

HARTFORD CHEERS LINDY ON ARRIVAL

Arrives At Brainard Field At 2:17 Escorted By Govern- nor Trumbull—Crowd of 30,000 Greets Him.

Hartford, Conn., July 20.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 2:17 this afternoon from Mitchell Field, Long Island, on the first stop of his nation-wide tour of the 48 states.

He circled over the field for a few minutes and then executed a perfect landing. He was escorted to the field by the "Flying Governor" John H. Trumbull of Connecticut who had taken off from Niantic to meet the "Spirit of St. Louis" and its gallant pilot.

30,000 at Field

A crowd estimated at 30,000 was milling about the landing field but under the safe herding of police and militiamen as Lindbergh had notified authorities here he would not attempt to land unless his field was clear.

Thousands upon thousands were strung out for blocks clear from the field to the state capitol to witness the parade of nine official cars which was to follow the brief speaking program at the field.

The welcoming committee got underway immediately after Lindbergh had landed.

The nine cars which filed slowly down the solidly packed two miles of cheering humanity were occupied by the highest state and local officials together with civic dignitaries and veterans organization leaders.

Those In Cars

The first car was occupied by Col. Lindbergh, Governor Trumbull, Acting Mayor Houghton Bulkeley and State Senator Edward N. Allen who formed the official escort of honor.

Succeeding machines bore Lieut. Gov. J. Edwin Brainard, ex-Governor Marcus H. Holcombe, Congressman E. Hart Fenn, Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken, Jr., Executive Secretary Edward L. Kelley, Samuel M. Stone, D. H. Kehoe, Lindbergh's personal aide and H. H. Skerrett, Jr., chairman of transportation.

Aviation Commissioners Hiram Percy Maxim, James E. Simon, William J. Galvin, Clifford S. Bourn, Sidney Holt, Charles F. Devenborn, Major William Malone, William H. Putnam, chairman of finance committee; Emory A. Smith, William H. Corbin, Benedict M. Holden and various city officials. State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, State Commissioner of Finance Edward F. Hall, Lieut. James E. Breslin, representing the American Legion; James F. Daley, Veterans of Foreign Wars; John E. Havens, United American Veterans; and Major Thomas J. Bannigan of the United States Veterans Bureau.

Lindbergh was to rest for several hours this afternoon prior to the banquet exercises this evening when Secretary of Commerce, Gov. Trumbull, Mayor Bulkeley and Col. Lindbergh will address the assembly. After an informal tour of the city tomorrow, Col. Lindbergh will top off for Boston.

FLIES OVER CAMP

Niantic, July 20.—For nine minutes this afternoon nearly 10,000 persons were thrilled when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh flew over the Camp Trumbull reservation where the 16th Infantry, C. N. G., is making its annual two weeks' encampment. Colonel Lindbergh circled over the camp four times and came down to an altitude of 50 feet or less on three different occasions.

For a time it appeared that he might land. Intense excitement prevailed. There were loud bursts of applause as Lindy swept toward the crowd. Hope that the intrepid trans-Atlantic flyer might land was "let when the message he planned to drop as a greeting to the 16th Infantry caught on the rudder. Evidently the flyer did not realize this for he did not land. Lindy arrived over the field at 1:51 and departed at exactly 2:00. Governor Trumbull arrived at 10:00 a. m. to review the regiment and took off at 1:48 in a plane piloted by Major Ladd.

The chief reason why Lindbergh did not land probably was because of so doing he would have established a precedent disadvantageous to him in his 78-stop tour of the country and over many National Guard reservations. His failure to land was not recorded with disappointment inasmuch as it had been generally predicted Hartford would be his first stop. He was also behind schedule when he flew over Niantic. He left Mitchell field at 12:40. The sky was somewhat overcast but the wind was favorable. As Lindy circled the field here he stuck his head out of the window of his plane and waved to the crowd.

COUPLE STARVE ON HONEYMOON

Steal Some Food in New Britain and Caught—Get Suspended Sentence.

New Britain, Conn., July 20.—Love found a way for David Johnson, 21, and his betrothed, Grace Patterson, 16, today but it was the way to jail. They had rudely discovered that some things besides love were required by an empty stomach and resorted to robbery. Spending their last funds for a marriage license, the couple stated that after a day of fasting they felt the urge to eat and selected the home of De Witt Riley, Ruswin road, for the ceremony.

Under the cover of night, Johnson boosted his fiancée in an open window and the girl emerged with eggs, canned fruits and other food. The eggs were consumed raw.

Later apprehended, the couple admitted their guilt but were shown the mercy of the court when arraigned today and escaped with a thirty-day suspended sentence and a bit of fatherly advice.

WORLD WAR SHAFT TO BE DEDICATED

New Britain to Lay Corner- stone of $165,000 Mem- orial This Evening.

New Britain, Conn., July 20.—Amidst impressive ceremonies, the cornerstone of New Britain's $165,000 World War Memorial will be laid this evening at seven o'clock by Mayor Gardner C. Weld in the presence of a distinguished audience.

State and city officials will participate together with gold star mothers and fathers, ex-service men and women and thousands of spectators.

The monument to the city's hero dead, drawn from plans and sketches by H. Van Buren Magonigle of New York, who designed the $1,700,000 Liberty Memorial in Kansas City, will be the largest of its kind in the east.

90 Feet High.

A mighty shaft, ninety feet high will rise from a huge circular base which will carry a chain of bronze tablets, each tablet bearing the individual names and service records of the 125 veterans from New Britain who gave their lives.

The platform on the base will accommodate more than 2,000 people when completed and will be used for public gatherings of a patriotic nature. The shaft will be draped in the stars and stripes and surmounting its tip will stand two immense eagles of stone, fourteen feet high and ten feet wide. The monument will be illuminated at night for miles.

Principal Speaker.

The principal speaker at the cornerstone exercises this evening will be Rev. Dr. Ozora S. Davis, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary and moderator of the Congressional churches of America, who was formerly pastor of the South church in this city.

The church is being paid for through funds made available by municipal taxation.

"PUBLIC BE DAMNED" OUR STATE'S POLICY

So Writes Stamford's Mayor In a Strong Letter to Governor Trumbull.

Stamford, Conn., July 20.—"The 'Public be Damned' policy of the State of Connecticut is intolerable," so declared Mayor Alfred Phillips in a strong letter forwarded to Gov. John H. Trumbull and published here today in which the mayor went to considerable lengths in a stinging criticism of the attitude of the state highway commission in conducting its road work here.

Mayor Phillips declared that not only had the supervisors of road construction here torn up the entire highway along a stretch of the Boston post road without providing adequate detours, but had refused to all the detours, but had exceedingly discouraged at all times and contributed to a dangerous traffic menace by blocking the streets with their equipment regardless of citizens' rights or safety.

The mayor further added that the highway commission had not even shown him the courtesy of replying to a long telegram of protest which sent the commission several weeks ago.

TRANS-OCEAN AVIATORS GET FLYING CROSS

Byrd and Noville Honored By U. S. Navy—Balchen to Prepare For South Pole Trip.

New York, July 20.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and Lieut. G. O. Noville, the only two navy officers among the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane America, were the proud possessors today of the Distinguished Flying Cross of the Navy.

The medals were presented at the city's dinner in their honor last night.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who pinned the medals upon the two aviators, explained that the honor could not be conferred upon the other honor guests, including Clarence D. Chamberlin, because they are not navy officers.

Have Quiet Day

This was a quiet day for the air heroes.

Commander Byrd is engaged in writing a scientific account of the flight which will be submitted to the National Geographical Society. There will be other reports of a technical nature.

Commander Byrd is anxious to begin active preparations for his flight over the South Pole and has declined a score of invitations to be honor guest at functions and to lecture throughout the United States.

Balchen to Leave

Lieut. Bernat Balchen, a member of the America's crew, who will accompany Byrd on the polar flight, will sail for Holland on August first to obtain from the Fokker plant in Amsterdam the gigantic tri-motored plane which will be used. After a few test flights, Balchen will pilot the plane to Sandefjord, Norway, from which port it will be brought to Norfolk, Va., on the 16,000-ton whaling ship Larsen.

The Larsen will proceed to San Pedro, Calif., where it will pick up Commander Byrd and the other members of the expedition. They then will sail for the edge of the antarctic ice barrier where the flight will begin.

BRISTOL IN THROES OF RABIES SCARE

Dozen Persons Taking Cure After Being Bit By Dog; Serum Gives Out.

Bristol, Conn., July 20.—With the Health Department's depleted store of rabies serum replenished by hurried assistance from New York, more than a dozen children and adults were taking the Pasteur treatment here today after the short reign of terror yesterday when a mad dog ran muck snapping at everybody in its path.

The animal, a three-months-old police dog owned by Mrs. William Lugg, was finally cornered by Dog Warden Thomas Ryan and killed but not before Ryan himself had been bitten.

Other Victims.

Other victims attacked include, Charles L. Gordon, treasurer of the Bristol Trust Co., his 14-year-old son, Sedgewick and Mrs. Leon Case who was bitten when she attempted to prevent the animal from attacking several children.

Children bitten include John Bechwitz, 10; Mary Reed, 12; and Dorothy Wilson, 11, of Youngstown, Ohio, a visitor here.

Watching Animals.

An effort is being made to determine others who were bitten in order that all may be given immediate treatment.

A close watch was instituted today for evidences of the disease in other animals with the intention of forestalling any possible epidemic. It is not known whether or not the dog attacked, other animals before slain.

GET LIQUOR TIPS FOR BOUT TICKETS

Box Office Men Say They Are Getting Many Bottles of Ex- cellent Scotch.

New York, July 20.—While speculators continued to market admission pastebords to the Dempsey-Sharkey hostilities tomorrow night, United States Commissioner Cotter was told today by Joseph Boynton, chief ticket seller of Madison Square Garden, that liquor, cigars and tips from pleased patrons were the only premiums retained at the box office for tickets to the fight.

United States Attorney Charles A. Tuttle, conducting the federal hearing into alleged fight ticket gouging activities, asked Boynton if he got many bottles of Scotch for the bout.

"You bet I did and it is good stuff, too," Boynton replied.

Boynton said the tips ranged from a cigar or a dollar to cases in which men buying hundreds of dollars worth of tickets added ten per cent as a gratuity for good seats.

Tickets for the fight, he stated, were sent to agencies in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Buffalo and other cities to be sold at face value, and also to the regular agents in New York.

15,000 SOLDIERS IN VIENNA TODAY

To Preserve Order As Vic- tims of Red Riots, Are Buried.

Vienna, July 20.—Nearly 15,000 soldiers and police including the newly created gendarmarie were on duty throughout Vienna today to prevent disorders during the funeral of sixty-one Socialists who were killed during street fighting last Friday. There were ten other dead whose funerals were not held today in connection with the public function.

Today's public funeral was conducted by the municipality, which is under control of the Socialists.

Thousands of persons filled the streets through which the long line of hearse was to pass. The police were under orders to prevent concentrations where inflammatory speeches might be made.

Following the services the bodies were to be taken to the municipal crematorium for burning. Only members of the families of the victims, officials of the Socialist party and representatives of the municipal government were admitted to this ceremony.

Final Services.

The final service was to start at 2 o'clock and all industry in the city was instructed to cease operations for fifteen minutes from that hour in tribute to the memory of the dead.

The city has returned to normal and all the workers have returned to their posts. There is little left to mark the tragic happenings of the past week save the wrecked Palace of Justice and the presence of soldiers and extra police in the streets.

Ferdinand Passed Away At 2 O'Clock This Morning After Long Illness From Cancer—Queen Marie and All Members of Royal Family Except Prince Carol at Bed- side When End Came—His Last Moments Pathetic; Prince Michael Proclaimed Less Than 12 Hours After- wards—Reports Say Marie Will Be Real Ruler.

Bucharest, July 20.—Prince Michael becomes the "baby king" of Rumania this afternoon, less than 12 hours after the death of King Ferdinand.

Prince Michael, accompanied by Queen Marie, his grandmother and his mother, Princess Helen, wife of the former Crown Prince Carol, and Prince Nicholas, arrives in Bucharest from Sinia at three o'clock.

Members of the government will greet the prince at the Kotorocin station where a royal procession will form. The "baby King" will drive in state to Parliament where he will be proclaimed king and a Regency Council will be confirmed.

Officers and troops will be marshalled before the "baby king" and take the oath of allegiance to him.

To Be Installed

After the members of the Regency Council, which will hold power until Michael becomes of age, have greeted their king, the little ruler will be installed in the royal palace.

The body of King Ferdinand will remain in Sinia tonight and will be brought to Kotorocin station, Bucharest, tomorrow on a special train, the Cabinet accompanying it.

School children will line the route, attired in mourning and throwing flowers before the train as it proceeds.

The body will lie in state in the royal palace tomorrow and on Friday the public will be permitted to view the body.

On Saturday, after brief church services, the body will be taken on a special train to Kurtea de Argeos where burial will be in the royal mausoleum, near the graves of King Carol and Queen Elizabeth.

Bucharest, Rumania, July 20.—Following a long illness from cancer, King Ferdinand, of Rumania, died at the royal palace at Sinia at 2:15 o'clock this morning. Queen Marie and all the other members of the royal family except former Crown Prince Carol were at the bedside.

Carol, who renounced the right to succession because of marital troubles, has been living in self-imposed exile in Paris.

It is probable that a regency will be appointed to reign for the time being.

Pathetic Sight

The scene in the death chamber was a pathetic one.

Last night the dying king wept continuously, falling intermittently into unconsciousness. His weakness was so great that he could scarcely speak although he tried to do so. His lips moved and Queen Marie bent over in an effort to hear what he wished to say, but the murmurs were so weak she could not understand them. It is believed that Ferdinand spoke of his absent son Carol whom he wished to see before he died.

For weeks the king had been wasting away and was little more than a skeleton when he died.

Long Time Ill

Although Ferdinand had been suffering from a malignant growth for a long time his condition did not become serious until last year when Queen Marie was visiting the United States. A hurry call was sent to her to return home.

In the meantime specialists were summoned to Bucharest from Paris. Radium treatment was administered and the king responded temporarily, but later his condition became worse.

Within the past few weeks Ferdinand sank rapidly and his death was expected.

Parliament was convening today, prepared to administer the oath of regency to the Council of Regents when the news of the king's death was transmitted officially.

Regency Council

The regency council, which will rule the country during the minority of Prince Michael, is constituted of Patriarch Miron, Chief Justice Busudjan, of the Supreme Court and Prince Nicholas.

However, it is believed here that steps will be taken to revise this council and to give Premier Bratianu and the Minister of War places in the regency.

Measures are understood to have been taken to prevent the entry of Prince Carol into Rumania.

Thus far there have been no public demonstrations, although crowds have gathered about the royal palace in Sinia.

Ready for Emergency

Soldiers in the Bucharest garrison are being held in quarters in the event of an emergency.

Only two of the Bucharest newspapers issued extra editions on the king's death. The Dimineata and Universal issued extras announcing the death of the king and calling on the nation to give its loyalty to the new king and the regency.

KING FERDINAND KNEW THAT DEATH WAS NEAR.

Bucharest, July 20.—King Ferdinand knew yesterday that death was at hand.

The king's last official function was carried out yesterday when he conferred with Premier Bratianu and was advised that the Bratianu government had a safe majority in the new Parliament.

Last of Hohenzollerns

King Ferdinand, of Rumania, was the last member of the House of Hohenzollern to occupy an important throne. He was perhaps the most unhappy member of that once reigning house.

Although the Rumanian throne is hereditary, passing from father to son, Ferdinand was elected, not born to the throne. Born in 1857, the nephew of King Carol of Rumania, Ferdinand was designated by the Rumanian Senate in 1893 the crown prince and heir to the throne. His selection was approved later by the Rumanian Chamber of Deputies.

Ferdinand was the hand-picked selection of a coterie of politicians who, at the end of the Nineteenth Century, were in power in Rumania, and during the years prior to his accession to the throne he was dominated completely by these politicians. The domination followed Ferdinand through his years as reigning sovereign, and was one of the unhappy influences in his life.

Prince's Statement

Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the Rumanian throne to reside in Paris, said recently of King Ferdinand: "My father, when he was made heir to the throne, never allowed me to think for myself, and even to this day he takes long times in making decisions, for he is inclined to ponder and consult."

Prince Ferdinand married Princess Marie, of Saxony-Coburg, and Gotna January 10, 1893, and thus contracted another dominating influence. It has been no secret that the queen has been one of the strongest forces behind the Rumanian throne since Ferdinand's and her accession to the throne in 1914.

The king's rule has been fraught with internal strife and dissension, and the first four years of his reign were the holocaust of the World War. His country began to approach bankruptcy in 1914, and his death, Ferdinand always has been described as a mild-mannered, kindly man, who has lived under overshadowing influences which have made his life an unhappy one.

Since last December he has been suffering from cancer of the throat, the question of his death has been one of time.

Prince Hears News

Paris, July 20.—Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne of Rumania for the love of a woman, hopes to be permitted to return to Bucharest to attend the funeral of his father, King Ferdinand.

The prince so informed the International News Service today, when at 11:45 a. m., seven hours after the death of the king, he received from the International News the first information of his father's death.

"My God! What's the news?" queried the prince, as the International News Service correspondent was shown into the salon of the prince's villa at Neuilly.

"There has been a swarm of journalists outside the house all morning and I thought something was the matter," said the prince. "I tried to get in touch with the Rumanian legation but they didn't answer the telephones."

Greatly Excited

The correspondent then told the prince of his father's death.

Walking to and fro excitedly with perspiration standing on his brow, and lighting frequent cigarettes and stamping them out as frequently, the prince was extremely agitated.

"Will you go back?" queried the correspondent.

"I will await word from my family," said the prince, "and I will certainly go to the funeral unless they tell me not to. I think I will be allowed to enter the country."

The prince said that on last Saturday he had seen his sister, Elizabeth, wife of the ex-king of Greece. "She had been receiving advice from Bucharest and told me Father

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (34) Burke and Wills

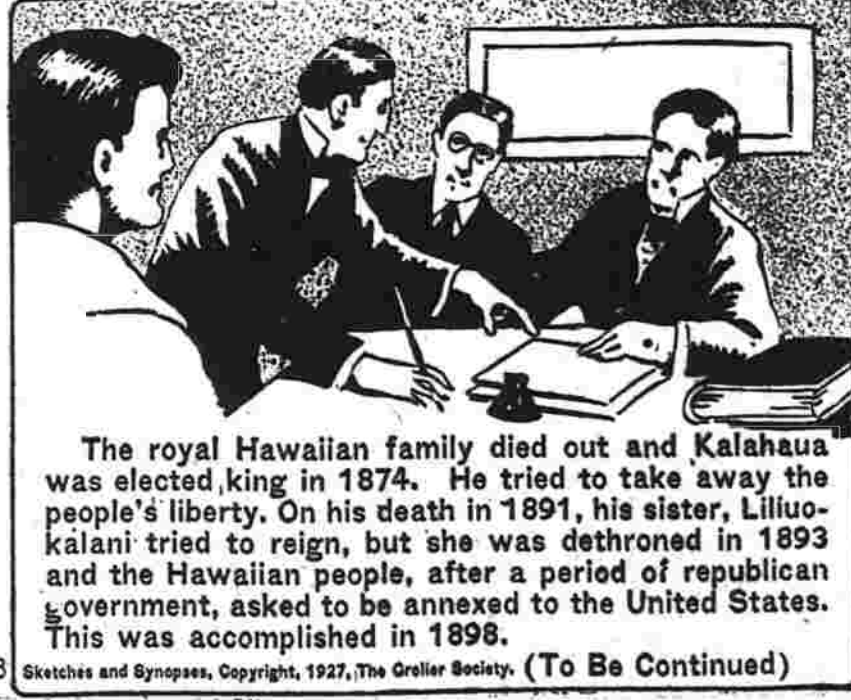

The man who first found the beauties of Australia was the man who discovered the wonders of "the fairy isles of the Pacific," the Hawaiian Islands. The man was Captain James Cook who reached Hawaii in 1778.

Another Britisher, George Vancouver, who also explored British Columbia, taught the Hawaiians how to raise cattle and build boats.

In Honolulu stands this statue of Kamehameha, first king of the United Hawaiian Islands, ruler by force of arms in 1790.

The royal Hawaiian family died out and Kalahau was elected king in 1874. He tried to take away the people's liberty. On his death in 1891, his sister, Liliuokalani tried to reign, but she was dethroned in 1893 and the Hawaiian people, after a period of republican government, asked to be annexed to the United States. This was accomplished in 1898.

Rockville ROBINSON DENIES HE SEEKS OFFICE Doesn't Want Highway Job; Council Meeting Benefit Tonight.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, July 20.—E. W. Robinson, chairman of the board of public works of this city, stated in a manner not to be misunderstood that he was not seeking the appointment of superintendent of streets, as the rumor that was current about the city yesterday would lead some to think might be true. The story was to the effect that Mr. Robinson, at an executive session of the board held on Monday night had made known to the committee of which he is the head that he wished the appointment. The truth of the matter was run down and it developed that Mr. Robinson was not even in Rockville Monday and did not return until Tuesday evening, when he did not have time to even consider the question with the committee and was late in arriving at the meeting of the common council last night. Mr. Robinson is the superintendent of the local plant of the Belding-Hemlinway company and is to remain with that company, the secretary of the corporation to which he is to be assigned having not yet announced. When told that the rumors had gained circulation he at first took it as a joke, but when assured that the case was being made the statement that he was not a candidate. Such money as the city now had to spend on its public works he feels can be spent without the need of a special superintendent, but such an office as being done at present under Joseph Rich. There will be no appointment made for superintendent this year, is the belief of those in touch with affairs.

Curry Released William Curry of Thompsonville who was fined $150 on the charge of breach of the peace by Judge John Fahey, and went to the Tolland jail on his failure to do so, was released last evening on the payment of the amount and the earned part of the costs that was also imposed. Curry was before the court because of the trouble at the home of his former wife, now divorced and remarried, when he, driving an automobile together with a companion disrupted the home of his former wife and created a breach of the peace by words and actions towards the mother of his divorced wife.

Council to Draw Resolution At the meeting of the common council last night, Mayor John Cameron, presiding, it was voted to appoint a committee to frame resolutions on the death of Dwight B. Gardner, who died suddenly at his home in his sister in Wilmington. Mr. Gardner was a former selectman of the town of Vernon and had also served in the council of the city. The committee that was named is composed of Alderman Northrup, Councilman Dowding and Councilman Herzog.

Funeral of D. B. Gardner The funeral of Dwight B. Gardner, a resident of Rockville for over thirty years and who died suddenly at the home of his sister in Wilmington, while mowing the lawn, will be held at the Union Congregational church on Thursday at 2:30, daylight saving time. Burial will be in Grove Hill cemetery.

The benefit for the members of the Parkour family to help defray in part, at least, the expense that has been incurred in the death by drowning on July 4 of a young daughter, the son's body not as yet having been recovered, will be held at Conrad Rau's dance pavilion at Crystal Lake tonight. The hall and music is being furnished without cost, Mr. Rau turning over the use of his dance hall and Stein's Orchestra providing the music. It is estimated that the sale of tickets for the benefit will reach 3000 in number, tickets having been purchased in many sections of Tolland and Hartford county.

Still Looking The committee that has been named to arrange for a date and place for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce is still seeking a proper place to hold the outing. LeRoy Hale, head of the committee, with other members visited several shore resorts on Sunday and there will be another "junkie" trip made by the committee on Thursday when it is expected a decision will be arrived at.

Building Permits The common council at their meeting last night issued three building permits, the largest of which was for a two-story frame house to be built by J. Ralph Morin on Windsor avenue and another for a barn on South street, the third being for a veranda at No. 8 Morrison street.

Won't Resign A. H. Reed, veteran superintendent of the Vernon town farm, in announcing his resignation to the board of selectmen's theory that his resignation would be for the "betterment of the town." Reed who has held his post for eleven years refuses to resign at the request of the selectmen and cited his record at the farm to support him. The board has made no answer as yet.

Bills Paid The number of bills presented to the different departments of the city government for payment at the meeting of the council last night was not large in numbers or in volume with the exception of the bill for street lighting which amounted to $899.33 and a bill for $50 from the band that was hired for the July 4th celebration. All were ordered paid. While Assess Benefits and Damages The public works committee will assess benefits and damages for work done on East street and also on Rheel street and will report at the next meeting of the council.

Markets in Good Condition In the report of meat inspector J. Ralph Morin, read to the meeting of the members of the common council at their meeting last night, the condition of the markets in Rockville, where meat is sold, was given. In each case the conditions of the markets when visited by the inspector were all found good and in some cases the inspector classified them as being very good.

GOVERNOR, LINDY AT NIANTIC TODAY Day of Days Brings Soldiers Out of Bunks Early—Personal.

The regiment arose without delay when Bugler William Reuben, of Company G sounded reveille at 6 o'clock this morning. In a short time, everyone was busy making necessary arrangements for the big program of the day. Following mess the entire regiment went out onto the drill field where Captain Christopher Scaife put them through a fifteen minute session of calisthenics. Col. Hunter then addressed the men outlining the work to be carried out. He made it emphatic that there must be no hitch in the program and that orders must be carried out to the letter and without a moment's hesitation. The most important order was that no one, regardless of rank, could be allowed on the drill field after 12:30. The men were ordered to form a guard about the entire field inside the wire fence which was built yesterday. Major Clarence C. Scarborough was in charge and he designated which section was to be covered by each company. The 1,000 odd men were stationed at intervals of 100 paces about the entire field and stood facing the crowd so that no one might break through the lines in the excitement. It made a picturesque sight; this spacious field cleared and men standing about it with backs toward the field. The guards had bayonets on their rifles but these were cased. Intense excitement reigned throughout the morning hours as the time wore on toward noon. Following the program began the following Governor Trumbull's arrival, the crowd began to enter the reservation. It was a very colorful crowd that came. Many women were in evening gowns. The visitors were not only from the home towns of the various units but also from many other towns and cities. The chief attraction of course was the scheduled appearance of Col. Lindbergh. There were a great many here from New London. The quaint little village of Niantic probably experienced the biggest traffic in its history. The center of the town was practically deserted, however, as far as natives are concerned. They were nearly all in camp to witness the festivities. The appearance of Col. Lindbergh has been the chief topic of conversation on the streets for the last four or five days. To the Third Battalion, under command of Major Joseph P. Nolan, goes the credit of being the first unit to undergo real hardships. Soon after that battalion left camp Monday afternoon en route for bivouac at an unknown destination. It was suddenly ambushed by a large force of troops strongly entrenched on a high ledge. After a spirited battle in which both sides suffered "heavy losses," the Third Battalion continued on its eight-mile march to the bivouac camp where the bivouac was made. Unaware as to what would happen next, Major Nolan kept a strong guard about the camp expecting a further attack. This did not materialize, however, but soon a far more dreaded enemy loomed in the person of old Jupiter Pluvius. For a time the rain fell in torrents and many of the men received a drenching. This was especially so in the case of the men in pup-tents which were not located on the right level. Shortly after reveille, the battalions ate breakfast, packed their duds and then began the long hike to camp. At once there, they ran into opposition. This time they were a bit more prepared after the "reception" the day before and consequently were able to provide a much better attack. The First Battalion under Major Joseph R. Morrison was the obstacle which blocked Major Nolan's advance. After a spirited tussle in which the men showed up well, recall was sounded and the two battalions marched back to camp. The first platoon of the Howitzer Company under Lieutenant Russell B. Hathaway was attached to the First Battalion in the sham battle.

The Second Battalion under Major Clarence C. Scarborough had the same problem yesterday as the First did the previous day. That was an imaginary engagement on Monday afternoon. Company G was attached to the Howitzer Company under Lieutenant Russell B. Hathaway in the sham battle. The Second Battalion under Major Clarence C. Scarborough had the same problem yesterday as the First did the previous day. That was an imaginary engagement on Monday afternoon. Company G was attached to the Howitzer Company under Lieutenant Russell B. Hathaway in the sham battle.

Yesterday afternoon, Company G presented formal guard mounting before the regular afternoon audience and then went on guard duty for 24-hours relieving Company I. Company G's efficient work in putting on guard mounting drew considerable praise from U. S. Army officers watching the meticulous ceremony. It was said to be the best exhibition since camp convened. Lieutenant Ramsey was Officer of the Day and Lieutenant Thompson Commander of the Guard. The guard roster follows:

Main Guard Sergeant of the Guard: Arthur H. Jobert; Corporals of the Guard: Patrick J. Murphy, William DeHart, James J. Javanough; Privates of the Guard: Anderson, W. Crockett, Walter Crockett, W. Kearns, McCarthy, Morgan, Topping, E. Von Deck, L. Kearns, Lavigne, Mantell, P. Cavanaugh, P. Quinn, Minelli, Newell, Phillips, Quinn, Schiebel, Wolfram, Cowles, Monka, Behrend, Burns, Danosse, Edgar, Holland, Hearn, Hewitt, Hubbard, Jarvis, Madden, Suess; Musician of the Guard: William Ruebin.

Provost Guard Sergeants: Minicucci, Milligan, Hagedorn, Press; Privates: Goldberg, Wittke, Ambruckerwicz, Downing, Frederick, Finkbein, Glode.

Special Guard Sergeant: Penland; Privates: Mader, McCrystal, Miller, Rankin, Robinson, Vince.

Company G being on guard duty means that it is relieved of any part on the Governor's Day program. The Howitzer Company had charge of firing the gun at reveille and taps and also the salute to Governor Trumbull when he arrived. The Manchester company also took part in the sham battle and regimental review. Company G had to be missing from the regimental review because of being on guard duty. Otherwise, the 169th Infantry was intact.

Private Jack Fiedler, the unfortunate member of the Howitzer Company, who was caught in the act of swiping tent supplies for an impromptu officers' graveyard the other night, was released from the guard house yesterday morning by Lieutenant Colonel Orville A. Petty after spending two nights in confinement and one day on fatigue duty. It was brought out that Private Fiedler was a rookie and that when caught by the O. D. was simply carrying out orders of his mates as an initiation.

Major Clarence C. Scarborough, head of a battalion which includes Company G, escaped injury yesterday when his horse was struck by a regimental ambulance on the Niantic river bridge. The horse was severely injured and a medical officer was required to close the wound on the rear right haunch which was larger than the top of a water pail. When Colonel Hunter learned of the affair, he was very much upset inasmuch as he is a great lover of horses. The one injured is one of the best in camp also. It is a question whether he will recover. The horse fell after the laceration had been sewed up owing to weakness and ripped the stitches out thus making it necessary to repeat the job. The ambulance driver has been arrested and may face trial. He had been ordered to stop but was rushing a patient to the hospital.

Lieutenant Edgar M. Thompson will again be battalion supply officer when the first and second battalions leave camp for bivouac Thursday night. It is understood one unit will go to Fred Stone ranch and the other to Roger's Lake, both of which are more than ten miles from camp.

Colonel Hunter announced yesterday that the time for entraining for home Sunday has been advanced to 8 a. m. This means the Manchester boys will arrive in Manchester before noon.

Both Manchester companies had their pictures taken yesterday. Each unit was dressed spic and span and looked its best. Private, first class, Maurice Waddell of Company G concluded his three years of service on yesterday and received his honorable discharge papers.

Sergeant Jack Pentland, Top Kick of the Howitzer Company, is making preparations for a sprint race in the "On-to-Paris" race when he returns to Manchester next week. He is trailing "Whity" Anderson, but hopes to overcome the lead. It must be admitted however that Pentland's two weeks here have been a handicap toward his chances to win the coveted prize. Company G and the Howitzer Company are each equipped with radios and are all ready for the "On-to-Paris" race when they come over the air tomorrow night from the Yankee Stadium. Private Edward Quinn received quite a compliment yesterday when he was selected as Colonel Hunter's orderly for the day. Such a selection is made from neatness and good soldierly appearance.

ONLY SWEEPERS TRY TO KEEP TOWN TIDY

Street Furbishers Complain That Storekeepers Litter Business Thoroughfare. The street cleaners who keep Main street clean are complaining of the practice of several storekeepers who use the roadway as a dumping ground for the sweepings of their stores. One of the places they tell about is a restaurant, which has ample means for the disposal of its sweepings but uses the street just the same.

Newsboys, the sweepers say, throw the wrappers of their wares promiscuously on the roadway and the street presents a rather littered appearance on occasions. The sweepers have to make one trip up Main street each morning and when they have gone through the roadway is really clean. It does not stay that way for long.

COMMANDANT ABBOTT IS SHIPPED TO CAMBRIDGE

Commandant Charles M. Abbott, who left the South Manchester Station Army corps in June to take charge of the New Bedford corps, has been transferred again, this time to Cambridge. He was unable to give any reason for the transfer yesterday, but said that the Army usually gives orders without any explanation. Commandant Abbott was in charge of the corps here for three years and was given his marching orders about the first of last month. He was succeeded here by Commandant and Mrs. John Spohn who came from Massachusetts.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS

Thousands of sick and wounded soldiers were cared for in this military hospital at Toul. Hundreds of legionnaires are expected to revisit the old place.

This is chapter 86 of the series of articles written by an ex-soldier who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER LXXVI The traces of the First A. E. F., although nine years have passed since its departure, are still numerous, and it will be another ten years before the era is made. At Grand Pre there's a blond mule, now known as "Kiki," hitched to a beer wagon. All through the famous Gondrecourt area the soldiers of the Second A. E. F. will see hundreds of pensantly fully equipped in regulation American uniforms.

Back in the Towns But it's back in the pilot towns, where the soldiers lived un molested except for revilles, retreats and some politing-up details, where the evidences of the 1917-18-19 invasion are clearest. For instance: In old Marac, near Chaumont-town, which is in the department of Haute-Marne, numerous outfits were quartered in an ancient stone mill, long since fallen into decay. The last bunch to live there was an ambulance outfit. It departed, according to Claud Charpentier, who now owns the property, in March, 1918. Since that departure, the mill has been untenanted except for the birds that sweep up from the valley of the Suize river for a roost among the rafters. The doors are barred, but the windows are without panes, as they were in former years. And until recently, no one of the supporting posts of the first floor, in a square bit of paper flapped. It was an order one day—now it's a souvenir of the funder—and it reads: Memo: To members of Ambulance Co., No. 338. Attention is called to the fact that the standard price for eggs at this time is 5 francs 45 centimes a dozen. No member of the American E. F. is allowed to pay a greater price. If anyone attempts to charge more than the standard price their names and address will be taken and reported to this office. W. P. NICHOLSON, JR., Capt. M. C.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1927

WE GREET "WE"

Manchester, along with all of Hartford county and the entire state of Connecticut, today salutes Charles Lindbergh. Would that he were parading along our own splendid Main street instead of through the infinitely less admirable thoroughfares of Hartford, for then the thronged thousands could see him and not suffocate in the process.

Much traveled is this young man. He has looked down on many a fair prospect and many a threatening one. But he has never flown over a region of more sheer beauty, nor one from which there could arise a brighter aura of friendship, than today.

Perhaps Connecticut may not shout quite so loud as New York or St. Louis, but her welcome is from the hearts of a people who have the genius of machinery in their souls, the traditions of brave adventure in their memories and the appreciation of maturity for the gallantry of valorous youth.

Connecticut greets Lindy and, too, it greets Lindy and his plane.

PROHIBITION

Perhaps Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the United Committee for Law Enforcement, who the other day declared that President Coolidge could dry up the United States in thirty days if he really wanted to, but who has ignored a chorus of requests from all over the country that he tell the President how to do it, will go far in explanation of his program as to give the country some idea how to proceed at Detroit alone.

With the Detroit river only half a mile wide separating the wharves on the American side from those on the Canada side and only half of that half mile in the United States side of the boundary; with a whole fleet of speed boats capable of negotiating the distance from dock to dock in less than two minutes; with every enforcement officer and Coast Guardsman under surveillance and a system of signals in operation that keeps the run-runners informed as to every move of the officers, it would look as though Mr. Howard had quite an order on hand merely to keep booze out of Detroit.

We will submit that there is a way of enforcing prohibition. It might be enforced by declaring all violators of the Volstead law in a state of insurrection, by suspending the writ of habeas corpus and citizens' right of immunity from search; by supplanting the civil courts by military drum head courts martial; by shooting every suspect who sought to avoid arrest; by trying on the spot, without counsel and without appeal, every person arrested; by erecting huge military prison camps for the incarceration of the convicts; by killing all who seek to escape.

With the courts all over the country cluttered by liquor cases that cannot be reached in years, with every new arrest only adding to the hopelessness of the muddle, enforcement of prohibition has quite obviously gotten beyond the scope of the civil authorities. Only by employment of the army and navy in the most bitter spirit of extermination, and only by the suspension of all the rest of the Constitution, except the eighteenth amendment, will it be possible to make the Volstead act anything but a sham and a make-believe. Guarantees of trial by civil court are incompatible with enforcement of prohibition. It is a job for a dictatorship, not a constitutional government. The constitution nullifies the eighteenth amendment or else the eighteenth amendment nullifies the constitution. This is a fact that conflicts with an opinion of the United States supreme court. Hereafter when the United States supreme court has found its opinion in conflict with developed fact it has sunk the discredited opinion.

In 1856 or 1857 the Supreme Court, in the world-celebrated Dred Scott case, declared the Missouri Compromise invalid because, as Chief Justice Taney held, the constitution contemplated the protection of property and Congress was therefore under obligation to protect, not prohibit, slavery in the territories. Everyone knows the effect of that decision. The whole North flouted it and President Lincoln utterly ignored it in his emancipation proclamation, though there was no change in the constitution with relation to slavery until two years after the slaves were freed by edict. It that edict the Supreme Court tacitly acquiesced.

The Dred Scott decision went to pot because it proved to be in conflict with immutable fact. The opinion of the supreme court on the validity of prohibition is destined, sooner or later to follow the same road. The Scott decision was good law under the conditions of 1857. It was bad law in 1863. The prohibition decision was good law when it was made. It is very rapidly being shown to be bad law for 1927. There can be but one end.

COURTNEY'S JOB

If Captain F. T. Courtney, British aviator, and his companions, Little and Downer, carry out the flight program under which it is understood they are making their westward passage of the Atlantic, it is fair to agree that their undertaking, while lacking some of the spectacular aspects of the three recent American passages, may possess features of usefulness apart from those of the earlier flights.

The ultimate problem of transoceanic flying will not, of course, be the maintenance of regular non-stop air transportation from New York or any other United States point to Paris or London or Rome or any other European capital. That is to say, any such itinerary as that will naturally be far in the future, if ever deemed necessary. The real problem is the permanently successful negotiation of the sea spaces between Newfoundland and Ireland. With safe passage of that longest span assured, the actual utility of sea flying would be a proven thing.

The job that the Courtney plans sets out to accomplish is the demonstration of a commercial aviation plan. Instead of doing the thing in the most difficult way the Whale is trying to do it in the safest and easiest way. If the result should be failure it would mean a serious dampening of confidence in the earlier future of inter-continental aviation. If it proves a success, as every American most earnestly hopes it will, an extremely valuable contribution will have been made to our knowledge of the feasibility of long-distance overseas flying.

SPORTS

Our heart bleeds for those splendid, heroic souls who have staved off the landlord and hung up the butcher to provide the jack for a trip to New York to see the Sharkey-Dempsey fight, only to find that the gallant sponsors of the noble art of self-defense have conspired with the ticket-gyps to soak 'em an extra ten or twenty iron men for the blessed privilege of seeing months of wind-jamming converted into a few minutes of cross gestures—perhaps not so very cross at that.

It wasn't Barnum who said it at all, but they must be born at a rate much faster than one a minute, nowadays. If it wasn't for the glad boys with the old lady's bankroll in their pockets, all the way from the tobacco fields to the tall timbers, Mr. Sharkey and Mr. Dempsey would be fighting for a bowl of soup and fighting to Burt, and their managers would be glad to get a dollar a rattle, instead of standing in with swindlers to make the suckers pay double the advertised price for a mixed-ale rukus.

"POLICE" DOGS

There are a great many people who have looked askance upon the invasion of America by the so-called "police" dog. Dog men of wide experience have not been lacking who pronounced this animal not only not particularly clever but actually particularly stupid in most of the relations that make dogs as a whole the intimate of mankind. Instead of being a tracer of criminals he is, so the sharps declare, merely a sheep dog and a very poor sheep dog compared to the collie type. Certainly he is often suspicious, sometimes phenomenally cowardly, not infrequently ungrateful and lacking in loyalty even to his master.

It will add nothing to the popularity of this great beast, with the teeth and physical strength of a timber wolf and too often with the disposition of a hornet, that one of his breed has just bitten a dozen persons while suffering from rabies, in Bristol; especially since several of the victims are children.

The animal was not to be blamed for going mad, of course; but a rabid dog does not always go charging about seeking whom he may destroy. The effects of the disease vary in no little degree according to the native disposition of the dog. A big, half-savage brute, when it goes mad, acts as such a creature might be supposed to act. A normal dog, going rabid, is very apt to become merely morose and avoid human contacts, thus giving due warning of his madness.

It would almost have seemed that we were sufficiently supplied with varieties of big dogs, in this country, without the artificial popularizing of the synthetic police dog—for whom few owners have any very deep affection and whom most folk hold in abomination and not a little fear.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, July 20.—The new crop of prohibition enforcers may be a crew fired by holy zeal for the cause of arid righteousness. Nineteen thousand citizens have applied for the 2,500 enforcement jobs which Congress threw open to the public and among the applicants are many who have assured the Civil Service Commission that they are all burning up with eagerness to put the bootleggers in prison and make the country safe for the eighteenth amendment and the wives and kiddies. . . .

William C. Deming, head of the Civil Service Commission which must pick the new dry force.

Butchers, bakers and candlestick makers are all after the prohibition jobs, which pay from $1,140 a year for warehouse watchman to $5,000 a year for the assistant commissioner and administrators. . . . Oyster boat captains, lumber camp managers, army and navy officers, small manufacturers, real estate dealers, government officials, railroad superintendents, several editors and scores of other varieties of men who have been "bosses" are out after the administrative jobs. . . .

Must Pass Stiff Exams For the mere agent jobs, applicants have come from every walk of life—from sewer-scrubbing to teaching and preaching. Many private detectives want jobs as agents and investigators. . . .

Up to $3,000, the jobs require written examinations. Above that, candidates must pass thorough oral tests. . . .

Examiners test applicants for the better jobs as to personality, dress, poise, posture, speech, tone of voice, judgment, resourcefulness, physical fitness, energy and what not. They test them to determine whether they are executive or subordinate types and to determine whether they would be loyal to their employers. They hurl abstruse hypothetical situations at them and then try to bully the candidate into making an easy answer just to see if he has a mind of his own. . . .

The falling-down point for most of the higher-up applicants has been a lack of qualifying experience. In the case of administrative jobs, the candidate must have had four to six years experience handling large operations and numerous subordinates. Under $3,000, experience is not required on

BOTH FIGHTERS CONFIDENT THEY WILL WIN TOMORROW

Sharkey and Dempsey Give Reasons Why They Think They Will Win—Dope Sters Divided.

By JACK SHARKEY (As told to Jimmy Powers)

I have been mistaken for everything from a Polack to a Mick, on account of my name, I suppose, so here is the straight dope on myself as requested.

I come from Lithuanian stock. My original name was Joseph Paul Cukoschay. I was born in Binghamton, N. Y., on October 26, 1902. My father, mother and sister still live there with Mrs. Sharkey and our two children in Boston.

Just three years ago I came to Boston as a sailor, making $350 a year as wages, on the U. S. S. Dever. At the present time, I keep on fighting; my manager tells me I can make $1,000,000 in purses.

When I started boxing professionally I took the name, Jack Sharkey.

I called myself Jack after Jack Dempsey, who has always considered ONE OF THE GREATEST CHAMPIONS the ring has ever known, and the Sharkey end after Tom Sharkey, old-time heavy-weight, who, like myself, saw service in Uncle Sam's navy.

The name Jack Sharkey caught immediately. It was so popular with me that I petitioned successfully the court in Boston to have it made my legal name. So I shall be Jack Sharkey legally as long as I live.

I spent my boyhood days with my parents at Binghamton. It was my mother who formed the code of living that has enabled me to reach the physical condition which has brought me ring success. I have always listened to my mother's advice because I know it is unselfish. I consider my success her success.

When I was boxing with Will, my mother made the trip from Binghamton to New York so that she could be near me. She waited in her room in an uptown hotel until I hurried to her after the bout.

And when she held me in her arms and found I was not marked, she sobbed with emotion.

As a boy I attended school in Binghamton. I completed the third grade in the Oak street school and then transferred to St. Patrick's parochial school, where I was taught by the good nuns.

I was in the eighth grade at the age of twelve and would have received my diploma the following year. Father then became ill and mother had to nurse him.

In a few months father's slim savings were gone. Someone had to work to get our household together, so I went to work in a shoe factory and tackled socks and assembled lasts. I AM STILL HANDLING LEATHER.

When I was 14 I quit the shoe bench for a pick and shovel and joined a construction gang. I was a sike in the river bed at Binghamton. It was hard work but it paid good wages and it kept me out of doors.

Everybody was then at war. I slipped away to Bridgeport and applied at a recruiting station as a young man. I worked eight months, I advanced my age and I was 15 years old. I was hungry and penniless and stranded in Bridgeport but I soon got a job shoveling coal on a barge.

I worked eight hours a day, for which I received $30. From Bridgeport I traveled to New York by passenger coach, worked for a short time in New Jersey and then returned to my home in Binghamton by freight.

The close of the war found me there. I weighed 190 pounds when I first entered the service. I fought my first bout off the Azores against a colored boy, same weight, whose name was Green. I knocked him out in one round.

One cold day the Denver ploughed through the waters to Boston. There I met Johnny Buckley and Kelley's gym. He took me over and gave me a job fighting three prelims. I knocked my men out inside of two rounds. In those days I weighed 210 pounds.

Then came trials and tribulations. Bouts with Floyd Johnson, Romero Rojas, Jim Maloney, Charley Weinert, Jack Renault, King Solomon, Bud Gorman, Johnny Risko, Harry Willis—some went my way, others against me. I was a green kid. The record books on every newsstand tell the story.

My life has not been a bed of roses. I had to take a lot of smacks on the chin, figuratively and literally, to get where I am. I know I have my faults. I'm human. All I can say is I'm glad to be alive and happy to have fought my way through. I am now on the threshold, I believe, of the world championship!

"JAWN" M'GRAW 25 YEARS ON DIAMOND!

JOHN J. M'GRAW BATING OUT GROUNDERS McGRAW AND CHRIS MATHESON

John Joseph McGraw, gray-haired, quilty-eyed, fiery old Irishman of baseball, yesterday celebrated 25 years on the diamond and the silver jubilee was a big event at the Polo Grounds where "Jawn" was duly honored.

Ever since the spring of 1899 John Joseph has been playing baseball and today he has more personal acquaintances than Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb combined. His philosophy he says is: "Don't be satisfied with the games and don't let your bat go to sleep on your shoulder."

LEGION TO STAGE CONCERT AT WEST SIDE PLAYGROUND

SHARKEY IN TEN WALSH PREDICTS Sports Writer Gives His Reason Why He Picks the Lithuanian to Win.

By DAVIS J. WALSH I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, July 20.—Sharkey to win in ten rounds or less. Rise or fall, or even survival of the fittest, will be the best at that, the writer feels that he can pick the great orator to win from Jack Dempsey tomorrow night in all confidence.

It should be a great fight. Sharkey can be hit. He will be hit tomorrow night. I expect to see him on the floor at least once but he has got up many times in his brief career and I feel he will get up again when Dempsey hits him. And, unless the latter puts on his old hurricane finisher then and there, which I feel he now lacks, he will be through.

That is Dempsey's great chance, of course. Nearly everyone realizes that it is possible for him to win in a few rounds and almost impossible for him to win in many.

Babe Ruth ambulating to the plate at forty as a pinch hitter. That is Dempsey's situation as I see it. When the fight comes for Ruth every pitcher will recognize that he is dangerous but where the odds today are one in three that he will hit one off the premises, they will be about one in ten. For the parade will have passed him by that time.

Dempsey Passed The writer knows that already it has passed Dempsey by several years.

The vicious, primitive man who tore Willard into human hamburger is only a memory. The flashy puncher who cut down Carpenter, then Mike, is seen now only in spasmodic outbursts. The barroom fighter who rolled up with Firpo remains to some extent the instinct of self-preservation that he showed in such impressive proportions that he would night. But the composite remainder seems to be more the wild, bovine, Saxon, Fat Tom Tunney fight, except for the fact that now he is a year older.

Age Will Win Age, the great leveler, should I believe will win this fight. There are those who say Sharkey is only a fair heavyweight and that the Dempsey of six years ago would have cut him down in a few rounds. I say that Sharkey is a good heavy-weight and that all he has to beat is the Dempsey of today. I believe that, arriving 'stakes older first of which he is fully capable, he will do it and do it with great thoroughness.

Sharkey, it is admitted, is not a puncher. I have seen him hit Paul Cavalier and Johnny Urban flush on the potato in training bouts and they didn't even have the courtesy to break ground. Sharkey cannot knock either. I probably couldn't knock a freshman's cap off if I wound up like Walter Johnson. But if Dempsey or anyone else, will keep his hands down over a period of time, say six months, I can guarantee a knock out on the theory and practice of sustained application.

Will Be Hit Often Dempsey won't have his hands down tomorrow night, at least not in the first round. But the point is that he figures to be hit so many times that, sooner or later, they will go down, in which case so will Dempsey.

A drop of water, falling on the back of your head means nothing. But that same drop, repeated often enough, will wear a hole in stone and Dempsey is far from that today.

"I was dazed by the first punch in the first fight and never recovered," Dempsey told the writer in his training camp.

That sounds to me like the tip off on the physical Dempsey. I can anyone imagine the tough, lumbering Carpenter of seven years ago being whipsawed for ten rounds on the first punch?

Could Take It I think that asset alone can be written off by perhaps thirty per cent. It was one of three things Dempsey had, and only three. The other two were speed and the punch, the pair being complementary. He seems to be known for back of your speed he knew for the latter was so slow, in truth, that little clue could be obtained on Dempsey's speed at that time.

Therefore, it would follow that some of his punch is gone; not the punch he shows against the sand bag but the punch against a mobile object. All of his sparring partners are in excellent health today.

No, the Dempsey we are dealing with is a new one in practice and an old one in years.

He has his chance and a fair one, at that. Babe Ruth coming to the plate at forty! The pitcher may be a sap, and Dempsey has his own moments, too. One of them comes every so often when he flails aimlessly out with a left, leaving his heart open for a right counter. Another is his habit of carrying his left foot out of a clinch.

But he is young, only 24, with the speed, the recuperation and the fighting avidity that goes with youth of the right sort. And I believe Sharkey is all of that.

Let Us Tune Up Your Car for that coming vacation trip. Special rates on carbon and valve jobs. Also starter, generator and ignition work.

BILLY EVANS Says

A great managerial asset these days is a relief pitcher who has the stuff and the courage to step into a tough spot and deliver in a majority of the cases.

Fred Marberry was such a pitcher in 1924-25, when Stanley Harris piloted the Washington club to two pennants and one world series title.

Moore is Big Aid to Yankees Using Marberry in rescue roles only, Harris was able to keep his regular pitching staff intact and give his veterans the proper amount of rest for them to retain their effectiveness.

This year, Wilky Moore is playing the same role for Miller Huggins and the Yankees. In his first years as a big leaguer, the all important role of chief relief pitcher of a championship team, has fallen on his shoulders.

Moore, a glutton for work, by being able to pitch practically every day for a few innings, necessary, has enabled Huggins to work his regulars in order and never sap their vitality by calling on them for pinch pitching efforts.

If the Yankees win the American League pennant, no pitcher will have contributed more to such a victory than Wilky Moore.

ESKIMOS LIKE "POP"

Nome, Alaska—Soda pop, ice cream cones, and hot dogs have won the heart of the Eskimos in the Etah region. Frank Connibear, hotel keeper who lives north of the Arctic Circle, says Eskimos come for many miles to gorge themselves on the white man's delicacies.

trade and the motor launch small-runners. These infest the entire eighty-mile water border between Lakes Huron and Erie.

Underground Trade

On top of and all around the thriving industry of the pre-prohibition area, the city now shelters an underground trade in whisky and-and-no-questions-asked trade with annual operations running close to $50,000,000.

Along the city waterfront, scores of improvised private docks extend open arms to the larger yachts of Sarnia, Ontario, directly across the river, where the provincial liquor stores carry stock of more than 500 brands of bottle goods, including beer at 17 cents a pint and port wine at sixty cents a quart. Out in the river, a fleet of fifty houseboats anchored permanently to the American side forms an emergency haven for harassed launches anywhere in the ten-mile Port Huron waterfront.

Storage Vaults

Several of these houseboats anchored south of the city limits are connected by underground passages to concrete subterranean storage vaults. In these vaults are stored away from 50 to 200 cases of Canadian whiskies awaiting trucking facilities to carry them over Michigan's network of paved highways to the larger retail centers of the middle west.

Unlike Detroit, which is the greatest port of entry for Canadian distilled products, Port Huron is a shipping center rather than a consuming market. Whereas Detroit,

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Street car chivalry is a standing joke.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The American's idea of being presented at court: "Pull over to the curb!"

A SLIGHT ERROR They're picking up the pieces with a dust-pail and rake, because he used his horn. When he oughta used his brake.

The fool and his flivver soon mash the fenders on some highly respectable automobile.

If you drive a big truck you are allowed to stop anywhere to make deliveries, but Old Dobbin must use the alleys.

The automobile did not need balloon tires to make its running expenses go up.

He made a swift and reckless turn, His ashes now are in an urn.

Sheriff: What do you mean by driving through this village at over sixty miles an hour?

Fair Motorist: Well, you see, my brakes have gone wrong, and I was hurrying to get home before I had an accident.

If all the automobiles in the country were placed on top of one another the pile would reach from the earth almost to the high cost of living.

MARY'S LITTLE CAR

Mary had a little car, She drove it to the show, And every time she tried to park The copper made her go, And every time she tried to go The traffic made her stop— She reached the theater just in time To see the curtain drop. Now Mary has a little car That stays within a shed, And Mary goes to shops and shows In trolley cars instead.

Butler: Sorry, sir, madam says she's not in.

Caller: You're right, old top. She's out all right. I just called to tell her I saw a guy steal her auto.

Even a doctor will tell you the best thing to take when you are run down is the license number.

Auto License Official: "What vehicles always have right of way?" Sweet Young Thing: "Baby Carriages."

Definition: A pedestrian is a man whose wife has gone with the car.

The late Jack Cass Was full of nerve, He liked to pass Folks on a curve.

Officer (picking up pedestrian): Did you get the number of the car? Victim: Yes, but never mind. It was my cook's machine and I don't want any trouble with her.

The only time the pedestrian has the right of way is when he's in an ambulance enroute to a hospital.

"I've had to keep that car in the garage ever since the day I bought it from you—the thing won't go."

"Well, sir, you remember you said you wanted a car that wouldn't use much gasoline."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

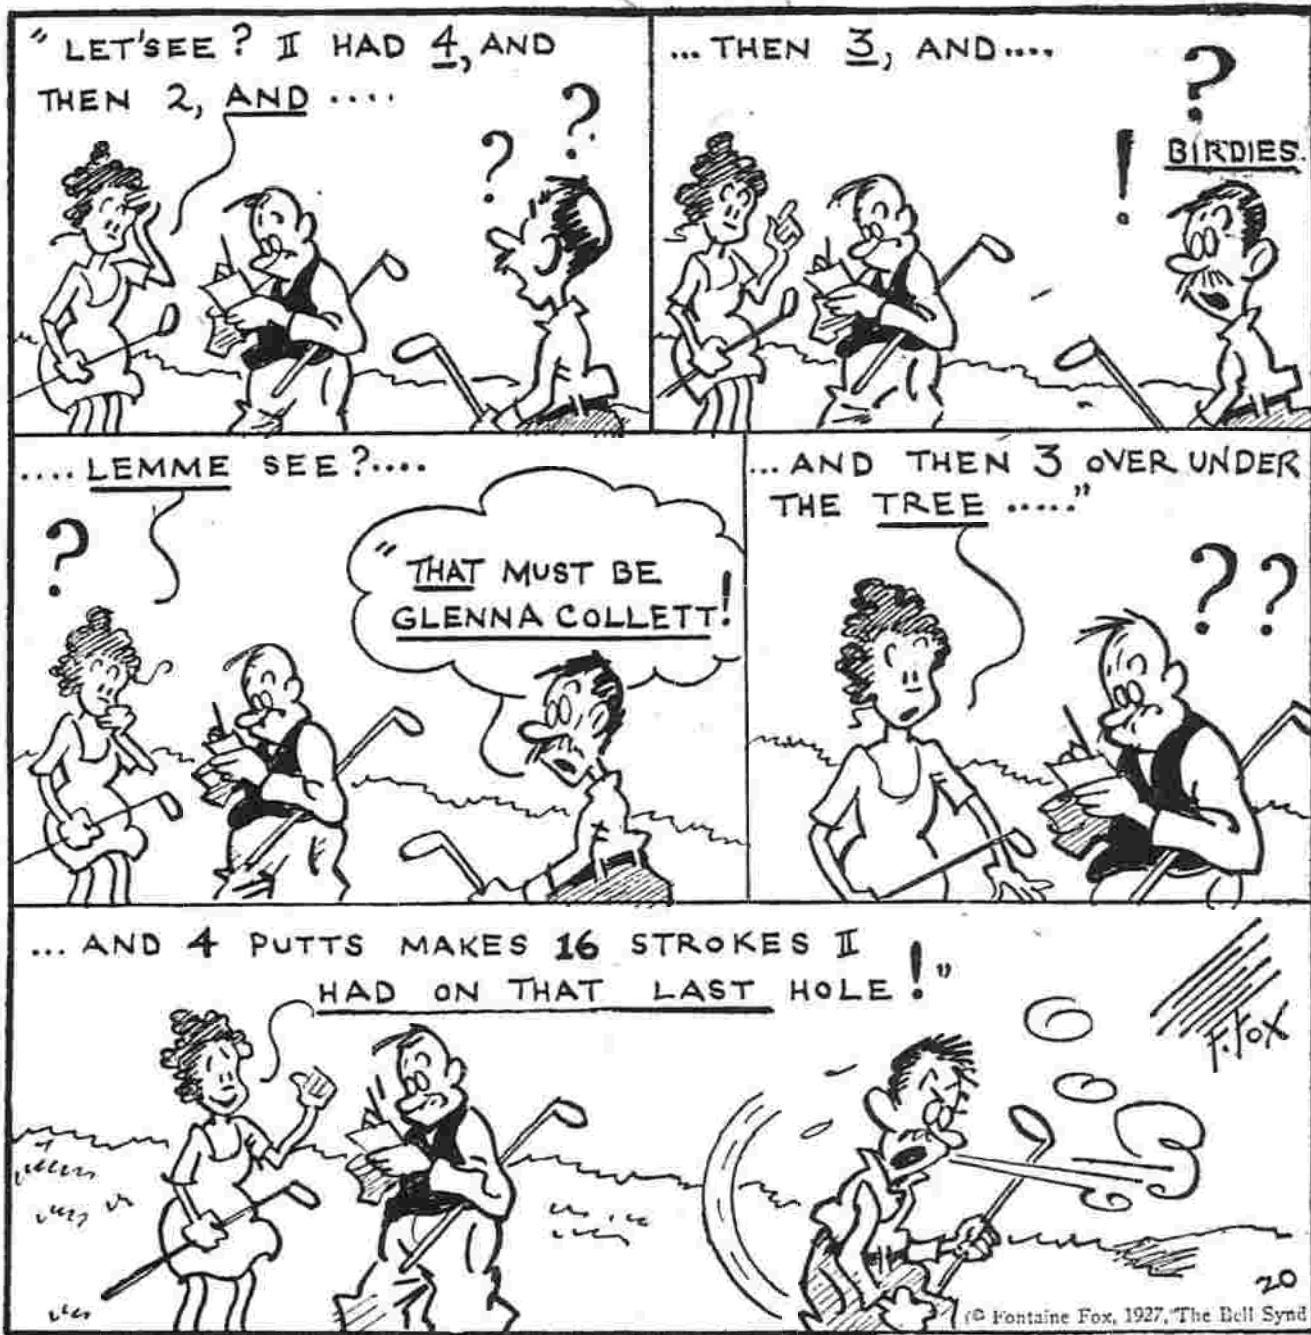

The Tynmites fed their horse some hay and then the beast flew far away. "I guess he's going to leave us here," said Clowny with a smile. "But what do we care? This is grand. We'll have some fun in Candy Land. Let's look around. Perhaps we'll find some chocolates after awhile." So, off the happy Tynmites went, and all of them were pleasure bent. They knew there must be funny things in queer old Candy Land. "If we can find the candy king, that sure will be a dandy thing," said Scouty. "For, whatever he does, we'll gladly lend a hand." They chased a little hopping toad until they came to Spicy Road. Then Copsy said, "Let's go down yere to where this long road stops," right soon they met some yellow boys who made an awful lot of noise announcing they were very good. Said one, "We're lemon drops." The Tynmites shouted loud, "Hello!"

And then, "Good-bye, we've got to go." And on they went until they reached a very fluffy stream. "That doesn't look like water, much," said Copsy as he stopped to touch. And when he did he soon found out the stream was all whipped cream. They stopped to rest beside a stump, and then they heard a startling thump. Another came, and still some more. "Oh, my, my old ear hums," said Clowny, as he listened well. "It isn't very hard to tell just what is making that loud noise. It's coming from some drums." And soon the bunch were all surprised. They looked, and quickly realized that by some funny little man the drumming noise was made. The others then heard Scouty say, "Oh, gee, they're coming down this way. Let's stay here and we'll see some chocolate soldiers on parade." (The Tynmites meet the Marsh-mallow Man in the next story.)

DEATH OF MISSING MAN ONLY RUMOR

Robert Taggart, Long Absent, Reported Found Dead in Glastonbury.

A rumor that Robert Taggart of Bank street, who has been missing from his home for the past six weeks, had been found dead in Glastonbury yesterday was found to be without foundation today after inquiry by The Herald.

It was the rumor yesterday that Taggart, who is 60 or more, had been found in Glastonbury, dead, but the medical examiner and the other physician of that town said today that they had no knowledge of the finding of any body there.

Mr. Taggart, who has been employed in Cheney Brothers, was said to have been somewhat deranged at the time of his disappearance. A search was instituted for him after he had been reported missing but to date nothing definite has been learned as to his whereabouts.

The rumor yesterday started, it is said, after Manchester person reported seeing Mr. Taggart in an out of town barber shop. This was brought to the attention of the Taggart family at the time but subsequent investigation failed to locate the missing man.

Taggart has been in the habit of absenting himself at times and has had a penchant for taking long walks in the country. One of the rumors flying yesterday was that a fisherman had seen him in a remote region not far from Diamond lake, Glastonbury.

IT WAS MUSIC NIGHT ON STREET LAST NIGHT

Manchester is a musical town but the music last night was furnished mostly by out of towners. There was plenty of it on Main street and one did not get out of hearing from the Center to the terminal.

At Birch street the Salvation Army band was playing. At one of the music stores a loud phonograph was sending out a song dedicated to Col. Charles Lindbergh. Down the street a little further a radio with an unusual program from one of the distant stations and further up a one-legged violinist was playing on the sympathies of the public.

Which of the four did the most business nobody can say. However, all were doing their best.

SUMMER SANTA CLAUS IS TIMMY HOLLORAN

His Gasoline Reindeer Takes Kids to the Gift-Bath at Globe Hollow.

Kids in the neighborhood of Timothy P. Holloran's house are among the most fortunate in Manchester, for they have free transportation to Globe Hollow almost every day in the week. Timmy has been carrying the children to the swimming pool all summer in his automobile.

Some days there may be only one load. But there are other days when there are many children that more than one trip must be made. The other day Timmy made four trips to the pond, each with a full load of children.

BUCKLAND JUNIORS HAND A GOOSEGG TO WAPPING

Buckland Junior baseball team put the jinx on the Wapping boys last night by handing them a goose egg in their own back yard. Gallish and Andrews, moundsmen for Wapping, were hit freely by the opposing batters while Zulusky and Mikollet for Buckland worked a neat game throughout the five innings. Arrangements have been made to play off a postponed game in Buckland this evening.

Score by innings: Buckland 120 20-5 Wapping 000 00-0

Buckland—Zulusky and Mikollet. Wapping—Gallish, Andrews and Lane.

NEARLY PERFECT REPORT FOR 7TH

Dr. Holmes Finds Sanitary Conditions in Buckland School Satisfactory.

Satisfactory sanitation conditions were found in the Seventh or Buckland school district by Dr. LeVerne Holmes, school physician, on his inspection of the outlying district buildings. This is the sixth report to be made to the Town Board of Health by the inspector.

The summary of his findings at Buckland follows: Summary of Sanitation Defects and Recommendations for School of Seventh District for Year Ending June 30, 1927.

Generally conditions are very satisfactory. There should be more drinking and washing facilities. On hot days children coming in from recess are thirsty. Much time is lost to the study period getting drinks or they are restless from thirst. I believe that outside bubblers turned on during the summer would do much to remedy this. The janitor service has been excellent.
