

'NO WORD OF FLYERS' SEARCHERS' MESSAGE

Twenty Steamers Strung Across Pacific Send Dreary Tidings That They Had Seen Nothing Of The Planes.

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 22.—Twenty steamers in direct radio contact after five a. m. Pacific coast time, today with Radio Corporation and Federal Telegraph reported their new positions and the dreary tidings that they had seen nothing of the seven lost Pacific flyers.

SEARCH FOR ERWIN

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 22.—Forces of the United States Navy searching for the missing Douglas biplane today concentrated their efforts near the area where Captain William P. Erwin is believed to have gone down.

Erwin's ship, the Dallas Spirit, was last heard from approximately 500 miles from San Francisco, on the great circle route to Hawaii, when Navigator Alvin Eichwaldt wireless.

"S. O. S. We are in spin. . . . Just previously Eichwaldt had told of the plane's being in a tail spin with a wing airmanship had lighted it. At the time Erwin and Eichwaldt were searching for the Golden Eagle, manned by Pilot Jack Frost and Navigator Gordon Scott, and the Buhi biplane, manned by Pilot Angie Pedlar, Navigator V. R. Knope and passenger Mildred Doran aboard.

Both these craft were entries in the Dole flight which had failed to arrive in Hawaii.

Langley On Job.
The aircraft carrier Langley was on hand today near the point where Erwin's ship was last heard from, ready to conduct an extensive search of the area. With her was the aircraft tender Aroostook and several destroyers. Other destroyers will join her later today.

Planes will go up from the Langley's broad deck and the seaplane attached to the Aroostook will be put into the air to comb the area where Erwin's plane may still be floating. The destroyers will aid in the search.

It will be "today or never" in the minds of many of the Navy men. Those who believe Erwin's green-and-silver monoplane may have gone down a fate deep below the ocean's surface declare that if it is afloat anywhere, that place is within fifty miles of the point where the Langley is standing by—575 miles from San Francisco and a little south of the point where the Golden Eagle and the Miss Doran came down has been searched thoroughly. This, naval officers estimate, will require until Thursday night. They have orders to carry on until then. Heavy wide open operation was evoked today by the statement of J. O. Watkins, radio expert, that the last signals received from the Dallas Spirit indicated she had fallen in a tailspin into the ocean. C. H. Cross, radio operator at Oakland airport, declared he too had heard the final signals come in and he deduced from them that the Dallas Spirit had, indeed, been in a spin and fallen violently but he held that they showed the plane must have flattened out and taken the water gradually.

BOY CARRIED MILE IN SEWER; IS NOT HURT

Vanishes Through Manhole While at Play and Is Swept Along As Police Work To Save Him.

New York, Aug. 22.—Anthony D'Agostino, seven, of No. 201 East 53rd Street, was washed alive into the East River at 49th Street last evening from a sewer into which he had fallen at 53rd Street and Third Avenue, nearly a mile away. He was rescued by Lieut. George Oppenberg and Firemen Burns and Morganroth, of Engine Company No. 8, who walked at the sewer opening with a lifeboat.

The youngster suffered from a few bruises and submersion. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, but probably will return home today. The sewer through which he made his trip was flooded by nearly four feet of water.

Anthony got into his predicament by trying to toss a huge rock into the manhole at 53rd Street and Third Avenue, where he was playing with James Carr, twelve, of No. 200 East 53rd Street, his brother, John, nine, and Michael Machio, nine. It was 6 o'clock and Anthony twice had "threatened" to obey his mother's call to supper.

Playmates Call For Help.
Against the warnings of his playmates, Anthony stood on top of the rim of the manhole and was poised there with the rock when he slipped and fell through the opening. His playmates ran in search of police.

A woman, James Cleary, who a few minutes before had shoed the boys out of the excavation, sent in a fire alarm.

Three engine companies, two hook and ladder companies and Deputy Chief Duane's response, to the river. The first inspection with flashlights showed Anthony had passed four openings. Lieut. Oppenberg climbed into the fourth and found no trace of the boy.

Meanwhile, two unidentified men unfamiliar with the course of the sewer, plunged, fully clothed, into the East River from a wharf at 53rd Street, but found no outflow there. Then along came Daniel Mullane, master plumber, of No. 875 Second Avenue. He told the rescuers of the sewer's route. The firemen spread out along the streets mentioned, lifting manholes and assisting comrades to enter. Every street in the neighborhood was crowded with excited spectators. Reserves from East 51st Street Station, struggled to hold police lines. Traffic was halted all along the line.

The estimate is based on the number of families in each city, according to the survey, is in round numbers as follows:

Defense Counsel For Sacco And Vanzetti Fail In Last Day Efforts To Postpone Execution—All Three Justices Of U. S. Supreme Court Refuse To Interfere; Radicals To Die At Midnight Unless Governor Upsets March To Death Chair.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—The lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, due to be executed at midnight, were again placed in the hands of Governor Alvan T. Fuller this afternoon.

Falling in all their desperate measures to secure federal intervention to prevent the midnight executions, counsel for the condemned men came back to the State House this afternoon and appealed to the governor as the only human agency which can halt the march to the death chair.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft of the United States Supreme Court, at Murray Bay, Canada, virtually declined to intervene on Sacco and Vanzetti's behalf. He said that he could not act while on Canadian soil, and pleaded the time was too short to permit him to cross the border.

Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone, summering at Isle Au Haut, Maine, refused to issue a stay after Arthur D. Hill, chief defense counsel, had made a desperate, flying trip by automobile and boat to his home.

Associate Justices Holmes and Brandeis had previously declined to act.

Defense Disheartened.
Confronted with these setbacks, and disheartened, too, defense counsel came back to Gov. Fuller and put the lives of the two men in his hands once again.

Police guards were stationed everywhere today, Trinity church, one of the architectural beauties of the world, was closely guarded as the result of a hotel bellboy overheard a conversation between two men about bombing the edifice. Municipal court was guarded as nine "death watch" parades of Saturday were up for arraignment.

THE LAST BREAKFAST EATEN BY RADICALS

States Prison, Boston, Mass., Aug. 22.—Nicola Sacco ate boiled eggs, toast, coffee and milk for breakfast.

Bartolomeo Vanzetti decided that a cup of coffee was enough for him.

This may be their last breakfast where life is at stake, may not be the nobler cause to follow. We believe that the case of Sacco and Vanzetti present each an issue of your and indirectly, to us as citizens of the same nation who are jealous of our good name before the bar of international opinion.

GUARDS EVERYWHERE

Police guards were stationed everywhere today, Trinity church, one of the architectural beauties of the world, was closely guarded as the result of a hotel bellboy overheard a conversation between two men about bombing the edifice.

APPEAL TO TAFT.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 22.—In a final and desperate effort to obtain intervention for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from the United States Supreme Court, counsel for the two condemned men made an appeal early today to Chief Justice William Howard Taft, who is spending a vacation at Murray Bay, Canada.

Michael Angelo Musmanno, one of the lawyers representing Sacco and Vanzetti, got in communication with Chief Justice Taft on the long distance telephone and pleaded with Mr. Taft to grant a stay of execution for the two men.

Chief Justice Taft replied that, as he is out of the jurisdiction of the U. S. Supreme Court—being on foreign soil—he could not act. He said that he did not plan to return to the United States until August 31.

LARGE AUDIENCE MARKS CAMP MEETING OPENING

Fine Speaking And Singing Heard At First Session—Dr. Mechlenburg Impressive.

There was a fair sized audience gathered in the Tabernacle Saturday evening on the Willimantic Camp ground at the opening session of the campmeeting. Among the preachers present were Revs. J. G. Sallis, Rockville; J. H. Shutz and Clinton E. Bromley, Brockton, Mass.; Frederick C. Baker, North Grosvenordale; W. D. Woodward, Manchester; Myron E. Genter, Norwich, the district superintendent.

The latter conducted the exercises of the hour. After a preliminary song service with Miss Roberta Blight of New London, at the piano, prayer was offered by Rev. F. E. Baker, for many years secretary of the campmeeting association.

Dr. George Mechlenburg, of Washington, D. C., was scheduled to talk on Mussolini, but this was deferred to Sunday evening, and he spoke on Home Missions in the Great West. For a number of years he had been pastor in Montana, and he gave a very vivid word picture of the country and its people.

He stated that the population in the early history of the state had been explorers; then followed trappers; cattle and sheep raisers; and finally farmers. Dr. Mechlenburg told one or two thrilling tales of peculiar personalities, including a lovable sheep tender named "Jim," inclined to periodic sprees, at which funeral he delivered a temperance oration before rumblers, drunkards, gamblers and others.

One of these drinking men took up a collection of $67 for the preacher and on presenting it to him told him it was the best funeral sermon ever preached in that part of Montana. Dr. Mechlenburg is a dramatic speaker, both in voice and gesture, and held the close attention of his hearers throughout his interesting talk.

Sunday Services
In spite of lowery weather the tabernacle was well filled at the 10:30 a. m. service. District Superintendent Genter had charge. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, of Rockville. George C. Hernandez, colored tenor, of Boston, rendered "I am Troubled in Mind," "Wade in the Water," and "Gathering Home." The first was given without accompaniment. The others were accompanied by a colored pianist from Hartford, J. Harold Montague.

After scripture reading by Rev. E. H. Brewster, of Philadelphia, Mr. Hernandez rendered another song, "The Crucifixion," without accompaniment. He sang "I am Troubled in Mind," "Wade in the Water," and "Gathering Home." The pianist for the regular hymns of the meetings is Howard T. Pierce, of New London.

Air weather permitted holding of the 2 p. m. meeting in the out-of-doors auditorium. Rev. T. H. Jones, pastor of the Mansfield Congregational church, prayed. Rev. Joseph Cooper of South Manchester presided at this service and called upon Rev. H. A. Conklin of Baltic, to read Scripture. Mr. Hernandez rendered two negro spirituals.

After District Superintendent Genter had made announcements, the Largo of Handel was rendered on the piano as an offertory by the pianist, Howard T. Pierce of New London.

Mr. Hernandez gave a solo. Mr. Cooper introduced the afternoon speaker, Dr. Mechlenburg who gave a stirring address on conditions in Europe as to temperance and the liquor question. He spoke of the liquor observation made during recent travels in Turkey, Austria, Hungary, Germany, Scotland and England. He found that since the war drunkenness had increased in all these countries, especially in the big cities. He cited counting many drunken men. In London it is a sad fact that more women than men frequent saloons.

On his return to America he hired a retired policeman to take him about New York, its dens and slums, its Chinatown, its streets. Though some evidence of alcoholism were noted, of course, conditions were nowhere near as bad as in Europe. He told of talking with an industrial capitalist in Germany who declared it was of no use for drink maddled Germany to try to compete with the dry United States.

Rockville TRIES TO LOCATE MOTHER BY RADIO

Mrs Watkins In Hospital Wants Mother at Bedside; Loses Teeth From Trolley.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, Aug. 22.—No word had been received up to noon today by the broadcasting station here sent out by Mrs. John Watkins, wife of Deputy Sheriff Watkins of Ellington, with an office in the Henry building in this city, for her mother who is now touring in Canada.

Mrs. Watkins, who is at the Hartford hospital is to be operated upon to day, if in the opinion of the doctors she is able to stand the operation for a growth upon her breast.

Feeling that the operation, if performed, would be of a serious nature, she was anxious to see her mother, who lives in New Jersey, and the radio message was sent. A card received from her today indicated that she had been at her lodge at Niagara Falls and was leaving for a trip to Canada.

A Hartford woman who came to Crystal Lake yesterday with several others and soon after arriving became ill. She started to return to Rockville, got car sick and soon after leaving Rockville became worse and leaned out the window for air. She lost her false teeth. This morning her son came to Rockville and started back towards Manchester, riding along the side of the falls in an effort to recover the teeth she lost.

John Smith
John Smith, one of Rockville's best known residents, died this morning at a Hartford hospital where he was taken about a week ago today. He suffered a nervous breakdown two years ago and has not been in good health since. A week ago there was a sudden change and he was taken to the hospital. He is survived by his mother, his wife, four brothers and a sister. He was a member of Rockville Lodge of Elks and had many friends in this city. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Large Funeral
The funeral of Stanlow Sadlack of West Main street, which was held at St. Joseph's church this morning at 9 o'clock was one of the largest held in Rockville in several months. He was well known and equally liked among the Polish people in this city and his bereaved family of many in the past who showed their appreciation by a large attendance at the funeral.

Manchester Man Injured
Joseph Neveu of No. 3 West street, South Manchester, who has appeared in the Rockville City Police Court this morning on the charge of reckless driving, the result of an accident on Vernon street at the intersection of which cycle which he was driving collided with an automobile driven by Stewart Dillon, near Grant street. Neveu was cut about the hands and face and was unable to appear in court this morning and his case was continued until August 31.

It has since been learned that Neveu was driving a motorcycle owned by Frank Monk who lives in Glastonbury and worked at Brackett Brothers' farm in Buckland who had notified the police of Manchester that the motorcycle was taken without his permission.

Miss Church Congratulated
Miss Lella Church of Rockville, author and producer of the sequel-centennial celebration in Antrim, New Hampshire, on August 12 and 13, has returned home for a much needed rest. The celebration was in honor of the 150th anniversary of Antrim's incorporation which was first settled in 1744. In 1777 Antrim became a town when the population consisted of 20 families. Its present population is about 1300.

At a town meeting in March $2500 was appropriated for the observance of this anniversary. This sum was spent to arrange a program for migration from Antrim, admission fee charged. Miss Church who was chosen from a large number of pageant producers, has an established reputation not only in this vicinity for her ingenuity in pageant producing but also throughout all New England. Miss Church made trips between Rockville and Antrim every month since the first of March and was stationed in Antrim from July 18 until her return home on Friday, the 19th.

Facts About the Pageant
The pageant had as its keynote the fortune of the early Scotch-Irish emigration from Antrim with Ireland. Scotch-Irish Emigrants in five ships featured in ship visions, on a skyline, as a chorus "Scots Wha Hae" was sung by a five men's chorus of five field. There was a two field effect with the upper field used as the vision field of those on the main field. This field represented weeks of labor in obtaining same. A skyline was made by chopping and removing trees and leveling the upper field. The screening at the sides was made by using hundreds of New Hampshire spruce and pine so that seemingly natural grove screened the sides of the big field.

Nearly a mile of electric wiring conveyed power for the twelve large flood lights and foot lights for the two fields and the back field lighting. The properties were weeks in the assembling. The old carts were composed of ancient heavy wheels—the real wheels of lock guns was used and old lanterns. The part of the riding repeated by request. Old Scotch airs were used throughout. The 1830 group, after dancing, saw their grandmothers and grandfathers again in a dance on the upper end of the vision field. Forty-eight danced the minut to "Annie Laurie." The stage coach which was used was the real one used between Franctown and Deering in early 1800.

The opening scenes portrayed Philip Riley, the first settler which was played by a great-great-grandson. His entrance on horse from the back of the second stage opened the pageant and the five ships crossed as he renewed his courage in the wilderness with recollection of the courage and perseverance of his countrymen in crossing the ocean. As part of his vision a procession of early settlers crossed the skyline in measured tread, men, women and children with their animals and paltry belongings and so progressed.

Throughout the pageant music was furnished by the 41st Infantry Band of Greenfield, Mass. The music was arranged and portions of it composed by Miss Church. Scotch airs were used throughout. The audience sat on an opposite slope which was especially cleared of forest growth for the occasion. It is estimated that the attendance of the Scotch pageant performance numbered 12,000 persons.

Following both productions of the pageant, flowers were presented Miss Church by the cast and on Saturday evening the Scotch pageant was given with a purse containing $100. Telegrams from all over New England poured in after each performance congratulating Miss Church on her tremendous success. Miss Church's arrival in Rockville, she found numerous letters awaiting her, one of which will be of interest to her friends in Manchester and Rockville.

Telephone "Hello" First Used By Manchester Man

Frank Cheney, Jr., in Boyhood, Put Embarrassed Salutation On Wire In Early Experiments Over Mills' Telegraph Wire.

Probably the first use of the word "Hello" over the telephone was made by a member of the Cheney family here in the year 1877 when Frederick A. Gower, right hand man of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was conducting experiments on long distance communication over private wires between the mills of Cheney Brothers and the office of the company in Hartford.

This was disclosed today by Miss Mary Cheney, who was present in Cheney hall when the experiments were being made at that time. Her youthful brother, Frank Cheney, Jr., was selected to carry on the conversation from this place with Mr. Gower, who was then in Hartford.

Permission to use the private telegraph wires of Cheney Brothers between Hartford and Manchester had been gained and the telephones were set up, one in the Morgan street office and one in Cheney hall.

Mr. Cheney was undecided as to what to say over the phone but he stepped up and said "Hello." People have been answering telephones with this greeting ever since, and although changes have been proposed, it has remained.

Also, Mr. Cheney took part in the first real long distance telephone conversation ever carried on.

FORMER MANCHESTER GIRL IS MARRIED

Miss Margaret Bechtler Bride Of Fred Kort of Hartford In Saturday Ceremony.

Miss Margaret Bechtler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bechtler of Francis avenue, Hartford, formerly of Manchester, was married Saturday afternoon to Fred Kort, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kort of Grant street, Hartford. The ceremony was performed at four o'clock in the German Lutheran Trinity church at Babcock and Russ streets by the pastor of the church, Vernon O. Center, a cousin of the bride, and attended her and Leonard Kort, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride wore white bridal gown with French lace, trimmed with pearls. Her veil was coronet style and was caught up with orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses, with lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid wore rose georgette with picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. R. Brache sang "I Love You Truly" and Miss Eunice Frinke accompanied her at the organ. The ushers were Walter Johnson and Arthur Legal of Hartford and Orville Anderson and Arthur Anderson of South Manchester.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride at six o'clock. Osano of Manchester catered. The young couple left later in the evening for a honeymoon trip to Atlantic City. Upon their return they will live on Glendale avenue, Hartford.

ABOUT TOWN
Miss Matilda Schack was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Keeney of Keeney street. The party was attended by about 40 of her friends from hereabouts. The pastimes of the evening included games of various kinds and dancing. A buffet lunch was served. Miss Schack who is to be married September 10 to Loren Keeney received a large basket filled with choice gifts.

The ladies' auxiliary of the A. O. H. will meet this evening in St. James' hall. A large attendance is hoped for as the delegates to the recent state convention at New London, Mrs. Tierney and Mrs. Sheridan, will give reports of the proceedings.

A proposal of the nomination of Louis T. Breen as registrar of voters on the Democratic ticket was filed today with Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington by Chris McHale. No other proposals for elective officers were filed today. The time limit ends one week from today at midnight.

URGES SIMPLE CAR FOR WARY BUYERS

London.—To the average automobile owner driving a car is simple. But to the poor fellow who sits on his front porch all day Sunday, while the average motorist is out enjoying the country air, the mere thought of driving a car is mental torture.

This fear is caused by mechanical inability, nervousness or timidity, according to C. B. Waterlow, writing in the Autocar, motor publication of England.

An automobile of less intricate construction, one embodying a change of gearshift, would remedy all this, according to Waterlow, and thus cause an increase in demand for cars.

Women and men who have reached and passed the age of 50 or 60 are subject to this fear of auto driving.

But with a simplified shift, one which would eliminate the switch between the speed shifts and the numerous other things that occupy one's mind while driving a car, driving would become a pleasure to this class of people, says Waterlow.

Take Long Hike, Spend Night And Have Sunday Service At Lake Camp.

More than 20 Boy Scouts of Troop 6 left on Saturday afternoon for the Community camp at Coventry. They hiked to the lake and arrived there at 5 o'clock when a supper of "hot dogs," beans, bread and jam was served. They gathered around the camp fire later in the evening for story telling and singing. The hike was in charge of Scoutmaster Raymond Mercer and his assistants, David Hutchinson, Robert Burr and Mr. Hillman.

PINCHOT'S BOLT

Gifford Pinchot, whose aspirations politically have no limit and who unquestionably would love to be President of the United States, has just made a bid for an independent dry nomination for that office by making a most vitriolic attack on President Coolidge, on whose shoulders he attempts to place all the blame for failure of the prohibition laws.

Directly, Pinchot accuses Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of responsibility for the fact that the United States is dry in name only, declaring that the secretary is wet and that he has consistently appointed wet administrators to the prohibition law. But back of Mellon, he declares, is the President, whom he accuses of the real responsibility because, says the Pennsylvania fanatic, Coolidge could get enforcement by giving Mellon's place to somebody who meant to enforce the law.

For a moment, in his long statement, Pinchot's foot slips. It is where he is talking of the general Washington attitude toward prohibition. He says: "Opposition and disobedience to the eighteenth amendment still permeate the atmosphere of official Washington. Official Washington hates and derides the eighteenth amendment."

In the same breath Pinchot, with great consistency, declares that Congress is overwhelmingly dry.

Gifford Pinchot is perhaps as personally ambitious a person as there is in the United States. Unable to lead his party, because of too small a calibre for leadership, he seeks to lead a dry revolt. Casting truth and decency aside, he has taken the most spectacular method he could conceive to ally to himself and his personal fortunes the dry element in the Republican party.

Beyond shadow of doubt this Pinchot outburst is intended to serve as a wedge to split the party and make himself a candidate. He is trying to split a great oak with a wedge of tallow.

DUSK FOR HEFLIN

The present term of James Thomas Hefflin, Alabama senator and the chief exponent in the United States Senate of the art of wind-blown blab, will expire in 1931. In other words, James Thomas will have to be re-elected in November, 1930, if he is to continue to grace the upper house of the national legislature after March 4 of the following year. Inasmuch as James Thomas will be only 61 years old three years from now, and, since he has demonstrated possession of a marvellous set of lungs and a marked reluctance to abandon the floor of the Senate for even a single moment, the chances are all in favor of his striving desperately to keep his job.

Nobody ever heard of an Alabamian who did not have an almost religious respect for money, but it is doubtful if there is cash enough in the United States to purchase the perpetual absence of James Thomas from the Senate; for the spotlight that centers upon the orator of the moment in that body, and the sound of his own voice directed always toward the reporters' gallery, are as the breath of his nostrils to the gentleman from Alabama. It is doubtful if Henry Ford has money enough to buy James Thomas away from the perch whereon he so dearly loves to crouch.

But there are clouds on the Hefflin horizon. The country has been having a hearty laugh over the resolution presented in the Alabama house of representatives, demanding that Senator Hefflin, protector of the nation against the Pope, be made admiral, given command of a mighty battle ship and instructed to fire upon said Pope with sixteen inch guns loaded with James Thomas' most devastating brand of verbosity.

Surely the proposed resolution was funny. But we seriously doubt whether it is either very funny to James Thomas or intended as quite altogether a joke. The present is just about the right time to inaugurate a campaign of ridicule if it is the secret purpose of Alabama politicians to relegate their senatorial clown to the dump and substitute in his place some individual better qualified to represent a sovereign state. No human being on earth is capable of withstanding three years of being systematically laughed at and still retaining the respect of his community.

Hefflin provides such an enormous contrast to the stately and intellectual Bankhead, whom he succeeded in the Senate, that it is not to be wondered at that Alabama is showing symptoms of being fed up with his monopolization of the Senate floor and his everlastingly nonsensical blather.

Alabama, of course, has at least its full share of wit-wits, and such folks, down there, are delighted with James Thomas. Well do the wiser heads realize, no doubt, that the way to loosen the senator's grip on the voting dumbbells of the state is to swamp and drown him in a sea of ridicule. When Alabama begins to laugh at instead of with Hefflin his goose will be cooked.

PURCHASED THRILLS

The hazards that were defied by the transpacific fliers in the Dole race were such as men face in war—in the more desperate exigencies of war, at that, for it a terrible battle indeed in which the chances are not at least five to one that any individual soldier will come through without serious hurt.

For civilization, for their country, for their homes, men have always taken these desperate chances of war, and the world has applauded. It has applauded also those heroes of peace who, likewise for civilization, country and homes, have deemed their individual lives as of small account when the inquiries of science demanding the risking of the vital spark. The victims of the laboratory, dying that store of human knowledge might be increased and life for their fellows made fuller and better, have unquestionably been given their places alongside the heroes of war.

But the gratuitous introduction into the fabric of existence of this flarid pattern of mad hazard for hazard's sake, this rivaling of a prize, is another thing. It bears more of relation to the achievements of the gladiator and the bull fighter than it does to the qualities of the farmers who stood at Concord, the Marines who turned the spear head at Chateau Thierry, or the men who died that yellow fever might be scotched.

Magnificence as was the deed of Erwin and Eichwald, rescuers who gave their lives, too, in a forlorn hope attempt at rescue, they are as much victims of the crazy Dole enterprise as if they had been sacrificed for a chance to win cash.

It is time that America turned thumbs down on the purchase of this kind of excitement by the payment of money.

KANGAROOS AND OTHERS

The Westchester kangaroos, still uncaught, appear not only to have shed the bearish attributes assigned to them by the earlier news stories but to have the recent advantage of being taken seriously in their own character. Voluntary contributors to the New York newspapers are beginning to make the point that, since the kangaroo is a creature of excellent disposition and will not attack anybody or anything save in self defense, there is really no good reason why mobs of wild-eyed men and boys should be beating the Westchester woods seeking to slay these interesting, even if not hybrid, animals.

The point would seem to be well taken. A kangaroo, by and large, is much pleasanter to live with than plenty of the human residents of the great city on whose borders the marsupials are being hunted. No kangaroo has ever been known to push a self-respecting American off the sidewalk nor to step on anybody's toes in the subway; the only pocket ever picked by a kangaroo is her own; the kangaroo is offensive neither to sight nor smell; garlic is one of the few vegetables he will not touch. And if he is an alien, surely where is the New York crowd that can cast stones at him for that?

Personally we could see a good deal more justification for a lot of kangaroos hunting an easily selected group of Westchester voters with extermination in view than for the like of the average Westchesterer to go gunning for kangaroos. And if we had to join one or the other party we should vote an Australian ballot.

McCARL

Almost one-half of the flooded area in Louisiana was still under water as recently as August 1. Most of the crevasses are still open. Nearly 200,000 persons will be in constant peril until the repair work is done. Most of them are practically destitute. The Mississippi River Flood Commission lacks about two million of the eight million dollars required for the work. Until the whole project is complete the parts that are done will be of little if any use.

In view of this situation it was proposed to transfer from the unexpanded balance of the rivers and harbors appropriation the two million lacking to save the homes and persons of the Louisiana flood victims.

To this project President Coolidge gave his approval. So did the secretary of war and so did the chief of engineers in charge of river work.

But Comptroller-General John R. McCarl, arrogating to himself the position of chief champion of "regularity" and red tape, stubbornly refuses to consent to the diversion of the funds, which it had been planned to have Congress restore to the rivers and harbors account. Here we have the most perfect possible example of the utterly technical mind. The lives and fortunes of two hundred thousand people are matters which such a mind can completely exclude from its processes. Nothing in the world counts but arithmetic.

It is our sincere hope that President Coolidge will find a way to throw Mr. McCarl out of his job on the back of his neck. He has long been a nuisance. He has become an insupportable one.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 22.—Excepting Dawes, Hoover and Hughes a study of the strength of the announced or unannounced candidates for the Republican presidential nomination reveals reasons why they can't be nominated rather than reasons why they might.

For purposes of such an analysis, it is to be assumed that President Coolidge will not be an important factor at the next Republican national convention. With Coolidge out, there is an excellent prospect of a gonesee cat-and-dog fight between the aspirants, with a wealth of favorite sons, dark horses and deals. The party is too well controlled to permit of any such spectacle as the Democrats stumbled into at New York in 1924, but there may be a real deadlock which will have to be settled as in 1920 "by a little group of men in a smoky, stuffy, locked room."

Odds Favor Dark Horse
 It is silly to predict what will happen in the many months preceding the convention, but previous experience leads one to suspect that the ultimate winner probably won't be the fellow whose boom is being whooped up the loudest at this time and who may enter the convention with the most delegates.

It seems likely, for instance, that Hoover will enter the arena with more delegates than Dawes, but from that time on the prospect of a swing to Dawes probably would be very real. Amid the hazy conjecture now possible, it is probably wiser to suggest that Hoover will be one of those caught in any deadlock that develops. The deadlock might break in favor of Dawes or Hughes, or someone not now seriously considered if Hoover couldn't put it over himself.

But it seems at this time impossible that it could break toward Lowden, Longworth, Borah or Norris, whose names are mentioned now as "possibilities." Lowden is the farmers' "protest" candidate. If he has an understanding with Dawes, as was long ago suggested, he may be able to do a splendid job in rounding up the delegations from agricultural states for democracy at the convention. The main point, however, is that to date, Lowden has shown no strength in the east or anywhere else except in predominantly agricultural states.

Longworth comes from Ohio, the "mother of presidents" in recent decades, and he has a strong personal following among members of the House. Many of the congressmen have been hoping he will continue to do so with renewed vigor. But despite his conservatism, it is doubtful whether the powers that be in the party will regard his as solid enough for the big job. Probably his worst handicap is his reputation as a thorough-going wet. There is no indication yet that the Republican party is likely to name a candidate unsatisfactory to the organized drys.

Progressive Hope Small
 Borah has even less of a chance than Lowden or Longworth. Although he is personally as popular as anyone in the field, the party regulars will not allow him to get anywhere if they can help it—and they almost surely can. Some sort of a Borah-for-president movement may be started by the senator's admirers, but it is even doubtful whether Borah would even sign it, his approval of it.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska from the most enthusiastic support from the party's extreme progressive wing, but that wing is ineffectual that he must be placed at the foot of the current "possibility" list. Norris has inherited the LaFollette following as much as anyone could inherit it, but he has not set up shop as a leader and probably would refuse a third ticket nomination if it were tendered him.

New York, Aug. 22.—A friend has figured out that an average hat costs a New Yorker anywhere from $50 to $100.

An ordinary straw Kelly, which can be picked up in Sixth avenue for a few dollars, is likely to cost at least twenty before it is thrown in the ash heap at the end of summer.

Which, mayhap, may account for the hatless army, rapidly growing in this city.

How come, you ask? It's the hat checking racket that operates everywhere.

Almost every place, outside the arm chair couriers, now boasts a hat-checking concession. You go to lunch and check your hat and a dime is extracted. This is repeated at dinner. If you visit a club or a theater, there stands the hat-check bandit. At a night club the minimum is around two bits and, in an exclusive club, you are supposed to leave at least fifteen cents.

The business man who goes about a lot can expect the cost of his hat to run around 50 cents a day or $15 a month. If the hat lasts six months it has cost him $90 above the original price.

Anyway, the other day my friend decided that it would be cheaper to have his hat stolen. The law of percentages has it that he will lose his hat not more than once a month. Discounting the hat check tips, that would break him even on a $3 straw beanie and he could appear with a new one.

This is a mere item, however, as compared with trying to have a pet dog or a baby in this metropolis. A baby man must hire the janitor or one of the professional "dog exercisers" if he is to have a pup in his establishment. Janitors make considerable side money playing nursemaid to tenants' dogs, and innumerable jobless men take on this

Nearly Two Millions Spent For School Buildings Here Since Fire In October 1913

Manchester has spent or has contracted to spend $1,900,000 on new schools since the fire of October 23, 1913.

The Lincoln school at the Center, built but a year or two before by the district was only half its present size.

The need of better schools and more room was taken up by the residents of the Second District and a school with an auditorium was erected.

The Fourth District, tired of the small frame school, stepped in line and erected a new and attractive brick school building costing over $50,000.

The Fifth District built on an addition, made improvements and added about $20,000 to the value of their school and provided more room.

The Sixth District after several attempts to get together decided to be taken in as a part of the Ninth and when the request was granted $3,000 more was spent getting the school in proper condition.

In Buckland trouble arose in perfecting plans and erecting a new school. It was going to cost about $45,000, but a new committee was selected and the present school was built, additional land bought and all at an expense of $35,000.

The Ninth District had just completed the new school on North School street which cost the district $35,000, but that did not take care of that growing district and there was erected the Hollister Street school.

The Third District, which is another fast growing section, has this week voted to erect a new school and will pay $85,000 for the building, grounds and extra equipment.

The totals by districts are as follows: District No. 1... $ 000.00

District No. 2... 70,000.00

District No. 3... 85,000.00

District No. 4... 50,000.00

District No. 5... 2,000.00

JACK MULHALL STAR IN STATE FEATURE

"Smile, Brother, Smile" on Program Tomorrow—"Yankee Clipper" Tonight.

Jack Mulhall scores heavily again in his latest starring vehicle, "Smile, Brother, Smile," in which he appears with Dorothy Mackall at the State theater on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Comedy touches lighten the story, and clever Jack Mulhall was never seen to better advantage than as the shipping clerk who makes good on the road.

He is ably supported by a carefully chosen cast, and beautiful Miss Mackall is charming and lovely as the telephone girl.

"The Yankee Clipper," which is the story of a shipping clerk who became a traveling man.

It is a stirring picture of the sea and the men who followed it in the days when American sailing ships were seen in every corner of the globe.

William Boyd and Elinor Fair have the leading roles, the former playing the Yankee captain and the latter appearing as the daughter of the English shipbuilder.

The story is of a race between the American and English vessels, the winner to get the China tea trade.

Furniture night comes to the State again on Thursday. This has become even more popular than the old country store and crowds are thronging to the box office when it is scheduled.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (62) The Jeanette

For nearly two years the Jeanette was held in the crushing grip of the Arctic ice. Then, the ice breaking away and receding, the ship was split asunder.

De Long and the others were dead, starved to skeletons. They had burned their tent for fuel and lived on a teaspoonful of glycerin a day.

One of the most stirring chapters in the tragic story was the faithfulness and valor of Ah Sam, Chinese cook. His body was found doubled up under that of De Long. In those last terrible hours he had tried to carry the body of his master to a river for Christian burial as he had seen De Long do for others who perished on the way.

The PENNY PRINCESS

by anne austin ©1927 by NEA Service

BEGIN HERE TODAY

VERA CAMERON, efficient secretary, allows JERRY MACKLYN, advertising manager for Peach Blossom Cosmetics, to transform her into a beauty through the use of the company cosmetics. She consents only after she falls in love with a man who ignores her. Jerry proposes to use her photographs in advertising booklets. In transforming her, the beauty specialist copies a picture Jerry finds in his desk. Vera wants to be beautiful so she can spend her vacation at Lake Minnetonka and meet the man she loves, SCHUYLER SMYTHE.

At the summer hotel, Smythe and other guests mistake Vera for the ex-actress VIVIAN CHANDALL, who, after a Paris divorce, is in hiding. Vera tries to convince people of her true identity but is not believed.

NAN FOSDICK, who it is rumored Schuyler is engaged to for her money, begs Vee-Vee to leave the hotel, saying Schuyler loves her before Vera came. Nan and Mrs. BANNISTER, another guest, go to the city and Vera knows they will notify the Chandalls. That night, Schuyler and Vera go to the end of the pier to be alone and Vera determines to confess to him. He tells Vera of his love for her. Vera puts off confession and begs him to tell her of his love for her. When he admits he is a secretary, she asks him if he would love her any less if he learned she was a nobody, without money. A bell-boy appears, announcing Vera to meet two men who await her at the hotel. Schuyler says he will not let them marry her tonight.

"How can we get away?" Vee-Vee's teeth chattered with fear and excitement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

"How can we get away?" Vee-Vee's teeth chattered with fear and excitement. "You car is in the hotel garage, out of commission!"

"Listen!" he commanded sharply. "Run along the shore road till you come to that little clump of three birches where I got that birch bark for you yesterday. Hide among the trees until you see a car coming. I'll blow a signal on the horn—one long and one short honk. Understand?"

"But where will you get the car?" Vee-Vee protested, seizing his arm as he was starting down the steps.

"Steal it and notify the hotel in the morning where they can pick it up," Schuyler retorted grimly.

While she waited in the shelter of a little clump of birches near the shore road, her heart was so fast with excitement she could not think. She could only pray wordlessly, pray that Schuyler would not repudiate her as an impostor and a love-thief.

A roadster which she recognized as belonging to Thurston, the hotel manager, came suddenly into view around the curve of the road. Vee-Vee crouched behind a tree until the reassuring signal came—one long honk of the horn, followed by a short one. She started across the road, and was in the car before it had come to a full stop.

She said nothing, but huddled low in her half of the seat, wrapping the white Spanish shawl about her head and shoulders, to protect her carefully set waves in her copper-colored hair from the menace of the wind.

"I believe we're being followed," Schuyler said suddenly, after a pause during which he had increased the speed of the car to 40 miles an hour.

"I'll lose them, whoever they are," Schuyler promised her grimly.

The speedometer climbed from 40 to 45, hung there a moment then wavered drunkenly to 50. Vee-Vee glanced over her shoulder fearfully, as the car swung at a perilous angle in taking the turn from the lake road to the state highway.

"I think we've lost them, if they were following us," she cried to Schuyler above the whistle of the wind and the hum of the motor.

"Where are you taking me?" she asked.

"As far as I can drive before nine o'clock in the morning," Schuyler answered. "I'll try to make Connetquot—easier to get a marriage license—that state than in New York state."

"Schuyler," she began, desperately taking her courage into her hands, "I've got something to tell you. Please slow down! I can't talk against the noise and the wind."

"Afraid of me?" She could see his smile in the light from the tiny electric globe set in the dashboard.

"Yes," she answered, shivering.

"Won't you please turn into the first lane that we come to, so that we can talk unobserved? Please, Schuyler! It's vitally important."

"Nothing you can tell me can make me change my mind," Schuyler assured her, but he slowed the car to a bare 15 miles an hour, leaning out to search for a lane turning off the main road.

"There's a farmhouse ahead. See the lights?" Vee-Vee pointed to the right. "There must be a private road leading to it. Yes, here it is. Please turn in."

"I fall to see why we should waste time in it, when it is of such vital importance to get clear away," Schuyler grumbled as he obeyed. "See any car down the road?"

"No," Vee-Vee shook her head.

"There's a car going toward Minnetonka but none coming from it," Schuyler said at this terrible truth that you have to tell me?" Schuyler smiled, as he cut off the engine.

"I believe," he laughed exultingly, "that my little princess just wants to be kissed. I'll bet many a girl has been kissed in this lane. My darling!"

"No," Vee-Vee cried out sharply.

"Not—yet. Please! Schuyler—my hand went to her throat—I've tried to tell you so many times, but you wouldn't listen. Tonight, dear, I asked you if you wouldn't be glad if the girl you love came to you as poor as you are so that you could work together—"

"Do you mean," he interrupted her sharply, "that you've let that damned prince get hold of all your money? The papers said your father had protected your money when the marriage settlement was made—"

"Oh, you make it so hard!" she wailed. "I don't know where to begin or how to convince you." She beat upon her breast with a clenched hand—and received the answer, for the crackle of folded paper came to her faintly. Jerry's letter!

"Have you some idiotic idea of testing my love by telling me you are poor?" Schuyler demanded.

"You haven't together, laughed indulgently. "Darling, I don't give a damn about your precious money. If you've lost 40 million dollars in four years of being a princess, why all the better—for me, I mean. I can have the pleasure of showing you how the jackboots of America lives!" He laughed again, but there seemed to be little genuine pleasure behind it.

"Don't laugh!" she cried out of her pain. "I haven't been trying to tell you that I've lost 40 million dollars, but—"

"I knew you were just trying to test me," he laughed with more assurance. "But I don't think you show much trust of the man who has loved you for five years—"

"That's just it," Vee-Vee cried. "You haven't loved me for five years, for you had never seen me before in your life when I walked into the Minnetonka dining room on Sunday. You did not see me at Palm Beach—"

"Are you trying to tell me that you think I made up a fairy story to tickle your vanity and to further my suit with you?" Schuyler Smythe demanded violently. Then, as suddenly as it had happened before, his voice changed, became low and rich with love: "Oh, my darling!

Don't let's quarrel now, just when I have won you. You may think I am a romantic fool to have cherished a dream all these five years, but you can't quarrel with me for that, even if you have forgotten that I danced with you—"

"I haven't forgotten, because I was not there. Schuyler, I have never been in Palm Beach in my life. I was not married to Prince Ivan Polaski—"

"Have you gone crazy?" Schuyler demanded, seizing her clenched hands and bending over her.

"Ever since Sunday night I've felt that either I was crazy or that the guests of the Minnetonka were," Vee-Vee told him. "Schuyler, didn't I tell you that I might be getting the truth when I said that my name was Vera Victoria Cameron?" It was out at last, and she could sink back against the cushions of the car, sobbing with relief as well as fear.

"What do you believe in?" Schuyler's hands relaxed, allowed her to drag her own hands away. "Is this another bright scheme to test my love? My God! I've heard that you love dramatics, but this is hardly the time or the place—"

"Can't you believe me?" she shrieked at him in desperation. "I tell you I'm not Vivian Chandall! I have never even seen her in my life, had scarcely heard of her until Sunday when everyone insisted on mistaking me for her—"

Schuyler's voice was suddenly shouting in her ear. "I tell you, I don't believe it! I'm not such a fool as you think! It's a great scheme to ditch a man you are tired of playing with, but it won't work, Princess Vivian! Just using me as a tool to escape that detective your parents had put on your trail! Well, I'm not a man to be trifled with! I'll keep you until you'll be glad to marry me to save your precious reputation!"

Vee-Vee shows Jerry's letter to Schuyler, and her love turns to contempt for him. Read the next chapter.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Henry Carlton of Chicago, business man, and perhaps tired, too, told his wife he was going to Pittsburgh on business. When he came home his wife found a roll of films in his pocket. They depicted husband Henry with a lady fair having a great time at an amusement park. The pictures are Exhibit A in Mrs. Carlton's divorce suit.

Many morals lurk here. One might interpret the anecdote as the folly of being so ecstatic that pictures must be taken, also of the wifely folly of investigating husbandly coat pockets, and, perhaps, too, the folly of impetuosity of wives who think that one day at an amusement park must undo years of fidelity.

Baby Cab Carriages

Garages for baby cabs are the latest allurement offered by a London landlady who has just erected 95 new flats with 70 baby carriage or "pram" sheds.

Which means that flat-dwellers of England are permitted to have offspring even if American flat-dwellers

Merry Widows

Once upon a time, the widow, the merry, merry widow, was considered a formidable rival by the unmarried girl, so far as men were concerned. But figgers, good, old-fashioned, reliable figgers, prove that the widow is losing her power and that many more men are choosing inexperienced maidens for brides.

Perhaps it is not the waning of the widow's charms so much as the more formidable appearance of the widow's offspring now that butter coats 60 cents a pound and ham costs $19 a pair to say nothing of the movies and pop and ice cream comes which the widow's offspring would expect as a matter of course.

No Child Tax

Having paid the bachelor and demanded a good big tax from him Hungary is now about to enforce a tax upon all childless married couples, the proceeds to be used for education, social welfare and other needs of the state.

There's funny illogical reasoning here. If the government investigates it would probably learn that the very reason for its need of old people's phanages, cheaply made in France as it is, is family overproduction. The very people who tax a state to the hilt because of ignorance and stupidity are not penalizing the people who spare the state and the ones who spare for the others.

He Did

A certain reverend lost his wife. The good women of his congregation, with all the old people's sympathy of the kind, took him to himself another. After a month of single bliss he returned from a journey into parts with a wife. He was booted and hooted by the hamlet, with all the good women saying "things about" such desecration to the sacred memory of his good wife, and "shame on you."

The reverend is still wondering what it's all about. Any woman could tell him that he made a mistake of picking someone other than one of those who exorted him to do even so.

Ma Vacations

Farm women's vacation camps which are now being organized in many states and where overworked farm wives don't even have to wring out their own bathing suits, are one of the best things started in this country for a long time. What the co-operative nursery is to the city woman who simply must get away from her offspring, so is the farm women's vacation camp to the woman who even in a day of modern conveniences can't carry the water and filling coal oil lamps.

Ex-Back PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

by PAUL ADAMS

This is chapter 114 of the series of articles by Paul Adams, The Herald correspondent, who is revisiting France as a scout for the American Legion convention in September.

CHAPTER CXIV

To anyone who has ever been "on the bum" in The States and has collected that unique experience of being awakened from a cramped snooze on a park bench by the accurate tattoo of a burly cop's club on the soles of shoes that were none too thick, Paris has a direct appeal. From a third he borrowed a small brush with which he industriously swept some loose dirt and dust in the deep-cracks between the flagstones. When he had accumulated a sufficient amount to serve as a padding for his hips, he laid down, very accurately, and blew himself out for the night.

Needless to say, he had a "bon dormir."

TOMORROW: Rabbit Skins.

When a cook in Paris was so injured in an accident that she lost her sense of smell, a jury awarded her $800 damages.

FIGURING THE ECONOMIC LOSSES FROM INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In a volume issued under the auspices of the American Institute of Economics, established by the Carnegie corporation, Robert Morse Woodbury considers some of the important factors with relation to accidents among workmen as well as to the matter of workers' health.

The total working time lost annually on account of occupational accidents is estimated at 247,000,000 working days. The annual total wage loss from such accidents, assuming an average wage of $4 per day, is estimated roughly at $988,000,000.

The time lost and wages lost because of ill health among 30,000,000 industrial workers is approximately 219,000,000 working days or the equivalent of 700,000 working years. Assuming wages to average $4 per day, the wage loss from sickness causing absence from work is estimated at $940,000,000. At an average of $1 a day for medical, hospital and nursing expenses, the amount spent per year for this purpose is about $245,000,000. The total economic loss from sickness and premature death among wage earners is estimated at $1,500,000,000 annually.

These figures are significant because of their tremendous total, and because most of the vast amount of industrial accidents and industrial sickness is preventable. Physicians associated with industrial plants point out that much of the sickness could be eliminated by adequate health supervision combined with prompt alleviation of such conditions as are found on physical examination.

The statistical data are important because of their emphasis on the nature of the problem. For instance, the selection of methods of prevention of any industrial accidents involves consideration of its effectiveness, its cost and its relationship to the output of work.

Only compilation of statistics of accidents before and after any given system is in operation permits safe decision as to the value of various methods.

SET YOURSELF UP BY USING NEW THINGS

By Olive Roberts Barton

They were packing to go away. Down from the attic came the trunks and traveling cases, all shining new and wearing evidence of little usage.

When they were about half-filled the head of the family came home. "You're surely not taking these fine things along!" he said briskly. "Anything will do in that place we are going to. Gunny-sacks or carpet-bags for that matter. Get out those two old suit cases and my old Gladstone bag. And isn't your old trunk still usable, Mother?"

Followed a protest—the same protest that had taken place every year when the family packed to go away.

As an actual fact, the luggage under discussion was not new. It had been bought some years before but had spent one season after another languishing under old sheets in the gloom of the attic.

Yearly had the man objected to their use and yearly had the old bags been substituted in their place under the same objection. It was a special trip that might turn up.

HARTFORD SOCCER ELEVEN LOSES FIRST TWO GAMES

Fall River Wins 5-2 And 3-1 Bat "Locals" Show Up Well.

Hartford's newly organized soccer eleven which will replace Springfield in the American League this season, lost both of its exhibition games Saturday and Sunday to the Fall River club, national champions last year. The scores were 5 to 2 and 3 to 1, Saturday's game was at the Hartford Velodrome and yesterday the teams played at Fall River. Hartford looked well in defeat although it presented a patched up lineup.

Fall River rolled up a 4 to 1 lead at halftime in Saturday's game and each eleven scored once in the second. A large number of Manchester fans were present.

Yesterday, Hartford looked far better using several new players. The halftime score was 2 to 1. Billy Owen was the only Hartford player to get a shot past Willie Harper. Fall River's teams played a crowd of 3500 saw the game.

Saturday's lineup and summary follows:
Fall River Hartford

NO UPSETS YET IN GOLF MATCH

Country Club Captain's Cup Tourney Plays Second Round This Week— Results of Predictions.

Unless the dope booker is upset a la 1926, it begins to look as if Ben Cheney and John Cheney will meet for the finals of the captain's cup handicap golf tourney at the Country Club, the prize being donated by their father, J. P. Cheney, Sr. Both won their matches in the first round handily and are picked to win the second round and semi-final matches.

The first round was completed last week and the second will be played off this week. There have been no upsets so far. The first round results follow: Charlie Johnson beat Crombie Donaldson, 3 and 2; Ben Cheney won from Chris Gienney, 4 and 3. Dr. N. A. Burr eliminated J. E. Stand, 6 and 4; John Hyde won from F. T. Eliza Jr., 7 and 6; John Cheney defeated A. L. Dexter, 3 and 1; Albert Dewey beat F. E. Watkins, 5 and 4; A. J. Gallup won from William J. J. Foulds, Jr. on a sudden-death; I. L. Joslin defeated K. Scribner, 1 up.

What We Think In Sports

By THOMAS W. STOWE

It may seem a bit early to bring up the subject, but it is my notion the Cloverleaves and the Cubs should get together before the football season starts next month and make arrangements for the annual North End-South End town championships contest which failed to materialize last season. Here is the situation and the solution which I think is absolutely fair to both teams. The Cloverleaves are the town champions. Therefore the same should be played at Hickey's Grove. In other words the champion should be allowed to defend its title on its own field. Now for the money end which was the matter in question in the past season. The Cloverleaves were supposed to be the better team of the two and naturally held out for a higher percentage than the Cubs. One who is in the 65-35 proposition, with neutral officials had not ought to settle the matter satisfactorily to both sides. The Cloverleaves are the champions. It is up to whoever is elected manager of the Cubs to go to Manager Griffin and seek a game. They should come to terms pronto. The fans deserve at least that much guarantee that they will not be robbed again this fall.

Now that Suzanne Lengien has vacated the amateur ranks for the lure of "blister jack," there is no question as to who is the greatest amateur woman tennis player in the world. Helen Willis. Having seemingly suffered no ill effects from her operation for appendicitis, she is playing in better form now than ever before. Helen should rule the amateur field for years to come, providing, of course, that some C. Pyle doesn't snatch her away.

It has been suggested that a whitened football be used this season in place of the brown-skinned pigskin that has been in vogue since the game was founded. It is claimed that such a colored ball would speed up the game and at the same time make it more easily to be followed by the spectators. Dean H. Watkey of Syracuse, one of the country's foremost referees, comes forth with the proposal and it has already met with considerable support from college coaches. Many of the important gridiron classics are annually concluded after the sun has already gone down. The color of the ball would be brought by coaches who specialize in the hidden ball art. But they ought to be able to overcome this by garbing their team in white jerseys or converse some other solution. If any suggested change ever worth a trial, it seems this one is so qualified.

There is one law in golf that might be given the air and few, if any, would shed a tear in its passing. It pertains to the medalist being compelled to play through a match play to win the silverware. But for this hard and fast ruling, the field in every big match, and medal play event would be considerably swelled.

The boys of today do not take the advantage of the outdoor life of hunting, fishing and tramping through the woods as boys did a score of years ago. The tricks of jumping brooks, climbing trees and going for long hikes are practically spent up in the gymnasium. All of these stunts are highly beneficial to a youth both physically and mentally. The boy of today has so many privileges that he fails to appreciate them fully. Years ago, a boy had to work hard to earn a baseball or bat. What a contrast from today! They may refer to him as old-fashioned, but the youth of twenty years ago was a real athlete. And that sort of life is far more essential towards the making of a real athlete than the boy of today with his late hours and smoking habits.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 22.— Golfers to the number of 174, the absolute flower and fauna of American fairways, will begin steadily and with monotonous persistence at Big Peter Partervering Par this morning. The best in the land, they represent the last word in accuracy, distance and fighting stomach, but the field was a joke compared with Bobbys Jones and George Von Elm, champions past and present respectively. If neither of them wins, the story will make history.

They were the stand-out candidates in a field that included men who could and would be a stand-out anywhere and everywhere. They were the class, the aristocracy, and until the results prove a different story, they must so remain.

The Favorites
Only Jones has beaten Von Elm since 1923; only Von Elm has the same amateur championship in 1924 and 1925, took over the British open title in 1925 and 1927 and altogether has dominated the situation since he won his first big title in 1923 at Inwood, Jones, the man with the uncommon name, naturally goes out ahead of the field.

With two batsmen out in the eighth inning and Cheney Brothers leading 4 to 1, East Glastonbury started a bombardment that netted them six runs and a 7 to 5 victory on Saturday on their own ball field. The game was hotly contested and well played. Brilliant fielding by Cheney's sluggers robbed East Glastonbury sluggers of hits and runs several times.

It remained for Nicholson, Glastonbury's pitcher, to start the winning rally for his team in the eighth after two men had grounded out. He singled to right, Zwick singled to center, Comp, batting for Weir, walked and then Coffie, former Manchester player, cleared the sacks and tied the score with a screaching triple to the Boston end of the field. P. scored him with a single. Sommers walked. Wilson singled to right later being out stealing. Zwick to Hanna. However six runs had been scored.

P. scored him with a single. Sommers walked. Wilson singled to right later being out stealing. Zwick to Hanna. However six runs had been scored.

The all-around player of Mr. Ernest Michael Zwick featured for Manchester. He held up Georgetti well and made three of Manchester's eight hits in addition to contributing a spectacular catch of a foul ball against the chicken-wire backdrop.

ITALIAN "HEAVY" WINS FIRST BOUTS

Roberti, the Stone-Crusher, Now in Limelight a la Firpo and Uzcudun.

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York, Aug. 20.—This Roberto Roberti, who up to a few weeks ago crushed stone daily in some small hamlet in Italy, seems to have the ear-smashing fraternity in Gotham evincing an unusual amount of interest in him.

Paulino Uzcudun was the heavyweight sensation last season, and as one of those things must be had to feed the gullible public every year. Perhaps to do as Paulino did—work himself into big dough.

Back in the sunny stone quarry of his native Luca in far off Italy, Roberto perspired earning his ally and then the answer was very fighting, battling fellow who knew his golf and best of all, who knew his opponents.

Roberto is training at Pompton Lakes, N. Y., for a series of winter engagements. He was fed by the sports writers went daffy over him. They say he is the best prospect since the day Luis Angel Firpo shoved his bushy black head over the horizon.

TONIGHT'S THE FINAL CHANCE TO ENTER TENNIS TOURNAYS

Sign Up Between 6 And 7 As Pairings Will Be Drawn Immediately Afterward.

BY JIMMY POWERS

Tonight's last chance to enter your name for the town championship tennis tournaments. Those who have not already signed up will be at least 16 players in each division. However, there will be more if more sign up. Anyone, regardless of age, is eligible. Several have entered who do not profess to be "sharks" at the game so don't refrain from entering because of lack of confidence in yourself.

Among those who have signed for the men's tournament are: Arthur Krob, Walter Dunn, "Mac" Macdonald, Henry McCann, Earl Bissell, Lawrence Paisley, Francis O'Brien, Ding Farr, Louis Farr, Leonard, Berry and others.

There are about as many entered in the girls' tournament and Miss Ruth Calhoun, Rec director, is confident she will be able to obtain 16 names.

Remember tonight's the last chance.
KELLY-BARD BOUT
ON VELODROME CARD

Jack Kelly of Waterbury, state middleweight champion, and Joe Bard of Hartford, rated the hardest-hitting amateur in the state, will meet in the feature bout of the Massachusetts A. C.'s weekly amateur boxing show at the Hartford Velodrome tonight.

Kelly and Bard met recently at Waterbury and a sensational bout was the result with Kelly winning the decision. Bard last week boosted his stock with a wholly unexpected win over Lucien Lariviere, knocking out the Brass City boy in the first round.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Now, there's a dandy garden spot," said Clowzy. "See, it pays a lot to go ahead and do things when you know they must be done. We've worked really hard I will admit, but what's the diff? We're feeling fit. And after all, it wasn't work, but really lots of fun." "Oh, you may think so," Clowzy said, "but, honestly, I'm nearly dead. As king, I order all of you to get a good night's rest." So every one began to roam right over to the Goofy's home. Right soon they all were seeking sleep because they thought it best. Next morning, when the sun was high, the whole bunch heard wee Clowzy cry, "Get up, you lazy Tinymites and Goofy Goos. Be quick. To lie in bed is just a fright. If sleeping does one any good, you all should feel real slick." "We do! We do!" the whole bunch cried. And soon they all had their heads outside. They found refreshing water and they washed themselves up clean. "And now," said Clowzy, "let's go back and find our little garden tract. I'm really very curious to see what can be seen." The whole bunch ran up o'er the hill and soon they got a mighty thrill. "Oh, look," exclaimed a Goofy Goo, "Just see what we have grown." The ground that once was quite forlorn was covered now, with beans and corn. "Oh, my," said Clowzy, "I just wish that this was all my own." The beans were large. The corn was tall, and there was plenty there for all. "We'll have a feast," yelled Clowzy, "and we'll do the thing up young life. Say, who has got a pocketknife? Just lend it to me now and I will cut the long beans down." (The Tinymites plan a feast in the next story.)

200 ATTEND THE OUTING OF MIANTONOMAH TRIBE

Red Men and Daughters of Pocohontas Have Busy Day At Rockville Grove.

More than 200 people attended the outing of Miantonomah tribe of Red Men in Maple Grove, Rockville, yesterday afternoon. There were visitors present from a number of Connecticut Red Men's lodges, as well as members of the Degree of Pocohontas, the women's auxiliary. Dinner was served to 100 and there were 200 at the table when supper was served. The chickens were dressed by the outing committee and served under the direction of Frank Diana, who was assisted by members of the Pocohontas lodge.

A program of sports followed the dinner in the afternoon and the principal event of the day, the horsehoe tournament, was won by John McConville, who received a silver loving cup.

Mrs. Clarence Ingraham won the gold bar pin given for the women's shoe race. Jack Wilson won the 100 yard dash and William C. Shields and Walter Gustafson the sack race. John McConville Jr., won the 50-yard dash for boys while Vivian Barto won a similar race for girls. Stanley Dunn won the 50-yard dash for boys under 12.

WILLIAMS DOESN'T SEEK JOB AS A SELECTMAN

Denies Political Aspirations Attributed To Him By An Out-Of-Town Paper.

George H. Williams, Main street clothier, said today that he had no intention of entering the race for Selectman, despite reports to that effect in a Hartford paper on Sunday.

The report originated from a casual conversation between Mr. Williams and a newspaper correspondent, but the former said that he was not serious at the time he said he might run for office.
