STEAMER SINKS; 58 LIVES LOST, 1,150 ARE SAVED

First Reports Placed Number Lost at 800—Four Ships Pick Up Survivors In South Atlantic.

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 26.—Loss of life in the sinking of the Italian liner Princessa Mafalda, has been small, and possibly there may be a few members of the crew missing when all the survivors are landed, it was stated officially today.

Official reports stated that the known rescues exceeded 1,150 and the agents of the line state that there were but 1,208 persons aboard the vessel.

EARLY BULLETINS

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 26.—The sinking of the Italian liner Princessa Mafalda resulted in a loss of but sixty-eight lives, according to an official message received here today from Bahia.

This dispatch states that more than 1,100 persons have been rescued from the sea where the Italian vessel went down.

Local agents of the Mafalda state there were but 1,208 persons on the ship.

The French steamer Formosa has picked up 720 survivors and it seems probable that the Principe Dudine and other vessels have picked up other survivors.

The steamer, Rossi, and Mosella are still searching for further survivors.

A message from the Principe Dudine to the Italian embassy says that the Mafalda lost a propeller and that water rushed in causing a boiler explosion and the consequent sinking of the vessel. Marine experts here believe that possibly this message indicates that the propeller shaft may have broken, opening the plates of the vessel and thus letting the sea into the hold of the vessel.

Officials of the Navigazione Generale Italiana denied reports that the Princessa Mafalda had been sunk by an explosion caused by faulty machinery.

Much comment has been caused here by discussions as to whether the Princessa Mafalda had been experiencing difficulty during her voyage prior to the disaster. She was three days behind her schedule, as advertised here.

Most of the survivors will be landed at Bahia, it is reported.

The Princessa Mafalda was built in 1908 and during the war was used by the Italian government as a troop ship. Her tonnage, according to Lloyd's Register, is 9,210. She was 485 feet long and had a 55-foot beam.

Until a few years ago the Mafalda was the fastest liner plying between Italy and South America. The liner made one trip to the United States, touching at New York, just before the war broke out in 1914.

Shortly after the war, when the Navigazione Generale Italiana put the vessel in the South American trade, it was reported that she had struck a mine while enroute from Buenos Aires to Genoa, foundering with the loss of 700 lives. This report was not true and its source could never be traced.

WIFE SAYS SMUGGLERS KILLED HER HUSBAND

But Police Declare Customs Agent Committed Suicide in N. Y. Park.

New York, Oct. 26.—"Bootleggers killed him. He knew they would some day. He told me on Sunday that he had been 'threatened again' for the fourth time," today declared Mrs. Lena Rosenblatt, 29-year-old wife of Charles Rosenblatt, customs agent, whose body, shot through the temple, was found yesterday in a clump of woods in Forest park.

"They had been after my husband for a long time and he told me that one of the gang had said he would kill him unless my husband ceased his investigation," she told police.

Detectives said they did not agree with his wife that he had been murdered by bootleggers. They said their investigation indicated that Rosenblatt had seated himself alongside the stump of a tree in the park, placed the revolver alongside his head and fired the shot.

Dame Fashion Turning To Cotton, Experts Say

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—Dame fashion is returning to cotton, with fuller skirts but not full skirts, longer skirts but not long skirts, and the cotton industry is gradually emerging from a long siege of unprofitable conditions.

These were the keynotes of speeches by President William B. Maccoll and Ernest C. Morse this afternoon at the opening of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers annual convention.

Possibly the greatest lesson learned from the slow recovery was "the absolute necessity of co-operation," said President Maccoll.

"Today cotton is being used for expensive dresses," declared Mr. Morse, in charge of the department of the Cotton Textile Institute devoted to expanding existing uses and to developing new uses. "For instance," he continued, "one Fifth Avenue, New York, store is selling styled cotton dresses for $65 to $235 each. The same store is sell-

REMUS SECURITIES TAKEN FROM BANK

Bootleg King's Lawyer Finds Both Safety Deposit Boxes Empty.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—The George L. Remus deposition party, which has been traveling over the country taking testimony for the Cincinnati bootlegger wants for his murder trial November 14 for slaying his estranged second wife, will be in Chicago tonight.

Charles Elston, Remus' attorney notified Harry Fritaker, Chicago attorney for the slayer, to have several important witnesses he says he has uncovered in Chicago on hand Friday morning.

Elston was openly elated over the results of a day's questions in Lansing and Detroit. He has established, he said, a close connection between the movements of Mrs. Remus and of Franklin Dodge, former Department of Justice agent, with whom Remus says his wife conspired to rob him of his $1,700,000 liquor profits.

Both boxes empty Dodge rented a safety deposit box in the American State bank of Lansing, bank records show, on September 23, 1925, and on September 26 Mrs. Remus, as Mrs. A. H. Holmes of Milwaukee, rented another. Dodge transferred his belongings to a larger box May 3, 1926.

Both boxes were opened and found to be empty.

Ruth Remus, daughter of the slain woman, had access to the vault, officials said. Elston recalled Ruth Remus' absence for two days from Detroit immediately after the return from her mother's funeral in Chicago. She said she had gone to Miami, Florida, according to Elston, but returned in too short a time for such a trip.

It is his belief she was transferring some of Remus' securities from a hiding place of her mother's to some spot known only to herself.

RUTH IS AT LISBON; SUFFERS FROM COLD

Decided to Rest Today—To Start For Paris by Plane Tomorrow Morning.

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 26.—Ruth Elder, American girl flyer, whose plane was forced down in the Atlantic while she was attempting a non-stop flight from New York to Paris, remained in bed today suffering from a cold.

Miss Elder and her pilot, George Haldeman, who arrived from the Azores last evening on board the steamship Lima, probably will hop off for Paris tomorrow morning in a plane put at their disposal by Americans.

Miss Elder contracted a cold on shipboard. Her condition is not serious, but she decided to take advantage of the opportunity to remain abed for the rest.

"I am glad to get this chance to rest before we continue our journey," said Miss Elder.

The welcome given the American girl upon her arrival here was one of the biggest and most sensational Lisbon has ever known. While harbor craft swarmed about the Lima airplanes circled overhead.

BOND APPOINTED

Washington, Oct. 26.—Henry H. Bond, a Boston lawyer, today was appointed by President Coolidge as assistant secretary of treasury.

He succeeds Charles S. Dewey, who resigned to become financial adviser to Poland.

MARTIAL LAW IN RUMANIA; CHARGE PLOT

Fight Over Throne Grows More Bitter as Carolists Attempt to Unite the Opposition Factions.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—The fight over the Rumanian throne, in which former Crown Prince Carol is the central figure, is becoming more bitter with the Carolists trying to unite all the opposition factions, said a dispatch from Rumania today.

Former Premier Averescu and M. Jorga have taken leadership in the attempt to form a united front of all the anti-Bratianu forces.

The largest opposition party, the National Peasant, has not yet made a decisive move. However, leaders of the party announced that they would protest to the next Parliament against retention of martial law which has been in effect since the war.

Protest arrest Protest also will be made against the arrest of former Under Secretary of Finance Manolescu, who was seized on the frontier while returning from Paris with four letters from Carol to party leaders.

M. Manolescu is lodged in the state prison at Jilava.

He is charged with complicity in the plot to place Carol on the throne and it is believed he will be court martialed within a few days.

Censorship of the Rumanian press continues. Former Bratianu is preparing to address a communication to the party chiefs tomorrow demanding that the political groups in Parliament declare their loyalty to King Michael and the present government to show they are not associated with the Carolist plot.

It is reported that a few politicians have crossed into Bulgaria to avoid arrest.

NO ERRORS FOUND IN CHINESE TRIAL

Supreme Court of Errors Affirms Verdict of Superior Court in Local Case.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 26.—George W. Wheeler, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Errors, today handed down a decision affirming the verdict of the Superior Court in the case of Ching Lung and Soo Hoo Wing, New York Chinese, were found guilty of first-degree murder in connection with the shooting on March 24, last, of Ong Ging Hem, of South Manchester.

The Supreme Court decision simply said "no error." Four other justices of the court concurred in the opinion.

The appeal to the Supreme Court asked that the first-degree murder verdict be set aside on the ground that the evidence submitted in the trial of the two Chinese before Judge Newell S. Jennings and a jury in Hartford during the summer.

Francis T. Rohrmayer, of Hartford, and Frank E. Hesly, former attorney-general, appeared for the accused in the case while Hugh

Lid Clapped On All News Coming Out Of Rumania

Berlin Oct. 26.—Official censorship of all communications between Rumania and the outside world today veiled the political struggle raging in Bucharest over the future of the throne.

Telephone and telegraph connections between Bucharest and Belgrade were shut off at nine o'clock last night.

The last word to reach Belgrade before the break told of a manifesto issued by General Averescu's People's Party strongly protesting against the arrest of former Minister Manolescu and denouncing as illegal the government of Premier Bratianu.

MRS. KNAPP DENIES ALL GRAFT CHARGES

Not Expected That She Will Take Stand in Her Own Behalf.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Because of the statement issued at Syracuse by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, in which she denied charges of maladministration of the 1925 census funds, the possibility of her taking the witness stand in the Moreland investigation was considered remote at the capitol today.

At the same time Randall J. Leboeuf, Jr., who is conducting the investigation as Moreland commissioner, let it be known he would take no judicial recognition of Mrs. Knapp's statement unless she signed a waiver of immunity and took the stand.

It had been expected Mrs. Knapp would testify this week.

Mrs. Knapp's charge that she appointed census workers at the request of Governor Smith was vigorously denied by the governor.

"There is a perfect answer to that," the governor said. "Give me the name of anybody who was named at my request."

The first of a series of denials which Mrs. Knapp will issue through her counsel came today, when the third week of the Moreland investigation was getting underway.

FALL KEPT SECRET NEWS OF SIGNING OF BIG OIL LEASE

MERCHANTS READY FOR BIG BUSINESS

New Store Schedule Goes In to Effect Here Tomorrow; Special Herald Edition.

Tomorrow will be a big day for Manchester merchants. The new store schedule will keep all of the local stores open tomorrow afternoon and evening for the first time in their history.

In addition the stores here are offering special inducements to their patrons to shop on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Unusual edition Today's Herald carries a big volume of Manchester store advertising. This advertising is not confined to today's issue of The Herald alone. A group of twelve pages carrying most of the local store advertisements were printed at The Herald office Monday and 5,000 copies were distributed in Rockville, East Hartford, Wapping Falls, Burnside, Glastonbury, Hebron, Gilead, Andover and Columbia. Some of them went even to Colchester and Willimantic.

50,000 Readers Today's Herald goes into over 5,000 homes giving the advertisers in today's issue a circulation of slightly over 11,000 copies. This means that about 50,000 people will be informed of the new store schedule in Manchester and will be urged to do their trading in Manchester on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Unusual night saw Main street "dark" for the first time in years. A large crowd was on the streets, larger than usual on a "dark" night, but none of the merchants believe that any sales were lost because of the closing schedule on Tuesdays. It is expected that with the shift to open on Thursday nights that Manchester merchants will experience three good trading days at the end of the week.

Helms' Visit Helms called on Fall about leasing Teapot Dome in April, 1922.

Fall told him, the witness declared, he would be very glad to entertain a bid, but he was leaving for his New Mexico ranch, but would be glad to confer with officials of Helms' company there.

Helms then read in the papers that Sinclair had gotten the lease and wired Fall asking about it and repeating his request for the New Mexico conference.

On April 20, 1922, Fall replied saying: "Froggert can't make appointment on this trip. Teapot Dome closed."

Helms then wired a protest saying he thought his company, having made a request to the Navy Department six months earlier, and in view of his conference with Fall, should have been permitted to bid in competition with Sinclair.

Roberts then startled the courtroom by fixing the date of Helms' visit to Fall as April 10—three days after Sinclair had signed the lease.

Helms said Fall had told him about the need of the pipe line and the storage tank, but he still wanted to bid.

ROOSEVELT TESTIFIES. Washington, Oct. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt, son of the ex-President, and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, came before the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial jury at the call of the prosecution today to bolster up the government's contention that ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, and not the Navy Department, played the dominant role in the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair.

With mannerisms similar to those of his father, young "T. R." sat in the witness stand and answered the questions put him by Owen J. Roberts, government counsel.

Roberts asked him first about the Navy's "war plans" for storage of naval fuel oil. Roosevelt said the plans called for 45,000,000 barrels in storage.

"Colonel," then asked Roberts, "when did you learn of the leasing of Teapot Dome?"

"The latter part of April, 1922," he replied.

"The lease was signed April 7, 1922."

"Prior to that, did you know that?"

Tuberculosis Mortality Of Infants Cut To One-Sixth

Dr. W. B. Soper Tells County Physicians of Great Strides in Child Saving; Three Local Doctors Make Addresses.

Six times as many children, one year old or less, died from tuberculosis in 1898 as in 1923. For every five years later, Dr. Willard B. Soper, professor of medicine at the Yale Medical School in New Haven told an audience of about seventy-five surgeons and physicians at the 15th semi-annual fall meeting of the Hartford County Medical Association held at the Rialto theater last night.

Dr. Soper was the principal speaker on the program. He was preceded by Dr. LeVerne Holmes, Dr. N. A. Burr and Dr. D. M. Caldwell, who gave interesting talks. Dr. Holmes spoke on anfractures; Dr. Burr on pernicious anemia and Dr. Caldwell on child birth.

Dr. Soper's talk was based on the following topics: "Tuberculosis in childhood is the light of newer ideas, particularly from the standpoint of prevention." His interesting and educational address followed the business meeting and the morning's program of golf.

Dr. Soper's Address Following is Dr. Soper's address: Ideas Changing

"Our ideas as to disease in general are constantly changing as new facts come to light, and tuberculosis is no exception. Tuberculosis in childhood has been especially the force in recent years as its striking differences from adult disease have been more studied and better appreciated. Furthermore the rewards of child tuberculosis are so gratifying that it may be controlled, and how it may be controlled are so gratifying in contrast to the disappointments in the handling of adult cases that interest is distinctly tending more and more to prevention of child tuberculosis as the key to the adult problem."

"Tuberculous infection and disease of infants and children is entirely different from that of adults. In the child it is essentially a disease of the glands, and of the superficial glands, but far more often of the tracheo-bronchial glands. Krause of John Hopkins has called attention so well to the fact that the lymphatic system of the child is potent and unyielding, and that infection in childhood converges upon the tracheo-bronchial glands. Here give paths from intestines to thoracic duct, etc., infection beginning in lungs, tonsils, etc."

"Now the child is born free from tuberculosis—the few exceptions merely prove the rule. But it appears from our present knowledge that of the entire span of life the human body acquires tuberculous infection by far the easiest during the period of childhood, from approximately two years to puberty. Infection in children may, and often does lead to the disease tuberculosis during that period. But the disease is more generally escaped at that time and it is generally accepted that the rank of adult tuberculosis are filled by those infected children in whom the infection has lain latent only to break out in active disease under the strain of adolescence and adult life. Recently a few workers outside of Optic are swinging around again to the view that adult tuberculosis is much more generally contracted in adult life as a separate and new infection than has been thought heretofore. However, we shall not enter into this controversy but will confine ourselves to childhood infection and the measures of prevention which are suggested."

"You are all familiar with the terms pre-tuberculous and predisposed to tuberculosis as applied to children. The terms bespeak the below par child, undernourished, pale, poorly muscled, lacking in energy, perhaps with enlarged cervical glands. These terms have, strictly speaking, gone into the limbo, such children are not pre-tuberculous, they are actually tuberculous, not in the sense of having definitely manifest disease but in the sense of having a greater or lesser amount of tuberculous infection sluggishly active, usually and for the most part in the tracheo-bronchial glands. They have been exposed to the tubercle bacillus, almost always in the sputum, usually in the parents' sputum, but maybe in that of some other member of the child's family or associates."

birth he be separated from his mother who has bacilli in her sputum and is brought up in a proper environment free from tuberculous infection, he will with rare exceptions grow normally and be entirely well. Nor will there be dystrophies and malformations. When the latter are present, they are the result of actual infection, not an hereditary stigma. This leads us to recent works on family infection. Opie's quite recent very careful study at the Phipps Institute, Philadelphia, shows that in families with no tuberculosis, members less than ten years of age are in only small part, 30%, sensitive to tuberculous X-Ray examination only in 10% of the children. In families with open tuberculosis, on the contrary, the incidence of the tuberculin reaction in young children is 80% while 30% show latent lesions of latent disease. In families with open tuberculosis, on the contrary, the incidence of the tuberculin reaction in young children is 80% while 30% show latent lesions of latent disease. This difference is extremely impressive.

"Before going further with the significance and lesson to be derived from such figures, and Opie's are not unique. We shall speak briefly on the diagnosis of tracheo-bronchial gland tuberculosis in childhood, the altogether commonest form. The diagnostic criteria may be said to be six in number—history and symptoms, X-Ray, tuberculin reaction, physical examination, exposure to positive cases, and demonstration of the bacillus. Of the relative importance and value of the six cardinal evidences there is considerable controversy. Only one month ago at the meeting of the Eastern Sanatorium Association, Chadwick of Massachusetts who is conducting a ten year study of the state's public school children from the standpoint of tuberculosis, gave, I am told, the X-Ray as the most valuable means of diagnosis. Our experience at the New Haven Dispensary and Hospital is not so definite although I am not prepared to say that any one of the six elements stands out any more positively. The diagnosis must take into consideration all of the factors and is even then often surprisingly difficult. I would not give the impression that the X-Ray is not of very great value. On the contrary, the physician should not make a definite statement as to the presence of enlarged tracheo-bronchial glands without examination of roentgen films, preferably by far of roentgen films. Unfortunately, good stereoscopic films are often exceedingly difficult to obtain in young children. But it is astonishing at times to find what the X-Ray reveals when the child is apparently not very ill. And this is a very important point because of the appearance of a child even with gross lesions may be very deceptive."

Erroneous View
"As to the tuberculin test, some of you probably have the idea that so many children show a positive reaction that it is of little value. It is not so. This view is erroneous. I have already quoted Opie's figures. The old European figures do not hold for this country and a tuberculin test is very frequently of the greatest value. As of recent evidence it is almost final. As positive it always indicates some degree of infection and the intensity of the reaction is strong evidence as to the activity or absence of it in the lesion. Given a severe reaction with one milligram it is strongly suggestive of activity. (Here a few words as to the intradermic test, quality of the tuberculin and difficulties of its use in practice.)"

"Physical signs are so often deceptive that they rank almost last in value for diagnosis. If pulmonary lesions are present, unless gross, they are scattered anywhere in the lung and are usually deep seated, and give no signs. When definite signs are present, matters have gone rather far as a rule."

"Symptoms are of great value when other causes can be excluded. Low grade afternoon or evening fever and elevated pulse are important. Loss of weight is also important especially in the infant one fails to gain, but it is often astonishing to find children up to standard weight and harboring manifest active lesions."

"I fear I have left you somewhat confused. The diagnosis indeed is often confusing but if one considers all the factors, definite exposure, particularly over a period of time, a positive tuberculin test, symptoms, X-Ray examination and physical signs, a diagnosis can usually be reached. The finding of bacilli in the sputum, but they are difficult to demonstrate. They are sought by causing the child to expectorate sputum upon gauze introduced into the nasopharynx, or in the stools or in the fasting stomach contents."

Prevention
"As to prevention: Prevention is best accomplished either by removing the sputum raising source of infection from the child or by removing the child from the source of infection, usually the parent. And here we refer back to repeated infections in large or small amount. Just because a child is known to be infected is no excuse for allowing his contact to continue. On the contrary, he will throw off surprising amounts of infection if new infection is not superadded. To repeat again it is repetition of bacilli that plays the havoc. In this sense it might almost be said that prevention of infection should be distinguished from prevention of disease. Infection is so often an accomplished fact when the child is seen while manifest disease can very often be avoided by the proper measures. The keystone of these measures is the prevention of further infection. The other measures are too familiar. They include the prevention, healthful surroundings, good food, sunshine, enough rest, etc. That all of these measures together do succeed is brilliantly shown by Drole's statistics for New York City for the twenty-five year period 1898 to 1923. For every child under one year dying of all forms of tuberculosis, six died in 1898. For children under ten, the ratio was 1.2, a fall in mortality in the infant and child groups quite outstripping that for adults.

THREE CARS IN SLIGHT CRASH ON MAIN STREET

Two Owned by Women Living On Same Street in Mixup at State Theater.

Three automobiles, two of them owned by women, who live on the same street, figured in a minor accident on Main street in front of the State theater at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. No one was injured and the damage to the cars was slight. Mrs. Anna M. Ridgely of 481 Parker street was driving north on Main street in an Overland coach. A Nash sedan owned and driven by Clarence A. Davis of 77 Brookfield street passed her on the left and made a sharp turn toward the curb. In trying to avoid a collision Mrs. Ridgely swerved to the right, but in doing so, struck both the Davis car and a parked Oakland sedan owned by Mrs. Edith W. Green of 12 Parker street.

Officer Michael Fitzgerald investigated but made no arrests. Rockville

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, Oct. 26. Genovese-Serber Miss Gertrude L. Serber, daughter of Mrs. E. O. Serber of 10 Prospect street and Julius S. Genovese, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Genovese of 1 Pine street, were united in marriage this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Bernard's rectory by Rev. George T. Sinnott. Miss Victoria Genovese, sister of the groom was bridesmaid and Clarence Serber brother of the bride, attended Mr. Genovese. The bride wore a dress of flesh brocaded georgette and a bandeau of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of pink Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid's dress was of orchid chiffon trimmed with pan-velvet with a bandeau of orchid maline. She carried an arm bouquet of Madam Butterfly roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held by a large number of friends and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Genovese at No. 1 Pine street. The home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, ferns and palms. During the afternoon and evening music was furnished by the Pilsbury orchestra of Glastonbury which is made up of friends of the groom. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Genovese left for a trip to Atlantic City. Mrs. Genovese's going away costume was of taupe duvetyl with a blue coat trimmed with beaver and a cloth of gold hat. After November 15th they will be at home to their many friends at 10 Prospect street.

Notes Mrs. William Davis of Elm street entertained at bridge on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. James Comins of Park street are visiting relatives in Stafford. The Three-in-One club will hold a Halloween social and dance in the Ellington Town hall on Saturday evening. Mrs. George Thompson of Talcott avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Miller of South Manchester spent Sunday in Spencer, Mass., the guests of Mrs. Walter Lane. Kiowa Council D. of P. will hold a public whist in Red Men's hall on Thursday evening, October 27. Mrs. William Pray of Talcott avenue is confined to the house by illness. Mrs. Eldna Hansen Johnson and young son returned on Tuesday to her home in Vernon from the Rockville City hospital. A chest clinic will be held in the rooms of the Rockville Visiting Nurse association on Thursday afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock. Dr. William H. Stockwell of Hartford will be in charge. Mrs. Henrietta Winchell of Brooklyn street is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woodworth of Pawtucket, R. I. John Gworek of West Point is spending a ten day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valerian Gworek of Union street. The American Legion auxiliary will hold a meeting this evening. After the regular business meeting a Halloween social will be held. Refreshments will be served. Frank Davis of Havana, Cuba, left Rockville on Tuesday morning for New York. Leonard Kingston of Ellington has returned from a three weeks' business trip to Caribou, Maine. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Yost have moved to one of Dr. Allen's rents on Prospect street. Mrs. Francis Potter of Hyde Park, Mass., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tucker of Union street. The Trinity Past Grand association held a meeting in I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday afternoon. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Mrs. Carrie Mara of South Manchester; first vice-president, Mrs. Achash Dowling of Rockville; second vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Watrous of Glastonbury; secretary, Mrs. Emma Wemette of Hartford; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie J. Steele of East Hartford. Elmer Schwalm of New York City is spending two weeks' vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwalm of Prospect street. Miss Elsie Drayton of Prospect street has accepted a stenographic position with the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company of Hartford.

AL DENIES CHARGE Albany N. Y., Oct. 26.—Governor Smith today denied the charge made by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp that she had appointed census workers at the governor's request. "There is a perfect answer to that charge," Gov. Smith said. "Give me the name of anybody who was named as my request."

The governor said he conferred with Mrs. Knapp early in 1925, at which time, he said, he asked her to inform him immediately if anyone came to her for employment purporting to represent him. The governor said he told Mrs. Knapp he would promptly dispose of all such cases.

CURTIS A CANDIDATE Washington, Oct. 26.—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican leader of the Senate, today consented to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for president next year.

KIWANIANS HEAR REV. JOS. COOPER

"The Key to Brotherhood" Was Subject at Noon-Day Meeting.

Rev. Joseph Cooper took for his subject before the Kiwanis club this noon "The Key to Brotherhood." It was the second time he has been invited to address the Kiwanians. On the previous occasion he said he talked upon a visit to a foreign country and this time he would take into consideration what Kiwanis stood for. He said there were so many things to set us apart—race, creed, color, educational standing, social status, so that we do not know each other as we should. We should try to forget these things and remember that there is room for everybody and in every race. He called attention to different nationalities and said every country had given something worth while for the good of mankind and we should be more considerate of them. Rev. Cooper divided his talk into three phases: the first, common manhood; second, common need and third, common duties of man. He gave a very fine outline of what the man should aim to be, quoting Shakespeare to illustrate his points, and also referring to Senator Binghams' statements on his return to China to the effect that it was not to be wondered at that the Chinese had no great respect for the English or Americans because of the way they treated them in their own country. Mr. Cooper was roundly applauded at the close of his talk. Emil Henthall won the prize today donated by N. B. Richards. With the changing of the store-closing day in Manchester, it was considered likely that the Kiwanis club would have to change its meeting day, and because there was such a division of opinion it was voted to ask each member to state which day he preferred, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday. Each Kiwanian was reminded that tomorrow was Navy Day and asked to display the national flag. The "Ladies' Night" committee met after the meeting this noon and made plans for one of the best nights the Kiwanis has ever had. The members of Hartford and New Britain Kiwanis clubs have been invited and the entertainment will take place in the new Masonic Temple on Monday, November 21. Harlow Willis, who is general chairman has already named his sub-committees.

WM. HARRIS LEAVES CHENEYS ON NOV. 1

Head Cashier of Local Silk Firm Will Take Long Rest For Sake of Health.

William W. Harris, head cashier at Cheney Brothers, will leave that firm on Tuesday, Nov. 1. Mr. Harris has been with Cheney Brothers since 1900 and as head cashier has been in charge of the Cheney payroll department for a long time. Mr. Harris' health is broken and he will take a long rest. Further plans than the restoration of his health are indefinite. Mr. Harris was moving his family today from the house in which he has lived many years at 105 Chestnut street to his new home just recently purchased on Scarborough Road. Mr. Harris is well known in Manchester especially among the silk mill employees. He is very well liked at the mills, and the information that he was leaving the firm has been received with general regret.

HIGH SCHOOL STRIKE GROWS MORE SERIOUS

Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 26.—An air of tenseness prevails in school districts as a result of the school principal, today laid down an ultimatum to parents of forty children who walked away from his school yesterday because three students had been severely disciplined for childish pranks in the school. Jakob told the parents of the forty suspended students the children would be re-admitted to High school if the parents agreed Jakob could inflict upon the children any punishment he sees fit. Each parent must sign his name to and return the letter sent by Jakob. The parents are expected to make counter proposals. Girl students in the High school are believed to be planning some sort of demonstration to show their disapproval of the punishment visited on the three students who entered the school biology room and walked off with a collection of plants leaves mounted on cardboard. School heads are still horrified at the deed.

OLD DRUGSTORE PASSES

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 26.—For the first time in one hundred and seventeen years there is no drug store at the corner of Main and William streets today. The store that for more than half a century was conducted by Charles D. Pelton, had been sold to another drugstore which has moved its stock and given up the lease. Mr. Pelton who has retired after seventy-two years in the business took over a store that had been established in the year 1810.

C. E. HOUSE STORE INSTITUTION HERE

Name Long Associated With Manchester Business; Saved Bank For Town.

While Manchester observes one of its "biggest days" tomorrow in beginning the new "open all day Thursday" schedule it would be an error not to remark upon the long association of the name of C. E. House with Manchester business. The C. E. House & Son store in Manchester is a local institution. It is the result of the energy and ability of its founder, C. E. House himself.

Charles E. House.

Charles E. House was born in Manchester in 1854. His father was the late Edwin House. C. E. House attended Hartford Public High school and then learned the tailoring business from his father. Ever since that time Mr. House has been a clothier. Civic Leader. In civic activities Mr. House was early a leader. He was a registrar of voters for a long period of years, represented the town in the General Assembly and was Town Treasurer for three years. He was also deputy judge of the town court here for about three seconds. He did not want the office, but was appointed to it and before another deputy could be appointed legally he resigned. He did so in less time than it takes to tell it. C. E. House was one of the charter members of the Chamber of Commerce and was instrumental in the founding of a banking institution here in Manchester. He was Manchester Building and Loan Association and has many other business connections.

ABOUT TOWN

The Italian American Ladies Aid society will give their annual masquerade dance Saturday evening at the Sub-Alpine club, to raise funds for their community charitable work. Prizes will be awarded for the best ladies costume, the men's best and the funniest rigs.

Miss Helen Crawford, Miss Dorothy Noyes and Miss Evelyn Penland will give the last of the parties which the Girls' Friendly society of St. Mary's church, have been running this fall for the purpose of raising the wherewithal to send representatives to the 50th anniversary of the organization and banquet at Boston, November 5. This will be a Halloween affair to be held Friday evening at 7:30 in the parish house. Prizes will be given for the different games and refreshments suitable to the occasion served. To assist them in their plans the girls would like all who plan to attend to notify them as soon as possible.

James A. Irvine of Cheney Brothers Employment Bureau addressed the boys of the H-Y club at Center church last evening. He talked on the problems and methods now in vogue and explained Cheney Brothers system, also exhibiting several charts showing data of different kinds that the department keeps on record. About 25 of the boys enjoyed the talk and the substantial supper which preceded it.

The Hospital Linen auxiliary held a very successful card party yesterday afternoon in the new Masonic Temple. Thirty-nine tables were filled with players. The winners in the different sections were as follows: Whist, Mrs. C. E. Seaman, Mrs. J. H. Hewitt; pivot bridge, Mrs. S. O. Thompson, Mrs. A. Cottrell; progressive bridge, Mrs. Carl Mathews, Mrs. Charles Loomis. At the close of the game the committee served home-made cake and ice cream.

SMITH WINS SUIT

Bridgewater, Conn., Oct. 26.—A Common Pleas Court Jury, under direction of Judge Frederick W. Huxford, has handed down a verdict for $1,291.57 in favor of Joseph P. Smith, of New York, against Ethel Rand, of Stamford. Smith sued for $1,500, claiming that amount due him from a New York work on West 72nd street, New York, which he rented to Miss Rand.

NO ERRORS FOUND IN CHINESE TRIAL

Alcorn, state's attorney for Hartford county, represented the state. TO ASK REPRIEVE Hartford, Conn., Oct. 26.—Governor Trumbull will be asked at once to reprieve Chin Lung and Soo Hoo Wing, New York Chinese, sentenced to death for the murder of Ong Ging Hem, Manchester laundryman, on March 24, last. The reprieve is to be asked in order that the cases of the men may come before the State Board of Pardons which does not meet again until November 7. Under the present sentence the men must die on November 1.

STORY OF CRIME

The New York Chinese came to Manchester in a taxi-cab early on the morning of March 24. One of them, Ching Lung, went to the laundry, gained admittance by rapping on the door, entered and after a few minutes conversation, drew a revolver and fired point blank into Ong Jing Hem, who dropped to the floor and died almost instantly. Ching Lung and his accomplice, Soo Hoo Wing, who had stood on guard in a nearby doorway, fled to the front of the house on New Haven. A speedy trial resulted and the two Chinese were quickly convicted, mainly on the eye-witness testimony of Sam, Ong, cousin of the slain man, who was in the laundry at the time. Since that trial, repeated efforts have been made by alleged friends of the accused men to secure the release of Sam Ong, state's star witness, on bail, but this has proven fruitless. Sam's bail was raised to $10,000.

CHICKEN PIE SUPPER IN WAPPING FRIDAY

The Federated Workers of Wapping will give the first chicken pie supper hereabouts in the school hall in that place Friday evening of this week. This is an annual event with them and they usually combine, with the supper an excellent entertainment and a sale. The meal will be served from 6:30 to 8. The local High school orchestra has been engaged for the evening. Other Manchester entertainers who will be on the program include Miss Gertrude Gerard, solo dancer and William Sweet, yodeler.

PLANE DROPS BOMBS ON CHINESE CAPITAL

Considerable Damage Done at Taiyuanfu—Expect Fall of Chengchow Soon. Peking, Oct. 26.—Flying over the Great Wall, a military airplane from the Pekingese army dropped four bombs upon Taiyuanfu capital of Shansi province. It was announced today by Marshal Chang Tso Lin's headquarters. The statement said considerable damage had been done, especially to the arsenal and Shansi military headquarters. It is reported that the Northerners captured Kaifeng yesterday. If this report is true Chengchow may fall in a few days, allowing the Shantung forces to consolidate with Marshal Chang's army along the Hankow railroad.

FISH-GAME CLUB TO WAR ON FOXES

Will Invite Granby Hunters and Dogs to Help Rid Vicinity of Pests. The Manchester Fish and Game club will give a bounty of $5 on foxes, it was decided at the meeting of the club last night. However, the Granby Fox club, which makes a specialty of fox-hunting, will be invited to this town shortly to stage a fox hunt. A committee was appointed to confer with officials of the Granby club regarding the bounty. The committee consists of Edward Elliott, Jr., Walter Leutgens and August Senkblat. The Granby club will bring to Manchester between 20 and 40 foxhounds and will stage a hunt on land in Manchester and in nearby towns.

MURDERERS OF PHEASANTS

The club is making an effort to exterminate the red fox in this section. One of the members reported the instance of a mother fox bringing to three captive young ones no less than 15 small pheasants, all dead. The foxes, which were on display in a Main street store recently, have been kept by their captor in a cage some distance from his house on Tolland Turnpike. One day he went to examine the cage and found the bodies of the 15 pheasants. All were birds that had been liberated by fish and game clubs in this section.

FALL KEPT SECRET NEWS OF SIGNING

(Continued from Page 1) reserve was to be leased?" continued Roberts. "No." Cross Examination Roberts was satisfied and turned him over to Martin W. Littleton, Singair attorney, for cross examination. "What were you doing from January until the latter part of April, 1927?" asked Littleton. "I headed the naval experts to the naval disarmament conference and also handled the fight in Congress against reduction of the Navy." "And that took all your time?" "The major part," qualified Roosevelt. "Then you had nothing to do with the oil leases?" "No." Next Witness Roosevelt was excused and Frank Kistler, Denver oil man, was called. Kistler said he came to Washington in March, 1922, and saw Judge Finney, assistant secretary of interior, about leasing a section of Teapot Dome. "What did Finney tell you?" asked Roberts. "He said he was not prepared to talk about it—that the matter was in the hands of Secretary Fall."

STATE POLICE IN RAID

Middlebury, Conn., Oct. 26.—Five state policemen from the Ridgefield barracks, under Sergeant Leo P. Carroll, swooped down on Middlebury yesterday, and as a result Frank M. Astorquetch and his son Albert are under bail of $1,000 each for hearings on November 1 on charges of liquor law violations while John Dumeshot and Mary Montville are under suspended jail sentences for the same offenses after paying fines of $150 each. After the raids the state police squad arrested Frank L'Escaud and Waterbury on a charge of driving while under influence of liquor and had him locked up in default of bail for a hearing November 1.

FALL KEPT SECRET

"What did you say your company was prepared to do?" asked Roberts. "I told him we would pay a graduated royalty ranging from one-eighth on wells producing twenty barrels up to forty per cent on large wells and would exchange fuel oil for crude oil, delivered at Gulf and Atlantic coast points." Fall, however, gave no indication as to whether this was satisfactory. Littleton, fighting the charge that the Sinclair deal was cloaked in secrecy, tried to show by cross examining Beatty that the latter had gone to Fall because a third oil man had told him Fall and Sinclair were negotiating. Justice Siddons refused to permit this line of questioning, holding it was hearsay evidence.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26, 1927.

NOW, NOW, NOW!

Today, for the first time on a Wednesday which is not a legal holiday, Manchester's trading places are closed for the afternoon and evening. Last evening, for the first time within the memory of men, the stores were closed on a Tuesday night that was not a legal holiday. Tomorrow afternoon and evening, also for the first time in many years, business will be conducted in all the merchandising establishments on a Thursday night.

It is going to be not a little bit awkward for a while, adjusting ourselves to this changed arrangement. And it will be surprising if now and then some perfectly amiable citizen does not find himself sputtering petulently about it—when he follows the habit of a generation and trots down street to buy himself something, only to find the shops closed and nobody willing to take this money.

But, be good! Remember that the merchants did not make this change out of any desire to get your goat. They didn't arrive at the decision to open on Thursdays and close on Tuesday nights and Wednesday afternoons without much travail and anguish of soul. They didn't do it wantonly nor in any spirit of indifference to your convenience. They did it because circumstances darn well compelled them to do something by way of change, and after a world of worry and some little squabbling among themselves they arrived at the solemn conclusion that this new arrangement was the lesser horn of a dilemma.

Let's all be as nice as we can be about it. If we put ourselves to the futile trouble of going shopping on Tuesday night or Wednesday afternoon, let's not damn the merchants and kick the curbstone, but muster as good a grin as we can and try it again—on Thursday night next time. It will all come out in the wash; we'll get used to it by and by; and a little later than by and by we'll find ourselves wondering, some day, whether the stores ever did really keep open on Tuesday nights and close Thursday afternoons. If you don't believe it, wait and see.

Meantime the Herald has just one little suggestion to make. How would it do to put up, alongside the shop signs at the town lines, some very plain signboards reading, "Manchester Stores Open Thursday and Saturday Nights"—for the benefit of the neighbor town customers? Kind of din it into 'em, as it were.

MONTAUK POINT

The extent to which the American Brown-Boveri Electric Corporation proves to be tied up to the interests which control the Pennsylvania railroad may possibly determine the choice of the American terminal of the great four-day transatlantic ship line in which the former corporation is the moving factor, that choice now rather definitely lying between Montauk Point and New London.

The Pennsylvania railroad would, naturally, like to have the terminal established at the eastern tip of Long Island, for it controls the Long Island Railroad and the Montauk Point terminal would put the Pennsylvania in a commanding position for the handling of a highly important feeder business stretching half across the continent. And it is probably true that there are more or less close relationships between the Pennsylvania group and the Brown-Boveri corporation.

On the other hand the Montauk Point proposition is scarcely more than a blue print. To make it available for the purposes a great many millions of dollars would have to be expended, not only in a practical rebuilding of the New York railroad all the way from the Point to the Pennsylvania station in New York City, but in the construction of an actual port at Montauk, nothing of the kind fit for the reception of great steamships being in existence. And all the money in the world could never produce, at Montauk, an ocean terminal as safe and as generally satisfactory as already exists at New London.

Somebody has been quoted within the day as making the point that Montauk Point is two hours nearer to Europe than New London. This is purely nonsensical. From Montauk to New London would not be more than an hour's steaming for one of the proposed four-day ships even if the vessel had to go to the Point before proceeding to New London, which of course she would not have to do. As a matter of fact the piers at Montauk, if ever built, would not be more than fifteen or eighteen miles nearer to Southampton than is New London, by the route to be followed—an utterly negligible matter as weighed against other considerations.

At Montauk it would be necessary to build not only a port but a city. At New London, without the expenditure of a nickel or the dredging of a scoopful of mud, one of the proposed four-day ships could walk up to the state pier tomorrow—and dock herself without the aid of a tug.

Every consideration of real economics favors the choice of the Connecticut terminal. If the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is not blind to its own interests and those of the territory it serves it will exert what influence it has toward the selection of New London.

RALLY, DRY!

It is unfortunate that the business of enforcing the prohibition laws does not appear to appeal to that eminently honest and reputable element of our citizenry which, beyond question, was principally responsible for the establishment of those laws. There may be two opinions as to whether the dry laws could be successfully enforced, even though every person charged with their enforcement were sincere, earnest and courageous, besides being endowed with far more than the average in mentality. And as that fact must have been obvious to the advocates of prohibition from the start, it would seem as if they had not quite done everything in their power for the suppression of the rum traffic and the drinking habit when they failed to offer their services to the government as enforcers of the law.

The result of the failure of the responsible and dependable dries to give up their time and their services to the task of liquor law enforcement has been, naturally, the employment of a queer lot of nondescripts, because, quite as naturally, decent and honorable persons who do not happen to be dries would be about the last imaginable to take up the work.

The arrest of the chief investigator of the prohibition service—the man at the very top of all the snooping and spying and trailing in the country—on a charge of such revolting character that its penalty is death—does not of course indicate that every prohibition enforcement officer is a loathsome and unseemly moral leper, but it does indicate that so far as prohibition enforcement goes even high federal office is no guarantee that the person holding it is the possessor of any character whatever.

Evidently there is something more to be done by the sincere believer in prohibition than has ever been done—something more than subscribing to funds and voting for dry candidates; he must offer himself as a sacrifice to the cause of sobriety and efficiency, apply for a job in the enforcement service and displace the grafters and moral fotsam and jetsam which in so large measure makes up the personnel of that service—and must continue to constitute it so long as decent wets flatly will not and decent dries simply do not take up the work.

SMOKE AND RICKETS

The health department of the city of New York is studying smoke conditions there—with a view to eventual preparation of an ordinance for the control of the smudge nuisance. It appears that the medical scientists have discovered that the presence of large quantities of smoke in the air prevents the passage of the ultra-violet rays of the sun and that the deprivation of this tonic causes rickets, in greater or less degree, in an actual majority of the children living in such artificially clouded atmospheres. It is with the intention of eliminating as far as possible this handicap upon the health of the children of the great city that the authorities are working toward effectual smoke control.

Once the idea becomes firmly established in the minds of any community that an atmosphere saturated with smoke is an active cause of imperfect or slow physical development in children, it is safe to say that it will not be long before this always preventable affront to the well being of the people is done away with. Mothers may put up with the ruining of their curtains and their furniture and the filling of their houses with soot, but they will arise as one woman against a smoke nuisance that threatens to make their little ones rickety.

Perhaps we shall some day see a committee of north end mothers calling on the crews of New York and New Haven locomotives which make a practice of filling that part of the town full of soft coal smoke and gas by cleaning fires in a locality which common decency would render immune. When they do we may look for fireworks as well as smoke.

LIEUTENANT BARRON

The action of the police commissioners in creating the office of lieutenant and promoting to it Sergt. William Barron will be favorably received by those who believe in recognizing faithfulness and aptness in a police officer. Lieutenant Barron is the kind of a policeman who takes his job seriously, who appreciates its responsibilities and who gives the best that is in him to the public that employs him. Reward for such service is never amiss. In this case it is particularly appropriate.

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris, Oct. 26.—I found the small boy's paradise on a side street in Montmartre, well off the beaten Paris tracks.

If you're looking for a trail back to the sidewalk cafes, here's the place to pick it up; if you're looking for fellow tourists don't wander away from the sidewalk cafes.

For this is the Circus Medrano, or the Circus, as they call it here. And this is the circus I had been looking for all my life. It's a circus that comes right up and sits in your lap. You cuddle right up to the ring-side and the prancing horses all but kick you in the face. The clowns hop up and sit upon your knee and the tightrope walker exchange sly confidences with you as they prepare to perform. Slyly you whisper that you'll meet them over a glass of beer during the intermission. If, for some reason, an act proves tiresome, you have simply to disappear through the performer's entrance and there you will find a huge cafe in operation. Tables are scattered about and two barmaids wait to take your order.

As you sip your beer the trapezes swing open and the strong men about the immense sums paid by the vaudeville circuits. Recalling your own reactions to acrobatic acts at the opening of Broadway vaudeville bills, you hesitate. You have always felt that they should pay for taking up space, but since they have been so charming in this intimate new atmosphere you advise them to stay in Europe.

In the intermission little boys and girls rush back stage to gaze shyly at the clowns. The clowns receive the prancing welcome they receive bring out every grain of envy. What wouldn't I have given as a kid to find four such grotesques capering in a circle about me? A few feet away a man will sell you a pocket full of sugar for a few pennies and you can feed the ponies. Or for a few more cents you can get a little can of fish for the seals.

The Cirque Medrano is the oldest and most historic of the Paris circuses. Its home is a rough, domed building and its seats are built around the arena, the more expensive being directly around the ring and on a level with the sawdust. For 14 francs—56 cents—you can sit in the lap of the circus gods and for 24 cents you can be just above with the mobs of working folk.

For, as a clown told me, ever a stein of beer, "old man Medrano built his circus for the poor folk." When he died, a number of years ago, he left a will which stipulated that the prices should never be raised above the purchase limitations of the worker. He stipulated the sort of entertainment that must go on.

And around the old place has grown a tradition. Here some of Europe's most celebrated acts are discovered, though the income does not warrant the salaries of more elaborate and ornate circuses. Here the famous Fratelloni clowns were found and made famous. "One night they had to leave. Another circus had offered them more money—so much more they could not refuse. And with my own eyes I saw their leader weep. . . right here where we sit in this room, my friend."

Outside the band blared and the clown hurriedly finished his beer and rushed out. Through the curtain came the laughter and applause of the crowd. Over the crest a sense of unreality. I slipped through a back way and walked long and late through the twisted by-ways of the Montmartre.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 26.—The organization of the western progressive group of senators to influence both legislation in the Seventieth Congress and the selection of the next Republican presidential nominee is one of the first important political events in a big political year.

Within that year we shall see what promises in many ways to be an extraordinary Congress, primaries and state conventions, the two national conventions, a hot election campaign—(probably) and the election of the next president of the United States. The new "progressive bloc," headed by Norris and Borah, is sure to be a powerful factor during the next Congress because of the nearly even strength of Republicans and Democrats in the Senate. These progressives will be Republicans, but if any reactionary legislation is passed over their prostrate forms it will be only with much help from the Democratic side of the aisle.

To a lesser extent, the progressives, if they hold together, may be expected to influence the Republican presidential nomination. Everyone knows that Uncle George Norris—their nominal candidate—will not be named, but it is likely that their united front will at least prevent nomination of such men as Coolidge and Hughes, whom they regard as reactionaries.

Borah's apparent enthusiastic agreement to accept a generalship in the little progressive army is one of the most interesting political developments to date. It is regarded as extremely significant by those who will tell you that Borah's whole life in recent years has been guided by a consuming ambition to attain the presidency.

It is hardly fair to assume, however, that Borah's reasons for abandoning his splendid isolation to join the other boys were tinged with guile. It would be equally fair to suggest that his fellow progressives may include among their hopes the possibility that through their efforts Borah might possibly be nominated.

It is also true, however, that Borah had been off on a perch of his own for a long time, with no rooting companions. His failure to co-operate aggressively with other progressives often inspired their ire and sarcasm. Some of them regarded him with even more bitterness than the Republican regulars did, for they felt themselves victims of a heart-breaking desertion by their "leader," whereas to the regulars Borah's defection was old stuff.

The popular impression that Borah was a progressive leader also began to die during the last Congress, which found more and more progressive attention being turned to Norris, the old war-horse. But he has now assumed joint leadership with Norris in the western senatorial group and may become the dominant force, for Norris is not a jealous man.

Insofar as Borah's presidential hopes are concerned, the point is that the prospective consolidation of the progressives gives him about one chance in ten thousand of nomination. Before this he has had no chance whatever. It might conceivably happen that a healthy little group of Norris delegates would be in a key position at the convention, assuming terrible deadlocks and all sorts of even more unlikely possibilities, which would enable it to obtain the nomination of a progressive like Borah.

Obviously, Borah's present "chance" is only to be distinguished microscopically from the utter hopelessness of his position a few

NEW ENGINE SHOWS

CHRYSLER FORESIGHT

Arrival of High Compression Era Was Anticipated Years Ago and Planned For.

"The new Chrysler 'Red-head' high compression engine, which has been making a phenomenal appeal to the motoring public since its introduction this summer, is the latest illustration of the foresight with which Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers have planned the development of their car ever since they first designed it," said George S. Smith, local Chrysler dealer, today.

"One of Chrysler's chief concerns has always been to minimize losses in value of cars in use due to engineering improvements on new models. From the beginning Chrysler design and construction have rested on engineering fundamentals so sound and permanent that older Chrysler models could benefit to the greatest possible extent by new developments. Because of this principle any Chrysler owner who so desires may take advantage of the most recent evolution in automobile construction, for any Chrysler six built since July, 1925, can be equipped with a 'Red-head' engine at slight cost, thanks to the engineering foresightedness which saw the coming of the high compression era long ago and prepared for it in advance.

George S. Smith

"Chrysler engineers have again given a notable example of their ability in anticipating future developments in motordom. Among the features built into the Chrysler car at the very start was an unusually strong bridge-like crankcase webbing.

"The first Chrysler also had a staunch, firmly supported seven-bearing crankshaft. Both of these details in the original equipment of the Chrysler car are today important aids to the type of engine which the widespread distribution of high compression fuels has at last made feasible.

"Chrysler led the industry into a new motoring era by announcing the 'Red-Head,' the first engine taking full advantage of high compression fuels to be put on the market, and led Chrysler owners with them by making the new feature available for cars in use.

"To such far-sighted methods is due the advanced rank which Chrysler has won in the automobile industry and in the public's favor. The first Chrysler was admittedly years ahead of cars in its price class in speed, power, symmetry and long life. The leadership it established has been continued consistently and this year has been emphasized anew by the increased superiorities of engineering, craftsmanship and performance which characterize the '52,' Great New '62,' and the illustrious New '72,' and the Imperial '80.'

KEEP STOMACH YOUNG!

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally, it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.—adv.

No Fear Now of Offense!

So Sweet and Clean Inside! No Offensive Vapors From the Pores

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

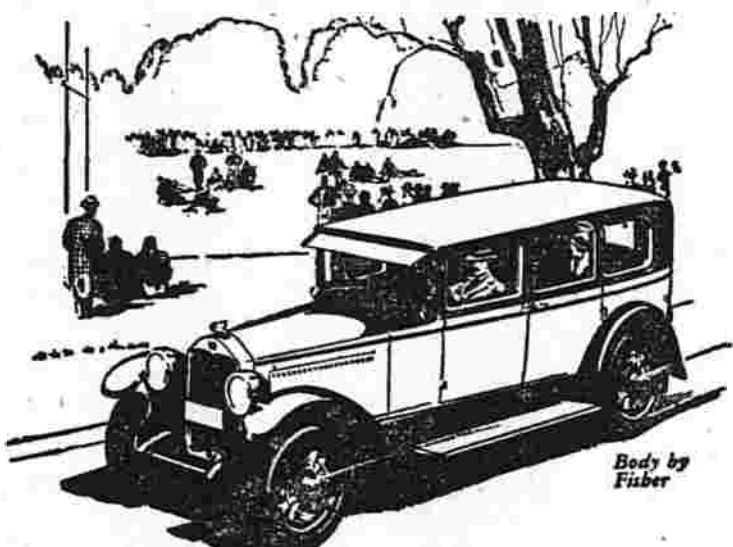

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew! The old-fashioned way was "saw." They get action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentler, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascaraize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascara is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascara tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists, 10c and 25c.—Adv.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (118) Magnets

The experiments of the eighteenth century set men to work trying to prove some connection between magnetism and electricity. Magnets had long been made of soft iron could be magnetized by rubbing the lodestone upon it, but these magnets soon lost their magnetism. Professor Oersted, a Danish scientist, began experimenting with a compass and Voltaic cell.

Markham's surly advice. "That's what I'm going to do," blithely returned Vance; "but not about the Benson case. I did all the thinking I'm going to do along that line four days ago."

(Wednesday, June 19; forenoon.)

We rode down town with Markham the next morning, and though we arrived at his office before 9 o'clock, Heath was already there waiting.

"What about this Leacock, Mr. Markham?" he asked. "It looks to me like we'd better grab him quick. We've been talking him right along; and there's something funny going on."

"Yesterday morning he went to his bank and spent half an hour in the chief cashier's office. After that he visited his lawyer's and was there over an hour. Then he went back to the bank for another half-hour. He dropped in to the Astor Grill for lunch, but didn't eat anything—sat staring at the table."

"About 2 o'clock he called on the really agents who have the hands of the building he lives in; and after he'd left, we found out he'd offered his apartment for sub-lease beginning tomorrow. Then he paid six calls on friends of his, and went home."

"After dinner my man rang his apartment bell and asked for Mr. Hootz. Leacock was packing up. It looks to me like a get-away."

Markham frowned. Heath's report clearly troubled him; but before he could answer, Vance spoke. "Why this perturbation, Sergeant? You're watching the Captain. I'm sure he can't slip from your vigilant clutches."

Markham looked at Vance a moment; then turned to Heath. "Let it go at that. But if Leacock attempts to leave the city, nab him."

Heath went out sullenly. "By the bye, Markham," said Vance; "don't make an appointment for half past twelve today. You already have one, don't you know. And with a lady."

"What new damned nonsense is this?"

"I made an engagement for you," called the lady by "phone this morning. I'm sure I woke the dear up."

Markham spluttered, striving to articulate his angry protest. Vance held up his hand soothingly. "And you simply must keep the engagement. You see, I told her it was you speaking; and it would be shocking taste not to appear. . . . I promise, you won't regret meeting her," he added.

"Things looked so sadly befuddled last night—I couldn't bear to see you snoring so. Come quietly, I arranged for you to see Mrs. Paula Banning—Pfyfe's Elsie, y' know. I'm positive she'll be able to dispel some of this impenetrable gloom that's enveloping you."

"See here, Vance!" Markham growled. "It happen to be running this office."

He stopped abruptly, realizing the hopelessness of making headway against the other's blandness. Moreover, I think the prospect of interviewing Mrs. Paula Banning was not wholly alien to his inclinations. His resentment slowly ebbed, and when he again spoke his voice was almost matter-of-fact.

"Since you've committed me, I'll see her. But I'd rather Pfyfe wasn't in such close communication with her. He's apt to drop in—with preconcerted unexpectedness."

Brain or Brawn; Which Should Be A Child's Ideal?

By Olive Roberts Barton

A boy of ten stands as close as he can get to the radio, listening to each round of a prize fight. Above him on the wall hangs a picture of Lincoln—the man who put up probably the greatest moral fight of all history.

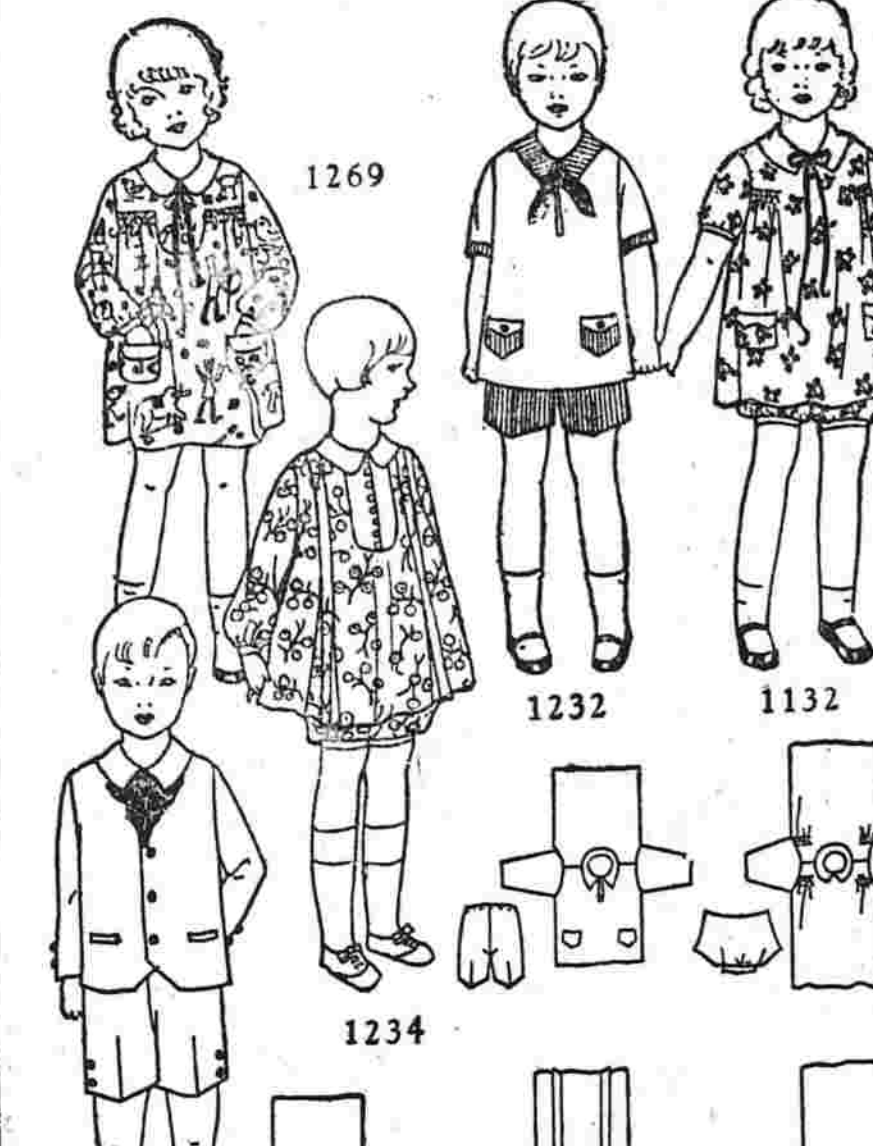

Should we blame the boy or his parents that he is interested in white heat over a prize fight and has completely forgotten the existence of the other.

The Saturday that clinched the World Series for the Yankees was motored probably fifty miles. And in every village and city over the entire route there stood a crowd of men, women and boys watching the score.

Is young America of the future going to be a pugilistic, home-run hitting fan? Is that going to be the result of radios instantaneously press the great news of a prize fight? Or is it to be the studious analytical child who has a true idea of heroes and worthwhile people?

To tell the truth I was pretty well grown before it dawned on me that Lincoln was a great man. I recited in school like a parrot of all the great things he had done. We had pictures all over the house.

But one cannot be told of another's greatness. He has to live through trouble, to arrive at man's or woman's estate before he is capable of understanding what others who can gaze into the sad stone face in Washington and understand the half of what is written there. It means nothing to the young. But there is one thing we might do. Along with the boy's education in the Olympic arts, we might get him interested in a living statesman. Let him follow up his career and work up a certain enthusiasm over him. And take him to Washington to the House and Senate if it is humanly possible. Let him know our statesman by name. Or take him to your own state's capitol and make political economy real to him.

The WOMAN'S DAY ALLENE SUMNER

"What is home anyway? Is it her lesson. She looked the child in a place where a mother runs a hotel for the accommodation of the rest of you?" This question from Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the Girl Scouts of America is a very pertinent question to be asked of not only girl scouts but all sons and daughters who live at home. I quoted some authority a day or so ago to the effect that the "most exploited woman worker is the home maker."

Their Own Fault

Sometimes one wonders though, if down-trodden, abused, overworked women don't choose and prefer their own lot? The mother instinct is so strong that she must much rather let nature take its course and blindly slave to the bone for one's children than to discipline this natural bent and blend judgment with it for the greater good of one's children.

They Do It

Parents rebel sometimes at "what children expect today." But why do they expect it? Simply because parents get much more pleasure out of seeing their children in silks while they themselves wear cotton than having luxuries themselves and seeing the children content with lesser things. And because they are too selfish to subdue this natural inclination of theirs, and because of their own personal pleasure in doing it they parental sacrifice. Then when they can no longer do it and are ready to call a halt they wonder why "children expect so much today."

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, and without shock to the system. Without the evil taste, Castoria is delicious! Your own tongue will tell you why "Children Cry for It." Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's the least sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea. Or whenever there's need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Only one word of warning: the above is true of genuine Castoria. Fletcher's is the original. Other preparations may or may not be as pure, as free from a single doubtful drug. PASTEURIZATION OF MILK BRINGS GREAT BENEFITS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Since the introduction of pasteurization of milk, the number of cases of typhoid fever, septic sore throat, scarlet fever and diphtheria, which used to result from infected milk, have largely decreased.

Today few cities suffer greatly with infectious diseases due to contaminated milk. The recent experience of Montreal is a reflection of what serious harm may result when vigilance is temporarily relaxed in the control of milk supply.

During the same period of time that attention has been given to milk, water supplies have been improved through chlorination and filtration.

Constant Vigilance

Studies recently made in various communities have shown that it is necessary to be eternally vigilant in watching the operation of pasteurizing plants. The whole idea in pasteurizing is to heat all of the milk sufficiently to kill such germs as it may contain.

Sometimes pasteurizing machines have mechanical defects in the way of dead ends, leaky valves or unsatisfactory thermometers, so that some portions of the milk may fail to be properly heated.

The Chicago department of health recently has conducted some studies on the subject. Their investigations

Fourteen Teams Enter Herald Bowling Loop

Roll Thursdays Starting Next Week At Conran's, Murphy's and Kacey Alleys; Four Trophies and $175 In Cash Prizes.

What is hoped will be one of the most successful and interesting bowling leagues ever organized in Manchester was formed last night. It is a revision of the proposed Fraternal League and will be known as The Herald League. The five-man team town championship will be at stake. Fourteen teams are entered and matches will be rolled at three different bowling alley establishments, namely Murphy's, Conran's and the Kacey. Four silver loving cups and cash prizes totaling approximately $175 will be at stake. All of which tends to insure the success of the circuit.

Cubs and Cloverleaves: The fourteen teams entered in the newly formed league represent every section of the town. The fact that some of the teams are from the north end of the town and some from the south end will add a touch of that always-welcome inter-sectional rivalry. Numbered among the clubs entered are the Cubs and the Cloverleaves who, it will be remembered, scheduled to meet in that long-awaited clash on the gridiron on November 20. Here is a list of the 14 teams: Beethoven Glee Club, Masons, British American Club, Knights of Columbus, West Side Rec, Center Congregational church, Cubs A. C., Army and Navy Club, Highland Park Community Club, Cloverleaves A. C., Knights of Phythias, Bon Ami Social Club, St. Bridget's Church and the North Congregational Church.

Clifford Is President At the start of the meeting which was held at the branch office of The Herald on Blissett street, it was decided by the representatives of the teams in the proposed Fraternal League to allow the other teams to enter and to revise the league. The Roshan and the Moose had previously dropped out which left only six teams to compete, making it the opinion that 14 teams would make a much more interesting league. Loren C. Clifford Jr., manager of the local branch of the Southern Telephone and Telegraph Company, was elected president of the league. Howard Murphy, bowling alley proprietor, was named treasurer and T. W. Stowe, sports editor of The Herald, secretary.

Roll Thursdays It was agreed that all matches will be rolled on Thursday nights starting next week, November 3 and that two rounds will be carried out in consecutive weeks with the exception of Thanksgiving week which will be omitted. Foul line bowling will not be observed but players will not be allowed to take advantage of this opportunity. It was voted that the membership of each team be limited to ten players and that seven of these names must be submitted to the league secretary, on or before next Tuesday night, November 1 with the remaining three, on or before the first night of the league schedule. The schedule calls for two rounds. This is being prepared and will be announced as soon as possible.

Based On Points The standing of the teams in the race for the town championship, will be decided on a point basis, four points being allowed for each match, one for each game and another for high team three string total. The latter will prevent a team from "lying down" when it is hopelessly beaten in any one game as may still have a chance for team three string. Under this system, it will be possible for a team to win two out of three games and yet split fifty-fifty on points.

Ten Dollar Forfeit It was voted that each team captain post a forfeit of $10 with the league treasurer on or before the first night of the league schedule. If all league rules are upheld, half of this will be returnable at the completion of the league schedule. The other five will be placed in the "kitty" and will amount to at least $70. Each player will also pay fifty cents a night for his matches which will mean a nickel extra in the "kitty" which, together with the forfeit money, will bring the amount of money to be distributed as cash prizes up to approximately $175.

Prize Distributions Thirty dollars will be as individual prizes, ten to each of the following: winner of high individual average for the season, holder of high single and high three string. Anyone can win more than one prize, but in order to be eligible for a prize, a player must participate in at least 75 per cent of the matches. All postponed games must be rolled off before the final two weeks of the league schedule. Each team will be allowed to use but one dummy score. The team plying the high team single and high team three string will receive cash prizes of $15. The remaining amount which is expected to be about $100 will be divided between the first seven teams in the final league standing, to be divided on the following percentage basis: 30 percent for first place winner,

Celtic Play Soccer at Mt. Nebo Sunday

A rumor to the effect that the Celtic soccer team of this town, a member of the Manchester-Hartford District league, is going to disband, was today spiked by the management of the club. This was probably caused by the fact that the Celtics have been finding it difficult to find a suitable playing field, but it was stated today that the remaining home games would undoubtedly be played at Mt. Nebo, the home of the British American club.

Here is the schedule for this week's games: New Britain Swedes vs. Celtics at Mt. Nebo. British Americans vs. Swedish Workers at Charter Oak Park in Hartford.

Cheney Brothers vs. German Club of New Britain, at New Britain in the first round of the state cup. The other cup game will bring together the Scandias and Waterbury in the Brass City.

The following members of the Celtic team are requested to report at the West Side Rec tomorrow night at 7:30: P. Madden, C. McDonnell, W. Lynn, D. Salmanson, T. Cunningham, F. Murphy, Jim and Jack McCavanaugh, A. Robinson, S. Hewitt, W. Wilson, G. McDonnell and J. Flavel.

JONES TO REMAIN WITH YALE TEAM

Famous Coach Planned to Retire After Blues' Defeat By Georgia Eleven.

New York, Oct. 26.—T. A. D. Jones, who has been head coach of the Yale football team for a dozen years, has decided to retire at the close of this season as announced, according to apparently well authenticated reports in Yale alumni circles in New York today. A month ago Jones announced his expected retirement at a dozen years, but it has now been determined to devote at least one more year to coaching the blue eleven. Whether Yale's splendid showing against the Army has changed his decision is unknown.

After Yale's defeat by Georgia it became an open secret that Jones contemplated sticking on for another year and the Blue's victory over Brown did not change this revised decision. Since the Army game last Saturday, when Yale showed clearly that it has one of the most powerful eleven that has ever worn the Blue, Jones has been deluged with congratulatory messages, among them scores urging that he remain in charge of the team. Those who have been close to football affairs at New Haven believe that Jones never actually intended to fade out completely from the football picture at Yale and that he planned to occupy a place similar to that held by Walter Camp, who for two score years, was Yale's "football dictator."

FEATHERWEIGHT CROWN HAS NO WEARER YET

Canzoneri Must Defeat Benny Bass Before New York Board Will Recognize Him.

New York, Oct. 26.—The featherweight division was still a matter of personal choice today. Efforts to mount Tony Canzoneri to the championship on the basis of his victory over Johnny Dundee, title claimant, failed before the boxing commission, but the commission has decided that if Canzoneri could beat Benny Bass, he would be recognized in New York as the champion. Here more of the many complications developed when Bass' manager, Phil Glasman, pointed out that Bass is regarded as the champion in Pennsylvania and therefore is entitled to the champion's percentage of the gate—something that Canzoneri's backers can't see. The commission has suggested a title fight on a fifty-fifty basis, or no fight at all. The matter was deadlocked today.

Meanwhile, Jess McMahon, matchmaker, announced today that Canzoneri probably would meet Bud Taylor, generally recognized as the bantam champ, in his next bout.

20 percent for second, 15 percent for third, 10 percent for fourth, fifth and sixth and 5 percent for seventh. Silver loving cups will be donated the team winners by Howard Murphy, Thomas Conran and The Herald. There were exactly twenty clauses in the league meeting which was presided over by President Clifford. All except one or two of minor importance have been mentioned in this account.

Which Sport Is More Beneficial?

Jimmy DeForest—is the gray-headed, canny-old trainer of prize ring champions, who trained Jack Dempsey for his memorable battle with Jess Willard when the Manassa Mauler, whipped into the peak of condition, stood out as a marvel. He has trained many other champions.

Chick Meehan—called the Knute Rockne of the east, has enjoyed national success when, as coach of Syracuse, he whipped his green-orange band annually into the race for national championship grid honors. He has another contender this year at New York University.

De Forest And Meehan Debate On The Merits "Boxing vs Football"

In this day of million-dollar purses in the prize ring and 100,000 attendance in huge football stadiums, the two sports are reaching the peak of public interest.

Would you prefer your son to take up boxing or football? What are the advantages of each activity? Which better fits a man for life? These and other pertinent questions of the moment are covered in this sparkling debate between proponents of the two sports—Chick Meehan, coach at N. Y. U., and Jimmy DeForest, famous trainer of ring champions.

BY JIMMY POWERS. New York, Oct. 26.—Which is more beneficial to a young man these days—boxing or football? Leave it to Chick Meehan, grid coach at New York University, and he'll answer very sincerely that football has it on boxing. Not so emphatic about boxing.

Listen to DeForest: "Self-reliance is the best equipment a man can take into his battle with life," says DeForest. "A boxer is trained to be self-reliant as an individual. He has no 'interference' with him when he goes plunging into battle. There is no 'safety' standing back of him to pull down the enemy if he makes a mistake. My advice to a young man is to choose the ring for advancement in life."

Now for Mr. Meehan: "A football player is tougher any day than a boxer," he claims. "Take a boxer and a football player, put them through their respective training paces, and the football player will be three times more mentally and physically fit when they get through than the boxer."

Well and good. Let Mr. DeForest explain his views on this difference of opinion: "I think the science of prize ring training is misunderstood," he says. "People who pay big prices to see champions perform forget that by the time the fight is near, that period when they see fighters lolling around in knickers and playing golf, that there is back of him all his hard work—the wood chopping, the mountain climbing, the hours spent in the gym, the cracks on the chin from sparring partners. "Did you ever see a football star marked up? No, they look like movie heroes. If a football star takes a poke at another player in a game, his side is penalized and he is put out of the game. But a boxer takes twenty such pokes in a single round!"

"A boxer is in there all by himself. He has no four or five stars to help him. He has to have courage, he has to help himself—for there are no gates in a ring! A boxer has to have lightning-like speed of co-ordination between mind and body. Considering the lack of education a boxer suffers from, in comparison to the pampered sons of the rich, it is to the everlasting credit of boxing that its followers have advanced to the present high scale it now enjoys."

In conclusion, DeForest cites the investments of Firpo, Dempsey, Tunney, Walker and others as an example of being brainy inside as well as out of the ring.

HANSEN VS. SCOTT

New York, Oct. 26.—Knute Hansen, heavyweight contender, today was expected to sign for a bout with Phil Scott, English champion, in place of Paulino Uezudun, to be held on the original Scott-Uezudun date of November 4, at Madison Square Garden. Paulino is definitely out of the running with an injured back and will meet Tom Heene at a later date, it was reported.

FLYNN MANAGES SHADE

Leo P. Flynn, who managed Jack Dempsey in his last two bouts, is also manager for Dave Shade.

Wallingford Eagles Coming on Sunday

You've got to hand it to those Cloverleaves. They surely aren't picking any "setups" for their schedule. The games to date have proven as much and then today comes the word from the Cloverleaves' camp that the Wallingford Eagles have been booked to appear here Sunday afternoon at Hickey's Grove again. Two weeks ago, this plucky aggregation battled the Cloverleaves to a 6 to 6 tie, scoring in the latter part of the game on a long forward pass and then falling to annex the point that would have spelled defeat for the Cloverleaves.

Fully aware of the splendid showing the Wallingford team made here, Manager Bill Griffin immediately made arrangements for a return game. With the exception of "Hook" Brennan who is out of the game for two weeks with a sprained ankle, the Cloverleaves will be able to put their strongest team on the field. Brennan will be back, it is expected, a week from Sunday. Johnny Ambrose, who sprained his side last Sunday at City Tyler, was also injured in a game a couple of weeks ago, will both be back in togs Sunday, Captain Brunig Moske announced. Freddy Pheanut will be at quarter Sunday.

The Cloverleaves are running a dance at Turn Hall tomorrow night.

TWO TEAMS TIED IN 6 DAY GRIND

McNamara-Walker Even Up With Beckman—Winter In Chicago Race.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Reggie McNamara and Cecil Walker, termed the "tumbling Australians" because of their numerous spills thus far in the six day bike race, today were riding alongside of the Beckman-Winter team, which emerged from a jam after a wild night of riding to enter into a tie for first place.

The little old New York team, as Beckman and Winter are known, had the iron mounts wobbling all over the boards as a result of their reckless pace. With Beckman cutting McNamara off from any chance of gaining laps, Winter rode the rest of the field dizzy.

The whole field rode better in the sprints than at any other stage of the race, but McNamara and Walker showed signs of weakening following their steady grind at the head of the pack.

Crucial Schoolboy Tilt Should Prove Humdinger

Kelley's S. M. H. S. Gridsters Must Halt Visitors to Stop Latter's Pennant-March; School to March to Game In Body.

It is fortunate at the return of Spencer, Johnston and Treat. This trio had been on the injured list but were back in togs in the East Hartford game. The latter is the son of Mayor and Mrs. Robert V. Treat. He is also the chap who intercepted a forward pass in the last minute of play in the East Hartford game, which if caught, might have possibly resulted disastrously for Manchester.

Here is the lineup which will take the field for Manchester: Lupton and Farr, ends; Healey and Kittle, tackles; Welles and L. Cheney, guards; Mercer, G. Hansen, quarterback; E. Dowd and Gill, half-backs; Keeney, fullback. During the week, Coach Kelley says his team has rehearsed a lot of new plays which may be drafted in tomorrow's crucial contest.

A monster football rally was held at the High school assembly hall this afternoon and, judging from the spirit shown, there will be a lively time at the old ball park tomorrow. The students will march to the game in a body headed by the school band. Manchester High never had a football team more deserving of support, at least in recent years, than the one which now carries the school's reputation on its shoulders. Three successive victories have not been recorded before the revival of the sport here several years ago. It is a credit to Coach Kelley and every player on the team.

Much is at stake in tomorrow afternoon's scheduled football game between Manchester and Meriden High schools at the McKee street stadium. The kick-off of the contest, which will go a long way toward deciding, if not actually establishing, the winner of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League, will go spinning into the air promptly at 2:30. Central Board officials will be in charge.

Since its inauspicious season's start when it took a 24 to 6 trouncing from West Hartford in the latter's stronghold, Coach Tommy Kelley's S. M. H. S. gridsters have won three games in a row, two being fought on opposing team's fields. Bristol fell a 19 to 6 prey here and then Manchester partly spoiled the dedication of Mercer Field in New London by trimming Bulkeley High 6 to 0 and followed this up with a 7 to 6 decision over East Hartford at the Velodrome.

Must Spot Meriden Meriden, in the meanwhile, has been going even stronger. Not a single league defeat has been chalked up against them and a win over Manchester tomorrow will put them in a position very hard to dislodge. It is up to Manchester to put a crimp in the Silver City record tomorrow, if it has any hopes of winning the league pennant.

During the past few weeks, Coach Kelley has been hard hit with injured players. Billy Dowd, clever half-back and basketball star, is out of the lineup for the remainder of the season with a broken or chipped ankle. His work in Bulkeley game was of high order. Terry Shannon is also on the shelf. He has a broken nose and may not return this season. Ted Lupien is out with a fracture of the collar bone.

Return of Veterans On the other hand, Coach Kelley is fortunate at the return of Spencer, Johnston and Treat. This trio had been on the injured list but were back in togs in the East Hartford game. The latter is the son of Mayor and Mrs. Robert V. Treat. He is also the chap who intercepted a forward pass in the last minute of play in the East Hartford game, which if caught, might have possibly resulted disastrously for Manchester.

Here is the lineup which will take the field for Manchester: Lupton and Farr, ends; Healey and Kittle, tackles; Welles and L. Cheney, guards; Mercer, G. Hansen, quarterback; E. Dowd and Gill, half-backs; Keeney, fullback. During the week, Coach Kelley says his team has rehearsed a lot of new plays which may be drafted in tomorrow's crucial contest.

WALKER MUST FIGHT

New York, Oct. 26.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion accused in some quarters of sidestepping formidable looking contenders today has thirty days to make his mind on whether to box or forfeit his title in New York state.

The New York State Athletic Commission has accepted the challenge of George Courtney, former Oklahoma grid star, who demanded a crack at Walker's title. The commission has given Walker thirty days to declare himself.

It was pointed out that Courtney had met every middleweight of consequence in the country with the exception of Tiger Flowers and Walker. His efforts to obtain a bout with Flowers when the Tiger held the title were futile, his handlers told the commission.

BEST RUNNING PERFORMANCE

Johnny Neun's five stolen bases in one game was the best running performance of the year in the major leagues.

WAS SURPRISED DEFEAT

Penn State's victory over Penn's eleven was one of the big upsets of the early season.

COLUMBIA CONFIDENT

New York, Oct. 26.—Columbia gridgers, confronted with the Cornell clash Saturday, were indulging in a comparatively easy training session today with orders that "no tackling" is to be directed at the varsity backs. The order remains standing for the balance of the week in order to eliminate training hazards.

SEW

Let's see how does it go. "As ye sew, so shall ye rip," or something like that? If you can go from SEW to RIP in fewer than four strokes you can beat par. One par solution is printed on another page.

Word puzzle grid with 'SEW' and 'RIP' filled in.

THE RULES 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN in three strokes COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2—You can change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

THE ANYMITES STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The clayhouse that the Tines planned was taking form and looking grand. Wee Carpy took the lead and told them how each part should go. This didn't bother all the rest. In fact they thought that he knew best. And they were right because he is a carpenter, you know. As fast as clay was paked on right, the sun beamed down and baked it tight. Up, up the wee house 'rose in air. The Tines worked with speed. When it was two feet from the ground, wee Carpy gazed, and looked around. Said he, "Some windows on the side are things we surely need." The others answered, "You are right. We'll surely want to have some light." And, so they made two windows that were cut as they could be. Wee Carpy was the one who tried to see if he could see outside. His head came through the window and he said, "Sure, I can see!" They made the doorway nice and round, and then they very promptly found that little steps were needed, so they built them out of clay. Then Scouty cried "Oh, my, what fun. We'll shortly have our clay house done. I never thought we'd finish it in just a single day." A rounding roof, of course, was next. At first the bunch were quite perplexed. "How are we going to make it stay?" asked Coppy. "Answer that! I fear as soon as we begin to put on clay, 'twill cave right in. Our roof will crack and crumble every time we give a pat." But Carpy cleared this little fix. He gathered strong and lengthy sticks and piled them where the roof should be. "Ah, there you are," he proudly cried. "Successful is the plan I tried." And he was right. The sticks held tight when clay was piled on top. (A goat chases Clowny in the next story.)

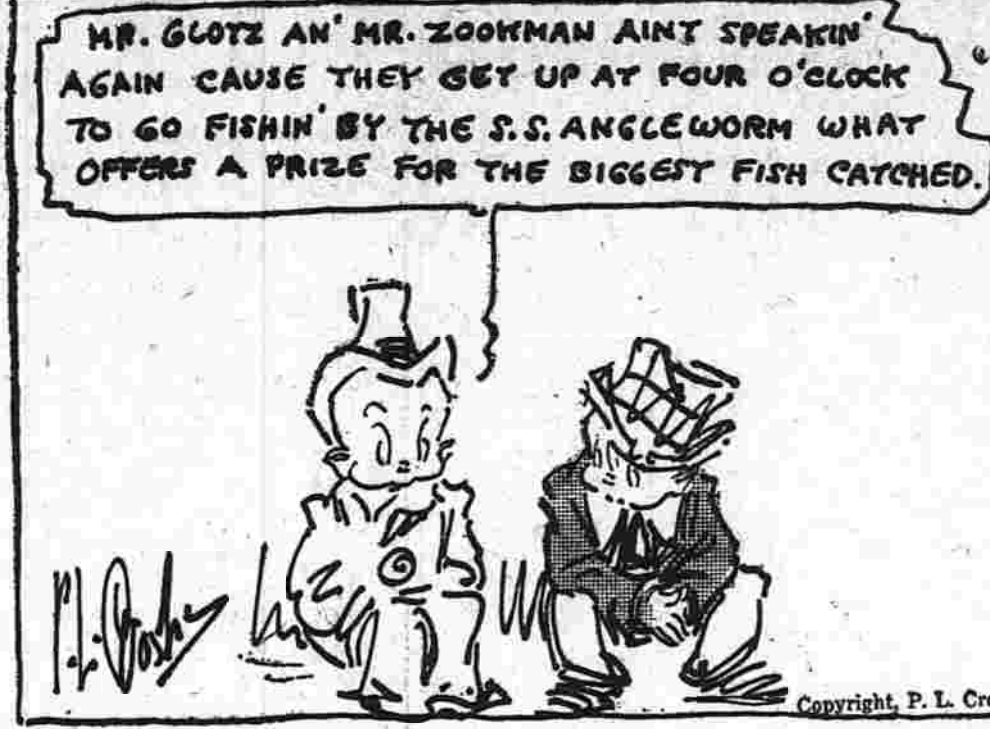

SENSE and NONSENSE

"So you were late to school, Besie?" "Yes mama." "Why didn't you run, dear?" "Because you told me never to deceive mama." "But how would that deceive, my child?" "It might give some one who saw me running an idea that I was anxious to get there and I wasn't." Dig, but don't dig yourself in. The ladder to success isn't an escalator. Boost your employer, and he'll boost you. Don't knock; leave that to Opportunity. Ambition counts, but it doesn't count the hours. Are you too big to stop for courtesy, or too small? Are you holding down your job, or lifting it up? You may stand back of the boss, but face him squarely also. Keep on your toes and you won't be "run down at the heel."

About the most helpful sentence in the world is: Well, where did you have it last? It's all very well to talk about marrying in haste and repenting at leisure, but a married man has no leisure. Our idea of a clever woman is one who can chew a wad of Lo Paste's glue with false teeth and not make a sucking sound. Beauty is natural, ugliness, is painted on. Straws show which way the wind blows and the chocolate milk goes. Customer: "Have you any good noodles?" Tired Grocer: "No, my clerks are all dumb-bells." A little applause. Say now and then, Is relished, folks, By all the men. "I understand there is a moon-shine still around here." "Don't believe it," said Uncle Bill Bottletop. "We are just as scientific and synthetic as anybody. What was once called a still is now a laboratory." What's Wrong With This? A boy was told to write a sentence on the blackboard containing the words "horse sense." He wrote: "The man forgot to lock his stable door one night and he hasn't seen his horse sense."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Black of Twin Mountains, N. H., who were on their way to St. Cloud, Fla., spent the past week-end as guests of Mrs. Black's brothers, Robert Phayer of 95 Cedar street and Edward Phayer of 11 Fairfield street.

The Ladies Sewing society will meet at the Concordia Lutheran church tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. A. D. Northrop of the Balch & Brown building has had as her guests recently her four nieces, all of Springfield. They were Mrs. Belle Morris, Mrs. Rose Coláke, Mrs. Margaret Fielding and Mrs. Molly Bradley.

Channey E. Ellsworth of Marble street, left yesterday for his winter home in Ormond, Florida. His daughter, Mrs. Frank Fitch of East Hartford accompanied him to New York, and with Mr. Fitch will join him in the South later.

The directors of the Manchester Public Library held a meeting Monday evening at the home of Arthur J. Straw on Woodbridge street. Various matters of routine business were discussed and it was voted that all children under the seventh grade be required to exchange their library books in the afternoon. After 5:30 children in the lower grades will be denied the use of the reading tables and book service, unless accompanied by parents. This rule was made years ago. It is also in force at present in the South Manchester library.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held an enjoyable whist social last evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Burke on School street. Guests were present from Bagleyville, Hartford and other places. First prizes fell to Mrs. Ruth Vitter, Mrs. W. J. Burke; second to Mrs. Scott, Mr. LaChance and consolation awards to Lillian Suede and Clarence Sadrozinski. Home-made cake and coffee were served.

In discussing the business prospects at the north end of the town, one old resident remarked this morning that he had never seen Depot Square appear to better advantage than it does at the present time. All the store buildings are well cared for, many of the blocks have been newly painted, two of them have been treated with a coat of stucco which has greatly improved their appearance.

Matthew Merz has on display in his barber shop window on North Main street one of the largest beets ever grown in Manchester. It was raised by G. H. Sankey, the well known dairy man on Oakland street. It weighs 8 3/4 pounds and is a genuine table beet and not a mangle.

Charles Sweet, who is in charge of the Depot Square grass plot, complains that the boys play football there. He has reported the matter to the park commissioners who will doubtless see that this is stopped. If they are allowed to tramp over it at all they will soon destroy the beauty of the plot.

The Park Commission has removed all the shrubbery at the ends of the grass plot on Depot Square and will replace it with shrubs of a lower growing variety. The tall bushes had become a menace to passing motorists.

The Epworth League of the North Methodist church will have its regular monthly business meeting at the church tomorrow evening.

Mark Holmes, tax collector in the Eighth district wishes to call the attention of the taxpayers to the fact that next Monday is the last day on which taxes may be paid and save the 5 per cent interest. He will be at his new office in the Hartman block Monday until nine o'clock in the evening for the accommodation of the taxpayers.

The young people of the Epworth League of the North Methodist church have invited the members of the Second Congregational endeavor society to be their guests at a Hallowe'en social Friday evening at 7:30 in the North Methodist vestry. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Carl Erickson, Miss Marguerite Marks, Howard Fish and Harold Hanna. They request all who can do so to appear in costume. Prizes will be given for the funniest rig and also for the winners in the different stunts. A real good time is assured all who attend. Refreshments appropriate to Hallowe'en will be served.

Mark Holmes of the Home Variety Store is fairly well settled at his new location in the Hartman block. He has his undertaking rooms on the east side of the building, while in the rear the Community Press, under the management of Arthur Holmes is located.

Thomas D. Smith, the well known grocery and meat man on North School street is out today with two new Pontiac trucks to be used in his increasing business.

While a number of north end business men would like to see a bank established there and would appreciate the convenience and time-saver it would be to people in this section, they are not yet ready to risk the investment of the necessary cash and for this reason the bank proposition seems to be at a standstill for the present.

John G. Talcott of Talcottville was re-elected president of the Nathan Hale Donation at a dinner and meeting of directors held yesterday in Williamantic at the Nathan Hale hotel.

BOY SCOUTS TO TAKE MERIT BADGE TESTS

The Manchester Boy Scout Court of Honor will pass on the applications of a number of Scouts for merit badges tomorrow evening. The meeting of the court will be held in the School street Recreation Center at 7:30. Following are the Boy Scouts who will apply for badges:

- Troop 1—George Styles, craftsmanship in leather, scholarship.
- Troop 5—Herbert Johnson, public health; Philip Anderson, pathfinding; Roy Johnson, swimming; Leonard Bjorkman, swimming; Elmore Anderson, scholarship; Raymond Benson, architecture; Carl Bengston, textiles.
- Troop 3—Elliott Knight, personal health.

ALCORN FIGHTS FREEING OF TONG WAR WITNESS

Files Brief Against Habeas Corpus For Sam Ong Jing, Manchester Chinese.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn yesterday filed a brief in the United States District Court in New Haven protesting against the release of Sam Ong Jing, star witness in the case of the state against Chin Lung and Soo Hoo Wing, convicted of murdering Ong Ging Hem, a laundryman, on Oak street here last March.

Habeas corpus proceedings have been brought in an effort to release the witness, who has been staying since the trial at the home of Constable Harris K. Hotchkiss in Granby. The murderers have been condemned to hang at Wethersfield prison on November 1 and their case is up on appeal.

Mr. Alcorn stated in his brief that large sums of money have been paid for the release of Sam, although the witness is a poor man. He further states that the release of the witness would be inimical to his safety, and furthermore, since Sam was the only eye witness to the murder, it is imperative that he be held in the event that a new trial is granted by the Supreme Court of Errors.

Edward W. Broder and Thomas J. Spellacy, counsel for the witness, contend that he is being held by the state in violation of his constitutional rights when he was held longer than the expiration of the June term of the Superior Court, during which the two Chinese were convicted.

Because of the brief by Mr. Alcorn, the decision of the court on the constitutional question involved is expected that the Supreme Court will pass on the motion for a new trial in a short time.

Capt. and Mrs. William Addy to Take Charge of Peekskill, N. Y., Corps.

Captain and Mrs. William Addy of 41 Garden street left today to assume charge of the Peekskill, N. Y., corps of the Salvation Army. They will be located from now on in the Hudson River division of the Army.

Captain and Mrs. Addy have been absent from the Salvation Army field work for several years and have been living privately in Manchester. Both have taken an active part, however, in the work of the local corps.

Previous to their stay in Manchester they were in the field work of the Salvation Army for five years, having charge of corps in this and other New England states. They were at one time in charge of the Hartford corps.

Watkins Will Furnish New Church At Storrs

Get Contract For Interior
Decorating, Furniture and Upholstering at Community Edifice.

Watkins Brothers announced today that they have been awarded the contract for the furnishing and decorating of the new community church being completed at Storrs, Connecticut. This new edifice is the last of two buildings to be built in the interest of community life at Storrs and the Connecticut Agricultural College. The movement having been started by the Connecticut Federation of Churches. Last fall the first of the two buildings, a community house, was opened and immediately plans for the church were started.

Watkins Brothers were awarded the work of furnishing and decorating the Community House and their work has caused widespread favorable comment. Visitors from all over the country, especially from few days with their boys and girls at the college, have been so enthusiastic about the decorating scheme that they have used it as a model for other similar buildings. In furnishing the community house, which is of Colonial architecture, Watkins Brothers selected Colonial furniture of maple and cherry with upholstered pieces to harmonize.

Naturally, as the new church progressed towards completion, Watkins Brothers were again called in for suggestions on the interior and furnishing it. The building is of brick in the Colonial manner, designed by Delbert K. Perry of New Britain, and is considered one of the finest examples of Colonial architecture in the country. In keeping with the design of the building, fine Georgian furniture was selected for the pulpit platform. Draperies of rich red damask will harmonize with heavy antique red carpet and red pew cushions. The interior woodwork is finished in ivory enamel in keeping with the architectural scheme and pews were copied from an old Colonial design making a beautiful edifice.

Watkins Brothers have also completed furnishing several other institutions this year. The one most interesting to local people is the new Masonic Temple which was furnished throughout, with the exception of the seating, by the local firm. This included rugs, carpets, linoleum, draperies, and furniture for officers and social rooms and lodge rooms. At the Loomis Institute, Windsor, Connecticut, the dining room and social rooms of the new building for girls were furnished in the Georgian period. In Simsbury, two social rooms of the fashionable Westminster Boys School done in Colonial cherry and antiques by the local concern.

At Tufts College, Massachusetts, the new Baker Hall recitation rooms were furnished complete. This new building at Tufts is part of a group of which Fletcher Hall, a dormitory building of 40 rooms, is one. Fletcher Hall was also furnished complete by Watkins Brothers.

It is interesting to note that such large institutions throughout the state and Massachusetts are looking to Manchester for correct decorating service.

MISS HEALEY HAS BIG ASSORTMENT OF HATS

Miss Alice Healey of the Park building has been a milliner in Manchester for some years and has enjoyed the steady patronage of women who desire the latest in hats. Miss Healey's assortment, she believes, is as large as that of any other millinery establishment in town.

Regarding hat styles, Miss Healey said today that felts, velours and velvets have come to stay for a long while and will be the principal hat materials this winter. She carries a complete line of hats, and also trimmings. Customers have the advantage of an individual trimming service, through which hats are fitted to individual types.

A little known part of Miss Healey's business is the making of bridal veils, of which she does considerable.

R. I. TEXTILE CO. SELLS MANY LINES

Five years ago this month the Rhode Island Textile company established a store in the Park building. Dealing in yard goods almost exclusively at that time, the young store prospered and more lines were added.

The stores now sell in addition to yard goods in wool, silk, cotton and domestics, blankets, comfortables, women's and children's hosiery, curtains and draperies. A. L. Stocomb is the manager of the Manchester store.

"TEN PAYMENT PLAN" BUILT THIS BUSINESS

Originated by General Manager it Spelled Prosperity For George H. Williams Co., Inc.

One of the principal men's clothing stores on Main street which will observe the new closing schedule is that of George H. Williams, Inc., recently incorporated. The store has been located in the Johnson block since Mr. Williams removed from the Tinker building a year or two ago.

Mr. Williams purchased this business from P. J. Hutchinson, who was in the old store location further down Main street. Since the change of ownership it has grown in size and in patronage.

A short while ago Mr. Williams, with Dr. T. F. O'Loughlin, Edward Newton and Walter Cowles, formed the corporation known as George H. Williams, Inc. Dr. O'Loughlin is president of the concern, Mr. Williams general manager and treasurer, Mr. Newton vice president and retail manager and Walter Cowles, secretary and credit manager.

Recently the corporation took over the business of the C. H. Miller clothing company of Rockville and has been operating that store for some time. Reorganization of the two stores is contemplated and it is expected that both will be placed under the control of the corporation shortly.

The Williams store has been noted for the quality of goods it handles. Chief among its well known lines is the Fashion Park clothing. This includes also the Charter House brand of clothing, which is the brand for young men. The store also conducts a made to measure service in connection with its Fashion Park agency.

Mr. Williams has inaugurated a new plan of payments, whereby the purchaser may pay as he wears. He calls the store the "House of the Ten-Payment Plan," and reports that the system has increased his business while it has enabled many people to go well clothed without suffering a heavy burden on their incomes.

Mr. Cowles is manager of the credit system and is also head book-keeper of the firm.

Three American statesmen have been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize: Theodore Roosevelt in 1906; Elihu Root, 1912; Woodrow Wilson, 1918.

MURRAY'S POPULAR WITH THE SHOPPERS

New Models Fresh From Fashion Centers Daily Liked By Ladies.

Murray's, a comparatively new store in Manchester features hats. The store, located in the State theater building, also features a system which enables Manchester buyers to take advantage of the new styles as soon as they come into the big cities. A buyer in New York sends new models to Murray's every day, so that the stock is always of the latest styles.

Coming to Manchester last February, the store has expanded considerably and its circle of customers has widened greatly. New display methods lend an original touch to the place.

Besides hats the store handles novelties, artificial flowers, boutonniere and hosiery. The latter is one of the principal articles of the store's stock in trade.

An airplane is used by a doctor in far West Queensland, where a large area of the interior is without means of communication.

ELECTRIC CO. STORE ALREADY TOO SMALL

Outgrows Quarters in Two Years—To Move to Dewey-Richman Block.

The Manchester Electric Company will move during the next month to a new location in the Dewey Richman block at the corner of Main and Birch streets. Two years ago the salesroom of the company was moved from Cheney Brothers' plant to the present Main street location in the Orford building but expansion has made it necessary to seek larger quarters.

The company handles all kinds of electrical appliances, including almost everything imaginable for the home. Their present location has been convenient for the customers of the company and it is expected that the new home will be even more convenient.

It is expected that the company will be in its new headquarters by November 17.

A fasting club, the members of which believe that a 40-day's fast will cure any chronic ailment, has been found in Belgrade.

THURSDAY NIGHT

Between You an' Me an' the Witchin' Post

they'll be plenty stirrin' in Manchester on this here comin' Thursday. Everybody's openin' this new schedule with a bang, so's t' start things off right.

Boss put it up t' me t' fix up somethin' thet would fill the bill on our part—an' b'lieve me I got somethin'. Thursday's been a closed day fer a long time past, but she's sure bustin' wide open now. We're open a'll day—but especially 'th' evenin'.

Thursday Night's the Night
Come To Our Hallowe'en Party
Everyone's Invited—Lots o' Fun

Yes sir, we're all decked out in our best bib an' tucker. Lots o' new furniture t' show, an' all on free inspection—it's open house with everyone welcome an' nobody asked t' buy. This is our party, an' you're invited. An' in th' evenin' a reg'lar Hallowe'en blow-out with all th' fixin's.

Gran' Prize Drawin'
from the
Witches' Cauldron

Do y' like a frolic? Do y' like a thrill? Do y' like t' take a chance fer th' fun of it? Well sir, here 'tis, an' it don't cost y' nothin'.

Three prizes "from the witches' cauldron"—first prize, second prize and booby. We got Old Mother Witch herself t' be present in person with her whole flock o' black cats an' spooks an' owls an' bats. She mixes her broth an' serves you yer portion, an' she casts her lots fer th' prizes.

Go into th' chamber of horrors—peep in th' witches kettle—there's cat's whiskers, an' bat's claws, an' owls' eyes, an' broomsticks, an' cobwebs, an' crossbones an' everything all brewin' t'gether. Pick out a morsel an' then find th' prizes—marked with a tail, or a eyebrow, or bat wing like th' piece you got out o' th' kettle.

This is a new one an' it's fun. A reg'lar Hallowe'en Frolic. Take a chance an' win a prize—first, second or booby!

We're Open Thursday All Day. The Party's in the Evenin'.

"The Place To Buy Furniture"

PROFIT SHARING
KEITH FEATURE

Original Plan Aids Many People to Furnish Homes Easily.

The Keith Furniture Company is a Manchester institution of some twenty-eight years standing—making it one of the oldest mercantile firms now operating in town. Keith's have been consistently known as a Credit store, frankly soliciting installment accounts and building a good reputation thereby, even in the days when the installment method of selling were generally held in poor repute.

Installation sales of furniture are now universal, and this store finds itself in a peculiarly sound position now, with years of experience and good will behind it in doing business on credit.

Perhaps the most important contribution to furniture merchandising which has ever been developed hereabouts is Keith's Profit-Sharing Credit Plan. It is novel, and the best possible service. The Profit-Sharing Plan is operated through a so-called Club Account, on which the terms of payment run for a full year's time, the customer being allowed a Cash Discount on that basis, which is usually available only to the cash customer.

Few people nowadays are in a position to lay down the amount of cash necessary for any considerable amount of furniture. At the same time, Keith's are dealing with hundreds who are perfectly able to pay out of income—who are reliable for their engagements and who appreciate good furniture. This store can finance such purchases on its own resources. It carries its own accounts. It caters to a substantial class of trade and a large volume of it. Credit risks are well known, and losses are few.

All of these factors conspire to place Keith's in a position of advantage—probably the only store in this section so favorably placed—when it comes to offering the best inducements to the credit customer. The Profit-Sharing Club Account is the result. The Club Discount is a genuine concession in price that is not obtainable elsewhere. It is a real Profit-Sharing principle, in the sense that it is a dividend in which the customer participates by virtue of trading here.

And this Profit-Sharing Plan has been very successful. The trade has appreciated it and taken advantage of it. Even more to the point, it has been extensively imitated. So-called club accounts have been in vogue for a long time past, but since Keith's installed this Profit-Sharing Club Plan they have been very much more in evidence. Everything is now sold through a club, if you pay for it on installments.

Even the Slogan "A Whole Year To Pay" has been rather generally adopted—an exact copy of the expression originally used by Keith's. But the Profit-Sharing feature—the real meat of the matter—has so far not been copied. The club discount which is available to credit customers at all times, and on all articles in the whole line of furniture—the real advantage in the system—the ability to grant a concession of this kind—is still exclusively Keith's.

FRADIN'S SPECIALIZES ON COATS FOR WOMEN

Big Sale to Attract Shoppers to Apparel Shop on Thursday.

Fradin's women's apparel shop is planning to inaugurate the new change in schedule of business hours in Manchester by holding a big sale of women's coats. This is a special event for the first all day Thursday opening. Mr. Fradin has scoured the markets for an assortment of fine coats that he could offer to the women and misses of Manchester at special prices.

Fradin's offers as fine an assortment of women's apparel as is to be found most anywhere. They specialize in a wide range of sizes, styles and prices. Due to this fact there are hundreds of women in this town and vicinity who prefer to buy at Fradin's.

The store is at the present time, filled to capacity with new apparel and accessories for the matron and miss. New and stylish garments and things that will please the heart of any woman. Everyone is cordially invited to come to the store and see the merchandise.

Fradin's display windows are always a source of attraction as they are decorated and arranged with exceptionally good taste.

More than 1,700,000,000 passenger journeys by train are taken each year in Great Britain.

CHRISTMAS GOODS ALREADY AT MAY'S

Local Store Manager Has Selected His Stock—Carries Extensive Lines.

A. W. Fried of the May Jewelry Company has recently visited all the New York markets for his Christmas merchandise and promises to bring to Manchester people the finest line of quality goods ever seen in a jewelry store here.

May's has a wonderful assortment of chinaware imported from France, Japan, China and other foreign countries. There is a large variety of chocolate sets, tea sets, coffee sets all kinds of Oriental vases and Japanese serving trays. Their line of toilet sets is most extensive and are in the newest colors and combinations. They come attractively boxed from three to 21 pieces and are priced very reasonably for such quality.

May's has also a large variety of silverware consisting of all the standard makes such as Gorham solid silver, William Rogers Community Plate and Holmes and Edwards plate. May's diamonds are of the best quality and Mr. Fried guarantees every one of them. Mr. Fried announces that special terms on Christmas goods will be given on any article selected now will be set aside until the Christmas season.

Syndicate Connections Keep Hale's Prices Down

Big Lot Buying Helps Local Store to Beat Chain Store Prices—Their Features.

The J. W. Hale Company, Manchester's largest retail store, was opened over thirty years ago on the present site by Justus W. Hale, under the name of the Boston Store. Previously to that time Mr. Hale had conducted a general store on Charter Oak street since 1873. Today, after thirty years, Hale's stores does twenty-one times the amount of business that was transacted that first year way back in '73. Such a growth is phenomenal and alone attests to the enormous popularity of the present organization; not alone in Manchester, but in all the surrounding towns—Gilead, Wapping, Ellington, Andover, Addison, Coventry, Bolton, Rockville, Glastonbury, Burnside, East Hartford and even Hartford.

Today Hale's, together with a few other large stores throughout New England, maintains its own New York office on Grand and Mercer streets. Francis Tynan, a local boy, is in charge of this office. This keeps the store in touch with price and style changes from day to day. Special orders on all kinds of merchandise, too, are taken care of here. The Hale Company, one of the oldest businesses in town, has developed from a small, typical New England general store to a modern department store with over twenty-eight departments, each department divided into a number of sections.

Their garment department which is situated in the rear of the main floor, is the mecca of all those who wish the newest and smartest apparel. Here they feature such well known makes as Townfield, Ekco-moor, Wee Women and Golfex frocks and coats. Hale's fur coats are bought from one of New York's leading furriers. During their recent August Fur Sale they sold more fur coats than they did during the entire winter season last year.

Hale's cold storage vault, which is located on the second floor of the new addition, assures complete protection to your furs. The vault has a constant temperature of below freezing through their automatic refrigeration system which provides cold, dry air at all times. It is insured against fire, theft and moths.

Their Baby Shop, small and attractive shop, is conveniently situated in the rear of the main floor. An infant's complete wardrobe can be purchased here. The children's department has been enlarged this year, and they now carry a full line of apparel for the young miss.

Their popular drug department carries a full line of national known drugs and toilet goods at prices as low as any department store in the city of Hartford. An extensive line of national brands of silk hosiery can be purchased at the hosiery department. Here they feature such well known and nationally advertised brands as Phoenix, Humming Bird, Gotham Gold Stripe and Pointex.

On the second floor can be found their new drapery and curtain department. They are now capable of taking orders on window shades. This same floor is devoted to beds, beddings, floor coverings, inoleums and unpainted furniture.

Hale's famous Self-Serve Grocery is the most unusual food department to be found anywhere in New England. Over a quarter million people visit it yearly; over two thousand on an average Saturdays. Customers from nearby towns drive in once or twice a week and load up, for they have found that they can save 10 per cent to 20 per cent on their groceries by "waiting on themselves." The Self-Serve carries a complete variety of staple and fancy groceries that can be found anywhere in this vicinity. The stock is always fresh, they average over twenty-one turnovers a year. Self-Serve prices on advertised branded merchandise are always as low, or even lower than any of the chain stores.

In 1924, in order to make their food department complete, the Health Market was opened. It is the cleanest market in the state. The walls are of white tile and the floors of Dutch red tile. All the meat cutting is done on the lower floor, where the storage box, chilled by automatic refrigeration, keeps the reserve stock fresh. However, the stock is kept so low that a two days' business uses it up. This policy assures fresh meats at all times. The floors and walls and all the cases and implements are thoroughly scrubbed and cleaned daily. The Health Market business has grown to such an extent that Hale's has just recently added another display case and scale.

Attention is called to the two full page advertisements for the J. W. Hale Company carried elsewhere in this paper.

INDIVIDUAL FITTINGS FEATURE AT GARDNER'S

One of the main features of the shoe store of W. H. Gardner in the Park building is the individual fitting service which Mr. Gardner carries on through the Walkover factory. With this service Mr. Gardner can fit any foot, regardless of shape or size. It is the only shoe store in Manchester which deals in shoes exclusively. The Walkover shoe is the principal line carried by Mr. Gardner, coming in styles for men and women.

AL GREZEL'S BUSINESS HAS GROWN RAPIDLY

With a little red barn on Pearl street as his headquarters Alfred Grezel started out as a free-lance plumber 12 years ago. Today he operates two places, his plumbing headquarters on Birch street and a showroom in the Furlong block. His lines include plumbing supplies, Nokol oil burners, Frigidaires, washing machines and radio. He handles the R. C. A. radio receiving sets. Mr. Grezel's force of men in the plumbing end of his business now numbers 15.

KEMP'S 5TH BIRTHDAY SALE NOW GOING ON

Special Bargains in Complete Line of Merchandise at Music House.

Five years ago Kemp's Music House opened its door to the public, and to commemorate the event, a Birthday Sale has been launched. The sale will include the complete line of musical merchandise, namely: Pianos, victrolas, sheet music, violins, banjos, guitars, ukuleles, band instruments, and prices have been reduced so low that this will without doubt be one of the most successful sales ever put on in Manchester.

The line of merchandise carried by the local music store, is world-wide known, and this has been one of the chief reasons for the success of Kemp's Music House. The line of "Quality Pianos" includes the Mason & Hamlin, Brambach, Gulbransen, Hobart M. Cable, Lester, and others. All of these pianos have large sales everywhere, and are used by the finest musicians everywhere. The Victor and Columbia lines of phonographs are carried in stock, and both of these instruments represent the finest values in the latest developments in phonograph reproduction. The records are made by the finest artists in the world, and even the popular records, are made by the most famous popular singers, dance orchestras, and instrumentalists. The sheet music department, is considered one of the best in the state.

Besides a wide number of popular songs and classical songs, both the Century Edition and McKinley Edition of teaching pieces can be had here. In the instrument department the local music store are representatives for the fine Bacon Banjo, Gibson and Washburn mandolins, Buescher saxophones, Holton and Pan-American band instruments, and a fine stock of high quality violins are carried at all times. To complete the line of first class agencies, the Kodak Co., is represented here, while also the Philo Moving Picture Camera is sold by Kemp's Music House. No finer lines of merchandise are carried under one roof, and Manchester is to be congratulated on having such a fine music store. Everything possible has been done to make this 5th Birthday Sale a notable event, and it is expected that the volume of business done in the sale will exceed any other sale ever conducted by Kemp's Music House.

People in the United States and Canada eat an average of 200 apples each every year.

5,000 SETS A DAY
IS CROSLLEY RECORD

Barstow's Radio Shop Exclusive Dealer Here For Fine Instrument.

The outstanding value in the low price radio field this year is undoubtedly the Crosley Bandbox, 6 tubes, one dial, illuminated and the entire set totally shielded—for $55. Already Crosley is building 5,000 of the Bandboxes a day. When one considers that there are nearly 300 manufacturers of radio sets, 5,000 a day for one company is nothing short of marvelous—not only in the way of producing but in selling—and they are selling. Barstow's Radio Shop, exclusive Crosley dealer for South Manchester, has already sold nearly 30 Bandboxes. When one can purchase a six tube, one dial, totally shielded set, installed for $102 on 5 months terms, no wonder people do not hesitate. Remember "You're there with a Crosley."

BENSON HAS 30 YEARS
FURNITURE EXPERIENCE

Ezekiel Benson and his son, Arthur, some time ago formed the Benson Furniture company and located in the Farr building north of the Salvation Army. At first the store was operated as an exchange but Mr. Benson has branched out into the regular furniture business and has stocked the place with all the well known lines of furniture and house furnishings. With 30 years of experience in the furniture business in Manchester, Mr. Benson is well qualified to advise prospective home furnishers.

"It's hard to get up," drowsily murmured the hod-carrier as he went about his daily work.

PLUMBING AND SUPPLY
CO. CARRIES BIG STOCK

F. T. Blish, president of the Manchester Plumbing and Supply company in the Orford building, has been in the hardware business since 1897. He is the founder of the F. T. Blish Hardware company and also of the Manchester Plumbing and Supply company which he began in 1914.

A plumbing department which the store conducted was discontinued several years ago but the store continues to stock a complete line of plumbing supplies in addition to the regular hardware and seed lines. The supply department is one of the important parts of the business. Six men of considerable experience assist Mr. Blish in the operation of the store.

Blessings are often disguised but curses seem never to need a disguise.

N. MARLOW SELLS
"MOST EVERYTHING"

N. Marlow and Company, located in the Orford building, is Manchester's first 25 cent store. Formerly in the Madden block at Brainard place and Main street, Mr. Marlow moved his business to the Orford building some years ago. The store was recently enlarged to take in the location formerly occupied by the Meyer Harrison bootery. The basement of the store is enlarged now and the entrance is in the front, instead of in the middle of the store, as formerly. Mr. Marlow sells almost everything.

HAPPY HOLMES POPULAR AS KEITH ADVERTISER

His Column Widely Read; Covers Calendar With His Quaint Remarks.

Once more we have our old friend "Happy Holmes" with us. Whenever the Keith Furniture Co. puts on an event, "Happy" is very much in evidence. In fact his regular weekly column in The Herald every Saturday attracts a lot of attention anyway, whether anything else is going on or not. Happy never misses an opportunity to talk, and to say something interesting, even if there's nothing to say. This column character first appeared about a year and a half ago, representing Keith's and explaining that he'd been "took on trial, 'd do some advertising," which he didn't know anything about but he'd "tried about everything else an' was willin' t' have a shot at it." Evidently he has made good. At least he appears very regularly and talks things over in a friendly way—furniture and everything else on the calendar. He makes his column interesting and sometimes very amusing; with his rough-and-ready style—but he always uses a straightforward, practical line of talk that carries the conviction of honesty and fair-dealing. Just the kind of a fellow that you like to meet and do business with.

BIG BOYS' SECTION

AT A. L. HULTMAN'S

Large Assortment of Furnishings Stressed at Men's and Boys' Store.

In Hultman's Boys' Department the shopper will find all the requirements of dress for boys of the ages 3 to 18 years, all wool jersey and washable suits for the smaller boys up to 10 years of age, as well as the "two pants" boys suits for ages 5 to 18. Most of the "two pants" suits are Jack O-Leather suits, combining good style with real wearing qualities, for the ever active American boy.

Hultman's fall and winter stock of boys overcoats is new complete. It is by far the largest and most beautiful assortment ever shown in Manchester. Included are—genuine Germania chinchillas of popular shades for the smaller boys and heavy all wool plaid back and wool-lined coats for the boy, 10 to 18.

A very complete furnishing department is also available for boys at Hultman's. Victor blouses and shirts in several grades, Allen-A underwear, sweaters, lumberjacks, hats, caps, hose, ties, belts, gloves, pajamas, bathrobes and plain coats are some of the treasures.

Hultman's childrens and boys shoes are of the best. They consist chiefly of Pied Piper and Jack and Gill makes (Hultman's). These are carried in all sizes and several widths. They also have a complete line of misses' shoes, rubbers and articles.

Hultman's is not directing all attention to boys however, as they have an equally as well equipped men's store. Smithsonian-Michaels Stern and Rico suits and overcoats comprise most of their clothing department. There is also the Knitter topcoat. The stock is now ten times greater than ever before, due to the fact that they have the facilities to handle such a stock at the present.

Hultman's furnishings are also of the better grade, "up to the minute" styles, and quality first values, featuring Eagle and Parker make shirts, Allen-A Underwear, interwoven hose, and all other brands of equal merit. Marvin make soft and stiff hats are also featured.

Hultman's men's shoes are also in keeping with the rest of the store—Vetrolas, Arch preservers, Nunn Bush, Smith Smart Shoes and Hultman's make. It is the best assortment of the best shoes in the Town of Manchester.

Hultman's motto is "Quality and Service at Prices Unequaled."

HESS MAKES GOOD

IN PLUMBING LINE

Started Only Eight Years Ago Local Store Is Branching Out.

Edward Hess, whose store is now located in the Park building, has been in business for the past eight years as a dealer in housefurnishings, plumbing supplies electrical fixtures and stoves.

He is a plumbing contractor also and numbers among his big jobs the installation of plumbing and heating facilities in the houses built some years ago by Cheney Brothers in what is known as the Fairfield tract on the West Side. More than 150 pipeless furnaces were installed in these houses and the job took a year to complete. The boarding houses of Cheney Brothers were also done by Mr. Hess.

A year ago the local man decided to expand and he opened a store in Glastonbury. This store has been doing a good business since it was started.

Mr. Hess at times employs 13 men in the plumbing and heating work he has on hand.

He features Barstow ranges, gas, coal and electric.

'OLSON, THE PAINTER'

WELL KNOWN NAME

Contractor Has Handled Some Of the Biggest Jobs Done in Manchester.

Some of the biggest painting contracts which have been let in Manchester during the past two or three years have been handled efficiently by John I. Olson, whose headquarters are at 699 Main street in the Johnson block.

Mr. Olson's jobs include the Masonic temple, the Municipal Building and the State Armory. All of these jobs have been satisfactory and Mr. Olson has received many congratulations on the way they have been done. He was commissioned by the Chamber of Commerce to re-paint the ship signs which mark the entrance to this town.

Mr. Olson's shop handles all kinds of paints, wallpapers, many varieties of decorative pictures and other things. The proprietor has been in the painting business for a number of years but has had the store only four years. He now employs 15 men.

F. T. BLISH COMPANY

OLDEST SEED HOUSE

The F. T. Blish hardware company is the oldest seed house in Manchester and also the oldest hardware company here. It has been catering to Manchester and its outlying districts for many years and numbers among its customers many of the principal farmers in this section.

As a matter of fact, officials of the concern believe that it does more suburban business than any other hardware house here. The company carries all of the standard brands of hardware, farming tools and seeds.
