ROGERS TELLS WHY OFFICIALS OPPOSE JENSEN

Accuses Assessor Candidate Of Trying to Build Political Fences In Town Office.

Because John Jensen failed to accept his challenge to debate the question of Mr. Jensen's competency for the office of assessor, William B. Rogers today addressed a letter to The Herald explaining why the Republican town committee, the Board of Selectmen and several other town officials oppose the present incumbent for re-nomination. Mr. Rogers' letter follows:

Editor, The Herald:
A friend said to me today, "William, how is it that the Republican town committee, the board of selectmen and many other town officials are taking such an active interest in the assessorship fight this year?"
I had hoped that John Jensen or one of his supporters, would accept my invitation to discuss the assessorship in public that the voters, especially the smaller taxpayers, might hear first-hand all the facts. Mr. Jensen knows, as do his supporters, that there would have been no attempt at "brow-beating," the excuse they use to keep their side of the controversy away from the public.
Furthermore, it would unquestionably be much more satisfactory to have all of the officials involved appear before the voters in person and explain their positions. Months ago, I contacted with the board of selectmen and to Town Manager George H. Waddell as to the unfair (unfair to the small taxpayer who is working hard to pay for his home) method in which the Linder system was being applied.

Valuations, yes, high valuations, were being placed upon homes and building lots. Complaints came to me from all over town. Yet, when I investigated the manner in which Mr. Jensen was arriving at the valuations on the stock of some of the leading merchants I protested to the board of selectmen. I cite one specific instance. The town officials investigated. They found that the merchant's list, which had been prepared by himself and which was reduced as low as it could honestly be reduced, had been granted an additional twenty per cent reduction by Mr. Jensen, who had told his colleagues on the board of assessors that he would handle the stores along Main street. The merchant in question frankly told me he did not want the additional twenty per cent reduction because he was not entitled to it. The officials who investigated found my allegations to be true. Samuel Nelson, Jr., then a member of the board of assessors, was asked by the investigating town officials to correct this list and with the prompt approval of the merchant he added the twenty per cent which has been deducted and I saw it, only for the attempted upbuilding of political fences.

I have even discussed this case with Governor John H. Trumbull, who promptly replied, "I should think your Manchester voters would see to it that such an official is retired."
If any voter doubts these facts, let him ask the members of the board of selectmen or Town Manager Waddell.
Every effort is being made to keep the tax rate down. Obviously, with our high valuations, it is as high as it should go. On the other hand, I am wondering just how those home-owners and smaller taxpayers feel about their own lists upon which I venture the comment they were not voluntarily offered a twenty per cent reduction.

Had Mr. Jensen functioned as he should have, it would be absolutely impossible today to have the Republican town committee, headed by Judge William S. Hyde, the board of selectmen, headed by Robert V. Treat and scores of others versed in town affairs line up in opposition to him.
Why not ask Mr. Jensen to explain why all of these men are opposed to him? Why not have Mr. Jensen explain why Judge Raymond A. Jones and Judge Thomas Ferguson refused to even sign his proposal papers although many have said that signing these is but a matter of form.

John Jensen knows that I have no personal feeling against him whatever. I have, however, a citizen's right to an interest in how this town is governed. And the only difference between me and scores of others is that I believe in placing the facts in any public controversy before the voters regardless of the candidate who is opposed naturally resent such opposition and, temporarily at least, some ill feeling is caused.
If I refrained from telling the taxpayers what I know of this condition the voters would have a

CLARA PHILLIPS, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

San Quentin, Calif., Sept. 12.—Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer," sentenced to from ten years to life for killing Mrs. Albert Meadows with a hammer at Los Angeles in 1922, attempted suicide by slashing her wrists with glass prison authorities said last night. The suicide attempt occurred some days ago. Prison officials said she would recover. She was received here June 2, 1923, and has been morose and despondent recently.

THOUGHT WAVES TOLD WIFE HE WAS NOT DEAD

Mrs. Fawcett In France, Says She Communicated With Explorer and Her Son 'Lost' In Brazil.

Beaulieu Sur Mer, France, Sept. 12.—Mrs. P. H. Fawcett, wife of the noted British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawcett, who has been missing in Brazil since 1925, expressed no surprise when informed today of reports that her husband had been seen alive on a "Paradise Farm" near Diamantina, Brazil, by a Brazilian engineer.

Mrs. Fawcett, who lives at her villa "Spirita," near here, said that during the past year she had received frequent mental telepathic messages from her husband, advising her of his whereabouts, and that she would hear from him.
"I am certain there is truth in the report that my husband has been seen alive near Diamantina," Mrs. Fawcett said. "He has probably been living with some tribe who use mental telepathy, as my husband and I are intensely interested in the subject of thought transmission."

Mental Messages.
"During the past year my husband has communicated with telepathic experts in San Francisco, New Zealand and London, all of whom delivered his messages to me. Last July I received four separate messages, each saying I would hear from him either late in August or early in September of this year."
"I have never been heard about the welfare of my husband and son," Mrs. Fawcett continued. "I believe that if one keeps his faith and courage it not only helps one's self, but also the persons about whom one is thinking. For the past two and a half years my husband and I have been in the physical world, but never mentally. I have always known that my husband was safe, and that is why I was always opposed to sending a relief expedition to find him."

Disappeared in 1925.
Colonel Fawcett and his son disappeared while on an exploring expedition in Brazil in 1925. Since then all efforts to learn of their whereabouts or fates have been unavailing.
According to information here, the explorer and his son were seen last November by Roger Courteville, a Brazilian engineer who was making an automobile tour through the Brazilian jungles. Courteville said he had completed the tour, which lasted a full year. He reported that while crossing the state of Mato Grosso, about the geographical center of Brazil, he came across the Fawcetts, father and son, living on a farm with another white man, a short distance from the town of Diamantina.

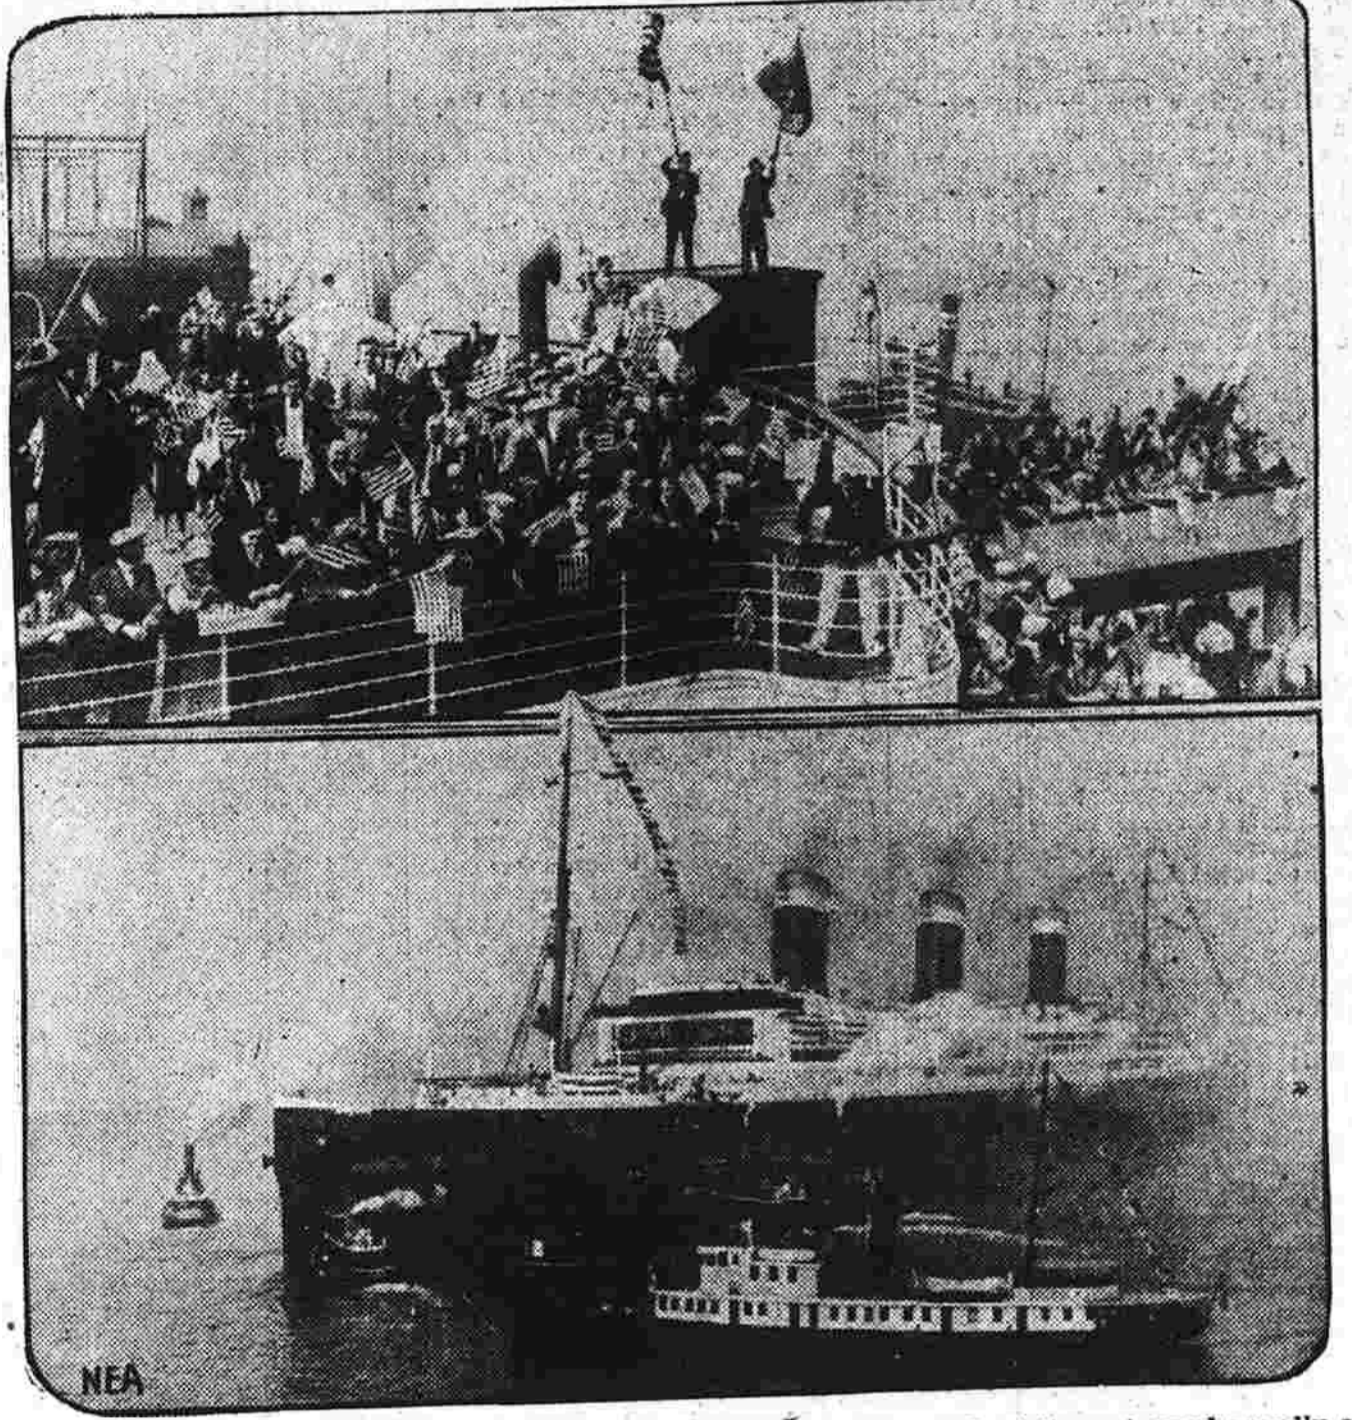

Courteville said that Fawcett who had been employed by the government to search for a mythical "Lost City" of fabulous wealth, had discovered the region where his farm is now located, which Courteville described as a veritable paradise. Unable to find the mythical city, Fawcett returned to his Utopia and became a farmer.

FIND THE WRECKAGE OF FISHING SCHOONER

Sailed Two Months Ago With Crew of 20 and Not Heard Of Since.

Lunenburg, N. S., Sept. 12.—Wreckage believed to be that of the fishing schooner Clayton Walters, which sailed from here for the Grand Banks nearly two months ago with a crew of twenty and has not been heard from since, has been found on the northeast bar of Sable Island, a wireless message from that place revealed today.
The wreckage included a dory, several barrels of flour and other equipment. There was no mark of identification on the wreckage, but it is believed to have been from the Clayton Walters.
The schooner is believed to have foundered in the terrific gale which claimed many lives off the Grand Banks two weeks ago.

LEVIATHAN SAILS AGAIN FOR "OVER THERE"

"Good-bye Broadway. Hello France" rang on the air again as the S. S. Leviathan steamed proudly out of New York harbor, her decks crowded with Legionnaires of the 2nd A. E. F. bound for their Paris convention. The secrecy under which the "Levi" sailed with the first A. E. F. gave place to song and waving flags; color replaced drab khaki, and for camouflage, the vessel wore black on her hull, red, white and blue on her funnel tops.

Steals Airplane Ride Clinging To Its Tail

Hadley Airport, New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 12.—Vincent Taylor, aged 17, of Hackensack, N. J., was "safe and sound" today after one of the most sensational journeys ever attempted. Young Taylor was whisked aloft by a six-passenger Fokker plane while clinging to the machine's tail at Teterboro Airport, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., late yesterday. Fearing to jump, Taylor climbed to the tail of the airplane while the navigator—L. Ponton Jr. Arec, an air mail pilot—turned on all the juice and roared upward to an altitude of 3,000 feet.
When the plane landed here after 35 miles in 30 minutes and De Arec, while the cockpit, he was climbed from the tail of the plane, he had left half an hour before at Teterboro.

Harry Hill Taken to Base-ment of His Home—Continues to Deny Guilt.

Streator, Ill., Sept. 12.—Harry Hill stood beside the shallow grave in which the slain body of his mother had been found, in the basement of the Hill home here today and denied knowing anything of her murder.
Only candle light flickered in the basement as authorities, surrounded and questioned young Hill, whom they had rushed by automobile 200 miles across country from La Crosse, Wis., in order to elude habeas corpus proceedings said to have been planned in Chicago.
Shown Evidence.
The youth accused of matricide was shown several articles as he stood by the basement grave; the clay-spattered shoes, said to be the same as those Hill wears; a shovel which had been used in turning the earth; and a handkerchief found shortly after the murder and turned over to the state's attorney.
Sleepless and tired from the long automobile ride, Young Hill vouchsafed no information. In tones of vexation he repeated that he "had nothing to say." His anger mounting, he turned upon the prosecutor, sheriff and a dozen armed deputies, and shouted:
"I've told you a hundred times that I have nothing to say. I will say nothing until the proper time and that's final."

YEGGS GET $1,500

Brockton, Mass., Sept. 12.—Forcing a safe door with a sledge hammer, burglars early today took $1,500 in cash from the safe of the Producers' Dairy and escaped without leaving as much as a single finger print.
The safe was located in the rear of the building, and the burglars were seen by a night watchman who called the police.

PRESIDENT IS BACK AT HIS CAPITAL DESK

To See Republican Leaders Today or Tomorrow to Discuss the Presidential Situation.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The presidential hat was safely hung up under a brand-new White House roof today after ninety days of vacation in the Black Hills, and Mr. Coolidge was at his newly polished desk prepared to do business both administrative and political.
While there was administrative business aplenty to occupy his attention, it was apparent the first part of the week also will include no small amount of politics.

Some Politics
According to tentative audience bookings, such Republican leaders as Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state; C. Bascom Slemple, former secretary to the President and a power among the Republican delegates in the south; and Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, floor leader of the Upper House, are scheduled to see the President either today or tomorrow.
Hughes—Republican nominee for the presidency in 1916—has just returned from Europe to find himself being prominently mentioned as the next year's choice, largely on the ground he has a chance to beat out Governor Al Smith, of New York, who is being groomed for the Democratic nomination. He has said once he is too old, but he was not so positive on the return from abroad last week.

Sleep Returns to Fold
Sleep generally has been credited with lining up the greater number of southern delegates for Coolidge in 1924. He broke with the President immediately following the last convention, but since then has shown some indications of returning to the fold.
Senator Curtis is expected to take up the question of an early assembling of the Senate for the purpose of disposing of the Smith-Yare election contests in time to assure no impediment to the serious problem of Mississippi flood relief.

Whatever the politicians who have remained close to Washington during the summer may think, it is regarded as likely they will come away from their first White House visit convinced that Mr. Coolidge meant it when he did not resign. He has refused on a number of occasions to amplify the statement for the benefit of newspapermen, taking the position that it spoke for itself, and most certainly should not be misinterpreted. He has through on March 4, 1929, according to the best information assembled this summer around the temporary White House, let whatever political development happen that may.

PLANNING AIR SERVICE FROM CANADA TO U. S.

Major O'Ryan, of Colonial Co. Looking Over Fields Around Montreal.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 12.—Major General John F. O'Ryan, of New York, president of the Colonial Air Transport Company, was here today with plans to form a Canadian company for inauguration of a commercial air service between Montreal, New York and other American eastern points.
"We consider Montreal's aerial position strategically excellent and bound to produce heavy traffic due to the large movement of merchandise and passenger transportation between Montreal and American points," said O'Ryan.
After looking over airport facilities here, General O'Ryan plans to proceed to Ottawa to discuss air mail matters with Dominion authorities.

High Masonic Official Dies In Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Preparations were being made today for the funeral of the late Cyrus Lucien Barber, former grand commander of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar. Services will be held tomorrow evening. He was 55 years old and was to have received the 33rd degree in Masonry at Baltimore next week. He had been in ill health for the past two years. He was born in Corty, Pa., and was a prominent lawyer, and at one time was president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.
A daughter was born last Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Roy North of Torrington, Conn. Mrs. North was formerly Miss Madeline Wehr of this town.

ASKS FOR SWEEPING PROBE BY CONGRESS OF "DRY" OFFICIALS

WORLD GIRDERS ARE HELD UP BY FOGS IN JAPAN

To Start on Big Hop Over Ocean Tomorrow—Levine Gives Up Trip; Other Flights.

Tokyo, Sept. 12.—Delayed at Omura Flying Field, about 600 miles from here, by fog, the Pride of Detroit, will resume its round-the-world flight early Tuesday, according to advices received here today. The Navy will send a plane to Omura to escort the American plane to Japan.
Japanese authorities have investigated the charges that William Brock and Edward F. Schless, pilots of the Pride of Detroit, flew over a fortified zone during their flight from Shanghai. Following the investigation, the chief of aviation bureau declared the aviators had not violated military regulations.

OTHER FLIGHTS

The round the world plane Pride of Detroit was compelled by high winds and fog to return to the Omura flying field after an unsuccessful effort to fly to Tokyo.
Charles A. Levine, owner of the trans-Atlantic plane Columbia, definitely abandoned his plan to attempt a non-stop westward flight from Croydon, Eng., to New York. He may try to land, however.
Rene Fonck, French ace, has virtually abandoned his plan to fly across the Atlantic from New York to Paris and has entered the American trans-continental Air Derby from New York to Spokane, beginning Sept. 15.

Bad Weather.
None of the French fliers who are awaiting trans-ocean flying weather were able to hop off at Le Bourget for New York.
With Miss Ruth Elder, of Detroit, on her way to this city for a trans-Atlantic flight, two more women are planning to hop off for Europe in a Sikorsky plane. They are Miss Frances W. Grayson, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Aage Ancker, of Alken, S. C. Their plane is now being tested at the Sikorsky Works on Long Island. The flight is backed by Wheeling, W. Va., business men. The plane, a sister ship of Paul Redfern's, probably will be named after Wheeling.

MILL MOTOR CAUSES 'SHIMMYING', BELIEF

Vibrations Stop When Diesel Engine at Rogers Paper Mill Halts.

What is considered the solution of Manchester's "shimmying" house mystery developed yesterday when the vibrations in the Vuillemet home at 150 Spring street ceased almost simultaneously with the stopping of the giant Diesel motor located in the Charter Oak street branch of Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company which lies about a half a mile away.
According to Mrs. Frank Vuillemet and others who were at the house yesterday morning, the vibrations suddenly stopped at 8 o'clock. Upon investigation, it was learned that the big motor which stops only on Sunday except for a breakdown, was shut down at the same time. Charles Ray, president of the company, admitted this fact, but thought too much fuss was being made about what he termed a "picaresque matter." The big motor is said to have been started again at about the same time the vibrations were noticed again.
Continues Today.
Today the bed and furniture were "shimmying" in grand style again. The vibrations were also noticeable on the first floor in addition to the two bedrooms upstairs. A milk bottle partly filled with milk standing on a table in the kitchen was "shivering" in perfect rhythm with the upstairs vibrations. Although no breeze was blowing to speak of, water in a wash tub standing on a large rock at the top of the well which is located a few feet from the kitchen door, was also in motion.

DISPLAYS HIS MONEY IS STABBED ON ROAD

Banksville, N. Y., Man Dying In 'Greenwich Hospital—Police Hold Suspect.

Greenwich, Sept. 12.—Michael Proprieh, former on the estate of L. W. Donnerich, Banksville, N. Y., is in critical condition in Greenwich hospital as a result of stab wounds, while Martin Blakey, a Banksville resident, is being held without bail at White Plains, N. Y., to await the outcome of Proprieh's injuries.
Greenwich police were notified, during the night, that a wounded man was lying in a road in Banksville, just over the Greenwich line, and Officer Herbert Bryson was sent out to investigate. Bryson found Proprieh and sent for an ambulance. Then Bryson went to a Banksville store and found Blakey. A milk bottle partly filled with holding him until New York state troopers arrived.
According to Proprieh, Proprieh went to the store to seek money to work on the Donnerich estate, and while there displayed a roll of bills. When he left he was followed and stabbed. Bryson secured enough information from Proprieh to warrant going after Blakey. The Banksville constable, according to Bryson, refused to act in the case.

THREE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY CONTESTS

Registered Voters to Pick Local Party Nominees Here Tomorrow.

Manchester's Republicans and Democrats go to their primaries tomorrow to nominate their respective slates of offices for the town election which will be held on Monday, October 3. The Republicans face three contests tomorrow and the Democrats none. The polls open at 10 o'clock in the morning and close at 8 o'clock in the evening, daylight saving time. The polling place is in the new Municipal building at the Center. Only those voters registered with their parties may vote in primaries.

Ex-Doughboys Crowd Rails To See If They Can Find Traces of Wreck.

Aboard the S. S. Leviathan, Sept. 12.—While former doughboys en route to the American Legion convention in Paris lined the rails in silence, the Leviathan maintained a sharp lookout today for a possible trace of the missing monoplane, Old Glory, as the ship ploughed through the stretch of this Atlantic graveyard where the three flyers are supposed to have perished.
Even though hope has been abandoned that Pilots Lloyd W. Bertrand and James D. Hill and their passenger, Phillip Payne, will be found alive, the passengers, aboard the Leviathan believed there was a possibility that some trace of the plane might be found.

Italian Vice-Consul At Paris, Killed

Paris, Sept. 12.—Count Carlo Nardini, Italian vice-consul here, was fatally wounded today by an unidentified assailant, believed to be an Italian. Count Carlo died in the hospital, after having been shot several times with a revolver. No cause for the attack could be ascertained.
The count's assailant was arrested immediately, but his identity was not determined, as he had effaced his name from his identification papers.
A daughter was born last Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Roy North of Torrington, Conn. Mrs. North was formerly Miss Madeline Wehr of this town.

The church was well supplied with flowers about the pulpit in observance of "Old Folks Day" yesterday. There were 70 present to hear the pastor, J. G. Appleton and the special music by the choir. The oldest lady present was Mrs. Mary Brainard and she was presented with a large bouquet of flowers. There were six delegates from the church here who attended the 200th anniversary of the Rocky Hill Congregational Church Saturday afternoon and evening. They were Rev. and Mrs. Julius G. Appleton, C. G. Strickland, Mrs. S. W. Plank, Miss Bertice Plank, Miss Avis Plank. There were delegates present from Glastonbury, Newington, Wethersfield, South Glastonbury. The church supper was enjoyed and the after dinner speaking limited to four minutes to each speaker was full of witticisms. A member of the Rocky Hill church called attention to the very substantial beams overhead with the mortices in view because of alterations raising the church floor 1-2 feet. perfect right to criticize me. And I submit that Mr. Jensen's best friend cannot criticize the attempt I have made to get the facts before the voters. Had Mr. Jensen accepted my invitation to discuss his assessorship work, I would have invited many other officials to the meeting and would have questioned them as to their opinions of Mr. Jensen's work. The advocate of a small tax bill can do no better on Tuesday than vote for George A. Johnson and Samuel Nelson, Jr., for the office of assessor. Such a vote will correct a condition which needs correction. With this presentation I am perfectly satisfied to leave the decision with the voters of Manchester. And no one can claim that I have concealed the facts until after the primaries at which the voters must either approve or disapprove of Mr. Jensen's work as an assessor. Honestly submitted, Willard B. Rogers.

DOLLAR DAY A GREAT SUCCESS

South Manchester Merchants Report Well Filled Stores and Heavy Sales.

Dollar Day has become an institution in Manchester; an event to be waited for by the thrifty housekeeper, who often succeeds in making her dollars do double duty on that day. Saturday lived up to Dollar Day's reputation for value giving. Many of the merchants had been planning for weeks to give their customers a feast of bargains, which were announced in Friday's Herald. Opening hour Saturday morning saw crowds of people on the streets, eager to take advantage of the best offerings of the stores. Buying continued brisk all the forenoon and started in heavy at mid-afternoon to continue through to closing time. The merchants who had made the greatest preparations for the day's business naturally drew the most shoppers. Hale's store was naturally the mecca of hundreds of shoppers and it did the biggest business in its history. The furniture stores report an excellent business as do the clothing stores; in fact the Herald man could not find a single store that had an indication with Saturday's business from the Main street merchants this morning. It goes without saying that the shoppers got their money's worth—and more in many instances. "Chang" will get you.—Adv.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (80) Air Pioneers

In 1909 Hubert Latham, an Englishman, forced his machine up into a fierce gale of wind. For a few minutes it fluttered dangerously against the gusts, then turned and sped with the wind at 90 miles an hour. The daring aviator turned again to face the wind and after ten minutes of battling alighted safely. He had proved the plane a good weather craft.

In the following year, Chavez, a Peruvian, was killed in flying over the Alps, making a bad landing after conquering the mighty range.

Glenn H. Curtiss, an American, was another pioneer. He was the first builder of a successful hydro-airplane or flying boat.

An amusing story is told of Herr Etrich, an Austrian flyer who took part in some exhibitions in England before the World War. He came to the aviation field near London in a cab which he forgot to disarm. After waiting some time the cabman asked angrily about his passenger. "Why, he's in France," one of the flyers told him. Etrich had flown to Calais.

Rockville

CHANGE NECESSARY IN CITY COURTROOM

May Ask For Money to Build Over Present Quarters; Grand List Lower.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, Sept. 12.—In incorporating the city court of Rockville, provision is made that the town and city shall make provision for a court room suitable to the judge. Such is not the case today, but Judge John E. Fisk of the Rockville City Court takes into consideration that the city has no other needs for the money...

The change is one that has come to the court officials' attention is the changing around of the present location of the police court room, which is also being used as the lockup with its steel cells and bad odor, and changing the city council chamber for the holding of police court sessions.

The city council chamber is in use only in the evening and the police court room only in the day. The plan proposed is to have the room now used by the city court and the lockup, changed over into headquarters of the police department, where there could be proper lockers...

With the court room in the council chambers it would not be necessary to have the unpleasant odor that is now found each morning, but the prisoners could be brought into the police court room through the connecting door without the necessity of bringing them into the hall to get them into the police court room.

The matter will be considered by the council at its next meeting and will meet with the approval of the selectmen now in office.

Will Show Falling Off. Rockville and the town of Vernon, will have a falling off in the way of income that will amount to considerable in the amounts received by the town and city other than from taxes.

Although the population of the combined town and city is smaller than many other places the number of persons who have held stock on which the income is collected direct by the state and then apportioned to the towns according to the number of stockholders in the town and the city, the income has been about $80,000 a year. This has been on a 6 mill tax placed on the value of the stock by the tax commissioner and not its selling value.

The annual town meeting next month will have a budget presented in which it will be shown just what it will cost to run the town and also the income from other sources outside of the amount that will be needed to raise in tax.

The raising of the amount by taxation is sure to show a much higher rate and there is now under consideration of the property, with bonds that have been issued and which are to be paid for in serial amounts and the interest on those unpaid will also be different than in former years. Any money that is voted at the town meeting as an appropriation of the town with the necessary running expenses of regular maintenance, will have to be paid until the grand list is completed by the assessors and the board of relief, the exact rate will not be known, but will be defined and voted, as is now necessary under the law, at the adjourned meeting held next spring.

Organization Completed. The organization of the C. H. Miller Inc., purchased Saturday by the G. H. Williams Inc., of Manchester, was completed this morning when a meeting was held at the headquarters of the company in Rockville, No. 8 Park Place and the following officers elected: President, Dr. T. F. O'Loughlin; vice-president, Daniel Holloran; treasurer and general manager, G. H. Williams. They with Ernest Scheezy will compose the board of directors. The Rockville store will continue as before the change in ownership.

Police Court. As a result of a disturbance on Village street Saturday night, Louis Brow was before Judge Fisk in the police court this morning on the charge of breach of the peace and intoxication. He pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $15 without costs.

To Complete Sale. The final completion of the sale of the so-called Prescott building, recently owned by House & Murphy, and which was sold on a bond for a deed early in June, will be closed on September 20, when the final payment is made and the deed passed.

pers passed. The first mortgage on the place will be taken by one of the local banks.

Married This Morning. Miss Mary Elizabeth Plummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Plummer, of 79 High street, and William O. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taylor, of Hartford, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at the rectory of St. Bernard's church. Kenneth Sullivan of Stafford was groomsmen and Miss Helen Plummer was bridesmaid.

Car Turns Turtle. A Hudson touring car owned by William Yost of East street and driven by his son, skidded on the wet pavement on East Main street on Sunday morning and turned turtle. Mrs. Yost who was riding in the car and her son were badly shaken up. The windshield of the car was broken but the car was able to proceed under its own power.

Office of constable. The candidates are Frank Edmunds, James W. Foley, Fred A. Krahn, Gerald R. Risley and William J. Shields. Edmunds, Foley and Risley are constables, one of last year's nominees withdrawing this year.

George A. Johnson who was named by the Republican town committee for the unexpired term of assessor finds himself automatically elected to the office without opposition. The other names were filed for the Republican nomination and the Democratic party failed to name anyone for the nomination.

The Republican town committee will conduct a systematic campaign for getting out the voters tomorrow and it is understood that several of the contesting candidates are planning primary activities independent of the committee. Because of the time allowed for voting in the evening it is expected that the vote will be light during the earlier part of the day.

FINDLAY-HEMINWAY

Miss Marjory Hemingway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hemingway, of 93 Summit street, and Charles Findlay, son of Mrs. Mary Findlay of 22 Bank street were married Saturday afternoon at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. George W. Reynolds of West Hartford, formerly pastor of Center Congregational church. The home was decorated with yellow and white gladioli and purple lilacs.

The bride and party took their places in the living room beside wedding gates while the Lohengrin wedding march was played on the piano by the bride's sister, Mrs. Harold Belcher. The attendants were Miss Mary Hemingway, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid and George Findlay, brother of the bridegroom, as best man.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore an old-fashioned buff gown of white crepe satin. Her veil of tulle fell from a cat in lace and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was white bridal roses with shower of pink Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid's frock was of yellow chiffon and yellow lace and she carried an arm bouquet of Perpetua roses.

The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by more than 50 guests, Mr. and Mrs. Findlay leaving later for a wedding trip to Boston. They will make their home in Brookline where the bridegroom is employed as an accountant.

story-and-a-half bungalow is located on some form of a rock vein which also runs through to the foundation of Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company's mill. However, it is said that when excavations were made for the installation of the Diesel motor, nothing but gravel was discovered. It was also pointed out that two wells, both over fifty feet in depth, have been drilled in the immediate vicinity, but in both cases, there was no trace of any rock ledge.

Consequently, there is a possibility that after all, the disturbance may not be the result of vibrations sent forth by the 440 horsepower motor which weighs well over fifty tons and is equipped with a silencer.

Solved—Maybe. Nevertheless, unless something unforeseen develops to the contrary, it will be generally accepted that the mystery of the "shimmying bed" has been solved at last. Yesterday's developments were very convincing to those who have kept close tabs on the matter. In an attempt to disprove any theory that the vibrations might be due to faulty electric wiring in the house, Leon Chapman of the Manchester Electric Company, Raymond Hunt and a Herald reporter went to the Vulliamet home. The juice was disconnected, but the vibrations continued. After a thorough investigation, Chapman said he was fully convinced that the vibrations had absolutely nothing to do with the tremblings. He was of the opinion that they were caused by the motor.

Meanwhile, the curiosity continued to interest many visitors, not only from Manchester but also out of town. And as a result, the tenants picked up some more change by charging a quarter to go into the house and see the bed "shimmying."

Occupants Relieved. Mrs. Vulliamet is much relieved since the motor theory has been suggested and generally accepted. Last night she slept at home instead of going to her daughter-in-law's home on Prospect street. However, she was unwilling to go upstairs, and slept on a couch down stairs. Her husband and son defied the vibrations.

POLICE COURT

When the Manchester police court opened this morning there were 11 cases before Judge Johnson. Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway who has been away on vacation was on the job this morning.

There were three cases of driving while under the influence of liquor to dispose of and in addition there were eight cases of intoxication.

Walter J. Egan of Longmeadow, Mass. was arrested by Sergeant Crockett Saturday evening. Egan had an accident with another car on Maple street and when the officer was called to investigate he found Egan was under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed and a suspended ten day jail sentence.

George Sargent of Maple avenue, Broad Brook, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by Sergeant Crockett at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Officer Crockett testified he was driving from Buckland when he overtook the Sargent car which was being driven in a zigzag fashion. He stopped the car and found the driver was drunk. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $100 and a jail sentence of 10 days. He then suspended the jail sentence.

Joseph E. Sexton of East Hartford pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued from last week to enable him to obtain counsel. This morning he pleaded guilty and the same fine and jail sentence was imposed as in the case of the other two men. John Sweeney who was with Sargent at the time he was arrested pleaded guilty to intoxication and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Lawrence Kisevitch, known as "John Smith," of Homestead Park section paid a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication. He was arrested by Sergeant John Crockett.

Because of a "gig party" in the woods back of Strickland street, late Saturday night, six men were brought into court. Complaint reached the police station that drunken men had been hanging about that section all afternoon. Sergeant John Crockett and Patrolman Martin who were sent to investigate found the following men all of whom were placed under arrest: John McKeever, Patrick Connors, Frank Happeney, Daniel Mooney, William Wilson and Patrick Moynihan.

All pleaded guilty with the exception of Patrick Moynihan who claimed he had been with the party for less than five minutes and was not drunk. Judge Johnson found them all guilty. He gave Connors who has a long record in the police court, 20 days in jail, Mooney and Happeney 15 days. In the case of McKeever and Wilson a fine of $10 and costs was imposed. Because of the fact that Moynihan had never before been arrested, he was allowed to go on payment of costs.

SUFFERS HEMORRHAGE, DRIVES TO A DOCTOR. Hartford Man Drives Back Here Saturday From Bolton While in Serious Condition.

Raymond A. Joyce of 315 Garden street, Hartford, is in the Memorial hospital suffering from an internal hemorrhage which he suffered at Bolton while on his way to Providence Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Joyce was in the car with her husband at the time. With considerable difficulty, Mr. Joyce succeeded in driving back to Manchester to a doctor's office where he collapsed.

He was removed to the local hospital after he had been given a stimulant and his condition is reported as serious.

wreckage might be sighted. Or something indicative of the fate of the brave flyers.

The spirit of the Legionnaires seemed somewhat subdued as the Leviathan steamed eastward this morning, in contrast to the high-spiritedness that has prevailed among them since they shoved off from New York.

Legion headquarters has been publishing a daily paper, the "American Legionnaire," aboard ship. The first issue printed a statement from the national commander, Howard P. Savage, describing the Legionnaires making the pilgrimage to Paris as "unofficial envoys still in the service of their country."

NO COMPLAINT YET ON SCHOOL TRANSPORT

Green Committee Has Not Been Notified That Children Are Not Being Carried.

No complaint has been made officially to the school committee of the Manchester Green district to the effect that some children are not being transported to school on the bus which was recently engaged, it was learned today.

The meeting of the Parent-Teacher Improvement club, scheduled for tonight, is to hear the complaint but what action will be taken after the complaint is heard is not yet known.

A member of the school committee said today that although he had heard talk of this matter, he had no official notification of it. He said that the complaint probably arises out of the fact that there are now more children on the route of the bus than were planned for when the transportation was arranged.

SERIOUSLY ILL FROM PTOMAINE POISONING

Charles Horvath Hurried to Hospital Early This Morning—Cause Unknown.

Charles Horvath of 268 Oak street was removed to the Memorial hospital at 5 o'clock this morning seriously ill with ptomaine poisoning. It is not known yet what caused his illness. He ate heartily yesterday and later complained of a headache. He went to bed at a usual hour but at midnight it was necessary to call a doctor. Again at 5 o'clock this morning, the physician was summoned.

Mr. Horvath was then semi-conscious and was removed to the hospital. According to the attending physician, it is unusual for ptomaine poisoning to be accompanied by unconsciousness.

TOMORROW'S PRIMARY

Tomorrow's Republican primary election should be no manner of means be a perfunctory affair. Participation in Republican primaries in Manchester is a duty almost if not quite as unescapable as the citizen's duty of going to the polls on final election day.

On Saturday the Herald called the attention of Republican voters to the very great importance of seeing that none of the four present selectmen who are candidates for renomination are left off the election day ticket.

So that, however the voter splits his ballot with reference to the new nominees, there should be no omission of votes for either of the selectmen slated for retention in their places. These men are John H. Hyde, Thomas J. Rogers, Robert J. Smith and Wells A. Strickland.

There is one more candidate for the Republican nominations of selectmen than there are places on the ticket. One excellent citizen will have to be denied nomination at this time.

As to the contest for the assessorship the Herald has so far had but little to say on its own account. It has seemed to us, however, that the people of Manchester would be making a better choice if they selected to the full term Samuel Nelson, Jr., whose contacts with the public have been invariably fair and courteous and whose fitness for the position is universally recognized.

Voters should remember that this contest is between Mr. Nelson and Mr. Jensen alone—that the candidacy of George A. Johnson is not at issue. He will be the nominee for the short term in any event.

NEW ENGLAND'S WORK

It has been the position of this newspaper, ever since the organization of the New England Council was proposed, that there was a serious misconception, on the part of a considerable number of business men and bankers whose thoughts center about the vicinity of Boston, as to what New England really is, industrially. We confess now to considerable apprehension at that time that this group, a dominating one, was extremely liable to predicate its activities on that misconception—namely, that textiles and boots and shoes constituted the backbone of New England's productive business.

Council did not start off in that way. It set about informing itself first of all. And the result is that the light has been let in on a perfectly amazing amount of ignorance. Co-operating with the Department of Commerce the Research Committee of the New England Council has carried on an industrial survey which, while it will only verify the impressions of a great many persons outside of the Boston zone, must have brought sheer amazement to Massachusetts business circles.

Here are the words of a report written by L. V. Alden, industrial engineer acting for the survey: "We have found, in examining New England industries from the group standpoint, that many popular misconceptions have no basis in fact. It has been a prevailing practice in recent years to speak or write of New England industries in terms of one of its outstanding industries. Many popular conceptions of New England industry are based upon statements which actually refer to the textile industry or the boot and shoe industry, for example. Although the importance of these groups is not questioned it must, at the same time, be realized that the entire textile group, plus the boot and shoe industry, represents together 31 per cent of New England's output, and that the remaining 69 per cent of our industrial output comes from nearly 200 other classifications of industry, which in many cases have little in common with textiles or shoes."

This article of Mr. Alden's continues from this point to develop many valuable ideas. Perhaps it would have been as well if it had gone no further at all, but had permitted a realization of the one huge truth to sink in before asking the disconcerted mass mind of Massachusetts business circles to receive more shocks.

The question has been asked many times, "What's the matter with New England?" The right answer has always been, "Nothing—except that New England has never known that its business wasn't mostly shoes and fabrics."

We have been doing business under the sign, "New England; Shoes and Textiles" when, as a matter of fact we have been running the most variously stocked industrial department store in America.

THUMBS DOWN

The United States government, through the navy department, has put the official mark on its disapproval on overseas flights by land planes. The action of Acting Secretary Robinson in cancelling the leaves of absence of the two naval officers who were booked to fly with Rene Fonck will meet instant and cordial approval all over the country.

It does not matter in the least whether this action is consistent with the navy department's attitude toward these flights in the past. Merely because that department had once shared with the public a rather amazing lack of appreciation of the desperation of ocean aviation that is no reason why it should persist in a mistake after the mistake has been conclusively demonstrated.

The circumstance that President Coolidge does not favor, as yet, federal regulation of transoceanic flights will probably have little effect on such negative discouragements as this by the Navy Department. Mr. Coolidge is proverbially extremely cautious. He will not permit himself to be committed to federal regulation of international flying until he has examined that proposition from every conceivable angle and until he has satisfied himself that such regulation may not contain some joker to arise and make trouble in the future. Nevertheless we do not doubt that in due course the President will be in line for any reasonable and safe regulatory measure.

Meantime the officials most directly in contact with the question will have full liberty, of course, to refuse to aid in the promotion of extra-hazardous stunts. There is no slightest obligation on either Army or Navy to contribute to the growing list of flying suicides.

SOON TO DEPART

It is not beyond belief that Seymour W. Lowman, once lieutenant-governor of New York but now in charge of federal prohibition enforcement, is already tired of his job. Otherwise it is hardly conceivable that he would throw quite so much mud at the service in which he is engaged. "Bribery is rampant," he declares, in the prohibition service. It is loaded down with incompetent and evil men. His arm gets tired signing dismissal papers. It is going to take fifty years to make the United States sober.

All of which reflects very directly against the department of the government with which he is associated—the Treasury department—or else it reflects on the institution of prohibition. Mr. Lowman is a subordinate of Secretary Mellon. One would imagine that if he intended giving loyal support to that part of the government with which he is connected he would hardly accuse his own chief, indirectly, of responsibility for such a corrupt thing as the enforcement service.

No, we can't see Mr. Lowman as a long-timer in the enforcement throne. He is acting too much like a baseball player who is playing for release.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington, Sept. 12.—In order to be good it must be imported. That seems to be the situation as far as liquors dispensed by sundry agencies in the United States are concerned.

But federal prohibition officials recently calling upon the Canadians to help enforce our prohibition law by halting the smuggler in his tracks, got the surprise of their lives. For it seems that for every quart of Canadian liquor smuggled into the States, there is a quart of liquor from the United States smuggled into Canada.

Secretary of the Interior Hubert W. Work, who estimates that overproduction of petroleum "approximates a million barrels a day," has a plan that he wants the next Congress to hear about.

Dr. Work recently addressed the Mineral Law section of the American Bar Association at Buffalo, N. Y. There he proposed a committee of nine members to draft a bill for conservation. The committee would be composed of three members of the American Bar Association, three petroleum engineers and three representatives of the government. As chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board Dr. Work would have final re-checking of the measure.

Production in this field, it appears, has been speeded too well.

It may come to a point where he who would fly over oceans must first prove all the required buttons are there.

Government officials have joined with the National Aeronautic Association in recommending that restrictions as to personnel and equipment should be imposed before sanction is given flights designed to establish new records.

Pilot and members of the crew should be examined to insure they are qualified mentally, physically, and by training and experience, it was agreed at the conference.

NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 12.—Gotham sights you can't find in the guide books: Those humorously sinister signs to be found east of Tenth Avenue printed in chalk on the sign boards of "Hell's Kitchen." Sometimes they are just chalked names: "Dan the Dip," "Stick-Up Sam" or "Two-Time Tim." All of which are mere esoteric gestures. But some of them have a hint of the menacing. "Red, Ike and Joe. Be at the same place," or "Blackie's fine south," or "Five methods of communication between gangsters who fear to meet or be seen together lest they arouse the suspicions of the police and fellow gangmen."

The Spanish grill-work balconies east of Seventh Avenue in the twenties. The balalaika orchestra at the Russian Bear. The Japanese cafe off Columbus Circle will are they hand you a recipe, a one burner gas stove, a couple of pots and an assortment of ingredients and let you make your own dinner. The night court on 54th Street. The heart of the Broadway art. What a strange assortment of humans come drifting there through the night. The steple-jack now engaged in painting those huge chimneys in the cloak-and-suit belt. That tigerish walk affected by clothes models of Seventh Avenue or 57th Street. The fellow who tries to bootleg naughty photographs in the public parks. And the other one who tries to slip yokels imitations of French post-cards.

Pickpockets, I learn, have gone out of style. The other day police caught an old-timer operating in the subways. It was the first "dip" arrest in many seasons. The "dip" game, once so popular, particularly where visitors were concerned, went out of fashion with prohibition, they tell me.

So strenuous are many of the leading feminine roles in Broadway plays that as many as a dozen identical costumes are turned out when the original order is given. Even then the wear and tear is likely to result in an exhaustion of the supply and the necessity of getting more.

Last season, I was told, Katherine Cornell had six copies made of a dress in which she played her biggest scene. And each one was in shreds at the end of the season. They tell of one of the many way plays about the cheap circuits singing those "mammy" songs in which the singer tells variously, how he would "die, cry, sigh for his dear old ma-mammy." Anyway, the tale goes, he was playing the Bronx one night when a gray-haired woman called at the stage door and asked for him. The word was sent up and the fellow refused to come down. The kindly

by anne austin ©1927 by NEA Service

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JERRY MAOULIN, advertising manager for Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., falls in love with VERA CAMERON after he transforms her from a plain secretary into a beauty. He is hurt to learn she consents to the transformation only because she falls in love with him. SMYTHE, SMYTHE—and she intends to spend her vacation at Lake Minnetonka where Jerry is vacationing.

Smythe and other guests mistake her in spite of her denials, for VIVIAN CRANDALL, ex-princess, who after a Paris divorce is in hiding.

Learning of the supposed princess' whereabouts, Crandall detectives arrive one night. Vera and Smythe flee in a stolen car. Smythe begs to marry him at once, but when she tells him the truth about her identity, he is furious, thereby revealing himself to her as a fortune-hunter.

Vera is kidnapped from the car by two masked men and taken by airplane to a shack in the hills where the prince, IVAN, awaits them. The kidnapers doublecross the prince, holding him and Vera for a Crandall ransom. Vera convinces the prince, furious at the discovery that he is not his ex-wife, they must "play the part."

In New York Jerry finds Vivian Crandall hiding in the Bronx. Agreeing to help her, she guides Jerry to the shack which she remembers the prince was interested in.

They arrive just as Vera is fleeing from the shack. She tells them how she was left alone with Ivan, after one of the kidnapers was killed before their eyes in an airplane crash and the other departed in fear.

The girls become friends and Vera proposes to Jerry. Crandall pleases Vivian a little longer. Vera consents, Vivian goes to the prince's promise to leave the country immediately. Vera and Jerry go to Vera's apartment in the Bronx.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV

VERA CAMERON could scarcely take her eyes off Paul Allison, although she had been furtively studying him for most of the two hours that he had known him.

"What is it about him that has so fascinated Vivian Crandall that she is willing to give up social position, a fortune, her parents, everything for love of him?" the girl marveled to herself. "Why—he's almost ugly! Jerry is handsome beside him. Maybe it's his mind. He must be frightfully clever—"

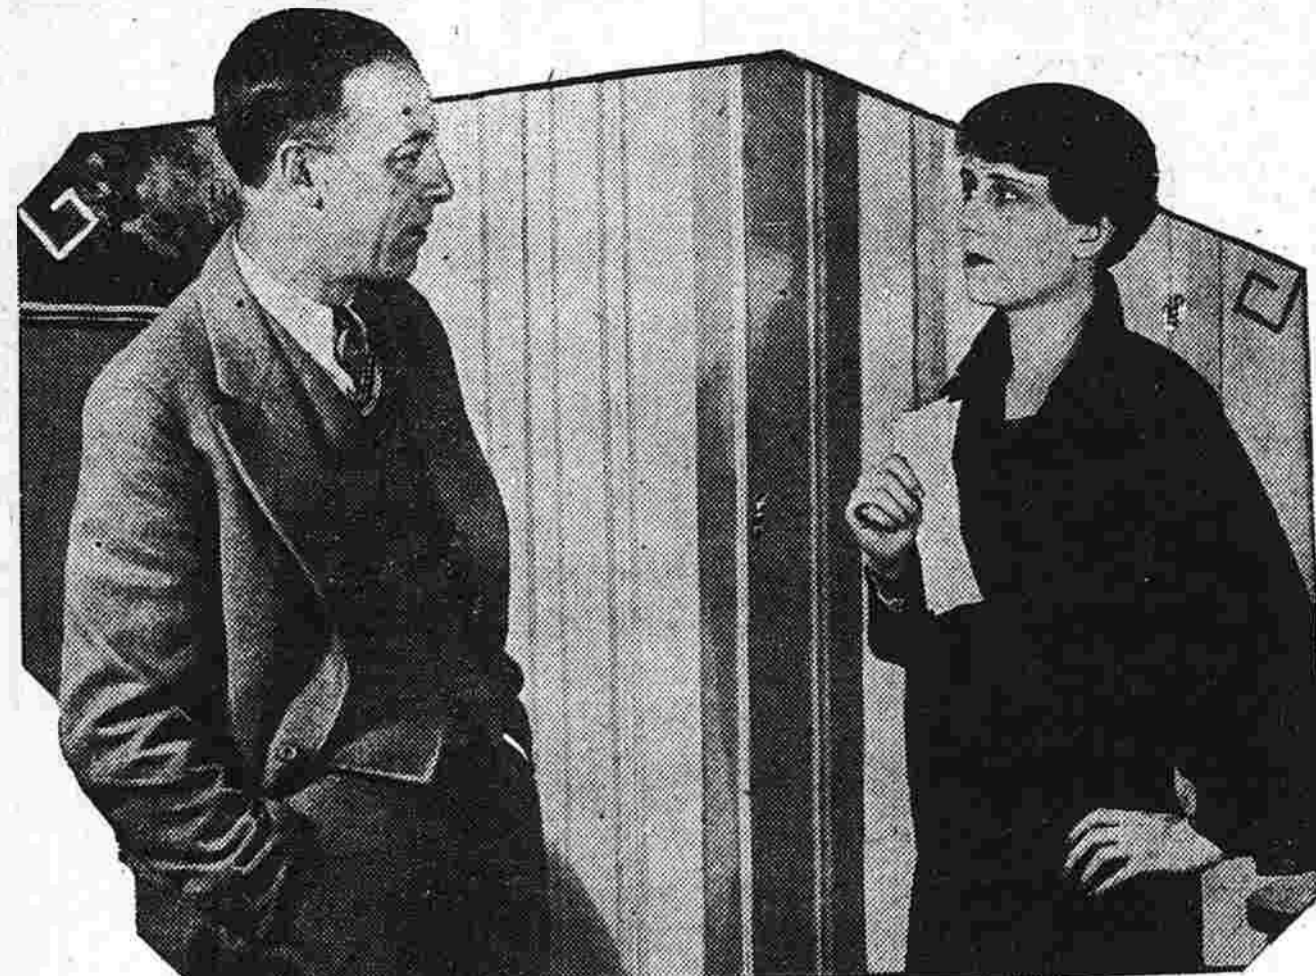

The longer Vee-Vee watched them—the beautiful woman who had been a princess and the homely, magnetic man who would not marry her until she had proved that she could make a poor man's wife—the sharper and more hurtling was the envy which twisted her heart.

"Ready to talk business now, everybody?" Vivian asked after she and Paul had cleared the table of the coffee service.

"Paul has consented to my plan, Vee-Vee, largely for your sake. He likes you and wants to spare you all possible unpleasantness. This, briefly, is the situation: I am on probation, a self-imposed probation, for three months. If at the end of that time I have not become tired of living like this—a wave of her beautiful hand indicated the small, cheap apartment—and think I can be happy to continue to live on a small income, Paul will marry me."

"She's making me sound like an utter cad," Paul Allison smiled ruefully, reaching across the table to take Vivian's hand. "But I'm sure you two understand. I can't carry 40 million dollars and keep my self-respect."

Vivian Crandall laughed indulgently, then went on: "In disappearing I certainly had no idea that I would cause such a furor. I believed that, as a woman grown, I had a right to live my life as I

"That," said Jerry, "is rather a hard and bitter letter, young woman."

pleased. But my parents thought otherwise. I suppose, too," she conceded fairly, "that they were really anxious about me. The very rich are always in terror lest their children be kidnapped or get into some awful scrape or other. The rich have no freedom at all. That is the big reason why I shall be glad to be poor. However, that is beside the point. My parents asked the help of detectives to find me. They undoubtedly believe that the resulting newspaper publicity was responsible for my kidnapping, or rather, the kidnapping of the girl they firmly believe was I. The thing cannot be ignored now. They would not rest until they found me, and the police, even if my parents asked them to give up the search, would not stop until they returned. That is the whole point. Vivian Crandall will have to return to her parents—or appear to do so." She stretched the words significantly, her eyes pleading with Vera Cameron.

"How will you manage it?" Vee-Vee asked, bewildered.

"I will send you to them tonight with a letter from me. They cannot doubt that it is really from me, for they will recognize my handwriting. Its illegibility makes it appallingly distinctive," Vivian smiled. "The letter will protect you thoroughly. Vee-Vee, will force their acceptance of you as my impersonator."

"But what will your father and mother tell the police and the reporters?" Vee-Vee worried. "Remember that Schuyler Smythe saw you—or rather me—being kidnapped."

"My dear, a man as rich as my father does not have to explain anything," Vivian Crandall told her simply.

"Father will simply say, with a grand gesture, as if that settles everything: 'My daughter has returned. I have nothing further to say. No, I do not wish the kidnapers to be found and punished.' Oh, he will do it very well, never fear! Now, Vee-Vee, I am not so selfish as to ask you to give up the next two years of your life to a virtual imprisonment such as we are to get away with the impersonation, without compensating you handsomely. Will you accept ten thousand dollars for your services?" Quick color flamed in Vee-Vee's cheeks. "I don't want you to pay me anything!" she protested. "You are doing me a greater favor than I could possibly render you, by saving me from public exposure."

"I am also causing you to lose your position with the Peach Bloom Company," Vivian reminded her. "We will not quarrel about the money. That point is settled," she stated firmly. "Now I will write the letter, and I promise you that I shall not hesitate to stick a javelin in it."

Paul, Vee-Vee and Jerry watched her intently as she scribbled hastily, and on every face was a different expression, with one element common—an almost reverent admiration.

"Listen," Vivian commanded, her brilliant eyes sweeping the group when she had finished. "Dear Mother and Dad: This will introduce my dear friend, Vera Victoria Cameron, who, as you no doubt have already observed, is my physical double. Miss Cameron has been doubling for me with my full knowledge and at my request. It was she who stayed at the Minnetonka, she, unfortunately, who was kidnapped by underworld thugs who mistook her for me. Now I am sending her to you to continue to take my place, so far as the police and the press are concerned. You can make any explanation you like of my disappearance and my kidnapping and my return, or—as I am sure will readily occur to you—you can refuse to make any explanation whatever, thereby saving yourselves and me a great deal of hideous publicity. Miss Cameron will be Vivian Crandall until I choose to release her from her duties as my double, since I am otherwise and very importantly engaged. If you refuse to recognize Miss Cameron as your daughter, believe me, dear people, the scandal that will result through my enforced re-appearance will make this kidnapping seem like a pleasant little bedtime story. I am safe—never safer in my life, or rather, never so safe in my life—and so happy that the gods must envy me. Please believe me when I say that this is the best and only way out of a situation which you, in your mistaken paternal anxiety, have brought upon yourselves. To refuse to accept it will mean misery more sorry than I can say that I have caused you pain and anxiety, and the disgrace of seeing our sacred name in the headlines. I am sorry, too, that I cannot explain. To explain would be to ruin my chances for happiness forever. Please accept all this as absolutely final, and with it my love and remorse for having unintentionally caused you heartache and anxiety. Your daughter, Vivian."

"That," said Jerry, cocking a brilliant blue eye at Vivian reproachfully, "is rather a hard and bitter letter, young woman. I would not say it is calculated to bring a ray of sunshine into your parents' lives. But I think it will turn the trick. It is certainly amazingly definite, not to say menacing."

"The Rufus Worrell Crandalls fear nothing so much as scandal," newspaper editor Vivian replied, her beautiful mouth a little cynical. "I had to use the only weapon in my hands. And my mother and father have not been exactly model parents. I love them in spite of myself."

"Now, how does this child get herself into your home without being caught in the act?" Jerry veered hastily.

"You will take her there in your car, leaving her at a corner about two blocks from the house. She will let herself into the house in a perfectly matter-of-fact way. The rest is entirely on the knees of the gods. You will drive straight to your own apartment and await a telephone call from Vee-Vee there, a call which she will make only if my parents refuse to accept her as Vivian Crandall. You will then get in touch with me and I will go to her assistance immediately. And I will stand by her through anything that can conceivably happen as a result of her effort to help me. Does that satisfy you, Jerry Mackay?"

"The Wind That Wouldn't Blow" (E. P. Dutton & Co.) The silhouettes are again by Elsie Hasselriis and the stories are told with beauty of phrase, humor, appreciation of the young audience. The author becomes one of the boys and girls for whom he is writing. He feels what they will like. And he has gathered his tales of old and young China with the eye of a connoisseur and the enthusiasm of a writer who enjoys his work. Some of the titles indicate how inviting are the stories—"The Shen of the Colored Cords," "The Was-a-Boy," "Kings Hungry," "The Was-a-Boy," "Blitter Waters," the last of which relates the story of the discovery of tea. But in a delicious last paragraph the author tells us that Wu Chang, his gardener, laid the discovery to Ah Tcha, and Wang Kwa the cook to Sing Ah Sing. So the credulity can be taken up for any of the three! And those who want chuckles with their romance will revel in "Wing Dow."

Strange Malay Tales. In "Wonder Tales from Pirate Isles," Frances Jenkins Olcott has translated from the Dutch a series of compelling tales of strange Malay and East Indian happenings. At the end of the book there is a tiny history of the East Indies and a tiny dictionary of Malay objects. Captives in those early days had to make their stories entertaining to hold the interest of their pirate captors—and they did so with their legends. So it is unnecessary to add that they will not seem tame to boys and girls. Herman Rosse, the Dutch illustrator and frequent sojourner in East India, has made the interesting pictures. The book is published by Longmans, Green & Co.

From the Amazon regions comes "The Magic Tooth and Other Tales from the Amazon," by Elsie Spicer Eells (Little, Brown & Co.) The book begins in this wise: "The very first Christmas I spent in Brazil I received among other gifts a tiger's tooth and an ostrich's toenail." It is a small sample to indicate that the book is not ordinary.

standards of the male to weigh woman? A jeweler would be a poor one to criticize a building and an architect would have little right to express an opinion of diamonds. It is not woman's birthright of spiritual grace as praiseworthy as man's inheritance of strength? Leaving out the matter of intelligence, which may be different but equal at any rate, what good does it do to keep up the eternal argument of equality? Women are women and men are men. Childbearing limits women in one way only: To do men's work. And why should they do men's work unless necessity demands it?

It so happens that necessity nowadays often does demand. As usual woman rises to the occasion, then, and does the best she can.

JUDGE WOMEN BY WOMEN'S STANDARDS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Not long ago there appeared an article called "Feminism and Jane Smith" in which the author gave certain reasons why woman was inferior to man.

The comments on the article from women all over the country are interesting. One woman in her reply quotes an astronomer who declared that if he were born on another planet he hoped he would be more than an alimentary canal! She expresses also the contradictory statement of a gentleman who explained that man's intelligence had its birth and growth in his necessity for obtaining food from some said canal.

I think we must agree with her. Also when she states the parallel case of woman's "Childbearing," she declares, "may be a source of limitation for woman, but it is also the source of her greatest development."

Is it not true? Has not the parallelism and understanding of woman been developed by the very thing that has been considered her greatest handicap? Would woman be as patient, tender, and forgiving, if centuries of suffering and limitation had not taught her these virtues?

We always weigh the matter of equality of the sexes on the scales of brain and brawn. Why set up the

EMPHASIZING THE LIVING ROOM

Of paramount importance to any house is the living room. It is the center of the home, the meeting ground of families and friends. Thus, the emphasis "The Oxford" places on the living room, with its inviting open fireplace, is only one feature which makes it an exceptionally well designed home.

In addition, there is the large veranda entered through two doors from the living room, the spacious dining room, and three ample bedrooms upstairs. When one considers that "The Oxford" may be built for from $4500 to $5500, its attractiveness as "a good buy" becomes apparent.

More information about "The Oxford" may be obtained from the Standard Homes Company, Colorado Building, Washington, D. C.

NEW BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Many of the wise rules to be applied to human relationships should also be applied to books.

If you want your child to make a friend of another boy or girl whose companionship you think both desirable and beneficial you do not, or should not, insist upon the development of this friendship. You do not keep telling him that this friend is a good influence and that you wish he would cultivate him. You enter into his enthusiasm about his friend, influencing him far more by your understanding than by your superior orders.

So it is with books. You cannot awaken enthusiasm in books by inistence. Have books around, talk about them, discuss them in detail, enter into the spirit of them and there will be a response far greater and more lasting than anything forced. If a child happens not to like your favorite author don't force him to agree with your opinion. Argue your case with judicial wisdom but do not act as sole arbiter of his literary destiny. Turn to another author, another book.

Enthusiasm Grows With Time. Children, no more than adults, can like a book simply because we happen to like it. But an enthusiasm for books guided and fostered throughout the early years will grow into an interest when young, but will grow along through the years. No investment pays more satisfactory dividends than a love of reading.

Last year Arthur Bowie Christie was awarded the Newbery Medal for his "Shen of the Sea," a book of delectable Chinese tales. This year he has again justified the award with a second collection of Chinese stories under the title of "The Wind That Wouldn't Blow" (E. P. Dutton & Co.) The silhouettes are again by Elsie Hasselriis and the stories are told with beauty

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Just what does it mean to live one's "own life," and does anybody in the entire world live his or her "own life" in the sense that we usually mean the expression?

A few days ago I told you of Ruth Edwards, the girl with the artistic talent who was forced to sacrifice her own ambitions and support two aged parents. I probably used the hackneyed expression of "living other people's lives"—not her own.

The story of Ruth Edwards brought me this interesting and apt letter:

"That expression 'living one's own life' always irritates me, for I am so sure that the person who lives the fullest 'life of her own' is the one who recognizes the truth that living one's 'own life' is accepting every duty and responsibility that comes to one.

"An old-fashioned, unpopular viewpoint, I know, but one which I accord to not with any belief that virtue is its own reward, but because I believe that human beings cannot be happy if they reject the normal things of the abnormal, and in looking for the normal, and only the abnormal.

"I'll be clearer. Women, I believe, more than men, are supposed to live lives not their 'own.' We are always talking about daughters who, weighed down by the responsibility of parents or younger brothers or sisters or this thing and that thing, must remain at home, working for dependents when they long to be out in the world living 'lives of their own.'

"These lives are supposed to consist of doing a job of their own choosing rather than one imposed upon them by necessity, such as housework or nursing, perhaps.

"The modern feminist plights the stay-at-home wife who might be 'living her own life' instead of drudging for other people's lives. In some cases the wife herself loses sight of the truth that the richest life and the one she really wants is this very life of 'living other people's lives.'

"I suppose I am merely trying to say what was once expressed in words to the effect that he who would find his life most lost if he itself calls for 'living other people's lives,' and making such living our own life. How many people can you name who have escaped? If it isn't one responsibility, it's another. Someone has an invalid wife or husband, another one has aged parents, another is struggling to keep a sick brother or sister in a sanitarium, another has a feeble-minded child, another has dependent aunts or uncles, another is bound to this or that—

"Those who accept their burdens as eccentricities and live their lives in rebellion never live 'lives of their own.' Those who accept them and make them their life, and that they are indeed living 'lives of their own.'

"Please forgive this preachy letter from an old woman who has lived long enough and fully enough to know whereof she speaks."

GIRL'S 33 FRACTURES TRACED FAR BACK IN FAMILY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Investigations in practical medicine have revealed that some people are especially subject to fractures of the bones, their long bones particularly will crack like dry sticks when submitted to any unusual strain.

In one case described by a prominent physician, a 12-year-old girl had had 33 fractures of the bones before reaching that age.

When a study of the family history was made, it was found that the mother of the girl was deaf, that the white portion of her eye was unusually blue, and that she had had two fractures.

Back to Ancestors

The grandmother and the great-grandmother on the mother's side were also deaf and had the blue sclera in the eye. Three brothers and two sisters also had the blueness of the eye and three of the five had suffered with many fractures of the bones.

Investigation of the cases described as well as of many others shows that this condition runs in families and is transmitted by the affected parent. Only those children with the blueness of the eye

DAVIS CUP LEAVES AMERICA; NEW TENNIS STARS NEEDED

No Hope For Its Return Until 1930, Experts Say; Tilden and Johnston Will Be Out of Game.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—No hope for the return of the Davis Cup to its rightful American home before 1930.

This today sounded the consensus note of official opinion among the tennis association men with whom the writer has talked since the tragic circumstances of the trophy's passing to France on Saturday.

Bill Tilden will be only one of those old men of the courts next year, something of the same kind that Norman Brooks proved to be after the war—dangerous, beautiful to watch but not always effective after the second set. Billy Johnston has passed definitely from big time tennis. Dick Williams is just a doubles player now and Francis T. Hunter is a man who must lean upon Tilden and the latter is getting to a point where he can't very well lean upon himself.

These and other reactions from the French victory were freely aired by various tennis officials during the "wake" over the dead body of American supremacy at the Germantown Cricket club on Saturday night. It was agreed then that there was little to be gained by trying to revive the corpse, that it would be much more sensible to let the dead remain dead and try to create another dynasty through the youth of the country.

The American Davis Cup team, playing the role of a challenger for the first time since 1919, is likely to be composed next year of one veteran and three freshmen who are declared of international play, it was declared.

Tilden on Team

The veteran, they say, will be Tilden, provided he doesn't turn professional in the meantime, there having been some talk of this effect. The three new members most prominently suggested were John Doe, nineteen-year-old Californian, E. G. Chandler, former intercollegiate champion, and George M. Lott, of Chicago.

It was admitted that, if Williams, Hunter and Johnston step down at one and the same time, America must develop another cup next year, anyhow; so why delay the inevitable moment when the young men of the game must play our tennis for us?

As to that, I think that the United States now is merely where France was in 1922. In fact, the cases parallel rather nicely.

In 1922, France had a team composed of one great veteran, Andre Gobert, and several up and coming young men, the latter including Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra. Lacoste was unknown then. He was one of the discoveries of the next year when Gobert was bowing himself out in favor of younger, stronger and faster players.

Tilden will be that within a year or two, when secondary players like Doe, Lott and Chandler be their chance, it is quite possible that they will develop as did Cochet and Lacoste.

Doe, in particular, looks the part of the best prospect uncovered in the United States since the salad days of Tilden and Johnston. If he really gets around to doing what he should, it may become possible for us to forget the glorious past and remember that we are supposed to have a future.

SPORT CHATTER

The Cubs will practice tomorrow night at the Charter Oak street field at 7:30. The team will open its season either in Burnside or Meriden a week from next Sunday.

Manager Vendillo announces that the majority of the games will be played on the road. It is expected that the team will carry insurance to protect its players against injuries. Nick Angello has been named manager of the club.

Bud Geoghegan beat Young Jack Cheney Saturday in the quarter finals of the Hartford District Golf Association championship at Burnside and will be paired against Frank Ross of Sequim in the first bracket of the semi-finals. John P. Cheney, Sr., advanced into the semi-final round of the third sixteen by eliminating Norman Deschamps in a match that went nineteen holes.

Although morning papers said more than 2,000 fans saw the soccer game here yesterday, the truth of the matter is that 935 paid admission. However, this is considered very satisfactory considering the morning's weather which was anything but favorable.

Judging from the interest shown in the tennis tournaments just concluded, next year's affairs are expected to be even more of an attraction. It is hoped that at that time to have a much larger entry list in each division and in all probability a seed draw will be in order. The tournament next year will be started earlier.

Sherwood Bissell and Katherine Giblin won the 1927 tennis singles championship of Manchester Saturday afternoon at the West Side Playgrounds when they defeated Matthew Macdonald and Aileen McHale, respectively, in the finals of the tournaments conducted by The Manchester Evening Herald. Both winners were pressed hard and had to overcome an early lead to win the coveted honors.

It took just eight sets or 699 games to settle the championship, so closely were the finalists matched. Each match went the limit in sets with the favorite winning, although coming too close to defeat for anyone with a weak heart. Miss McHale won the first of her three-set affair with Miss Giblin, but lost the next two. Mr. Macdonald was victorious in the opening two skirmishes of his five set struggle with Mr. Bissell, but, he too, was unable to bring the one set needed to win the title.

A large gallery watched the afternoon's matches which were played under ideal weather conditions. The fans were treated to some brilliant tennis. In the opening number, every match was played and only one bye was necessary. Good sportsmanship marked the self-referenced matches. In the finals, three official

The C. B. A. Bon Ami baseball series, which was scheduled to start yesterday, was again postponed because of unfavorable weather. The teams will probably play next Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday afternoon Cheney Brothers easily won from Manchester Green at the West Side playgrounds, by a 9-3 score. Eddie Boyce allowed three hits and made two himself. Jack Linnell and Mike Zwick collected seven of the eighteen hits Cheney made from combined delivery of Joe Prentice and Art Seelert. Twelve were from Prentice's shoots.

Manchester Green scored two runs in the first inning on errors. Cheney got three in the first, five in the third and then on from the outcasts was never in doubt. Jack Hunt made the best play in the game when he raced over back of second base, scooped up a sizzling grounder and got his man at first by inches. Both teams fought with the officiating of Canada and Oakes.

all were in charge so that there might be no possible mishap to the record. They were James C. Aiken of Pawtucket, R. I., who dominated the tennis racquets to the winners, Miss Hazel Woodruff, director of physical education in the N. H. School District and Kenneth Blake, another local tennis enthusiast. The courts had been put in excellent condition by Tommy Woods the popular janitor at the West Side Playgrounds.

Joe Bard, local middleweight, will get another chance at Harry Seche, formerly of Lawrence, at the Massasoit A. C.'s amateur boxing show in the Hartford Velodrome tonight.

Seche fought Bard at the Massasoit show last Tuesday when Eddie Wenzel of New Haven failed to appear and, to the great surprise of all the fans, fairly smothered Joe, giving a great exhibition of ring generalship.

Bard was chagrined at the defeat, sought another chance. Joe says he will kayo Seche this time. Also it is expected that there will be a return bout between Joe Howard of Hartford, former state middleweight champion, and Vincent Terzano of New Haven. They fought last Tuesday and there was a very unsatisfactory ending to the bout when Howard was awarded the decision on a foul, the New Haven boys protesting vigorously and adding that he can beat Howard seven times a week.

Formidable opponents have been sought for the state's two leading welterweights, who have fled on their heels—Pinky Kaufman, state champion, and Billy Taylor, the former Hartford High football captain.

Middletown is sending Vin LaBella and Tony Juliano as its entrants. It will be LaBella's first bout here since undergoing an operation on his nose. Manchester will have as entrants, Al Dowd, Johnny Greenwood and Al Saterby, the sensational lightweight from the milltown.

Officials of the Hartford Club regard the attendance as proof that Manchester is going to prove an ideal home for the team. Rain fell throughout the morning and well into the afternoon before the sun broke through, thus preventing many more fans from seeing the contest. From this is seen that when Newark comes here next Sunday, the "gate" will run much higher. The exact number to pay admissions to yesterday's game was 985, it was revealed by Fred J. Rochleau, one of the two owners of the team.

Although Philadelphia had far better teamwork than Hartford, the latter's defense was such that the Harps never seriously threatened to score while the Lawmakers made several opportunities. Nevertheless, the game plainly showed that a few more changes will have to be made in Manager Jimmy Dewhurst's eleven before many more games are played. This was especially so in the case of the local forwards.

The first score of the game came after five minutes had elapsed in the first half. During a skirmish about 20 yards out from Hartford's goal, Fullham, outside the ball Philadelphia, recovered the ball and completely fooled the local Harps with a boot that beat McGonigle who blocked Goals Blair's vision as the ball shot into the net. There was no more scoring during the first half although Hartford had a few chances about the middle of the period when Cowan, right back, missed a penalty kick. The shot struck the cross-bar and rebounded onto the field where Pitt made a great save.

The second half was underway less than a minute before Hartford scored a goal which was not allowed. Following the kick-off, the local forwards immediately rushed the Quaker's goal and "Happy" Abdullah drove the ball into the net only to have the referee rule that Owen had handled it in his effort to make the try good. Throughout most of the second half the play was in Philadelphia territory with Hartford pressing hard. The visitors seemed unable to organize their defense to any great extent, so seriously did the locals press them. Two or three times, it seemed that Hartford would score but not come until within ten minutes of game time.

On a free-kick, Isatt's shot hit the cross bar and bounced back. Stevenson, a forwarder, who had just been sent into the game a few minutes before in place of McGonigle, pounced on it and beat Pitt with a pretty boot that sailed into the net for the tying score. On another occasion, Hartford had an excellent opportunity to score. It came during a massed play in front of the Harp's goal. Pitt gave a great exhibition of saving and finally forced a corner shot.

The playing of O'Brien, Philadelphia's left wing, stood out conspicuously, as did that of Andy Bain, Isatt and Bob Hutchinson.

Following is the summary:

Hartford	Philadelphia
Goal	Maguire
Cowan	Right Back
Bain	Left Back
Kilbert	Right Halfback
Isatt	Center Halfback

Poiansky, Tony Poiansky and Charles Evans, winners of soccer representation will be Frank Colombo, sensational lightweight from the milltown.

All these entrants will be paired with leading Hartford amateurs. The first bout will start at 8:15. Ladies will be admitted free and there will be a band concert.

Manager Jimmy Dewhurst will attend a league meeting in New York tomorrow night and will make an effort to have the name of the Hartford Soccer Club changed to the Manchester Soccer Club. Manchester is a far better soccer town than Hartford and the officials of the club are confident the location is ideal to attract hundreds of out of town fans. Yesterday there were at least two dozen automobiles parked in the grounds bearing Massachusetts licenses.

Johnny Powers, former Pirate quarterback, is seeking a regular backfield berth on the Aggie eleven as a substitute this season. He was named as a substitute last year and gave a good account of himself in the games he was used.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

LIMERICKS
There's nothing that rouses the ire
Of a man on his way to a fire
Like hitting a truck
That is running amuck
And harmfully busting a tire.
There is nothing that rouses the wrath
Of a man stepping into his bath,
Or that makes him kick higher
Or twist about spryer,
Than a wet bar of soap in his path.
The reason ideas die quickly in some heads is because they can't stand solitary confinement.
It's a long lane that has no lovers.
People who chew tobacco should not spit in glass houses.
It is hard to be a leader in America. You can't tell which way the crowd is going.
"The first thing you see after a rainbow is a Ford.
A slim urchin spent a week in the country on a farm. He came back home brown and strong, but he was done with milk forever. No more milk for him. No, sir.
"I'm done with it," he said. I seen how they make it. Why, the darn stuff ain't nothin' but chewed grass.
Ours is a queer language. For instance, when a woman is down in the mouth she goes up in the air.
The world's greatest tragedy: Youth doesn't know how; age can't.
Teacher: "Now, you must prove to me that the earth is round."
Pupil: "Why?" - I never said it was.
DO IT TODAY
The clock of life is wound but once.
And no man has the power
To say just when the hands will stop
At late or early hour.
Now is the only time you own.
Live, love, toll with a will,
Place no faith in tomorrow,
For the clock may then be still.
When Billy attended a children's party recently, he was persuaded, against his wishes, to try oysters for the first time. He took one and put it in his mouth.
Later the oysters were passed to him again and he was urged to take another one.
Manipulating his mouth in the manner ordinarily described as "talking around a hot potato," he said:
"No, I don't know what to do with the one I got now."
Time softens most hard situations but it doesn't seem to be able to do a thing for the nervousness of a hen on a hot griddle.
Who was that peach I saw you with the other night John?
That wasn't any peach; she was a grapefruit.
Why grapefruit?
Why, I squeezed her and she hit me in the eye.

LITTLE JOE

AT A PICNIC FUN NEVER REIGNS BUT IT POURS.

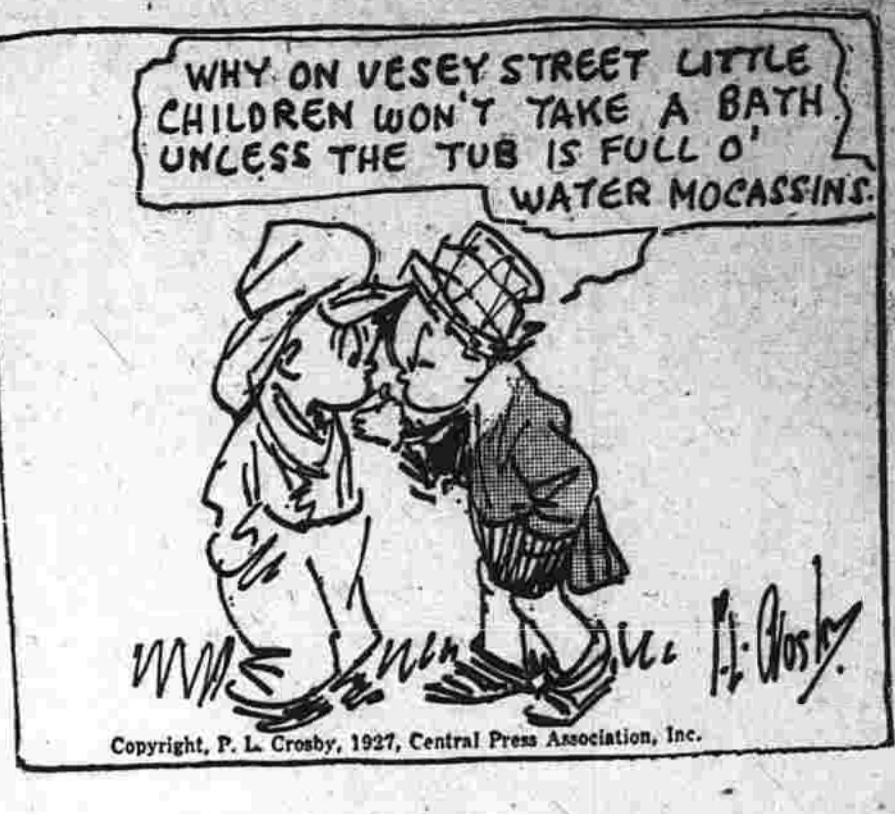

THE TINYMITES

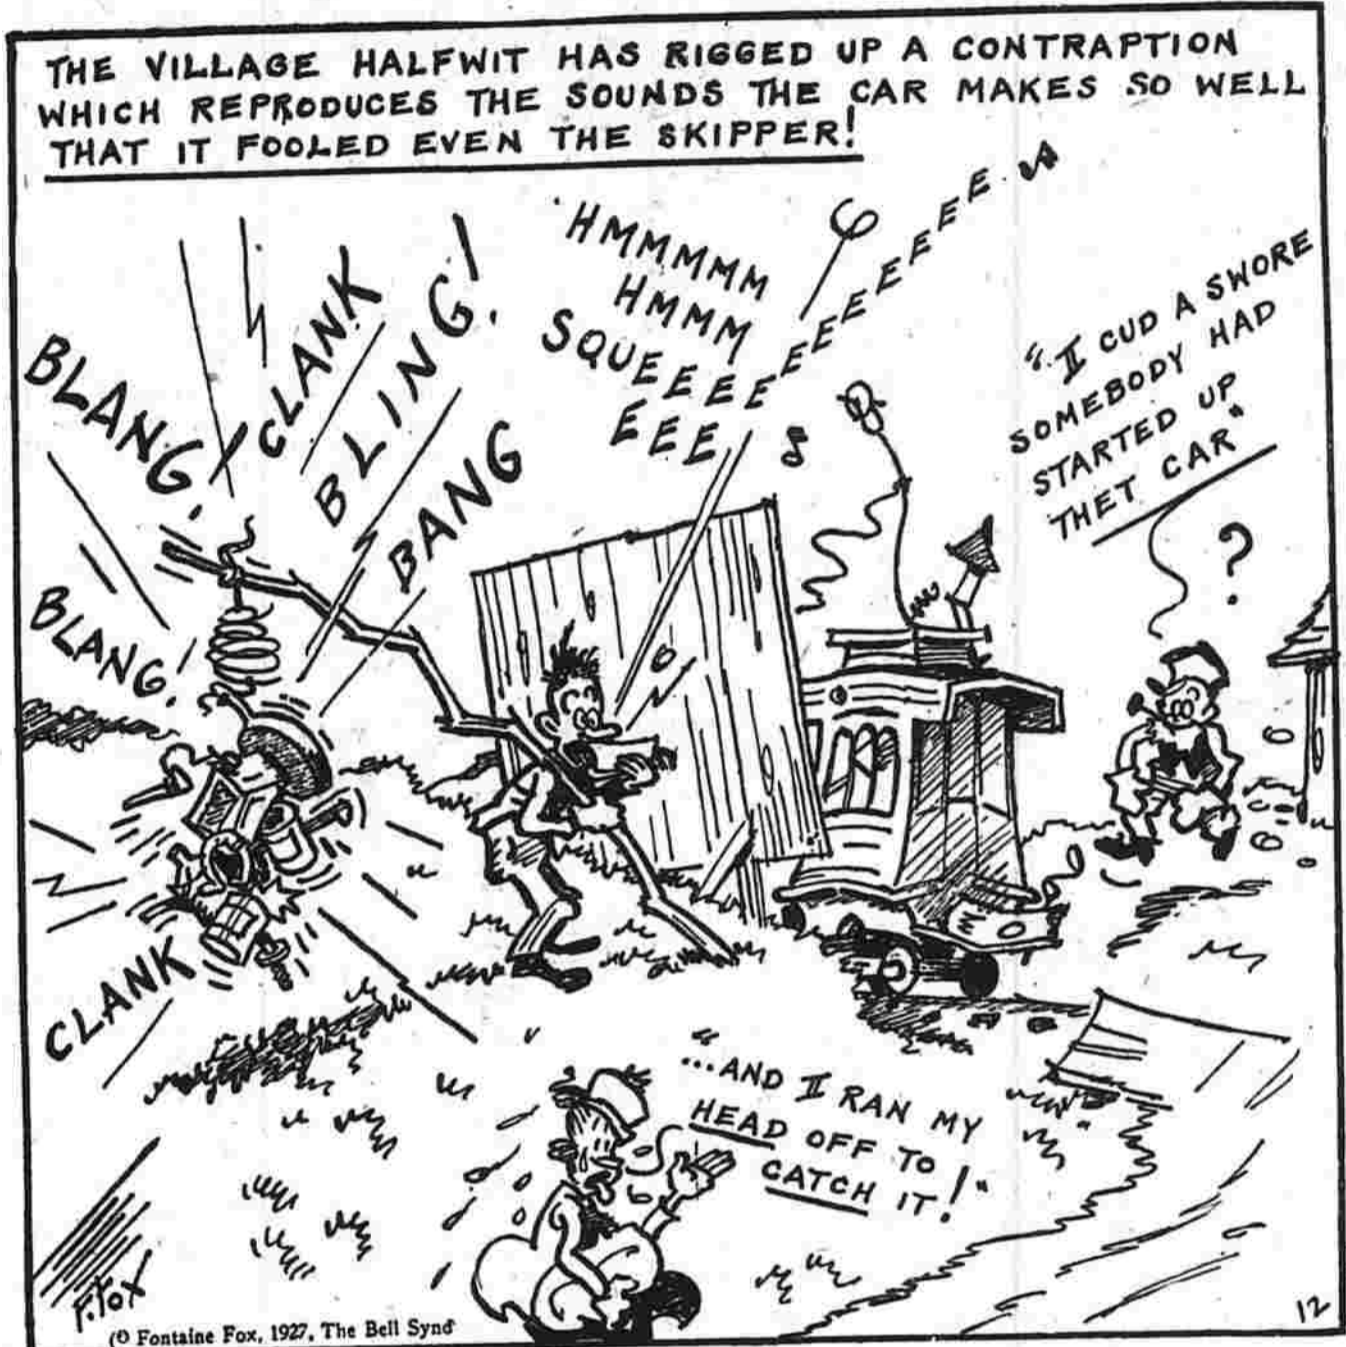

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)
At last the famous kite was done.
"Man said, "A failure is a thing I dread. Just look how nice it sails along upon the puffy breeze. If Clowzy Tynmite stands still, he need not fear he'll take a spill. 'Tis well the wind blows out instead of inward, toward the trees."
The kite then circled round and round and shortly floated to the ground. Wee Clowzy shouted, "Gee, what fun. Who's going to try it now? Just step right on, and hang on tight. There is no cause for any fright. If you are scared, just watch me close and I will show you how."
A frown spread on one Gooly's face. "We're not allowed to leave this place. You Tynmites must go alone," he whispered, with a sigh. "That's very true," the Kite Man said, "So all you Tynites go ahead and board the kite, but first bid adieu to the Gooly Gooses good-bye."
So Clowzy did as he was told, and made the rest think he was bold. The Kite Man hollered, "Hang on tight," and clapped his hands real loud. Up went the kite just like a bird, and merry shouts were shortly heard as Clowzy, in the kite, went calling up above the crowd.
"Works! Works!" the Kite Man said.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Catlin and children, of North Elm Street, spent the week-end in Rutland, Vermont, visiting relatives.

Mrs. Andrew Healey, vice-regent of St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, represented Mrs. Julia Sheridan, the regent of the circle, at the quarterly meeting of the Connecticut Assembly of the National Circle, Daughters of Isabella, which was held Saturday in "homestead."

Miss Marion Robertson of Henry street, had as week end guests at her parents' cottage at Madison, Miss Jeanette Sumner of Bolton, Miss Louise Phelps, of Bolton, Miss Harriet Richmond, Miss Catherine Carney, Miss Eileen Donahue and Miss Edith Balch, all of this place. Miss Catherine O'Connell was the chaperon.

Confirmation will be administered in St. James's Church at the 10:30 mass on November 22 to a class of boys and girls.

An unusual sight was witnessed in Manchester on Saturday morning when two airplanes, one flying east and the other west passed within 400 yards of each other. The planes were flying low and could be seen clearly.

The trustees of the South Methodist church have placed ten 2 1/2 gallon chemical fire extinguishers in the church. The church is of fireproof construction but this is being done to give the building the greatest possible protection against fire.

Three trustees will be elected at the meeting of the official board of the South Methodist church at 8 o'clock this evening. The retiring trustees, Thomas J. Rogers, Mrs. Robert Richmond and George Barber, are eligible for re-election.

Herbert Carlson of Hill street will enter Arnold's College, formerly the New Haven Normal school of gymnastics, on Wednesday. He was formerly a student at Mercersburg academy, Mercersburg, Pa., but was forced to leave that place because of illness.

Harold and Gertrude Knofla, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knofla and Mark Hewitt, Jr., are on a ten day's motor trip through Maine and Canada.

The young people of the Salvation Army will conduct an open air meeting in Rockville tonight at 7:30. The Junior Band will furnish the music and Commandant Spohn will have charge of the meeting. This is the last open air meeting of the season. Next week the regular schedule of indoor meetings will begin.

William Rubnow and Mrs. Rose Tulin Kronick of Rubnow's Specialty Shop are in New York city today on a business trip.

A joint meeting of the program and social committees of the Center church young people's society will be held at the church tonight at 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Swanson of Ridge street spent the week-end in New York city.

William Pinches of Niagara Falls will conduct meetings at Gospel Hall every evening this week at 7:45. He was the speaker at both the afternoon and evening meetings yesterday.

Miss Hazel Johnson of Hill street was a week-end visitor in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh of Linden street left today for a two week's stay at their cottage at Pleasant View, R. I. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston of Bigelow street who will spend a week with them.

Arthur Barrabee of Maple street left Saturday for Boston where he will spend a few weeks.

The choir of the Swedish Lutheran church will resume rehearsals at the church Thursday night at 8:30. The G. Clef Glee club will meet at 7 o'clock.

MANCHESTER BANDS WIN FOUR PRIZES

Manchester bands brought home a good sized string of prizes from the annual Y. M. T. A. and B. Society field day program in New Britain Saturday afternoon. Two firsts and two seconds were brought back home by the Silk City musicians. The Center Flute Band won first prize for best music. The Silk City Band was awarded second prize and the Manchester Bagpipers won first prize for music in their class and second prize for best appearance among the entire 18 bands present. Father Matthew's Cadets of Hartford won first prize.

About seventy-five or a hundred Manchester persons went to New Britain for the program.

HOWELL-HUTTON

Miss Ruth Hutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hutton of 3 Edgerton place and Forrest F. Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howell of Cooper street, this town, were married at the home of the bride Saturday afternoon. The Reverend Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Center Congregational church, performed the ceremony, the double ring service being used.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was unattended. Adelaide Howell, small sister of the groom, acted as flower girl. The bride wore a gown of a combination of pink Canton crepe and imported cream lace, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The groom's sister, Mrs. Ethel Whitman, played the wedding march by Mendelssohn.

The living room in which the wedding took place was beautifully decorated and the ceremony was performed amidst a profusion of flowers.

Although the young couple endeavored to keep their marriage a secret, beautiful presents have arrived almost daily during the past week. Ruth Hutton, as the bride is known to all, was born in this town, attended the local public school, is a graduate of the South Manchester High school, class of 1924. She was graduated from the Connecticut Business College in 1925 and has been employed as bookkeeper at the Center Auto Supply company since that firm opened its business at their present location. She is the only child of Benjamin and Minnie Matchett Hutton.

Forrest F. Howell, the bridegroom, was born in Strasburg, Pa. and as a lad, attended the Beulah Park Theological Seminary of Allentown, intending to prepare for the ministry. At present he is employed by W. H. Scheldge, as printer.

Following the ceremony the happy couple left for an extensive trip. They intend stopping at New York, Allentown, Niagara Falls, Canada. After November 12 Mr. and Mrs. Howell will be at home at 3 Edgerton place, South Manchester.

MISS MERCER TO MARRY ROCKVILLE MAN TODAY

William Mercer of 11 Church street, and J. Allen Stachura of Rockville, the son of Mrs. Rose Stachura, will be married at 5:20 this afternoon in the South Methodist Episcopal church. The wedding will be officiated at by Rev. Joseph Cooper. The wedding march will be played by Harold Turkington, and Miss Anna Tuick will sing "I Love You Truly." Miss Mercer will wear a gown of white satin and will carry a bouquet of bridal roses. Her veil will be of embroidered tulle and will fall from a cap wreathed with orange blossoms. Her bridesmaid, Miss Helen Stachura, will wear a georgette and will carry pink roses. The best man is to be William Mercer, a brother of the bride. The bride will be given in marriage by her father.

Following a reception and dinner at the home of the bride on Church street, Mr. and Mrs. Stachura will leave on a trip to Toronto and Montreal, Canada. "Chang" is coming.—Adv.

"DOLLAR DAY" STUNT AT RUBINOW'S SUCCESS

Rubinow's unique Dollar Day stunt of refunding money on the first three sales slips drawn from a ballot box at the end of the day proved a big success and a business-getter.

A chest was placed near the front door and each customer that made a purchase was given a sales slip and instructed to write her name and address on it, put it in an envelope provided by the store and drop it in the chest.

When the chest was opened at 9 o'clock Saturday night it was found to be well filled. Following are the lucky ones: first, Mrs. J. Marshall of 66 Ridge street who receives a cash refund of her total purchase; second, Miss Dagmar Hyer of 78 Forest street who receives 10 per cent cash refund and third, Miss Mildred Hampton of 243 Wetherell street, who receives 5 per cent cash refund.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

More than 20 friends gave Mrs. Adrian Groot of 34 Madison street a birthday party at her home on Saturday evening. Mrs. Groot received a number of presents, among them a cameo pin. John McConville sang Irish songs and the Misses Nellie and Mary O'Connell danced jigs and sang. A supper was served and was followed by dancing and games.

H. S. STUDENTS LEARN TOWN GOVERNMENT. Get Insight Into Local Affairs Through Civic Class Study; Good Results. Town officials have been co-operating considerably with the civics classes in the High school the past few years and have been giving teachers every help that they desire in explaining the workings of town government to their classes. A town official remarked yesterday that the idea of rivivix dualla facts about town and city government was a new one to him, for they had nothing but national civics when he went to school. This idea, he said, was a good one, for it gave the student at the close of his school term an idea of how things are done in town governments, how voters are made, the duties of the various departments and officers and a general insight into the town government on the whole. Dummy voting machines have been loaned to the schools for use in civics classes and the various kinds of legal notices pertaining to hearings, making voters and for the primaries and town elections have been taken to the classes and explained.
