

GERMAN PLANE BREAKS RECORD FOR ENDURANCE

Stays Aloft 52 Hours, 20 Minutes and 8 Seconds Beating Americans' Mark By About An Hour.

I. N. S. CORRESPONDENT
TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN

The "Europa," in which a new world's duration air record has just been established in Dessau, Germany, is the Junkers plane in which H. R. Knickerbocker, international news service correspondent, will fly as a passenger on the proposed non-stop Berlin-to-America hop. Knickerbocker will be the first correspondent ever carried on a flight across the ocean. The 4,000 mile hop is scheduled to start within a few days.

Dessau, Germany, Aug. 5.—Using the same airplane in which they will attempt a non-stop flight to the United States, German aviators, Johann Ristetz and Cornelius Edzard established a new world duration record for airplanes today.

Setting out on Wednesday morning the aviators flew continuously in their Junker plane Europa until 10:11:08 o'clock this morning making a new record of 52 hours, 20 minutes and 8 seconds. They were bringing the new record to Germany from the United States, beating the former record made earlier in the year over Long Island, N. Y., by Clarence D. Chamberlin and Bert Acosta by about one hour.

At nine o'clock the Europa passed the 51 hour mark on its continued round trip flights between Dessau and Leipzig and the aviators had thirty gallons of gasoline left in the tank. They estimated that this would last them until about ten o'clock and they dropped a note saying that they would land at that time. When they did land they had exhausted every drop of their fuel.

Crowd Ecstic.
At 9:49 o'clock the Europa was passing the 52-hour mark, already having beaten the old world record and the crowd at the Dessau Air-drome was showing signs of great excitement and huge elation.

The Junker plane Bremen, which set out shortly before the Europa Wednesday morning in an effort to break the world's duration record along with its companion machine, had to quit on account of engine trouble. The Bremen will be started on a trans-Atlantic to New York when the Europa hops off.

Almost all the population of Dessau was at the flying field and broke out in a chorus of uproarious "hoos" when news was flashed that the record had been broken. People embraced each other and some of the more exuberant leaped into the air shouting.

Cries for Joy.
Mrs. Edzard, who had been up all night, cried for joy.

The weather was fine for flying. The sky was blue and almost cloudless and the sun was shining bright.

The fuel tank was dry when the machine landed and the propeller stopped whirling the moment the plane touched the ground. Ristetz and Edzard were both fresh and declared they were not tired after their long sky voyage, although it got pretty monotonous. They showed few traces of the strain.

Cheer greeted them as they climbed from the cockpit and the

HER THIRD ATTEMPT TO COMMIT SUICIDE

After Being Rescued From Railroad Tracks, Woman Tries to Hang Herself.

New Britain, Conn., Aug. 5.—Dependency over the removal from her custody of her small children, was assigned today as the motive that has prompted Mrs. Stanley Roman, 35, to make three attempts at suicide.

Mrs. Roman was first prevented from ending her life several weeks ago. Wednesday night she made another attempt when she took her two-year-old daughter in her arms and flung herself on the tracks before an oncoming train. She was rescued and when taken to a jail cell, again tried self-destruction by leaning her blankets into strips and hanging herself from the cell door. She was discovered and the noose severed in time to save her life.

Three of her children were recently taken from her and removed to the county home for care after she had been adjudged incompetent together with her husband of being able to provide them with a wholesome environment.

The woman was being closely watched today by relatives after being removed to her home.

MRS. COOLIDGE AND HER PETS

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge's private menagerie is growing during her stay in the Black Hills. Here she is shown with three new members—Ebenezer, a Democratic mule, Diana, a white collic, and Tiny Tim, a chow. Ebenezer and Diana, it should be noted, are just getting acquainted.

POSTPONE LIBRARY ACTION TWO WEEKS

8th District Meeting Names Committee to Investigate and Report August 18.

When Judge William S. Hyde told Eighth district voters last night they did not support the Manchester Public Library and it might be moved outside the district if they did not house it, opposition to the present quarters seemed to fade. Mr. Hyde's motion to have a committee investigate conditions and report back Thursday evening Aug. 18 was carried and the meeting was adjourned to that date.

The committee, which Mr. Hyde named and which was elected as follows: Dr. F. A. Sweet, William Maguire, William Foulds, Jr., Mrs. C. R. Burr, and Mrs. Charles J. Strickland. This committee will advise into the library question to ascertain whether or not the present location should be changed, and will report to the meeting on the question of changes in the present school buildings to provide more room.

The only business transacted before the adjournment to August 18 was voted postponed action on the installation of a sprinkler system in the schools. A. L. Brown, chairman of the school committee reported that in accordance with the vote of the annual meeting he had secured bids on the work. The cost would run nearly $900 over the $10,000 appropriation.

W. S. Hyde moved that the appropriation be increased $900, but Edward J. Murphy amended the motion postponing action for at least a year. Mr. Murphy believed that since alterations in the schools might be necessary soon the sprinkler installation should wait until that time at least. George H. Williams spoke for the amendment saying he believed greater expenses were in the offing and the district should wait. The amendment was carried 38 to 18.

PRINCE PICKS ACTRESS AS A DANCING PARTNER

Claims Her Time and Again at Country Club Affair Held in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—As the Prince of Wales left for Brockville today for a yachting trip through the Thousand Islands, he carried with him memories of a demure, piquant actress with whom he danced until early this morning at the country club. Valerie Elmer-Jones is her name and only a few weeks ago she was charming Broadway with her beauty.

Miss Elmer-Jones, an accomplished amateur actress, is a member of one of Ottawa's oldest families. Some months ago she took a part in a Broadway production, but soon turned to a theatrical career and returned to take her rightful spot in Ottawa's social life.

THIEF MAY CALL, GET REST OF EQUIPMENT

If the person who stole both sets of horseshoes from the quail court in the rear of the Army and Navy club house will call at the club, he will be given the rest of the equipment, said a member this morning. "He might as well have the rest of the stuff. It's no good to us without the eight snoes," he concluded.

BLIGHTED ROMANCE CAUSE OF TRAGEDY

Girl Kills Movie Producer In Hollywood and Then Takes Her Own Life.

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 5.—A blighted romance of the studios ended in a double tragedy here today when Betty Montague, 28, film retoucher, shot and killed Hamilton W. Mannon, 32, motion picture producer, and then ended her own life with the same revolver.

Both were found slumped over in the front seat of an expensive automobile early today. Mannon was dead. His head was resting on the girl's lap, when police arrived. The young woman died a few hours later at the Emergency hospital.

A small calibre pistol was lying on the floor of the car, just out of reach of the girl's dangling arm. In House Dress
The woman was clad in a house dress, her foot was pressed firmly on the seat starter. The grinding noise of the starter motor first attracted passersby, who called police. Mannon was vice-president of the Tec-Art studios here and one of the best known of picture executives.

His brother and business associate, Albert S. D'Agostino, told police that Mannon and Miss Montague had been "going together" for eighteen months.

Mannon recently rejected the girl his brother declared, and she had been calling him on the telephone at all hours of the day. Mannon, however, refused to discuss the affair with his brother.

The motive
Intimation that jealousy may have been the motive for the shooting was contained in a letter sent to Mannon from New York by a woman whom police are endeavoring to discover as the film man's wife or former sweetheart.
The letter, dated January 2, was signed "Min" and read:
"Ham, Dear. The nearest thing to seeing you, I admit, is a photograph. How do you like the new life? I hope you haven't forgotten entirely. If you are foolish enough to marry please tell the little lady of my existence, for some day I may decide to see you and she would have to know about me anyhow. I might pass as an aunt."

LOWDEN, DAWES, HOOVER NAMED AS CANDIDATES

Capitol Politicians Already Peering Into Future— Hughes, Longworth, and Wadsworth in Field, Too.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The practical politicians of the capital, trying to peer through the haze of the next ten months, are already beginning to vision the Republican convention of 1928 as generally similar to the historic 1921 convention.

Whether history will repeat itself as to details and see the favorites out-distanced and a dark horse nominated, as was the case in 1920 can only be conjectured, but they point out that the pre-convention situation is much the same. The three strong men, 1920 were Lowden, Wood and Johnson. Ultimately they killed each other off and Warren G. Harding was nominated.

Lowden, Hoover, Dawes
The three strong men of 1928 appear to be Lowden, Hoover and Dawes, with Charles Evans Hughes constituting a possible fourth. In that situation, the political railbirds of the capital seem to appear in another deadlock, and the convention having ultimately to choose another—possibly "drafting" Calvin Coolidge, or permitting the lightning to strike one of the dark horses designated to appear in the pasture, "Nick" Longworth, for example, or ex-Senator "Jim" Wadsworth of New York.

Up to Coolidge
This interesting possibility, is, of course, predicated upon the theory that President Coolidge will "choose" not to exert pressure upon the convention in behalf of any candidate, but leave the convention free to select its own leader among themselves. If President Coolidge does not "choose" to keep hands off but should throw the admittedly enormous prestige of the White House behind Herbert Hoover or Charles Evans Hughes for instance, it would change the complexion of the convention in a twinkling. The practical politicians of the capital are beginning to peer out among persistent rumors that Hoover is the residuary legatee of the Coolidge strength, and they are well aware of the high esteem in which Mr. Coolidge has always held his erstwhile secretary of state.

Another Aspect.
There is, however, still another aspect of the situation that the practical politicians are not overlooking. That is the strong personal friendship between two of the possible "Big Three," Vice-President Dawes and ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden. Fellow Illinoisians and intimates of long standing, they see eye-to-eye on many politico-economic problems of the day, notably the farm problem. Both are the "outs" with Mr. Coolidge. The speculative politicians of the capital doubt that Dawes and Lowden would carry their personal quests

PROMOTER OF BOXING REPORTED KIDNAPPED

"Jim" Mullen, of Chicago, Being Held for Ransom, Police Officials Declare.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—James C. "Jim" Mullen, leading Chicago boxing promoter, has been kidnapped and is being held for ransom. This was the word flashed in police circles here today following the mysterious disappearance of Mullen after the Loaysa-Herman bout here Tuesday.

He is believed to be the victim of the same gang which was reported to have kidnaped and demanded ransom for the return of Jake Adler and Clarence Lasarous. Adler is a wealthy cabaret owner and Lasarous proprietor of alleged gambling places.

NEW COUNSEL FOR SACCO CASE; EUROPEAN REDS THREATENING

Great Demonstration Planned For Sunday In London— American Embassy Guarded By Detectives; In Paris Radical Newspapers Rap Gov. Fuller; Florida Cigarmakers to Wear Mourning.

London, Aug. 5.—Great demonstrations before the American embassy "to protest against the judicial murder of Sacco and Vanzetti and to demand the reversal of Gov. Fuller's decision" are planned here for Sunday.

British protests are being arranged by the International Class for War Prisoners' Aid, and it is announced that the appeals have the support of George Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells, Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, M. P., James Maxton, M. P., Oswald Mosely, M. P., and John Wheatley, M. P.

The demonstration in London on Sunday will be held in Trafalgar Square and will have the support of the labor movement. Demonstrators plan to accompany a deputation to the American Embassy where officials of the embassy will be asked to grant a hearing to the demonstrators.

Embassy Protected
Scotland Yard has taken precautions here and American official buildings are under guard. It is anticipated that there will be any violence in connection with demonstrations here.

British newspapers are giving great publicity to the case, most of them condemning the American legal procedure which permits such a case to drag through the courts for seven years while men wait their fate.

15,000 QUIT WORK
Tampa, Fla., Aug. 5.—Approximately fifteen thousand cigar factory workers returned to work here this morning after walking out on a general strike yesterday in protest against Gov. Fuller's refusal to grant executive clemency to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

After a mass meeting at the Tampa Temple at which over 6,000 were present, a resolution setting aside the day of execution as a day of mourning was drafted. Every cigar worker was ordered to don black and to hang crepe in the doorway of his home on the day of execution. Tampa cigar factories will remain closed at that time.

FRENCH REDS BITTER

Paris, Aug. 5.—A number of French newspapers, especially those with Communist and Socialist leanings, commented bitterly today upon the decision of Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, that Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti must die for the Braintree, Mass., payroll murders.

Communist Deputy Vallant Courturier, writing in the Socialist newspaper Humanite, said: "If Sacco and Vanzetti are executed the American Legion convention in Paris will become absolutely impossible."

The French Sacco-Vanzetti committee is organizing a "silence demonstration" upon the boulevards Sunday and is seeking government approval.

Former Premier Joseph Caillaux's Socialist newspaper Volonte published an editorial pleading with the government not only to permit the demonstration, but to intervene in behalf of the condemned men through diplomatic channels.

Effects of Executions
"Oeuvre published at the top of its first page a picture of the Statue of Liberty threatened with a black cloud, with the caption: "Can it Still Enlighten the World?"

This newspaper speculated upon the effect of the execution of the anarchists upon Franco-American relations, saying: "Are we going to lose through the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti everything gained by the heroism of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh."

The Socialist newspaper Populaire commented: "We must save Sacco and Vanzetti at no matter what cost."

The syndicalist organ Peuple said: "If this crime is committed it will never be forgotten. The heart of Paris, which beat generously for Lindbergh will not be inassable to the tragic end of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Doomed Philosopher Makes Public His Last Message

BY BARTOLOMEO VANZETTI
As Told to Gene Cohn

I have read much and studied much—but all studies are aimed to teach how to read the Book of Life. That is the book of books!

And so I have brought to my studies a continuous and inexorable observation of man, animals and plant life—of all those things surrounding man. Meditations upon life's book determined my principles and my conduct of life. I have never been able to bow to the creed of dog-eat-dog, or "every man for himself." I have championed the weak and oppressed and the persecuted ones. I believe in heroism and sacrifice only when directed toward the triumph of justice.

Man cannot trample with impunity upon the unwritten laws that govern his life; he cannot violate the laws that bind him to the universe. Mountains, seas and rivers were formed before man by natural chemical processes and not—as so many seem to hold—with the intent of dividing man from man.

I believe in universal love. I maintain that whoever benefits or hurts a man, benefits and hurts a whole species. Equity of rights and duties is the only moral basis upon which can be erected a just human society.

As I understand it the supreme goal of life is hap-pleness the immutable bases of happiness are health, peace of conscience, the satisfaction of animal needs, and a sincere faith. True wisdom, I understand, lies in tolerance.

I have always sought to bring a roof to each family, bread to each mouth, education to each heart and mind, and light to every intellect.

I am convinced that human history has not yet begun; we find ourselves in the last period of the prehistoric. The sky is suffused with the rays of a new millennium. Progress and change are to be determined by intelligence and the common conscience.

The learned psychologists tell us that 33 is the age of offenders generally. It was the age of Christ when he offended against the mob. It was my age when they scheduled me for prison and, in the end, for death.

Yet let me tell you this—were I to begin this journey of life all over again ten minutes after death had been pronounced over me, still would I follow the same way, changing it only where it might lessen those minor sins and errors.

I am, and shall be at the last instant, an anarchist-communist, because I believe therein to lie the most humane form of human social contract.

Will you, please, send to my comrades, my friends and to all good men my embrace and fervent greetings!

PARLEY DELEGATES PREPARE TO LEAVE

All Part In Spirit of Good Will After Collapse of Conference.

Geneva, Aug. 5.—The ashes of the Tri-Partite Naval Disarmament Conference were exceedingly cold today. There was no aftermath of discussion. There was merely a group of tired and disappointed delegates preparing for departure.

High Gibson, chief American delegate, paid a formal farewell call on 150 members of the British delegation who remained here. Gibson will himself take a few days' rest. The delegates were unanimous in declaring that, while the Anglo-American deadlock on cruiser strength and gun power had wrecked the meeting, all parted in a spirit of good will.

Moderate Speeches.

Speeches delivered by the American, British and Japanese delegates in the final plenary session at the Hotel Des Bergues were surprising moderate in tone. The anticipated "fireworks" failed to develop.

"Following the meeting there was considerable private discussion as to whether another effort would be made by President Coolidge at the end of the year to bring about a new parley. Gibson refused to discuss such a possibility.

BIG FREIGHT PLANE LANDS AT HARTFORD

Can Carry 2,730 Pounds and Can Fly 120 Miles an Hour— Gets Big Welcome.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 5.—The Giant tri-motored transport plane recently manufactured by the Ford Company for the Royal Typewriter Company of Hartford, landed here today shortly after eleven o'clock after a speedy flight from New York and found a welcome of state and city officials.

Governor Trumbull headed the welcoming committee which included Mayor Stevens and Chamber of Commerce representatives. The big freight carrier will be used for transporting "rush orders" officials of the Royal Company stated, adding that it would depart soon for Havana, Cuba, with a cargo of machines. Its capacity is 2,730 pounds and will maintain an average speed of 120 miles an hour.

STATE BUYS LAND TO CUT BAD CURVE

Acquires Loomis Property at Manchester Green— Part of Highway Plan.

The State of Connecticut today purchased through Robert J. Smith, Manchester real estate dealer, the Nathaniel Loomis estate property in Manchester Green at the Junction of East Center street and Middle Turnpike. The State Highway department desires the land for widening purposes in connection with the proposed improved highway with Manchester Center.

The property which consists of land extending 260 feet on East Center street, a two family white house and barn was owned by Mrs. Elveta E. and Miss Alta M. Loomis, widow and daughter of the late Nathaniel W. Loomis. It is located on the curve of the highway where the Connecticut company trolley tracks cross the Green terminus. The house is occupied by the Loomis family and by the family of Charles H. Smith, who conducts a garage in an adjacent building.

To Move House Back
The State Highway department intends to move the house back on the property and then rebuild the road cutting out the sharp curve that now exists at this point. The property will go through the center of the house as it now stands. The state has in mind the rebuilding of the entire highway between the Center and Willimantic and is acquiring several pieces of land along the route so that the highway may be straightened and dangerous corners obliterated.

One of the dangerous features at the junction in the Green is the trolley track crossing which comes at the curve in the road. Although the Connecticut company has not made known any definite plans it is probable that this danger will be done away with when the state begins widening at this particular place. Just when the proposed work will be done has not been decided.

Arthur D. Hill Takes Charge Of Radicals' Defense; Confers With Prof. Frankfurter, Noted Harvard Legal Authority—Suspect Arrested at Gov. Fuller's Home—Electrician Visits Prison to Test Death Chair

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5.—Attorney Arthur D. Hill, new counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, today held a long legal conference behind closed doors at his office with Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, ardent defense committeeman, and Attorney William G. Thompson, retiring counsel.

A problem facing the new counsel was said to be the attitude of Sacco, who has stated again and again that he would never sign any document addressed to the courts asking further consideration. Sacco would not sign the request for the review by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller and Vanzetti signed it when it was addressed "A Plea of Justice."

Attorney Hill was secretive about his plans, refusing to discuss the possibility of a conference with the prisoners in the death House at State's prison.

Sayer at Conference
Prof. Francis B. Sayer of Harvard, son-in-law of the late President Woodrow Wilson, was called to the conference in connection with the proposed appeal to the United States Supreme Court, to be made, it was said by defense committeemen, if a state court appeal fails.

Thomas O'Connor, local newspaper writer, explained to Attorney Hill certain activities of Department of Justice agents just prior to the arrest of Sacco and Vanzetti to show why they gave evasive answers when they were seized.

Woman Arrested
A woman, it was learned at the State House, was arrested at the doorway of Gov. Fuller's summer home at Rose Beach, N. H. and was held by police for questioning. The governor and his family since he handed down an adverse decision by the Sacco-Vanzetti case has been under close guard.

At state's prison Sacco continued the 20th day of his hunger strike. Vanzetti touched neither breakfast nor luncheon. Both were said to have given up all hope of being saved from death.

Fifty-six telegrams were received at Gov. Fuller's office at the State House in one hour today. Twenty-two of the telegrams protested against the governor's decision. Prior to this 94 letters were received, all praising the governor's action in refusing clemency to Sacco and Vanzetti.

Vanzetti spends much of his time, according to prison officials in pacing his cell. Sacco growing weaker each day, keeps to his prison cot.

From separate cells in the death house, the two doomed men talk to each other although they cannot see each other.

Fleary letters from the pens of the two men were made public today. Both assailed Gov. Fuller. "We die for Anarchy. Long Live Anarchy," wrote Vanzetti in conclusion.

Sacco wrote that he was not surprised that "Gov. Fuller has decided to kill us as rats." The radicalists class is hard without mercy on the good soldiers of the revolution."

Praises Governor.
A daily newspaper in Malden, a suburb of Boston, home-town of the governor, editorially declared that his decision places him in the forefront for the Republican nomination for the presidency with a "law and order" slogan.

The executioner chosen to officiate at the electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti and Celestino Madellos, sometime after their respites expires, midnight on August tenth, has been notified to come to the prison to test the electric chair. The chair stands within a few feet of the death cells, where Sacco and Vanzetti and Madellos are confined.

The name of the executioner was withheld, but it was understood that he will come from New York. In connection with Sacco's hunger strike, it was recalled today at the prison that Mayor Terrence MacSwiney of Cork, Ireland, did not die until the 74th day of his hunger strike. The Journal of the American Medical Association recently noted that the average person can live without food for fifty days and suffer no ill effects.

Both Sacco and Vanzetti, although they are refusing food, continue to drink water from faucets in their cells.

14 NEW TEACHERS IN DISTRICTS 1-8

Supt. A. F. Howes Announces List of Grammar Grade In- structors for 1927-28

Superintendent of Schools, A. F. Howes in charge of Districts 1 to 8 today announced the list of instructors for next year in the grade schools of the first eight school districts. More changes than usual in the teaching staff were necessary this year and 14 new teachers were engaged. Of this number three will be employed as additional teachers at Manchester Green.

All the new teachers are normal graduates and all except two have had at least two years successful experience. Great care has been taken in their selection and they can be depended upon to fill their positions satisfactorily, Mr. Howes stated.

Following is a list of the new teachers and the positions they will fill.

DEALERS PLAN DEFENSE AGAINST FUTILE ADS

Chamber of Commerce Sounds Opinions of Merchants on Mutual Agreements.

In order that Manchester merchants may be protected from promiscuous solicitation for so-called charities and other movements the Chamber of Commerce has sent out to its membership a questionnaire asking each individual to be a party to an agreement to refuse to patronize any solicitor who does not carry a card of approval issued by the Chamber.

Any merchant who joins in the movement will receive the right to display a solicitation agreement card in his windows. He will be asked to refer all solicitors without approval cards to the Chamber of Commerce.

Some of the organizations might be eligible for the approval of the Chamber are the Red Cross, Anti-Tuberculosis Association, Boy and Girl Scouts, district nursing associations, hospital nursing associations and similar worthy bodies. Merchants who have received the questionnaire are asked to insert the names of any other organizations they deem deserving of approval.

The card of membership will say that the merchant has agreed not to make contributions or donations of cash or merchandise or to subscribe for space in any advertising medium or publication except newspapers and periodicals having a regular date of issue at least four times a year, unless the solicitor submits an approval card.

DEATH BRINGS RELEASE TO OLD THOMAS BEST

Long Suffering Octogenarian Dies in Coma at Hospital, Ending 20 Years of Pain.

The lonely, pain-racked life of Thomas Best, 84-year-old sufferer of 20 years standing, came to a peaceful end at 6 o'clock this morning at Memorial hospital where he had been confined for ten days. He was in a coma when he passed away and had been semiconscious or unconscious practically all of the time since his admission to the institution.

Best had lived alone in a small house on 540 Park street for four years, never leaving the immediate vicinity of his home, except upon two occasions when he was removed to a hospital for treatment. For twenty years, Best has been suffering from a terrible ailment in his head. Doctors diagnosed it as tic douloureux, a form of neuralgia. Advanced age prevented an operation.

Best and his wife came to Canada from their home in 45 years ago and since she was a girl and never knew a day's illness. Nancy also likes a nip of good pre-war "stuff." She spends her time weaving baskets and works without spectacles. She has ridden in an airplane and likes a spin in an automobile if the chauffeur drives it fast enough. In fact, she has all the earmarks of a flapper despite her 115 years.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Town Treasurer George H. Waddell has been appointed conservator of his estate which only consists of the quarter-acre lot on which the small house stands. The nearest relatives of the deceased is Archie McCollum of this town, who is a brother-in-law.

GERMAN PLANE BREAKS ENDURANCE RECORDS

crowd swarmed out to greet them and shake their hands.

The Junkers Works, where the planes were built, declared a holiday for the 3,000 workers. These workers swarmed out upon the field, shouting and singing.

Director's Statement.
Dr. Götthard Sachsenberg, head of the Junkers works, after looking over the record winning plane, said:

"If the cylinders of the motors of the Europa had been adjusted to the same compression point as the cylinders of the Bremen the Europa would have been able to fly another five hours. For transmission of the trans-Atlantic flight the compression ratio of the motors of both machines will be one to six. That of the Europa on this flight was one to seven giving the engine an extra fifteen horsepower but consuming ten per cent. more gasoline."

Upon receipt of news that the Europa was still in the air at five o'clock this morning, Prof. Junkers, head of the Junkers Works, who was spending a vacation at Warnemünde, on the Baltic, boarded a special plane and started for Dessau. He arrived here just about the time the Europa was landing, and took his family to the flying field. All the directors of the Junkers Works and about fifty newspaper correspondents and photographers were at the field.

Shortly after daybreak when word was flashed over the country side that the Europa was still aloft and going strong, people began flocking to the flying field. They arrived in all sorts of vehicles, and thousands tramped it on foot.

The Burgmaster of Dessau arrived at the field in a motor car filled with flowers for the airmen. There were six large bouquets from municipal organizations that filled the machine.

Edzard's first request upon landing was for a cigarette which he smoked readily.

LOWDEN, DAWES, HOOVER SEEN AS CANDIDATES

for the nomination to sufficient length to kill each other off.

There is a widespread suspicion in political circles in Washington that there is more than a sympathetic understanding between the Lowden and Dawes camp. They labored together to enact the McNary-Haugen bill over Mr. Coolidge's opposition in the last Congress. Dawes was a supporter of Lowden in 1920. In 1923, there are many Republicans who believe that General Dawes, with his capacity for quick decisions and dramatic action, would throw his following to his friend and collaborator.

Political strategy for the present, however, dictates that each candidate should proceed upon his own feet and in quest of delegates. Much of the speculation and conjecture and prediction now being engaged in by Washington politicians may well prove valueless, however, before many months have elapsed of presidential primaries that will hold prior to the convention. These will show which of the wind blows and may result in some eliminating before June is reached. The first primaries are held in New Hampshire and North Dakota in March.

SHIP SIGNS NOW WEAR MORE EFFECTIVE COLORS

Redecoration of Manchester's Town Markers Makes Them Brilliant and Artistic.

All the eleven ship signs which mark the entrances to Manchester, are being painted at the workshop road; East Hartford, by a lighter color scheme is different from the one which has been used heretofore.

The ships themselves are painted in dark blue, shading to a lighter color at the bows and stern. The hulls are a combination of brown and buff, while the wave curling is snowy white. The painting on the ships is excellent and the effect is striking as well as more artistic than the former color scheme.

Some of the signs have already been completed and put in place. There remain about half a dozen which are unfinished.

The signs are at the following entrances to Manchester: Buckland at the Windsor line; Wapping at Deming street; Bolton, on Middle Turnpike; Glastonbury, on Hilltown road; East Hartford, at Silver Lane; East Hartford, at Woodland; Rockville, at Oakland; Bolton, on the Campmeeting Woods road. There are two other signs, one at Depot Square and one at the Center.

MICHIGAN PLANS CONVENTION TO PICK SENATOR

Republicans Will Hold Meeting to Select Their Primary Candidate.

Lansing, Mich.—Calling of a special Republican state convention to select a candidate for United States senator who will go into the primary election next summer with official support of the party organization is planned by party leaders here. The plan was laid before Gov. Fred W. Green, who declared that he was willing to give it a trial.

As outlined to the governor, the purpose of the Republican leaders is to retain the primary election system, but hold advisory conventions in the same way that the Democrats have done for several years. Although the senatorial primary is a year away, it already is evident that there will be at least half dozen candidates for the Republican nomination. The party graybeards fear that this might cause the nomination of a minority candidate who could not win against the Democratic leader, Sen. Woodbridge N. Ferris.

Strong Candidates—Grand Rapids editor and one of the ablest campaigners of western Michigan, has been in the race for the Republican nomination since last year. Former Gov. Chas S. Osborne, by vocation a writer and scientist, but by occasional political choice a rough and tumble political fighter of genius, is in the race. Two other former governors, Albert E. Sleeper of Bad Axe and Alex J. Groesbeck of Detroit, have hinted that they are merely waiting for the opportune time to shy their nets into the ring.

Friends of W. W. Potter, attorney general, are urging that he be offered as a compromise candidate upon whom the administration forces might unite. Besides these actual and just about to be candidates there are half dozen others, among whom at least two or three are certain to have their names on the ballot unless the disorganized Republicans of Michigan can find some way to limit the field.

The pre-primary convention idea of the Democrats, adopted by the minority party as a means of making certain that there would be a single state ticket, offers a solution that the Republicans would like to adopt. They see next year as an especially propitious time for such an experiment.

Convention in Swing—Because of the presidential year there will have to be a convention in the Spring to select the four delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention is called upon by the law to perform.

The delegates having met for the trifling task of choosing four national convention delegates, the leaders feel that they might as well remain in session long enough to thrash out differences within the party, adopt a state platform and choose the men who shall be the official candidates for the various nominations to be made in the primary.

There still would be a primary election, of course, but in order to win a nomination through it a candidate would have to bear the approval of the pre-primary convention or else be able to show the rank and file of the party members that he is superior to the convention candidate.

If the new plan is to be used by making the regular presidential year Spring convention a special convention for selection of a candidate for United States senator it will have to select candidates for governor and lieutenant governor as well. Leaders indicate that there can be no reason for making the new proposal apply to selection of candidates for only one office.

Having obtained the governor's sanction for their plan the leaders sponsoring the scheme are to submit it to the Republican groups throughout the state, and, ultimately, to the county conventions.

PITTSBURGH PLANS IMMENSE AIR PORT

Pittsburgh.—Plans for the expansion of Rodger's Field, the city-county airport at Aspinwall, and a drive to bring the manufacture of hydroplanes to the Pittsburgh district were discussed at a conference between the county commissioners and members of the city council here.

The commissioners agreed to obtain unencumbered possession of a 40-acre tract adjoining the flying field, to be annexed to it. The county agreed to bear this cost.

The members of the City Council said the city would share equally in the cost of improving the property to make it an airport by purchasing and erecting beacon lights and other similar equipment.

During the discussion it was brought out that Pittsburgh, with its three rivers was ideally located for the manufacture of hydroplanes.

BIRD STEALS KEY.

Columbus, Ind.—After locking the doors of the Citizens National Bank, the president placed the key on the porch of the custodian. A robin seized the string to which the key was attached and flew away. A posse was organized and the bird followed over the neighborhood until the burden became too heavy and was dropped.

TULSA TO HOLD WORLD FAIR OF OIL INDUSTRY

Fourth Annual Show of International Petroleum Exhibits in September.

Tulsa, Okla.—Tulsa is preparing for its fourth annual International Petroleum Exposition, which has been called the "world's fair of the oil industry." The exposition this year will be held from September 24 to October 1.

Oil men from all parts of the United States and from most foreign countries where oil is produced will be here for the exposition. Exhibits worth between eight and ten million dollars will be on display, being brought here by supply companies for the petroleum industry, oil companies, scientific instrument companies and foreign nations. Approximately 200 firms have already contracted for space for displays, while the total will probably exceed 250.

The exposition will be entirely a scientific, technical and educational display this year, all pleasure and show attractions being eliminated. Oil producing and refining companies have indicated their intentions of sending their chief technical men and executives to the show.

Show Latest Equipment. All the latest equipment of every department of the petroleum industry, as in previous years, and oil executives will be able to view the latest developments at first hand. Many companies which will have displays declare that their exhibits will be entirely different from those of previous years. More advanced technical equipment has been made in the last two years, it is claimed, than in the preceding ten years.

Included in the new scientific equipment to be shown at the exposition will be the torsion balance, Germany, and the seismographic now used in locating oil pools. One manufacturer will show the actual operations of drilling an oil well, having a standard oil drilling rig in charge of an experienced driller on the exposition grounds. In contrast to this the exposition is erecting the rig and equipment of the Drake Well, the first oil well to be brought in Pennsylvania.

The exposition this year will cover 20 acres of space on a tract recently leased. Two huge buildings have been erected to house the exhibits and a third may have to be built to accommodate all who want inside space. A large part of the grounds has also been set aside for huge pieces of machinery, such as engines, tank cars, rigs, and pumping outfits.

Coolidge Presses Button. Two of the big features of the exposition are the opening of the gates of the exposition grounds by President Coolidge who will press a button connected with the grounds, in his office at Washington, and the coming of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh the latter part of the exposition. The latter event has stirred the management of the show to stress the relationship between aviation and the petroleum industry and invitations have been sent out to all companies and oil men owning airplanes asking them to bring their machines to the exposition and several have already indicated that they would.

Another big affair which will take place during the exposition will be the annual banquet of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, which will be held the evening of September 30. Herbert Hoover has been invited to be the principal speaker and the governors of all oil-producing states have been inited to attend. The state department at Washington has also invited all foreign embassies to send representatives. Thousands of visitors are expected in Tulsa for the exposition this year. The Tulsa State Fair will be held simultaneously and will be just north of the exposition grounds. Officials of the two shows predict a crowd of 100,000 to welcome Colonel Lindbergh when he arrives.

TO FLY OVER ATLANTIC.

Berlin.—An airship that will fly between Spain and South America and carry 40 passengers is being built by the Zeppelin company. The ship is not as large as one being built for London-Bombay travel, but it will have a dance hall and luxurious lounging rooms, a large dining salon and 20 cabins.

SOUTH AFRICA SOON MAY GET TOURISTS FROM THIS COUNTRY

Chicago.—The national winter hegira to Florida and southern California may soon be directed toward South Africa. It was predicted here today by Eugene Van Wyk a native of South Africa, who lectured before Chicago clubs and travel associations.

John Galsworthy, noted English novelist, and other famous men have awakened to the beauties of the so-called "Dark Continent." "Africa is little different from North America," Mr. Van Wyk said. "Movie palaces, automobiles, noisy street cars, real estate salesmen, short dresses, bobbed hair, and other features of our civilization are to be found there.

"Johannesburg is as large as Cleveland. Cape Town is the new Riviera. There is a national park as large as Yellowstone. Two beautiful two hundred mile drives extend along the ocean. Two American girls recently drove from Cape Town to Cairo in a dilapidated trip-trip. It is no more hazardous a trip than from New York to Los Angeles and the roads are almost as good."

"Honeymoon couples in certain New York circles are choosing South Africa as their destination."

Mr. Van Wyk, who recently married an American girl, announces that he would probably live "in this country with occasional week-end jaunts to Africa by airplane when such facilities are available."

FUNDAMENTALISTS TO HOLD NATIONAL MEET

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Fundamentalists of the Disciples of Christ who favor the literal interpretation of the teachings of the Bible in an endeavor to propagate their doctrines on a nation-wide scale will hold their first national convention at the Cadle Tabernacle here from October 12 to 15.

This convention will be the result of the work of a constitution committee formed by the conservative group of the Disciples of Christ during a convention at Cleveland, Ohio in 1924. Members of the present committee are Rev. W. R. Walker, Columbus, Ohio; Rev. O. A. Trinkle, Indianapolis, Indiana; Rev. Mark Collins, Lexington, Ky.; Rev. W. E. Sweeney, Johnson City, Tenn.; Rev. F. H. Dowdy, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Rev. Robert Tuck, Wooster, Ohio.

DESERVES A MEDAL. Chicago.—Appearing in court with his wife and eight nieces and nephews, Vincent Zaccardi made application for adoption of the children. "I have $175,000 and no kids of my own," he said. "And I want to leave my money to somebody." "You deserve a gold medal," said the judge, granting the application.

Mark Hanna's Daughter May Govern Illinois

Mrs. Medill McCormick

Washington.—The daughter of the most skillful political manipulator this country ever saw—Mark Hanna—will probably be a candidate for governor of the state of Illinois at the next Republican primary.

This woman is Mrs. Medill McCormick, widow of the former senator from Illinois and known to Republican party leaders as the best woman politician in the nation.

Seated on the veranda of her home in Georgetown, Mrs. McCormick told me of her plaudits regarding Illinois' next gubernatorial campaign. While she has not definitely promised to run, she made it plain that if she does all other candidates had best prepare for the scrap of the fight.

"It is far too early to prophesy," she said. "Great pressure is being brought on me to run. I'm not prepared to say that I will."

"But I can connect with an emergency in which I would." And then Mrs. McCormick disclosed that if she does run it will not be primarily to get the office for herself, but rather to take it away from the talented politician, Governor Len Small. The daughter of Mark Hanna, the president-maker, is determined that Small will never win another term in the governor's mansion at Springfield.

Her Conditions

"Suppose Small is a candidate to succeed himself, as we assume, she went on, "suppose Attorney General Cullinan, who ran for attorney general as Small's fair-haired boy four years ago with a campaign promise to cancel the suits against Small, but who now claims to be anti-Small, should be offered as the anti-Small candidate."

"I doubt whether Carlstrom's candidacy would entirely satisfy the anti-Small people," she said. "Whatever might be said of my candidacy, it could not be said that I am 100 per cent anti-Small."

"Small will have his organization behind him. Carlstrom may get an organization in Cook county—but I may get a majority of the votes."

In making this tentative prediction Mrs. McCormick is speaking from the viewpoint of the experienced, practical politician. She knows that very strange things do happen in Illinois politics.

Should Get Many Votes

To begin with, she has a brilliant record of her own and is widely known. The mantle of her father and her late husband would fall on her shoulders. Many Democratic women probably would vote for her in the Republican primary. Labor should be sympathetic, for Mark Hanna was friendly to labor and Mrs. McCormick is an active member of the Women's Trade Union League, has vigorously supported child labor and other labor legislation.

The farmers might help, too; for not even Lowden is more of a dirt farmer than Mrs. McCormick, who runs her own 2000-acre farm, sells hogs and steers, markets 1400 quarts of milk daily and is an active director of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

In addition to these elements, there is a large floating anti-Small vote that probably would go her way. On top of this, Mrs. McCormick would get strong newspaper support.

"If I do run I'll have the shortest platform on record," she added. She refused, however, to say just what it would be.

Mrs. McCormick's political career began before woman suffrage became a fact. When the suffrage amendment went into effect she became chairman of the Republican Women's Executive Committee, working with the Republican National Committee and organizing women voters throughout the country.

"Women will increase in public office very slowly," she says. "They are not generally interested in that. They are more interested in educating themselves politically."

Woman President? No
Mrs. McCormick laughs at the suggestion of certain advanced feminists that either she or Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth might be a presidential candidate next year.

"I don't expect to live to see the time when a woman can be a candidate for the presidency," she says. "Women have a long way to go in politics. It is one of the most difficult and intricate occupations."

"No, I'll not tell you what I'd do if I were president, because I'm not going to be president."

"Let's be serious!"

TWO GOOD FILMS AT STATE TODAY

"Auctioneer" With "California" on Double Feature Program—Lewis Stone Here on Sunday.

A bang up western picture and an old stage success are carded together on the State theater program for today and tomorrow. Colonel Tim McCoy, a regular army officer who has had experience as a scout with the army in the west and who is an adopted son of the Arapaho tribe of Indians, is starring in the film, "California," and in the second feature, "The Auctioneer," the title role is taken by George Sidney, recently co-partner with Charles Murray in "Baltard the Front."

McCoy is a gallant lover, a hard fighter, a little of the swashbuckler—the sort of a man who appeals to women with his pleasant screen personality and his distinctly military figure.

His latest story deals with that romantic period in which took place the American conquest of California. As an Americano, McCoy is depicted by the Californians, save one senorita who would have despised him had she been able to do so. It is a story of romance, intrigue and battle against a colorful background of love and doubt. Dorothy Sebastian plays the role of the senorita and the picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke. The cast is not made up of especially big screen names but each member is suited to his role and his interpretation is very close to perfect.

"The Auctioneer" sets forth in a most human manner the story of a little Irish orphan who is adopted by a Russian and his wife on their way to the land of promise. The Russian, upon his arrival in New York, borrows some of the money entrusted to him for the well-being of the little girl he has adopted. With this money, he begins on a business career that in years to come carries him and his little family to the luxury of an abode on Riverside Drive.

As played by George Sidney, noted star of the stage and screen, the auctioneer is a lovable figure who strikes directly at the hearts of all who watch him as he rises from street peddler to luxury. If all of Sidney's future performances of the silver sheet are as nearly perfect as his portrayal in "The Auctioneer," he will have a place of his own in screen circles for some time to come.

There now are eleven airplane factories in the United States. They make about 50 planes a week. Prices range from $1750 to $3500.

THIS FRIENDLY SQUIRREL CAN STAND WATERMELON

Squirrels are proverbially fond of nuts but they can do with watermelon. At least, there's a tame one that makes his home in a large maple tree in front of the South End library which does.

Yesterday close to a hundred passersby stopped to watch the squirrel nibble a large chunk of melon and which had been placed on the ground near the foot of the tree. At first, the squirrel was a bit wary to venture away from the tree but gradually he gathered up more courage.

The squirrel finally was induced to eat some choice bits of butternut from the hand of Joe McCuskey. He also ate from the hand of Patrolman Jack McGinn and one of the librarians. The squirrel is a favorite of the children who visit the library.

There are lots of big boys and small men in the world.

OLD BADGER GAME WORKS IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland.—The "old badger game," ancient and effective method of fleeing the sucker, has just been operated in a new way here, according to the local police.

The story came to light through Paul Talty, one of the victims of a pretty 21-year-old girl and her husband. The girl, according to Talty, was driving alone in an automobile and invited him to take a ride with her.

It was after nightfall, at a downtown street car, and Talty, all unsuspecting, accepted. The girl drove out into the country and parked at a lonely spot along the road. Suddenly, a "bandit" stepped out from the shadows and commanded Talty to "stick 'em up." After relieving him of his watch and cash, the couple left Talty standing on the highway and drove away.

The victim reported to police and a few days later, the girl and her husband were picked up on a charge of suspicion. Talty identified both.

ASYLUM OVERCROWDED

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 5.—With the capacity of the State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown limited to 2,200 patients, there are at present 2,375 inmates at the institution, or 675 more patients than the asylum can efficiently care for.

Superintendent E. L. Leak declares in a plea for relief addressed to Judge Schatz of Hartford. The superintendent declared the institution was greatly overcrowded, beds and cots being squeezed in every available space. It was pointed out that this condition must be remedied or serious consequences may result.

If a husband foots his wife's bills she should at least foot his history.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1927.

TO FIGHT ON

The forlorn hope enterprise of carrying the Sacco-Vanzetti case to the federal courts, which it is understood is to be undertaken by new counsel, would seem to find its only opportunity for success in the fifth and sixth articles of the bill of rights of the Constitution of the United States.

Article Five provides that "No person" shall be deprived of life, liberty and property without due process of law." Article Six provides that "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed."

It will be maintained, no doubt, that Sacco and Vanzetti are being deprived of life without due process of law, and there would appear to be some ground, under this claim, for attack on the judicial system of the state of Massachusetts which, singularly, fails to provide for any review of evidence in a criminal case by any authority save the identical trial judge who admitted that evidence.

It is this quality of warmth, of ready wholesome friendliness, that is Al Smith's most potent political asset. His achievements in public life have had far less to do with his popularity than his individual magnetism.

Against the thoroughly well-known reserve, the dignified austerity of the President, Smith's personality presents a contrast so marked that his boosters have figured on it day and night as being the best possible selling point for their man; and there isn't the slightest doubt that Smith has been "sold" to many a Democrat of influence, who otherwise would have preferred another candidate, by his argument alone.

But suppose that the Republicans should nominate Nick Longworth—what then would become of the backbone of the Smith case? All of what advantage the New Yorker might have over Coolidge, as a good fellow among good fellows, would disappear instantly if he were running against another general good fellow who also has the advantage of being a brilliant legislator and a citizen of far wider experience than the city-bound Al.

It is conceivable that there may be a good less eagerness on the part of some Democrats to nominate Smith against an unknown antagonist than there would have been to have him face Coolidge—and it would not be so completely surprising if one of those Democrats were to prove to be the present governor of the state of New York.

A WIDE MISS No doubt American newspapers sometimes make just as ridiculous breaks, when they comment on British politics, as the London Star achieves in attributing the cause of Mr. Coolidge's sudden renunciation of another term in the Presidency to the outcome of the naval parity, but surely they hardly ever do worse.

"It now looks," says the Star, "as though Mr. Coolidge has been knifed by the failure of the Geneva conference."

Perhaps it is impossible for any intelligent European to realize how remote such matters as the Geneva arms limitation conference are from the thoughts of ninety-nine hundredths of the American people; how incredibly slight is the interest taken by the voters of this country in such—to them—utterly abstract questions. Certainly nobody, on that side of the water, can fully appreciate how completely self-contained is the American electorate and how infinitely small is its interest in foreign relations and foreign policies.

The average American doesn't care a plugged cent whether the United States navy is on a theoretical parity with that of Britain or not. The only national questions which reach him at all are prohibition, farm relief and income taxes; and, in Presidential election years, the tariff.

Aside from these things and the actual dragging of the country into war, nothing that a President might do or fail to do, especially with relation to foreign treaties and agreements, could seriously affect his standing with the country so far as re-election is concerned.

The Geneva misadventure has no more to do with President Coolidge's decision not to run again than the wind that blows over Rapid City. Of that, at least, we can be very sure.

to suggest that much of the information yet to be gained by the special committee should have been put in the hands of the people of the district before this; because the formulation of such a report involves a deal of work and the expenditure of a lot of time, more than perhaps might be fairly expected from the school committee.

The forthcoming survey should clarify the whole Eighth district situation. The suggestion is here-with offered that, when the report on it is ready, it be published in the Herald several days in advance of the adjourned meeting, so that the voters may have time to familiarize themselves with its facts and recommendations before being called on to act on them.

Apparently what is most needed in the Eighth district is a genuine understanding of its precise needs, its financial ability and limitations, and how to meet its duties economically yet completely.

YOU'RE NEXT, AL

All that is now needed to make the political situation perfectly chaotic is for Governor Al Smith to announce that he does not choose to become a candidate for President in 1927, either. And it must be remembered that the foxey New Yorker has never put himself in a position where he could not say precisely that, if at any time discretion should prove to be the better part of valor.

At present the lineup in the Democratic party is Smith and anti-Smith; there is no crystallization of the anti sentiment on any particular aspirant. And there is no use in blinking the fact that much of the hopefulness of the Smith men has been founded on the belief that he would be an ideal opponent of Calvin Coolidge on the ground of personal appeal alone.

The New York governor is a person of singularly geniality who has the supreme gift, to a politician, of making myriads of people think of him as a sort of personal friend, a sort of possession, as it were.

It is this quality of warmth, of ready wholesome friendliness, that is Al Smith's most potent political asset. His achievements in public life have had far less to do with his popularity than his individual magnetism.

Against the thoroughly well-known reserve, the dignified austerity of the President, Smith's personality presents a contrast so marked that his boosters have figured on it day and night as being the best possible selling point for their man; and there isn't the slightest doubt that Smith has been "sold" to many a Democrat of influence, who otherwise would have preferred another candidate, by his argument alone.

New York, Aug. 5.—Of such things as these is Manhattan. A street car, going through the crowded traffic of Lexington Avenue, came to a sudden stop. The motorman swung leisurely off, walked around in front of the car, picked up a dime from the track, got back on the car and started. The blocked line of taxidriv-ers and truck-drivers were for once struck dumb.

A bum ambled round the corner of the Tombs. Just overhead the "bridge of sighs" cast a long and menacing shadow across the pavement. Through the arch the sun cut patterns in the trees of the little park that lies temptingly just beyond.

The bum walked up to the battered little stand that bears the sign: "St. Andrew's coffee station... coffee 1 cent." It was padlocked. He had been closed for many months. Time was when a line waited for coffee and bits of bread, particularly in the winter season. Obviously the bum had not been in town for long. He stood for a moment, leaning against the weather-beaten board that once was a counter. For a moment he fingered a few pennies. Then he saw me watching him and came over. I had a couple of dimes waiting for him. Not a word was exchanged.

"Ah," said I to myself, "At last a poor fellow who wants a cup of coffee and really wants it. Here's a fellow that doesn't pan-handle..."

When I came out of the prison half an hour later, I saw a bum amble around the corner, look longingly at the coffee stand, push at the window and look away in disappointment.

It was the same bum and he was getting dimes from another sap. Just a new wrinkle in the mooching game.

In the grand jury room, a bailiff stopped to take the names and addresses of prospective witnesses. "Leon Saylor, Floral Park!" said the witness. "Floral Park! Is that so?" chirped the hardboiled bailiff. "Say, what's real estate selling for around there now... You know I coulda bought lots for $250 there three years ago and they tell me..."

Such is the kinship of Los Angeles, Podunk and Manhattan. Hortense Saunders, who writes pieces for the NEA syndicate, left the office the other afternoon to get a couple of interviews.

She was gone exactly three hours. In that time she had talked with the two men who invented ice cream sodas, had taken tea with the young man who started the abode house craze at Santa Fe, N. M., had made the acquaintance of two young men who have made several fortunes building theaters; had passed the time of day with Jack Dempsey; had bowed pleasantly to a famous Arctic explorer; and had seen two people all but killed in a street car accident.

This certainly is a funny town. GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 5.—Regardless of any temporary bitterness engendered by disagreements at the Geneva arms limitation conference, it is more than possible that the ultimate outcome will be an understanding between the English-speaking peoples which will head off a new and unprecedented race for naval supremacy.

At any rate, there are many persons in the United States and Great Britain who are bright enough to suspect that such a solution would be more desirable than a building contest involving frightful expense and perhaps eventually terminating in war.

If the Geneva meeting fails and causes an Anglo-American rift, there is good reason to suppose that a program which would establish the two nations on a basis of friendship and co-operation would not be frowned upon by this government. Leaving other considerations aside, it might appeal to British solely because it knows the United States could come to that kind of a showdown.

British-U. S. Pact Wise It is rather to be assumed that the people of this country and of the British Empire would welcome an agreement designed to eliminate the possibility of war between the world's two greatest powers. Such a war is often declared "unthinkable," but history reveals that power moves westward along with civilization and that up to the present time war has accompanied the process. Now that the world is in the hands of peoples who speak the same language, the time may have come to call the turn on history's repetitive trend.

Farseeing men have long since suggested the wisdom of an Anglo-American understanding as a potent factor for world peace and international happiness. The idea has not been confined to mere theorists and comparative nobodies. The Scripps-Howard newspapers made such a proposal years ago and more recently it has been endorsed by William Randolph Hearst. Now, with the demonstration at Geneva that from a purely strategic standpoint based on geographical limitations and dissimilarities of interest the United States and Britain find it hard to agree on standardized shapes and sizes for their respective navies, the world echoes more than ever before with pleas for measures of safety such as some once felt would be achieved through the League of Nations.

Embassador Houghton apparently had an Anglo-American agreement in mind recently when he proposed, without mentioning names, reciprocal pledges in which contracting nations should agree not to attack each other for 100 years. He tied up this suggestion with a plan to limit wars to those declared by popular vote.

Houghton Plan Supported J. L. Garvin, distinguished editor of the London Observer, now comes out for a treaty such as Houghton proposed and points out that "where there is agreement about policy there can be no disagreement about armaments."

If it is true, as some persons here believe, that the governmental brains of the two nations are figuring on such an agreement all along, and that Houghton's speech was sort of a trial balloon or way-paver, light is then shed upon the motives which inspired Foreign Minister Briand of France some time ago to propose a 100-year Anglo-French treaty to outlaw war.

Some of the anti-imperialist newsmakers here have privately expressed the opinion that the preparatory to an Anglo-American alliance which will result in a division of spheres of influence. Such a view seems rather extreme, but despite lack of official confirmation there is a likelihood that in case the Geneva conference breaks up in a threat of a new international armament race something will be done to stop it before it gets underway. Powerful influence from the international bankers down to the ordinary citizen, would support any government which undertook to keep the beanpot flat on its bottom.

EIGHTH DISTRICT The Eighth School and Utilities District is to be congratulated on the outcome of the special meeting of last night when, instead of shutting its eyes and pitching up a cent to see whether it would throw the Manchester Public Library out of the Robertson school building, hire more school rooms and build a new school or authorize increased expenditure for sprinkler systems—all more or less blindfolded and without adequate information on any of the subjects—it erected a committee to make a survey of the whole school and library situation and report to an adjourned meeting.

This action should and undoubtedly will result in the presentation in clear light to the voters of the district, of a situation which has been altogether too much befogged. It would perhaps in some undue criticism of the school committee actual dragging of the country into war, nothing that a President might do or fail to do, especially with relation to foreign treaties and agreements, could seriously affect his standing with the country so far as re-election is concerned.

NEW YORK STATE PLANTED 25,000,000 TREES DURING 1927 Albany, N. Y.—Figures just compiled by the conservation department show the reforestation movement in New York state made remarkable strides in 1927, slightly more than 25,000,000 trees being planted. Cities, villages, towns and counties planted 2,623,000 trees this year. A marked increase in planting was shown by industrial concerns, notably railroads. The railroads are planting forests on unused land which they own. Industrial plantations totaled 2,107,800 trees. For several years Boy Scout organizations have been interested in the reforestation movement. This year they set out 55,500 trees. Try a chocolate malted milk with egg at our next fountain. N. CAROLINA JAILS MUST OPEN GATES UNDER LATEST LAW

Raleigh, N. C.—Despite the fact that their sentences have expired, hundreds of county convicts in North Carolina are still in custody, according to Pardon Commissioner Edwin Bridges.

The pardon commissioner made this disclosure here following his return from a tour of the Western counties of the state. He said the situation arose over the ignorance of county authorities of a law passed by the 1927 State Legislature. The 1927 law placed all county convicts on the same commutation basis as the State convicts. The law went into effect on July 1. It provided that prisoners be divided into three classes—A (trustees), B and C (incorrigibles)—and that they be advanced or demoted as conduct justified.

A Grade A prisoner, under the new law, gets 104 days off for good behavior, B prisoners 70 days off, and C grade prisoners, none off.

Commissioner Bridges wrote county officials of the state, advising them of the provision of the 1927 law.

DRY FORCES TO WORK WITH GREAT LAKES CUSTOMS PATROLMEN

Cleveland.—A closer coordination of the Great Lakes Border Patrol, Customs Service and Prohibition Forces, and possibly an amalgamation of the three, is expected following a survey by a congressional party of inspection, headed by R. Carl White, assistant secretary of labor.

The party which visited Cleveland, Detroit and other lake cities, is expected to make recommendations for "pointing up" the services rendered by the various forces which watch the Great Lakes border to guard against smuggling of liquor and other goods.

The chief purpose of the move will be economy. White states, pointing out that the Border Patrol, the Prohibition forces and the Customs Service all devote much of their time to watching for run-runners. A re-organization, he believes, would tend to make the government's vigil along the lake more efficient and less expensive.

The party included Congressman Milton W. Shreve, Pennsylvania, chairman of the congressional subcommittee on appropriations, Congressman Milton E. Oliver, Arkansas; Anthony J. Griffin, New York, Paul Malone, secretary of the committee; and Maj. Melvin Jones, representing the Bureau of the Budget.

FEATURE ARTICLES ABOUT INTERESTING WOMEN

The PENNY PRINCESS by anne austin ©1927 by NEA Service

BEGIN HERE TODAY VERA CAMERON suddenly realizes the need to be beautiful when she sees and falls in love with a man she hears called Schuyler. Vera is secretary to JERRY MACKLE, young advertising manager for the Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co. He proposes to change her into a beauty with the aid of the company cosmetics and to use her photographs in advertising copy.

on the noon train. And you look lovely, Miss, if you don't mind me saying so." Vera was wearing the suit which had been her first purchase after her transformation from a plain girl into a beauty. She had saved it for the trip, knowing that she would not find a more appropriate costume for summer traveling.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIII BECAUSE of the unreasonable fear which had gripped her since she had discovered her fellow-passengers in the hotel bus whispering about her and acting as if they were sure they recognized her, Vee-Vee Cameron betrayed none of the delighted surprise with which she caught her first glimpse of Lake Minnetonka and the Minnetonka Hotel. Her chin was uplifted haughtily and her green eyes were serene, even bored, as the bus swung into the circular drive which led up to the magnificent entrance.

"Why are they watching me like that?" she whispered. "Do I look like a thief or an impostor?" ask the clerk the closing hours for New York-bound mail. She stepped toward the desk again, but hesitated when she saw that the young couple who had so closely observed her in the bus were at the desk, the woman leaning forward to whisper confidentially to the clerk, who was listening with amazement. When he raised his eyes, he doubtfully stared after Vera, and she flushed as if he had been caught in an indiscretion.

business. Well—they won't learn much about Miss V. V. Cameron!" she added to her reflection with a wicked little smile. She lifted off her hat, hung it in the deep, electrically lighted closet, and started off on a tour of inspection of her small domain—her own apartment for the next two weeks. It was not a large room, but it was so exquisitely decorated and furnished that Vera drew a deep breath of thrilled wonder. In all her repressed, unhappy, penny-pinching life she had never seen a room to compare with it. The walls were covered with a French gray tapestry wallpaper. It was a corner room, overlooking the lake. The wide, deep windows were hung with showy gauze-thin gold silk inner curtains.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

The fight waging twice Aimee Semple McPherson and her own mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, will make many women of the good old school optics that "that's what always happens when a woman has too much ambition; she soars ahead herself and is so selfish that she can't live in peace with those who really know her."

H. C. of Courting It is impossible to take a girl out for the evening for less than from $50 to $100, according to a New York banker who has spent considerable time observing the courting ways of both his own associates and the men in his employ. Oh come now, of course it costs enough but I know any number of kids who manage to have a swell time on much less than $5 an evening. It all depends on whether you mean caviar and terrapin or a couple of beefsteaks, or whether you mean first row center at a follies opening or a good movie. It does cost to court, but the cost is flexible!

MARRIAGE A JOB—NOT A MIRACLE

By ALLENE SUMNER Willoughby, O., Aug. 5.—"Marriage is a job—not a miracle." Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, speaking.

Work is the big thing in life, not only to women but to all human beings, according to Miss Sherwin. Her own life proves her belief in work. We talked in "Winden," the beautiful summer home of Miss Sherwin; a home wherein many women, perhaps most women, would choose to live in ease and comfort and security, forgetting the workaday world outside.

Other women are so constituted that they cannot find enough satisfaction and self-expression in the immediate job at home. "I believe that these women have the same right to their own jobs as other women have to the orthodox and accepted tasks of house management."

Today's woman knows what she wants. In 1924 there were certain definite desires which she wanted to see incorporated in the party platform. Today she knows exactly what kind of information she wants and how much practical help she needs from the parties to get those things she desires.

Good Nature and Good Health. EXPERIMENTS ON RATS PROVE VIGOR FOODS WORTHLESS. By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editorial of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. On an attempt to determine the various factors that modify the vigor of an individual, workers in the laboratory of the department of physiology of the Ohio State University have conducted a series of experiments during the past three years. The tests have been made on white rats in small house cages with which were connected revolving cylinders. In these the rats could exercise at any time they felt the notion. The revolutions of the cylinders were automatically recorded. The observations made upon hundreds of rats indicated that the energy expenditure in running these cylinders serves as a rather accurate criterion of the animals tendency to exercise. The studies revealed that the animals, like human beings, differ greatly as to the times they choose to exercise, the amount of exercise they may take at any given period, and the effects of light and all sorts of environ-

Home Page Editorial Motherhood Answer to That "Terrible Loneliness" By Olive Roberts Barton

John Augustine Ryan said in a recent debate on birth control, "People who wish to play so prominent a part in the affairs of their day that they do not find time for family and children, who are unwilling to partake in the struggles and hardships of the common lot, are doomed to extinction." He adds, "those who can make the combination of satisfying their ambition and raising a fair-sized family will survive." Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, an authority on the woman question, makes the assertion in a recent address that a woman with work, a happy marriage and health has about all there is of value in life. She speaks, however, of the terrible spiritual loneliness that has come to women through their new-found freedom. Can it be that Mrs. Hale does not see that she is answering her own question? The freedom gained by childlessness, she is asserting quite clearly, does not compensate for the loss of spiritual peace and contentment that goes with motherhood. To do her justice, she admits that mothers should teach daughters that the exercise of powers of maternity comes before work. So there you have it. We talk of careers, and work, and home and happiness, and new-found freedom. We talk of the right and wrong of birth control, of woman's duty to the race and the state and a thousand other things. We always finish where we start. It is like blowing at the moon. No matter what a woman has a right to do or not to do, the possession of a child (or children) presents the "terrible loneliness" that Mrs. Hale speaks of. "Those who can make the combination of satisfying their ambition and raising a fair-sized family will survive." Can it be that Mrs. Hale does not see that she is answering her own question? The freedom gained by childlessness, she is asserting quite clearly, does not compensate for the loss of spiritual peace and contentment that goes with motherhood. To do her justice, she admits that mothers should teach daughters that the exercise of powers of maternity comes before work. So there you have it. We talk of careers, and work, and home and

GERMANY SEEKS WAY TO BOOST FILM EXPORTS

Cool Reception Accorded Pictures Abroad Moves Industry to Act.

Berlin.—Despite recent improvement in its position, the German moving picture industry is disappointed and dissatisfied with the cool reception accorded most German films abroad, especially in America, and is planning ways and means to increase its export business.

It points out that 200 American films were produced in Germany last year, but only six or eight German films in America. Also that these 200 American films raised a net profit of $4,000,000 in Germany alone, while the whole German movie industry, with all its films, could raise only $4,500,000 in its own home market. The profit from the export of German films to all countries, including America, is put at $3,500,000.

This cannot go on, the German film magnates insist, but there is a wide difference of opinion as to the cases of this discrepancy.

"The German movie critics say: 'Make better films and the world is yours.'"

Charge Stealing.
The movie magnates reply: "How can we when America is stealing most of our stars?"

Anyhow, the magnates insist, the average German film is just as good as the average American film, and only the opposition of the monopolistically-controlled American film industry keeps the German film from delighting the American public.

For that reason, negotiations for a new deal are to be opened up with the American film industry, and Director Kitzsch, the new master of the Ufa, Germany's biggest movie concern, is due in America soon to start them.

The general aim of these negotiations will be:

First: To free the Ufa from the control now exercised over it by Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn in consideration of previous loans granted to the Ufa.

THE GREAT WAR TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

(By United Press)
August 5, 1917.
U. S. Navy Department abandons submarine chasers as weapons to wage war against U-boats and will rely more on destroyers.

Emperor Wilhelm and the Empress return to the eastern front; simultaneously Chancellor Michaelis promises German people a strong peace.

Limit Import
Second: To obtain a new ratio between German and foreign films in such a way that for every German film exported to America, only four American films shall be imported into Germany. They are willing to concede this ratio of four to one to America because America has 16,000 movie theaters which Germany has only 4,000.

With this ratio of exchange between German and American films as a basis, the German film industry hopes to regulate the world exchange of films in such a way that for every foreign film imported into Germany from all countries, one German film will be exported, thereby greatly improving the position of the German industry, both at home and abroad.

1927 APPLE CROP TO SHOW SHORTAGE

Albany, N. Y.—Indications point to a shortage of fruit this fall, both in New York state and the United States, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

This is in marked contrast to last year when there was an over-abundance of fruit.

New York State's apple crop this year is expected to be around 20,000,000 bushels as compared with 40,000,000 last year, according to the agriculture department.

Pennsylvania will have only about half as many apples as last year; Virginia and West Virginia a third as many; Michigan a little over two-thirds as many; Washington, Oregon and California about seven-tenths as many. The July forecast for the county is 136,703,000 bushels as compared with 246,480,000 last year.

"Scab has been quite prevalent both in New York and other states, especially in poorly sprayed orchards," said a statement issued by the agriculture department.

Peaches promise a light crop in New York State with about 1,237,000 bushels as compared with 2,300,000 last year. Fruit growers in the state expect to pick about 1,863,000 bushels of peaches as compared with 2,038,000 last year.

What You'll See When Christy Brothers Circus Arrives In Manchester Monday

Here Is Hoover's Summary Of The Mississippi Losses

A typical flood scene, showing water rushing through levee.

Editor's Note: This is the second of two special interviews giving Herbert Hoover's own ideas on flood prevention, and revealing Hoover's remarkable career, which enables him to tackle and carry through the biggest jobs in the world.

New Orleans, La.—"This flood," says Herbert Hoover, "unprecedented in our whole history, is having four stages from the point of view of public action. The first stage was the rescue of the people from the water. The second stage was the care of those exiled from home. The third stage is their return to homes, with provisions for getting them back to self support. The fourth stage is flood control, so that it will not happen again."

Reconstruction Problem
"The third stage—reconstruction—is now upon us. It presents an intricate of problems most difficult of solution. Where the water has drained off to a point where it is possible to plant normal crops, the direction which reconstruction can take is plain enough. But in the laggard waters a multitude of new problems present themselves, the solution of which must take time. In the main we have four great arms with which to fight this battle. The first is the resolution and courage of the people involved. The second is the Red Cross. The third is the Agricultural Loan Corporation which we have constructed by joint action of the banks and business concerns of the entire United States, these being supported in turn by arrangements made through the federal government for rediscunt privileges with the Intermediate Credit bank. The fourth arm is the State Reconstruction Commission appointed by the governors to mobilize the full forces of the flooded states. Health Must Be Guarded
"The purpose of reconstruction is not to restore losses. That would be beyond the capacity of any service. Its purpose is to give help to the individual family to enable it to fight its way back to self-support. One of the reconstruction problems is that of sanitation. I believe

HOOVER ON FLOOD CONTROL

"In human terms this Mississippi River flood of 1927 means 750,000 people flooded, 600,000 driven from their homes or made dependent upon relief."
"The economic loss will probably run from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000."
"That 1,500,000 of our countrymen should continue to live in such jeopardy is unthinkable."
"America will spend more than $80,000,000 on flood relief in one form or another this year, and that is but a small part."
"Every worker, every farmer, every investor in the United States will bear some part of the shock."
"All engineering plans for flood control of the river must be revised in the light of 1927. They must be revised as against any possible combination of floods from the tributaries."
"The main thing is a plan bold and strong enough to deal with the question in finality, for we must live with this river for thousands of years yet."
"The levee system must be revised and strengthened. Above all we must have some other safety devices to relieve the strain on the levee system in periods of super-floods, and make them absolutely sure once and for all."
"Spillways in Louisiana are proposed. There are approximately three spillway locations. The Atchafalaya River. Some spot on the Mississippi east bank above New Orleans opening direct into Lake Pontchartrain. Some spot on the Mississippi east bank below New Orleans, approximately where the levee was dynamited at Caernarvon. Reservoirs in the upper reaches of all tributaries are also proposed."
"I am convinced that our engineers can develop plans that will control the flood. I believe we can give security to the people living below the levees."
"We can not abolish the levee system."
"We can strengthen the levees and supplement them strongly with safety devices of one kind or another."

We have formed a plan to which we will draw the support of not only the Red Cross but also of the state governments and of various other institutions of the first importance. It is proposed that this plan shall extend over 18 months in an effort to eliminate malaria and other diseases from the flood area. The country at large understands pretty well the debt that it owes to the organizing and executive ability of Herbert Hoover, as exemplified by his work in the Mississippi flood reconstruction work, but it probably does not know just how Mr. Hoover has been during the last few months. Hoover Always on Job and reconstruction work has put in longer hours, or filled his hours more thoroughly, than the secretary of commerce.
No one connected with the relief

He has been up at 6:30 nearly every day. He plans his days' work as he shaves and bathes and dresses. He has consulted with hundreds of officials, Red Cross workers, bankers, business men, governors, adjutant generals, engineers. He has made inspection trips over the whole flood district. He knows the ground intimately. His work day usually has lasted till 10:30 at night, for when it is too dark to see, he spends more time with people in conference. His work pretty near to the dot. Then comes his only relaxation—reading detective stories.

Flood Prevention Ideas.
While active in organizing his reconstruction work, he has at the same time been able to keep in his mind steps for preventing future disasters of this kind, and now, with relief well in hand, he is concentrating on the fourth phase of his work. "Regarding flood control," says Hoover, "the present has through the secretary of war, directed that a plan for control be submitted to Congress at the next session. I believe that this will never happen again. I have pledged every effort that I can make to do my share so that it will never happen again. Senators and representatives from Washington have toured the flooded states and have seen with their own eyes what I have seen. The solution of this problem will be uppermost in the minds of Congress when the next session opens this autumn."

"The American people have had an education in the liabilities of this disaster to the nation as a whole. I believe that education renders the passage of adequate legislation a certainty, and I believe that with the added security to property and life that such legislation will bring, the south will take a new step forward that will amply compensate the losses which the south has just borne—however great those losses may be. Then the people of the valley can feel that they can go to sleep in the belief that the problem is solved?" Mr. Hoover was asked. "You can never go to sleep on anything in this world," he replied. "Now is the time as never before to keep efficiently functioning the organization born of this flood disaster."

SOVIETS WILL BACK AFGHANISTAN EMIR FOR MOSLEM CALIPH

Jerusalem—The Soviet Government has decided on its choice of a candidate for the vacant throne of the Caliph of the Faithful. It is intimated in a communication the Emir of Afghanistan, Imam Allah Khan, has just sent to Sultan Ibn Saud, the master of Arabia. The letter is given great prominence in the Arabic newspapers here.

The seat of the Caliph has been vacant since early in 1924, when Mustapha Kemal Pasha by special edict abolished the office and sent the incumbent into exile. Various Moslem rulers have coveted the unoccupied throne of the "Pope of Islam." The chief aspirants are believed to be King Ibn Saud, master of Arabia, King Fuad of Egypt and the Emir of Afghanistan. Soviet Russia seems to back up the Afghanistan Emir, who has just proposed to Ibn Saud that he called together the sages of Islam in all Arab countries "to deliberate on the outstanding questions in the Moslem world."

Harry Thaw Enters Movies In Hope Of Becoming New Mack Sennett

Harry Thaw, at extreme right, takes an active part in directing the comedies of his newly-acquired film company.

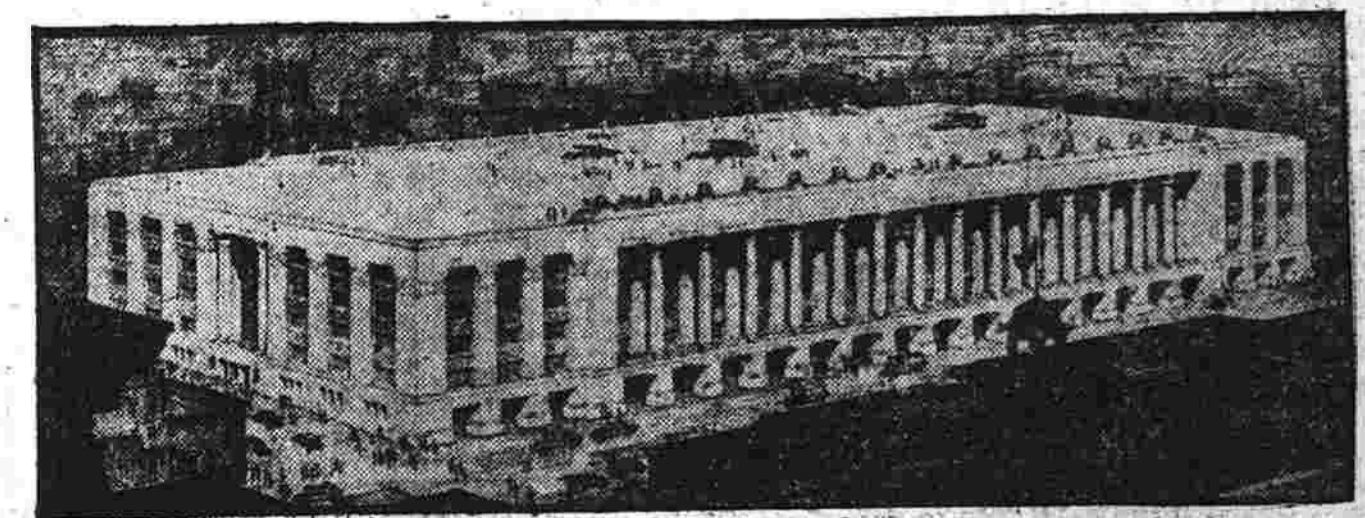

New York.—Harry K. Thaw has set out to become the Mack Sennett of the eastern film domain, and he is taking this funny business very seriously. True, he may not keep the 9 o'clock-in-the-morning schedule of movie hirings, but he is actually supervising direction, doing a little direction of his own, smiling at the antics of his company of fat comedians and pretty bathing girls, personally assisting in cutting films, listening to comedy plots, editing titles, and otherwise participating in the activities of the concern which he now heads.

For Harry Thaw recently became an active movie producer and has put his own money into the company which hastened the name of Kenilworth productions. It operates in the old Pathe studio, having taken over a concern known as Lyndhurst Productions. Already two slap-sticks have unreelied themselves under his banner and Thaw fell heir to an unfinished serious drama, "The Spirit World," which deals with fake clairvoyants, which he has gone over in preparation for early release. In this were featured Wilbur Lytell, son of Bert Lytell, and Muriel Kingston. Miss Kingston is under contract for other pictures. The belle of Thaw's bathing beauty brigade is none other than Julie de Cada, not so long ago of the Vanities. The comedy lead is Willie Brown, who follows the old John Bunny style of comedy, and Charles Davenport is the active director. Broadway, which had become accustomed to rumors of gestures on the part of Thaw toward pretty maids who attracted his attention, was inclined to gossip that Harry was "angeling" the concern in the interests of a certain pretty actress who wanted to get on in the films and has had minor roles in the Thaw company. Not only has this been warmly denied, but outward indications are that Thaw really is working on this latest hobby. He appears at the studio almost every day, takes off his coat and does not stick to his office, but wanders about the departments. And he says he likes it and is learning a lot about picture taking.

Plan Airport on Postoffice Roof

An airmail flying field on the roof is one of the features of the new postoffice building proposed for Chicago, as shown by the architect's drawing above. The prediction is made that by the time the building is completed—within six or seven years—this will not be a practical but a necessary adjunct.

FLYERS BRING 3 NEW AIRPORTS TO NEW ENGLAND

Visits of Lindbergh, Byrd and Others Give Impetus to Aviation Interest.

Boston.—Like a missionary in heathen lands, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, trans-Atlantic flying ace turned thousands of Bostonians to thoughts of aviation and the future that it holds for Boston, the leading city of New England.

peace-time aviators the world had ever known. Commander Richard E. Byrd, Clarence Chamberlin, Lieutenant Albert Hegenberger of South Boston and Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland were here.

With one of the most strategic airport sites on the Atlantic coast, development of the facilities of the port in this city are strongly urged by prominent men.

Curley Gets Busy

Among the advocates of aviation is ex-Mayor James M. Curley whose support for municipal projects has always placed him among Boston's most progressive men.

Great possibilities are in store for the Boston airport, the former mayor believes. The East Boston airport and land adjacent, extending to and including Governor's island, represents, when filled approximately 10,000,000 square feet or slightly in excess of 222 acres. Development of the site as a result of interest created by Colonel Lindbergh, is possible, ex-Mayor Curley believes.

Upon this great area, extending a mile into the sea, ex-Mayor would erect fabricating plants with landing ports on the roofs for commercial aviation.

The erection of such plants at the airport site would give impetus to commercial aviation and the industry in general in New England, ex-Mayor Curley believes.

Portland Active

To Colonel Lindbergh goes most of the credit for the increased interest. An example of his influence was that of Portland, Me. Without a landing field, that city found that Colonel Lindbergh would necessarily have to leave it off his list of itinerary stops. Quickly city officials stepped in and acted. At Scarborough, six miles out of the city limits, a perfect field for landing was found. Within 24 hours, Portland acquired an airport.

Providence was similarly situated. Without a field in the city limits the city fathers found that Colonel Lindbergh was going to pass over their city without stopping. Quickly municipal strings were pulled and within a few hours the Quonset Point military reservation parade grounds became a city landing field and the visit of the blonde Viking was assured.

TARIFF ENTENTE IS PLANNED FOR EUROPE

Paris.—Reduction of armaments will be one of the main topics of discussion at the interparliamentary conference of the Interparliamentary Union to be held here from August 25 to 30.

The creation of an European Tariff Entente, the world fight against drugs and methods of codification of International Law are other items on the agenda.

Sessions of the Conference will be held in the Palais du Luxembourg, assembly hall of the French Senate, under the presidency of Paul Doumer, president of the Senate.

At least four hundred Parliamentarians from more than thirty countries are expected to attend. This will be the third time since the Union was founded in Paris in 1888 that the Conference has met in Paris. The last Conference was held in Washington in 1925.

U. S. BIRD MEN INSPIRATION TO EUROPE FLYERS

Renewed Efforts to Forge Ahead in Aeronautics Seen on All Sides.

London.—Inspired by the transatlantic flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Byrd, the European nations are making great efforts to forge ahead in aeronautics. Great Britain is already proceeding to further the advance of air travel.

Of greater commercial value to aviation, at the present time, than the trans-Atlantic flights, will be the opening of England's new aerodromes at Croyden in October.

At a cost of $1,335,000 this great new airport, when completed, will be one of the largest and best equipped aerodromes in the world. The hangars have already been erected, the block of offices are nearing completion, and the foundation of a new hotel, for the convenience of passengers, has been laid.

New Aerodromes

Croyden, one of the air centers of the world, has heretofore been compelled to use the war-time buildings, and which have now become inadequate to handle the tremendous increase in passenger flying. The new aerodrome will extend 1,350 yards from north to south and 1,450 yards from east to west. Among the new buildings springing up will be two giant hangars, capable of housing 35 mammoth aeroplanes. These alone will cost $375,000. The Imperial Airways Corporation will occupy one of the sheds and the other will be available for foreign aircraft.

This airport, it is believed by the designers, will be able to meet with the situation when travelling by air is almost as popular as railway travel. Air lines will run into this port from France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany, and the network of these Continental air lines will stretch as far apart as Constantinople, Moscow and Madrid.

Build New Offices

An imposing block of offices, in which will be centralized the activities of the aerodrome, are being built close by the hangars, and a 50-foot control tower overlooks the whole aerodrome. From this tower officers will be in touch by wireless telephone with all the air liners.

In another building a place has been planned to facilitate the work of the customs, and emigration officials. This building will also contain waiting-rooms, booking offices, a bookstall, reading rooms and buffet. Only the foundation has been laid of the new hotel, but when completed it will comprise lounges and dining rooms opening to a veranda and terrace, and fifty bedrooms, most of them equipped with baths.

Postpone Sailing Dates

In order to insure three weeks of additional training the U. S. Olympic team will leave next year after July 4 not in the middle of June as was the custom. This will enable the indoor runners to get used to outdoor tracks.

PARIS NEWS BOOTHS ATTRACT VETERANS

Paris, France.—A feature of the Paris boulevards which will interest American Legionnaires who will go abroad for the ninth annual convention September 19 to 23, will be the gaily colored "Kiosques" or new booths which serve as reading rooms for all nations. During the war, Legionnaires will recall the "Kiosques" for reading rooms were little frequented. Now these reading rooms have come back stronger than ever with an unbelievable number of magazines on exhibition in a five foot hexagonal space.

The "Kiosques" were authorized under the reign of Napoleon I and have grown so popular that there are now more than 5,500 in Paris. Today, especially in the "Kiosques" situated along the Madeleine, and on the boulevards de Capucines, Italiens, Montmartre, Poissonniers and other avenues, one may find almost any newspaper in the world.

The "Kiosques" belong to the city of Paris, and like tobacco stores, concessions are made to the widows of Government employees and of the soldiers who died in the service or who have been pensioned after the war. Some "Kiosques" make from 200,000 to 300,000 francs per year. Legionnaires who desire to read home news during convention week will find all they desire in these "Kiosques" on the grand boulevards. Many of the "Kiosques" keepers speak several languages and the tourist will find them agreeable and willing to make a complete search to find a home paper.

FEW APPLY FOR NEW AUTO REGISTRATION

Certain Commercial Trucks Can Get Cheaper Licenses Under New Ruling.

Comparatively few truck owners have taken advantage of a new law which allows operation of certain "industrial" vehicles under special registration and reduced fee when the public highways are used for short distances. Fifty-one of several hundred owners entitled to the benefits of the act, which became effective July 1, have applied for the new type of registration, State Motor Vehicle Department records show.

The new form is designed primarily for the advantage of industrial concerns which operate trucks across public streets or highways between separate buildings of the same plant. Trucks of these companies may operate varying distances on the highways up to 1,000 feet, when using the special registration.

Every application for these industrial registrations, which are issued by the Motor Vehicle Department, must be accompanied by a permit from the highway commissioner. Investigation of each case is made by the Highway Department before a permit is granted.

Fees are set by statute at the rate of $5.00 for the first 200 feet of highway or public street to be used by the truck, and $5.00 for each additional 200 feet or fraction thereof. The minimum fee allowable is $5.00. Vehicles registered under the special plan bear marker plates on which the numerals are preceded by the letters "FAC."

No special privileges are extended to the drivers of these trucks under the new law. Each driver, as in all other cases, must be a regularly licensed operator.

All trucks used on short runs between buildings or other points must be registered with the motor vehicle department under the usual commercial vehicle list, or the special industrial plan, when any part of the public highway is used. Investigation is now being made by the Highway Department to determine whether all short run trucks are now being operated within the law.

Paris.—As part of her reparation in kind, Germany may be asked to supply raw materials and manufactured goods for the electrification of French railroads.

Of France's network of 26,000 miles of railroads, only 600 miles have been electrified. Immediately after the war it was decided that 6,000 miles of these lines should be electrified. Little progress has been made due to lack of funds.

Neither the state roads nor any of the three heavily subsidized private companies, the P. L. M., Orleans or Midi, has been able to electrify more than a few hundred kilometers of lines.

Officials of the Ministry of Public Works and of Finances are studying the possibility of devoting a large share of German reparations in kind to materials for this electrification.

But he got a "not" reply from W. O. McIntyre, editor of the Danville, Ky. Advocate. McIntyre stated that Kentucky had no gold-diggers and if there were any in the state they have departed for Laszky's own city.

Construction of Basins, Lakes and Reservoirs to Cost $300,000,000.

Kansas City, Mo.—The construction of basins, lakes and reservoirs, starting at the source of rivers, would be the most feasible plan for flood control, according to E. E. Blake, Oklahoma City, chairman of the Interstate Commission for flood control of the Arkansas and Red River systems.

Blake's testimony includes Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Colorado.

The cost of basins for the Arkansas and Red rivers would not exceed $100,000,000, Blake explained to the commission.

Blake said the basins would supply one-third of the water of the Mississippi river. For another $200,000,000, other tributary streams could be basined and reservoired, he said.

The present plan to spend about $50,000,000 to rebuild and enlarge Mississippi levees was said by Blake to be the less effective of the two policies. He pointed out that benefits to agriculture and industry could be gained from the basins and reservoirs, whereas the levees would be mere protection.

Blake is making an effort to get senators and representatives through the southwest to join in a flood control conference in Kansas City, Oklahoma City, or Little Rock.

Chicago.—Creation of an island in mid-Atlantic as a landing place for trans-oceanic airplanes was suggested here by Dr. B. J. Cigrand, author and lecturer.

Pointing out that in one place in the Atlantic ocean, in a direct line between Newfoundland and France, the sea bed is only thirty-six feet beneath the surface of the water, Cigrand suggested to aviation experts here the idea of building the island.

In another spot, four hundred miles closer to the North American continent, the ocean bottom is fifty-eight feet from the surface, he said.

The statistics reveal, is the top of a subterranean plateau measuring fifteen by six miles. Old ships, rocks, and ordinary debris could be hauled to this spot, he suggested, and an island constructed at a cost of several million dollars.

"The island could possess a large radio station capable of transmitting intercontinental messages," he said. "It could be a refueling place for planes and dirigibles. Possibly international law would prevent the United States from constructing the island. But enterprises such as New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles, or San Francisco, with their slumbering millions, could easily lend a hand."

It looks like going to extremes for a man to try to discover both the north and south pole.

Some Lady She doesn't like a shady joke. She doesn't like, she doesn't smoke; She doesn't swear, she never flirts; She doesn't wear those shortened skirts; She doesn't dance, she doesn't sing; And goods in pants don't mean a thing; She doesn't use those beauty salves, But don't refuse to show her calves, You ask her name? Well, that's a wow, She's not a dame, she's just a cow.

If you are always the first to quit, you'll be the last to be promoted.

Him: "I love you as no one ever loved before." Her: "I can't see much difference."

One modern Jeremiah exclaims: "The modern girl can't sew!" Ah, indeed soon the old exclamation: "Let'er rip," will be obsolete.

Lawyer: "Have you told me everything you know about the theft you are accused of?" Client: "Yes, everything except the place where I hid the money. I want that myself."

"I do hope that you keep your cows in a pasture," said Mrs. Newlywed as she paid the milkman. "Yes," replied the milkman, "of course we keep them in a pasture."

"I'm so glad," gushed Mrs. Newlywed. "I have been told that pasteurized milk is much the best."

Women have a right to change their minds—and their faces.

Lady Reporter from Sagebrush: "I'd like to see the president." Miss Beckwith: "I am very sorry, but the president is engaged."

Lady Reporter: "Well, I'm going to be married in June myself, but that don't cut no ice. I'd like to see him."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The others went ahead all right and soon the candy was pure white. "I guess we all have finished," said the Taffy Man aloud. "Just put your taffy on my shelf, with that that I have pulled myself." Then, as the Tynies eyed their work, it made them feel real proud. "Say, can we eat some?" Clowney cried. "We'll know how good it is, when tried." The Taffy Man just looked at him, then answered, very quick. "Say, lad, when you were pulling that, you ate enough to make you fat. Be careful you don't eat too much, or it will make you sick."

Of course the Taffy Man was right. Each one had had more than a bite. And so they all were satisfied to wait till after awhile. They sat around an hour or so, and then they all saw Cobby go into the house to sneak a piece. This make the whole bunch smile.

Their new friend startled all the bunch by shouting, "Say, I have a hunch. I guess I'll build a taffy boat. I think that would be grand." The whole bunch shouted, "Gee, that's good. We surely wish you really would. And say if you will show us how, we'll gladly lend a hand."

So, off their kind old new friend ran and soon returned with monstrous taffy. 'Twas filled with luscious taffy that would make a dozen boats. "If kind attention now is paid," said he, "the ship will soon be on the ship—not down your throats."

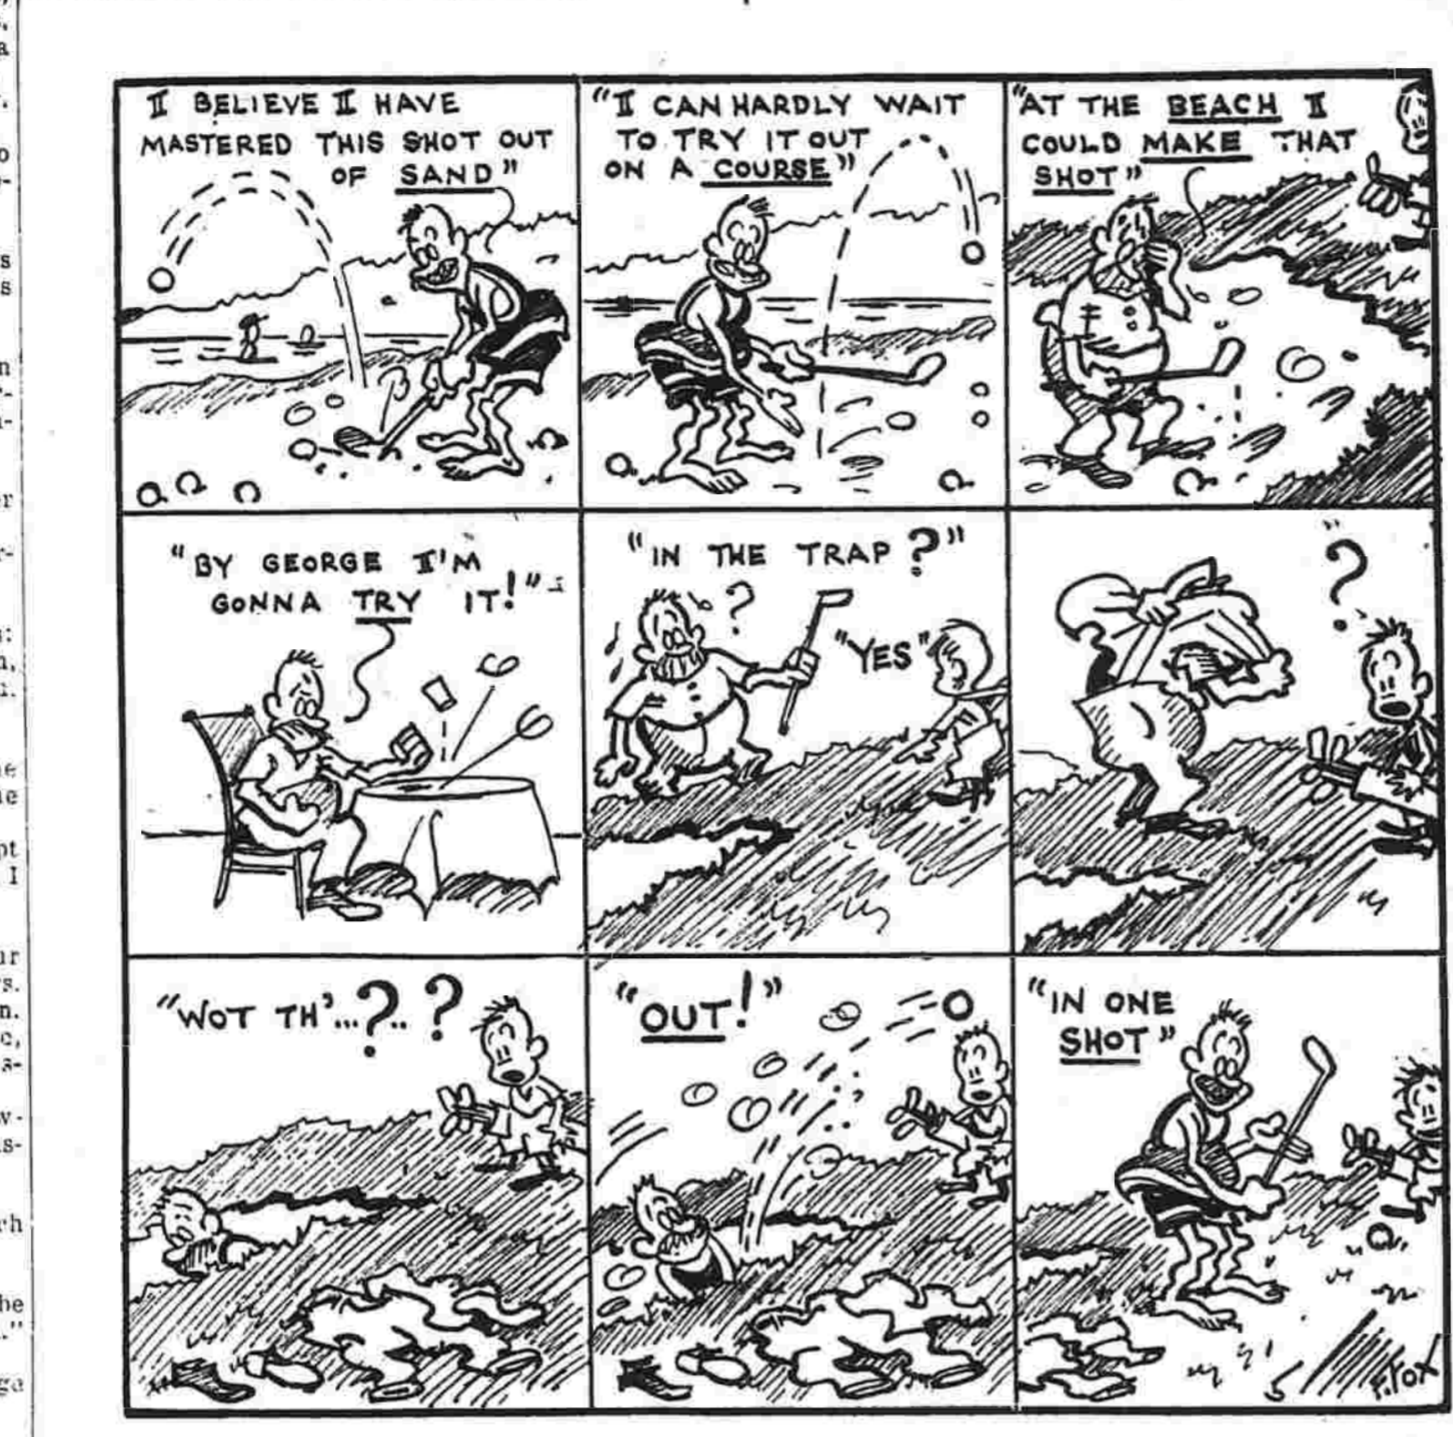

So everybody went to work, and in a one was known to shirk. The little ship soon took real form, on quite a wondrous scale. The Taffy Man piled taffy high, and moulded it with watchful eye. In 'bout an hour the ship was done, and ready for a sail.

(The Tynmites go sailing on the good ship Taffy in the next story.)

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE WOODS

by Gilbert Patten

Frye was set free and advised to make haste to have his lacerated arms treated by a doctor. Later, Tony Arato was again put into the look-up from which he had escaped. Jack personally delivered Widow Dearborn's little girl over to her distressed mother. Mrs. Dearborn, in her gratitude, treated Garabaldi to a loaf of bread that was heavily smeared with honey.

After Garabaldi had finished his meal, Bambi made him perform a number of tricks which amused the spectators. "Him just-a like sojer mans," said Bambi.

Tony Arato, brought before Judge Gowdy, was fined. Bambi, who carried the money, paid her father's fine. "Now take your bear and go," said the judge.

When the evening shadows fell again, a bright and cheerful fire illuminated the camp-site of Jack Lockwill and his friends. Tony Arato, smoking his pipe, sat on a log and told stories in his queer broken English. The bear slept on the ground nearby. Bambi, half reclining, also fell asleep, her head pillowed on the bear's back. "What a picture!" said Jack, looking at her. (The End) NEXT STORY: Jack Lockwill in Summer Camp.

ZOO FOLKS AFRAID OF LOCAL MAN'S DONATION

Elizabeth Park Officials Lake Safe Place For Rattler; Kerr Will Build Them a Cage.

Because the safety of other animals in the zoo was feared for, authorities at the Elizabeth Park museum in Hartford yesterday decided to return to Alexander Kerr of Center street, this town, a live rattlesnake, which he had presented to the park. The snake was taken to the park greenhouse last night and officials said they would return it to Mr. Kerr today. The skin of the reptile, recently shed, will be kept in the museum.

Mr. Kerr caught the snake some time ago on one of his hunting trips and kept it at his home for a while. During that time it shed its skin and both the reptile and the castoff skin was presented to the museum. Officials decided last night that it was a danger to the rest of the animals and that it should be removed.

Mr. Kerr said today he had heard that the park authorities wanted a better cage before the snake could be kept there. He said he would probably build a glass and wire cage of sufficient strength.

Mr. Kerr is a rattlesnake hunter of four years' experience and during that time he has caught a large number of the reptiles. Most of them he has sent to museums and laboratories. He has never killed a snake.

DR. AND MRS. ABRAMS FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Parents of Late Mrs. R. La Motte Russell Observe Event in California.

Of interest to many Manchester people is the account of the golden wedding celebration of Doctor and Mrs. Alva E. Abrams, formerly of Hartford and now of La Jolla, California. The affair was arranged by their daughters, Mrs. Warren Currier and Mrs. Walter E. Clark, at the summer residence of the former at Scripps Institution colony and took place July 26.

The late Mrs. Mabel Abrams Russell, wife of R. La Motte Russell of this town, was a daughter of Doctor and Mrs. Abrams, and the grandchildren are Alva Abrams Russell, Robert and Margaret Russell; the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Clark and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Currier. There are also grand-grandchildren.

Soon after his marriage to Miss Jessie Davis in Schenectady, N. Y., Dr. Abrams opened an office in Hartford where he soon built up an extensive practice not only in that city but many people from this and other towns consulted Dr. Abrams. Until his retirement from active work some months ago and removal to California, he was one of Hartford's outstanding physicians.
