

CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES OPENS TODAY

Colorful Scenes as Delegates Assemble in Trocadero Palace—National Holiday Declared in France.

Paris, Sept. 19.—Under cloudy skies, which were reminiscent of the "Sunny France" that the doughboys knew, the Second A. E. F. paraded through flag-draped streets of Paris this afternoon, while dense throngs of Parisians on holiday, stood along the boulevards and cheered.

In the suburbs, Communists crumpled and broke down decorations on the heads of the Americans for executing Sacco and Vanzetti, but Metropolitan Paris, with her police on guard to an extent hitherto without precedent, presented a truly great tribute to the Americans.

It was the third time in history that the historic streets, which once echoed to the tramp of Napoleon's men, home from great conquests, have heard the rhythmic tramp of American military footstomps. The first was on July 4, 1917, when a pitifully small contingent of Americans first heartened the downcast French with a promise of millions of American soldiers yet to follow. The second time was during the celebration of the Armistice, when the battle-proven Yanks joined in the memorable Paris victory celebration.

Today's parade was the third, and it saw 15,000 Legionnaires swinging through the streets in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of America's entry in the war.

Trocadero Palace, Paris, Sept. 19.—Against a colorful background provided by the French government, the ninth annual convention of the American Legion got off to a whooping start this morning.

The falling gavel in the hands of National Commander Howard P. Savage called the delegates to order in the grand hall of this ancient palace at 9:30 o'clock this morning, half an hour later than the scheduled time.

Commander Savage experienced some difficulty in herding the Legionnaires into the convention hall for the opening ceremonies, for it was necessary to entice them from the boulevards, decorated in holiday colors in gay festoons of red, white and blue and joyous in the spirit of the holiday.

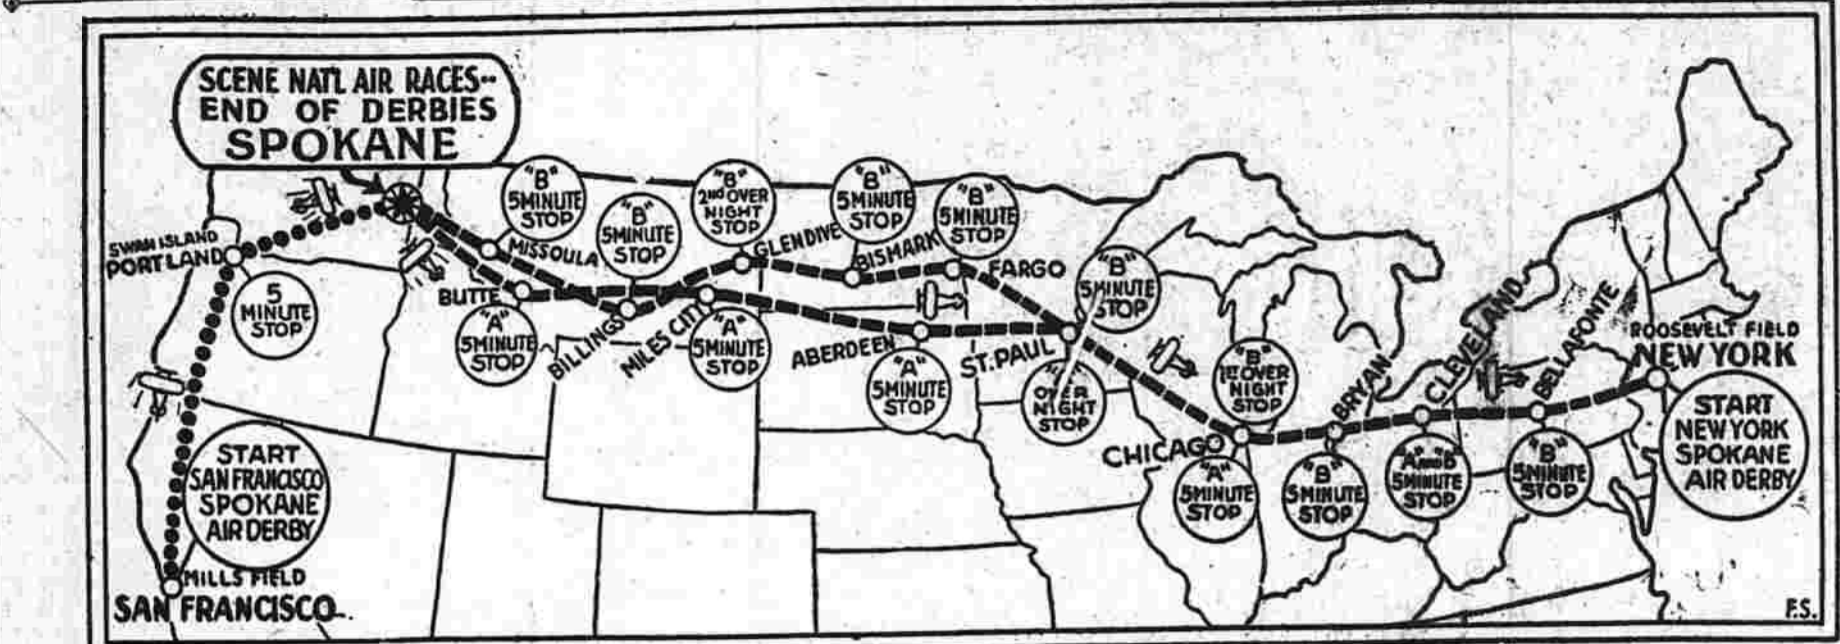

National Holiday. All of Paris, and in fact all of France, sat at the convention opening, for today was a national holiday, decreed by the government as a tribute to the 26,000 American visitors who had come to relive the memory of war days. All places of business, with the exception of banks, schools and places of worship, were closed, and Parisians of all classes crowded to the boulevards and avenues to watch the "Second A. E. F." get off into its stride.

Monster Crowds. Thousands thronged the square in front of the Trocadero Palace to see the former doughboys, many of them dressed in brilliant uniforms such as they never wore in the old days, gather in the convention hall. They were there to see President Doumergue, Marshal Foch and other of the most distinguished figures in French official, military and political life participate in the American convention, a colorful spectacle such as has never before been seen even in the brilliant history of Paris.

The visitors and delegates to the convention opening mounted the steps of the Trocadero on the traditional red carpet, spread whenever the historic halls are graced with the presence of distinguished personages. On either side of the crimson carpet stood municipal guards, themselves a fitting complement to the striking scene in their brilliant uniforms and shining cuirassiers.

Radical Shouts. In spite of the precautions the Paris police had taken to guard against any radical outbreaks, hardly had Commander Savage called the convention to order when the voice of a Communist rent the air with cries of "Vive Sacco et Vanzetti." The disturbance came shortly after Savage had introduced Louie Marin, French minister of pension, as former welcome to the Legion hosts on behalf of the French government.

HOW THE FLYERS WILL RACE IN SPOKANE AIR DERBY

This map shows how three of the big cross-country races in connection with the Spokane air derby will be run. The New York to Spokane derby is divided into two sections, Class A and Class B planes; the required stops for planes in each division are indicated in the circles. The route of the Frisco-Spokane derby is also indicated.

BOXERS TURN LITERARY AS FIGHT NEARS

Jack Asks Gene Questions In Open Letter and Champion Makes Dignified Reply—His Answer.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Characterizing Jack Dempsey's open letter to Gene Tunney, in which Dempsey challenged Tunney to "tell the truth" about their fight in Philadelphia, as "vicious, foul and unparliamentary," Billy Gibson, manager of the heavyweight champion, went on the war path today.

Gibson declared the letter was a last-minute effort to "embarrass" the champion before the Tunney-Dempsey clash here Thursday.

"It's an underhanded effort by the Dempsey crowd to fuster Gene Tunney's camp," declared Gibson. "But it simply won't work. Dempsey can try his hardest to upset my Gene, and he will fail, just as he will fail September 22, when he meets my boy in the ring."

Tunney's Answer. The "open" letter, issued by Dempsey yesterday, upset sporting circles here, and intensified the ill-feeling that has been brewing between the Tunney and Dempsey camps. After first deciding to ignore the letter from the former title holder, Tunney replied with a letter, saying:

"My Dear Dempsey: Your open letter to me has been brought to my attention. My reaction to it is to ignore it and its evident trash completely. However, I cannot resist saying that it is a cheap appeal for public sympathy. Do you consider it sportsmanlike? and in a postscript, the champion added: "I might add that I wrote this letter myself."

It is understood the Tunney camp has threatened to take the matter before the Illinois boxing commission when the managers of the two fighters, Gibson and Flynn, appear for final instructions Tuesday.

As to a Foul. Gibson, though refusing to be quoted, is understood to have said that at the meeting before the State Athletic Commission, he will insist that in the event either principal in the big fight commits a foul which might be construed as deliberate, the entire purse of the one committing the foul shall be held up by the commission and distributed as the commission sees fit.

The contract on which Dempsey based questions in his letter is to be used as the basis of a suit to tie up Tunney's purse, it was said. Huff is due in Chicago on Wednesday, with plans to bring suit on his contract under which, in return for $20,000 paid to Billy Gibson on the night of the Philadelphia battle, he was to receive 20 per cent of Tunney's future earnings as champion.

KIWANIANS GATHER. Bridgeport, Sept. 19.—Henry C. Heinz, president of Rotary International, walked in upon the annual gathering of New England Kiwanis here today and was received in state by James F. Armstrong, governor of the New England Kiwanis at the Stratfield hotel. Mr. Heinz' surprise visit was the feature of the opening day of the convention.

Thomas J. Pardy, of Bridgeport, lieutenant governor of the Bridgeport Kiwanis district, today read his annual report, showing a steady growth of the order in Connecticut.

Spanish Dancer Sues Film Star For Million

Los Angeles, Sept. 19.—Blood tests may determine the paternity of the expected child of Juanita Montanya, 19-year-old Spanish dancer and film actress, who is suing Wallace Beery for $1,000,000 damages on charges that the screen "villain" is the father of her as yet unborn baby.

Miss Montanya, who charges that Beery attacked her while she was a guest in the actor's home, says she expects to become a mother within a month.

Scientific Test. The scientific test to determine the child's paternity was suggested today by Louis Greenbaum, attorney for the young actress.

Miss Montanya first broke into the public prints here sometime ago when police arrested her following complaints that she had been peering into the homes of film stars.

Later, she was caught in the home of Richard Dix by a night watchman who reported she was carrying a revolver wrapped up in a black handkerchief.

The actress fled, and when police attempted to question her at her Hollywood hotel, she fired several shots at the officers.

She was placed in Juvenile Hall following the dismissal of insanity charges against her.

Her Charge. In her suit, the actress charges Beery played the real villain, using "great physical force and violence" against her. The first attack, she alleges, took place in the bedroom of the actor's home, despite her "protests and use of her utmost physical strength."

The second attack took place, the actress charges, on the day she ended her visit and Beery insisted on driving her to her home.

Beery, according to the girl's suit, stopped his machine on the way and forcibly carried her into a vacant house.

LETTER A CLUE TO LILLIENDAHL MURDER CASE

Addressed to Wife of Slain Doctor and Asked For a Loan of $900—Writer Known.

Hammonton, N. J., Sept. 19.—A letter found at the murder scene and a small white handkerchief, formed the latest developments today in the mysterious murder of Dr. William Lilliendaahl, retired narcotic specialist, who was shot to death last Thursday while motoring with his comely wife, Margaret, 30 years his junior.

While authorities were attempting to reconstruct the slaying with the aid of the freshly uncovered evidence, attorneys for Mrs. Lilliendaahl were preparing to seek her release from custody on bail.

"We are prepared to put up any reasonable amount," a member of the defense staff said, Mrs. Lilliendaahl was held as a "material witness" when an investigation failed to substantiate her story that her husband was slain by negro bandits.

The letter, which created something of a sensation, was a request for $900 which the writer needed to apply on a bank loan of $1,500.

Authorities said the letter was addressed to Mrs. Lilliendaahl and was signed either fictitiously or by the writer's nickname.

The author of the request is known to authorities, it was said, and is under surveillance. Authorities also made known that the writer had apparently asked Mrs. Lilliendaahl to supply him with the necessary funds, and that she had been refused in putting the question to the author.

Search of the safe which was made for the double purpose of ascertaining the amount of the doctor's insurance and to throw further light on the letter requesting a $900 loan, "failed to reveal anything further of importance," Chief of Detectives Herold said.

Both Tunney and Dempsey prepared to go into seclusion today. Following their final workouts, until the night of the fight. Neither will don the gloves after today until they enter the ring Thursday night. They will take things easy at their respective camps, doing only enough work to keep their muscles limber.

Ike Dorgan, Tex Rickard's ticket Santa Claus, is one of the most depressed men in Chicago. Sad by nature, he was on the verge of tears when he was shown the problem of allotting 364 working press tickets to 2,000 applicants.

There are only 364 seats in the first four rows around the ring, which comprise the working press section.

The petitioner was filed today with Roger Clapp, acting attorney general, by a group of prominent persons of greater Boston. The petition would go before the voters by means of the initiative and referendum.

Among the signers were Mayor Robert A. Bakeman of Peabody, John S. Codman, West Roxbury; Kirtley F. Mather, Newton; Harry Levi, Brookline; Catherine Gardner, Boston; George L. Paine, Cambridge; and Dr. E. Groebbeck Mitchell, Boston.

McADOO DENIES HIS N. Y. VISIT IS POLITICAL

Says He Did Not Know Meredith, of Iowa Was In City—Politicians Start to Gossip.

New York, Sept. 19.—Both William G. McAdoo and Edwin T. Meredith, of Iowa, today denied that their presence in New York had any political significance.

Both also denied that they knew the other was in the city.

A report had been circulated in political circles that the simultaneous visit of the two Democratic leaders might result in McAdoo, who has announced he will not be a candidate, throwing his support to Meredith for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Laughs at Report. McAdoo laughed at the report.

Meredith declared he was here solely to transact affairs for his publishing business.

Meredith was asked what he thought about McAdoo's declaration that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"If reports are true," said Meredith, "I think it is rather presumptuous of McAdoo to say he will not run when no one has yet asked him to run."

Miss Orcutt Leading in Golf Championship. Goes Around in 78 at Garden City—Beats Opponent By 11 Strokes.

Cherry Valley Golf Club, Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Miss Maureen Orcutt of the White Beeches Golf and Country club, metropolitan women's champion, led the field in the early qualifying rounds of the national women's golf championship here today, turning in an impressive game for a card of 78. Miss Orcutt had as her opponent Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former champion, who was trying to win the title for the third time, but who was overwhelmed eleven strokes.

Miss Orcutt was out in 40 to the astonishment of the gallery, but her game was even more amazing after the turn and but for missing three apparently easy three foot putts, she would have had a 33 for the trip home instead of the 38 which she finally scored. Both she and her opponent were in the lead, and both were in the lead when she shot. Miss Orcutt played with the assurance of a professional and her calmness on the greens, save in the three instances when she lost easy chances, her game was unbeatable.

The card follows: Miss Maureen Orcutt Out . . . 44-4-5-4-4-6-5-40 In . . . 6-4-5-5-2-6-4-2-38-78 Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd Out . . . 5-4-5-6-5-5-5-5-44-49 In . . . 6-5-6-6-4-3-5-5-4-49

Pitcairn Fleetwing With A. M. Banks as Pilot, Reaches Bellefonte, Pa., From Mineola—Detroit Plane Second; Second Lap Ends at Cleveland—15 Out of 25 Planes Arrive by 11:30—Hartford Plane Among Them; Weather Favorable For Race to Spokane, Wash.

List Of Planes That Started Off Today

Cleveland, O., Sept. 19.—C. W. Meyers, piloting No. 36 Berry Brothers Inc., Waco 10, of Detroit, Mich., was the first of the New York-Spokane Aerial Derby flyers to land here today.

Meyers brought his plane down at Brook Airport at 12:20 p. m. and immediately made preparations to continue the race westward. The time from New York to Cleveland totaled 6 hours and 12 minutes. Thomas Colby also of Detroit, was a passenger in the Berry Brothers' entry.

Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Pitcairn Fleetwing, Philadelphia entry in the trans-continental air race from Mineola to Spokane, landed here at 9:26 a. m., the first of twenty-five planes to complete the first lap of the Derby. The pilot A. M. Banks, brought the plane to the landing field a few seconds ahead of Number 36, a Detroit plane, and three others roared in a few minutes later.

Banks was the first to hop off on the second lap for Cleveland, followed closely by the others, none of them requiring more than the stipulated five minutes to refuel. Visibility was perfect officials at the airport reported.

According to H. J. Durhop, radio operator at the airport, the Pitcairn Fleetwing left Mineola at 7:08 a. m.

Weather Favorable. Durhop reported that with the exception of a mild west wind, the flyers should encounter no weather hazards on the second leg of their hop.

Entry after entry roared onto the field behind the leaders, a dozen being down within a few minutes. They rose again after the required five minutes for refueling, and were off toward the west.

Three planes were reported to have landed at Homewood, near Tanaga, when it appeared as though storm clouds would make flying hazardous, but again took the air within a few minutes. They will not be disqualified, officials here said.

Fifteen planes had landed here by 11:30 Eastern standard time, and thirteen of them had hopped off.

Reports at the field here were that plane Number 37 had been forced down at Newfoundland, N. J. It was not believed the pilot was hurt nor the plane badly damaged, but the plane was scratched from the race.

The vanguard of the racers was expected over Bryan, Ohio, at 1:30 E. S. T.

- #### THE START.
- Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 19.—A single file of twenty-five airplanes scarcely a mile apart, flew ahead of the leading race today toward Spokane, Wash., in a trans-continental air race. Their first stop was to be Bellefonte, Pa., an airport 250 miles west of here.
- Although visibility was low, and the flying weather bad, the start of the twenty-five racers and their passengers was effected with clock-like precision. Beginning promptly at 7:01 o'clock, the planes left the ground at exactly one-minute intervals. There was no mishap; not even an interruption.
- The pilots took off in pre-arranged order. Only one entrant in this Class B group failed to start. He was H. E. Campbell, of Long Island, whose Eaglecock ship awaited an undelivered motor part.
- J. S. Charles, of Richmond, Va., led the field, his Eaglecock plane rising to the starter's flag as the first streak of sunlight tipped its wings.
- The planes getting off today in the start of the epochal air race, were all single seater commercial planes designed at the Chicago office and scheduled to stop overnight in Chicago with another stop tomorrow night at Glendive, Mont., due in Spokane Wednesday. They must pass for five minutes at the following airports: Bellefonte, Pa.; Cleveland, O.; Bryan, O.; St. Paul, Minn.; Fargo and Bismarck, N. D.; and Billings and Missoula, Mont.
- Class A Tomorrow.
- The Class A group getting under way tomorrow and due in Spokane at about the same time as today's starters, is scheduled for only one overnight stop, that at St. Paul, Minn., with five minute rests at Cleveland, Chicago, Aberdeen, S. D., and Miles City and Butte, Mont.
- The feature race of the derby, the non-stop event, is scheduled to get under way Wednesday afternoon, the contestants due in Spokane Thursday morning. Four planes are entered for the purse of $10,000 to the winner and $5,000 to the runner-up.
- Prizes for the Class A group, now winging its way westward, will net $5,000 to the winner, $3,000 for second place, $1,000 third, $500 fourth and $150 fifth.
- In the Class A event tomorrow, the prizes stand: $10,000 first, $5,000 second, $2,000 third, $1,000 fourth and $500 fifth.
- #### Pilots Told the Rules.
- Roosevelt Field, L. I., Sept. 19.—Major Howard C. Davidson, operations officer at Mitchell Field in charge of the start, at a meeting this morning of the pilots for tomorrow's race and Tuesday's Class A race, described the rules for the start and the race itself.
- The planes must be on the starting line with motors tuned and pilots in place at 6:30. Before each plane a starter and timer will stand. At the signal to go he will step aside and the plane will be allowed one minute for the take-off. Any plane that fails to get away in the allotted minute must return to the starting line again and wait a chance to get away.
- Timers will check in the planes as they arrive at the scheduled stops along the route and check them out again. According to the rules of the Spokane Committee sponsoring the race, the first plane into Spokane wins. The five-minute stop and overnight halts are being required for inspection by officials of the National Aeronautical Association as a factor of safety.
- Major Davidson said that the same starting rules would prevail for Tuesday's race in which fifteen Class A planes, built to accommodate two passengers and a pilot and powered by motors up to 200 horsepower, have entered.
- The first stop for Tuesday's race will be Cleveland, the second Chicago, and the third St. Paul where the contestants will spend the night. The next morning they will take of Spokane stopping at Aberdeen, Miles City and Butte, Mont., for fuel.

Feathered Facts and Fancies

FURTHER JOURNEYS IN THE LAND OF OZ

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER Author of "A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading," etc. Every mother of active young people dreads a rainy day, and still more two rainy days and is well-nigh nervous and frazzled at the end of three rainy days. Yet the elements do not take parents' problems into consideration. And something should be done about it as far as is humanly possible. Not long ago I spent several rainy days by the sea, visiting in a household where two boys, beautifully healthy on fine days and distractingly healthy on rainy days, made up the younger members of the household. Too Wet to Swim It was too cold and too rough, and paradoxically enough, too wet for swimming. The voices of the boys drowned the roar of the ocean and the conversation of the family until a new book was opened—"The Gnome of Oz," by Ruth Plumly Thompson, founded on and continuing the Oz stories of L. Frank Baum (Reilly and Lee). In this latest volume (Illustrated by John R. Neill), the author takes Peter and Ruggedo to the Kingdom of Patch, the Emerald City and the land of the inhabitants of the imaginative world where adventures are to be had. It was a fine achievement when the first author, who died a few years ago, created Oz and its odd inhabitants, but it has been greatly to the credit of the present author for carrying on the work so admirably. Facile Narrator Without diminishing praise due Mr. Baum for inventing so clever a story-idea, Miss Thompson tells a story with more facility. She never lets the interest slacken. When it was furnished with the nearest village to discuss characters, happenings. We practically lived in Oz those days—and found it an entertaining place in which to reside. How we enjoyed the cottage owner, son of a wizard who practised magic in the Zamagoochie Country. He was a "come-apart-ish" person. Convenient! "Being constructed as I am is extremely convenient," he explained earnestly. "I am never tired or rushed about as ordinary Oz folks are. If I wish to pick the peaches in my orchard, I send peaches to attend to the matter and while they are busily at work I rest myself comfortably at home. If my body is tired and I desire to raise the check to be a convict. Dempsy fell out of the ring the same day Leo Flynn fell off his horse. Somebody's training for a dive. "Both camps fear scandal suspicions." Don't speak to that man—he might be Abe Attell! Memphis has banned a proposed fight between two rattlesnakes. It seems the W. C. T. U. stopped it. The new autumn telephone books are out. And we haven't finished reading the present one. And when, as in the case of "The Gnome of Oz," the succession of events, the succession of events, all continues to be so vigorously alive, the author deserves naught but praise—and parents of healthy young boys on rainy days will be so grateful to her.

JONES' "KILLER INSTINCT" MAKES HIM SUPERNATURAL

By HENRY FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor) New York, Sept. 19. (United Press)—Since he knocked all golf records and figures for a flock of birds, eagles and what have you, and has been trying to figure what happened all of a sudden to Bobby Jones. It is no strange sight to see the honorable member of the Royal and Ancient shooting perfect golf and it wasn't a revelation to see him transformed into a super-golfer, but the scores he made in the national amateur and the merciless way in which he massacred his opponents can cause speculation as to how he turned golf perfection into golf supernatural. Jones has been the perfect golfer and Babe Ruth has been the perfect slugger, but if the Babe should break loose and hit a hundred homers it surely would start some heavy thinking. Some of the boys say that Jones has matured into a killer instinct and that he is out now for Jones without any consideration for course records or the reputation and feelings of his opponents, mighty or humble. "Listen," he said, "that boy isn't lazy or indifferent and he hasn't a tender or sentimental heart. He's a killer when he has his game at the killing stage." He gave as an illustration of his point an incident that occurred just before Jones and young Watts Gunn were going out to play the final round of a national championship several years ago. Jones and Gunn are both from Atlanta, intimate friends of years and roomies on a lot of their trips. They were in the same room when the mentioned final match before the time came to leave and for the first time, Bobby is said to have remarked: "Come one, Watts, you're going to get the worst beating you ever took." Perhaps this is a fable like many told of Bobby but it is a good story nevertheless. They say also that Helen Willis has developed a killer instinct. She never did treat her opponents as tennis sorority sisters but there were times when she did give the appearance of dropping a few opponents to make the rout of her opponent look less humiliating. But in all her matches this year she went about the process of winning with the attitude of one who had a very important date in a few minutes and that she had no time to spare. In this connection it might be said however, that the woman tennis player as a class have much less consideration for the feeling of their opponents than the men players. Bill Johnston very seldom dallies around with an opponent but his frigid physique makes it necessary for him to expend the minimum of physical exertion. Frank Hunter is another noted killer and Rene Lacoste treats his opponents as if they were out there to take their beating and like it. Bill Tilden, Winnie Richards and Jean Borotra, however, are notorious for sloughing games to reduce the humiliation of weaker opponents. "They do say also that Gene Tunney has studied himself into a killer although his public statement that he is not a fighter but a boxer does not carry the battle cry of a savage. If Tunney had the killer instinct he might have won his first fight with Dempsey by a knockout. In fact Dempsey says he would have been unable to finish if Tunney had fought another way. Tunney, however, is of the philosophic turn of mind that figures a victory is a victory and that the method is of secondary importance.

Rockville MANY CHANGES ON MARKET ST.

Storekeepers Ready to Move To New Locations; Drunks In Court.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, Sept. 19.—The real estate transactions and the issuing of leases which involved three stores, but which has resulted in a hold up for all concerned, has had the iron applied to the rough spots and Market street is to see a number of changes in the location of stores this week. It all started when Henry Benheimer purchased the Robinson building from George Lutz, who had vacated it to go into the hardware business on the board walk. In this building was located the Economy Grocery Company and after the purchase was made it was found that Mr. Benheimer, who had bought the block as a protection and an investment, was called upon to move, but the lease that the Economy Grocery had provided that no groceries were to be sold in the building and that was part of Mr. Benheimer's line, although he was featuring meats. The difference in the lease was soon fixed up, making it possible for the new owner of the building to use it for the same purpose that he was using the store which he was then renting. As soon as this was overcome the store that he was to vacate was leased to Mr. Trappe, who was to conduct a meat market in the same place when Mr. Benheimer moved out. The store in the so-called Robinson building was at the time occupied by A. M. Burke, who was disposing of his automobile supplies, which he expected to get out of the place in a few days, selling in one lot, out this deal did not go through. Buy New Equipment Both Mr. Benheimer and Mr. Trappe purchased new fixtures, including ice boxes, both being rush orders. Both orders came through and it has been necessary for both of them to put them in storage. Cash registers, scales and several other kinds of fixtures also arrived and each had to be stored. Mr. Durke Starts to Move Not being able to get the goods sold all at once Mr. Durke started Saturday to move his goods out and today they are all in storage in a garage on Park street. A number of men are working installing a new floor in the building that Mr. Benheimer has purchased, or at least moved in, by today and tomorrow will see him in his new location. As he moves out Trappe will start fixing up in the location that he is to occupy and by the end of the week with his new beds and fixtures will be located in the store that Benheimer vacates. A sign in another window announces that a jewelry store will be located in one of the vacant stores and carpenters are busy rebuilding and remodeling the building that was damaged by fire, which will be completed as a chain store when it is completed. Had Wrong Markers. Everett Allen of Hudson street, Manchester, and Charles Whipple Carter to Charles Pickett Saturday afternoon, made out the application for a change in car and was to get the new registration Monday, but in the meantime decided to do a little riding while the transfer was in the works. He drove towards Rockville and near the bottom of Union street was stopped by State Policeman Daly who was making a special investigation of lights, licenses and markers. Under the last inspection he found that Allen was without a registration for an Essex coach which he had bought and was ordered to appear before the Rockville police court this morning. He was accompanied by Charles Pickett, who was named as guardian and when the story was told the judge he considered it as a slight infraction of the law and while the penalty might be $50 he imposed a fine of $7.50 and costs. Not a Common Drunkard. Joseph Rath was arrested by Captain Tobin and when presented in court this morning the charge of being a common drunkard was preferred against him. When the record of his arrests was read it disclosed that he had been before the court fifteen times within the last ten years, but was not before the court twice within the past year and therefore did not come under the law as a common drunkard. Judge Fiske imposed a fine for intoxication. Had a Howling Drunk. John Beaulieu, came to Rockville last evening or at least he was in Rockville too late to get a bus back home to Ellington so secured a room in the Rockville House. About an hour later the other inmates of the place were being disturbed by his howling and when Officer Richard Shea was called he found that the man had been spending his time by drinking from two bottles of "mule." He had finished about half of each pint bottle and was taken from the hotel to the police station. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed on the charge of intoxication and a like fine for breach of the peace. Ferguson's Record Passed. Andrew Ferguson who entered for a prize the bass that he caught at Bolton lake has had his catch beaten by Frank Fiedler who was a former resident of Manchester. His catch was four and three-quarter pounds. Until Mr. Fiedler made his catch Mr. Ferguson was leading. Methodist Field Day The field day exercises of the Methodist Episcopal church which were held Saturday at the Rockville Fair grounds had an estimated attendance of about one hundred and fifty. The events of the day opened at 10:30 with an hour's program of games for small children under the supervision of Mrs. Emily Metcalf, assisted by Mrs. Schultz. This was followed by sports for older folks. A luncheon was served between 12:30 and 1:30 which was followed after a social hour by a very enjoyable concert by the Salvation Army Band of Manchester. Interesting addresses by Rev. Garfield Sallis, Frank Condon, W. M. C. A. secretary and Rev. William C. Darby of Tolland were followed by an address from the principal speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Victor V. Sawyer of Attleboro, Mass., former pastor of the Rockville church, whose subject was "The Church of Today." Rev. Sawyer pointed out four great necessities of the Church of Today namely: the Vital Pathetic Message from the Pulpit; Religious Education; a Social Program and Helpful Service. At the conclusion of the afternoon program a group picture was taken by Arthur R. Newell followed by a closing selection by the band. Shower For Miss Cameron Miss Daisy Hartford of North Park street entertained at bridge on Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Audrey Cameron whose marriage to Thomas Clarke of Manchester will take place next month. The house was decorated with gold and white asters and following the bridge a luncheon was served at which time Miss Cameron was presented with several kitchen utensils which were concealed in a large yellow and white crepe paper barrel. Miss Corrine Schelner, assistant to Town Clerk Thomas spent the week-end with her sister in Hartford. Miss Corrine Hewitt, who has been substituting at the Manchester office of the Western Union since her vacation, returned to the Rockville office of the company. About forty of the local Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Auxiliary left by bus at 9 o'clock Sunday morning to attend the Field Day held in Meriden. Homer Cooper of Hartford attended the Field Day exercises of the Methodist Episcopal church on Saturday. Gordon Andrews of Providence was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Symonds of Talcott avenue over the week-end. Miss Josephine Gregus of the New Britain General Hospital Training school spent the week-end at her home on Talcott avenue. Miss Grace West of Mountain street returned to her duties at the Herald's Manchester office today after a week's vacation. Thomas Deal of New York spent the week-end as the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Horace Deal of West Main street. Martin Laubscher has moved his family from Hartford to his old home on the Tolland Road. The Misses Ruth Keany, Corinne Schelner and Phila Lisk spent the week-end in Hartford. Mrs. Kate Annear has rented one of the tenements in the Koelsch block on Union street. Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Seidel of Union street spent the week-end in Mystic. Joe Zenger was a week-end visitor in Somers. Miss Lillian Tracy of Hartford spent the week-end with Miss Gertrude Angell of Orchard street, Manchester, and Miss Annel Prospect street will entertain the Missionary Society of the Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at her cottage at Snipsic lake. A regular meeting and picnic will be held at the Rockville Tigers football team which is composed of High school stars, are having practice every day and have several games booked. Mr. and Mrs. William Argents of Stafford spent the week-end as guests of Mrs. James E. Murphy of Union street. Mrs. George Meyers and Mrs. Clarence Serber motored over the Mohawk Trail on Saturday. Miss Helen Reid of Lawrence street is enjoying a week's vacation. James Rogers who has been at the Atlantic Highlands since July, returned to his home on Mountain street where he will remain until Christmas when he will leave for Florida. RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP TO FLORIDA Mr. and Mrs. Russell Potterton and small son, Russell, Jr., Erwin Barnard of Knox street, and Mrs. Potterton's sister, Miss Maude Robb of Center street returned Saturday evening after a two weeks' motor trip to Florida, taken in Mr. Potterton's Oldsmobile touring car. They left here Sunday, September 4 and arrived at Manatee, Florida Thursday forenoon, where they visited Mr. Potterton's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Potterton, formerly of this town. They remained there for several days, then took in St. Petersburg and other places of note in the Peninsula state where they found the highways excellent. Travelling through the Carolinas and Georgia the roads were not so good and it was dry and dusty. The men took turns in driving and they had no trouble to speak of other than a few flat tires. KILLS WIFE AND SELF New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 19.—Because his wife would not return to live with him, Joaquim Fortin, 32, today shot and killed her and then took his own life. The tragedy took place at his sister-in-law's home.

CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES OPENS TODAY

(Continued from page 1) the progress of moral conscience, how its American sisters are also imbued with the same care for ideals and the same worship of faith and justice, and the same desire for progress in all objects for which generations of French people for centuries have suffered, fought and died for. "Four pilgrimage increases the mutual affection which exists between our two countries," M. Marin continued. "We all acclaim you and thank you for the good you find again in the glorious combatants who come back to us a most admirable image of our sister republic, the United States." The minister of pensions then expressed on the subject of relations and the post-war conditions of France. He was followed on the speaker's stand by Sheldon Whitehouse, chancellor of the American Embassy in Paris. Reads Herrick's Letter In opening his address, Whitehouse read a letter from United States Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, in which the latter expressed regret that his illness would prevent his coming to join the Legionnaires while they are in Paris. "Your visit will do much to augment the friendship between two greater sister republics," Ambassador Herrick's letter read. "The convention is making history," Whitehouse declared in his address to the Legionnaires, "because it is the first time that the organized representatives of a great army have held an official meeting in a foreign country. You afford proof of the adage that there are no friends like old friends."

Many Vacant Seats There were many vacant seats in the sections reserved for the Legionnaires, partly because some of the veterans have shown themselves to be late risers since their arrival in Paris, and partly because it was necessary for some of the units that were to participate in the parade later to be absent. Officialdom of the French government turned out brilliantly for the convention opening. In addition to President Doumergue, who was honorary chairman, Paul Doumer, president of the Senate, Cabinet officers and many of France's notable military figures, sat upon the official platform. General John J. Pershing sat at President Doumergue's right hand and Marshal Foch at his left. American Embassy. President Doumergue rose and led the assemblage in applause when a letter from President Coolidge had been read to the delegates. President Doumergue finally left the palace accompanied by his Cabinet while the Monahan Post band of Sioux City, Iowa, played "Meuse and Somme." General Pershing and Marshal Foch then sat alone in the front row of the speakers' stand, engaged in earnest conversation. Radicals Again At this point, a score of radicals gathered outside the Trocadero and made a feeble effort at staging an untoward demonstration, crying weakly "Down with the Americans!" Gendarmes quickly routed the disturbers. Marcel Herard of France, president of the Fidac, the international veterans organization was the next speaker. Addressing the delegates in English, he made some humorous references to the predilection of Americans for ice water in their homeland, and his innuendo brought gales of laughter and applause from the convention floor. The burden of Herard's address was a plea for international fraternity among war veterans, to the end that further wars might be averted. The opening session concluded with a memorial service for the war dead. Miss Atwood sang "They Are Not Dead," after which a full minute of silence was observed. Taps were then sounded. Immediately after the close of the session, the Legionnaires made bee-lines for the boulevard cafes, and officials began preparations for the great legion parade which will be held later in the day.

ARMY AND NAVY CLUB MEETS TOMORROW NIGHT

Annual Election of Officers to Be Held—Forty at Outing Yesterday. The annual meeting of the Army and Navy club will be held tomorrow night at the clubhouse at Main and Forest streets. It is expected that the meeting will be largely attended. A nominating committee will be selected at the start of the meeting and the selections it makes will be voted upon immediately afterward. Michael J. McDonnell has been president of the club for two years. Yesterday the club held its annual outing at Harry McCormick's cottage at Coventry Lake. About forty members made the trip by rowing machine, canoe and automobile. Lunch was served in the morning and a roast chicken with spaghetti dinner was served in the afternoon. The baseball game between the Army and the Navy again ended in a tie according to the meager reports available. It is said that the Gobs might have lost had not Umpire Dennis Coleman, "ex-pill roller" come to their aid often with "perlous" decisions. The scheduled rowing contest did not materialize because the boats were leaky and the crewmen were then soundly clobbered with buckets of water. Catch and Hope won the quilt match for the Army, beating Welman and Kennedy of the Gobs.

CHANGES IN SCHEDULE NOT YET ANNOUNCED

Time Tables Not Received Here—Mail Train May Come To Town Hour Later. When the New Haven railroad returns to standard time next Sunday its train schedules will undergo some changes besides the usual setting ahead of the trains to conform with the new clock-time. The timetables have not been received at the local station as yet, and therefore, no specific changes can be announced. The postoffice clerks are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the schedules so that they may learn what time the mail trains will arrive. It has been said that the 9 o'clock morning mail train will arrive an hour later under the new schedule. If so, this will make the delivery clerks one hour late on their routes. However, nothing definite can be said about the new schedules until the train time-tables arrive. Several preliminary announcements have been received here, but these already have been amended several times so that the time-tables alone will clarify the schedule situation.

LOCAL LODGE HOLDS OUTING ON RIVER

Manchester Lodge of Orange-men Goes to Laurel Lodge Saturday Afternoon. Fifty-five members of Manchester L. O. L. Lodge, No. 99, experienced a pleasant afternoon Saturday when the body held its annual outing at Laurel Lodge on the Connecticut river. Leaving Manchester by automobiles at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the party proceeded to Hartford where they embarked on the steamship Pelham which had been specially chartered by them for the occasion. The trip down the river afforded fine scenery, especially in the vicinity of Laurel Lodge which is on an estate of 1,100 acres, most of which is hunting ground. During the afternoon and evening time was well spent by the playing of games and eating the usual chicken supper. The dining room at the lodge was decorated with colored streamers. The return trip up the river in the moonlight added to the trip which was voted the most successful outing ever held by the organization. The committee in charge of the outing was Thomas Cole, James Armstrong and Joseph Trueman.

"LETTER GOLF" IS MAKING BIG HIT

Several Herald Readers Beat "Par" Score—Send In Solutions. "Letter Golf" the new word game on the comic page of The Herald every day has made a big hit in Manchester. Many readers who were cross-word puzzle enthusiasts are taking to this new game rapidly. Already several local people have solved the puzzles in fewer steps than the solutions printed in The Herald. If any of The Herald's readers can do the steps in the smaller number than the "par" given in The Herald they are urged to write to the "Letter Golf" editor giving their own solutions. Just because The Herald's "par" answers are called solutions does not necessarily mean that they cannot be beaten. Those who can go below "par" in the game are urged to let us know about it. Those "Letter Golf" fans who want a few evenings of real enjoyment should purchase Shelby Little's new book "This to That." It is published by Milton, Balch company, New York, and sells for $1.50. "This to That" contains 180 (count 'em) "Letter Golf" conundrums done by such personages as Will Rogers and Jack Dempsey. If you think you are good at "Letter Golf" get this book and see if you can beat some of the big boys.

YOUNGSTERS CAUGHT AT STEALING CANDY

North End Boys Get Reprimand From Patrolman When Store Owner Catches Them. A group of young north end boys was apprehended yesterday and today in a series of petty thefts from stores on Depot Square. Merchants over north have noticed that candy placed on display cases disappeared more rapidly than sales accounted for. One of them decided he would watch one particular box that seemed to shrink faster than others. Yesterday one youngster who had been under suspicion entered store on the pretext of exchanging a certain article for his mother. When the store proprietor started to check out the youngster with his back turned the young fellow started to fill his pockets. The owner turned quickly and caught the boy in the act. Patrolman Wirralia was on duty on the Square this morning and his services were called upon. The store owners told the patrolman they did not want any arrests made so the youngsters were given a severe reprimand and threatened with a trip before the judge if they stole again.

PEACH CROP BEST YET DESPITE BIG HANDICAP

Pero Orchards Have Finest Harvest in Many Years After Bad Season. Connecticut has an enviable reputation for yellow peaches, but few people realize that the very finest Connecticut peaches are grown right here in Manchester. The Pero orchards on Avery street in Oak Grove have such a fine reputation for land have such a fine reputation for growing the best peaches available that trucks come from all corners of the state to purchase them. Yesterday these orchards sold between 1,200 and 1,500 baskets of peaches at retail. Although this season has been an unusually bad one, for raising peaches the crop at the Pero orchards is said to be one of the finest in years. Insects bothered the peach harvest this year more than ever before and the growers had to keep constantly at work ridding the trees and growing fruit of bugs. The rainy weather prevented the fruit from ripening gradually and with the last warm spell all the fruit ripened within a few days. That necessitated doing nearly the whole season's picking within a few days. Because of the fact that yellow peaches fall to the ground very soon after they have ripened nearly all orchards find themselves heavily stocked with windfalls. The Pero quality has been maintained despite all the handicaps and the local growers are more than pleased with their success. The orchards are advertising the sale of their best peaches and also the cheaper grades including windfalls today. WASHINGTON EDITOR DIES Dunkirk, N. TAKING A CHANCE ON OIL

When the glaring prospects of the "fly-by-night" or "shoe string" oil promotion company with its promise of quick riches arrives at your door, do you stop and ask yourself what are the odds against the successful finding of oil, before you donate your cash toward the furthering of the venture?

If you were told that the odds were 195 to 1 that you would lose your money, and that the promised oil well would be a "duster"—which in the language of the oil man means either a dry hole or a water well, but always a failure—would you invest?

In California, second in petroleum production only to Oklahoma, the statistics of the California State Mining Bureau recently released for publication indicate that during the last two years the small oil producing companies have drilled 391 wildcat wells and found oil only twice. In 1925 and 1926 California companies drilled 195 wells which were dry to find one producing well!

The two fields discovered in California through the prospecting in 391 borings were actually uncovered by the larger major companies, ten of which drilled 122 wells to find two oil fields. The remaining smaller operators drilled 269 wells and their percentage of success was zero—not a drop of oil! The inference here is that success goes with the big organizations having both capital and experience and not to the under-financed, inexperienced, "shoe-string" operator who borrows his money from the general public and, in 195 cases to 1, returns nothing.

In the eleven years previous to 1925 there were 1,070 wildcat wells drilled in California and 15 new fields opened—which means that for each field opened by striking oil there were 71.3 failures. Of the 15 fields opened during that time, 13 were credited to 9 of the larger companies. Smaller companies drilled 818 wildcats to obtain two fields. This was 409 wells drilled to secure one field. Are those good betting odds?

The history of the wildcatter who depends upon the public money of the small investor in California is virtually duplicated in other oil producing states, such as Oklahoma and Texas, with odds almost as greatly against success as are shown by the California public records.

Such hazards, when reduced to cold figures may be uninteresting to read, but should be sufficiently startling in the nature of the disclosed betting odds, that the small investor known as "the public" should be exceedingly wary of gambling with "fly-by-night" and "shoe-string" outfits.

SKY CULTIVATION CORPORATION, the LOTTABUNK OIL & GAS CO.—or a score of others? If so, watch your step, it is very probable you are on a sucker list. When your name is on a sucker list you have not one swindler to deal with, but a tribe, according to W. R. Morehouse of the American Bankers' Association.

Morehouse points out that each person on a certain sucker list of investors received from wildcat promoters the following: Thirteen one-page letters, 22 two-page letters, 6 three-page letters, 2 four-page letters, 52 fake newspapers containing fake write-ups, 29 pieces of lurid prospectus material, 34 return addressed postal cards and 72 subscription blanks, making a total of eleven pounds of literature, costing about $50.

The sucker industry is quite a lusty young giant.

CHAIN STORES AND CREDIT

Chain store systems this year have reported amazing gains. August reflected business increases of sometimes 9 per cent, often as high as 52 per cent more business than during August of 1926.

These figures, however, cannot be taken as a barometer of the country's prosperity, for the reason that most chain stores deal in what commonly are called the necessities of life.

Installment purchases now must be taken into the bargain in gauging the public buying power over a given period. The sale of automobiles, radio sets, pianos and the like has become a great economic factor in the last few years.

People used to "stand off" the corner grocer and other small retailers. Now, instead of obtaining food and other necessities on credit, thousands of people throughout the country are paying cash at chain stores for these and using the installment system for the purchase of luxuries.

With the advantage of cash in hand, the chain store systems are spreading enormously. Once a city institution, the chain has spread into the suburbs, the country towns and even villages. The articles they handle has widened in scope from notions to foods, tobacco, drugs, confectioneries, shoes, clothing, sporting goods, restaurants.

National buying habits are changing.

THE COLLEGE AUTO

News from the University of Missouri is to the effect that the students are trying to outdo one another in the matter of decrepit automobiles. They are taking the most ancient vintages they can lay hands on, wrecks from the junk pile are being made to operate, almost any kind of a motor vehicle that will wobble along on its own power is being used.

It looks as if the students had gone a long way toward meeting the objections of university authorities to the campus automobile. Certainly here is no parade of costly machinery, calculated to knock the eye out of both the fair co-ed and the hated rival. No unfair social advantages due to wealth here, either. The antiquary has rather the edge, we would say, the novelty of the most dilapidated old "scatter-bolts" appealing to male and female desire alike.

The fad may not last—many a college fad that glimmered ere now proves this—but it seems one way to solve the problem of the college automobile. And it's fun, too.

to the attitude the women voters will take toward their suffrage, women are much the same the world over, at least in as much as they "have a mind of their own."

It will be interesting to watch how the new voters treat the three parties over there. Also the effect on the liquor business. If British distillers take the same attitude their American brothers assumed before prohibition swept over the United States, the women voters will give them a sober thought or two about the future.

But there were no dice. They searched the men and the room but found nothing with which gambling might be done. The cases were thrown out of court when the defense attorney demanded that the dice be produced. Afterward a grinning negro approached the lawyer and said: "Boss, I swallowed them dice. We always gets little ones that's easy to swallow."

The Argentinean Senate, by a vote of 23-1, goes on record for a break with Germany.

DRAFTING THE CHILDREN When man goes to war it is eventually his home and family that give him the reason for it. Usually he does not take them along to battle with him.

In one little town in Pennsylvania, we are told, more than 100 children of striking union miners are being kept out of school because children of non-union miners are there.

In another town 120 children walked out rather than pursue studies in the same rooms with the children of "strike-breakers."

The men of these towns are robbing their children of a heritage the world owes them. That heritage is tolerant, unspoiled childhood.

In a tenement district in a certain eastern city, there are five nationalities in the same building. An Irish boy, a Chinese-Hawaiian boy, a German, a little tow-headed girl from Sweden and a child of Italian parentage. They play together. They are growing up together, learning one another's ways, finding enjoyment and peace in one another's company, tolerant, happy.

Childhood's heritage is childhood. In the name of mercy that sweet period should be spared them. They will be men and women with hates soon enough.

New York, Sept. 19.—She is one of the most beautiful models in one of the most exclusive shops in 57th street.

She conveys that exoticism so ably exaggerated in the drawings of Erte and Aubrey Beardsley. She has about her an extraordinary fine quality, a sinuous grace and a natural adaptability for striking the most fascinating poses with that casualness that make them seem completely unprepared.

But she lives two flights up in the humble apartment house where in I happen to dwell. And on a recent rainy Sunday afternoon she dropped down to borrow a couple of books.

"You see," she explained, "most of the models I know—and surely it's true of myself—have composite natures that crave admiration and then the reality... well, the reality of the sort you'll find up here in the air here—and 'honey' has his mind in the clouds, far away from beauty parades and Paris creations and tigerish movements.

"In the place where I model there is only one girl who does the traditional magazine and movie start of accepting automobiles, diamonds and all that. And, mind you, she does this only because she's in love and because she's kidded herself into believing that the man is a moment the lowly element wasn't there, she wouldn't accept a thing. I'm not saying it—I'm saying she believes it is."

"The most beautiful girl I know has accepted the attentions only of two young fellows who could scarcely dig up enough money to buy her a Christmas present."

"They take out their Narcissus complex, or whatever it is, while modeling—and after that, they want to be admired by those who really care for them rather than by some sugar papa who thinks he can buy beauty as a cold business proposition. I've been in this game in New York for five years—and I know what I'm talking about."

"Well—ta-ta... I've got to run up-stairs and make home that apple pie."

"After which, I could merely utter to myself... 'Can you beat it?'"

Announcing WATKINS CHRISTMAS CLUB. NEXT Christmas why not give your home the new davenport or rug, secretary, buffet, poster bed, piano, Victrola or radio, that electric washer—or whatever it is that you have always wanted? Many families make a practice of adding one new piece each Christmas, and are gradually refurnishing their homes with up-to-date furniture. There's a lot of satisfaction in furnishing this way, too. You have a whole year to plan for your next year's gift—a whole year to shop for the one piece that fills your needs best. Every year sees some new piece added to renew interest in the home. "They always have something new at the Joneses," is the way neighbors speak about homes that belong to Watkins Christmas Club. There are two ways to give your home these new pieces you want. One is to make your selection at Christmas and pay for it in 30 days. The other is by joining the Christmas Club. Tuesday Only! Console Mirrors $5.98. How the Christmas Club Helps. Instead of paying for your gift at Christmas in a lump sum, you divide the cost into small weekly payments that you will never miss. Then there are two ways to take advantage of the Christmas Club plan: You can use the money you invest each week as a complete payment for your "gift," or you can use it as a first payment on a larger piece, such as a piano or dining room suite. For instance; if you decide to add a new secretary to your living room next Christmas that costs $75, your payments will be $5 each week. By Christmas you have completely paid for it and YOU RECEIVE OUR CASH DISCOUNT on the investment! WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVES FOR CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES.

WASHINGTON LETTER Washington, Sept. 19.—Senator J. Boiesworth McWhorter, politician and statesman, has looked over the field and outlined his impressions of the political situation in an exclusive interview.

"I find," began the senator, "that there is considerable sentiment within the party for Congressman Henry Wigwagsworth Goot, to my mind, Trout is the best bait we have for the farmers and would bring us every agricultural vote."

"His nose bears a remarkable resemblance to an Idaho potato, he has a cauliflower car and the other looks like a rhubarb leaf, while his chin supports one of the finest crops of spinach ever grown south of the Great Lakes. His hair is the reproduction of cabbage and his feet remind one of watermelons."

"I am aware that supporters of a few other candidates are boasting that these men either look like cows or act like donkeys, but those farmers know their vegetables. "Another strong possibility is Senator H. Woodroof, who could carry every flood state without ppsitin. Senator Woodroof has not washed his neck since he was operated upon for sores in 1913. Those people in the flood area are so deathly sick of water that they would go wild over a candidate so violently opposed to water as my colleague Woodroof. Why, he won't even drink the stuff. "Governor Peter Patterson Potts can have the delegation of his own state and doubtless those of states contiguous. Potts, you know, has been almost a national hero ever since he walked from his home one night down to the corner drug store without letting his wife know where he was going."

Soaked Slocum should be nominated, the issue of patriotism would be predominant in the campaign. Senator Slocum boasts the distinction of having wangled more money and property out of the Indians in his state than any other man in the Senate, which he is saying plenty. Ever since he entered politics he has been denouncing the Custer Massacre in every speech and often works his audiences to pitches of frenzy as he tells of the cruelty and the danger of the Indians. "Yesir, if Slocum's nominated he will run on the anti-Indian platform and, because I think the country's aching to get excited about something, he would be a very strong candidate indeed."

"Or the convention might go into private life for its candidate. Take the honorable Wetmore Peabody Goot, president of Goot, Goot & Goot and a director of scores of corporations. Mr. Goot would find strong support from the business interests and would appeal to the masses because he himself rose from the ranks. Goot started life at $8 a week, working in a textile factory where he had the lowly job of removing splinters from the wood fiber used in making synthetic silk so the firm's lingerie wouldn't scratch. "One night as he lay in bed a flash of genius hit him. He went to work and soon had patented from wood alcohol so it could be used for synthetic gin. At that time the country was yearning even more for synthetic gin without splinters in it than for synthetic silk without splinters, so his fortune was made and he still has a large personal following.

AMERICAN CITIES NOW STRIVE FOR NEW IDEALS OF BEAUTY

The new city hall of Gary, Indiana, now under construction, illustrates the new ideal of civic beauty being sought in American cities.

Gary, Ind.—Unusual and spectacular things are customarily associated with Gary. Twenty-one years ago the site of Gary was sand dune and marsh land. Today it is a city of 110,000 and one of the biggest industrial centers in the country. From this town came the so-called Gary school system, and now Gary has stepped out with a program of civic beautification. The ideal is to prove that a steel city need not be dirty and dingy. First arguments of the proof will be visualized in a civic gateway project, to include a broad expanse of park in which will be built twin city and county buildings which will serve as a gateway to Gary's Broadway, a hundred-foot wide business thoroughfare extending for eight miles through the heart of the city. Each of the two buildings will cost some $700,000. There are other signs of Gary's determination to show itself a city full grown—a new municipal park and golf course wrested from the marshes of the Little Calumet river, a lakeside park and bathing beach, a $1,250,000 model high school building, a $1,000,000 church whose sheer gothic tower surmounts the business district, a lodge building costing a similar amount, and a $2,500,000 hotel which soon will be opened. The pioneer manufacturing towns with makeshift buildings, foreign-speaking population and "patch" of 100 saloons, fast are disappearing. In their place are rising new cities as the capitals of manufacturing regions which industries dominate.

LOCAL REPUBLICANS AT BIG G. O. P. RALLY

Four Manchester Men Are Congressman Fenn's Guests In New Britain.

More than 500 Republicans from every section of the state attended the annual clambake at Lake Compounce Saturday afternoon given by the Third Ward Republican club of New Britain. The attendance was even greater than expected.

Among the leaders of the party there were U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, Governor John Trumbull, most of the state officials as well as a majority of the members of the last Legislature. The governor in his address said when he looked over the audience it would be easy for him to call a special session right then and there, so many were present.

The principal speakers were Governor Trumbull and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. The governor spoke for the state and Colonel Roosevelt in his speech recited some of the accomplishments of the Republican party in the nation. It was the first time that many of the Republicans had heard Colonel Roosevelt and not only his general appearance but his forceful talk reminded them of his famous father, the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

Senator Bingham who has recently returned from China gave a ten-minute talk on his wonderful trip. It was by far the most successful dinner yet given by the New Britain club and the fact that the attendance in an off year in politics should go over 500 was very generally commented upon. It spoke well for the Republican party in Connecticut.

The quartet from Manchester present included Senator Robert J. Smith, Representative Raymond A. Johnson, Police Commissioner Willard B. Rogers and Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson. These men were the guests of Congressman E. Hart Fenn.

THE WONDER OF A NEWSPAPER

MORE than 1000 years ago an Arab chieftain dashed out of Samarkand, bent on warfare and pillage. But he brought into Europe with him a precious secret—the process for making paper, learned from a captive Chinese.

The story of this newspaper you are reading goes back farther than that. It goes back to primeval days when men watched the wasp, the first paper-maker, and wondered if that wasp's work could be copied. The light came slowly in those days.

The story of THE WONDER OF A NEWSPAPER is full of romantic chapters on men's struggles. It is full of the lives of men, who designed beautiful types and invented machines that almost think—men such as Gutenberg, Mergenthaler, Caxton, Caslon, Hoe and others.

Begin the story of a newspaper's history in The Herald tomorrow. It is part of the Book of Knowledge series.

Because it is informative and educative, this series, containing the story of one of the world's most important industries today IS A VALUABLE SCHOOL ADJUNCT. It not only will INFORM PUPILS but will HELP THEM TO THINK.

Hartford Wins First League Game Against Newark

19-YEAR-OLD SUBSTITUTE SCORES BOTH GOALS AS LOCALS WIN, 2-1

Former New Bedford Player Heads in First Goal and Boots Second Past Marshall and Murdoch; Tommy Blair Contributes Hair-Raising Saves; Cheney's Lose Preliminary to Scandia's, 3-1.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS

New Bedford 3 N. Y. Nationals 1

Philadelphia 5, Fall River 3.
SUNDAY'S RESULTS
Hartford 2 Newark 1
N. Y. Giants 1, J. P. Coats 1
Brooklyn 2, Fall River 1
Providence 2, N. Y. Nationals 0.

Flashing decidedly improved teamwork, Hartford scored its first American League victory yesterday afternoon at the expense of Newark. Two goals to one was the margin. The victory was the first of the season for Manager Jimmy Dewhurst's newly organized club, which has taken Springfield's place in the circuit.

Outplayed in the first half when Newark had a half a dozen chances to score, Hartford came back with a "punch" that swept them to victory despite the worthy efforts of the husky Jack Marshall and the brilliant goalie, Tommy Murdoch, both of 1925 All-American fame.

Both of Hartford's goals were scored by Arnold Oliver, former New Bedford star, a slender youth of 19 summers. And, as in the first game, Hartford's goal contributor was a substitute. A week ago, Substitute Stevenson scored Hartford's only goal in the 1-1 deadlock with Philadelphia. Yesterday, it was Oliver who won his way into the hearts of every fan by his spectacular playing.

As the first 45 minutes of play was rapidly drawing to a close with all indications of a scoreless tie, it remained for Oliver to start the fireworks. In fact there were exactly three minutes to play when, after Hartford was awarded a corner kick, Oliver headed Bob Hutchinson's perfectly placed kick into the net, Murdoch being helpless on the play.

Less than a minute before half-time when Hartford was still relying on its first goal, Newark evened with a goal by Hogg. It all came about when Cowan was displaced squarely across the goal, making Hogg's task somewhat easy.

Taken as a whole, Newark outplayed Hartford during the first half. The Lawmakers had one real good chance to score. Newark had at least six, but thanks to Tommy Blair, did not register until the last half-minute. Blair played one of the best games of his career as a goal tender. Time again, the vast crowd applauded him vigorously for brilliant saves. The work of Bain and Cowan, local backs, also was of high order. Repeatedly they made clearances that came in the nick of time and carried far out of the danger zone.

In the second half, Hartford played much better. The locals pressed the Newark backs hard and the majority of the play was in New Jersey territory. Two or three times, Hartford took desperate shots at the goal but missed by narrow margins. Then Oliver missed an easy try from the right wing only to redeem himself a few moments later by a spectacular play that brought every fan to his feet.

Gaining possession of the ball just outside the eighteen yard line, Oliver eluded two opponents by tricky footwork and then booted a beautiful 12-yard drive into the top right-hand corner of the goal. Murdoch didn't have a ghost of a chance to save. Hartford had a few other chances to score on difficult shots but fate had deemed the scoring complete for the day.

One of the principal reasons why Hartford's teamwork was immensely improved was the addition of Martyn who played left half. Jim was always in the thick of the fray and did more than his share toward helping Hartford score its first triumph. Barronne is another player who showed himself to good advantage. He was easily the fastest sprinter on the field. But while the efforts of certain players stood out conspicuously, there is another secret to the successful showing. It is the every-day strenuous practice sessions last week. They will be repeated this week in preparation for the out-of-town week-end games in Brooklyn and New York. There will be no home game next Sunday.

Heights Win 6 to 3 from Andover Team

The Heights A. C. baseball nine traveled to Andover yesterday and scored a 6-3 victory over the Andover nine in a hard fought battle.

Up until the seventh, the game was a pitchers' duel between Eddie Gleason and Joe Prentice but in this frame the Heights scored four times. Pete Manager finished the route for Andover.

Eddie Gleason pitched a masterful game, allowing but five hits and fanning over seven but he was given sensational support by his mates. J. Lovett, W. Grimson and S. Hewitt were the contributors in this respect. The summary of the game follows:

Tunney May Swap Punches More Freely Than Before

By JOE WILLIAMS
Chicago, Sept. 19.—Your friend Mr. Gene Tunney, I learn, plans to fight a somewhat different style of fight against the celebrated hollow shell in the Battle of the Big Dough here Thursday night.

This in spite of the fact that the style he employed a year ago against the same man was effective enough to win ten rounds out of ten.

Why change? You ask, and well you may. Your friend Mr. Tunney is a keen, observing dude. To the extent that he relies largely on a tack-hammer left hand and a stinging right follow-up, he is pretty much set in his style.

Dempsy has always liked to shoot for the belt, but in days gone by he varied his attack more; where he shot two to the belt, he shot one to the head. Against Sharkey the ratio was as 5 is to 1 in favor of the belt.

Watching your friend Mr. Tunney in training amid the pastoral splendors of his country club surroundings here, I note that he is holding his left guard lower than is habitually his style.

Spraying with Jackie Williams a hot, wildabeck and Chuck Wiggins the champion almost invariably carries the glove left at his waist line and the obvious deduction is that he means to use this as a constant defense against Dempsey's body onslaughts.

That is one marked difference in his present style. Another is that he himself is shooting more for the body than ever before. The champion's best punch is a right jolt to the liver. It was with this punch that he started Carpentier and Gibbons on the road to ruin.

Last year at Philadelphia your friend Mr. Tunney was content to stand off and pepper Dempsey's bugle with straight lefts, followed, at daring intervals, with a resonant right-hand smack on the whiskers or in the vicinity thereof. He didn't do much body punching, chiefly because that meant getting in close where the going was not only tougher but more dangerous.

DOWD AND REARDON ON TONIGHT'S CARD

Joe Howard of Hartford, former state middleweight champion, has a busy night's work out for him tonight when he tackles Harry Seechee, formerly of Lawrence, Mass., and now of Hartford, at the Massachusetts A. C.'s weekly amateur boxing show in the Hartford Velodrome.

Seechee recently scored two decisive wins over Joe Bard which makes a "natural" of the Howard-Seechee class. Fans who saw Harry defeat Howard with liberal use of his fine left hand.

"Pinkie" Kaufman, state welterweight champion, and Mickey Roberts, whirlwind Hartford bantam, have filed entries. Kaufman is paired with Jack Randolph of New Haven while Roberts is slated to meet Joe Maiselli of New Haven. Ladies will be admitted free.

The entries and pairings: 160 pounds: Joe Howard, Harry Seechee, both of Hartford; 145 pounds: Johnny Groman, Rockville, Bob Freeman, Hartford; 135 pounds: Jim Reardon, Rockville, Lou Randolph, Hartford; 122 pounds: Al Cromack, Unionville, Al Dowd, Rockville; 133 pounds: Don Alexander, Hartford; Joe Schwartz, Colchester; 147 pounds: Pinky Kaufman, Hartford, Jack Randolph, New Haven; 134 pounds: Dan Lynch, Hartford; Charlie Evans, Colchester; 143 pounds: Emery Branch, Hartford, Jimmy Moe, New Haven; 114 pounds: Eddie Reed, Hartford, Jim O'Connor, New Haven; 120 pounds: Mickey Roberts, Hartford, Joe Maiselli, New Haven.

The better team won! Cheney Brothers' baseball team proved beyond any measure of doubt that it is the rightful owner of the 1927 town championship over the week-end by trimming the Bon Ami in straight "sets", 6-1 and 11-2. The double victory also brought the season for both teams to a successful close.

Coach Bill Brennan's silk millers outclassed the soap boys both at bat and in the field. Eddie Boyce, Quiddo Giorgetti and Pop Edgar were also far more effective on the hill for Cheney's than were Bill McLaughlin and Elmo Mantelli. Nineteen against seven. That's how the hitting stood with Cheney's in the fore.

Boyce pitched the best game of the season Saturday at the West Side playgrounds and Cheney's won easily, 6-1. The fielding of Hanna was spectacular. Plitt and Stratton hit well. Bill McLaughlin, who held a 1-0 one-hit victory over the South End outfit, was hit freely. Yesterday at Hickey's Grove, it was a repetition with Cheney's again winning hands down. Giorgetti was effective until he threw his arm out in the sixth. Edgar finished the route and went good. Mantelli was hit hard but had to stay on the hill because of lack of another pitcher. Plitt, Macdonald, Esar and Stratton hit well as did "Hook" Brennan.

Pirates Need 9 Games To Clinch The Pennant

New York, Sept. 19.—By winning nine of their remaining fourteen games, the Pittsburgh Pirates can mathematically clinch the National League pennant even if the New York Giants win all of their remaining eleven and the Cardinals are victorious in each of the twelve games remaining on their schedule.

If the Pirates do no better than break even for the rest of the season, a triple tie will result providing the Giants copy ten out of eleven and the Cards win eleven out of twelve. The big noise will start on Thursday when the Giants begin a four-game series with Pittsburgh.

The Giants, who broke even with the Reds yesterday while the Pirates were idle, are 4 1-2 games behind the leaders today. The Cardinals trail New York by only two games.

Summary of game between Pirates and Cardinals, including batting averages and scores.

Alexander and Littlejohn pitched the Cardinals to two victories over the Phillies, 7 to 3 and 8 to 3. Sunny Jim Bottomley hit for the circuit in each game while Cy Williams for league home run honors with his 27th homer.

Babe Ruth walloped his 54th homer, placing him only two behind his record, as the Yankees drubbed the White Sox twice by scores of 2 to 1 and 5 to 1. The Yanks now have 104 games and need only two more games to break the American League record of 105 victories for a season, held by the 1912 Red Sox.

Cleveland nosed out Washington in the ninth, 6 to 4, on a double by Burns. Fouseca and Burns each made four hits.

"Bud" Geoghegan Beats Ross, 1 Up

Manchester is to be represented in the finals of the Hartford District Golf association championship. This was made sure yesterday when "Bud" Geoghegan eliminated Frank Ross of Sequin one up. The match was one of the most thrilling of the season, made doubly so because of a sensational comeback on the part of the Manchester amateur.

TODAY IN FISTIANA

By DOC REID. Sept. 19th, 1866. Sixty-one years ago today, a terrific bare knuckle battle was fought at Rhoades Point, Mo., between Bill Davis, twice claimant of the American heavyweight title, and Mike McCoolie of St. Louis, famed as the champion of the west. The match was a mammoth event in early American ring history and created nationwide interest. For several weeks previous the backers of the fighters had scoured the stage the mill without coming into contact with the long arm of the law and upon two occasions they had been ready to go when advised to move on or go to jail.

I'd like to see the layout. Anyway, I don't want to question the housekeeper until the body has been removed. Heath rose. 'They'll see, sir. I'd like another look myself.' The four of us went into the hall and walked down the passageway to the rear of the house. At the extreme end, on the left, was a door leading downstairs to the basement, and there's plenty of spare room in the house; and the kitchen is on this floor. He opened a door on the opposite side of the passageway, and we stepped into a small modern kitchen. It was two high windows, which gave out the paved rear yard at a height of about eight feet from the ground, were securely guarded with iron bars, and, in addition, the sashes were closed and locked. Passing through a swinging door we entered the dining-room which was directly behind the living-room. The two windows here looked upon a small stone court—really no more than a deep air-well between Benson's house and the adjoining one;—and these also were iron-barred and locked. We now re-entered the hallway and stood for a moment at the foot of the stairs leading above. 'You can see, Mr. Markham,' Heath pointed out, 'that whoever shot Benson must have gotten in by the front door. There's no other way he could have entered. Living alone, I guess Benson was a little touchy on the subject of burglars. The only window that wasn't barred was the rear one in the living-room; and that was shut and locked. Anyway, it only leads into the inside court. The front windows of the living-room have iron-work over them, so they couldn't have been used even to shoot through, for Benson was shot from the opposite direction. It's pretty clear the gunman got in the front door.'

THIS HAS HAPPENED Markham has his friend Vance, a wealthy idler and art connoisseur, accompany him to the scene of Alvin Benson's murder. Benson has been shot through the head while reading. One of the police officers finds a pair of woman's gloves and a handbag.

CHAPTER V AFTER a casual inspection of the gloves, Markham opened the hand-bag and turned its contents out onto the table. I came forward and looked on, but Vance remained in his chair, placidly smoking a cigar. The hand-bag was of fine gold mesh with a catch set with small sapphires. It was unusually small, and obviously designed only for evening wear. The objects which it had held, and which Markham was now inspecting, consisted of a flat watered-silk cigarette-case, a small gold phial of Roger and Gallet's Fleurs d'Amour perfume, a cloisonne vanity-compact, a short delicate cigarette-holder of inlaid amber, a gold-cased lip-stick, a small embroidered French-linen handkerchief with 'M. St.C.' monogrammed in the corner, and a Yale latch-key. 'This ought to give us a good lead,' said Markham, indicating the handkerchief. 'I suppose you went over the articles carefully, Sergeant.' Heath nodded. 'Yes; and I imagine the bag belongs to the woman Benson was out with last night. The housekeeper told me he had an appointment and went out to dinner in his dress clothes. She didn't hear Benson when he came back, though. Anyway, we ought to be able to run down Miss M. St. C. without much trouble.' Markham had taken up the cigarette-case again, and as he held

'She's a rather decided brunette—if that fact will facilitate your quest any,' said Vance easily. It upside down a little shower of dried tobacco fell onto the table. Heath stood up suddenly. 'Maybe those cigars came out of that case,' he suggested. He looked at the intact but and poked at it. 'It's a lady's cigarette, all right. It looks as though it might have been smoked in a holder, too.' 'I beg to differ with you, Sergeant,' drawled Vance. 'You'll forgive me, I'm sure. But there's a bit of lip rouge on the end of the cigarette. It's hard to see, on account of the gold tip.' Heath looked at Vance sharply; he was too much surprised to be resentful. After a closer inspection of the cigarette, he turned again to Vance. 'Perhaps you could also tell us from these tobacco grains, if the cigarette came from this case,' he suggested, with gruff irony. 'One never knows, does one?' Vance replied, indolently rising. Picking up the case, he pressed it wide open, and tapped it on the table. Then he looked into it closely, and a humorous smile twitched the corners of his mouth. Putting his forefinger deep into the case, he drew out a small cigarette which had evidently been wedged flat along the bottom of the pocket. 'My olfactory gifts won't be necessary now,' he said. 'It is apparent even to the naked eye that the cigarettes are, to speak loosely, identical—eh what, Sergeant?' Heath grinned good-naturedly. 'That's one on us, Mr. Markham.' And he carefully put the cigarette and the stub in an envelope, which he marked and pocketed. 'You now see, Vance,' observed Markham, 'the importance of those cigarette butts.' 'Can't say that I do,' responded the other. 'Of what possible value is a cigarette butt? You can't smoke it, y' know.' 'It's evidence, my dear fellow,' explained Markham patiently. 'One knows that the owner of the bag returned with Benson last night, and remained long enough to smoke two cigarettes.' Vance lifted his eyebrows in mock amazement. 'One does, does one? Fancy that, now.' 'It only remains to locate her,' interjected Heath. 'She's a rather decided brunette, at any rate—if that fact will facilitate your quest any,' said Vance easily; 'though why you should desire to annoy the lady, I can't say for the life of me. I imagine—really I can't, don't y' know.' 'Why do you say she's a brunette?' asked Markham. 'Well, if she isn't,' Vance told him, sinking listlessly back in his chair, 'then she should consult a cosmetician as to the proper way to make up. I see she uses Rachel's powder and Guerlain's dark lipstick. And it simply isn't done among blondes, old dear.' 'I defer, of course, to your expert opinion,' smiled Markham. Then, to Heath: 'I guess we'll have to look for a brunette, Sergeant.' 'It's all right with me,' agreed Heath jocularly. By this time, I think, he had entirely forgiven Vance for destroying the cigarette butt. (Friday, June 14; 11 a. m.) 'Now,' suggested Markham, 'suppose we take a look over the house. I imagine you've done that pretty thoroughly already, Sergeant, but

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

When Nicky Arnstein was accused of stealing bonds and being a plain crook, his comedian wife, Fannie Brice, put on a little more grease paint and rouge and sang to the world about how she loved her man and was his'n and he was her'n forever, whatever he had done, et al. But when Nicky got out of prison and began, according to Fannie's tell, 'running around with other women,' she rubbed off her grease paint so far as that particular song was concerned, and announced she was through. Fannie now has a divorce. Solomons' Task A doctor in a maternity hospital told the parents of a new born child that they had a son. He was named George and the birth certificate thus filled out. Three days later a girl baby was given the mother as her own. Now the strange case is in court—the mother consenting to nurse the baby she says is not her own, but insisting that 'George' be found and delivered. Crocodile Stuff? One might construe this court procedure as the everlasting taken-for-granted of male superiority, a form of the same parental preference which in some places throws girl babies to the crocodiles. Not strictly true, however. It is a deeper thing—it is a manifestation of the spirit of parenthood which wants its own, no matter what it is. If the parents in question had been told they had a poor deformed little girl baby, and were later given a lusty son, they would fight as staunchly for the weak little girl. Snobbery, Two Kinds The family made a great to-do when red-headed 20-year-old Jack Jaffray, social register heir to millions, eloped with a 18-year-old soda fountain clerk of a neighboring village. His family say they are through—he is disinherited—never shall he darken their doorway again. The girl's family is equally indignant, money or none, for their Anna was promised to another. We need such tales occasionally to remind us that the snobbery of wealth is often met with the equally intolerant snobbery of the middle-class. Girl and Job Some Cleveland girl graduates of normal schools who are unable to find teaching positions are demanding the resignation of that city's married women teachers. They use the old argument, of course, that women who don't really need the jobs are taking bread and butter from the mouths of girls who do. That argument always leaves me a little cold. After all, a girl who goes through normal school by her daddy can usually get as good support from him as the average married woman of today can get from a husband. If a woman's personality can get and keep a

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

BABIES BORN BY DAY, TOO By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine It is a common superstition that more babies are born in the night time than in the day time, and humorists constantly indulge in facetious remarks relative to the night calls made by the doctor. When an actual investigation of the subject is made, however, it is found that the records vary but little from hour to hour in the course of a day. A study of 1084 births was made in the Queens Hospital of Honolulu, and a similar study of 1000 births at the Lying-in Hospital of Chicago. In the former series out of 1084 births there were 543 during the day and 546 during the night; in the latter series out of 1000 births there were 493 in the day and 507 at night. The largest number of babies born during any single hour was from three to four in the morning, but that number was only a few more than were born from nine to ten at night and from eight to nine in the morning. Perhaps the difficulty lies in the fact that the services at night places greater demands on the hospital personnel than service in the day time and that many cases carry

Home Page Editorial Why Teach Our Daughters to Be 'Ladies'? By Olive Roberts Barton Liberty! What crimes are committed in thy name! In spite of the fact that youth has been emancipated, there is left to us a certain class of gentlemanly who have seen to it that their younger generation are gentlemanly also. Unversed in the worldly knowledge of going to 'get their man', they proceed to live their lives as quietly and as dutifully as they know how, and the result is that they may quietly and dutifully go on living their lives in solitude, if we do not come to their rescue. In this age of cave-women—I was going to say 'vamps' but it is too mild—is it fair or just that we teach our daughters to be 'ladies' in the old accepted term, when girls without scruple, decent instinct, or regard for friendship are permitted to break all the rules of propriety? I saw a tragedy recently that calls forth this article. A girl whose entire upbringing had evidently had been based on 'this freedom' and whose methods were absolutely unorthodox. 'Just for the fun of the thing!' made trouble between an engaged couple and walked off with the man. The fiancée, too well-bred to protest and with too much self-respect to be concerned with her decidedly commonplace rival, simply bore it without any attempt at defense or retaliation whatever. And people thought nothing about it. Self-preservation is the first law of nature! Is it right to take away a girl's power of protecting by teaching her to be a lady? Virtue may be its own reward, but if we are going to close our eyes to vamping on the part of some of the youth of today who do we try to keep up the mummery of good breeding in others? Why not make a common standard and give the victims a chance? We may as well cover our daughters with jewels and then shake hands with the vandal who comes to rob them. It would be as consistent as our modern cruel method of putting up the bluff of culture, and then smirking at any little outlaw who chooses to pull our noses. EVENING COLORS Evening gowns for fall choose white for the most popular color. Next come yellow, green, new blues and intense lavender-purple hues. RHEUMATISM While in France with the American Army I obtained a noted French prescription for the treatment of Rheumatism, and Neuritis. I have given this to thousands with wonderful results. The prescription cost me nothing. I ask nothing for it. I will mail it if you will send me your address. A postal will bring it. Write today. PAUL CASE, Dept. 2000, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BY HARRY ATWOOD President Constitution Anniversary Association.

Constitution Is Classic of Brevity in Vesting of Government Powers.

The delegates realized that in order to carry out the purpose and plan of the Constitution it would be necessary to make laws, enforce laws and interpret laws, so they provided for setting up legislative, executive, and judicial departments and vested them with general power and with specific powers.

Some of the specific powers vested in the judiciary are: Jurisdiction in all cases in law and equity arising under this Constitution; the laws of the United States; and treaties made; in controversies to which the United States shall be a party; in controversies between two or more states, between a state and foreign states.

BLAPPER FANNY SAYS

A man shouldn't come spooning around without forking over.

SENSE and NONSENSE

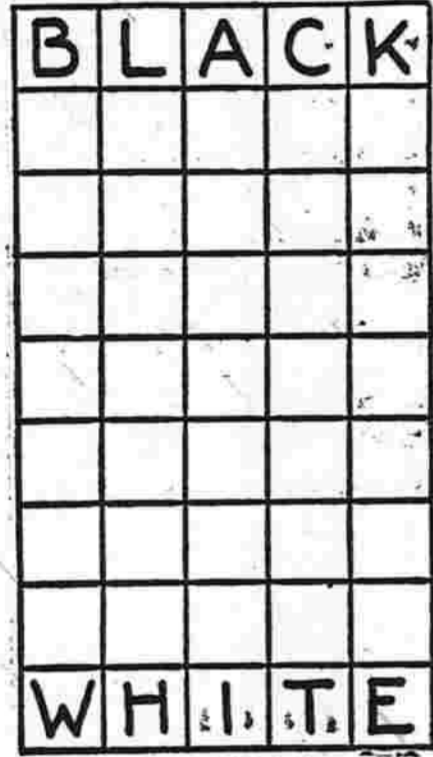

"They were dining off fowl in a restaurant. 'You see,' he explained as he showed her the wishbone, 'you take hold here. Then we must both make a wish and pull, and when it breaks the one who has the bigger part of it will have his or her wish gratified.'"

SKIPPY

VETER GOLF

THIS IS A HARD ONE. If you don't think it's hard to change BLACK to WHITE, just sail into this one.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

THANKFUL

To be a cheerful cuss I try, I am an optimist, you bet; For I am thankful for A lot of things I do not get.

A girl may be proud of her ability to cook, but she doesn't want to be admired for that alone.

The steamer was just leaving the pier when a man rushed up and shouted: 'Hold on a minute, captain, there's a party of fifty coming aboard.'

After five minutes the captain went across to him, and asked if the party would be much longer. 'What party?' asked the man. 'The party of fifty you spoke about.'

'Oh, I'm the party! I'm fifty today.'

Ups and Downs Mary had a little waist, Where waists are meant to grow, And anywhere the fashions went The waist was sure to go.

The promise in the Bible that there would not be another flood of course did not include Coolidge propaganda.

'Down with the army!' shrieked little Harold as his father held the box of soldiers over his head.

Advice to young brides: If at first you don't succeed, cry, cry again.

Windy Wolf is in good health, but has been unable to get any life insurance. The companies regard him as a poor risk on account of his wife's temper.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

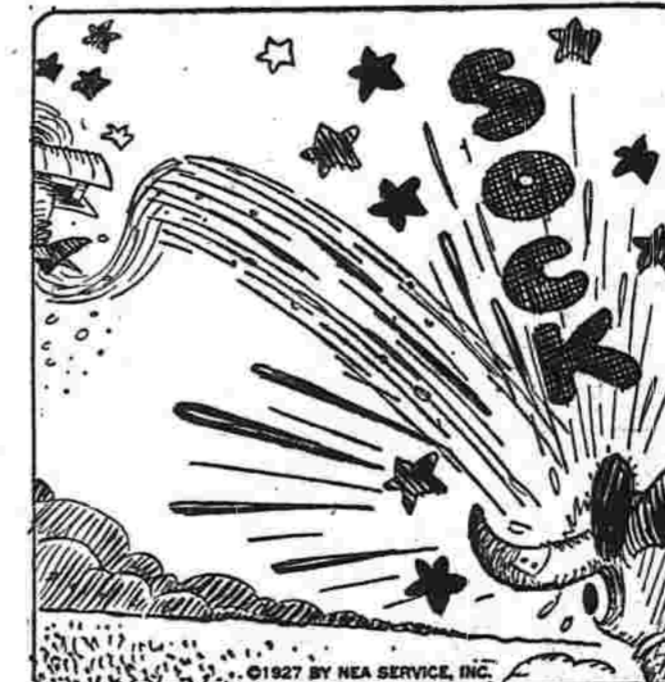

Just think! The little Tynmites, all out to see the wondrous sights, fell fast asleep up on the tower that they had drifted to. They'd tied their kite with bits of string just so they wouldn't lose the thing. And, after all, that was a very thoughtful thing to do.

I guess the kite heard what he said, for in a moment, on it sped. It wasn't very long at all till Spain was down below. The kite then lowered in the breeze and drifted down among some trees, and when it almost reached the ground, it traveled very slow.
