

TOWN PLANNING TO BE DECIDED UPON TONIGHT

Annual Town Meeting to Be Held in High School Hall At 8 O'Clock—The Is- sues.

The Board of Selectmen through their clerk, George H. Waddell, have been consulting various authorities throughout the state on the advantages of town planning as provided by the General Statutes. It was learned today. The Manchester Chamber of Commerce has proposed that Manchester adopt this general law, and the Selectmen are unanimously opposed, not to Town Planning, but to the commission which this statute makes necessary and division of authority and responsibility which they believe would result. The question will be threshed out at tonight's annual town meeting which will be called at eight o'clock in the High School assembly hall.

Three Adopt It

Three towns in Connecticut have adopted the General Statute on town planning. They are Windford, population, 8,506; Westport, population, 6,000; and East Hartford, population 17,000. Several other towns and cities have adopted Town Planning, but under a special act which gives those particular towns and cities the kind of town planning best adapted to their forms of government. This bears out the Selectmen's assertion that the general statute on town planning was not intended for towns of Manchester's size, nor having Manchester's form of government.

Several town officers in East Hartford informed members of Manchester's Board of Selectmen and Clerk George H. Waddell that town planning in the neighboring town was most unsatisfactory. Though adopted but a year ago the commission and its work has practically been dissolved. It also pointed out that it cost East Hartford $10,000 to adopt town planning. This last bit of information was one of the main reasons for the opposition of the Selectmen to the adoption of the general law. The Selectmen insist that no commission can arrive at any results without first putting the town to a considerable expense.

Proposed by Petition

The proposal for town planning he adopted was brought out by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. A petition was presented to the Selectmen asking them to include the proposal in the call for tonight's meeting. The petition was signed by Austin Cheney, president of the Chamber and 29 others. Included in this 29 are several who are opposed to town planning and have told members of the Board of Selectmen that they will oppose the adoption of the proposal at tonight's meeting. The Selectmen say they signed the petition so that the question could be brought before the town meeting and settled by the voters, some of them have said.

After deciding upon town planning the voters will be asked to vote on a committee to be appointed for the study of proposed charter revision. The Selectmen maintain that, in this way, the advantages of town planning, zoning, city classification, school consolidation and appellate offices can be taken care of at one time and Manchester's charter will then be completely codified and in a simple form.

Budget Appropriations

In addition to town planning and charter revision, the voters must make departmental appropriations at tonight's meeting. The Selectmen have prepared the budget they believe reasonable and will offer it to the voters for approval. It calls for a 1-2 mill tax rate the same as that levied at the last meeting.

CITY EMPLOYEE KILLED BY RUNAWAY HORSES

Tries to Stop Them and Heavy Truck Passes Over His Body.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 3.—Michael Baker, 57, an employee of the City Sewer Department, was almost instantly killed today in an effort to stop a runaway milk wagon team at Grand Avenue and Chestnut street. The driver of the wagon had entered a grocery store to deliver a case of milk when the horses bolted. Baker, standing at the corner, sprang for the horses' heads and was thrown beneath the truck, two wheels passing over his body. He died in a hospital an hour later. A policeman brought the team under control a short distance away before any other harm was done.

PREDICTS GOOD WEATHER FOR THE WORLD'S SERIES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 3.—The United States Weather Bureau today predicted fair weather for the first two games of the World's Series here next Wednesday and Thursday.

It rained lightly during the forenoon, interfering slightly with batting practice at Forbes field, but the forecaster said indications pointed to the disappearance of the low pressure area over Pittsburgh by tomorrow night.

"The sun should be shining and the weather cool, but not too cool, for the first two games," the forecaster said.

REDS BANNED BY WORKERS AT WORLD PARLEY

Delegates Gather at A. F. of L. Convention at Los Angeles Today—Tentative Program.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 3.—The interests of millions of earners centered here today as the forty-seventh annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened its session to consider the economic and social problems of organized workers throughout the world.

Committed to a policy of constructive development and service to industry, the world's largest convention will affect through its rulings the welfare not only of the American laborer, but of his fellow workers in Canada, Mexico and the countries of Europe.

The Delegates

Delegates representing every branch and phase of organized labor will be aided in their deliberations by the counsel of their own members and the advice of state and national figures who are lending themselves to the solution of labor's problems.

A constructive keynote was sounded for the convention in the report of the federation's executive council, made public today.

"Labor has formerly allowed spectacular incidents in strife to overshadow the most important events of constructive development and service," the council recalls. "Labor is now becoming known for its more substantial developments."

Major Program

Reminding the delegates that there can be no compromise with Communists in the fight for control of trade unions, the executive council has outlined a major program for the convention as follows:

1. Organization of workers in the aircraft industry.
2. Opposition to the Volstead law.
3. Establishment of the five day week.
4. Maintenance of wages in keeping with the American standards of living.
5. Further restrictions in immigration laws.
6. Fighting moves to repeal direct primary laws.
7. A non-partisan political campaign for acceptable candidates in the 1928 national elections and the submission of a list of principles to both party conventions.

Today's program included a welcome address by Governor C. C. Young and presentation of the convention gavel to William Green, president of the A. F. of L. who will preside at the sessions.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is due to arrive today. He will address the convention tomorrow.

MRS. KNAPP CHARGED WITH IRREGULARITIES

Ex-Secretary of State of New York Is Accused of Hiring Her Relatives.

New York, Oct. 3.—Political circles learned with surprise today of the filing of a report with Governor Smith by the Cities Census Committee, charging Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, formerly secretary of state, with irregularities in the distribution of funds in the administration of the state census of 1925.

The report, which was also filed with Robert Moses, present secretary of state, is signed by Dr. Haven Emerson, chairman of the cities census committee and Walter Laidlaw, its executive secretary. The report alleges maladministration of the $1,200,000 fund entrusted to Mrs. Knapp for the taking of the census.

The report charges that Mrs. Knapp paid $35,540 to relatives for which no definite record of the services is to be found, and also to have certified improperly travel vouchers for Mrs. Luella V. Nindes, her associate in the College Home Economics in Syracuse where Mrs. Knapp lives.

The committee charges that the alleged irregularities are largely responsible for the failure of Mrs. Knapp to complete the census.

FIVE PERSONS DEAD IN BOSTON BLAZE

Delay in Sending Alarm Causes Tragedy—Many Thrilling Rescues.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 3.—State and city police and fire officials today opened an investigation into the Sunday fire which swept a four-story brick dwelling house on Hudson street, South End, taking a toll of five lives. Peter Hamaty, his wife and three little children died by carbon monoxide gas. The bodies were found.

The fire started from an unknown cause under the stairway in the hall of the first floor but Mrs. Dean Lawson, whose mother owns the building, said there was nothing stored there of an inflammable nature.

Couldn't Send Alarm

Fate threw one obstacle after another in the way of those trying to sound an alarm. Mrs. Hamaty's brother, Arthur Mamary, escaping injury by a three story leap, ran to a fire alarm box. Mamary and an hysterical woman were pounding on the box when Mrs. Dean Lawson ran up. She opened the box but sank exhausted before she could reach the hook inside. A few minutes before she had tried to send an alarm by telephone but the cord burned off. George Donovan finally sounded the box alarm. Fire officials said today that the delay probably cost the five lives.

Thrilling Rescues

Thrilling rescues marked the fire. Fifteen persons were saved by firemen as flames raced through the hallways. Eugene Peckham saved his wife and five children by a daring leap to an adjoining roof, the mother tossing the children to him and then being rescued with others by firemen.

Looks Bad for the Boys

It's a fortunate thing that Wash and Gozy don't "habla Espanol." If they understood what these hombres are telling them they'd hit for the little old U. S. poco pronto and readers of The Herald would miss a thrilling story.

These two comic strip gringos are heading into Mexico on a mission so mysterious that they themselves don't know what it is. They're getting mighty good pay, but they have more than a faint suspicion that they'll earn it before they're through. The ominous looks that came from under every sombrero spell nothing but trouble to Wash Tubbs and his lanky-boy-friend.

Start reading this Herald comic strip today and you'll be well paid in laughs and thrills. Roy Crane, the artist who does it, has just been down in Mexico to establish the setting for the story, so he knows what he's drawing.

HOLDS PRESENT FAMILY LIFE AS BEST SOLUTION

Professor at Conference, Condemns Polygamy, Temporary Families and Other Radical Systems.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Radical proposals for changing family life were dissected by a famous biologist, Herbert S. Jennings, professor of zoology at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, at the conference on family life in America today, and "found wanting."

Such proposals as a polygamous system of marriage, temporary families, and the care of children by the state instead of by their parents were considered by Professor Jennings. The conference it attended by social workers from all parts of the United States, Canada and Europe.

Traces Family Life

Prof. Jennings traced the family life of living things from the simplest organisms up through insects, reptiles, birds and animals to man. Then he said:

"The monogamous family, with life-long union of mates, appears to be the final term in a long evolutionary series. The polygamous system is sometimes defended on the ground that in it the stronger become the parents of the next generation, the weaker being excluded, and that this results in a steady raising of the level of the population. Whether this notion is sound or unsound, the tendencies of the human race appear distinctly against this condition and it seems certain to disappear."

Temporary families

Temporary families, another system proposed for man, and to some extent practiced, was also found wanting by the professor.

"This system," said Prof. Jennings, "we find in many birds and animals. Individuals are to become mates for a longer or shorter period, separating as they please. This system, unless supplemented by some radical way as social care of the offspring, ignites the long period of dependence of the children on the parents, the result of which is that frequent separation or change of mates gives serious v. enemas to the framework of society, injured the children and distracts and distresses the parents. This system cannot be considered efficient for smooth working, for peace and prosperity."

The life-long monogamous family

seems to be the best, the professor said.

"Evolution is never closed," he declared. "What men may become through millions of years of effort no one can say. The varied difficulties presented by the present nature of man; the fact that he is a mammal; his long and helpless infancy; the high development of his mating and parental impulses, and his diversified and exacting life career, however, appear to be met most adequately (through obviously still imperfectly) by the life-long monogamous family."

SLAYER OF ROSE SARLO MAY HAVE KILLED WIFE

Many Marriage Offers Flood Prize Beauties

Editor's Note: This is the third had a grand time, and nobody annoyed my girl," said Mrs. Avon G. Kennedy, of Yonkers, N. Y., today. She is the mother of pretty, dark-haired Catherine Kennedy who was "Miss Yonkers" last year.

Catherine herself interjected this comment: "The church women who are condemning beauty contests must be old-fashioned. How old are they? Men don't annoy beauties simply because they are beauties. It's all up to the girl herself—nobody will annoy her if she doesn't want to be annoyed."

Mrs. Augusta Malcolmson, young looking mother of Ruth Malcolmson of Philadelphia, the 18-year-old girl who in 1924 was crowned "Miss America" at Atlantic City, does admit, however, that when a girl is suddenly projected into the J., two years ago, might be that of Mrs. Ruth Jones Yarrow, missing wife of George Yarrow, now under arrest charged with the murder of pretty young Rose Sarlo, was being investigated by police today.

The new angle to the investigation followed the arrival here of Mrs. Sylvia Jones Michaels, mother of Mrs. Yarrow, from her home in Philadelphia. Mrs. Michaels told authorities that she had suspected her daughter's fate for some time.

LEVINE, IN ROME VISITS THE POPE

After Audience He Says Pon- tiff Will Bless All His Fu- ture Flights.

Rome, Oct. 3.—All the future flights of Charles A. Levine, of the trans-Atlantic plane Columbia, will be blessed by the Pope.

This assurance was given to the New York flyer today by the pontiff himself when Levine was received in audience at the Vatican. The Pope received Levine privately, the meeting lasted fifteen minutes. The pontiff asked about his trans-Atlantic flight, inquiring if everything had gone satisfactorily.

"Everything was all right," replied the American, adding, "I am happy that I have been able to receive this audience with Your Holiness."

The Pope, who appeared to be both interested and moved, responded:

"I am glad to receive so famous a man. I am going to bless all future flights of yours."

The papal blessing was extended not only to Levine but to his relatives. After kneeling and kissing the papal ring, Levine, at his own request, was taken to a secret door to avoid the newspaper reporters waiting for him in the ante-room.

Levine On Time

Levine's first attempt to see the Pope last week failed because he reached the Vatican too late. His engagement today was for 12:45 and the flyer was careful to be on time.

The Columbia, piloted by Captain W. G. Hinchcliffe, an English airman, and carrying Levine and the highly-yelled woman, flew over the Vatican Mt. Vesuvius yesterday. The trio reached the coastelectric airport at eleven o'clock and hopped off for Naples. After circling the Bay of Naples and dipping over the crater of Vesuvius the Columbia returned to Rome.

Levine may soon have a royal passenger for his plane—the famous Prince Louis Ferdinand, nephew of the King of Spain—who is anxious to visit his cousin, Queen Marie, of Rumania, via the Columbia.

CASE GOES TO JURY

Nolin of South Groveland, are accused of slaying William Griffin, aged Haverhill storekeeper. Miss Mary Cwickla, 18, of Suffield, Conn., sweetheart of Nolin is accused as an accessory after the fact.

George Yarrow, Jersey Cab Driver Confesses He Mur- dered 18-Year-Old Sun- day School Teacher—His Mother-in-Law Suspects He Killed Her Daughter.

Woodbury, N. J., Oct. 3.—Possibility that the heretofore unidentified body of a woman found in the thicket near Camden, N. J., two years ago, might be that of Mrs. Ruth Jones Yarrow, missing wife of George Yarrow, now under arrest charged with the murder of pretty young Rose Sarlo, was being investigated by police today.

The new angle to the investigation followed the arrival here of Mrs. Sylvia Jones Michaels, mother of Mrs. Yarrow, from her home in Philadelphia. Mrs. Michaels told authorities that she had suspected her daughter's fate for some time.

Held Without Bail

Yarrow, held without bail today charged with the Sarlo murder, confessed his guilt, according to police, admitting that he drove the young Sunday school teacher to a lonely spot last night, shot her, trussed her up with wire, and threw her body over a bridge they separated.

Mrs. Michaels told police Yarrow married her daughter in 1920, when the girl was only fourteen. The couple lived in Philadelphia until two and a half years ago, when a baby girl was born to Mrs. Yarrow. Six months later they separated, the baby being left with Mrs. Michaels, who said she had not seen her daughter since.

DOCTOR INTENDED TO BREAK UP HOME

Suspected His Wife Was Too Friendly With Willis Beach.

Hammonton, N. J., Oct. 3.—Information purporting to show that Dr. William Lillendahl, 72-year-old physician who was mysteriously slain last September 15, three months ago intended to leave his wife because he suspected her of relations with Willis Beach, poultry farmer now sought in connection with the crime, was in the hands of the authorities today.

The information was volunteered by Frederick R. Anthony, Vineyard, N. J., business man and next-door neighbor of the Lillendahls.

Willis Beach is running with my wife, Anthony said Mr. Lillendahl told him early in July. "I don't want to make any trouble because I am afraid of him."

Changed Bank Account

On a later occasion, Anthony said, the physician told him he had changed his bank account from a joint one with his wife to an account of his own, so that he could "account for every penny she spends."

"I am making plans to leave my wife," Anthony said. Dr. Lillendahl revealed to him, "and I'm going to sell everything. She can go her way and I'll go mine."

Mrs. Lillendahl, who is free in a $25,000 bail as a material witness in the murder, has told the police that her relations with her husband were happy until the last. She contends her husband was slain by two negroes.

No trace has been found of Beach, the 52-year-old poultry fancier who admitted writing clandestine letters to Mrs. Lillendahl. He fled to a nearby town and I knocked her unconscious and I drove towards Barnesboro. On the road towards Mantua and Barnesboro I shot her twice, once in the head and again in the side. Later I drove to the Winomah bridge, over Mantua Creek, and threw her over the concrete wall."

TREASURY BALANCE

Rockville BAD CHECK PASSER BOUND OVER TODAY

(Special to The Herald).

Rockville, Oct. 8.—Although he admitted that he had served terms in prison in Illinois and in Ohio, Jack Collins, John Collins, or John Connors, now claiming his home as in Boston, pleaded guilty before Judge Fisk in the city court of Rockville this morning and withdrew the prosecution against himself and allowed the prosecutor, Dennis J. McCarthy, to make a statement as to the issuing of false checks on different banks in the name of people that he would take from a telephone book and making small purchases would take the remainder of the money that the check called for and move on.

In Rockville Saturday afternoon he presented a check to the Rockville Garage in payment for two inner tubes. The check was signed, as it was shown in court this morning, as by Thomas Egan of Ellington avenue, a carpenter. The tires had been purchased by a check for $26 given and he was going out with the two tubes and the extra money when he was recognized by Henry Taylor of Stafford, who had a worthless check passed upon him in the same manner.

Mr. Taylor is not only interested in the Rockville Garage Company, but also the Stafford Springs Garage Company. He went to the office, saw the check and then sent two of the men, Desno and Badington after the man. They caught him at the corner of Park and School streets. He was willing to give back the tires and the money and let the check go, but they had other opinions and he was taken to the police station.

The state police called in Collins and admitted that he had only passed the one in Rockville, but he did have another in his possession all made out and ready to endorse, that he had passed six in Stafford, that there were others that he gave out in Southbridge, Mass., in addition to others that he had worked the same game in different places in Massachusetts as far north as Northampton and that he had also given checks out in different places in the vicinity of Putnam and also down through Rhode Island.

Collins admitted all of these but claimed that he also had a company at the time who wrote the checks after selecting some name from the telephone book and then he would make the purchase.

Judge John Fisk found probable cause and bound him over under a bond of $2,000 to the next term of the superior court of this county, which will be in December. He was taken to the Tolland county jail and State Policeman Heinegold gave the information that he had given and will check up on other complaints that may be received or on record in different parts of the state and have been reported to headquarters in Hartford.

Collins seems to be rather young to have spent so much time in jails or prisons and was in a mood today to talk freely.

About the only contest that seems to be causing any real work today at the polls is the question of who will be the democratic member on the town school board, which expires today. The position has been held by Dr. T. F. O'Loughlin and this year he is being opposed by Dr. John Flaherty. Only one of the two men can be elected.

Rockville has 3,235 voters, of which 1,995 are men and 1,240 women. The vote up to 7 o'clock was only 250, which indicates that the voting will not be heavy as the polls close at 5 o'clock tonight.

The officers of the election are: Moderator, Orlando Ranson; box tender, Edward Doudlin; deputy registrars, H. Dowding and John Finley; checkers, Patrick Cratty, Alton Govey; party checkers, George Hammond, Kerwin Elliott, Margaret McGowan, A. Kauski; booth tenders, Timothy Lynch, Paul Becker, John Dorsey, Alexander Vyrach, Flora Snyder, Clara Fletcher, Margaret Finley, Mary McGann, ballot box, Felix Devlin and Alfred Barden.

This afternoon meeting The voters assembled this afternoon and after looking over the annual town report, which was ready for their inspection saw at once that there was going to be a need for an additional tax this coming year. The estimated amount that will have to be raised by taxes this year over last year is about $20,000 more.

The selectmen's budget shows that there is $20,000 less expected as an income from state stock tax and that of the $30,000 note that was secured for one year it is the intention of the selectmen to pay $5,000 off on this and renew the balance of $25,000.

Court Session Tuesday. The superior court will be in session on Tuesday when there is one case for trial and on Wednesday there will be two cases, both before a jury.

Change in Court Room. Because the lower hall of the Memorial building was in use as a voting place it was not possible to use the regular police court room this morning for police court. The court was about to open and the reporters came in by the back door only to find the doors locked. A light knock brought Captain Tobin to the door of the council chamber and seeing that the visitors were reporters slammed the door in the face of the two reporters from out of town. By going around and standing in the alleyway, where the window was opened the reporters told Judge Fisk that they could stand outside of the window and get the proceedings through the window from the council chamber where the court was sitting and that another officer had directed the reporters to enter by the side door.

Judge Fisk remarked that it was a public court and open to those who were interested and reporters on the floor of the building in the superior court room where all the reporters and the spectators and officers were allowed to sit and hear the case of the ex-convict who was arrested for passing bad checks.

MANY MARRIAGE OFFERS FLOOD PRIZE BEAUTIES

Jimelght, she receives attention from unwelcome sources.

Officers of Marriage. "When Ruth won the national title she was besieged with offers of marriage, many of them from wealthy men," said Mrs. Malcolm. "She received hundreds of letters and many telephone calls. But the limelight did not turn her head. She insisted marriage meant everything to her and that she would not marry for money alone."

"There are drawbacks to beauty contests, I'll have to admit. You could scarcely dream of the many scandals and unfounded rumors that are circulated. Ruth's refusal to enter the contest in 1925 resulted in a barrage of false reports that almost distracted us."

Ruth, who is touring Europe on a business and pleasure trip, is still married, although her mother admits she has several young admirers.

Another Beauty. Another famous beauty, Miss Norma Smallwood, "Miss America" of 1926, is having minor trials and tribulations, the indirect result of her having won a beauty contest. Accompanied by her mother, Anna D. Smallwood, this strikingly handsome 20-year-old Tulsa, Oklahoma, girl paid a visit to New York City a few days ago and announced through her attorney, that she will sue Walker and Edwin Meyers, theatrical agents, for breach of contract. She claims they promised to book her for eight weeks in vaudeville at $875 a week.

Pets Husband—for $3675

Mrs. Lillie Mack, 23, of Cleveland, Ohio, has a perfect right to pet her husband any old time and place. A jury awarded her $3675 damages from the city because she was arrested when petting her hubby in a parked automobile. She had sued for false arrest.

MORE AIRPORTS NEEDED TO AID AVIATION BOOM

New Interest In Use of Airplane Encouraged at New England Conference.

Boston—New and improved airports, increased interest in manufacturing for aviation, and steadily increasing use of the airplane—these are New England's aviation developments up for discussion at the New England Aviation conference this month.

Official representatives of the governors of the six New England states will be on hand as well as industrialists, community leaders and aviation enthusiasts. Mayors of New England cities either will send representatives or attend in person.

A feature of the conference will be an exhibit of all the parts of an airplane, thus showing New England manufacturers what they can make for this industry. Another feature is a large map showing the types of airplane landing fields in New England that are needed, and a suggested location for each type. A model of a first class airport will be prepared.

Most of the conference will be devoted to an open discussion of the problems facing New England in her aviation development program.

In this connection recent developments in aviation in the six New England states were brought to mind by the New England Council: Concord, N. H., and Hartford, Conn., entered planes in the New York-Spokane Air Derby.

W. B. Hazard, Gardiner, Maine, shoe manufacturer, chartered an airplane and made his first shipment of shoes from factory to store by air.

A construction company in Plainville, Conn., spent $115.20 in postage to have a new part for a machine sent by air mail, but saved $284.80 by so doing.

Claremont, N. H., announces an aviation meet on October 6, 7, 8.

A session meet was staged of New Haven, Conn., this month.

Twenty-nine cities in New England filed with the United States Department of Commerce intentions of building an airport.

On Cape Cod Foresters on the Cape Cod have found the airplane valuable in spraying trees, attacked by the spruce moth.

A Hartford, Conn., manufacturer of airplane motors is increasing his working space and adding fifty per cent to the working force, due to increased orders. The company already occupies five floors of a large factory building.

Markers for aviators are being painted on the roofs of large buildings in Portsmouth, Concord and Manchester, N. H., and other New England communities.

Lowell and Fitchburg, Mass., have launched movements for airports and to bring the aviation industry to those manufacturing cities.

St. Louis Mo. Oct. 3.—William Sievers, 67-year-old pioneer in the St. Louis motion picture field, was sentenced to three months in jail today and fined $1,000 after he had pleaded guilty to bringing films of the Dempsey-Tunney fight here in violation of the federal laws.

Since Sievers pleaded guilty, he cannot appeal. He brought the Dempsey-Sharkey fight films to Missouri and paid a $600 fine for violating the law.

Traffic problems are not new. More than 300 years ago coaches so congested London's narrow streets that the government had to take control.

POLICE THINK FIREBUG IS BUSY ON CAPE COD

For Seventh Time In Two Months, Flames of Unknown Origin Sweep Town.

Provincetown, Mass., Oct. 8.—This town, on the tip of Cape Cod, has the worst fire scare in its history early today.

For the seventh time within two months fire of unknown origin broke out, causing Fire Chief James Barnett to express the opinion that a firebug was operating here.

Starting in the wall in the rear of the Jonathan Samm boat building plant, the flames swept to the adjoining Nauticus club and then to a bakery.

The roof of Odd Fellows building was in flames from a falling spark but firemen saved that structure. Small fires were put out on the roof of the post office building and the residence of John Cook.

Guests at the Central house, near the scene, left their beds.

Miss Matilda Small and her sister Mabel were rescued from their apartment over the boat building plant.

Two firemen were overcome before the flames were finally under control.

SHOWED FIGHT FILMS

St. Louis Mo. Oct. 3.—William Sievers, 67-year-old pioneer in the St. Louis motion picture field, was sentenced to three months in jail today and fined $1,000 after he had pleaded guilty to bringing films of the Dempsey-Tunney fight here in violation of the federal laws.

OPEN FORUM INSISTS TOWN PLANNING WOULD NOT BE COSTLY

Horace B. Cheney Writes His Views on Proposed New Commission For Manchester.

Editor, The Herald:

The Selectmen's opposition to Town Planning is based upon erroneous impressions. On Monday, Oct. 3rd, a Town Meeting has been called at which time the subject of Town Planning, with other matters, is to be considered. The subject is one which has for some years been before the Town for consideration; it is not a matter which has been sprung upon the Town without preparation, but there seems to have been, from the very beginning, a great deal of misunderstanding and misapprehension in relation to both what a Town Planning Commission would do, and as to the results, in the Town of Manchester. House Bill No. 314, Chapter 267, General Statutes of 1923.

The Selectmen and the Town Engineer appear to be laboring under the misapprehension that this requires the filing with the Town Clerk of what would amount to a duplicate set of maps for the Town of Manchester. This is very far from the case. The Statute requires that when a new plan of street or streets or of the Town is adopted officially by the Commission, that there shall be proper notice of the same given to all those who are interested by it, and that they are authorized to file with the Town Clerk a copy of the plans for the inspection of the Public. This by no means contemplates that all of the Town or city plans shall be so filed, but only those concerning which there is pending a decision in which the Public is generally interested. The purpose of this notice can be served by the filing of blue prints taken from the original plans in such cases, and probably would not result in filing of more than half of a dozen such plans in the course of a year, at the expense of making a blue print, probably not $10.00 a year. Let us assume that it reaches its greatest magnitude and amounts to possibly double the anticipated amount. The inconvenience to the highway department would be very small; the amount of work to be done by the Engineer practically nil; duplicate plans none at all, actual expenditure of money, insignificant.

It may be that by the time another Legislature convenes Manchester may or may not desire to do some of the things which have been proposed to the writer by various persons. This is the appointment of a Board of Assessors by the Selectmen; appointment of a Town Manager, calling Manchester a city; appointing instead of electing a Town Planning Commission. All of the Board of Selectmen have at one time or another expressed themselves as being in favor of Town Planning, but think that the Commission should be appointed by them rather than elected by the Town, due to the apparent conflict of authority between the General Act and the Manchester Charter. Judge Bowers last year rendered his opinion that there would be no such conflict of authority at which time Judge Hyde was consulted by the Board of Selectmen and he did not find any conflict of authority.

One of the chief reasons advanced for a new charter is the need for codifying and clarifying the statutes which have been passed in relation to the Town of Manchester; the selectmen have the authority to do this at any time they see fit, and the cost of doing it would be very small indeed, probably not in excess of $100.00. It ought to be done, and without waiting for legislative action.

The writer of this article served upon both charter committees which drafted the legislation for the Town, and in addition served three years as first selectman of the Town and also that he even then tried to get the Town to take action as was necessary to protect its rights, and to provide for the future growth.

Some of the people who have feared the adoption of a Town Plan have maintained that it will of necessity involve a great additional expenditure, which is saying that the men appointed for a Town Planning Board would be less interested and less intelligent in the spending of the Town's money, of which they will undoubtedly have to contribute a part, than would other citizens who in the past have been appointed to conduct the affairs of the Town. It is a practical certainty that instead of making an additional expenditure for the Town it would save it a great deal of money through foreseeing the future needs before they arrived, and making adequate provision to meet them when they became necessary instead of waiting until things had opened which made the development much more expensive and difficult; it would be better for the Town to start in a small way and by the machinery already set up by law, learn by experience what special provisions it might need than to ask for a special act without experience.

The necessity of an adequate plan of the future development of the Town has for many years been felt severely by all of those persons who have been interested in maintaining the proper highway interests and development.

Every year the Town loses some of the rights which it already has through neglect and through lack of proper record of the existing highways, and it also loses opportunities to provide for the proper development of the Town through the actions of real estate dealers in opening tracts of land for settlement, with no consideration, except the interests of the individual developer, who often attempts to block or delay the development of adjoining tracts of land.

Even in the very last years, and in spite of the Town by-laws real estate dealers have been allowed to retain strips of land across the ends of proposed highways at the property line of development, thereby preventing the continuation of the highway through adjoining property, except by the consent of the real estate dealer, or by buying his rights. Frequently real estate dealers would be only too glad to cooperate with the Town in developing its future needs, if they knew where it was proposed to open highways and particularly main thoroughfares. The recent development on the west side of the railroad tracks of the South Manchester Railroad, through no fault of the real estate dealer has been so carried out as to make a road, if not impossible, without further expenditure of Town money, the development of a needed main highway between North and South Manchester on that side of the railroad track.

There is an unfounded fear on the part of the Selectmen that the Town Planning Commission will take out of their hands the whole care and problem of the highways, which is not the case. The sole responsibility of the Town Planning Commission would be to provide plans for adequate future development of new highways, not their care, operation or maintenance, and the determination of just what existing highways, without in any other direction interfering with the activities of the Selectmen.

The recommendations set forth here are the result of the experience and study of a Commission which has given the matter a good deal of time and attention over a period of some two or more years.

Horace B. Cheney.

MANCHESTER'S POLICE COST BELOW AVERAGE

Comparison With Five Cities Shows Our Department Appropriation Lowest.

Manchester's police appropriation is lower than five cities of Manchester's size in this state, it has been learned through a careful investigation. Manchester's appropriation last year was $29,400, and the proposal this year is for $33,000. The appropriation will be voted on tonight at Manchester's annual town meeting.

Norwich with a population of 23,000 and 32 policemen appropriated $77,000 for police last year. Middletown with a population of 24,000 and a police force of 16 appropriated $34,786.20 last year. Torrington has about 30,000 people and has 19 policemen. It appropriated $29,620 last year for police work. New London has about 30,000 population and 44 regular policemen with six supernumeraries on permanent duty. This city placed $110,000 at the disposal of the police department last year. Danbury, with 25,000 people and 17 patrolmen and officers appropriated $34,900 last year for its police department.

By comparison with these cities it will be seen that Manchester is not spending as much money per capita for police protection as they are. The Manchester police commissioners asked the Board of Selectmen to appropriate $25,000 for police work this year, but the Board felt that it could not be done and still hold the tax rate to 13 1/2 mills. The police commissioners finally decided that they could keep within the $33,000 proposal and that amount has been placed in the budget estimates for this coming year.

WOOD IMPORTS FIRST SHIPMENT OF ICE

Gets Two Car Loads From Southbridge, Mass. — Hot Weather Shrinks It.

L. T. Wood unloaded his first shipment of ice this morning. Two cars, both shipped from Southwick, Mass., arrived in the Hartford freight yard early Sunday morning, but owing to the lack of freight trains they were not brought back to Manchester until this morning.

Both cars were to contain forty tons each when shipped, but because of the hot weather while coming from Massachusetts, the lay-over in East Hartford yesterday and the inability of Mr. Wood to get them back before this morning resulted in a big shrinkage.

In addition to the ice which he will have to import from now on until the local ponds are frozen over, Mr. Wood has also bought about fifty tons from the Manchester Dairy Ice Cream company with the understanding that he is to supply them with such ice as they are called upon to use.

The Manchester Dairy, which is one of the most modern dairies in the state, makes their ice and the machinery which they have and the possibilities of making large quantities each day they can use their cold storage plant, which is an ammonia operated system, for the storage of many gallons of ice cream ahead of time. The ice that is used by them that they cut each year is run through the ice grinder and used for packing around the containers that they send out in their tubs.

Mr. Wood's ice supply received a severe blow when the icehouse at Birch Mountain, formerly owned by George S. Buck, burned down last summer. There was said to have been 2,500 tons of ice in this building and all of it was lost.

The supply of ice in his own icehouses is now exhausted and Mr. Wood must resort to importing it from other towns.

The entire City of Toledo, Spain is to be made a national monument to prevent destruction of beautiful and historic buildings.

ANDERSON BOOSTS FOR AIRPORT HERE

Returns From Boston Parley Convinced of Need of at Least Emergency Field.

"Manchester cannot afford to delay at all in making immediate plans for at least an emergency landing field here for airplanes," Frank Anderson, general manager of the J. W. Hale Company, declared today on his return from Boston where he attended the New England Aviation Conference at the Hotel Statler as a delegate from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Anderson said that "it is a crime Manchester doesn't wake up to the possibilities in commercial aviation" and added the opinion that a field could be bought in the outskirts of the town and made into a suitable emergency airport for approximately $6,000. A regularly equipped airport would cost about $25,000, he said.

Mr. Anderson said that he believed all airports should be municipally owned. In cases where airports are individually owned, they should be bought as soon as possible.

In case Manchester decides to establish an emergency landing field here, the government departments and the Colonial Air Transport Company will lend considerable help, Mr. Anderson said.

The conference discussed the plan of establishing airplane highways leading into New England from various points in anticipation of heavy traffic within a few years which would make it necessary to have emergency landing fields about every thirteen miles. The importance of zoning was also pointed out in cases where airports are established in order that tall buildings might not be erected nearby, thus making the fields impracticable.

One of the speakers at the conference expressed the belief that within the next five years all first class mail will travel by air express and that the charges will be just as low as now. There are more airplane manufacturing plants in the United States today, than there are automobile plants, it was asserted. During the last year, the mail cars carried by airplanes have increased one hundred per cent.

It was also announced that on November 1 airplane service with the South would be inaugurated, planes plying between New York City, Atlanta and New Orleans.

Confers With Warner.

The conference took place Friday afternoon and evening and there were many noted speakers. However, Mr. Anderson said he was most impressed with William P. MacCracken, Jr., assistant secretary for Aeronautics, United States Department of Commerce, and E. P. Warner, assistant secretary for aeronautics of the United States Navy Department. Mr. Anderson talked with Mr. MacCracken and today went to Hartford with Austin Cheney, president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, to meet Mr. Warner and talk over, more thoroughly, the matter of establishing an airport here.

Mr. Anderson is very enthusiastic over the possibility of locating at least an emergency field here. Although not mentioning any particular site, he said he thought that it would be an easy matter to find a suitable location with minimum dimensions of a thousand feet each way. This could be bought and adapted for aviation purposes for about $6,000, he said.

Manchester at least ought to have a huge sign on the top of some factory bearing the name of the town in letters measuring ten feet high and three in width, so that aviators passing over the town may get their bearings more easily and would advertise the town considerably, Mr. Anderson said.

BEETHOVEN SINGERS
BACK FROM FAST TOUR

Visit Six Cities and Give Concerts in Five of Them in Three Days.

The Beethoven Glee club returned last night from its first interstate tour, having visited six cities and sung in five churches in as many different places. The first appearance of the club on the tour was made at East Orange, N. J., at the Tabor Lutheran church. The club had planned to reach East Orange on Friday morning in time for the chapel exercises at Upsala college; but because of traffic conditions, did not arrive there until early afternoon. The start was made at 5 o'clock in the morning from Manchester.

The East Orange church was crowded to the doors when the club gave its first concert on the tour. The men of the club were taken in charge by the Lutheran Brotherhood and the women, Miss Eleanor Willard, Miss Helen Berggren and Miss Eva Johnson, were guests of women of the church.

In Crash in New York Leaving Upsala college at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, the members of the club went to New York, where they made several sightseeing trips through the city. On Fifth Avenue their bus collided with two taxicabs but nobody was injured in the crash. The club made the Hotel Belmont its headquarters while in New York.

The start for Forestville was made at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning and the club arrived there at 9:30. A short concert was given there. Bristol and the Lebanon church was the next stop and in the afternoon the first full concert was given at the Augustana Lutheran church of Bristol.

The remaining members of the club who had not gone to New Jersey and New York joined the club at Meriden and sang there and in Hartford. The concert in Hartford was given at the Emanuel Lutheran church.

The club sang particularly well and the soloists excelled themselves. Miss Willard, Miss Berggren and Albert Pearson, a brother of Director Helge Pearson, were the soloists. Miss Eva Johnson was the accompanist.

MANCHESTER MAN FIRST IN POLICE SPEED TEST

Kenneth Ringrose of State Constabulary Reaches Waterbury Ahead of All Others.

When Governor John Trumbull decided to send fast men from the different stations of the state police department could report at Waterbury and so instructed Commissioner Robert T. Hurley to send out the alarm he started a lot of speeding all through the state. "Bob Hurley," a Manchester man when appointed to the state police department, must have felt just a little happy when he found that all through the state that first man to report at Waterbury for duty was another Manchester man, Kenneth Ringrose. Ringrose is now stationed at the Colchester barracks and was the first one to reach Waterbury, salute his commissioner and report for duty.

CHAPMAN-LORD

Miss Mary Esther Lord, daughter of Mrs. Lulu R. Lord and the late Clayton A. Lord, and Mahlon Snow Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Chapman of Rockville were married Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride by the Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Center Congregational church. Mrs. W. O. Seymas of Hebron played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The home was beautifully decorated in autumn foliage, palms, ferns and garden flowers.

The bride was attended by Miss Lois Smith of Boston, as maid of honor and Miss Clarissa Lord of Hebron, cousin of the bride was bridesmaid. Ruth Raymond and Gordon Raymond of New Britain, also cousins of the bride, were flower girls.

The groom was attended by his brother Otis S. Chapman of Rockville as best man and Morgan B. Lord, the bride's brother, was usher.

The bride was attired in a gown of ivory satin and tulle with a lace veil caught with orange blossoms and she wore a brooch of pearls and rubies. The brooch has been worn by four brides in the family during the last 150 years. She carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor's dress was of orchid georgette and she wore a black velvet picture hat and carried an arm bouquet of asters and cosmos. The bridesmaid wore a green georgette and black velvet picture hat and also carried asters and cosmos. The flower girl's dress was pink satin taffeta trimmed with blue tulle. The flower children carried a basket of mixed flowers.

A large reception followed the ceremony with a large number of guests from this state and Massachusetts present.

Late in the evening the bride and groom left on an unannounced wedding trip. After November 1, they will be at home to their friends at 33 Stephen street.

MODERN "CAMILLE"
AT STATE THEATER

Norma Talmadge Creates New Role in Movie Version of Great Play—Here Tomorrow and Wednesday.

Hamlet in modern dress had nothing on Camille as played by Norma Talmadge. The old favorite stage play comes to the State theater tomorrow for two days and the costumes and settings are modern. The only thing left intact is the play itself.

"Camille" will not have the conventional happy ending, with the 'Lady of the Camellias' restored to health and happiness in the arms of her beloved. It is not consistent to provide an ending that is contrary to the entire conduct of a character.

Norma's "Camille" will be a modish charmer of modern Paris, strikingly gowned and bobbed haired. White, closely following the original theme Dumas' famous romantic classic will be unfolded on the screen in settings of the present day.

The most gripping crook picture which has been produced in years is "The Crystal Cup," the sensational film which is playing at the State today.

Clive Brook, Evelyn Brent, George Bancroft and Larry Semon are the featured stars in this feature. The story is that of a gang and the way it works. It treats of those people who stay in their lairs during the day and come out to prey on society at night. Clive Brook, usually the fashionable actor, is a crook of the lowest type, but unique in that he possesses a sense of honor. The rest of the stars are in keeping with Brook's character.

Joseph Cooper will be the guest of the club. The next District Convention will be held at the New Ocean House at Swampscott, Mass.

"THE CRYSTAL CUP"
AT CIRCLE TODAY

Jack Mulhall Starring in Unusual Picture—Will Show Until Tomorrow.

Jack Mulhall, ever popular with Manchester audiences, is at the Circle theater today and tomorrow in "The Crystal Cup."

Mulhall has become one of the leading men of the films during the past few years and each of his releases is eagerly awaited in this town.

He charms with his good looks and he pleases with his acting. His star is in the ascendancy and he is becoming more popular with his audiences every day.

Mulhall has been in the movies for a number of years. In fact, he has been in the game long enough to be playing elderly character roles but he keeps his youth and looks as though he might be 19 or 29. His secret is his own and he keeps young.

His performance in "See You in Jail" and that other picture, the college affair in which he played the sassy, gained more laurels for him. In both of these he was a clever actor, although his college days were in the past.

"The Crystal Cup" is different, too, and admirers of Mulhall will be surprised, pleasantly, of course. It will run at the Circle until tomorrow night when the theater will be closed until Saturday.

MONTE CRISTO JAMMED
RIALTO FOR TWO DAYS

Unusual Film Drew Unusual Crowd Despite the Heat; Last Showing Tonight.

With attendance far beyond expectations, the Rialto theater was jammed all day Saturday and for two shows last evening by that super-film, "Monte Cristo."

Mr. All, the owner said last evening that he was surprised at the number of persons who turned out for the opening and that he wishes to thank the public for its generous response to his invitation. "Monte Cristo" will be shown again this evening for the last time so if you have not seen it, here is your last opportunity for it never will be brought back here again.

Bills of fare at moving picture houses the country over within the past two years have been more or less loaded with productions featuring dog stars. You probably have seen them and undoubtedly most have proven interesting and enjoyable.

But one great fault has been found with them—they are not essentially dog pictures. In all of them, the dogs have been introduced only through their connections with humans in the cast.

Wouldn't you like to see a real dog picture—a production from a story written primarily about dogs, developed principally through the wonderful sagacity and intelligence of three almost-human canines? In "Breed of Courage," F. B. O. picture to be shown at the Rialto theater tomorrow is a distinct novelty to filmdom.

The three leading parts of the picture are played by three beautiful dogs headed by Ranger, F. B. O. canine star. The action of the picture is dependent upon the historic ability of these three animals. Come and see for yourself how capably they have fulfilled their purpose!

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (98) Gutenberg's Bible

Using Schöeffer's idea for making metal type from a mold, Gutenberg began the great work of his life, printing of a copy of the Bible. Before the first three pages had been completed 3000 florins had been spent and Gutenberg always was haunted by the fear that there would not be nearly enough money to carry out the tremendous work.

At last, in 1455 or 1456 the complete Bible in the Latin tongue, bound in two great volumes, was presented to the world.

The triumph of printing was at once established. Men agreed that the printed books were "as clear as handwriting."

Pittsburgh All Set For World Series

Crowds Already Pouring In to the City—Special Writer Describes the City For Out of Town Fans.

By FORD C. FRICK Special Correspondent Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 3.—If you are being pushed and shoved and kicked about by milling throngs that don't know where they're going, what they're doing or why they're doing it, you'll like this town.

You'll Like It And you'll like it, even if you can't buy tickets to the World Series for love nor money, and have to take your bird's eye view of the series from the stands which Barney Dreyfus has erected a block or two north-by-northwest and beyond the left field fence.

So far as the town is concerned there seems to be much more interest in getting tickets than in the series prospects. The thing is a sell-out right now. And it takes a lot of iron nerve and three times the regular price to pry a ticket loose anywhere.

Then there's the Cuyler controversy to further fire Pittsburgh blood and ruin Pittsburgh digestion. The good burghers are convinced that Kiki should be played in the series, and Donnie Bush is being panned good and proper because he insists on Barnhart. Even the newspapers have taken up the battle and it is said that the players are expressing themselves in no uncertain terms.

Just what the trouble is no one seems to know. But the fact remains that Cuyler probably will not be in the series and Pittsburgh is demanding blood or its money back.

This afternoon the Yankees will get their first peek at Forbes field when they appear for a couple of hours of workout. The Pirates are working out too—but they've agreed to share the daylight hours with their friendly enemies. It will be a rather interesting workout.

As a matter of fact there's no reason why the Bam shouldn't do even better here than at the stadium. The fence, except right at the foul line, is closer than the stadium target—and is more to order for hitters of the Ruth-Gehrig type.

"BUD" GEOGHEGAN HITS 72 AND A 73 IN LOCAL TOURNEYS

Medalist In Club Championship and Favorite to Win; Also Tied With Gleason For President's Cup.

"Bud" Geoghegan, who recently beat Johnny Hill one up for the Hartford District Golf championship, is the medalist in the qualifying round for the annual Manchester Country Club championship which closed last night.

Bud will be a top-heavy favorite to win the club championship inasmuch as it is not a handicap affair. Two of the best players at the club, although qualified, have withdrawn. They are Ben and John P. Cheney, Jr., who have gone to Yale University.

Cloverleaves Beat All-Meriden 6-0; "Illegal" Substitution Beats Cubs

Captain Brunic Moske Crashes Over for First Score of Season After Recovering a Fumble; Teams Are Evenly Matched.

The town champion Cloverleaves got off on the right foot yesterday when they turned back the powerful All-Meriden eleven at Hickey's Grove by a one-touchdown margin before a large audience.

On the very first play, a Meriden back fumbled when tackled hard by Captain Moske and the latter recovered. Moske took the ball over the goal line in one thrust off right tackle. He was given perfect interference. Hook Brennan's placekick try for the extra point went wide.

This was the only chance Manchester had to score during the afternoon. The game was played under a scorching hot sun. The excessive heat plainly affected both teams and many time-outs were necessary.

Meriden brought a very strong team here, one that gave the Cloverleaves real opposition. Manager Griffin said he wished he could secure opposition of that caliber every Sunday as it assured the fans their money's worth and then some.

Referee Penalizes Cubs 27 Yards When Saimonds Enters First Half for First Time, Claiming Illegal Return; Score 7-6.

After a heart breaking march of 52 yards for a touchdown against the Falcons of Meriden at Hanover park in that city yesterday, the Cubs football team of this town suffered a 7 to 6 defeat which can be charged directly to Referee John Hart who handed down one of the wildest decisions ever made in football circles.

Under a midsummer sun the two teams suffered greatly. During the first part of the game Meriden had a distinct advantage, not due to superior playing ability, but rather to the "breaks." Outweighed, but not outgamed or outplayed, the Cubs fought back and averted a score on at least three occasions when fumbles placed the Falcons within easy striking distance.

Referee Hart, in doubt, questioned Coach Jack Sawyer, who appeared satisfied that everything was according to Hoyle, left the Manchester bench and went back to the middle of the field where he heated a moment and then penalized the Cubs 27 yards, half the distance of the goal line.

Outside of this disagreeable feature which robbed the Cubs of a well earned victory, the overhead attack of the Cubs featured the sustained march down the field. Short snappy passes, three in number, netted about 22 yards. Short passes through the line and Dietz's brilliant offensive work furnished real football, despite the weather.

The all-round play of Mozer and Glans, Cuban wingmen featured. As a matter of fact the whole Manchester team played exceptionally good. The lineup: Falcons: Sieracki, I; Picalo, I; Sears, I; Kuzcon, C; Semptan, II; Anton, Jr., K; Kline, qb; Mastrian, rb; Grady, lb; Sullivan, rb; Cubs: Mozer, lb; Finnegan, I; Hapenny, I; Pentore, C; Merrer, qb; Vendrillo, rt; Donnelly, qb; Farr, rb; Cervini, lb; Minnieucci, lb.

Substitutions: Diest for Minnieucci; Borowski for Cervini; Dahlgren for Farr; Saimonds for Vendrillo; Ambraki for Merrer; Vesca for Pentore; Elystover for Mozer; Mantelli for Glans; Quish for Finnegan. Referee, Hart. Umpire, Robelka. Touchdowns, Diest, Cline.

The C. B. A. A.-New Britain game was somewhat slow because of the excessive heat, but Manchester's margin was sufficiently convincing. Bert McConkey opened the scoring after twenty minutes had elapsed taking advantage of a mis-kick by a New Britain back. George Welch tallied the second marker on a drive close in from a scrummage.

Ewen Dribbles In With Deciding Goal; Hutchinson Heads In Another; Heat Slows Up Contest.

Hartford swarmed all over J. P. Coats of Pawtucket in the second half of their American League soccer game at the McKee street stadium yesterday and was rewarded with a 3 to 1 victory.

Play in the first half was fairly even, but in the final stanza, Manager Jimmy Dewhurst's charges came to life with a grim determination that was not to be denied. The players on both teams bore up well despite the sweltering hot weather that kept the large crowd in shirt sleeves.

With its remodeled forward line, Hartford looked much improved yesterday. The game started fast with Hartford pressing hard for the first ten minutes. In a goal for Pawtucket, saved several drives and he was ably assisted by Stevenson and Marten. Then the Coats turned the tide, but, like Hartford, were not fortunate enough to get one where the goalie wasn't. Tommy Blair was being pressed hard and he gave a remarkable exhibition of saving. Once Harvey, the great outside right for J. P. Coats drove one with such force that it nearly took Blair off his feet. Luckily, the drive was right at Blair's feet and it would have been an easy score.

The first score of the game came after 27 minutes had elapsed, Adams counting for Pawtucket after Harvey had centered beautifully. Hartford protested against the play, but Referee McCabe ruled the goal okay. The reverse seemed to put fire into the Hartford attack and five minutes later, Jimmy Ewen, former Boston player, dribbled twenty yards down the left side of the field and right up to the goal mouth where he beat Kerr with a wicked smash. It was one of the best plays of the whole game and Ewen was applauded warmly.

Shortly afterward, three players were injured in a minor accident. Seriously, Andy Bain, Hartford back, however, was forced to withdraw from the game and, rather than to make a substitution and lose Bain's services for the remainder of the game, Hartford decided to play the next five minutes that were left in the first half.

Bain came back as the second 45-minute period opened and Hartford decisively outplayed the visitors throughout the period, scoring two goals and winning handsomely. A couple of more through over-anxiousness. Hartford forced three corner kicks but they availed nothing. The Lawmakers lost a goal when Referee McCabe ruled objection just before Dabbe counted. The deciding goal came a few minutes later when Jimmy Ewen attempted to enter. The shot came across perfectly and curved into the far corner of the net completely fooling Kerr. Referee McCabe scored. Hartford added another few minutes later when Hutchinson headed in Ewen's cross. There was a misunderstanding between Kerr and Marten on the play and as a consequence the ball went into the net ending the score.

H. S. Lacks Punch In Opening Game

Manchesters lone touchdown came in the second quarter, the result of odd play. With the ball well in its own territory, West Hartford elected to kick out of danger on the fourth down. Havens went back, and so did the ball, the pass being terribly erratic going clear over Havens' head and rolling back of the goal line. Fisher recovered for West Hartford and in the excitement of the moment was almost tackled by Ab Luplen for what would have been a safety. He ran the ball out to the nine yard line.

On four successive line backs, Standard hurried himself across the final strip tying the score. Luplen's drop kick went wide.

During the second half, however, West Hartford's well-olled backfield ran riot through the local line. Four consecutive first downs were registered by the home team against seven for Manchester. The home team was also very superior in its aerial attack completing five of its eight tries as compared to four out of ten for Coach Tommy Kelley's tribe. Each team fumbled twice and recovered and the penalties were even, each team being "soaked" thirty yards. Not a single lateral pass was attempted.

North Ends Win, Score Is 6 to 0

The North Ends won their second game of the season yesterday afternoon over St. Anthony Juniors of Hartford by the score of 6-0. Although the score was low it should have been larger as the North Ends lost several chances to score while the St. Anthony threatened but once.

After a series of off-tackle plays, the North Ends brought the ball to the St. Anthony's ten yard line only to lose it on downs after two line breaks. Just before the half the North Ends threatened but lost the ball on an intercepted forward pass. It was in the third quarter when the North Ends advanced the ball from midfield to the eight yard line and Mike Sacherer plunged through right tackle for the score. Billy Eagleson was rushed in to dropkick the extra point but the ball went wide.

Cubs' Opponents Meriden Champs

The management of the Falcons' football team of Meriden was very much put over the statement published in the All-Meriden club which played the Cloverleaves of this town yesterday at Hickey's Grove.

Upon the request of Manager S. A. Barovich of the Falcons the following brief note is published: "That the St. Stanislaus club of this city, Meriden, are the champions beating us, the Falcons, on the title in 1928. The score was 7-0. And with this score went the city title."

TODAY IN FISTIANA

Oct. 3rd, 1927. RYAN VS. BEAUSCHOLTE Twenty-five years ago today, Tommy Ryan, famous middleweight champion of the world, met and defeated two prominent heavyweights in the same ring at Kansas City, Mo. Ryan was billed to fight a scheduled 20 round affair with Barney Walsh, who had achieved considerable fame in the middle west, and knocked him out in two rounds. The sudden termination of the fray displeased the patrons to such an extent that Ryan offered to take on any man the promoters proposed. Accordingly, Jack Beauscholte, a giant battler of Chicago was sent in and Ryan disposed of him in five rounds. Young doctors in England now can raise capital to buy themselves practices through a new insurance plan.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE © CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Characters of the Story
PHILO VANCE
 JOHN F.-I. MARKHAM, District Attorney of New York County
 ALVIN H. BENSON, Well-known Wall Street broker and man-about-town, who was mysteriously murdered in his home
 MAJOR ANTHONY BENSON, Brother of the murdered man
 MRS. ANNA PLATE, Housekeeper for Alvin Benson
 MURIEL ST. CLAIR, A young singer
 CAPTAIN PHILIP LEACOCK, Miss St. Clair's fiancé
 LEANDER PFFFE, Intimate of Alvin Benson's
 ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau
 S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of the murder and Markham, tracing them to Miss St. Clair, has her brought to his office. She makes flippant answers to his questions but betrays concern when Markham asks if Leacock had not owned a Colt .45, the same type of gun that killed Benson. Vance tells Markham he is certain of the girl's innocence.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
 CHAPTER XVII
 "NATURALLY," Vance replied, "since it's an irrelevant factor in most crimes. Every one of us, my dear chap, has just as good a motive for killing at least a score of men, as the motives which actuate 99 crimes out of a hundred. And, when anyone is murdered, there are dozens of innocent people who had just as strong a motive for doing it as had the actual murderer."

"Really, I know, the fact that a man has a motive is no evidence whatever that he's guilty,—such motives are too universal a possession of the human race."

"Suspecting a man of murder because he has a motive is like suspecting a man of running away with another man's wife because he has two legs. The reason that some people kill and others don't, is a matter of temperament,—of individual psychology. It all comes back to that. . . . And another thing: when a person does possess a real motive—something tremendous and overpowering—he's pretty apt to keep it to himself, to hide it and guard it carefully—eh, what? He may even have disguised the motive through years of preparation, or the motive may have been born within five minutes of the crime through the unexpected discovery of facts a decade old."

"So, if you see the absence of any apparent motive in a crime might be regarded as more incriminating than the presence of one."

"You are going to have some difficulty in eliminating the idea of cut bono from the consideration of crime."

"I dare say," agreed Vance. "The idea of cut bono is just silly enough to be impregnable. And yet, many persons would be benefited by almost anyone's death. Kill Sumner, and, on that theory, you could arrest the entire membership of the Authors League."

"Opportunity, at any rate," persisted Markham, "is an insuperable factor in crime,—and by opportunity, I mean that affinity of circumstances and conditions which make a particular crime possible, feasible and convenient for a particular person."

"How a sane person can subscribe to that ancient hallucination that 'murder will out' is beyond me. It rarely 'outs,' old dear."

"Another irrelevant factor," asserted Vance. "Think of the opportunities we have every day to murder people we dislike! . . . Only the other night I had 10 insupportable bores to dinner in my apartment—a social devoir. But I refrained—with considerable effort, I admit—from putting arsenic in the Pontac Canet."

"The Borgias and I, I see, merely belong in different psychological categories. On the other hand, had I been resolved to do murder, I would—like those resourceful patricians—have created my own opportunity. . . . And there's the rub:—one can either make an opportunity or disguise the fact that he had it, with false alibis and various other tricks."

"You remember the case of the murderer who called the police to break into his victim's house before the latter had been killed, saying he suspected foul play, and who then preceded the policemen indoors and stabbed the man as they were trailing up the stairs?"

"Well, what of actual proximity, or presence,—the proof of a person being on the scene of the crime at the time it was committed?"

"Again misleading," Vance declared. "An innocent person's presence is too often used as a shield by the real murderer who is actually absent. A clever criminal can commit a crime from a distance through an agency that is present."

"And I suppose the needle would remain static with a guilty person in contact?"

"Oh, on the contrary," Vance's tone was unflinching. "The needle would bob up and down just the same—but not because he was guilty."

"If he was stupid, for instance, the needle would jump as a result of his resentment at a seemingly newfangled third-degree torture. And if he was intelligent, the needle would jump because his suppressed mind at the puerility of the legal mild for indulging in such nonsense."

"You move me deeply," said Markham. "My head is spinning like a turbine. But there are those of us poor working men believe that criminality is a defect of the brain."

"So it is," Vance readily agreed. "But unfortunately the defect of the human race possesses the defect. The virtuous ones haven't, so to speak, the correct sense of direction."

"However, if you were referring to a criminal type, then, alas! we must part company."

"It was Lombroso, that darling of the yellow journals, who invented the idea of the congenital criminal. Real scientists like DuBois, Karl Pearson and Goring have shot his idiotic theories full of holes."

"I am floored by your erudition," declared Markham, as he signalled to a passing attendant and ordered another cigar. "I console myself, however, with the fact that, as a rule, murder will leak out."

"Vance smoked his cigaret in silence, looking thoughtfully out through the window up at the lazy June sky."

"Markham," he said at length, "the number of fantastic ideas extant about criminals is positively amazing."

"How a sane person can subscribe to that ancient hallucination that 'murder will out' is beyond me. It rarely 'outs,' old dear. And, if it did 'out,' why a homicide bureau? Why all this whirling dervish activity by the police whenever a body is found? . . . The poets are to blame for this bit of lunacy. Chaucer probably started it with his 'Morte d'Arthur,' and Shakespeare helped it along by attributing to murder a miraculous organ that speaks in lieu of a tongue."

"It was some poet, too, no doubt, who conceived the fancy that carcasses bleed at the sight of the murderer. . . . Would you, as the great protector of the faithful, dare tell the police what you think of the offices, or clubs, or favorite beauty parlors—or wherever policemen do their waiting—until a murder 'outs'? Poor dear!—if you did, they'd ask the governor for your detention as a participant in the crime, or apply for a sanity hearing."

Markham grunted good-naturedly. He was busy cutting and lighting his cigar.

"I don't know what case Vance was referring to; but there are several investigations on record, and writers of detective fiction have often used it. The latest instance is to be found in G. K. Chesterton's 'The Innocence of Father Brown,' in the story entitled 'The Wrong Name.'"

"It was Pearson and Goring who, about 20 years ago, made in their professional criminals in England, the results of which showed (1) that criminal careers began mostly between the ages of 16 and 21; (2) that 90 per cent of the criminals were mentally normal; and (3) that more criminals had criminal older brothers than criminal fathers."

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

OMISSION OF VITAMIN IN DIET CAUSES PELLAGRA

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 In the area south of the Potomac and the Ohio rivers and indeed in many other portions of the south particularly, the disease known as pellagra is still a significant cause of death and of disability.

In this condition there is a typical eruption on the skin, associated with loss of strength, indigestion, nervousness, dizziness, vertigo, headache and a burned or scalded feeling of the mouth and tongue. In a small percentage of the cases the mind is disturbed sufficiently to demand asylum care but the exact relationship of the mental disturbance to the disease has not been accurately determined.

As Dr. Joseph Goldberger of the United States Public Health Service emphasizes in a recent consideration of the subject, the disease is rarely seen in persons who eat much meat or who drink fresh milk regularly.

Comes With Poverty
 The disease may occur in anyone but the poor are the chief sufferers. When the cost of food increases greatly the incidence of this disease rises rapidly.

Investigations made in many places lend increasing support to the opinion that pellagra is the result of living on an unbalanced diet and that people who eat a mixed, well-balanced and varied diet do not have the disease.

The diet of the rural population of the south is made up mostly of cornmeal, hominy grits, white wheat flour, white rice, dried beans, salt pork, sorghum or cane molasses and collards, or "greens." Apparently there is in it too little of some important vitamin to prevent the appearance of pellagra.

This vitamin is believed to be present in nearly if not quite all natural foods except the oils and fats. There is little in cornmeal, white flour or rice, but a great deal in lean meat and powdered yeast. Milk is one of the most valuable single foods for the prevention of pellagra, but when lean meat, yeast, vegetables and fruits are not in the diet, at least a quart of milk must be taken every day to provide an adequate amount of vitamin.

Potatoes and Fruits
 The yolk of the egg contains a good deal of the preventive substance. Such vegetables as potatoes, turnips, string beans, tomatoes, cabbage and spinach, as well as the fruits, contain the vitamin, but in relatively small amounts.

Thus nearly two pounds of tomatoes or a quart of canned tomato juice are needed to have the same preventive effect as a quart of buttermilk or a half pound of lean meat or an ounce of powdered yeast.

 Dr. Goldberger recommends one ounce of powdered yeast a day for a child under twelve years of age, for the control of the disease in those on bad diets or in persons who already show symptoms. The yeast may be given in milk-tomato juice or fruit juices with additional benefit from the milk itself. "In the average case," he says, "the patient, if carefully fed, will be fully convalescent in from six to twelve weeks."

Home Page Editorial
Concerning the Movie Children
 By Olive Roberts Barton

"Poor little thing! I suppose the mother and father are swelling around in a Rolls Royce on what that child earns. I do wish they'd get after people who allow their children to work in the movies."

I've heard similar remarks, and so have you since Jackie Coogan first smiled out at you from under his long black lashes, or Wesley Barry began to cash in on his polka-dotted countenance.

As a matter of fact, if children could be looked after as tenderly, as intelligently, and as commonsensibly as the children of school age and under who work for the various movie studios, we should have little use for children's clinics, doctors and hospitals.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

A girl reporter on a city newspaper took up her stand in her city's marriage license bureau one fine fall morning and talked with the brides-to-be as they came in for their sacred parchment. Thirteen out of 22 admitted that they were keeping on with their jobs. Their reasons included, "so that we can have a home of our own; I'd just die alone all day; there isn't enough to do in a flat." The school board of this same city recently ruled that marriage should in no way enter into consideration of teacher appointments; that the job went to the best qualified person, regardless of marital condition.

Still Mad
 The papers, however, continue to be filled with protests from men who complain that they can't get jobs because of the vast hordes of wage-earning wives, and from unmarried girls who lament that "women who don't have to provide their own bread and butter get the jobs."

Need For 'Em!
 It has never seemed to occur to these objectors that when wives pour into the commercial, industrial, and professional world, it is because a need for them has called them there; because present conditions are such that the greatest number can be served by women outside the home rather than by those in. A great sweeping combination of social and economic circumstances make our choice; not we ourselves. A few toes may be trodden upon by the move which universal conditions dictate, but the majority are profiting.

Thinkers For It!
 The only argument which I need to convince me of the right of married women to hold jobs is the fact that practically all our real thinkers accept the condition and admit that marriage or lack of it should no more qualify or disqualify a woman for a job than it does a man.

Then Yowl
 Queerly enough, the very girls who yowl the loudest are the first ones to grab tightly onto their own jobs the minute they acquire a little orange blossom engraved platinum ring. We short-sighted mortals are so inclined to fall to see that unless we accept or reject states of affairs on an impersonal basis, and for the good of the greater number, we cannot very fairly take to heart the condition which we rejected when it hurt but want to grab the minute our own changed condition makes it pleasurable.

Just As Womanly
 It is significant to note the reasons which those 13 brides gave for holding onto their jobs. Homes. Better standards of living. The home-building instinct and all other instincts creditable to women find just as loud expression in today's wage-earning life as they did in the wife who asked only to keep her hearth fires going in a literal sense by carrying the wood in from the wood pile with her own fair hands.

NUTS

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tynmites dropped down on their knees to try and dodge the sand-filled breeze. And then they built a mound of sand behind which they could hide. 'Twas finished soon 'mid quite a fuss and Scouty said, 'Twill shelter us.' 'Twas queer to see the little group all huddled side by side.

They found that making progress in the sand was hard as it could be. Said Carpy, "This is something new. With each step on, I slip back two. But, anyway, the wind's died down, and now we'll all be good to her, she'll take us all back to our kite, and give us all a ride." The camel stopped right in its track. The girl then pointed to its back. "She's telling us to hop right on," the bunch heard Coppy say. So up they climbed, and sat real still. It seemed to give the girl a thrill. She seized the camel rope and led the Tynmites on their way.

(The Tynmites land in India in the next story.)

ANOTHER MANCHESTER MAN TO BE FLYER

Charles Small of Keeney Street Buys Plane and Is Taking Lessons Now.

Charles Small of 363 Keeney street has purchased an airplane and expects soon to qualify as a full fledged aviator, having already secured his certificate as a "solo" flyer.

There are about four or five different classes that it is necessary to qualify in before a person can be accepted in air riding, the last being the physical examination, which consists of lung, heart and eye tests, but in this respect Mr. Small, who is employed by Cheney Brothers, did not wait until he had passed the first tests and then be thrown down because of physical conditions, but took the physical test first, in which he qualified in every respect.

The first test that is given in the way of instruction is what is known as solo flying. For this a person pays $30 an hour or it can be taken in two lessons of $15 for one-half hour at each time. It consists of general instructions of operating the plane, such as dipping, tail spins and climbing, take-off and proper landing. In these Mr. Small has already qualified and has received his certificate, but most of this work is done over Brainerd field, where the machine is first taken up by an instructor and later watched from the ground.

The next step is the actual flying, which is not considered and the necessary information must then be had as to proper understanding of directions, height and speed. In buying a plane of his own, and which he can use in practice by flying over private grounds, as is possible in the Keeney street district, he is making more progress.

There is not much probability that he will do a lot of flying around Manchester until he has passed the final tests and secured his certificate and there is also the trouble in getting the high-powered gasoline that is used for in addition to the high power of the gasoline there is mixed two quarts of castor oil with each twenty gallons of the high test gasoline.

Others who are taking the course, or at least have taken a ride or two to arrive at some decision as to this question of occupation are Raymond Holland, well known baseball pitcher and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holland, in addition to two north end boys.
