EXPECT 300,000 TO SEE LINDY IN HARTFORD

Plans to Alight at Brainard Field at 2 O'Clock Tomorrow Afternoon; The Day's Program.

Hartford, Conn., July 19.—When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh guides "The Viking" to a landing at Brainard Field here tomorrow afternoon, he will receive the greatest reception ever accorded a person in the three hundred years of Hartford's history. The entire state is sending legions to acclaim the youth who conquered the Atlantic alone, according to reports here today.

Preparations are being made by state and local police together with National Guardsmen to handle the throng which is expected to reach 300,000. Already hotel reservations are at a premium and private rooming houses overflowing.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh

To Keep Field Clear
Lindbergh said that if the landing is overrun by the crowd, he will not descend. Police mean to see that this does not happen. A special police detail will also guard the "Spirit of St. Louis" and another detail will also see that Lindy is in bed by 9:30 p. m., his expressed wish. The flyer is expected here about two o'clock.

His special car will head a procession of eight automobiles through the streets, the following machines to be occupied by city and state officials.

Governor to Meet Him
Gov. John H. Trumbull will take off from Camp Trumbull, Niantic in an escort plane as soon as Lindy's ship is sighted. The succeeding official program will be short, especially if Lindy is dependent upon to furnish the speaking, although a platform has been erected for the official welcome.

Governor Trumbull will then receive the gallant aviator in the executive offices at the capitol after which Lindy will retire to his rooms at the Bond Hotel for interviews and rest until the evening banquet at the Hartford Club. The after-dinner speakers will include Governor Trumbull, William F. MacCracker, assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce, in charge of aviation; acting Mayor Bulkeley and Col. Lindbergh. Benedict M. Holden will be toastmaster.

Lindbergh will remain here until Thursday morning when he will tour the city and arrange for his departure.

MINISTER AGED 69
TO WED NURSE, 23

Girl's Parents Warn Rectors of New Bedford Not to Marry the Couple.

New Bedford, Mass., July 19.—December and May will clasp hands when Miss Evelyn Frances Scott, 23, graduate nurse, of Orleans, and Rev. James D. Butts, 69, a great-grandfather, take each other in matrimony next Friday noon.

The marriage of the couple had created a sensation in social circles of this city. Rev. Butts had held a prominent place in the community life of the city as rector of Clifford chapel. The ceremony will take place there.

Parental objections had not dampened Miss Scott's desire to wed her elderly lover. Her parents had requested the ministers of the city to refuse to perform the ceremony because of the extreme difference in their ages. Who will marry the couple had not been revealed today.

Both Rev. Butts and Miss Scott declare they love each other sincerely and have high ideals of marriage that will make their union a success.

The bridegroom-to-be has several married daughters, one of whom, Mrs. Pardon Devoll, announced their engagement some time ago.

MOTHER QUAIL FINDS FAMILY

Robbed of Nest Two Weeks Ago She Finds Brood and Takes It Away.

East Hampton, Conn., July 19.—A mother quail, innocently robbed of her brood, came to the home of Albert Saltus today to claim her own. The story dates back several weeks ago when Saltus purchased the Flanders school at Meriden from Alfred Meeks for a summer home. In cutting some weeds, he found a nest of seventeen quail eggs. Two were broken and the remaining 15 he placed under two hens for hatching.

Seven eggs were destroyed by skunks but eight baby quail survived the hectic days since their discovery and were being cared for by the step-mother hen.

Today the mother quail put in her appearance, called her youngsters to her—it was the first time she had seen her offspring—and led them away.

VIENNA NORMAL, PREPARING TO BURY ITS DEAD

Eighty-One Civilians to Be Placed in One Grave; Six Police Killed; Strike Over; Newspapers Print Again.

Vienna, July 19.—Civic life having returned to normal, Vienna prepared today to bury the dead of her period of rioting. Eighty-one civilian victims of the Socialist demonstrations of last week will be buried in a single grave in the Central cemetery at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Six police victims will be buried on Thursday. The city government will bear the expenses of the funerals and to avoid possibility of any disorders, has decreed that only the executive committee of the Socialist Party, a delegation of workers organizations, city officials and families of the victims may attend the funeral.

Memorial Services
Work will cease for fifteen minutes throughout the country, during the period of the funeral. Memorial services will be held in factories and shops.

The general strike was called off at midnight after a series of conferences between Chancellor Seipel and his ministers on one hand and the executive committee of the Socialist Party on the other.

Chancellor Seipel is preparing to convene Parliament in special session Thursday to probe the disturbances and enact remedial legislation. Hundreds have been arrested.

Newspapers Out Again
Newspapers are appearing once more although several are doing so with difficulty as mobs wrecked the plants.

Despite the moderate attitude adopted by the Socialists, the Communists continue active. Pamphlets have appeared agitating for war by the proletariat.

A reorganization of the government is likely after Parliament convenes.

Viennese newspapers blame "Moscow agents" for the riots. This accusation is supported by statements of eye witnesses who say that Communists began the firing last Friday during the Socialist demonstration in front of the Palace of Justice.

A government communique was issued reassuring the people that the army is loyal.

All possibility of foreign intervention apparently is at an end, despite sensational rumors to the contrary.

NEW HAVEN GANGS START GUN BATTLE

Three Under Arrest and Two Nursing Wounds — "Chic" Brown Shot.

New Haven, Conn., July 19.—With what police regard as a threatened gang war nipped in the bud, three men were under arrest today and two others are nursing slight flesh wounds following a gun battle on a downtown street here Monday afternoon.

Antonio Amata, known to the sporting world as "Chic" Brown was to be released from the hospital this morning after treatment for a face wound. Robert Cutler, 18, a messenger boy, has already been transferred to his home, wounded in the stomach, while watching the duel between Brown and Frank "Fat" Beltrame. Beltrame is at liberty under $15,000 bond while his two companions, Vincenzo Alberti and Angel Amato are detained at police headquarters. A fourth member of Beltrame's gang is being sought.

Police state investigation has revealed the quarrel to have culminated an argument over gambling money.

Ford Sends Sapiro Check As A Settlement In Suit

Chicago, July 19.—Aaron Sapiro admitted today he had received a "substantial amount" from Henry Ford in the settlement out of court of his libel suit against the Detroit manufacturer. Sapiro received Ford's check yesterday simultaneously with the formal ending of the $1,000,000 action in the Detroit Federal Court where Judge Charles C. Simons signed the order of discontinuance.

SEE NEW DEADLOCK AT NAVAL PARLEY

Britain's Plan Would Compel the United States to Build More Warships.

Geneva, July 19.—The Tri-Partite Naval Disarmament conference appears today to be approaching a new deadlock, this one centering around the size of guns to be mounted on cruisers.

While the American experts are closely examining the tentative agreement between the Japanese and British on cruiser tonnage, they are firm in their insistence that they can not accept the Anglo-Japanese proposals that cruisers of less than 7,500 tons be limited to six inch gun armament.

America's Demands
American experts demand that only a small proportion of the cruiser strength of the American navy be limited to small guns and that all others shall be permitted to carry eight inch guns.

The Anglo-Japanese proposals with regard to tonnage are also being examined with a good deal of skepticism. Although the proposals set a limit of tonnage at 500,000 for cruisers for the United States and Great Britain, American experts are of the opinion that this is merely a paper limitation insofar as Great Britain is concerned. They point out that Great Britain reserves the right to keep some ships which give Great Britain an effective cruiser tonnage of 650,000 tons and would necessitate a great building program by the United States.

FLYERS CHEERED WHENEVER THEY ARE ON STREET

New York Keeps Up Its Welcome to Byrd and His Companions—Saw Show Last Evening.

New York, July 18.—America's five returned trans-Atlantic flyers learned the price of fame today when they received continuous ovations whenever they showed themselves in public. They attempted to rest quietly, but millions of hero-worshipping New Yorkers put as many obstacles in the way as possible.

The five noted airmen—Commander Richard E. Byrd, Clarence D. Chamberlin, Bert Acosta, Lieutenant G. O. Noville and Lieutenant Bert Hachen will resume their "official" public appearances tonight when they will be honored guests at the city's dinner in the Hotel Commodore.

Official Headquarters
"Official" headquarters were established for the airmen and their families upon the seventeenth floor of the McAlpin hotel.

The airmen were guests last night at the 44th Street theatre where "A Night in Spain" is being played. They were cheered wildly by the spectators as they entered their boxes, which were draped with American flags. So tumultuous was the applause that Commander Byrd, who wore his white naval uniform, had to arise and bow.

Special Movies
The performance was the usual one except that moving picture scenes of the America had been interposed and a number of quips had been added especially for the occasion.

Commander Byrd was moved deeply by the warmth of the reception accorded him and his companions.

"I am indeed grateful for the honors and for the expressions of friendship on behalf of the people of New York," said the commander. "I cannot help but feel that this same sentiment is felt elsewhere.

"I did not try to do anything spectacular. We were working in the interests of the science of aviation, but circumstances forced us into a thrilling adventure."

DETECTIVE AND POLICE IN VERBAL ENCOUNTER

Report That County Sleuth Had Been Arrested After Argument Is Denied.

New London, Conn., July 19.—Authorities denied here today that County Detective William Lewis had been arrested, according to reports, following a verbal encounter with local policemen Monday at the close of the Waterford extortion hearing.

Reports were spread that Lewis had been arrested for assaulting Sergeant Nelson S. Smith who was active in the apprehension of the trio recently jailed on charges of "shaking down" inn keepers by posing as federal authorities and demanding protection money.

At the conclusion of the hearing the trio consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lewis and Charles Garvin, yesterday, Lewis and Smith engaged in a heated argument but no action was involved sufficient to warrant an assault charge, authorities said.

It was charged during the hearing that the accused couple and their aide, Garvin, had extracted several thousand dollars from various innkeepers.

80 P. C. Of Canada Booze Goes To U. S.

Editor's Note:—Following is the second of series of stories from along the Canadian border, telling of the activities of rum runners. Others will follow daily.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
Windsor, Ontario, July 19.—Having leaped in the seven years since American prohibition became a law, from one of the smallest to the front rank of Canadian export centers, Windsor remains with a city of cash payments. Credit is almost an unknown quantity among the rum traders whose operations constitute the gravest menace to effective prohibition enforcement throughout the northeastern quarter of the United States.

In 1912, Canadian exports through Windsor aggregated a little less than $5,000,000. The 1926 exports were slightly more than $51,000,000. The figures are from the official records of the Windsor revenue office.

Business Code
Rum row's code of business ethics is epitomized by a crudely lettered placard displayed conspicuously in one of the principal waterfront eating places of the "exporters." In huge red letters against a glossy white background it proclaims: "We have an arrangement with the banks whereby we will cash no checks and they will sell no soup."

The Canadian federal and provincial governments realize approximately $20.00 revenue from every case of liquor which clears their ports. Because most of the American consignments are billed originally to non-American ports, it is impossible to determine from the official records what quantities of beer, ale, wines and hard liquors

FLYING OFFICIAL VISITS COOLIDGE

Rapid City, S. D. July 19.—A high flying official of the government breezed into Rapid City today to pay his respects to President Coolidge before continuing a 10,000 mile aerial trip of inspection.

He was Col. Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war. He is looking over state National Guard units and attending American Legion conventions in odd spots of the country between the two coasts.

It is not letting out a secret, "Mac" has actually flown his air transport about half the distance. Without saying a word to anyone, he spent from one to two hours at Bolling Field, Anacostia, D. C. for several months this spring learning to handle the pilot's stick and now he is a fully qualified flyer. He is dividing the pilot job on this trip with Captain R. G. Ervin, of the Army Air Service.

"Great Stuff"
"I'm winding up the first twelve months that I've had a plane at my disposal," said the colonel, "and my time in the air is about 300 hours, or 40,000 miles, it's great stuff."

MacNider already has visited New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota. From here he goes to Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Iowa, Washington, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and back to New York.

Two Score of Our Soldiers Besieged By Hundreds of Liberals—Rushing Rein- forcements to Their As- sistance.

Managua, July 19.—Rebel Nicaraguan troops are reported to have renewed their siege of the United States Marines holding Ocotal and there is apprehension here lest reinforcements on the way to relieve the garrison arrive too late.

Some two score of marines, under the command of Captain Hatfield, after having fought off a determined attack by General Sandino's rebels last Saturday, are now reported making a new effort to hold out against the new attacks.

Planes Sent Off
Aeroplane squadrons have been sent out to bomb the rebels and attempt to drive them off with machine-guns. One marine plane is reported to have been brought down by the rebels, but the pilot and gunner escaped.

The fighting began last Friday when the rebel General Sandino attacked Ocotal with four hundred men well armed, supported with six machine guns. At that time the garrison consisted of thirty-nine United States Marines and forty-seven members of the Nicaraguan constabulary. The defenders had only two machine guns.

Double Attack
A double attack was begun by the rebels, one directed against the Americans, the other against the Nicaraguan constabulary. The assault was furious and Sandino is reported to have inflamed his men by declaring that he wanted to "drink the Yankees' blood."

Despite the overwhelming odds against them the Americans and their allies withstood the attack without yielding an inch of ground. For seventeen hours the fighting continued.

Sandino sent a note to Captain Gilbert D. Hatfield, commandant of the garrison demanding the surrender of the Americans.

"Never Surrender"
Hatfield sent back the reply that "American marines never surrender." He added: "Even if we had no food and no water you would find us full of fight to the end. You will never take Ocotal until the last of us is dead."

The first news of the battle reached the outside world when two scout planes, following out their routine schedule, visited Ocotal.

Reported Battle
Perceiving that a battle was in progress they hastened back to Managua to report. American headquarters sent out immediately two bombing planes under command of Major R. E. Rowell. As soon as the planes reached the scene of the action the machine gunners directed a heavy fire against the rebel positions, meanwhile dropping heavy bombs.

Heavy casualties among the revolutionaries resulted. Arnoldo Ramirez Abaunza, jefe politico of the department in which Ocotal is located, who was wounded slightly in his left arm, reported that at one street corner he counted twenty-four dead.

Marine Killed
One marine, Michael A. Obleski, of Raquette, Pa., was killed, and Charles Sidney Garrison, of Hingham, Mass., was wounded seriously.

American general headquarters were informed that about 200 rebels were killed, mostly by the heavy bombing. Among them was Rufus Martin Sandino.

Half a dozen civilians were reported killed, including Senator Jose Maria Paganola.

There was a great deal of sniping on the part of Liberals living in Ocotal. The district is a hotbed of Liberal sentiment and Sandino has many supporters there.

It was said that more than 100 residents of the district joined the rebel forces.

Nicaraguan government officials praised highly the achievement of the small garrison as it was outnumbered more than four to one.

YOUTH FINDS BODY OF SLAIN TAXIMAN

Huntington, Quebec, July 19.—The body of a youth who apparently had been murdered was identified by authorities today as that of Adelard Bouchard, taxi driver of Lachine, Que.

The body was found by Willie Holm, a butcher's boy, when traveling along his meat wagon.

Almost simultaneous with this discovery, a road worker in Trout river on the international line was picking up various articles of female attire, including silk hose, a dress and undergarments, leading police to believe that a woman might have also been slain.

Others under treatment are: George Campton, 14, Yonkers; Mabel Murray, 19, Neponsett; Mrs. Florence Dazies, 44 and Leo Schutte, 20, Neponsett; Doris Sweet, 13, Neponsett and Mrs. Agnes Compton, 50, Yonkers, N. Y.

AVERT JAIL STRIKE.
New Haven, Conn., July 19.—By the simple expediency of washing out the ice box, what threatened to become a jail strike here was averted today. Prisoners in the city jail protested late yesterday against their food. Investigation disclosed a strong taint to the jail fare, hitherto unknown. It developed an attendant had washed out the icebox with a strong disinfectant, thus tainting its contents. Peace has been restored.

LARGE FUNERAL FOR E. F. DWYER

Solemn Requiem Mass At St. Bridget's Attended By Throng of Sad Friends.

For the sad purpose of paying the last public tribute of respect and affection to Edward F. Dwyer, an unusually large and representative assembly of local citizens from the North End and South End were present at St. Bridget's church at 9 o'clock this morning.

The funeral service was one of the most largely attended of any held at the church in a long period. Relatives, friends, neighbors and associates of Mr. Dwyer in his business and civic activities were in attendance in most unusual numbers to attest by their presence their regard and esteem for the valued friend who has passed on.

Solemn Requiem Mass The funeral was from the late home of the deceased, No. 30 Williams street, at 8:50. At the church a solemn requiem mass was celebrated. The pastor of the church, the Rev. C. T. McCann, was celebrant; Rev. Dennis F. Baker, pastor of St. Mary's church, East Hartford, was deacon, and Rev. John F. Casey, assistant pastor of Father Baker's church, was sub-deacon.

At the offertory Edward F. Taylor sang "Ave Marie" and at the close of the mass Mrs. Margaret Shea, organist at St. Bridget's church, sang "One Day Nearer Thee." As the body was being taken from the church Mr. Taylor sang feelingly "There's a Beautiful Land on High," the candle-lights were extinguished and the choir sang the altar attendants, and there were few dry eyes in the long line of mourners passing down the aisle.

At the cemetery The burial service was conducted by Rev. Father McCann, the Rev. Fathers Baker and Casey being also present. Delegations representing the Manchester Community Club and the Knights of Columbus were in attendance at the church service and at the cemetery. The pall bearers were John H. Gill, Edward J. Murphy, George H. Williams, D. J. Sullivan, M. J. Coughlin and John Shea.

Ontario's new moderation law, involving the Quebec government distribution system, has thus far failed to affect the Detroit market, according to the Windsor exporters. The law prohibits drinking in public places and forbids the sale of liquors to American citizens. Provisions which enable tourists to obtain thirty-day drinking passes, however, have thus far afforded an ample outlet for the small-lot trade, principally the ferry business. Freight shipments move directly from the breweries of Walkerville, Sandwich, Sarnia, and half a dozen nearby points without ever going into the Canadian bonding establishments. Government inspected stocks seldom move in the American trade. The government stamp testifies to adequate aging, while the direct shipments move without regard to that formality. In all other respects, however, the trade looks upon the goods as interchangeable.

Various Brands The government lists quite retail prices on sixty-eight brands of Scotch, Irish and Canadian whiskeys, thirteen brandies and cordials, twenty-seven gins, 164 wines and liquors, 128 varieties of beer and malt products. Schroeder and Schyler Barsac port sells for $1.00 a quart, and Canadian white sherry for seventy cents. Sauternes' Bordeaux white goes for eighty cents a quart. POLICE COURT

Mary Maeri of Lockwood street in the Homestead Park section, who was convicted in the Manchester police court on June 27 of keeping liquor with intent to sell was taken to jail today to work out her fine and costs. At the trial she pleaded guilty and through her attorney, William S. Hyde asked for ten days in order to raise the money. Judge Johnson allowed her this time but she failed to keep her word.

The Maeri's own the house they live in as well as another on Homestead street. For a number of years Ben Maeri, her husband, was employed by Cheney Brothers. JUST AS POLICY

The news article on another page, telling about the frequent receipt by the big Cheney silk concern of conscience money from persons who had gotten somebody's else pay envelope in addition to their own, contains the material for a little sermon. It sums up: It doesn't pay to try to be crooked when your natural tendency is to be honest. If you do try the shady game you find that you pay usury as well as principal in mental discomfort.

Crookedness is for crooked folks. There are some people—fortunately they constitute a small minority—who can be crooked and happy. Cheating and thievery is for them; they were probably born to it. All that they get, that way, is clear gain and nuts to them. Let them go to it—and keep out of jail as long as they can.

But the man or woman to whom self-respect is a native essential had best be almighty careful how he or she yields to a sudden temptation. He has a rotten time of it thereafter.

Those conscience money notes that come to the mill only tell their full story by inference. The miserable times put in by their writers can but be guessed at. Cutting out all preachment about abstract morality and the Ten Commandment, who wants to suffer ten thousand dollars worth for a forty dollar crooked grab?

COCK-SURE

Belatedly there comes to our attention an article published in one of the periodicals reviews recently on the surprising growth of athletic societies in American colleges and even high schools. A considerable number of such groups, it appears, have sprung into existence recently, bearing in many cases grotesque and, to many persons, shocking titles, such as the one, "Damned Souls," by which freethinkers of Rochester university calls themselves. Some of the literature fathered by these groups is of the most virulently anti-religious nature; and much of it is the work of boys and girls who have not much more than reached adolescence.

This is the natural, the well-nigh inevitable reply of one group of born extremists to the challenge of another group of born extremists represented by the people who induced the Tennessee Legislature to pass its celebrated anti-evolution legislation. The type of mind that would jam its religious convictions or its interpretations of morality down the throats of all mankind by force of law is precisely the same type of mind as that which jeers at all faith and all religion and terms all worshippers crack-pots and declares, as does one seventeen-year-old girl editor, that all religionists are persons "suffering from compound dislocation of the reasoning powers."

Of course it requires an enormous egotism for any child whose experiences of life have not been much more, in space of time, than the life of a butterfly, to cavalierly scrap the whole of sacred history with a "Tra-la-lal! Pooh!" But youth, when it thinks it is achieving freedom, is prone to be egotistical.

And in no way, moreover, does this egotism transcend that of the tolerant and hidebound religionist who, alone of all mankind, has been blessed by his creator with complete knowledge of the truth. The child atheist and the militant sectarian are cut off the same piece and the variation in the forms they have taken has been produced by the variance in the winds that have blown them.

the proposition that it did. Perhaps they never heard this: In all languages there are occasional words which, meaning one thing in one century, come to mean an extremely different thing in another century. In ancient Hebrew there was a word which stood for wave or billow. In the course of time that word came to mean, not a sea or a billow, but a fish. Translators knew the more modern meaning of the earlier times. They made the seventeenth verse of the first chapter of the book of Jonah read: "Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights."

Suppose the translators had written, as it may well have been set down in the ancient Hebrew, "Now the Lord prepared a great sea to swallow up Jonah." Would not the story then become a mere tale of adventure, with Jonah perhaps adrift on a spar, even possibly provided with a raft by the men who had cast him out of the ship? More than one shipwrecked man has been speared out of the belly of the sea after many days.

Would sophomore critics of the improbabilities then find in that one little story sufficient ground for denouncing the whole Bible as a mass of rubbish? And would fundamentalists be so very sure that Jonah was eaten by a whale.

DIRTY CLAMS

The succulent clam is an individual of small refinement in his mode of life. Like some humans he lives cleanly if his lines happen to fall in cleanly places. But he is a dirty feeder in a dirty harbor or cove. He recks not of sewage save to gobble it and grow fat on it.

Wherefore the United States Congress once upon a time passed a law prohibiting interstate commerce in clams unless the producer and shipper hold certificates of cleanliness—clam, not personal cleanliness—from their state board of health.

South-eastern Massachusetts produces many, many clams which go to the New York market. They are shipped, of course, by holders of Massachusetts certificates and are dug by holders of certificates. Now it has been discovered that some clam diggers, while devoting their daytime operations to hygienic beds, stealthily by night visit interdicted, sewage-ridden localities, particularly in the vicinity of Boston, and wrest therefrom many fat clams which they incorporate with their legal catches.

To stop this the chairman of the health commission had recourse to the device of cancelling the certificates of the offenders. Then, to the amazement of all decent citizens, lawyers for the dirty clam diggers succeeded in getting from the attorney-general of the state a formal opinion that the certificates, once issued, could not be revoked. The only comeback the health commission had, as to that, was to stop issuing any more certificates this year and next year none at all will be granted, it is declared. So the entire clam digging industry, so far as out-of-the-state markets are concerned, faces ruin; because a few filthy cheats want to play the hog and can get an attorney-general to back them up.

NO GLORY THERE

American airplanes, flying over a miniature battle line at Ocotul, Nicaragua, slaughtered the misguided Liberals of General Sandino, whose Liberalism had lately taken on much of the character of banditry. Three hundred Nicaraguans are dead, and one American Marine. There should be no longer any doubt in the minds of the Nicaraguan recalcitrants as to who is boss.

One does not expend a great deal of sympathy on persons whose ideas of patriotism extend to defining, with an army of a few hundred half armed and half clad "spigtoys" (the might of the United States, and incidentally to the grabbing of Americans' mines. But on the other hand one does not forget that the 300 men killed by the swooping bombers were human beings, sons of mothers, fathers of children; personalities with aspirations and hopes and indubitably a feeling that they were fighting foreign invaders.

Among the stricken fields on which the arms of the United States have achieved glories—Saratoga, Yorktown, Gettysburg, Bull Run, Wood, the Argonne—it is doubtful if Ocotul will gain a lasting and reverential place.

One bomb, dropped from a plane, is said to have killed thirty of Sandino's Nicaraguans. Somehow we have the feeling that we would about as soon have been among the thirty on whom it dropped as to have dropped it.

Meantime, one Marine is dead. No mine is worth the life of a marine.

DYING DOWN

There is no mistake about it—the American people have exhausted their first wild enthusiasm over trans-oceanic flights. The homecoming of the five conquerors of the Atlantic, yesterday, demonstrated that. The weather was against the reception of Byrd and his companions and of Chamberlin, but it would have taken something more than rain to have kept the New York crowds from going mad over Lindbergh. You can't burn the same powder twice—that's all.

Now it remains to be seen whether there will continue the same enthusiasm among capitalists over trans-continental commercial aviation that marked the first fortnight or so after Lindbergh's achievement. Byrd says he expects to see such service established within five years. But Byrd has the vision of a pioneer adventurer, not that of a business man.

There is no question about it—we Americans are prone to develop excitements verging close on hysteria. And sometimes they die down very quickly and quite flat. We shall be in a very much better position to guess at the future of over-ocean flying, a year from now, than we are today. If financial enthusiasm lasts that long we may be on our way.

COMMEMORATION

The state of Connecticut, its governor and certain members of a certain committee have received diplomas from the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition association. These historic documents have been filed in the state library. Perhaps twenty years hence somebody will run across them and exclaim, "What on earth are these things all about?" They ought to be carefully preserved, however, for they will presently be memory's only tangible link with the biggest washout on record.

New York, July 19—Last of the resorts to perpetuate the atmosphere of old Greenwich Village is Romany Marie's.

Here the stumps of candlesticks burn low upon rough board tables which bear the carvings of thousands of knives. Initials of the celebrated and the unknown dip in grooves and valleys across the surfaces. In one dark corner a lean young man with one of those clumps of beard patterned after Rudolph of "La Boheme" sits sketching in pastels while his blonde model plays an endless game of solitaire.

At each table wait those tiny cups of heavy Turkish coffee. Through a doorway, now and then, comes the flash of Marie's red-striped gypsy dress or the glint of heavy round earrings. A young pianist who won considerable fame last season plays a Brahms waltz on a venerable piano.

The bare wooden walls are heavy with paintings and sketches, some left by artists in payment for meals; some the gifts of the hundreds of painters who have come and gone.

From table to table goes the inevitable Marchand, one of the last picturesque figures of the village. He wears a bright gypsy sash, an old shirt and a comedy detective school badge. Beard and mustache have been trimmed a la Buffalo Bill and the incongruous costume is topped by a hat of rough rider vintage. He plays the comedy villain, now and then turning to the role of gypsy fortune teller when he flashes suddenly from his belt a tiny magnifying glass and to the light of a flickering candle, broods over the palm and fingers of a guest, making dire prognostications. Sometimes he adds a sinister touch to his prophesies by gory tales of palm readings that ended in suicide and murder. A perfect actor is Marchand, balancing well his port of mirth and horror; a fine actor and a student of human nature hidden here behind a dishwasher, waiter and coffee brewer.

Today, Marie's window looks definitely out across Washington Square at the 23-story skyscraper apartment which tells the story of the passing of Greenwich Village. It was in the old Marie's on Christopher street—and pieces of the same nature—that the hobbled hair vogue began. The world laughed then and coined the phrase "hobemians," but the village lived to see the whole nation go bobbed. Here first appeared smocks, sandals and other odd raiment. Again the world laughed. Today half the office girls in New York wear smocks and sandals have come in style and some out again. Here appeared peasant blouses, cravat, wicker dresses and a score of other fashions that later became popular. The village set many a style. Here, too, and at Polly's and along haunts of McDougall street appeared Tiny Tim, with his stock of "psychic candy." He would sell you candy to match your personality, or your aura, or your temperament. And he made a small fortune. When the village began to pass he went to Hollywood and carried the "soul candy" vogue to the motion picture capital. Someone told me that he had been seen in a fine limousine on Hollywood boulevard about a year ago. The latest gag on Broadway concerns an actor who appeared at the theater doorway after several days absence looking particularly wan. A friend stopped him. "You're looking pretty sick—what's the matter?" "Oh, I'm just recovering from a very bad case of 'Scotch'."

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 19.—There are many earnest souls who yearn for a third party movement which would give the nation's progressives and liberals a chance to express themselves politically, but three major factors hold them back: 1. It costs like blazes to organize and promote a national ticket, and third parties have an especially hard time raising cash. 2. The third party sentiment lacks a leader to head the ticket. 3. It is reasonably certain that a third party would stand no chance of victory in its first presidential campaign.

All these factors apply with equal force to the third party suggested by Dr. Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League, who threatens to lead the dry children of Democracy off on a bolt in case the unregenerate leaders nominate Governor Al Smith. The high cost of new parties is the most discouraging feature in the minds of the chronic third party men. If they could be sure of a healthy popular support and enough money to cover expenses, they would be able to find some sort of a candidate. Two Leaders Considered Borah and Senator Norris of Nebraska are the two men who stand out as the best candidates of a possible third party, but there is some question as to whether either would carry the banner. Borah probably wouldn't accept unless he felt there was some chance of winning. Norris is willing to fight a battle for progressivism at any and all times, but he has always avoided trying to set himself up as a leader, though he is the best loved of the progressives.

Some progressives, such as William Allen White, believe that there is no appreciable public sentiment in favor of progressive ideals, but most of them refuse to admit this and believe that a Moses is all that is necessary. The loss of the elder LaFollette was a terrific blow. Had LaFollette lived, many of his worshippers believe that he might have organized a third party which would have figured importantly in the next election. As it is, few of the 5,000,000 LaFollette voters of 1924 will be satisfied to vote for Coolidge or any but a very exceptional Democrat in 1928. A handful may vote for Coolidge, many would vote for Al Smith, but the majority would like a candidate of their own. If a third party should arise in the next year, which is unlikely, its platform will declare war on special privilege and government tainted by contact with the "big interests". Progressives are divided on prohibition, although most of their best leaders are dry, and it would be difficult to wet up all the liberals on either a red or dry plank. Some of the best "third party" thought was recently revealed in correspondence between William Allen White and Basil Manly of the People's Legislative Service. White asked why the people were "idea to the cause of reform" and displayed "this worship of stability, this tremendous timidity toward change." He recalled the good old days when proposed drastic reforms attracted public notice and often obtained legislative majorities. Manly replied that the need of the hour was "a new, liberal progressive organization." A new party wasn't necessary, he said, because the direct primaries left way for election of the right man. "What will grow out of this idea is uncertain, although it probably will have much support. Former Senator Robert L. Owen, for instance, has come out for a coalition of the Democratic party with the Republican progressives. Manly feels that Democratic leadership is in bad shape, but hopes that his proposed progressive movement would attract many of the rank and file.

CHAPTER LXXXV
It is possible that there may have been some funnier outfits in the grand guerre but Ambulance Company No. 339 of the 210th Sanitary Train of the 86th Division, must have at least come close to winning the ripe olive. This was an enlisted outfit (all brave, fearless boys who refused to wait for the draft)—collected in August, 1918. It was scheduled to take part in the Metz drive and the members, equipped with hatchets and iodine swabs, were all set for the great fray when the armistice caught them in Bol. l' Eveque. So, socially, this outfit was supreme. In spite of 9 o'clock closing orders, no worth-while place remained undiscovered. In Comber-sur-Loire, in Pouilly, and later on in Charnes-la-Cote and down in the LeMans area, the riots were perfect. The officers—all medics—were agreeable, being snuffed out and things were done. Along in March, 1919, the 27 regulation ambulances were received, a trifle late for duty, but nevertheless handy. And the gang, in which there were many great boys, continued in an even stronger tone. Stories of this outfit were innumerable but the best, perhaps, which illustrates the true character, concerned the morning in April, 1919 when the boys arrived in Brest. It so happened that they came in on the day Josephus A. E. F.

George Noville, Commander Byrd, Clarence Chamberlin, Bert Balchen and Bert Acosta about to leave the Macom and step ashore into the arms of a rain-dampened but nevertheless enthusiastic celebration.

Topeka, Kansas—Death defying automobile racers who want to use the public highways will have to "skirt" Kansas in the future. Attorney General W. A. Smith has notified all sheriffs to "enforce strictly" all traffic laws of the state including a restriction of driving over 40 miles per hour anywhere in the state.

The action of the attorney general is the result of the double tragedy near Council Grove, Kansas, where Samuel and Morris Klein, both of Chicago, were killed while racing a railroad train from Chicago to California.

HOWITZERS STAGE 'MUTINY' IN CAMP Private Fiedler Only One Caught Is Put In Guard-house—Officers Laugh.

"In Flanders Fields Where Poppies Grow, Between the Crosses Row on Row—"

By Staff Correspondent Camp Trumbull, Niantic, July 19—Minus most of its 67 officers who were "killed and buried" when "mutiny" broke out yesterday within the ranks, the 169th Infantry, C. N. G., was forced to undergo a complete "resurrection" before continuing with its intensive military program today.

The task of collecting all the identification markers required considerable "dangerous" work. Small groups of men darted here and there about the various tents in staff row and adjoining official tents. Very little noise was made as the men crept stealthily about the tents in the pale moonlight on their daring feat, which, if frustrated, might have proven far more disagreeable for the Manchester night-raiders. But as it turned out, all but four or five of the markers were swiped and hustled away to the "handers field" where they were buried with appropriate ceremonies. The result was that when many of the officers returned later, they were unable to find their own tents without difficulty.

When the signs were discovered staked out in neat rows early yesterday morning, even the strictest disciplinarian among the officers had to smile. When Colonel D. Gordon learned of the escapade, that same pleasant smile came over his face and he remarked: "That's a good joke. It's too bad that one of them was captured for now we will have to deal with him." Lieutenant Colonel Orville A. Petty was of the same opinion but both made it plain that there was a limit to this sort of procedure.

The unfortunate member of the Howitzer's nocturnal party was Private John Fiedler who was caught by Lieutenant DeLorenzo, the O. D. When placed under arrest, Private Fiedler had the two most important markers which the sergeant-providers, those of Col. Hunter and Col. Petty. The prisoner refused to tell what company he was from and so was marched to the guard house where he was detained throughout the night. While his captor is far from a serious matter, it means that "Lucky" Fiedler will have to do fatigue duty for some time.

When Private Fiedler was caught, the Howitzer men had practically finished their task of driving the tent signs into the ground and easily escaped before they could be rounded up. Private Leonard Finn was accosted by the O. D. but made his escape by pretending to be one of those dumb rookies and asking for directions as to where he would find the "skirmish line." He was directed elsewhere and made no delay in doing so. The same holds good for Privates Ed Copeland and Clayton Massey who emulated Nurni in making a dash for freedom when caught in the act of pulling a couple of the signs. A touch of humor was given to the situation when Private Allan Ellis, the ice man, dropped a marker to see only to have the O. D. trip over it in pursuing him.

Captain Allan L. Dexter of the Howitzer Company, says that if he catches any more of his men out of their tents after tea without a logical reason, he will make it uncomfortable for them: much more so than the grave digging was. The stunt performed by the Manchester soldiers is not original. It was done here last year when the 102nd Infantry encamped here, but it is also understood that they too played copycat. At any rate, the stunt was the talk of the camp yesterday morning and lent a touch of humor to the strenuous military program being carried out during the final week of the annual 15-day stay here.

Yesterday morning the entire regiment went through a fifteen-minute program of callisthenics following which it left camp for maneuvers. The First Battalion under Major Joseph R. Morrison was the first to leave the camp and had a platoon of the Howitzer Company attached to it under direction of Lieutenant Russell B. Hathaway. This body of men was supposed to represent the right flank of a much larger attacking force which was marching onto New London after capturing Saybrook. At a point on Durfee Hill just east of the Niantic River, the battalion met an imaginary enemy and went through appropriate formations attacking on a 400-yard front.

The Second Battalion, which includes Captain Herb Bissell's Co. G boys, under command of Major Clarence C. Scarborough, was next to leave camp and its destination was a secret except to Major Scarborough. The Third Battalion in command of Major Joseph P. Nolan, which included a platoon of the Howitzer Company, marched out third with orders that it would be on a destination to be announced while they were working out field programs on the route. Suddenly rifle shots split the silence. It was the advance guard of the Third Battalion, the blue army, being fired on by the outposts of the Second Battalion, the white army, immediately upon being fired on, the advance guard of the Third Battalion deployed until preparation could be made for the assault on the more or less impregnable position held by the defending army. Part of the front line of the defender's stronghold stretched across an old cemetery which contained the graves of many Revolutionary war veterans. For half an hour the battle waged furiously and the U. S. regular army officers who acted as umpires addressed the officers of each company telling of both their good and bad points. It was pointed out that the attacking force did not conceal itself after being fired on and also that the defending battalion made poor range estimation in firing upon the advancing army. The latter, however, was conceded to be the logical winner.

Yesterday afternoon, the chief event outside of parade of the first battalion was the baseball game between Company G and the Howitzer Company in the semi-finals. G won 6 to 1 mainly through the brilliant pitching of Giorgetti and the poor fielding of the Howitzer players. Edgar hit the only play to collect two hits and his team out-hit Captain Dexter's boys 6 to 3. One of the features of the somewhat one-sided game was the execution of a triple play by Captain Bissell's cohort, the second and third. Lieutenant Tedford, the other victim when Red Cervini lined to Giorgetti in the sixth inning.

Company G was first to score, Mantelli drawing a pass, stealing second, going to third on McCarthy's overthrow to second and scoring on a fielder's choice. Two more came in the third. With two batters out, Edgar doubled and came home when Jarvis missed Holland's fly directly into his hands. Holland took second on an error and scored later on Von Deck's single. Two more G tallies denied the plate in the fifth. Edgar hit the single and scored on Lieutenant Tedford's infield rap that McCavanaugh booted. The box score follows:

Table with columns for Company G (G) and Howitzer Co. (H) showing scores for Mantelli, Edgar, Holland, Giorgetti, Von Deck, De Han, Wren, Frey, Schibel, Connelly, McCarthy, Brennan, F. Brennan, Jarvis, Golas, Chartier, Tedford, Cervini, Tyler, Kasulki.

Two base hits, Edgar, stolen bases, Chartier, Connelly, Mantelli 2, Giorgetti, De Hahn, sacrifice hits, Connelly; struck out by Giorgetti 10, by Kasulki 6; base on balls off Giorgetti 2, off Kasulki 6. Tim-pire, Tommy, Mable, Williams hit. As a result of the victory, Company G is sure of playing in the finals against the winner of this quarter: Quartermasters Detachment, Companies F, C, K. The date for this game has not been announced by Captain Christopher Scaife, director of athletics here.

Work started today in the line of preparing for the visit of Colonel Lindbergh Wednesday. Strong tall stakes were put up on the inside of the parade field on which strong wire will be attached to hold back the crowd. This work was done by Corporal Fitzpatrick who was aided by Privates McCarthy, Phillips, Robinson, Glode, McCavanaugh, Quinn, Weir and Kearns from Manchester. Corporal Fitzpatrick showed himself to be quite a surveyor, the line of posts being straight as an arrow.

Private Maurice Jobert of Company G plans to go on a vacation to Canada after the encampment, it is understood but according to the advice he had better swap that Henderson motorcycle of his for a better one if he expects to make the trip safely.

Private Hansen, of Company D, Meriden, was kicked in the face by a horse drawing a machine gun during the manoeuvres yesterday but examination revealed that his injury was not serious.

Privates Merle Chamberlain and Joe Scranton of the Howitzer Company, had their hands full trying to lead a balky horse drawing a pair of Howitzer guns yesterday and every time the horse balked and refused to be hinged Sergeant Fin-negan had to be drafted into use.

Company G will go on guard duty this afternoon at 4:30 relieving Company A. The Manchester unit will take part in formal guard mounting before going on guard. The Officer of the Day will be Lieutenant Edgar M. Thompson. This means that G will be on guard duty Governor's Day.

Corporal James McCavanaugh of Company G did a fine job as instructor under Lieutenant Quish in the automatic rifle school last week, Captain Bissell announced.

Robert Fitzpatrick, one of the Manchester visitors here Sunday met with a peculiar accident during the guard mounting ceremonies. He undertook to pet a gray mare who objected to Bob's mode of affection and gently placed her hind feet in Bob's stomach giving him a 15-foot aerial ride. Fortunately, Bob was none the worse for his experience.

In the boxing bouts last night, Private Pat McCavanaugh of Co. G lost a decision to Private Kudla of Company D, Meriden, after claiming a foul and dropping to the floor in the third round. It was the opinion of the majority that McCavanaugh was fouled but Referee Scaife saw it otherwise. The decision was booted long and loudly. Captain Bissell and Lt. Tedford, the judges, disagreed. Tedford voted for McCavanaugh.

CADDIES ON STRIKE Terryville, Conn., July 19.—Authorities were forced to take a hand today after the boys had picked the entrances to the club and roughly handled several would-be strikebreakers. The caddies "walked out" rather than stand a reduction from 50 cents to 30 cents per pound. Members of the constables office were called today to protect the new caddis.

Birmingham, Ala.—Arrested for violation of the liquor law, W. H. Bridwell was held into court and fined $100. He paid it, found himself broke and wired his wife for money for railroad fare home. Her answer from their Georgia home was: "Walk, and when you get tired, run." Bridwell started walking.

Cheney Brothers Find Honor Among Most Men

This Story Proves That Even Thieves Have a Conscience—It All Strengthens Faith in Fellow Men.

"There's honor among thieves" And that doesn't mean necessity that one thief honors another. This story proves that some thieves are honest, and therefore, eventually honorable.

When Cheney Brothers paid their 4,300 employees with cash instead of by check, errors in accounting and in the paying came as often as being human makes necessary. In the great many times that a paymaster gave pay envelopes to the employees there were chances for mistakes. And naturally mistakes were made.

It has chanced, many times, but not at frequent intervals, that someone received some-one's else pay in addition to his own. Cheney Brothers, of course, were the losers. The man or woman who kept a weekly wage that was not his or hers was, of course, a thief. In the thousands of other business transactions made weekly by a firm as large as Cheney Brothers office were called today to protect the new caddis.

with the firm on the short end are numerous. Thieves again enter here. Money rightfully belonging to the firm was willfully taken. But, sooner or later, the honesty, and moral sense of right and wrong, which is deep seated in 99 per cent of the humans, takes effect. Once every eight months on an average some one person who has taken money wrongfully from Cheney Brothers returns either the whole sum or as generous a part as the person can afford at the time. An anonymous letter is usually addressed to the firm or some one member of the Cheney family saying that the money enclosed was not received honestly. This "conscience" money is a source of great satisfaction to members of the firm of Cheney Brothers. They are reassured in the confidence they have placed in mankind's honesty. No doubt, anyone of the Cheneyes would shake the hand of the author of such an anonymous letter rather than seek to punish him.

There Are No Profits in This Business

That's a fact! There are no profits, as that term is generally used, to be tucked away in somebody's pocket at the end of a prosperous year.

The money which this Company receives from subscribers for their telephone service goes for wages, to some five thousand people in this State; for maintenance, to keep the plant in good condition; for taxes, to the towns and cities, the State, and the Federal Government; and as a return to the nearly 6,000 investors whose money has been invested to build the telephone property.

Any surplus goes into the general reserve which provides a margin of safety for the business. And that's all.

So when you use your telephone, think of it in its true light, as a service provided for the convenience of the people of this State in their social and business life. The rendering of a prompt, reliable, courteous telephone service to the people of Connecticut, at as low rates as will permit of a fair return on the value of the property, brings profit to all whom it serves. But that is the only profit.

The real value of your telephone service should not be measured by what it costs, but by what it does for you.

SCREENS FOR THE CAR MAY BE DEMANDED

Bites of Insects Cause Accidents Says Hartford Insurance Company.

Bees, wasps and other "authoritative" insects have become such an annoyance to motor operators that a Hartford insurance company has asked the state motor vehicle department whether it would be legal to use screen in automobile windows as protection against such assaults.

A reply by Commissioner Robbins B. Stockel states that he is against the practice of screening a car, although "it might not be held illegal unless the screens can be construed as obstructing the sight of the operator."

"It seems obvious," the commissioner says, "that the danger of distraction of attention by reason of a bee or a wasp is much less than would be occasioned by having an immovable screen in the window of a car."

In explanation he says that "during the summer it is the practice to run with the left hand window open, which makes the signal system possible with a minimum of delay, and to interfere with that to any marked degree would, in my opinion, make the hand signal much less valuable."

Another safety factor pointed out by the commissioner is that "in the event of an accident the less the persons in the car are closed in the better chance they have to get out."

The insurance company brought the matter to the attention of the department after it had learned that it has been seriously proposed to put screens in car windows because of serious accidents which have resulted when car operators have been annoyed or attacked by stinging insects.

Jungle Breath

Illustrated by Paul Kroesen

ATTEMPTS have been made on the life of ELISE HARBERRY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE in west central Brazil. She has escaped harm due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an ex-prisoner of war chemist, is trying to learn the reason for the strange enmity for Elise.

Living near Porto Verde is one GAYLORD PRENTISS, a strange and forbidding character, who has evinced a hatred for Elise. TISKY, Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped. A native reporter Prentiss has been seen with the baby. The trail leads into the jungle. Calamity overtakes in pursuit. Native trackers are injured or desert. The three Americans. Their white friends are fever victims and are left with a friend to die.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerged from the jungle. They came to the outskirts of a strange city, resembling an old town. Here they were made prisoners. They discovered the reason for the enmity. CARLOS DALBENTARA, whom they had known as an engineer but he is a doctor. The ruler of the city decides to marry Elise and to put Vilak and Nunnally to death. They are to be tortured at the feast given to witness the tortures of other victims. He has succeeded in cutting half way through his bonds when a friendly Indian slips him a dagger.

little. "Batalagos is wise. Batalagos is very wise. Batalagos well remember. If Batalagos breaks his word, quick as the lightning will the white man kill." Slowly they moved between rows of sullen-visaged idols to the central door. They reached it; halted. The chief waddled through the doorway. A shout of joy went up from the worshippers, changing to a murmur of astonishment and dismay as the two white men emerged from the temple and took places beside him.

He clambered awkwardly upon the stone and fell to his knees. A streak of crimson appeared atop the red mountain which the temple faced. Batalagos began a monotonous chant, flinging out his arms and striking his head against the stone. In a few moments the entire eastern horizon was flooded with red. The chief arose and clambered down from the stone. His heavy foot touched the floor; he began his waddling return to the court. Vilak was waiting behind a scowling idol. He took a noiseless step forward, caught the chief's arm. Batalagos turned, swiftly recognized his captor and then saw the old man with drawn dagger approaching from behind another idol a few feet away. He was about to scream for help, but the quick descent of Vilak's free hand checked him.

Cut salt pork in dice and fry until a light brown. Add prepared onions and carrots and saute in boiling water to cover vegetables. Cook, covered for 30 minutes. Add peas and potato and more boiling water and simmer about 20 minutes longer, until vegetables are tender. In the meantime melt butter in a pan and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Strain the water in which the vegetables were cooked in the sauce and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly with fingers of hot toast covered with grated cheese.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

"There are two streets in every town that will indicate the difference between the only two social levels which America knows. We like to think here that there are no social classes in this country, and in the European meaning of the word there are not. The humblest man rises to the highest place. The man in the cabinet may see his on sitting in the cabinet. But this does not mean that the man in the mine and the mine owner hobnob over their cigars after dinner, nor that their wives exchange social courtesies. They do not. The mine owner is on one level—the mine worker on another.

"So these two streets. One is a tree-lined avenue where our esteemed and prominent citizens live, and the other is a neat bungalow-lined street where the respectable fellow townsmen have their homes. The people on the avenue and the people on the street do not mingle. Yet these levels are not fixed. One's position in a class is more or less fixed. But one's place on a level is not. One may move from level to level. The owner of a bungalow may see it and move to the avenue, and his children may forget that they ever lived elsewhere. All that is required is that she shall have enough money to buy the mansion. NATURALLY THEN, ANY STREET DWELLER IS AMBITIOUS TO CHANGE HIS LEVEL FOR HIS CHILDREN."

THREE MEASURES TO REMOVE BLACKHEADS By Mme. Anne Gerarde To remove blackheads, which usually come in the coarse pores around the nose and on the chin, there are three steps to be taken. First—Each night dissolve a pinch of borax in a glass of lukewarm water. Dip a soft complexion brush into the lotion and brush the face and neck, softening the skin containing blemishes. Second—Apply some good blackhead eradicator or cleansing cream. Third—Mix two ounces of linoleum green soap with two ounces of distilled witch hazel. Cover the face and let mixture stay on a few minutes, then wash off. If it is too irritating to the afflicted surface, use it only every other day. But if you can stand the smarting, this is the best treatment in the world. Apply cold cream afterwards. Only the most persistent treatment will prevent blackheads from returning.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE FOUND TO RUN THROUGH FAMILY By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN There seems to be no doubt that high blood pressure is frequently a prominent sign in members of the same family. In families in which there is a strong element of this kind, Dr. James P. O'Hare says that parents should guide their children towards the less strenuous walks of life and advise them against excessive mental and physical exertion, excessive ambition and obesity. This disease, like others that seem to have an hereditary basis, might be eliminated if marriages were arranged according to physical conditions and not for emotional reasons. Dr. O'Hare suggests that in mild cases it is frequently just as well not to inform the patient of his high blood pressure since it may disturb him, but merely to suggest that he slow down the pace of his existence. It is well recognized that all of us today are living at a much faster rate than formerly. The level of the blood pressure at any time is the result of the condition of the heart, the thickness of the blood, the degree of hardening of the arteries and the degree to which the veins may be dilated or constricted. The modification of any one of these factors will, of course, influence the blood pressure. Physicians arrange to modify them by modifying the routine of the patient's life.

Home Page Editorial SIT STRAIGHT AND GET WELL. Olive Roberts Barton A certain woman had "lost" her health, and being one of the fortunate few who may indulge their indispositions, she had spent years in the wake of specialists, watering places, baths and sanitariums. And still she ailed. She didn't imagine she was ill. She was ill! She had headaches, terrible, unbearable ones; she was nervous, tired and dispondent; she had pains all through her; she couldn't sleep. One day she sprained her knee. She was roughing it on a western ranch this time trying to scare away the hoodoo of ill health by fresh air and sunshine. There was no doctor near except a little wizened old half-breed who lived in the nearest town some miles away. They hauled her in a Ford over a white alkali road, found the "doctor" playing poker at a gas station and smelling of fumes which were not of the remotest relation to gasoline. He waited a cash in before going to his office to attend to his patient. With a few dexterous twists and pulls, the knee was set, and a few directions given. "Good work, doctor!" said the wife of the ranch owner, when the patient was safely ensconced in the car again. "You see she's sort of an invalid and we're trying to take good care of her. She's been all over the world and still she's sick. Too bad this had to happen. "Tell her to sit up straight and she will not be long sick," said the doctor with a grin. "Straight people don't get sick." The invalid is about cured now. She decided to follow the little old fellow's advice. None of the specialists had told her the real truth. Her posture was wrong and she had suffered the tortures of the condemned as a result. I pass it along to those in search of health. "Straight people don't get sick!" might be good aviom to do in cross-stitch and hang over our doorways.

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE WOODS

by Gilbert Patten

Silently opening the flap, Lockwill stepped outside. Then he summoned his courage, dashed round to the side of the tent, and seized the prowler.

MASSING CHENEY CLERICAL FORCE

Mill Offices Being Centralized Leaving Only Productive Employees In Plant.

A process of centralization of clerical offices is under way in the plant of Cheney Brothers here and will eventually remove nearly all non-productive employees from the plant proper to the Main office and buildings adjacent used for office purposes. The Main office building is at present undergoing several changes to accommodate the new influx of employees from all the mills of the plant.

For many years, practically from the beginning of the various mills, the most of the clerical duties connected with the operations in each individual mill were transacted right in that mill. Timekeeping offices, payroll clerks, lay-out men, stenographers, chart and statistical clerks, whose work is clerical in character, to the Weaving Mill were housed in office rooms of the Weaving Mill.

Under the centralization plan all these clerks will be located at the Main office, wherever it is physically proper and possible to do so. The new plan allows for a greater saving in time between the various processes of figuring which different operations call for. It also saves a large amount of floor space throughout the mill, or will save it when the centralization has been completed. Eventually it is possible that the mills will house only the productive employees, someone in the various departments to care for time tickets, the foremen's and superintendents' desks.
