SACCO'S LAWYER APPEALS AGAIN TO GOV. FULLER

Asks for Another Respite So That Case May be Taken Up by the United States Supreme Court.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—Balked in "last-minute" attempts to secure a stay of execution for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from Justice James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Chief Defense Counsel Arthur D. Hill today made another appeal to Governor Owen T. Fuller for a respite in order that the case may be dealt with by the Supreme Court of the United States.

After dispatching a plea to the governor by letter, Attorney Hill hurried to Beverly Farms to ask Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court for a stay of execution until application to the United States Supreme court for writ of certiorari can be heard.

Attorney Hill's letter to Governor Fuller follows:

"In the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, I have sent to Washington for filing with the Supreme Court of the United States writs of certiorari in order to bring the cases before that tribunal. I have also ordered copies of the necessary records. Under these circumstances, I respectfully request that a further respite be granted the defendants in order that the cases may be dealt with by the Supreme Court of the United States. I may add that I regret being obliged to make this further application to you and I propose taking what steps are possible to secure an order for a stay from some other States Court. In view, however, of the shortness of time, it is not certain that it will be possible for us to do this, and for that reason I feel constrained to make this application to you. I do not feel that the matter ought to rest in a race for time. Our petitions for certiorari were sent to the supreme court at Washington at the earliest possible moment subsequent to our receiving word of the adverse decision on the cases by the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth and that every possible step has been and will be taken by me to expedite the cases to a final conclusion.

The letter arrived at the State House while the chief executive was at his Rye Beach, N. H., summer home.

HILL'S STATEMENT

In connection with the refusal of Judge Morton to grant a petition of habeas corpus of a stay of execution, Attorney Hill issued this statement:

"Defense Attorney Elias Field saw Judge Morton of the United States Court late last night at his summer home at Westport Harbor and again this morning in Fall River Court House. Today he presented a new petition for habeas corpus. Judge Morton declined to allow the petition and entered a final order dismissing it. He also declined to allow an appeal from this order. Judge Morton also declined to grant a stay of execution. The necessary papers presented to Judge Morton were being brought back to Boston and as soon as possible will be filed here in the United States District Court. Defense counsel are waiting to hear from Defense Attorney M. A. Musmanno who is filing an application for writ of certiorari at Washington. They propose to go to Beverly Farms to endeavor to see Associate Justice Holmes and to request him to order a stay of execution until application to the United States courts for a writ of certiorari can be heard.

"I can see no reason to appeal to Justice Brandies of the United States Supreme Court as the ordinary practice is that where application is made during pendency of a petition for a writ of certiorari is to take it up with the justice assigned to the circuit in which the case originated and in this case Justice Holmes is the one to be seen."

IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The dramatic fight being waged to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from the electric chair reached the United States Supreme Court today. As a sort of forlorn gesture, Michael A. Musmanno, of counsel for the condemned men, walked in the empty chambers of the Supreme Court this morning and filed an application for a writ of certiorari. The court is not in session and there is no member of the

RADICALS RAVE IN DEATH HOUSE

"They Persecute Me," "I Never Killed Any Man" Vanzetti Screams.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—While lawyers for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti today were swinging into a desperate "eleventh hour" drive on the Federal courts for a stay of execution, Vanzetti was making the grim walls of the Death House at State's prison ring with his cries of "persecution."

"Seven years of it. Seven years of it," cried Vanzetti. "I never killed any man. They persecute me." Prison guards heard the voices of Sacco and Celestino Madeiros from adjoining cells trying to calm the raving man as hour after hour ticked away, bringing all three nearer and nearer to a few minutes after midnight next Tuesday morning when they are scheduled to go to eternity.

Awaits Sister.

Sacco and Madeiros succeeded in quieting Vanzetti and after breakfast he slept to await the arrival of his sister, Luigia, who journeyed from Italy to give him a sister's love and consolation and to ask him to seek spiritual consolation, which he has refused because of his atheistic beliefs.

In the outside world the Sacco-Vanzetti attorneys were engaged in several legal moves "anticipating the worst but hoping for the best" as they put it. Possible avenues were:

Application to Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus. The venerable justice has been the recipient of several death threats and was under guard at his Beverly Farms home. At the time of the ending of the previous respite he stated he was without jurisdiction to issue the writ.

Another Application.

Justice James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, at his summer home in Acacoxet, Westport Harbor, had under advisement an application for a writ of certiorari. Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the State Superior Court had been consulted on the matter of a stay.

Defense Attorney M. A. Musmanno, of Pittsburgh, was in Washington filing an application for a writ of certiorari.

Faint Hope.

Faint hope of the legal array of defense lawyers hinged on the plan to have the country's highest tribunal review the case under a writ of certiorari, a procedure done rarely in criminal cases.

Warden William Hendry at State's Prison, expecting no further delay, was going ahead with plans for carrying out the death sentence. The executioner was ordered and the death chair made ready. Witnesses were summoned to be ready to be at the prison in Charlestown late Monday night.

At the same time the entire Boston Police Department went on "round the clock" duty, sleeping at the various station houses on their public buildings. At the post-office federal guards stood at each corner with rifles slung over their shoulders.

"We Are In Tail Spin" Erwin's Last Message

"Dallas Spirit"

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 20.—It was all over but we came out of it. The lights on the instrument board went out and it was—

"9:02 p. m.—We are in another." Since then no word has been received from the "Dallas Spirit."

The commander of the 13th Naval District of San Francisco figures the position of the plane at approximately 592 nautical miles from San Francisco.

The loss of Captain Erwin and his navigator would bring the total missing in the Dole flight to seven, with three killed, three planes lost and three wrecked, with two other planes partially wrecked.

Captain Erwin volunteered to hunt for the Hearst plane "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran" which have not been heard from since they left San Francisco last Tuesday.

NEW YORK'S MAYOR NOW IN FREE STATE

Jimmy Walker Makes a Big Hit in Dublin After He Leaves London.

Dublin, Aug. 20.—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City, came back to Erin—the home of his fathers—to receive such a spontaneous demonstration that he had hardly recovered today from the emotions that overcame him.

"There were tears in my eyes—tears of sadness and tears of joy," said Walker when he spoke today of the welcome he received last night, first in Kingston and later in Dublin. "It was too overwhelming to be described. I am deeply and sincerely grateful."

Crowds Greet Him

Not only the piers and the streets but even the hills back of Kingston were crowded with people who shouted and cheered themselves hoarse. Irish and American flags were everywhere. The Free State Military band played incessantly, mingling "The Star Spangled Banner" with "The Soldiers' Song," the new anthem of the new Irish State.

"Will You Love Me in December As You Did in May?" a song written by Mayor Walker before he entered politics, is proving a popular air with the bands that popularize "The Sidewalks of New York."

The mayor was a guest at an informal dinner party given last night by Frederick A. Sterling, American minister to the Free State.

Bancroft announced that if Smith appeared in Boston, papers in the suit would be served on him.

MARRIAGE LAW IS EXPLAINED TO CLERGYMAN

Any Minister in State Who Has Taken Up Other Vocations Cannot Perform the Ceremony.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 20.—Clergymen who have taken up other vocations cannot perform a legal marriage ceremony in Connecticut. Neither can clergymen from outside the United States perform the ceremony within this state. Such is the clarifying statement of Connecticut's attorney-general, issued after a week of discussion.

Rev. George W. Reynolds, of West Hartford, feeling himself banned from performing a marriage ceremony, appealed to the governor. The attorney-general replied to Mr. Reynolds, saying:

"The governor has no authority under the laws of this state to confer upon any one of the authority to perform marriages. Your inquiry, however, brings up once more the question of who, under the laws of this state, can unite persons in marriage. The question can only be answered by quoting Section 5267 of the General Statutes, that portion with which we are now concerned reads:

"All judges, justices of the peace, and ordained or licensed clergymen belonging to this state or any other state, so long as they remain in the work of the ministry, may join persons in marriage, and all marriages attempted to be and all marriages attempted to be shall be solemnized according to the forms and usages of any religious denomination in this state shall be valid."

"As to that portion of the statute herein quoted, to the effect that all marriages which shall be solemnized according to the forms and usages of any religious denomination in this state shall be valid, I do not believe that, in the face of the statement in this statute that all marriages attempted to be celebrated by any other person shall be void. I should say that this portion of the statute in any way in-

Freighter West Sequana Sends Word That Her Lookout Saw Three Red Flares Shortly After Midnight and a Fourth at 4:20 A. M.—"Dallas Spirit" Which Started Out Yesterday to Aid in Search is Also Believed Lost —Lights Seen by Freighter Not Those From This Plane.

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 20.—Word of four reddish flares reported sighted by the mate and lookout of the freighter West Sequana, came early today as the most hopeful omen in the four-day search for the lost Dole planes, "The Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran."

A third plane, the "Dallas Spirit," which left Oakland late yesterday to search for the Hearst plane and the "flying schoolmarm" ship, is also feared to be lost in the Pacific.

Three of the flares were reported to have been sighted by the West Sequana shortly after midnight, Pacific coast time. Today a fourth flare was seen about 4:20 a. m., the freighter reported.

Standing By

The flares shot into the sky from a point about three miles off the steamer's starboard bow, the wireless messages reported. The West Sequana is standing by till daylight to investigate the source of the rockets.

The full report of the sighting of the signals follows: "Three flares fading to red were sighted by our mate and lookout off the starboard bow. The distance was approximately three miles. Our position at midnight was Latitude 37.32 North, Longitude 127.22 west, while steering 264 degrees true. Standing by until daylight to ascertain source of the flares."

SAW FLARE

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 20.—The Federal Telegraph company received the following at midnight from the steamer West Sequana: "In Latitude 37.32 North, Longitude 127.22 West, at 12 midnight, Pacific standard time, saw flare. Standing by until daylight. Flare not repeated."

At 8 p. m. last night, the West Sequana was 798 miles west of San Francisco, bound for Shanghai.

STEWARDESS HELD IN ACID MURDER

Mrs. Waits Arrested on Charge She Threw Poison in Engineer's Face.

New York, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Mary Waits, stewardess on the American Trader, was arrested at the Barge Office yesterday, following her return from England on the President Roosevelt on a warrant charging murder on the high seas. She was taken to the Federal Building, where she was questioned by Assistant United States Attorney George S. Leisura, but declined a formal hearing before a magistrate. From there she was taken to the women's prison at Jefferson Market, where she will be held until the first of the week, when papers relating to her case are due to arrive.

Mrs. Waits threw acid into the face of Lewis Fisher, engineer on the American Trader, on the vessel's last trip to England. Fisher died shortly afterward. Mrs. Waits was charged with murder when the vessel reached London, but was exonerated by a coroner's jury, according to cable reports received at the time. She was deported, however.

The charge made out against her was partly the result of information obtained from relatives of Fisher, who told the authorities the dead man had expressed fear of the stewardess. She was reported to have admitted the acid throwing, but denied intent to injure him, saying that jealousy was her motive, and she wished to prevent him seeing other women in England.

Mrs. Waits was self-possessed an ardent yesterday. She appeared older than her 32 years, and was dressed in blue suit, waist, and small hat. She was transferred to a revenue cutter at Quarantine, where Mr. Leisura met her, and she came down the ship's ladder carrying a bulky paper package containing what personal effects she had transferred from the American Trader.

Cline's Book Out

Cline's book "The Dark Chamber" was ready for the press on August 15 the day that he was supposed to make his selection and there is much in the book as it appears that he is not all written while he was in the Tolland County Jail, but was started before he was arrested and before the murder in the Tolland County Jail...

This novel was so well along that there has been a copy of the book in the hands of State's Attorney Noone for over two weeks, but the interesting question in this is the matter concerning the notes that were prepared and from which the novel was written.

"They might have been given to a friend," was the comment made by the Herald reporter to State's Attorney Noone some time ago, but the fact that it was not until some time after Cline had reached the hospital that he telephoned for Mr. King rather leads to the belief that the original notes for the novel have been picked up by the state police and are probably in the hands of the state's attorney.

There were no prisoners at the jail at the time and when this was remarked the jailer explained that they left the prisoners out in the daytime.

FINED $150 IN RUM CASE AS FAREWELL

Frank Bron Won't Be Kept From California by Jail Sentence, However.

Fines were imposed by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in police court today on Frank Bron, convicted of keeping liquor with intent to sell and on Henry Clouthier of William, found guilty of reckless driving.

Bron's arrest came after police had been called to his home near the Glastonbury line on South Main street a week ago. The farmer had been in an argument with his wife and a visitor and had got the worst of the deal. His face was covered with blood when the police arrived and he appeared to have been assaulted.

Liquor was found in the place and Bron's arrest followed. The case had been adjourned until today.

Going to the Coast In his plea for Bron Attorney William S. Hyde said that his client had tried to pacify his wife by transferring all his property to her. It was his intention now, Attorney Hyde said, to leave Manchester and go to California. Judge Johnson said that in view of the circumstances he would impose a fine of $150 and costs and a jail sentence of 15 days.

Clouthier, according to witnesses, passed Gambe's car, which was in the act of passing Rich's car and struck the former machine on the front left cap. The Gambe car swerved to the right and forced the Rich car into the open lot at the side of the road. Clouthier's number was taken by another driver and he was arrested and brought to court.

He was found guilty as charged and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

STATE MARRIAGE LAW IS MADE CLEARER

creates the number of those who can join persons in marriage. A broader construction of this statute might be made by a court but as I have already said, it is within my province to say only that which I can safely say, particularly in construing such a statute as the one now under consideration.

"My understanding of your letter is that you are an ordained clergyman, that you have held several pastorates, that you have worked from active work in the ministry, but that you have taken up no other vocation. Under these circumstances I am of the opinion that you are qualified under the statute to join persons in marriage."

Speaking to the International News Service, the attorney-general said: "Assistant clergymen, curates, and others of like class unquestionably are within the definition of continuing in the work of the ministry. So long as a regularly ordained minister is engaged in the work of the church as a vocation I think it safe to say he may still be considered as being in the work of the ministry. Conversely, if he has taken up another vocation, even though he occasionally preaches, he is no longer continuing in the work of the ministry."

The attorney-general pointed out that he still stands by the opinion of his predecessors that ministers who have gone to other vocations cannot perform marriage ceremonies. The affair started when a Canadian minister was told he could not perform a ceremony legally in this state. Scores of ministers constructed the decision to mean that only pastors of congregations might legally officiate at marriages. But such was not at all the meaning of the attorney-general.

Such a controversy as the present one developed back in 1820. To settle matters the Legislature of that year passed an act validating all previous marriages in Connecticut. The validating act was sweeping, and from its wording it may be judged that all marriages back to the founding of the colony were set right. Then the Legislature proceeded to adopt a clarifying act. A question still remains, as it would seem from recent developments, as to whether this was altogether successful.

Robbers Make Clean Get-away After Entering Vinton (Ia.) Bank. Vinton, Ia., Aug. 20.—Five young men today held up the Farmers' National Bank here and escaped in an automobile with approximately $25,000 in currency.

The robbers told George McElroy cashier, to get behind the counter and then throw his head off. Mrs. Russell Gustafson and infant son of 20 Summer street were discharged.

A man who was passing the bank was knocked down by one of the men, but apparently was not badly hurt.

One of the quintet stood guard at the bank's door. Ninety-six per cent of the $4,318 rural mail routes now are covered by motor car.

SENIORITY TO RULE IN TROLLEY BID-IN

Motormen Will Be Allowed Time to Qualify as Operators of One-Man Cars.

Seniority alone and not especial qualification for the job will count in the new bid-in which is to be made by trolley-men on the Connecticut company lines when the new one-man car arrangements are completed for the South Manchester and the Rockville lines. Trolley-men were in doubt as to the working of the bid-in, but this announcement from the Hartford office of the company this morning makes everything clear.

Motormen who bid on a one-man job will be allowed time to qualify as one-man car operators. This qualification would be necessary only in the case of motormen of several years' service on the lines. Formerly an employee qualified either as a conductor or a motorman but in recent years a ruling has been made that employees must be both motormen and conductors.

Manchester trolley-men were confused this week when they tried to figure out what would happen when motormen high on the seniority list would bid in for the same job with conductors who were lower.

KEITH CANDIDATE FOR SELECTMAN

Mr. Keith was chairman of the committee in charge of the underwriting of the financing of the new South Methodist Episcopal church here and in doing that he proved himself an able executive. Mr. Keith also proved his interest in the welfare of Manchester at the last town meeting when he read a long account of the results of his study of the Town Report.

As head of the G. E. Keith Furniture Company and as a large property owner Mr. Keith represents an important group of voters and taxpayers and will greatly strengthen the personnel of the Selectmen if elected. He has expressed himself as not desiring an elective office, but has stated that if asked to run by a group of citizens he would stand for nomination.

The Assessor Problem. In endorsing Samuel Nelson Jr. for assessor the local Republican committee took a definite stand against the candidacy of John Jensen for assessor. Mr. Nelson resigned during the past year as an assessor because of disagreement on the board. S. Emil Johnson and Samuel Nelson Jr. were tendered.

Members of the Board of Selectmen and other town officials in a position to know of the conditions say that both S. Emil Johnson and Samuel Nelson Jr. were invaluable members of the board. Mr. Johnson's knowledge of the work has been of inestimable value to the town and Mr. Nelson is a competent clerk. Through his work the present books of the Linder system are in first class shape.

Against Jensen Because of the feeling that has arisen against Mr. Jensen's candidacy and because Mr. Nelson's resignation was in reality caused through disagreement with Mr. Jensen, Mr. Nelson has consented to run for the office of assessor again. The Republican town committee do not mind words in opposing the Jensen candidacy.

Proposals for nomination must be filed with Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington before midnight Monday, August 29. Primary Day is on Tuesday, September 13 and Election Day is on Monday, October 3.

When Alfred McGee, a wealthy farmer near Glenville, Ala., died, he requested that his grave be near the road and that farmers hauling their cotton crop to market should call out in a loud voice the price of cotton for that day. This has been done for 45 years.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

This is chapter 118 of the series of articles by Paul Adams, The Herald correspondent, who is revisiting France as a scout for the American Legion convention in September.

CHAPTER CXIII. Xammes is the village in the St. Mihiel salient that enjoys a unique distinction since the guide books on the American battle fronts in France have been written—being the lone village to be placed under the "X" classification in the index.

Xammes—the debris of a reconstructed church—hens scratching—and an old lady with a white bonnet, Madame Henriette Cohain, pads by in her slippers on her way to the boulanger's to buy the day's supply of bread.

Xammes—pronounced "Zamz"—appears in the paragraph concerning the 89th Division as follows: "In the advance the following day (September 13th) the division moved forward in the face of stiff opposition, especially artillery fire, capturing Boney and Xammes, establishing its lines for the night with the right flank at Xammes and the left flank in the middle of the Bois de Dampvieux."

That's the record. A village of two hundred inhabitants and muddy streets, two cafes and four hundred wooden shoes (it's a fairly dry day and Madame Cohain left her pair at home). Centuries of uninterrupted, colorless history—a flash of gun-doughboys coming up—for one night it becomes the resting place for the right flank of an American unit—and then—

Xammes was made. It achieved a lasting distinction. For when the historians wrote their chronicles and the tourist agencies got out their guide books they made an "X" classification in the indices.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (62) The Jeanette

The tragedy of Lieut. George Washington De Long and the little ship Jeanette is among the famous stories of man's daring in the face of the great white terror of the Arctic. The lieutenant left San Francisco in July, 1879, to explore certain Siberian islands. Two months later he was fast locked in the ice off Herald Island.

De Long was not daunted for he had experienced thrills in the Arctic before. Once in a little steam launch he had sought the lost Polar and her crew.

The launch being swamped amid charging icebergs he was in danger of sinking. Seas flooded the launch and drenched the fuel.

Even the matches were saturated. Such was De Long's indomitable spirit and resource that he kept his engine running with pork. Matches were dried out against the bodies of the seamen. The men had to raise steam to escape and this they did by kindling shavings with oil and the dried matches. With steam in the boiler, the launch fought its way out.

GOD'S THRONE

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE

International Sunday School Lesson Text, Aug. 21.

Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.—Heb. 1:8.

The Lord assured David that through his son his throne would be established forever. He has no throne now, nor are his sons even known. There has not the Lord's promise failed?

Get the standpoint from which the Lord spoke, and it will be seen that no promise of His ever did or will fail short. Every sentence of Scripture is the eternal truth.

Jesus said, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." The Jews thought that He meant the temple of stone, which He just cleansed of their bread. "But He spoke of the temple of His body," which He raised from the sepulcher. He warned, "Beware of the heaven of the Pharisees." His hearers supposed that He spoke of their bread. He was warning them against their doctrines. Likewise of David's throne. The Lord did not mean David's temporal government, his sceptre of power, but the sceptre of righteousness, that government of justice given to Israel, and ever to increase through Jesus Christ, of the lineage of David.

Who, understanding the state of the world when the Lord came, would say that the throne of God had failed? Jesus cast out the prince of this world, and set the government of justice, peace and love on His throne. Has His sceptre of righteousness lost or increased in power? We are nearing twenty centuries of its increasing sway. Surely there is much evil, but the powers that make for evil are stronger than ever today. In the Lord's day, politicians boasted of their cruelty, cunning and deceptions. Kings demanded worship as Gods. Dare one seeking political power boast of his evil education in the school of the masses demand honesty and justice. The sceptre of righteousness rules. Even the evil preach humble service and righteousness. There is enlightening power in the faith that God's throne of righteousness is forever and ever.

Kings and presidents work to advance the mass. They cannot know individually all whom they govern. God knows each one of us more intimately than any of us can, or than we can know ourselves. He works through individuals. Human hearts are to be His throne. There the Lord will ever come in greater power, and they become of His everlasting kingdom who make His sceptre the sceptre of righteousness.

WTIC GETS AWAY FROM N. Y. INTERFERENCE

To Go on New Wave Length at End of Next Week; Means Much to Local Fans.

The information today that radio station WTIC in Hartford has been assigned a new wave length is of especial interest to Manchester people. Due to the proximity of Hartford, it has been almost impossible for local radio listeners to get stations WBAP or WJZ in New York. With Hartford operating on a wave length of 475.9 meters, it has interfered with reception from the other two stations.

Walter G. Cowles of Hartford who is in charge of station WTIC, announced today that beginning at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, August 27, WTIC will operate on a frequency of 560 k. c. equivalent to a 535.7 meter wave length. This wave length is at present used by station WNYC at New York but the latter will be assigned a new wave length.

THOUGHTS OF A FAMILY LINE STIR MAN IN DEEPEST MOOD

The International Sunday School Lesson for August 21 is "God's Promise to David."—1 Chronicles 17.

Far away in the ancient Orient I learned one of the universal principles of success. It is that a man's life is best expressed by his descendants. A family is the real fortune. Sons are success. The East takes long, long views; therefore it regards the family line as of more importance than the individual. Our present Lesson makes clear how logical is this reasoning. No man ever does a complete work. The most useful person dies with his task unfinished to be carried on to greater success by his sons. Solomon was essential to the fulfillment of David's dreams.

Our present-day individualism with its light disdain for family ties and claims, is a prodigious blunder. The Orient's greatest Book declares, "He setteth the solitary in families." There is more than a coincidence in the two facts that the South sets greatest store by the family and that the South is the Bible-studying, God-fearing section of the land.

Any young man or woman who considers a "career" apart from a home and children is blind to the oldest teaching of the race. Ask any childless millionaire or author or statesman; the answers will be swift that wealth and fame and power are no substitute for a son. Only those who have experienced it know the bitterness of the sorrow of having no children to carry on the torch of a life. I have been confronted by one of his life's denials, David had the consolation of knowing that his son would succeed where he had failed.

"He's a little fellow," is the condemnation with which men of our time dismiss another man who is under discussion; while "He's big, is highest praise. Sign of size are various; but one of the surest is a man's interest in larger concerns than his own personal affairs. Every person with qualities of greatness cares for the whole nation's welfare; for the triumph of religion, for human betterment, and for peace in the world. William Penn called this trait "a public mind." Anybody who does not possess it is small, hopelessly small.

In David's case his greatness was manifest by his zeal for a temple of Jehovah. Because he was big he had respect for what was bigger than himself. He was big in his sense of proportion, his own innate spirit of reverence, his own respect could not reconcile the fact that he himself dwelt in a sumptuous palace of imported cedar, with the other fact that the ark of the covenant, symbol of Jehovah's presence, dwelt in a temporary and movable tent. David was great because he had a true conception of relative values. He knew himself to be the servant of Jehovah; quite unlike many later kings who have regarded God as merely a member of their royal entourage. Some new-rich men adopt a patronizing attitude toward religion; they see a large-scale map to be made of their money, but these things, like good companions, stupid people cease early to observe—Stevenson.

Be not lenient to your own faults; keep your pardon for others.—Japanese Proverb.

O Lord, I pray That for this day I may not swerve By foot or hand From thy command Not to be served, but to serve. —Maltbie D. Babcock.

No one is useless in the world who lightens the burden of it for anyone else.—Dickens.

If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.—Romans 12:20.

All might do good, whether lowly or great— A deed is not judged by the purse or estate; If only a cup of cold water is given Like the mite of the widow, 'tis something for heaven.—Whittier.

The central concern of every human being is to know God, and knowing Him, to do His will and live in His plan.—D. S. Cairns.

STATE EMPLOYMENT

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 20.—Connecticut's free employment bureau handled applications from 730 people seeking work and found jobs for 479, during the week ended yesterday. Of the 418 men seeking work 258 found it while of the 314 women jobs were found for 221.

Applications at the various offices were Waterbury 175, Bridgeport 160, Hartford 153, New Haven 130, and Norwich 114.

MRS. TAYLOR DIVORCED. Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Clarice Taylor, whose husband a year ago accused her of becoming infatuated with "Red" Grange gridiron hero, has obtained a divorce from Charles A. Taylor, wealthy oil well supply dealer.

Outstanding Figure. The outstanding figure in the administration of the school fund was a great Connecticut patriot, the Honorable James Hillhouse, a resident of New Haven and the city's first mayor. His public service covering periods in two centuries is

Here Is The History Of State School Fund

Editor's Note:—Connecticut's a worthy record of well doing which could be emulated by public officials today to the ultimate advantage of the state. This remarkable record of the people was the colleague of Washington's confidential adviser, Jonathan Trumbull, in the second Congress of the United States and a Senator from 1795 to 1810, resigning to take charge of the school fund as its first commissioner. He administered the complex duties with marked ability and success for fifteen years. His system of procedure was maintained for nearly 100 years until legislation was enacted abolishing the title commissioner, placing the entire responsibility of the fund's administration in the custody of the state treasurer.

From the "School Fund" he resigned to take charge of building the famous Farmington canal and later was elected treasurer of Yale College. His salary of $1,000 a year made him the highest paid government official in the state. From 1811 to 1818 the General Assembly allowed him $500 a year for extra labor but rescinded this bonus after seven years. This act brought a general criticism from the commissioner and his friends, for which he was roundly scored by some of the assembly membership and later allowed the privilege of addressing the body in defense of his opinion and attitude. The report to accept his remarks and ensure that portion of it relating to the assembly's action in cutting $500 a year from his compensation was voted 100 to 95 which shows the remarkable hold the commissioner maintained, although beaten by a very small margin.

In Modern Times. Since 1909 the custody of the fund has been wholly in the hands of the state treasurer. The entire capital of the fund is invested in first mortgage loans with the exception of $93,000, in bank stocks and $98,000 in 4-1-4 per cent United States treasury bonds. The yield of interest from the principal is nearly six per cent. This state branch is probably the most liberal loan institution to be found anywhere and frequently lapses interest payments are allowed to accumulate. The penalty amounting to nine per cent often swells the income without impairing the security afforded the state.

Has a Soul. Unlike large corporations the commonwealth has a soul and frequently citizens in dire need of financial assistance are helped, in fact a bond of just and generous sympathy is maintained between the clients and the state, with the result that thousands of people have shared in the benefits accruing from the wisdom of the state's policy of helpfulness and co-operation. Many times when other sources of borrowing are closed the state after a thorough investigation takes upon itself the burden refused by others whose business is the loaning of money.

Some of the individual cases bordering upon the dramatic and innumerable prayers of praise have been recorded in the archives of the state. The reflected good and glory which belongs to the modest workings of the school fund is some achievement in which every citizen may take pardonable pride and renewed hope. In the larger interests of today the principal of the fund ought to be much greater than it now is, and it was doubtless the hope and intention of its framers to always keep the capital of the fund large enough to cope with the constantly growing demands of public education.

The income of the $120,000,000 yearly is only a fraction of the cost of operating the common schools, in fact this sum is less than five per cent of the expense incurred annually by the State Board of Education for enumeration grants, not a very brave showing as compared with the story pictured more than a century ago.

In analyzing the figures and methods of management for the period of more than six score years the total losses of approximately $500,000 are offset by gains amounting to over $500,000. The original capital of the fund $1,200,000 has almost doubled, having reached its total ($2,087,419.31) at the end of the present fiscal year 1927. It is probable that another $15,000 will be added before the advent of the 1928 report. Following gains for the capital unless it is deemed advisable to dispose of the bank stocks which now have a market value of over three hundred per cent above the original cost. The sale of bank stocks at the present market price would add $220,000 to the principal of the fund.

It would be interesting to trace the human side of the 15,000 and more loans which have been placed in different states of the Union. Eight commonwealths have at various periods enjoyed through their residents loans from the coffers of the Connecticut School Fund, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Kansas.

Only State Loans. Since July, 1925, all loans are placed within the borders of the commonwealth, a condition brought about by the General Assembly in 1925. Evidently the mandate of the honorable body started a popular demand, as applications for loans increased beginning with the fiscal year 1926. It is a deplorable situation which forces eight per cent of all requests from borrowers to find favor, with some other source, for the answer "no funds" write finsis to the hopes of so many.

There appears to be no acceptable remedy for this situation, although it would fill a much needed want among the numerous applicants if means could be devised state-wide to increase the fund's loaning power.

130 Years Old. This 130-year-old land baby is about the only thing in Connecticut which was created without sandbagging the taxpayers or piling upon a humble start it has disbursed in excess of $13,000,000 in cash, and if a proper caption were placed above its century and more head it would read:

Way back in the years from 1810 when the first commissioner received $1,000 a year and was the highest paid official in the commonwealth the custodians have very generally labored to keep foremost the early traditions and make the "School Fund" what it was often termed in the halls of legislation more than a century ago "a sacred fund, the pride and glory of the state."

In the long history of the fund the management has rested upon the shoulders of many prominent men, from 1793-1800 a committee of eight, 1801-1810 headed by James Hillhouse, and from 1811-1919 guided by fifteen commissioners, 1910-1927 under seven different treasurers.

Present Treasurer. Under the guidance of the present treasurer, Ernest Rogers, the fund's affairs have taken an active spurt as the reports for 1925-1927 clearly show. In two years the capital has been increased more than $61,000, a gain which has been exceeded but once in the life of the fund.

Long periods of service have characterized the workers in the School Fund Department. This is illustrated by the service of Miss Jennie L. Webster, a clerk in the department since 1913. She is a native of Waterbury, but now lives in Hartford. Through her work with the fund she has a knowledge few women gain in the handling of mortgage loans.

Section Two of Article Eight of the Constitution of Connecticut describes the school fund, and if there is anything in language which is conclusive of the operation of the little old Connecticut School Fund will go on forever.

MAYOR IS ADMIRAL

London.—The Lord Mayor of London, looking through some dusty records, discovered that he also is an admiral. By hereditary right he is admiral of the port of London. He assumed his robes of office and went to the docks where he was piped aboard a liner with all the ceremony accorded an admiral of the fleet.

LOCAL MAN TELLS OF WORK IN DETROIT

Henry Strange Returns for Vacation After Long Stay in West—Plans to Return.

Henry Strange, who is now located in Detroit, Mich., is visiting with his mother, Mrs. Henry Strange of Florence street. Strange who has been in nearly all of the states in the Union since leaving Manchester about eight years ago, or shortly after he returned from the World War, reports conditions in Detroit, as far as the automobile business is concerned, as extremely slow.

The shutting down of the Ford Plant while new machinery was being installed for the new model that the Ford company is to put on the market is responsible for the greater part of this.

He does not tell of having seen the new model of the Ford production, but is to return to Detroit early in September as it is expected that the manufacturing of the new models will get underway about September 15. The fact that the street railway company has ordered 101 new cars to be delivered in Detroit on or before September 8 to be ready to handle the workmen who will be employed in the Ford plant indicates to him that it will be about that time that the plant will again get in operation. No extra building to any degree has been done at the plant as is demanded from all the agents is such that the company does not intend to stock cars at all, but as fast as they are completed will start shipping them. This leads him to feel that Ford is expecting a large demand for the new model, concerning which there has been so much secrecy.

James D. Dole, Hawaii pineapple man, having a great deal of money and being interested in "putting Hawaii on the map" after the conventional fashion of provincial aspirants.

The results of his offer, generous enough but of dubious judgment, are, first, the successful crossing of the Pacific in time considerably slower than already accomplished.

Captain A. V. Rodgers' monoplane smashed during test flight, killing Rodgers.

"Upside-down" monoplane, crashed into cliff, killing Pilot George Covell and Navigator Waggener.

Buhl plane "Miss Doran", probably lost at sea with Pilot Pedlar, Navigator Knope and Mildred Doran, passenger.

Hearst "Golden Eagle", probably lost at sea with Pilot Frost and Navigator Scott.

"Pacific Flyer", cracked up while taking off for Hawaii; Pilot Irving unhurt.

"El Encanto", wrecked while taking off; Lieutenants Goddard and Hawkins unhurt.

Griffin's triplane, dived into San Francisco bay and wrecked; crew uninjured.

"Spirit of Dallas", forced back after official start by torn fuselage.

Monoplane Oklahoma, forced back by motor trouble after take-off.

Of the remaining four contestants out of fifteen original entrants one plane was disqualified because of small gasoline capacity and three others withdrew.

Three persons are dead, five others almost certainly so, and several others had glacially escaped from death.

We are not surprised that Mr. Dole has offered a new reward of $10,000 to the rescuer of either of the lost crews or $20,000 for the saving of both.

It will be rather a new idea to most folks, the suggestion that Governor's Island, New York harbor, should not be discontinued as an army post and taken for an airport because there is no telling when the troops stationed there may be needed to protect the city against rioters.

This is the first time we have ever known the position to be held that an American city should be policed, even in reserve, by federal troops in time of absolute peace and quietude.

What has been buzzing in the bonnet of the New York state Chamber isn't easy to guess, unless it may be that there are members of that body who have never gotten over the scare that Mitch Palmer threw into the country in 1920, when he got the notion—or pretended to have gotten it—that about every fourth man in the United States whose pants were not neatly pressed had an anarchist's bomb in his pocket.

New York City, with its police force and fire department and several regiments of well trained National Guard soldiers of its own, would appear to be amply able to protect itself. And if at any time problem in this country should reach such an utterly improbable degree of strength and violence as to render these agencies inadequate, it is more than doubtful if a headquarters company and perhaps another one, from Governor's Island, would greatly affect the situation.

As a military post Governor's Island is a pleasant place to live, being nearer to many good theatres than any other in America, but of extremely small value in any other way. Many persons have wondered why it was not put to other uses long ago. The apprehensions of the New York State Chamber of Commerce may explain much that has been difficult to understand.

TOO MANY FOLKS

It is not so long ago that half the people in New York were crying out against the police because they did not meet fire with fire and go into battle against the city's desperados with pistols a-smoking.

Now another half—or possibly much the same one—just as busily engaged in calling the cops murderers because two citizens, one of them a little girl, have been killed by police bullets fired at escaping criminals; and the department is forced into the conduct of an "investigation."

Surely there is truth to the Gilbertian proposition that "A policeman's life is not a happy one." If he lets the crook get away Mr. Man in the Street sneeringly demands to know what the cop has a gun for. If he blazes away he is indignantly asked where he thinks he is—in the Argonne?

The silliest of the police critics are those who imagine the cop to be necessarily awkward and stupid because the bullet he fires at a fleeing or battling crook misses its proper mark and lands in the body of an innocent bystander.

It is only people who have never fired a pistol in their lives and who have read too many wild west yarns who imagine that there is anything exact in the science of shooting at a moving human mark.

So long as crooks use guns the police who oppose them must use guns—not merely carry them. And when guns are being fired somebody is pretty likely to get shot when the town is as packed full of people as is New York.

The answer is that persons who are unqualifiedly opposed to being shot, either by gunmen or policemen, would do well to go and live somewhere else where there is room for a pistol bullet to pass between them.

UNWELCOME MONEY

One of the heirs to the Searles millions via the will of Arthur T. Walker, expresses the hope that getting a big lump of old Ma.K Hopkins' fortune will not destroy the happiness that he and his wife have known while he earned a decent living behind the meat block of a Detroit butcher shop.

Another of the heirs is described by her husband as "worried half to death" by the news that she may have to pick up the responsibility of several million dollars.

All hands would probably be a good deal better satisfied with life at the end of the next ten years if they were to use enough of the principal of their inheritances to buy themselves annuities of four or five thousand dollars a year, donate the rest of the fortune to the Red Cross and stick right along in the old homes and on the old jobs.

There used to be, about wealth, a distinction that compensated largely for the disagreeable features of being rich. But with the country chock full of plethoric bootleggers, oil stock swindlers who ride in Rolls Royces and people who look like bediamonded live pork, the temptation to stay poor, even in the face of such showers of gold as are pouring over the Walker family, is great.

ALL FOR THE COBBLER

We are pleased to note among the newspapers that come to this office almost unanimous agreement with the Herald's suggestion that America's need of cobblers is at least as great, and presumably greater, than its hunger for more clarinet players. The affair of Vincenzo Gentile, whose deportation is proposed because he turned shoe repairer after having been admitted to this country as a musical "artist" has received about as much editorial comment throughout the country as President Coolidge's backing of the Indians in their right to live their own lives.

And we have yet to encounter the utterance of an editor whose ear is so attuned that he prefers the squawk of the clarinet to the tap-tap of the cobbler's broad faced little hammer.

There used to be such things as "artists in wax." Some wonderful specimens of their art are still in existence. Perhaps Vincenzo might be able to convince the immigration authorities that he is entitled to remain as an artist in wax ends.

Bobbing of schoolgirls' hair is favorably regarded by medical authorities, who wish boys were their hair correspondingly short.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 20.—Theoretically, the session of the Senate ought to be one long series of taxi rides to the Senate chamber for Vice-President Charles G. Dawes.

It will be recalled that when the Senate voted on the appointment of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general, the failure of Dawes to arrive in time to cast the deciding vote resulted in a bitter defeat for the administration.

It's a safe bet that Dawes will break a leg or two before he lets himself in for such an embarrassing incident during the next session, for another such occurrence probably would be fatal to the Dawes presidential ambitions.

He is a strong candidate for the Republican nomination, but not strong enough to stand up against the ridicule and loss of confidence which would surely follow a late arrival on the job.

Party Lines in Senate. Although, theoretically, Dawes will have to use his privilege of breaking the votes in the Senate almost every day, on account of the precarious political lineup in that body which may result if Smith and Yare are named, actually he will seldom be required to cast a deciding vote.

So many Republicans vote so often with the Democrats and so many Democrats vote so often with the Republicans that hardly anything is ever decided on strict party lines any more. The Dawes vote may be required to help the party organize the Senate at the outset, but it will not be much in demand thereafter.

Charles G. Dawes. A caricature by Don Wootton, NEA and The Herald staff cartoonist.

Nevertheless, the fact that the vice-president—assuming that Senator Shipstead plays ball with the Republicans—holds a theoretical balance of power in the next Senate will be bound to enhance the importance and prestige of his position.

Dawes himself has never been slow to take advantage of any and all opportunities for such enhancement and he will undoubtedly continue to build up his political fences from his splendid vantage point.

It does no harm to reiterate that, with Ware and Smith out, the Senate lineup will include 46 Republicans, 47 Democrats, and Shipstead, the farmer-laborite.

Dawes Due for Razzing. It seems reasonably certain that Dawes will come in for considerable criticism from the floor during the next session. But most of it will come from the Progressives and the Democrats and thus have little effect upon his chances for nomination.

Since the Ladies Are Taking to the Air

N. Y. TO PARIS AFOOT IS PLAN OF EX-DOUGHBOY

New York, Aug. 20.—Young New York takes its love where it finds it.

Having no country lanes to depend upon, finding travel to a park a bit far oftentimes and the Hudson River walkway being somewhat congested, it invents strange lover's lanes.

The tops of Fifth Avenue buses after nightfall provide an exceptionally popular, if precarious, trysting place. Oblivious to bumpings and lurchings, young love carries on blantly, freely and, to some, vulgarly.

Sometimes it is the bench of the subway station; sometimes one of the old-fashioned horse-driven vehicles of the avenue; sometimes one of the most crowded corners of the open and brazen nature of Manhattan necking parties.

But the poor children have no choice. It's either a dark corner of a movie theater, the top of a bus or a curbstone.

Of all the incongruous places for courtship, the American Museum leads the list.

Here, beneath the shadow of a brontosaurus, or just beyond the skeleton of a dinosaur you may come upon a score of incipient romances.

The ghosts of a terrifying past have no deterring influence, apparently. They read no sermon on timelessness and change; they have come to hold hands and exchange calf-eyes—and that's that!

They tell me that "Jim," Manhattan's oldest caddy, has retired at the ripe age of 82. For outside of Central Park, refusing to drive in the hurry and scurry of busy traffic. If a fare insisted on going some place other than the park, Jim would refuse to drive. He would not submit his horse to the competition of taxis and the dangers of accidents. A cab held for him a dignity that reflected a dead generation.

In his time Jim had driven the Astors, the Goulds and the Belmonts.

Almost every Fifth Avenue church displays a sign reading: "Come in and rest."

Several times I have peered within during the height of a day's rush, but few seem to take advantage of the offer.

A constant surprise, however, is to be found in the number of shoppers who attend the "noon prayer services," also held daily in many of the avenue churches. Frequently I have seen the churches more than half-filled while the bundles piled upon the pews indicated a busy morning's shopping.

There are "some" New Yorkers who still find time to go to church on days other than Sunday.

"YANKEE CLIPPER" AT STATE SUNDAY

Epic of Sailing Ship Days a Thrilling Picture—Two Features Showing Today.

The tang of the salt spray as it whips over the deck of a gallant clipper ship as she plows through heavy seas on one of the memorable races of history can almost be felt in the scenes of "The Yankee Clipper," the stirring story of the sea which will be the feature at the State theater tomorrow and Monday. It is a production commemorating the days when the Yankee clipper ruled the seven seas.

Briefly the story recounts the difficulties that beset Thomas Winslow, a shipbuilder of Boston, who mortgaged everything he had to finance the building of a new type of sailing vessel, the clipper ship. His son, Captain Hal Winslow, sails "The Yankee Clipper" out of Boston on her maiden voyage.

In Foo Chow harbor, China, "The Yankee Clipper" and "The Lord of the Isles," an English clipper meet which culminates in a challenge to a race from Foo Chow to Boston, the winner to secure the tea trade in its entirety for its nation. After a thrilling race, in which Captain Winslow is forced to battle not only with the dreaded typhoons of the South Sea, but a mutiny, the American skipper sails "The Yankee Clipper" into Boston harbor, the winner. The brave captain wins another prize, the hand and heart of Jocelyn, the beautiful daughter of Anthony Huntington, owner of the English clipper. Jocelyn has been kidnapped with her fiancée, Richard, by Winslow, who has fallen in love with Jocelyn and knows that her fiancée is a "rotter."

The later reveals himself as a coward and a traitor.

Pirates, sailing ships, rum boats and hard boiled deep sea sailors are mixed in the combination which produced "Breed of the Sea," the

15,000 Mile Hike Seen as Three Year Job by Ambitious Veteran

Danvers, Mass.—New York to Paris, not by airplane but afoot.

Such is the intention of John Oliver Porter, world war veteran and globe trotter extraordinary of this city.

"Quite a task, yes, but I'll do it," he declared with much emphasis. "They laughed at Lindbergh and no doubt they'll do the same to me, but I'll see Paris."

Porter's declaration has set this quaint little New England town agog. It's the chief topic of the day. Many of the "boys" go as far back as Colonial days, when Danvers, once old Salem village, was the cradle of witchcraft where men of strange ideas were punished by death, it being taken for granted that they were possessed of some evil spirit.

One Way Let. Since travel to Paris has been accomplished by almost every means conceivable only one way remains and that is to hike it, according to Porter.

Porter will begin his trek to Europe, the latter part of the month. From New York, he will move to Canada, thence to Alaska and the Behring Sea. What next? There according to Porter is the greatest handicap of the hike. A sixty mile stretch of water is frozen solidly for a period of three months or more during the course of winter. Indians and Eskimos living in the vicinity are known to frequently cross that great stretch during winter time. Cold, yes, very cold, they tell us, perhaps 70 degrees below zero or more. But, according to Porter, sixty miles is not far when a man properly clothed and with a suitable guide the move can be made without any undue exertion.

Once across, Porter then faces a stretch of Asiatic country covering a stretch of several thousands of miles. Dangers are many among them being the cold.

According to Porter, approximately three years will be consumed in his task perhaps more with the possibility that some 15,000 miles will be covered before the finish.

Will Lecture Enroute. Porter is a native of the town of Marblehead, the town that claims to be the birthplace of the American Navy. Winslow is his chief hobby. Even now Porter thinks no more of walking thirty or more miles a day through the woods and different neighboring towns. During the World War Porter was a member of the 20th Field Artillery. He served two years in France and never faltered once during the long hikes that were prevalent during those days.

He is a magazine salesman by occupation and is known to have visited practically every college in the country during the past ten years. Porter will turn to lecturing at various points enroute.

Porter is now working during his spare time making plans for his undertaking.

The latter part of this month will see John Oliver Porter, of Danvers, starting his jaunt to Paris from New York.

"I want it understood,—not by airplane, but afoot," remarked Porter. He seems to be wondering as to whether the folks back home will be calling him the "walking fool."

"Paris is my goal," declared Porter. "Just watch me!"

We believe that God is not going to permit this godly land—to be submerged by rum, but we are not to sit idly by and expect God to save us when we do nothing to save ourselves. We should strive in the best way we know for Christ and country. Unless we strive we shall suffer.

"That Old Family Album" That Rests In The Attic

Member When, With Dicer in Hand and Head in Vice, You Bravely Posed?—Member Watching the 'Birdie' As a Kid?—Well Morris Pasternack's Story Will Bring Those Memories Back to You.

Lived in Manchester 17 Years Yet Few Know His Real Name.

Morris Pasternack has been in Manchester for about 17 years. During that time he has photographed thousands of local people and it is a safe bet that there are only a few of that number who know his right name.

"Mister Elite"

The foregoing news from an almost forgotten past, the day when the family album was second only to the Wilcox parlor organ as a means of entertainment. Bound in plush or highly decorated imitation leather—the album, not the organ—it was one of the sacred institutions of the household.

With its views of Uncle John, first as a young man with a dicker, a derby hat held tightly in front of his chest with one hand, his other hand placed behind him, his face wearing an agonized look and his hair slicked down by the countless applications of water and goose grease, the family album was at once an awe-inspiring and entertaining thing.

Following the progress of Uncle John we see him as a bridegroom, sitting stiffly on a chair, his head held straight by an instrument of exquisite torture called a head-rest, his rubber collar glistening and the white tie turning a vivid contrast.

Why Was This? And right something nobody has ever been able to figure out: Why the bridegroom sat and the bride stood. Chivalry at least would have demanded that the man stand up and allow the woman to sit down.

Now he is an old man and the pretty bride who looked so fresh and sweet in the last picture is an aged woman. Her face looks nothing like her former picture. Her skin is wrinkled and the dark hair has turned snowy white.

Contrasts Cameras. He contrasts those cameras, requiring up to a minute for an exposure, with the modern ones which will take a picture in one 1/1000th of a second.

A Real Living Today. Many a man torturing today knows what torture it was to endure one of these headrests at the back of his neck even for such a short time as a minute.

Baby Pictures. "Baby pictures are duck soup now," says Morris. "We don't have all the trouble in keeping them still for minutes at a time the way we used to. Although some of them are not so easy as they might be."

They don't stop to consider that the baby may have been crying all afternoon before coming to the studio. The photographer must give them a picture of their child, smiling and acting as though it were having a good time.

It took you it is terrible sometimes," he said as he shook his head. "You haven't any idea how the time it takes to pacify a baby and I never was the best in the world at that sort of thing. They expect a lot of us fellows when the parents of the baby see us stop him from crying themselves."

More Modern Now. "Of course the bride party is taken all at once, but the groom and the bride must have individual pictures in different positions. You see, they are getting more modern every day."

Dark Room Mysteries. Into the dark room and the shutter moved back and forth. The picture was taken.

Getting pictures taken in the old days were events. They were prepared weeks in advance and new dresses and new clothes were in the making probably a month before the appointment came due.

Arranging the Group. He would arrange the group as best he could, the parents sitting, the younger children ranged on each side of them with their older brothers and sisters in the back.

Good Averages. He says that amateur photographs strike good averages on their pictures. The percentage of good prints runs from 60 to 70 per cent, although some experts never have a bad film.

NEED FOR SPEED. Dora: I can't stand Fred; he's such a slow coach." Doris: You prefer the fast male, eh, dear?—Answers.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

A year or so ago Mrs. Florence Roseberry of Paris, Tenn., had a paralytic stroke. She could no longer plough, make butter, chop wood, hoe, dig, plant, bake, can, scrub, wash, iron, sew, and do the various other little odd jobs that the average Tennesseean's wife must do.

KILLED HER The other day he killed her. Negroes passing the isolated cabin heard a woman's shriekings and the sound of a stick beating flesh. Roseberry maintains that he was only punishing horses. It is very likely however that Husband Roseberry will learn that husband killers, even of paralytic wives who can't "earn their salt," are hardly tolerated today.

THE BUNK The bunk for which we mortals pay! The four dinners at the table in the hotel dining room next to mine had ordered cantaloupe. They had a train to catch. "They surely can't take very long for that!" they opined, but it was nearly 20 minutes before a tea wagon bearing theiced fruit was trundled toward them.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS CURTAIN CONVENIENCES By putting either a thimble or an old glove finger over the end of curtain rods before running them through freshly laundered curtains, you can prevent tear and save trouble.

BLACKENING STOVE Before polishing your stove, go over it all with vinegar. It will remove all grease and make excellent base for polish.

GOOD FRYING Cooking food in deep fat is merely boiling it in fat instead of water. Fat must entirely cover food and really be kept at boiling point.

KITCHEN CANVAS If you lack pantry space, make a long door-canvas for the inside pantry with pockets to hold covers, tins, and all the odds and ends of utensils.

OATMEAL COOKIES When using oatmeal for cookies or pudding, put it through the meat chopper. It makes a more digestible product.

SPRINKLING CLOTHES A cheap whisk broom should be kept for sprinkling clothes. It saves time effort and does a much more even job than hand-sprinkling.

WATERING FLOWERS Ferns and other plants in window boxes are often ruined by water poured too much. They should be watered regularly but not excessively.

COLD TEA Use your cold tea for watering plants. Another way to freshen up ferns is to put one teaspoon of ammonia into a quart of water when watering them.

RAW CAULIFLOWER An appetizing salad may be made by slicing raw cauliflower on romaine and serving with French dressing in which stuffed olives have been chopped.

dish. But this arrangement was only for the journey! Now appeared more tankards of ice, more crystal dishes, more silver inner chambers, until by the time the melons were set before the diners, no less than six dishes each had been used, four waiters and the head waiter had officiated, and the melons had changed dishes twice.

AND YET MORE! The bunk in dining rooms is not the only bunk found in hotels, either. Sit in any lobby and look about you at a hedge-podge of expensiveness which is neither beautiful nor useful. Marble pillars and benches, real oil paintings, tapestried walls, lamps except where one needs a good light, red plush carpeting, artificial flowers in imported pottery pots, anything and everything that is available for the sole reason of making the traveler feel he is getting his money's worth in his $8-a-night bed, and that he dare not give the bell boy less than a quarter every time he brings ice water or mail to the room.

But the public pays and pays! I have often admired the visiting English celebrity who, ordering a meal to eat in his room, made the waiter return kitchenward, shove about half the plates, silver and gimcracks off his tray, and return to serve a meal with the simplicity a meal deserves.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS CURTAIN CONVENIENCES By putting either a thimble or an old glove finger over the end of curtain rods before running them through freshly laundered curtains, you can prevent tear and save trouble.

SOAPY WATER If you will have a few slices of white soap into water before putting flowers in it, it will keep them fresh longer.

MINT FLAVORING A sprig of mint cooked with green peas or string beans gives a delightfully different flavor to them.

DESPITE TEN ERROR HANDICAP, PRENTICE PITCHES SPLENDIDLY

But So Does Mantelli, for That Matter, and Bon Ami Beats Green 6-2.

With all due respect to the Bon Ami baseball team and the splendid game Edme Mantelli pitched for them last night over at Hickey's Grove against Manchester Green, it must be said that it surely was a tough game for Joe Prentice to lose. The Green moundsman allowed the winners but three hits in the seven innings, struck out five of them and made three of his team's four hits but his mates gave him terrible support, committing no less than ten errors. He allowed but one earned run. The other five were scored through errors.

But looking at matters from another slant, Mantelli's feat in limiting the Green to four scattered singles was nothing to be sneered at. It should be remembered that the game was the third Mantelli had pitched this week. Sunday he pitched for Andover against Manchester Green and lost 2 to 1, allowing six hits, Tuesday in Rockville, he allowed the Minterburn Mills only one hit and won 4 to 2. And then last night, he struck out nine batsmen. Both Prentice and Mantelli pulled out of some tight places and deserve credit for their good work.

The game was nip and tuck up until the sixth inning when three errors and a scratch hit by Brennan gave the Bon Ami three runs to add to their 3 to 2 lead. In the first inning, Brennan tripled to left and scored on Brainerd's single. The other two runs came in the fourth when the Green chipped in three more misplays.

Manchester Green earned both of its runs. Lovett walked in the sixth, took second on a passed ball, and scored on Prentice's single over short. In the fifth, Prentice singled and scored later on a fielder's choice.

Sam Hewitt made five errors at short stop for Manchester Green but it must be said the ground at that part of the infield is anything but smooth. While he was plainly off form, some of his errors were excusable because of the field condition.

CLOVERLEAVES START PRACTICING TOMORROW

Undefeated Town Champions Report at Hickey's Grove at 10 A. M.; Anyone in Town Eligible to Tryout.

The old familiar thud of the plunk will be heard over in Hickey's Grove tomorrow morning. The occasion will be the "coming-out" party of the 1927 edition of the Cloverleaves. All members of last year's undefeated eleven and anyone in town wishing a tryout is eligible to report.

Coach George Moonan, to whom a great share of the credit for the amazing record the undefeated town champions have rolled up in the three years of organization, will be back on hand to start the boys off on the right road. Moonan is now residing down near the Rhode Island border line but plans to come to Manchester as often as possible to coach the team.

CAN WEST SIDE TRIM THE EAST?

That's Potent Question to be Settled Aug. 31 at Track and Field Meet.

If the East Side doesn't "snap out of it" pretty soon, it begins to look as though the West Side athletes are going to have matters all their own way in the town championship track and field meet which is going to be held at the West Side playgrounds on Wednesday evening, August 31.

"Dodger" Dowd, instructor at the West Side playgrounds comes forth with the information that he has banded together a group of athletes with which he expects to cog high honors in the field meet. He asks if the East Side is going to have a strong representation, but as far as can be learned, the East Side's athletes are yet to be rounded up.

Dowd is going to bank heavily on Red Sheridan, star of last year's S. M. H. S. team, Benny Schubert, Jack Stratton, Ernie Dowd and Bob Dougan but he says he will have plenty of others. With such capable athletes as the McClusky brothers, Bill Shields, Joe Brozowsky, Lefty Gray and McCavanaugh, residing east of the great divide, it seems that a mighty good team could be organized to face Dowd's charges. It is understood that Tommy Pickett, who is in charge of the East Side playgrounds is looking for suitable talent and anyone desiring to enter the meet from the East Side should see him. The same holds good for West Siders in connection with Dowd.

In addition to the regular list of events which includes the 100 yard dash, half and mile runs, high and broad jumps, there will be a fat man's race for men weighing over the heavyweight limit—175 pounds. Volley-ball and horseshoe pitching contests will also be held. Suitable prizes will be awarded. The afternoon's program will be for junior boys and the evening for the seniors. It is expected that a team will be organized from the list of entries to take part in the athletic program at the Rockville Fair.

BIG SOCCER CONTEST TODAY AT VELODROME

Manchester soccer fans are expected to turn out in large numbers today to witness the Fall River eleven, National Champions and Hartford play at the Hartford Velodrome. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

Jack Marshall of this town will be in the Hartford lineup and possibly another local boy, Jimmy Dewhart has gathered together a great array of stars. Tomorrow the teams will play in Fall River.

National League IS GLOBE FEATURE

Local Aquatic Stars in Crucial Test; Many Events and Good Prizes.

Handsome prizes will be offered by the Recreation Centers for the events scheduled for the annual Globe Hollow swimming meet to be held next Saturday afternoon. The water carnival this year will last all day, the first events starting at 10:30 in the morning and the town championship races scheduled for 2:30 in the afternoon.

There are events for all classes, from the merest children to the older people. The competitors will enter the events according to age, the first class being open to those under 12 years of age, the second to those between 12 and 14, the third between 14 and 16 and the last to those over the age of 16.

Keen competition is expected in all of the classes but the outcome of the feud between Markley and Warnock in the 14-16 class will be watched closely by those who follow swimming in this town. These boys have been competing with each other over a period of years but Markley has not yet been able to wrest the championship from Warnock.

In previous meets held in Hartford this summer the boys have broken even, Markley winning the dash events and Warnock placing first in the diving.

In the other classes the competition is expected to be just as keen. The smaller boys take a lot of interest in swimming, more so than the older people, and they take the meet at Globe Hollow very seriously.

Exhibitions of lifesaving by members of the local Red Cross Lifesaving Corps will be given along with diving acts by Howard Steppe, formerly intercollegiate diving champion. Steppe has been at Capitol Park all summer and is in better form now than he has ever been.

He appeared here in a diving exhibition two years ago.

ENTER YOUR NAME FOR TENNIS TITLE

Town Championship Tournaments to Start Next Week; Anyone Eligible to Compete; Sign Now, Don't Wait.

Although as yet but few have signed up to compete in the proposed town championship elimination tennis tournament, it is reported that there is considerable interest over the suggestion made by the Herald sports department that such an affair be conducted. There are many good tennis players in Manchester and it ought to be easy to form two good tournaments, one for the men and one for the women. Anyone, regardless of age, may enter.

Entry to the men's tournament can be made through either of the Recreation Centers or by getting in communication with Matthew Macdonald, Sherwood Bissell or Walter Holland, a committee which has been named to obtain entries. A meeting of this committee will be held Monday night at which time the pairings for the first round will be drawn up. The matches will be played at the discretion of the principals.

Girls desiring to enter the women's tournament should either sign their names at the Recreation Centers or see Miss Katherine Giblin or Miss Eleanor Runde. The latter will accept entries and Nom over to Miss Catherine Galboun who is in charge of organizing the tournament.

Tennis raquets will be presented to the winners of the tournaments, being donated by James C. Altken, of Pawtucket, R. I., a former Manchester man.

American League Title Here Sunday

Companies C and G Meet in A. M.; Heights vs. Green in P. M.; Cheneys Play Today.

There will be two baseball games in Manchester tomorrow, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The first will bring together Companies C and G for the championship of the 169 Infantry, C. N. G. and the other will find the Heights and the Manchester Green team mingling.

The morning game will be played at the West Side playgrounds and will get under way sometime in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock. Captain Herb Bissell's Company G boys, winners of the regimental championship last year and runner-up for the title the previous year, are going to try and annex Company C from Willimantic. Tommy Melkie and several other ex-Windham High school stars will be in the visitors' lineup. Manchester will use a lineup something like this: Von Deck, c; Giorgiotti or Holland, p; Frey, 1b; Pentland, 2b; McCavanaugh, 3b; Edgar, 3b; Mantelli, cf; Holland or Giorgiotti, lf; Morgan or De Hahn, rf; Schiel, utility. Both teams have agreed to use only members of their companies.

In the afternoon, the Green team will meet the Heights on the hill for the diamond up at the top of School street. Eddie Gleason will pitch for the Heights and the battery for the Green team is not available.

This afternoon Cheney Brothers will go to East Glastonbury to meet the team which represents that town. Either Eddie Boyce or Guido Gioretti will pitch for Manchester while Nicholson or Wilson on the hill for the home-town boys who have rolled up an amazing record for the season.

The Bon Ami team will not play today, but will swing into action again next week. Manager R. E. Rand is dickering with Cheney Brothers to postpone their third and deciding game until Sunday.

No announcement has been made by the Andover management but it is reported that team will travel to South Windham for a return game tomorrow.

That's the baseball situation in town over the week end.

GIBLIN-RUNDE MATCH TO SETTLE "PENNANT"

The winners of the semi-finals—Miss Katherine Giblin and Miss Eleanor Runde will meet for the title.

Miss Giblin won the championship of the East Side by defeating Miss Elisabeth Washwick in straight sets 6 to 1 and 6 to 4. Miss Runde had to exert herself to eliminate Miss Marion Modin for the championship of the West Side. The scores were 7 to 5 and 11 to 9.

Both these girls have entered the town championship tournament being conducted by The Herald. Any girl in town is eligible to enter the latter tournament which will start next week.

TWO LOCAL ELEVEN IN SOCCER LEAGUE

British American Club and Cheney Brothers to Enter Manchester District League.

Notwithstanding the American League soccer games at Hartford, Manchester will have two teams entered in the Manchester District League which swings into operation next month with a membership of at least four teams and probably more. Last year, there were but three and Cheney Brothers won the pennant.

President James Findlay of the Manchester District League has called a meeting to be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the School Street Recreation Center. It is expected that representatives from teams in Hartford, East Hartford and West Hartford will attend this meeting at which time plans for enlarging the league to a six-team circuit will be discussed.

Four teams have already entered the league. They are the Clan Douglas and German Clubs from New Britain and two from Manchester—Cheney Brothers and the British American Club. It is felt by the league officials that a successful season ought to be realized because of the fact that there will be no state league.

Mr. O'Goofy says no wonder the Indian Rajah who came over here to play with the British polo team didn't do so well. "He had a headache," says Mr. O'Goofy, "couldn't you tell by that bandage on his head?"

THE THYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Vegetable man disappeared. The Thymites were highly cheered. He'd left a monstrous bag of seeds that they could quickly plant. Said Downy, "Oh, I can't plant these. I wish 'twere something done with sase." Then Scouty snapped, "Why, sure you can! You never should say can't." The Thines and the Goofy Goos agreed there was no time to lose. They dragged the bulging bag of seed off to a field, nearby. "I never was a farmer man, but, shucks, I'll do the best I can to plant these," shouted Carpy. "At least we all can try." One Goofy then exclaimed, "I know where I can find a dandy hoe. We'll need them all." "Hurrah!" yelled Coppy, "I'll go to, if you don't mind if I help you. Be careful as we run across the field so we don't fall." It seemed no time at all until they gave the happy bunch a thrill. They soon came running back with shovel, rake and hoe. It made the crowd all dance a jig, and then they started in to dig. They worked until they'd made a little garden, row by row. "This dirt is great," said Scouty, "Gee, I'll bet it would be nice to be a farmer in the country wide, and grow all things to eat. Of course they'd get tired and worn from working rid the squash and corn, but when it comes to eating things, it must be quite a treat." The corn and beans were soon laid low, with hopes that they would nicely grow. It didn't take the wee folk long 'cause they were all alert. They really did their work real good, and sowed the seeds just as they should. As soon as they were in the ground, they covered them with dirt. (The Thymites get a big surprise in the next story.)
