

CHICAGO BOUT KEEPS VETS UP ALL NIGHT

Waited Until 5 O'Clock This Morning Before They Heard Result — Tunney Was the Favorite.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

Paris, Sept. 23.—The American Legion stayed up all night to hear the result of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago.

Scattered throughout cafes and night clubs in Montmartre and elsewhere, thousands of visiting Legionnaires "made a night of it." When the news that Tunney had won by a decision was flashed through the city about five o'clock this morning, there was general cheering and applause, followed by a fusillade of popping corks.

Tunney's victory met with the general approval of the Legion crowd, because of his war record, while thousands of ex-service men have never quite forgiven Dempsey for working in the shipyard during the war.

A round-by-round account of the bout was received in Harry's New York bar in the Rue Danou and relayed elsewhere. There was an almost unanimous groan of regret when Tunney went on his back in the seventh round, followed by cheers when he came back to win. The attitude of the Legionnaires toward the fight was demonstrated in an official action of the convention yesterday when the delegates unanimously voted to cable Gene "Hearty good wishes."

Aside from the big fight, the official culmination of the convention made last night a particularly wild and uproarious one for the Legionnaires. The official ending of the convention sessions released thousands of veterans who had been tied up all week by official business. At two o'clock this morning, it was absolutely impossible to find an empty seat in any of the boulevard cafes.

Streets Thronged

The throng in the vicinity of the Cafe De La Paix was so dense that traffic became virtually impossible. Near by, at the government's official ball for the Second A. E. F. was in full swing. The boulevardiers joined in the gaiety of the occasion and there was considerable horseplay, which the French gendarmes regarded with charitable good nature.

Battlefield Tours

Eight separate battlefield tours started from Paris this morning. Many of those starting on the tours carried headsets which resulted from last night's parties. Thousands of other Legionnaires were remaining in Paris for the concluding events of the convention.

Little Trouble

A check-up shows that the Legionnaires have had a minimum of trouble with the French police—in fact, a great deal less trouble than they formerly had with American M. P.'s during their army days. There have been less than a dozen arrests among the 18,000 A. E. F. visitors, and some of those were due to mistakes.

AL. SMITH IS SICK BUT NOT SERIOUSLY

Doctors Tell Him to Keep to His Hotel Rooms for a Few Days.

New York, Sept. 23.—Governor Alfred E. Smith, who is confined to his room at the Hotel Biltmore from an attack of bronchitis, has cancelled all engagements for the remainder of the week on the advice of attending physicians, it was announced today.

Dr. Charles W. Berry, city comptroller, who is in charge of the governor's condition, said, however, that he expected the governor to be recovered in a day or two.

Mrs. Smith is with the governor and it was said today that no anxiety was felt over his condition.

LEVINE HOPS OFF ON TRIP TOWARD INDIA

Plans to Break Long Distance Record—Goal 4,300 Miles Away—Hinchcliffe, Pilot.

Cranwell Aerodrome, Sliesford, Eng., Sept. 23.—Charles A. Levine began his long-delayed attempt to break the world's record for sustained flight this morning when he hopped off in the trans-Atlantic monoplane Miss Columbia, for Karachi, India.

Levine was accompanied by Captain Walter R. Hinchcliffe. The start was made shortly after 8 o'clock.

Levine originally intended to fly back to the United States in the same plane which carried him and Clarence D. Chamberlin to Germany from New York. Because of stormy weather over the Atlantic he decided on September 15 to turn the nose of his plane eastward, and fly toward the Orient as long as his gasoline held out.

Ready for Weeks

The Miss Columbia had been held in readiness for a long-distance flight for many weeks. Levine and Captain Hinchcliffe had been almost constantly at the aerodrome awaiting favorable weather for their take-off.

The distance from Sliesford to Karachi is approximately 4,300 miles.

The Miss Columbia made a perfect take-off under favorable weather conditions. The plane carried 480 gallons of gasoline which the flyers estimated would be sufficient to carry them to their goal.

Both Confident

Both Levine and Hinchcliffe expressed the utmost confidence in the success of their venture before the take-off, the brilliant performance of the Miss Columbia on its epochal flight from New York to Germany, and subsequent tests in Europe, convinced them that the plane was capable of making the long flight.

When Levine announced his intention of flying to India, he said he probably would follow the trail blazed by William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee in their attempted flight around the world. Levine and Brock followed a straight line across the European continent, which carried them across Germany, Turkey and Persia to Karachi.

The Columbia carries enough gasoline for fifty hours' flying. The plane carries no radio.

The Take-Off

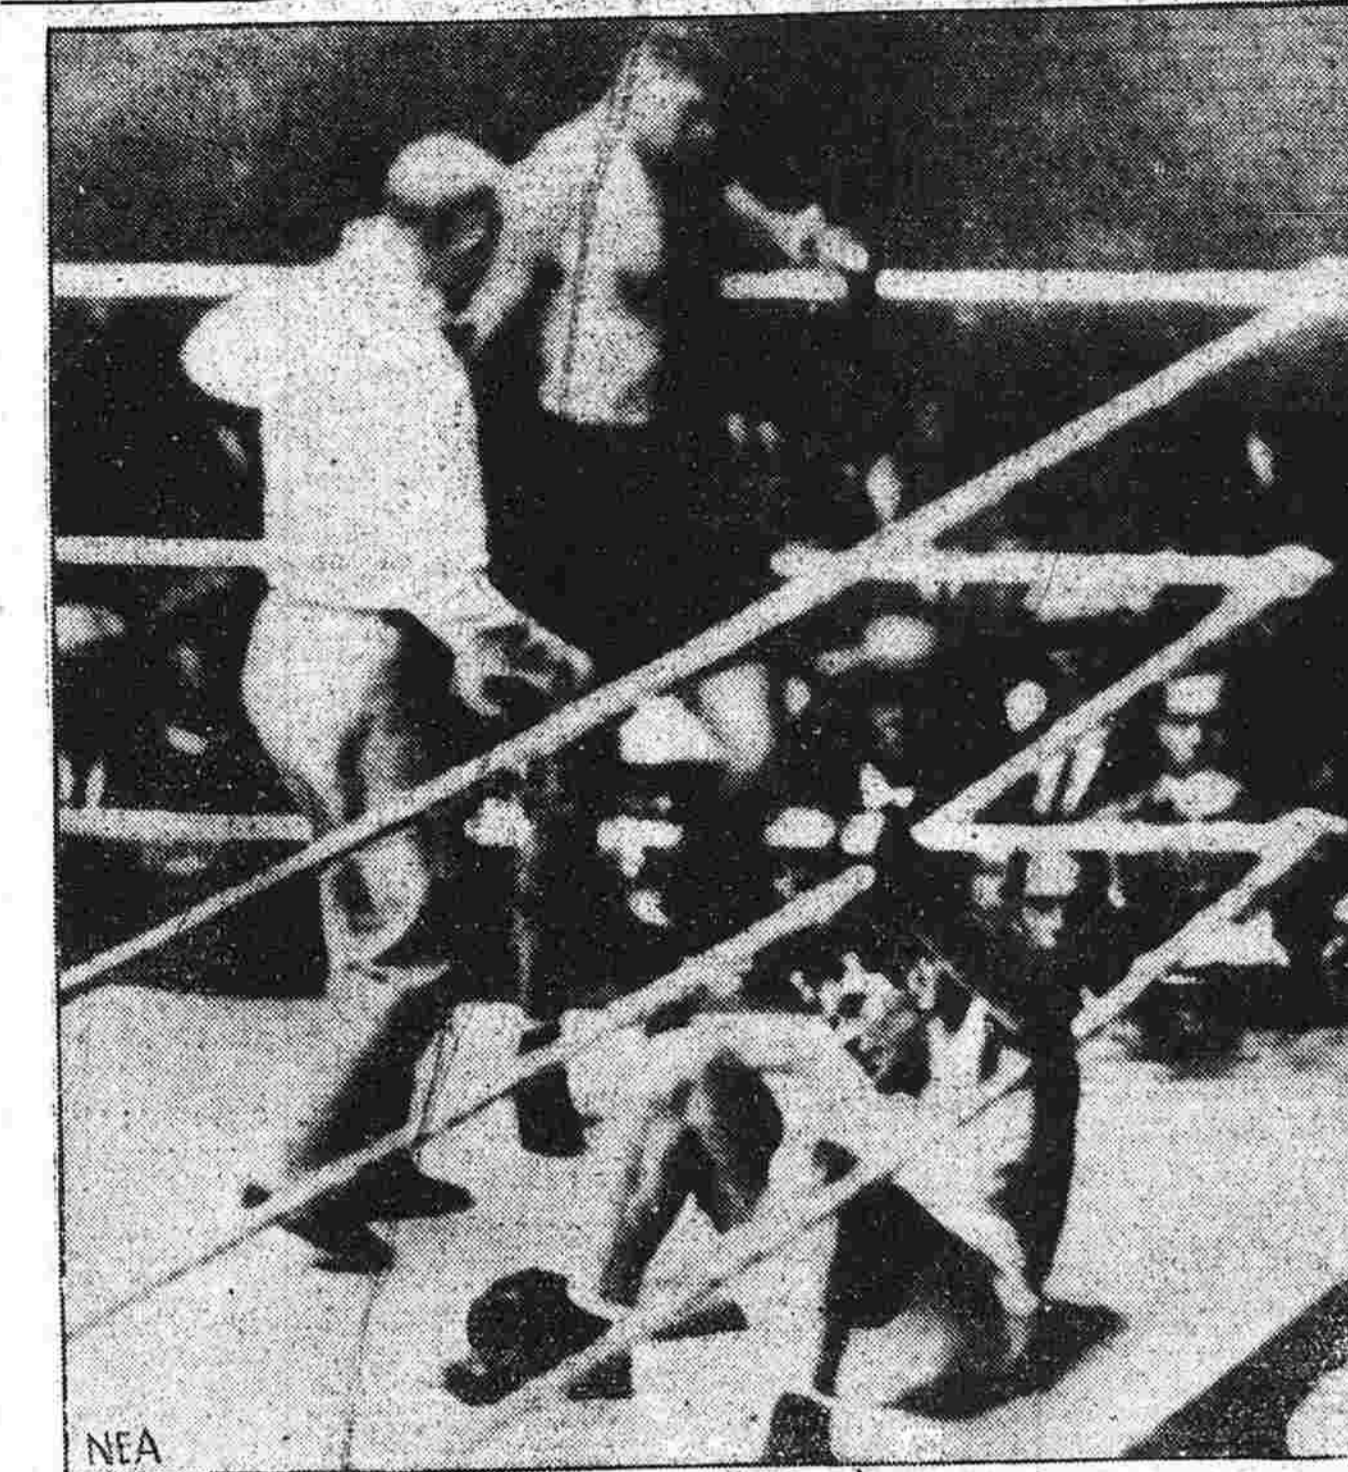

The decision to start the flight this morning was reached during a conference between Levine and Captain Hinchcliffe late last night. At 7:30 this morning the flyers appeared at the aerodrome, and the Miss Columbia was taken from its hangar. The motor was given a final tuning up, Hinchcliffe bade his wife good-bye and Levine waved farewell to the aerodrome officials who had gathered to see the take-off.

Hinchcliffe and Levine then climbed into the cockpit. After a magnificent take-off, the Columbia headed eastward. It was expected the plane would be over Cologne, Germany at noon.

Before he started, Levine made the following statement to International News Service: "I am sorry I had to wait so long before taking off but circumstances which I could not control made a start before the departure of the plane. I am confident the Columbia will make its goal and break all existing records."

HERE IS THAT SEVENTH ROUND

"Bam!" went Jack Dempsey's left fist to Gene Tunney's chin in the seventh round of their championship battle at Soldiers' Field, Chicago. "Bam!" went Gene Tunney to the floor. This remarkable NEA Service picture shows Gene just as he landed. Dempsey still is crouched nearby, and the referee has not begun counting.

RADIO BOTHERSOME FEAR CONTRACTOR TO BIG FIGHT FANS

Crowds at Herald Office and Other Places Missed Some Detail But Got Big Kick.

Manchester "saw" the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight in Chicago by proxy last night, via the radio. At no less than five gathering places were the returns received and the blow-by-blow account of the battle was followed as closely as though those who were listening were seeing the battle from the ringside.

A six-tube radio set was installed by John P. Barstow at the South office of The Herald on Essex street and several hundred people shivered in the chill autumn air from 10 o'clock until the fight ended at almost midnight. Bissell street was packed and traffic was unable to pass because of the crowd.

Other Gatherings

Other sets had been installed in the Army and Navy club and the Community club at the north end. A big crowd gathered in front of Alfred Grezi's store where a powerful loud speaker brought the voice of the announcer at the ringside to the street.

Interference, that same buzz which had baffled radio owners during the past two weeks, was present last night and hampered reception considerably. However, most of the action in the ring was described vividly and could be heard despite the poor reception.

The crowd fell into the moods of the announcer. When he appeared dismal when the fighting was at a minimum, the crowd felt dismal, too. When he became excited when one or other of the fighters landed several hard blows, the crowd became excited with him.

The fans, men and women alike, were pro-Dempsey by quite a large margin. When he felled Tunney in the seventh round there was a storm of handclapping, soon hushed, however, as the crowd listened for the count of the referee. The handclapping was not heard when Tunney staged his wonderful comeback and had the ex-champion on the verge of a knockout in the tenth round.

ENVOY TO U.S. KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS

Baron Von Maltzan and Five Others Meet Death In Accident—Envoy Home on Furlough.

Berlin, Sept. 23.—Baron Ago Von Maltzan, German ambassador to the United States, who was home on furlough, and five other persons were killed today when the Luft-hansa plane in which they were riding, crashed near Scheiz, Thuringia.

The crash occurred at about 11 o'clock this morning.

The ambassador was enroute from Munich to Berlin, and was flying in one of the Luft-hansa concern's regular passenger planes.

In addition to the German ambassador, those killed were: Herr Rolle, director of the German federal railroads; Herr Venarnim, traffic superintendent of the Luft-hansa concern; Osners, a student flyer; Pilot Charlet and his mechanic, Felier.

The Death Ship

The death ship was the Luft-hansa "D-585-Mercur" plane, built by the Langenau works. It was commissioned last May.

Charlet was an experienced commercial pilot, having flown several hundred thousand miles during his career. For the past several months he had regularly flown the airways lap between Berlin and Munich, on which he met his death today.

Eye witnesses living in the neighborhood of Scheiz, said the plane approached that town from the north, flying at a height of about 1,300 feet. They said the left wing apparently became loosened from the fuselage, and that when the pilot attempted to land, the wing broke off completely.

The left wing was thrown twenty yards from the fuselage when the plane crashed. All of the occupants with the exception of the mechanic, Felier, were killed almost instantly. Felier died within an hour.

"SMITH, IF NOMINATED, WOULD DIVIDE PARTY"

Tunney Tells About That Seventh Round

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Champion Gene Tunney declared today that he could have gained his feet at the count of one, had he cared to, when Jack Dempsey floored him in the seventh round of their thrilling battle last night at Soldiers' Field.

"I heard the referee count one and could have stood up then had I thought it advisable," said Tunney, who hasn't a scratch to show his part in the fight. "I conserved, however, to get the most of my recovery period. I watched Dempsey and listened to the referee. I was fully aware of what was transpiring."

Tunney decided to hold off his scheduled departure for New York until tomorrow in order that he may keep a "clean" engagement with Mayor William Hale Thompson.

Dempsey, meanwhile, remained in seclusion at the hotel apartment of his wife, Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress. Though his personal physician, Dempsey, announced he would not leave the hotel today and had no further statements to make.

Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager, said he was going before the Illinois Athletic Commission and ask the commission to reverse the verdict of the referee and judges. "Dempsey is not through, not with Tunney knocked out," declared Flynn.

LUCK, BAD VARIETY FOLLOWS THIS MAN

IN ONE JAM AFTER ANOTHER Since June 13 When He Sought to Wed.

Hartford, Sept. 23.—The ill-luck which has pursued John J. Davis, of Norfolk Avenue, Dorchester, Mass., since he decided to get married last June was still with him in Superior Court here today when he was fined $100 for reckless driving. Davis was in a hurry to be married so he came to Connecticut to avoid the delay he was held up here also by the law which requires a five-day interim between the time the license is issued and the marriage. On the way home he was involved in an accident in which a ten-month-old baby was killed. With his proposed bride he spent some time in a hospital. He is still unmarried and civil suits amounting to $50,000 have been brought against him as a result of the accident. His many troubles brought him licency from Judge John Richard Booth who felt reluctant to impose a jail sentence on Davis' troubles all began on June 13.

John Sost, of Grove street, New Britain, pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation and was fined $200 and sent to jail for thirty days.

William Marquis, of Bristol, was fined $50 and given a sixty-day suspended sentence for breach of peace. It was testified he was engaged in an altercation with the dog warden.

SOUND BOAT IN DISTRESS AS MACHINERY BREAKS

Only Few Passengers on Board—Gasket Blows Out and Two of Crew Burned.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The ferryboat "Chester," bound here from Stamford, Conn., was disabled when it reached a point near Lloyd's Neck today, as the result of a gasket blowing out of the steam boiler. The engine and firemen were burned, but not seriously. There were a few passengers and one automobile on the ferryboat at the time.

When the accident happened, the distress signal was raised, the whistle of the ferryboat and, as steam poured out, persons on yachts in Oyster Bay harbor thought the ferryboat was adrift.

The first yacht to reach the side of the ferryboat towed it to a dock at Lloyd's Neck, where a physician was called to dress the burns of the engineer and fireman.

Rep. Huddleston, of Alabama Makes This Statement After Touring the South; Gives His Reasons For So Saying—Is a Democrat Himself.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Governor "Al" Smith of New York would carry the south if nominated by the Democrats for the presidency, but his nomination would start a schismatic movement which might eventually split the Democratic Party, Representative Huddleston, Democrat of Alabama, declared here today.

Returning to the capital from a vacation spent entirely in the south, Huddleston declared that the south's attitude toward the New York governor has been misrepresented. His opinion is not based upon political friendliness to Smith. He opposes Smith and predicted that the two-thirds rule would defeat him in the convention.

Smith Has Strength

"The present indications are that Gov. Smith will go into the convention with greater strength than any other candidate and that the real fight will come over an effort to abolish the two-thirds rule," said Huddleston. "I do not believe that Smith can win with the rule in effect, and it probably will stand, but if he does he probably would be the strongest candidate that could be named by the Democrats."

"Smith would carry the Catholics and vote of northern and eastern states, and while there undoubtedly would be a movement of dissent in the south, this probably would not cost him more than one or two states."

Reason for Opposition

Huddleston declared that the south opposed Smith "not because he is a Jew but because he is a Republican. The question presented by his nomination is a racial and religious one, and is dry for local reasons."

"The Democrats of the north and east are not interested in the negro question. They are industrialists and unsympathetic with agriculture; paramilitary and anti-nativistic or alien in sympathy of affiliation, of no point do they agree with southern Democrats except in their opposition to Republicans, the opposition being based on a totally different set of grounds."

GUNMAN EXONERATES YOUNG SWEETHEART

But Hartford Policeman Says She Admitted Being at Scene of Crime.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 23.—Leo J. Nolin, of South Portland, exonered his 18-year-old sweetheart Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., of any connection with the holdup and slaying last March of William H. Griffin, aged Haverhill storekeeper.

This was the burden of the testimony today by Police Sergeant Thomas Hickey of Hartford, Conn., at the trial of Nolin and Herman A. Reed, of Waterbury, Conn., accused of first degree murder. Sergeant Hickey stated that he was present at the examination of Nolin by State Officer Richard Griffin of Massachusetts when Nolin stated that Miss Cwickla knew nothing of the holdup.

The Massachusetts state officer then testified that Nolin admitted to him that he was in an automobile in Haverhill on the night of the crime.

Miss Cwickla will take the stand as a government witness.

The Massachusetts state officer further testified that when he took Miss Cwickla to the scene of the crime and asked her if she had ever been there she exclaimed: "My God, how can I ever forget it?"

NO DEMOCRATIC TICKETS IN THREE TOWNS OF STATE

Hartford, Sept. 23.—There are three towns in Connecticut which are so thoroughly dominated by one political party that the other party-in-politics won't even try to name a ticket this fall. When the "little town" elections are held next month the towns of Gansett, Prospect and Willington will have only Republican tickets.

The fact was revealed by an inspection of candidate lists on file with the secretary of state's office here today. Democrats, however, are so numerous that a year ago they were six towns in the state that had only Republican tickets and considered the present-day situation again for the party of the minority.

LINDY HOPS OFF

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 23.—Colonel Charles Lindbergh took off from Mahoney Field this morning for a non-stop flight to Tucson, Ariz.

Rockville

WANT MORE POLICE DURING THE DAY

Children Not Protected at Crossings — Also Seek Motorcycle Patrolman.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, Sept. 23.—The prospective plan of having extra police on duty in Rockville during the day season is meeting with much favorable comment. It was started by the fact that attention was called to the lack of protection during the noon hour while the children were returning to school and across Market to Park street, coming as it did during the short time that Captain Tobin was off for lunch.

While the police department is known as the police department of the City of Rockville their jurisdiction extends to all parts of Vernon and it is sometimes impossible to get transportation, it is pointed out, to the scene of the accident if such is the case when there is time lost in getting measurements, making it necessary often to bring all parties concerned into the cell room and holding them for half when the court alone has to pass upon the cases and it is sometimes found that an innocent person has been held.

The state police have been giving Rockville additional protection on Saturday and Sunday in an effort to prevent speeding and automobile violations, but Rockville people feel that this can not go on.

Their solution for most of their present trouble is a motorcycle patrolman with a motorcycle man on duty the investigations could be made faster, the traffic regulations taken better care of and a general improvement given to all concerned.

It would not be expected that Captain Tobin at his advanced age would be expected to ride the motorcycle, but such a position would be assigned to a young man of matured judgment and as there is a vacancy on the list of regular policemen it would not be necessary to make any change in the other men, and would give more time to Captain Tobin to do office work and be in a better position, when on the streets to take care of the calls that come to the police station.

Rockville feels that it can take care of itself in this manner and with the election of constables in the outlying districts such as Dobsonville, Vernon Depot and Vernon Center at the annual town meeting in October it will provide for better protection all through the city and town. The matter will be given consideration at the meeting of the council held on September 27.

Another change.

Abel Miner, who has conducted a shoe store and cobbler shop on Union street for twenty years has leased a store on the board walk and is to move into that building by October 1.

He is the second Rockville man to be honored by this appointment, the last one being Dr. John E. Hassett, who served two terms after his first appointment in 1914. Mr. Chapman was one of the delegates to the state convention of the order.

Going to Convention.

Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts of Stafford, Mrs. Catherine Williams of Manchester, Mrs. Mary Danner of Manchester, and Mrs. Nellie Hunt of Rockville have been elected by the Emblem Club as delegates to the convention to be held in Providence. They will be accompanied by several members of the local club and the trip will be made by automobile.

The committee that will have charge of the transportation are: Mrs. Anna Wilkie of Manchester, Mrs. Madeline Latham and Mrs. Louis Finlay.

Flag Day.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinley have been fortunate in securing an apartment in one of the new Theological Seminary buildings in Hartford and Mr. McKinley will enter the seminary as a student to secure extra study along certain lines.

It was assumed that Dempsey had scored heavily in the early rounds and the listeners gathered that the decision had been given Tunney because of his whitened comeback in the ninth and tenth.

Dempsey supporters faded; silently away after the last round. Tunney supporters, jubilant, proceeded to collect their bets. Some of the candy stores and ice cream parades did a rushing business for while as cigars and drinks changed hands.

Today, however, some Dempsey supporters were still as staunch for the ex-champion as they had been before the fight. They tried to explain the reason for his defeat but in all cases they were met with the time-worn adage that "they never come back."

CENTENARIAN RECORD HELD IN BULGARIA

Sofia.—Bulgaria today has the largest percentage of centenarians in the world. There are 58 persons over a hundred years of age to every 100,000 inhabitants in this country.

This figure is remarkable when it is remembered that in countries like Switzerland, Denmark, Holland, Finland, Belgium, Norway and Spain, there is an average of only one centenarian to a million inhabitants. The United States boasts of four and Canada of two centenarians to 100,000 people.

In order to join the ranks of this distinguished tribe of humanity, you must live an exceedingly simple life. You cannot smoke nor drink, meat must be a rare luxury in your diet, which should consist of soured milk, coarse bread, fruit and many vegetables, and above all common sense in everything.

Longevity in the Balkan countries is believed due to the extensive use of the famous Bulgarian soured milk, which contains the so-called "Bulgarian bacillus" claimed to be a dead enemy to the destructive germs infecting one's stomach.

PHOTOGRAPHIC MAPS NEEDED TO EQUALIZE TAX ASSESSMENTS

Editor's Note—This is the third of a series of articles dealing with municipal tax problems, written for International News Service by an expert long experienced in local tax affairs in Connecticut.

By EDWARD A. MCCARTHY
 With the increase in cost of public works in the last few years and the demand for sewers, roads, parks, and public buildings, in progressive communities, the taxpayer is becoming alarmed at the steadily rising tax rate and the resultant increase in his tax bill. Current building activities should increase the grand list to keep the tax rate nearly constant but owing to the period of inaction during the war when public improvements were suspended, most municipalities must expend large sums of money to provide for expansion during and since that period.

Realizing that the growth and financial standing of their community as well as its bonding capacity are based on its grand list and tax rate alert public officials recognize tax equalization as the only practical solution of their problem. The burden of the cost of government and of civic improvement should be distributed equally and this can only be done by a careful yearly inventory of the stock and tangible assets of the municipality just as the merchant and manufacturer take an annual inventory of assets.

Tax equalization does not mean an increase in assessment of every property owner as commonly expressed by most tax payers, but rather the increasing or decreasing of each assessment to conform to uniform standards of judgment so that all properties are treated with the same consideration and none enjoying any special privilege.

The result of a scientific appraisal has disclosed many property owners paying three-quarters to one-half the amount of taxes paid by them the year previous, and it has also added properties overlooked or dropped from the list by mistake which had not been assessed.

Detail Maps
 The first requisite for a comprehensive intelligent tax-equalization is the possession of accurate and detailed maps. Few Connecticut cities and none of the towns ever have been wholly surveyed and mapped. The financial condition of the municipality is high cost as well as the time required, have heretofore precluded the securing of proper maps by the ground survey method. The recent development of aerial surveying has made it possible for any town to secure adequate maps without prohibitive cost. These maps can be secured at a convenient scale, not only for assessment purposes, but for highway, sewage disposal, town planning, zoning and water works districts.

Aerial maps are secured at an altitude of 7,200 feet with a camera having a focal length of 12 inches so that the contact prints, taken directly from the negatives, have an approximate scale of 600 feet equals 1 inch. Of these contact prints 7 inches by 9 inches, only the hearts of centers, 4 inches by 4 inches, are enlarged, eliminating any displacement from high or low terrain at the edges of the prints. These contact prints are enlarged six diameters, so that the suburban property is shown at a scale of 100 feet equals 1 inch and business and residential districts at 50 feet equals one inch. The size of the enlargements is 30 inches by 40 inches. Before enlargements are made it is necessary to procure certain information in the field to bring them to the proper scale. It is obvious that the plane, while photographing is liable to hit an air pocket or abrupt change in the direction of the wind, resulting in a drop of several hundred feet.

Must Keep Altitude
 Until the pilot has regained his altitude of 7200 feet all negatives taken will be slightly above the scale of 600 feet equals 1 inch, and any negative taken above 7200 feet will be slightly less than the required scale. Consequently it is necessary to procure ground controls, these being measured distances between clearly defined points picked off the contact prints, preferably 1500 feet to 2000 feet apart. These measurements can be taken along a highway, two street intersections, or between buildings, or even two trees, as the case is in the suburbs. Controls are taken at right angles for technical reasons, aiding the developer in preparing prints. The sectional maps have index maps, making use of the sections easy. When maps are enlarged, all property lines are superimposed, with the figures denoting frontage, depth or acreage, according to location.

Photographic maps are interesting to the property owner. He can see the size and shape of his lot and compare it with his neighbor's, getting a clear idea of reasons for assessments. The farmer can see his own house and each piece of land on his farm and note the amount of cultivated, pastured, hay land or waste land he may own. Then photographs help the assessor to appraise land at some definite unit price for each particular land, based on the use to which it is put. One farm of 100 acres might have 90 acres of cultivated land and adjoining town boundaries. A savings of 10 acres of the time and five-sixths the cost can be effected by the aerial method.

Some Mistakes
 In the town of East Haven it was discovered that an area of about 50 acres was being assessed in North Haven, and in Berlin an area of 70 acres was being assessed in Newington, due to lack of a map and consequently to the ignorance of the exact location of town boundaries. In like manner a great deal of rear land particularly farm or mountain wood land, has escaped being put in the books. Many buildings which cannot be seen from the highway are missed. One city recently added over 1,000 barns and garages to the grand list.

Some years ago no parlor was complete without a stereoscope. By use of such an instrument any two adjoining contact points, the third dimension of the landscape, the height, is clearly shown. Relative contours and elevations can be determined as well as the depression allowed for a side hill on land.

A mosaic or composite map can be made showing a town in one complete photograph. Contact maps are all corrected for scale cut out and pasted on a board, each one fitting its proper location until the whole area is covered. This original is photographed in sections some 20 inches square and these are pasted down in the same manner as the original contacts. This eliminates most of the overlapping joints and the mosaic appears as photograph. Any ink lines can be removed from the photographs so that changes or corrections can be made.

(To be Continued Tomorrow)

ONE BUG—21 FISH

Round Lake, N. Y.—Most fishermen would be greatly chagrined to find themselves above a school of hungry perch with only one bug to use for bait. That was what happened to Clifford Gleeson of Round Lake. Baiting his hook with the last bug, he caught a perch, cleaned it at once, extracted the fly from its stomach, and baited his hook again. He caught 20 more fish with the same piece of bait.

SUES HER HUSBAND

Washington.—While riding with her husband, John Herman, while he was driving, Mrs. Herman was injured in an automobile accident. She sued him for $25,000, claiming her beauty was marred and that it was bad for her business, since she is the proprietor of a beauty shop. Her husband runs a shoe store and says he'll walk hereafter.

The officers of the Freshman class have not yet been announced.

The first rehearsal of the High school band was held today at 2:30 and was attended by 30 members. Last year the band played at most home games and was considered a great success for its first year. At the assembly yesterday Bandmaster Turkington asked for more support for the band from the student body and

Andrew Rankin a veteran of last year's band, also spoke briefly on the same subject. Mr. Turkington deserves a great deal of credit for the splendid work he has done in organizing the band, giving a great amount of his time without a substantial reward.

The subscription drive for Somanhis Events opened yesterday at the school assembly. Speeches, asking for the support of the students for the periodical, were made by Emma Strickland and Jacob Rubinow of the staff and Mr. Davis, the faculty advisor. Mr. Davis also made an announcement concerning prizes that are to be awarded by Somanhis Events. These prizes will be in the form of two and a half dollar gold pieces, one for the best poem and one for the best literary composition, printed in Somanhis Events. Competitions will be held shortly for the positions of assistant editor, assistant business managers and circulation managers. Instead of appointing these officers, as in the past, competitions will be held under the direction of Mr. Davis and those who prove the most fit will be awarded the positions.

GILBERT IS IDEAL

LOVER OF SCREEN

Greater Than Valentino, Say Critics of "Big Parade" Star.

John Gilbert, star of "The Big Parade" at the State on Sunday, is suggested by his producers as a candidate for the greatest screen lover of all time. They point with pride to his Prince Danilo ("The Merry Widow"), his James Apperson ("The Big Parade"), his Rudolph ("La Boheme") and his spectacular work in "Bardley the Magnificent," "Flesh and the Devil" and "The Show."

However, John Gilbert in his recent studio work has exhibited a larger virtuosity in the gentle art of inspiring romance than any other "hot" of the time. The Gilbert hair, eyes, profile, smile and figure are equally fascinating in all his screen changes.

A real surprise awaits the Gilbert fan in "The Big Parade." His make-up is the "mud pack" of the trenches. All the disfigurements of "active service" are realized. Those who have seen the picture say that begrimed and dirty he is just as easy to look at—and just as compelling—as when he was a juvenile lead after that in Western stock companies. Then he took up motion picture acting. He was a scenario writer for Maurice Tourneur, and later was a director. Then Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took him up and made a star of him.

There is little question that John Gilbert not only is the screen's newest and greatest lover, but also that he is one of the wholesome, finest and most appealing in a contagious, wholesome way to his audiences.

Renee Adoree is featured opposite Gilbert in this big King Vidor production of the Laurence Stallings' story.

BARTHELMESS HERE

AT CIRCLE THEATER

Opens Season With "Drop Kick" Story of College Life and Football.

Again a college story and this time with the popular Dick Barthelmess in the lead. "The Drop Kick" one of the best of the rah-rah pictures yet produced, comes to the Circle theater on Saturday for the opening program of the season. The Circle, by the way, is to be open only on Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of each week until further notice. Programs will be changed on Saturday and Monday.

"The Drop Kick" is an interesting story, with dramatic thrills and much comedy, and flavored with the excitement of a big football game. As the story unfolds it is apparent that college boys and girls of today are much the same as they were in days gone by and that college brings out the good in most young men and women, while the bad in others is bound to come out whether they are in college or not.

Barthelmess is assisted by a clever cast, including Barbara Kent, Dorothy Revier, Alberta Vaughn, James Bradbury, Hedda Hopper, Eugene Strong and a host of others. The football teams of Stanford and the University of Southern California appear in the football game and the Ten National Stars, recently chosen by First National Pictures in a nation-wide contest, are also in the picture.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (90) Forest to Mill

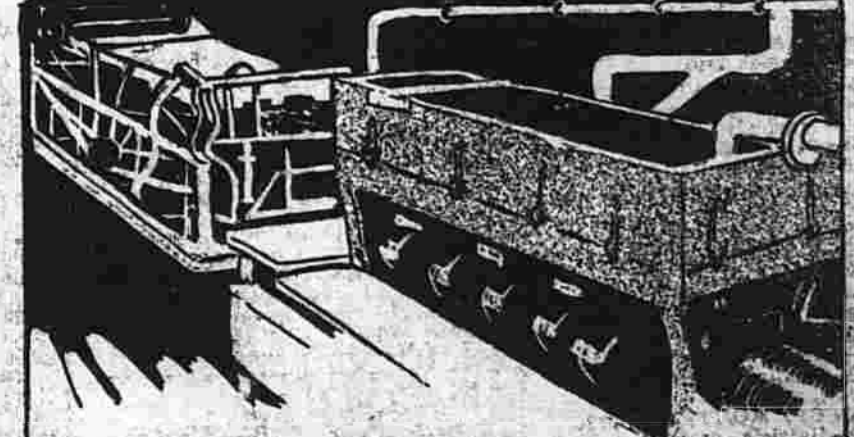

Here is one of the reasons why our forests are disappearing. These logs, from some far off northern lumber camp, have arrived at the pulp mill, where they will be ground up as the first step in paper making. The newspaper you read in the evening probably grew in the depths of a Canadian forest.

The logs are cut into short lengths, the bark is taken off and they are put into great "coffee-grinders" which reduce them to chips.

The wood chips then are cooked with acid, the pulp is drained and pressed into sheets to be sent to a paper factory.

The pulp is mixed with water and pumped into vats. After passing through screens to keep out lumps, the pulp flows onto the moving flat bed of the paper machine. The bed is of fine wire cloth, and, as the water drains away, a thin film of pulp, which soon becomes paper, is left in the bottom of the bed.

7:30 P. M.—Austin Organ Recital. Will O'Wisp is not as elusive in music as he is in fable. Nevina caught the spirit of the playful fellow in his composition which he named "Will O' the Wisp." It is a pleasingly spirited selection, which makes an excellent organ solo. Miss Esther A. Nelson will render this number with several others of note in this program which will be broadcast through WTIC.

8:00 P. M.—Cities Service Concert Orchestra and Cities Service Cavaliers.
9:00 P. M.—Musical Miniatures.
9:30 P. M.—A Half Hour with The Heat Folks—
There is perhaps no ballad more beautiful in either words or music than O'Hara's "In the Wee Little Home I Love." As a tenor solo it is something that is a musical luxury. Everyone who hears it cannot soon forget its simple, yet enchanting melody and its equally simple and tender words. This number is one of the high lights on this program which the Heat Folks will broadcast through WTIC.
The Heat Folks are composed of a male quartet and an instrumental trio. They are one of WTIC's new fall features, and will be on the Hartford station's programs regularly every Friday evening. Besides the tenor solo mentioned above a rousing "Windy Song" by Bullard is worthy of particular mention. The incidental baritone melody, the "zum, zum, zum" of the accompanying voices, and the burst of harmony at the end bring a refreshing bath of winter wind on these warm autumn evenings.
Quartette, Winter Song, Bullard Trio, Claire De Lune, Massenet. Quartette, Hear de Win' a Blowin', Gates.
Tenor Solo, In the Little Wee Home I Love, O'Hara.
Quartette, The Drum, Gibson. Trio, Morentia, Murillo.

Many Exceptional New Luxuries and Performance Features—Yet a New Low Price

EXAMINE-DRIVE-COMPARE THIS GREAT NASH SEDAN-AND IT'S EASY TO SEE WHY THE COUNTRY HAS GONE NASH!

This new Nash Special Six Four-Door Sedan calls your attention very forcibly to Nash value.

At its new low price you will find that other manufacturers are asking from $100 to $150 more for cars not as fine in finish, and not nearly as fine in performance.

Here is one of the smartest looking, smartest acting cars of the new season—built as only Nash builds motor cars, performing as only a Nash performs.

The body is a full two inches lower in the fashionable vogue. Window and door ledges, the instrument board and its crown ledge, are all finished in walnut.

The steering wheel is solid walnut, inlaid and crested. There are shirred door pockets.

wherever you look!
And luxury in every mile and minute you drive it. It is quick on the go, always out in front at a traffic start, effortless on hills. There is increased power in its big 7-bearing Valve-in-Head motor. Yet that motor is even more quiet, even smoother. Integral balance of Nash operating parts has accomplished an astounding improvement in already fine motor performance. And it is the easiest steering, easiest managed car you ever handled. It turns a corner at a mere hint from its steering wheel. Finally, here is an easier riding motor car. New secret-process alloy-steel springs, just introduced by Nash, achieve supreme travel comfort. Drive this car before you buy your new one. Buy this car and save $100 to $150 of your good money.

TOWN REPORT

The 1927 town report of Manchester is just off the press of W. H. Schielde of this town. It is the first in a number of years to be printed here, the contracts for a succession of the reports having gone to Rockville. The book is better looking than the out-of-town product, the letter-press being excellent and the matter better condensed, with less wastage of room.

Also it is understood that a hot considerable saving in cost has been effected. The involved tables which have been a feature of recent town reports have been abandoned.

The town report, in a community where there is a newspaper, is an archaic institution to be sure. But it is required by state law and if we must continue to pay for such a publication each year it would seem as if it should be given to a local printer to do, especially when we get, as in this instance, a better product for less money.

SUN STILL SHINES

The big fight is over and the sun still hangs in the heavens. The world still jogs on its way. Nothing in nature is so very different. The result of the champion suckering of all times hasn't affected the ripening of a single fall apple in the state of Illinois nor altered the status of the food market by so much as the millionth of a cent.

It has done its duty to demonstrate that amount of growling and argumentation by a number of millions of people over the respective abilities of two fighting persons has the slightest power to alter the facts in the case. Mr. Tunney has once more given Mr. Dempsey a good, sound lacing. Which is more or less gratifying to those still rather numerous people who somehow like to see the well spoken, more or less decent individual put a bezer on the one who talks like a gutter snipe and brags like a fool.

Yesterday the Herald insisted that a determining factor in prize fighting is very frequently sheer luck. Last night's fight provides as good support for this contention as we could wish. In all probability if the poke that sat Tunney down for the count of nine had just happened to have had half an inch less distance to travel, it would probably have won for Dempsey a fight in which he was being very thoroughly and very systematically thumped to bits.

Manchester people are bad offenders in this respect. They are sorely given to neglecting their citizen duty on election day. Let's see if this year we can't poll at least a majority of the town's vote.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Sept. 23.—Time was when one heard considerable bragging about the predominance of Massachusetts men in the federal government. Weeks was secretary of war. Lodge was chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee and Gillett was speaker of the House.

Now weeks and Lodge are dead. Gillett is in virtual retirement in the Senate and even President Coolidge himself has started on the way back toward private life. Massachusetts isn't getting many of the big plums and no other state seems likely to establish an "oligarchy" here such as she had attained in the last days of Murray Crane. Even Pennsylvania, which is the most solidly Republican of all the very big states, complains frequently at the fact that she doesn't get much federal patronage simply because the party knows she needs no coaxing.

On the other hand, the tendency to smile upon New York is more and more reflected in the administrator's appointments. Enough of these instances have been cited in previous dispatches to dispense with any repetition here, but the belief is constantly strengthened that the Republican party is doing all it can to reduce the possibility of a victorious Al Smith ticket in November, 1928. Hence the play to New York. The party may not believe that Smith will be nominated; it may not believe he can be elected. But the G. O. P. isn't overlooking a single bet.

The International Permanent Court of Arbitration at the Hague hasn't much connection with American party politics, generally speaking. Some New Jersey Democrats may believe it is a pet project or something of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, but they are mistaken. The court is an international body with four American members. The death of Oscar S. Straus last year left three—Charles Evans Hughes, Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore, professor of international law at Columbia University. All really bright children will note promptly that these three important persons are of New York. For that matter, so was Oscar Straus.

Unless one or two have been lost overnight, there are 48 states. Presumably there was someone of sufficient distinction in one of the other 47 to fill the shoes of Straus, which would have given some other section of the country a look-in. Perhaps even Judge Webster Thayer of Massachusetts might have done. Just the other day the news that President Coolidge had offered the post to Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo. What! You don't know who Judge Cardozo is? Well, Judge Cardozo is the chief justice of the court of appeals in New York.

But Judge Cardozo was not selected without inspiration from the New York politicians who plan the anti-Smith strategy. To quote from a leading New York news paper: "The invitation to Judge Cardozo was extended by President Coolidge after consulting Charles D. Hillis, Republican national committeeman, who, although Judge Cardozo is a Democrat, strongly urged that he be designated. President Coolidge authorized Mr. Hillis to convey the offer to Judge Cardozo," etc.

Frequently instances of the Cardozo type do not necessarily mean that the administration is in mortal terror of Al Smith. Smith's nomination is not at all certain. Many shrewd political students don't see how he can win. But just now Al stands head and shoulders above the other possibilities and many Democrats feel that he would have the best chance in an election of any of them, so the Republicans are going after him on general principles.

But just now Al stands head and shoulders above the other possibilities and many Democrats feel that he would have the best chance in an election of any of them, so the Republicans are going after him on general principles.

New York, Sept. 2.—Time was when it really meant something to be able to say, just a bit over-casually: "Oh, yes, I'm going abroad next week!" "One waited for the words to penetrate and the envoy to appear. That was long ago. The other day I mentioned to the maid who straightens up my apartment that I wouldn't need her for a time, since I was setting sail soon."

"I hope you like it," as well as my sister did," she said. "She just got back from Paris the other day. I expect to get over next spring." "No, one can make a greater impression with a bottle of prescription brandy. Flash that and watch the eyebrows arch and the 'uuy ooze!'

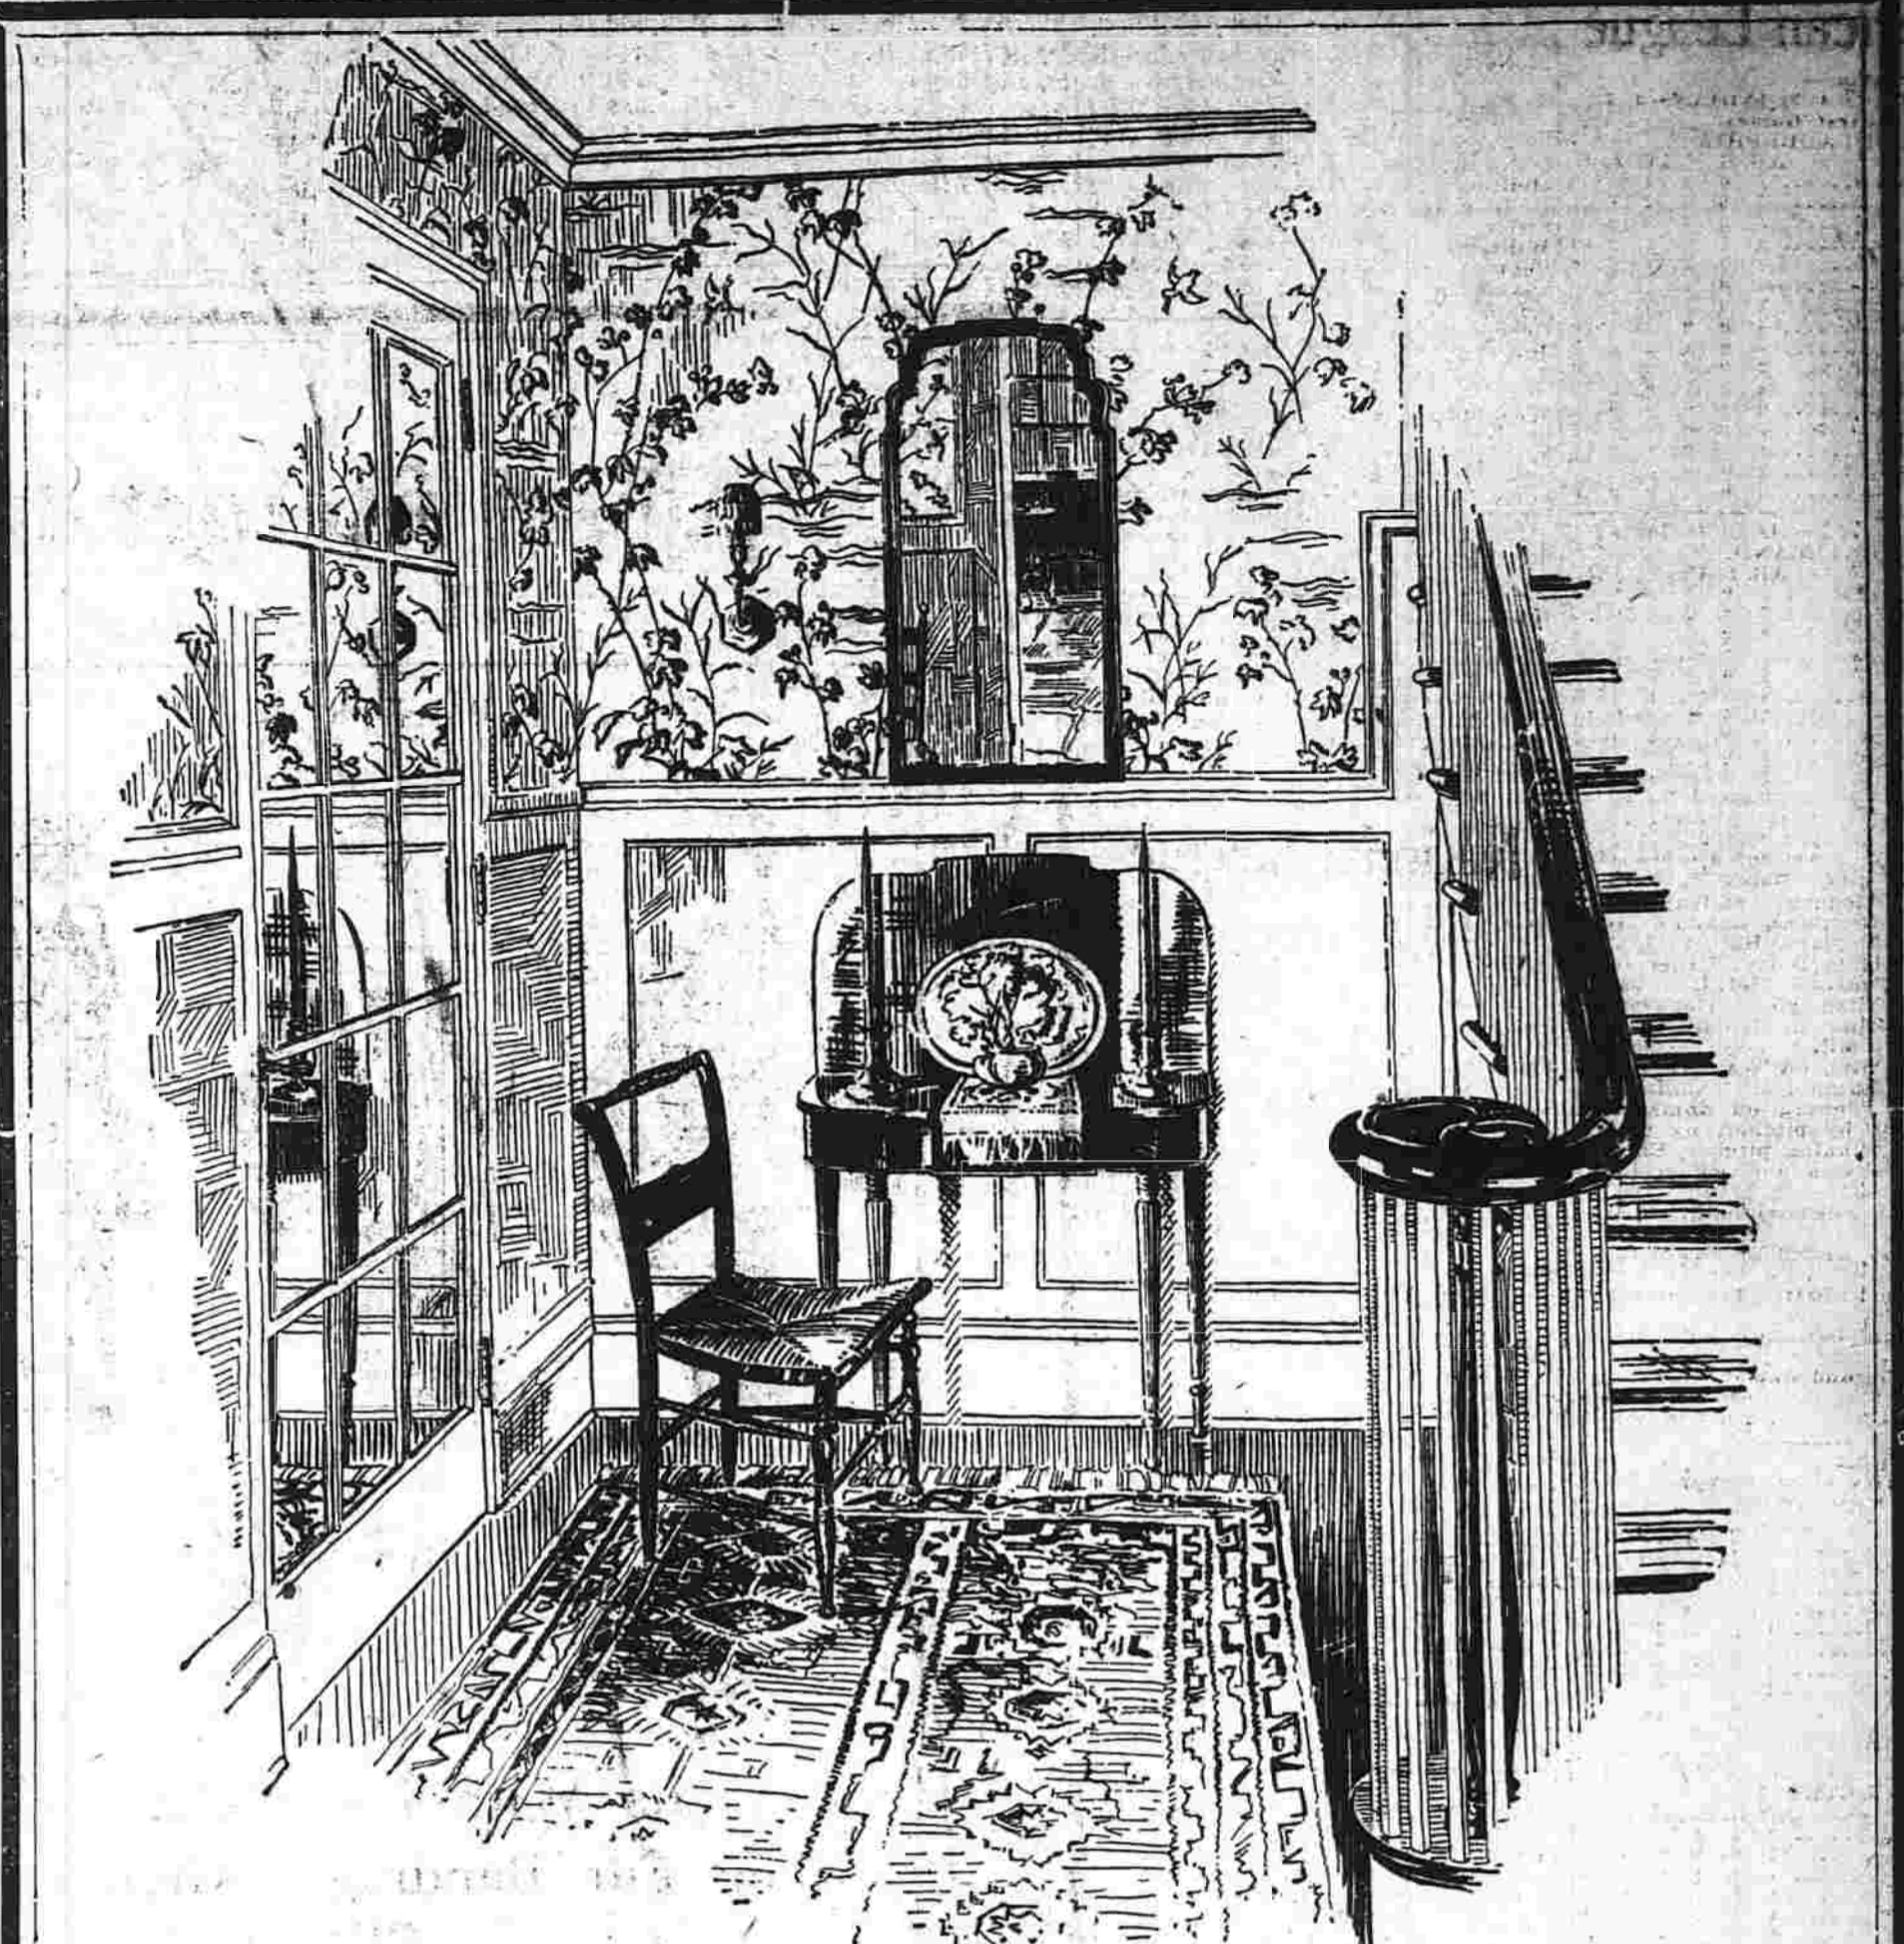

In the first flush of enthusiasm I sprang my prospective voyage on the tea tasters of the Algonquin. The lady-who-wears-a-torquette at opening nights gave me an ice-cream look—half frozen with scorn; half melting with pity. "How quaint," she murmured. "To go after everyone else's study of has returned. You really won't see any one."

To which I sotto-voced, "Thank God!" A few tables away someone who was going out to Hollywood was getting all the attention. Ah, well, I've been to Hollywood. In fact, I came from there by degrees. Hollywood, it seems, is the thing to do just now. . . . to dash out and title a film and dash back to Broadway. . . . to scratch off a scenario en route and write another study of a familiar cliché, "the incomparable," or whatever it is she used to be.

I tried it on the breezy wisecracker of Tin Pan Alley. "Paris? Let's see . . . he's the guy that got a shot in the heel. Take one for me, will you?" In a lordly fashion, I advised the bootlegger that no longer would I need to sip of his imitation gin. "Neither does my family," he came back. "They've been living on the Riviera all year."

After a few of which experiences I began to have qualms about going at all. Does it really seem so old-fashioned to be making a trip to Paris? Am I, after all, getting old and in the hoopskirt class? Oh, well! Anyway, I'm finding out how many friends neglected to do their Paris shopping early. I have at this moment requests to buy a couple of French suits for little Willie at the Maison de Blanc; the girl friend neglected to buy any perfume; one of my chief secret agents in the Village somehow overlooked getting a genuine Balkan peasant blouse; a newspaper writer who came back with Queen Marie picked up a swell hat somewhere . . . and could I, perhaps, get one just like it? . . . and the . . . artist who would like an etching. . . . It really takes up no room at all. . . . I've written them all down, along with the pet cafes of everyone who was over in "those good old days, when" . . . along with how to get a telephone number, how to hail a taxicab. . . . how. . . . But I'll never do any one of them, so what difference does it make?

ANYWAY, I'M FINDING OUT HOW MANY FRIENDS NEGLECTED TO DO THEIR PARIS SHOPPING EARLY. I HAVE AT THIS MOMENT REQUESTS TO BUY A COUPLE OF FRENCH SUITS FOR LITTLE WILLIE AT THE MAISON DE BLANC; THE GIRL FRIEND NEGLECTED TO BUY ANY PERFUME; ONE OF MY CHIEF SECRET AGENTS IN THE VILLAGE SOMEHOW OVERLOOKED GETTING A GENUINE BALKAN PEASANT BLOUSE; A NEWSPAPER WRITER WHO CAME BACK WITH QUEEN MARIE PICKED UP A SWELL HAT SOMEWHERE . . . AND COULD I, PERHAPS, GET ONE JUST LIKE IT? . . . AND THE . . . ARTIST WHO WOULD LIKE AN ETCHING. . . . IT REALLY TAKES UP NO ROOM AT ALL. . . . I'VE WRITTEN THEM ALL DOWN, ALONG WITH THE PET CAFES OF EVERYONE WHO WAS OVER IN "THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS, WHEN" . . . ALONG WITH HOW TO GET A TELEPHONE NUMBER, HOW TO HAIL A TAXICAB. . . . HOW. . . . BUT I'LL NEVER DO ANY ONE OF THEM, SO WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE?

Tomorrow FALL OPENING

FOR the past few weeks we have been planning and preparing for this event. New furniture designs for Fall have been arriving and unpacked. Painters and decorators have been busily at work. Tomorrow everything will be ready for our Fall Opening.

All the new things for Fall will be on display. The Cottage, completely refurnished and redecorated, will be open for the first time. The Drapery Shop, greatly enlarged, will be found on the Main Floor. The Maple department has moved to the South side of the Main Floor. Other minor changes have been made throughout the store.

Tomorrow will be "open house" day for the first inspection of Fall merchandise. You are cordially invited to our store during the day or evening to see the new things—the new departments—and the redecorated Cottage.

POINTS OUT-TOWN PLANNING VALUES

Austin Cheney, President of Chamber, Lists Its Advantages.

Editor, The Herald:

Town planning is so valuable as to be almost an essential. To be sure a city can grow and prosper without any plan—most modern cities have done so, but I do not think that in any case except in the City of Washington, D. C. where a comprehensive plan was made before the city was begun, has any town or city prospered or grown as it would have, had an intelligent plan been made before the city started to grow.

Town or city planning actually applied is—except for a few towns and cities—a very modern revival of a practice that fell into disuse when the northern barbarians conquered ancient Rome. So practically none of our modern industrial cities have had the advantage over competitors given by a good plan. They are like a group of untrained athletes among whom the strongest is likely to win by main strength and awkwardness.

But there is a new era beginning. As the trained athletes who use his brains as well as his muscle often beats a stupid man who is physically superior, so towns and cities which utilize their advantage and reduce their disadvantages will win over competitors. Economy of effort counts in gaining a lead and in staying power. And economy of effort is due to use of brains. Our most progressive cities realize this and one way in which they apply their realization is by so planning their development that no natural handicaps imposed by nature or by their own mistakes in the past will be overcome or even increased. It is recognized that there will be a minimum of wasted time and effort in the daily movement of population. If a few towns and cities get good plans they will outstrip their rivals because for the same money and effort they will secure greater results.

It is true that a considerable number of towns and cities have plans which they have not utilized; perhaps the majority of cities which have secured city plans have not fully utilized them. But it must be remembered that town or city planning is a new business and that a good many towns and cities rushed into it without much consideration. Paper plans have an attraction, and many towns and cities have felt for them. But this does not mean that town planning is of no real value; it means simply that wrong methods were used or a poor plan secured. That some people have bought gold bricks is no argument against making investments.

A plan for a town or city is of as practical value in the building of that town or city as a plan for a great manufacturing establishment or for a hotel. No Chamber of Commerce would think of trying to raise a million dollar fund for a hotel if the plans for it were to be made by the bricklayers and carpenters and plumbers as they went along. A few years hence no Chamber of Commerce will propose to stimulate the physical development of the town unless it has a definite plan to serve as a guide; details will be modified as the years pass, but the basic points will remain. It will know where new factories will not only be best served by transportation facilities for raw material and finished product, but where they will get at the least expense such municipal services as sewer, water, lights, power, and where they will be most convenient of access from well designed home districts for the workers. It will know which thoroughfares should be developed as main traffic arteries. It will know what areas are best adapted to retail trade and most convenient to shoppers. And it will place its parks so that they serve the greatest number of people, add most to the attractiveness of the community without stopping the development of the business areas.

Town and City Planning is a practical proposition. Well done, it will not only prevent waste of space, time, effort, money and nerves in the daily movement of business and home life, but it will give an added zest to work and living, as things well fitted to their purpose do. The joy in using a good tool and the irritation due to using a poor one make a lot of difference in the output. The town and city is one of the most important tools of its citizens.

But Town and City planning does not consist merely in getting a good plan on paper. The best paper plan may not be followed unless it is really sold to the citizens. And it won't be sold to them unless they can be made to see its value to themselves. And they won't see its value unless they work for it and on it.

Manchester should have a Town Plan. The Board of Selectmen have been petitioned to include in the call for the Annual Town Meeting clauses which will make it possible for the voters of Manchester to decide whether or not they will adopt a town plan in accordance with the General Statutes. If this is done the voters of Manchester will be given an opportunity to decide for themselves whether or not they will have a Town Plan, and the series of articles by the Chamber of Commerce appearing in The Herald are designed to enlighten the citizens of Manchester just why a Town Plan is necessary and essential in Manchester as in any other healthy, growing community such as ours is.

Ring Generalship Beat Dempsey, Says Joe Williams

CHAMPION SURVIVED SEVENTH THEN BEAT JACK DECISIVELY

Jack Hopelessly "Out on Feet" at Finish; Had Nothing Left But Fighting Heart; Decision Unanimous.

By JOE WILLIAMS

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Gene Tunney is still the champion and a pretty good champion too.

Here last night on the wind tossed shores of Lake Michigan with 150,000 people looking on, he got up off the floor and went on to win one of the most desperately contested battles in the long history of the prize ring.

Knocked down by a fury of overhand rights and lefts to the head, into which was crowded all the savagery and ferocity at the command of the man-killing Jack Dempsey, the champion, after a count of nine, climbed unsteadily to his feet and fought his way to victory. It was a rare exhibition of courage and generalship and stamped the New York man as one of the greatest heavyweights of all time.

Joe Williams

For a space of a few breathless seconds—seconds that passed with the labored movement of eternity, Dempsey stood on the threshold of a miracle. It looked as if he would win back his championship and thus accomplish what no other heavyweight champion has ever failed to do at Coney Island, Fitzsimmons at San Francisco and Jeffries at Reno.

Scored Full Knockout As a matter of truth, Dempsey actually scored a full knockout but was deprived of the honor by his own ignorance of the local rules which specify that a fighter on scoring a knockout shall proceed to a neutral corner before the count begins.

Dempsey didn't do this. Tunney was on the floor four seconds before the challenger, flushed with the excitement of the moment, jogged over to the neutral corner of the ring. Then the count started. It took every ounce of stamina and strength the champion had to pull himself into an erect position. All told Tunney was down for thirteen seconds. The referee, Dave Barry, had counted nine. His gray flannelled right arm was on the upward movement of the fatal "ten" when Tunney pulled on the lowest strand of the ropes pulled himself into something resembling a fighting posture.

It was a tragic break for Dempsey who had fought a dogged courageous uphill fight from the start. It was the one genuine chance he had to win in the whole ten rounds. Mechanically he made the most of it. Mentally he made the least of it.

Had Been Warned There is seldom any nourishment in a technicality which keeps one fighter from winning and paves the way for another's victory.

But Dempsey, like Tunney, was warned that this specific requirement would be rigidly enforced. The warning was made first at the principals' meeting with the two principals in attendance and repeated in the dressing room a few moments before the fight.

Everything else in this memorable battle held out in the night air in Chicago's magnificent monument to its glories dead was dwarfed into pallid insignificance by the pulsating drama of the seventh round which saw the stately Tunney sitting in the resiliator for the first time since he quit a shipping clerk's post to add culture and refinement to the sordid business of bustling breaks.

Up to this moment the fight had run absolutely true to form. It was practically a carbon copy of the debacle of Philadelphia with Tunney holding the ex-champion off with a superb straight left and rocking him at frequent intervals with jolting right handers to the head.

Fight Furiously Fighting with icy unconcern, Tunney stood in the mid-ring and awaited the cyclonic rushes of the killer who came constantly forward unmindful of the battering he was taking and plainly with but one thought in mind to get close enough to fire his heavy guns. Tunney had won the first round and the second by wide margins, his defense and superior speed were clearly telling. Dempsey showed his first flash in the third. A left to the head and a fusillade of mid-air jolts won him a scant edge.

The fourth was all Tunney. He danced around the killer with the airy grace of a plover pecking away at his face distorted in half smile, and blue-gray with a two day growth of stubble, and peppered his bronzed body with sharp, stinging punches.

THE REFEREE

Dave Barry

At the bell, Dempsey was wobbling, and in some distress, and the boys in the press box began predicting he would not go the limit. The fifth was another Tunney round by a sizeable width, but in the sixth Dempsey showed fresh symptoms of power. A whirling left hook to the head sent the champion back on his heels. A follow up attack compelled Tunney to fall into a clinch, and while he rallied at the close the round went to Dempsey. The stirring seventh started without any hint of the fireworks it was subsequently to develop. Tunney was circling around Dempsey jabbing and hooking as he had done all night.

Tunney Goes Down With the round less than a minute old, Dempsey rushed the champion to the ropes. Tunney missed with a left lead into the head. As he did, Dempsey stepped in with an over hand left that caught Tunney squarely on the cheek bone. With the same movement Dempsey followed with an over hand right and the champion dropped to the canvas in a sitting position.

His mouth flew open and his big blue eyes turned glass and unseeing. His expression—if he had one, was that of stark bewilderment. Something had happened. Across his scrambled mind ran fanciful thoughts. France, the war, guns booming, an enemy attack, an unfortified position, the Marines in retreat, it may have been that, it may have been nothing.

I don't know just what sensations a heavyweight champion with a million dollar check in his bathrobe experiences loling elegantly in the resin but anyway there he sat looking fixedly at friends at the ringside and seeing none of them. Meanwhile the count had started. It had reached four before Dempsey's handers, their flushed red faces in marked contrast with their all-white ring regalia could get him to move from where he stood, a foot or so from the dazed Tunney, to a corner on the far side of the ring. Once over there the official count was started. When it reached nine and was bordering on ten, the champion got up.

Tunney's Brainwork Dempsey, his killer instinct flamed to a murderous point, plunged in to put on the finishing touches. It was here that Tunney proved his remarkable ring generalship—one of the subtleties that make him a great champion. He climbed on a bicycle, as the boys say. He circled backward, around and around the ring with Dempsey, crouched and in hitting position, following him.

This performance went on for some seconds. Finally Dempsey dropped his hands at his side and laughed and said, "Come on and fight, this isn't a foot race."

By this time Tunney had recovered his scattered wits. The shock of the knockout had left his nervous system. He resumed where he had left off, jabbing and dancing away. At the bell he was pretty much himself again. He had gone through hell and survived.

From then on he was never in any real danger again. He came back gallantly and fought Dempsey even in the eighth the most furious round of the fight and one of the greatest ever seen in any heavyweight fight.

They stood toe to toe and slugged. Tunney with the desperation of a champion who felt himself slipping and Dempsey with the new hope of a man sensing a return to old and desirable glories. A whirling left hander cut Dempsey's right upon and the crimson trickled down his face and on to his chest. Another short right hander caught him all balance and sent him to the floor for the count of one—the only time he was down or close to being down in the fight. In return Tunney took a healthy beating around the liver and stomach but on the whole he took no more than he delivered.

Tunney Himself Again By the time the gong sounded for the ninth round, Tunney was completely himself, once more the icy cold, undisturbed, emotionless champion. Dempsey was cruelly battered about the head with lefts and rights in this round. Once he was sent back on his heels and another time he had to fall into a comfortable clinch.

The tenth was a replica of the ninth, and many of the rounds that had gone on before. Dempsey had fought himself out. He had nothing left beyond his great fighting heart. Tunney hit him at will and had him floundering. When the final bell sounded it was obvious that Dempsey's glorious effort to rewrite the oldest law of the game that they never come back—had failed. The decision was unanimous. The referee, Dave Barry, and the two judges, George Lytton and Sheldon Clark, had all voted for Tunney.

PIRATES NOW MENACED BY BOTH GIANTS AND CARDS

Race In National Tightens; Ruth 56

By LES CONKLIN

New York, Sept. 23.—Although the Pirates scored a moral victory yesterday by splitting a double-header with the Giants, they were manacled today by an attack from another quarter. The Cardinals won from Boston and gained undisputed possession of second place, only three games behind Pittsburgh. The Giants, now half a game behind the Cardinals, tackle the Pirates again today while the Cards hoped to gain more ground at the expense of the Braves.

The Pirates must win six of its nine remaining games to clinch the pennant, provided New York and St. Louis make a clean sweep. The standing today:

	To	W.	L.	Play	P.C.
Pittsburgh	5	41	4
St. Louis	5	39	9	5.93
New York	5	38	9	5.89

Four hits by Grantham and three by Traynor helped Ray Kremer beat the Giants yesterday, 5 to 2. With Fitzsimmons on the mound, the Giants won the nightcap in a romp, 7 to 1. Benton and Aldridge were the losing pitchers.

Rogers Hornsby of the Giants hit his 25th and 26th homers during the festivities. The Cardinals had a tough time subduing the Braves 6 to 5. Three hits, a sacrifice, a walk and error sent the winning runs across the pan in the ninth. The Cubs, clinging grimly to the chase, trounced the Phillies 8 to 4, and advanced to within three games of the Giants. Hack Wilson smacked off his 28th homer, tying Cy Williams for the league honors.

In the American League, the Yankees, collectively and individually, continued their assault upon various world's records. Ruth hit his 56th homer and needs only four more to break his record. Gehrig brought in two runs, setting a new world's record of 172 runs for this specialty and breaking the old mark of 170 made by Ruth. Earle Combs set another record by hitting three consecutive triples. By beating Detroit 8 to 7, on Ruth's homer in the ninth, the tanks tied the American League record of 105 victories in one season.

JACK WAS ENTIRELY TO BLAME FOR BARRY'S DELAYED COUNT

Should Have Gone to Neutral Corner Without Hesitancy; Count Cannot Be Started Until Such Time.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Paul Frehn, member of the Illinois Boxing Commission, today explained the interpretation of the Illinois State Athletic Commission's rule governing knockdowns by pointing out that a count over a boxer who has been felled cannot be begun until his opponent has stepped back into neutral territory. Frehn said Dave Barry, the referee, warned Jack Dempsey to go to his corner after he felled champion Gene Tunney in the seventh round last night and withheld his count when Jack hesitated. When Dempsey complied the count was begun, he said.

BUFF vs. HERMAN Six years ago today, a new bantamweight champion was crowned when Johnny Buff, already fly-weight champion of the world, annexed the bantamweight title from Pete Herman by a judge's decision at New York City. Thus the little New Jersey ringster became the proud possessor of two world's titles.

The strain of having to defend his laurels in two distinct divisions began to tell on the double champion however, and soon after his victory over Herman he was stricken with a nervous disorder and confined to his bed. In the following year he was shorn of both titles within two months of each other, losing the flyweight title to Pancho Villa, the Filipino, and the bantamweight crown to Joe Lynch of New York.

They barely touched gloves. Dempsey hooked left and pushed Gene down, but no count. Tunney scored heavily with right to head. Dempsey hooked hard right and left to head. Dempsey blocked left to head. Tunney jabbed three lefts and right to face without return. Tunney sent three left jabs and two short rights to the jaw and Dempsey clinched. They traded lefts to the face. Tunney hooked left to head and Dempsey shot right and left to stomach. Dempsey bleeding badly from left eye. Tunney hitting at will. Tunney sent three right hooks to the head. They clinched. They traded punches at close quarters. Tunney staggered Jack with left and right to head. Dempsey hooked right to head. Dempsey hooked right to chin.

Walsh Says Dempsey Lost Fight In Seventh Round

HAD CHAMPIONSHIP 'RE-WON' BUT HESITANCY WAS FATAL

Fight Proved Old Man Age Is Always Master; Better Man Won, But It Was a Great Battle; Raps Referee Barry.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Jack Dempsey! This writer, whose poor, weak words are humble and strangely contrite this morning, hereby salutes you. You were a man, a great man, last night as you failed to win back your heavyweight championship and it took a younger and, for the mere moment at least, a better man to beat you. Five years ago—but why exhume the past and apply it to the present?

The last bout for the heavyweight championship of the world was not fought five years ago. It was fought last night and the better man, judged on last night's standard, the better man won.

Gene Tunney! Man that you are of few words but big ones, I give you all I have in the way of sincere and honest admiration. You were on the floor for a count that reached the hat size of a Goliath, nine and seven-eighths or something. But you got up and you won and the man who can do that is the man who may beset me forever more with words that neither he nor I may be able to understand.

Dempsey had his moment. It came in the seventh round when he had Tunney within a split second of being counted right out. Some freely declare today that the moment was too long; that Tunney was on the floor too long; that, in reality, Tunney was out and Dempsey was in, which may be taken as a fair example of what manner of man this Dempsey is.

A Long Count
He had them arguing on the question of fair or foul punch in the Sharkey fight two months ago. Today, he had them asking whether Referee Barry counted nine or nineteen in the seventh round over Tunney. It did seem the part of a long nine.

However, two near-chumps came on in an anti-climax after the big fight and I noted that when one of them scored a knockdown and failed to retire to a corner, the count was first begun, then abandoned and then resumed at the count of one after he had abided by the rules. Dempsey was over-long in departing from his position over Tunney's prostrate form in that seventh round.

But what a man he was, whether he carried or NOT. Even Tunney must have thought of that, if he thought of anything, as he sat there on the floor with his eyes blank and dull. For Dempsey was a man last night whose real greatness, in a physical way, was behind him but whose moral stamina simply would NOT say die.

For all I know, since I have consulted NO one and do NOT wish to do so, the assembled intelligentsia may be muttering in its beard over that count that Barry gave Tunney. They even may be arguing as to who actually won and lost the fight. They shouldn't.

Jack's Own Fault
I am conscious of the fact that a lot of men around this ringside are soliciting opinions as to whether the count was right or wrong. And there you have the thing all over again—fair or foul; long or NO count, as we pool hustlers would say. As I see it, the fact of the matter is that Dempsey had his moment and wouldn't take it.

Old men that way. It is called ultra-conservatism and it means that what you did in your rash youth, you won't do in your old age. Imagine the young, impetuous Dempsey of 1919 having a helpless man before him and refusing to do anything about it for a full minute.

What I wish to assert is that Dempsey lost the fight and the honor of being the only ex-champion of the heavyweights to regain the title in that seventh round. When Tunney got up, it seemed that Dempsey couldn't go wrong. But he did.

Age His Undoing
Age, the great leveler, the acme of conservatism, had made an ordinary fighter of Dempsey in the crisis of his competitive life.

"Just how long was that count over Tunney, twelve or fourteen seconds?" asked a Dempsey man after the fight. It wouldn't make the slightest difference to me if it were a million. The old Dempsey rush would have annihilated Tunney after he did get up. But Dempsey lacked the instinct or, great man that he otherwise was, he pulled a plain, ordinary, unmitigated bone. Anyhow, he made NOT the merest attempt to carry a punch-drunk man by storm and even went so far as to beckon him to come near, when the man through sheer weakness could go nowhere but back.

And so this great moment passed and soon Tunney was himself

STILL CHAMPION

again, the champion who had carried the early rounds and had Dempsey all but out in the fourth round, only a single round after his distress in the seventh, he had Dempsey on the floor for a count of one with a left hook to the jaw and for the remainder of the fight cut him up about the eyes almost as badly as he did in that first fight at Philadelphia.

Yes, except for that brief but, seemingly, all too lengthy interval in the seventh, Tunney always was the winner and great though Dempsey was, he was the loser because, by his hesitancy, he proved that he was NOT the killer of old.

Well Worth Admission
We know why so many observers thought Dempsey unbeatable before 1923. It was a great fight, well worth the record crowd of 150,000 that saw it, well worth the record gate of $2,500,000 and well worth a $40 ringside seat, provided anything is worth forty dollars and ringside doesn't mean outside or nearly so.

Yes, a great fight, but it takes two men to make any fight and Gene Tunney was the other. He proved that when he got up after that left and right to the jaw in the seventh. Further than that, NO one except himself knows whether he could have arisen earlier, had he wished. He merely stood, or perhaps I should say, he lay within his rights in waiting until he heard the referee say "nine."

TUNNEY NOT HURT IN 7TH, HE SAYS; FLYNN TO PROTEST

Gene Used His "Bean," Jack Didn't; Dempsey's Manager Says Tunney Was Down 14 Seconds; Estelle Faithful.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Sept. 23.—Jack Dempsey may hang up his gloves. Broke his head last night, but not conquered, the most colorful character of the prize ring, today sought solace for his defeat by Gene Tunney, in the companionship of his royal and beautiful young wife, Estelle Taylor, the screen star, and together they discussed his future.

"I said before the fight if Jack lost he would quit the ring, and I think he will," said Mrs. Dempsey this morning, after a long talk with her husband.

Jack himself wasn't so sure. "I'm going back to California immediately but beyond that my plans are up in the air," said the ex-champion who so dramatically failed last night to recover his crown.

Dempsey was in seclusion to all except a few friends at his wife's apartments in the Edgewater Beach hotel. There it was he found his slim dark-eyed wife awaiting for him when he came home from Soldiers' Field shortly after midnight to tell her how he came within a fraction of a second of doing what he promised her he would do—"bring home the bacon"—but failed.

It was a grim, downcast Dempsey that came back to Estelle. He entered the apartment, eyes downcast, his bruised and cut face showing the effects of battle.

Jack and Estelle put their arms around each other. She was bravely trying to keep back the tears.

Both Good Losers
"I'm a good loser," Dempsey finally remarked, endeavoring to smile.

Then she said: "I'm a good loser."

Then they both said: "We're both good losers."

"You are still the champion to me," said Estelle.
After that they were happier. Estelle sent for Dr. John Leonard, Dempsey's personal physician, as the returning warrior's wounds were treated.

With the other warrior, Tunney it was different. There was no will to share the news when he returned to the Hotel Sherman. No seclusion. No doctor to treat him, instead, he reaped the fruits of victory, accepting the enthusiastic congratulations of an army of friends. Then a bath, a rubdown and then a victory banquet and reception. He planned to leave on the Twentieth Century for New York today.

Tunney discussed his victory modestly, generously giving Dempsey credit for the great fight he put up.

Was Not Hurt
"I was not hurt when I took the count of nine in the seventh round and thought it was just as well to take my time in rising," said the champion.

Tunney smiled deprecatingly when told of the cry that has arisen from the Dempsey camp that Jack was robbed by a slow count in the seventh.

Dempsey, in discussing the dramatic seventh round after the battle, emphasized that he did not want to offer any alibi for his defeat but added:

"I believe I really knocked Tunney out in that round. Surely he got a generous count. It gave him enough extra time to clear his head and get on his bicycle. I am told that my manager's story watch ticked off fourteen seconds while Tunney was on the floor."

Tunney's knockdown however, was the subject of animated discussion everywhere today, and Dempsey's manager, Leo P. Flynn, stated to International News Service that he was going, before the Illinois Boxing Commission as soon as possible and file a formal protest.

"A dozen stop watches showed Tunney down for 14 seconds," said Flynn. "Tunney is champion by grace of colossal inefficiency, when Jack came to his corner after the round, Jack said to me: 'Can't whip both Tunney and the referee.'"

Judge Blames Jack
George Lytton, one of the two judges who awarded the decision to Tunney, declared today that if Dempsey had gone to a neutral corner three seconds sooner after flooring his opponent he would have won the fight.

"He beat himself by not getting back to neutral territory soon enough so that the count could be started," said Lytton.

"Dempsey's manager insisted on the rule that the man who scored the knockdown should move to a neutral corner before the count was begun. That has been Dempsey's contention ever since the Firpo fight."

ropes. Dempsey stood over the prostrate foe, ready to re-attack and prove that "they can come back" when Referee Barry motioned Dempsey to neutral territory.

This consumed several seconds and then the count began. Tunney, his eyes glassy, was in a half-sitting, half-kneeling position on the floor.

Pain was written all over his countenance.

The Dempsey blow certainly contained dynamite. At the count of nine, Tunney just barely managed to set on his rubbery legs. He survived the round by circling the ring half a dozen times with Dempsey pursuing him and subsequently came back strong to win the ten round decision.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT THE STATE TODAY

"Adam and Evil" and "Red Raiders" in Twin Bill—Lew Cody Stars.

What to do when one's husband resembles his brother so closely that one cannot tell the difference between them? That is the problem confronting the heroine in "Adam and Evil" in which Lew Cody, suave ho-nam and Alleen Pringle star in a double feature bill at the State theater today and tomorrow.

In the first place, Lew plays a double role. He is Adam and Allan, two brothers, one married and one still looking for a wife. The one who is looking for a wife finds his brother's spouse in his hotel bedroom and the wife doesn't know the difference. The situation is ticklish in the extreme and requires a lot of thinking on the part of the scenarist to get them out of it.

Alleen Pringle was established as a leading actress of the screen by her work in Elinor Glyn's features "Three Weeks" and "His Hour." Cody has been a popular star for years, but just lately has been playing the leading parts. Formerly he was a villain but he has reformed to some extent and now is only half of the villain he once was.

The other feature at the State stars Ken Maynard in a story of the old west of the time of Sitting Bull and General Custer. Maynard takes the part of a hard-riding lieutenant of cavalry in the Bad Lands and his job is to keep the peace between warring tribes of Indians who have been fighting since the beginning of history.

A beautiful girl figures in the story and her name is Ann Deew, a new star. Several comedy characters, including one with a long nose, gives the picture its comedy relief.

HER DECISION
If he asks me I'll say "Yes." It doesn't make much difference. He's clever and good looking. His hands are gentle. I like to feel them in my hair. I think he would treat me all right. If he doesn't ask me, never mind—but if he does, I'll say "Yes."
"Shampoo, madam?"

"THE KING OF KINGS"

INSPIRED BY ART

Famous Paintings, Famous Musical Compositions Aided in Making Marvel of Motion Pictures.

Never before in the history of motion picture art has a producer been enabled by the very nature of his theme to avail himself of the "Old Masters" in painting and the greatest composers in music, as the theme of the Life of Christ enabled Cecil B. DeMille to do in "The King of Kings." Two hundred works of sacred art were the inspiration of the great scenes, among them the prize compositions of Raphael, Michael Angelo, Titian, Rubens, Murillo, Rembrandt, Blake, Gerome, and Munkacsy.

Joseph Striker as "John"

Similarly as to the music Hugo Riesenfeld who arranged the score, by the suggestion of Mr. DeMille, drew his themes from the finest compositions of Handel, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Tchaikowsky, Wagner, Brahms, interspersed with the most beautiful efforts of Christian hymnology, including the incomparable "Dies Irae."

Thus indeed, "The King of Kings" offers a combination of eye and ear entertainment virtually unknown hitherto in the theater. Its presentation at Parsons' Theater, Hartford, on Monday night, October 3, will be red letter event of the season. The engagement is one week with daily matinees after the opening.

SWEDISH CONG. CHURCH

CELEBRATING ITS 35TH

Excellent Concert by New Britain Talent Opens Three Days Observance.

The first observance of the 35th anniversary of the Swedish Congregational church, held last night, took the form of a very excellent concert in which New Britain singers and entertainers took part. The New Britain men's choir sang eight numbers, mostly sacred in character, and Miss Edith Weston, organist, played the accompaniment. The Rev. Nordberg, pastor of the church, and Waldemar Harrold of Pligton Cove, Mass., on Saturday night there will be singing led by Rev. T. E. Nordberg of East Greenwich, R. I., and singing by choirs and duets. There will also be a number of solos.

Sunday's program will last all day. In the morning, Rev. A. L. Anderson will preach. In the afternoon, Rev. Nordberg will talk to the children. At 3:30 in the afternoon, Dr. Sherrod Soule of Hartford will be the principal speaker.

In the evening at 7 o'clock Rev. Nordberg will preach. Luncheon will be served between the meetings during the day.

Our Grid Teams Open Up Sunday

The Cloverleaves and the Cubs, local football eleven will try the lid off their 1927 grid season Sunday afternoon.

The undefeated town champions from the North End, the Cloverleaves, will play the Colored Corinthians of Hartford at Hickey's Grove. The kick-off is slated for 2:30. Manager Bill Griffin must certainly not be accused of picking a setup for his opening game. The Corinthians are probably the best team the Cloverleaves have ever been called upon to oppose.

The Cubs will start their season out of town, playing the St. Stanislaus of Meriden in the Silver City. The Cubs will practice Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Charter Oak street field and in event of rain the players are to meet at Redmen's hall. Players should bear in mind that the clocks are set back one hour this Saturday night.

ROCKWELL H. POTTER SPEAKS HERE ON SUNDAY

Famous Congregationalist to Occupy Pulpit at North End Church.

Considerable interest is being aroused in local church and mission circles in the coming to Sunday evening of Dr. Rockwell H. Potter, president of Center church, Hartford, president of the American Board of Foreign Missions.

Dr. Potter is no stranger to Manchester Congregationalists. He has been pastor of the church in Hartford for nearly thirty years or since he was a very young man, and has remained there in spite of flattering offers from all parts of the country. He has been in demand as a speaker at national gatherings of the Congregational denomination and has been honored by appointment to the highest position of that church, moderator of the National Council.

He was chosen president of the American Board and in the winter of 1925-26 was one of a deputation of five appointed by the prudential committee to visit India and Ceylon. Since his return he has been frequently called upon to address gatherings of laymen, special banquets and meetings in the effort to interest men and women in the work of the church and to bring in new members. His message has been enthusiastically received. He has spoken in New York, Bridgeport, Willimantic, Worcester, Manchester, N. H. and more remote places on this subject.

The missionary committee of Second Congregational church is sponsoring Dr. Potter's lecture, the personnel of which is P. H. Jones, Mrs. J. M. Williams and Mrs. James Preston. They confidently expect that he will be greeted by a large gathering, not only of the people of Manchester but the surrounding towns.

In one section of the Mississippi flood area, railroads were forced to work gangs of men with hose to wash off deep layers of mud deposited on top of loads of coal when the waters receded.

PROPERTY OWNERS GET THE NEW TOWN REPORT

The town reports, smaller and considerably less expensive than they have been in a number of years, were distributed to property owners in Manchester yesterday.

The cover this year is a buff, as against the pale green of last year. The reports this year have been printed by a local concern, whereas they had been printed in Rockville for some years.

The book contains the reports of the board of selectmen, the town treasurer and all other departments of the town government. Reports of the schools and libraries are also contained in it.

Its makeup is different this year than it has been formerly, and there are some of the so-called "accordion pages" in it, but all reports are in regular order with no supplementary pages to carry them.

The book is smaller and contains fewer pages than the old reports have had. This means a saving of considerable money, both in printing and paper. All reports have been condensed to some extent, resulting in smaller space and a smaller book on the whole.

EMBLEM CLUB NAMES CONVENTION DELEGATES

At the special meeting of the Emblem club held Wednesday afternoon at the Elks' home in Rockville, the following delegates and alternates were elected to attend the convention at Providence, Monday, October 10: Mrs. Michael Roberts, Mrs. George H. Williams, Mrs. Thomas Dancer, Mrs. Raymond Hunt; alternates, Mrs. M. Keeney, Mrs. J. Coleman, Mrs. James W. Foley.

The ladies whose names are given below were appointed committee to get in touch with members who plan to attend the convention. A bus will be chartered and 25 can be accommodated. In order to reach Elks auditorium, Providence, when the convention opens at 8:30, it will be necessary to leave Manchester at 6 o'clock the morning of October 10. Those who intend to go are requested to notify any of the following committee by next Tuesday at the latest: Mrs. John Chatter, telephone 2264; Mrs. J. W. Foley, 619; Mrs. James Stevenson, 2169-4.

A public whist will be held next Wednesday afternoon by the club at the Elks home in Rockville.

GAS BUGGIES—The Anvil Chorus

AMV'S SCHEME FOR GETTING RID OF THE SALESMEN NOT ONLY BURNED UP A BASKET OF PAPER BUT ALSO INFLAMED THE FIERY IMAGINATION OF THEIR SUSPICIOUS NEIGHBORS.

WOMEN AND STRIKERS

Adana, Turkey.—When firemen on railroads in Turkey went on strike, the companies hired other men in their place. But they did not run the trains on schedule because wives and sweethearts of the strikers lay down on the rails in front of the engines and had to be dragged away again and again.

There are 16 square feet of skin on the average man.

KIDDIES TO SEE

BIG PARADE CHEAP

Manager Jack Sanson has generously offered to allow the school children of Manchester to attend a showing of "The Big Parade" at a reduced price because he feels that it is of educational value. Tickets will be distributed to them through the schools for matinee performances at 4:15 p. m. Admission with special tickets will be twenty-five cents.

It was also announced that the school teachers will be the guests of Manager Sanson at a special matinee Tuesday afternoon at 4:15.

Charging that he strained a muscle while preaching, a California preacher has applied to the state industrial accident commission for compensation.

The town reports, smaller and considerably less expensive than they have been in a number of years, were distributed to property owners in Manchester yesterday.

The cover this year is a buff, as against the pale green of last year. The reports this year have been printed by a local concern, whereas they had been printed in Rockville for some years.

The book contains the reports of the board of selectmen, the town treasurer and all other departments of the town government. Reports of the schools and libraries are also contained in it.

Its makeup is different this year than it has been formerly, and there are some of the so-called "accordion pages" in it, but all reports are in regular order with no supplementary pages to carry them.

The book is smaller and contains fewer pages than the old reports have had. This means a saving of considerable money, both in printing and paper. All reports have been condensed to some extent, resulting in smaller space and a smaller book on the whole.

LETTER GOLF

VERY ASTRONOMICAL
It ought to take you just five strokes to drive the ball from STAR to MOON and sink your putt. If you can do it in less, you're good. The answer is printed on another page.

THE RULES
1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in pairs, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

Warden (to convict in electric chair): Have you any questions to ask before we turn on the current?
Convict: Yeah, what does the paper say about tomorrow's weather?

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The bunch were cheered to beat the band, for they were now in Switzerland. Said Scouty, "Let's climb down from here, and meet that girl and boy. But, first of all, we'll tie our kite, so everything will be all right. The thought of meeting strangers really fills me up with joy."
The kite was tied, and down they went right off the roof. Some time was spent in greeting both the girl and boy who stood upon the ground. The Tynmites found them very kind. The small boy said, "If you don't mind, I'll take you in a little shop where toys galore are found."
"Just lead the way," was Copsy cried. And soon they found themselves inside a very wonderful toy place, and it gave them all a thrill. The little Swiss lad said, "Now, boys, we wish you'd help us make some toys." And all the Tynmites answered loud, "You bet your life we will."
They all turned in and lent a hand and toiled away to beat the band. The little Swiss kids told them how to make things look just right. And so, the first thing that they knew, the noise grew loud as hammers flew, and every little Tynmite was filled with keen delight.
Said Scouty, "This is quite a lark. Just watch me make this Noah's ark. I'll bet the thing will sail real nice on any quiet stream. Some animals I'll put inside and give them all a dandy ride. Say, honestly, this job is not as hard as it might seem."
Then Cloway answered, "Look at me. I'm just as clever as can be." A little doll sat in his lap, as Cloway worked away. He found some paint around the place and painted up the doll's face. Like all the other Tynmites, Cloway took the work like play.

WELSH SINGERS WILL GIVE POPULAR PROGRAM

Famous Choir's Selections Here Will Be Fitted to Desires of Local Listeners.

It is hoped that the forthcoming concert which is being promoted by the "Kiwanis," the proceeds to be devoted to carrying on the work of the Kiddies Camp, may be generously supported.
 The Rev. Welsh Ladies' Choir, which has been engaged for the concert, is making its first appearance in this vicinity, and the Kiwanians are being congratulated on securing this remarkable organization, since, owing to its heavy booking, it is extremely difficult to secure its services for a one-night concert.

On their former tours in the United States and Canada, the Welsh singers' work created high enthusiasm wherever they appeared. Eminent critics in the country have acclaimed their work among the comments being such as "Created great impression; chorus work magnificent." "Their singing is positively a sensation;" and one critic says, "In tone and schooling the choir falls little short of the ideal."

In their choice of members, a careful selection only is made of such items as it appears to their director likely to be most attractive to the audience.
 In Utica, where the choir sang, the program was made up of 14 items, but so demanding and enthusiastic was the audience with the performance that before the conclusion of the concert 35 numbers in all were given.

The date of the concert is October 19. Tickets may be procured from any member of the Kiwanis club or at the town treasurer's office at the Town Hall.
