WALL STREET RUNNING U.S. WEST ASSERTS

Cattlemen Speak Frankly To President At Summer White House; Their Complaint.

Rapid City, S. D., July 12.—Grievances of the agricultural west against the "capitalistic" east are cropping up in such proximity to the Summer White House as to embarrass President Coolidge.

"The federal government is being run for the benefit of the bankers of Wall street as against the farmers and cattlemen of the west."

First Complainant Paul E. Martin, president of an infant association of cattlemen, just organized in an effort to force the packers to "pay a fair price" for beef on the hoof, is the first representative of the banks just following the close of the war in demanding immediate liquidation of all cattle loans.

From Wall Street "Our information," he said, "was that the order came from Washington through the federal reserve system. It seems to us that things are operated all for Wall street to the exclusion of those who actually produce."

Resentment is general against the Chicago and Omaha packers, by citing the fact that certain directors of the packing companies are also directors in big New York banks and eastern insurance companies, the cattlemen justify their claim that "the east is running the west."

Martin's View Martin, as one of their spokesmen said:

"Seventy-five per cent of the cattle raisers have gone bankrupt because their stock went to the market on mortgage foreclosures."

Meanwhile, President Coolidge is voting considerable attention to the situation.

is almost a certainty the question of relief for the cattlemen will be touched upon in definite form in the next message to Congress.

BYRD AND HIS CREW ARE ON THE WAY HOME

Clarence Chamberlin, of the Bellanca flight, was more active. He dined with Mrs. Chamberlin at the captain's table last night and was walking the decks early today with Mrs. Chamberlin and Fraulin Thea Rasche, the German aviatrix.

Passengers are displaying great interest in the American and Fraulin Rasche's plans which are stowed away side by side on the after deck.

Amesbury, Mass., July 13.—George Taylor, native of Cleveland and recently of Miami, Fla., itinerant barber, arrested in Hyde Park, Vt., as a suspect in the slaying of Miss Stella Kale, 21-year-old Lawrence girl, at Salisbury Beach, June 5, was arraigned in District Court before Judge Charles L. Pettigill today charged with murder.

Taylor was returned to Salisbury Beach last night by State Detective Richard Griffin, who had trailed him throughout New England for a month. Though admitting that he had sold the dead girl's wrist watch to William N. Dowe, who had given him a ride to Kensington, N. H., the day after the murder, Taylor denied that he knew anything of the slaying.

Stands Long Grilling. Throughout a long grilling Taylor held to the same story, that he had no knowledge of the murder. He had been drinking with Hazel the day before the murder, he told police. Taylor could not give any account of his actions for about 24 hours preceding the murder.

Taylor had been identified by a group of persons from Salisbury, as the tramp suspect of beach strollers the night Miss Kale was murdered. It was as Taylor was dancing that Miss Kale went by on her way to the beach where her body was found this day.

PALESTINE ASKS AID FOR 'QUAKE VICTIMS

Boy Saw A Dark Man With Bloody Bundle

New York, July 13.—A 14-year-old boy loomed today as an important witness for the state in the investigation into the brutal murders of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 70, and Mrs. Selma Bennett, 56, whose dismembered bodies were found in the cellar of a Brooklyn home.

The lad, Herbert Graf, of Brooklyn, went to police headquarters with his father, and volunteered the information that he had seen a "dark" man stuff a blood-soaked bundle into a sewer near his home. Police believe the bundle may have contained parts of the bodies of the two slain women.

To Face Lee Graf was to be taken to police headquarters sometime today to face Ludwig Halverson Lee, former sailor, who is being held on a short affidavit charging him with murder. Detectives will attempt to determine whether Lee is the man Graf saw disposing of the gruesome package.

Arraigned in court as the culmination of a grilling extending over almost 36 hours, Lee pleaded not guilty to the murder charge and naively asked detectives when he would be allowed to go home. He has maintained his protestations of innocence, in spite of a merciless cross-examination conducted by one hundred detectives who are investigating the slayings. Lee was employed by Mrs. Brownell as janitor.

Keating's victory was complete. One by one the other contestants had dropped out, and his nearest rival, Mrs. Lucy Diamond, of Brooklyn, was taken from the water shortly after two o'clock, five miles from the finish.

POLICE TO CHECK CRIME IN STATE

Electric Typewriters to Be Installed in Nine Cities and Towns August 1.

New Haven, Conn., July 13.—The first of the month will see police stations in Connecticut linked together by printing telegraph machines, forming a system that is expected to reduce crime to a minimum. Any of the stations on the circuit will be able to advise the nine others instantly of any affair that has occurred within the jurisdiction of the sending station, thus giving the police elsewhere a chance to swing into action promptly.

TO BE CONNECTED

"Police departments to be connected with the system at its start are Hartford, Bristol, New Britain, Manchester, Waterbury, Naugatuck, Middletown, Willimantic, Danbury and New Haven. Eventually, it is believed, every station in the state will be connected. At the outset the headquarters of the state police at Hartford will be linked with the city police headquarters there, and in the course of a short time the state police barracks will be connected. Plans are in the works to connect the seven precincts in New Haven also.

NEW SYSTEM

Under the new system, if a murderer, a policeman sits at the keyboard of his machine, and writes the story of the affair as he has received it. Instantly the writing appears word by word on the nine other machines.

Estimates of Dead Vary From 250 To 1,000; Property Loss Over a Million—Hardly a Village Escaped; Population Panic Stricken.

Jerusalem, July 13.—The deaths in the Palestine earthquake will not exceed 250, according to reports here today. Conservative estimates fix the deaths at slightly more than 200. Property damage is estimated at $1,500,000. The Nabulus dead are now fixed at 60 with 580 injured.

Hardly a town or village in Palestine escaped unscathed from the tremor. The government is doing its utmost to send relief to all afflicted areas.

CAIRO REPORTS 1,000 DEAD

Cairo, July 13.—Demoralized transportation facilities today hampered the efforts of relief forces striving to reach the interior of trans-Jordania, where more than 1,000 persons are believed to have lost their lives in the most serious earthquake in the last 1,200 years.

Although not more than 150 are believed killed by the tremor in Palestine itself, a far greater number than this lost their lives, according to latest available reports, when earth shocks rocked wide territories in various sections of trans-Jordania.

The number of injured is yet unknown due to the difficulty of obtaining full details of the catastrophe from the affected area.

EYE-WITNESS STORY

An eye-witness arriving here from trans-Jordania reported that 300 persons had been killed at Maan, eight at Zarka, and three at Ramleh, and thirty-six at Amana.

All hospitals in the district are filled to overflowing with the injured. Medical supplies and food are being rushed by train, available routes from this city in response to urgent requests.

The eastern portion of Palestine, and the section of trans-Jordania directly adjoining it, appear to have been wrought into a state of "Palestine" where three-quarters of the city is reported to have been destroyed.

Population in Panic The population of the affected region has been thrown into a panic for fear of a repetition of the tremor. Many persons whose homes were not destroyed, as well as hundreds of others who were made homeless by the quake, are camping in the open, fearful that another tremor will bring their roofs down about their heads.

The dome of the sacred tomb at Nabulus, one of the most revered structures in the Holy Land, was cracked by the tremor. Many houses in this town collapsed, burying their occupants beneath the ruins.

The districts shaken by the shock present a spectacle of desolation. Dozens of homes and edifices were leveled. The minaret of a new mosque at Amana broke in two at its upper portion, crashing downward, and burying many beneath it.

No Damage in Egypt According to available reports little actual damage was done in Egypt proper by the quake, although it is feared that a recurrence of the tremors might endanger the pyramids and other Egyptian monuments of antiquity.

The earthquake apparently spent its full force upon Nabulus. Many of the fatalities occurred in smaller Arab settlements, where the houses, of frail construction, could not withstand the force of the tremor and collapsed like paper mache. Many of the inhabitants were buried in the debris.

Casualties have been reported from more than twenty towns and villages. These reports continued to be augmented by tales of horror and suffering as additional information trickled in over crimped telegraph wires and by couriers.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, July 13.—Superintendent of Schools Clough has about finished his work for the season and expects to be able to leave for Maine on his vacation next week.

Only Four Changes Of the fifty-one teachers employed in all of the schools in Vernon only four resigned, one to be married, another to enter a business, a third to seek further education and the fourth, a high school teacher who wished to make a change in each case the places have been filled.

At the last meeting of the school board the superintendent rendered his report as to the conditions and some changes that he would advise being made in the six outlying districts in the town of Vernon. These have consisted in painting in some places and the installation of seats or place those that have become battered.

When the schools of Vernon were consolidated on October 5, 1914 all of the districts had not kept their schools up and it required considerable money to bring them to a better standing as to sanitation. The past year has brought about the near completion of this and as a result the work that will be done this summer will not require as much money as it has in former years.

169TH IN REVIEW; HOWITZERS GUARD

tors and he congratulated Colonel Hunter on the fine appearance of his regiment. He was also impressed with the efficient manner in which the Howitzer Company went through the march mounting. This part of the military program is one of the most impressive ceremonies in the military game. Guard mounting is a very meticulous ordeal and considered the hardest of all the military procedures to perform exactly correct. During guard mounting the regimental band under Bandmaster William B. Tassilo, who is assisted by Drum Major James H. Prentice of Manchester, furnished appropriate music for the occasion. The music, incidentally, is one of the reasons why the ceremony is so impressive.

Guard Duty The Howitzer Company in going on guard duty relieved Company L of Bristol. First Lieutenant William D. Thorpy of Company D, Meriden, was Officer of the Day and Lieutenant Walter Tedford of The Howitzer Company, Commander of the Guard. Incidentally, Company G will go on guard duty next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and will be relieved 24 hours later. This means that the Manchester unit will be on guard Governor's Day. Each Manchester company will have only one session of guard duty.

The Howitzer men who did guard duty were stationed as follows: Main guard: Sergeant Finnegan, Corporals Fitzpatrick, Mozzer, Tyley, Privates Armstrong, Clechowki, Golas, Kanehl, Kroll, Olasky, Anderson, Butler, Cervini, Chamberlin, Ellis, Fiedler, Gallis, Brennan, Chranowski, Grabowski, Gustafson, Jarvis, Kasulki, Laboc, Machle, Massey, McCarthy, McKenna, Mitchell, Powers, Ryan, Scholsky, Scranton, Tatt, Taylor and C. Tonssky.

Special detail: Sergeant Anderson, Corporal Finn, Privates Toplin, Timinsky, Zaleski, Vitullo, Swanson, Stamler. Provost guard: Sergeant McCann, Corporals Gustafson and Brennan, Privates Rubacha, Minnicucci, La Chapelle, Hagenow, Schultz, Finn, D. Taylor and Connolly.

Duties The duty of the main guard is to patrol the entire reservation and to see that army regulations are observed. There are ten posts. The guard works in three reliefs on a basis of two hours on guard and four rest. By having men stationed at these strategic points, it is possible to keep out undesirables. The procedure which a guard goes through in either admitting or rejecting a person trying to gain admittance to the camp in the night is interesting. As the person advances toward the camp, he is challenged by the guard as he comes to a point within ten paces of the guard in the following manner: "Hail! Who's there?"

Regardless of the answer, the sentry re-challenges the approacher. "Advance to be recognized." Then when the person reaches a point three paces in front of him, the guard with his gun at port arms, again halts the approacher. This time he asks to see his credentials and if not fully satisfied that the man should be admitted to camp, halts the corporal of the guard. The man is then either admitted, rejected or placed under arrest and marched to the guard house where he is confined until morning in some cases. Last year when the Howitzer Company was on guard, your correspondent was made a victim of a clever trick conceived by Lieutenant Tedford and First Sergeant Pentland. He was halted upon approaching the camp late one night, placed under arrest and put in the guard house. Credentials, not to mention recognition, proved futile. For a while the prisoner was made the butt of a good joke but later reversed the count by escaping.

Baseball League The regimental baseball league is not progressing as satisfactorily as Captain Christopher Scaffe, athletic director wishes owing to the impossibility of all companies being able to play at designated times. The Howitzer Company, for instance, was scheduled to play Monday afternoon but could not. Now the chances are that the Manchester unit will not be able to play until Friday at the latest owing to other engagements. Company G was scheduled to play Tuesday afternoon but plans have been changed and it is now expected to play this afternoon. The boxing tournament will be held this evening. Several Manchester mitt silngers will take part. Among them is expected to be Billy Laboc, Guido Glogzetti, Tommy Paganl, Pat McCavanaugh and others. Billy Hall and Vic Morley of Regimental Headquarters are Hartford's foremost contenders. Both are especially well known in Manchester.

Mock Trial Lieutenant Thomas J. Quish of Company G, who gained much notoriety in past years here as a judge at mock court marshals, could direct again in that capacity last night at a trial conducted in Company M's street. The rookie on trial, Private Henry Reed, was charged with theft at the outset of the trial but as witness after witness began to introduce further evidence of a more serious nature, charges of bribery and forgery were added. The denouement came when Judge Quish instructed the jury that they might bring in a verdict of "murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, manslaughter or murder in the fourth degree." He did not say they might return a verdict of not guilty. The culmination of the trial came when Judge Quish sentenced the thoroughly frightened rookie to be "shot at sunset on the first rainy morning next week."

An aftermath of the court martial having a most humorous Manchester aspect came when announcement was made that Private Lawrence E. Cranick of Burnside, a member of Company G, whose father was at one time captain of Company A of Hartford, had been selected as one of the eight men to compose the firing squad. When the news was told to Private Cranick, a husky young man who has been in the company but one month, the rookie was completely broken up. Condolences from his comrades failed to steady his nerve and finally after considerable deliberation during which he asked the advice of many other soldiers, Private Cranick was advised to see Supply Sergeant Victor Duke with the understanding that the latter might be able to use his influence to relieve him of that "most dreadful" duty.

Take It Hard Private Cranick told his mates that he had never killed anyone before and that he didn't want to now. First Sergeant J. Hynes' advice was to worry so much about it, that only one rifle contained the bullet and that the chances were very good his would be one of those with a blank, but even this failed to act as a stimulant. Private Cranick at first decided he would fire but on second thought realized that this would only endanger his own chance to advance in the military world. He has already been given the rank of "athletic sergeant" of the company because of his prowess as a wrestler. It was only yesterday that private Cranick won this honor by "flooring" three would-be matmen from his own and other companies.

The story of Private Cranick's sad plight, we are sorry to relate, cannot be told in this installment. However the concluding chapter will appear in The Herald either tomorrow or the next day. It all depends on what action is taken by "officials" as a result of Private Cranick giving Sergeant Duke two dollars to use his influence to relieve him of duty on the firing squad. It is understood that "regimental headquarters" have decided to court-martial Private Cranick on a charge of "accepting a bribe."

These rookies certainly give plenty of opportunities for laughter through their lack of knowledge of the fine points of the military game. Private Cranick's case is only one of many that occurs each day in camp, but it is the first Manchester case of the year. In defense of Private Cranick, however, it can be said with much truth, that it is these self-same rookies who often make the best soldiers.

Notes Company G has a "harmony quartet" that is fast coming to the fore as one of the best in camp (when there are no others). It is composed of Sergeant Pentland, Corporal DeHan and Privates McCarthy and Dancoese. Corporal DeHan also strums the accompaniment on his "uke." Everything goes serenely until Dancoese tries to sing on two different pitches.

Private Edward Sharpe of Company G will remain in camp only this week having been unable to obtain further leave of absence from the Tide Water Oil Sales Company where he is employed in Hartford.

Private Machle of the Howitzer Company was one of the few Manchester boys to get dumped from his bunk the first night of camp and as a result he slept on the wire "mattress." Colonel Hunter has announced that swimming hours at Pine Grove are from 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and 6:30 to 8:00 p. m. daily. Drum Major Prentice's work in the regimental band is again drawing many words of praise. He made an excellent appearance in the regimental parade yesterday. Lieutenant Edgar M. Thompson has joined the Officers' Equitation class and is taking riding lessons each afternoon. This together with the hikes which he takes Company G on each morning to Flanders and the vicinity give him plenty of recreation. Private Leslie Lennon who did not accompany Company G to camp owing to illness has received an honorable discharge dated July 20, which gives Company G a 100 per cent attendance record.

Sergeant Priess, Sergeant Hennequin and Cook Gustafson of Company G motored home Monday evening on business.

HARTFORD SOLDIER MARRIED AT CAMP

Corporal Merton D. Bradley of Co. K Weds Miss Olive Sanford As Comrades Watch.

(Special to The Herald) Camp Trumbull, Niantic, July 13.—Something entirely unique and unprecedented in military circles here occurred yesterday afternoon when a member of one of the companies was married in the tent of his company commander with the regiment crowded about looking on and the regimental band providing appropriate music.

The room was Corporal Merton D. Bradley, 24, of Company K, Hartford. The bride was Miss Olive D. Sanford, 22, of East Hartford. It marked the culmination of a two year romance. The couple originally planned to be married in Niantic but were induced to change their plans and have the knot tied in the camp. Promptly at 5:30, the automobile containing the happy couple, bridesmaid, best man and chauffeur, moved up at the lower end of regimental street and with the band playing, "Hall, Hall the Gang's All Here," proceeded up the street headed only by "Muggins," eight-year-old bulldog, mascot of Company E of Hartford and owned by Captain Harry Schowlsky. Muggins had a shoe brush in his mouth as he proudly headed the line of march.

Following the band came the members of Company K. Corporal Bradley's comrades who marched in single file in two rows on each side of the automobile. As the procession reached Company K street, it turned into it and then Captain John H. Williams welcomed the bridal party. The four in the bridal party then left the car and marched through the midst of the crowd to Captain Williams' tent where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest M. Ligon, pastor of Niantic Congregational church. Neither the bride nor the groom seemed embarrassed by the crowd which milled around them. Occasionally the bride blushed, but for the most both stood the trying ordeal well and retained their composure splendidly. The bride wore a white silk dress. Corporal Bradley wore his military uniform. The ceremonies were photographed by Joseph F. Reed, Pathe News cameraman.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip that ended at 5:45 this morning which was the extent of Corporal Bradley's leave of absence. The happy couple therefore must be content to postpone a longer honeymoon trip until a week from Sunday.

LOTS OF QUEER FOLKS IN THIS STORE BASEMENT

Strange Denizens' Capture and Keeping Make Up a "Live" Industry.

Manchester has a new industry. It isn't a big one but it's alive—very much alive. The business in dollars is not quite at home, hundreds of perch bugs and giant angielworms which constitute its product are as much alive as any in the ponds, brooks, swamps or ground. Also this industry gives employment to some boys who are grown up, who are working for the new live fish-bait department that Barrett & Robbins, automobile accessory and sporting goods dealers at 913 Main street, have established—not full time, perhaps, but at their pleasure and to their profit.

In the basement of their store Barrett & Robbins have installed quite an elaborate plant for the keeping of the live creatures with which anglers must equip themselves if they hope to bring home the finny bacon. There is a big tank, with pebbles, the bottom in bait swim quite at home, hundreds of pond snailers. There is a system of pens, also pebbly and aqueous, in which crawfish, perch bugs, the ugly looking hellgramites of doisons, and frogs of various markings thrive until netted out to fulfill their destiny. There are boxes of earth in which "nightcrawlers" by the hundreds live on the fat of the lands. It is a choosy fisherman indeed who can't find the bait of his own best liking in that establishment. The catching of all these creatures and the proper care and feeding of them involves no little labor and special knowledge.

"Now we can fit 'em out with everything but the luck," said a member of the firm today. "All anybody needs, in the way of tackle, bait and swim quite, he can get here. The advice is free and the only thing of the lot that isn't guaranteed."

51 Burners Installed In Manchester and Vicinity Already

Not What We Say Not What Our Salesmen Say But What Nokol Owners Say

J. H. TRUMBULL PLAINVILLE, CONN.

March 30, 1927

The Connecticut Oil Heating Co., 64 Trumbull Street, Hartford, Conn.

Gentlemen:

After very careful investigation of the various types of oil heating apparatus, I decided to install in my home a Nokol Automatic Heating device and my experience so far confirms my belief that I chose the best one on the market. I find that I get more heat and a more uniform heat than I did with the use of coal and that the cost is substantially the same.

While little or no service has been necessary, I find that on one or two occasions when I wished the device examined it was attended to promptly. Also my fuel supply has been looked after automatically and promptly by the supplying company.

All in all, I am greatly pleased and very enthusiastic over my Nokol Heater.

Very truly yours, J. H. Trumbull

DIAL PHONES

The Meriden Journal gives symptoms of more or less thrill at the idea that sooner or later the dial telephone is likely to make its appearance in the Silver City, as it has already had its premier in Hartford and is about to completely supplant the existing system of switchboard connections in New London.

No doubt the dial telephone is inevitable. Quite possibly it is a better proposition from the viewpoint of economies than the manual system of linking up subscribers. It is conceivable that the use of the telephone may even yet be greatly extended—so much so that a disproportionate part of the available labor might be employed in this single branch of communication; whereas the enlargement of the automatic features of telephony to include the making of connections may be in the broadest sense not only desirable but necessary.

But let nobody who has not lived in a dial-telephoned city get the idea into his head that this device is all gravy for the subscriber. When one is to be hooked up with another subscriber's station somebody has to do the work of hooking up. Now the hello girls do it. By the dial system it is the subscriber who does it. You not only pay your fare but you work your passage into the bargain. It is not quite the same as dropping a token in a trolley car grab-box and then having to run the Toonerville yourself, but it is a fraction of the same thing.

Yet the "good old days" when all you had to do was to tell the operator a number and then wait till your party said "Hello" are quite certainly passing. In just a little while, no doubt, we shall all be whirling dials—usually wrong—and cussing the machine instead of the central operator. Better it is to make the most of these pleasant days when the dulcet tones of "Number?" "Thank you" and "Excuse it please" give the business of telephoning something of a human flavor. Because there's another day coming when you may have as you please but the soulless thing of wires and numbers with which you are dealing won't give a merry hoot whether you get your party or not and will neither answer back nor apologize.

And in any event it's going to take you just about two times as long, on an average, to put in your call and get your connection.

EXCESSIVE AND UNUSUAL

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, is the latest of the prohibition officials to invent a scheme for making the liquor laws operative. His idea is to confiscate the property upon which liquor is illegally made, even extending the somewhat complicated proceedings involved to little moonshiners and the makers of home brew.

This is a brilliant idea. We should like to get a glimpse at the jury that would bring a conviction. In any case where an individual was charged with making home brew or a few quarts of hooch if the verdict was likely to result in seizure of the defendant's home by the government.

Such a jury would not only have to be packed solid with the most pronounced dries but every one of the dozen would have to be utterly devoid of all sense of proportion. We doubt if any such jury is at all likely to be impeached in the United States—certainly it never could be except through the most arrant fraud.

Also, Article Eight of the amendments to the United States Constitution, which was not repealed by the adoption of the eighteenth, says: "Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted."

On the whole it wouldn't appear that Mr. Lowman has invented much.

THE REAL CURE

"Fifteen automobile loads of North Dakotans from the James River district drove 500 miles to see President Coolidge," says a Rapid City staff correspondent of the New York World. We don't believe it. Five hundred miles is a long, long drive to make in one day. But we do believe that these North Dakotans made their 500-mile trip, all right, if in something more than a day, and we do believe that they told the President, as the World man says they did, that North Dakota wants to see him renominated.

The spokesman of the delegation pointed out that the farmers of his region have come to the conclusion that what they need from the government is not a panacea of the McNary-Haugen bill type, but such opportunity for distributing their crops as would be provided by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway. This is evidence that the people of the Northwest are regaining their complete sanity.

And with the regaining of their sanity it will inevitable occur to them that the most important matter of them, so far as a President is concerned, is the election of a real friend of the St. Lawrence river project. This Mr. Coolidge is known to be. He comes from a part of the country which is enthusiastic for it. And he is not to be diverted to either of the alternative waterway propositions, the All-America and the Lake Ontario-Hudson, which any New York politician is liable to favor at the expense of the St. Lawrence plan.

Somebody has put some real sense into the heads of those North Dakotans. They are getting to know their wheat, so to speak.

IT IS TO LAUGH

One would have taken it for granted that Germany—polite Germany, at least—would know its Hohenzollern onions. Over here we are at times given to entertaining fake barons Indian rajahs who turn out to have been body servants to British tea merchants and continental counts who quit the barber business when bobbed hair came in. But then we are not to be supposed to be very well wised up to matters of foreign nobility. Germany is different.

Yet Latvian, the son of a poor miller, who was brought up in an asylum, has just been convicted of impersonating Prince William of Prussia, eldest son of the former Crown Prince of Germany, and getting away with it for weeks among the aristocracy, army officers and officials in several German cities. Railroads furnished him their finest facilities, the best hotels deemed it an honor to entertain him, everybody's pocketbook was at his command and he had a wonderful time. He is a pale, tongue-tied, bad mannered youth, with, nevertheless a perverted sense of humor. It was probably the sense of humor that betrayed him at last as something other than a Hohenzollern.

The conclusion must be that Germany used to love its Hohenzollerns so much because it knew them so little.

DIGNITY FOR LINDBERGH

Judging from the letter addressed by H. F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, to the mayor of Hartford, the promoters of the Charles Lindbergh tour intend to keep details of the receptions extended to that world famous aviator pretty well in hand. This is a very wisely conceived idea and it would seem to be a very clear duty, and the part of true hospitality, for such communities as Lindbergh visits to subscribe in spirit as well as letter to the progress suggested by the managers of the tour.

As Mr. Guggenheim points out, the expedition about the country is obviously without any trace of commercial quality and undertaken in good faith as a work of sheer propaganda in the interest of aviation in general, especially among the business men of the country. And as the Guggenheim Fund is paying the shot its management would seem to have every right to suggest the manner of the receptions extended to the flier and every right to expect that the suggestions will be complied with.

That there will be a tendency to overdo the receptions is probable. That tendency ought to be held in check. The time for crazy enthusiasm over Lindbergh's exploit is passed. He has the right to be received, wherever he goes on this tour, with very serious dignity. He is on a great mission. Its importance will be much better recognized by proper etiquette than by tumult.

HOLLYWOOD BOOZE

With salaries running as high as they do in Hollywood, with the geographical situation of the Film City such as to make access to smuggled supplies not too difficult, and with many of its residents obviously possessing wide experience in the matter of alcoholics, one is prompted to wonder why they drink so much of the kind of booze, out there, that provokes murder and other forms of sudden death.

It is understandable why the laborer in the Midwest or the East, who must organize his jag on the basis of a couple of dollars, swallows post-Volstead liquors calculated to make him climb trees and jump off or across the wife of his bosom with a two-by-four decorated with two railroad spikes; but where the pay envelope contains hundred dollar bills instead of the customary tens and fives it would appear either that Hollywood is over-thrifty in the kind of rum it buys or else likes that kind.

Something ought to be done to sift the Film City hooch for its clinkers.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington, July 13.—With China, Nicaragua and Mexico pretty well off his mind, Secretary of State Kellogg is allowing himself more and more humor at his press conferences. Kellogg, as has been remarked, is an ardent golfer. Those who know how nervous he is marvel that he can hit the pill once in ten swipes, but the fact is that he plays a fine game for a man of his age.

Golf is often mentioned at the Kellogg press conferences. "Going to play eighteen holes, Mr. Secretary?" one correspondent asked the other day.

"Well, maybe I can do thirtysix," replied Kellogg, meaning just what he said.

It was raining cats and dogs outside and someone called attention to the fact.

"Young man," said Kellogg, "nothing ever spoils golf!"

When the Honorable Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, read the assertions of Governor General Leonard Wood, on arrival in this country, that the Filipinos were prosperous, happy and well paid for their labor, his reply was brief and to the point. It was made through your correspondent, because few others pay much attention to the non-voting Filipinos.

"There are 135,000,000 pesos in circulation in the islands and there are 12,000,000 people there," said Guevara. "The peso is worth fifty cents. That means that each person has $5.50 to his name, on an average. But the 135,000,000 pesos include all the money in banks, 65,000 pesos a year for government expenses, and all money hoarded away. This means that countless Filipinos never even see any money. And even the poorest Igorrote in the most uncivilized section needs some money to buy a loin-cloth."

Native newspapers from Manila, printed in Spanish, tell a story all their own through Page One cartoons in which General Wood is given the worst of it. The cartoons indicate that Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Congressman Carey, leader of the Tammany delegation here, have become national heroes.

It seems that Wheeler and Carey were hired to a Chamber of Commerce banquet at Manila which turned out to be a sort of an American demonstration against Filipino independence. Wheeler and Carey boiled over with wrath and when their turns came to speak they tumbled countrymen by forceful expression of their sentiments.

Wheeler is said to be coming back here loaded for bear and if you hear some loud explosions during the next session of the Senate, may start something in the Carow, too. Filipino nationalists are said to be elated over the fact that Senator Hiram Bingham, who is now an expert on everything in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, has also been gathering information in the islands and will doubtless appoint himself exponent of the administration's attitude against independence.

New York, July 13.—"You can have New York!" remarked my friend from Texas. "But I like a place where you can get your pants back from the presser without waiting a week and can be sure of getting your laundry within a day."

Manhattan is certainly hard-boiled where service is concerned. The impression is that New York has the last word in efficiency, but there is no place where the average person is more at the mercy of those with whom he deals.

A newcomer invariably calls up one of the newspapers and asks to have a paper delivered at his door. He is astonished to find that there is no such thing as a newspaper delivery system and, if he wished a paper, he will have to see some news stand in his neighborhood where such things are attended to.

I personally have gone to six stands only to find that my place of residence is a door or two off their beat. Finally locating the right dealer, I learn that in addition to the price of the newspaper I must pay 25 cents a month for delivery service fee. In addition, I later discover, that unless I give the boy a tip now and then the delivery service is most irregular.

This attitude of "take it or leave it" is extremely general. It took me three weeks and four milk companies to get a bottle of milk delivered at my door in the mornings. The first company I dealt with told me flatly they could not deliver before 9 o'clock because the man on my route didn't get there before that, and they didn't intend to change matters.

It is equally true that the laundry and tailor give a little attention to the desires of customers. Outside the big established stores few concerns depend on regular trade. New York is so large that most businesses can rely on transient trade and tell individuals to take it or leave it. They are well aware that if you are annoyed and go elsewhere you'll be met with pretty much the same spirit.

The large milk companies will tell you they have all the business they can handle and you'll have to accept their terms or go without. The same goes for the tailor, the laundry, the news-dealer and the dressmaker.

In "specialties" it is the same. To have her hair bobbed by anyone with a reputation, milady must call up and make appointments, sometimes weeks in advance. I know a dentist who can make an appointment only a month ahead. This morning a doctor I know was telling me: "I could go out now and make a dozen calls, but I keep office hours from 2 until 6. I've got to get some rest and recreation. I could make $100 a day more in the mornings alone, but I've got all the practice I need and want. I don't want a bigger practice. Besides that, there are 6,000 more doctors in town."

And, perhaps, a couple of thousand of them say the same thing.

WHISKEY HUNT IN ESTES PARK LIKE GOLD FISH

Buried Treasure Sought In Scenic Country Near Denver Is Liquid.

Denver.—A search for buried treasure—at times as frantic as the early days of Colorado—has been renewed recently in the scenic country around Estes Park, 75 miles west of Denver. The lure of the modern gold hunters is not of the yellow ore variety, but a golden liquid estimated to be worth a vast fortune.

For nearly half a century periodic attempts have been made to locate a cache in Estes Park believed to contain a huge quantity of imported Scotch whiskey, which was buried by the late Earl of Dunraven famous English sportsman and hunter, who once owned thousands of acres of land in what is now Estes Park.

Search for the buried treasure has always resulted in failure, and little hope is expressed by "old timers" around Estes that the quarry will be uncovered this time by the new searchers.

Built Big Hotel Dunraven completed his acquisition of the whole of Estes Park in the late '70's. He built a huge hotel for the use and convenience of the great numbers of guests that he was accustomed to bringing to this country from England to enjoy the hunting of his western estate.

Later, to further facilitate his hunting activities, Dunraven built a small log hunting lodge in a secluded park ten miles from the hotel. Here he would retire with eighteen or twenty gentlemen to hunt. At times these men would have for guides or hunting companions such famous characters as "Buffalo Bill" Cody and "Texas Jack" Omohondro.

And because these guests were accustomed to drinking good whiskey in uncertain amounts and since the hunting trips usually were of long duration, Dunraven undertook to provide the drinks. Every year the Dunraven servants would pack a great quantity of the best whiskey up to the hunting lodge. In the fall of the supply and bury it for use during the next season. The cache was changed yearly from one place to another.

Buried Whiskey At last in 1879 an unusually large quantity was left at the end of the season. Perhaps because of this the men assigned to put away the liquor for the coming year were tempted to take a little drink before finishing their work. At any rate the whiskey was buried and from that day until this, in spite of all searching, it has never been seen again.

The men who buried it were uncertain as to the location of the cache and by the spring of 1880 so much grass had grown up in the park that it was impossible to locate any spot where there had been any digging.

Since that time the hidden booze has been the subject of periodic search by the inhabitants of the Estes Park country. It was too well hidden, however, and the whiskey that would be worth a small fortune in this day of the 18th amendment has never been found.

Lord Dunraven, who long ago gave up his control of Estes Park, died a year ago.

E. J. Holl To Form Company To Finance Home Builders

Half Million Dollar Investment Corporation To Make Local Man Practically Independent of Banks.

Papers have been drawn necessary for the incorporation of an investment company with capital stock of $500,000 with Edward J. Holl, Manchester real estate dealer, principal stockholder, it was announced today. The purpose of the concern is primarily to finance home building here, in Hartford and in other places where Mr. Holl is at present developing home sites.

After the organization has been completed Mr. Holl will offer stock in the concern for sale. An investment company thus organized will make Mr. Holl practically independent of banking houses in his development of building tracts and in the financing such undertakings call for. Mr. Holl will be more secure in his work and will be able to develop his new tracts, build and finance new construction more freely.

The concern will deal in second mortgages and building loan financing. "My business is the making of homes," said Mr. Holl today, "and any financial assistance I can give, as well as any help in the designing and constructing of houses, is part of my business—therefore this company."

Incidentally, Mr. Holl is at present engaged in aiding in the building of over half a million dollars worth of new homes in Manchester. In his beautiful Hollywood tract, which lies on Porter street just beyond the East cemetery, between $650,000 and $700,000 worth of homes have either been built or are building since the first move toward development was made there two years ago, on May 18, 1925, to be exact. Before this summer closes, three-quarters of a million dollars worth of homes will have been built in this one section and all in a little over two years. That in itself is a monument to the genius of "E. J."

Not Alone Dollars
But there is more than the size and number of tracts this man has developed, more than their great value in cold dollars. Back of this one expansive home site here in Manchester lies a man's precious dream, lies his own heart and personality. For all of these are needed when development begins—development that is to result as Hollywood has thus far.

When one realizes that practically every bit of the planning, the laying out, and the carrying out of the work necessary in making Hollywood an ideal site for beautiful homes was done by E. J. Holl alone, alone at his desk with but a pencil and a sheet of paper to catch the flashes of happy thought he conceived, the great task he faced seems far greater. Here was a rolling farm, long famed for its beautiful green grass, and the Hackney it raised. The earth's profile in the original was nearly perfect. The problem was—how to preserve this natural beauty, yet make these sites available for homes with proper street grades, and sewerage outlets.

Gave It Much Study
Mr. Holl's great experience in developing other parcels of land stood him in good stead. He spent hours after hours on the ground that is now Hollywood. He solved the problem after nearly two years of study and on May 18, 1925 engineers and workmen began to shape the land as E. J. had planned it. As a background for thirty-three handsome homes, the natural beauty of old Hackney farm.

One of the first Pitkins that came to Manchester first owned this fine stretch of farm land. Then it became the property of a Keeney, then a Sault and then that of Robert and Harry Cheney who made of it a dairy farm that was a model among models. It is a matter of record that the Cheneys paid Dr. W. R. Tinker who was administrator of the Sault estate $6,500 for the 60 acres of farmland. For over thirty years the Hackney farm remained in the hands of Robert and Harry Cheney. For as many years as E. J. Holl had been developing tracts in Manchester he had seen the potential beauties of the acreage for a city of handsome homes.

Part For Cemetery
Having secured the property the town of Manchester awoke to the fact that it was going to lose its best chance for the expansion and further development of the East cemetery. Mr. Holl told the town authorities what he thought the land desired for cemetery purposes was worth and a town meeting voted to buy a large slice of what would have been a part of Hollywood. Judging from the development that has taken place since the sale to the town was made, Manchester did get a bargain as Mr. Holl promised at the time.

Twenty-five lots remain in this development which was originally cut up into 300 lots. And there are thirty-three homes on the tract all ranging in value from $7,000 to three that cost about $65,000 each.

Edward J. Holl

Five of the unsold sites are on Wellington Road, two on Lancaster Road, three on Autumn street, eight on Scarborough Road and seven on Porter street.

One of the features that has sold these home sites so rapidly aside from the pure beauty of the tract is that of perfect drainage. Every lot can be connected to the sewerage system and the soil is dry, with a gravel bottom. Cellars are easily dug and the whole section has a high, but easily accessible elevation.

Everything Established
Every street in Hollywood has been approved by the Selectmen and will be recommended for acceptance at the next town meeting. Sidewalks, curbing, sewers, gas, water, electric lights, and fire alarm system, everything that can possibly be desired in a modern development are already part of Hollywood. It is within a few moments walk of Manchester's trading area, just near enough to the Hartford-Providence turnpike, a step or two from trolley and bus service and yet in a purely residential section surrounded by other pretty homes and the deep, beautiful green of plenty of grass and many, many trees.

The type of residential section E. J. Holl develops attracts a high class of citizen to Manchester. Some of the town's newest families have come here because of the beauty of the streets and houses Mr. Holl has built. Hollywood is not alone among the home sections he has planned and executed. Many others locally are to his credit and as many more in Hartford where he is at present busy engineering the moving of a mountain of clay so that a new development may soon be started there. But, Hollywood to Manchester typifies the work Edward J. Holl does. Nothing in the way of making a pretty place to live is too big a task for him. And, Manchester is the bigger and better for him.

TOLLAND

It has been deemed wise for obvious reasons and on account of circumstances over which we have no control to discontinue any further arrangements for Tolland Fire Department Day, August 6, 1927 and in view of this the several committees are hereby discharged.

The summer vacation school of the Federated church commenced Monday morning at the church with Miss Lillian Scott as superintendent.

What had the appearance of being a severe fire was averted when a truck operated by O. S. Oliva of Burnside, loaded with bath room fixtures caught fire in Tolland Monday afternoon. Help was soon on the scene and the fire extinguished.

The regular business meeting of the Tolland Library association was held in the library, rooms Monday afternoon. Mrs. Charles H. Daniels, president, presiding. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed followed by refreshments being served by Mrs. Oscar A. Leonard, Miss Mary Leonard and Miss Florence Leonard as hostesses.

Mrs. Fred Walker and two children of New Jersey are guests of Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Overman.

Miss Winona Shaw who has been the guest of relatives has returned to her home in Wales, Mass.

COUNTRY STORE NIGHT COMES THIS WEEK TOO

Laura LaPlante Starred In "Love Thrill" Tomorrow; "Is Zat So" Here Today.

Country Store night comes again to the State theater on Thursday and the array of presents is just as big as ever. To help along the night there will be plenty of surprise numbers which will be offered as entertainment or what you will. Laura LaPlante, the blonde siren, is booked to appear in her latest starring vehicle, "The Love Thrill."

The picture makes no pretense of being anything but frothy and fast-moving comedy and Miss LaPlante's host of fans elsewhere have declared it is one of her most amusing pictures.

"The Love Thrill" is Miss LaPlante's third picture since Universal, prompted by the tremendous growth of her popularity, advanced her to starring position. The others, "Her Big Night" and "Butterflies In The Rain" are now established extraordinary records wherever they are shown.

Millard Webb directed "The Love Thrill." The large supporting cast is headed by Tom Moore, Bryant Washburn, Nat Carr, Jocelyn

Lee, Arthur Hoyt and others. The entertainment at the State theater tonight will consist of that rollicking comedy, "Is Zat So," starring George O'Brien, Edmund Lowe and Kathryn Perry. This is the story of a dumbbell fighter and his dumb manager and a pretty girl.

The boy hasn't a brain but his manager knows how to rake in the shekels and fix the fights. As a result the boy, through no fault of his own, becomes champion of the world and next friend to the girl who has made it possible for him to fight the champion. It is a picture full of comic situations and ludicrous incidents.

NO man had ever stirred the prim little heart of Vee-Vee Cameron. She had no time for love. Her only romance was her job; her only ambition, business success, the shrine of her worship, efficiency. She dressed in crisp, business-like clothes, wore her hair long, dimmed her sea-green eyes behind business-like spectacles. A hum-drum little girl, settled down to a hum-drum existence.

Then one day something happened that completely changed the course of Vee-Vee Cameron's well organized life. She discarded her spectacles, her long braids, her stiff, man-like attire. A beauty specialist made her over. She spent all her savings on a fine wardrobe and a vacation near a man she had never met, but at first sight of whom she had fallen hopelessly, desperately in love.

The prim little secretary who had never in her life drawn an admiring masculine glance suddenly found herself beautiful, desirable, and set out deliberately to capture the romance that had passed her by.

That is the start of Anne Austin's newest story, "The Penny Princess"—the story of a stenographer on a mad but glorious vacation adventure—a fantastic chapter in the life of an American Girl.

Take A Tiny Peep With Us At Boys In Kiwanians' Camp

They Can Conjure Up All Sorts of Hobgoblins Out Of Anything or Nothing At All—What the Camp Is and Why It Is and What It's There For.

"It was bigger than a horse." "You made an elephant." "And big ears, see, like wind-mills." "An' did you see the eyes? Fire came out of 'em." "Terrible arms and hands like a grizzly bear's." "Two knives it had." "A big gun." "A club." "An' alasso." "An' a sword, too, a long, long one." "An's when it said 'Wrrr' it sounded like thunder." "Worse than firecrackers, the big, big kind."

They were all talking at once—20 of 'em—20. All crowded about Director L. L. Russell, at the Kiwanis Camp on Hebron way. Twenty by a count of noses, but by a count of noises there seemed to be heard at the same time. It was yesterday and an excited scene it was. "Now, boys, one at a time," said Mr. Russell. "What is this all about? What are you talking about? Was it a hobgoblin?" "The boys didn't know. They had seen a movement in the woods nearby and each gave his impression of what it looked like. And they were having the time of their lives doing it."

Mr. Russell investigated and found that the cause of all of the trouble was a couple of wandering laborers seeking tobacco farms so as to get jobs. "That is but an incident at the wonderful vacation spot that the Manchester Kiwanis Club has arranged to bring sunshine into the lives of our town's underprivileged children. Before the summer is over nearly 100 boys and girls will ordinarily be here. They will be in the hot days in homes or in the streets, will have enjoyed a bit of Paradise. The parents of these children hardly have words to express their gratitude and for the children themselves—just ask them."

The group of 20 boys now at the camp is to leave on Saturday. They will be replaced by another group of 20 and after two weeks' two camps of boys will be taken to the camp. Healdy Banish. The boys now at Hebron are tanned by the outdoor life and are as healthy; a party of youngsters as can be found in Manchester. But when they came to the camp—that is another story. Each boy is in the camp in uniform, white sleeveless shirt, tan trunks and rubber shoes. They made a pretty picture as they grouped about the director yesterday.

Although at certain periods of the day, the children are allowed freedom on the grounds, there is a military discipline at the camp that works wonderfully. Boys who around their homes would not obey their parents, snap to attention at the slightest command at the camp and those in charge say that this will mean a great deal when the youngsters return to their homes. Taught Politeness. These children coming from the less fortunate families of the town are taught in two weeks enough of life's niceties to make them realize that it is proper to be polite. For instance at supper last evening the manners of the youngsters was a revelation to one who personally knows most of the boys through Americanization work and had seen them eat in their homes. Each sat erect and at ease on his camp stool. Each handled knife, fork and spoon in the proper manner. No talk until the proper postum had been reached. See our leader across and filed silently from the dining hall. As soon as they had reached outdoors the restraint had disappeared and they were care free youngsters again. This military atmosphere permeates the whole camp. At 7:30 the boys are awakened. They dress,

For supper there was zucchini, cornflakes, bread and butter, cookies and milk. Breakfast: half an orange, shredded wheat, toast, cocoa. Dinner: chicken, baked potatoes, peas, bread, butter, milk. Supper: cornflakes, jelly with fruit, bread and butter and milk. It would be well for the reader to go back and read those menus again to see how well those youngsters fare at the camp and they are menus picked at random from the book in the kitchen.

Many New Faces. This year there are a lot of new faces at the camp although some of the old timers are still noticed. Now how are these boys and girls picked, one might ask. They are to be picked on the basis of their year welfare nurses, school teachers, doctors and all those who come into contact with children and homes in the local area. As soon as a boy or girl is chosen the case is checked by a member of the Kiwanians and if the case is worthy that boy or girl is given a two weeks' vacation at Hebron. The children are as a rule under-nourished on their arrival. They are weighed and at the end of their vacation they are weighed again and in every instance a far record has been a substantial gain in weight.

Kiwanians' Plan. The work being done by the Kiwanians at the Hebron camp is probably the most practical way of helping underprivileged children that has ever been devised by civic organizations. The children are taught in two weeks things that will make them better citizens. Or will return home they will set an example for the other children of the family which will be beneficial. They are taught cleanliness, discipline. The camp this year has been somewhat improved. An old shed opposite the dining hall has been repaired and makes a splendid playground during rainy weather. The showers have been improved but a pool is needed. The water supply is ample as an artisan well was dug last year and a pump supplies the showers and the house.

"The Point". It is planned this week to take the boys to "The Point" for a night camp. This pleases the youngsters more than anything yet devised for their amusement. The boys go from their amusements, they go to the point, a high spot far from the camp. Here they cook supper and then while the rest sleep one stands guard. Every twenty minutes the guard is changed in real Indian fashion. This 20 minute guard in inky darkness with all sorts of sounds in the woods and imaginary wild animals crouching to spring, give the boys an unusual thrill. Mr. Russell said, "The Point" which is the highest portion of the camp gives one a view for many miles in three directions. The view is unusually beautiful.

This week Manchester merchants are giving a percentage of their receipts to help in the support of the Kiwanis camp. This little sketch is written to bring the attention of Manchester folks the fact that a little extra shopping this week will help wonderfully in supporting this worthy work. Won't you help, just a little?

KING OF ROUMANIA

FAILING GRADUALLY

Queen Marie Now Only 84 Pounds: Queen Marie Constantly At His Beside.

Berlin, July 13.—King Ferdinand, of Roumania, is again in a critical condition, according to private advices received here. The King is failing gradually and his physicians are reported as saying that he is "dying by inches." He is said to weigh only 84 pounds now as compared with his normal weight of 180 pounds. Queen Marie and the king's daughter, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, are constantly with the King at Sinaia. The Roumanian government has laid down a rigid censorship and newspapers are not permitted to print anything concerning the King's condition. The new Parliament meets on July 17 and it is reported that the King dies before that time, the government intends to keep it a secret in order to avoid calling a session of the old Parliament, in which the present Bratianu government was in a minority.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE does back to FRANCE

Your tinker in France has some prestige! Here is Dr. Minot, "retameur ambulant."

This is chapter 80 of the series of articles written by an ex-soldier who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LXXX. Tinker may be a tinker in any other land, but in France he's an artist. He trundles a huge cart from village to village and when he goes on location he unlimbers enough equipment to repair anything from a railroad trestle to a candle-snuffer. He selects a likely location, sets up his bellows, builds a charcoal fire and begins running, with their pots, pans, pails and whatnot and when he starts splashing solder the leaks disappear—that's all.

He's Somebody. Furthermore the French tinker has a title. He's a "retameur ambulant"—an itinerant repairman. This particular retameur ambulant's name is Robert Minot. (Note initials on bellows.) This is his first season in the St. Mihiel sector. He started in up around les Esparges and St. Remy and expects to make quite a stay in the 26th division's territory. As long as the peasants bring their kettles he'll stay in St. Maurice-sous-les-Cotes, where he is situated at present. Then he'll aliez toward Billy and Beney and Woel.

Mr. Minot seldom contracts for any large scale tinkering operations in advance, but he says he'll be glad to do any odd jobs for the members of the American Legion who drift through his territory in September.

He can be reached by letter here—care the Sous-Chef-de-Gare. He'll guarantee his work, or money refunded, and he'll undertake anything excepting the recovery and repair of a string of

REPORT 1,800 KILLED BY FLOODS IN CHINA

Thousands More in Danger of Starvation As Rivers Overflow Their Banks.

Shanghai, July 13.—To the tribulations of the Chinese, whose nation is torn by civil strife, have been added the ravages of flood. Dispatches from Wuhu reveal today that rivers in the vicinity of that city are rising, inundating the lowlands, and causing great suffering. It is estimated that one hundred flood victims are dying daily as the result of starvation and exposure, in spite of stringent relief measures.

Hospital and food supplies have been sent to the flooded area, which extends south of Anhwei. The total casualties are reported unofficially as 1,800. According to reports from Nanking the Nationalists staged a successful counter attack against the Northern Army, driving the latter forces back to Linching. The Northerners are retreating, fearing an encircling movement by the Nationalist troops.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (29) The Nile

John H. Speke Sir R.F. Burton. In 1856 Sir Richard Francis Burton and John Hanning Speke, adventurers of the best type, were sent out to settle the source of the Nile. After two years of battling with almost every conceivable form of difficulty they came upon Lake Tanganyika, and the secret hidden since the days of the Pharaohs, was revealed.

The explorers who opened the gates of Africa fought dangers unlike those faced in any other quest. Fevers and sickness were certain.

The tsetse fly, a small insect no larger than our house fly, carried a bite which was fatal to many of the invaders.

We do not know all Africa's secrets yet, but moderns are now busy seeking to pry away the last mysteries of the Gloomy Continent. The map above shows Africa as it is today, what we know of its broad wastes and jungles and deserts. The task of African discovery still is incomplete. (To Be Continued)

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

It is no far-fetched statement to say that the day is coming when the family which has a house all to itself will be a rarity.

Because there is not space enough to go around, we must build and live one on top of the other, apartment house plan.

Only two out of five homes built in 1926 were one-family homes. We may entice the comforts of apartment living.

Have you ever observed these women who have a reputation for liking only men and disliking other women? Isn't it nearly always because they themselves are so blest with all the traditional feminine wiles that they know women will use through them, and in self-defense run to the non-discerning male who takes them at face-value only?

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Many an old maid once was a girl who couldn't stay awake while he talked about himself.

NOW YOU ASK ONE WHO SAID THAT

The first five of today's questions are famous quotations. Tell who originated them. Answers to all the questions are on another page.

- 1—"There never was a good war or a bad peace."
2—"All Gaul is divided into three parts."
3—"England expects every man to do his duty."
4—"We have met the enemy and they are ours."
5—"I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer."
6—"What canal joins the Red Sea and Mediterranean Sea?"
7—"Where is Abraham Lincoln buried?"
8—"Who was the first Christian emperor of Rome?"
9—"What is the national anthem of France?"
10—"What English king was beheaded in the seventeenth century?"

Teacher: "Now, boys, can any of you tell me something about Good Friday?"

Tommy: "Yes, ma'am. He was the fellow that done the housework for Robinson Crusoe."

Mother: "Yes, dear, your father and I first met at a dance."

Son: "Oh, so that's why he's always telling me to keep away from dance halls."

Some brides seem to feel that the fact that they were given away makes them free.

Nothing grieves a child more than to study the wrong lesson and learn something he wasn't required to learn.

She had her face lifted but it fell when she got the bill for repairs.

SENSE and NONSENSE

At the end of an eight-hour ride in a day coach smoker a man threatened why some women dislike the smell of cigar smoke.

Women have a smaller vocabulary than men, but it's more active.

FOLK SONG
Shoe the feet and
Dress the hair
But let the lady's Back go bare.

Don't expect to have anything given you free except kicks.

The New York stage is reported to be in a critical condition. Foul play is suspected.

If you imagine that this is a cold, unsympathetic world, tell people that you have a cold and listen to their suggestions.

Red: "Do you believe in life after death?"
Brown: "No, but I do believe in life before death. Let's go!"

SOBER THOUGHTS

The inevitable makes no concessions.

Egotism is self-reliance on parade. Success is the compensation for concentrated endeavor.

Remorse is when conscience insists on having the last word. The mills of the gods sometimes grind with unexpected rapidity.

A good many "necessary" evils are merely convenient evils. It is our sins that age us; our self-denials keep us young.

When it comes to making love, even the shallow woman is very deep.

The streams that used to be "fished to death" are now dynamited, limed, seined and netted to death.

"That's a point well taken," chuckled the man as he ran his opponent through with his trusty blade.

What goes into one's head in the way of good or evil thoughts comes out in the face and is known and read of all men.

Mandy: Rastus! Rastus: What is it, Mandy? Mandy: Don't forget to fetch me home a cake o' dish yere tar soap. Ah aims to keep mah schoolgal complectshun.

The fish sucker is the hardest to catch, the human the easiest.

The door of opportunity has been pushed open.

A man likes to be called smart but resents being called sharp.

The man who wants to rule or ruin may do both if given the chance.

It's never a happy marriage unless both get better mates than they deserve.

Middle age is that period of life when if your heart beats fast, no matter who it is, it's probably because something's the matter with it.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

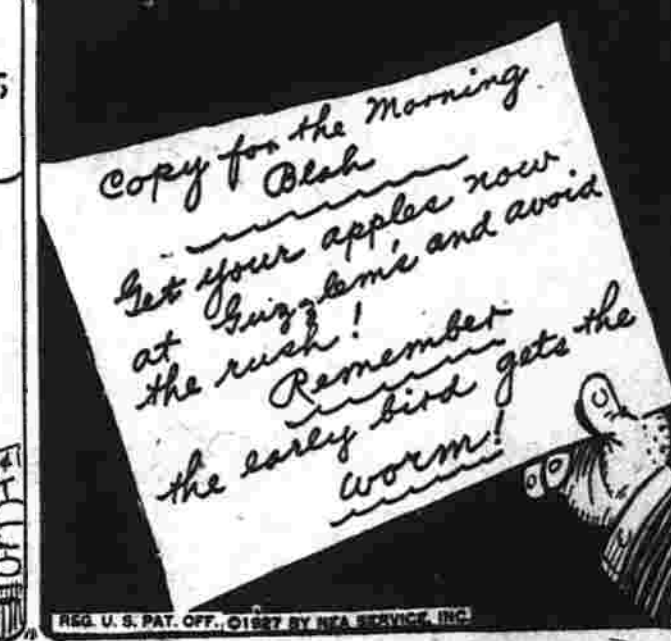

Parading on your hands, 'tis true, is not an easy thing to do, so all the little Tynmites soon got back on their feet. The Princess then said, "Follow me. You've seen all that there is to see in Upside-Down Town, and I hope, it's really been a treat."

Before they knew it, he was gone. They watched him scamper 'cross the lawn. It sure surprised the Tynmites. He disappeared so quick. The Princess then said, "Now we'll see how wonderful my wand can be. If you'll watch me closely I will do a startling trick."

INDOOR BASEBALL NEW GAME AT PLAYGROUND

East and West Side Teams to Play First Game Tomorrow Evening.

An indoor baseball team from the East Side playground will meet the West Side team at the West Side tomorrow evening at 6:30. Indoor baseball is played under rules similar to those of baseball, except for the fact that the bases are 45 feet apart and the pitching is done with an underhand motion. A special kind of ball and bat are used. There are just as many thrills in this game as there are in regular baseball contests, and it is fast becoming the playground game of the east.

CHANGE IN NINTH MAY BE MADE NOW

If Meeting, Not Held Till Tomorrow, Approves, No Collector Will Be Elected

Due to an error it was announced in The Herald last night that the annual meeting of the Ninth School District would be held on Tuesday evening. The error caused a number of voters to go to the High school hall, only to learn that the meeting is scheduled for Thursday. The amendment to make the offices of tax collector and ratemaker appointive has caused some discussion but the matter has not, apparently, been considered by the voters as important as some others in the past. The sentiment seems to lean toward the adoption of the charter amendment but it is expected that there will be some opposition to it.

Ratemakers and tax collectors in the Ninth district have always been elected. The January session of the state legislature this year passed an amendment to the district charter, which, if accepted by the voters, will make these officers subject to appointment by the school committee.

In Effect On Passage The way to a vote on the amendment, without the complications which might arise through the previous election of the two officers, has been paved through the wording of the call which mentions nothing about the elections of tax collector and ratemaker. The amendment, it was learned this morning, will go into effect immediately on its ratification by the voters of the school district. However, in the event that the amendment is turned down by the voters, there has been left the usual "windup" clause to the effect that the meeting may "transact any other business necessary and proper." This would cover the elections of the two officers.

MRS. CHARLES H. BLOOM

Grace Russell Bloom, widow of Charles H. Bloom passed away at her home, 271 Main street, Tuesday after a brief illness. She is survived by one son, C. Russell Bloom, and one grand daughter, Doris Miriam; also one step-daughter, Mrs. F. J. Bendall.

Mrs. Bloom was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Russell who were residents of Manchester for many years. She was a member of the South Methodist Episcopal church.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the home. Rev. Watson Woodruff will officiate and interment will be in the East cemetery.

NORTH END SEWER JOB IS COMPLETED AT LAST

Over a Year In Process of Construction—Contractor Failed In Job.

The big sewer job started at the north end of the town more than a year ago is now completed. The section included all of Homestead Park, part of the Pinehurst tract, parts of Woodland and Hilliard streets as well as Green avenue and North Elm street. With this work completed practically every street at the north end of the town has sewer facilities. The contractor who did the work did not make money and the bonding company had to finish the job.

If you are planning a building program there is a way in which you can eliminate all worry as to the plumbing. Just turn the entire responsibility over to us. We are equipped to handle anything.
