

WEEK END TOLL IN STATE, SEVEN DEAD, 22 HURT

Murder, Suicide, Drowning and the Usual Crop of Auto Smashups—Reports From Cities.

New Haven, July 25.—Murder, suicide, drowning and the usual crop of automobile smashups had contributed today to a total of seven dead and at least 22 injured as Connecticut's week-end toll to violent deaths.

Bridgeport reported one dead and seven injured. Louis Deluca, 12, milkman's helper, was doubly doomed to death when, after being burned by a fire from his gasoline tank, he ran into the street and was struck by Donald Baber's automobile. Baber himself was burned in trying to aid the lad.

Later in the evening, six persons, five men and a woman, were treated at the Bridgeport hospital for injuries received when Special Policeman James Kelly waded into a crowd at Columbus park, wielding his club right and left. Foley's conduct is under investigation. The injured included Mrs. Olga Celli, New London; John Spalin, Tom No-

his, and James Fryor, all of Bridgeport.

Burns Over Sleeper

Benjamin Bernstein of Hartford selected the parking camp at Lake Compounce for a snooze and was awakened by an automobile on his chest. Myron Y. Ranco of Plainville had driven his machine over the man, not seeing him asleep in the grass. Bernstein will recover. South Willington reported four badly hurt when cars driven by Clayton Scully and Clifton A. Church collided inuring in addition to the drivers, Mary Reiner, Robert Reiner and Edith Scully, Tolland. The cars swerved off the road onto a lawn for their smash.

At Middletown, Mrs. Lillian Walsh of New Haven and her infant son Jerome, were injured when their car crashed with a machine driven by Dennis McHamon, trainer of Louis "Kid" Kaplan, titled pugilist.

Auto Hits Pole

Mrs. Stephen Sobin of Ansonia, is in a dangerous condition at the Griffin hospital from injuries sustained when the car in which she was riding crashed into a pole. Her husband was also hurt.

Motorcycle Policeman Rudolph Van Hacht of Milford was badly bruised about the body and received a badly wrenched hip when his machine was wrecked in a head-on collision with an automobile driven by Francis Karl of New Haven. Karl was arrested.

A Suicide

The body of an unidentified man is held in the morgue at Meriden following his fatal leap from the rear end of a New York excursion train near Quinnipiac. His skull was fractured.

New Haven had a variety of mishaps ranging from drowning to auto smashups. Joseph O. Gagnon, 59, lost his footing while raking claims between Bradley Point and Wilcox pier, getting into deep water. His body was recovered.

Michael Milano, 6, died of a fractured skull and internal injuries suffered when struck by a car driven by Robert Weis, 20. Reiss was held.

John Leonard, 24, and Lawrence Andrews, 37, of New Rochelle, drivers of two colliding cars, were both arrested for careless driving when

POSSES SEARCH FOR WILD PUMA

Animal Roaming in Woods Near East Woodstock Seen by Autoists Yesterday.

East Woodstock, Conn., July 25.—With heavily armed posses again on the trail after six months' rest and residents in this vicinity once more guarding their livestock, search was renewed today for the puma that terrorized East Woodstock residents last winter.

Reports that the animal was at large again, or yet, were confirmed by two automobile parties who report that the beast leaped directly at their machines.

Considerable excitement has been aroused among the New York and Boston summer visitors over the attacks.

Sheldon Spalding, living near the woods where the animal is supposed to be hiding, declares that he often hears its night cry.

TO MAKE PUBLIC DRAGON'S LETTERS

Over 10,000 Found Implicating Many High Officials In Various States.

Washington, Ind., July 25.—That D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, now serving a life sentence for the Madge Oberholzer murder, had established a super-government whose tentacles reached to all parts of the United States and through whose history ran a crimson skein of violent deaths, was revealed today by Emsley W. Johnson, special Marion county prosecutor. Johnson left for Indianapolis today with more than 1,000 letters, photographs and other documents found in the now famous pair of black boxes belonging to Stephenson.

The letters which Johnson stated he had culled from more than 10,000 documents submitted to him here by a "mysterious stranger" at the direction of Stephenson himself, contained "positive proof of criminal law violations on the part of high state and city officials of Indiana," he said.

The exhibits, which may become foundations for criminal actions against some of the most prominent men in Indiana, according to Johnson, consist of Stephenson's checkbooks, photographs, carbon copies of letters written by Stephenson and of letters received by him.

To See Prosecutor Johnson said he would immediately go into conference with Prosecutor William H. Romy of Marion county, upon his arrival in Indianapolis today and present the evidence to him.

"I was astounded to see proof that many of the most prominent men in Indiana—men whom I never would have suspected of having any dealings with Stephenson—had been involved in his transactions," Johnson said. "It is not my intention to besmirch the character of anyone associated with Stephenson at the time of his political activities but the duties of our office are to make prosecutions for violation of the law."

Until his conference with Romy, Johnson indicated he would not reveal any details or the persons involved in the new evidence.

Who Are the Leaders It was Stephenson's instructions sent out from his prison cell in Michigan City that the two black boxes and filing cases containing the ten thousand documents enough to fill a Ford truck—were turned over to Johnson.

The story of how Johnson obtained the black boxes formed a background of romance and mystery that placed the Stephenson case on a par with the nation's best ghost story seller.

LOSES $3,000 BRACELET WHILE SPANKING SON

Boy Saw It Fall But Would Not Tell His Mother, He Declares.

Washington, July 25.—A spanking which Mrs. Clyde Yarbrough Feder, wife of a Pittsburgh millionaire, gave to her five-year-old son, Bruce, may cost her $3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Feder, with their two children, came to Washington on a sight-seeing trip. When in front of the White House, Bruce insisted on climbing the fence to get a better view. When the boy refused to heed Mrs. Feder's commands to stop, she administered four or five spankings.

Upon returning to her hotel, Mrs. Feder discovered that her $3,000 diamond bracelet was missing. Bruce declared he saw it fall off her arm when Mrs. Feder spanked him.

"I was mad when you paddled me and didn't say nothing," Bruce told his mother.

REGENCY COUNCIL TAKES OVER REINS

Issues Proclamation In Rumania Asking All Subjects To Be Loyal to Baby King.

Bucharest, July 25.—The regency issued today a proclamation announcing that it is taking over the administration of the country in the name of King Michael I, emperor to the throne by the wish of the late King Ferdinand, under constitutional principles.

The regency's proclamation pledges work for the peaceful consolidation of greater Rumania and appeals to all loyal subjects for aid.

King Michael I has ordered his court in mourning for a period of six months.

The National Peasants' Party has projected a declaration affirming its loyalty to the present king and the regency but asking for a non-partisan government. This is interpreted as offering an opportunity for Premier Bratianu to make a conciliatory gesture to the Peasants' Party, which is his strongest opposition.

Any sort of coalition between Premier Bratianu and the Peasants' Party would seem to end definitely the possibilities of the restoration of Prince Carol.

BLACK HAND LETTER RECEIVED BY GOODWIN

Bay State Official Told to Stop Speaking Against Sacco and Vanzetti.

Boston, Mass., July 25.—A letter containing a threat of death if he did not refrain from making public statements against Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti was received today by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles.

The letter which was unsigned was purported to be from a Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizer. Mr. Goodwin declined to make public the contents of the letter. He considered it unworthy of public mention, he said. "It is a joke," Mr. Goodwin declared when admitting that he had received the letter.

Mr. Goodwin has been exceptionally venomous in his remarks of denunciation on several occasions when referring to the cases of Sacco and Vanzetti, both Italian radicals, who were convicted of murder and are now on a hunger strike at Charlestown State prison where they await execution August 10.

AMERICAN BREAKS ALTITUDE RECORD

Lt. C. C. Champion Goes Up to 43,000 and 45,000 Feet—Has Accident.

Washington, July 25.—Lieutenant C. C. Champion, Jr., crack Navy flyer, this morning broke the world's altitude record, "Spirit of St. Louis," when fog turned him away for the second time yesterday. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was making preparations today to leave here after a visit in which he had to rely upon the automobile for transportation.

Leaving his companion in glory, "We," as Col. Lindbergh affectionately refers to his plane, at Old Orchard Beach where he made a forced landing yesterday, the flying colonel came here by automobile. He had attempted to land here Saturday, only to be defeated in his efforts by the fog. He then returned to Concord, N. H., from which place he departed yesterday.

Today Col. Lindbergh's schedule called for a visit to Concord, the capitol of New Hampshire. It was to be the fifth stop in his nationwide tour among the auspices of the Guggenheim Foundation.

BERNSTEIN ACCEPTS APOLOGY FROM FORD

Editor Drops His $200,000 Libel Suit—Magnate to Pay Expenses of Suit.

New York, July 25.—Herman Bernstein, editor, accepted today the apology of Henry Ford and has dropped his $200,000 libel suit against the Detroit manufacturer. Ford has retracted the assertion of the Dearborn Independent, his publication, that Bernstein supplied him with the information on which the Independent's anti-Jewish campaign was based. Ford is contributing toward Bernstein's expenses in the suit, and has agreed to do everything in his power to counteract the effect of the articles, which were translated into many languages and circulated in all parts of the world.

Settlement of the Bernstein suit is a direct development of Ford's ordering that all attacks on Jews, in the Dearborn Independent, be stopped at once. This was announced on July 8 by Arthur Brisbane. It follows closely the settlement of a similar suit brought against the magnate by Aaron Sapiro.

CONFESSES HE MURDERED TEN YEAR OLD GIRL

Winsted Youth Killed Her In Factory and Then Hid Body In Swamps—Boy Rushed to Jail.

Winsted, Conn., July 25.—Jack Billadella, 19-year-old youth with a police record as a moron, was rushed from the Winsted jail to Litchfield under police escort early today after his alleged confession to attacking and strangling ten-year-old Rose Berdino, whose body he concealed for a week.

The youth was lodged in the Litchfield county jail fifteen miles away as a safety measure when a crowd gathered about the jail here when news of the confession spread.

Billadella, one of two suspects arrested yesterday after the decomposed body of the child had been found in a swamp near Highland Lake, was said by police to have confessed to the attack and murder after several hours of grilling.

Police Superintendent John H. Slocum said today that Billadella had admitted getting the girl into the plant of the New England Pin Company, where he was employed as a watchman, a week ago last Saturday and after attacking her, choked her to death.

Secluding the body in a coal bin for five days, Billadella, by Slocum to have become alarmed over the possibilities of discovery and yesterday, wrapping the body in burlap bags, drove to the swamp where he deposited the tiny corpse and fled, but not unobserved.

To the curiosity of Patrick V. Joyce goes the credit for the discovery of the hideous crime and the clues that led to the quick and certain work of the police in solving what might have otherwise remained a mystery.

Joyce was at work in his rear yard when he noticed a car stop a short distance from Highland lake. Its driver, after a careful survey, apparently to insure that he was unobserved, jumped into the woods carrying a bundle. He reappeared in a few minutes and drove off.

Joyce, after informing his family of the incident, decided to investigate.

Officials of both delegations stated unofficially that they saw no indications of the deadlock in the conference having been altered in any way by the visit of the Hon. W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil, British delegates.

The Japanese point out that their tentative agreement with the British after the last plenary session, was not a firm agreement but merely a basis for discussion.

LINDBERGH IS FORCED TO MAKE TRIP BY AUTO

Makes Two Attempts to Fly to Concord, N. H., But Fog Compels Him to Give Up.

Portland, Me., July 25.—Undismayed by his failure to reach this city in his famous plane, "Spirit of St. Louis," when fog turned him away for the second time yesterday, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was making preparations today to leave here after a visit in which he had to rely upon the automobile for transportation.

Leaving his companion in glory, "We," as Col. Lindbergh affectionately refers to his plane, at Old Orchard Beach where he made a forced landing yesterday, the flying colonel came here by automobile. Today Col. Lindbergh's schedule called for a visit to Concord, the capitol of New Hampshire. It was to be the fifth stop in his nationwide tour among the auspices of the Guggenheim Foundation.

In the end of the act, the four leaders—Rosanna Linde, Myrtle Muir, Billie Shea and Ada Robinson, sang the song "Mary Lou."

FARM RELIEF THE ISSUE IN THE NEXT CAMPAIGN

34 Box Cars Of Booze Are Seized In One Year

Editor's Note: Tremendous seizures of alcohol, beer and whiskey along the northern New York border, says Lawrence Sullivan, have failed to stop the booze traffic across the St. Lawrence. Other stories of the rum-trade will follow daily.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 25.—Celebrated in United States history for heroic beginnings in the days of the Revolution, Ogdensburg is newly famous today as the rum capital of the St. Lawrence. Here, in a city of 18,000, the United States customs office registry lists a few more than 3,000 motor launches.

The largest city on the American side between the Thousand Islands, just beyond the eastern end of Lake Ontario, and Montreal, Ogdensburg is the operating base for the liquor smugglers of both Ontario and Quebec.

Her liquor receipts constitute one of the principal sources of supply for New York City, Boston, Providence, Springfield, Albany and Utica.

Forty Men On Watch Supplementing vast river operations, trucks and railroad cars add to the flow of Canadian rum through the Ogdensburg customs district, in which forty men match wits with smugglers on an international front of 360 miles.

The proportions of the illicit rum traffic are roughly defined by an examination of the United States customs dragnet for the fiscal year ended July 1. Records of the Ogdensburg office reveal that 20,000 barrels of Canadian beer and ale, fell into the hands of the border sleuths in the last twelve months. Thirty-four box cars of alcohol,

LONG ANTICIPATED KIDDIE REVUE WINS

150 Manchester Youngsters Give Highly Pleasing Show At the State.

A big matinee audience witnessed the first presentation of the long heralded Kiddie Revue at the State theater this afternoon and manifested hearty approval of the show. The 150 children demonstrated fully the effects of the month's training they have had under Manager Sanson and the show went off with great smoothness.

The revue opened with a talk by Manager Sanson on the plot and a short synopsis. Then all the lights in the theater went out and a shower of roses began to fall from the ceiling to the floor. The whole company joined in the singing of "Yankee Rose" while two of the leading characters, Ada Robinson and Rosanna Linde, threw roses to the audience.

Can't Be Wrong A fast dance number with a song, "Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong," followed. This was a duet in which Myrtle Muir and Myrtle Muir, the other two leaders, appeared. "Sometimes I'm Happy" was sung by Rosanna and Billie and a little bit of patter accompanied the closing minutes of the act.

The finish of this act was the fast song, "Hallelujah," in which the solo parts were taken by Myrtle Muir and Ada Robinson. The chorus joined in.

The opening of the second act was a violin solo and a series of acrobatic stunts. Rosanna Linde introduced the song, "Lucky Lindy" and six airplanes, suspended from the ceiling of the stage, were seen depicting the New York to Paris flight of Lindbergh, with Billy Shea as the famous flyer.

This scene and the accompanying number were encored several times. In the end of the act, the four leaders—Rosanna Linde, Myrtle Muir, Billie Shea and Ada Robinson, sang the song "Mary Lou."

DEATH COMES TO WESLEY GLENNEY

Widely Known Young Business Man Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Trouble.

Wesley Glenney, secretary of the W. G. Glenney Lumber company, died suddenly at Manchester Memorial hospital late Saturday afternoon. While Mr. Glenney had been ailing for more than three months with a heart affection, the end came unexpectedly. He had been spending a few weeks at Beach Park and only Saturday morning his brother, W. George Glenney, brought him back to town and took him to Memorial hospital for treatment. He appeared to be as well as usual during the early afternoon. The nurse in charge had left his room to bring his supper. When she returned she found him dead.

Mr. Glenney was born in Manchester 26 years ago, a son of the late William George Glenney, who for years was a member of the Manchester police force. He was educated in the schools of the Ninth district and the South Manchester High School from which he graduated in the class of 1919.

Highly Popular He was president of his class, captain of the baseball team, an active member of the basketball team, and one of the most popular young men in the school. He not only was enthusiastic about athletics but loved to hunt and fish. He entered the service of the W. G. Glenney Lumber company at the close of his school career.

Mr. Glenney was a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons, a fireman of Center Hose Company, No. 2, and a member of St. Mary's Episcopal church. He is survived by his mother, with whom he lived; two sisters, Mrs. George Meyer and Mrs. John May of this town; four brothers, James of Chicago, Irving, W. George and John of Manchester.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home on Bigelow street. Rev. E. G. Reynolds of Glastonbury will officiate in the absence of Rev. J. Stuart Neill of St. Mary's Episcopal church. Burial will be in the East Cemetery.

The funeral services will be attended by a delegation from Manchester Lodge of Masons as well as from the Hose company of which Mr. Glenney was a member. The bearers will be Robert and Fred Finnegan, Arthur Knott, Harold Symington, Henry Smith and Harold Walsh.

Governors of 24 States In Convention, Hear Iowa Man's Warning to the East—If Farmers Are Not Considered They Will Wreak Havoc With Political Parties, Gov. Hammill Declares.

MacKinnon Island, Mich., July 25.—The controversial issue of farm relief, which has already caused a partial split in both major parties, injected itself today into the annual conference of governors with such vivacity as to make certain its being one of the dominant political issues in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The chief executives of two dozen states had hardly settled in their seats here today for their annual convalescence before they were regaled with a ringing speech from Gov. Hammill, Republican of Iowa, in which he warned his conservative colleagues from the east that either the farmers of the country are going to obtain relief or they are going to wreak havoc with political party lines.

Addressing directly those governors representing populous industrial states of the east that profit by a high protective tariff, the Iowa insurgent declared:

"In my part of the country the people have been counted on as supporters of the protective tariff. I can sum up the present tariff attitude in the statement that we want a method through which tariff schedules can be made effective as applied to our main cash crops. The western farmers in the future will study the tariff as they never have done in the past and will exert their influence in the direction which they determine to be for their best interests regardless of their past political and economic affiliations."

Pausing to let that sink in, the Iowa governor continued with an out-and-out plea for the McNary-Haugen bill, which was passed by the last Congress and vetoed promptly by President Coolidge.

Needs No Apologies "The farmers," he said, "in asking that present day act and suggestions of government which operate to their disadvantage, be offset by a concisive program of agricultural protection, are doing precisely what every group have done under pressure in the past, and what they will continue to do whenever class inequality bears down on any considerable group in the future. The farmer has no apologies to offer for his efforts."

It is useless, Gov. Hammill declared, for eastern capitalists and economists to give advice to western agriculturalists to shift from crop to crop. "No relief will solve the problem. In substitution, he cited the experience of the South in going in for hog production. It helped stabilize the cotton situation, but it weakened the cotton with the western hog industry.

"We feel that the program we have supported (the McNary-Haugen bill) is the only constructive one yet advanced; we believe it to be the only economically sound one yet proposed."

Evidence that Hammill spoke not for Iowa alone was furnished promptly by Gov. Adam McMullen, Republican of Nebraska, who declared that the subject was greater than "any political organization or any individual."

Blunt Speeches The blunt speeches of the western governor furnished the high light of the opening session of the governor's conference—a gathering which brought together two dozen state executives for round table discussion of their mutual problems. States in every part of the country, from Maine to Florida, and from Pennsylvania to Utah, were represented.

This year's program of the governors skirted entirely the dangerous subject of prohibition. The prohibition question almost wrecked the conference three years ago and since then has been studiously ignored.

Flood Control Flood control, in which the southeastern and Mississippi river states are interested vitally, and merchant marine, in which the seaboard and great lakes are interested, with farm relief comprise the question of whether the general property tax, as at present constituted, had not outlived its usefulness and efficiency.

BIRGER IS SENTENCED TO DIE BY HANGING

Illinois Gangster to Terminate Machin Gunning Career at End of Rope.

Benton, Ill., July 25.—Charles Birger, swaggering gangster chief tain of southern Illinois, will terminate his machine-gunning career at the end of a rope in the yard of Franklin county's little jail here, providing the decree of the jury which tried him for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams, of West City, is carried out.

This jury late yesterday, after wrangling for 24 hours, found Birger guilty of first degree murder and condemned him to die on the gallows.

Art Newman and Ray Hyland, lieutenants of Birger, and tried jointly with him for the murder of Mayor Adams, were also found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The fact that Illinois has adopted recently the electric chair as its official method of execution, will not save Birger from the noose. The law provides that only those sentenced for crimes committed after July 1 of this year will be electrocuted.

If Birger hangs, he will be the first person executed legally in Franklin county.

DOCTOR ACCUSED IN LOVE MURDER

Picking Jury Today—Eighty Witnesses to Be Summoned For Unusual Case.

Franklin, La., July 25.—Legal battle lines were drawn today in the trial of three persons accused of the murder of James J. LeBoeuf in Morgan City, July 1.

Wife Present.

According to confessions made by Dreher and Mrs. LeBoeuf, Beadle fired the two shots that ended Leboeuf's life.

Residents Excited.

Excitement was rife in Franklin, the parish seat where the trial is to be held.

District Attorney Emile Vuillemont will ask the death penalty for the trio.

It was recalled that only recently Czeawoski's wife had eloped with Joseph Wondy, a neighbor, but returned to her husband and was living with him at the time of his death.

Probe Starts

Rockville SCENTED MYSTERY IN DEATH BY GAS

Rockville Victim a Suicide, However, Coroner Decides After Investigation.

There has been considerable trouble most of the time since Mary has insisted that she would get the $5,000, although the equity in the property does not amount to that much and even the efforts of her husband, who also returned to Rockville, to try and have her drop the suit, have been without results.

Case Discussed

The case was discussed on Saturday and the now dead man is said to have made the statement on different occasions that he would kill himself before he would give up the money.

Flag Presentation

A goodly number attended the presentation of the American flag and pole to the City Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

Case For Police

After talking to neighbors I decided it was a case for the police, Coroner Fahey said.

SOLDIERS, AT HOME, POCKET $5,000 PAY

Manchester Guardsmen Back On Their Jobs After Profitable Vacation.

Reimbursed to the extent of approximately $5,000 for their 15-day period of work and play at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, Manchester's soldier boys were back at their regular vocations today.

The camp was voted the best that has been held in the last six years and Col. D. Gordon Hunter praised the officers and men highly for their co-operation.

The official memorandum prepared by Col. Hunter and read to all the officers and men Sunday before departure from camp was as follows:

"This memorandum will officially close the 1927 15 day tour of field duty. While it has been the cleanest, healthiest and happiest camp we have yet held, free from any serious accident or disturbance...

"I am deeply appreciative of the honor of commanding a regiment composed of such loyal and dependable officers and men."

Throughout the afternoon on Saturday, it rained torrents at Camp Trumbull. It was the heaviest rain in three years at the camp.

Early Reveille Reveille yesterday morning was at 6 o'clock but in most cases the efforts of William B. Tassilo's regimental band, which played "I Can't Get 'em Up," were superfluous...

Shortly after 7 o'clock, the boys marched out of camp for the Niantic station, where they entrained for home.

gate and together with William Webb, of New Britain, his brother-in-law, entered the woods. Reaching the soft muck of a swamp, they came upon a woman's coat and a few yards away found the bundle. But its stench warned them of what they might find inside the bundle and retaining to the house they sent Raymond Bushnell of New Hartford, a passing motorist, for police.

The bundle was found by the answering authorities to be a few burlap bags wrapped around the badly decomposed body of the missing girl. The prostrate parents were immediately informed of the gruesome find but were not allowed to see the body.

A neighbor, Dominic Bruno identified the little victim. Rose disappeared while enroute home from a neighborhood grocery store the afternoon of July 16. Her frantic parents had enlisted the aid of police and friends in a fruitless search for the child.

Billadella was twice an inmate of the state reformatory, the first time on a charge of attempted criminal assault on a child and the second time for robbing St. Joseph's church of a small amount of money. The youth was out on parole at the time of the robbery. He had been substituting for his father as day worker at the pin factory. The factory has been idle most of the summer but maintains a day and night watchman.

Prosecuting Attorney C. W. Winslow accompanied the police escort that removed Billadella to the Litchfield jail, announcing that first degree murder action would be instituted at once.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BAND PLAYS AT SCOUT CAMP

Manchester Musicians Give Unexpected Concert at Crystal Lake.

Many hundreds of persons attending picnics at Crystal Lake on Sunday afternoon were happily surprised to learn of the added feature in the way of a band concert in the park's program. The warmth of the day brought a record crowd to the water and all available auto parking space was filled when the South Manchester Young People's Band of the Salvation Army opened its concert with a stirring march, which was followed with several vocal and instrumental selections.

The concert was planned that the troops of Life Saving Scouts of the World which is a Salvation Army scout organization and is affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America, are camped at the "Scout Camp" at Crystal Lake, might enjoy a special feature which is unusual entertainment for a scout camp.

The several patrols of scouts from South Manchester are in camp and Scout Leader James V. Munsie and his staff visited the camp for the purpose of inspection. They arrived early Sunday morning and after camp inspection was completed the camp bugler sounded out church call and all scouts attended a brief service conducted by Adjutant A. Pickering, from the first division headquarters of the Salvation Army who has the supervision of all young people's activities in the Salvation Army in the State of Connecticut, western Massachusetts and Vermont.

The regiment was operated as a smooth, harmonious and co-ordinated unit with each one cheerfully accepting his responsibilities and discharging them with credit to himself and the organization. "Marked progress in the various phases of our work is evident on all sides and all have combined to make this tour of duty pass into history as the outstanding success to date.

WEEK-END TOLL 7 DEAD, 22 HURT

Their cars crashed netting a broken clavicle for Jack August Odena, 39 of Stamford, occupant of Leonard's car. Five others were assisted from the wreckage unhurt. Although Anthony Czerwonka, 38, was found dead in a gas-filled room here, authorities are not certain an investigation was under way today.

With Mrs. Hazel M. Carde of New Britain in a Meriden hospital bruised and lacerated, her companion, Edward P. Bortoski, 26, is held on a drunken driving charge after his car skidded and overturned.

In New Britain At New Britain Bertha Babula was arrested after her car had collided with a machine driven by two persons, Bortoski and George Mastie are both hurt but Bortoski also was jailed together with Miss Babula, the former for reckless driving and the girl for operating without a license.

Pasquale De Maide, 68, ended his own life by drinking poison after living 25 years in darkness. Blind and despondent, the aged man left a note asking forgiveness.

Donald Richardson, 14, suffered a broken leg when his bicycle and an automobile driven by Thomas Lynch of New Milford came together at Torrington.

Hartford's contribution to the week-end tragedies was heightened by the conviction of Joseph Billadella, 19, of Winsted, who confessed to the murder of Rose Berdino, 10, whose body was found in a swamp near Highland lake.

At Unionville seven persons narrowly escaped drowning when the sedan in which they were riding plunged through the bridge over the canal and hung suspended with the front wheels touching ten feet of water. Passersby held the wavering machine while its occupants clambered hastily out.

Beautiful Set In the last act a beautiful gold set was seen on the stage, giving the appearance of the banquet hall in the reception to Lindbergh. A waltz and a black bottom dance, both well done by two little children, added considerably to this number and a fast dance pepped things.

Billy Shea sang "Forgive Me" and the show wound up with "Hallelujah" by the entire company. The State theater Junior orchestra, also directed by Manager Sanson, was in fine trim today and followed the show to the letter. Manager Sanson says that all the credit must be given to the children who have worked so hard to make the show a success.

The revue will go on every day at 2:40 and 8:30. The regular show will open, however, at 2:15 in the afternoon and at 7 o'clock in the evening. There is no advance in prices but the admission for the afternoon performances will be the same as that for the evening.

34 BOXCARS OF BOOZE SEIZED IN ONE YEAR

whiskey, wines and champagne were lost to the trade during the same period. Automobile seizures along 21 roads southward from the St. Lawrence numbered 319.

Sixty-four automobile seizures in May and June, customs officials assert, represent a "business risk" item of $250,000 for the distilleries in Prescott, Corbyville, Bellville and Kingston, all in Ontario, are marked by American operatives as the shipping points for Canadian whiskeys to the northern New York border.

Secret investigations by American border agents at the Ontario concentration centers a month ago, revealed 30,000 cases of liquor awaiting shipment to the United States.

So varied are the methods of concealment employed by the smugglers that it is frequently only by sheerest luck that consignments are detected.

Under Load of Wood. A truck load of two-by-fours fell into the hands of a customs officer last week when the driver halted a guard to ask directions to a notorious bootleg center thirty-five miles south of the border. Examining the load the officer uncovered 65 cases of European whiskey beneath a double layer of the timbers.

A gasoline truck carrying 24 cases of Montreal bottled beer appeared in straw within her 500-gallon tank was captured when a customs agent, having followed the load for more than fifty miles without a stop, began to wonder how much an ordinary tank wagon covered.

When a carload of furniture caught fire in the Ogdensburg switching yards on a hot afternoon, examination revealed a fifty-gallon keghead of whiskey crated with every eight lining-room chairs. The furniture alone was valued at more than $2,000. Barring the fire, 3,000 gallons of 120-proof Canadian whiskey likely would have reached Philadelphia "furniture dealer" for cutting.

In Milk Cans. Shipments of 24 milk cans from Chateaugay, N. Y., six miles south of the Quebec line, sent between 500 and 600 quarts of French champagne into Burlington, Vt., daily until a passing customs officer observed the thriving dairy plant nestled in a setting of huge granite boulders and evergreens, where any cow that did not starve to death in a week would certainly break four legs in a fortnight.

A shipper from Prescott, Ontario, directly opposite Ogdensburg, prospered as a ferry consignee of "dominion pride" bread imports mounted to more than three leaves per capita in addition to the local output.

Smuggle Drugs Too. Although alcoholic liquors are the chief item of contraband in the St. Lawrence smuggling traffic, the customs forces uncover operations in virtually every commodity on the United States tariff lists. A $50,000 trunk shipment of narcotics was hauled in at Malone, N. Y., because the owner, who said he was an actor, overlooked the fact well-known to customs agents, that actors have an aversion to new trunks.

A $30,000 consignment of diamonds was found wrapped in diamonds. The precious stones had been concealed in the cigars at the time of their manufacture.

A shoe brush, among another traveler's toilet articles, contained in a hollow back, 21 unfinished stones.

An invalid woman, who carried two downy pillows for added comfort on her journey to New York city, lost $4,500 worth of narcotics only because she turned energetically to watch the customs inspector after he had passed her with only a perfunctory examination of her luggage.

Besides watching all manners of smuggling along their 350 mile territory, the forty customs officers in front of the Ogdensburg district inspect and certify $200,000,000 worth of legitimate import and export commerce annually.

In this herculean labor last year, they detected 1,971 smuggling operations which led to criminal prosecutions in the federal courts for the northern district of New York. During the year 1,639 persons were sentenced to the penitentiary for the district. Fines aggregating $1,242,746 were assessed in prohibition and narcotics cases, against $191,000 in the southern district of New York, (New York City), the largest federal jurisdiction in the country.

Before a single judge of the northern district, there are now pending 1,126 criminal cases growing out of the operations of the border patrol, not including immigration cases.

BUILDERS ON OUTING FILL THE DAY FULL

Much Doing at Crystal Lake When Construction Co. Has Its Annual Outing.

Employees of the Manchester Construction company report that their annual outing at Crystal Lake Saturday was a happy occasion. Even the heavy rain storm in the afternoon failed to dampen the ardor of the fifty or more who went on the outing. There were sports of all sorts and a roast chicken dinner in the afternoon served by Chef Urbano Osano. The only event on the day's program which the rain kaye-owed was the baseball game.

The ball driving contest was won by Axel Anderson who succeeded in driving 15 eight-penny nails in 34 seconds. Ted Potvin was a close second, performing the same feat in 36 seconds.

Quoit pitching honors went to Henry Geiss and Elmer Knofla. This pair easily was the "class" of the latter, and Knofla who mixes the Johnny Thier and Cliff Avery were second.

Cliff Avery also won the swimming race. Arthur Twarz was second. Most of them only succeeded in reaching the float at the midway point.

The three-legged race showed the team of Johnny Gottle and Jimmy Duffy to be best. The Gottle-Duffy duo did not miss a step or stumble once in their furious sprint to victory.

Ivar Scott won first prize in the potato race and Wilfred Patenaud finished second.

A set-tee tournament was won by Dick Leidholt and John Clento. They repudiated a charge that they used synthetic methods. It was whispered that Clento who mixes territory and Leidholt, who carries a hod, have been practicing signals.

Old Man's Race The old man's race had but two entrants, the requirements fifty years of age. The winner was the only one to qualify strictly. However, John Schiebel, who was anxious to race, was let in on the grounds that he carried twice as much weight. It was a thrilling spectacle with weight tripping over age. Knofla got a good start but could not stop at the half-way mark whereas Schiebel's weight served him as a brake.

In wrestling, Lightweight Johnny Gottle lost to Heavyweight Avil Seaburg in a bout which included about every trick conceivable that the rules prohibit. It lasted 46 minutes before Gottle was pinned to the ground in a dramatic finish after Gottle had all but clipped off Seaburg's head with a scissors hold.

The picnicers ate steaming hot clam chowder, roast chicken et al., spaghetti and watermelon. Best Writings contest awarded the prizes for the athletic events. An early start home was made for the benefit of Ted Potvin, who is said to require at least an hour and a half to make the trip, and the party wished to keep together.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (39) Northern Seas

Map of the Northern Seas showing Alaska, Canada, Greenland, Spitzbergen, and the North Pole. Text: The northern seas are rich in the deeds and sufferings of brave men. Names of islands, inlets, sounds and frozen bays in the frozen arctic still bear the names of explorers who tried to find sea routes from ocean to ocean, from Asia to Europe across the bleak wastes pictured above.

Portrait of John Cabot. Text: John Cabot sailed in 1497 in the attempt to miss the New World and reach the Old. Instead he discovered North America, apparently touching Newfoundland.

Illustration of a fisherman. Text: Cabot discovered a "coast whose sea seemed almost solid with fish." Generations of men after him dared death to bring home this fish as food.

Illustration of a ship. Text: Sir Francis Drake, in the latter part of the sixteenth century sought a way through the Americas. He was caught by a storm as he sailed into the Pacific from Magellan's strait and blown far southward. He found open sea at the southern end of the continent proving that America does not reach to the South Pole. Then he sailed north. (To Be Continued)

SPEED

The illy considered action of the Legislature at its last session, in scrapping the legal speed limit for highway motoring has resulted in complicating a situation that was bad enough at best and which today is far worse than it ever has been.

In the every one of the accidents on the Milford pike the car which was primarily involved was traveling at thirty miles an hour or more, in most cases much faster.

Throughout the state there has been an appalling increase in the number of killings and of wrecks since the speed lid came off.

It is not only on the inter-urban highways that the craze for speed has become worse this year—it is everywhere. Cities and towns that formerly protected themselves by local ordinance against the maintenance of highroad speeds on their streets now submit to automobiles charging through thickly settled districts at a rate of speed twice to three times that dictated by a decent regard for the lives of their citizens.

What to do about it, nobody seems to know. Judge Johnson of the Manchester police court has asserted that 40 miles an hour is fast enough for anybody to drive and that a faster gait than that should be regarded as prima facie evidence of recklessness.

How fast can a driver negotiate the intersection at the Center or the stretch of North Main street through the Depot Square neighborhood or the streets surrounding the Cheney mills—and still have his car under the control that will make his passage reasonably safe?

It would seem as if we might, so far as Manchester at least is concerned, bring about a crystallization of ideas on what constitutes safe and what constitutes reckless driving, so far as speed alone is concerned.

Would it not be a good idea for the selectmen, the judge and prosecutor of the police court and the chief of police of this town to constitute themselves a board to interpret this problem, establish a code for the guidance of the public, post the roads with adequate warning signs—and then soak the offenders?

LIQUOR TRUTH

The growth of the use of liquor by boys and girls is frightening thousands of persons in this country who are not easily made panicky. A social debacle through the intrusion of the drink habit into entirely new fields is looming as a national menace. More people are heading the "Stop, look and listen" signs of the times—many more than even a year ago.

If we are on the wrong track in our handling of the liquor problem, if we have made a bad matter far worse by going at the reform in a wrong way, it is obvious that the longer a reversal of proceedings is delayed the more difficult it is going to become to undo the damage and get a fresh and right start.

So sanguine were the hopes of the folk who consented to the experiment of prohibition and so convinced were its promoters that they were doing the right thing that, not unnaturally, they were not wholly unbiased in their judgment on the results. There are very few persons so judiciously minded that they can weigh without prejudice the consequences of any action which they themselves have succeeded in bringing about. So that it has been exremely difficult to get earnest prohibitionists to look post-prohibition effects squarely in the face. Also they have been buttressed by a great deal of misinformation given out by professionals whose personal business it was to make prohibition appear to have been successful. We have been told, more or less officially, even since the first of the year, that the smuggling of liquor into the United States had been almost completely stopped and that there was no important source of supply, now, with the exception of moonshine and synthetic stuff made from redistilled commercial alcohol.

There is running in this newspaper daily a series of articles written by Lawrence Sullivan, so illuminating and so startling that no true friend of temperance, and no one who is not willing to let the country drift onto the rocks of wholesale debauchery, can afford to leave them unread. Mr. Sullivan is an employe of a news service controlled by an individual who perhaps did more than any other person in the country to make prohibition possible. He was sent on this mission of investigation to get and write the truth and nothing else. He has already shown that liquor smuggling into the United States from Canada is conducted on simply an enormous scale. He has, therefore, shown that the believers in prohibition have been utterly deluded in the house of their friends.

The first step necessary in the correction of the liquor situation in the United States is a better understanding of the facts by those who have hoped that conditions were pretty good and getting better. Once that better understanding is brought about, it goes without saying that something will be done. Either enforcement of prohibition will be compelled—and real enforcement will involve the most revolutionary overturning of political and economic forces than any country save Russia has ever achieved—or it will be recognized that the whole enterprise of Volstead prohibition is a delusion and that there must be compromise with facts on some saner and more serviceable basis.

PARITY HOKUM

"I am confident," proclaims Senator Moses, "that the Senate will never ratify any treaty which does not give to the United States complete parity with Great Britain on the seas—in tonnage, in number of ships and in calibre of guns."

At this point, no doubt, the senator envisions the words "great applause" in parenthesis. This is hokum talk, gallery stuff, the twaddle of George Moses, champion baby kisser and applesauce distributor of New England.

Moses knows well enough that there is absolutely no way to create parity by means of a treaty. To create a parity you must scrap or build ships. All that the treaty can do, by way of making the United States navy the theoretical equal of the British navy is to sign an agreement that it will be all right if the navies are brought to parity. And there is no faction in Britain which is trying to prevent such an agreement. That country has shouted its head off in asseveration that it agrees to the principle of parity.

It is no such simple thing, as Moses would have the gullible believe, which confronts the country at Geneva. The trick is to get a treaty that will not only provide parity—which is not at issue—but will provide it without compelling the United States to spend scores or hundreds of millions on war ships which aviation development will in all probability render obsolete before they are launched.

AFTER CAMP

Setting aside the never-ending disputations of the pacifist and the ultra-militarist, each of whom seems to regard the other as an enemy of mankind and a traitor to his country, there is much to be said for citizen soldier training, even if one goes no further into the subject than the annual fortnight's camp.

You have to hand it to the boss soldiers for knowing what to do with young fresh blood and with youthful mentalities, when it comes to the business of making them "fit." Off they go, each year, a good many hundreds of boys and young men who have been humped up over desks and workbenches and even automobile steering wheels, for a year, oftener than not slouchy in gait and indifferent and slack in manner—and back they come at the end of two weeks in camp, erect, snappy, greatly given to saying "sir" without obsequiousness, energetic, hard and altogether pleasing.

The National Guard encampments provide probably the very best vacation imaginable for hundreds upon hundreds of Connecticut boys, every year. And the best of it is that in the great majority of cases it is the sort of a vacation that the vacationer couldn't possibly afford, even if it could be had, in the same effect, outside a military camp—which it couldn't.

NOT SO SILLY

The Anti-Saloon League indignantly denies a recent newspaper story (not published in the Manchester Herald) to the effect that the executive committee of the League a year and a half ago, by a vote of only 5 to 4, defeated a motion to bring impeachment proceedings against the President of the United States.

Such a story is not only false but ridiculous, declares the League.

Perhaps. Such action on the part of the League would be ridiculous, of course; but that doesn't necessarily carry with it the implication that a report that the League contemplated such action is as silly as the action itself would be.

It would not be so very surprising if the League should take it into its head to demand the impeachment of President Coolidge. Everybody knows what it did to Senator Wadsworth.

OPEN FORUM

SUGGEST AIRPORT SITE

Editor The Herald: I have read with interest the several articles in The Herald concerning an airport for Manchester.

I agree this is an opportune time to agitate this subject. It seems to me it would be a good idea for the Chamber of Commerce to appoint a committee to investigate certain sites.

I believe any uninterested person after looking over the field would say that the best landing and taking off field in town is on the Maguire Tract, located on the east side of Autumn street. On several occasions aviators have landed and taken off there and they claim it is an ideal field. There are more accidents while taking off and landing than at any other stage of the game, and if a plane becomes unmanageable in taking off it is much better to have plenty of room in which to regain control than to be in danger of crashing into some building which might easily happen if the airport was located in the heart of a town.

The elevation of this field is fine for taking off, the visibility from the air good and it is located about one-half mile from Main street. I do not know as to whether it could be procured for an airport or not, but would suggest an investigation.

E. T. Ferris, 298 Oak street.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 25.—Exposure of new political scandals in Indiana, involving Governor E. Jackson, raises the question why, among the host of brilliant Hoosiers the state has produced, one or two of them couldn't have been persuaded to stay at home and clean up politics.

There is a growing feeling that an upheaval in Indiana is due, and that it will bring about new and better conditions in the state's political affairs.

A close friend of the late William Jennings Bryan recalls a hitherto unpublished story indicating what the Commoner thought of Indiana politics, even in his own party.

Bryan was campaigning for Wilson in 1916 and was working his way toward engagements in Ohio. He was besought to stop off in Indiana and speak once or twice there on behalf of the ticket.

"No," Bryan is said to have replied. "You're too rotten for me."

The number of "Bryan men" one still finds in Washington is surprisingly large. Old fellows, most of them, and veterans of all the Bryan campaigns. One and all they still have faith in the departed leader and regret that there is none to take his place at the head of a united party.

Recent controversy over the credit for the Federal Reserve Act which Colonel E. M. House appeared to claim for himself, which Senator Carter Glass sought to wrest from House, and which Samuel Untermyer tried to grab from both of them on behalf of Senator Owen, meets with a grunt from a Bryan worshipper.

It was a Bryan congress that passed the act, says he, and a deciding majority waited for Bryan's approval before they would have anything to do with it.

Secretaries and clerks left behind in senatorial and congressional offices report that they are having their troubles with the federal radio commission. The commission's new wave-length allocations met with widespread approval, but there were many protests from admirers of some stations whose ranges were reduced, principally in the middle west.

The commission was hard-boiled when broadcasters pleaded for reconsideration, so some broadcasters and fans sent S. O. S. calls to Capitol Hill. By when the boys and girls now handling the offices ask the commission for help or information, they obtain little satisfaction, because the board thinks it knows what it's doing.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York plans, at this writing, to sail for Germany and revisit the scene of his birth. Wagner seems to be the only member of the senate who was born in Europe. He came to this country at the age of 8 or 9, and when he defeated Wadsworth last year he was elected to the highest office whose duties were reduced by the constitution. Senator James Couzens of Michigan was born in Ontario and Senator Hiram K. Bingham of Connecticut was born in Hawaii. Former Senator Lane was born in Canada and the late Senator Nelson was born in Norway.

New York

New York, July 25.—In a barn-like building often half-hidden by the haze that drifts in from the East River, forbidding looking, closed in by tenements and the many symbols of poverty, end the tragedies of the great city; here the last grim chapters are written; here come the unhappy endings . . . for this is the New York morgue.

Here comes the stories of gas-filled rooms . . . the girl from the country who couldn't go back . . . Here comes the floater found in the waters of the Hudson . . . No explanation . . . Just tired of the grist of a grinding mill, perhaps, grist of a grinding mill, perhaps, bench who tried to escape life in bad gin. . . . The Broadway butterfly whose beauty began to fade and who woke up one morning tired . . . so tired . . . and forgotten by yesterday's loves . . . she looks in the mirror and sees a drawn face and once lovely eyes dissipation dimmed . . . They find her with an overdose of something-or-other . . . And the fellow that plunged too heavy on the market and, losing all, . . . the strange notion that money was everything. He bought a revolver . . . And the unhappy sweethearts, the faithless wife and husband of the "other man" . . . They come every day to add a few lines to the endless tragic story of this haze-hung harbor . . .

Each day a line of police walk past. They carry with them little books and photographs and slips of paper. They pause for a moment to scan a face, make a hasty pencil scratch across a name and go on. The record is ended for them.

Also, there is that endless stream of people "looking for someone" . . . They come day after day and go among the dead and go away and come again and go away. One woman, I am told, has come at various intervals over three years. A daughter disappeared one morning and was never heard of again. Each time the old woman expects to find her there . . . But never has.

They talk of the provincialism of the ruralities! Tab this one: the office boy of the institution in which the column is written—a young man of 19—started on a vacation the other day which took him on his first train trip. . . . He had never been more than two hours away from New York in his life. He asked me questions of what to do on trains such as I have not heard since reading the "by gosh" jokes of the old Uncle Hiram joke books. And he's far from being an unusual New York lad.

A school teacher of an East Side class tells me one of her greatest difficulties is trying to make the Manhattan youngsters realize what mountains look like. Brought up on 40-story skyscrapers they have difficulty imagining anything taller and when told there are mountains that make these buildings look like midgets they glance at her with open disbelief. GILBERT SWAN.

CHICAGO WILL GET BIG BOUT DESPITE KICK BY NEW YORKERS

Western City Is Way Out In Front—New York Out of It—Chicago to Give Many Inducements.

By SID MERCER Special Correspondent

New York, July 25.—Chicago first and running strong. New York second and dropping back. Philadelphia a poor third.

That's the alignment of municipal entries in the rich Tunney-Dempsey stakes. Chicago is leading by a mile, with a stadium that can seat 150,000 persons and no check on prices.

New York is practically out of the running. Even if the boxing commission cuts loose with a $50 "top" spurt that may not decide the race.

It should have been done before Chicago got so far in front. Philadelphia is just in there running for third place.

Will Go to Chicago There will be no question as to where Tex Rickard will make his next pitch in the fight with New York. He will go where the pickings are choicest—Chicago.

Call him a customer, sucker, fish or whatever you will call the fight fan is a glutton for punishment.

He may rail against high prices, ticket scalping, poor seating arrangements, overrated fighters, unsatisfactory endings and all that stuff, but just try to deny him the privilege of witnessing the next big boxing spectacle and he will roll all those protests into one bundle and fling it at whatever authorities are trying to "protect" him.

New Yorkers Peevish Now that the September heavyweight championship fight looms up as a big show for Chicago, the indignant New Yorker wants to know why. He is writing letters. He wants to be protected against making an expensive trip to Chicago.

Chicago means business, has offered many inducements, and is dealing with men who represent city bodies—not politicians and professional promoters. Chicago wants the fight to set on the map as a boxing center—as a spectacle that will bring thousands of visitors to the city from all over the middle west.

MANCHESTER MAN VISITS ROXY.

Charles A. Sweet was among the Manchester people who went on the excursion to New York yesterday. The majority of the time he spent at Roxy's new theater at Seventh avenue and 50th street. He is a great admirer of Roxy's radio program and determined to visit his "world's greatest theater" yesterday and present to Roxy personally a Cheney silk flag. He was very much impressed with the beauty of the theater, the splendid program tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Cheney, who is said to be of almost the same build as the former, was tentatively chosen to take her place.

Mrs. Cheney is the sister of Henry P. Davidson. Mrs. Davidson is Bud Stillman's sister.

MRS. CHENEY PERHAPS AIDE AT NOTED WEDDING

Mentioned as Probable Bridesmaid at Stillman-Wilson Nuptials.

Because she is the only woman of the party whom the original bridesmaid's dress would fit, Mrs. Ward Cheney was mentioned as the probable maid of honor at the wedding of Bud Stillman, young millionaire, and Lena Wilson, daughter of humble Quebec parents. The original bridesmaid, the dispatches said, found that she would be unable to serve at the wedding tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Cheney, who is said to be of almost the same build as the former, was tentatively chosen to take her place.

Mrs. Cheney is the sister of Henry P. Davidson. Mrs. Davidson is Bud Stillman's sister.

A brunette may be decided blond after she has decided to be a blonde.

MARLOW TO ENTER DEPT.'S STORE CLASS

Lease of Second Store Gives Merchant Fourth Largest Establishment in Town.

The filing with the town clerk on Saturday morning of a lease from Samuel Barabec et al. giving to Nathan Marlow possession for a term of sixteen years, starting October 1, 1927, of the store now occupied by Mr. Marlow and also the store which has been conducted by the Meyer-Harrison Bootery and at present being conducted as an annex to the Self Service Shoe store, is one of the largest real estate transactions in Manchester for some time. It involves $125,000 and assures Mr. Marlow additional floor space, with two combined stores and the basement, of over 10,000 square feet. Aside from the store spaces of Watkins Brothers and the Keth Furniture company, it is exceeded only by that of the J. W. Hale company.

NOW YOU Ask One

FILL IN THE BLANKS

Instead of questions, today you have blank spaces in which you are to supply missing words to complete the sentences. Correct missing words are on another page.

The modern girl seems to be hipless, bustling and useless.

"What is the greatest water power known to man?"

Big Ben A fine alarm clock is the rooster.

"One reason I am going to Europe," "is to obtain their recipe for the cancellation of debts."

SENSE and NONSENSE

"Well, sah," said Sambo after being asked what kind of chickens he preferred.

Travel teaches shrewdness, no doubt; but a man who can make money enough to travel is shrewd enough.

A woman: "I was outspoken at my club." "Who outspoke you?" asked her husband.

Wouldn't it be great if you could send the dishes to the laundry and the house to the cleaner?

He: "Why is your face so red?" She: "Cause."

"Doctor, does you pull teeth?" "Certainly, come right in."

A revival is a protracted meeting held in town.

Wordsworth Was Right The child is father of the man and he begins to exercise parental authority at a very early age.

A tramp asked a farmer's wife one day for a piece of bread. As she gave him a piece of pie she said:

"Yes, so I have, ma'am," said the tramp. He shoveled about a cubic foot of pie into his mouth with his knife and added, "Once I dwelt in marble halls."

"And now," said the farmer's wife, "did you come to lose such a nice home?"

"Term expired," said the tramp.

My girl is a telephone operator and when she dances every line is busy.

An ideal home is one where there is love, kindness and contentment between housecleaning times.

Among other things, happiness does not lend itself to mass production.

Give up the comforts of home for the discomforts of a summer resort and you'll get what's known as a vacation.

DR. WELDON TO FINISH SUMMER AT SEASHORE

But He Will Return to Practice in Fall. Veteran Physician Makes Known.

There has been considerable speculation in Manchester since Dr. Thomas H. Weldon suspended practice three months ago and quietly slipped out of town, as to whether or not he had permanently retired. It had been well known that his health has not been satisfactory. Some time ago a statement from a member of the family was published to the effect that the doctor was recuperating at the shore and would return before long.

Several weeks have slipped by without the doctor's return. Dr. Weldon and family are at Crescent Beach for the summer. A Herald representative met him there and was told that the physician expected to return to active practice in a month or two. He said he had already gained fifteen pounds since he went to the shore and was feeling much better.

Dr. Weldon has practiced medicine longer than any of Manchester's physicians except Dr. William R. Tinker, medical examiner here 43 years.

MUCH, MUCH LAW IN FIFTH DISTRICT

Legal Sharp Manning Has Too Many Tricks For Opposition's Comfort.

Fifth School District residents are inclined to think, according to several of them this morning, that the district is being overdone with law. They are anxious once more to get down to the plain, ordinary way of doing business.

As was told in The Herald on Saturday a petition was being circulated in the district to call a special district meeting. Under the general law concerning school meetings it is necessary for the district committee, on the presentation of a petition, to call such a meeting. So say several of the residents who have looked into the matter.

Believing they had secured the necessary numbers for such a call—the number, instead of being twenty-one, had reached nearly fifty—they had the petition presented to Rockvert McLaughlin, who was the first member elected a committeeman. The other two members of the board are Mrs. Alice Brown and former Committeeman Palmer. Mr. McLaughlin took the petition, together with a copy of a warning he had drawn up to the two other members to have them sign it, calling a meeting for July 29.

Mr. Palmer refused to sign and Mrs. Brown thought there should be more time given to the matter. This has resulted in a failure to get the signatures of the majority of the committee in time to have the meeting held on July 29, as it can not be advertised in time to meet the legal requirements of the law.

Must First Organize
The master mind behind all of the movements that require legal advice is according to the opinion of many of the voters in the district, Attorney Frederick R. Manning. It seems that Mr. Manning has so far been able to keep just one or two jumps ahead of the packs.

The residents of the Fifth District are learning a lot about school law. They have found that it is the duty of the clerk of the district to notify the secretary of the town school board, within a given number of days, of the names of the different officers elected at the annual town meeting and also their addresses. Attorney Frederick R. Manning is also Clerk Frederick R. Manning, and knowing the law in this respect filed, within the given period, the names and addresses of the officers elected in the Fifth district with Mrs. Florence Shearer, secretary of the town school board.

Who Is Chairman
When the petition was presented by Mr. McLaughlin at the request of several of the voters for signature of the other two members they just held off and in this they were undoubtedly acting on legal advice. It was true that there had been more than the necessary of names signed to the petition, which would compel them to sign if they wished to live within the law—if all of the other conditions had been complied with.

But the committee has not organized.
The fact that Mr. McLaughlin was the first man named did not carry with it the position of chairman. It was, however, his duty, being the first one named, to call the committee together for organization. This he had failed to do before the presentation of the petition. He has now called a meeting for organization and this meeting will be held tonight, unless there are other complications.

McLaughlin in Minority
Mr. McLaughlin will not be named the chairman of that committee. The residents of the district understand that now. He will not be the secretary of the committee. Mr. Palmer will be the chairman and Mrs. Brown will be the secretary and Mr. McLaughlin will be the "crowd" that sits in at the meetings.

Providing the committee decides tonight to organize it will mean that it will have the power to name the janitor for the school, who will undoubtedly be Committeeman Palmer, who gets paid by the town for the work and gets a pretty fair thing, for a school the size of the Fifth.

There are some persons in the district who feel that Dr. Holmes's report concerning the lack of playgrounds and water bubblers are correct and they want to have something done to grade away the knoll where the school stands so there will be playgrounds. They want to add additional bubblers outside, but they do not know if the water company will install these or not, as they find that the bill for water furnished to the bubblers in the school, voted by the district at a meeting, has never been paid.

Tonight will probably result in organization of the committee and then, perhaps, if a petition is again presented, there may be a school meeting.

Between 75 and 80 local people took in the first Sunday excursion trip to New York yesterday. The train was delayed on the return trip more than half an hour because of an excursionist who boarded the Springfield train and in his excitement jumped off and was killed.

Why
are using
More Ice

EACH year the ice business grows in volume, because housewives are making more intelligent and adequate use of ice.

No longer is it considered economy to stint the use of ice. Women realize that it is just the opposite of economy to risk the spoilage of expensive food, to save a few cents' worth of ice.

Ice is an investment. Don't waste it in an inefficient or worn-out ice box. Have a good box—keep it one-half to two-thirds full all the time. Your food will stay fresh, taste better, and you will save money.
