Avery goes next week.

If you try it once, you will cook it that way again—Pinehurst Hamburg (at 25c lb.) covered with onions and a few strips of bacon, then baked in the oven about twenty minutes.

Mr. Nelson says that in the Vegetable Department tomorrow he will run a special on Ripe Watermelons at 49c to 79c each. Beets at 3 bunches 19c and ripe Cantaloupes 2 for 25c and 2 for 35c. The 79c Watermelons will be extra large.

It is just in between seasons on Tomatoes, and it has been impossible to get any ripe stock this week. If we are able to get ripe quality tomatoes Saturday we will. Many customers are ordering native Cucumbers in place of the Tomatoes.

Green Beans, Telephone Peas, Native Spinach, and Cabbage, also Squash, Lettuce and Celery are mighty good right now. We want to tell you that you can't beat the native vegetables from Chris Peterson's farm. We send to market every morning and everything we buy is carefully selected. You can depend on the freshness of Pinehurst vegetables.

Fresh Pork and Fresh Fowl are still much lower than other meats. Hams are also at a low price level.

We will be here until nine tonight to take phone orders. Store closes at six o'clock. If you want your order on the special early Saturday delivery please phone tonight. Call 2000.

DRUNK, RECKLESS DRIVERS INCREASE

Over 90 More Cases in One Period This Year Than Same Months Last Year.

Drunken driving and reckless handling of automobiles was found to be on the increase in Connecticut during the early months of this year, according to the number of licenses automatically suspended by the state motor vehicle department following convictions in courts for such offenses.

During the first five months 425 operators lost their licenses for driving while intoxicated, 91 more than in the corresponding period of 1926. Recklessness was penalized in 545 cases by suspension. This total is 11 above that for the same period a year ago.

That more strict supervision of all infractions of the motor vehicle laws is being maintained is shown by the fact that 3,125 licenses were suspended for all causes in five months this year, as compared with 2,614 in the first five months of 1926.

About twenty-five offenses are listed among the reasons for suspensions. The most frequently recurring is "failure to report accident." 713 drivers losing their licenses because of this neglect.

Sixty-one drivers were suspended for evading responsibility at the time of the accident, and ninety-nine because of their parts in fatal accidents. A number of drivers were found operating cars on which registration plates were improperly used and 102 suspensions resulted. Failure to secure bondsmen or show other financial responsibility for their acts, after being involved in serious accidents, brought to 219 drivers revocation of their licenses.

One of the odd reasons listed for suspending a license was the failure of a driver to pay a court fine. Only one failure of this kind occurred during the five months. Eleven youthful drivers, under the age limit, were discovered operating cars owned by other persons. Seventeen drivers were found to be "improper persons" after examination and their licenses suspended.

Physical qualifications did not enter into the consideration in the cases of these persons. Special action on physical infirmities taken by the department, thus far this year has resulted in the cancelling of the licenses of six drivers.

Other causes for suspension were overloaded trucks, misstatements on applications, theft of motor vehicle, complaints from other operators and police, violation of the rule against passing standing trolleys, loaning of licenses, tampering with the car of another person, operating while under suspension, minor accidents, perjury, misstatement on accident report, conflicting statements, mutilated engine number, bad records and failures to appear at hearings.

Drivers from other states were numerous among the offenders against the laws of this state during the period, 687 being listed with those whose licenses were suspended. Hartford operators were next in the list with 309 suspended. Among the high totals for suspensions in other cities were: New Haven, 286; Bridgeport, 244; Stamford, 140; New Britain, 105; Norwalk, 75; Waterbury, 92; and New London 71.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Admissions at Memorial hospital yesterday included Mrs. Jacob Sciarano of 162 Main street, Quincy, Mass., and Frank Warren, of Coventry.

There were three discharges: Mrs. Henrietta McPherson of 161 Center street, Miss Frances Bancroft of Glastonbury, and William Symond of Hartford.

The census today is 63.

FOLLOWING ORDERS

"I can't imagine why Smith should be so angry with his son. The boy acted on instructions."

"In what way?"

PLAYGROUND NOTES

Boys who are interested in a junior amateur baseball league have been invited by Mr. DeWitt of the West Side Playgrounds to meet there tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to draw up plans and elect teams. The league is open to all boys in the town of Manchester, whether from the Ninth District or not. The following boys have signed up to date: Hugo Benard, James Gustafson, Robert Cotton, Elmore Kelsch, Walter Ford, Francis Mahoney, Charles Smith, Edward Litwinski, James Metcalf, Everett Solomonson, Vincent Lennon, Thos. Cole, Vincent Kelly, Winston Smith, Earl Smith, James Guthrie, Sam Brown, Robert Guthrie, Herman Herec, Edward Rowe, Gordon Weir, James O'Leary, Kenneth McCormick, Carl Johnson, George Adams, William Neubauer, Edward Kovis, Paul Sheridan, Joe Scariatto, Joe Twaronite, James Gordon, Francis Brinkley, John Fraher, Stewart Vennart, Earl Russell and Kenneth Edwards.

The following corrections are noted in the schedule at the East Side and West Side playgrounds in the handcraft classes: Monday, 2 o'clock, High school girls; 7 o'clock, women; Thursday, 2 o'clock, High school girls; 7 o'clock, women; Friday, 10 o'clock, girls, West Side; Tuesday, 2 o'clock, High school girls; Friday, 4 o'clock, High school girls; 7 o'clock, women.

The grand total of attendance at the West Side and East Side playgrounds during their first week was 5,308, better by far than the attendance for the corresponding week last year. Globe Hollow has not had its usual patronage because of the poor swimming weather.

PRINCE CAROL DEFEATED

Bucharest, July 8.—Supporters of Prince Carol, now in self-exile in France, were badly beaten in the Rumanian elections, returns today showed. The prince's greatest enemy, Jon Bradano, "The Black Man of Roumania," who was backed by Queen Marie, captured approximately three hundred out of a total of 387 seats in Parliament. Returns, however, are incomplete.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fox of 53 Garden street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to George N. Proctor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Proctor, Mr. Proctor is now in Passaic, N. J.

DEAR JANET:—

I have been just the busiest person the last two weeks. Social activities and trips to the shore and the lakes including a big week-end over the Fourth have just kept the calendar full. But, do you know, I could never have undertaken half of it if it hadn't been for the fact that I get so much of my foodstuffs at Florence's. It's a truly wonderful place. If you haven't ever been there do take time and call. You too will be surprised at the wonderful line of foodstuffs—and so neat and everything. Well, I must hurry. This note will let you know that all is well.

SENSE and NONSENSE

ENCOURAGEMENT— Ever think of it in this manner? The less you have, the more there is to get.

POLITENESS— My oil costs you nothing and it sure does make your world run more smoothly.

CO-OPERATION— My worries are few because I always make one hand wash the other.

HOPE— Better Fish remain in the sea than ever were caught—the Bride never marries the best man.

A HAPPY THOUGHT— A smile is the one thing that is worth more if it is cracked.

HISTORY— How styles have changed! Folks would give the bride a cookbook a few years ago, but now they give the bride a can opener and a bottle of iodine.

CONTENTMENT— Even a buckwheat cake has to wait its turn.

EDUCATOR— Two things that I've never been able to teach this world how to enjoy a flat tire and how to hicough gracefully.

TROUBLE— The man that courts me soon finds himself married and raising a large family.

A town poultry fancier is a man who pays the farmer fancy prices for chickens and eggs.

Ragson Tatters says nothin' will attract a crowd to a noo-ers' meetin' quicker'n a free lunch.

Nothing grieves a child more than to study the wrong lesson and learn something he wasn't required to learn.

It's no easy task to keep one's nose on the grindstone during the hay fever season.

Sometimes a girl's ideal is shattered, but more frequently he's just busted.

The Weather What is it molds the life of a man? The Weather. What makes some black others tan? The Weather. What makes the Zulus live in trees, and Congo natives dress in leaves, while others go in fur and freeze? The Weather (darn it.)

A mendicant, led by a dog on a string, was standing on a street corner. He was fully equipped up to the old-time standard. His clothes were ragged, his tin cup was battered and the dog appeared as dull as his master. Fastened about the dog's neck was a placard bearing the appeal: "Please help the blind."

A man passing attempted to toss a quarter into the cup, but it struck the edge and rolled out over the pavement. The "blind" man promptly made a dive for it, and as his hand closed over the coin the surprised business man who had given it exclaimed: "What do you mean? You're an old faker and not blind at all!"

"Never said I was, mister," was the prompt reply. "It's the dog that's blind."

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

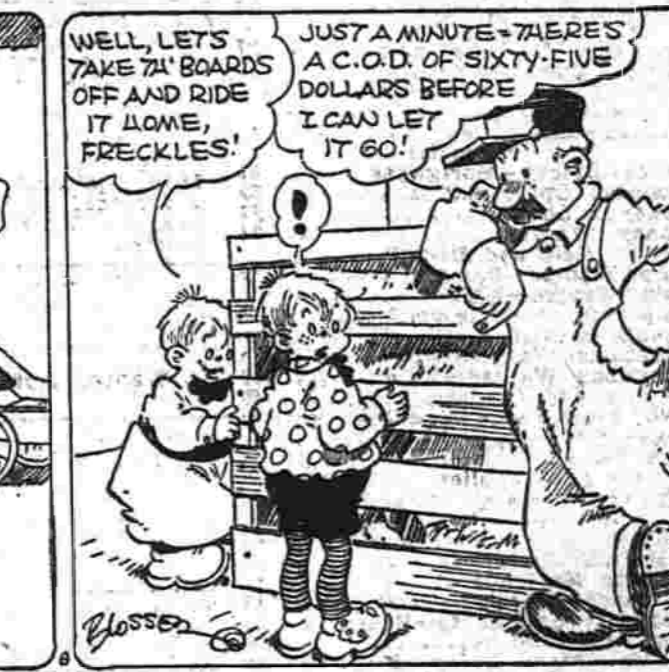

The Tinymites rode 'round and 'round. The music made a pretty sound. "Oh, my, I think this wonderful," yelled Carpy, with delight. "It's just like riding on a farm, except that here there is no harm. The horses are made out of wood, and hence they cannot bite." The Princess watched them ride while. They circled 'round for 'bout a mile, and then she waved her little hand. The merry-go-round stopped short. "Oh, gee," said Beauty, "mukt we quit?" With me this thing has made a hit. I wish that we could ride some more. It's really dandy sport. "Why, sure you can," the Princess cried. And then they had another ride. This time poor little Clowzy grew as dizzy as could be. He shouted, "I will be a wreck!" And then he grasped his horse's neck, "I'll have to hang on tight, or I will tumb' off," said he. Their interest in the riding grew because a song that they all knew began to float out on the air; a very pretty thing. The Tinies joined right in the tune. The Princess laughed, 'cause pretty soon she glanced around and noticed that they'd all begun to sing. The horses on the merry-go-round, I guess, objected to the sound of all the Tinies' voices, 'cause they all pricked up their ears. The Princess cried, "You'd better stop that singing or you'll all go flop." And then what happened very quick just added to her fears. Before the Tinies had a chance to quit, the beasts began to prance. They jumped around so much the Tinies knew it wasn't play. "Be careful, now," the Princess cried. "This well that you know how to ride." And, at the moment, all the horses, jumped and ran away. (A magic rope lassoes the horses in the next story.)

LEGION TO GIVE BAND CONCERTS

Plans Summer Series—First At West Side Wednesday Evening, July 20.

The first in a series of band concerts which will be given during the season by Dilworth-Cornell Post, No. 102, American Legion, will be held Wednesday evening, July 20, at the West Side playgrounds. The band secured for the first concert is the American Band of Rockville.

The Legion's committee in charge of these band concerts is planning to have a baseball game played on the West Side grounds before the concert. Dancing will follow in the auditorium of the Recreation building. A good dance orchestra will be secured.

The "vets" have a committee hard at work on these concert plans and whether or not they are continued throughout the season depends entirely upon the success they meet in their first efforts.

LOCAL NET MEN WILL MEET WILLIMANTIC'S

Teams of Four to Contest in Matches At High School Tennis Courts Tomorrow.

Willimantic and Manchester will meet on the high school tennis courts tomorrow in the first of a series of matches between four-man teams. The matches have been arranged by James Dowd, of the West Side playground, and Thomas Pickett of Willimantic, who is a worker at the Cottage street grounds.

Manchester will be represented by four of its best netmen. They are Walter Holland, Earl Bissell, Henry McCann and Sherwood Bissell, all ranking players in this town. The Willimantic men will include Dawson, Southward, Ahern and Olds.

DIRECTORY CORRECTIONS

George E. Rix, executive secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, is listing a group of errors in the 1927 issue of the Manchester directory. These errors will be given to Price and Lee, publishers of the volume, so that they will not be repeated when next year's issue is printed. Mr. Rix asks anyone who has noted an error to notify him so that a correction can be made.
