SEVEN PLANES SET FOR FLIGHTS TODAY

Brock and Schlee Leave India—Courtney in Spain; MacIntosh in Ireland; Glory in Maine.

Today's developments in the various long distance flights:

- 1.—Levine postpones flight from England.
- 2.—Royal Windsor and Old Glory ready to start from Old Orchard.
- 3.—Courtney, in Spain, await better weather.
- 4.—MacIntosh, in Ireland, held up by adverse winds.
- 5.—Brock and Schlee flew from Allahabad to Calcutta.
- 6.—Sir John Carling hopes to leave for England today.
- 7.—No trace of Redfern.

LEVINE WAITING

Sheaford, England, Sept. 6.—Adverse weather conditions this morning caused Charles D. Levine, New York to Germany flier, to abandon his intention of hopping off for New York in the monoplane Columbia today.

The flight was postponed after everything had been made ready for the take-off, which Levine had stated last night would take place early today.

Levine announced his intention to postpone the hop-off after a lengthy conference with Captain R. W. Hinchcliffe, whom he has engaged to pilot the Columbia on his proposed second flight across the Atlantic.

Everything Ready

All was in readiness for the flight when the postponement was announced. Levine had smoothened a possible rift in his relations with Captain Hinchcliffe by withdrawing his invitation to Miss Mabel Boll, of Rochester, N. Y., to accompany them on the flight as a passenger.

Late last night, Levine capitulated to the repeated urgings of Miss Boll to accompany him across the ocean, and told the Rochester heiress she might come along. Captain Hinchcliffe immediately raised strenuous objections to straining the capacity of the Columbia by the addition of another person, and threatened to resign his post as pilot if Levine allowed Miss Boll to accompany them.

Hold Conference

A conference between Levine and Hinchcliffe was held today. Levine then announced he had decided to withdraw his invitation. He stated that the flight would be made this morning if weather conditions permitted, and everything was made ready for the hop-off.

Weather reports indicating dangerous fogs and a low pressure area in the north Atlantic are believed to have influenced Levine to abandon his intention of leaving today.

Miss Boll was reported to have offered Levine a large sum of money to fly as passenger aboard the Columbia.

Miss Boll Weeps

Miss Boll burst into tears when T. Harold Kincaid, Wright Aeronautical Corporation expert, who backed up Hinchcliffe in his insistence that a passenger should not be taken on the flight, informed her that she could not go.

"I am the most disappointed woman in England," she said.

Levine took Miss Boll from London to Cranwell, last night, and informed Hinchcliffe that he had decided to take her along on the flight. The pilot immediately objected, declaring that the Columbia could not carry sufficient gasoline to transport an extra passenger. When Levine persisted, Hinchcliffe threatened to ask the air ministry to prohibit the flight, whereupon Levine capitulated.

Levine did not go to bed last night, but remained on the field hoping for an early morning hop-off. Reports of a thirty-mile headwind over the ocean, however, forced him to abandon the plan.

The Columbia remains poised for the take-off, fully loaded and tuned up, and awaiting the first favorable weather report.

Miss Boll had made all preparations for the flight after Levine had promised her she could go. She is understood to have placed her jewelry in safe custody in Paris, and to have made her will in the event of disaster.

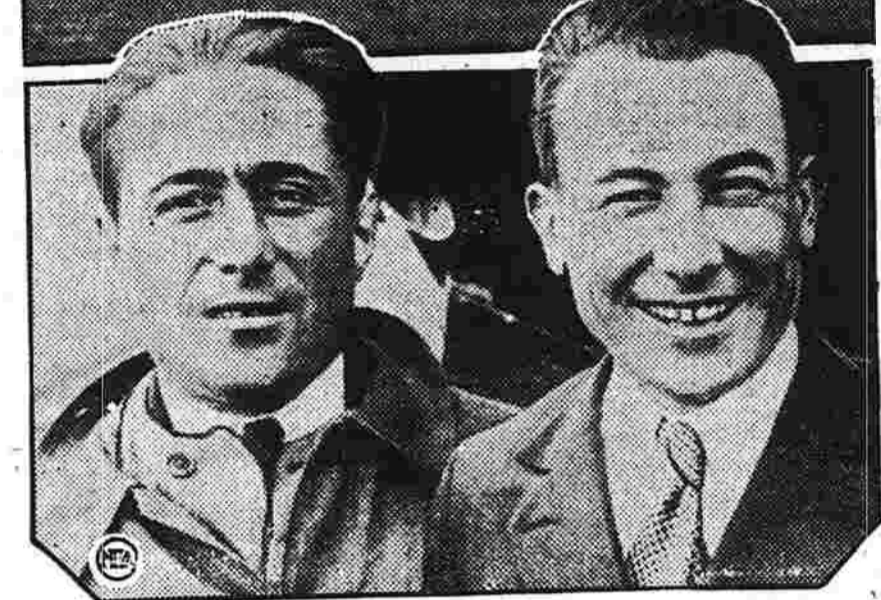

Miss Boll, it is understood, will wait here until the Columbia starts. It was hinted today that she might sail for America, possibly flying back to England with Hinchcliffe in the Columbia. Her life ambition, as she expressed it herself, is to be the first woman to fly successfully across the Atlantic ocean.

CANADIAN FLIGHTS

Harbor Grace, N. F., Sept. 6.—All is in readiness for resumption of the interrupted flight of the monoplane Sir John Carling from London, Ontario, to London, England.

The plane, brought here last evening by Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Metcalf, from Caribou, Maine, where it had been forced down by fog after taking off from London, Ont., last Wednesday, was placed on the runway in preparation for the start. Tully and Metcalf said the hop-off would

They're Going to Try it Too

STATE LABORITES HOLD CONVENTION

150 Delegates Gather in Middletown—Pay Tribute to H. Wales Lines.

Middletown, Sept. 6.—One hundred and fifty delegates gathered here today for the opening of the forty-second annual convention of the American Federation of Labor with Patrick F. O'Meara, of New Haven, presiding. The convention was welcomed by Mayor F. J. Bielefeld, and this afternoon was to receive the formal greetings of the Middletown Trades Council.

In making his annual report President O'Meara paid high tribute to the late H. Wales Lines, of Meriden, praising him and his company for always employing union labor and for their aid to organized labor. He announced that the old labor bank committee would be kept intact and that the idea of establishing such banks in the state is far from abandoned.

Trolley Strike

President O'Meara spoke on the Danbury trolley strike, the Waterbury movement to aid tubercular workers, co-operative purchasing, and the prohibition question, in that expressing his opposition as in other years.

John J. Egan, of Bridgeport, secretary, reported the committees that have been chosen for the convention's routine work. J. F. Collins, representing the American Federation of Labor, addressed the convention as national delegate. The convention will settle into its routine work late this afternoon, and hold its election of officers on Thursday.

MARCUS LOEW DEAD; MOVIE MAGNATE

Owning Hundreds of Theatres All Over U. S.—Ill a Long Time.

New York, Sept. 6.—The theatrical world today mourned the passing of Marcus Loew, for many years a pillar of the vaudeville and motion picture industries. Loew, in poor health for some time, succumbed yesterday at his Glen Cove, Long Island, home.

The funeral will be held from the home next Thursday, with interment in Cypress Hills, and "very Loew theater in the country will be closed for the day.

Loew's rise from an obscure news boy to a dominating position in the amusement business formed one of the most romantic chapters in American commercial history.

College Students Lost On Canoe Trip

Milford, Sept. 6.—Frank Murray and John F. McGarry, students at Fordham University, New York, have been missing since Sunday noon when they went out in a canoe. The youths were clad only in bathing suits. Suspecting the canoe might have been blown across Long Island, local police sent word to towns opposite here but no results were obtained. A description of the youths was broadcast from New York last night.

Meanwhile local firemen and other residents went out early today in an effort to discover some trace of the missing youths.

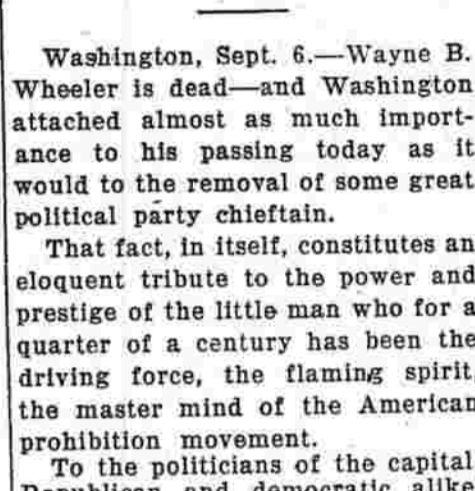

WAYNE WHEELER IS DEAD; FATHER OF THE DRY LAW

Washington Talks of His Successor—Was Master Mind of the Prohibition Movement.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Wayne B. Wheeler is dead—and Washington attached almost as much importance to his passing today as it would to the removal of some great political party chieftain.

That fact, in itself, constitutes an eloquent tribute to the power and prestige of the little man who for a quarter of a century has been the driving force, the flaming spirit, the master mind of the American prohibition movement.

To the politicians of the capital, Republican and democratic alike, Wheeler has meant prohibition and prohibition has meant Wheeler. The names have been synonymous in the minds of the people. Probably no man has ever so completely embodied a cause as Wheeler embodied prohibition, and the speculation was keen today as to his successor and

BIG C. AND O. CAUSES SCARE

Birch Mountaineer Thought Capt. Courtney's Plane Was Flying Over His House.

The phone at The Herald office shrilled.

"Hello, this is me up in Birch mountain," said a voice husky with excitement. Then continued:

"It's right over my house now. What is it? You fool—that Capt. Courtney in his airplane, you know the guy what started from Spain yesterday. How do I know it's him? Why I can read the first part of his name C and then a big O but it twists around so fast I can't make out the other names. Its awfully high up and if you reporters don't come up here right away it will get away from you."

Followed a wild chase by auto and sure enough something was seen in the sky but it disappeared.

To Keep Schools Open

A report that health authorities would suggest closing of all schools in Westchester county on account of the disease was denied today by Dr. Godfrey.

Other cities reporting cases are: Buffalo, six; Rochester, four; Glen Falls, two; Albany, three; Poughkeepsie, three; Schenectady one; Utica, five.

ELEVEN ARE INJURED IN HOLIDAY COLLISION

One Car Hits Another and Sends It Down a 25 Foot Embankment.

Danbury, Sept. 6.—Victim of the worst holiday accident in this district, Arnold Johnson of 4 Lowell Terrace, Worcester, Mass., is in a critical condition in Danbury hospital today with concussion of the brain and other injuries. Francis Clark, of Blythe street, Worcester, is in the same hospital less seriously injured, while Gunnard Johnson, of Worcester, is being held by state police pending the outcome of the victim's injuries.

The Johnson car sideswiped a car driven by Philip Welner, of Norwalk, at Georgetown, last evening, and sent it down a 25-foot embankment. Nine people in the Welner car were given first aid treatment and sent home, while the Johnson party, their car upsetting also, were brought here.

CAUGHT IN RAID

Waterbury, Sept. 6.—Three residents of Shell Hitchcock lake district have been summoned to appear before a Wolcott justice on charges of selling liquor and possessing gambling machines, following a raid by a group of constables there during the night. Timothy Moqahan, visited by the constables, was not summoned when the raiders could find nothing illegal there. The others are Robert Grant, Frank Detioretto and William Peary.

FIND BOMB FACTORY; ARREST SIX SUSPECTS

Old Glory Hops Off On Flight To Rome

Old Orchard Beach, Maine, Sept. 6.—Old Glory raced along the broad, white stretch of beach this afternoon, swept gracefully into the air in a northwest breeze and started on a non-stop flight to Rome.

The giant Fokker's golden wings and silvery body sparkled brilliantly in the sunshine of a wonderful September afternoon as the William Randolph Hearst plane climbed skyward out over the blue waters of the Atlantic.

At 12:23 p. m. took off at 12:26 and a few minutes later was a mere speck in the clouds in the distant horizon.

Those aboard the ship were pilots Lloyd Bertaud and James Dewitt Hill, and Phillip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror.

Just before the start Hill and Bertaud flipped a coin and Hill won the toss and took the controls for the long hop to Rome.

Old Glory will wing her way down the Maine coast over the Bay of Fundy, by Cape Sable, the overseas to Bordeaux, down to the Alps and over these mountains to the Eternal City.

Latin-Americans Held Following Explosion at Brooklyn Court House; Find Ten Infernal Machines and Anarchist Literature.

New York, Sept. 6.—Six young Latin-Americans were held by the Brooklyn police today following the explosion of a bomb between the Brooklyn Supreme Court building and the Hall of Records early yesterday. The authorities are trying to determine whether the men are the dangerous, bomb-throwing anarchists who recently perpetrated the New York City subway bombing or amateur inventors and toy makers. In the apartments of the six men the police found an imposing collection of bomb-making materials. They found two partly complete time bombs and material sufficient to make ten others. Also, there was a collection of machinery, ball bearings, clock work parts, a score of dry cell batteries, several pieces of window sash weights and steel shavings.

Find Maps

Most incriminating of all, was the finding of maps of public buildings, railway terminals, subway stations and railroad bridges. Then, there was a book with a chapter devoted to the making of bombs and an assortment of Anarchistic literature.

Two maps of the New York subway system and circles in red drawn around some of the stations. This led the police to believe they may have the man responsible for the blowing up of 28th street subway on the B. M. T. line recently. There was also a large scale map of the Times Square and Grand Central subway stations with black pencil marks upon it.

Deny Charges

All six suspects vigorously denied they had any connection with either the New York or Brooklyn bombings. They explained that the material found in their apartments was used by them as inventors and toy manufacturers. Four of the men are Mexicans, one a Cuban and the other a Porto Rican. They are: Mariano, 24, a dishwasher; Jesus Silva, 24, a dishwasher; Julia De Hoya, 25, a laborer; Eugenio Fernandez, 26, laborer; Victor Fern, 22, baker and Jose Bonachristal, 25, restaurant employe.

In the apartments of the men the police found a list of public buildings in Washington. Like the map of the New York public buildings, the Washington buildings were marked in red.

Many toy lead monkeys, were also found. The police suggested the possibility that the lead monkeys might be an ingenious way of storing materials for bombs.

Correspondence indicated that Silva and Madreno had just completed a tour of the United States distributing "Red" propaganda.

The bomb which exploded early yesterday near the Court House is believed by the police to be similar to those set off last month in two New York City subway stations.

BABY PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC IN N. Y.

123 Cases Reported Upstate and 153 in City During Last Month.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 6.—New York state health authorities today were mobilizing their forces to fight an epidemic of infantile paralysis.

One hundred and twenty three cases were reported during July and August from up-state, while Greater New York reported 153 cases during August.

Up-state New York has not been as hard hit by the disease this fall as it was a year ago but New York City has more cases than at any time in last few years," said Dr. E. S. Godfrey, Jr., director of division of communicable diseases in state department of health. "There are less cases up-state now than at any time since 1922."

Westchester Hit

Westchester county has been hit hardest by the disease of any county outside Greater New York. Dr. Godfrey said. Opening of schools at Tarrytown and North Tarrytown was postponed for two weeks at the suggestion of state health authorities.

The epidemic in Westchester county has centered in Tarrytown where reported eleven cases. Seven cases have been reported from Yonkers, two from White Plains, one from Dobbs Ferry, and one from Pelham Manor.

Found yesterday afternoon lying at the point of death in an old barn near the East cemetery in which he had been living for two weeks, John Connors, a farm hand who roomed at 335 Charter Oak street, was rushed to the Memorial hospital where it was said that his condition is very serious.

Connors, who is about forty years old is suffering from heart disease, kidney trouble and pneumonia, and, in addition to all that from starvation.

Without money and unable to obtain employment, Connors had wandered fruitlessly about in search of work at farms where he had previously been hired. For a week, it has been learned, Connors had been without proper food. Instead of being able to follow a diet outlined when he was at the hospital some time ago for treatment, Connors was unable to get any meals at all. Although he went back to places where he had formerly worked, there was nothing for him.

Silent as His Misery

Connors was last seen on Main street Friday afternoon. At that time, he looked greatly reduced in weight but he said nothing about his condition to those who knew him. He is said to be an unusually reticent person. It was that same afternoon, that Connors started out on another long walk in search of work.

Overcome by weakness, he fell at the roadside, but later managed to get back to the barn which is owned by William Grady of Vernon and stands at the rear of East Cemetery. A woman saw him and telephoned to the police station. Sergeant William Barron and Patrolman John McGinn went to the scene and found Connors unable to speak, so weak was he from lack of food and from exhaustion. He was removed to the hospital where his condition is said to be critical.

BRITAIN AGAINST PLANE REGULATION

"Let Pioneers Go On. We Need Them" Says Director of Civil Aviation.

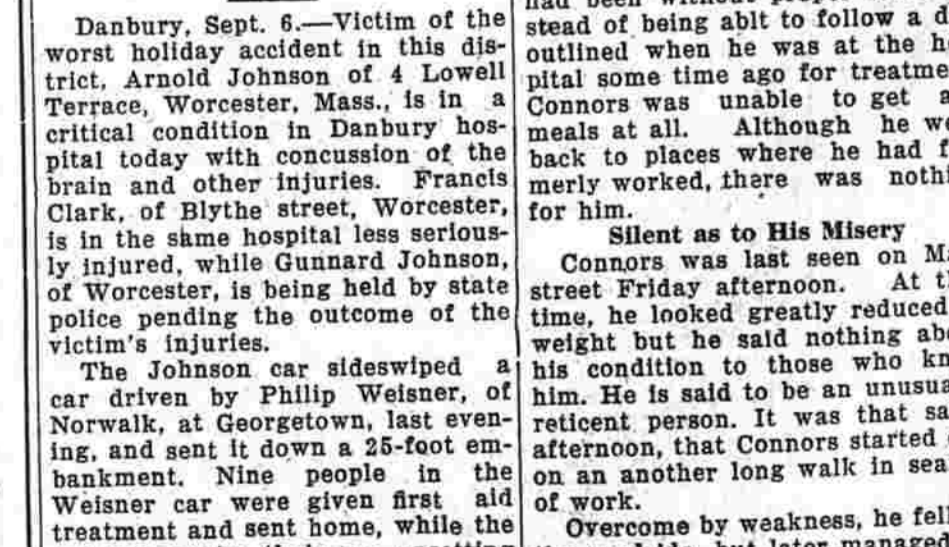

London, Sept. 6.—British air officials are not in sympathy with American proposals to regulate by law attempts to fly across the ocean.

Discussing the resolution passed by the American Bar Association at its recent convention in Buffalo which called upon Congress to pass legislation controlling trans-oceanic flights, Sir Seton Brackley, director of English civil aviation, said:

"We cannot stop people from attempting to fly over the Atlantic ocean any more than we can stop them from mountain climbing or big game hunting. Moreover, we do not want to stop them. All great achievements have involved danger and death in their early stages.

"Let these pioneers go on. I am confident that eighteen years from now we'll be buzzing across the Atlantic regularly. Eighteen years ago we didn't dream of flying in airplanes across the English channel. Courage should be our motto. Don't let us always be playing for safety. Safety can be reached only by dangerous paths."

HE HELD 13 TRUMPS, BUT TOOK NARY A TRICK

Try your puzzle-puller on this one, auction sharks! South, his back to you in the picture, held thirteen spades, won the bid with a declaration of six but DIDN'T TAKE AS MUCH AS A SINGLE TRICK!

"Impossible," you say? Quite right—ordinarily!

But North, you see, was one of those hot-tempered fellows quick to condemn their partners. And when South, perforce, trumped the dummy's club ace, with which he had covered the king opened by West, NORTH SHOT HIM!

Don't let your impatience or miscomprehension get the better of YOU! Learn bridge from A to Z! Master it! Know it so that when you sit down to play with experts you can understand and appreciate their every strategy.

That's what "BRIDGE ME ANOTHER." The Herald's new and exclusive auction serial, will enable you to do it. It imparts, in the entertaining, instructive and popular question-and-answer form, the fundamentals and fine points of America's favorite indoor pastime.

Facts, fun and profit for beginners and "semi-professionals," by W. W. Wentworth, the authority who encourages "bridge instinct" over cut-and-dried stereotyped formulas.

Don't miss it! Follow it from day to day, beginning today on the Home Page, exclusively in The Herald.

Rockville LOCAL MEN AID IN CLINE SEARCH Go to Fair Grounds to Seek Lost Aviator—Rockville Notes.

(Special to The Herald.) Rockville, Sept. 6.—The first indication that Aviator Cline who was killed in East Willington Saturday was last to reach Rockville was a telephone call to the Rockville police early Saturday morning. At 2 o'clock Officer Richard Shea answered a telephone call from Hartford, it was learned this morning, and accompanied by Carl Bush, who had just returned from Manchester, where he is employed as a night dispatcher on the Connecticut Company lines, went to the Rockville fair grounds. The grounds were all lighted up as the fair had closed and the different shows were "pulling down." The Colonial Air Transport Company has only recently contracted for the landing of airships, in distress in the so-called Banford lot, across the road from the Almshouse. The local men made an investigation, returned to Rockville and reported that they were unable to locate the man or his plane, but aside from "thanks" were given no other information. Cline's body was not kept in Rockville long. After being removed from the woods in East Willington the body was brought to Luther White's undertaking rooms here and on instructions from Alva Cline of Lima, Ohio, was shipped from Hartford at 5:50 Sunday night.

Prize Winners
Benny's Boy a blue medal collier, owned by Miss Bernice Morin of this city, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morin, won first prize in the puppy, American breed, novice and open classes at the dog show held in Willimantic yesterday and in addition to this was awarded a special prize of best of breed.

Naturalizing Court.
Over two hours of this morning's session of the superior court was taken up with the work of naturalization. There were eighty-one cases to be heard. Unlike the old form all of the examination is not made in an open court, but is taken care of in special examinations. This leaves the inspector in a position to soon tell what the qualifications are as a result many were taken back for further examination and not allowed their papers.

Marriage Intentions.
Elmer R. Lindquist, a salesman, a resident of Hartford and Miss Helen C. Zeffel, a stenographer and a resident of Tolland have filed intentions of marriage with Town Clerk J. B. Thomas. They will be married by Rev. George Brook, Thursday.

Tax Collected.
Tax Collector Claud Mills who has started the collection of taxes has collected in the first three days $15,000.

Republican Caucus.
Republicans of Vernon will meet in caucus Friday to nominate for town officers and also elect a town committee. There will be the office of tax collector to be filled as Collector Mills will not be a candidate. There is also a vacancy in the board of assessors. No opposition to the re-election of the present other officers is expected.

Will Receive Names.
The board of registrars of the town of Vernon will be in session until 9 o'clock tonight to receive names of those wishing to be voters.

The September term of the superior court for Tolland County was opened at 10:05 this morning. There were six cases on the criminal side, including that of Leonard Cline, charged with murder, but his case has been assigned for Wednesday and he was not present when the court cases were called.

In the case of Thomas Herbert of Stafford charged with bigamy the case was further continued until the October term.

John Kamonski charged with violation of motor vehicle law, the case was vacated. Ernest Lenz, on a similar charge was not in court and his case goes over until this afternoon's session.

Richard Lange of Tolland, who appeared after he had been fined $5 and costs when his dog was found killing sheep, also vacated his appeal.

Ellis Bogue who comes into the court on an appeal for the fine and sentence imposed in Mrs. Fanny Dixon Welsh's case, in Columbia, was not present at the hearing and his case goes over to this afternoon's session.

Both of these cases will be completed today.

Surprise Party
Miss Marion Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of Lawrence street was pleasantly surprised on Friday evening when about twenty of her friends met at her home. During the evening there was a social time of games and a musical program after which Miss Reid was presented with many beautiful miscellaneous presents.

Among those present were the Misses Isabelle, Helen and Lillian Reid, Agnes McCarthy, Sophie Gessey, Carrie Stalger, Ruth Keeney, Phyllis Lisk, Florence, Dora, Esther and Ella Friedrich, Hazel Murphy, Frances Tobin, Catherine Fay, Catherine Jackson and Mrs. Jackson.

Miss Reid's office associates at the Aetna Life Insurance Co. of Hartford gave her an electrical shower on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Reid will be married Wednesday morning at St. Bernard's church to Leonard Friedrich of Harlow street.

Auto Fire
An alarm was rung in Saturday evening at 6:05 o'clock from Box 34 at the corner of Main and Grove streets when a Ford roadster owned by Henry Haeefe of Tolland caught fire. Haeefe was driving east on Main street at the end of the Middle Terrace when the fire was detected. The Fitch Hose Co. answered the alarm and extinguished the fire. Small damage was done to the car.

Mrs. Barzella E. Moody
The funeral of Mrs. Barzella Elizabeth Moody, of Mountain street will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Taylor and Moeber undertaking rooms on Washington street, Hartford. Mrs. Moody will be at the Zion Hill cemetery. Mrs. Moody's death comes as she had been sick for a short time and died at the Hartford hospital on Saturday.

She is survived by her husband and a son Ralph Chilton, three step-children, Joseph, Blanche and Doris Moody; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin A. Hodge; three sisters, Mrs. H. I. Ray of Hartford, Mrs. Ralph Kagan of Philadelphia and Mrs. Alfred Steele of Hartford; two brothers, Frank C. Hodge of Hartford and H. L. Hodge of Bridgeport.

Finced in Greenwich
George Goldblott, who said he was a Rockville salesman, was fined $250 and sent to jail for sixty days for transporting liquor in his car in the Borough Court in Green wich this morning. Goldblott had 13 gallons of liquor when he was arrested Saturday.

Notes
Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Drayton returned to their home on Prospect street at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning after a six weeks' trip to England and Wales. Mr. and Mrs. Drayton report a splendid trip although they encountered a rainy season during much of their stay.

KINGSBURY THIRD IN CATTLE JUDGING

Coventry Lad Will Go to Tennessee For National Dairy Show Next Month.

Tolland County captured three places in seven in the judging of dairy cows by the 4H club at the Connecticut State Fair yesterday.

Raymond Kealey of Middletown was high man, Arnold Manning of Leonard's Bridge was second and George Kingsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kingsbury of Coventry, was third.

These three boys will represent the state 4H club at the National Dairy Show in Tennessee in October. Thirty-three boys of the state competed in the judging yesterday.

The other two Tolland County winners assisted George Kingsbury were John H. Skinner of Vernon, fifth, and George Dart of Vernon, seventh.

The boys judged the cattle as they were brought out, and then wrote their reasons for selecting the winners. The boys' decisions were compared with the decisions of the cattle judges and the winners of the contest decided that way.

Tolland County has several other exhibits in the 4H club show at the fair.

"SHIMMYING BED" LATEST MYSTERY

It's been doing that for three weeks now and we can't sleep nights."

Dishes Shake.
The tremble of the bed was easily visible to the neighbors and a nearby dresser made a continued rattling noise although not loud. When taking hold of the iron bedpost, one could feel the tremble very distinctly. It is so strong that it felt like a slight current of electricity. By leaning against the wall, one could feel the entire house shake.

Everyone who has visited the tiny little house which is only a few rods away, is running through some channel under the house causing the disturbance.

The house stands on a brick foundation on a steep hill at the edge of a deep ravine. It is the first house on the right hand side of Spring street going east after crossing the little wooden bridge over the brook leading from Globe Hollow.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vullermet and their son are thoroughly frightened over the matter, and being somewhat superstitious, their fears are intensified. It is understood that they are at the local stationing the house in which they have lived for four months.

ANDOVER

Roscoe Talbot, who is substituting for Raymond Halsted as telegraph operator at the local station, will also substitute for Harry Milburn while he is on his vacation.

The two-act comedy "The White Shawl" will be presented in the Andover Town hall on Wednesday evening by Coventry talent. There will be musical numbers before and after the play and between acts, furnished by local talent. This is to be given under the auspices of the Andover Christian Endeavor society, members of which will sell ice cream and cake after the program.

Roscoe Talbot drove to Willington Sunday to view the ruins of the lost air-mail plane. Mr. Talbot became lost in the woods and walked miles before he found the way out.

Mrs. A. E. Frink and daughter spent Tuesday in Hartford.

Miss Wilder, of Hartford, was the week-end guest of Miss Mildred Hamilton. Miss Wilder rendered a soprano solo during the morning service at the Congregational church, and also during the evening meeting of the Christian Endeavor.

POLICE HERE AID IN BURGLAR HUNT

Capture of Suspects in New Britain Follows Looting of Columbia Garage.

Following a robbery at Columbia early Saturday morning, in which a garage was entered, automobile supplies stolen and a lot of gratuitous damage done, a thief hunt was set on foot by the Willimantic police which resulted in close scrutiny of scores of automobiles passing through Manchester and the arrest later at New Britain of two young men on suspicion of connection with the crime.

Joseph Calandrelli, Jerry Mealio, and James Pinque, all of Stamford, who made and were sending off the fire works, were arrested and released in bail of $1,500 each pending an investigation.

Thirty-seven bombs, lying on the ground, exploded prematurely for some unknown reason and pieces raked the large gathering which was pressing close upon the space where the fire works were being put off. Besides the seventeen persons taken to the hospital a score were treated on the spot by doctors and went home.

The fireworks marked the end of a celebration in honor of Saint Mary Murgie by the society of that name here.

HELD RESPONSIBLE
Bridgeport, Sept. 6.—Arthur D. Winn, of 10 Cottage place, was today held criminally responsible for the death of James Whaley, 82, who was run down by a car driven by Winn at Main and Whiting streets on August 30. Coroner John J. Phelan, in deciding the case, finds there was no interfering traffic to obstruct Winn's vision and that the corner where the accident occurred was well lighted. Winn is under bail for a City Court hearing.

HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS
Norwalk, Sept. 6.—Twenty-two persons were treated at Norwalk hospital, over the holiday, for injuries received in motor accidents, but only one person, Joseph Raszewsky, 20, of 33 Perry avenue, is likely to die. The youth, driving in town from the north this morning, fell asleep at the wheel. His car ran into a fence, and a fence rail was driven into his throat. Surgeons at Norwalk hospital found his bow neck tie driven into his throat and lodged under an ear.

The two men arrested were taken to Willimantic yesterday. They are believed by police to have been mixed up in a large number of Connecticut burglaries, many of them being safe cracking jobs.

REGISTRARS RECEIVE APPLICATIONS TODAY

About 200 File Names to Be Made Voters—Make Voters Sept. 17 and 24.

The registrars will be in session until six o'clock today at the new municipal building for the reception of applications of those who wish to be made voters. This is the last possible opportunity that would-be voters will have to get their names to the registrars. This may be done by telephone.

The selectmen and town clerk will sit to make voters beginning Saturday, September 17. In all probability the board will sit on two days, the 17th and 24th. These are the first and last days on which voters may be made.

Up to this afternoon about 200 applications had been filed with the registrars.

YOUTHS BOUND OVER

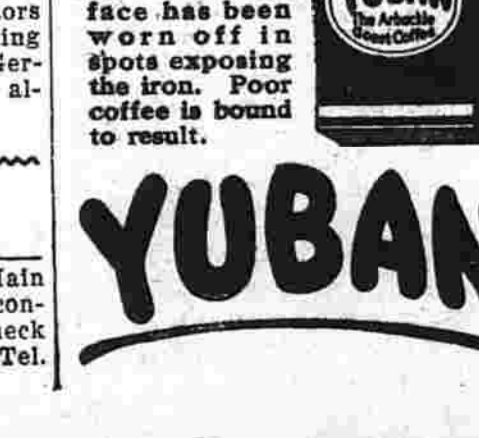

Waterbury, Sept. 6.—Four local youths, accused of a series of armed robberies in this district, in which automobile parties parked by road sides were the victims, were bound over for trial in the Superior Court here today, and placed under bonds of $5,000 each on charges of highway robbery. The men are: Patrick O'Brien, 27; Harvey Pelletier, 25; Dominic Forth, 19, and Louth Migallt, 21.

Perhaps Yesterday

YOUR coffee was fair—perhaps no better today. How about tomorrow? Why not make sure that there will not be another disappointment?

Here is a way that you can be certain, always, of having coffee that you will enjoy. Order a sealed can of perfectly blended, perfectly roasted, perfectly ground coffee, ready to use, sure to be right—YUBAN. Steaming hot, golden brown in the cup, it is a drink that refreshes and invigorates.

Coffee Making Pointers
Never use a tin coffee pot or an enameled pot in which the surface has been scratched or of iron spots exposing the iron. Poor coffee is bound to result.

One Dead, Score Hurt As Fireworks Explode

Norwalk, Sept. 6.—One person is dead and many injured are under treatment here as the result of a premature explosion of fireworks during a celebration by an Italian society here last night, while three men, all residents of Stamford, are under arrest because of the tragedy.

Julius Popp, nine years old, of 123 Elly avenue, died in Norwalk hospital today as a result of injuries received in the explosion. Others most severely injured are Edward Crofoot and his nine-year-old son Edward, Jr., and Paul Lasso, 37, all Norwalk residents. In all seventeen people were taken to the hospital.

Three Arrests
Joseph Calandrelli, Jerry Mealio, and James Pinque, all of Stamford, who made and were sending off the fire works, were arrested and released in bail of $1,500 each pending an investigation.

Thirty-seven bombs, lying on the ground, exploded prematurely for some unknown reason and pieces raked the large gathering which was pressing close upon the space where the fire works were being put off. Besides the seventeen persons taken to the hospital a score were treated on the spot by doctors and went home.

The fireworks marked the end of a celebration in honor of Saint Mary Murgie by the society of that name here.

During their stay abroad, Miss Tinker and Mrs. Hammond visited England, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and other countries. They bought an automobile soon after arriving on the continent and used it during their seven months tour, sailing it again before embarking for the United States.

Miss Tinker plans to take a year's preparatory training and then enter college to study medicine. She is a graduate of the St. Margaret's school of Waterbury and the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics.

GOOD WILL OUTING
Neighbors and friends from the Fifth District to the number of 60 held an all-day outing Sunday at Lake George, Wales, Mass., across the border from Stafford. Twelve automobiles were in the procession and while the affair was planned by members of the Good Will club, the Parent-Teacher association affiliated with the Kenney street school, it was by no means confined to members. Boating and bathing was indulged in by the youngsters of the party and a hearty lunch was consumed under the shade of an apple tree, the plonkers seated around on auto robes from the cars. The return trip was made about sundown and everybody voted the outing a great success.

WAYNE B. WHEELER DIES IN SANITARIUM

"right" with the Anti-Saloon League. Always watching. So, year after year, he divided his time between his somewhat dingy little office at the base of Capital Hill, and the galleries of Congress, ever watchful, always alert, a nod of his head, a wave of his hand in the gallery, and it was not an unusual sight to see half a dozen members leave the floor and consult with him in the corridors.

It is little wonder then that the politicians of Capital Hill have been interested today in his successor. On every hand there was heard the question: "Who is going to succeed Wheeler?" There was no mistaking the interest in the answer, to those who have depended upon his support in their biennial struggles for re-election.

take place today if weather conditions permit. While the plane was being refueled last night a slight fire occurred when gasoline from a leaking tank came in contact with a lighted oil lantern. The fire John Carling was immediately pushed out of the danger zone and the fire extinguished without any damage being done.

Other Planes. Old Orchard, Me., Sept. 6.—Nothing but adverse weather can now delay the trans-Atlantic flights of the Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England plane Royal Windsor, and the William Randolph Hearst New York-to-Rome plane Old Glory.

Both machines waited on the Maine coast early today in the mud of Scarborough Field. Windsor's fuel tank was refueled by Capt. Lloyd Bertaud and James Dewitt Hill, pilot and navigator of Old Glory may leave between noon and 2 P. M. Eastern Standard Time.

Bertaud said that he and Hill plan to fly back from Rome as soon as the plane can be overhauled and refueled, probably leaving by the southern route, with Florida as the first point on the mainland of America to be touched.

Courtesy, who was forced down here by stormy weather after leaving Plymouth, Mass., announced he will fly direct to New York when weather conditions become more favorable, instead of stopping at the Azores and Newfoundland as he had previously planned.

IRISHMAN TO HOPE. Dublin, Sept. 6.—Captain R. H. Macintosh plans to hop off here in the "Princess Xenia" for Philadelphia as soon as wind and weather conditions are more favorable for the trans-Atlantic venture.

The plane has been completely groomed for the flight. Captain Macintosh said last night that if Charles D. Levine left Seaford, England, today for America, he would immediately follow in the Princess Xenia. Now that Levine's flight has been postponed, it is not believed Macintosh will start today.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (75) Riders on the Wind

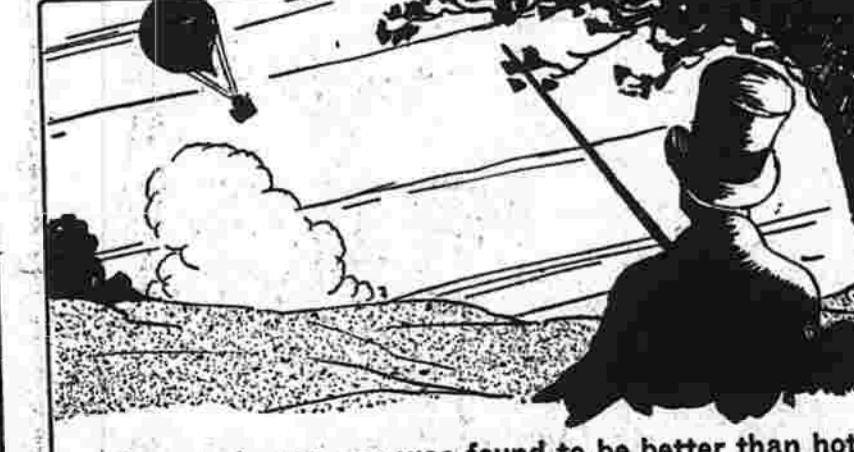

For unsuccessful centuries men tried to master the air. Inventors year after year studied the birds and tried to copy them and build machines to fly. The annals of aviation are full of the names of hapless martyrs and pioneers who met ridicule and misfortune in their efforts.

In 1782 and 1783 two Frenchmen named Montgolfier made balloons which they inflated with hot air produced by burning straw.

Two men dared to go up in one of these in 1783 and afterward several voyages were made in different countries.

Soon hydrogen gas was found to be better than hot air and large balloons were built. These were the first passenger craft, but for more than a hundred years no way could be found to control the direction of the huge ships which followed the wind.

ADVERTISING After a long, studious and comprehensive survey of New England's industries, conducted under the sanction of the New England Council, L. V. Alden, industrial engineer acting in co-operation with the Department of Commerce and the Council's research committee, arrives at the conclusion that the one point in which New England industries are falling behind those of other sections is in their methods of selling and, particularly, advertising.

There is not the slightest doubt that in many lines in which New England excels—and that means pretty much every line in which she is engaged—rival industries in other parts of the country, less experienced, less well equipped, producing less excellent commodities, are successfully creating the impression that their products are fresher, more desirable and more advantageously priced to the consumer, than those of this section.

In other words, they are getting away with business that New England ought to have, not because they are as good manufacturers or have as skilled and efficient help, but because they appreciate the necessity of creating public demand for their wares through the wise employment of printers' ink.

We have in mind a special case. There is in one of the large western cities a very successful concern that annually sells millions of dollars worth of small tools. It presents itself to the public, through its enormous advertising, as a manufacturer of the very best of such tools to be had anywhere. It is, indeed, a manufacturer; but its factories are relatively small affairs and their product is negligible compared with the volume of the company's sales. A great many of the goods sold by this concern are manufactured in New England, by old, expert manufacturers who can and do produce quality goods at figures which this western house could not approach. But the western firm knows how to advertise and how to sell. It places huge contracts with the New England factories—naturally at prices low enough to permit of a safe margin—and makes a profit on every chisel or screw driver. And every tool is stamped with the brand and the city of the western company.

Not only are the New England industries which deal with this concern selling their product below the market, cutting their own profits and so hampering the development of their own growth, but the system inculcates the impression everywhere throughout the country that the place where good tools are manufactured is, not New England, but this western city. There are probably hundreds of hardware dealers all over the country who would not refuse to buy direct, from the real manufacturers of these tools, even under better price and terms conditions, because they "have no reputations."

Such is the power of advertising. Those who put it to work in their own interest succeed. Those who permit it to be employed against them, without in turn employing it in their own defense, are bound to be submerged.

WAYNE WHEELER

Wayne B. Wheeler, upon whose house tragedy has laid an over-cruel hand and whose untimely death even his sturdiest enemies will regret, was the Peter the Hermit of the first great American crusade against King Alcohol. Like the Priest of Amiens he had the gift of setting fire to the souls of men, of stirring them to incredible deeds and spurring them to the achievement of the seemingly impossible. And it does not alter the fact of his amazing leadership and his amazing successes that, like the leader of Pauper Crusaders, the sum total of it has been unspeakable disaster.

The flaming chieftainship of Peter the Hermit aroused the Christian world to such heights of determination that for centuries that determination occupied the mass mind of Europe. If there had been no Priest of Amiens the history of the world would never, in all probability, have stood as it has stood since the middle ages. And yet the adventure that he led, standing alone, was not only a colossal disaster, it was a debacle.

Wayne Wheeler, it is hardly too much to say, brought about the eighteenth amendment to the United States constitution. It is extremely doubtful if, under any other leadership, that achievement could have come to pass. Peter the Hermit led an army of indigents across Europe to Constantinople. Nobody else could have done it. Peter's Crusaders were destroyed. Wheeler's eighteenth amendment has worked unspeakable havoc. But other crusaders, using other methods and other arms followed Peter. Other liquor crusaders using other methods will follow Wheeler. The war against the kingship of drink will go on. But the attempt to win it through federal prohibition is like the Pauper's Crusade of Peter—magnificent, awakening, but without a chance.

BUNGLED

Never has a law, admirable in principle and commanding the support of right thinking people, been so shockingly bungled in its administration as the present immigration law of the United States. There are times when it is difficult to believe that it is not being betrayed in the house of its apparent friends—that, there is not being made every possible effort to discredit the quota law and bring about, in sheer disgust, a letting down of the bars for a fresh influx of unassimilable aliens.

Florida Santiago Muniz, legal Spanish wife of Max Muniz of Martin's Ferry, O., a naturalized American, has been excluded from the United States, after having received government permission to come here to join her husband—for what reason? Because, if you please, the Spanish form of wedding ceremony by which she became Muniz's bride, while lawful in Spain, does not seem to the administrators of the immigration regulations to be legal in the United States.

Muniz was married by proxy. But this was no such proxy marriage as is barred by the immigration laws, where commercial or "photograph" brides are imported. Muniz and the girl had been sweethearts since childhood. He had come to America, found his place in the little Ohio town, and prospered. He had not yet become an American citizen when he planned to have his sweetheart join him here. A proxy marriage was arranged and, the groom's own father acting in his behalf, the ceremony was performed in 1925. All legal under the sovereign power of Spain.

But Spain's quota is very small. It transpired that it was pre-empted for several years to come. So Florida could not come to America. But as the wife of an American citizen she could come—and last April, at the first possible moment, Muniz's citizenship was perfected. He asked the authorities at Washington for a non-quota visa for his wife. He proved his citizenship and the request was granted. After two years of waiting, Mrs. Muniz sailed for New York, reaching there on August 27.

Then, somehow or other, the meticulous administrators of the alien law learned about the proxy marriage. Horrified, they have turned back the long-waiting bride. She must go back to Spain and the house at Martin's Landing paid for and awaiting, must continue to be without a mistress. After the word of the government had been passed that Mrs. Muniz would be admitted.

Meantime criminals from every port of Europe, eager to share in the bootlegging loot, are flocking over the borders in freight cars, by airplane, in motorboats, afoot, by the hundreds and thousands. They ask for no visas.

It seems incredibly stupid.

LEGION IN PARIS American Legionnaires in appreciable numbers have already arrived in Paris and the manner of their reception puts to rest any anxiety that may have existed lest the French populace should manifest a sour or unfriendly attitude. There never has been any real ground for such apprehension. Notoriously the French radical is the most vocal in Europe when he is stirred up, and he saw fit to become extraordinarily stirred up over the Sacco-Vanzetti case. But he doesn't, like the Russ red, work steadily at his trade of being a radical. He has spells of being a Frenchman; and, fortunately, these spells are much longer than the spasms of redism. Besides, there are not very many of him, at best—or worst. We haven't the slightest doubt that the very individuals who made so great a show of yearning to pull every tail feather out of the American eagle over the Sacco case will be weeping over the parading Legionnaires, and trying to kiss them on both cheeks, before the Paris convention is over.

DIED FOR PROGRESS

There is a vital difference between such tragedies of the air as the death of Pilot Dan Cline in the East Willington woods and such as the loss of the "St. Raphael" or the Hawaii or Brazilian adventures. Cline was engaged in a reasonable if dangerous business. He was helping to establish a useful public service. There is concrete value to the development of rapid transportation of commodities. This aviator was a pioneer in an activity which may very well come to be, in the future, one of the sane refinements of civilization. That he took too great a risk in his enthusiasm for his job is regrettable but far from deserving of reproach. He was a brave man who died in the line of duty.

We can see no parallel at all between the running of such necessary hazards in such a cause and the cynical throwing away of their own lives by mere glory seekers who cannot rest because they are not sharing the fame of the Lindbergs and the Byrds.

Old Master's

When I was a beggarly boy And lived in a cellar damp, I had not a friend nor a toy, But I had Aladdin's lamp.

When I could not sleep for the cold, I had fire enough in my brain, And builded, with roofs of gold, My beautiful castles in Spain.

Since then I have tolled day and night, I have money and power good store, But I'd give all my lamps of silver bright For one that is mine no more.

Take, Fortune, whatever you choose; You gave, and may snatch again; I have nothing 'twould pain me to lose.

For I own no more castles in Spain! —James Russell Lowell: Aladdin

New York, Sept. 6.—No visitor to Manhattan should fail to peep in on the most hectic 20 minutes of the day found anywhere under the sun with the exception, perhaps, of the Stock Exchange during a market raid.

This sight can be witnessed almost any evening simply by walking to 44th and Broadway. The time is 8 to 8:20 p. m. And the place is Joe Leblang's ticket agency.

Here come all the last minute combatants for bargain seats at the theaters. A bargain counter is a quiet and peaceful scene by contrast. Out of the streets mill all the good folk who have made up their minds at the last minute. Arms shoot out right and left and voices are raised to high pitch. From hotels and clubs and apartments come phone calls and clerks who dart about like airplanes. Money changes with the rapidity of lightning and into outstretched hands are thrust bits of paper that act as "open Sesames" to Broadway.

Half the crowd is hoping for a last minute bargain. The names of productions flash down upon scores of eyes and quick decisions must be made, however wrong they may eventually prove.

It's practically all over in 20 minutes, but during that time—Oh, boy!

About ten years ago, or more, he bobbed up in Hester Street—the heart of the great East Side. He was a young fellow singing ballads. He had a mad idea, Broadway travel in the way he sang them—no, it was more the fellow himself, perhaps. Anyway, within a short time the whole town seemed to hear about Tommy Lyman.

He was singing over at Jimmy Kelly's. And for many a year, he had himself open to criticism. None other than Secretary Mellon made a remark or two about the British debt that sent the British government higher into the air than Lindbergh ever could fly and brought a bomb crashing about Mellon's facts and figures.

Secretary Kellogg is on the list for his refusal to allow aviators of the Houston (Tex.) Chamber of Commerce to make a goodwill flight to Mexico City, because such a flight would jeopardize the "larger interests" of this country.

Disregarding the effect of the statement on whatever friendly feeling Mexico might entertain for her northern neighbor, everyone in this country promptly assumed that Kellogg's "larger interests" meant "big interests," hence oil. Whereas the secretary meant nothing of the sort.

Secretary Wilbur has had his moments, too. There is no need to hark back to the political speech which the president himself had to suppress. Recently his rebuke of the two Pacific flyers for sending out an SOS just when they expected to fall into the middle of the ocean, has been added to the classics.

Secretary Hoover has handled himself well and seldom tripped up. Secretary Sargent has solved the problem by saying nothing, whatever, although a speech to Italian Mussolini fans in which he honorably mentioned Garibaldi brought bangs to his hearers.

Even Secretary New might wish to erase the threat of postal prosecution of Charles A. Levine after the Chamberlain-Levine flight to Germany.

President Coolidge has stood behind the protecting coat-tails of the feature of a presidential spokesman, of course, but even from this refuge

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Sept. 6.—Historians may credit great and good works to the present administration, but in these annals will be recorded few mighty deeds of fact.

Of the official family, as honest a group as Diogenes ever could hope to find, few members have developed that grace and caution of speech which save a man from retreating or denying what he has spoken.

Recent utterances of the two new prohibition chiefs call this to mind. Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, until recently a retiring, hard-working chemist engaged in preparing alcohol formulae to defeat the hosts of bootleggers, summarized the beer situation the other day after a survey in the larger mid-western cities.

Dr. Doran announced that the beer of this now was very bad. The price of beer had been forced up to 25 cents a glass, "an awful price to pay for beer." Brewers were persuading the public to accept near beer at the rate of 6,000,000 barrel a year.

Dr. Doran, to be sure, probably will learn more as he goes along. Speakeasy beer, always terrible, always has sold for 25 cents a glass and customers commonly understand it is near beer "needed" with alcohol.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman started his troubles with his first two public announcements in the first, he criticized "fanatical wets and fanatical dries" and then was understood to have said that he had given up hope of enforcing prohibition in New York. His first statement aroused the ire of both wets and dries, and the second utterance brought the dries clamoring about his ears for explanations.

But Lowman and Doran's bad breaks are mentioned first only because they have been recent. Other government administrators also have had themselves open to criticism. None other than Secretary Mellon made a remark or two about the British debt that sent the British government higher into the air than Lindbergh ever could fly and brought a bomb crashing about Mellon's facts and figures.

Secretary Kellogg is on the list for his refusal to allow aviators of the Houston (Tex.) Chamber of Commerce to make a goodwill flight to Mexico City, because such a flight would jeopardize the "larger interests" of this country.

Disregarding the effect of the statement on whatever friendly feeling Mexico might entertain for her northern neighbor, everyone in this country promptly assumed that Kellogg's "larger interests" meant "big interests," hence oil. Whereas the secretary meant nothing of the sort.

WRIGHT TAKES UP JOB AS PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

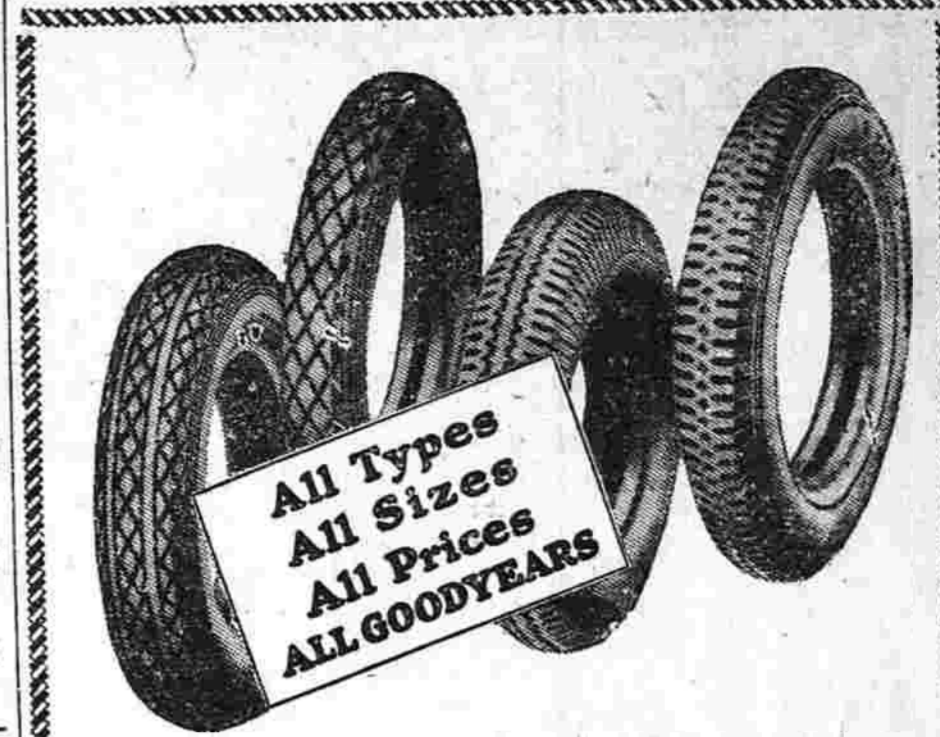

Gilbert Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright of 29 Pearl street, left yesterday morning for Schenectady, N. Y., where he begins work today as director of physical education at the Woodlawn Junior High School in that city. Raymond McCaughey, another Manchester man, has had a similar position at the Van Cleve Junior High School in that city for three years. He and Wright made the trip together in McCaughey's automobile. A graduate in 1920 of South Manchester High School, where he won many athletic honors, Wright entered Springfield College where he continued to excel both in studies and in sports. He made the varsity baseball team his second year at college and was its captain last year. Wright also managed the football team. He was graduated in June. During the summer months he has worked as substitute mail-carrier at the South Manchester Post Office.

MURPHEY BIG WINNER AT FAIR FLOWER SHOW

Gets Total of 14 Prizes at Charter Oak Park Exhibit; Invites People to Gardens. Charles M. Murphey of the Murphey Gladioli farm feels much gratified at the decision of the judges of the gladioli exhibit at the Connecticut state fair, in awarding him a total of 14 prizes in the different classes in which his flowers were entered. This is the second annual show of the Connecticut Gladioli society to be held in connection with the fair. Many of the largest growers in New England exhibited and competition was keen. The display equal in quality to the August show of the American Gladioli society, held in August at the state grounds, though not so extensive. Floral has been thronged since the opening of the show Sunday afternoon. In the open classes, where awards were made for the best three spikes to a vase, out of 13 entries the Murphey gardens won five firsts, five seconds and two third prizes; second prize in the class of twelve spikes each originated by a different American grower. Mrs. Charles Hevenor of Wapping won first award for the best vase of "Benzal Tiger" and the Murphey were third in this class. Mr. Murphey extends an invitation to all lovers of gladioli to visit his extensive gardens in Coventry. The prize-winning varieties and many other choice late blossoms will be at their height by the end of the week.

Sour Stomach "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid ferments in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" and its five-cent bottles. It is made in the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1876.—Adv.

Cloverleaves And Cubs To Arrange Title Game

Representatives to Discuss Details Tonight at Herald Office; To Walk the Straight and Narrow Path This Season; Harmony Expected.

Although the 1927 grid season will not be officially christened for a few weeks more, representatives of Manchester's only two clubs will meet tonight to make arrangements for the town championship contest which will be played at the end of the season. This is entirely unique in football circles here, having never before been done. It is the result of the failure of the two teams to play last season.

The meeting will be held at the Herald's branch office on Bissell street at the South End. There will be three representatives from the Cubs and three from the Cloverleaves who will meet with the sports editor of The Herald and discuss plans. No one else will be allowed in the office at the time. The Williams, Griffin, Coach, George Moonan and Captain Brunie Moske. The Cubs will send Manager Peter Vendrillo, Coach Jack Dwyer and Captain Louis Cervini. The meeting is called for 9 o'clock.

Despite the fact that the two teams argued incessantly last year over trivial and insignificant points, until Old Man Winter blocked any further attempts to stage the game, it is more than possible that there will be a mutual understanding tonight. They realize what a lot of money they lost last year through sheer stubbornness and how many followers were lost by their foolish procedure. It is almost inconceivable that there will be a repetition.

Here is what will come up for discussion tonight: Where will the game be played? When will the game be played? How will the profits be divided? Who will the officials be? As far as is known, nothing else of importance will arise for discussion unless it is the question whether or not a forfeit should be posted. It is said the Cloverleaves may demand this as security that the Cubs will not back out of any agreements made tonight.

CHENEY BOYS WIN SEMI-FINALS FOR THEIR DAD'S CUP

Ben Eliminates John Hyde 3 and 2 While Brother John Scratches Gallup's Name, 4 and 3; Will Probably Meet Saturday.

Just as was predicted, the Cheney boys, Ben and John P. Jr., won their semi-final matches in the captain's handicap golf tournament and will now meet to decide the winner. Ben will have the advantage of a two-stroke handicap which may, and may not, prove fatal to Brother John who is a slight favorite to win. They will probably meet Saturday.

BOCK AND KELLY BATTLE TONIGHT

Bard's Conqueror Expects Another Easy Victory; Pinkey Kaufman Matched.

Larry Bock of New Haven, who recently handed Joe Bard a decisive defeat at the Hartford Velodrome, expects to repeat the performance when he meets Jack Kelly of Waterbury, state middleweight champion, in the feature bout of the Massachusetts C. C. show at the Velodrome tonight.

Bock, with height and reach in his favor is confident he can win over the hard-hitting Waterbury youth, but Bock will not have the big advantage he had over Bard. Kelly is taller and has a greater reach than Bard and he is certain that he can topple the Elm City entrant.

Joe Bard and Joe Howard, two of the big guns of amateur boxing in Connecticut, are on the card. Bard will mix with Eddie Wenzel of New Haven while Howard is in the same bracket with Vince Texano, who also hails from the college town.

The entries guarantee two and one-half hours of fighting with plenty of action in s.p. The first bout is set for 8.15. Ladies will be admitted free.

Undismayed by their defeat in exhibition games the Hartford soccer team of the American League is confident it will make a successful showing when the league schedule opens next Sunday with the appearance in Hartford of the Philadelphia eleven.

Sunday, Hartford lost 3 to 1 to the New Bedford Whalers at the Hartford Velodrome before a large crowd. The warm weather tended to slow up the play of both eleven but a fast game resulted nevertheless. In the preliminary game, Manchester beat the Whalers 4 to 2.

The visitors showed a well concentrated attack and although they did not threaten as many times as the Americans they made good three times when within a respectable distance of the goal.

Doherty, a new half back, loaned to the Americans by the Boston club played a strong game on the defense as did Jack Izatt.

The crowd was the largest of any that has turned out to watch the exhibition matches this season, numbering 1100.

HARTFORD SOCCER ELEVEN OPENS LEAGUE SEASON ON NEXT SUNDAY

Ty Holland-Bissell Match Wednesday

One of the most important matches in the town championship tennis matches being conducted by The Herald is slated to take place tomorrow night over at the West Side playgrounds when Sherwood "Cap" Bissell and Walter "Ty" Holland swap shots in their crucial third round match.

These two players are easily two of the best in the men's tournament and it is expected that a red-hot tussle will take place. According to the tennis dopesters, Holland will rule a slight favorite. He has played a long time. Bissell, however has improved considerably over last year and is now captain-elect of the Trinity college tennis team.

The match, which is expected to attract a large gallery, will get underway at 6:30 sharp.

Buster And Bambino Tied In Home Run Honors Again

By LES CONKLIN
New York, Sept. 6.—The race for home is getting to be as close as the National League pennant scramble. Buster Gehrig of the Yankees tied Babe Ruth in the great home run derby by swatting his 44th homer of the season against the Red Sox while Ruth was collecting a mere double in ten times at bat.

Cy Williams increased his lead in the National League home run jamboree by walloping his 25th and 26th homers, Rogers Hornsby to 6th and Babe Ruth to second place with 23 each.

George Harper's eleventh and twelfth homers of the season enabled the Giants to down the Braves, 4 to 3, after "No Hit" Charley Robertson of the Hub outfit had whipped the New Yorkers in the opener, 6 to 1.

Aileen McHale Battles Way Into Tennis Finals

Eliminates Esther Carini, 6-2, 6-4 and Leo Giglio, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1; Meets Katherine Giblin or Ruth Behrend For Title; Men's Matches Today.

WEEK END RESULTS
Aileen McHale won from Esther Carini, 6-2, 6-4 and Leo Giglio, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.
Louis Farr eliminated Fred Van Ness 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Aileen McHale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher S. McHale of 169 Center street, is one of the finalists who will compete for the girls' tennis championship of Manchester next Saturday afternoon. She will meet either Katherine Giblin or Ruth Behrend for that honor. The latter two are to play late this afternoon with Miss Giblin ruling the favorite.

Aileen won her way to the finals by means of a double victory. Saturday afternoon, she eliminated Esther Carini in the quarter-finals, 6-2 and 6-4. Yesterday morning, Aileen won from Leo Giglio in a gruelling struggle that went three sets. The scores were 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. Both matches were played on the high school court. Aileen and Leo both played a good brand of tennis but the former was steadier and surer of her shots. Both had difficulty in getting their first serve into the designated square.

On points, Aileen won by a score of 101 to 80, averaging a trifle over four points a game which is considered very good. Here are the scores for each game of the three sets:

First Set
McHale 4462142045—32—4.
Giglio 6244042—37—6.
Second Set
McHale 4444444—34—6.
Giglio 2624202—20—2.
Third Set
McHale 44746—3—6.
Giglio 216541—23—1.
Progress has not been as rapid in the men's tournament. Three of the matches in the second round were still unplayed last night but were to be finished today. Louis Farr and Fred Van Ness were scheduled to meet at the High school this morning and tonight there will be two matches. Johnny Boyle and Lawrence Paisley will play off their match which recently ended in a tie. The match between the two and deciding set with Paisley leading 3 to 1 in games. The other match brings together Francis O'Brien and Jimmy Neill and may be played in Hartford this afternoon.

The pairings for the quarter-finals finds the Farr-Van Ness winner pitted against the Boyle-Paisley winner with the possibility that that match may be played tonight. Ty Holland against Cap Bissell in what is expected to prove one of the best matches of the whole tournament and the O'Brien-Neill winner matched against Mac Macdonald. With the finals set for Saturday afternoon, it is important that they be played as soon as possible. It is very inadvisable to wait until late in the week because of the possibility of bad weather.

Louis Farr eliminated Fred Van Ness in a match played at 7 o'clock this morning. The scores of the two sets were 6-3, 6-0. The serving of both players was easily the best yet flashed in the tournament. Points were repeatedly made on accurate serves. Farr played a very cautious game.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Even the most pessimistic woman looks on the bright side of a mirror.

SENSE and NONSENSE

One of the differences between a liar and a publicity agent, is that the publicity agent sometimes gets paid.

When a man says money can do anything, that settles it. "He ain't got any."

Some people are about as interesting as a radio dinner program.

Visitor (in newspaper room, watching cartoonist): "Do you always draw everything larger than it ought to be?"

Old Newspaper Man: "Everything but my salary."

One philosopher says marriage and divorce are a profession. Sort of a theatrical profession, what?

Some are dazed by the bootlegger's wares—some are even blinded.

The hard thing about making good is that you must do it again every day.

To demonstrate a new sales policy the following illustration is used: A new 5 and 10 cent store had been opened by a man named Cohen. A woman came in one day and selected a toy for which she handed the proprietor a dollar. "Excuse me," said Cohen, "but these toys are 15 cents."

"But I thought this was a 5 and 10 cent store," protested the customer.

"Well, I leave it to you," came the reply, "how much is it, 5 and 10 cents?"

Long ago dad's pants were cut down to make pants for Willie instead of knickers for Jane.

Many who are urged to give till it hurts usually hurt first.

Keep trying! At least one day in every seven is lucky.

Fairy Tale—Once upon a time there was a young husband who told to his wife, "Next Saturday, I will clean up the cellar and the back yard!"

And he did.

Sentimental Spinster—Six times I have advertised that a lonely maiden seeks light and warmth in her life, and at last I have got a reply—from the gas company!

"I hardly knew your father today," said the visitor to the little girl. "He has cut his beard again. That's the third time in a year."

"It ain't father what's done it," explained the child. "Father likes his beard on, but you see, mother's stuffing the sofa!"

To err is human; to admit it is not.

Father: "My boy, your studies are costing me a lot of money."

Son: "I know, Dad; and I don't stury very hard, either."

The faith that once moved mountains now flies over them.

Don't lie if you want to maintain your standing.

KNOW THE RADIO?

If you have friends who are always playing with the dials, ask them a few of these. The answers are printed on another page.

- 1—What radio orchestra is heralded by sleigh bells?
- 2—Who is "the man from Cook's?"
- 3—What pair sings "Just Like a Doll?"
- 4—What station signs on and off with a gong?
- 5—What song usually closes the Atwater-Kent hour?
- 6—What editor gives weekly talks on current events?
- 7—Who is the "goat" of the Capitol family?
- 8—Who is the "Musical Chef?"
- 9—What announcer also sings in a quartet?
- 10—What is the nationality of Bodfrey Ludlow?

A GIRL WITH A THIN DRESS HAS NO PLACE IN THE SUN.

"I hardly knew your father today," said the visitor to the little girl. "He has cut his beard again. That's the third time in a year."

THE TNYMITES

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

The alligator sure was strong. It very swiftly swam along, while Clowny held his balance and enjoyed the ride a lot. But, after while he said, "The sun, I guess, is trying to spoil my fun. It's shining on me very strong, and, frankly, it is hot."

"Why don't you try and poke his head? Perhaps he'll turn," wee Carpy said. "And, if he does, he'll take you 'neath that clump of big shade trees." But just then, Clowny loudly cried, "Oh, don't do that. 'Twill spoil your ride. I think 'twould make him mad, and he could throw you off with ease."

Wee Clowny answered, "Don't you fret. I'll just stand up here, till, you bet, I guess that soon he'll get tired out and take me up on shore. And, if he does, we'll all have sport. If he is still a friendly sort, I tress perhaps that riding is what these queer things are for."

Just then the alligator turned, and lots of foaming water churned.

"He's heading for the land right now," yelled Clowny in delight. "Don't scare him now, but let him come. He's very smart. Don't think him dumb. Perhaps the rest of you had better run and hide from sight."

The Tinies, sly as any fox, soon hid behind some dandy rocks. And then the alligator promptly waddled on the sand. As Clowny hopped down to the ground, the others joined him with a bound, and Clowny cried, "Let's capture him. e'w'll gladly lend a hand."

"Oh, he's all right," brave Clowny said. "Who wants to ride? Go right ahead. As soon as you're all had a turn, I'll try my luck once more." So, one by one, the whole bunch tried their turn at having quite a ride. The alligator carried them quite gaily down the shore.

(A new surprise comes in the next story.)

Jack Lockwell, the Lion Tamer

by Gilbert Patten

The man looked like a very slick tramp. Standing in the middle of the curving road, he held up his hand as a signal for the automobile to stop. "Get out of the way!" shouted Saunders, neither slowing up nor turning out. The surprised stranger made an awkward attempt to save himself by jumping aside, but the mud-guard seemed to strike him, and he spun into the ditch.

"Great gosh!" gulped Wattles, looking back, white-faced. "You hit him! You knocked him into the ditch!" "It served him right, the old fool!" said Buick hoarsely.

The unfortunate man sat up in the ditch, groaning and brushing the dust from his bleary eyes. "Devils on wheels!" he cried weakly. "They tried to kill me!"

When he attempted to rise to his feet, he found himself so weak and shaken up that he fell back, with another groan. "The jig's up!" he told himself dolefully. "I'm done for! I'm a ruined lion tamer! I couldn't go into the cage if I got to Clarendon in time for the first performance." The sound of a motorcycle brought him to his knees as the machine appeared. (To Be Continued.)

The business that seems to be flourishing just now is the sale of fruits, flowers and vegetables at the wayside stands Sunday forenoon a motorist who was making purchases from one of these farmers and inquired for sweet corn, was informed that he was all sold out, had disposed of 52 dozen that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Taggart of Newman street accompanied by Miss Clara Jackmore and William Hewitt have returned from a visit with friends in New Hampshire.

ROBITUARY

LUTHER H. EMMONS
Luther H. Emmons, for 27 years a night watchman at Cheney Brothers, died late Saturday night at his home on 110 Birch street. He would have been 69 years old in October.

During the past three years, Mr. Emmons had been incapacitated by ill health. A year ago, he was pensioned by Cheney Brothers. Born in Moodus, Mr. Emmons had lived in Manchester about 37 years. He had many friends.

His funeral service was held at his home, one son, Arthur, who lived at home; a brother, Edgar, of Moodus; and a sister, Mrs. George Emerson of Leeville. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, Woodmen and American Mechanics.

The funeral service was held at his home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Many relatives and friends were present. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the South Methodist church, of which Mr. Emmons was a regular attendant, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in the East cemetery.

FUNERAL OF J. E. BURDEN
The funeral of John E. Burden of 72 North School street was held Sunday afternoon with services at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Wilston M. Brainard at 77 North School street and at the Wapping Federated Church. Rev. Truman H. Woodward of Wapping officiated. The services were largely attended and there were many floral tributes. The church quartet sang several selections at the service in Wapping. The bearers were George Andrews, Edward Freeman, Fred Thompson, Henry Stewart, William Brainard and Henry Robinson. Burial was in the Wapping cemetery.

HOLIDAY WEEK-END QUIETER THAN USUAL

No Serious Accidents, Though An Enormous Traffic Passed; Many See Wrecked Plane

Manchester was unusually quiet over the holiday week-end, favored by that rare thing, a rainless week-end. Hundreds of residents motored out of town. The exodus began early Saturday but the majority did not get until the mills closed at noon. Today, Manchester's population was almost back to normal again.

There were few sporting events in town. The scheduled baseball game between the Heights and Manchester Green went to the winds. A couple of golf and tennis tournament matches constituted the whole program.

A good many Manchester persons went to East Willington to see the wrecked United States air mail plane in which the pilot, Dan Chinn, was killed early Saturday morning. One Manchester visitor who went to the scene of the crash said that if the plane had flown a very few feet higher, it would have cleared the hill. Practically every

HOSPITAL NOTES

There were no accident cases or deaths at Memorial hospital over the holiday week end according to a report issued last night. There were only four admissions with two patients discharged. The census was 50.

Admissions: Miss Helen Skowesky of 411 North Main street, Ida Reichenbach of Broad Brook, Herbert Johnson of 65 Starkweather street and Joseph Connors of 335 Charter Oak street.

The two patients discharged were Mrs. Joseph Weir of 32 Oak street and Wells Dewey of Buckland. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Neale Weart of Buckland.

PLUMBING FIXTURES

A house may have a beautiful exterior, fine fixtures and furnishings on the inside—but if the plumbing is not of high quality or if the unseen system of water supply, house drainage and ventilation of drains is incorrectly installed, then comfort, convenience and health protection are lacking.
