FALL'S SON-IN-LAW REFUSES TO SPEAK

Will Not Take Stand in Teapot Dome Hearing on Ground He Might Incriminate Himself.

Washington, Oct. 27.—M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, who, with Harry F. Sinclair, is standing trial for criminal conspiracy, today refused to testify on the ground he might incriminate himself.

Everhart had been called by the government to tell of any knowledge he might have of the deal wherein it is charged Fall accepted a bribe of $200,000 in Liberty Bonds from Sinclair in connection with the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve lease.

DEFENSE GAINS POINT Washington, Oct. 27.—The defense in the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy trial won an important victory today when Justice Frederick Siddons refused to permit government counsel to read to the jury testimony Harry F. Sinclair had given to the Senate committee that turned up the oil scandals of the Harding administration in 1923 and 1924.

Under the statute which holds no testimony given before either House of Congress may be used against a witness in a subsequent criminal trial, the justice held admission of Sinclair's testimony to be illegal.

Disputed Testimony The testimony in dispute, given December 4, 1923, was to the effect that Sinclair, accompanied by an attorney went to former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall's ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., Christmas week, 1921, for the express purpose of "seeing about the leasing" of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve. Fall and Sinclair are charged with having criminally conspired to negotiate this lease.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED FOR CARRYING LAUREL

Richmond, Va., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Anna H. Drayton, a wealthy Tokeneke resident, must go to Weston next Wednesday to answer to a charge of transporting mountain laurel without a state permit. Mrs. Drayton was notified today by Police Officer Amos Anderson that a warrant had been issued at the request of L. P. Griswold, of Fairfield, a state forest warden.

QUAKE IN JAPAN

London, Oct. 27.—An earthquake of serious proportions occurred in Tokyo today, according to an Exchange telegraph dispatch. Considerable damage is reported but as yet no casualties.

H. A. NETTLETON SUCCUMBS TO HEMORRHAGES

Well Known Traction Executive Dies After Long Battle For Life; Transfusions Fail to Save Him.

Henry A. Nettleton died at Memorial hospital at 2:30 this morning. A blood transfusion yesterday and an emergency transfusion, given by Mrs. Nettleton last night, failed to affect the result of hemorrhages which took place during the day.

The cause of death was given out today by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore as hemorrhages resulting from an ulcer of the stomach. The ulcer, Dr. Moore said, was probably several years old, but operations were not performed because of the low vitality of the patient.

Was Believed Recovering Mr. Nettleton entered the hospital on August 24, suffering from an infection, thought to have been caused by a mosquito bite. His condition remained serious for several weeks, but a week ago the announcement was made that he was on the road to recovery.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Moore said that the infection had almost been disposed of and that death was caused by the unforeseen complication of the hemorrhages. Three operations had been performed on Mr. Nettleton's leg.

Mr. Nettleton appeared to be improving steadily until seized with hemorrhages of the stomach yesterday. Mrs. Nettleton was at the bedside when her husband died.

ITALIAN LINER ON WHICH MANY PERISHED

Latest bulletins estimated 68 lost, most of them immigrants, on the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda sunk in the South Atlantic off Itaquena Point, Brazil. About 1,200 were rescued by other steamers that rushed to the scene.

First Story Of Wreck Is Told By Survivors

Rio De Janeiro, Oct. 27.—First accounts of the sea tragedy which on Tuesday evening sent more than 1,000 passengers aboard the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda rushing in terror to the life boats or over the side into the waters of the South Atlantic, when the vessel began to sink, reached here today.

RUTH TO VISIT SPAIN ON TRIP OF MRS. FORBUSH

Does So on Advice of U. S. Minister in Lisbon; Then To Fly to Paris.

Lisbon, Oct. 27.—Fearful of offering an affront to the Spanish and Portuguese governments, Miss Ruth Elder today decided upon a flight from Lisbon to Madrid, after conferring with United States Minister Dearing.

STILL NO TRACE OF MRS. FORBUSH

Minister's Wife, Missing Two Weeks, May Have Sought Employment.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The second week of the discouraging search for Mrs. Ramsey Forbush, of Canandaigua, N. Y., began today with her friends and relatives working on the theory that she may have abandoned her former tactics of "hiding out" and secured employment here.

TARKINGTON DENIES HE IS GROWING BLIND

Famous Novelist Has Trouble With His Eyes But He Is Not Worried.

Kennebunkport, Me., Oct. 26.—Booth Tarkington, famous novelist of Indiana and Maine, may be going blind as recorded today in a New York morning newspaper and he prescribes but he doesn't believe it nor does his physician, Dr. Charles L. Prescott.

Mrs. Vanderbilt To Wed Nephew Of Queen Marie

Paris, Oct. 27.—Another romance fostered by Queen Marie of Rumania has reached a successful climax.

Repeated reports of an engagement between Mrs. Vanderbilt and the former Gloria Morgan, have met with repeated denials from Mrs. Vanderbilt, who has been in mourning.

They Are Using Cotton To Cover "Hot Dogs"

Takes the Place of Skin Casings In Chicago Plant; Paul Poiret Talks on Fashions For Women.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 27.—Mere men today were completely lost in the intricate network of styles and patterns and women's hearts went awfully.

At the fashion revue, patterns less aggressive and more melting colors, less vivid and more subdued; new shaded effects in wearing, were among the distinguishing features of the new products of the American mills north of the Rio Grande.

Evening gowns along the sinuous line sponsored by Paris, sport frocks, smart for a tea daint, and snappy little outfits for the kiddies added variety.

There was an advance showing of Satin in cotton and Rayon with Rayon gold stripes crossing on a white background.

It was forecast that Colonel G. Edward Buxton would succeed William B. Maccoll as president at the election this evening. At this session Clarence W. Barron, head of several financial journals, will discuss "What is the matter with New England?"

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 27.—Mysterious flights over the United States-Canadian international border by a New York City seaplane piloted by W. H. Wincatow were halted at Burlington today when the aircraft was seized on Lake Champlain shore by United States Collector Harry G. Whitehall.

BURGLARS IN DANBURY

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 27.—Burglars invaded Main street today but secured little for their pains. The shoe store of Emerson & Morrill, 197, was entered from the rear, the safe smashed but not entered, and a cash register was rifled, and jewelry taken. The F. L. Wilson Company jewelry store, at 207 Main street, was visited but a heavily barred door leading from the cellar kept the intruders out.

EASTERN STAR GREETED GRAND MATRON HERE

Over 250 Attend Big Gathering in New Masonic Temple Last Night.

Temple Chapter Order of the Eastern Star acted as host last evening to the grand matron and her staff and to visitors from many of the chapters in this section of the state. More than 250 members and guests enjoyed a roast beef supper in the banquet hall served under the direction of Mrs. Anne Traylor and her assistants. The decorative scheme was green and white, green paper streamers on the tables, green candles and touches of green on the costumes of the ladies who served and waited upon the banqueters.

Officials of the Brazilian government have made preparations to care for the survivors when they land. All will be guests of the government at the immigration hotel on Florida Island, inside the bay here.

STULTZ TO MAKE TEST

Od Orchard, Me., Oct. 27.—"Bill" Stultz, pilot of "The Dawn," Mrs. Frances Grayson's amphibian trans-Atlantic plane, will fly the ship in a test flight today but only because he feels that until he has officially severed his connections with the projected flight to Copenhagen, it is his duty to handle the controls when the occasion arises.

HELD FOR MURDER

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Howard Gladu, 19, was held by authorities today as a charge of first degree manslaughter in connection with the death of his brother-in-law, Clarence J. Hager, of Rensselaer. Gladu was arrested at Hager's funeral after the coroner had first given a decision that Hager had shot himself. After a long grilling, police announced, Gladu admitted and commanded and headed the ship for land when it was off Sabie Island in fog last Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL GETS MCKEE ST. STADIUM

E. J. Holl Puts Off Dismantling and Agrees to Let H. S. Use It.

Sports enthusiasts here breathed a sigh of relief this afternoon when they learned that the McKee street stadium built for a baseball park four years ago by Cheney Brothers and a parcel of the property recently purchased by Edward J. Holl will not be lost to the town.

The high school football team uses the field for its games and the American Soccer League team played there until it disbanded a week ago. It is the best athletic field in Manchester. Following today's conference Mr. Holl placed the stadium in sole charge of the high school. Anyone desiring to use the stadium will have to get in touch with high school authorities.

ACCUSES DIPLOMAT

Washington, Oct. 27.—Charges that Count Alberto Marchetti Di Murgulio, counselor and charge d'affaires of the Italian Embassy drove his car past a waving policeman and through a crowd of pedestrians at a mile-a-minute speed Sunday morning, were forwarded to the State Department today by the district commissioners.

HOME BREW MENACE

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 27.—Home brew is raising havoc with the city sewer system, according to the city engineer's department. When the department sent workmen to find the cause of the sewer clogging, they dug into the system at Cedar street and found that huge quantities of mash had blocked the sewer effectively. Suspicion exists that a similar situation may be found in other parts of town.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Parkersburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—Crased by jealousy, Frank Hilton, 55, a steel worker, shot and killed his wife, Cora, 50, and then killed himself as the couple lay in bed in his home today.

Rockville SOMERS COMPANY MAY OPEN ROCK OVERLOADED CASES IN COURT.

(Special to The Herald.) Rockville, Oct. 26.—That the Somers Manufacturing Company on making the purchase of the Belding-Hemingway plant on East Main and Brooklyn streets...

It was not until this was looked over given consideration that the change was made to buy the vacant mill, which has a water power that is considered the best in the city...

To Rockville people this will be encouraging news as the purchasing of the plant and the arrangement to install new machinery for the carding and winding, which also will carry with it the necessity of spinning and twisting...

Two men were before the city court this morning, both being overcharged. William Daley of Brook was overcharged yesterday with liquor and was charged with intoxication, found guilty and fined $7 and costs...

FRESHMEN GET LESSON FROM STUDENT COUNCIL

High School Student Body Demonstrates Its Workings To New Class. At Freshmen assembly at the High school yesterday afternoon, the Student Council appeared on the stage and demonstrated to the members of the class how it functions.

The Freshmen Girls Glee club which has just been organized made its first appearance under the direction of Student-Director Miss Ella Peckham.

Tonight, the Freshmen Halloween social will be held at the High school assembly hall starting at 7:30. More than 200 students are expected to attend.

NAVY DAY MAKES BUT LITTLE STIR IN TOWN

Beyond Display of Flags and Some School Observance the Occasion Is Ignored. Save for a display of flags on Main street and at the homes of people who remembered, Manchester did not observe Navy Day.

Nearly all the stores on Main street had their flags out today and the flags in parks and public places were displayed.

Schools observed the day slightly, each teacher in the Ninth district being allowed to use her own judgment. Programs of different kinds were given by the children in their classrooms but no assemblies were held.

H. A. NETTLETON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Continued from page 1) ford, Manchester and Rockville Tramway company, then a year old. He remained with that company as bookkeeper and with the company's successors, the Shaw Syndicate of Boston, the Consolidated Railway company and the Connecticut Company.

Enlarged Activities When the headquarters of the company were moved from Manchester to Hartford Mr. Nettleton was appointed assistant superintendent in charge of all East Side lines of the company.

Long hours at work on schedules and readjustment of schedules on the lines are said to have undermined his health considerably. He had complained of feeling poorly last summer and in August went to the hospital.

Endeared to all who knew him, Mr. Nettleton was widely known in Manchester because of his interest in public affairs. He had been a member of the police commission for three and one half years.

Newspaper men in Manchester were sorry to hear of the death of Henry A. Nettleton. All new reporters in this town were instructed to go to his office before going anywhere else, for there was always a story of some kind waiting for them.

Funeral on Saturday The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the Center church. Rev. George W. Reynolds of West Hartford, former pastor of the Center church, and Rev. Watson Woodruff of the Center church will officiate and burial will be in the East Cemetery.

Watkins' Brothers room will be open for the night ending from 7:30 until 9 o'clock so that Mr. Nettleton's friends may have an opportunity to see him in death.

EARLY TAMMANY RECORDS TO N. Y. PUBLIC LIBRARY

Old Minutes and Scrap Books From 1791 Are In Taylor Estate. New York.—Days when Tammany Hall was more concerned with bringing cheer to its members than shouldering the political responsibilities of New York have been brought to light with the acquiring of the manuscript records of "The Great Wigwam," by the New York Public Library.

The word picture of Tammany in the days of its inception in 1791, came to the library from the estate of Douglas Taylor, one time sachem. It recalls the days when the wigwam met in the New York City Tavern at Broadway and the Battery.

From the mass of secretary minutes, accounts and scrap-books, can be gleaned a vivid impression of the meetings of the oldest political organization in America.

Fun Loving Crowd It was a fun loving crowd that gathered together to smoke peace pipes and promote historical and literary interest in this city, a crowd not unlike Dr. Johnson and his cronies of the London Cheshire Cheese.

"The story told tonight included 'The Apothecary and His Girl' and 'Others,' read the minutes of one meeting while the subjects for debates mentioned therein are equally unprovocative. The following is an example:

"Whether preaching or satire is the best device to rid us of the vice of mankind. "Whether any such thing as innate affection is implanted in the human breast."

When the wigwam moved from the Battery to Brom Martling's Tavern at Frankfort and Nassau streets in 1798, long accounts of the feasts served by Martling (at 75 cents per plate) occupied much space in the official record.

Discuss Slavery "Would prohibition of slave trade interfere with our West Indian commerce?" and "Would a people's convention, either in harmony with or opposed to the administration, be legal?"

MAGRUDER, WILBUR. I took Secretary Wilbur some little time to muster up the courage to discipline Rear Admiral Magruder for criticizing waste of the people's money in the conduct of Navy affairs, but at last he did it. It is interesting to observe that Secretary Wilbur first says that he summarily detached Magruder from his Philadelphia post "because of statements made since" the publication of the admiral's critical magazine article—and then asserts that the order is not punitive anyhow but made for administrative purposes. Magruder at least never said anything reflecting on the worthy secretary one-tenth as much as this shuffling statement does.

FORCED NATURALIZATION. "Let us," says Addison P. Munroe of Providence, governor-general of the General Society of Mayflower descendants, "deport all aliens who fail to become naturalized citizens after living in this country ten years."

If Mr. Munroe had urged this course in his character as an American citizen it would perhaps carry more weight than when he makes it in his capacity as a member of the Mayflower society; for if there ever was a bunch of conscientious objectors to naturalization it was that group of adventurous souls who came over in the ship of halloved memory. By no manner of means did they consider it any duty of theirs to subscribe to the manners, methods or tribal government of the people they found here already ready and running things. If there is any record of a single individual of the party asking to be admitted to membership in the Algonquin nation, and the privilege of forswearing his European allegiance, we have never heard of it. So that the example of the Mayflower's party is not precisely what Mr. Munroe wishes to see followed.

His point of view as a mere citizen, however, is easier to sympathize with. It would really seem a thing very much to be desired if every incoming alien were to arrive here with the fine high purpose to forget about having been born somewhere else and to become a thorough going American, in voting, language and everything. We wish it might be that way.

But we never have been able to see and do not now see what is to be gained through compulsory naturalization. The formality of becoming a citizen may be complied with—as it so often is—with every imaginable degree of mental reservation. It does not change the thoughts, the prejudices, the secret loyalties or disloyalties of the alien one particle to compel him to go through a ceremony and take an oath.

If argument, suasion, night school education, the example of friends, an inherent sense of the fitness of things, do not succeed in winning an alien resident to citizenship inside of ten years, then nothing is surer than that we do not want and cannot use that individual as a voter in and responsibility of the United States of America.

ANGLOPHOBIA. The Chicago Tribune becomes almost petulant in its disgust with the Anti-British bunk of its fellow townsman, Big Bill Thompson. There is a special reason for the Tribune's utter impatience with the Thompsonian blather and that reason is that everything Thompson says about British propaganda and British plottings, to proselyte America into the condition of a sort of Brittanic second addle is merely extravagant burlesque of the Tribune's own utterance. Two men were in a fight and one knocked the other down and kicked him. "Here!" exclaimed the prone individual, "this is a fair fight; there's no kicking allowed." Whereupon his antagonist quit kicking and let him up. The fight proceeded and presently there was another knockdown, with the positions of the battlers reversed; whereupon the victim of the first booting put the leather to the fallen warrior. "Ouch! Quit it!" shouted the man on the ground. "You said there was to be no kicking." "Oh, well (boot; boot)," replied the other, "you kin (boot; boot) kick a little bit."

So wedded is the Tribune to own its intense conviction that the patriotism of Americans is in constant need of jogging, that even in the same editorial in which it excoriates Big Bill for his ridiculous attacks on King George, it says: "There is reason why our relations with England should be examined. . . . It is common knowledge that a small section of the American people, to be found chiefly on the Atlantic seaboard, loves Great Britain inordinately."

Kicking Britain is ruled out—but still you can kick a little bit. As a matter of fact, the bootlickers of England, along any part of the Atlantic seaboard that we know anything at all about, do not constitute a "section" of the American people any more than the persons who smoke green tea in porcelain pipes constitute a national bloc. We have no doubt they are to be found; so are meteors to be found in fields, but nobody has yet built a meteoroid house.

A rational liberalism in the outlook of any nation toward the rest of the world is as essential for good relations abroad as a rational patriotism is for security and good government at home. If there is more of it in the Atlantic areas than there appears to be in Illinois it is something to be doubly thankful for.

WATER RIGHTS. Public opinion in Connecticut will back the decision, said to have been arrived at by Governor Trumbull and Attorney-General Alling, to apply to the United States Supreme Court for restraint upon the state of Massachusetts in its contemplated action of taking the waters of the Ware and Swift rivers and other tributaries of the Connecticut for the water supply of the Boston Metropolitan district.

The notion that Boston is actually the Hub of the Universe is not without its actual followers in the Massachusetts Capital. Over there they call it "vision" to crystal-gaze the future and behold a city of many millions, and mere "preparateness" to gobble up all the drinkable water within two or three hundred miles against the day when Boston shall be as big as or bigger than New York. It makes no particular difference to Boston whether anybody else, even in Massachusetts, has any water or not, either for industrial, hygienic or domestic purposes, nor whether the riparian rights of neighbor states are affected to their ever-so-great disadvantage.

Already the Boston authorities are in a long-drawn-out quarrel with half a dozen cities and towns in the western part of their own state over the plans to seize the Ware and Swift rivers for their reservoir system. And there appears to be no chance whatever of bringing them to see that the advantage of the Boston district should not be pursued even at the cost of diverting natural flowage of the Connecticut through this state.

It might be entirely possible to waste half a dozen years in parleys with the Massachusetts—or rather Boston—water grabbers and in the end get nowhere. The right place to settle this thing is in the United States Supreme Court. The sooner it gets into that tribunal the sooner, we feel sure, the state of Massachusetts and the Metropolitan District of Boston will be brought to realize that there are other interests deserving of consideration besides the provision of water to wash their dream city clean.

SWARTZBARD'S ACQUITTAL. One of the strangest murder trials of modern times, and one of the most difficult to understand in its outcome, was that of Samuel Swartzbard who killed the Ukrainian general Simon Petlura while the latter was in Paris. Though the assassination was not denied and its premeditation admitted, the remarkable defense was set up by Petlura, in his official capacity, sanctioned several pogroms in the course of which many Jews were massacred in the Ukraine, and that it was because of this that Swartzbard killed him.

Apparently the entire seven days of the trial were occupied in the hearing of evidence dealing with the alleged pogroms and the extent of General Petlura's responsibility for them. It would have seemed that it was the dead Ukrainian leader who was on trial and not the man who shot him to death. Of course the purpose was to detach the crime from the field of ordinary felonies and present it in the light of a political act. But it appeared incredible that a French jury could be found which would subscribe to the proposition that a person aggrieved at the official actions of an officer of another country may with impunity, upon finding that officer on French soil, put him to death. Yet the jury acquitted Swartzbard. The murderer is to go free, because his victim was believed, by residents in a foreign country, to have winked at wholesale crimes in that foreign country. It is a strange and unsettling event. If it is not followed by reprisals in the Ukraine and perhaps in other parts of the Union of Soviet Republics it will be rather surprising.

New Yorker in Paris

Paris, Oct. 27.—Paris would be a city of dignified quiet were it not for the strange variety of auto horns employed on its boulevards. Every great city has its identifying sound and that of Paris is the honking of ten million geese. Since Paris streets run every which way and jut out at every angle motor traffic is regulated, not by eye but by ear. One drives, one crosses streets, one leaves curbstones entirely by ear, and one sometimes learns music. The Paris auto horns do not, they actually "honk" and "quack." The subways are noiseless and there are no elevators. There is no roar of the city traffic to greet the ears as in Manhattan. Only the quacking of autos in distress as they shoot by the windows.

They say Paris taxis are the cheapest in the world. But they forget to mention that at hours when one is most likely to want a taxi they become quite as expensive as any in New York and twice as hard to find. Most folks can do without a taxi until 11 o'clock at night. And then it is the meter rate is doubled, while the average driver will candidly tell you he intends going home and has no intention of changing his plan.

The first lesson an American must learn upon arriving in Paris is this: He cannot change the habits of the Frenchman. And the habits of the Frenchman are tucked to a leisurely pace. He regulates most carefully most of the hours of his day, and most of the days of the week. He will not be rushed and he will not be hurried. His noon hour begins at 12 and his lunch hour ends at 2.

At 12 he begins to shut up his shop or his business. Even in the heart of the exclusive "shoppe" belt the blinds are drawn at noon and the doors are locked until ready to reopen in the afternoon. All business suspends until after the noon meal. The average American gasps with amazement or indignation, but there is nothing he can do about it. They tell me that the average French business man will trust neither his cash drawer nor his business with his help. When he goes to lunch or dinner the entire force must go and the business must close.

The other day I went into the office of one of the biggest steamship lines in connection with future reservations. As the gong struck the noon hour, down came the blinds and the crowd of information seekers were politely exoted. I happened to be in conversation with one of the big officials. He invited me to join him in a cocktail, or at lunch, but made it apparent that no further business would be considered until after the noon recess.

On Monday, which is the "big sale" day of American cities, all Paris shuts up business so that the stores and office buildings can be cleaned. An army of cleaners goes through all the places and even on the main thoroughfares one finds a repetition of Sunday. And since most places close down Saturday afternoon, it is apparent that this is not such a hard life. Whereas American janitor service never ceases, and cleaning out

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 27.—Help! Help! Call out the Department of State! Call out the Minute Men of the Constitution! The bolsheviks are corrupting the Alaskan Indians. The American people have been asleep. The Indians of Alaska who, incidentally, are our fellow citizens, are commonly supposed to be mere savages. They're not supposed to have any ideas except some concerning the possibilities of earning an existence in their fishing boats in the face of tremendous inroads by the big canning companies.

But the critics are doublecrossing us. They're going so far as to insinuate that there's something funny about our modern social customs and advanced habits of life. Savages aren't supposed to know anything about our domestic politics or how civilized persons live, so it is perfectly obvious that nothing but insidious red propaganda could inspire such subversive attacks.

Evidence that the "savages" are sticking their tongues out at us comes in recent issues of the Alaskan and the Alaska Fisherman, respectively a weekly and a monthly published at Petersburg and Ketchikan, Alaska, by Indians and primarily for Indians. Look at this editorial from the Alaskan which actually hints that there is bunk in American politics:

"The Hearst papers for September 1st announce that Herbert Hoover will oppose the League of Nations if he runs for President. Good for Herbert! We expected that Herbert would oppose the 'reds' in America, the Soviets in Russia, the Turks in Armenia or the Boxers in China but the League of Nations will answer his purpose just as well as any of them. It's a good campaign issue and will strike a popular chord with the poor de-cropt old League will not strike back at Herbert."

"The Borahs, the Reeds, the Hiram Johnsons and all those statesmen who assaulted the League in the days of its strength and vigor will observe with great interest this brand new champion as he buckles in his armor to combat the League. With Herbert in the field to oppose all entangling alliances with European powers the selection of the Republican ticket for 1928 will be the easiest thing in the world."

"Hoover and Thompson, why not? With Herbert pounding the League and Big Bill jumping on King Grace and the whole Buckingham Palace outfit, how could domestic issues be intruded into a campaign? This great nation will not stand for any interference with our external affairs by the League, neither will we for a minute tolerate the domination of George the Third in our internal policies. We doubt if our aspiring statesmen can be trusted to smash George Rex and the League with such vigor as the American people demand, but we are confident that 'Herb' and 'Bill' would deliver the goods. Again we say the Republic of places takes on the aspect of perpetual motion. Paris observes "Monday cleaning" even as Copner Prairie looks upon Saturday as bath night. I have yet to discover what the Paris bath night may be, since baths are so difficult to achieve. If you were to ask me what the greatest difficulties of Paris might be, I should unhesitatingly reply: Postage stamps, matches and baths. But please don't ask me why. GILBERT SWAN.

CHAIRMAN NAMED TO LEAD CAMPAIGN

William Foulds Jr., to Head Community Club Drive; New Committee Meets Tonight.

Announcement was made today by the Manchester Community club of the selection of its chairman and executive committee to conduct the financial campaign of the club during the week of November 7 to 12. It is with much satisfaction that the club announces that the chairman of the campaign will be William Foulds Jr. Although busily occupied in the management of the Lydall & Foulds paper mills, Mr. Foulds has consented to lead the campaign as chairman, believing that the large amount of labor involved is really public work for the public good and as such he is willing to devote the time and energy required.

The club feels that it has been fortunate in securing an unusually strong executive committee to conduct its campaign. Following is the committee: William Foulds, Jr., chairman; Jay E. Rand, secretary; Charles B. Loomis, treasurer; Frank J. Rippen, Harlowe E. Willis, Mark Holmes, and Fred H. Wall.

A meeting of this committee and of several other workers interested in the campaign will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Community club. Several interested workers in the club have volunteered their services as captains and team workers, and the personnel of the various teams and their territories will be considered tonight.

Mr. Foulds Enthusiastic
Mr. Foulds, who is a member of the board of governors of the club and who was chairman of the pioneer Lawn Fete five years ago which first put these annual entertainments on the map, is a firm believer in organized recreation through a Community Center at the North End.

Mr. Foulds stated today: "For those who would like to know something about the good things the Community club has to offer, I would say as a sporting proposition—come up to the club and see for yourself. Just come up there tonight, for instance, and you will believe your own eyes. You will find over fifty men representing the bone and sinew of no less than nine factories at the North End and immediate neighborhood—all enjoying cards, pool, refreshments and social diversions. These card games, pool tournaments, suppers, luncheons, bridge whists and other forms of entertainment will be kept up right through the winter until spring. The reading rooms, and assembly hall will be open every night in the week for those who desire to use them."

"Progressive citizens today recognize the direct benefit which a good recreation program means to their community. Good recreation means good workers. Community centers make it possible for them to spend their leisure time in such ways as to renew vitality and freshen minds for the next day's work. Instead of sapping strength and dulling brains in harmful or vicious pastimes.

Recreation Promotes Health
"Labor turnover is materially reduced where a community cares for the health and happiness of its workers and their families by providing an adequate recreation system. For what is it that makes people want to stay in one town rather than another? Aside from employment it is almost entirely a question of the social relations that are open to them and the opportunities for using their leisure time in interesting ways. A good recreation system on a community basis provides this requirement and secures this essential stability. "But most important of all, its recreation centers develop healthy boys and girls with good character. If we neglect their recreation we will have to pay for it in the sad losses caused by ill health, delinquency and crime.

"It is good business for all of us to join together in the coming Community Club Campaign, to promote organized recreation for young and old at the North End, thus developing an economical but effective recreation system. Not to do so means we are permitting our constructive growth, and we will have to pay for this neglect many times the moderate cost of an efficient recreation program."

A THOUGHT

The thing is true according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.—Daniel 6:12.

The law discovers the disease. The gospel gives the remedy.—Martin Luther.

Here's a Tale of a Pheasant and a Gun That Will Set Nimrods to Inventing.

The star hunting story of the year in Manchester is related in connection with a trip which three young fellows took into the woods yesterday.

The boys, Harry Madden of Laurel street, George Trueman of McKee street and Clarence Larson of Laurel place, report that a pheasant used the barrel of one of their guns as a roost, and then made a getaway.

Hunting was poor. Squirrels had gone into their holes and the birds seemed to have gone to the north pole. So the boys thought they would rest. They lay down on the ground and one of them dozed off.

He had rested his gun against a log within hand's reach, the barrel in the air. After a while he woke up. As he reached for his gun he was amazed to see a full grown cock pheasant using the barrel as a roost.

The pheasant, startled, flew away and the hunter fired twice after it. He missed. One of the other members of the party emptied both barrels at the bird but he missed also.

That diamond ring which has been advertised so much will be given away at the State theater tonight, with a lot of other gifts of one kind or another. The ring has been on display in the windows of W. A. Smith in the State building for a week.

The feature picture tonight is "Taxi, Taxi," starring Edward Everett Horton. It is the story of a boy who purchased a taxicab to bring his girl home on a rainy night. The fact that he was a humble architect made it harder for him to explain where he got the machine, which, by the way, was a stolen car. There are all sorts of complications in the story but the whole thing ends happily.

Tomorrow and Saturday bring to the State the big picture, "The Rough Riders," the story of America's most romantic regiment in the Civil War. Theodore Roosevelt is there, played by Frank Hopper, and the character study is one of the best that has been given to the screen in years.

A grudge fight for the championship of a rough and ready regiment is one of the exciting incidents.

Even the most rabid fight fan will get a thrill out of the punishing encounter between the two young giants, Charles Farrell, leading man, and Fred Kohler.

Kohler is the top-sergeant and Farrell a sergeant in the Paramount production. Both are bruisers and they have an intense dislike for each other in the screen story. The fight settled once and for all the question whether actors really hurt each other in screen fights. Director Victor Fleming was a well-known athlete and boxer once upon a time. James Howe, first cameraman, used to be the flyweight champion of the Pacific coast. Realism was the watchword.

Smashing punches that went true to their mark left marks and welts on the faces of both men. Twelve hundred Rough Riders forgot it was a film fight and went wild with excitement.

Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack stage another battle over Mary Astor and this, too, is thrilling. Noah Beery and George Bancroft add a few tussles that prove funny semi-windup affairs.

TALCOTTVILLE
The following names have been added to the Sunday school cradle roll: Lucille Helen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beebe; Mary Winnifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doggart of South Manchester.

Ralph Sumner Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner B. Smith has been graduated from the cradle roll to the Primary Department of the Sunday school.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 9th, the Piedmont Singers, a male quartette of students from Piedmont College, will give an entertainment in the church parlors under the auspices of the Missionary societies of the church. There will also be a sale of Japanese articles which will include many useful and inexpensive articles. No admission will be charged but a silver collection will be taken for the singers. Ice cream and cake will be on sale.

Francis Prichard of Rockville, who represented the Stanley Dobson Post of American Legion at the Legion convention in Paris, writes in an interesting letter, that he and Mrs. Prichard called upon Miss Christine Bachelor, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. P. Bachelor of this place. Their last day in Paris was very pleasantly spent on a shopping tour with Miss Bachelor acting as guide and interpreter. Mr. and Mrs. Prichard sailed for this country October 22nd.

ANOTHER WILLY RAID

Willimantic, Conn., Oct. 27.—Tatville's second liquor raid of the week resulted today in Armand Lefebvre, a storekeeper, being placed on bail of $1,000 to await a hearing next Wednesday before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson at Norwich. Beer, Bass ale, and malt found in Lefebvre's store was brought here for storage.

The raid was conducted by Stanton L. Briggs, prohibition agent for Eastern Connecticut; William A. Jackson, of Willimantic, county detective, and John Holtz and Charles Keane, both of New Haven.

Garber Bros. Should Make Your Living Room Suite

It would be a big mistake on our part to tell you . . . We should make your living room suite . . . unless we were both ready and able to give you the biggest measure of quality and value for your dollars.

While we have a tremendous selection of furniture for every part of every room in the home . . . we specialize in living room suites. We make them ourselves and you take no chance when you buy a Garber Brothers' suite.

The hidden qualities, the parts which determine the dependability and comfort of a suite, the parts you ordinarily do not see, are not hidden at all at Garber Brothers. Do not take for granted the manner of construction. See just how living room suites are built in our factory which is in the same building . . . just off our main show rooms.

You will see just what quality of materials go into their construction. You will see why Garber Brothers' suites give greater satisfaction and why more suites are being sold than ever before.

Garber Brothers' Suites are sold direct from factory to you on a one profit plan, not two or three profits. And you save a good many dollars which would be utterly impossible to save were you to buy a suite in the usual retail manner. NOT ONLY DO YOU GAIN IN QUALITY BUT YOU SAVE CONSIDERABLY ON THE PRICE.

Therefore when we say . . . We should make your living room suite . . . we say so with the knowledge that you will expect the exceptional at Garber Brothers . . . and we are quite able to give you the exceptional.

Dozens of frame designs and scores and scores of material to choose from. Before you select a living room suite . . . Visit Garber Brothers. Should you want to make an evening visit, it is possible by simply calling 2-6157 to tell us what evening and at what hour.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (119) Faraday

Michael Faraday, born in 1791 in London, was the son of a poor blacksmith. After very little schooling he was apprenticed to a bookbinder. After working hard all day he would study science at night. One day a man, entering the shop, found him studying a page on electricity from a book that he had been binding. The customer was surprised at young Faraday's knowledge. The boy, with a home-made battery had made advanced experiments. The visitor was so pleased that he gave Faraday four tickets to lectures which Sir Humphry Davy then was delivering in London.

Billy Evans Says

JOHNSON'S RETIREMENT. B. B. Johnson has resigned as president of the American League. The retirement of Ban Johnson from baseball marks the passing of the man who more than any other person has placed baseball on its present high plane. "The deeds and the work of President Johnson will be far more appreciated 20 years from now than they are today. Like all great men, Mr. Johnson had the courage of his convictions, a very definite opinion on all things and a willingness to express it, regardless of whose toes he stepped on. Being human, he made mistakes. At times he might have been more tactful; but that wasn't the way of B. B. Johnson. He didn't believe in handling drastic situations with kid gloves. He passes from the game still boasting a legion of friends and admirers who appreciate what he has done for it. Likewise he has made enemies. Men with the courage of their convictions always do. After serving for 23 years under President Johnson, as a member of his staff of umpires, I want to go on record as saying I always have found him a square shooter. Gave $500 To Umpires During those 22 years I have had my arguments with President Johnson, often because I thought my contract called for less money than I expected. Yet, in the end, I always found him manifestly fair. Most of the year an umpire would work alone. It was customary for Mr. Johnson to double Tim Hurst, who was the poorest fit physically, with the other members of the staff. The going was pretty tough for the umpires in those days. At many of the parks there was a long bar that dispensed hard liquor and beer. Vendors peddled half pints of whiskey through the crowd then as pop is sold now, for the small sum of two bits. Mob scenes were almost daily occurrences, wild riots were frequently staged. President Johnson, with a firm hand, soon brought order out of chaos, made life worth living for the umpire, the game more enjoyable for the spectator and the profits greater for the magnate. A strict disciplinarian, there was no arguing a penalty that he imposed. His word was final in all things pertaining to the American League. Yet he was always fair. Taking Late Train I recall one year, it was the season of 1908 I believe that I was ordered to take a certain train from Detroit to St. Louis. I had a social engagement that I couldn't fulfill if I took the early train. I decided to take a chance on one leaving at midnight. The train I took, if it arrived on time, got into St. Louis at 2:30 p. m., while the game that day started at 3:15. Of course the train was late. By donning my umpire clothes on the train and jumping into a taxi, I managed to arrive at the park about three minutes before starting time. Even though I got the game away exactly on time, word got to President Johnson of my late arrival. He wired me, asking what train I had taken, and when I replied the midnight choo-choo, it cost me $50 in a fine for disobeying orders. I worked about 130 games alone that year for a comparatively small salary and didn't like the idea of losing the money. Jack Sheridan, dean of the staff, said he would have Mr. Johnson return it. He didn't. However, at Christmas time he sent me a check for $300. In thanking him, I told him he could fine me $50 any old time, provided I got $300 in return. That, however, was the last time I failed to take transportation on the train arranged for me. I recall one season I argued over a matter of $500 expense money. At the close of the previous season, in a chat I had with Mr. Johnson, I took it for granted I was to get such an additional amount. In the spring my contract didn't call for it. I stood pat on the situation. Mr. Johnson finally admitted that he had recollections of the discussion and gave me the extra money I had been promised. "I would all the members of the staff would welcome an extra $500, so I will make the increase general," was the way he dismissed the dispute. Since he gave me an additional amount for expense, in fairness to the rest of the staff, he added it to their salary also. This, too, after all of them had signed for the season. When I joined the American League, the staff of umpires consisted of only five men: Jack Sheridan, Tommy Connolly, "Slik" O'Loughlin, Tim Hurst and myself. ADVICE TO GOLFERS. Recently an over-inquisitive golfer fan, who persisted in pestering Walter Hagen with a lot of foolish questions, is reported to have been told by Walter that one sure way to keep from topping one's drives was to simply turn the ball upside down.

"T. R." STILL LIVES FOR SCULPTOR WHO LIVES ONLY FOR IMAGE OF 'T. R.'

BY HAMPTON SMITH, JR. NEA Service Writer.

New York.—Young and impressive but resolved to chisel himself a niche in America's Hall of Fame was Vincenzo Miserendino, immigrant Italian sculptor, when he arrived in New York from the land of his birth.

He cast a critical eye over possible subject matter for his artistry, and decided at once to hitch his wagon to a star. The star was Theodore Roosevelt, then in command of the Rough Riders.

Back From Cuba. When "Teddy" returned in triumph from Cuba the young sculptor was one of the huzzahing thousands who acclaimed him.

Miserendino felt an artist's exaltation. "I knew," he related, "I had found a subject that would ever challenge my skill. I knew, too, that for this man my admiration and my love never would wane."

He has been doing sculptures of Roosevelt ever since. One image after another of the man who captured his imagination has been fashioned by the artist. Every time he completes a new one, he feels he has come a little closer to his final goal. That goal is to create a statue of Roosevelt that will be as perfect in sculptural attainment as the Venus de Milo or the Winged Victory—one that portrays to the fullest all the Roosevelt fitness of character, personality, courage, and vital force. And Only Then! Miserendino will consider his work finished.

Through the years his love for Roosevelt has been as a whip and spur, ever urging him to loftier heights.

"For Roosevelt," said Miserendino, "I have now and have always had a spiritual love—a passion that is all-consuming. They call him dead, but for me he lives on and on.

"What a wonderful face to portray! The greatness of the man contrasted in centralized philosophic genius, big enough to absorb the painful vibrations of his inferior forces. Therein lay his might.

"When Roosevelt spoke to subjects vitally important to him—his home, his people, his country—he became totally oblivious of all external influences. He was as a human dynamo.

At Carnegie Hall "I recall a speech that he made one night at Carnegie Hall, in New York. A previous speaker had made a brief address which contained several passages the Colonel thought detrimental to American ideals.

"By Jove! How he tore into that gentleman when he took the floor! Fire flashed from his eyes; his voice boomed to the innermost recesses of the hall. And, finally, to emphasize his point, the Colonel strode over to the other speaker and shook his fist in his face."

It is a strange circumstance that Miserendino never sought to shake Roosevelt's hand or talk to him. Never Asked a Pose. "To see him from afar and to hear him was sufficient," explained the sculptor, simply. "I never felt I could ask him to pose for me. I did not want to monopolize his time even for an instant. It was too valuable."

HOOCH AND AUTO DEATHS LEAD IN PENNSYLVANIA

Health Department In Effort To Check Up On Vital Statistics.

Harrisburg, Pa.—No miser counting his gold ever watched each shining piece more carefully than the Pennsylvania Department of Health checks each birth and death in the state's ten million citizens.

Each month the exact toll of disease is carefully totaled and checked in comparison with the same period in former years. The Department allows the figures to speak for themselves and seldom comments on controversial questions.

It does admit however, that although daily progress is being made in the fight of science against disease there are some causes which continue to reap an ever increasing amount of deaths and which are not among those things which physicians can fight.

Alcoholism is one of the causes which is taking an increasing toll of human lives and is one of the causes which is taking an increasing toll of human lives and is one of the few "killers" which the Department's experts admit cannot be exactly tabulated nor easily fought.

Six Months' Report. Reports for the first six months of the present year show that 297 deaths were reported from that cause during the period. That compares with 189 for the same period of last year and 203 for the first six months of 1925.

Carefully as the figures are obtained and checked the Department admits that alcoholism is one of the most difficult of death causes to tabulate. The Department's figures are based on attending physicians' reports and it is admitted that except in extreme cases of "alcoholism" is not given as the cause of death. During the same period in 1927, heart disease caused 11,101 deaths and just how many of those were alcoholism is not known.

Despite the campaigns of several state agencies automobile accidents are another cause which help to swell the monthly death totals in a steadily mounting scale.

Deaths Increase. In the first six months of the year, automobile accidents were responsible for 784 deaths as compared with 651 in the same period of 1926 and 608 in 1925.

Solved! A Very Vexing Problem! Skirt's Too Short If It Causes A Commotion

Washington.—How short may a lady wear her skirt before the law rightly interferes?

More important, how much knee must the skirt cover when the lady sits down?

These questions, which have so sorely perplexed authorities on good order and social etiquette, have been answered fearlessly and confidently by Patrolman J. B. Lawlor of the Washington Park Police.

Patrolman Lawlor's beat is in Lafayette Park, directly across the street from the White House.

It's Very Simple. "A policeman," announced Patrolman Lawlor, "should interfere when the shortness of the lady's skirt causes a commotion—and not before."

Already the sapient Lawlor, who is just a young fellow and not the hoary and learned sage one might expect, has been endorsed in his stand by Col. U. S. Grant III, the superintendent of Washington's parks and monuments.

Pretty little Mrs. Rose W. Keller was sitting on a bench in Franklin Square when the great issue confronted Patrolman Lawlor. After it was over, the Kellers—Mr. Keller having been with his wife—complained to Col. Grant that Mrs. Keller had been sitting quite modestly, with no more than her knees exposed, when Lawlor came along and told Keller to "tell that woman to pull her dress down."

The Kellers promptly defied arrest, but were not arrested. Grant promptly exonerated Lawlor and upheld his course.

He's No Reformer. "They seem to think I belong to some reform society," Lawlor said afterward. "Heck! I thought she was a school girl and tried to protect her, and all I got was a kick in the pants!

"Her skirt was six or seven inches above the knees, I suppose she was unaware of this, but then I noticed there were nearly a dozen men congregated opposite her.

"Her companion came back, and I called him to one side. I asked him if the lady was his sister, his wife, his sweetheart, or just a friend, and he replied that he knew her.

"It's no great difference, I so as not to embarrass you," she said, "but when you go back why don't you tell her she ought to rearrange her clothes."

"If she's violating the law, why don't you lock her up?" he demanded.

More Spectators. "I waited ten minutes after he got back and nothing happened except that more men congregated.

"Finally I went over to the lady and said, 'The reason I called this gentleman over was to ask him to ask you to rearrange your clothing as so as not to embarrass you.' She said, 'It's no great difference, I so as not to embarrass you.' She Patrolman Lawlor and pretty little Mrs. Keller. She wears the skirt that caused the commotion and therefore was too short, as Patrolman Lawlor saw it.

"Is there any law I'm violating?" "And I said, 'Yes, I'm afraid there is.' And she said 'You better pinch me, then.' And I said, 'I will if you stay on that bench five seconds longer.' Then they got up and went away."

Lawlor resents the public impression in Washington that he's a kill-joy or a censor or an old gent sore on the younger generation.

"I've seen hundreds of women sitting in Lafayette Park showing their knees, and that's all right," said Patrolman Lawlor.

"I'm not old-fashioned. I can stand a pair of beautiful legs. I don't blame the men for looking. But we can't have commotions."

puted on a monthly basis the yearly and semi-annually totals show that the number of murders remain about the same.

An English artist has chosen as the five most beautiful things in creation: a beautiful woman, a beautiful child, a beautiful flower, a beautiful sunset, and a beautiful building.

at that time that in Pennsylvania there was no wave of student suicides during the beginning of 1927. During the first six months of 1926 there were 551 suicides reported and in the same period of the present year the number dropped to 532.

Over a period of months and years the urge to commit murder remains practically the same. While the figures vary when comparison of population and automobiles is considered.

In 1906 the automobile deaths per thousand cars in operation was 1.7 and twenty years later on the same basis it was only 1.2. In the former year approximately 10,000 cars were in operation while in 1927, 1,700,000 were registered.

The Department now points to its figures for the first six months of the year to uphold its statement tonnage being carried on the Father of Waters by the packet boats and barge lines has increased so in the last few years that commerce is again almost as great as in the glorious '80s when the river was the chief carrier of the Mississippi valley. Here are pictured steamboats at the St. Louis levee, about to depart for points along the river from Kookuk, Ia., to New Orleans. Last year more than 1,000,000 tons of river freight moved through St. Louis alone.

Red Takes Miss America for a Ride

Red Grange, "galloping ghost" of the gridiron, and Lois Delander, Miss America this year, met the other day at Aurora, Ill. Red doesn't seem a bit angry about it as he took the young lady for a ride in his classy car. Grange has been carrying a cane lately. He does his galloping now for the New York Yankees, a professional football team.

Tames Geese

A hunter feels lucky if he gets within gunshot of a wild goose, but Jack Miner (above) tames them. The famous Canadian sportsman and conservationist maintains a bird refuge in western Ontario visited annually by countless thousands of wild fowl. Miner fed wild geese three years before they became tame enough to be tamed.

A Shimmer for the President

This vibrator is now a stable mate of the Presidential electric horse at the White House. It is said that Mr. Coolidge sometimes tires of his bobbing mechanical mount and takes a shimmy at the vibrator for variety. Cora Stephens and Beth Milton were exhibiting it at the New York electrical show when this photo was made.

GLOOM PROPHET IN JAPAN SEES NATION DOOMED

Famous Writer Predicts That Western Race Will Outstrip Japanese.

Tokio.—A "gloomy prophet" has arisen in Japan, to confound the western idealists who have found the Orient so much more attractive than the west, since the time of Lafcadio Hearn.

Attack on Religion "The Religion of Life" has just been published, Kazahara's latest book. The book is an attack on the "Religion of Death" which he declares is chiefly responsible for Japan's failings.

Politics is a failure in Japan, says Kazahara, because there is no public opinion. The whole economic system of modern Japan is false, he says, with the higher-ups inefficient because they get their positions through family connections.

Wrong Rule of Life Japan has started from the false assumption that the present life is not worth much, Kazahara says, and this fundamental belief, rules the lives of all Japanese.

Japan has been more apparent than real, he says, and the western world has just begun to find this out. The Japanese have not yet found it out, he says, and he does not expect them to do so in the near future.

BOOK OF SPEECHES BY PRINCE OF WALES SHOWS VERSATILITY

London.—The Prince of Wales is introduced to the literary world as one of Britain's most versatile orators in a volume of his speeches made between the years 1912 and 1926.

Though unkind critics will in all probability retort that the majority of the Prince's speeches are prepared for him, the book reveals the Prince as an orator of wide vision, a master of tactful phraseology, a deep thinker, a keen observer, a verbal architect, with the right word for every occasion, according to English literary critics.

"Sympathy, appreciation and insight are the predominant notes of this interesting book of speeches delivered in all parts of the world," remarks the Daily Express.

The volume reveals that the Prince made his first public speech at the age of seventeen, when he was invested as Prince of Wales at Carnarvon Castle. His first speech was brief, and was as follows: "I shall never forget the day as long as I live... one which brought you a new friend. He is, it is true, a young friend, but I have great examples before me. I hope to my duty to my King, to Wales, and to you all."

Since the conclusion of the world war the Prince has delivered hundreds of speeches, in places as wide apart as London, Melbourne, Washington and Montreal, where he spoke in both English and French.

The movie industry, which started 20 years ago, now ranks fourth in the United States. This country now produces 90 per cent of the world's motion pictures.

JOHNSON AND LITTLE HOLDING STOVE SALE

Feature Famous Detroit Jewel — Factory Demonstrator Here For Sale.

Johnson and Little, well known plumbing and heating contractors, who have a sales and display room at 13 Chestnut street are holding a big sale of Detroit Jewels Gas Ranges.

The Detroit Jewel line of stoves covers a very wide range of sizes and styles in both plain black and gray and white enamel. This line is only found in the Detroit Jewel line. You can bake in the oven of all their ranges with the oven door wide open.

This is a test that is a real test. Housewives who are thinking of buying a new gas range or who have none now and are going to buy one cannot afford to pass this opportunity of getting such a reliable range as the Detroit Jewel at the prevailing sale prices. A liberal allowance is also being made on old stoves during this sale.

In addition to this every purchaser of a Detroit Jewel gas range receives a set of 35 dishes free.

BERLIN AMERICANIZED BY 5 AND 10 STORES; STREAM OF PATRONS

Berlin.—The Americanization of Germany has gone a long step further with the establishment here of a series of five and ten cent stores owned by one of the greatest chain store magnates of New York. Customers have already appeared in sufficient numbers to assure the financial success of the undertaking, but the popularity of the American invaders has awakened bitter hostility on the part of German retail merchants.

Some of the Berlin newspapers of the more ventral variety have begun to publish articles setting forth reasons why the public should not patronize the American chain stores. Arguments of doubtful authenticity are employed to reinforce the German attitude. It is declared that the German public demands too high a quality of goods to be taken in by the comparatively cheap prices of the American merchants.

The continuous stream of patrons crowding the American stores since the opening furnishes the counter argument. The chain store system in question is expected within the coming winter to have established thirty to forty branches throughout Germany, five or six of which will be in Berlin.

CROWDS OUT EARLY ON OPEN THURSDAY

Shoppers Use Forenoon on "Community Day" Just as If There Were No Change.

Manchester stores will be open tonight for the first time under the schedule recently approved by the merchants of the town. The merchants have co-operated to make this what is known as Community Trading Night and have made plans to take care of an unusual number of customers.

Stores in Manchester formerly opened on Tuesday evenings and closed on Thursday afternoons. Under the new schedule they will close on Tuesday evenings, Wednesday afternoons, and will be open on Thursday afternoons and evenings.

Both of the banks will be open on Thursday evenings between the hours of five and eight o'clock. Whatever the reason, whether from long habit or from an intention to celebrate and make a day of it, shoppers were out in the usual Thursday morning numbers, which, because of traditional afternoon closing on that day has always been an uncommonly busy trading forenoon. Today the morning crowd was notably large.

'WE'RE ALL GAMBLERS' AT CIRCLE SATURDAY

Thomas Meighan Is Star of Feature.

Slices of New York's kaleidoscopic life where ambitious and personalities clash with dramatic results are said to be seen in Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture, "We're All Gamblers" which is to be screened on Saturday at the Circle theater. It is a story which shows Meighan in a new type of role, and it has been directed by James Cruze, maker of "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides."

Down on the crowded East Side where so many famous men, including Governor Smith of New York and Mayor James J. Walker, have fought their way upwards, a professional boxer, on the threshold of a fight for the heavy-weight championship finds his career cut short by an automobile accident. The car is driven by a Fifth Avenue aristocrat who has been drawn there by idle curiosity.

The virtuous boxer, Meighan, attracts the attention of a girl, who encourages her to fight his way upward to the proprietorship of a night club. Again she meets him and again they fight against acknowledging their love for each other. The aristocratic beauty is played by Marietta Miller, a blonde girl, who is the star of the picture.

The story was adapted from Sidney Howard's stage play "Lucky Sam McCarver."

Cruze has deftly brought out the highlights of an absorbing tale. In the supporting cast are many well known players: Cullen Landis, Philo McCullough, Gunboat Smith, Gertrude Claire and Spec. O'Donnell, the treckled-faced rethead.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES Tuesday evening at 7:30 a meeting of the Hi-Y was held at the Center Church. The speaker of the evening was Mr. Irving of Cheney Bros., who talked about the object and the work of Cheney Bros.' Employment Bureau. Before the talk a light supper was enjoyed by the members of the club.

The dancing class has been separated into two main divisions, advanced and beginner. The advanced class meets at 8 o'clock and the beginners at 5 o'clock on Fridays.

Now that the first marking period has been completed the various clubs and organizations will be assembling to make plans for the coming year. Rank cards will be given out Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The Junior Social will be held November 18. Junior home rooms have elected two persons from each room to serve on a committee to reach out to make plans for the arrangement for the social.

Yesterday a spirited football rally was held in Assembly Hall. The game was devoted entirely to the cause of Meriden today. The rally opened with the singing of the national anthem and the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Collins Driggs, cheer-leader, leads both the singing and the cheers. Mr. Quimby then introduced Jerry Shannon, who spoke in place of Captain "Doc" Keeney, who asked to be excused.

Shannon told of the fitness of the slogan "Maul Meriden," but also said that to maul Meriden would be a hard task. However, he added, that if the school supported the team wholeheartedly in the game, it would surely bring home the bacon.

Coach Kelly was the next speaker. He asked that the school help the team wipe out the blot of the 28-0 defeat at the hands of Meriden last year. He said that the team this year was the best he had ever coached and that the coaching was highly, citing especially the cases of "Johnny" Johnston, "Bob" Treat and "Terry" Shannon, all of whom were badly injured but will see service in the games to come.

He then gave the starting lineup for tomorrow's game and each member was given a cheer. In closing the rally Principal Quimby announced that the march to the field would be led by the band, and if the team is victorious, a triumphant march will be held returning from the field. The band held its final rehearsal last night and indications point to a banner day for the high school.

MIDWAY ISLANDS LIKE GRAIN OF SAND IN OCEAN

Pacific Cable Station Is Home Of Small Colony of Lonely Workers.

Washington.—Thousands of miles from civilization, out in the center of the majestic rolling Pacific, lies the tiny islet of Midway, which proved the insurmountable barrier of the Schieffelin round-trip world airplane flight.

Midway, a mere grain of sand, is no more than a cable station between Japan and Hawaii, according to a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society. There are two islands in the group, Sand Island has an average elevation of from three to ten feet above sea level and the other from six to twelve feet. The highest point on either island rises 45 feet.

Each, says the Geographic Society, is less than two miles long and about a half mile wide. Sand Island has an average elevation of from three to ten feet above sea level and the other from six to twelve feet. The highest point on either island rises 45 feet.

When Captain Brooks of the Cambia discovered Midway in 1859 he found a desolate spot of glaring sand and scattered bushes. The steel and concrete buildings have been erected at corners of a little plaza and a small portion of the sandy wastes have been covered with earth imported from Honolulu and planted in grass, ornamental shrubs and flowers. Tree-lined walks lead to the wharf and to a garden where vegetables thrive.

Colony of Canaries "A cow or two, a few sheep, a tall windmill and vegetation in the artificial paradise suggests at first glance a fertile plain of the Argentine; but after a few minutes walk one finds himself surrounded by the bleak windswept sands that dispell the illusion.

"For years, Japanese, in quest of feathers and seabirds, were Midway's only visitors. Sand Island, a thriving colony of domestic canaries that inhabit the native shrubbery. In the mild climate of the island, they have increased from a few pairs to several hundred. The Laysan Finch and the little Flightless Rail are to be found on Eastern Island.

"In 1887, a sea captain, his wife and crew were shipwrecked on Midway. For fourteen months they subsisted on fish and birds' eggs."

One of World's Great Love and Adventure Stories—At State On Sunday.

The magnificent plot, fine characterization and beautiful love story are among the outstanding reasons why "Ben-Hur" has gripped the imagination of America for fifty years. In the motion picture coming to the State theater on Sunday the splendid portrayals of Ben-Hur by Ramon Novarro, Esther by May McAvoy, Mother of Hur by Claire McDowell and Tizrah by Kathleen Key, add to the effect and enhance the romance.

These players live the romantic side of the story, which is just as engrossing as the sea battle or even the chariot race.

Miss McAvoy, who previously was best remembered by her role of Grisel in "Sentimental Tommy," is a charming Esther, daughter of the Merchant of Antioch, who secretly has saved the Hur fortune for the young heir, and Ramon Novarro in the Ben-Hur role is handsome, valiant, marked by sincerity, depth and range of feeling.

Perhaps the best note is struck after Ben-Hur and Esther set out to find his lost kin, who have been immured in a forgotten Roman dungeon and (unknown to him) finally released as outcasts. Mother and Tizrah find the youthful Ben-Hur asleep on a beach outside the desused Palace of Hur. The sister kisses his shoe but the mother does not dare to touch him. Silently they go away to save him from the ruin which is theirs.

There are few dry eyes during the enactment of this scene. But the sorrow is turned to joy after Esther discovers the outcasts in the Vale of Hinnom, takes them to the Divine Healer, whose benediction cures them and the happy four are reunited.

LEATRICE JOY BACK AT RIALTO TONIGHT

Noted Actress Here For Two Day Stay to Show Girls How To Vamp Men in "Clinging Vine."

Leatrice Joy is back! Just come around to the cozy Rialto tonight or tomorrow and see for yourself. She's been absent for a long time and will be glad to "see" your smiling faces again. This noted actress, who in the past, has thrilled the hearts of many Manchester movie patrons will appear in "The Clinging Vine." In addition there will be a Mack Sennett comedy entitled "Alice Be Good" and also a news reel.

A young mannish business woman who is an adept at everything except dress and the art of winning the attentions of men, an aged grandmother flapper who undertakes to teach her how to make herself attractive, and a young inventor of an egg beater, are three of the principal characters.

"Such a story as is developed in "The Clinging Vine," recently said Miss Joy, "could only have happened in this country. The heroine is a successful business girl, the private secretary of the president of a paint manufacturer. She is so busy exploiting her products that she forgets about looks, or clothes or men, except as business associates.

"When she gets out of her office and tailored suits, she is like a flash out of water, and men run away from her. She suffers, but like a true American, she does not despair. Being a regular girl, she determines to win masculine admiration. She puts herself in the hands of an old flapper, who coaches her in the art of attracting men."

"This granddama of 'The Clinging Vine,' is distinctly American. She is modern, active and perennially young. Her hair is cut in the latest French bob, and her gowns are the last word in smartness. She is old-fashioned only in her belief that a man, though he may admire self-reliance in a woman, yet gives his worship to the 'clinging vine.'"

Tom Moore and Robert Edeson also play leading parts in this photoplay.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Characters of the Story PHILLO VANCE JOHN F. X. MARKHAM...

Markham

THIS HAS HAPPENED Vance eliminates Miss St. Clair as a suspect...

CHAPTER XXXVIII "FUNNY," murmured Vance. "I thought of that myself..."

"You phoned him—!" Vance apologized. "But you'd gone to bed. Sleep was knitting up your ravelled sleeve..."

"That's all," replied Vance, rising and strolling to the window. "The Major has practically admitted to us..."

"It's quite probable, therefore, that the Major's knowledge has to do with something connected with the business of the firm..."

"My suggestion is this: call up the Major, and ask permission to send a man to take a peep at his ledger accounts and his purchase and sales books..."

of the person he's shielding. And I'm also assailed by the premonition that he'll welcome your interest in his ledger."

The plan did not appeal to Markham as feasible or fraught with possibilities; and it was evident he disliked making such a request of Major Benson...

"I thought he'd talk kindly to the suggestion," said Vance. "If you discover for yourself whom he suspects, it relieves him of the onus of having tattled."

"Call up Stitt and tell him I want to see him here before noon—that I have an immediate job for him."

"Now, I suppose, I must keep the appointment you made for me," he complained to Vance. Then: "Come, Stitt, I'll take you down with us in the judges' private elevator."

"If you don't mind," interposed Vance, "Mr. Stitt and I will forgo the honor, and mingle with the commoners in the public lift. We'll meet you downstairs."

"I had in mind a connection of a somewhat different nature when I mentioned you and Mr. Pfyfe as having been drawn into the case. I referred to a personal relationship between you and Mr. Benson."

She smiled confidently. "It wasn't Andy's car. He took the 8 o'clock train to New York the next morning. He said it was lucky that he did, seeing that a machine just like his had been at Mr. Benson's the night before."

"I had in mind a connection of a somewhat different nature when I mentioned you and Mr. Pfyfe as having been drawn into the case. I referred to a personal relationship between you and Mr. Benson."

strong odor of Chinese incense drifted out to us. "Ah! That facilitates matters," said Vance, sniffing. "Ladies who burn joss-sticks are invariably sentimental."

After a few minutes of verbal reconnoitering, he asked permission to smoke, and offered Mrs. Banning one of his cigars, which she accepted. Then he smiled at her in a spirit of appreciative geniality, and relaxed comfortably in his chair.

"Mr. Pfyfe strove very hard to keep you entirely out of this affair," said Vance; "and we fully appreciate his delicacy in so doing. But certain circumstances connected with Mr. Benson's death have inadvertently involved you in the case; and you can best help us and yourself—and particularly Mr. Pfyfe—by telling us what we want to know, and trusting to our discretion and understanding."

Her apprehension was apparent, and when she looked up into Vance's eyes, she was asking herself: How much does he know? as plainly as if she had spoken the words audibly.

"I can't imagine what you want me to tell you," she said, with an effort at astonishment. "You know that Andy was not in New York that night."

"Her designating of the elegant and superior Pfyfe as 'Andy' sounded almost like lese-majeste," "He didn't arrive in the city until nearly 3, the next morning."

"I had in mind a connection of a somewhat different nature when I mentioned you and Mr. Pfyfe as having been drawn into the case. I referred to a personal relationship between you and Mr. Benson."

Velvet is one of the most popular fabrics for the "little" dress. A lovely creation in green velvet with square neck and double jabot of cream lace, had a fair tailoring with a gorgeous buckle of pearls set in green gold.

This story is supposed to be absolutely true: "A woman was buying one of the lovely printed transparent velvets for her youngest daughter, a girl probably fourteen or fifteen. She had a yard stick and was measuring her offspring, with the apology that she did her own sewing and knew just how to cut it to advantage. She couldn't afford to be too extravagant, she explained, and the brown coat was threadbare but she wanted the very latest and finest fabric for her daughter, young as she was, and the price of the velvet was more than ten dollars a yard!"

Almost anything under the sun as a business enterprise may be found in New York. They have a rehabilitation station and beauty parlor for dolls, managed by the National Thanksgiving Doll Offering committee at 15 East 40th street. Last year on Thanksgiving day 38,000 little girls and boys were made happy by the gift of a doll rejuvenated at the hospital. They are asking that children and their mothers look through their attic and send them dolls no longer in use. When their faces are "lifted," painted, hair given a permanent or something less and new tags added they are just as acceptable as when they were new to the orphan or poor child who has no doll to cuddle. Women's clubs have also been asked to co-operate in the joy-giving work.

Chocolate Squares Two squares bitter chocolates, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup broken hickory nuts.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add melted butter and stir well. Add sugar and stir until thoroughly mixed. Beat egg slightly and stir into mixture. Mix and sift flour and salt and stir into first mixture. Add nuts and vanilla and mix well. Spread on an oiled pan and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and mark off in squares. Let stand in the pan until cool. The squares will harden as they cool.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Mrs. Dorothy Caruso is telling the world about the private life of her famous husband, the greatest singer of all time. Caruso, she narrates, wanted her in the hotel suite so that whenever he left his own work for a few minutes he could see her and talk with her. She tells of her frantic search for something to do during these long hours and finally, at Caruso's suggestion, took to pasting purchased stamp collections in albums. She tells of the semi-negligee tea-gowns which she wore day after day, not getting into street clothes or going anywhere for weeks at a time while Caruso was rehearsing a new opera.

"That's Not Right!" Mary Shaw, famed feminist and actress who has gone back to the stage to take the role of a Mother Superior in a monastery in the Civic Repertory Theater play of "The Cradle Song," tells of the near tragedy to the play the night a party of nuns attended the play, went backstage, and had all the nuns in the play rearranging their monastic dress because they were told by the audience nuns that their garb wasn't correct. "The fact that the visiting nuns were American Sisters of Charity and that the nuns in the play were Spanish Dominicans seemed to make no difference nor make them consider at all that a different order and different country might alter the dress."

Wotta Life Boredom underlines the confession and makes one ponder anew on the fact that being married to neither fame nor riches guarantees happiness. Not that Dorothy Caruso complains. She doubtless had compensations for her boredom, but she paid was a bore some succession of days dedicated to pasting stamps in an album.

Flying Toggery Did you see the picture of Miss Frances Grayson, woman hop-ofer, in the very special flying suit fashioned for her by some designer who wanted to see his name in print? A coat of tan calf with jumper-knicker dress of brown kasha collared and cuffed with calf to match the coat? A skirt was included with the ensemble to be donned "just before landing."

A certain commotion in the pit of my stomach when I saw the picture makes me certain that there's a comment, and a strong and heated one, in that picture, but now that it comes to writing, I don't know just what the comment is. Maybe it's that "it gives me a pain the way everybody must assume that even at the time of the most unusual feat a woman may do, she must think of clothes." But calmer reflection forces me to admit that maybe it's a virtue rather than a fault to be able to do a big thing and still take time and thought to care how one looks. Men wouldn't—or couldn't.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

SPOTS BEFORE THE EYES USUALLY UNIMPORTANT By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

One of the most common symptoms complained of by many people is a sense of spots floating before the eyes. Scientifically, these are called "muscae volitantes."

The specialist in diseases of the eyes attaches little significance to these spots, unless such spots can be seen on special examination of the eyes with the ophthalmoscope, the instrument with which the specialist looks into the eye.

These floating spots have been attributed to irritations of the eye, to congestion of the tissues, to eye-strain and various constitutional diseases. Generally speaking, they are not of importance in most instances. If the person "observed" has the right kind of glasses and keeps himself in good physical condition, the spots will disappear.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

JOHNSON GOES TO THE MINORS; TO MANAGE THE NEWARK BEARS

Expects to Keep on Pitching Says "Old Barney"; To Get $20,000 a Year, It Is Said.

By GEORGE BARRY Staff Correspondent
Washington, Oct. 27.—After twenty years under the big top, Walter Johnson goes to the minors. The beloved "Big Train," however, has been spared the usual fate of a fading veteran who slips down the baseball scale until the sand lot boys hammer him to all parts of the field, for he goes to the International League not as a hired hand but as manager of the Newark Bears next season.

A two-year contract has been signed, contingent upon the other major league clubs waiving on his services. The waiving is expected to be a mere formality, for it is probably safe to say that no major league performer would expect to show with more skill and success than those which accompany "Old Barney." No announcement was made as to salary, but it is understood Walter's contract with Paul Block, the Newark owner, calls for $20,000 annually.

To Play
Walter said today he expected to be a playing-manager, that is, he will take his turn in the box when it pleases him to do so.

"I expect to do plenty of pitching," he said, "and I expect to stay in baseball. Twenty years is a long time, the best part of a man's life, in fact, and I've given them to baseball.

"I feel I know more about baseball than about anything else. I once thought I'd quit, but don't believe I could. I get into your blood, this baseball, and I suppose I shall die in harness like the rest of the old timers.

"I'm looking forward to a lot of pleasure managing the Bears. Every baseball player dreams of the time when he can try out his own theories and ideas concerning the game, and now I'm to have my chance."

Walter wound up his big league career in a blaze of glory. True, this year was an unsatisfactory one for the veteran, but it was his pitching in 1924 and 1925 that brought two consecutive pennants to the Washington club. A broken leg early in the season kept the big smoke, on the bench through most of this season's play.

TOM HEENEY BEATS RISKO AT DETROIT

New Zealand, By His Victory, Get His Next Chance Against Sharkey.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27.—A blacksmith from New Zealand and a baker from Cleveland dedicated Detroit's new sport arena, the Olympia, to boxing last night and the blacksmith forged as neat a victory as the new heavyweight elimination season is likely to see.

The grand opening of the fistie playground, the largest in the mid-west and another Madison Square Garden in size and equipment, was a glittering success for Tom Heeney and the promoters who represented the New Zealand and Johnny Risko, to a crowd of 17,000 that packed the splendid arena to capacity for a gate of $75,000.

Heeney, a heavyweight who has been consistently underrated since his arrival here last January had to come from behind to have his hand raised by referee Slim McClelland and he richly deserved the verdict.

Risko gave him a whale of a fight for six rounds and was in front going into the seventh when he blew up as a result of Heeney's steady body pummeling in the early rounds. Thereafter Johnny was wild with his far flung lefts and a mark for Heeney's precise short punches.

Risko was six to five favorite going into the ring.

Heeney isn't supposed to have a great left hand but it was his best weapon last night thus earning his shot at Jack Sharkey on November 18. Few good fighters have taken the measure of the Cleveland baker and few care to try.

"Hokey" Gustafson, manager of the newly organized Pan Am Girls' bowling team, announces that his team stands willing to meet Murphy's Girls or any other five-girl team in town in a home and home match. The Pan Am Five uses the Casino alleys for its home matches. In the lineup are Estlin Anderson, Lillian Anderson, Helen Gustafson, Katherine Turek and Eva Armstrong.

Louis Chiappetta, Sequin pro, went over the 18-hole course at the Manchester Country club for the first time Tuesday and clipped off a commendable 74. He was much impressed with the course.

Now that American League soccer is no more insofar as Manchester is concerned, fans here will no doubt turn almost one-hundred percent attention to the pre-title date games of the Cloverleaves and the Cubs.

After today's game with Meriden High, Manchester has four more games to play on successive Saturdays, Middletown, New Haven Hills, Willimantic and the Alumni. Incidentally the most important game of the season, that with Windham High falls on the day before the crucial Cloverleaves-Cubs town championship contest. This week-end will be by far the most important of the season as far as Manchester sports are concerned.

C. Walker defeated C. Felber in the quarter finals of the club golf championship play at the Manchester Country club and will meet the winner of the F. Blah-F. Blaher match. This winner meets either Charlie Johnson, the favorite or Phil Cheney for the title. Walker's card for the match with Felber was a 79. He shoots left handed, too. This is only nine over par. He beat Felber five and four.

Dr. Stockwell of Hartford won low gross prize in the golf tournament at the Country club Tuesday in which members of the Hartford County Medical society competed. His score was 88-14-74. Dr. Worcester, Hartford, 81-19-70. Dr. Gaucher, Hartford, 112-38-74. Dr. Chester, Hartford, 104-26-78. Dr. Whitter, Hartford, 98-20-78. Dr. Rowley, Hartford, 109-30-79. Dr. Eddy, Hartford, 112-20-92. Prizes were given by local merchants.

McMAHON PROTESTS BOARD'S DECISION

Matchmaker Thinks Courtney Has No Right to be Next Walker Opponent.

New York, Oct. 27.—Jess McMahon, Madison Square Garden's official matchmaker and promoter, today announced that he would appear before the New York State Boxing Commission tomorrow in vigorous protest against the commission's recognition of George Courtney, Oklahoma "Cowboy," as the logical contender for Micky Walker's middleweight title.

The commission's action in so labeling Courtney, automatically gives Walker but thirty days to defend his honors or lose his title in this state.

Even the imperturbable Tex Rickard left the links at Hot Springs, Va. long enough yesterday to telephone instructions to McMahon, the latter said, adding that he would place contracts he holds before the commission which call for a Walker-Flowers return bout. The Chicago scuffle between the Tiger and Walker left much in doubt, McMahon declares, and a return bout between the champion and the dethroned Tiger would be more propitious at this time than a Walker-Courtney match, he contends.

The commission in bestowing its favor upon Courtney indirectly expressed its opinion that Walker was evading his responsibilities as the middleweight champion.

THE REFEREE

Did the two Waners outwit Ruth and Gehrig in the last world series?
—B. M.

Yes. They got eleven hits out of 30 times at bat, while Ruth and Gehrig got only 10 out of 28 times at bat. The point average of the Waners was only a few more than the average of Ruth and Gehrig.

What was "Doc" Farrell's batting average for the 1927 season?
—H. M. L.

He batted .316 in 152 games. Does Pop Warner coach at Southern California or Stanford?—Y. H. At Stanford.

Where was Jackie Fields born, and when?—D. J. L. At Chicago in 1907.

Will Cookie Cunningham play pro football again this year?—B. H. G.

Yes. He is with Benny Friedman's Cleveland team.

A Couple of Record Busters

Here are two makers of records, Babe Ruth of the Yankees and Babe Ruth of Omaha, Neb. Babe of the Yankees broke his home run record this year, while the Omaha Bambino whose real name is not Babe Ruth at all but Lady Norfolk, laid 172 eggs on 172 consecutive days and still was laying 'em at last report. The hen has been presented to Babe Ruth, who is a bit of a farmer in the off season.

CUBS PLAY FIRST HOME GAME WITH PLAINVILLE

Fans to Get First Peep at Dwyer's Challengers For Town Title.

Manchester football fans will get their first peep at Coach Jack Dwyer's Cubs, prides of the south end, next Sunday when they meet the All-Plainville team in their first home game of the season at the West Side Playgrounds. The kick-off will be at 2:30. Coach Thomas F. Kelley of the High school team here, may referee.

In four games, all out of town, this season the Cubs have registered two victories, a scoreless tie and a one-point defeat—a record which any team can point to with pride. In the opening tussle in Meriden the St. Stanislaus and the Cubs fought without a score. The following Sunday, the Falcons scored a belated 7 to 6 victory when Referee Johnny Hart pulled a "boner."

They came two straight wins. The Cubs' own gridiron and the South End of Middletown were defeated 6 to 0. In the latter city, the game was such a bitter pill to swallow that the Cubs team was stung out of the city by a few disgruntled fans.

Manager Vendrillo had an offer from the Sons of Italy to go back to Middletown for another game next Sunday but refused when the manager of the Sons refused to post a $50 forfeit as an assurance that the board officials would handle the game. The Sons also wanted to play on Russell Field, but the Cubs saw enough of this boggy and hilly surface last Sunday.

Vendrillo also realized that there have been many demands for a home game by his team. Now that the Cubs and Cloverleaves are actually going to play for the town title on Sunday, November 20 which is three weeks away, fans are desirous of watching the challengers in action. Fans have seen the Cloverleaves play and admit that they will be a hard team to beat, notwithstanding the fact that the New Haven Boys' Club did the trick in a comfortable manner.

All-Plainville can be counted upon to give its very best in the game as they are coming on a win and lose guarantee basis of $70 win and $40 lose. They have a very heavy line and a tight backfield which is composed of former High school, Prep school and college players in the main. Four men in the center of the line average 190 pounds apiece.

Manager Vendrillo said that if the fans support the game well, the Cubs will continue to play at home. Admission tickets, 25c for men and 25c for women, will be sold on the grounds and the management hopes everyone will contribute to help the team stay at home.

TIGERS MYSTERIOUS

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27.—Coach Roper, who put his Princeton squad through secret scrimmage yesterday, tied with McNamara and sentatives, was expected to repeat the performance today with it was learned the scrub team defeated the varsity six to nothing. However, it was learned that Jake Slagle, former all-American triple threat man at Princeton played with the second team and ran fifty yards for the lone touchdown. William & Mary is next on the Tigers schedule.

SCORES PLENTY OF POINTS

Georgetown scored 182 points in her first four grid games this season.

Barnard Likely To Succeed Ban

Chicago, Oct. 27. (United Press)—The 1927 season out of the way, baseball men are turning their attention to business to be transacted at the annual winter meetings, which probably will be held in Chicago this year.

Probably the biggest problem facing the baseball world today centers around the New York Yankees and the problem is "what can be done to stop them?"

Already things look as though there will be some brisk trading done during the winter.

One thing seems certain as this year's league meetings draw near. That is that the gatherings will not be marked by any great amount of quarreling—due to the absence of Ban Johnson.

In past years Johnson has been the Cleveland club will step into at all but Lady Norfolk, and still Johnson's shoes. Meanwhile, Will Harridge, secretary of the league, will continue to handle its affairs.

No indication of any investigation, such as the one which shook baseball last year, is apparent. The integrity of the recent world series is not doubted, and nothing else that needs investigation is on the surface.

This winter probably will be the liveliest from a trading angle that baseball has seen in some time. It is no secret that every magnate is out to do what he can to stop Colonel Ruppert's Yankees.

The evident superiority of the Yankees has set the whole American league to work. And with every club stacking up the way it does now the Yankees probably would have no trouble in again running away with the race next year.

One rumor at present has it that Kiki Cuyler, who has incurred disfavor at Pittsburgh, will be traded to the Chicago Cubs. Give the Cubs an outfielder like Cuyler and a good third baseman and they'd be the hardest thing to stop in the National League.

Dissecting Grid Rules by O'Brien

OUT OF BOUNDS

By E. J. O'Brien
You have often heard people say that the referee called the ball out of bounds when in their opinion the ball was dead, probably a foot or more from the side lines.

According to the rules, this is possible, because, in order for it to be declared out of bounds, it is not necessary for the ball to be on or outside the side line.

The rule states that the ball is "out of bounds," when either the ball or any part is "out of bounds," when either the ball or any part of the player who holds it, touches the ground on or outside the side line, the side line extended, or the end line.

RIDERS STILL TIED

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Pedaling along in the six day bike race today, tied with McNamara and Walker for first place, is the "surprise team," Petri and Hill, who were believed to have shot their bolt in the early stages of the grind.

The sturdy German-American combination cycled through a jam last night to cop an extra lap while the field attempted to hold them to the outer rim of the bowl. Once Petri's cycle started to slide down the wooden saucer, but his partner, Hill, sprinted to his side and helped him regain his balance.

This display of nerve took the heart out of the boys and they dropped back into line, willing to leave Petri and Hill fight it out for the lead, at least for the time being.

Alabama Poly lost the first four games played against southern grid opponents this year.

Jockey, 18, Wins Over 175 Races

Chicago, Oct. 27. (United Press)—With 168 races won this year, young Lee Hardy, 18-year-old Indiana jockey, bids fair to give America another boy champion.

Already 55 races ahead of his nearest competitor, young Hardy is expected to win the American jockey championship of the year by riding more horses (180) than any other jockey in North America.

Although a suspension for rough riding, during the fall meet at Hawthorne, cut down his winning mark, he is expected to chalk up 200 winners before Jan. 1. Such a record would be far in advance of his closest rival, V. Peterson, and would make him the official champion.

While turf experts admit that Hardy may never attain the greatness of Earl Sande or La Verne Factor, the youngster is conceded to be the most promising championship candidate for several years.

Beginning on a small time circuit in Ohio, Hardy took his first winner past the post during the winter of 1926. With enough success to encourage him in building a turf career, he trained last winter at Havana, Cuba, and by spring was considered one of the most promising youngsters riding in America.

Then, early in the spring, Col. Phil Chinn discovered him, bought his contract and hustled him to Chicago. At Washington Park and Lincoln Fields, he made a deep and lasting impression on C. E. Durnell, representative of W. T. Waggoner, millionaire Texas turf fan. As a result—the youngster found himself sold to Waggoner, for a figure that was reported to be as high as $20,000.

Under Durnell's direction Hardy has coaxed one horse after another to pass the post a winner. Barring accidents and the bad breaks of the game, the lad is conceded to have practically clinched the title.

HAS RECORD MARRIED

L. S. U.'s scoreless tie with Alabama this season was the first time in 32 games that any Southern Conference team had held Alabama scoreless.

Camel

An honest cigarette honestly advertised

Delightful tobaccos, the choicest grown. Blended with skill and care. Sold without bunk of any kind, and it leads the world by billions.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

$50,000 FUR COAT SHOW AT J. W. HALE CO. STORE

New York Furrier Here Friday and Saturday-Club For Buyers to be Open.

An unusual opportunity for local women to select a fur coat for the rapidly approaching season will be given tomorrow and Saturday at the store of the J. W. Hale company. Paul Herrmann, senior partner of Pahlins, Wilkin and Zahn, Inc., of New York City, will be at the store for those two days with a $50,000 display of fur coats.

Mr. Herrmann was at Hale's last August with a large display of coats and at that time Hale's broke all records for fur coat sales here. At the showing here tomorrow and Saturday Mr. Herrmann will display all the newest and smartest bears, mink, Hudson seal, caracul, Persian mink, mendoza Persian paw and all at special low prices.

Hale's Fur Coat Club will be open for two days to give patrons an opportunity to join while the display is going on. This club enables purchasers of fur coats to pay for them weekly.

ROBITUARY

LEONIDAS PAGE
Leonidas Page, who died at the Manchester Memorial hospital Tuesday evening, was a well known member of the organization, having passed the $1,200 mark, it was announced today when the grand total was given out. Total contributions were $1,264.05.

Mr. Page was a member of the original Talcottville Corps, which was organized more than 25 years ago. He is the second member of that organization to die during all those years. The first member was the late John P. Kuhny.

Funeral services for Mr. Page will be held at the Federated church in Wapping tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Truman H. Woodward will officiate and burial will be in the Wapping cemetery.

MRS. JAMES P. LOVETT
Mrs. Julia Lovett, wife of James P. Lovett, of 86 Wells street, died this morning at the Memorial hospital at 12:30. She had been ill two weeks with a complication of diseases.

She is survived by her husband and five children, Mary J., John F., Julia, Jeremia M., and Joseph C. Lovett; also by three sisters, Mrs. Nellie Flynn of Norwich, Mrs. Catherine Bohn of West Hartford and Mrs. Jeremiah Lovett of this town and by two brothers, Thomas and Richard Heston of this town.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 10:30 at her late home and at St. James' church at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in St. James' cemetery.

MISS MARGARET CREIGH
Word was received yesterday of the death of Miss Margaret Creigh at the home of her niece in North Attleboro, Mass., where she had been for over a year, having reached the home of her physical father. The forty years she spent in our family are full of deep appreciation for her constant and faithful service to those she loved and to the home she shared.

Manchester was her home after she left her father in Ireland and she lived with her with fervid devotion. Her friends will miss her; her sterling traits of character and her loyalty.

The memory of her days of activity, so full of readiness to act in any emergency and to carry the unusual responsibilities which come naturally into every family life, will never fade.

Her days were filled with the joy of industry and her spirit never faltered. In grateful remembrance, Mary Cheney and family.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS.

Actions don't speak louder than words over the radio.

This one's not so hard, from RED to HOT in three strokes. But sometimes a short hole troubles a fellow. One par solution is printed on another page.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN in three strokes COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

"I heard you refused a job of president of the company." "Yeh, there was no chance of advancement."

SENSE and NONSENSE

A towel salesman who never overlooked a bet stopped overnight in a small-town hotel and was surprised to find a dirty roller towel in the washroom. Indignantly he said to the landlady: "Don't you know that it has been against the law for years to put up a roller towel in this state?" "Sure, I know it," replied the proprietor. "But no ex post facto law goes and that towel was put up before the law was passed."

Folks are peculiar. They want clean sport, but demand dirty shows.

In the great American bedlam we just move from bunk to bunk.

There was sure some hot necking, when Uncle Amos got too near the gas with his celluloid collar on.

There may be splinters in the ladder of success but you don't notice them unless you're sliding down.

Ordinary itch is only skin deep, but an itch for office goes to the marrow of the bones.

While on his vacation, the zoo director received the following note from his chief assistant: "Everything all right except that the monkey seems to be pining for a companion. What shall we do until you return?"

Astronomical note: An eclipse of the feminine knee will occur shortly, according to observers at the Paris observatory.

Fable: She talked for an hour and didn't begin a sentence with the words "you know."

She may not be your maple sugar, but you will always be her sap.

If money really talked, an old nickel could do some bragging about the cigars it has bought.

The woman who can remain on good terms with all her divorced husbands is clever.

There is said to be quite a stink in New York over the acceptance into high society of negroes.

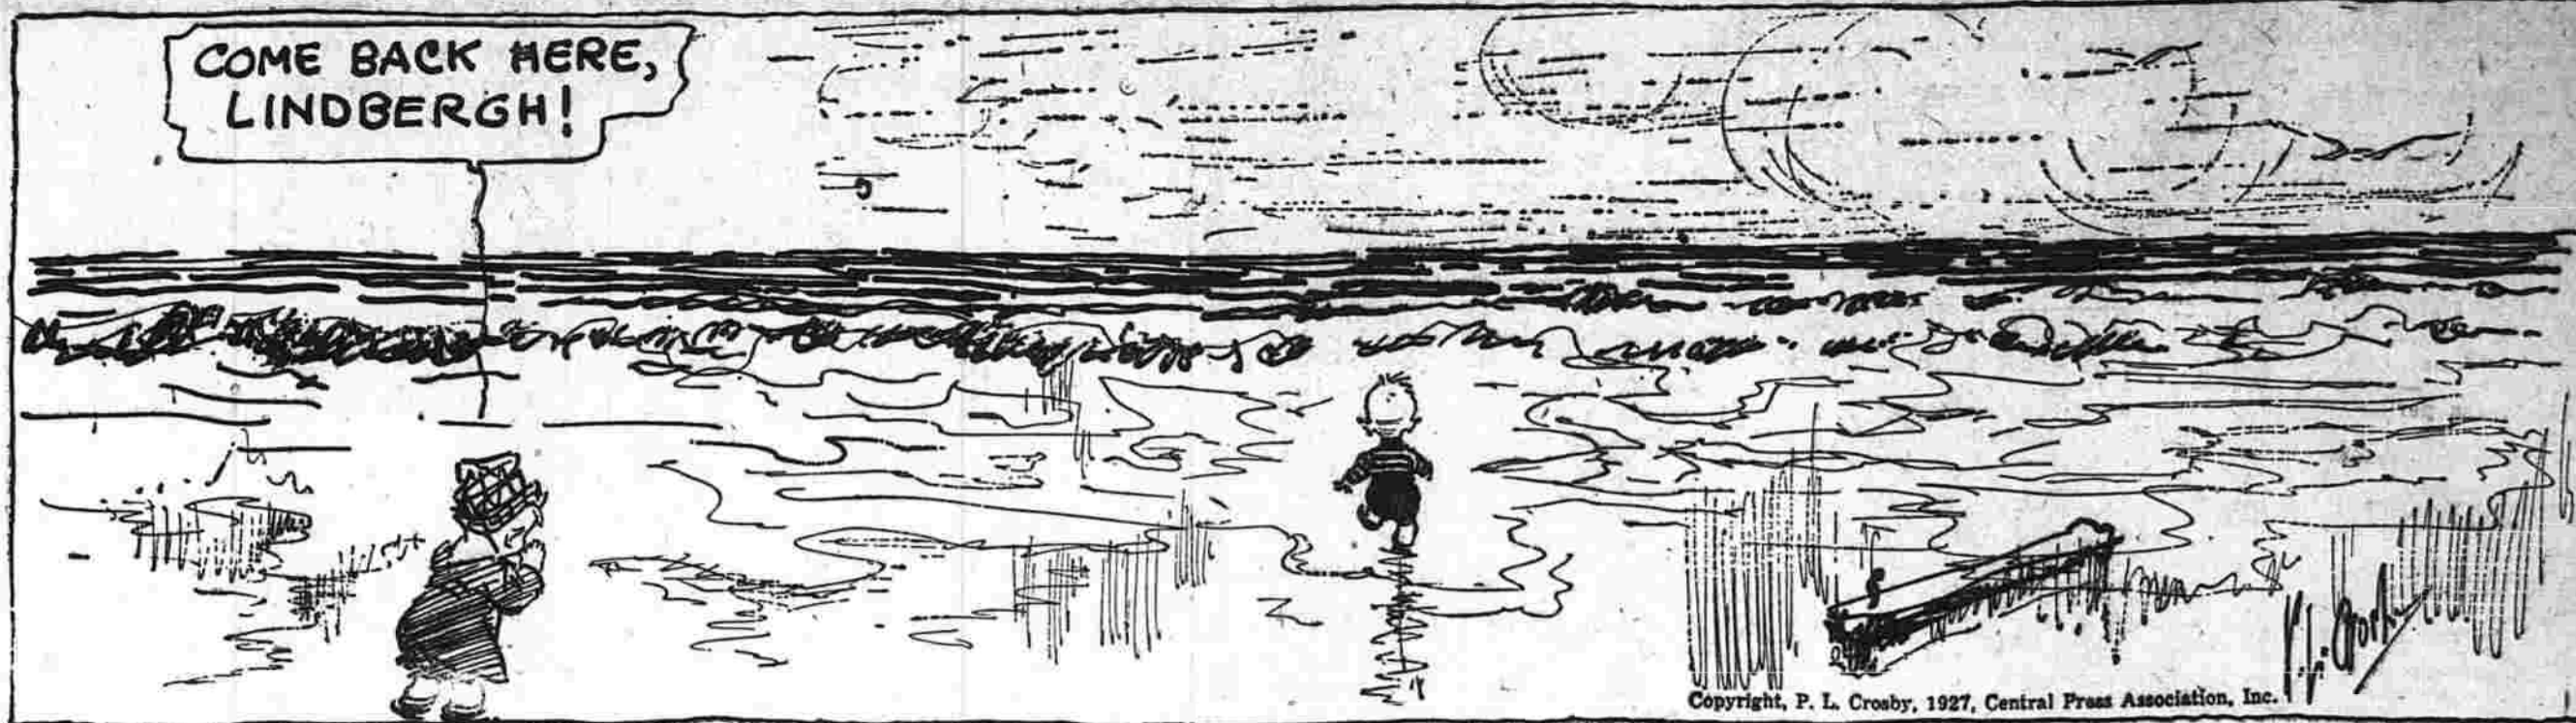

Every man is entitled to his own opinion but if he expects to be entitled to safety from thuggery he'd better not give expression to it. Husband (arriving home late): "Can't you guess where I've been?" Wife: "I can; but tell your story."

"You wish to marry my daughter. Can you cook, sew, wash, and iron, sweep, darn, nurse children, shop?"

The young man gave a puzzled laugh. "Why do you ask if I can do these things?" he said. "Because," said the elderly man, "my daughter can't."

She was only a dressmaker's daughter; sew she would.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The clay house that the Tinies made was fine and they were not afraid to crawl inside and play around. 'Twas safe as safe could be. In making it, of course, they knew that windows let the light stream through. And so they built two windows so they all could plainly see. "A wondrous home," wee Carry said. "Let's get some grass and make a bed. We'll make it very snug so we can sleep real well at night." "A great idea!" cried all the bunch. "We're mighty glad you had that hunch." They all began to run for grass and soon were out of sight. The grass was found, and back they came. "Oh, my," said one. "It is a shame we haven't any pillows, and the ground is damp and cold." Then Coppy said, "Don't fume and fret. I'll make some pillows, you can bet." And soon they saw the pillows, made of grass that had rolled. Said Clowzy, "When the cold wind blows, you'll live in here like eskimos. But now the sun is shining, so I think I'll walk around." And soon he disappeared from sight. The Tinies hoped he was all right. They figured he'd find fruits and things just lying on the ground. They waited for an hour or more and then they heard a frightened roar. "That sounded just like Clowzy," shouted Scouty, full of fear. "This place may not turn out so grand. Perhaps some beasts are on this land. I surely wish that Clowzy had remained with us, right here." And then wee Clowzy came in sight, running fast, with all his might. He simply couldn't yell again, so he stopped up was his throat. "Well, well, he surely is in trim," said Scouty. "Look what's chasing him!" And, as the other Tinies stared, they saw it was a goat. (The Tinymites catch the goat in the next story.)

Jack Lockwill's Forest Rangers

by Gilbert Patten

The answering cry was surely that of a person in distress and fear. Now the smell of smoke was in Jack's nostrils, and wisps of it drifted through the woods. It filled the air above the treetops. Then the boy saw the fire gleaming, rising and spreading before him. In the very teeth of the growing conflagration he saw a man, also—a man bound fast to a tree!

The hermit hadn't lied. The man was Paul Varden, who had been ambushed, stunned with a club, and tied to the tree with buckskin strips cut from Old Hunchy's shirt.

Jack's hunting knife was in his hand when he reached the man. With the scorching heat of the flames beating upon him, the boy slashed Varden's bonds, setting him free.

The crazy gum-digger had torched a long, semi-circular strip of the woods, and now the flames, climbing the dry pitch-trees and getting the fanning of the high wind, were turning the blaze into a terrible "crown fire." Running for their lives, the courageous boy and the panting man, choked by heat and smoke, knew that the treetop flames were leaping over their very heads. (To Be Continued.)
