IN TIME OF NATIONAL CRISIS, PROPHET FORCED THE ISSUE

The International Sunday School Lesson for October 2 is, "Elijah On Mt. Carmel"—1 Kings 18.

Here is a great story. In all literature, there is no more dramatic scene than the duel between the prophet of Jehovah and the priests of Baal which is the present Sunday School Lesson.

About three quarters of a century had elapsed since the division of the Jewish kingdom. They had led the people into the sensuality of Baal worship.

Mount Carmel is a natural stage for sublime events. The mountain itself is twelve miles long, and is locally called "the mountain of a thousand valleys."

There are times to avoid evil, and times to come to grips with it. Many reformers are mere irritants and tantalizers. They meddle and criticize, but never force an issue.

When the Fire Fell All day long, from morning until noon, and from noon until the hour of the evening prayer—Elijah gave them plenty of time—the priests of Baal cried, "O Baal, hear us!"

All the arts of the priesthood were invoked to bring fire down upon the cold altar.

Like an oriental, Elijah mocked the frenzy of his foes. "Cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is musing, or he is gone aside, or he is on a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth and must be awakened."

"How long do ye limping between the two sides?" cried Elijah to the people after they had assembled. "If Jehovah be God, follow Him; but if Baal, then follow him."

By its very audacity the proposal of Elijah carried authority. He arranged that on Mount Carmel the four hundred and fifty priests of Baal, who, through Queen Jezebel's influence, had usurped the religious leadership of the kingdom, should engage in a spiritual duel with the lone prophet of Jehovah.

Like so much else in the Bible, this incident seldom is fully understood only by the person conversant with the geography of the scene. Some day soon philosophers and preachers and theologians are going to emerge from the present era of wild speculation upon religious subjects, and turn to the ascertainable facts of Bible lands for new proof of the genuineness of Christianity.

There is a deal of difference between being court chaplain and kingdom prophet.

Even the brook Cherith, eventually dried because of the drought; so Elijah was sent, doubtless by the familiar way of his own land of Gilead, east of the Jordan, so that he would avoid Ahab's eye, up to Zarephath, near Sidon, where a widow fed him from the barrel of meal.

MAKING YOUR CHOICE BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE. International Sunday-School Lesson Text, Oct. 2. Choose you this day whom ye will serve.—Josh. 24:15.

That is just what we are doing every moment when not asleep. There is no escape from it. Constantly we are choosing whether we will have a kindly, true, and useful thoughts or selfish, impure and useless thoughts.

Daily the judge is choosing between justice and injustice; and the business man is choosing the principles according to which he will conduct his business.

There is jealousy in that railing vice of pleasure over the misfortune of another. Envy is hidden there in all its hideousness. Good enough for him; he got what was due, we hear. Is such feeling the tenderness and compassion of Jesus Christ? or is it the essence of hell? Thus unkind of the inner nature of feeling so general, we choose whether we will, serve God or the spirit of evil.

One cannot pick another to pieces, exposing his weaknesses and limitations and love the neighbor as himself. In so doing, one does not choose mercy and compassion, the spirit of the Lord.

He who would lead must first himself be led; who would be loved be capable of love; beyond the utmost he receives who claims the rod of power must first have bowed his head.

EXPECT BIG ATTENDANCE AT RIALTO REOPENING EARL CARROLL VANITIES AT PARSONS THREE DAYS

Continuous Today—"Monte Cristo" Packed Hartford Theater Last Week.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the opening of the Rialto today. There will be a continuous show from 2:15 until 10:30.

"Vanities," the massive review which comes direct from the Earl Carroll Theater, New York, to Parsons on October 10, 11 and 12 for three nights and a matinee, is rich in comedy with various humorous sketches and the scenic and costume spectacles are gorgeous, sensational and daring.

The production is in 35 scenes and the company numbers 100 people. Moran and Mack, the premier blackface comedians are the "head men" as they would express it. Then there is Julius Tannen, the versatile and humorous "wise cracker"; Johnny Dooley, the famous comedian of eccentric capers and funny falls, and Dorothy Knapp, the world's most beautiful girl.

It is probable that no work of modern authors is as well known to the present day followers of fiction as "Monte Cristo." It has been read by millions throughout the world and has been translated into virtually every language.

Probably the world's most famous story of a betrayal is that of the thirty pieces of silver narrated in the four Gospels of the New Testament.

SEARCHING FOR ST. LOUIS TORNADO VICTIMS.

One of the vagaries of the St. Louis twister was to rip away the rear of eight adjoining apartment houses at Maryland avenue and Whittier street, killing or injuring many of the occupants. In this telephoto, rescuers may be seen in the left foreground searching the debris for bodies.

BREAD LINE FOR CATS

New York—Every morning at 1 o'clock, alley cats of the Bowery gather at Centre Market Place. Soon come Syd Livingston and Count von Schovling, district porters, who are greeted with loud purrs as they enter a restaurant to buy beef and milk for their friends. Schovling pours out the milk in little paper lids while Livingston cuts the meat and divides it up.

HIS HORSE KNEW

New York—Halted by mounted patrolmen Kelley because he violated a traffic regulation, W. S. Gother stopped his car and listened to a reprimand. Just as he was about to drive on, the patrolman's horse snorted. Kelley, looking for the reason, found a case of liquor in the car.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (97) Gutenberg

A lucky accident took Gutenberg out of the business of making mirrors. There was to be a pilgrimage from Strassburg to Aix-la-Chapelle and Gutenberg and his partner had made many mirrors to sell on the occasion. The pilgrimage was postponed, the stock remained unsold and they failed. Then Gutenberg, using woodcuts, entered the printing business such as it was then.

Gutenberg put everything he had into his experiments and borrowed money. About 1446 he returned to his old home, Mainz. He borrowed sums of money twice from John Fust, a shrewd merchant of Mainz and as security offered his printing stock.

About this time Gutenberg took into his service a skillful worker in metal named Schoeffer. Whereas Gutenberg had carved each letter of type separately out of wood, Schoeffer suggested carving the letter on metal. With this metal letter he punched a mold in a softer metal. When molten metal was poured into the mold, raised type was made. (To Be Continued)

AFTER THE CYCLONE STRUCK

Here is what Enright avenue, St. Louis, looked like after the passage of the cyclone. Note how buildings were ripped apart and the street clogged with wreckage. At the time this picture was taken, immediately after the cyclone had passed on, there were 29 known dead and 100 injured, with more casualties being reported momentarily.

Horse, Harness And Oats
Go For One U. S. Frogskin

Nobody Has Dared to Look
At the Purchase But the Real Mystery Lies In the Matter of Commission.

Who says the horse is disappearing?
Not Charley St. John, of North Main street. Not Harold Clemson, of North Elm street. Not Frank Baxter, of Oakland street.
All these know that no matter what any of the experts say, there is at least one horse in Manchester. St. John knows it most of all because he has it. Clemson knows it because although he could not see it, he lead something on a rope for a half mile or so through the darkness. Baxter knows it because he sold the horse. So, anyway there is a horse.

It seems that St. John has been talking about going into the express business "in a little way, y'know" he said last night. "For a start I'd take light loads and then as I prospered I'd buy big trucks. You know Charlie Sweet started with a wheel barrow—and look at him now."

Clemson was in a restaurant when he heard the remark. By a strange coincidence Baxter had told him a few days before that if he could get anybody to buy his horse he would reward him (Clemson) roubles, $400,000, or in American money, one frogskin.

Up spoke Clemson: "What you want my friend, is a nice horse. And I know where you can get one; but you must act quickly as the prospective buyers are bothering this man to death trying to get the animal. Let's go around now and clinch the bargain."

(Clemson was thinking of his dollar commission and a dollar is a dollar, nowadays. He meant to strike while the iron was hot.)

"But it's after 1 o'clock in the morning," demurred St. John, who by now was trying to hedge.

"Think of the hundreds of buyers around that farm at 4 o'clock this morning," answered Clemson. And that decided it. The two men went to Oakland street.

Was Mr. Baxter perturbed when awakened at such an ungodly hour? He was until he learned that someone wanted to buy his horse. Then he dressed and was downstairs in a jiffy minus.

Then the bargaining began. The party of the first part wanted to hedge and the party of the second part wanted to sell that horse. Finally the dickering got down to one dollar for the trusty steed.

Still St. John hesitated. "I have no feed."
"I'll throw in two quarts of oats."
"I have no harness."
"I'll throw in the harness."
What could the bargainer do? He had to accept, so in the darkness the money was passed and Clemson was handed a piece of rope and led some kind of an animal from the barn. It was led to St. John's garage. There, like Massachusetts, it stands, or maybe lies, today for no one has the courage to peek and see what sort of an animal was bought for one dollar. And don't forget the harness and two quarts of feed.

Oh, yes—about the commission. Ask Clem.

North Carolina Official Makes Record Run From Asheville
To Quebec Over New Route.

According to advices received by George S. Smith the honor of officially opening the new international motor route from Asheville, N. C., to Quebec, fell to a Chrysler "70" roadster, which was driven by its owner, R. P. Harris, state automobile inspector of North Carolina, over his latest addition to America's scenic highways two weeks before the spectacular tour which has just been completed by a giant motorcade of 100 cars over the route.

Accompanied by Mrs. Harris and a mechanic, and hearing letters of greeting to Canadian officials from the governors of North Carolina, Virginia and Pennsylvania, and other influential citizens of the United States, Harris covered the 1,509 miles between Asheville and Quebec in 41 hours and 25 minutes. At the end of the drive he was welcomed at the Chateau Frontenac, in Quebec, by representatives of the provincial government, who assembled to greet him and to extend official recognition of the opening of the new connecting link between two neighboring nations.

Detailed reports of the pioneer trip received by the Chrysler Corporation show that Harris and his party were obliged to overcome a series of handicaps throughout the entire run. In the first 500 miles out of Asheville they were forced to fight their way through dense fogs and severe head-on rains. During fully 1,200 miles of the drive heavy grades of the Appalachian mountain range, while presenting a wonderful panorama of scenic beauties for tourists, were found to be anything but favorable to efforts to establish new time records.

ETHEL HAYS

IT'S a big job that Ethel holds—that of entertaining several million newspaper readers. But how well she does it is attested by the fact that her work appears in every paper in the country that can secure her services.

From coast to coast, in client newspapers of NEA Service, world's largest feature organization, Ethel's pretty flappers are doing something ever day to amuse their hosts of admirers.

She Signs New Contract

THE HERALD has exclusive rights in this city and territory to the features of NEA Service. Ethel Hays has just signed a new long-term contract with that concern. This means, then, that THE HERALD readers are assured of seeing her drawings for a long time to come.

Flapper Fanny appears every day, with some particularly poignant bit of modern philosophy to accompany the illustration. Three times a week, in addition, there are large Ethel drawings, each of them packed with humor, youthful snap and Ethel's inimitable artistry.

Taught Soldiers to Draw

A few years ago Ethel Hays was a drawing teacher, a "reconstruction aide," in government hospitals. While doctors battled for lives, she fought to save the morale of the war-wrecked men. By keeping their minds and hands busy with drawings, she helped scatter the clouds of deadly despondency.

At that time, Ethel never had attempted cartooning. But when her students asked for that kind of instruction, she started out to learn it. Then she found that her greatest ability lay in humorous line drawing and soon she was working for NEA.

That was three years ago. Today, Ethel Hays is the best-known woman newspaper artist in the country. She has done more than Flo Ziegfeld to glorify the American girl.

Flapper Fanny and the Ethel series are only two of the features, plus complete coverage of city, national and world news, that are gaining readers every day for the

He spoke truthfully. "I shouldn't have let her go... I still have a feeling she's guilty."

THIS HAS HAPPENED A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of Benson's murder... NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XVI MARKHAM studied him for a few seconds. He knew there was something more than a mere whim beneath Vance's certitude of manner...

Vance looked up in simulated surprise. "Didn't I, now?" Then he added sorrowfully: "Life is so full of disappointments, y' know." (Saturday, June 15; 4 p. m.) After Markham had telephoned Heath the details of the interview, we returned to the Stuyvesant Club.

"Your theory, doubtless, would be a masterpiece as an artist," murmured Vance, with a sigh. "There is," argued Markham, "a slight difference between art and crime." "Psychologically, old chap, there's none," Vance amended evenly.

courtesy. "Delighted, I'm sure," he returned. "I referred to the science of individual character and the psychology of human nature. We all do things, don't we see, in a certain individual way, according to our temperaments. Every human act—no matter how large or how small—is a direct expression of a man's personality, and bears the inevitable impress of his nature."

"Thus, a musician, by looking at a sheet of music, is able to tell at once whether it was composed, for example, by Beethoven, or Schubert, or Debussy, or Chopin. And an artist, by looking at a canvas, knows immediately whether it is a Corot, a Harpignies, a Rembrandt, or a Frans Hals. And just as no two natures are exactly alike: the combination of ingredients which go to make up our personalities, varies in each individual."

"That is why, when 20 artists, let us say, sit down to paint the same subject, each one conceives and executes it in a different manner. The result in each case is a distinct and unmistakable expression of the personality of the painter who did it."

"Your theory, doubtless, would be a masterpiece as an artist," murmured Vance, with a sigh. "There is," argued Markham, "a slight difference between art and crime."

"Psychologically, old chap, there's none," Vance amended evenly. "Crimes possess all the basic factors of a work of art—approach, conception, technique, imagination, attack, method, and organization. Moreover, crimes vary fully as much in their manner, their aspects, and their general nature, as do works of art."

This And That In Feminine Lore

At one of the neighborhood bridge clubs, one of the women, a June bride, complained that she could not cook bacon to suit her husband—it was either under-done or burned, never golden brown and crisp as "his mother" used to serve it. Many suggestions were offered by more experienced cooks in the group, but one offered a real solution for the bride's problem, about as follows.

The domestic science expert with one of the big packing companies says the real secret, whether broiled in oven or pan is to remove the bacon when the surface has cooked to a creamy white and is crisp, place it on a hot platter and when the air strikes the hot bacon it will turn the color desired. We will have to experiment and see how this works out.

New colors seem to get their inspiration from grapes, so many of them have a purple or rich lavender-pink tone. One of the lovely new velvets was in this dull pink tone, with catwabs and beige flowers.

"A light supper makes a long life," says an old philosopher, which is no doubt true, and his remark causes us to wonder if we have made much improvement in our eating habits. Possibly it was easy for him to order his days or meals that way, with dinner at noon and a light meal at supper time. He had never heard of the soda fountain lunch or the sandwich lunch at evening, a necessity for the great army of desk workers and others who are employed at some distance from their homes.

Throughout this explanation Vance's manner had been almost casual; yet the very serenity and assurance of his attitude conferred upon his words a curious sense of authority. Markham had listened with interest, though it could be seen that he did not regard Vance's theorizing seriously. "Your system ignores motive altogether," he objected.

"Ah, but it is," averred Vance. "I know she's innocent. Furthermore, I know that no woman could possibly have fired the shot."

He bowed with exaggerated courtesy.

The WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

When a member of any Y. W. C. A. board speaks her mind about the follies of the modern girl's dress, we call her a back number. But when a great life insurance company says with figures that so many thousands of high school girls are killing themselves because of wearing rolled gauzy hose in the winter we listen.

Prejudices are one thing. Statistics another. Those who analyze the figures explain that, whereas it is very true that the generally lighter clothing of today may be more harmful than the vast bulkage of clothes worn a generation ago, it is something else again when literally nothing shields tender hides from the wintry blasts.

Bobs Again Being on the subject of rolled hose, bobbed hair naturally comes next. Hundreds of master hair-dressers met in Emperor Francis Joseph's palace in Vienna lately to say that something must be done about this bobbed hair business—and what and how?

They decided that if only women could be made to realize how much more beautiful they would be with curls and waved and undulating and dyed locks added to their own pates, they would immediately ask for a new hair day!

Women will never return to a day when hair-dressing took longer than even donning bustles and stays, until they return in mind and spirit to the "female viewpoint" of that same day; a viewpoint which said that women were merely decorative objects in a cross world and useful only as such.

Women who find interesting things to do in the world today will never again spend precious minutes on "dressing hair." Bobbed hair originated because women had interesting work to do. I refer to the Russian women nihilists who, wishing to be in the army, bobbed their hair in order to pass for men. Bobbed hair will stay for the same reason.

Mother and Daughter A Chicago mother told her daughter that she would kill herself if the daughter stayed out late. Daughter, aged 16, stole mother's gun and gave it to her boy friend to carry while she danced. Boy friend shot her with her mother's gun because she wouldn't go home early. And what can one say except, "like mother, like daughter." Any mother who makes suicide threats as a weapon over a child is not capable of rearing a child very well.

Poor Babies! Twin baby girls joined together from chest to abdomen and doomed to go through life thus facing one another, were born in a London hospital a few days ago. One of them is strong; the other, weak. Surgeons have talked of an operation for the sake of the stronger child, but hesitate for fear of causing both to die. If the parents have any choice, it's rather sure that they will refuse permission for any operation at the cost of the weaker baby. Weak or abnormal parent-hood accepts any child given it and struggles to keep it when, death might be more merciful for both it and the child.

New jewelry sounds a primitive note in its colorful, massive fashioning. Jade, inlaid with enamel in an architectural design, forms this pendant, the focal point on a dinner gown.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

INFANTILE PARALYSIS AGAIN MAKES ITS APPEARANCE By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. Outbreaks of infantile paralysis in seven or eight middle west and near eastern states have served to focus attention anew on this crippling and dangerous disorder that usually comes to light late in the summer.

As yet medical science has not discovered with certainty the causative organism or a specific method of prevention that will be of service on a routine basis. The disease is a general infection with symptoms of paralysis due to inflammation of the spinal cord. When the disease begins there is usually a rise in temperature, some disturbance of the digestion, general malaise, headache, restlessness and irritability followed by drowsiness with an inclination to be quiet. The inflammation of the nervous system causes pain and apprehension on motion.

may be used, but even these are capable of doing harm as well as good, and should be administered only under the direction of a competent specialist, or experienced physician. Rough handling of the spine may serve to extend the paralysis or to make it impossible for the inflamed tissues to recover as satisfactorily as they might otherwise.

Home Page Editorial Many Things Are Better Than The Best By Olive Roberts Barton

When I was little, one saying was paramount in our house: "It never pays to buy anything but the best." It has taken me a score of two of years to rightly interpret so stereotyping a proverb. I have heard it put this way also, "You get just exactly what you pay for." This too, has many derivatives, albeit on the top it seems to have so little of wisdom.

clated over the other piece of material, the one that drips like distilled night with the glitter of icicles in its folds—the one that stands for quality, as far as material is concerned, "It always pays to buy the best," whispers that old alibi of our childhood. And against all reason, all sense and good judgment, you buy the beautiful thing that you may not need and cannot afford.

Personally I think the adage is worn out. It was made for a day when the "best" was within the reach of pocketbooks and when the "best" did not mean all the riches of India. Before the time when the word had been interpreted by the devil in his own fashion to further his own ends. It would be much more sensible to teach our children, "Buy what you need and can afford. Look for the thing that is most useful."

Polonius said in his famous advice to his son, "Costly they're worn out. It was made for a day when the 'best' was within the reach of pocketbooks and when the 'best' did not mean all the riches of India. Before the time when the word had been interpreted by the devil in his own fashion to further his own ends. It would be much more sensible to teach our children, "Buy what you need and can afford. Look for the thing that is most useful."

LETTER GOLF

HOW'S THE WEATHER?

Some climates have sudden changes going from FAIR to WARM in most no time. In LETTER GOLF, however, par is five strokes for the change. The answer is printed on another page.

FAIR

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

WHEN WINTER COMES

Hex Watkins of Pine Stump sees he hates to see winter come as last year the sap in his wooden leg froze up and caused the leg to bust and he reckons as how it might happen again.

SENSE and NONSENSE

MODERN VERSION "Mother, may I go out to swim?" "Yes, my darling daughter; Change your clothes for a one-piece suit. —But DO go in the water." "You say something, Isadore, I want to warm my hands."

Two women in Paris make their homes in steel boilers. They were probably tired of being cramped up in a kitchenette apartment.

Silver can openers are said to be more and more in favor as wedding presents. They save the bride much embarrassment and the groom from complete starvation.

If looking like the devil were the style the girls would dress that way.

The short skirt has made many a girl attractive down to the ground.

Some people are worrying how to keep the wolf from the door; others are figuring out how they can throw it out of the house before it has pups.

Two many trouser seats and not enough overall knees are being worn out in this country.

We would like to know what the flappers have done with all that time they saved by bobbing their hair.

Well, well, if cousins shouldn't marry, neither should they pet.

Gladys, the Steno., says: "It's a cruel world. It's mighty hard for a girl to wear her skirts high enough to be in style and low enough to escape criticism."

Say! Haste doesn't make waste. It reduces the waist."

"Most women want their skin like a glove—without a wrinkle."

"A good motto for the bathing season seems to be: Now, girls, altogether."

"A gentleman is a fellow who knows the kind of elevator in which to remove his hat when a lady is present."

"I read where it takes 333 silk worms to make a pair of hose for a girl like me. Well, the worms can't complain that their work doesn't show."

"The meanest man in the world is a guy who called up my sister. He proposed to her over the phone, and after she accepted him he tells her he has the wrong number."

"I see the latest thing in Paris is wearing wigs to match the gowns. Gee, if that keeps up bald heads will soon be the rage."

"Some girls are not satisfied to be antiques; they want to be reproductions."

DIETIC NOTE If you'd avoid A dyspeptic seizure, Don't lunch in haste And repent at leisure.

To climb higher one must remain on the level.

Gone are the days of the ten-cent novels—they now cost two bucks. The girls should not carry beauty culture to the point where they have to wear "Fresh Paint" signs.

JACK LOCKWILL THE LION TAMER

The spring-fastening of the door held, though the cage rocked beneath the impact of the lion's body. "I had a premonition," said Delano huskily. "and I was watching." Camille, springing up the steps, embraced Jack. "Thank heaven Raoul was here to open the door!" she half-sobbed, and the boy felt her arms quivering about him. "But it was your nerve that saved you, Jack!"

Red Saunders, still and ghostly, was carried out on a stretcher. A doctor examined him and stated that the fall had broken his neck, and that he had died almost instantly.

The deputy-sheriff, followed by Jack, appeared before Buke Saunders and Lizard Wattles in the lock-up. "You're a pair of lucky young rascals," said the officer.

"I've had a telegram from Brick Judge," explained Jack. "He bought Obediah Tuttle's motor car, which you ran away in, and no charge will be pressed against you. Your uncle fell and broke his neck. Buke, you are free to go anywhere, but I promised to bring Lizard back to the camps at Indian Lake, and I'm going to do it." "I'm ready to go back," said Wattles eagerly. THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The camel started on its way. The Tines heard the Arab say, "Be careful now, and hang on tight. He soon will run and run real fast." "All right, we will," we Clowny said. "I'm hanging tightly to his head." And as the camel ran along a half an hour passed. Then Copsy said, "Well, goodness me, just sand is all that I can see. We're far away from any stores, and any houses, too. It seems it's getting mighty hot, but we are safe, as like as not. And, anyway, we'll have to ride. There's nothing else to do." "Oh, let's not worry," Scouty cried. "We might as well enjoy this ride. The camel seems to know his way and we'll just go along. If we feel hot, just think of him. He surely must be right in trim. To carry all of us he surely has to be real strong." Said Copsy, "Wonder where we'll go." And then the wind be-

ABOUT TOWN
 R. La Motte Russell of the Manchester Trust company has had plans for his new residence in the Lakeview section drawn by Hutchins & French, prominent Boston architects. They call for a colonial house 30x50 feet of brick and wood construction, and attached garage.

A son was born Thursday night to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Glidden of Lydall street.

The Hartford County Medical society will hold its semi-annual meeting at Memorial hospital on October 25.

Miss Mary Esther Lord, daughter of Mrs. Lulu M. and the late Clayton Lord, and Mahlon Snow Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chapman of Rockville, will be married this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride on Stephen street.

The Burr Nursery company have this week moved into their new addition which practically doubles their office working space. Contractor Hobby did the work on record time and both the exterior and office rooms present an attractive appearance.

The Church of the Nazarene, in line with other churches in town has made a change in the hours for its Sunday morning services. For the first time in the history of the Sunday school the sessions will be held in the morning at 9:30 instead of at 12, and the preaching service at 10:45.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge will have its regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall Monday evening. All past grands and all members of the guard team are urged to come for rehearsal in preparation for past grands' night, October 17.

Mystic Review, Woman's Benefit association will meet in Tinker hall Monday evening promptly at 7:30. At 8 o'clock a public whist will be given, the committee for which includes Mrs. Lillian Kamm, Mrs. Marie Houston, Mrs. Margaret Griffin, Mrs. J. M. Franz and Miss Florence Warner.

Mrs. John A. Anderson, Jr., of Elro street and Miss Lillian G. Grant of Cambridge street, are in attendance today at the annual luncheon of the Connecticut Valley Lassell club at the Hale House, Glasstonbury. Mrs. Anderson is vice-president and Miss Grant secretary and treasurer of the club.

Girls' Friendly society members will meet at St. Mary's parish house tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to plan for the Irish pageant at Cheney hall this fall, and the representation at the National Council, Boston, November 5 and celebration of the 50th anniversary.

Mrs. J. H. Poest, formerly Miss Lucy E. Donahy of this town, will entertain a number of Manchester friends at her home on Albany avenue, Hartford, over the weekend. Mrs. Poest is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Connell of East Middle Turnpike.

Miss Finnegan was passing by the hall on her way home with a group of girl friends when someone standing in the hallway shouted, "You girls look lucky. Better come in. You might win."

BANK HOLD-UP RUMOR
AS STATE COPS SPEED

Test Mobilization at Waterbury Starts Flock of Tales Throughout State.

Manchester was filled with persistent rumors last night to the effect that a Rockville bank had been held up and a large sum of money stolen. Several telephone inquiries came to The Herald office regarding the truth of the matter.

A Herald reporter got into communication with officials in Rockville and learned that as far as they knew it was a "wild goose story." It later developed that the rumor gained foundation when three state policemen rode through the north end at a high rate of speed from the direction of Rockville.

The cause of their dash through the town was a surprise test mobilization of the state police force ordered by Governor John H. Trumbull. Seventy-three officers reported at the Waterbury State Armory within three hours. The first arrived in 45 minutes.

WELSH LADIES CHOIR IS ALL-ARTIST GROUP

The Royal Welsh Ladies choir, which comes here on Wednesday, October 19, under the auspices of the Kiwanis camp fund, was originally organized in 1872 as a mixed choir, but later became a purely female chorus.

It consists of 14 highly trained voices, each member a graduate of a musical college and every one of the chorus is a national prize winner on music. The members are connected with Christian churches. Seldom has such an array of artists of the first rank appeared in one single organization. They have been called the voice flower of all Wales. Their repertory includes duets, solos and quartets, but their specialty is choral singing, in which they are unsurpassed.

With such an organization Manchester is assured of a successful concert and already the ticket sale indicates a good attendance. Kiwanis members, each allotted a certain number of tickets, must dispose of that number or make good for them.

IRELAND IS PROSPEROUS
SAYS RETURNED VISITOR

Rev. Joseph McKinney, Canadian, Tells of Conditions There—To Speak in Church.

Despite unemployment, Ireland, in Ulster at least, is more prosperous than ever, according to Rev. Joseph McKinney of Manitoba, who is in Manchester for a few days after returning from a trip to Belfast and Portadown.

Rev. McKinney was interviewed by telephone last night while he was at the home of Holger Bach of Center street. He mentioned the dole and the fact that it keeps many able-bodied men from working, but said that the country was in better shape than he has ever seen it before.

Farmhands are scarce, he said, probably because the available men would rather live on the dole than do hard labor. Agriculture has not suffered to the extent that might be expected because of this condition, however.

SURPRISE SHOWER
 A surprise shower party was given Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grazer at their Main street home last evening by a group of Mr. Grazer's shopmates. Mr. and Mrs. Grazer were presented with a mahogany clock. Games and vocal selections were enjoyed and a buffet lunch was served.

"PASSED CAR DOING 30"
CLAIMS HARRIER RUDAZ
Can Evidently Run Better Than He Can Dig "Taters."

One of the boys who is entered in the cross-country five-mile run soon to be conducted by the Recreation Centers has gone into intensive training for the event. He is Stanley Rudaz, a Manchester boy, and his chief bid for fame is the statement that he "passed" an automobile which was going at the rate of 30 miles an hour.

Rudaz has engaged a trainer and has started working out at the Recreation Center. His story as to the speed of the automobile must be true, for Rudaz says that he looked inside the car while he was passing it and saw the speedometer. He says that if anybody wants to have it proven, he can produce the car that he passed.

He is working on a farm, but because of the peculiar nature of his job, which requires a team of three men, he is working for a few days. "You see, there are three of us and we dig potatoes," he explained today. "One of us digs, the other picks the potatoes from the ground and the third one holds the bag. The fellow who holds the bag is sick."

Members of Hose Company No. 2 of the Manchester Fire department are to meet at the headquarters tomorrow morning at 9:30 for a practice session.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL.
 Frederick C. Allen, Minister.

At the service tomorrow morning the pastor will preach, taking as his topic, "Modern Enemies of Christian Progress." The music to be rendered is as follows: Prelude: Canonza . . . Wolstenholme Anthem: "Soft as the Voice" . . . Scott Offertory: Contralto solo, "Follow Me" . . . Stevenson Postlude: "The Temple March" . . . Vincent Church school is at 12:10. Tomorrow is Rally Day with graduation exercises and the entire program will be carried through in the church auditorium. Parents and friends are earnestly invited.

The Christian Endeavor meeting at 8:45 p. m. Topic: "How Can We Make Our Society More Successful?" Phil. 3:13-17. Leader, Mrs. Francis Wetherell.

The ladies of the Ladies' Aid society will meet at the Community club Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

It is a pleasure to announce that Louis J. Tuttle has accepted the position of superintendent of the Church school for the unexpired term of Everett Walton. All those who heard Dr. Potter at our church last Sunday night will agree that he did not disappoint our eager anticipations. His address was thrilling. The offering, amounting to $38.00 will be contributed to the work of Christ's kingdom in the world.

Tomorrow is the first day of the fall for our Go-to-Church Band. Speaking of our children, it is perhaps appropriate in the same breath to report that the Church Vacation school held last summer was a decided success. The average daily attendance of pupils was 115, and there were 28 devoted teachers and helpers. Cash receipts were $250.00 in gifts, and $27.70 from the sale of handwork articles. Expenditures totalled $217.85, leaving a balance of $59.85.

A meeting of the church will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to consider holding a series of union vesper services, and to discuss plans for the winter series of church nights. Place of meeting, the church parlors.

Ever-Ready Circle of King's Daughters will hold a rummage sale in the vacant store in the Brown and Sullivan block on Depot Square on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, Oct. 6. Any one having anything to contribute will please call any member of the Circle.
