REMUS TO PICK WOMEN TO ACT AS HIS JURORS

Bootleg King Who Killed Wife Says Women Will Free Him After They Hear His Story.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 12.—"Women can serve as jurors in Ohio. I want women on the jury which will hear my case. I would be happiest if I could have twelve women judge me. Only women can know the depths of degradation to which a woman must sink to betray the man who had given her everything she owns, and were a jury of women to sit in judgment I would be freed without the jury leaving the box."

George Remus, wife slayer, many times a millionaire by a fortune started from money given by women as divorce court fees, divorced by one woman to marry the co-respondent.

Wants Women Jurors. George Remus, flouter of all the ideals and conventions, woman is supposed to hold dearest today, from his cell in the Hamilton county jail announced that he will, as far as limitations of the venire permit, select feminine jurors to weigh his life in the scales of justice against that of the woman he killed.

Remus discussed the all-vital questions of the jury which will try him as his agents continue a nation-wide search for millions claimed by Remus and hidden, he asserts, by his dead wife.

Women Understand. "My experience in the divorce courts as a lawyer back in Ohio, I found me that women have a keener sense of fundamental justice than men," said Remus. "They may not understand, or they may deliberately ignore the finer technicalities of an over technical law, but a woman, placed in a position where she must decide some matter vital to the affairs of another, asks one question:

"Is it right?" Then, whatever be the process of law, she acts to bring a verdict which will conform to the dictates of her conscience.

Are Loyal. "I don't care whether the women who may serve on my jury come from the homes of society, from the tenements of the workers, from the country, from the churches or the streets. All women have a fundamental emotion of loyalty.

"No more bitter and sterner judge was ever in the world than one woman sitting in judgment on another who has betrayed her mate."

FIVE DEAD, 18 HURT IN WESTERN STORM

Twenty Houses Wrecked By Wind In Little Arkansas Town.

Blytheville, Ark., Oct. 12.—Five dead and eighteen injured was the toll of life taken early today by a severe storm which whipped through the village of Dell, eight miles from here.

Early reports of ten to thirty dead were based on estimated by Cobb Brothers, undertakers, who were busy most of the night bringing the dead and injured over rain-soaked roads to the local hospital. Very little damage was done in Blytheville.

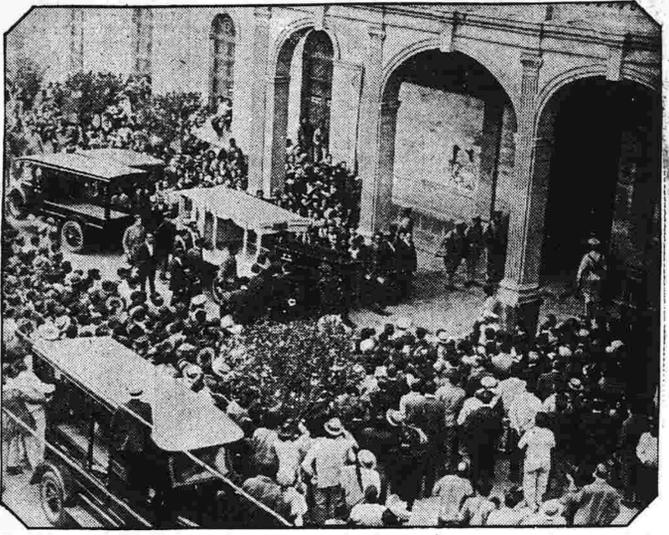

Known Dead. The known dead are: Justice of the Peace J. P. Williams and wife. An unidentified boy aged about twelve, who died in the hospital. E. M. Hardin and wife.

The storm struck this section of Arkansas shortly after midnight, but seemed to enter its fury on the little village of Dell. About twenty houses were either wrecked or fire broke out but this was checked by the heavy rainfall.

ANOTHER ROBBERY. Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 12.—A second Post Road business section robbery in two nights occurred last night when William E. Finch's pharmacy was entered and $100 in cash was taken. The intruders, who entered by forcing a rear lavatory window, took three bottles of ginger ale also. The Finch store is 300 feet from the shop of Lucille Lockwood where $10,000 worth of women's apparel was taken Monday night.

TREASURY BALANCE. Washington, Oct. 12.—Treasury balance October 10: $469,459,122.65.

HOPE TO INSTALL DEMOLAY HERE

Order For Young Men May Soon Be Sponsored By Local Masons.

Progress toward the establishment of a chapter of the Order of DeMolay in Manchester was reported at last night's meeting of Manchester lodge of Masons by William Walsh, chairman of the committee investigating DeMolay for the local lodge. That DeMolay chapter will soon be organized here is almost assured.

In order that Manchester Masons may receive a better idea of the work that is accomplished in DeMolay chapters it is planned to have the Hartford chapter of the order confer two degrees in the local Masonic Temple within the near future. Although no definite plans have been made Mr. Walsh told the local lodge last night that it was his hope that a dinner could be given the DeMolay boys here and that the degree work could be done in the main lodge room of the new Temple.

What It Is. The Order of DeMolay is an organization for boys between the ages of 16 and 21 sponsored by Masonic bodies throughout the world. It is not a Junior Masonic order. Boys who are members of DeMolay are no better prepared for Masonry than is a candidate who has not joined DeMolay. It is an order for the purpose of the teaching and practicing of clean thinking, clean speaking and clean living among its members. It emphasizes the preservation of religious, civil and intellectual liberty.

There are over 1,500 chapters of DeMolay with a membership of over half a million young men. It is instituted here the local chapter would hold its meetings in the new Masonic Temple. Any Master Mason in good standing can attend DeMolay meetings and a Master Mason who is on the advisory council for

BILLADELLA GUILTY, GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Winsted Youth Who Killed Little Girl, is Taken to Wethersfield Jail.

Litchfield, Conn., Oct. 12.—John Billadella, nineteen, who late yesterday pleaded guilty in Superior Court here to a charge of second degree murder because of the death last July of Rose Bordino, ten, was taken to Wethersfield by automobile today to begin his life sentence. The boy's counsel, as the defense drew to a close yesterday, asked permission of the three judges presiding to change the plea on the ground that the boy is mentally deficient. The judges agreed to accept the change of plea which automatically brought a life sentence.

Billadella's trial started on October 4th. It was the first to be tried under the new statute which provides that when a person accused of a capital crime shall elect a court trial instead of a jury trial three judges shall preside. The judges were Leonard J. Nickerson, of Cornwall; John Richard Booth, of Danbury, and E. C. Dickenson, of Hartford.

AMERICAN FINANCIERS TO FLOAT BIG LOAN

To Raise 72 Millions on Poland's Bonds—Agreement to Be Signed Tomorrow. Warsaw, Oct. 12.—An agreement has been reached by which Poland will obtain a loan of $72,000,000 from a group of international bankers headed by American financiers. The agreement will be signed tomorrow. The bankers agreed that the loan bonds be issued at a price of 92 with a redemption price of 100. Poland has the option to redeem the loan wholly or in part in 1937. America will take $45,000,000 of the bonds; England will take $10,000,000 and another $17,000,000 will be placed elsewhere in Europe. The president of Poland will issue a decree stabilizing the zloty at nine to the dollar upon the basis of the loan.

RUTH ELDER IS LAST SIGHTED 500 MILES EAST OF HALIFAX

Senator Reed Assails Republican Policies

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 12.—Assailing the Harding and Coolidge administrations of all the Republican policies, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri addressed a state-wide meeting of Democrats here this afternoon. Senator Reed scored Harry M. Daugherty and Andrew Mellon, and bitterly criticized President Coolidge for retaining Mellon as secretary of the treasury, which he claimed was in violation of Section 243 of the revised statutes. Senator Reed classified the Mellon foreign debt settlement plan as "vacillation and cowardice." "The times are ripe and rotten ripe for a change," began Senator Reed in his address. "Let us reassert the truth of the doctrine that— "If this people are to remain free, the local self-government and the sovereignty of the states must be preserved. "The federal power should be brought into the limits not only of the letter, but also within the spirit of the constitution. "The march of centralization must be arrested. "Government by boards and bureaucracies must cease. (Continued on Page 3)

GOMEZ MOBILIZES TROOPS AT TUXPAM

Instead of Being Defeated By Federals, Rebel Says Battle Not Decisive.

New York, Oct. 12.—While the Mexican government was exercising every effort today towards the capture of General Gomez and members of his band who escaped after the battle on Sunday, Gomez was reported as mobilizing a new force and moving towards the possession of the oil field north of Tuxpam.

This information was contained in a radio message, made public here by Gomez headquarters as received from Martinez De La Torre in Vera Cruz state.

The radiogram was signed by Colonel Jose Ortiz, chief of the Gomez staff. It also declared the battle of Sunday was an indecisive one. In their report of the battle, Mexican officials said the rout of the Gomez forces was complete. The translation of the radio message as made public was:

The Message. "We have been here (Martinez De La Torre) since Saturday evening, with three mixed columns of infantry and cavalry to the total of about 4,000 men. "General Francisco Medina had an encounter with Federal troops at Barranca Honda Sunday evening, with three mixed columns of infantry and cavalry to the total of about 4,000 men. "The chief is busy organizing the march across the Cazonas river forward through the Tuxpam valley. We are moving headquarters to Palma Sola on the river bank north of Tuxpam. Our objective is now complete control of the oil fields."

DRIVER EXONERATED. Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 12.—Frank J. Reinhardt, of Norwalk, was today exonerated from all blame for the death of Joseph Krcicler, 45, of Fairfield, who was killed on October 2nd, last, by Reinhardt's car on the Post Road in Fairfield. Coroner John J. Phelan finds that the death was entirely accidental.

LOSES LEG WHEN HIT BY TROLLEY

Hartford Man Run Down Near Laurel Park At 2:05 This Afternoon.

John Martino, of Wethersfield avenue, Hartford, a helper on a Hartford fruit truck, was struck by a Hartford trolley car near Laurel Park at 2:05 this afternoon and was seriously injured. He was rushed to the Memorial hospital where it was found necessary to amputate one leg.

The trolley car was in charge of Motorman Frank O'Mara of Hartford. The auto truck was said to be parked at the side of the car tracks and as the trolley was passing Martino came from behind the truck and was hit. The rear wheels of the trolley car passed over Martino's leg.

American Liner Reports Her At 10:35 Last Night—No Word Since—At That Time Weather Was Favorable; Should Be Over Half Way Across Ocean If All Went Well—Plane May Be Flying High to Escape Storm Area Further Along Path—Expected to Reach Paris At 7 O'Clock (Our Time) Tomorrow Morning.

New York, Oct. 12.—Roaring through the clouds in a new attempt to bridge 3,600 miles of ocean by air, the monoplane "American Girl," carrying Miss Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman on a flight to Paris, is believed to have entered the low pressure area of storms and fogs 1,000 miles east of Newfoundland. This ocean hop is the longest sustained flight across the water ever attempted. The plane, unreported since it was sighted at 10:35 o'clock last night by the liner American Banker of the American Merchant Marine, should have reached the halfway mark across the ocean eleven A. M., if the fliers thus far successfully eluded the Nemesis which has claimed the lives of so many trans-Atlantic aviators.

The area of low pressure constitutes the most difficult part of the voyage, in the opinion of meteorological experts. There are sudden winds which whip the ocean into a fury, dense blankets of fogs, and continued rain and snow. Worse Part of Trip. If the "American Girl" passes safely through this area, it is believed the fliers' chances of success are excellent.

Through this area and beyond are the lanes of the trans-Atlantic steamers, and twenty-five vessels are strung out at intervals of a few hundred miles all the way across.

It is regarded as unlikely that the plane will be sighted while it is battling the elements in the storm area. Miss Elder and Haldeman probably would choose to fly at the highest altitude possible in order to evade the elemental disturbances, or else the plane would be excluded from the view of vessels beneath them by the low-lying clouds and fog shrouding the sea.

The "American Girl" hopped off from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, just after five o'clock yesterday afternoon. If all goes well, the fliers hope to reach their goal in thirty-eight to forty-two hours. Thirty-eight hours of flying would place them in Paris at noon, Paris time, tomorrow, or 7 A. M., New York time. The present rate of speed of the plane, however, as computed from the position given by the S. S. American Banker in its wireless message last night, indicated that more than thirty-eight hours will be needed for the flight.

Follow Steamers. However, as the steamer route instead of the Great Circle course which Colonel Charles Lindbergh followed on his trail-blazing flight, the former route adds several hundred miles to the Atlantic are regarded as far from favorable, but the air over the French coast is clear and the visibility expected to be excellent once the ocean hop has been completed.

FIRST REPORTS. New York, Oct. 12.—The Independent Wireless Company reported at 6 a. m. today that it had received a wireless message from the S. S. American Banker reporting that the vessel had sighted the plane "American Girl," in which Ruth Elder and George Haldeman are attempting a New York-to-Paris flight at 10:35 o'clock last night.

The position of the plane was given as Latitude 41 North, Longitude 65.04, which is directly south of Halifax and almost 500 miles due east from New York. The plane circled the ship and then went on. It was making good time. Weather conditions were ideal.

Heavy Static. The wireless company said the delay in receiving the message was due to heavy static which had interfered with all radio communication during the night.

The American Banker reported that a light northwest breeze was blowing at the time the plane was sighted.

Miss Elder is the first American woman to attempt a trans-Atlantic crossing. Haldeman is her co-pilot. They left Roosevelt Field, New York, at 5:04 p. m., yesterday for Paris.

90 Miles An Hour. The report from the American Banker indicated that the plane was making approximately ninety miles an hour. If no mishap occurred after they were sighted by the steamer, the fliers should have traversed at least 1,260 miles at seven o'clock this morning. This would place them near the regular steamer lane, as they had planned to head northward after flying due east for approximately 1,250 miles. With its load of gasoline lightened, as the hours passed, the plane probably increased its speed after sighting the American Banker and reached the steamer lane before seven o'clock this morning, it was estimated.

Carries Radio. The plane carries a small radio sending set with a radius of about 25 miles. Miss Elder expects to reach the French capital after forty hours of flying.

Miss Elder's co-pilot and navigator, Captain Haldeman, is a World War veteran who served with the American flying forces in France. He is also a navigator and radio operator.

After passing Montauk point on the eastern end of Long Island, the plane headed out to sea. The pilots have planned their course so that they will head due east for 1,244 miles, then veer toward the English channel on the way to Le Bourget Airports in Paris. None of the previous trans-Oceanic flights took the pilots over so great a stretch of ocean.

Takes Longest Course. The plucky woman was pursuing the longest and toughest course yet mapped out for an ocean aviator. She was flying this course after the season was officially "closed" to such expeditions and with weather prophets wagging their heads in doubt.

She was wearing the "American Girl" with a smile on her lips and a rag doll in her arms, flying it with a Bible her mother gave her tucked under the seat, a Chinese good luck ring, the gift of a girl friend, on her finger, and a rabbit's foot tucked in her helmet. One of the last things Miss Elder did before she stepped into the plane was to kiss H. D. Cornell, a wealthy orange grower of Florida, and T. D. McArde, two of the backers of the flight. She kissed each one several times.

Her Backers. Miss Elder's principal backers are eight men of Wheeling, West Virginia. All the backers tried in vain to persuade Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman to give up their plans for a trans-oceanic flight this year because of the recent disastrous attempts of other fliers. Miss Elder and Haldeman took the responsibility of making the flight. "The American Girl" is easily identified. It is enameled a brilliant, flaming orange color, and on the side in script is painted "The American Girl" with the legend, in smaller letters beneath it "Wheeling, U. S. A." Under the wings is painted "NX-1384." The same numbers and letters are on the rudder. The plane has a Wright Whirlwind motor, similar to the one used by Lindbergh, Byrd and

Rockville FIND FARKOUH BOY IN CRYSTAL LAKE

Body of July Fourth Drowning Victim Discovered By Hartford Man.

Rockville, Conn., Oct. 12.—Crystal Lake has finally given up the body of Ives Farkouh, WILLIAM... The girl's body was found by divers on July seventh. The divers worked many days after the effort to find the boy's body but were unsuccessful.

Politics Booming. It is only a month from now when the city's year ends and on November 16 there will be a ward caucus for the nomination of officers for city positions.

As far as the Democrats are concerned they too are not anxious to be candidates unless they feel there will be a full ticket to support them. One man, who several feel has the ability and could carry the election is being encouraged in the work, but he will not yet allow his name to be used.

The town of Vernon is Republican, but Rockville, being a separate section of the town of Vernon has its own government and the vote is closer. It was evident today that already the Democrats are starting their work and are going to keep it at it, but the Republicans seem indifferent and it would not at all be surprising if a Democratic mayor, council and board of aldermen were elected this year.

Reports Distributed. At the meeting of the common council last night there was only routine business transacted, with the exception that the mayor distributed a condensed report of the findings of the engineer on the sewer question. The report covers what the Herald first disclosed and which has been covered from time to time as the new developments have arisen. Copies will be provided to the mill owners as there are many questions of importance that will require action on their part before the system can be completed.

Following a Hunch. Bill Sweeney, who does newspaper work for out of town papers had the hunch that there was going to be something unusual at Crystal Lake and yesterday went to the lake to see the few that were still living there. He made arrangements to get a call to his home should anything unusual develop and as a result he "got the break" on the findings of the boys that the boys that had been missing since July 4, an account of which appears above.

Want More Pay. At the city meeting in December there will be a request made for an increase, or at least there should be an extra allowance given him when "clean up week" arrives. He finds it necessary to get on his rounds early in the morning because of the objection that has been made to the odor of his cart by late collections. During the clean up week that when cans and broken glass and all such rubbish is put out he hires three extra trucks and pays for their use at a rate of $1.50 a day.

The other department head that wants more money is the junk dealer that takes care of the city dump. Under his contract he must keep the dump clean and clear from rubbish of all kinds, but he was to be allowed the "findings." Now he says the merchants, as a matter of fire prevention are not throwing their paper down in the cells, but are having them baled up and one day a week a Manchester junk dealer goes to the different stores, carries out the bundles from the stores without charging them a cent and at the same time buys nothing for these bundles and papers that he carries away. He claims the Manchester junk dealer is getting the cream.

Bazaar a Success. The bazaar that was held in the basement of the Sacred Heart church in Vernon last night proved a big success not alone in a financial way but in a social way. The entertainment was furnished by Rockville, Vernon and Manchester men and women.

Farm Not Sold. Although it has been reported that the Dart farm in Vernon has been sold, this is not the case. There were negotiations on for the sale that gave the impression that it was sold, but a large dairy farm should bring big money and that was the chief reason why the sale did not go through.

New Transformer. The fact that store after store along Market street have been adding to their candle power resulted a week ago last Saturday in the transformer blowing and putting many of the places of business in darkness. A new transformer which will carry a load sufficient to take care of the needs for sometime has been installed by the electric light company.

'FLAPPER FLYER' THEY CALL RUTH

But Before the Hop-off She Was a Solemn-Faced Girl Who Was Nervous.

New York, Oct. 12.—The "Flapper Flyer," somebody has called her. Ruth Elder, 23-year-old aviatrix, somewhere out over the Atlantic today roaring along in her monoplane "American Girl" for Paris, is a matter for the student of modern feminine psychology.

A flapper with her penciled eyebrows, rouged cheeks and jaunty knickers, but also a sober-minded young woman who probably in this minute at the controls of the flaming orange ship drawing on the technical knowledge that won her a pilot's license. And beside her she carries her mother's Bible.

Solemn at Takeoff. The bride attendants were Miss Catherine Shea, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid and Thomas F. Moriarty, brother of the bridegroom. William Shea and Walter F. Shea, brothers of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The bridal party stood within the altar while the ceremony was performed by Rev. C. T. McCann. The bride wore a motor trip. Mrs. Moriarty wore a motor trip. Mrs. Moriarty wore a motor trip.

Thirty minutes before she soared into the air with her co-pilot, Captain George Haldeman, she was a solemn-faced girl who found it necessary to tax her nerve to the utmost. No more did she laugh. There were no wisecracks.

The hour for levity had passed. It was a serious business now, pitching headlong into the darkness in an uncharted air course, while beneath rolled the vast fathoms of blackness that had swallowed up others who had tried and failed.

Although Ruth said she had slept eleven hours the night before, her face plainly exhibited the nervous strain that at the final moments had accentuated. She smiled once, as a huge spray of roses was laid in her arms, but it was an effort. There was no smile in her thoughts.

She tried to busy herself about the plane, but it seemed that every detail had been looked after. "Nervous," she was asked. "Well, I suppose so. I'm impatient, anyway. Gosh, can't we have a little breeze from the west?"

Had they taken off at one o'clock as planned the spectators would have remembered Ruth as the "Flapper Flyer."

Face, White. But the three-hour delay obviously wore away the mask of gaiety and the crucial moment found her face drawn and white. After the flight Ruth was very much a young girl. And alone. No members of her family were there to see her off.

Her mother, in Annoton, Ala., was telegraphed just after the take-off. Her husband, Lytle W. Womack, a Lakeland, Fla., salesman, probably was selling, "as far as she knew."

"My husband knew I was a flying enthusiast when we were married," she said, apparently somewhat plucked over his absence. "He doesn't approve of this, I can't help it."

Pilot's Wife There. Captain Haldeman's wife, Virginia, was at the field. She embraced Ruth and "wished her love."

"Wonder if Mrs. Haldeman won't be jealous?" somebody asked Ruth bluntly. The girl looked about at the questioner. She seemed ready with a sharp rebuke, but with the audience pressing about her, she replied curtly: "I'm sure she can trust her own husband."

Ruth had no plans for her Paris debut. "We'll see what happens after we get there," she said. "Oh, I'll do some shopping, I guess. All you seem to think this is a joy ride. I wish some of you people would look at me as a pilot for once, instead of a girl passenger. Look at my license. I'm going to fly this ship. I'm not ballast. She was in reply by the type of question put to her. "Of course I want to be the first woman to fly to Paris. But that doesn't mean I'm not aware of the risk."

Water carbide flares which ignite when they strike water are carried as distress signals. The ration carried on the flight consisted of three quarts of hot coffee in thermos bottles, one quart of hot beef tea, six turkey sandwiches, six Swiss cheese sandwiches, six bars of milk chocolate and a half dozen oranges.

Miss Moriarty Weds John F. Shea Today

Miss Anna Irene Moriarty, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Thomas F. Moriarty, and John F. Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Shea of 25 Strant street were married this morning at St. Bridget's church at a nuptial high mass.

The ceremony at the church was followed by a reception and wedding breakfast for sixty-five guests, at the home of the bride's mother, 25 Hollister street. The decorations were cut flowers in season and autumn foliage.

The wedding gifts were unusually numerous and beautiful. The bride has been the honored guest at several showers both in this town and Rockville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the State Department of Labor under Commissioner Harry E. MacKenzie. For the month of September there was an increase of more than six per cent in the number of jobs available, 69.9 per cent of the applicants finding work as compared with 63.7 per cent in August.

September saw 3,396 out of 4,358 persons being given wage-earning places. Hartford in September had applications from 1,366 men and 340 women, a total of 1,706, and gave work to 654 men and 273 women, a total of 927.

New Haven had applications from 837 men and 546 women, a total of 1,383, and gave work to 633 men and 502 women, a total of 1,135.

Bridgeport had applications from 372 men and 497 women, a total of 869, and gave work to 274 men and 497 women, a total of 771.

Waterbury had applications from 302 men and 478 women, a total of 780, and gave work to 193 men and 491 women, a total of 684.

Norwich had applications from 508 men and 45 women, a total of 553, and found work for 130 men and 93 women, a total of 223.

SENATE IS AGAINST SMITH AND VARE. Washington, Oct. 12.—An inquiry, following reports that Senators-Elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois, and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, would be seated by the new Senate without a battle, today revealed an unbroken line of opposition in the ranks of the old Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which dominates the upper branch of Congress.

Senator Smith and Vare will be barred by the Senate when they seek their oaths of office, the coalition leaders declared, or the Senate will show the greatest and most unexpected reversal in all history. At present indications these leaders averred, Smith will be excluded by an even greater majority than barred him from the 69th Congress, while Vare will be denied a seat by a margin of at least fifteen votes.

Senator George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, insurgent leader, characterized as "silly" the reports of a change of heart on the part of the Vare and Smith opposition. A Democratic leader, who declined to be publicly quoted, said these stories about Vare and Smith getting seated without a fight are pure bunk. The Democrats who opposed seating Smith last spring will not stultify themselves by voting to seat him this fall. "Much propaganda is going out in behalf of Vare and Smith but I expect both will be barred."

RUTH ELDER LAST SIGHTED LAST NIGHT

(Continued from page 1) Chamberlin, and by Schlee and Brock. The plane carries 520 gallons of gasoline, sufficient for approximately 4,800 miles, 20 1-2 gallons of oil, and weighs in all 5,600 pounds. The average speed is to be 100 miles an hour.

The plane has four gasoline tanks in the wings, two of 45 gallons capacity each, and two of fifty gallons capacity each. The main fuel tank holds 190 gallons and another 150 gallons is carried in a fuselage tank. The cans to be discarded as the fuel is used up. The total fuel capacity is 520 gallons.

Mrs. Haldeman, wife of the co-pilot and navigator, was confident that the flight would succeed. Pilot's Wife Confident. "I have every confidence in George," she said, "and I know that he'll come through. I'm sure that Ruth will help him, and I know that in an emergency my husband relies on her judgment and coolness."

Asked whether she would like to be in Miss Elder's place, Mrs. Haldeman, who has often flown with her husband, replied: "Certainly, but I'm afraid I lack the ability."

Miss Elder was prepared to look her best when she landed in Paris. Over the costume in which she had been seen at the field all day, comprising a plaid sweater, golf stockings to match, gray knickers, and low oxfords, she wore a brown leather flying suit lined with gray fur. Under her helmet, which matched the leather suit, she still wore her brightly colored hair ribbon. She declared that she intended to divest herself of the flying suit and helmet in the plane before getting out at Le Bourget so that the crowd would see her in her brilliant sport costume.

Wore Business Suit. Captain Haldeman wore a regular Army winter flying suit lined with black fur, and under this a blue business suit.

Unlike Byrd and others who used rubber boats for emergency landings, to keep afloat on the ocean until aid should come, Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman will stake their lives on two rubber suits, lined with a wood composition, which are expected not only to keep them afloat, but to keep them warm as well.

Water carbide flares which ignite when they strike water are carried as distress signals. The ration carried on the flight consisted of three quarts of hot coffee in thermos bottles, one quart of hot beef tea, six turkey sandwiches, six Swiss cheese sandwiches, six bars of milk chocolate and a half dozen oranges.

Mother Worried. Annoton, Ala., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Sarah Elder, mother of Ruth Elder, the intrepid aviatrix who is attempting the Atlantic, was reported in bed today, suffering from a nervous breakdown brought about by worry over her daughter.

Members of the family said Mrs. Elder was prostrated when she learned last night that Ruth had hopped off. A physician was summoned, and Mrs. Elder has been under medical attention since.

The girl flyer's mother had sought for weeks to dissuade her from the venture. Telegrams and letters were added to personal appeal, but in vain. The mother, however, was hopeful to the last that Ruth would give up the perilous project.

"But if she does go," Mrs. Elder told friends a few days ago, "I hope the people of the world will pray that she may make the shores of Europe in safety."

TELLS KIWANIAN OF LEGION'S TRIP

Walter Sheridan Says Soldiers Were Well Received—Plan Activities.

At the Kiwanis noonday meeting at the Hotel Sheridan today, Walter Sheridan who just returned yesterday from his trip to Paris with the American Legion, gave a brief talk on his experiences and what he saw in Paris and London. Mr. Sheridan did not reach home until last night and was not aware that he had to give this talk until just before noonday. However he gave his hearers an excellent word picture of what happened. He says the Legionnaires were well received by the people of France. They were cordially welcomed wherever they went and programs and trips of various sorts were arranged for their entertainment. Mr. Sheridan went over on the S. S. Celtic and it required nine days for the voyage. Following the talk by Walter Sheridan, Principal Quimby of the High school read a poem appropriate to Columbus Day entitled "Sail On." The roll-call of members for a ladies' night in connection with the Hartford and New Britain clubs, to take place sometime in November. A committee headed by Walter Willis was appointed to make arrangements.

The meeting next week will be in charge of Principal Quimby and will be at the High school. At this meeting Howell Cheney will speak before the Kiwanis club on school consolidation for Manchester. The luncheon will be prepared and served by the students in the domestic science department. An effort is to be made to have every one of the 60 members present at this meeting. MORE JOBS IN STATE DURING LAST MONTH

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 12.—A steady increase in the number of people supplied with jobs through the state's five free employment bureaus is indicated by reports from the State Department of Labor under Commissioner Harry E. MacKenzie. For the month of September there was an increase of more than six per cent in the number of jobs available, 69.9 per cent of the applicants finding work as compared with 63.7 per cent in August.

September saw 3,396 out of 4,358 persons being given wage-earning places. Hartford in September had applications from 1,366 men and 340 women, a total of 1,706, and gave work to 654 men and 273 women, a total of 927.

New Haven had applications from 837 men and 546 women, a total of 1,383, and gave work to 633 men and 502 women, a total of 1,135.

Bridgeport had applications from 372 men and 497 women, a total of 869, and gave work to 274 men and 497 women, a total of 771.

Waterbury had applications from 302 men and 478 women, a total of 780, and gave work to 193 men and 491 women, a total of 684.

Norwich had applications from 508 men and 45 women, a total of 553, and found work for 130 men and 93 women, a total of 223.

SNAPPER BLUES RUN GOOD THIS SEASON

Anything Serves For Bait; One Fisherman Uses Tooth-brush Handle.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 12.—The height of the salt water fishing season is at hand, according to records submitted to the office of the State Board of Fisheries and Game here. Good catches of snapper blues are reported from many spots along the Sound shore though fishermen of experience insist the season is not as good as the one last year. Still a number of fishermen have brought in blues up to 4 1-2 pounds in weight. Anything serves as bait, according to the stories told to the state officials who are on the lookout for the interests of fishing. One angler says he used a tooth brush handle attached to a wire hook. Others landed their mature bluesh with such lures as dowagie minnows. Incidentally the State Board of Fisheries and Game is emphasizing the fact that while it is perfectly lawful to catch snapper blues, the sale of any bluesh under nine inches is prohibited.

The board today suggested that while the snapper blue season is about over, fishing for blackfish or atoug is now on, and should be good for a whole month.

AWARDED COMPENSATION

Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 12.—Flat feet may be cause for compensation. E. T. Buckingham, compensation commissioner for Fairfield county, today awarded to Edward M. Riley, of Norwalk, fifteen dollars a week for thirty-four weeks and $54 for expenses because Mr. Riley acquired flat feet from his work and was laid up from January 31 to October 1. Mr. Riley's flat feet were acquired through lifting heavy cores at the plant of the Norwalk Tire & Rubber Company, the compensation commissioner decided.

NIGHT SCHOOL TO AID MANY TRADES

Evening Session of Vocational Institution Here Will Begin on Monday.

This is the last of a series of seven articles dealing with the various courses of study offered evening school students at the Manchester State Trade school.

Evening sessions at the State Trade School here will begin for the winter season next Monday. All departments will operate two nights a week for about 25 weeks, providing there is sufficient attendance to justify their continuance.

The varied demands of the journeymen mechanics for theoretical and related trade training are satisfied by evening courses in mathematics, mechanical and architectural drafting and efficient methods of shop production as explained in shop talks by the instructors.

Many toolmakers and skilled mechanics have only a limited knowledge of calculations involving cost estimates. They also lack a knowledge of machine shop mathematics, required to calculate speeds of pulleys and gears, horsepower of belting and the general line of machine shop mathematics that enables a machinist or toolmaker to qualify for position as a foreman or overseer.

The same conditions apply to carpenters working at their trade whose progress in construction work would be much more rapid if they had a knowledge of house planning and cost estimating. This year, the use of the steel square and its application to building, framing will be treated quite extensively in this special instruction.

The textile department has always been popular in all of varied departments. Textile manufacturing companies are not in a position to conduct a school whereby the weaver is taken from production work and placed in a training school where he can acquire the knowledge of loom fixing. Evening textile courses supply this need and eagerly await the opening of this course each autumn.

Time-study men and general clerical help are in opportunity to acquire the practical knowledge of silk manufacture that is not obtainable through their regular work. Foremen find the analysis and textile testing, cloth analysis and design of a great importance and the school is preparing for a large class in this division. One additional instructor has been employed to teach loom fixing. John E. Johnson, of Cheney Brothers, because of the demand that is expected in this specialty.

There is a question of whether or not the sewing classes will be continued. This depends on the number of suitable applications received. The course is strictly limited to women unskilled in the art of dressmaking, no other than Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Trade School building, at which time questionnaires will be filled out. A survey of these will be made and a statement regarding the starting of a class will be made later.

List of Courses The complete schedule of the courses and their teachers follows: Textile shop, Monday and Thursday evenings; Harry S. Kitching, day evenings; Harry S. Kitching, teaching weaving; John E. Johnson loom-fixing; Alice Volquardsen warping and Florence Lambers warping. Textile theory and laboratory work; Monday and Wednesday evenings; John E. Echmellian. Drafting on Wednesday and Friday evenings; Robert Taylor and Thomas Orchard. Shop mathematics Wednesday and Friday evenings; William Stegner. Machine shop Monday and Thursday evenings; William Hanna and Paul Volquardsen. Carpentry Monday and Thursday evenings; William Roscoe and Alexander McBride. Electrical department Monday and Thursday nights; Howard Fisher and Stanley Rice. A fee of three dollars is charged for enrollment in any of the classes. It is not returnable.

GRANDSTAND COLLAPSES

Belmont, Mass., Oct. 12.—Five hundred men, women and children were thrown into a tangled mass and two were seriously injured when the wooden stand on the high school field here collapsed today during a football game between Belmont High and Funchab High of Andover, Mass. Cries of the injured and bruised mingled with the cracking of the timbers and boards as the stand folded up.

INSURGENTS TO WIELD BALANCE IN U. S. SENATE

Administration Is Facing Newly Solidified Bloc Under Norris.

Washington.—The Administration will have a recalcitrant Senate on its hands this session.

The Progressive-Insurgents already are organizing. This group again will wield the balance of power in the upper house, and perhaps more effectively than in the past.

Indications are that the Progressive bloc will be as strongly solidified as under the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, who in 1924, led an unsuccessful third party movement. LaFollette's mantle has fallen upon the shoulders of Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, long noted for his independent political action.

Win New Strength This group was strengthened in the last elections, the most notable adherent being Senator Blaine (R) of Wisconsin, a former governor of that state. He is an old disciple of the LaFollette school.

The Progressives are united along economic lines. Their chief battles will be to prevent the government from turning its great power resources to private interests, to cut taxes, to provide permanent flood control on the Mississippi and other navigable waters, and to place strict prohibitions on election to stop the expenditure of vast sums of money in campaigns.

There is little sentiment among them this year for a third party. The American Federation of Labor, one of the strongest supporters of the LaFollette movement, has decided to follow its non-partisan political policy. It opposes a labor party, but will support candidates favorable to labor in either of the major parties.

Will Fight Vore A major objective of the Progressive program will be to turn the congressional spotlight on the alleged monopolistic control of power companies. Senator Norris set the ball rolling last session. Senator Walsh (D) of Missouri, who exposed the Teapot Dome scandal, will press for a resolution calling for a thorough inquiry into the power combine.

Not strictly labor bills are in contemplation, such as the Watson-Parker limitation act of last year. Some efforts will be made, however, to put teeth into this act. Officials of the big railroad brotherhoods have complained that not all of the railroads have accepted the principle of arbitration of labor disputes as contemplated in the act.

The Progressive will fight the seating of Vore of Pennsylvania, and Smith of Illinois.

TO CHARGE $3 TAX ON COUGHDROP SALE

Confectioners Hear They Must Pay Government as Dealers in Patent Medicine.

According to a salesman who called on a number of candy merchants yesterday, the Treasury Department has made a ruling that stores other than drug stores which sell cough drops will be required to pay $3 a year for the privilege. He compels Harding to retract his campaign promise in this matter. Immediately afterward Mellon advocated a reduction of $90,000,000 per year on the surplus profits of the millionaire class. He preferred to serve his wealthy class even though to do so the soldiers who fought for their country must be denied the pittance they sorely needed.

Foreign Debts Senator Reed then reviewed the

HERE'S THE WINDOW THAT WON A $50 PRIZE!

This is the display which appeared in Hale's store windows here the week of August 23. It was arranged by Eric Crawshaw, display manager for the J. W. Hale Company, and won a prize of $50 in a contest conducted by the Davenport Hosiery Mills throughout the United States.

"Equalization of the burden of taxes. "Repeal of all laws creating special privileges.

"Liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by governmental agents."

Attitude of Party Senator Reed said that while his ideas were gained from wide experience in Washington he believed they reflected to some degree the general attitude of the Democratic Party.

"On the day that Warren G. Harding was inaugurated president, corrupt and sinister financial conspiracies to all intents and purposes took possession of the government and have ever since exercised a dominant control," he declared.

"That conspiracy placed Albert B. Fall in charge of the Department of the Interior. The president signed an illegal order turning oil lands over to the tender mercies of Fall, who accepted bribes. The scaly hands of the conspirators reached into the Navy Department and corrupted or deceived certain high officials, and the first act of Coolidge was to approve of the Harding administration."

Daughterly Retained "Coolidge retained Daugherty until the blaze of public indignation grew so hot he was obliged to back away from the fire and then demanded Daugherty's resignation upon a minor technicality."

Mellon, director of sixty-eight corporations, trusts and combinations, whose banks and trust companies were handling securities, was appointed secretary of the treasury by Harding and remains in that office today in the teeth of statute 243 which specifically asserts: "No person appointed to the office of secretary of the treasury... shall directly or indirectly be concerned or interested in the purchase or disposal of any public securities of any state or of the United States."

No Soldiers' Bonus "From the hour Mellon took office," he has manipulated or attempted to manipulate every power of the government in the interests of his financial confederates. He declared the revenues of the government were so low that a bonus could not be paid to the soldiers. He compelled Harding to retract his campaign promise in this matter. Immediately afterward Mellon advocated a reduction of $90,000,000 per year on the surplus profits of the millionaire class. He preferred to serve his wealthy class even though to do so the soldiers who fought for their country must be denied the pittance they sorely needed."

Foreign Debts Senator Reed then reviewed the

ly of his plans, saying he would never make any move which would disturb the peace of his native land. He said he intends to bring suit against several Rumanian newspapers because they printed improper translations of articles written by Magda Helena Lupescu, the tith-haired beauty with whom Carol has formed an alliance.

Carol said he believed his announced intention to sue the newspapers had given rise to the story that he had fled suit to try to break the will of his father, the late King Ferdinand.

A recent cablegram from Bucharest reported that Carol had filed suit in the Supreme Court to contest his father's will and that owing to his being in France a trustee had been appointed to safeguard his interests.

The former Crown Prince is greatly agitated over the manner in which the Lupescu articles were translated, declaring that the papers involved had printed libelous matter.

Nearly Caused Revolt "I am informed that some of these stories nearly caused a revolution in my country," continued Carol. "Therefore it is my duty to show up these newspapers in the courts. It is the only way to correct the error and to prevent further harm."

Carol said he is quite satisfied with his father's will, even speaking of the codicil which was added as the last words of Ferdinand spoken on his death bed.

"This codicil," added Carol, "said it was best that I should never return to Rumania or ever do anything to disturb the peace of my country. Naturally I would never do anything like that."

"I am only too willing to keep away from Rumania if it is best for my country."

Hints of a possible estrangement between Carol and his mother, Queen Marie, brought a strong protest from the prince.

"My mother communicates with me regularly," said Carol. "In fact we are closer since my father's death than ever before."

HELD FOR TRIAL

Torrington, Conn., Oct. 12.—Ralph Fimiano and Jacob Ricabone, both local residents, were today held in jail on $5,000 each for assaulting Lillian Button, seventeen also of Torrington, on the Torrington-Highland lake road last night. Both furnished bail.

Fimiano was arrested at a dance in Winsted while Ricabone was arrested later here. The girl recently came to Torrington from Vermont.

STOLE GOVERNOR'S GUN

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 12.—Governor Trumbull was an interested spectator in Hartford's Police Court today when a sixty-day suspended jail sentence was given a man who stole a revolver from the governor's office at the capitol last spring. The culprit was Patrick K. Boyle, of Hartford, a carpenter in the capitol for the last ten years. He is accused also of stealing other things from the State House.

Governor Trumbull was not called upon to testify.

CENTER SPRING PARK GETS A CLEARING UP

Pond Drained and Relieved of Rubbish Donated by Unappreciative Residents.

Finished with their grading on the triangular plot between South Main and Hackmatack street, the men of the park department have transferred their activities to Center Springs park.

The pond has been drained and bottom is being cleared of stumps, rubbish and weeds. The bottom of the pond had not been cleaned out for some time and considerable rubbish had accumulated, thrown into the pond by people who evidently did not care to take their trash to the public dump.

The stumps, which have been standing in the water since the dam was erected, were blasted a week or two ago, as well as other stumps throughout the park. The holes left by the blasts are being filled.

The trail from Main street to the dam at the Edgerton street extension is being regraded. This trail follows the curve of the brook, starting at the ornamental stairway on Main street north of the Center.

No solution to the mystery of the theft of the dynamite caps from the gatehouse of the park while the blasting operations were being carried on has been offered as yet. It is thought that children of the neighborhood stole the explosives.

Don't Ignore Acid Scalp!

We have all been too close to people whose hair had a noticeable odor. It is due to an acidity that soap and water are powerless to prevent. You may not have acid scalp. Or you may have it and not know it. But Dandruff should make you suspicious, and hair that "strings" is a sure sign.

When hair has a "dead" look after curling—and the wave is all out a few hours after use of the iron—it is time to use Danderine. Just a few drops of this highly scientific preparation will check acidity, and give your hair such lovely softness that dressing it will be a delight. It will arrange easily, and stay as you arrange it. Every particle of scale will be dissolved. It makes an amazing difference. And for only thirty-five cents, your druggist will give you a bottle of Danderine that will last for weeks—adv.

POLITICAL LEADER DEAD

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 12.—Isaac Gill, picturesque political leader of Rhode Island, was dead at his home today, having passed away within a week after he was stricken with a gripe. He was 77. Mr. Gill was often termed "the boss of Pawtucket." He had held office here since 1885, at the time of his death being commissioner of public works. His death, it was said in political quarters, would have a marked effect on politics in Rhode Island. He is survived by a son, Major Isaac Gill Jr., of Denver, Colo., a daughter Agnes and widow.

FLYING WOMEN

As this is written nothing is known of the Ruth Elder flight to Paris which began at Roosevelt Field late yesterday afternoon, except that Miss Elder and her pilot, George Haldeman, had been reported at sea, well on their way. It is impossible, nowadays, for most folks to work up any great enthusiasm for these flights. Rather one reads of the departure with an inward sinking. And particularly does the normal man sense the utter terrific and unnecessary hazard of such reckless and unnecessary hazard by a woman. No modern theories of equality of sex have anything to do with such things as this. It is as natural to safeguard feminine life as it is to breathe. It will take a world of politics and ages of time before "Women and children first" will cease to be a fundamental tenet of our civilization. And so there is a kind of dread of these adventures by women. It is not to be pushed aside by fatalism or by the logic that eventually the grim reaper makes no distinction between sexes.

We believe that a hundred times more persons would have preferred to have Ruth Elder remain on the ground, subject of course to all the unavoidable risks and chances of daily existence but at least free from the gratuitous perils of transoceanic flight. And that if she should win through she will be disappointed in the degree of glory that will be hers.

Never again will there be, for a transatlantic flyer, anything like the acclaim that Lindbergh received. And where a woman is concerned, if she makes the voyage in safety, it is a fairly safe prediction that the only important public reaction to it will be a sigh of relief, not wholly unminged with exasperation at the nerve strain so needlessly imposed by a girl's whimsy. It is probable that there would be more real rejoicing over a safe passage of the Atlantic air by Mrs. Grayson than over one by Miss Elder, for the very reason that the former is minimizing the risk by embarking in a plane which, theoretically at least, has a sort of chance of surviving misadventure at sea. If people are to fly over the ocean it would appear merely sane that they fly in craft designed to float on the water under compulsion. Mrs. Grayson's intended adventure is planned as a demonstration of a theory that may prove of some use to the science of aviation. It is not all bravado. And while here, again, the public preference would undoubtedly be that the woman should leave such dangers to men, it is much easier to get oneself into some sort of sympathy with the adventure than in the case of Miss Elder, who admittedly is doing nothing for aviation but everything for the gratification of her own desire for a thrill.

However, if the foolhardy girl is still winging eastward there will be none who will not very earnestly hope for her safety.

FIGHT FILMS

For the United States government to be buying itself—especially at a time when its courts and district attorneys' office are solidly blocked with matters of more importance—in an hysterical attempt to prevent the people of New York from seeing the motion pictures of the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Chicago, is an absurdity cut off precisely the same piece of cloth as federal attempts to keep New York people from drinking anything with an alcoholic content of more than one-half of one per cent.

In New York state such as the Chicago prize fight are not only strictly legal, but the state maintains a paid commission to supervise them. It would be a violation of no law whatever for a New Yorker to attend the fight in its actuality or for a promoter to stage it just as it was staged at Chicago. Yet the whole legal machinery of the Washington government is called to prevent New Yorkers from attending a film presentation of the fight by prosecuting the theatre managers who have been showing the pictures.

The hodge-podge of nonsensicality is made possible by the sly slipping into the laws regulating interstate commerce of a provision forbidding the interstate transportation of fight films. Like the prohibition laws this federal interference on the police powers of the state was promoted by busy-body "regulators." It is a law imposed on the many by the few.

But it seems to be a question whether the law can be made to apply to exhibitors, once they have come into possession of the films, provided the federal authorities cannot prove that they transported them. It is on this theory that many New York theatres have been showing the pictures this week. The issue on that point, of course, remains to be settled.

But there is one other point that ought to be settled out of hand as soon as Congress opens—and that is the existence of any such regulation of interstate commerce as is here concerned. There must be somebody in that body with enterprise enough to suggest and fight for a repeal of the section of the law which is making all this unnecessary trouble. And there must be common sense enough in the national legislature to put the repeal over.

If the state of Kansas wants to prohibit boxing or croquet it has that right. If it wants to prohibit the showing of films of fights or croquet matches it has that right too. If Connecticut or New York wants to legalize boxing or fight pictures it has inherently the same right to do so that Kansas has to prohibit them.

In this business we are getting only one more illustration of the peril of federal interference in strictly state police matters. This is only bad government, it is contrary to the entire plan and policy of our constitution.

RELATED FEARS

Vice-President Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor delivered himself of an almost tearful protest against the employment of the injunction in labor cases, at the Federation convention in Los Angeles, declaring that the abuse of the injunction process and the equity power of the courts was a frankenstein that would eat up the liberties of the people.

We do not like the idea of substituting the injunction process for the processes of statutory law any better than does Mr. Woll, but we are amazed to find even so excitable a person as he taking a conniption over the subject at this particular time; for it has seemed to us that instead of a growing danger in the United States the injunction has been for several years a rapidly diminishing one.

Time was, indeed, when the reckless use of this bit of legal machinery frightened a great many conservative people because they feared that a certain result of its undue exploitation would be armed revolution. But that period lies far in the past. It is a long time since we have heard of a judge issuing a blanket injunction against all persons forbidding them to break the statute laws—and then halting suspects into court, and jailing them without jury trial on the pretense that they were being punished for contempt of court.

It was that phase of the injunction which made it a perilous instrument in the hands of an unwise judge. But that phase is over and done with, crowned out of existence by the intelligence of the country.

The only trouble with Mr. Woll's diatribe against equity and the injunction is that it is about a dozen years behind the times. The next thing we know he will be hurrying to Johnstown to warn the people there of the Conemaugh flood.

COINCIDENCES

Mr. Bagglash, just at the time when it becomes obvious that the law requires an interview with him, goes swimming and does not come back. He develops amnesia, loses his identity and turns up—after the police have scoffed at the idea of his death—in a far away city, where, oddly enough, he has relatives. Dressed like a bum, broke, unshaven and presumably unrecognizable on any cursory glance, he sits on a park bench. Along comes who else but his own uncle, who presumably by this time believes his nephew to have been thoroughly drowned some three thousand miles away. He glimpses the bum on the bench. He recognizes, under the dirt, the fustian and the whiskers, the presumably dead relative. Reunion! Also, opportunely, the return of memory to young Mr. Bagglash. It is all complete, even to the identification by a birth mark.

If, regrettably, the things that have happened to young Mr. Bagglash should conspire to remove him from the practice of law it may be possible that, following the example of another Connecticut attorney who for a long time was denied opportunity to practice his profession, he will go into the movies and get rich. He is equipped with experiences absolutely standard for the needs of the hokum film.

NONE CAN BE SURE

Russell Scott, engineer, promoter of splendid enterprises, financial wizard, authoritative business author, drug addict, bankrupt, hold-up man and convicted murderer, hanged himself in his cell the other day, bringing to as tragic a termination as could be imagined a life which opened with such promise as seldom falls to the lot of man.

Whether Scott was actually insane in the ordinary acceptance of the term will never be known, though a snap jury impaneled by a coroner rendered a verdict to the effect that he had committed suicide while demented.

If there is an especial lesson in the case of this man, which attracted the widest notice over a period of several years, it is that there is none so brilliant, none so secure, none so much master of himself that he can afford to risk a tilt with the demon of narcotic drugs.

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris, Oct. 11.—"Gay Paree" is not particularly gay. At least, not as Broadway defines the word.

At 11 o'clock one can shoot up the Rue de la Paix and hit only a vagrant taxi. At 11 o'clock the number of persons on the sidewalk cafes that front the Avenue de l'Opera could be counted in French even by me—and I can barely reach 10.

Only the Montmartre and the dance rooms of the fashionable hotels supply the brand of "naughty" most people associate with Paris.

The fact is that few Americans appreciate or comprehend the sort of gaiety that is Parisian.

Folk who have dwelt in American suburbia where simple, thrifty pleasures were once engaged in are best capable of catching the casual gaiety that lies in nothing more exciting than strolling up and down the boulevards and avenues with your arm around your best girl.

The chief difference between the Parisian girl and her swain is that the Parisian makes no effort to hide from the world that he is in love with love and, as likely as not, he will stop at every half block to embrace his companion, whereas his American country cousin will wait until he reaches the dark park lane that rims the town.

But the Parisian will sit down with his "girl friend" at a sidewalk cafe and spend many an hour sipping at a half-litre of "vin rouge," whereas the boys in Main Street rush their girls to the corner soda fountain or dash in the car to some nearby roadhouse, there to lap up a fourth rate gin until dizzy.

The gay Parisian, on the other hand, will sit for hours over his glass, chatting now and then with the pretty maid at his table while she sips of coffee and cognac. And their gaiety will be entirely more extroverted; it will be a quiet, civilized gaiety which has learned to find amusement in watching the world pass by on the sidewalks.

For the Parisian man and his maid have little, if any, money to spend. A few francs in the pocket is the entire supply for an entire evening's entertainment. The maids and their boy friends have had to learn how to be gay, though thrifty. In fact, the entire city of Paris is thrifty. Yet it seems to go dancing down the streets, and there is a gaiety about its buildings, about its boulevards and about those lan-

WASHINGTON LETTER

This is the second of a series of four articles on the Mexican-American situation as effected by the appointment of Dwight P. Morrow as ambassador. Tomorrow: What Morrow Faces in Mexico.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 11.—The selection of Dwight Morrow as ambassador to Mexico appears to have given some of the high officials of our State Department a polite pain.

Not that they object to the fact that Mr. Morrow is one of the Morgan partners, but they see in this appointment of the Kellogg iron-hand policy toward Mexico and another heart-rending sock at the career so dear to the department's dominating diplomatic clique.

Mr. Morrow's methods are expected to be somewhat different from those of James H. Sheffield, his predecessor.

Mr. Sheffield was a man after the State Department's heart. He knew, or thought he knew, that you can't treat Mexicans like you treat real Americans. Mr. Morrow has yet to learn that, if ever he does.

One of the things Mexicans point out is that Mr. Morrow probably will demonstrate that he has a mind of his own and will not pay too much attention to interested members of the American colony in Mexico who will be glad to give him an earful on what a bad lot the Mexicans are. In this respect, it is said, he will be different from Mr. Sheffield.

Some Mexicans will howl along with some of our own anti-administration politicians at the sea of change that Mr. Morrow will bring down to them. Others will suggest that their countrymen sit tight and see how Morrow "behaves." But the Calles government is inclined to regard Morrow's appointment as a friendly gesture and probably will try to meet him at least half way. It will regard him as the emissary of Coolidge rather than of Kellogg.

In contrast, Ambassador Sheffield seemed to spread an aura of dislike among the Mexican people and the members of the government with whom he allowed himself to fraternize.

He was a man after the State Department's heart. He knew, or thought he knew, that you can't treat Mexicans like you treat real Americans. Mr. Morrow has yet to learn that, if ever he does.

It is the city, then, that is gay rather than the average Parisian. In two visits to the "gay life" of Montmartre, I have seen but a couple of people who might be Parisians and these were accompanying American friends. Otherwise the "big spending belt" of Paris is made for, by and of the tourists, and few indeed are the residents of Paris to be found there.

In fact, it has seemed to me that if any of the old boys of Saw Convent care to revive the lost art of whittling, this is the place to do it.

Give the average lounge-in-the-sidewalk cafe a jackknife and a stick and he would be happy for hours, particularly if he had another friendly soul doing the same thing in the next seat and there was pleasant gossip to be exchanged between knife strokes.

KEEP YOUR APPETITE YOUNG

If the things you used to like disagree with you, take a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin after a meal. It displaces the excess acid in the stomach, sweetens your food, and digests it. The nourishment from it produces good, healthy tissue and blood; you gain weight and strength, and with that comes a healthy, youthful color.

Thousands of people who suffered from stomach trouble for years, praise Pape's Diapepsin for their good health and young appetite. They can now eat anything they want. That's why 5 million packages are used a year.

Any druggist will supply you with Pape's Diapepsin, because it is indispensable in every home.—adv.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, October 12.

George Washington's favorite musical show, "The Beggar's Opera," will be presented in the Maxwell Hour, to be broadcast at 9:00 o'clock, Wednesday night, through WJZ and the Blue Network. The opera was written just 200 years ago, and is a satire on the criminal law then in effect in England. At the same time the Columbia Hour, through WOR and the Purple Network, will feature Lee Morse, "Blue" singer, supported by Ted Lewis' orchestra; and a musical program by the Amari Quartet will be radiated through WJZ. Highlights scheduled for 8:00 are recitals by the Oneda Instrumental Trio, through WYTT; Irish folk songs by a tenor through WNYC; the Stellar Male Quartet through WVEZ; and "Betty's Bulletin," a one-act play through WSB. At 6:30 the fans of WJZ will be introduced to a new male quartet, "The Highlanders," and one hour later Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera "Iolanthe" will be presented before the microphones of WVEAF and the Red Network.

Maine Touring Leaps In Answer To Ads

Publicity Work Brings Huge Numbers of Visitors to Pine Tree State-1927 Greatest of All Seasons.

Portland, Me., Oct. Although it is not possible to give definite figures at this time on the tourist business done in Maine the past summer, figures on hand, which are not guess work but based on facts, show that more tourists visited Maine the past season than in 1926, when it was estimated that approximately 1,100,000 came, leaving on an average, as checked from questionnaires sent Maine Publicity Bureau at Portland, around $94 per person, totaling over $100,000,000. Take as one barometer out-of-state cars entering Maine through Portland which were checked by the Maine Publicity Bureau as they passed through Longfellow Square going east. The check from June 20 to Sept. 4 showed a cease of 40,253 cars as against 36,862 for 1926. The number of personal visitors at the bureau who registered during the same period was 27,320 the past summer as against 25,712 for 1926.

Rest of Season. This is an accurate check on only one of the several entrances into Maine for the tourist, which shows that the past season was Maine's best despite the unusually cold weather that prevailed throughout Northern New England. Government statistics taken from the customs officials of the cars going into New Brunswick from Maine show a fifty per cent increase over last year. These figures are taken at the gateways at Calais and St. Stephens and Houlton and Woodstock. All of these cars, however, going into New Brunswick have to go practically the entire length of Maine in so doing so that Maine thereby benefits from these tourists, nearly all of whom stop enroute at some point in the State. Maine for the past five years has been conducting an intensive advertising and publicity campaign seeking to attract visitors within her borders and the results prove conclusively that her efforts have not been in vain. A check-up also shows that many more people are coming by rail and boat due to the congested condition of the roads because of the ever-increasing number of automobile owners. A check also shows that people are spreading out into the inland regions and the extreme eastern and northern sections of the state more than ever before, which naturally benefits more business interests in the State than if they confined their trips to particular sections. In other words the present day tourist is traveling around more seeking the hitherto little explored sections.

HAS TWO MORE YEARS

Any rumor to the effect that Dan Howley won't manage the Browns again next year can be settled by calling attention to the fact that his contract has two more years to run.

owner of the Marshall House at York Harbor, Me., who is chairman of the executive committee of the bureau, and others equally prominent in the state who have given liberally of their time and money in this work, which benefits every taxpayer in the State. Governor Ralph O. Brewster during his entire two terms has given his wholehearted support and co-operation to the work. The Publicity Bureau in Portland has been in existence since 1922. For the past two years the state has made appropriations for state advertising in newspapers, magazines, etc. and provided money for the printing of booklets, the past Legislature appropriating $50,000 a year for two years for this work. The State of Maine Publicity Bureau has always been the service organization for carrying on this work and has been and still is supported wholly by private subscriptions from individuals and the business interests of the State. The past summer a joint budget was arranged by the bureau with the State Chamber of Commerce and the Maine contingent of the England Council, which are also supported by private subscription, all working for the development of the State recreationally, industrially and agriculturally. The past campaign was for $30,000. George F. West, president of the State Chamber of Commerce was Chairman of the Budget Committee.

Serves 200,000 Persons. The Publicity Bureau is under the management of Harris B. Coe and it is estimated by the number of personal callers at the Bureau and those seeking information by letter that it annually serves over 200,000 people. The past Legislature set up a Maine Development Commission composed of six citizens, who were appointed by Governor Brewster, and five state department heads who will have charge of the disbursement of money appropriated by the State. The Maine Publicity Bureau and State Chamber of Commerce function as before, acting as the service organization in carrying out the State work. Already plans are being made for next year along broader and bigger lines. In this connection the Development Commission is already holding sectional meetings throughout the State seeking information from all as to the proper lines to be followed.

Those who planted corn on or about the fourth of July according to the New England custom are getting good supplies from their gardens now. The late fall with its warm weather has produced good crops.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren M. Lord Friday evening in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Strong of Roseburg, Oregon, who are spending part of the fall months at Mr. Strong's former home. The last visit Mr. Strong made to his eastern home was fifteen years ago. Guests were present from Hebron and adjoining towns, including Westchester, Cromwell, Lebanon, Columbia, Hartford, Willimantic and other places. Most of those present were relatives or former friends and acquaintances of the guests of honor. The evening was spent in playing bridge and other amusements. Refreshments were served and old songs were sung. Harry K. Viner and pianist.

Week end guests here were Harry K. Viner and his son Winthrop of Cromwell, Miss Irma Lord of the faculty of the Willimantic State Normal school, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hamilton of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Bester also of Hartford.

Dorothy Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray, has returned from a visit of a week at the home of her aunt, Miss Hannah Fuller in East Haddam.

Mrs. John Cournois who was formerly Miss Helen Kestner, at one time a resident of Hebron Center, has just had a novel published by Brentano the well known New York publisher. This novel, the title of which is "The Winthrop's," is highly recommended by such eminent critics as Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale University, and others. It deals with life before and during the Great War, is located in Reading, Penn., also in Hartford and Litchfield. Mrs. Cournois spends much of her time abroad. Her husband is a well known novelist and poet. Mrs. Cournois has also written several mystery stories under the nom de plume of John Hawk. "The Winthrop's" is published under the name of Sybil Norton which was the author's great grandmother's name, and is also her middle name.

Mrs. Cournois is of old Hebron ancestry. She is probably the only novelist of whom Hebron can boast as being a former resident and coming from Hebron stock.

The marriage of Walter F. "BEAU GESTE" COMPANY OCCUPIED DESERT CITY

Three Months Spent by Company in Arizona on Picture; At State Sunday.

Three months in the most desolate country in the western hemisphere on the limitless sand dunes of the Arizona Desert near the Mexican border, were spent by 2,000 men in order that "Beau Geste" might appear on the screen. This thrilling story of the French Foreign Legion which makes its first appearance in Manchester at the State Theater on Sunday represents the greatest undertaking in the history of Paramount, the same company that made "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon" and many others of equal magnitude.

Six weeks before Director Herbert Brenon and his huge cast arrived, a small army of men began the building of a camp among the dunes, 50 miles from any habitation. The workers also constructed the French fort which serves as a background for much of the thrilling action.

By the time of the arrival of the featured players—Ronald Colman, Alice Joyce, Noah Beery, Mary Brian, Neil Hamilton, William Powell, Norman Trevor, Victor McLaglan and Ralph Forbes—the place was a modern miniature city. A mile and a half of plank road had been built across the worst of the dunes so as to permit passage of automobiles. From the end of the road all supplies were shot down a 500-foot chute, loaded on sand sleds drawn by tractors and hauled to the camp two miles away.

Advertising Campaign. The advertising and publicity campaign in Maine has been under the guidance and aid given it by every line, the storekeeper as well as the farmer. The children naturally bring to Maine during their stay a great number of their parents, relatives and friends who often become taxpayers and desirable summer residents.

Small Hotels Thrive. Not only have the larger hotels done a big business, but the small camps and hotels that have sprung up over the state have had an unusually good season. One phase of the lure of Maine for the boys and girls show a marked increase in the number of organized summer camps. An accurate check the past summer showed 150 of these camps with a membership of 9,000 children and with an additional 2,000 counselors, teachers and caretakers who were entertained and fed during July and August. Herald Suggests Town Championship Bowling Loop

CUBS BELITTLE CLOVERLEAVES; ARGUE THAT RIVALS ACHIEVED RECORD AT HOME WITH REFEREE

Bitter Feeling Exists Between Contenders for Town Championship; South End Players Frank in Rapping Champions; Their Arguments.

There is no denying of the fact that bitter rivalry exists between the north and south ends of the town over the conflict scheduled for Sunday, November 20, for the football supremacy of Manchester in which the contesting teams will be the undefeated Cloverleaves of the north end and the challenging Cubs of the south end.

Last year, these two teams were in the field but foolishly were unable to come to terms. This year it apparently is different. The only thing not definitely settled was the list of players each team could use in the game. Coach Jack Dwyer said he didn't care who the Cloverleaves used; that they could go and get the whole Notre Dame team if they wanted to.

The Cloverleaves, having used the same team since its organization three years ago, would not agree to this and demanded that only local players be used. Whether or not the two teams will again cut their own throats over this issue remains to be seen when the managers meet next week Tuesday. Judging from the lineups the Cubs have used in their two games played, it is not the policy of Coach Dwyer to use any "hangers."

Now that the Tunney-Dempsey and Yankee-Pirate gossip has subsided, the chief topic of conversation in sporting circles here is the forthcoming Cloverleaves-Cubs game. Apparently great interest is being shown and all indications are that if the two teams do meet, a bumper crowd will be on hand.

Not in a long time has a team been so confident of winning as are the Cubs. Manager Peter Vendrillo and Coach Jack Dwyer work days and dream nights in preparing the challengers for the crucial game. The players on the Cubs' team are not the least guarded in expressing their opinion of the Cloverleaves. They saw them play the Coast Guards Sunday and are more confident than ever.

It is argued by the Cubs that visiting teams are not given a square deal at the north end because of the fact that Jake Moske, brother of two of the backfield members of the Cloverleaves, referees all games. They say that visiting teams are never satisfied with the deal they get and that, because of this reason, they never come back for a return game. The Cubs also argue that the Cloverleaves' so-called marvelous record would be shattered in no time if they would go out of town to play a game or two. They point to the fact that the Cloverleaves have never played outside the bounds of Manchester in their three years of organization.

However, be this as it may, the Cloverleaves-Cubs game this fall is going to be a real classic providing the Manchester Police force strengthens sufficiently to insure the finish of the contest.

BUT ONE FOOTBALL GAME FOR TODAY

Geneva Plays Boston College—Other Teams Practising For Saturday.

BY LES CONKLIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 12.—While Geneva is playing Boston College today in the only college football game scheduled for Columbus Day in the east, other eleven will be working as hard in preparation for hard games on Saturday.

A long scrimmage, probably the last hard one of the week, was scheduled today for the Navy gridgers who will tackle Notre Dame. The squad is being drilled thoroughly in Notre Dame offensive plays. The left guard post probably will be filled by Jack Eddy, brother of Tom Eddy, star tackle of the 1926 Annapolis eleven.

A last year's reputation isn't worth a thin dime at Harvard, where the varsity is being shaken up like a rheumatic patriarch on its first ride in a second-hand automobile. Parkinson has replaced the veteran Turner at guard and quarterback Brown (no relation to the famous Brown of Harvard) has been replaced by Burns. There is an open fight for every position. Holy Cross is Harvard's next opponent.

Yale's Prospects
Yale's prospects of victory over Brown brightened when it was announced that Quarterback Johnny Huron may be in shape by Saturday. The varsity coaches are endeavoring to put more charges into the team's "iron line" which was rather malleable against Penn.

Ralph Monk, of Portsmouth, Ohio, will replace Johnny Utz, injured Penn guard, against Penn State. The varsity coaches report that the varsity's casual injury list will be considerably reduced by Saturday.

The Columbia varsity was unable to score against its scrubs yesterday, while Colgate, its next opponent, showed speed and power for the first time in a game with three regulars out. The Maroon scored three touchdowns against the subs.

Georgetown Not Worried
The crack Georgetown team is not worrying about Syracuse. The latter outfit has not been able to perfect a satisfactory passing defense yet.

A new star was uncovered at Princeton in the person of Dick Vogt, a shifty back. He eluded the scrubs time and again for long runs as the Tiger varsity scored three touchdowns. Washington & Lee which tackles Princeton on Saturday, is limiting its practice to dummy scrimmages. The southerners, who tied West Virginia and beat Duke, believe they can tame the Tigers.

Lafayette is still sticking to fundamentals in its practice. The West Virginia game, Chimenti is back at halfback.

Most of the training for the bloody N. Y. U-Fordham battle scheduled for Saturday is being done by the liners who are becoming adept at setting broken bones in record time. The two teams worked at top speed yesterday, and today Fordham will practice in both the morning and afternoon.

OPERATES ON GRIDIRON!

DR. EDDIE O'BRIEN

Dr. E. J. O'Brien of Boston Is One of Most Prominent Authorities on Football as Well as Surgery.

By BILLY EVANS
Boston, Oct. 12.—One of Boston's leading surgeons five days of the week, one of football's greatest referees the rest of the time, and rated by many of the leading coaches as the best of all football arbiters—that is the dual personality Dr. E. J. O'Brien lives during the ten weeks of the football season.

As a youngster, football was always a hobby with Eddie O'Brien, the name by which players, coaches and football fans know the famous surgeon. It continued during his college days at Tufts. It has remained with him ever since.

For many years, the name "E. J. O'Brien, Tufts," has been carried in the summary of most of the outstanding grid games of the year as one of the officials. While Dr. O'Brien is usually selected as the referee, he is equally at home at any of the other positions.

In all probability, Eddie O'Brien (we will keep the atmosphere of the football field rather than the clinic and thereby drop the prefix doctor for a time) is the only football official in all the wide world who loses money when acting as one of the officials at a football game. How? Well, let me explain.

Football work makes it necessary that he give up Saturday and Sunday, and as a rule it is necessary that he depart for his destination Friday evening. That means for two days each week he must turn over certain details of his work to other surgeons. Since his services as a specialist call for a fancy fee, it is easy to understand why it usually costs Eddie O'Brien plenty of money when he acts as the referee at Yale and Army, Dartmouth and Harvard, Princeton and Yale, Army and Navy or any of the other big games. A stipend of $150 is top price for an official.

Why then, you ask, does Dr. E. J. O'Brien continue his football duties? To be truthful, it is largely in the interest of good health that he welcomes the arrival of the football season each fall. Football is Dr. O'Brien's relaxation as well as hobby. He not only loves the game, but fully realizes that for two days each week it makes him forget all about medicine, operations, hospitals and clinics. It is a fall tonic that steadies his nerve and better fits him for his surgical work.

"All work is not good, even for a doctor," explains Eddie O'Brien. "He must play like the rest of the mortals and to me the thrill of the gridiron and the problems that are being constantly put up to the officials provides a relaxation and rest that no vacation could hope to offer."

One look at Dr. O'Brien will readily convince you that he has the right system. He doesn't look within 10 years of his age. He steps around the gridiron like a youngster and has a diplomatic and suave manner in handling any and all situations that seldom ruffle even the player or the coach of the team that is penalized. His wide experience, thorough knowledge of the rules and his tact in handling the most difficult problems make him perhaps the most sought after official in the country.

Many of the reforms in football that have helped to put the game on a higher plane originated with Dr. O'Brien. The fact that he is one of the three leading football officials who serve as the advisory board to the rules committee is a mute testimony to his standing as a touch of play. The other two members of the advisory committee are Walter Okeson and Walter Eckersall.

"How long are you going to keep at the refereeing game?" I recently asked Dr. O'Brien. "I am inclined to keep in close touch with injuries that ultimately will require major operations," suggested Major Cavanaugh, Fordham coach, who happened to be present at the time.

Future of Soccer Here Depends On Fans Sunday

To a great extent, the future of American League soccer in Manchester, the biggest sporting event the town has had in many years, depends on the manner in which the fans support next Sunday's game. The champions of the league, Bethlehem Steel with the greatest collection of stars in the country play at McKee street stadium. One thousand tickets at seventy-five cents a piece have been distributed for sale and it is up to Manchester fans to make or break the sport here. Today, Hartford plays Providence at Worcester. In effort to give the soccer fans a thorough understanding of the game, the managers of the First Division, Manager Jimmy Dewhurst today submitted a brief history of each of the Bethlehem players. It follows:

Goalkeepers:
(1) Edwards—A native of Scotland, where he was playing with the Greenock Morton F. C. of the Scottish League, First Division. This player has enjoyed the reputation of being one of Scotland's outstanding goalkeepers, and he comes to us in his prime. This is his second season with Bethlehem.

(2) Geudert—This player has just been obtained by transfer from the well known New York Giants, with which club he had been associated for the past few seasons. "Bobby," as he is known among followers and his teammates, comes with an excellent reputation, and nowhere is he better appreciated than by the Bethlehem fans who witness his great work in defending his citadel against Bethlehem attack. At the moment Bobby earns the distinction of being the only born American on the team.

Full Backs:
(7) J. Ferguson—This player may be rightly termed the "grand old man" of eastern soccer, by reason of his years of service, his ability to retain his position, his skill, and his always unquestionable deportment. He joined the Bethlehem Team in the year 1914, since when, barring one season, he has always played under its colors. A clean tackle, a sure kick with either foot, his uncanny skill of taking position are outstanding characteristics of his play in every contest. His position is Left Full Back.

(8) Robertson—A player of the "old school" type who dribbles exceptionally well, and by reason of his height and physique, is capable of coping with any of his opponents when a ball is in the air. This is his fifth season with the club. He is equally "at home" in either of the left wing positions.

(9) McDonald—This player is in his fourth season with the Club. Each year his progress has been steady, and has been to such a marked extent as to have been selected for the right half position in a mythical All-American eleven. He is one of the type of players all too rare in the sport, possessing tremendous speed, as well as craft, and is a prodigious worker.

(12) Reid—This player is making his second season's appearance in this country, having joined Philadelphia F. C. from one of the

REPORTER WATCHES J. D. PLAYING GOLF

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

Tarrytown, N. Y., Oct. 12.—John D. Rockefeller, 81, is hitting a long ball off the tee for a man of his age but, hang it, he's developed a hook!

It may be that my presence, as a gallery of one, trailing his foursome over his expansive Pocantico hills course today, threw him off his game but he certainly wasn't straight down the fairway as I had often read was his specialty.

Looks Healthy
Physically, the richest man in the world looked great. His face was a ruddy tan, his eyes elastic. He wore thick-lensed, yellow-tinted glasses, grey, flat-topped cap, grey jacket over a sweater, long pants and rubber over his shoes. I came upon the foursome at the sixth green, just as the grey-haired multi-millionaire was sinking a six-foot putt. I had scored a twenty-foot stone wall, with its annoying barbed wire entanglements, and arrived at the green just as the ball clicked into the cup.

"Not bad," commented Mr. Rockefeller.

It was his honor on the next hole, "Augustine," a "scrapping" man, caddy, handed him a driver, the face of it chalked.

His Stance
Mr. Rockefeller took his stance, getting well back of the ball. As he lifted his driver on the back swing, his hands, and his club as well, seemed to tremble, but when he reached the top of the swing he became very steady and brought the club down swiftly with a good follow-through.

Hooks Ball
Swish! He hooked it to the left and high over the trees. Did he cuss? No. He never does, his friends who play with him, told me. His comment was a philosophical "Such is golf."

His first hole second shot was good. In fact, you can't get a really bad lie on the course, for it has no rough. Trees are the only real hazards, except for the water hole on the fourth. "Augustine" handed John D. a brassie. He peered at the pin, took a few steps, swung and shot. Another hook! He called for another ball, played the ball over. It was straighter, but still had a slight hook. He had the caddy drop another ball and this time drove it straight and almost to the green.

Down in Five
Trudging to where his original second shot lay, Mr. Rockefeller called for a jigger and chipped neatly about 75 yards, to the pin, twelve feet from the hole. His fourth shot, a putt, slid a foot past the cup and he was down in five.

"Even five," that's about how he plays this course," one of the foursome told us.

On the ninth green, after all four had holed out, Mr. Rockefeller had each put two balls on the far edge of the green and put for the hole. From the special putting match, sinking his two balls in six putts. He always finishes a putting with a special putting duel of his kind.

"Feeling Good"
Mr. Rockefeller told International News Service he was "feeling good." Asked how his game was, he pointed to his companions and smilingly said "Ask these gentlemen." They indicated it was excellent.

Asked if he intended to play thirty-six holes, as reported, Mr. Rockefeller said: "No. I never play more than nine holes."

I visited some of Mr. Rockefeller's neighbors and talked with a few of his golfing comrades and found that he is exceedingly well liked in Pocantico Hills and Tarrytown.

The Rev. Aloysius Dineen, pastor of the Church of the Magdalene, a Catholic, spoke warmly of the rich old gentleman who lives in semi-seclusion in his $3,000,000 mansion set in among the beautiful surroundings of his 6,000 acre estate. The priest said Mr. Rockefeller still makes it habit to give away brand new dimes. He has given away some 20,000 shining dimes and nickels to me, women and children, not merely as souvenirs, but to inculcate the principles of saving and thrift, and to establish warmer personal relations. People fashion amulets and watch charms of these gifts and many have told him that his small gift has turned their thoughts toward thrift.

"Save Your Money"
"Save your money, and you won't regret it," Rockefeller recently told thirty-five boys who came to Pocantico Hills from New York City as the guests of Father Dineen. Mr. Rockefeller arises each morning at seven, takes a stroll through his estate, has breakfast, dictates letters and reads his mail after breakfast; goes on the links for 9 one report, as yet unconfirmed, said eight persons had been killed.

Business, Fraternal Organizations Invited to Enter Five-Man Teams

King bowling, one of the most popular of all indoor sports is once more back on the throne after a summer's hibernation and indications are that even more interest than last season will be shown in the sport here. It is with this viewpoint in mind that The Herald suggests that a circuit of a dozen or twenty five-man teams be formed to compete in a two-round affair for the town championship.

There are many fraternal organizations and places of business which, it is believed would be only too glad to enter teams in this sort of a league. It would mean a lot of free advertising for them. Here are a few places from where teams will probably be entered: British American Club, J. W. Hale Company, Manchester Construction Company, Swedish Glee Club, Army and Navy Club, American Legion, Odd Fellows, Southern, New England Telephone Company, Finest Grocery, Manchester Plumbing and Supply, Watkin Brothers, G. E. Keith's Furniture Company, Cubs Football Club, Friendly Five of the South Methodist Church, Redmen, Knights of Columbus, Moore, Masons, Center Congregational Church, St. Mary's Young Men's Club, Blush Hardware Company and others.

The nights on which the matches would be bowled will be left entirely up to the teams themselves to be decided at a meeting later. The matches would be rolled on Howard Murphy's alleys. Mr. Murphy will present the winning team, the holder of individual high single and individual three string with silver loving cups. The alleys are open any night but Friday. Mr. Murphy said that by paying fifty cents instead of forty-five each night, the members of the teams would also insure themselves of a banquet to be held at the end of the season.

It is the plan of the league who would make it a walkaway, such as Cheney Brothers which has the pick of three thousand male employees, more or less. Any team wishing to enter that were not included in the foregoing list should get in touch with the sporting editor of The Herald or Mr. Murphy. A meeting of representatives of the teams will be held next week Monday at the branch office of The Herald to make further plans for the league.

except Sunday; has luncheon at one; takes an automobile drive in the afternoon; has dinner at six and reads during the evening, retiring about nine p. m.

Never Loses a Temper
A prominent Tarrytown businessman, who plays golf with Rockefeller frequently, told the writer he never loses his temper and never bickers. Occasionally when he loses, he hands the victor a new dime. Time was when Mr. Rockefeller would shoot the water hole, No. 4, because of the 120 yard carry, but he does it now.

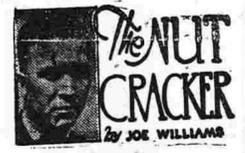

Mr. Rockefeller hasn't a warmer admirer within miles than his nearest neighbor, Mrs. Margaret Moore, a widow, who runs a store that used to be a Main street saloon in Pocantico Hills.

"He's a fine man, and a kind man," she told International News Service. "He does many kind things that nobody knows about. I do, for I have been right here since 1891. And, it isn't always dimes he gives away either. The built the Union church of Pocantico Hills that Mr. Rockefeller goes to? It's did. And who bought those beautiful chimes you're now hearing? Mr. Rockefeller. I'll tell you, we'll miss that fine man when he's gone."

LAUGH ON POP.

E. P. Madigan
Here's Dr. P. "E.P." Madigan, St. Mary's coach, whose team gave Stanford a 16-0 surprise beating early in October. Madigan is a protégé of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame. His team was undefeated last season and he hopes that it will be again this season.

REWARD
Oh, what's become of Leo Flynn? We miss your daily squawk. You told us once the night was "in." We need eggs—won't you talk?

Indoor sports will simply love the new poker chips made of skimmed milk by the U. S. Chemical Association. Just the thing to feed the Hitt.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are seventeen names on the list. One case was appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

BETTY COMPSON STAR

IN RIALTO FEATURE

Returns to Screen in "Say It With Diamonds," a Chadwick Picture.

Betty Compton, newest star of Chadwick Pictures Corporation, has never been a Mack Sennett bathing girl. And this is quite remarkable, when one considers how many of the present day stars from Gloria Swanson down—or up, if you will—served their apprenticeships in ever-so-scanty bathing suits, cavorting on the many beaches of the West Coast without ever so much as one tuck of the well known Pacific Ocean. But Betty, however, may be accepted by the most conventional among you as a star who earned her laurels; she made seventy-eight comedies for the Christies before her sensational success in "The Miracle Man."

In her second production for Chadwick Pictures Corporation, "Say It With Diamonds," which will be the feature attraction at the Rialto Theater for 2 days, commencing today, she will be seen in the role of a jealous wife, a high spirited, quick tempered society woman, who is quick to misunderstand a quite innocent, though somewhat confusing, circumstance that involves her husband.

KILGOUR BRILLIANT IN NEW VEHICLE

Canadian in "Immoral Isabella" Has Had Colorful Stage Career.

Joseph Kilgour, came down from Canada about 20 years ago to fill his present engagement in "Immoral Isabella?" the new play starring Frances Starr, which will be presented at the Parsons theater on Oct. 13, 14 and 15. Suffice to say, he has been occupied with many theatrical engagements since he started out from his Canadian home.

After a brief college career, he undertook to become a stock broker in Chicago. One panic was enough to impel him toward his present profession. Kilgour's stage career began first as an amateur who appeared at various exclusive Chicago Clubs. A friend noticed with what zeal he applied himself, suggested that he become a professional.

"Bitter Apples" is a rushing melodrama, with vengeance as its theme, and Southern seas its locale. Blue is splendidly cast as the son of a defaulting banker, who on a trip around the world is pursued by a revengeful lady who woos and wins him, in order to have a more intimate means of torturing him. Myrna Loy, the most exotic and mysterious personality on the screen today, is cast as the girl. Paul Ellis plays the part of Stefano Blanco, her equally relentless brother.

"Firemen, Save My Child" has been acclaimed the greatest and funniest of the Beery-Hatton comedies, but it has the added novelty of being one of those rare productions in which the spectator is carried through a succession of heart-stopping thrills while being convulsed with laughter.

In the production's big scenes, which have been produced on a more lavish scale than either of its predecessors "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now" some of the most daring shots ever photographed by a camera were taken.

The rescues made by those intrepid fire-fighters, Beery and Hatton, involve some exceedingly risky work, but while one wonders at their daring and the dangers they encounter, he is convulsed by the ludicrousness of the conduct, even in the midst of peril. The result is one of the most excitingly humorous films ever made.

GAS BUGGIES—In Bad

"WHAT TOOK YOU SO LONG TO GET HERE... I WOULDN'T THEY LET YOU IN THE JAIL? BELIEVE ME, THEY'LL PAY FOR THIS..."

"I HAD TO GET SOMEBODY TO STAY WITH JUNIOR... I COULDN'T BRING HIM HERE... TELL ME... WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT... I KNOW YOU DIDN'T ROB ANY BANK."

"ALL I KNOW IS TWO COPS GRABBED ME AND SAID I'D HELD UP A BANK. THE CASHIER SAW THE LICENSE NUMBER ON THE BANDIT'S CAR, AND IT WAS THE SAME AS OURS..."

"HOW ABSURD! IMAGINE YOU HELPING BANK ROBBERS TO ESCAPE. THAT CASHIER GOT THE NUMBERS MIXED. THEY OFTEN DO THAT..."

"OF COURSE HE DID, AND I'VE TOLD THAT TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE TILL I'M BLUE IN THE FACE, BUT IT DOESN'T GET ME OUT OF HERE!"

"HEAVENS! THEY CAN'T SEND YOU TO JAIL JUST BECAUSE SOME BOOB IN THE BANK IS NEAR-SIGHTED!"

SENSE and NONSENSE

Send It In
If you have a bit of news—send it in.
Or a joke that will amuse—send it in.

We hear something occasionally about intelligent crooks, but it is our opinion that if they were really intelligent they wouldn't be crooks.

He pulled that old joke about opening the window and getting "Chile." That's nothing," said the other.

A Scotchman was going on a business trip, and he called back as he was leaving: "Good-bye, all, and dinna forget to take little Donal's glasses off when he isna lookin' at anything."

Americanism: Walking rapidly to save time; stopping to watch a sign painter.

Young Wife (with hair found on husband's coat): "George what does this mean?"
George: "Don't worry about that, dear. It's far too long to be a woman's."

We see that the price of land along the Canadian border has increased thirty-two quarts an acre.

Many a fur coat hides a suit bought on credit.

Another thing needed is a holidayless week.

A Philadelphia doctor says to stop hicough "grasp the left carotid sheath by the thumb and forefinger at the anterior border and midway between the origin and the insertion of the sternocleidomastoid muscle and compress tightly one minute." If this fails you might try the old fashioned remedy of taking seven swallows of water.

Grocer: "Why are you rolling the apple barrel about, Billy?"
Grocer's little son: "Amusing baby, pa."
"But where is baby?"
"Oh, she's inside the barrel."

A Toast to the Girls
A health to the girl that can dance like a dream,
And the girl that can pound the piano;

A health to the girl who writes a verse by the room
Or toys with high C in soprano;

To the girl that can talk, and the girl that does not;
To the saint and the sweet little sinner—

But here's to the cleverest girl of the lot,
The girl that can cook a good dinner.
From an old scrapbook.

WHY BE BALD?

Don't go around with a shiny pate when you can go from BALD to HAIR in four strokes. Par is shown on another page:

Grid for letter golf with words BALD and HAIR.

THE RULES

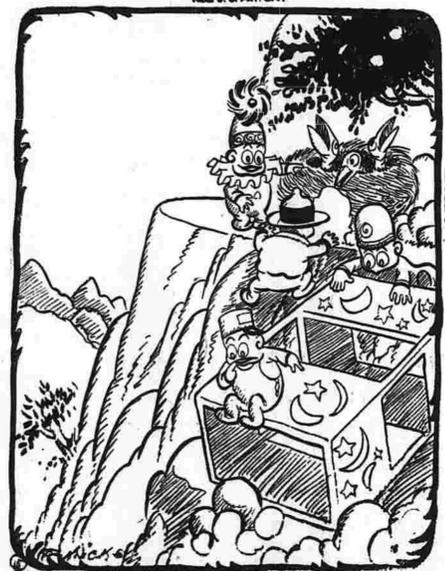

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

THE ANYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tines much enjoyed the tea and little wafers. Mercy me, they ate until they simply couldn't eat another bite. The Jap who took them for a ride stood watching them from just outside. "Be sure you get enough," said he. "It's perfectly all right."

Jack was having a rough time with the hermit. Old Hunchy, in spite of his deformity, fought savagely with fists and feet, barking and snarling like a wolf.

Up to that moment, Jack had used his hands only in the battle. Now, realizing only in life was in danger, he made a deft kick.

The knife flew into the air, and the hermit grabbed his wrist, uttering a howl of pain.

The gum-digger, slugged on the jaw, crumpled and went down, knocked out. "Hot dog!" whooped Darling, who had just come up.
