

COOLIDGE SEEKS NEW THRILLS IN NATIONAL PARK

Presidential Party Climbs 8,000 Feet Elevation to View Scenery—Plans Fishing Trip.

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., Aug. 24.—Crossing the Continental Divide, President Coolidge went his way eastward across Yellowstone National Park today in quest of new thrills of the sport of angling.

His destination was Yellowstone Lake where lurk cut-throat trout, a species new to the president and which promise to tax his skill as a fisherman.

More scenic thrills, of which the park holds an overabundance, engaged Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and son John, enroute.

First, was the initial crossing of the Continental Divide at Carle, where the road sits 8,361 feet above sea level. In Lake, where waters in springtime flow both into the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Then came the second passage where the great waterhead of the continent runs across the road in a huge semi-circle.

At Great Height

From the stupendous solitude of 8,364 feet, the presidential party was enabled to gaze out on a horizon far past the park boundary lines and embracing Shoshone lake near Cody, Wyoming.

HURRICANE ON WAY TO NEW ENGLAND

New York, Aug. 24.—A storm of hurricane proportions was reported by the Weather Bureau here today moving northeast towards the New England coast.

The storm's greatest intensity at 11 a. m., was placed at about 130 miles south of the Nantucket lightship. High seas are expected along the New England coast.

SUSPECT BOMBER CAUGHT IN SUBWAY

Carried Burglar's Tools And List of Noted Millionaires—May Be Radical.

New York, Aug. 24.—Seized by detectives of the bomb squad after a zig-zag chase along subway tracks and third rails and between passing trains, an elderly man, charged with possession of a large bundle of criminal tools, weapons and a list of prominent persons, was sent to Bellevue hospital today for observation.

He was questioned at police headquarters regarding the recent bombings in the Twenty-eighth street stations of the Interborough and B. M. T. lines, but answered inconspicuously, police said.

The prisoner said he was John N. Nessel, a night watchman, of Brooklyn. He was arrested by detectives who pursued him a distance of about half a mile at one point directly under police headquarters.

Had Burglar's Tools

He carried a package, according to the police, containing two torches, two steel knives, a blackjack, jimmy and small chisel. In his pocket the police found a memorandum book with the names of the Morgans, Vanderbilts and other prominent persons.

Police said he told them his object in having these names to "keep an eye on those fellows; can't tell when I might want to visit them."

Reminded by the police of the dangers of his flight along the subway tracks, he said:

"Oh Sacco and Vanzetti are dead. I don't care."

CHENEYS SHOW HOW TO EXHIBIT THEIR CRAVATS

Unique Sales Promotion Plan Taught at Convention Here of 25 Salesmen—Description of Displays.

An unusual and beautiful exhibit of Cheney cravats manufactured in the silk mills here has been arranged at Cheney Hall to introduce a new plan of sales promotion to the convention of the salesmen in the employ of Cheney Brothers now being held here. The convention was planned to equip the Cheney salesmen with a knowledge of the manufacture of the goods they are selling and with new ideas in the display of silks, especially cravats, in store windows.

Those in Charge

J. A. Waldron, a decorator in the employ of Cheney Brothers arranged the exhibit in Cheney Hall and the ideas behind the sales promotion plan were worked up by Paul Thomas, sales promotion manager, and the group of experts in his department. N. E. Ely, of New York City represents the sales promotion department at the exhibit, and J. Clarke Baker, sales manager of the Cravat department, now residing on South Main street, is instructing the convention in salesmanship.

The exhibit which has now been completed at Cheney Hall is not open to the public. It was planned primarily for the salesmen, but Cheney Brothers have extended to local merchants a cordial invitation to go to the hall and see how cravats can best be displayed.

Popular Designs

In designing the cravats for the fall and winter trade a new scheme was evolved. Motifs of a popular type were adopted and then a whole series worked out in each motif. In the exhibit at Cheney Hall there are eight displays showing these various designs and all giving an idea how they can best be displayed in store windows.

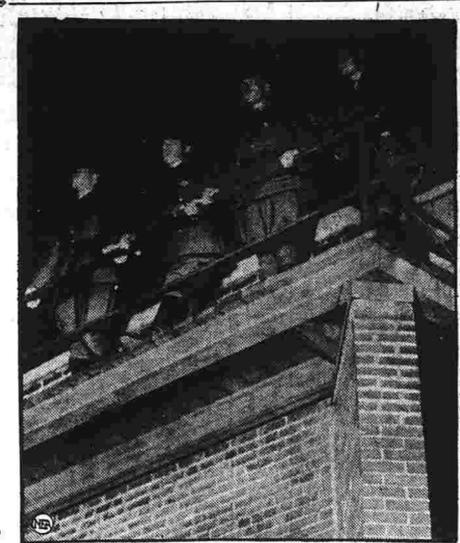

On the stage the Indian motif is shown. Handsome cravats of Indian influence in design are cleverly arranged about white birch tree poles. An Indian tent effect is produced by arranging a bolt of cravat material about the pitched poles. An Indian blanket, buffalo head skeleton, further carry out the American Indian atmosphere.

Advertising Plan

The salesmen are taught to pass on the ideas to the stores which will be selling Cheney cravats. An advertising service for use in newspapers has been prepared to co-ordinate with window display advertising. The trend of the reading matter in the advertisements is in keeping with the particular motif displayed.

In the alcove at the west side of the hall is the Undersea display.

DEATH HOUSE SENTRIES

A formidable quartet of Massachusetts state policemen, armed with machine guns, caught by the flash light guarding the Charlestown death house as Sacco and Vanzetti went to their fate.

Vultures Lead Plane To Lost War Veteran

Glendale, Arizona, Aug. 24.—Alfred C. Menard, shell shocked war veteran in search of whom two airplanes have been combing the desert for the past three days, was being nursed back to health today following his rescue by Captain C. H. Reynolds, army pilot.

Captain Reynolds' finding of the half-crazed soldier was dramatic. It was a week ago today that Menard walked into the desert with the avowed purpose of losing himself. Four days later, after a posse on foot had failed to find him, two army airplanes were sent out.

Toward sundown yesterday, Captain Reynolds sighted a score of black vultures circling lazily over a spot on the bleak desert horizon. As he flew into their midst, he sighted the form of Menard.

Reynolds brought his huge transport to a safe landing, leaping from the cockpit and rushing to Menard's side. The veteran was more dead than alive. An Army pistol dangled from his hand.

Veteran Collapses

He was too weak from his seven days of wandering over the blistering sands without food or water to answer the flyer's hail. As Captain Reynolds reached out to take the gun away from him, the veteran fell in a heap at the foot of a mesquite bush where he had propped himself, evidently to fight off the vultures that kept circling closer and closer as his strength ebbed.

Captain Reynolds took Menard to his plane and forced a few drops of water through his lips which were swollen to three times their normal size.

Lieut. Charles Douglas, pilot of the second searching plane, caught Captain Reynolds' signal that Menard had been found and brought the report to Glendale.

Sheriff Adams and a posse immediately started for the spot.

PARIS RIOTS CONTINUE; RED FUNERALS SUNDAY

PROVIDENCE IS HARD HIT BY HEAVY STORM

City Flooded By Hardest Rain In Its History—Wooded Pavements Float Away In Water.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 24.—This city was swept by the worst rain storm in history today and thousands of dollars damage was done.

Fountain street, one of the principal thoroughfares in the downtown business district, was flooded.

Water seeped under the wooden paving blocks and hundreds of the blocks floated away. A special detail of police with baskets were assigned to the vicinity of City Hall to gather up the blocks. The street had been under repair and will have to be closed for more than a week. Police headquarters is located on Fountain street.

A cement sidewalk on Narragansett boulevard was washed down on the lawn of the estate of William S. Cherry, doing $5,000 damage.

Pavements Float Away

Wooden pavements on Prairie avenue worked loose and hundreds of them floated into adjoining streets. Children who live in that tenement district reached the floating blocks before the arrival of police with baskets, the blocks being stored away for firewood.

Trolley traffic was delayed. Several manufacturing plants were temporarily out of commission by water flooding the dynamos. The water broke a big hole in the front of the Melrose plant of the Narragansett Electric Light Company and a motor truck dropped into it. More than fifty automobile accidents on the wet pavements were recorded. Several persons were injured.

Collars Flooded

Half of the 3 1/2 inches of rain that fell in the past 24 hours came down in a two-hour period today.

The local traction company had fifteen derailments. Several washouts were reported.

Flooding of downtown stores were flooded and goods ruined.

The cellar of the Providence Billmore hotel was afloat.

Electric light power was off for nearly an hour throughout the city and suburbs.

Radicals in Boston Have Hard Time Trying to Find Hall in Which to Lay Bodies In State—Elaborate Plans For Funeral—Can Only Have 200 in Line—No Tour of U. S. Allowed— Coffins to Be Carried By Friends of Dead Men.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—While more than a thousand persons were being injured in Paris and other European cities were reporting pitched battles, sympathizers of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were meeting opposition here today in securing a hall in which to lay the two bodies in state.

Carpenters, on orders from the owner, put up a barrier at the defense committee building. The Societa Salernitana Hall above the mason tenders' union headquarters in the International hotel carriers' building in Salem street was hired but when the owner of the building, Mrs. Alice Twigg, heard of it she had her daughter, Alice, order a carpenter to board up the entrance to the building.

Funeral Sunday

Plans for a funeral procession Sunday—the bodies to be kept under special health department permits—were drawn up by the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee today.

First in the parade will come two empty black coffins and behind the hearse will march eight men in mourning carrying the two caskets, four men to each casket. Then will come fifty official mourners. Behind the group of fifty will move automobiles with Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Louise Vanzetti and other women mourners. This brings the funeral procession number to within the 200 required by the police regulations. Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers assured police that there would be no trouble. They stated that they could not prevent persons trailing the funeral cortege.

Line of March

The line of march will be from North End park up Hanover street, down Tremont street, up School street by the State House and down Beacon Hill to the Back Bay. In the Back Bay district the coffins will be placed in the hearses for transfer beyond to Forest Hills cemetery for cremation. Joseph Lanzetta, undertaker, has charge of arrangements.

A plan to take either the bodies or the ashes on a tour of the country was meeting with opposition from cities outside Boston, according to word received by the committee.

Over 1,000 Injured in French Capital, Including 100 Po- licemen—Worst Riot Since the War—Over 200 Arrested—In England and Germany Trouble Keeps Up—Radical Press in Eu- rope Raps Massachusetts Officials.

Paris, Aug. 24.—Unofficial estimates today placed the number of injured in last night's Communist rioting as high as 1,000, including 100 policemen. Most of the demonstrators were only slightly injured, suffering mainly from bruised heads. The property damage is placed at half a million dollars.

ORDER RESTORED

Paris, Aug. 24.—Order was restored here by the police early today after more than 1000 persons, 100 of them policemen, had been injured in violent rioting by ten thousand Socialists, Communists and Anarchists in protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions at Boston.

No Americans were injured, although a number of night clubs in the Montmartre district frequented by Americans were raided by Communists.

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the Boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the gendarmes. Soldiers and police guarded the United States Embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the building.

Worst Since War

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war.

Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting "Down with the Americans," Anarchists and Communists broke into theaters and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

The entire Paris police force was on duty, for it had been advertised in advance that the radicals would make a violent demonstration in protest against the execution of the two Anarchists in Massachusetts.

A heavy guard was placed about the United States Embassy and the Consulate early in the day and all persons desiring admission were scrutinized closely and ordered to explain their business.

In addition to the police on active duty, heavy forces of reserves were massed at strategic points with lorries to rush them to any spot where trouble broke out.

Troops with fixed bayonets broke up one procession of 2,000 rioters who tried to march through President Wilson's Embassy and the American Embassy building.

Another detachment of the mob marched through the Stolle section where the homes of many wealthy American residents are located, singing the "Internationale" and the "Red Flag."

Shortly after midnight rain began to fall and the mob began to break up.

MEET BEAR

Coming along as a diversion was an encounter with Jessie James, famous Yellowstone trail bear who parks himself in the middle of the roads and "holds up" passing autos for candy or other sweetmeats. Foresters and rangers with the party paid the ransom.

At West Thumb, first point reached on the huge lake, which has an area of about 140 miles, Mr. Coolidge came upon another of the nature freaks, "The Fishing Cone." The lake laps against one side of the road and on the other is a big natural cauldron filled with boiling water. Until the federal strictions interfered, visitors used to be entertained by the spectacle of seeing fish caught in the lake, and, while still on the hook, whipped across the road into the cone and boilers.

Upon arrival at the lake hotel, where the Coolidges will remain for the night, it was planned to take the executive immediately to Pelee Island, where he may fish in seclusion.

SEARCH FOR PLANES IS NEARING END

Navy To Give Up Hunt To- morrow—Story of Flare Proves False.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24.—Reinforced by the light cruiser Omaha and fifteen destroyers, the Navy search for the seven lost Hawaiian fliers was nearing the end today. All destroyers, aircraft vessels, airplanes and submarines will be called back from the hunt tomorrow night.

Three Army planes and the Dole flight plane of Martin Jensen were expected to return to Luke Field, Honolulu, today from the island of Hawaii. The four planes flew there yesterday to investigate reports of a green flare which had been seen flickering half-way up the 13,000 foot slope of Mauna Lea, Hawaii's highest mountain.

No Developments

Other than the naval reinforcements and the report of the green flare, there have been no new developments in the 2,400 mile hunt for the Miss Doran, Golden Eagle, and Dallas Spirit, the three missing planes of a green flare which had been seen flickering half-way up the 13,000 foot slope of Mauna Lea, Hawaii's highest mountain.

The aircraft carrier Langley and the aircraft tender Aroostook swept slowly toward Hawaii with their brood of thirty airplanes. The careful search, however, has so far yielded only floating candy boxes and old potato crates.

Twenty-six naval vessels are now searching for the lost planes far at sea. In addition to the Langley and Aroostook, there are the original searching squadron of eight destroyers, and the cruiser Omaha, which with her complement of fifteen destroyers, was diverted into the hunt from maneuvers in Puget Sound.

PRESS EXPERTS IN CONFERENCE

Envoys From 36 Nations Gather at Geneva To Dis- cuss News Ownership.

Geneva, Aug. 24.—The international conference of press experts, meeting under the auspices of the League of Nations, opened here today, with the press of 36 nations represented.

Lord Burnham of the British delegation, who is acting chairman, made the opening address.

The morning session was taken up with discussion of questions of procedure. The first preliminary skirmish took place over the question of whether the steering committee should be elected by direct vote of the conference, or appointed from the chair. After several ballots the election by direct vote was decided upon.

While the conference was getting under way many preliminary private conferences were going on outside the conference hall. Most of these dealt with proposals in the conference agenda, particularly a discussion of a resolution concerning property rights in news, the independent, non-official, non-governmental news agencies, who bitterly oppose the draft, on grounds that it would create a monopoly in news and seeking a solution of the question.

The International News Service group, headed by M. Koelnigberg, have been entrusted with the task of evolving a substitute resolution which would reaffirm American and British court decisions that news, as news, is public property, and that quasi-rights can only be established as between competitors engaging in unfair competition.

This resolution may go even further and declare that a discussion of the public's right to news will create precedents which might eventually be used to break down the accepted principles, and that the public has full rights to all news.

SEA GIVES UP BODY OF MANCHESTER LAD

Floating Corpse Found Off Westport—In All Likeli- hood George Wilson's.

The body of a young man found a hundred yards off shore at Compo Beach, Westport, yesterday, has been identified with practical certainty as that of George A. Wilson, twenty-year-old Manchester youth, who was drowned seven days ago off Fairfield Beach. The clothes correspond exactly with those worn by young Wilson. It was said by those who viewed the body. The general measurements are also very similar. In order to make an absolute identification, however, it was planned to conduct an autopsy this morning at an undertaking establishment in Westport.

Undertaker Mark Holmes of the North end left for Westport at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon as an autopsy was being conducted by telephone. Harold W. Wilson, brother of the dead youth, went with him. The night, said today that he did not think there was a chance of the

LOTTERY TICKET SELLERS FINED

Four Face Judge Johnson— Testify They Are Not Now Selling.

Edwin F. Crosby of Whitney avenue, Hamden, and three Manchester men, Marshall Donze, Gustave Greene and Julius Chagnon, all pleaded guilty before Judge Johnson in the police court this morning to the charge of being agents in procuring lottery tickets to be sold and disposed of. The men were represented by Attorney William S. Hyde.

In presenting the case, Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway said the four men had, up to about two months ago, been engaged in selling lottery tickets to people in Manchester. He explained that the gambler on the treasury balance. It is not a new game but one that has been practiced not only in Manchester but throughout the state for several years.

Fred Risley of this town bought one of the tickets and drew what was supposed to be a $200 prize. For some reason or other a mistake had been made in announcing the figure and Risley did not receive the money. He then complained to the state police. Attorney Budder of the state police force who was detailed to make an investigation brought the four men into court.

Attorney Hyde told the judge that none of the men were now engaged in the business of selling the tickets. He admitted that his clients were technically guilty but he thought a small fine would meet the ends of justice. Judge Johnson found each of the men guilty as

CHICAGO'S LATIN QUARTER VISITED BY BIG FIRE IN WAKE OF BLAST.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—One entire block of stores and apartment buildings, located in the heart of Chicago's Latin quarter, was almost completely wiped out early today by a mysterious explosion and fire that followed in its wake.

The scene was Taylor street, a section that has been in constant turmoil recently as a result of Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

Two business houses were leveled by the blast, and fire which broke out immediately spread to twelve apartment buildings. Firemen and police are searching the ruins for bodies. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Authorities, after a hasty investigation, were unable to determine whether the blast was due to a bomb, possibly set by anarchists as a protest to the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, or was due to some other cause.

SHOOTING TOURNAMENT

Vandalia, Ohio, Aug. 24.—The third day of the Grand American Tournament of the American Association opened here today with Guy V. Dering, president of the association, leading the field with two perfect scores of 200 each.

Dering won the clay target championship late Tuesday after winning the Class B crown the day before.

Mrs. Harry Harrison, Rochester, N. Y., won the women's championship of North America with a score of 192. W. P. Jenkins, 15, Orleans, Ind., won the junior championship with 98 out of 200 and Howard Kiefer, 14, Orville, Ohio, won the sub-junior palm with 95 out of 100.

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Aug. 24.—With a hurricane reported near New York, Pilots Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill faced another delay today in their flight to Rome and return in the monoplane Old Glory. Chafing under the recurrence of adverse weather conditions, the pilots discussed the feasibility of using charcoal burners to dry out the runway on the field in order to hasten the take-off.

Rains have softened the track and it was feared that unless some artificial drying process could be devised, a postponement would be necessary even though favorable winds should rise.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 24.—Officials of the New Haven railroad today refused even to comment on the reported approaching purchase of the Winsted-Torrington-Hartford Jitney Association lines as an addition to the New Haven's subsidiary. The New England Transportation Company system.

"We have no comment at all to make at this time," the officials said.

The Public Utilities Commission office at Hartford has received no petition from the New Haven railroad for the right to take over the bus lines operating out of Hartford into Litchfield county.

BIG TOBACCO SHEDS BURNED IN WINDSOR

Windsor, Conn., Aug. 24.—More than $100,000 worth of Sumatra tobacco and four sheds owned by the American Sumatra Tobacco Company here, went up in smoke today when cinders of a charcoal fire, used for drying tobacco leaves, were blown to the roof of one of the sheds in which the tobacco was stored.

Hundreds of tobacco workers, taking the part of firemen, were thwarted in their work by a brisk northerly wind, which fanned the flames until the sheds and their contents were totally destroyed.

G. F. Griffin, of Simsbury, manager of the tobacco company, said that the loss was fully covered by insurance.

RESCUED FROM FIRE

Hudson, Mass., Aug. 24.—Three aged guests were rescued, eleven other persons died in their night clothes and three firemen were overcome by smoke during a fire of unknown origin that damaged the American House, a four-story wooden building here today.

IN LONDON

London, Aug. 24.—Heavy forces of foot and mounted police remained on duty about the United States Embassy today following a riotous Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration last night when fifty men and women were injured, many of them being treated at hospitals.

Two thousand police broke up a Communist procession in Oxford street near Marble Arch, arresting several ringleaders.

The clash followed a meeting of between 5,000 and 6,000 Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers in Hyde Park. The demonstrators had threatened to parade through Oxford street and the police were under orders to prevent the parade.

Mounting police made repeated charges into the crowd before they succeeded in scattering the marchers.

IN GERMANY

Leipzig, Germany, Aug. 24.—Two policemen are in the hospital seriously wounded as the result of violent clashes between the police and Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers last night. One rioter was killed and half a dozen persons, including policemen, were injured.

Shouting "vengeance for Sacco and Vanzetti!" and "Let's storm the station and kill the dogs!" the mob attempted to storm the police station.

The rioters were driven back after fierce fighting in which the police opened fire. The leaders of

LOCAL WOMAN FINDS LONG-LOST BROTHER

Mrs. Ernest M. Maynard of 225 Woodbridge street, has as her guest a long-lost brother, Edward Barry of Chicago.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Iona Chapman of 41 Summer street has returned after spending the past month as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. William Regan of the Oranges.

The Robins and the Owls, members of the junior playground league will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the West Side playgrounds in a game.

Mr. Clark said he believed it was through such organizations as the Kiwanis club that such movements can be advanced.

Mr. Clark was the guest of U. J. Lupien of Cheney Brothers.

Holger Bach was the lucky man today and won the attendance prize donated by Henry Nettleton.

A number of volunteers from the club will furnish automobiles Saturday morning to bring back to the camp a group of girls from the Hebron camp.

The members were reminded of the performance to be given Friday evening by the Jitney players for camp expenses.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Disturbances of "great intensity" are central over the North-Central Atlantic seaboard.

At ten a. m. the point of greatest intensity was 136 miles south of Nantucket, moving northeast.

Strong northeast winds this afternoon and tonight were forecast for the entire northern coast.

The regular meeting of Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias, will be held this evening in Orange hall at 8 o'clock.

The police are checking closely on young Hill's pastimes in Streator. They find that in two gambling houses he lost large sums of money.

Rockville MAKE NO ARREST IN FIRE MYSTERY

Believe Case to Be One of Spite—Interest Develops in Town Meeting.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, August 2.—The investigation that has been conducted by the local and state police concerning the fire on Pillsbury Hill early yesterday morning has not resulted in any arrest. The fact, as pointed out in The Herald of yesterday, that it would hardly be the owner of the building that was responsible for the fire as the amount of insurance carried on the buildings would not place them by several thousand dollars, seems, also, to be the idea on which they are working.

It has dwindled down where the chief idea is that the building was set out of spite, that the work was not that of a person of over intelligence as shown in the way it was handled. It was the intention to destroy the house. The culprits did not take into consideration the fact that the house was empty as far as furniture was concerned and even after using kerosene the amount of paper that was used to start the fire in the room or in the closet was insufficient to cause much of a blaze and allow the flames to eat up into the partitions. The police in their examinations have taken many pictures, both interior and exterior and flash light pictures have also been taken.

The fact that the cellar was found smooth and recently raked is not being taken seriously, as it was damp in the cellar and any cleaning up that might have been done would have left it in that condition. It has not been, nor is it now expected that the cellar floor will be dug up.

Within The Limit

Both the town of Vernon and the city of Rockville are well within the limit of borrowing or bond issuing. The grand list of the whole town of Vernon, as last perfected amounted to $10,145.74. This does not include the exempted property such as the Memorial hall, the Henry building, the schools and all of the churches. Even under the amount on which taxes are being collected it would be possible to borrow $200,000 more and still be within the limit of the new law, which provides that in no case, shall there be bonds issued which in total, even though it be city, school, or fire districts within the town that shall exceed the total amount of the grand list of the town, which, in case of issue also provides for the taking in of the town owned property.

The town year of Vernon closes on September 1 and the reports of the different officers will be ready soon afterwards. The fact that the selectmen will recommend in their budget at the town meeting practically the same amount as last year and with a cut in the amount that will be received as the town's share of the state stock tax, which was $75,000 last year, a lesser value on the silk mills than was the case last year, it is hoped that the rate of tax will be kept down to the thirteen mills, paid twice, but it is more likely to demand an increase. It is hard to tell just what can be cut from the appropriation. Last year there was voted $12,000 for state aid roads, but the correct bill has not been turned in for this and an effort will be made to have it cleared up before September 1.

City's Condition

In the case of the city the grand list amounts to about $8,000,000 and there has been voted an 11 mill tax, which is payable in September, but there is but one issue outstanding, that being for $40,000. This is a serial bond and will require the retirement of some of the bonds each year, plus interest charges. Should it be found necessary to spend a large sum on the city sewage disposal the amount to do the work properly would run into several thousand dollars, probably between $50,000 and $75,000. The exact amount and the method that is to be followed to bring this about has not as yet been given, and is not expected to be ready before the first meeting of the common council.

Look For Cuts

At the annual town meeting in October it is expected that an effort will be made to cut appropriations that will be recommended, but as in the case in nearly every town and city the big amount is for schools. The town and city having a consolidated school system, will hardly allow for a cut in the school appropriation as recommended by the school board. It cannot cut salaries and get normal school or college graduates nor can there be any reduction that can be made in this appropriation in any way. Roads that need attention must be kept up and the question of alms is one that is governed by conditions in the town and city. The town meeting is sure to attract attention.

New Men Breaking In

Rockville people who use the trolley lines will find new faces on many of the runs coming into Rockville when the new schedule goes into effect on August 28. Some of the new men are breaking in on the line today. Because of the single line from Lov. Lane the motormen and conductors will be in charge of the crew to the turnout just east of the city line. From that point on both the conductor and motorman will leave the car and all cars running from there through Rockville to Stafford will be one man cars. Among the changes that will be noticed will be the necessity of Daniel Sweeney of High Street returning to Manchester to board. He will take out the first car from Manchester at 4 o'clock in the morning and will be through at 1:15 in the afternoon. Mr. Sweeney was for eighteen years on the Interurban line and has been one of the conductors of the Rockville line since the line was discontinued.

Funeral of John Smith The funeral of John Smith will be held at St. Bernard's church tomorrow morning and will be in charge of the Elks. The bearers will be Thomas Hassett, Harry North, Robert Brown, Edward Finley, George Jobert and Vincent Finley, all close friends of the deceased and members of Rockville lodge, Rockville Lodge of Elks, headed by Exalted Ruler George H. Williams, will be represented by a delegation.

Items from Vernon William Grady, who has recently completed his modern barn which has room for fifty herd of cattle, is having the barn painted. Elmer LaChapelle is completing the painting of Jacob Kahan's home.

Mrs. Matilda Hansen of Vernon depot is having her barns shingled. The work is being done by Ernest Johnson.

Residents of Vernon depot and the Lydallville road section are framing a petition to be presented to the selectmen to have the brush cleared from the roadways, which was not done this year as yet.

There was a smash up of two automobiles on the Tolland Turnpike last Saturday night when near Dobsonville.

Clifford Knight cartoonist and farmer, finds that the effort to keep wicker chairs around the lawn is almost an impossibility in this present kind of weather.

The Vernon Parents-Teachers association are planning for an action in the winter's campaign. The school has been repainted and electric lights will be installed. They propose to hold whists to raise funds for a vacuum cleaner to be used in the school.

Mrs. Henry Larson and family who have been at Block Island on their vacation have returned home. Mrs. Larson was accompanied by her father, Mr. Driggs.

Miss Marjorie Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stephens leaves early next month to enter Boston University. She has been teaching school in West Hartford, but leaves to take a kindergarten teacher's course.

The band concert which was to have been held at the Tolland County Temporary Home in Vernon by Col's band was not completed last night, due to the rain. There were four numbers played in the open before being driven inside by the rain. The children of the home sang several songs. The concert will be given tomorrow night.

Notes Miss Emma Zuehlke of Spring street has gone to Chicago for a ten day vacation.

Walter Skinner and family motored over the Mohawk Trail Tuesday.

Weather permitting there will be a concert in Central Park by the Rockville Boys' Band.

Jack Keeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Keeney of West street, who has been playing in the orchestra at the New Hotel Royal at Block Island, has been engaged to play with a twelve piece orchestra at a midnight show at the Empire Theater at Block Island on Sept. 4.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Metcalf of Elm street are spending the week at Giant's Neck.

Miss Margaret McLean of Talcott avenue has returned from a vacation in Vermont and New Hampshire. Miss McLean attended the pageant in Antrim, N. H., which was produced by Miss Lella Church of this city.

Mrs. Martha Zinsner and son William of Prospect street are spending two weeks with relatives in New York.

George W. Randall and the Misses Lois and Lillian Randall of Talcott avenue are on a motor trip to Camden, New Jersey, where they will visit relatives.

Miss Doris Symonds of Talcott avenue is spending two weeks in Providence.

The seventh meeting of the series of summer meetings of the Christian Endeavor Union will be held this evening at the Rockville Baptist church. Miss R. S. Kruse of West Hartford has been engaged to speak. This will be the last meeting at which a count will be taken so it is hoped that a large number will be present.

The Young Polish-American baseball team will run a benefit dance at Linck's hall on Saturday evening. Music will be furnished by Gwark's orchestra.

PARIS RIOTS KEEP UP; OVER 1,000 ARE HURT

A. L. CONVENTION

Paris, Aug. 23.—Cherishing opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the legion stages its parade.

Deputies Cachia, Marty and Doriot, Communist members of the Chamber of Deputies, who now are serving sentences in Sante prison for their Communist activities, have informed the president of the chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining the September fete."

"Conturier," writing in the Communist organ "Humanite," today declared: "We can be sure, at least, that on the occasion of the American Legion national holiday on September 19th Paris will not dance on the stages of Sacco and Vanzetti."

PRESS COMMENTS

Berlin, Aug. 24.—Newspapers throughout Central Europe continue today their denunciation of the United States as a result of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in the biggest editorial spree since war-time.

Some editorial writers holding up the United States as "barbarous and dollar mad."

A few of the papers suggested a boycott of American goods, especially moving picture films and automobiles.

Theodore Wolff, writing in the "Moderate" Tageblatt, denounced Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti; Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, and Chief Justice William H. Taft, of the United States Supreme Court, as "cowardly, cruel and pitiless; subservient to the 'money bag mob,' and combining the barbarism of the middle ages with modern inventions and additions."

Eidtor Wolff said he found it necessary to warn against a "oral boycott of the whole American people."

PETROLEUM EXPERTS TO TEST ALL BRANDS AND GRADES OF OIL

Tulsa, Okla.—As a result of announcements by numerous oil companies in the United States and Europe, that they have discovered or perfected high quality gasoline for airplanes, the aviation committee of the International Petroleum Exposition has arranged for tests to be made of all brands and grades of oil produced. The tests, the committee says, will be thorough and unbiased, in an effort to ascertain the exact advantages to be found in each of the so-called "high test" fuels.

Natural, blended and straight-run gasoline will be brought into competition, with a view of learning which form gives the greater mileage per gallon.

Many manufacturers already have signified their desire to enter the contest with their particular brand. Army, Navy and aviation officials have been invited to witness and judge the tests.

The exposition will begin September 24, and the gasoline tests will begin about that time, under the auspices of the National Aeronautical association.

"We hardly expect the question of efficiency to be definitely settled for all time," M. H. Kotzabne, chairman of the aviation committee, declared, "but the tests should go a long way toward answering other important questions in the minds of oil men."

STATUES OF RADICALS. Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—Statues of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are to be sent throughout the world.

Antonio Salemmi, New York sculptor, was enroute here today to make death masks. Statues are to be made later and shipped to all corners of the world by the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee.

The committee today discussed raising a world-wide fund for a monument to be set up here.

ABOUT TOWN

L. C. Clifford, manager of the Manchester and Rockville telephone exchanges, who has been confined to his home on Foster street for the past three weeks, is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shea and daughter Martha, who have been visiting Paul Quinn of Center street, left today for their home in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Mr. Shea expects to make the return trip by auto in seven days.

SEA GIVES UP BODY OF MANCHESTER LAD

body not being that of young Williams.

Mrs. George B. Thomas of 125 Lenox avenue, Bridgeport, an aunt, was equally positive. The condition of the body, however, made identification from the features impossible. Bridgeport and Westport authorities said that only one other man had been reported drowned in that vicinity this summer. He was a seafaring man and much older.

To Be Brought Home Undertaker Holmes went to Westport again this morning and expected to bring the body back to Manchester late tonight.

Westport authorities said that the body had been sighted Sunday by two fishermen but that after they had reported the matter, police searched three hours in vain. Then yesterday afternoon, four boys reported they had seen a body floating about a hundred yards off the beach. This time the police found the body. Mrs. Thomas went to the morgue and then telephoned here that she was sure they had recovered George's body.

It was said today that funeral services in all probability will be held at the boy's home on 19 Stock place at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. Edward P. Phreaner of this town officiating. The body will lie in the East Cemetery beside that of George's brother Charles, who was killed by a trolley car fifteen years ago and his father, Eugene, who died six months after George was born.

ARREST HIGAMIST

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 24.—Weeks of hunting for Vincent Labella, 30, of Springdale, were ended today with word of his arrest at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Labella is charged with having taken a young girl for a trip through the middle west and then marrying her in Michigan last month. When the girl returned here she learned Labella has a wife and family in Italy. Labella disappeared.

GO AFTER TUNA

Raymond Barrett of Barrett & Robbins and Edward Taylor, well known Manchester singer, left this afternoon for Block Island for a few days tuna fishing. It is reported that the tuna have struck on in Block Island waters and the local sportsmen hope to connect with one or two of the big fish. According to information from Block Island no very large specimens have yet been taken but a good many have been caught ranging from fifteen to twenty pounds.

GAS TANKS.

Residents of the Parkville section of Hartford are in a high state of perturbation over the intention of the Hartford Gas Light Company to erect a new and huge gasometer tank in that part of the city. They are, in fact, rather more than perturbed; they are fighting mad. And their state of mind has found expression in an organized determination to oppose the building in courts. They are saying it with dollars and have begun chipping in on a retainer fee, hoping to get State Attorney Alcorn to lead them in battle.

The Parkville folk declare that the presence of a great, unsightly gas tank in the vicinity is bound to depreciate it not ruin the value of their properties. The gas company insists that the tank is a matter of necessity for the service of the public. So Hartford faces a repetition of the countless gashouse wars that have occurred, at one time and another, all over the country. Usually the gas companies win.

Just why a gas house tank should invariably be such an unlovely thing and so utterly, hopelessly depressing, it is not easy to figure out. Yet a gallows on a hill, outlined against a dusk November sky, is not a less cheering sight. We are not sure, even, that the proximity of a gasometer has no effect on the morals of those who come under its spell; for what major city is there which has no "gashouse gang," celebrated in song and story for its surly belligerence and criminality?

Yet there would seem to be no essential evil in a gas tank. It is not, in its general design, logically offensive. It possesses vast sweep of curve, like the horizon itself; it must be plumb; it is held in the embrace of a lacelike fabric of steel, not remotely related to the members which contribute to sheer beauty in many a bridge. It would really seem that, if the builders of such structures were animated by any desire whatever to ameliorate gas tank offensiveness, they could easily succeed in doing so.

But who has ever tried to camouflage a gas tank? What gas company ever put an architect on the job along with the engineers? When was a gasometer ever given a chance to be anything but gratuitously hideous? When was it ever painted any but a perfectly insulting color?

Perhaps it would cost the Hartford Gas Light Company less, in the long run, to do a pioneering job in taking the curse off gas tanks, by offering to Parkville a tank so treated architecturally that the folks there would be proud rather than embattled, than it would to fight through the court its right to add to the world's industrial horrors—already needlessly numerous.

Besides, look at the glory that would come from building the first gas tank in America that did not drive its beholders to tears and drink.

NO LOSS

For a newspaper to hold a brief for banditry would be a grievous sin and to be sinful is not our aspiration. But if there must be bandits and if bandits must needs rob people we think of no bandit proceeding that would do less real harm than the theft of the hoarded wealth of the Kunhart family of Humbolt, Nebraska.

Frank Kunhart was a farmer who knew no need of congressional relief. He planted and he reaped and what he reaped he sold, and he kept the money. He did not believe in banks. Twenty years ago he passed away, leaving behind him a tidy sum, tucked away here and there about the place in tin cans. He made his wife promise that she would never, never trust to a bank. That promise she has kept.

At eighty-five Mrs. Kunhart was still tucking it away in tin cans. So was her son Joseph, who with his five children lived on the profitable old Kunhart farm. Between them the Kunharts had somewhere between fifteen and thirty thousand dollars cached about the premises. They never knew just how much, because they hadn't counted it for years. But the bandits who heard about the Kunhart hoard weren't fussy as to the exact amount. They dropped around one night, stuck up all hands, hunted out the tin cans and carried the whole business away.

Save for a $10,000 bank deposit which Joseph had, probably unknown to his mother, and save for the farm itself, the Kunharts are cleaned out.

But one pauses to inquire, what earthly difference can it make to the Kunharts now that those tin cans are gone. They made no use of that part of their wealth which was represented by cash. If they hadn't discovered that the thieves had taken the containers, they would have been precisely as happy and as well off today as ever they were. Their hoarded money was no more use to them than the same bulk in coal ashes. It was of no use to anybody. It was not capital in any true sense of the word. It contributed nothing to the well-being, the comfort or the security of the Kunharts; the proof of this being that they are exactly as well fed, clad and housed as they were before the theft and as well able to go on with the conduct of their farm.

The bandits, of course, were evil men. Undoubtedly they will not make very good use of the money. But if they can make any worse use of it than hiding it under barn floors in tin cans they will have to be most ingenious as well as utterly depraved bandits.

INTEMPERANCE.

For a number of days preceding the recent Massachusetts executions references were more or less frequently made to the habit of the murderer Madeiros of stuffing himself so full of food as to produce a definite lethargy or semi-stupor. It would appear that his scheme was successful since for a considerable period previous to the execution he manifested no more interest in what was going on than if he had been drugged and went to his death with the stolidity of a stalled ox.

In other words here was a human being who made himself undeniably drunk on excellent food by the extremely simple device of consuming much more of it than was good for him.

Which automatically raises the question, Should there not be a federal amendment prohibiting the production, sale or keeping for sale of any pork chops, lamb chops, roast beef, hard or soft boiled eggs, potatoes, bread, or any other comestible which it is possible for human beings to take into their systems in such amount as to stupefy, intoxicate or render sufficiently unalert as to make the driving of an automobile unsafe?

There would still be bran muffins for the sustenance and consolation of the race.

A REVOLTING SCHEME.

There was never any serious likelihood that the madcap scheme of carrying the bodies of Sacco and Vanzetti about the country, to be exhibited to sympathizers, would be attempted, let alone being permitted to succeed. It was utterly revolting in its conception, completely antagonistic to this civilization.

If there is to be any useful reaction from the Sacco-Vanzetti case it must come, not through hysterical and aimless tearing of hair and beating of tom-toms, but from a serious, considered determination on the part of the people of the states to review their systems of courts and court procedure, to the end that legalistic rituals be amended in the interest of true justice.

A nation which has arrived at the airplane stage and which sits in as one vast audience to hear its President deliver an address, has outgrown the judicial claptrap of the sixteenth century. Those who still retain doubts as to the guilt of the men now dead can best utilize their indignation by crystallizing a demand for common sense court procedure and the scrapping of legal mumbo-jumbo.

PROOF.

Little Tony Agostino, the seven-year-old boy who survived a trip of a mile or more through a New York sewer, ending in his ejection into the East River, learned at least one thing in school which turned out to be useful.

"I kept my mouth shut, the way they told us to do in school if we ever fell in the water," Tony explained to his father afterward.

Concrete evidences of the benefit of education are not always so easily to be isolated.

AFRAID?

If the gentleman with the monumental name, Chief Mine Inspector Pile of Tennessee, has really accused Cave Explorer Lawrence S. Ashley of faking his recent imprisonment in the oddly titled Nick-A-Jack cavern merely to save his own face when he was afraid to search the cave for Ashley, then Mr. Pile is a mean man. We do not say that such is Mr. Pile's motive, because we don't know anything about it. But since Mr. Ashley appears to be financially interested in the cave as a tourist magnet, and since just about the worst thing that could happen to that cave, from a money making point of view, would be to have the impression go abroad that it was unsafe, we can't for the life of us see why Ashley should have framed up his adventure.

Presumably Inspector Pile holds his job of chief mine inspector partly because he is supposed to have the courage to go into mines that need inspecting. But judging from his course in the Nick-A-Jack cave affair there might easily be folks who would consider him a misfit.

TEST ANSWERS

- Here are answers to the "Now You Ask One" questions on the comics page. 1—The ten best golf players in America are Jones, Von Elm, Sweetser, Gulmet, Gunn, Stein, Held, Gullford and Mackenzie. 2—Major General Charles P. Sumner is chief of staff of the United States army. 3—The average per capita share of money in circulation in the United States is approximately $40.50. 4—Gar Wood is a famous driver of speed boats. 5—George Michel holds the record for swimming the English Channel. 6—A sepoy is a native soldier in India. 7—"Baby beef" is the name given by farmers and butchers to a beef animal fattened and ready for market in from ten to eighteen months. 8—Dark colored soils are usually more fertile, containing more nitrogen and humus. 9—The largest pyramid in Egypt is known as Cheops pyramid. 10—A broker is an agent for actual buying and selling of securities or market commodities. In a bucket shop no sales are made, but bets are placed on current and future prices. Lizzie Shelton, who died recently near Lexington, Ky., probably was the only negro who ever was eligible to membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

New York, Aug. 24.—You're always hearing about "New York hits." As a matter of fact, outside the theaters and phonograph records, there isn't really such a thing as a "New York hit."

Take popular songs, for instance. They're made in Tin Pan Alley, is one of the "altes" by Broadway acts and they're ballyhooed from the "main stem," but the publishers actually are aiming at the tens of thousands of smaller cities elsewhere. The amount of music actually bought in Manhattan wouldn't keep a song act in cough drops, the thriving little New York population can't take time to play a piano. They buy a record or turn on the radio.

Harry Archer, who has written a dozen successful musical shows and a host of "altes" most prolific hit producers, tells me that he writes practically all his numbers for "the rest of the country."

And he knows what "the rest of the country" is likely to be interested in since he has a healthy home population. These are the places that really establish "a hit." That goes for the publishing world and the movies as well. In the film industry the "big Broadway premiere" is a fine gesture aimed at giving a film "importance" elsewhere. Every big producing company has a Broadway theater for its outlet. After presentation on the big street, the usual announcement of "Broadway hit" is passed on. But what the producers are really looking for is "the small town hit." That's where their money comes from, and Broadway is merely a big billboard on which to advertise their wares.

Returning, for a moment, to the intriguing local of Tin Pan Alley—the average impression is that this song capital of America is flooded with young men grinding out verses. True it is that most of the world tries to write a song, but there are not more than a dozen who can repeat the prosperous "big names." Writing a song requires a different technique from any other form of scrivenging and, however hackneyed much of the output may seem, it remains that a comparatively few seem able to turn out repeated commercial successes. James Walker, now mayor of New York, knew the trick and turned out best sellers.

It is interesting to note that young college men are among the leaders of the vanguard. There is, for instance, Florenz Hart, a "find" of a season ago. Walter O'Keefe, one of the stars on the Peist staff, came out of Notre Dame not so long ago, a bit of manuscript tucked in one pocket. Melody writers, on the other hand, are common as speakasles. There are perhaps a hundred of these to every lyricist. GILBERT SWAN.

Though responsive, as a rule, to natural beauty, Napoleon showed a marked preference for violets.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 24.—The Hon. Joseph C. Grew, our new ambassador to Turkey, comes from an aristocratic and wealthy family, but the hard knocks as he clambered up the promotion ladder to his recent post as under-secretary of state.

You sometimes hear of the career service in diplomacy as a sort of graduate school for the hounds, but Grew, graduated from Groton and Harvard, would have found things much after had he headed the family urge to enter business.

Grew contracted the desire for foreign service and foreign climates when his father gave him a year of travel prior to his business days. He went into India, straddled the big sun at Lahore and went up through Kashmir, over the Himalayas and into Balistan. With two friends he sailed on a freak trip in a "fifty little Chinese tub" through the straits of Malacca to Penang.

They penetrated the Malay peninsula, shot game and floated all the way down the Perak River on a bamboo raft, sleeping at night in native huts ashore.

Consul Saved His Life His first contact with the foreign service of his country was the visit of the consul at Bombay while he lay in bed at a hotel knocked out by malaria. Out of his head, Grew hurled books and the consul's bananas and oranges at the official on the latter's first visit. But the consul took charge of him and pulled him through.

After that, Grew wandered through Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, Ceylon, China and Japan. In a Chinese village where there were no white men, he lived in the local temple after killings off the local tiger before the eyes of a grateful populace.

In many out-of-the-way corners, he found the representatives of foreign governments "rendering patriotic, unselfish service." Once back in the United States he began a campaign to break into the foreign service. His father was both angry and sorry about having such an "idiot son."

First Job in Egypt But young Grew maneuvered himself into a clerk's job at the consulate in Cairo, where he received $600 a year making out invoices and superintending the disinfecting of hides under a sweltering hot sun. He had the technical title of deputy consul general so that he might sign papers, but he hadn't "broken in."

The family came in handy when Bellamy Storer, ambassador to Austria-Hungary and a friend of the Grews, asked President Roosevelt to make the young man second secretary to Vienna. But Roosevelt refused. Then an assistant attorney general, a friend of Grew's brother, went to work on Roosevelt. After two or three unsuccessful attempts—Roosevelt pleaded "political pressure"—his official old Roosevelt about Grew's tiger-hunting in China. Roosevelt immediately appointed Grew as third secretary at the embassy in Mexico City.

Grew cites his own experiences as evidence that the service is no bed of roses. Diplomatic Hardships While serving at Cairo he married and had a large consignment of valuable wedding presents shipped to Cairo. The ship went down off the Barbary coast. When the Grews started for Mexico, Mrs. Grew became ill in Italy en route. Grew took her to France and left her to recuperate. As he stopped off in Washington, a kind assistant secretary of state told him to go right back to France and stay with his wife until she recovered. Meanwhile their trunks remained for months on the Vera Cruz docks because the embassy hadn't moved them to Mexico City as requested. When Grew arrived and claimed diplomatic free entry for the baggage, customs officers ripped open and ransacked the trunks and before they got to his residence he had lost half the family silver and all of Mrs. Grew's wardrobe. He sued the Mexican government and paid the costs of the suit.

Six months later, the altitude made Mrs. Grew seriously ill and she was carried out of Mexico on a stretcher, completely paralyzed. Transferred to St. Petersburg, he telegraphed the embassy at Mexico City to forward baggage and a lot of fine old furniture he had collected there. Some of the baggage arrived five months later, but the furniture was never heard of.

It's Rich Man's Game Grew's early troubles make a story which isn't at all isolated. Other members of the foreign service tell even more harrowing tales. Grew happened to be a man of means. Less fortunate members of the service in his case, dependent on their salaries, have been forced out of the service or sorely crippled by similar complications.

Let's Give the Lad a Rest

On Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

his is chapter 110 of the series of articles by Paul Adams, the Herald correspondent, who is revisiting France as a scout for the American Legion convention in September.

CHAPTER CXVI

A "WAGON-LIT" is, strictly speaking, a railroad car. But some are sleeping cars—though there are no berths in France—and some are diners. It was a wagon-lit that Marshal Foch used to lay his armistice papers in front of the German delegates. And it will be a wagon-lit in which the delegates to the American Legion convention will eat on their way from the ports of entry to Paris.

The Tables in a wagon-lit are narrow. The train cars along at a terrific rate of speed. The wagon-lit rocks and jolts. Places are secured in advance for various services and the delegates for the meals are called by a uniformed gentleman with a bell like the one the milkman used to use.

A waitress brings soup. She deals out a round of cups and then ladles up the liquid. And she never spills a drop. She rides the train with the ease of a broncho-buster. The job is quite similar, too. Next comes the plates and the meat. Another waitress takes orders for wine and mineral water. A real dignitary, the official bottle opener, does his work neatly. One wonders how many million of corks he has pulled in his years of service. Another dignitary shaves off some ice cream. Coffee is served. Then a "digestif."

The chief arrives and figures out the bill. He is an austere personage. And there's a standing offer of three Croix des Guerres for any American who can read his figures. The chief's aid comes along and collects the money. There are no disputes. The figures of the chief, unreadable as they are, cannot be questioned.

All the while the train is careening along. The staff works with clock-like precision. It may require a small army of servants to do the work. But the work is done. And the chief saves all the corks to be used again.

The wagon-lit is an amusing but satisfying French institution. On most of these diners waitresses do the serving. But, on some lines, the task is entrusted to waiters. Should any Legionaire happen to travel over a route that uses waiters he has a laugh in store. For these boys wear a combination collar, tie and shirtbosom all made out of one piece of white rubber. It gets all askew after a few servings. But it remains all in its one, original piece.

And that's your wagon-lit—the same kind of a car that Marshal Foch chose as the setting for his armistice.

WESTERN FILM COMING WITH FURNITURE NIGHT

"Last Outlaw" Showing Tomorrow Night—Muhall Feature Today For Last Time.

Furniture of all kinds will be distributed at the State theater tomorrow evening in the fourth of the popular Furniture Night to be held. On the screen will be seen Gary Cooper in a real western, "The Last Outlaw."

The story treats of the vanishing two-gun man who ruled the west with an iron hand in the days when the pioneers had to contend with all kinds of hardships. Cooper portrays a type of outlaw who was at odds with the forces of law and order, whose only defense against society was a well-oiled pistol with a hair-trigger.

This last outlaw was a bad man of the first water. He had notches on his gun, aces up his sleeve and a knife had a place in his belt. He was a hard-riding, straight-shooting daredevil, who cared nothing for the whine of bullets going past his head, nor for the posess who chased him through the deserts. He put his trust in his six-shooter and his trust was well founded.

But a woman entered his life and the atmosphere changed. The change, while gradual, was abrupt and brought the outlaw back into the fold. A woman had succeeded where the fear of God had had no effect.

Tonight for the last time will see Jack Mulhall in "Smile, Brother, Smile," with Dorothy Mackall. Mulhall is in a new role in this film, that of a traveling salesman who is stricken periodically with the salesman's blues. He has an attack of this dread disease just when the firm is out after the biggest order of the year.

He is downhearted and ready to give up the ship when the little girl steps in. Her telephone is put to work and in the end of it all the salesman gets the order and the girl as well.

The life of a traveling-salesman with all its ups and downs is shown to perfection in this picture. Mulhall is the goop at first but blossoms into a high-pressure salesman, one who makes sales through the sheer force of his personality and bubbling good spirits.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are twenty-five names on the list. Seven were Connecticut operators convicted in other states. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

BOYS STRAL AUTO

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 24.—Three Stamford youths ran a foot race with the Marlborough, N. Y., policeman today and two of them lost while the third outran the policeman and is being sought here. Mark and Albert Vetti and Samuel Telesco, ranging in age from fifteen to nineteen years, picked up a parked automobile from a street here and drove it to Marlborough where a policeman became suspicious and held them up. The three fled from in front of the police station, leaving the car. The policeman chased and caught Mark and Samuel, while Albert was last seen headed for White Plains. Local police had word of the recovery of the car when its owner appeared to make complaint of its disappearance.

YEAR OF UNDERDOG WATCH MR. DEMPSEY

So Says Powers After Recalling Three Fistic Upsets Already This Year.

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York, Aug. 23.—This is the year of the underdog.

Delaney, clever, speedy and a master boxer, was a hot favorite to beat the clumsy Boston fishmonger. He lost.

Maloney, fresh from this impressive triumph, was a hot favorite to beat Sharkey, who was almost knocked over by McGuffee's left.

Sharkey, improving rapidly, went into battle with youth and stamina on his side against the aging and ring rusty Dempsey. He lost.

Will the same hold true in the season's red-letter windup, Tunney versus Dempsey? Consider what a difference a year and a day will make.

WANTA PASS?

"This Guy Paolino Can't Fight." Well, Can Mr. Crowley Referee?

By JOE WILLIAMS

New York, Aug. 24.—Mr. James Crowley, the referee in his report to the Boxing Commission the other day said:

"Paolino is just a strong fellow, trying to get along, but he doesn't know a thing about refereeing. The commissioner, incidentally, would seem to have written flimsy to Crowley's career as a referee in important fights.

By ignoring Crowley's official size-up of the recent Paolino-Delany cross-punch puzzle, which the referee stopped on the ground that the Basque had fouled the French-Canuck, the commission virtually says:

"You don't know what you are talking about. There was no foul. If the commissioner by his action infers lack of faith in Crowley's ability to run a fight it isn't likely that the public, already in a daze from a series of bewildering decisions, will look with favor on him any more.

Now that the commission decided, by inference at least, that there was no foul, who won the fight and what is the present status of Messrs. Paolino and Danerese?

Also, what about Gus H. Public, who laid $16.50 on the line to see a fifteen round bout that was stopped, quite unnecessarily, as the commission now rules, in the seventh round?

Will the commission's next step be in the nature of a demand that the good Mr. Rickard make a refund to the customers, returning to them slightly more than half of what they paid to get in?

Rest Will Probably Settle Town Championship; Green Game Tomorrow.

Rain postponed last night's scheduled baseball game between Cheney Brothers and Manchester Green. The contest will be played tomorrow night instead.

The reason for postponing the Bon Ami game from Thursday until Sunday is because Manager Rand finds that he will be unable to put his best team on the field Thursday.

In the tennis matches Eleanor Runde and Catherine Giblin will meet in the singles. The doubles teams have not been selected as yet.

Men will compete in the events which will be held after supper. These events will be the fat men's race, for men weighing over 200 pounds, the 100-yard dash, mile run, 880 yard run, mile relay, horsehoe pitching and volley ball match.

Manchester Green has played the Bon Ami and Cheney Brothers one game each. On every occasion it was defeated. Cheney won 3-1; Bon Ami 6-2. Each of these con-

GOING GREAT

Owen Carroll

How Owen Carroll at last arrived as a major league hurler? His work in recent Detroit victories seems to indicate that the former Holy Cross star, who was a sensation in his college days, has finally made the grade.

Next to the horses and the ball games, more money is bet on fights than on any other sport in America. If bets could be automatically cancelled following unsatisfactory action in the game would be in a healthier state and the commission would come in for less grief.

The records show that Delaney won the fight on a foul. They also show the greatest negro fighter of all time, clashed in the ring at San Francisco, Calif., in a hectic struggle that resulted in victory for the Australian champion when he knocked Godfrey out in the nineteenth round of a scheduled 25 round affair.

A year previous to this, John L. Sullivan consented to fight Godfrey but the latter's friends persuaded him to call the match off, while Jackson who chased the champion around the world in an effort to gain a titular match, was repulsed by Sullivan who declared he would never fight a negro for the title.

Local Sport Chatter

A meeting of the Manchester District soccer league will be held at the School Street Rec tonight at 7:30 for the purpose of attempting to enlarge the team from four teams to six.

With the exception of one or two instances, it appears that the players entered in the men's town tennis tournament have been playing unusually well.

It is reported that Nick Angell, former manager of the Cubs football eleven will tryout for a berth on the North Ends, a junior eleven this season.

The Cubs were expected to organize last week but rain postponed their efforts. It is expected that news will be forthcoming shortly as to another date.

It pays to keep in good physical condition. Take Lefty St. John for example. Lefty used to weigh 192 and now he tips the scales at 170.

Tommy Conran's bowling alleys at the North End will no doubt be heavily patronized tomorrow night. Conran has offered the Cloverleaf the net receipts for the evening's business in order that they may get a good financial start toward the coming grid season.

There will be three tennis matches in the girls' tournament tomorrow night. Aileen McFalls and Erika Clark will meet on Court No. 1 at the High School from 6 to 7; Mary McVeigh and Leo Giglio will clash on Court No. 2 at the Nathan Hale and Alice Nelson and Katherine Giblin will meet on Court No. 1 at the Nathan Hale Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

CLEVER JOAN

Joan Fry

Attractive smile has this Miss Joan Fry, and she is quite a wicked racket wiper. She's one of the British stars now playing in tournaments in America, and she's a tough one to beat every time she steps on a court.

THEY ARE OFF ON THE FIRST ROUND OF GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

After A Playoff, Sixteen Matches Have Been Arranged For Today—Highlights of Yesterday's Play.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Minikahda Club, Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 24.—OR they go on the great adventure.

The first round of the National Amateur Golf Championship was to be held on Minikahda course this morning and great was to be the excitement thereof. After a play-off in which seven out of eleven contestants were to qualify, the following matches were scheduled for today:

George Von Elm, champion, vs. John McKinlay, Jr., Sioux City, Ia. Rudy Knepper, Sioux City, Ia. Harry Legg, Minneapolis.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D. C. vs. George Thomas, Chicago. Howard Walker, Chicago, vs. David Martin, Los Angeles.

Chick Evans, Chicago, vs. Ellisworth Augustus, Cleveland. D. Ward, Chicago, vs. Allen Moser, Los Angeles.

Eddie Held, St. Louis, vs. Dexter Cummings, Chicago. Paul Hayland, Bridgeport, vs. Arthur Yates, Rochester.

Francis Oulmet, Boston, vs. Billy Sixty, Milwaukee. Denmore Shute, Huntington, W. Va. vs. Max Marston, Philadelphia.

Clark, Cortran, Philadelphia, vs. George V. Rotan, Houston, Texas. Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, vs. Phillip Finlay, Shinnecock Hills.

Harrison Johnston, Minneapolis, vs. Dick Jones, New York. Don Carrick, Toronto, vs. Arthur Sweet, Chicago.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta, vs. Maurice McCarthy, Brooklyn. Eugene V. Homans, Englewood, N. J. vs. Frank Dolp, Portland, Oregon.

That was the layout this morning. That was the coupling of the last final and ultimate survivors, the men who outstayed the original field of 174 and the men who must now contend for the match play from the present on to the future.

There were plenty of interesting matches on the first eighteen holes of the two round schedule of match play. In the early schedule, the writer would pick, if he had the time, which he hasn't, the following meetings by preference:

That meeting between Evans, still a great golfer, and Augustus, a great competitor; Rudy Knepper and Harry Legg, a pair of good scorers under customary conditions; the clash between Cummings and Held, a pair of gamecocks and the equally interesting fight between Hayland and Yates, to say nothing of the Certran-Rotan match.

Consider also the coupling of Johnston and Dick Jones, the clash of Willing, the veteran, and Finlay, the cub, the Hayland and adventure to Cortran and Rotan, low scorers both; and the possibility, that and nothing more, that Maurice McCarthy, of old Flatbush, might so simple enough to outshoot Bobby the only and original Jones.

There was drama, anyhow, awaiting even the most casual observer in almost any match in the first round.

It was a great series of matches that was on for the first round today and almost any of them would do. Offhand the meetings between Evans and Augustus, Knepper and Legg, Held and Cummings, Shute and Marston, Cortran and Rotan, Johnston and Dick Jones, Bobby Jones and McCarthy, Homans and Dolp would fill the Polo Grounds on a rainy Thursday. They will do here today is only a matter of conjecture but very likely before the day is over there will be a gallery of five thousand if there is one, and that one happens to be the chief marshal of the gallery, if any.

In brief this was to be a first round of first rounds in a national championship. Seldom, if ever and at all have they managed or contrived to bring together fighting golfers of the type of that must meet on the links this morning.

Considering the type of opposition it even was possible that Emperor Jones himself in person might pass out in the first round—possible, but not probable; still he had to beat a golfer, a real golfer, and that was true of nearly every match that was scheduled for the round.

The good ones had to be good; if they weren't they would quit before good hurriedly and without further notice.

STILL HAVE SLAVES London.—The buying and selling of slaves still is practiced in Abyssinia. Hundreds of human beings are put on the block each week in Addisaba. To obtain more slaves, government troops raid and devastate the country of neighboring tribes.

FOR FLOOD RELIEF Paris.—The smallest donation for food relief has been sent to America. A schoolboy in Rheims saved his sons until he had two francs (about 5 cents), then sent them to Herbert Hoover.

BIG LEAGUE OWNERS NEED 'MINORS' TOO

Evans Says Plan Worked Out By St. Louis Cards Is Most Beneficial.

By BILLY EVANS

The scarcity of major league ball players is certain shortly to cause drastic action on the part of the magnate to remedy the situation.

To my way of thinking there is only one answer to the solution, the owning of the big leaguers of minor league clubs of various classifications where material can be developed step by step.

The St. Louis club of the National League is the first club to put this theory into practice. Branch League, a smart baseball man, who has been connected with the game in practically every capacity, has successfully worked out the problem for the Cardinals.

At the present time the St. Louis system is composed of the Cardinals as the parent club, with Syracuse in the International League, Houston in the Texas League, Danville in the Three-Base League and Topka in the Western Association.

The great value of the system was proved beyond a doubt this spring when Tommy Thewissen, star shortstop of the world champions, broke his leg. A hurried call was sent out for help. The Danville club was first to respond with Heinie Schube, who was a Texas sandlotter this time last year.

He fitted into the scheme nicely and, considering his limited experience, has played remarkably well. More than 100 ball players are owned directly and indirectly by the Cardinals through this system of parent club and sub-stations.

A majority of these players are major league prospects, signed up in the hope that proper schooling in the minors under competent managers will develop them all the more rapidly.

Owning these minor league plants enables the Cardinals to hold a big advantage over the other major league clubs. It makes it possible for them to beat the rule that after a player is farmed out for two years he either must be retained or sold.

That the St. Louis club has some excellent prospects in the making is made apparent by the fact that three of the St. Louis farms, Danville, Houston and Syracuse are battling for the pennant in their respective organizations.

Take the case of Syracuse as an example. There is Jim Bottomley, one of the greatest of first basemen. Grabbed from the semi-pro circles, he was first sent to Houston for a year, then graduated to Syracuse for a season, making him a full-fledged candidate for the majors. Tommy Thewissen, the brilliant shortstop, prepared for two years at Syracuse as did George Toporcer, clever utility man and Third Baseman "Les" Bell.

That other major league clubs are seeing the benefit of the St. Louis system is shown by the purchase of one club as a farm by a number of the magnates. However, the St. Louis Cardinals is the only one that has the progressive system, which eventually will be the unanimous answer to the scarcity of major league players that are coming up each season.

ONE LEAGUE GAME PLAYED YESTERDAY

By LEN CONKLIN

New York, Aug. 23.—The Chicago Cubs, held even by Brooklyn and badly battered by Boston, are due for a welcome change of diet today when they face the last-place Phillies.

The Pirates, however, face tough opposition in Boston, as there is bitter feeling between the two teams because of the Smith-Bancroft feud.

In the only game played yesterday, the St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within half a game of the Cubs by sweeping the Phillies, 13 to 3. The game was a home run orgy.

Four St. Louis players, Blades, Haffey, Schube and Sherdell, hit for the circuit. The Cards have won six out of seven on their eastern trip.

The Detroit Tigers, with just a Chinaman's chance of nosing out the Yankees, began a series with the league leaders today. Detroit has won thirteen straight and the Yankees have dropped four in a row, their longest losing streak of the season.

The longest string of victories is the longest of the current season in the American League.

By winning eighteen of the remaining thirty-seven games, the Yankees can reach 100 victories this season.

The Yankees are going in for pitchers in a big way. They have signed Ralph Birkofer, 18-year-old Cincinnati amateur who weighs 220 pounds.

LA BARBA WINS Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 24.—Fidel La Barba, world's flyweight champion last night wiped out two defeats at the hands of Johnny Vacca by giving the Boston organ-grinder a good shelling in their ten round bout here. The bout was at catchweights.

The battle was La Barba's final appearance in the ring. He retired undefeated, so far as the flyweight limit is concerned. In six weeks he enters Stanford university.

ALTERNATE

Johnny Doeg

Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica has been named an alternate for the United States Davis cup team, and may yet take part in the matches—should anything happen to the members of the chosen team. Doeg's play in eastern meets this season has bordered on the sensational.

TODAY IN FISTIANA

By DOO REID

August 24th, 1888. JACKSON VS. GODFREY.

Thirty-nine years ago today, Peter Jackson of Australia and Godfrey, American negro, both among the greatest negro fighters of all time, clashed in the ring at San Francisco, Calif., in a hectic struggle that resulted in victory for the Australian champion when he knocked Godfrey out in the nineteenth round of a scheduled 25 round affair.

A year previous to this, John L. Sullivan consented to fight Godfrey but the latter's friends persuaded him to call the match off, while Jackson who chased the champion around the world in an effort to gain a titular match, was repulsed by Sullivan who declared he would never fight a negro for the title.

tests mark the first of a three game series. Joe Prentiss and Jack Hayden will compose Manchester Green's battery for tomorrow night and it is understood that the team will be strengthened.

Arthur St. John, hard hitting outfielder, will meet on Court No. 1 at the Nathan Hale Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

"Mac" Macdonald and Bill Brennan will meet in a men's tournament match at High School Court No. 1.

Yank Pitchers Setting Hot Pace; Waite Hoyt Having Best Season

New York, Aug. 24.—Because of the heavy batting of the New York Yankees this season, the work of the pitching staff has been overlooked. When the Yanks win a game by 12 to 1 or some such topheavy score, newspaper readers fail to notice the number of hits allowed by the New York pitcher. Instead they remark, "Well, I see that bunch of murderers went off on a tear again."

This oversight will be remedied next fall, however, when several of the pitchers will line up in mass formation with Buster Gehrig and the other sluggers for an assault on Colonel Jake Ruppert's checkbook. And prominent among the pitchers in the pay line will be Waite Hoyt, the team's crack right-hander.

Hoyt's Best Season Hoyt, a twelve year veteran at 27 is having his best season and is ranked by many as the best pitcher in the league. He had an earned-run average of less than three runs to a game, and the earned-run average is the basis of all arguments between pitchers and club owners concerning a "raise."

Hoyt's increased effectiveness on the mound this year is due to the fact that he wears a hat band of smaller size. Given a trial in the majors at the tender age of fifteen, and widely advertised as a champion schoolboy no-hit pitcher, it was but natural that the youth suffered a severe swelling in the region of the cranium.

The youth was conscious of his talents and took no pains to hide them. He became temperamental and would throw his cap to the ground or heave the ball into the grandstand when particularly peeved.

SOLE IN ONE

Lincoln, Neb.—H. C. Koch, golfer, made a hole-in-one, but not the usual kind. Teeing off on a 213-yard hole, he drove his ball into the right trousers pocket of D. F. McCauley, who was crossing the fairway.

HE IS NOW

"My wife has eloped with my best friend." "Who is he?" "I don't know; I never met him."—Judge.

ONCE AND FOR ALL

"Br-r-r! It's chilly in here. Has the stove gone out?" "Yes, it has." "Well, why don't you light it?" "Emp can't. It went out with the installment collector."—Judge.

Prices

Used Cars probably never will be lower than they are today. Dealers throughout the city have cut their stocks to bedrock. The brisk sales of new 1928 models have brought a great influx of late model "trade-ins." Rather than put them into storage dealers have priced them for immediate clearance. Select the car suited to your purse and plan from the many offered under Classification 4.

LINDBERGH PROMISES WELCOME TO LEGION AT PARIS CONVENTION

Indianapolis, Ind.—"They'll be glad to see you" is the message of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, lone New York to Paris flyer, to American Legionnaires who will attend the Paris convention this fall. Colonel Lindbergh's message, published today in the American Legion Weekly, says:

"Of the two million men in the A. E. F., only a comparative handful ever saw Paris. Until the end of last May I had never seen Paris myself. But I can testify to the heartiness of a Parisian greeting, and I know, from what I saw and heard in Paris that those American World War veterans who go to Paris for the American Legion's convention will receive a tumultuous welcome.

"It will be something like the greeting accorded the first contingent of the A. E. F. as it marched through the street of Paris just ten years ago last Fourth of July—that handful of men which was so impressive a pledge of the divisions to come. It will be something like that but a thousand times noisier, for the load that weighed down peoples' hearts and partly silenced their tongues has long been lifted. There was good will toward America then, and there is good will now, and the Paris convention of the Legion should go far to help make that spirit a permanent one between America and France between America and all of Europe."

The first year's salary of an early Michigan circuit rider consisted of hay, oats, stocks, mittens and cash to the extent of $118.

TOURISTS DISGUSTED WITH BRITISH RAIN

Southampton.—Declaring that they would sooner be in the midst of a heat wave in New York than in the drizzling rain of the so-called English "summer," many American tourists are cutting short their visits to England and leaving for the Continent or home.

Shipping and tourists agencies report that the phenomenally wet English summer has had the effect of seriously affecting the tourist traffic to Britain this year.

Liners sailing for New York have had more than their usual load of passengers for this time of the year, it is stated.

HOLD THREE SUSPECTS

Portland, Me., Aug. 24.—Local federal officials were notified today that George C. McDonald, 26, Frank McMullen, 30, and Miss Julia Frances Allen, 22, Oklahoma City actress, were being held at Denver, Colorado.

The trio, officials said, were wanted here for obtaining Navy pay checks.

It was also learned that they will be questioned by Canadian police in connection with the slaying of Adelaar Bouchard, whose body was found on the Montreal-Malone road on July 19 with a bullet wound in his head.

HELD FOR BURGLARY.

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 24.—Louis Kondrak, 22, of Export, Pa., was arrested here today on a charge of burglary, police saying he admitted breaking into the Stamford Oil Company's office and rifling the cash register.

LET'S SMILE. A smile is quite a funny thing. It wrinkles up your face, And when it's gone you never find It's secret hiding place.

But far more wonderful it is To see what smiles can do; You smile at one, he smiles at you, And so one smile makes two. He smiles at someone since you smiled.

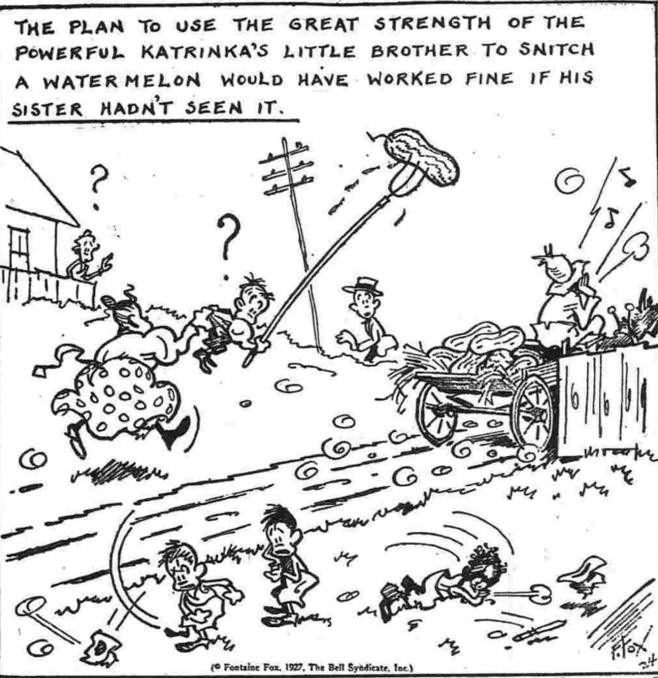

And then that one smiles back; And that one smiles until, in truth, You fall in keeping track. Now, since a smile can do great good, By cheering hearts of care, Let's smile and smile and not forget. That smiles go everywhere.

DENTAL PRACTITIONER FOR CHENEY EMPLOYEES

Dr. G. A. Freheit Added To Health Staff at Big Mills; Has Special Status.

Dr. Albert A. Freheit of Shelton, a graduate dentist, has been added to the Medical Department Staff at Cheney Brothers, it was announced today by Dr. Robert P. Knapp, head of the department. He began practice this morning.

Dr. Freheit's practice will not be to do the medical and hygienic service offered by Cheney Brothers' Medical Department. He will serve only mill employees and will use the dental equipment which is part of the concern's welfare plant, but will receive his pay from the patients at standard rates instead of from the firm as the physicians do.

In making the announcement Dr. Knapp said the dental department would still continue to be under the general supervision of Dr. Edward G. Dolan. Dr. Knapp said that Miss Florence Macoun, the regular dental hygienist, would continue to do her work as heretofore but will also assist Dr. Freheit, both being in the same office.

Dr. Freheit received his pre-medical training at Tufts Pre-Medical school in Boston and last June was graduated cum laude from Tufts Dental school in the same city. At college Dr. Freheit became a member of Psi Omega fraternity. He also served on the executive committee of the Robert R. Anderson society for the Promotion of Dental Research and was a member of the George A. Bates Chapter of Stomatological society.

Dr. Freheit has one of twelve Connecticut applicants out of 40, to pass the last state board examination.

Dr. Freheit, who is a bachelor, is living at 87 Church street.

INJURY, ARREST IN INTER-TOWN CRASH

Local Man's Auto Hits Hartford Woman; Trolley Door Knocked Off.

A Manchester trolley car, a Hartford automobile, a Manchester automobile and an East Hartford woman were involved in an accident Friday night at 9 o'clock last night. The trolley car was damaged, the woman hurt and the driver of the Manchester automobile arrested.

The trolley car, eastbound, was in charge of Motorman Thomas Murray of Hartford and Conductor Harold Birge of Knox street, this town. It had stopped at Station 21 to discharge a passenger, Mrs. Nell Labreck, an elderly woman who lives at 195 Burnside avenue, East Hartford.

Passed Standing Car
As Mrs. Labreck alighted, Runde's car, which had been following the street car, struck her and knocked her down. Just after she was picked up from the road, a car driven by Miss Marion Elme of Maple avenue, Hartford, came up, slammed into the trolley car, and tore the door off it.

Mrs. Labreck was hurt badly enough to require the attention of a doctor. Runde was arrested by East Hartford police and notified to appear in court on Thursday morning to answer a charge of passing a standing trolley car, this town. Runde was learning to drive, was allowed to go. She was without a license but was accompanied by Clifford Anderson of Church street, Hartford, a licensed driver.

OPEN FORUM

DR. SWEET EXPLAINS ROAD CONDITIONS

Answers Open Forum Letter Which Charged That He Was To Blame For Poor Highways.

Editor The Herald:
It is obligatory upon me for the good of the Eighth School and Utilities District that I reply to Open Forum of Aug. 23, 1927.

If Mr. North End Taxpayer had asked for information from any member of the Board of Directors of the Eighth School and Utilities District he could have received the same information I am going to give here and perhaps he would feel better toward the district and Dr. Sweet who does not "boss" the sewer job but works under directions from the Board of Directors at a salary that the North End Taxpayer would be ashamed to accept and call it pay. If Mr. North End Taxpayer is one of those who will have to pay an assessment on some of the sewer work done on the streets, I will inform him that Dr. Sweet is and has worked for his interest at all times trying for his assessment to be as low as possible. Dr. Sweet as president has supervised in the last two years a fifty-thousand dollar sewer construction and all the other work of the District at the exorbitant salary of $300 per year. Perhaps Mr. North End Taxpayer would like to give a little of his time at the same price and receive some of the rebuke which goes with a free job.

Now for the information North End Taxpayer is ignorant of. The sewer of the Eighth School and Utilities District reads "put the roads in as good condition as found," not "in good condition." If the street were not in good condition before the sewer work was done we have to place them in as good a condition as found.

North End Taxpayer mentioned three streets namely, Woodland, Hilliard and North Elm. The sewers on Woodland and Hilliard streets were constructed under contract by N. C. Casciano & Co. for the District and he, not the district was liable for the repair. He contracted with the Town of Manchester, through the Selectmen and not with the District. Mr. Waddell, the Town Engineer, has the records with others and they have rendered him a bill of $586 for the work and the District is now paying them that money out of his final payment. In both these streets it is up to the Town and not Mr. Casciano who is the contractor.

The North Elm street sewer was constructed by the District under the supervision of its president at the same salary for all work.

When this sewer was first contemplated a majority of the property owners in favor of a sewer at that time, but the Town of Manchester by one or more of its highway committee said that the Town was to improve North Elm street by regrading and placing trolley tracks on the street. The property owners that if they would agree to the sewer work being done, it would be best before the road was fixed. Thereupon the property owners consented and we did the work as soon as possible. The day after the work was completed, as president, interviewed Mr. George Waddell and Engineer Bowen notifying them that the pipe had all been laid, saying that the District wished to co-operate in as far as they were interested in the matter. They agreed to look up the matter and let me know what was to be done there. I have not heard yet. Some two or three weeks ago I received a communication, in behalf of the District, inquiring when we would be ready to start work. I immediately saw Mr. Bowen and he told me Mr. Treat was the instigator of the letter. I went to Mr. Treat and put the subject up to him in this form.

As president of the District, looking out for the interests of the property owners and taxpayers, I believed that the Town and District should work together and not do the job twice and pay for two jobs. Offering to see that the amount of the District's bill was paid, the District, or the people who will have to pay the assessments, would be paid into the Town to help rebuild the street. Mr. Treat believed as I did that we should co-operate and promised to look into the matter and we are to have another conference.

Now if Mr. North End Taxpayer thinks the sewer work or any other of the District's business is not being done in the interest of the taxpayer, or if he thinks the pay received by the president is so large that it needs a higher priced person to fill the position, I will invite him to give a week of his time and from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, sometimes, be with me and see how much time it takes to perform those duties for the large salary received and if at the expiration of that week he wishes to criticize the office of the District, I will gladly relinquish my position in his favor, giving him a chance to show his superior knowledge, providing he will do it at the same salary.

MANY PLANNING TO SEE COMPOUNCE SPORT TESTS

Novice Shotgun Team Will Take Part in State Outing of Game Clubs.

A novice shotgun team and about 50 members of local fish and game clubs are expected to attend the second annual outing of the Connecticut Fish and Game club under the auspices of the State Board of Fisheries and Game at Lake Compounce on Saturday. There are several members of the Manchester Fish and Game club who have never competed in shooting events and are eligible in the novice class.

On the program will be bait casting, shotgun events, competition among bird and coon dogs, trap-shooting, rifle events, pistol shooting, archery, horseshoe pitching, canoe-racing, rowboat-racing and various other sports. Competition is open to everybody and entries are not confined to members of fish and game clubs.

Entry blanks may be obtained at Barrett and Robbins store. They must be filled in and returned by tomorrow at the latest.

FALLS OFF MOTORCYCLE FRACTURES HIS SHOULDER

Fate has blocked the plans of two Manchester young men who planned to attend school together this fall. They are Howell Wright of 8 Woodland street and Frederick McCarthy of 16 Pine Hill street, both of the north end.

The two young men are members of the Cloverleaves football club, holders of the town championship, which has a record of no defeats in three years. They wished to gain further education in New York but did not want to quit the Cloverleaves. So they decided to buy motorcycles and come home week ends to play.

This was done last week Monday night while riding through East Hartford, Wright was thrown from his machine and suffered a fracture of the shoulder which will keep him inactive for six or seven weeks. His motorcycle was involved in a collision with a truck operated by Frank Coburn of this town.

MCLAUGHLIN-CAMPBELL

Miss Irene Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Campbell of 29 Eldridge street and William McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McLaughlin were married this morning in St. James' church by Rev. William P. Reidy. Following the ceremony they left on a trip to New York.

They were attended by Miss Helen Campbell and Frederick McCarthy. The bride wore a white tulle ensemble suit and carried a bridal bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses. Her bridesmaid was attired in navy crepe de chine and her bouquet was of American beauty roses. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride and was attended by immediate relatives and friends.

The bride is employed in the tabulating department of Cheney Brothers and the bridegroom is connected with C. E. Wilson and company, nurserymen.

NOVICES TO HAVE RACE IN EVENTS AT "HOLLOW"

Event Arranged For Swimmers Who Have Never Participated Before.

Novices, people who have never been "placed" in a swimming contest of any kind, are invited to participate in the aquatic meet at Globe Hollow on Saturday afternoon. A novice race has been set aside in each class and a special prize will be given the winner of these races. They are being arranged with the idea of giving swimmers who have never competed before a chance to win a prize.

Girls will be placed in one group at the meet this year, that between the ages of 12 and 16 years. In this class there will be a 25-yard novice, 25-yard freestyle and 50-yard freestyle. A number of girls are planning to enter the races in this class.

There will be several classes for the boys' events, divided according to age. Most of the classes will have a 50-yard dash, which will be among the best races of the day. Howard Stepp, former intercollegiate champion diver, Joseph Morris of Hartford, state A. A. U. champion of last year, and Frank Sobral, Y. M. C. A. champion in a number of events, will be present and will exhibit fancy diving during the meet. James Dowd, Frank Busch and Fred Sobolew, members of the local Red Cross Lifesaving corps, will demonstrate lifesaving methods.

BRONZE BUTTONS FOR PLAYGROUND ATHLETES

Tests For Boys Of Younger Classes In Running and Jumping—The Events.

So much interest is being aroused by the Senior Athletic Badge tests conducted by the Manchester Community club that he has arranged a similar test for the boys in the younger classes.

A bronze label button will be awarded to any boy who qualifies in the following events: 100 yard dash, Running broad jump, running high jump, bar jumping.

The competitors scores must average as follows:
Boys 12 to 15, 50 points.
Boys 15 to 18, 60 points.
Over 18, 70 points.

To obtain average score: Score points earned in each above named event; obtain total points scored and divide by four. How to score points are shown on the back of each application. Applications may be obtained at the Manchester Community club or on the North End Playground. Applications must be filled out and in the director's hands before tests will be given. Applications may also be obtained at the south office of The Herald.

As in the Senior Tests it will not be necessary to join the A. A. U., although tests are run under A. A. U. sanctioned rules. Competitors must wear ordinary clothing and rubber-soled shoes in the above Junior tests. Track suits and spiked shoes are barred.

NEW AUTO TRUCK STAGE FOR JITNEY PLAYERS

Fords Discarded in Favor of Equipment Presented To Them By Manufacturer.

The Jitney Players will appear at Educational Square Friday evening at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time with their automobile stage which is one of the most interesting developments of recent seasons in the American theater. They have one three-act play and three one-act plays in their repertoire and will present one of these bills in the manner which has won commendation everywhere. There is always universal interest when the Jitney Players arrive in town aboard their automobile stage, which was designed and especially constructed by Bushnell Cheney, Yale '21, of the Cheney silk family.

Formerly two Ford trucks and two Ford touring cars made up the caravan which carried the actors. This season their fifth annual summer, they are proud possessors of new stage truck given them by the Auto-car company of Philadelphia. In this main truck, which is the stage when it is unfolded and set up, are all the curtains for the stage, the tents which serve for dressing rooms and for sleeping quarters, five hundred feet of canvas fence which surrounds the audience during the performance, all the electrical equipment, and a variety of miscellaneous articles. The smaller truck carries the personal baggage of the troupe, the army coats, blanket rolls and the Delco engine which generates the power for the lights.

As soon as The Jitney Players arrive at the town where they are showing, the stage manager selects a suitable site for the locating of the stage truck and the work of setting up begins. Everything is removed from the big truck and the unfolding process which is to end in a complete stage gets under way. The side of the truck has a pair of stairs on the inside, which unfold into position and make a convenient means for entrances and exits by way of the audience. A lower platform is also provided so that as many as three levels may be in use at one time.

After the truck has been unloaded and the stage floor firmly fixed, the stage crew put up the various pipes which support the canvas and side curtains. At the back, which is really the front of the Ford, is the big blue cyclorama or back drop. And while this more or less strenuous work goes on with the stage itself, the rest of the company pitch their tents at either side of the stage, and get all into readiness for the show.

On occasions all this work has been done in 35 minutes but the running time is something over an hour for ordinary occasions. The complete wiring of the stage has to be done together with many other special tasks and only the most complete and far reaching systems are used. The Jitney Players the successful and competent organization that they are.

Half an hour before the performance, the business manager takes his place at the section of the box office, the performers in the first play go to their tents to start preparations, and the stage crew attend to the final details of production, which differ with the particular play on the bill.

THIRTY BOYS COMPETE IN AIRPLANE CONTEST

"Spirit of St. Louis" in Miniature Among Works To Be Shown Tomorrow.

The Spirit of St. Louis and other planes, in miniature, will be on exhibition at the West Side playgrounds tomorrow afternoon in the model airplane contest which is being conducted there. About 30 boys will enter the contest, with planes of every description.

According to the rules of the contest, the planes do not have to be working models. Some may be able to fly but this is not essential. Points will be given on workmanship, originality and general excellence.

Prizes are offered for the best small plane, the best large plane and the best plane in the whole competition. Competent judges will be in attendance and all entries are assured of a fair trial. The best three planes will be on exhibition in the window of a downtown store.
