UNIFORM LAW BILL BLOCKED BY SENATORS

Bar Association Accuses Walsh, of Montana, and Graham, of Pennsylvania; The Report.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A sensation was created in the final meeting of the American Bar Association today by a committee report urging an appeal to the country against "the deadly influence of powerful senators," who block favored legislation in committee rooms.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, second ranking Democratic member of the Senate Judiciary committee and Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Judiciary committee, were named in the report for persistent opposition to a bill which would authorize the Supreme Court to prescribe uniform rules and forms for proceedings in law for the Federal District Courts throughout the country.

The report, submitted by the committee on uniform judicial procedure, declares that although Senators and more than eighty per cent of the House membership have pledged support of the bill, Walsh and Graham have kept it in committee during the last two sessions of Congress.

Personal Legislation.
"There ought to be some way of the personal legislative influence of a character that can defeat a majority of the public will, and the administration of justice by smothering bills in the Judiciary committee," the report said. "There is no way of preventing this oppressive conduct except through righteous public reprimand."

Veteran members of the Bar Association in the fiftieth annual convention, regard this language as without parallel for directness and vigor in a committee report touching federal legislation.

The report, which the measure is favored by President Coolidge, the majority leaders in both Houses and has been advocated by five attorneys general, as well as by the State Bar Associations of every state in the Union.

Hold Up Report.
Graham, it is charged, declined in the last session to permit even an adverse report from the House committee.

"It has been necessary every year for your committee to go into detail of an argument and citation in answer to Senator Walsh's criticisms."

Thomas W. Shelton, Norfolk, Va., chairman of the committee, submitted the report.

Anticipated efforts in the next Congress to extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission beyond the year of active control established in the White bill will be resisted by the Bar Association.

"We repeat our general criticism that the federal government can function more readily through the established executive departments, than through commissions," said a report from the committee on air law. Existing law provides that powers now vested in the commission shall pass to Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

With Silas H. Strawn of Chicago slated to succeed former Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York as president, the election of officers this afternoon marked the final business of the convention.

LAWYERS START WAR AGAINST THE "EXPERTS"

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The American Bar Association and the American Medical Association have launched a joint war against the growing abuse of "expert testimony" submitted in behalf of insanity pleas in criminal proceedings.

Declaring that the laxity of court rules governing such testimony has resulted in a condition under which a defendant can produce the testimony he desires on a few hours notice, the Bar Association convention appointed a committee to work with a committee of the Medical Association in drafting legislation to be submitted to the various state legislatures.

It is proposed to provide qualified alienists either through the courts or by appointment of local committees of the legal and medical professions.

The Bar Association's committee has been at work on the problem since the Leopold-Loeb trial in Chicago two-years ago, in which the conflict between medical experts aroused international comment.

COURTNEY IS SET FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

Englishman Hops to Plymouth and Fills Oil Tanks; Waits Weather.

Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 2.—Capt. Frank T. Courtney arrived here from the Calshot navy air depot in his Dornier-Napier hydroplane at 5 o'clock this evening.

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 2.—Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British air ace, whose proposed non-stop trans-Atlantic flight has been held up several weeks by bad weather, hopped off at the Calshot Navy Air Depot at 3:35 o'clock this afternoon.

Instead of flying direct to Valentia, Ireland, he refuel as originally planned, it was announced that Courtney would land at Plymouth to take on supplies.

Courtney is using a new model flying boat called "The Whale" capable of holding several passengers.

All Metal Machine
"The Whale" is an all metal Dornier-Napier hydroplane, propelled by two Napier-Lion engines with a maximum speed of 125 miles an hour and an average speed of 100 miles an hour. The plane was designed in Germany and developed at the Dornier works on Lake Constance.

Recently Courtney was delayed because of his inability to get the heavily loaded hydroplane to rise from the water.

May Take Passenger
It was stated that, at Plymouth, Courtney would pick up a Canadian who recently offered 1,500 pounds sterling to be taken as a passenger. His identity has been kept secret.

Courtney was accompanied from the Navy Air Depot by Navigator F. Wm. Downer, Engineer R. P. Little and two German mechanics. The Germans were to be left at Plymouth while petrol and other supplies would be taken aboard, offsetting the loss of their weight.

The plane carries a collapsible rubber boat in the event Courtney is forced down into the ocean.

The route from Plymouth is uncertain. Courtney said he might travel by way of the Azores or over the North Atlantic by way of Newfoundland, this final decision depending upon the weather.

GAME WARDEN KILLED IN THE MAINE WOODS

Stopped Hunters — Accused Say the Rifle Was Discharged Accidentally.

Presque Isle, Maine, Sept. 2.—Lee Parker, a game warden, was shot and instantly killed by Harry Woods and Garfield Gray, and George Hodson, another game warden had a narrow escape early today when they came upon two men and two women in the Westfield Woods with an automobile.

Woods started to get out of the car, carrying a rifle in his hands. The rifle was discharged and Parker dropped. Woods claimed the shooting was accidental. Both Woods and Gray were held pending an investigation. Parker, who was 39 years old, was survived by a wife and four children.

COST OF HIGHWAYS WITHIN ALLOWANCE IN SERVICE YEARS

Past Year's Appropriation Teachers In Connecticut Not All Used—Balance of $3,813.70 Remains.

Manchester's highway department succeeded in keeping within the $70,000 appropriation allotted to it at last year's town meetings. The end of the town's fiscal year finds a balance of $3,813.70 to the credit of the highway appropriation. Last year this item in the budget was overdrawn $352.42.

Kept Expenses Down
Desiring to keep the expenses of road upkeep as low as possible several much needed projects were abandoned by the highway department. However, roads throughout Manchester are generally in good condition. There are some high ways that are badly in need of repair but these will have to hold over until money from next year's appropriation is available. Considering the amount of money that the department was given to expend the Board of Selectmen feels

Hartford, Sept. 2.—Connecticut's school teachers who remain in their profession for any length of time will stay there an average of thirty-eight years. In only two other states in the land do teachers average a longer term of service before they are retired. But Connecticut school teachers who retire get smaller pensions than do the retired teachers of some eleven other states, the average pension being $496.

Such are facts revealed by Miss Dorothy M. Shanley, of Hartford, who is secretary of the State Teachers' retirement board and who has been studying the statistics of her office.

Other States.
Miss Shanley finds that in the District of Columbia school teachers average forty-three years before they are retired from service and receive their pensions. Rhode

Northerners' Campaign Has Collapsed

Shanghai, Sept. 2.—The campaign of the northern troops in the region of Lungtin has collapsed with the loss of 3,500 killed, 5,500 wounded and 1,100 taken prisoner, according to advices received here today.

Converging attacks against the Northerners by three Nationalist armies threw them back and the escape of the main force is believed to be cut off by Cantonese warships. Many Northern soldiers were killed while trying to cross the Yangtze river on improvised rafts. It is considered probable the Northerners will attempt to make a stand at Chuchow while forty thousand Cantonese are menacing Peking.

Pukow has been occupied by the Cantonese.

CALLES RAPS U. S. POLICY IN NICARAGUA

Mexican President Thinly Veils a Challenge to America — Sec. Kellogg Away From Office.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Although couched in the familiar language of diplomacy, President Calles' message to the Mexican Congress was regarded by Washington today as constituting a thinly veiled challenge to American foreign policy in a number of issues.

Despite Secretary of State Kellogg's frequent notes in the law controversy, the American government, Calles stated, has yet to submit to the Mexican government a concrete case where there has been the confiscation alleged to be inherent in the Mexican constitution.

Raps U. S. Policy
Nicaragua, where a virtual American protectorate has been established, came in for a sharp rap from the Mexican president. And defending his own country's Nicaraguan policy Calles said:

"Mexico maintains, in the case of Nicaragua, her principles to allow every country to establish freely the government demanded by the will of the people, and accepts with brotherly spirit all the actions tending to develop among the nations of Central and South America a peaceful and co-operative understanding."

"Mexico has rejected and will always reject the use of aggression for the maintenance of her international relations."

In the absence of Secretary Kellogg, State Department officials declined today to discuss the Calles message.

HEARD SACCO BUNK OF HYDE PARK RED

Judge Arnott Back From Europe, Tells of Rubbish Talked By Radical.

Judge Alexander Arnott, who has just returned from a European tour, today gave The Herald a "sight on scene" version of a foreign Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration by radicals. Manchester's former police court judge was in famous Hyde Park, London, when a woman purporting to be an American addressed a huge gathering of English radicals.

"We Are Slaves."
According to the woman, who was the leader of the demonstration all American working people are slaves of the United States Steel Corporation. The common people of the United States are straining under the burden of taxation and living expenses imposed by this corporation, the woman told the crowd. She pictured laborers in the United States going to work bare-footed because they could not afford shoes. They working men in this country were starved because he couldn't earn enough money to buy the high priced food, this woman declared.

Sacco and Vanzetti attempted to break the shackles that bind the working people of America, said the leader. They planned to overthrow the money masters of the United States and because they were caught making their plans the monarchist police of this country trumped up murder charges against them. Sacco and Vanzetti's desire to save the poor working man sent them to the electric chair, the woman insisted.

And the huge gathering of English radicals, among whom were thousands of people foreign to England, believed what this speaker said about the United States and vowed they would some day save their working brothers in this country.

In Big Storm.
On his return to this country Judge Arnott, experienced two very heavy storms at sea. Few of the passengers ventured from their rooms during the storms since walking on decks was dangerous. Judge Arnott enjoyed the experience but says he was glad when the sea was calm again. These two storms wrecked several ships and were reported by one captain to be the worst he had ever experienced. Judge Arnott's trip took him

HOPE WANES AS PLANE IS TOO LONG OVERDUE

FRENCHMEN FORCED TO GIVE UP FLIGHT Lucky to Get Back to Paris After Three Hours; Plane Too Heavy.

Le Bourget Flying Field, Paris, Sept. 2.—The attempt of Leon Given and Pierre Corbu to cross the Atlantic in the Farman biplane "Bluebird" ended at ten o'clock this morning when the fliers, balked by a heavy fog, landed here three hours and a half after the take-off.

Given and Corbu hopped off in the "Bluebird" shortly before 6:30 o'clock this morning. Two hours later they returned and circled about over the airfield, emptying the gas tank of the huge plane so that a landing might be effected.

Given, the pilot, brought the big plane back to earth at ten o'clock.

The Hop Off
Cheered by hundreds of persons who had gathered at Le Bourget in the early morning hours, Given and Corbu set out in an attempt to succeed where their countrymen, Captains Nungesser and Goll, had failed. The flight was started in the massive Farman Goliath biplane which Maurice Drouhin originally was to pilot to New York. A contract with Charles D. Levine alienated Drouhin from the ranks of aviators hoping to fly across the ocean.

Proposed Route
Given and Corbu had planned to take the southern route to America, passing over the Azores and Bermuda.

The attempt cost $5,000 through the loss of the gasoline Given was forced to throw overboard to make his landing.

Expressing deep regret that he had to give up the attempt, Given explained that bad weather forced him to turn back.

Given said that if the weather permits, the flight will be attempted again tomorrow.

The aviator is reported to have confided to a friend that the flight was abandoned because the plane was so heavy that its tail wobbled, throwing the fliers off their route. The density of the fog prevented Corbu from checking the deviation from the intended route.

"I think we were lucky to find our way back to Le Bourget," Given is reported to have said.

BAD WEATHER STOPS HOP FROM GERMANY

Were to Have Started This Morning—Reported Storms Halt Flight.

Bessan, Germany, Sept. 2.—Plans of Aviators Herman Koehl and Friedrich Loose to hop off for New York this afternoon in a second attempt to span the Atlantic in the Junkers plane, have been abandoned on account of adverse weather. Heavy counter winds have developed while the Hamburg Weather Bureau reported areas of depression over the mid-Atlantic.

The aviators had planned to fly the Junkers plane Bremen, with Baron Huenefeld as a passenger. So sure was Koehl this morning that the light could be attempted this morning that he told International News Service:

"If we get away, and it looks now as though we can, you can rest assured we will not come back this time."

St. Raphael Missing Over 60 Hours—Hope Practically Given Up For Missing Plane and Three Aviators; Had Gasoline For Only 44 Hours—Not Sighted Since Leaving Ireland—Anxiety Gives Way to Despair.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2.—Practically all hope for the safety of England's "Flying Princess" and her two escorting pilots was abandoned this afternoon as the hours dragged by and no word of the missing trans-Atlantic aviators was received.

Anxiety gave way to despair as the morning passed and the long overdue monoplane, St. Raphael, with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel F. F. Mitchell aboard, remained unlocated. In spite of the concentrated efforts of the Canadian government.

At 1:30 this afternoon, daylight saving time, fifty-nine hours have elapsed since the St. Raphael with its gallant crew took to the air at Upavon, England, and vanished into the silent stretches of the Atlantic.

Long Overdue
Captain Hamilton, before he took off, had estimated that he might make Ottawa, their destination, in thirty-seven hours and had taken sufficient gasoline to travel forty-four hours.

The most optimistic of those maintaining vigil in Canada, had hoped all morning that the air at Upavon, England, had landed somewhere on land, but as the hours slipped by and no word came the fear grew that the three fliers had met with disaster.

In vain, radio stations and ships at sea kept a sharp lookout for the fliers. The radio lookouts ranged from the farflung Belle Isle on the northernmost tip of New Foundland to the group ending on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence at Quebec.

Small groups, subdued in demeanor, waited for information at Lindbergh Flying Field. Others stood silently before bulletin boards in front of newspaper offices hoping for good news. Captain Hamilton's young wife tried valiantly to remain cheerful. She was in constant communication with John E. Wilson, director of civilian aviation.

EARLY SUMMARY.
One possible time for the three great disappointments was the total score today in the trans-Atlantic air race.

No word has been heard up until an early hour this morning of the fliers. The St. Raphael, carrying Captain Leslie Hamilton, Lieut. Col. F. F. Mitchell and the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, on an attempted flight from Upavon, England, to Ottawa, Canada, was last sighted last night at Washburn, near Caribou, Maine, after the fliers had lost their way in the fog.

The monoplane Royal Windsor, piloted by C. A. "Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood in an attempted non-stop flight from Windsor, Canada, to Windsor, England, was forced down at St. John's, Quebec when the wings of the plane caught fire. The aviators were not injured, and planned to continue their flight.

Leon Given and Pierre Corbu, French aviators, returned to Le Bourget Field, Paris, two hours after they had hopped off in the Farman biplane on an attempted non-stop flight to New York. They landed at ten o'clock.

THE ST. RAPHAEL
Nothing has been heard of the St. Raphael since it passed over the coast of Ireland at noon on Wednesday, heading out toward the Atlantic in what was hoped would be the first successful attempt to fly from Europe to pick up any traces of the plane were fruitless up to an early hour this morning.

The Coastal Signal Service operated by the Dominion government, has devoted the last twenty-four hours in trying to pick up, through its long chain of stations all over Canada and New Foundland, some word which might indicate the fate that has befallen the fliers. Although hopes are held out that the aviators may have succeeded ed in crossing the ocean, and have been forced down somewhere out of touch with civilization, the expectancy with which the arrival of the fliers had been awaited has now turned to grave anxiety.

No Evidence
This morning, headquarters of the Coastal Signal Service informed the International News correspondent that not one scrap of evidence had been found which might in any way help to indicate the fate of the St. Raphael.

All outgoing ships are being instructed to keep a close lookout for any signs of the plane and the arrival of tramp steamers, many of which are without wireless, is anxiously awaited here. It is thought possible that the St. Raphael was forced down at sea some distance off New Foundland and that the fliers and their noblewoman passenger have been rescued by one of the many small cargo vessels coming up the St. Lawrence river.

Long Overdue
At 7:30 o'clock this morning, fifty-three hours had elapsed since the daring fliers took off from Upavon, England, in a spectacular attempt to be the first to cross the Atlantic from Europe to America by air. Captain Hamilton had expected to arrive in Ottawa after thirty-seven hours of flying, and as the hours passed without anything being heard, the anxiety was increased that a second attempt to bridge the Atlantic from west to east had met with disaster. The first attempted flight from Europe to America ended in tragic failure when Captains Nungesser and Goll, French war aces, apparently dropped into the sea.

TO AID IN SEARCH
Caribou, Maine, Sept. 2.—Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Metcalf in their London, Ontario to London, England monoplane, Sir John Carling, was seen en route to England for the missing plane St. Raphael with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, Capt. Leslie Hamilton, and Lieut. Col. F. F. Mitchell.

Are going to do everything in our power while crossing the Atlantic to look for the missing St. Raphael," said Captain Tully to International News Service today.

"Rain and fog are holding us here this forenoon. We are going to get away from Washburn, New Foundland, as soon as the weather reports indicate that we will have a fighting chance of success. We thought the weather was clearing this morning but were fooled for it is raining again and the fog prevents us from seeing."

To Make Attempt
"Lieut. James Metcalf and I are determined to complete the London to London hop. Our plane had a perfect landing in the field on Washburn road. It is in good condition and there is no reason why we cannot span the ocean. En route we will keep a sharp lookout for the plane St. Raphael. We got thirty miles out to see off Prince Edward Island last yesterday when we ran into a curtain of fog and was forced to put back."

Blinded by Fog
After leaving London, Ont., Tully and Metcalf swung down the St. Lawrence only to become blinded by the fog and rain. They flew south in an effort to avoid the fog banks, went east almost to the sea coast but were forced back by another fog curtain. The Sir John Carling finally came to land on the Milton farm on the Washburn road, thus marking the end of the second attempt by Pilots Tully and Metcalf to bridge the ocean by air.

The plane was found in good condition. The aviators were thanking their lucky stars today that they came to earth before reaching the great north woods of Aroostook county, one of the wildest regions in the country. The Sir John Carling was in a broad potato field with plenty of room for a good take-off.

SOUTH MANCHESTER

TO BRING NEW AREA INTO FIRE DISTRICT

S. M. Commissioners Likely to Act Favorably on Keeney and Spencer St. Petitions.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Fire Commissioners of the South Manchester Fire Department next Monday evening, extension of the fire lines in the Fifth and Sixth school districts will be discussed, and, according to one of the commissioners, will, in all probability, be carried out. Between fifty and seventy-five homes are in the territory which would be affected. Signed petitions have been forwarded to the commissioners requesting fire protection in the Keeney and Spencer street sections at the extreme west and southwest of the town. The proposed extension would go as far as Spencer street as the East Hartford town line and on Keeney street as far as the Gastonbury town line. Highland Park may, also petition for protection.

It is understood that insurance premiums will be heavily reduced to the insured property in a fire district and water service is available.

WILLIAMS' FIRM IS INCORPORATED

Rockville Man President of New Organization—Employees Taken In.

Incorporation papers were filed yesterday putting the men's outfitting business of George H. Williams 711 Main street, Manchester, on a corporate basis. Four incorporators are named in the papers, Mr. Williams, Dr. Thomas F. O'Loughlin of Rockville, Edwin L. Newton and Walter W. Cowles of Manchester, both the latter employees at the Williams store. Dr. O'Loughlin is president of the new corporation, the title of which is George H. Williams, Inc.; Mr. Newton is vice-president, Mr. Cowles, secretary and Mr. Williams treasurer and general manager. The business is to be continued at its present stand and will not be altered in its general character, though normal expansion from time to time is contemplated. The Williams business is a continuation of the establishment of Strickland & Hutchinson, which for seventeen years was conducted in a store in the Tinker block. In January, 1924, that business was purchased by Mr. Williams, who had previously been in the automobile trade and later sales and advertising manager for the Carlyle Johnson Machine Company. He conducted the store for two years and then, when the lease expired and could not be renewed, he moved to his present location. He has built up an extremely satisfactory business as an exclusive men's outfitter, carrying a complete stock of men's wear of every description but no women's garments or shoes. Several innovations have been introduced at the Williams store, notably the "No-Sale" system of merchandising now coming into vogue in the larger cities to a considerable extent. Under this system there are no "bargain" sales whatever, the theory being that if there are to be mark-downs at certain seasons, there must be mark-ups in the original pricing in order to make conspicuous reductions possible; further, the theory is that it has a stabilizing effect on the business when customers know that there is no seasonal mark-up and that they can get as good values on one day as on another. The Williams store is the ten payment plan in lieu of hap-hazard credit. Under this plan the purchaser "pays while he wears," but pays systematically—20 per cent down and the balance in ten weekly payments. Under this system the store has done an increasing business with negligible losses and much convenience to many patrons. Besides complete lines of haberdashery, shoes, etc., three brands of ready-to-wear and two lines of custom made suits, top coats and overcoats are handled. The former are those of Bernstein Bros. of New York, Fashion Park and Charter House. The made-to-measure lines are those of the International Tailoring Company and the Fashion Park.

Dr. O'Loughlin, the president of the new corporation, is a Rockville physician of large practice and widely known. He is a fraternal associate of Mr. Williams in the Elks, in which order he is prominent and has held high office. He is the only inactive member of the concern. Mr. Newton is a veteran of the clothing trade in Manchester, having started with the House company over thirty years ago. He has been salesman for Mr. Williams for several years. Walter Cowles is a Manchester man by birth, son of the late C. W. Cowles who for years was one of the leading spirits of the town. The son has had an all around business experience and during the World War served overseas with the 301st Machine Gun battalion. After the war he was connected with the Sheridan hotel as clerk and more recently with the Folly Brook Ice Co. He has been with Mr. Williams recently.

Jaffee subject to the approval of the Hartford Superior Court, will not be remodeled for other purposes, but will be continued as a theater. This statement was made by Mr. Jaffee who said that the building will be leased as soon as the courts are through with the matter. Mr. Jaffee believes that he and Mr. Marlow struck a real bargain in buying equity in the block for $100. The incumbance of $35,000 includes back taxes. Mr. Jaffee points out that the theater when last sold brought $42,500 and that improvements costing approximately $20,000 were made. Mr. Jaffee says he does not believe that the town will not support three theaters. He says if the right person operates the Rialto he can make a financial success.

LOCAL DELEGATES AT GUILD MEETING

Mrs. H. O. Weber and Miss Gerhardt Attend Convention at Southbury.

Local people who attended the annual meeting of the Southbury Guild, held at the Old Folks' home in Southbury which the Guild maintains, report that the session, which lasted all day was a most successful one. The attendants included representatives from nearly all the 24 guilds in the state affiliated with Lutheran churches.

Among those who attended from Manchester was Mrs. H. O. Weber, secretary of the Guild, and Miss Gerhardt, president of the Ladies Aid society of the Concordia Lutheran church. The Guild though organized only two years ago now has a membership of 570. Rev. O. E. Heydenreich of Hartford is president.

After the business of the meeting there was opportunity for a social get-together and inspection of the home which at the present time is sheltering 28 old people.

It was voted at the meeting to install a new electric dishwasher. One of the principal additions to the equipment of the home this season was the purchase of a Kelvinator refrigerating system. The dining room and some of the adjacent rooms have been greatly improved by laying no the floors covering of the best inlaid inoleum. It was the sentiment of the meeting that a special effort be made this coming year to clear the debt on the property.

Reduced Railroad Rates—"Bring Your Neighbor"

BOSTON-MAINE RAILWAY FIGHTS MOTOR TRUCKS

New England Line Will Adopt Motors To Serve Outlying Stations.

Boston.—Bitter competition between the Boston and Maine railroad and private and public motor trucking companies in the districts covered by the railroad, are foreboding as the result of an announcement by the railroad that it is going to reorganize and expedite its small lot freight service by using motor trucks to carry merchandise between outlying stations and its newly equipped Boston freight terminals, at the Northern Artery.

The object of the change, it was stated by railroad officials, is to give better service and thus regain for the railroad business which has been lost to private and public motor trucking companies.

When this plan of the railroad became known the private and public trucking companies immediately began to make plans to stage a bitter contest to hold the business they now are doing.

All Small Shippers.
The railroad's motor truck operations will be co-ordinated with through freight car service at the Northern Artery terminals, which will give the small lot shippers and services on merchandise bound to or from points in New England, in the West and South. In some instances the railroad announced, the new arrangement will involve a saving of present trucking costs to the shipper or consignee.

The regular scheduled motor truck service will operate between the modern terminal at Northern Artery and Woburn, Waltham, Everett, Chelsea, Cambridge, Stoneham, Watertown, North Somerville, Malden and Winchester, with direct ties-in with through freight cars to and from important distributing centers.

Within a few weeks the railroad trucking plan will be extended to Melrose, Reading and Wakefield, and eventually to other cities in the Greater Boston area and elsewhere in New England.

Big Improvement.
The new arrangement will effect a substantial improvement over the present conditions under which such shipments now are either forwarded to transfer points like Salem and Nashua before being put into cars to destination, or are being lost to the railroad because of the delays involved.

The rearrangement of service should also effect a reduction in street congestion, it is believed by railroad officials, by consolidating in a few trucks, under regular schedules the scattered merchandise shipments which now move, separately in private-owned trucks and others. The trucking under the Boston and Maine system will be performed by present trucking concerns under contract to the Boston and Maine Transportation Company, and there will be no multiplication of vehicles, and congestion and waste may be avoided.

AMERICAN WOMEN GET BUSINESS HOLD IN FRENCH CITIES

Paris.—More and more American women are establishing businesses in Paris or other parts of France.

In the narrow little street Bonaparte, on the Rive Gauche, is a charming little shop "La Guirlande," the outgrowth of an interesting piece of work begun several years ago by Mrs. Richard E. Meyers, wife of Richard Meyers, the American composer.

Four years ago she happened upon a group of Russian emigres who were trying to eke out a living by doing the one thing they knew—embroidering dresses and blouses in Russian style. Mr. Meyers undertook to obtain commissions here and in America and soon built up a large clientele for this special type of garment. Thirty-five women, many of whom belonged to Russian nobility, are now working for the business which has assumed large proportions.

Besides all kinds of lovely embroidered work, "La Guirlande" has a choice collection of antiques and modern objects, discovered among the Russian and American art colonies in Paris.

In the rue Jacob, just around the corner from "Guirlande," is "Eliza Lee's Tea-Shop," a delightful little spot where Americans go to indulge in hot-cakes, waffles, ham and eggs and other American favorites. Eliza Lee came over to France with her Chinese cook and set up this little eating-house, delightfully decorated. It is difficult to find a seat on Sunday mornings, for that is when the Americans all flock in for hot waffles and biscuits.

"La Petite Casserole" is another American woman's enterprise in Montparnasse. It is famous for its delicious hot oatmeal porridge, served in little earthen casseroles with real thick cream and powdered sugar. Devil's Food, cornbread and strawberry shortcake are also specialties of this little American corner in Paris.

Portugal's 17. Revolutions In 16 Years Set New Record

Lisbon, Portugal.—"My country chiefly produces three things—cork, port wine, and revolutions. It exports cork and port wine, but it keeps its revolutions for home consumption."

This witticism is attributed to ex-King Manuel of Portugal, who has been in exile, mainly in England and France, since he was booted out sixteen years ago. Life in Portugal since that time has been one darn revolution after another, each dictator in turn being the one who for a short time had control of the army.

Some of the revolutions have been costly, and blood has been shed, as in one rumpus when Lisbon was shelled by the navy. Others have been bloodless, such as the turnovers of May and July this year.

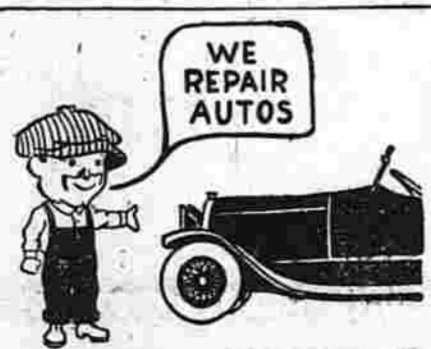

In the meantime, the bad roads of Portugal have gone from bad to worse, the school system has utterly broken down, taxes have mounted, business has become disorganized, and the bulk of the money in the treasury has been spent on the army and the bureaucracy.

Army is Farce
The army, as an army, to fight anybody but Portuguese, is a joke. It is an army of poorly-uniformed, under-paid and often under-fed little toy soldiers. You should see them on a broiling summer day in Lisbon, lounging about the streets in light gray linen uniforms which would need ten bollings to cleanse. The Yankee who said you could buy the whole army with two weeks back pay was probably right.

Portugal has just had its seventeenth revolution since the republic was established. The same old formula was followed. The seventh dictator took the army away from the sixteenth and immediately imprisoned his predecessor.

Late in May General Gomes da Costa made a pronouncement against the government. Supported by the army he ordered the cabinet to resign. It did so and then the President, Bernardino Machado, did likewise on June 1. Before leaving office, he made Commander Cabacadas of the navy, premier. Cabacadas was one of Da Costa's accomplices.

On June 3 it was announced Portugal would be ruled by a triumvirate composed of Da Costa, Cabacadas and General Carmona. Then Da Costa quarreled with Cabacadas and on June 16 made him resign the premiership. Da Costa became Dictator-premier. He proposed a reform to the constitution which would make the Portuguese charter somewhat similar to that of the United States.

Not in the ordinary sense, however. Our repair work is of an outstanding character and can be recognized. Let us prove our ability to you. Our prices are reasonable, results are guaranteed.

"We Repair Right"

The President would be the head of the executive power, as in America, and he would have the power to veto laws and dissolve the Cortes. Cabinet ministers were to be responsible to the President and not to the Cortes just as in the United States. It was also proposed radically to reform the methods of electing members to the Cortes.

Carmona Seizes Power
Da Costa fired Carmona as minister of foreign affairs after a quarrel, but offered to make him Portuguese minister to the Vatican. Carmona declined, canvassed the little toy soldiers, and found they were ready to stand by him as against the new dictator. Thereupon he went to see Da Costa and gave him the alternative of arrest or resignation. In a speech the previous day, Da Costa had said that if the army kept quarrelling, he was ready to retire from his palace to his third floor flat. He refused to take the job of President.

Whereupon Carmona promptly had the little toy soldiers arrest him, cart him off to one of the toy warships, and see him into exile in the Azores islands.

For the time being, Carmona is top dog, but in Lisbon, where they will bet on anything, the bookmakers are already taking up a list of the probabilities as to who will be the eighteenth dictator.

Late last night she suffered a relapse, however, and died within a few minutes.

NEW BEDFORD SOCCERITES PLAY AT "DROME" SUNDAY

Team At Boston Tomorrow; Two New Halfbacks Signed; League Schedule Announced.

By FRANK PEARSON
Manager Dewhurst has purchased two new half-backs for Hartford's game Sunday at the Velodrome with New Bedford. They are Forrester who has been secured from the Philadelphia, where he has played for the past two seasons, and Bob Campbell, who has had considerable experience with teams in Canada. Also in the line-up Sunday will be Halstrom, of the Scandia team, who made a fine impression in his first year against Boston.

Although New Bedford scored an easy victory last Saturday mainly through injuries to the Hartford defense, the team played a splendid game the next day against Boston, holding the American League champs to a 2-2 tie. The manager feels sure that his charges will come through Sunday with a vengeance. With Tommy Blair in goal, one of the best goalies in America between the posts, that position is well taken care of.

The full backs, Cowan and Bain, are both players of international repute and need no introduction after last week's exhibition. The half-backs will be chosen from McGonigh, Raeside, Campbell, Forrest or Izatt. The forwards are one of the strongest in the league with such players as Halstrom, of the Scandia United team, and Happy Abdullah, late of Derby county, who is one of the most colorful inside forwards in the game. Hal is an Egyptian by birth and is a warm favorite with the fans. It is never too rough to please Happy.

Cam Owen, the center forward, is one of the cleverest centers ever seen in this state, a deadly shot with either foot, and one of the play men when he is on the ball. Oliver, who played his first professional game last Sunday, is a New Bedford boy who is 19 years old and has been playing the game for 10 years, captain of his school team for three years, and captain of a national amateur cup winning team. He was chosen this year on the Olympic team, but decided to cast his lot with the "pros."

Manager Dewhurst secured this year only after stiff competition the part of other American League managers. Oliver will become a warm favorite with local fans.

McKenna at the left wing is a player of considerable ability and a hard, fast player. Billy Ballantine is always a warm favorite with the local fans. Halstrom, the outside right of the Scandia team, made a splendid showing in his first appearance and will positively appear in Sunday's game.

The next game is between Manchester and the Thistles at 1 o'clock with the Pro game at 3 o'clock sharp.

The game with New Bedford is an exhibition affair, the same as the one which he is on the schedule of the Hartford eleven for the fall season:

- Sept. 11, Philadelphia at Hartford.
- Sept. 18, Newark at Hartford.
- Sept. 24, New York Giants in New York.
- Sept. 25, Brooklyn Wanderers at Brooklyn.

- Oct. 30, Boston at Hartford.

FLYNN vs. MILLER

Sept. 2, 1912
Fifteen years ago today, Jim Flynn, famed as the Pueblo fireman, knocked out Charley Miller the Pacific coast heavyweight star in 15 rounds at Colma, Calif., after a desperate battle in which Miller had the best of the mill until the abrupt ending.

Two months prior to this event, Flynn had met Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion of the world, in an effort to restore the title to the white race but failed when the negro stopped him in the ninth round of a scheduled ten-fight fight. Miller was being groomed along the same lines and his affair with Flynn had created widespread interest.

EXPECT BUT FEW NEW YORKERS AT CHICAGO BOUT

Rickard Expects 10,000 But Walsh Thinks 2,500 Would Be Better Estimate

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.
New York, Sept. 2.—As the writer has been given to understand it, Tex Rickard is counting upon entertaining at least 10,000 New Yorkers at the battle of the Twentieth Century Limited in Chicago on the fateful evening of September 22. Good, Mr. Rickard is right again. He is counting them now. He possibly won't be able to count them then.

As a matter of fact, they are likely to turn up in terrific numbers at the occasion in the city. According to careful estimates here today, hardly more than 2,500 fearless spirits, moral and internal, will make the great trek from Broadway to State and Madison streets for the second episode of the Dempsey-Tunney serial.

Not a Factor.
New York, it seems, is about to miss being a real factor in the affair. The heavyweight championship fight since Dempsey cut Willard into human hamburger at Toledo in 1919. The so-called big fight last year to mingle with a crowd of slightly less than 130,000. Its percentage in that expected crowd of 160,000 will be almost negligible. It is not altogether so.

However, hope dies a hard death when it comes to the fight. A few hopeful souls about the premises trying to sell reservations on fight specials from New York to Chicago and return, if at all. The great selling of tickets and indications were that business would get no better with all due haste.

One man was offering to take care of the railroad fare, Pullman charges, a ringside seat to the fight, meals and liquors for a flat sum of $200. Speaking of liquors, it might be mentioned that the Pullman company is virtually habitual about its insistence upon supplying drinking water to travelers. Therefore, this man's proposal looked the part of Santa Claus in his chain.

The Referee

Where did Matt Wells and Abe Attell fight in 1911 and who won?—D. N. R.
Wells won at New York.
How many games did Missouri win in basketball last year?—B. K. O.
They won eight and lost eight.
How long did it take for Thomas W. Burgess to swim the English Channel in 1911?—D. W. S.
Twenty-two hours and 35 minutes.
How many games has Alabama lost since Wallace Wade started coaching football there?—A. T. S. H.
Three—to Syracuse and Florida in 1923 and to Centre in 1924.
How many games did Garland Buckeye win for the Indians in 1926?—B. C. W.
Six. He lost nine.
Did Bib Falk hit better than Eddie Collins last year at Chicago?—G. K. L.
Falk's average was .345 and Collins' .344. Falk played in 49 more games than Collins did.
Who is the best all-round catcher in the major leagues?—M. F. A.
That is a matter of opinion. Bob O'Farrell, of the Cardinals, was admitted generally to be the best last season. Ruel, of the Senators, is considered the best in the American League, and Hartnett, of the Cubs, in the National League. Experts differ on this question.
What nationality is Lou Gehrig?—S. C.
He is of German descent.
Did Stuffy McInnis hit under 300 at any time while he was with the Athletics?—C. H. R.
Yes. He batted only .295 in 1915 and only .239 in 1909. The latter was his first season up and he played in only 19 games.

DOG RACING LATEST SPORT IN ENGLAND

London, (United Press), Sept. 2.—Women, ever ready to seize on "le dernier cri", have enthusiastically taken up England's newest sport—dog racing.

Dog racing or coursing as it is sometimes known, came to London just after Whitehall, when a meet was held at the White City Fair grounds. Immediately, its success was assured, so far as women were concerned.

Naturally, the sport is more or less confined to society circles, for dog racing is expensive. And looking down a program for any of the meets, which are held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, one may see such names as Mrs. Betty Baldwin, daughter of the British Premier, the Dowager Queen of Greece, Baroness Ravensdale and Lady Alstair Innes-Kerr.

CHAMP'S SCULLING TITLE ENDANGERED

Bert Barry, Undefeated English Champ, Meets Goodsell Labor Day at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 2.—Can Bert Barry, modest young undefeated champion of England, wrest the world's sculling title from Major Goodsell, dapper Australian, who has worn the crown since 1924?

Racing experts are still puzzled though they have had ample opportunity to see both scullers in action. The giants of the oar will battle for supremacy here on Labor Day and both are hard at work in preparation of the test.

Goodsell, aged 26, stands five feet eleven and weighs 165 pounds and rows as a champion should—in perfect style. His blade works deathly lights the eye and his body rings send the water in apparently effortless style.

Barry, aged 25, stands six feet one, weighs 163 pounds but appears to get as much if not more power out of his lanky body than the champion. He is not the finished sculler that Goodsell is, but he is a fighter and Goodsell will have no easy time over the three-mile course.

Barry is in strict training, living a daily schedule in his sculling camp on Burrard Inlet which is calculated to keep him in the pink of condition until the day of the race. His typical day includes two practice spins.

Barry however, takes his training in old country fashion. He has been sculling three times a week since Christmas and is in splendid condition. He averages six or seven miles every morning and walks ten or twelve miles each afternoon. Otherwise he has no training rules and he enjoys life as it comes.

The champion will row in a special shell built in Sydney. It is an unusually light shell, being built without ribs and is the style of boat used for many years by Goodsell.

Barry has not attempted to make time trials and does not intend to do so.

Many cities expect the winner of the race to set a world's record for three miles. The present mark, 18 minutes 15 seconds, was set by Dick Armstrong of New Zealand in defeating Ernest Barry in 1920.

Whether the record goes or not, it promises to be a close race and one man's guess seems as good as another at this time.

Dempsey's Greatest Knockouts

A right smash to the jaw followed a murderous left to the pit of the stomach!

Those two blows by tigerish Jack Dempsey sent ponderous Jess Willard down for the first time at Toledo, O., on the Fourth of July, 1919, and won just a few minutes later the world's heavyweight championship for Dempsey.

There were other blows and other knockdowns taken by Willard but his seconds threw in a towel between the third and fourth rounds, but those two blows that rocked the champion halfway around and sent him down early in the first round really decided the fight.

Jack Dempsey and Willard exchanged light blows as the round started, Dempsey taking 'em to assure himself that the blows of his pound opponent could not hurt. And when he realized that Willard's punches were not bothersome, he weaved in. The left to the jaw was delivered—and down Jess went for the first time.

Willard rose slowly, but went down again quickly from a left to the head and another right to the jaw. Each time he rose wearier than before, and each time Dempsey, eager for victory, smacked him down again. Just how many times he went down has remained a matter of dispute.

The next two rounds were punishing ones for Willard, and he was badly mauled by Dempsey that at the end of the third round, as the big fighter sat on the stool with his right eye closed and a deep gash underneath, his teeth missing, his seconds threw in a towel.

Jack Dempsey was world's champion to remain champion until September, 1926, when he lost to Gene Tunney.

Dempsey Not Much Better Than In The Tunney Fight

(By JOE WILLIAMS)
New York, Sept. 2.—Mingling with the serious thinkers along Cauliflower Alley I find only a skimpy percentage of the boys who think Gene Tunney has any sort of chance to put Jack Dempsey on the putting green and keep him there for the required number of strokes.

They argue: "Dempsey was terrible a year ago, and Tunney couldn't knock him off his feet. This year can't be any worse, and there's good reason to believe he's better. How, then, can you figure Tunney stopping him or even putting him down?"

Admittedly there's wisdom in them that words. Dempsey certainly was terrible at Philadelphia. I had a feeling before the fight was two rounds old that he was going to be flattened. He didn't look as if he would be able to stand ten rounds, let alone a fight that many.

I am still of the opinion that Dempsey didn't look a great deal better in winning from Sharkey, though, of course, he was stronger, and his frame of mind was better, and he was fighting to gain and nothing to lose things.

I mean he was an ex-champion when he started against Sharkey, and if he had lost he would still have been an ex-champion. Whereas he started as a champion against Tunney, with the prospect of finishing as an ex-champion.

The studious psychologists of the ring tell you this makes an important difference in the mental attitude of fighters. And maybe it does. He faces his conqueror this month. The crown will be on the other head. Dempsey starts as an ex, and he can finish no worse.

If Dempsey had everything to gain and nothing to lose against Sharkey, the return Tunney fight finds him in an even happier position. He had to whip Sharkey, some way or other, in order to get another shot at Tunney and the accompanying fancy swag.

No such stipulation exists in the Chicago fight. He will be in there strictly on his own and with only one goal in view. He got close to $400,000 for the Sharkey fight. He will get close to $600,000 for the next Tunney fight. A mere million!

It may be presumed, then, that he isn't giving his bank roll much concern, since this seems to have been taken care of automatically. What concerns him most, he says, is the glory of winning back the championship. With that and nothing else on his mind, he does figure to be more formidable than he was a year ago.

"Well, then, how can you figure that Tunney has a possible chance to put him away?" demand the serious minds along Cauliflower Alley.

Personally, I don't know. But I do know Tunney has ideas of winning by a knockout and that if he were to speak his actual thoughts he would tell you he expects to win somewhere between the fifth and eighth rounds.

In interviews and under his own signature Tunney has proclaimed the astonishing greatness of the different Dempsey. Tunney may actually mean all he says and writes, though I have a suspicion that Dempsey's performance against Sharkey—the performance on which he bases his public enthusiasm—left him unimpressed.

Here's another thing to keep in mind—Tunney knows he could have stopped Dempsey at Philadelphia. He knows it now, even if he didn't know it then. Tunney, the match was made, figured he could outspeed. He thought he could outpace. He thought he could outpace.

Tunney is that type of fighter. He maps out a program, and if it works for him he adheres to it religiously and without change. The program Tunney carried out in the one he Philadelphia was the day the match was made. He had no serious visions at any time of a knockout.

Still, Tunney must have sensed early in the fight that by adopting a more boisterous form of battle he could put the "big" bewildered and unsteady Dempsey away. But he didn't. He was fighting to gain and nothing to lose things.

Which, if you know Tunney, explains everything.

This time, I understand, Tunney has mapped out a different program. He is going in to win by a knockout if he can. He isn't going in to slug with Dempsey, but if he can get him propped up for a finisher, as the boys say, he's going to tear in and try to put it over.

It may be, of course, that Tunney will be unable to get him propped up. There is logic in the claim of the serious thinkers that Dempsey should be harder to land this year. At least there can be no doubt about his physical condition, and there was doubt about that a year ago.

At any rate, this is one phase of the fight that promises interesting speculation. Also it is a phase on which quite a few of the boys will bet you with great energy and much dough. "If he couldn't stop him then how's he going to stop him now?" Maybe you know the answer. I don't.

When Dempsey won from Sharkey in the "What Was It of the Century" Tunney announced with becoming academic certainty that the punches were legitimate.

He was sitting on the side of the

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN BE CHAMPION

Here is the formula of Helen Wills if you would become a tennis champion:

Perfection of play is the result of much practice. It develops footwork, the basic fundamental of the game.

Do not make an effort to select as your opponent players you feel certain you can defeat. Nothing is ever learned from playing with inferiors.

Seek a variety of opponents and if a variety would help your game, go against better players than yourself. It is from them you will learn your faults.

Concentrate when the ball is in play but be able to relax in between. One player better tennis because of the pleasure rather than a business.

Select your equipment carefully and do a lot of experimenting until you satisfy your needs perfectly.

GIBLIN AND GIGLIO SCORE TENNIS WINS

Battle Their Way to Semi-Finals in Town Title Tournaments; Several Matches Set For Tonight.

TODAY'S RESULTS.
Katherine Giblin eliminated Elizabeth Washkewich, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.
Leo Giglio eliminated Margaret Boyle, 6-3.

Rain interfered with the completion of any more matches in the second round of the local tennis singles town championship tournaments last night. One match was attempted, that between Katherine Giblin and Elizabeth Washkewich, but a deluge broke up the match after each had won a set 6-4. The final set was scheduled to be played this morning. Leo Giglio and Margaret Boyle were also slated to swing into action at the East Side Playgrounds this morning.

All other matches for last night were put off until a later date. Tonight's schedule brings together the following:

Mac Macdonald and Kenneth May on court No. 2 at the high school from 6:30 to 7:30; Ty Holland and Walter Dunn on court No. 1 at the West Side from 6:30 to 7:30; Louis Farr and Fred Van Ness on court No. 1 at the high school from 5:30 to 6:30.

Allen McHale and Esther Carlini who were scheduled to play last night will meet on court No. 1 at the high school at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. Ruth Behrend and Esther Metcalf expect to play either tonight or Sunday. Johnny Boyle and Lawrence Paisley have as yet failed to make arrangements for their match as have Francis O'Brien and Jimmy Neill. It is understood that Neill has gone to the shore for the entire week without making any attempt to arrange for his match. If this is so and he does not return in time to play the match before closing time Sunday night, he will lose by default. Players are warned not to wait until the last day to play their matches because of the possibility of rain. The tournaments will be concluded next week Saturday.

This morning Katherine Giblin and Elizabeth Washkewich played the final and deciding set of their match, each having won one set last night. Katherine was the winner, 6-1. Three games were to decide. The scores:

Giblin 7 6 4 2 4 6 6
Washkewich 5 2 2 4 4 6 6

Leo Giglio played Margaret Boyle and won a warmly contested match in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Both girls flashed some fine tennis.

TENNIS TOURNAY

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 2.—East meets West here this afternoon in the semi-finals of the singles and doubles of the New York state junior girls tennis championship. The highlights of the day's schedule are the singles contest between Ruth Bailey, of St. Louis, and Charlotte Miller, of New York, and between Edith Tough, of San Francisco, and Marie Fenester, of Englewood, N. J.

In the doubles play Marie Fenester, an eastern girl, will pair with May Greif, of Kansas City, against Gwen and Florence Roome, of Westbury, L. I. Edith Tough and Charlotte Miller and Norma Taubelle, of New York, in the other semi-final match of the doubles.

From a similar position I thought they were low. But, then, I had no heart-throbbing interest in the matter. Dempsey was not to be my next opponent in a three million dollar fight.

I have been reading of late, however, that Tunney's business agent, Professor William Gibson, is expressing no little concern over the identity of the referee for the Chicago fight.

It may be that Tunney still thinks the Dempsey punches were legitimate and that the professor merely disagrees with him. The professor is like that.

The professor is quoted as saying he will demand a referee who knows among other things, where the foul line begins and ends. This would seem to indicate that he has his private suspicions about the accuracy of the Dempsey punches.

It is one thing, I suppose, to sit complacently by and watch someone else's meal ticket get messed around, but when the operation involves your own meal ticket, that is different. Decidedly.

Pirates First By Victory Over Cubs—Giants In Fourth Place Only Two Games Behind Now.

By LES CONKLIN.
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
New York, Sept. 2.—With the Pirates in first place as a result of their 4 to 3 victory over the Cubs, the Cardinals and the Giants stopped worrying about the Bruins today and began devising ways and means of halting the clouting Corsairs.

The race is so close that a four-cornered tie may develop within a few days. The Pirates, one point in front of the Cubs, are only two games ahead of the fourth-place Giants.

May Switch Dates.
If the other clubs agree to a switch in dates, the Cardinals and the Giants will be able to play off a postponed game in St. Louis on September 15. It had been thought that this game had been "lost," and if it is played the Cards and Giants will have a better chance to overhurl the two leaders.

The Cubs, who fell to second place after they apparently had the pennant sewed up a few weeks ago, will play the Reds today while St. Louis and Pittsburgh fight it out. The Bruins were beaten yesterday by the slugger of "Moon" Harris, Pittsburgh first baseman, who figured in the scoring of all of Pittsburgh's runs. Breakdowns batted Carlson on the mound.

The Detroit Tigers broke their losing streak of eight games, scoring four runs in the tenth and trouncing the Browns 5 to 4. Summa's home run with one out base featured Cleveland's 5 to 0 victory over the White Sox. Metzler made four hits for the Sox.

All other teams were idle.

CHARITY DEPARTMENT

That the Charity Department of Manchester has been unable to keep within its appropriation this year need occasion neither surprise nor resentment. That it has exceeded that appropriation by so little is to the credit of the department.

There is little probability that in the near future, if ever, the town's expenditures in this particular direction can be kept within the extremely low limits of recent years. It should be remembered that for five years we have been going through a period of business prosperity unexampled anywhere in the world in all of the world's history.

It is impossible for any such period to continue at quite peak proportions indefinitely. A certain amount of reaction is as inevitable as death or taxes. In this there is ground for no discouragement, justification for no disappointment.

NO SANDBAG That astute political observer, Mark Sullivan, writing in the New York Herald-Tribune, conceives the movement to "draft" Coolidge as the Republican Presidential candidate next year to be contingent on a slackening of the condition of general prosperity throughout the country.

The principle trouble with this layout, it seems to us, is that the feelings of the President are left out of the calculation. Mr. Coolidge is a human being. He would have to be something rather more than that, it would appear, if he were to consent to become a candidate on the edge of a trade depression, after having declined to become so in the midst of prosperity.

If the only terms on which Mr. Coolidge is to be forcibly renominated are those of a sandbag to stop a break in the levee, then it seems to us good guessing to forecast that he will not be drafted at all.

BAD BUSINESS

Evidently the parties to the New York insurance murder were a lot of rats. The young fellow who was made the victim of a conspiracy, in which he was drowned for the sake of $70,000, seems from all accounts to have been no good.

From such people nothing is to be expected but crime and degeneracy. But back of them stands a responsibility that will impress itself on the imagination of every food citizen. How was it possible for one individual to obtain such an utterly preposterous amount of insurance on the life of a person of no means and no earning capacity, in no way related to him, and to have the policies made payable to himself?

Probably the writing of this insurance was perfectly legal. Otherwise it is to be taken for granted that the companies would not have written it. But it had no business to be legal. Not even the most carefully conducted fire insurance company would countenance the carrying of seventy thousand dollars worth of insurance on ten dollars worth of furniture in a fifty dollar shack.

It is very much to be doubted whether any Connecticut insurance company could be caught in such a dubious sort of snarl as this. It would seem as if no company at all could have been caught in it if any decent amount of precaution had been taken to see that there was a proper relationship between the circumstances and the amount of the policies.

Whatever excuses may be made, it ought to be perfectly clear on the face of it that the victim of the Jamaica Bay drowning was no proper person to be accepted as a seventy thousand dollar risk.

LAWYERS FOR LAWYERS

The American Bar Association is an aggregation of learned, high principled, high grade citizens. For years it has been protesting—in a fittingly restrained, dignified sort of way—against the cumbersomeness and dilatoriness of court procedure. In fact most of the lay critics of the courts have taken their cues from the Bar Association itself.

But if the public of the American states wait for the American Bar Association to take any drastic measures for the reform of the legal nonsensicalities that are making our system or jurisprudence a bad joke in the eyes of the people, they will wait forever. It is not in the nature of things that any such body as the Bar Association shall take an energetic lead in putting two-thirds of the lawyers in America out of business.

For that reason we cannot expect court reform to start with lawyers, no matter how high minded. They would be betraying their own guild. Nor can we expect it of legislatures that are dominated by lawyers.

Dr. Charles C. Godfrey of Bridgeport lived seventy-one years. Methuselah is supposed to have lived nine hundred and sixty-nine years. Granting the nine hundred and sixty-nine Genesis years were equivalent to nine hundred and sixty-nine of our own calendar years the son of Enoch never, in all those centuries, lived a tenth as fully or had a tenth of the experiences of the Bridgeport surgeon.

history and the owner of a famous collection of Napoleonic manuscripts and mementoes. He was a yachtsman. He had been a soldier. He had probably made as deep research as any American medical man into the relationship between hypnotism and medicine.

AIR TRAGEDIES

In this matter of worrying about aviators who undertake adventures of enormous hazard, not by command of some superior authority, not in the way of war duty, not in rescue attempts, and not, as a matter of fact in the interest of science, it is only fair to take the position that no obligation of humanity requires strangers to these people to place higher value on their lives than they do themselves.

If a man, or a woman for that matter, deliberately chooses to risk his life for the sake of a thrill or glory or money, and has the ill-luck to lose the gamble, then a great many persons will naturally be regretful. But it is a shallow pretence to make believe that a disinterested world has reason for crushing grief over such misadventure.

There is too much of real tragedy—too many children struck down in the streets by automobiles, too many workers killed as they labor to support their families, too many lives of rare usefulness prematurely ended by disease—to permit of extraordinary sorrow for those individuals who throw their lives away for the fun to be gotten out of the risk.

New York, Sept. 2.—Taking "Uncle Ned" and "Cousin Agatha" to Harlem's black belt cabarets now has become as much a matter of course as going to Woolworth building or visiting the Statue of Liberty.

A few years ago a visit to Harlem held all the elements of fun and adventurous romance. Only the brave few Bohemians and intellectual dandies of the city dared pioneer this path. Like all innovations, theirs was looked upon as vastly radical and met with whispered comments and the taunts. It was spread about that these parties of whites were taken about by members of the Harlem intelligentsia, that evening negroes were held in aristocratic homes; that these white and colored folk actually danced together.

But that was a couple of years ago—when Small's was a tiny place over on Fifth Avenue. Dropping down now on a Saturday night, Small's may be found to have taken on all the airs of its Broadway kin. Embroidered Chinese drapes hang from the walls, the dance floor is roped off and spacious rooms open.

And the white visitors from here, there and everywhere almost take Harlem away from its own people. Mixed dancing, mixed conversation, mixed groups, at tables are commonplace. No one so much as raised an eyebrow.

From casual, Bohemian visits with those colored folk engaged in creative efforts they gradually began to take active interest in rare talents that were to be found. Hidden by the conventional walls built by society at about 135th street they found poets, artists, dramatists and novelists.

The vogue for negro work, from spirituals to jazz, and from blues to poetry, soon followed and from a vogue gradually achieved an established niche in American expression.

As white envoy to Harlem, acting as interpreter to the world, has been Carl Van Vechten. From a writer of sophisticated tales he has become to the world at large the spokesman for almost everything that originates there. He endorses blues singers, tap dancers and pre-fables novels; he writes analytical essays and—in brief—has found this vast colored belt an excellent stock in trade for literary wares.

Meanwhile Harlem changes, month by month. More and more the effort is made to mimic the "uptown" places. More and more the artificial is injected and a certain self-consciousness clings to those places where the whites gather in abundant numbers. Copying Broadway, they have even set up "props" to attract the white trade and have "ballyhoo" agents about the city to whisper in the ears of visitors.

Noisy as New York Traffic

Do fish make noise? The delicate audimeter, devised to measure noises, says so. Combined with the noise of the Atlantic breakers, the noise of the fish flapping about in their net is found to equal that at Fifth avenue and 42d street, New York, in the height of traffic. Engineers are shown measuring the noise of captive fish on the Atlantic City pier.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS BEGINS SESSIONS

Pays Tribute to Late King Ferdinand; Delegates Praise Americans.

Geneva, Sept. 2.—The League of Nations council began its public sessions today with a tribute to the late King Ferdinand, of Rumania. As the opening session progressed, De Brouckere, of Belgium made a report upon the recent international press conference, advocating similar international meetings in the future. Lord Balfour, of England, praised the American delegates to the press conference, saying their co-operation was of great value. Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, Mr. Chamberlain, of the British foreign secretary, M. Boncour, of France, and others lauded the results of the press conference. During the day, Vandervelde, of Belgium, received an urgent call from the Belgian cabinet at Brussels and departed by airplane. It was understood the cabinet demanded an explanation as to why the foreign minister had entered into an agreement, without the consent of the cabinet, for an investigation of German accusations that Belgian civilians "sniped" German troops during the war.

His Trip From Paris the tour carried the judge to Switzerland. He visited Lucerne, Heidelberg and Mens. From there he went to Cologne and saw the marvelous cathedral in that city. WOULD RUN PAPER MILLS AS BRANCH

Windsor Man Wants to Purchase the Oakland Plant Outright.

Charles W. Stevens, head of the Stevens Paper Mill Co., of Windsor, is the latest manufacturer to enter the situation with respect to the Oakland paper mills. Mr. Stevens, who is a manufacturer of writing paper specialties, was in Manchester Wednesday in conference with a group of Chamber of Commerce members who have been discussing with W. P. McCorkindale the latter's project for reopening the mills. Mr. Stevens' purpose was to ascertain whether there were negotiations between Mr. McCorkindale and Manchester business men so far advanced as to make it unethical for him to make an offer for the mills on his own account. It is understood that he was assured that the field was open for such an offer if he cared to make it, since nobody in Manchester was contemplating a deal with Mr. McCorkindale.

CLEVELAND TO MAKE EARLY BID TO GET G. O. P. CONVENTION

Cleveland.—When the Republican National Committee names its sub-group to select the 1928 presidential convention city, Cleveland will be among the first cities to enter bids to entertain the gathering. A sufficient amount of money to finance and entertain the Republican National Convention here in 1928 has already been raised, according to Col. Carl A. Thompson, who heads the Cleveland group. The bid is based on the expenditures of the 1924 National Republican Convention which met here in the Public Auditorium. The city's municipal gathering place is being enlarged and will be even a greater attraction than it was four years ago. The sub-committee to select the 1928 meeting place will be appointed sometime in September, according to Col. Thompson. Immediately after the group is named, a Cleveland delegation headed by Thompson will seek it out in Washington and urge that Cleveland be selected as the 1928 convention city. It is also understood here that influential groups are seeking to bring the National Democratic Convention to Cleveland, although no definite announcements have been forthcoming.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

The PENNY PRINCESS

by anne austin ©1927 by NEA Service

BEGIN HERE TODAY
VERA CAMERON permits herself to be transformed from a plain business girl into a beauty by JERRY MACKLYN, her boss, advertising manager of French Bloom Cosmetics Co. Jerry falls in love with Vera, also called Vee-Vee, and his love persists even when he learns she consents to the transformation only to get the money she falls in love with, SCHUYLER SMYTHE, ignores her.

"You are disarmingly frank, Mr. Macklyn. I suppose I may as well remove these horrid glasses!"

Vera spends her vacation at Lake Minnetonka because Smythe mistakes her for VIVIAN CRANDALL, ex-princess, who after her divorce is in hiding. Vera emphatically proclaims her true identity but is not believed. The Crandalls learn from their supposed daughter's whereabouts. Vera gets word while she and Smythe are on the lake at night that she is wanted at the hotel. She and Smythe flee. Smythe confesses his love and says they must be married at once. Believing he loves her for herself alone, Vera tells him the truth, substantiating her identity with Jerry's letter. Smythe is furious, revealing himself as a fortune-hunter. However, he retreats when it occurs to him this girl may really be the princess, who is trying to out-prince him.

Two masked men stop them and Vera is taken with them in an airplane to a shack in the mountains. PRINCE IVAN, a Russian ex-husband, awaits her there. Vera and the prince are horrified when the man immediately announces they will hold them for a ransom from the Crandalls. Vera convinces the prince, who is furious at the discovery Vera is not his wife, that they are not the part, whereby the men, angered at finding her unable to pay a ransom, have taken her to the mine. Jerry Macklyn in New York reads of what has happened to her and immediately addresses her in the Bronx. Jerry surprises it is VIVIAN CRANDALL herself who is accompanying him and he hurries away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII

FOR an instant after the door was opened to him, Jerry Macklyn felt an absurd conviction that he was gazing upon Vera Victoria Cameron as she had been before he had conceived his disastrous scheme of transforming her into a beauty. But it was for an instant only. For the woman who was searching like the old Vera for the new, and yet strangely reminiscent of both of them. Her hair, a dark, gleaming coppery red, was parted in the middle and brushed smoothly toward the ears, where twin braids were coiled like small wheels and planned close to the head. Her complexion was flawless in its even pallor, unrelieved by rouge, but like the old Vee-Vee's, her eyes were disguised behind large, horn-rimmed spectacles with amber-tinted lenses.

"How do you do, Miss Craig?" he said. He was careful to leave the initiative to her. The name on her bell was "Craig" and that was what he would call her until she chose to give him permission to address her by her real name. "Come in, Mr. Macklyn," she directed him gravely. "I rent the place furnished," she explained negligently, in her low, impersonal, but musical voice. A voice not unlike Vee-Vee's, he decided, except for its faint flavor of blended Continental accents. "Mr. Macklyn, do you know why I sent for you?" she asked abruptly. "I believe I do," Jerry smiled at her. He could not feel ill at ease with her. She seemed too much like the girl he loved to be a stranger to him. "You are Vivian Crandall, of course. I had been expecting word from you all day, ever since my secretary told me this morning that she had seen Miss Cameron in the subway. I knew of course that she had not seen Miss Cameron but you."

"Ah!" Vivian Crandall raised the enchanting eyebrows which Jerry had used as a model for the new Vee-Vee's brows. "You are disarmingly frank, Mr. Macklyn. I suppose I may as well remove these horrid glasses!"

First Lady Knows How to Land 'Em

The cut-throat trout of Lake Yellowstone are hard fish to land, but Mrs. Coollidge knows how. Here the first lady is shown with her catch of six, and large ones, too. She is wearing a red slicker, and her brown hat is held closely about the head with a red silk bandanna.

They have fired the dean of women at a certain college which I know, "because she is no fit person to have the guardianship of young girls."

BRAIN CONCUSSION CALLS FOR CLOSE EXAMINATION
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
When a human being is hit on the head, if the blow is not too hard, he usually recovers. Perhaps a week or so later he will begin to develop peculiar symptoms which may be the result of actual damage to the brain, or which may be purely a mental disturbance. Frequently the patient recovers promptly without any serious symptoms later, but in most instances there may be sufficient damage to the brain to merit attention.
A great many people receive blows on the head and apparently recover completely. Men who are knocked out in football games or in a prize fight will, after a short time, recover consciousness and apparently have no further disturbances.
It is safe to say, however, that headache, dizziness, irritability, fatigue, and tendency to disturbance of sleep after a severe blow on the head is a sign of actual damage to the brain and the person must be treated accordingly.

Who From Work Now Turns Away!

By Olive Roberts Barton

Windsor McKay, the cartoonist, displays in one of his latest pictures the right and the wrong way to fame.
On one side is pictured a cliff called Work, topped by majestic buildings of Popularity, Renown and Fame; on the other side is a crowd of men and women going helter-skelter along the heights of Notoriety. Beyond is a pit of darkness and disgrace.
Something of the "Pilgrim's Progress" idea but who can say it is not a good one? Mr. McKay says that he wishes that some men of real eloquence could make the millions of young people growing up in the United States realize that the only road worth while is the road of hard work.
Could one man do it? More than one magic pen has tried to convince youth that there is more to life than being "up-to-date." Being up-to-date does not of course mean notoriety—but it does mean keeping in the limelight more or less, and for no deeper purpose than attracting attention. Boys and girls of today are much more to thinking than being "up-to-date." They do something unusual in any other line but work. It may be by behavior, possessions, or scandal. To be talked about is the goal that they aim for.

I know a lot of splendid boys and girls. I also know some who are not so splendid. I see no future ahead for them. Twenty years hence the ones now in the limelight, spending their fathers' money and forgetting or refusing work either in business or in school, will wish they had had enough sense to start to work early. Those who are plugging along now with little thought of attracting attention and being popular will some day be the worth-while workers of the world.
Who from work now turns away. Will live to work another day!

HIGHWAY DEPT
- COMBATS WEEDS
TO AID FARMER

Removes Plant Pests and Fruit Tree Caterpillars From Road Limits.

Wild carrots, Canadian thistles, the tent caterpillar and other objectionable growths and insects which prey upon the crops and orchards of Connecticut farmers and fruit growers have been the objectives of a drive conducted by the State Highway Department along the highway rights of way, according to a statement made today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald.

Sometimes ago in an effort to aid agricultural and fruit growing interests in the state, Commissioner Macdonald issued orders to all Highway District Supervisors to cut down all growths of wild carrots and Canadian thistles within the limits of the state highways as well as all other plant growths which were found to harbor the ravenous tent caterpillar or other destructive worms. These weeds and insects, for years a detriment to crops and fruit trees in Connecticut, often thrive on the shoulders of the highways and unless eradicated are apt to spread into the fields of nearby farms.

An effort to combat the growth of wild carrots and Canadian thistles was made by the General Assembly some years ago, when a statute was enacted requiring owners of lands to cut down both plants on their land and in the adjacent highway. The act did not require the highway department to cut them down, however, but Commissioner Macdonald believes the move will be of material assistance to agriculture.

Considerable work in removing the weeds and plants infested with worm nests and caterpillars has been done by department employees. In many instances, it has gone beyond the limits of the roads to cut down plants which might interfere with the progress of agriculture in the neighborhood.

BIG FUND TO SAVE OLD 'CONSTITUTION'
REACHES $424,000

Boston, Mass.—The campaign for funds for the "saving" of the Constitution, famous old Revolutionary War frigate, has passed the half way mark.

With the receipt of a check for $25,142.52 from the Chicago Mayor Thompson Committee to collect money to rebuild the Constitution, the fund reached a total of more than $424,000.

According to officials between three and four hundred thousand dollars more are still needed to restore the Constitution to her original condition.

When the work on the Constitution is completed the plans are for towing her about the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coast.

The latest statement issued by the Constitution Campaign Fund Committee reads: "Rear Admiral Andrews, chairman of the Constitution Campaign Fund Committee, received a check for $25,142.52 from Chicago from Mayor Thompson Committee to collect money to rebuild the Constitution." This movement was an independent one started by Mayor Thompson and carried on by sale of Constitution buttons and donations.

"This check is the largest single amount towards fund and raises the total amount of money donated to over $420,000. This sum is insufficient and the sale of the Constitution pictures is still going on. Between $300,000 and $400,000 is still needed as the cost of restoring the Constitution to her original condition, with all masts, rigging and sails, furniture and all equipment is about $745,000.

"She will then be a seaworthy, sound ship, able to go anywhere, with perfect safety. The plan still holds of towing her about the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coast, and to the Great Lake after her rebuilding is completed."

BOATS OVER MOUNTAINS

Frunze, Turkestan.—Two steamboats have negotiated 150 miles of dry, mountainous country between Frunze and the Ili River. The boats were hauled over the roads by 50 pairs of oxen, and now will ply between Russia and Chinese Turkestan.

WATCHFUL WAITING

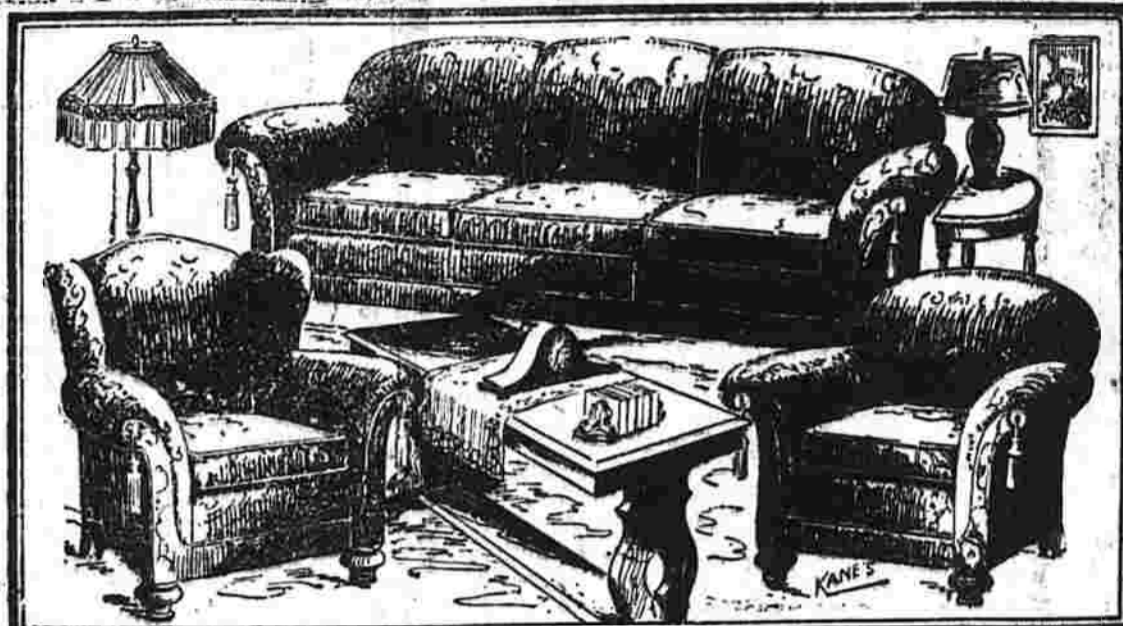

The lecturer warned to his subject. "The consequences of drunkenness are terrible. If I had my way, I would throw every cask of beer, every bottle of wine, every keg of brandy into the middle of the sea."

VOICE FROM THE AUDIENCE: Bravo, bravo!

LECTURER (very pleased): You also are a confirmed teetotaler, my friend.
"No, I'm a deep sea diver."—Ben Humor, Madrid.

It is understood that Bloom carried insurance.

MAKE IRISH LINEN AT HALF PRICE BY NEW FLAX PROCESS

Belfast.—Linen for every woman, and at half the price she now pays, is claimed to be the result of a new process in the preparation of flax.

It is also claimed that as a result of this invention airplane fabric will be reduced to half price; flax will be as easy to grow as hay; and that the foreign monopoly of the British flax market will be erased.

Mr. Hogan, minister of agriculture for the Irish Free State, is said to be in treaty with the patentees of the process, and Belfast linen producers have already undertaken arrangements for the working rights of the invention.

Flax is at present pulled out of the soil by hand to have the four inches of fibre that would be lost if the flax were cut. The flax is then thrown into water to "ret." This process takes anything from four to six weeks. The straw is then dried in the sun and "scutched" or beaten, to remove the fibre surrounding the woody core.

By the new process it is claimed the flax passes directly from the field to the spinner, where the fibres undergo a simple extraction treatment. The curing can be performed by an agricultural reaper. Farmers can therefore grow and harvest flax, and they will always be sure of a good demand for their crop.

Linen experts are reported to be inclined to be skeptical of some of the claims made for the new process.

NO MORE PUNCTURES

Brookings, S. D.—Tourists on the main highways soon will be free from worry about punctures. A giant magnet 7-feet wide has been hung on a state highway truck which drives over the roads and picks up every scrap of metal. On a recent 20-mile run, more than 500 pounds of steel and iron scraps were picked up.

HOLIDAY MOTORISTS ARE GIVEN WARNING

Chances of accident for motorists in week-end and holiday traffic during the summer are from five to fifteen times greater in New Haven, Fairfield and Hartford Counties than in other counties of Connecticut, it is indicated by accident records of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

It is also a two to one chance that a "holiday" motorist unfortunate enough to be in an accident will find himself involved with another driver whose home is in a town other than that in which the accident occurs. Statistics show that about two-thirds of the drivers involved in holiday or week-end accidents are from "out-of-town" or "out-of-state."

Time of day also provides an element of hazard for the holiday motorist. Chances of becoming involved in an accident are from two to eight times greater during the popular driving hours between noon and 7:30 P. M. the figures show.

The seashore counties, New Haven, Fairfield and New London, respectively, lead all others, except Hartford, which is third, in providing dangerous locale for holiday motorists. Two-thirds of the state's holiday and week-end accidents are in these three counties. Hartford County usually reports more than half of the rest.

A total of 2,309 "holiday" accidents are listed for July, August and September 1926. By counties, these occurred as follows:

New Haven, 731; Fairfield, 265; Hartford, 517; New London, 188; Litchfield, 123; Middlesex, 93; Windham, 41; Tolland 41. Practically the same standing is being maintained during the present year.

Forty small towns last year reported more than a hundred accidents in every case the drivers involved were from other towns in the state or from other states. Among 3,944 drivers listed in such accidents in 1926 only 1,681 were residents of the towns in which the accidents occurred. Drivers from other towns numbered 1,798 and from other states, 465.

Reports on the time the accidents occurred shows that 1,032 were between noon and 7:30 P. M. from 7:30 P. M. to midnight, 379 from 5 A. M. to noon, and 164 from midnight to 5 A. M. Thus far this year the accident record is about the same proportion for the respective periods.

The inhabitants of cold countries make the darkest bread, those of the tropics the whitest. Cornstarch is an ingredient in bread in Mexico and Central America. Dried fish is used in Iceland, potatoes in Ireland, tree bark in Russia.

The MOVIE PEOPLE

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood.—For thinking men and women, for the real gray matter of the acting profession, come to Hollywood.

Now if that isn't a flat statement, what is? But it is not of our coinage. For the foregoing commentary on the American stage and screen we are indebted to no other person than Douglas Fairbanks. Here's how come:

"Hollywood is the meeting place of the brains of the world," says Doug, and he speaks not in jest, either. "Just look at the intellectual caliber that comes in with every train—painters, sculptors, famous writers, decorators, great athletes.

"This is a little kingdom of the movies, and as much a center of the world of make-believe as Greece was the center of ancient art.

"Nowhere in the world today are to be found people of such high intellectual caliber."

Maybe it's all true, Doug. But some of the recent pictures lead us to be so brash as to remark that maybe the intellectuals have been off their feed for the last couple of months. Or, maybe they come to Hollywood just to play. Oh, well, let's have no issue about it.

Nell Neely, who is reported to have been born and reared on a Texas farm, but who left that state three years ago for a career as an actor in the east, has been signed for a long-term contract by Metro. He will make his screen debut in William Haines' new starring picture which Edward Sedgwick is directing. Mr. Neely appeared on the stage here as Lieut. Cunningham in "What Price Glory?" and had a role in that other play by Laurence Stallings, "The First Flight."

Richard Barthelme went to New York the other day to attend the first showing of "The Patent Leather Kid." The picture is an adaptation of a war story by Rupert Hughes and follows the action of a tank corps in which the hero of the story is enlisted.

Bull Montana appears as the ring opponent of Poodles Hanbeck in the comedy "Plumb Dumb" which is featuring the famous circus clown. The prize fight sequences which show Montana and Poodles in action are highlights of the comedy.

Henry King, the director of "Stella Dallas" and "To Have and Have Not", has signed a contract to make one picture for release by United Artists in 1928. The production will be based on an original story to be written by Mr. King.

TRAIN WRECKED NONE HURT.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers are believed by the police to have been responsible for the derailment of the Paris-Bordeaux express five miles west of Tours at midnight, causing the death of the engineer.

Investigation disclosed that twenty eight spikes had been removed from the rails, causing the tracks to spread when the train passed over the spot. None of the passengers was injured, but many of them received a severe shaking up.

Bobby Jones, golfer, has won 120 cups, but the one he prizes most is his first, only three inches high, won when he was six years old.

ISSUE ULTIMATUM

Berlin, Sept. 2.—An ultimatum demanding immediate release of three Poles arrested in Lithuania on charges of espionage has been delivered by the Polish military authorities to the Lithuanian general staff, said Kovno dispatch to the newspaper, B. Z. Ah Miting today. "The Poles threatened to use 'forceful measures' unless the Lithuanians released the captives within 48 hours.

There is a church in Santa Rosa, Cal. 60 feet wide by 100 feet long, with seating capacity of 400, that was built entirely of timber saved from one redwood tree. And then, only two-thirds of the tree was used.

NEW CEMENT CUTS TIME FOR DETOURS

Flint, Michigan.—Engineers and scientists believe construction of concrete highways will be revolutionized with adoption of a quick setting cement, a new development in the industry, that sets in from three to seven days, compared with three weeks for the present product.

The quick results are obtained simply by grinding ordinary cement finer than usual.

The first extensive use of the new product has been made on the Dixie highway near Pontiac, which connects Detroit, Pontiac and Flint, the world's three largest automobile manufacturing centers.

Here over a 1040-foot stretch the concrete was poured, with steel wire to reinforce it. The thickness of the mixture was 10 inches at the edges of the 20-foot pavement and eight inches in the center, which is not unusual in highway construction. Tests were made daily by a representative and when a tensile strength of 2000 pounds or better was obtained the road was pronounced safe for traffic.

Indicating the confidence of engineers in the durability of the new concrete, the stretch of road just paved was at a heavily traveled point where a "sink hole" had undermined the pavement, rendering the highway impassable. Preparatory to paving, it was necessary in one place to make a fill 70 feet deep to overcome the handicaps of the soggy earth, peat and black loam.

Paralleling the main road the engineers erected a unique plank road which served traffic during work on the project.

Prices

on Used Cars probably never will be lower than they are today. Dealers throughout the city have cut their stocks to bedrock. The brisk sales of new 1928 models have brought a great influx of late model "trade-ins." Rather than put them into storage dealers have priced them for immediate clearance. Select the car suited to your purse and plan from the many offered under Classification 4.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS RAISE IMPORT TAXES TO FILL WAR CHEST

Peking.—Tax everything the foreigner wants. That is the motto of the Nanking nationalist regime which has succeeded in virtually raising the cost of living in their area by half. The nationalists need at least 10,000,000 monthly, and pay no attention to treaties made to the simplest economic principles.

No distinction is made between a luxury tax and a high tariff duty for protection. They want money and the easiest way to get it is to tax the import trade. Fifteen per cent has been slapped on such so-called luxuries as watches, thermos flasks, photographic apparatus, typewriters and office equipment, cutlery, safes, furs, mararoni, fresh fruits and aerated waters.

Going up to the twenty-five per cent class, the luxury tax hits such things as jewelry, precious and semi-precious stones, silverware, curios, antiques, works of art, musical instruments, perfumery, cosmetics, motor vehicles, silk umbrellas, all foreign groceries, tinned goods, jams, chocolate, sugar and tea. That tea could be a luxury in this land of the tea pot is humor which none but a Chinese official could smile at.

The final orgy of the nationalist administrators comes with the fifty-seven and a half per cent duty on cigars, cigarettes, prepared tobacco, wines, spirits, beers and all alcoholic liquors.

ENGLAND GETS SOBER DRINK FIGURES SHOW

London.—England is growing more sober. Slowly but steadily convictions for drunkenness are decreasing, according to licensing statistics for England and Wales for 1926 issued by the Home Department.

Last year's total of convictions for intoxication was the lowest in seven years. The actual figure was 67,126, compared with 188,877 in 1913.

Points from the statistics show that Drunkenness follows prosperity. Mining areas in the north of England show a 33 per cent decrease owing to the coal strike.

Saloons have dwindled by a third since 1895, but the number of clubs licensed to sell intoxicants has doubled.

Saturday is the most drunken day; Sunday, Tuesday, and Wednesday the most sober.

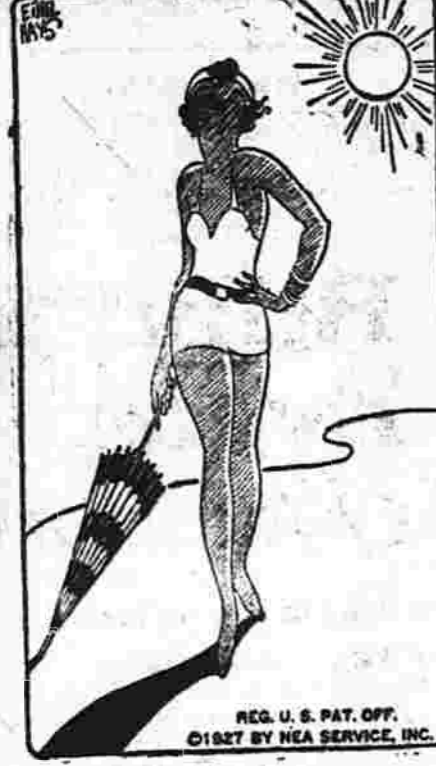

There is a saloon to every 459 persons, compared with one to every 370 in 1908.

Drunkenness from drinking methylated spirit has decreased by twelve per cent in the past year.

Deaths from alcoholism have dropped from 2,153 to 499 since 1913.

Jack Lockwill at Summer Camp

Lockwill, struggling to his feet, saw Saunders holding the head of the kicking Indian beneath the water. "He's killing Jim!" cried Twin Rose. Her cry seemed to bring Jack's strength back into his body. He leaped at Buke and yanked him backward, breaking his hold on Hatchet's neck. Tom Longpine came forth from the shadows of the woods. "Take your cousin away!" said Jack.

"No need of it," said Longpine. "He's going as fast as he can already." Looking round, Jack saw Hatchet plunge into a thicket. Then he released Saunders.

"Come, Rose," said the Indian girl's brother grimly. "And goody, White Lightning!" She looked at Jack, held both hands over her heart, then turned and ran.

Lockwill stood still, looking toward the spot where she had vanished. "Some girl, if she is a redskin!" admitted Saunders. Longpine had disappeared also. "You saved my life, Buke," said Jack. "No credit to me!" declared Saunders. "I tried to fix the Indian. 'Bill I can't forget that I owe you my life," returned Jack, taking his arm. "Let's go back to camp, old scout." (The End)

THE TNYMITES STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

Wee Clowny, high up in the tree, watched Water Bear, and said, "Oh, gee, you don't know how relieved I am. I'm filled with aching bones. I guess that I can come down now, and cross the little stream somehow. In case the bear comes back again, be sure and have some stones."
Said Scouty, "Oh, he's gone for good. He ran just as we thought he would. I guess that you would also run, if rocks were thrown at you. We didn't want to hurt the bear, but threw the rocks to give him a scare. It was a happy little bunch, and worked out perfect, too."
Then Clowny slid right down the tree. He was as graceful as a cat, and he landed on the ground. "Well, here I am," wee Clowny cried. "And now to reach the other side of this wide stream. I wonder where a big plank can be found."
A Goofy said, with solemn face, "There are no planks around this place. You'll have to find some other way. Why don't you try and swim?"
"Well, I don't know," wee Clowny cried. "I would take me long to reach that side, and anyway, I'm rather tired and just don't feel in trim."
And so the whole bunch looked around, in hope that something might be found to help poor Clowny join the bunch, but nothing was in sight. Then Carry yelled, in cheerful tone, "Why there's a dandy, great big stone, right in the middle of the stream. That ought to help just right."
"Just jump on it, and have no fear. Then, one more jump and you'll be here. I'm sure that is a statement that I will not have to prove." So Clowny promptly took a jump and landed on the rock kerkthump. And then a queer thing happened, 'cause the rock began to move.
(The surprise is solved in the next story).
