WARRANT OUT FOR ARREST OF SINCLAIR

Government Formally Accuses Oil Magnate and A. Mason Day With Conspiracy to Influence the Jury.

WARRANT REVOKED

Washington, Nov. 4.—A warrant for the arrest of Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, on charges of conspiracy to influence the jury in the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial, was issued here this afternoon and revoked by District Attorney Peyton Gordon within an hour.

A similar warrant issued for A. Mason Day, the vice-president of one of Sinclair's companies, who is alleged to have hired the Burns detectives who shadowed the conspiracy trial jurors, was left in force.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The government formally accused Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, and A. M. Day, a vice president of one of Sinclair's companies today with conspiracy to influence the jury in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case.

The warrant for the arrest of the oil magnate was issued shortly after one o'clock this afternoon. Immediately after Day's appearance in Chief Justice McCoy's court, during which he refused to answer any questions concerning the activities of the Burns detectives in the Fall-Sinclair trial "on the ground that it might incriminate me."

Day was then arrested and taken before a United States commissioner, and released on $25,000 bond. Sinclair was said to be in New York.

The warrants were issued for two oil officials over the protest of Day's counsel, Judge Daniel T. Wright. His protests were unavailing, however, for Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkishaw swore to the information and the machinery was at once set in motion to serve the warrants.

It is the government's contention that Sinclair was the "real employer"

MAY APPOINT FIRE DISTRICT OFFICIALS

South Manchester Fire District to Act on Proposal Thursday, Nov. 10.

The annual meeting of the South Manchester Fire district will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 10, at 8 o'clock in High school hall.

In addition to the usual routine relating to appropriations, and election of officers, the district officers have introduced a clause to permit the meeting to take action, if it desires, on a proposition whereby the by-laws of the district will be changed and will provide for the appointment of the chief of the fire department and the superintendent of the fire alarm by the commissioners instead of having them elected as at present. This the district officers feel will be an improvement and a desirable change as both these offices are of a character which should make it advisable to remove them from political influence.

Boundary Changes

The meeting will also act upon several petitions which have been received relating to change in boundaries of the Fire district. The first one relates to changes on the west and south of the present district lines and it voted today to take in territory on West Center street and Adams street as far as Middle Turnpike, also the territory along both sides of Keeney street, as far south as the Gastonbury town line. Another petition asks for the inclusion within the district of the property along South Main street as far south as the Gastonbury line. The commissioners are preparing a detailed description of what these changes would be. These changes will be published during the coming week.

No fire district tax will be necessary this year since the district has sufficient funds to carry its work along for some months.

POSTPONE HEARING ON SUNDAY SHOWS

Will Be Held Wednesday Evening, Nov. 16—May Be in Form of Debate.

The hearing before the Board of Selectmen of Manchester on the proposal to allow motion picture theaters here to be open on Sunday afternoons has been postponed from Tuesday, Nov. 8 to Wednesday, November 16 at 8 o'clock.

The postponement was arranged today at the instance of two or three interested local people who could not be present if the hearing was held on Tuesday, Nov. 8. The substitute date of Wednesday, Nov. 16 was agreeable to the selectmen and all other interested parties who could be reached.

The hearing will be held in the Municipal building. Every voter and taxpayer has a right to be heard on the question. However, because of the large number who are expected to want to speak on the subject it has been proposed that those who oppose the measure and its proponents should choose speakers and that the hearing be in the nature of a debate.

FIGHT TO REPEAL TAX ON ESTATES

Officials of 24 States Gather in Hartford to Perfect Ways and Means.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 4.—The executive committee of the National Council of Legislatures, representing twenty-four states, met here today with Connecticut officials to perfect its organization in preparation of its fight for repeal of the federal estate and inheritance taxes which begin in Washington next week. A general conference will be held next Monday, it was announced today, in Washington, at which more than forty states are to be represented. An open discussion to arrange details for presenting the ways and means committee of the Lower House of Congress the views of the council in regard to the taxes is to be held. Hearings before the committee will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Those Present

Among those here today were Leo Satterwhite, chairman of Amherst, Texas; Phil A. Bennett, vice-chairman, of Springfield, Mo.; Thomas A. Hill, secretary and treasurer, of Pine Bluff, Ark.; Gilbert Morgan, of Cleveland, Ohio; William H. Bogdort, Connecticut state tax commissioner; Gov. Trumbull, Lt. Gov. J. E. Brainard; B. W. ### Rainfall Last Night Broke State Records

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4.—A new November rainfall record was established here in the last twenty-four hours when 3.60 inches were recorded on the rain gauge of the Federal Weather Bureau office. The previous record was 3.13 inches which fell on November 1 and 2, 1878. The heaviest rainfall ever recorded in 24 hours here fell on August 8 and 9, 1874, the total then being 8.73 inches.

MILLION IN LOSS TO OUR HIGHWAYS

Miles of State Roads Must Be Rebuilt—Waterbury Is Hard Hit.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 4.—Tremendous damage has been done to state highways by the heavy rain of the past twenty-four hours. Officials of the department are unable to furnish estimates of the amount of loss sustained by the state for reports are still pouring in upon them from every section. Unofficial estimates put the loss at nearly a million dollars, for some important bridges have been completely destroyed. Miles of fine highway will need to be rebuilt, and the traffic suspension is serious.

Bridge in Danger
The new Reynolds bridge across the Naugatuck river at Thomaston is in grave danger. Much of its embankment has gone into the river and highway officials are warning that the rest of the embankment will go at any moment.

Bridges already reported as washed out are Pine Bridge, Beacon Falls; Hartland Hollow bridge; and two bridges at Clark's Falls, Stonington.

The department issued a warning against attempting to use the Newport road in Collierville and the Sutan Kingdom's road in New Hartford.

Damage $600,000

Storm damaged in Waterbury alone is estimated this afternoon at about $600,000.

Three bridges in the city were carried away. They are Rutledge street, Homestead avenue and Nichols bridge.

Thompson avenue and Bank street are entirely closed to traffic. Hundreds of cellars, especially in the west end, were flooded so that many foundations may have to be rebuilt.

Factories were unusually hard hit. For a time there seemed to be possibility of the Chase Metal Works' huge plant being swept away. Workmen finally controlled the situation by erecting a system of dykes.

Emergency Calls

The Connecticut Light & Power Company sent emergency calls out for over an hour. At 3:10 a. m., the company informed the police department that if the water came much higher the city would be without electricity for 48 hours. Every available man was summoned to the plant to fight the flood. The situation was saved several hours later, but the company was forced to call for help as late as 5:30 a. m.

Many rescues were reported during the night hours. One of the interesting incidents occurred when Michael McCormick, a fireman, clad in rubber coat, boots and helmet, swam Brown's meadows, broke into the barn and released eight horses owned by a coal company. The horses swam to safety, their barn went.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Salisbury, Conn., Nov. 4.—One man was killed and two others seriously injured here today as an indirect result of the rain storm that swept this section during the night. The dead man is William Lampson, 36, a farm hand; the injured are his father, George, and his brother, Philip.

The Lampsons were descending Barking Teeth hill in a machine driven by Philip when the car plunged over a fifty-foot embankment. In its descent the car rolled over several times. William Lampson was caught under the car while the others were flung out.

WORST OF DELUGES NEARLY HARMLESS

Record November Rain Does Little Damage Here, But Kills Business Night.

Outside of a thorough soaking, Manchester appears little the worse today for the tremendous deluge which struck the town last night, flooding the streets and making traveling highly disagreeable for the comparatively few who ventured from the shelter of their homes. The streets were practically deserted and the stores didn't do enough business to pay for their help.

That this immediate territory was peculiarly fortunate in its escape from serious consequences of the storm is evident by comparison with the effects of the same torrential rainfall in other parts of the state and of New England.

Never before did the month of November bring such a downpour as that of last night. The precipitation for the 24 hours is reported by the United States weather observatory at Hartford as 8.30 inches and not since 1878 has November witnessed even a close approach to that record. In that year, on November 1 and 2, the rainfall was 3.03 inches.

Tremendous as the precipitation was last night, however, there is one storm on the records which put it far in the shade, but it was a long time ago. In August, 1874, no less than eight and seventy-three one-hundredths inches of rain fell in the champion of all Connecticut rainstorms.

In Manchester neither the trolley company, telephone exchange nor engineering department of police station had anything to report in the way of serious storm damage. Many manholes and sewers were filled to overflowing and the streets were flooded but the excess water soon disappeared after the height of the storm had abated. Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen said no accidents had been reported to him by Road Superintendent John Digney.

At the telephone company's office, the wire chief said that the

NAUGATUCK VALLEY COMPLETELY FLOODED

Transportation Cut Off—Trolleys Stopped—Roads Impassable in Many Towns.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 4.—The Naugatuck valley was completely flooded, transportation shut off, and heavy property damage caused by heavy rains during the night. The flood wave passed down the Naugatuck valley, swept through the meadows and flowed into the highways before the crest was finally absorbed by the Housatonic river.

Merchandise losses through the valley will be heavy. The Bank street district here was flooded throughout the night, the water beginning to back up there yesterday afternoon. Police lines were established and maintained far into today to protect the section.

The plant of the Chase metal works in Waterville were flooded. The yards and shops of the Connecticut Company here were under six inches of water late this morning. Trolley service to Thomaston was suspended because of deep water over the tracks.

Trolleys Blocked
Car service to Woodbury and to Watertown was cut off yesterday afternoon and again today because of deep water along the route. Trolleys to Reynolds bridge were succeeded by busses which ran to the trolley line beyond the bridge where passengers were transferred. Serious washouts were reported at Rimonson pond and at Naugatuck where the Naugatuck river was particularly far out of its banks.

11 DEAD, SCORES HURT HUNDREDS HOMELESS

WINSTED ISOLATED BY HEAVY FLOODS

Highland Lake Overflows; Rail Service Blocked; Half Million Dollar Damages.

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 4.—Winsted was isolated today by a flood that developed from record-breaking rainfall. Damage that may amount to a half million dollars was caused in the Litchfield Hills. Highway construction was ruined, buildings so badly undermined that they threatened the lives of tenants were reported from every direction, rail service was cut off completely, and livestock was destroyed utterly.

The flood in this district resulted directly from the overflowing of Highland Lake, the second largest body of water in the state. A rain gauge there recorded 6.18 inches of precipitation in twenty-four hours, a new record. Highland Lake's spillway is through Mad river. This stream was completely out of its banks today. Several buildings of the Fitzgerald Manufacturing company plant were completely surrounded by water and the flood was sweeping across the Central New England railroad tracks and rushing down Lake street into Winsted.

Boats On Streets

In the business section, Mad river was today in its channel but for some time after midnight Main street from the Y. M. C. A. to Chestnut street, a distance of a half mile, the water was so deep that rowboats were pressed into service for patrol purposes and in an effort to save property. Merchandise damage here is reported heavy.

A party of Waterbury women who were here attending an entertainment of the Order of Rebecca, started home after midnight on a bus that was to go by way of Hall Meadow. Near that point the bus ran into a washed out road, was wrecked and the passengers were scratched but not seriously hurt, and returned here by car sent out to the rescue. The bus was abandoned.

Marooned in Homes

People marooned in homes along Crestnut street in New Hartford; were rescued by boats. Narrow escapes resulted there. Two boats were swept away by the swift current through their occupants managed to get to safety. All through the New Hartford section, cattle, swine and poultry were destroyed in the mingling river at New Hartford was down three feet today and danger was over.

Norfolk sustained heavy damage also. The new state road in West Norfolk appeared to be ruined.

RIVER AT HARTFORD AT 13 FOOT LEVEL

Danger Point is at 16—Most Damage Done to Telephone Circuits.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 4.—The Connecticut River, swollen by heavy rains in Upper New England, had reached the thirteen-foot level at ten o'clock this afternoon and was rising at the rate of nine-tenths of an inch an hour. The danger point is at the sixteen foot level. The river is now in a condition generally reached only through melting snows.

Rain here did its most serious damage in the mains of the Southern New England Telephone Company. Two cables were put out of commission when water entered the cables and three hundred telephones were completely shut off.

By putting in an emergency force at work, the company had service working again in fairly quick time. The Connecticut company found its most serious trouble on the Unionville line where water was so deep along the tracks that they had to be abandoned and busses substituted. Considerable annoyance was caused elsewhere by sand washing onto the tracks.

Some damage was done in the city when manholes backed up and water flowed into cellars. No accidents of any sort were reported here as a result of the rain.

DAMAGE IS ESTIMATED FROM 3 TO 15 MILLION

Worst Flood Disaster in 50 Years in This Section Visits Five States—Railroad Trains Marooned in All Parts of New England—Becket, Mass., Swept Away; Dams Dynamited to Release Water—Bridges All Over Section, Swept Away—National Guard and Red Cross in Field—Many Towns Isolated By Water—In Vermont Towns Water Reaches Second Stories of Buildings.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—Unleashed by bursting dams and swollen by torrential rains, raging waters rolled over great sections of Vermont, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, eastern New York and Connecticut today bringing the worst flood disaster in this section of the United States in fifty years.

By noon the death toll had mounted to eleven. Hundreds of persons in the five states were homeless, many persons were unaccounted for, property damage was variously estimated between three and fifteen million dollars and scores of crack railroad trains with hundreds of passengers were marooned.

A great wall of water bore down on the little town of Becket, Mass., when the dam of the west branch of the Westfield river broke. Three persons were caught in the rush for high ground as the torrent swept down the Westfield valley, carrying away twenty buildings, including the railroad station, the postoffice and the general store. A message trickled in from Becket, coming via Albany, N. Y., as all telephone and telegraph lines in that section of the Berkshire hills were down.

Miss Helen Moore, 20, of Westfield, and Harold Dewey, 21, of Simsbury, Conn., were missing and were believed to have been the couple whose automobile became submerged on the Westfield-Again road and were last seen clinging tenaciously to a billboard above the flood.

Others Killed

Ralph Winters and Gerald Brook were killed in the collapse of an undermined building at Barre, Vt. Two women were drowned near Becket, Vt. and a man was drowned in the flood at Pittsfield, Vt. Mrs. Anna P. Pitts, 43, of Westfield, Mass., fell from an automobile while fleeing from the flooded area in that city and was killed when her skull was fractured.

National Guard Out

National Guardsmen were put on patrol duty or engaged in rescue work in Vermont and Massachusetts and in several places Red Cross agents were in the field. As the flood waters of disaster rolled on and as the rain continued to lash the countryside almost from the sea to the Adirondacks, a ray of hope came with reports to Boston & Maine railroad headquarters that waters were receding in several places, the drop at Peterborough Junction, N. Y., being as much as four feet. The Weather Bureau also announced that the sudden rain storm which followed two days of unprecedented hot weather—the storm responsible for the floods—was moving out to sea off Nova Scotia.

Dams Dynamited

While some dams were being dynamited to release hundreds of tons of water and while city and town officials in rowboats and in motorboats were engaged in the work of rescuing men, women and children marooned in their homes with the water touching the second stories, small armies of railroad and telephone and telegraph linemen were moving north from Boston in an effort to restore communication.

Using Airplanes

A few stray messages drifted in by radio and attempts to penetrate the flooded areas by airplane failed as the airplanes could not penetrate the mist over the foothills.

Residents of the city of Westfield, Mass., and those of Rutland and Montpelier, Vt., were in constant danger for hours. The dam of the Woronooco river above Westfield threatened to give way as did reservoirs above Rutland and Montpelier.

The floods extended as far east as the Merrimack river in Lowell and Lawrence and through Worcester county of Massachusetts.

The water surge in several communities, including Marlboro, Mass., was threatened in the midst of the downpour and flood as saw-age backed up in pipes near reservoirs. In the lowlands of Vermont water in many places was up to the second stories of homes along the rivers and part of a grammar school was washed away in White River Junction, Vt.

Six persons were reported dead, scores homeless, many marooned and many more in danger. The entire state of Vermont was a hard hit by swollen streams and overflowing reservoirs.

Rain which came down in torrents all night, continued today. Residents of Rutland and Montpelier were reported to have put in a night of terror. Both cities were in darkness with reservoir dams about to bust.

Railroads Paralyzed.
Railroad traffic in Vermont and in western Massachusetts was almost entirely paralyzed. Telephone and telegraph service was cut off in many Vermont cities and towns scores of families, marooned in their homes by rising waters, were rescued by rowboats. In Rutland, Vt., the militia aided in the rescue, the southern section of that city being almost entirely under water.

Throughout the night, according to meager information trickling in here, volunteers worked throughout the night to prevent the Patch dam in the reservoir a mile above Rutland from bursting. Another volunteer band worked at the dam of Chittenden reservoir six miles from Rutland.

White River Junction, the big railroad center on the Connecticut river, was almost isolated and railroad trains were stalled in all directions. The water was five feet above the level reached by the flood waters of 1912. In White River Junction, which is seven miles below Danbury, N. H., the home of Dartmouth College, firemen and policemen aided by volunteers were out in rowboats this forenoon rescuing men, women and children from flooded homes. The Connecticut was still rising.

Railroad lines north of Springfield, Mass., were blocked either by washouts or collapsed bridges.

Whole Town Flooded.
Almost the entire town of Ludlow, Vt., was flooded, several houses being washed from their foundations.

Railroad lines north of Springfield, Mass., were blocked either by washouts or collapsed bridges.

At Westfield, Mass.—Man and a girl were believed to have drowned when their closed automobile plunged into the Westfield River. They were last seen at a half-submerged billboard. Flood waters of the river covered the Boston to Albany, N. Y., state highway at Frog Hole.

At Holyoke Mrs. Della Whitaker was probably fatally injured late last night while crossing the street carrying an umbrella she walked

Rockville
W. J. AUSTIN VICTIM
OF HIT, RUN DRIVER
Captain Tobin Catches Auto-ist—Case Continued For Two Weeks.

(Special to The Herald).
Rockville, Nov. 4.—William J.
Austin, 44, real estate and insurance agent, of Talbot avenue, was seriously injured by a hit-and-run driver last evening when he was run down after alighting from the
No. 32 trolley from Hartford at the corner of Ward and Union streets.
Mr. Austin was taken into the Arbus fur store in a stunned condition and Dr. Ferguson was called on. Dr. Ferguson found Mr. Austin suffering from a broken leg, fracture of the skull, bruises and shock and advised his being taken to the Rockville City hospital.
Captain Stephen J. Tobin and Police man Richard Shea, were obliged to chase the car that struck Mr.
Austin over eight miles. The car,
a Ford coupe, was driven by George Bliss of Grove street who admitted after much questioning that he had struck a man but that a light on the car was broken and that the victim had stepped from behind a standing trolley.
Bliss and the man accompanying him were found under the influence of liquor and both were taken to the police station and held for court.
Because of the condition of Mr.
Austin the case did not go to trial.
Prosecutor D. J. McCarthy had drawn a writ charging both men with evading responsibility. At the suggestion of the prosecutor the case was continued for two weeks.
The bond of the driver of the car was placed at $1,000 and that of the passenger with him at $400.
Case Dates Set.
The Republican city caucus and the ward caucuses have been called without any outstanding candidates being mentioned for mayor. The general city caucus for the purpose of nominating a mayor will be held at 8 o'clock on Wednesday. The ward caucuses will be held on November 10.
The first ward will hold its meeting in the police courtroom, the second ward will meet in Tennent's store on Prospect street for the nomination of one councilman, the third ward meets at the Athletic Association's rooms and will nominate one candidate for councilman and one for alderman.
The fourth ward meeting will be in the Princes building on Village street and will nominate one councilman.

Lost Bank Book
A general notification was sent out of the death of James Reynolds,
of the Savings Bank of Rockville,
valuable papers and a suit case were lost on the Berlin turnpike on Wednesday of this week.
Are Within the Law.
In the election of a collector of taxes in Rockville, the democrats and the republicans did not name
a bank as a collector, but elected Charles Squires, of the First National bank. Mr. Squires, under the law has a right to delegate his power by notification that the work is being done by the bank, but he is the one that is bonded and the one who is named as collector.
In the case of the city collector, that is an appointive office, the appointment can be made of a bank employee as a collector and he in turn has the right to name a bank as his agent which will probably be done.

Banquet Tonight
The second annual banquet of the Every Mother's Club will be held this evening in the dining room of the Rockville Baptist church at 6:30 o'clock. The committee in charge have made a great effort to make this banquet a big success and have left no stone unturned. Mrs. Ernest W. Robinson will act as mistress of ceremonies.
Mrs. Robert F. Gadd, president of the Hartford Woman's Club, will be the principal speaker of the evening and will take for her subject
"Women's Obligations in Civic Affairs." Invitations have been issued to the visiting and school nurses and the pastors of the various churches will be present and will give remarks during the course of the program.
A roast beef and salmon loaf dinner will be served by the ladies of the church after which the following program will be presented:

CROSEN, HIT BY AUTO, NEAR DEATH
Cheney Worker Has Fractured Skull; Woman Believed Hit-Run Victim.

Four accidents, two of them
more or less serious, occurred in Manchester yesterday.
Physicians today held out no
hope for the recovery of Elijah Crosen, 52, of 22 Russell street, who was taken to the Memorial hospital yesterday at one o'clock after being thrown from his bicycle in an accident at the corner of Park and Chestnut streets. The attending physician has determined that Mr. Crosen has a fracture at the base of the skull.
The injured man was unconscious
when he was taken to the hospital, immediately after the accident and has been in that condition ever since.
The accident occurred during the driving rainstorm, just before 1 o'clock. Crosen, who is a brother-in-law of Judge William S. Hyde, was bicycling to his work at the Cheney mills. He was crossing the intersection of Park street on Chestnut street when his bicycle was hit by a Ford car driven by Bernard Fogarty, 20, of 111 Ridge street.
The rear wheel of Crosen's bicycle was struck by the automobile and its rider thrown heavily to the ground, striking on his head. Fogarty is said to have told police that he was watching another coming in an opposite direction on Chestnut street and that the bicycle approached unnoticed by him.
The car which Fogarty was driving, a Ford coupe, is owned by Albert Grazel of Summer street. It is understood that the car is insured as to liability.
Found in Road
The police today were still working on the case of Mrs.
Rose Thibodeau, 46, of 811 East Middle Turnpike, who was found lying on that street near the home of Captain Herbert Bissell last night, apparently having been run down by a hit-and-run automobile driver.
At first it was thought that Mrs.
Thibodeau was seriously injured and it was feared that she had suffered a broken leg. Subsequent examinations at the Memorial hospital, to which she was taken, disclosed that the leg is only badly bruised. X-ray pictures were taken this morning.
Mrs. Thibodeau had probably been lying on the street in the downpour for about five minutes before she was found by Joseph Downing and taken to the Memorial hospital. Mrs. Herbert Bissell telephoned for the police and an investigation was started. Motorcycle Policeman Rudolph Wirtala was detailed to the case but until noon today had arrived at no solution of the accident.
Mrs. Thibodeau, it is said, knows nothing of what happened to her,
and does not remember leaving her home. It is thought that she was the victim of an attack of temporary aphasia and was struck by a car as she walked along the road.
Main Street Collision
A smashed radiator, bent fender and the loss of four quarts of cream were the damages in a crash at Main street near the Johnson block.
Ralph Vondeck of 1109 East Middle Turnpike had come out of a parking place and had turned to go down Main street. A milk truck owned by Wayland Straugh was also coming down Main street and the two machines came together.
Nobody was injured and both drivers, who are insured, agreed to let their respective insurance companies take up the matter.
Truck Hits Newshy
Kenneth Rogers, a Herald newsboy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers of 27 Russell street, was hit by a truck owned by the South Manchester Laundry, driven by Peter Jackmore, and injured slightly at 4:40 yesterday afternoon in front of the Weldon block.
The boy was riding north on his bicycle and the truck was pulling in to have its gas tank filled at the

RUTH IS PREPARING TO RETURN TO U. S.

Paris, Nov. 4.—Ruth Elder, was busy today with trunks and gowns.
A Frenchman, a Parisian, was packing up to go home, and found to her chagrin that her purchases in Paris are going to make her luggage on the homeward trip a good deal more bulky than that she had brought with her when she stopped off in Lincoln. Long flights on one of the most adventuresome
trans-Atlantic flights of the season.
Miss Elder and her pilot, George Haldeman, will take a boat train for Cherbourg early tomorrow morning, sailing tomorrow afternoon on the Aquitania.
Although her visit in Paris has been an continual round of social functions arranged in her honor, Miss Elder admitted today that the biggest "kick" she has had out of the entire visit was her brief night
over Paris yesterday morning.

KILLS HIS FRIEND

Bridgeport Man Stabbed to Death For Making a Remark.
Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 4.—A street corner brawl that resulted in the death of James Reynolds, 33,
at his home last night today caused Thomas Curran, 55, to be locked up without bail on a charge of first degree murder.
Police say that Curran has confessed he stabbed Reynolds in the right side, at South and Myrtle avenues, when Reynolds made some remarks about Curran's son that the father resented.
According to police, Reynolds went to his home after he was ab-bed, exclaimed to his wife, "Tom Curran got me," and fell over,
dead.
Detectives went to Curran's home
and found him reading.
Coroner John J. Phelan will hold an inquest into the affair tomorrow.

Steamer Sinks Smaller Vessel
In Australian Harbor; Many Children Among Victims.
Sydney, Australia, Nov. 4.—Forty-six persons dead and many injured was believed today to be the toll of the marine disaster here yesterday when the steamer Tahiti
rammed and sank the ferryboat Greycliff (carrying more than 150 passengers).
Nineteen bodies have been recovered and twenty-two persons were still missing.
That many aboard the Greycliff were trapped before having a chance to escape was revealed by divers who reported they saw bodies in the cabins of the ferryboat which lies in sixty feet of water at the bottom of the harbor.
Many of the victims after being thrown into the water by the crash were manly by the Tahiti's propellers.
The Tahiti, bound for San Francisco, hit the Greycliff squarely amidships, cutting it in two. Many of the ferry's passengers were children on their way to school.
KEPT REAL SALOON
Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 4.—The autoducy of the thing was remarkable," said Henry White, prosecuting attorney, to Judge James R.
Mead in Town Court today when the case of Benjamin Dewey, of Cos Cob, was called. The prosecutor pointed out that Dewey was conducting an old-fashioned saloon in a local hotel building, and police found two half-barrels of beer, thirty bottles of other liquors and a quantity of other beverage. Dewey was fined $500 and costs and sent

UNIONVILLE FOLKS
WARNED BY PHONE

Farmington Operators Stay Up
All Night When River Overflows Banks.
Farmington, Conn., Nov. 4.—
Three telephone girls spent a night of terror here without thought of their own danger to warn residents along the Farmington river to flee from a flood that appeared to be likely to sweep through this section. With water creeping ever higher about the telephone exchange the girls stuck to their task until daylight and then insisted on still remaining at work.
The operators were Mrs. Mabel Payne, night operator; Miss Viola Lauretta, and Miss Anna R. McCa-hill, chief operator.
Mrs. Payne, on duty alone in the telephone exchange, received the news that the west branch of the Farmington river was out of its banks, and likely to take heavy toll of life. Miss McCahill and Miss Lauretta, hearing the news, rushed to the office to aid.
At ten p. m. every whistle and bell in Unionville was put into action. The telephone girls took a list of every subscriber along the possible path of the flood, and called each subscriber until someone answered. Most of the district had gone to bed.
Many houses were badly damaged by water. Over two feet of water was in the streets of both Union-ville and Farmington this afternoon, and the telephone exchange appeared to be an island in a lake.
Close to the exchange a family was rescued just before noon.

members of state legislatures de-

the one responding to a sentiment among Congressmen, for breaking up accumulated fortunes of indi-states to levy an inheritance tax in

HELP THE COMMUNITY CLUB CAMPAIGN!

Help the Manchester Community Club Raise the Funds For Recreation For Our Young Folks

Help Our Own Neighborhood

This is our town. The North End is the section in which we are residing. Most of us intend to live here, rear our families here, and in all probability spend all of our remaining years here. Now then, if WE don't help develop our own neighborhood, WHO WILL?

No better service can be rendered our neighborhood than to promote a live, energetic, progressive Community Club. Hundreds of other New England towns are now doing this very thing. They are financing their community clubs year after year. They do it because they find that funds spent in the upbuilding of young manhood and womanhood means money well spent.

Back Up Recreation Leaders

You often hear the man in the street say: "Can't we do something to help along the North End?" Right here is an ideal way of helping the North End very substantially. Contribute to the Manchester Community Club's financial campaign.

Every community and every movement must have leadership. The Manchester Community Club represents leadership at the North End in promoting recreation for our young folks and the grown-ups. It has a commodious club house and many acres of beautiful grounds right in the heart of the town.

Back up this leadership. Support the organization. By doing this, you will be helping your own neighborhood and your own community, and will help to make the Community Club house more attractive and more suitable for its activities.

Community Center a Necessity

Community centers are now considered necessities by all enlightened communities. Educational and religious leaders, city officials and business men bear testimony to the value of wholesome recreation for children and adults. Experience has proven that recreation diminished delinquency, aids health, and increases personal efficiency.

When you help the Manchester Community Club you are providing a means of recreation for yourself and quite likely for hundreds who have no such opportunities for pleasure as you have. You give to hundreds, recreation that is denied them now. Isn't that building for the future—helping make satisfied, happy citizens?

Be Ready When Called Upon

Assurances reach the Executive Committee to this effect: "Everybody we have spoken to intends giving to the Community Club Fund." The North End manufacturers and business men have set a generous example. Let's follow them.

The canvass for funds will commence Monday, November 7. Be ready when the committee calls on you. Several generous gifts have already been assured. These will be recorded and acknowledged in The Herald.

With a stock more comprehensive than the old time general store and as up to date as it is possible to be the new Green store, selling articles pressed from five cents to a dollar, will open in the Cheney block tomorrow morning at 9:30. The store is located where George W. Smith's clothing store was formerly.

This is the thirty-second store of the Green chain, and the last of five which have been opened in this section of the country since August. T. B. Walsh, general manager of the chain, who has been in Manchester to get the store in readiness for the opening, says that he will open four more stores between now and December 15.

The new store will be operated under the management of Charles J. Murphy of Portland, Me., and Edward E. Brook of Dubuque, Iowa. The former will be the manager and the latter the assistant. With the exception of these two the employees will be local people.

The store has a frontage of 50 feet on Main street and is 120 feet deep. An addition was placed on the rear of the location when the Smith store was being made over and a

There is plenty of light both natural and artificial, in the new store. The showcases are of the latest type and all of the merchandise is displayed to its best advantage.

The Green stores have been operating under the present corporation for four years, with H. G. Kittinger as the president of the concern. Mr. Kittinger is also president of the H. G. Kittinger company, a similar organization which is a subsidiary to the Green company.

MILLION SURPLUS DEER WORRY TO PENNSYLVANIA

Protection For Game Has Permitted Big Herds to Become Menace.

Harrisburg, Pa.—What is to be done with 1,000,000,000 surplus deer?

That question is causing the Pennsylvania Game Commission a lot of worry, not to mention a deluge of letters and some thousand proposed solutions.

On the basis of careful reports made by game protectors in the deer districts, the Game Commission decided early in the year that there are approximately 1,300,000 more deer in Pennsylvania than are necessary.

The condition arose because almost since the commission has functioned the killing of deer has been punishable with a fine of 100 perfectly good dollars or the same amount of days in jail.

During the last decade the commission has carried on a ceaseless campaign urging protection of the deer and pointing the finger of scorn at the men who violated the law.

Hunters Educated
Old hunters to whom a deer was a deer and not a buck, fully antlered, or a doe, gradually came over to the commission's viewpoint. The hunter who shot a doe came to be looked upon as a man who would kill a "kind faced cow" in pasture or dynamite a trout pool.

As a result each year several hundred thousand hunters searched the mountains for bucks and permitted the does to escape. A few were killed in mistake but not enough to prevent a steady increase in the female deer population. Good crops and good deer country seldom go together. As the deer multiplied, the farmers suffered. Reports of damage usually came from sections of the state where heavy crops are scarce and raising of food supplies are difficult.

Farmers in these sections became so insistent in their demands that the deer population be decreased that the commission opened certain counties or sections of them to the legal killing of deer. A special license was necessary and each hunter was limited to one doe.

At the last session of the legislature the commission sponsored a plan which would have opened practically the entire state to the shooting of does. Organizations of sportsmen opposed the bill and it failed of passage.

Forced to Action
Forced to take action of some kind to reduce the number of deer, the commission decided to send expert marksmen into the deer country and permit them to kill an unlimited number of does. As in the case of does illegally killed, the carcasses were to be turned over to hospitals.

The action of the commission immediately divided the state's sportsmen into two camps. One side favored the plan but the other opposed it just as vigorously. Men who had never shot a doe decided that if the killing of them was to be put on a slaughter-shop basis with the hospitals getting the meat, then the fellows who had been buying hunting licenses for ten years ought to be given the privilege of gilling them. Part of the opposition was based on an old time hunter's worry that hospital staffs and not the patients profited from the meat sent to the institutions.

Most of the opposition to the plan came from unorganized hunters for the average organization did not dare to change its position and precepts regarding the slaughter of does. The only way in which such hunters favored allowing those who wanted to kill does to be given the permission was with the proviso that the names of all such hunters be made public.

TO START 2ND SERIES REC SWIMMING LESSONS

The first series of swimming lessons for women at the School Street Recreation Center has been concluded and another will begin next week Tuesday. The series which has just closed was largely attended and many who previously were unable to swim have now made remarkable progress under the tutelage of Associate Director, Miss Ruth M. Calhoun.

The following schedule will be observed by the new swimming class: 7:00-7:45, beginners' class; 7:45-8:30, intermediate class; 8:30-9:30, life-saving class. Thursday night's schedule is as follows: 7:00-7:45, swimming team practice; 7:45-8:30, advanced class; 8:30-9:15, private class.

In a form letter sent out to all women who have been taking swimming instruction at the Rec, Miss Calhoun expresses the hopes that every one will enroll for the second series of lessons. Outsiders are also welcome. Miss Calhoun stresses the point that there is no such thing as, "I can't learn."

The first Thursday afternoon whist party was held at the School Street Rec yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The card parties will be continued through the winter months.

SETBACK SESSION AT COMMUNITY CLUB

Glenney and Jesperson Win Prizes For High Scores; Pumpkin Pie at Finish.

Going into the third week of the Community-Industrial Set Back tournament play was resumed at the "White House" last evening. The standings of the various teams went into fourth place from tenth of a week ago. Incidentally this team also turned in the highest individual team score of the evening. Glenney and Jesperson turning in 182. Two card tables were awarded them for their fine showing. The three teams that have maintained the one, two and three positions still hold their advantage with E. E. Hillard still first, Gammons, Holman Co., second; and Conn. Sumatra Co., third.

The E. E. Hillard Co. team served the men with home made pumpkin pie and coffee after the playing.

With but few points separating any of the teams interest is beginning to rise more to the fever point, in that, should any one team start sliding a general land slide would effect most of those involved with a result hard to figure.

Last evening leaves the team standings as below:

E. E. Hillard Co.	450
Gammons, Holman Co.	399
Conn. Sumatra Co.	388
Carlyl, Johnson Co.	382
Talcott Bros.	376
Business Men	375
Glastonbury Knit Co.	370
Co. No. 1 Firemen	368
Bon Ami	352
Improvement Club	351

REC CLASSES WILL ENTERTAIN GYMNASTS
All arrangements have been completed for the appearance at the School Street Rec tonight of a troupe of about forty gymnastic experts from the Hartford Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. A two-hour program will be presented, starting at 7:15. It will be followed by a dance, the music being furnished by a five-piece Manchester orchestra.

The Hartford athletes will be entertained at a luncheon served by the members of the Rec men's and women's gym classes after the program. Recreation Center officials hope that a large crowd will turn out to watch this worth-while affair. The program will include fancy marching, Indian and wand club drilling, feats on the parallel and horizontal bars and pyramid building.

SUNDAY AND THE MOVIES

As Manchester citizens are to be invited to express their views on the Sunday afternoon opening of moving picture houses before the Board of Selectmen it is fair to say that such expressions of opinion ought to be made with an intelligent understanding of the situation.

It is already legal to open the movie houses Sunday evenings. The Legislature has authorized municipal governments to grant or withhold the right to open in the afternoon. By its attitude the General Assembly has freed the institution of the photoplay of any possible charge of inherent evil, since it has endorsed the movie as a proper enough thing while it has acknowledged the right of the communities, if they choose, to prohibit its exhibition on Sunday afternoons. This is a mere yielding to the decision of the local community on a matter of good taste and expediency.

The point is that the action of the Legislature precludes any assertion that the Sunday afternoon moving picture show is a wicked or debauching thing. It had been considered so by the law-making body of the state, the local option to permit it could not and would not have been granted.

In this situation, then, it comes up to the Selectmen of Manchester to discover whether the Sunday movie is offensive to more people than desire it, or is desired by more people than are opposed to it. Whether, being a perfectly lawful thing, it is still a thing that the town of Manchester, guided by the religious, ethical and sociological views of its citizens, wants to countenance.

The forthcoming hearing, then, is for the purpose of developing mass opinion from these angles, and from these angles only.

One very important point, it seems to us, lies in the perfectly obvious fact that there is no proposal anywhere to compel anybody to attend a Sunday movie show. The proposal is only to permit those to attend who want to attend. There is, therefore, absolutely nothing coercive about advocacy of the proposed shows.

This is a little more than can be said, perhaps, for the opposition to the project, if opposition there is or shall arise, because those who oppose the opening of the theatres will, as a matter of fact, be seeking to coerce those who would like to go to the movies into remaining away.

In other words opposition to the proposal must arise from a disposition to regulate the conduct of others—which is something that, in order to be justified, ought to have the soundest of sound reasons behind it.

And there is no unanimity of opinion anywhere as to the soundness of Sunday particularism. There are a good many differing opinions about what is often so mistakenly called "Sabbath breaking." Blackstone, the great legal authority, utterly condemned the phrase as inaccurate and meaningless.

The Sabbath was, of course, the rest-day of the Jews; for healing the sick upon it Jesus of Nazareth was accused of violating it; for pulling ears of corn upon it his disciples were execrated as law-breakers. But, oddly enough, it was not, even with the Jews, an essentially religious day, but rather a day of cessation from labor and of the study of the Rabbinical law.

prohibitory practices of the old Hebrew Sabbath, it certainly could not apply to Sunday. For Sunday, though from earliest Christian times noted by the faithful as the day of the resurrection, gained no standing as a day of rest or exclusive religious observance until the Constitution of Constantine, in 363 A. D., enacted that all courts of justice, inhabitants of towns and workshops were to be at rest on Sunday—and that did not apply to the people of the farms.

Sunday, then, is a day gradually chosen by the Christian peoples for the exercise of religious duties and, for rest—beginning hundreds of years after the death of the Savior—and with no more foundation in Divine law than any other custom grown up through the centuries since Calvary.

The Sabbath that the Commandment abjures mankind to keep holy is not Sunday. It is Saturday. And any representation that the opening of a picture house or the doing of any other thing not inherently wrong on that day is in defiance of Divine authority is historically incorrect and injuriously untrue.

Whether Manchester decides for or against Sunday afternoon movies translates itself into a question of sheer policy and good taste. To open them would certainly conflict with no authoritative mandate, either human or Divine.

IT'S CATCHING

New York has a pending constitutional amendment providing for a four-year term for governor and fixing the term so that the election of governor and that of President of the United States will be held on the same day.

Mr. Charles H. Sabin, Republican national committee chairman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic state committee woman, held a radio debate on the proposed amendment a day or two ago. Mrs. Roosevelt held that frequent elections were necessary in order to keep the public's interest in public affairs alive, and declared that the state of New York should not be controlled by people who are willing to vote only once in four years.

Mr. Sabin, on the other hand, contended that to ask certain classes of persons to go to the polls oftener than once in four years was to impose undue hardship. She listed seafaring and railroad men, actors and actresses, people in scattered universities, compulsory travelers of many kinds.

We should say that the debate between these two estimable and highly capable women was pretty close to a draw. Also we take the liberty of suggesting that it consisted largely of hunk—because, as a matter of fact, Mrs. Sabin really favors the four-year simultaneous elections because she believes they would help the Republican party in New York state and Mrs. Roosevelt actually opposes them because they would hurt the Democratic party, and neither of them for any other reason.

If there is one thing lamentably scarce in our party politics it is complete candor. Even the best of the women politicians have learned how to say something other than they mean.

HARTFORD TRAFFIC

Hartford continues to wear the dubious laurels of the leading city in the state in the number of its automobile accidents. Seventy-two such mishaps in a week, compared to fifty-seven for New Haven and fifty-two for Bridgeport, constitute a record scarcely to be accounted for either on the ground of greater traffic or that of peculiarly distressing conditions of street layout.

It strikes the outsider that one large contributing factor to the extraordinary number of motoring accidents in the Capitol city is the almost constant fussing over traffic regulations that goes on. In their efforts to better traffic conditions the city authorities have succeeded in keeping them in something very like a tangle, so that drivers are bewildered and nobody, either motorist or pedestrian, half the time knows his rights or his duties. It would seem as though a reasonably bad traffic system that was well understood would produce less trouble than a succession of slightly better ones that are not understood at all.

found that the German rails are far inferior to those produced in this country and that their purchase, even at a considerably lower price, was a costly experiment.

There has been not a little speculation as to just how far the German and Italian efforts to capture world trade through an intensive campaign of low production costs and correspondingly low prices might affect certain American industries in their home market.

Principal among the industries that it was thought might be affected was the great basic one of steel.

If the experience of the B. & M. has really been as discouraging as reported, it would seem that, in one extremely important line, at least, the threatened invasion of foreign products was the march of a bogey army.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The news that Gene Tunney, the gentleman prize-fight champion, had conceivably certain options about becoming an ambassador after he retires, upset the very best people have patronized the intellectual Mr. Tunney, and many of our very best people are right here in the State Department.

It almost appeared as if some of these gentlemen didn't take the idea very seriously. This was rather puzzling, for, as everyone knows, the very best people have patronized the intellectual Mr. Tunney, and many of our very best people are right here in the State Department.

One official was unkind enough to point out that the lowest grade of the foreign service has about 20 vacancies a year for which there are some 200 applicants. The applicants must take written, oral and physical examinations and it was admitted that Mr. Tunney ought easily to pass the physical examination. If he were lucky enough to obtain an appointment he would go on the payroll at $2400 a year and spend six or eight months in the Foreign Service school before being shipped off as a vice consul at Belize or Karachi.

Mr. Tunney, however, undoubtedly would depend upon a presidential appointment, for the way up through the ranks is long and arduous.

After the news about Tunney had happened to "draw you" for a few francs or a drink, I saw something other night with a face so sensitive and a manner so dignified that I was tempted to ask him what brought him to this polite form of beggary. When you look at most of these sketch-peddlers you know why they are doing it. They would be "pandering" if they didn't know how to draw a little.

To the Dome there come, from the world of letters, those young worshippers as the shrine of Joyce and Hemingway. And you will hear these names bandied about, for Hemingway—our most recent discovery, if you don't happen to know it—lived among the Montparnasseans, but did something about it. He has pictured them in at least one novel and a dozen short stories.

But the perpetual Domes go in for barbaric belts, weird blouses and weird dresses, strangely made up faces and strangely cut hair, eccentric ornament and—but you know what I mean.

And, sad but true, most of their numbers are gathered from our good cities of Brooklyn, San Francisco, Chicago, Kalamazoo and Sauk Center.

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris, Nov. 4.—Everybody's written about the Champs and the Arch and the Tower and the Tuilleries and Notre Dame and the Luxembourg.

All these guide book places are filled with yesterday's news. To catch some of the fragments today, you'll have to cross the bridge to the left bank of the Seine, and, driving up the Boulevard Montparnasse, get off at the Cafe Dome.

The Cafe Dome is everything that Greenwich Village aspired to but never achieved. The Cafe Dome is what Greenwich Village might have been if it hadn't been located in a part of the world where enough people had a sense of humor. Not that the French lack a sense of humor; they smile at the Dome as quickly as the next fellow. But their code of minding their own business causes them merely to shrug their shoulder, whereas America would pass the news all around and josh the place to death—pretty much as it did the Village.

In the Dome you will find all the villagers who fled when the barbers moved in. And you will find a brand new crop. Sad as it is to report, the Dome is made up largely of Americans who wouldn't dare appear within fifty miles of Maine as quickly as the next fellow. But when they sit sipping "cafe fins" on the sidewalk.

Here it is you will find Jimmy Jones of Des Moines wearing his hair well over his collar and his collar well over his shoulders. The Lord Rutherford went out of style.

The third member of the party will probably be Maggie Smith, from Denver, Kansas City or Pittsburgh and she will be garbed in such attire as you have never beheld on land or sea. Of course, she is trying to "look artistic" and so is Jimmy from Des Moines and the fellow with the long ringlets.

For the Dome is in the heart of Montparnasse and Montparnasse is the heart of the Latin Quarter and the Latin Quarter is going to be "arty" no matter what happens.

Here, at breakfast hour and late into the night, gather all those young expatriates who have fled America to "find themselves" or to "express themselves" or to "live beautifully and freely." Let it be said for Montparnasse that there are as many young folk seriously trying to do this as there are weird exhibitionists.

Through the Dome, as through the Montmartre, wander more-or-less artists with sketch pads under their arms offering to "draw you" for a few francs or a drink. I saw one other night with a face so sensitive and a manner so dignified that I was tempted to ask him what brought him to this polite form of beggary. When you look at most of these sketch-peddlers you know why they are doing it. They would be "pandering" if they didn't know how to draw a little.

After that, Mr. Marriner had no fear whatever and single-handed he captured what turned out to be a pigeon. Secretary Kellogg and Undersecretary Olds being away, many foreign-service persons came in to see the pigeon and heard Mr. Marriner's story from his own lips.

The best minds of the department got together and decided that the pigeon must have come down the chimney into Mr. Marriner's office fireplace during the night. It belonged to the Monument City Course Association of Baltimore, according to a tag, and after everyone had seen it it was released and set on its way again, bearing a message of greeting from the winner of the State Department's prize for the six best reasons why we are in Nicaragua, to the winner of Baltimore's last annual oyster-calling tournament.

Mr. Marriner expresses the opinion that the fact that the pigeon came down his chimney had no important significance.

Motor vehicle laws in Wisconsin allow only three adults in the front seat of any motor car. No person is allowed to ride on fenders, the hood, running board or any part of the car other than that part intended for riding purposes.

"What modern inventions have done most to help men up in the world" asks the one man. "The elevator and the alarm clock," replied the other man.

DENVER WILL HAVE A CLUB FOR WIDOWS. Denver.—With the vacating of the palatial Verner Z. ### TEAM WORKERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Captains and Canvassers in Community Club Drive to Get Final Instructions.

At the "White House," at 8 o'clock this evening, the thirty-six captains and canvassers who are to take part in the financial campaign of the Manchester Community Club will meet for final instructions.

Six teams were selected by the following captains: Mrs. Charles Loomis, Joseph Wright, Miss Mary E. McGuire, Robert K. Anderson, James W. Foley and Robert M. Reid. Practically all of these captains have had experience in Memorial Hospital campaigns, and they have selected as their assistants a corps of young men and women who are accustomed to work of this kind in public.

Reasons for Giving.

Following out the lines suggested by the executive committee, the captains are instructing their workers on the important points to which attention should be directed regarding the objects of the recreation work of the Community Club.

The points stressed are as follows: Health, education, work, religion, all the great forces making for well-balanced living are constant daily factors. Recreation as one of these great forces cannot be on any other than a year-round basis. If we are to have a normal, healthy community, everyone needs relaxation, to offset the strain of daily work, and a share in the community's recreational life to satisfy his natural craving for championship. For most of us work continues throughout the year. For which recreation and throws off the fatigue of the day must go hand in hand with work, twelve months in the year.

Recreation Essential.

"Recreation is essential to the life and growth of the child, and children grow every day, not merely during the summer which fits the conclusion that might be drawn from the arguments of those who maintain children need playgrounds only in June, July and August. Play means growth. The responsibility of the community to the child requires the provision of safe places in which to play, and of leadership which will produce maximum results in health and citizenship through play. A year-round recreation system guarantees children their birthright of health and happiness.

Like juvenile delinquency adult wastefulness knows no time or season and what is done to prevent it is as necessary in winter as in summer. It is reported that $500,000,000 are invested in prisons in the United States and the annual expense of their maintenance is $200,000,000. The increase in losses paid by burglary insurance companies was 543 per cent. in five years, the total amount expended in one year for this purpose reaching $10,189,853. Year-round recreation is a constant force to prevent such evil, and by providing wholesome companionship and worthy pursuits for people to do, prevents much of the wrong sort of recreation, leading to crime.

People, through the year-round program, are given a chance for self-expression and companionship, which no other agency in a community can give as well and for so many. The seriousness of these needs is shown by the fact that of eight hundred persons charged with delinquency in a large city during the last year, five hundred attributed their misery to loneliness and a lack of something to do.

Record of 800 Cities.

Last year almost 800 cities conducted year-round recreation in charge of workers employed the year round. If year-round recreation did not pay, if it were not an asset, would these cities be spending money, providing facilities, employing workers and setting up machinery for activities which do not bring returns? Each year more cities are putting their recreation on the year-round basis; each year more public funds are being spent. These facts are significant testimony to the value of the year-round recreation system. Our town, as much as these 800 others, needs this program for civic happiness and efficiency.

Going to Yale Game. Final plans are fast taking shape for the transportation of the new Community Club Boy Scout troop to the Yale-Maryland game at New Haven to-morrow. The troop will gather at the Community Club at 10:30 sharp reporting to Director Waaburn who will assign each boy to an adult leader. Each boy must bring with him a written permission from his parents to go with the troop, under no condition must this permission be overlooked by those who intend to go. Nothing else necessary will be needed with the exception perhaps of a little spending money for lunch in New Haven. Those who care to bring lunches may do so. Should the weather prove to be threatening before the start, slicker and other rainy day necessities will of course be necessary.

Although the troop will leave Manchester behind for a day their civic pride is not wanting in that they will let the cities and country side through which they pass know where they come from. Three of the troop will carry banners 18 wide and some three feet long with the following information on them: Manchester, Conn. Chamber of Commerce, Manchester, Conn. Community Club, Manchester, Conn. Boy Scouts. Each of the twenty-four boys will wear a Yale blue tie which is to be donated by Cheney Bros. our leader manufacturer, of silk goods. The banners will be furnished by Secretary George Rix of the Chamber of Commerce.

The following boys will report at once to the Community Club relative to whether they can make the trip or not: "Buck" Jilison, Al Nakowski, Karl Nielsen, George Tatt, Robt. Taft, Newton Taggart, D. Murdock, Steve Nakowski, John Carey, William Miner, R. Lachapell, Oscar Anderson, Edgar Clark, Stewart Hyde, C. Christenson, Arnold Clark, John McCarthy, Fred Baker, D. Harrington, Arthur Galinat, R. Nielsen, John Mickollet, Leslie Erickson, Walter Obremski.

CYCLONE OF SUSPENSE WITH MIX AT RIALTO

A plot of villainy and intrigue woven around a gang of the most notorious cattle-rustlers in the west is the theme of the new Tom Mix production for Fox Films, "Tumbling River" which plays the cozy Rialto tonight and to-morrow with another six-reeler, "The Cruel Truth," another chapter of "Fighting For Fame" Fox News reel and the re-appearance of Edward I. Boyle, blind musician—all for the same popular price of ten and fifteen for matinee, ten and fifteen for evenings.

A pair of evil and thievish far back in the rugged places of the mountains, by the light of a flickering fire, is where these sinister men play all of their deeds to fleece the country of its finest cattle and thoroughbred horses.

Around such a menace this blazing Mix story of the west was laid, bringing in all of the high lights for which the west is noted—hazardous rides, hard fighting, and quick shooting, and Tom unfolds to his public an entire repertoire of new thrillers.

Tom is more than suited for this particular type of role, because he spent several years of his life as a Ranger in Texas and a deputy marshal in Kansas and Oklahoma. During these years he was running down everything from gunmen and illicit liquor traffic in Mexico to cattle thieves of no uncertain character and means.

With Mix in this production are Dorothy Dwan, William Conklin, Stella MacDonald, Buster Gardner, Harry Gripp, and others. Lew Seiler directed the production.

Sunday, Ronald Coleman plays here in "The Magic Flame." The picture will remain Monday and Tuesday.

ARCTIC YIELDS RARE SPECIMENS FOR SCIENTISTS

Fricke Expedition Finds Long Journey Profitable For Carnegie Museum.

Pittsburgh—Without a guide, having only maps and a compass to guide them, and enduring untold hardships hardly believable an expedition led by Reinhold L. Fricke, taxidermist of the Carnegie Museum of this city, returned recently from a trip into the sparsely populated country of Northern Alberta, Canada, which lies along the Great Slave Lake, bringing back with them 300 mounted rare birds, 59 mounted small animals and 15 sets of rare eggs. This collection, said to be the only one of its kind in this country, has been added to the Museum.

3,000 Mile Trip.

The expedition, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Raup, botanists of the University of Pittsburgh, Miss Katherine Raup and, Fricke, began their rather unusual trip last May from Port Smith, Alberta. Their almost three thousand mile trip was made by boat, canoe and train, Fricke said.

Fricke explained in order to procure his specimens he had to work fast as the birds had already begun migrating from the lake when the party arrived. He said he was forced to work from 5 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 at night to be able to shoot and mount his birds, skins and pelts.

Wicked Mosquitoes.

Long head nets had to be worn during the day to guard against the voraciousness of mosquitoes that infest that country in the summer and whose sting, Fricke said, he has never seen before, the insects being larger than the famous New Jersey breed.

Black flies are also plentiful, Fricke asserted and swarm in such numbers that some times they obliterate the sun. The mercury sometimes reached 106 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Great Slave Lake district is sparsely inhabited, according to Fricke. Indians are the only natives. This country boasts of a weekly train. Gasoline costs $3 a gallon and "fags" are sold at 50c a package. The days are 20 hours long in summer.

GOOD OPENING FOR A COAL YARD.

Visitor: They say it's just pretty cold here.

Native: See that statue of Lincoln over there with his hand on the negro's head? Well, last winter it got so cold here that he stuck his hand in his pocket to keep it from freezing.

TOO MANY TIRE SIZES.

According to a recent bulletin, there are 71 tire sizes now in use by automobiles, trucks and busses throughout the United States. Thirty-four of these sizes are in balloon tires and the remaining 37 are high pressure tires.

S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator

Miss St. Clair
"You expect her to tell us all this?"
"My hopes run high," returned Vance. "With her versey parrot gentile jangled as a self-confessed murderer, she will have nothing to lose by unburdening her soul. ... But we must have no blustering. Your police brand of aggressive cross-examination will, I assure you, have no effect upon her now do you propose to elicit your information?"
"With morbidness, as the painters say. Much more refined and gentlemanly, I know."
Markham considered a moment. "I think I'll keep out of it, and leave the Socratic element entirely to Vance."
An extraordinarily brilliant suggestion, said Vance.
When we arrived Markham announced over the house-telephone that he had come on a vital mission; and we were received by Miss St. Clair without a moment's delay. She was apprehensive, I imagine, concerning the whereabouts of Captain Leacock. As she sat before us in her little drawing-room the man of the Hudson, her face was quite pale, and her hands, though tightly clasped, trembled a little. She had lost much of her cold reserve, and there were unmistakable signs of sleepless worry about her eyes.
Vance went directly to the point. His tone was almost flippant in its lightness: it at once relieved the tension of the atmosphere, and gave an air bordering on inconsequence to our visit.
"Captain Leacock has, I regret to inform you, very foolishly confessed to the murder of Mr. Benson. But we are not entirely satisfied with his bona fides. We are, alas! awash between Scylla and Charybdis. We can not decide whether a chevroned sword or a revolver, or some other weapon, is the dark deed in a bit sketchy; he is vague on certain essential details; and what's most confusing—he turned the lights off in Benson's hideous living-room by a switch which positively doesn't exist."
"Consequently, the suspicion has crept into my mind that he has concocted this tale of derring-do in order to shield someone whom he really believes guilty."
He indicated Markham with a slight movement of the head.
"The District Attorney here does not wholly agree with me. But then, d'ye see, the legal mind is incredibly rigid and unresponsive once it has been invaded by a notion.

THIS HAS ... ENDED Vance prevents Markham from attacking Leacock when Pfyfe's statements strengthen the case against the captain. It is brought out that Pfyfe had forged Alvin Benson's name to a check. Paula Banning admits having loaned Pfyfe her jewels to get up with Vance as secretary. Leacock confesses the confession to Brenda, explaining it as a lie to protect Miss St. Clair.

CHAPTER XLV
(Wednesday, June 19, 4:30 p. m.)
THE quest for enlightenment upon which we are now embarked, said Vance, as we rode up town, "may prove a bit tedious. But you must exert your will-power, and bear with me. You can't imagine what a tedious task I have on my hands. And it's not a pleasant one either. I'm a bit too young to be sentimental, and yet, d'ye know, I'm half inclined to let your culprit go."
"Would you mind telling me why we are calling on Miss St. Clair?" asked Markham resignedly.
Vance amiably complied.
"Not at all, indeed, I deem it best for you to know. There are several points connected with the lady that need elucidation. First, there are the gloves and the handbag. Nor poppy nor mandragora shall ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep which thou'st had yesterday until you have learned about those articles—eh, what?—Then, you recall, Miss Hoffman told us that the Major was leading an escort when a certain lady called upon Benson the day he was shot. I suspect that the visitor was Miss St. Clair; and I am rather curious to know what took place in the office that day, and why she came back later.
"Also, why did she go to Benson's for tea that afternoon? And what part did the jewels play in the chit-chat?—But there are other items. For example: Why did the Captain take his gun to her? What makes him think that Benson—? he really believes it, y'know. And why did she think that he was guilty from the first?"
Markham looked sceptical.

You will remember that, because you were with Mr. Alvin Benson on his last evening on earth, and for other reasons equally irrelevant and trivial, Mr. Markham actually concluded that you had had something to do with the gentleman's death.
He gave Markham a smile of waggish reproach, and went on: "Since you, Miss St. Clair, are the only person whom Captain Leacock would shield so heroically, and since I, at least, am convinced of your own innocence, will you not clear up for us a few of those points where your orbit crossed that of Mr. Benson? ... Such information cannot do the Captain or yourself any harm, and it very possibly will help to banish from Mr. Markham's mind his lingering doubts as to the Captain's innocence."
Vance's manner had an assuaging effect upon the woman; but I could see that Markham was boiling inwardly at Vance's animadversions on him, though he refrained from any interruption.
Miss St. Clair stared steadily at Vance for several minutes.
"I don't know why I should trust you, or even believe you," she said evenly; "but now that Captain Leacock has confessed,—I was afraid he was going to, when he last spoke to me,—I see no reason why I should not answer your questions, if you truly think he is innocent."

The question was like an involuntary cry: her pent-up emotion had broken through her carapace of calm.
"I truly do," Vance avowed soberly. "Mr. Markham will tell you that before we left his office I pleaded with him to release Captain Leacock. It was with the hope that your explanations would convince him of the wisdom of such a course, that I urged him to come here."
Something in his tone and manner seemed to inspire her confidence.
"What do you wish to ask me?" she asked.
Vance cast another reproachful glance at Markham, who was restraining his outraged feelings only with difficulty; and then turned back to the woman.
"First of all, will you explain how your gloves and hand-bag found their way into Mr. Benson's house? Their presence there has been preying most distressingly on the District Attorney's mind."
She turned a direct, frank gaze upon Markham.
"I dined with Mr. Benson at his invitation. Things between us were not pleasant, and when we started for home, my resentment of his attitude increased."
"At Times Square I ordered the chauffeur to stop—I preferred returning home alone. In my anger and my haste to get away, I must have dropped my gloves and bag. It was not until Mr. Benson had driven off that I realized my loss, and having no money, I walked home. Since my things were found in Mr. Benson's house, he must have taken them there himself."
"Such was my own belief," said Vance. "And—my word!—it's a deucedly long walk out here, what?"
He turned to Markham with a tantalizing smile.
"Really, y'know, Miss St. Clair couldn't have been expected to reach here before one."
Markham, grim and resolute, made no reply.
"An—now," pursued Vance, "I should love to know under what circumstances the invitation to dinner was extended."
(To Be Continued)

BANANA WINS WAY OUT OF SUSPECTED CLASS
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.
The banana has forced its way out of the foods looked upon with suspicion to the group that men consider the staples of the human dietary.
For people in many tropical countries it is the chief source of carbohydrate or sugar in the diet. This fruit is now abundant, easily obtained and available at a moderate cost.
Because of the skin that covers it, the banana reaches the purchaser in a clean condition. It is easily peeled and therefore readily eaten under any circumstances. It requires no cooking, but it may be prepared in a number of ways to add variety to its taste.
Water and Heat
A comparison made by the United States Department of Agriculture shows that the banana has 75.3 per cent of water as against 78.3 per cent for the potato, 1.3 per cent protein as against 2.5 per cent for the potato, 0.8 per cent fat as against 0.1 per cent, 22.0 per cent carbohydrate as against 18.4 per cent for the potato and 0.8 per cent mineral matter as against 1.0 per cent.
The banana provides about 460 calories as against 385 calories for the potato. The 460 calories per pound provided by the banana may be compared with 290 calories for

THE WOMAN'S DAY

Blanche Bates Creel shows the most sensible viewpoint I have ever heard or read on this much ballyhooed subject of the modern girl. Mrs. Creel bluntly states that girls are no different today than they were 50 or 100 years ago but that mothers are. The mother who once said "no" and meant it, is too lazy or busy today and it's too much of a job to battle youth's desires, so she kids herself with glib phrases about "child freedom" and "the child's self-expression." Boiling it all down, Blanche Bates says that if today's mothers had any of the same intestinal qualities which their own mothers had, if they were sterner than upstart youth, and dared say "no" and mean it, we would have none of these child tragedies we hear so much about today.

Dishonor and Women
Are women without honor? A current magazine raises the question and tends to answer that they are. The author cites woman's fair for buying gowns and hats and coats on approval, wearing them to some particular party, and returning them the next day. The author reminds us that brokers won't take a woman's account if they can help it, because women won't stand their losses; that they can't stay in a club if some other woman excels them in honors, and that they are even dishonorable in their lavish use of artificial beauty. To all of which there seems no argument, unless one wants to take time to make a counter list of the male forms of dishonor, such as being a good sport in public and coming home to snarl at the wife.

Own Fault
There are 1100 members of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association, an organization "to create public sentiment, promote legislation and aid in litigation to stop gold diggers, crooked attorneys, perjurers, framing detective agencies from profiteering on their victims."
One might suggest to the 1100 that if they used as much judgment in picking wives as in buying cheese or a necktie they would need no membership in this protective association. A woman with alimony proclivities may be detected before marriage as well as after. Merely a case of being victims of their own bad bargains.

Who Wants Prodigy?
With the awarding to 14-year-old Nathalia Crane of Brooklyn of the $500 award for the best Laid-Bergh poem written by anyone, anywhere, an award which this child took away from poets of great renown, one can imagine many a fond mother soothing her jealous soul with a prayer of thanks that her child isn't "queen." I suppose a child prodigy in the home would be quite a thorn in the flesh though few parents would refuse a chance at one for fame and glory accruing from such an offspring.

How 'Bout Deserted Parents?

By Olive Roberts Barton

There are probably cases where it is temperamentally impossible for families to live together. If a battle royal is pulled off day after day and home becomes a ring for daily trouts, it may be the best thing that could happen for the disuniting sister or brother or both, if they are financially able, to take up their beds and walk.

It is also understandable, if a girl, prepared for some special work and who can find no field for her trained activity in her home town, to seek residence in another environment so she may earn her living.

But it is difficult to figure out the rather deliberate movement of present-day maidens to seek their own quarters, away from the parental roof, often in an apartment not two squares away from home, but, more than likely, on the other side of town.
I am afraid to criticize lest I join the ranks of scotchers who have ever stood in the path of woman's progress. But there are those among us, though we have marched right along with the crowd through the years, who have finally dropped by the wayside to watch the rest of the parade go by. And many of us are looking a bit bewildered and saying, "Haven't they gone far enough? Isn't there to be any stopping at?"
Most of these business or professional girls who keep up their own establishments, have no ulterior motive in segregating themselves. They seek freedom of thought and action, freedom to work and freedom to play in their own way. Morally they are as straight as strings.
But I am thinking of parents. Are they facing a future of mere biological usefulness during the teething and measles period, and of financial usefulness during the education age, merely to be cast aside like old shoes later on?
And the home? What is to become of it? If the home disintegrates I cannot see the end, can you?

CHANG TSO LIN NOT REAL NAME OF PEKING BOSS

Origin of New Dictator Questioned as Mystery Is Hinted.

Peking.—Was the man who today sits in the old Imperial Palace calling himself Marshal Chang Tso-lin Dictator of the Chinese Republic, born Chang Tso-lin? Or is the man who should rightfully have that name not one of the Dictator's military aides, and well cared for retainer?

This burning question has again come to the fore with the death of the grand old man of North China, Chao Erh-shun, at the age of eighty-four. The great mystery may perhaps never be solved for the two persons most involved naturally have their lips sealed, but at least it will never cease to fascinate all students of human nature.

It was Chao Erh-shun, then viceroy of Manchuria under the Empire, who recommended to the throne—at the suggestion of the Japanese it is said—that Chang Tso-lin, leader of a guerilla band, be admitted into the regular army. That was done and eventually Chang Tso-lin became military governor of Manchuria.

Aided in War
This recommendation of Viceroy Chao came about through the excellent services rendered by the bandit leader Chang Tso-lin while fighting on the Japanese side during the Russo-Japanese war.

That much of the story is confirmed by record and is therefore the least interesting part of the Chang Tso-lin mystery. The thrill comes in the often repeated version in that Chang Tso-lin upon receiving the instructions of the throne to come to Peking to be commissioned into the Imperial Army, feared a plot to effect his capture. He thereupon induced the man who now rules the Peking government to go to Peking in his name.

The impersonating Chang Tso-lin was taken into the army from which time his star rose rapidly until his authority over a large part of China is absolute today.

Having fooled the authorities to such an extent the real Chang Tso-lin could not remain and the fraud had to stand with the result that the man for whom the honor was intended gradually shifted to the background. The story may be a pure myth but on the other hand there are certain features which give it credence.

No Real Data
In the first place any real data about the origin and early life of Marshal Chang Tso-lin is practically nil. Secondly, Marshal Chang has always had the good care of Generalissimo Chiang-wei the man who according to the story refused to go to Peking and thereby had to permanently sacrifice his right to the name Chang Tso-lin.

General Chang Hing-wei in 1922 while commanding a very strategic part of Chang Tso-lin's lines in the war against Wu Pei-fu, gave way thereby losing the war and Peking. Instead of inflicting the usual punishment of decapitation, Chang Tso-lin kept Chang Hing-wei in his army and today he is a cabinet minister in the hand picked government of Dictator Chang.

Thus Dictator Chang Tso-lin's solitudo as Generalissimo Chang Hing-wei would seem to indicate some deep seated obligation such as might arise out of gratitude for the change of name and position. Like wise Dictator Chang has always shown greatest respect and gratitude to the old Manchurian Viceroy Chao Erh-shun. He bestowed honor and position upon him and now that he is dead offers his memory the greatest reverence.

FIRE IN NEW YORK POSTPONES "REVELS"

Parsons Theater Attraction Will Not Open in City Until Wednesday.

Harry Delmar's "Revels" a new revue scheduled to open at Parsons Theater, Hartford, Monday night for a week's engagement has been postponed until Wednesday night Nov. 8 because of a fire in New York City yesterday. Flames wiped out the O. K. Club in New York destroying a large stock of costumes and scenery. Work was started immediately on a new set so that the show can open two days late. It will play for the rest of next week.

"Wooden Kimona"
The reaction of audiences upon players in theaters has long been the subject of record and comment. But nowhere is this reaction as noticeable as in a mystery play, or a thriller of any kind, in dramatic form. And more pronounced than in any of the previous thrillers in this reaction in "Wooden Kimona," the attraction at Parsons the last half of this week.

The entire original cast as seen during the play's long and successful run at the Fulton Theater, New York, is in Hartford.

The gasps and squeals of start, always, by the time Leonora Harris, candle in hand, makes her entrance upon a darkened stage. Usually there is a buzz the instant the lights are dimmed out in the auditorium, and in such instances there is a sign of satisfaction goes through the members of the cast, waiting backstage to make their various entrances. They instinctively know their work is going to be greatly appreciated and put a greater effort into it—or rather a greater enthusiasm.

Clara Verdera the other evening was found in her dressing room holding her head between her hands and moaning. Asked the trouble she said: "Oh my goodness what a headache I have from the screaming out front." Here is a new angle to the acting profession—perhaps some branch of Lloyd's will issue insurance annuance from noisy audiences—in the future. When a long hand, drops, forth from some unlighted spot in the scenery the gasps, followed by screams can be heard far out into the street. Or when a shadowy figure creeps, in the dark, behind the line-keeper's wife, or a ghostlike figure flashes in the darkness of a chimney more screams pierce the air. Taken as a lung exercise "Wooden Kimona" is a howling success.

DUNDEE BOUT, 'FLOP'

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 4.—The boxing situation hereabouts was in a deplorable muddle today over the failure of Joe Dundee and Ace Hudkins to engage in their widely heralded welterweight championship bout at Rigley Field last night.

Upwards of 20,000 fans who had paid approximately $55,000 were in their seats patiently awaiting the appearance of Dundee, the titleholder.

But Dundee did not appear and the reason was that Max Waxman, his manager, wanted his $60,000 guarantee in cash before the champion entered the ring. Dick Donald, the promoter, did not have the "sixty grand" and seemed unable to get it.

Finally along about midnight, after two preliminaries had been run off and Hudkins, the challenger, had entered and withdrawn from the ring three different times, the crowd became unruly and threatened to riot. Then it was officially announced the fight was "off".

Whereupon Ace Hudkins claimed the welterweight championship of the world—on the ground that Dundee had refused to defend his title. The Baltimore Italian never did get as far as the ring.

What We Think In Sports

In these days when students of times give too much attention to athletics and not enough to education, it is particularly pleasing to note the splendid work being accomplished by Ludwig Hansen at the hardest school. One of the most popular boys at the school in addition to being quiet, modest and unassuming, young Hansen has earned himself the distinction of being on the A honor roll for the months of September and October, the thing which only seven other students in the school acquired. Last year, he won the coveted Harvard book prize offered junior high school students with the highest standing in scholarship as well as character. In addition, he was the hardest worker at the school. Hansen holds down the most important position on the school football team, quarterback, where he is also doing creditable work. He conducts himself as a gentleman, both on, and off the gridiron and is a most decided credit to the school. It is too bad there are not mere like him.

All Teams Compete Despite Deluge Outside; Only Two Dummy Scores; Cole, Suhle and Murphy High; 55 Scores Over 100.

That the newly organized Herald Bowling League will be a big success was assured last night when every one of the twelve teams engaged in matches despite the exceptionally bad weather which kept the streets deserted all night. It was necessary to use only two dummy scores. Generally speaking, the scores for the first night were not very high. Even so, 55 of the 174 scores were 100 or better.

High honors went to Ike Cole, Mike Suhle and Howard Murphy of the Masons. The former had the three string honors with 346 and the latter was only seven pins behind him. Suhle and Murphy were tied for the high single with 122 timbers. Two others who rolled high scores were Frank Anderson and Ernie Wilkie of the Cubs. The former, picked from the crowd to fill a vacancy, proved the hero of the night for his team, getting a three string total of 323. Incidentally, he made the first strike of the league. Wilkie's three string total was 328.

Tom Blair Plays For New Bedford

To clarify any misunderstandings about the acquisition of player Tom Blair by the American Soccer League, President Bill Cunningham has notified the Herald sports department as follows:

"When it was decided to disband the Hartford team, Mr. Sam Mark, owner of the Fall River Club, who had originally sold Blair to Hartford, produced a written agreement, signed by James Dewhurst, manager of the late Hartford team. This agreement stated in effect that in the case of the Hartford team disbanded, Blair was to return to the Fall River Club, and was dated August 22, 1927.

"From Mr. Alfred Rocheleau, holder of the Hartford franchise, it was ascertained that Dewhurst was authorized to negotiate for players at that time and enter into all agreements concerning them.

"In a conference with Secretary Dave Scott, held in the American League office October 23, with representatives of the Fall River, New Bedford and Hartford clubs, Mr. Dewhurst admitted having called the American League office some two weeks ago and stating to Secretary Scott that he had entered into the agreement with Mr. Mark in good faith.

"After hearing all the testimony in the case, the league secretary decided that, since Mr. Dewhurst had called him personally and had stated that the agreement signed with Mr. Mark concerning player Blair had been executed in good faith, the player became the property of Fall River. Mr. Mark, owner of the Hartford team, had disbandment of the Hartford team.

"Secretary Scott, anxious to have the controversy amicably settled, if possible, so that the New Bedford club would not be deprived of Blair's services in the important league game between New Bedford and Boston that afternoon, then asked the Fall River representative if he could not at that time reach an agreement with Mr. Rocheleau in order that Blair might be immediately registered as a New Bedford player.

"Mr. Albert Shay, the Fall River representative, made it clear that owner Mr. Sam Mark desired neither money nor the player but was merely insistent upon establishing the honesty of the agreement entered into between Mr. Mark and Dewhurst at the time of Blair's transfer from Fall River to Hartford. Mr. Shay stated that he had been empowered by Mr. Mark to turn the player over to New Bedford without any cash consideration in order to avoid any further misunderstanding over the matter.

"This was immediately done, the player participating in the New Bedford-Boston game a few hours after his registration had been officially accepted at league headquarters.

"All the stenographic testimony of the conference was later carefully reviewed by President Bill Cunningham and the League Secretary's decision officially ratified and the transfer made public.

Middletown, Nov. 4.—In a story appearing in a state paper yesterday it is reported that Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. ROCKVILLE BOXERS GOOD AND NO-GOOD

The Horn brothers of Rockville provided the high and the low spots on the boxing card of the Massachusetts Club last evening at Foot Guard hall in Hartford. Bill knocked out Bobby Freeman, of Hartford, in the first round and the cheers raised the roof. Next came Bob, his brother, and his wrestling and foot tactics so enraged the fans that the boss could be heard for blocks. The referee finally put him out of the ring after he had deliberately thrown his opponent. Troop six met at the South Methodist church Tuesday night, and twenty eight boys answered the roll call. The attendance is on the increase and there are only a few boys who have not reported for the fall activities. Two new members were admitted to the troop, having passed their tenderfoot tests successfully. They are Alton Judd and Walter Holman. The business meeting was held at the church at 12 o'clock, in scout uniform. Several games were held during the same period, in which there was very close competition. One or two new games were tried which went over very well. The meeting closed with the repeating of the scouts' oath and prayer and then each scout was requested to give the scoutmaster the scout hand clasp as he went out the door.

Scout Notes.
The Scoutmasters' meeting which was to be held last evening was cancelled till next Thursday when it will be held at the East Side Rec. This will be the annual meeting and officers will be elected for the coming year. There are many other things of interest to be brought up, which concern all of the troops, and each scoutmaster and assistant should be present.

A new troop is being formed at the north end, under the leadership of G. H. Washburn, director of the Community Club. Mr. Washburn is a former scoutmaster, and it is expected that he will soon have a troop that will compete with other troops in town. Mr. Washburn is going to take the boys down to the Yale bowl Saturday to see the Yale-Maryland game.

The scouts' prayer which is used by many troops in closing is: "May the great scoutmaster of all good scouts be with us till we meet again."

A report from Greenwich says that Bob Burr, former assistant scoutmaster of troop 6, but now a student at Greenwich Academy, is in charge of eighteen to twenty boys at the academy. These boys range from 8 to 14 years of age and Bob leads them in games and athletics and on Saturday he takes them out on an all day hike.

THE BETTER 'OLE' IS FUNNIEST YET

Syd Chaplin Does Best Work of Career in Bainsfather's Famous Play.

Said to be the funniest of all the comedies which the great war produced, "The Better 'Ole" is the featured attraction at the State theater today and tomorrow. Written by Bruce Bainsfather, who gathered his material from first hand sources, the picture is taken from the play which ran for many weeks in the principal cities of this country and England.

Bainsfather, a captain in the English Army, was a cartoonist who drew the pictures of Old Bill, Alf and Bert for a pastime. He had too much to do to make a business of it but when the officers in General Headquarters saw the effect of his cartoons on the morale of the men they put to work drawing them exclusively. They were posted on bulletin boards in various headquarters of the army in France and later appeared in the London Daily Mail. Bainsfather later collaborated with another writer on the play from which the picture is taken.

Unlike most war pictures, every bit of "The Better 'Ole" which is the picture of Bruce Bainsfather's world-famous cartoons and stage-play revolving around the character of Old Bill Bushy, the British Tommy, is staged in the war zone in the front line. British trenches or in the French village or countryside just behind them.

"The Better 'Ole" is in no sense a burlesque. Everything is as nearly technically correct and like the real thing over there, as real German and British soldiers who served during the war, an unlimited amount of research, a French designer and several military technical directors could make it. Nothing is far-fetched or ridiculously improbable.

Reisner has simply taken the war as it was, left out as much of the tragedy as possible, and emphasized its humorous aspects. "The Better 'Ole" has thrills, suspense and menace as well as every kind of laughter. It has some of the greatest battle scenes ever made, and some of the most idyllically picturesque rural settings. It is not just a loose-knit stringing together of irrelevant gags, but a logical, articulate, absorbing story told from a humorous viewpoint.

MARION DAVIES LIVES AS 'THE FAIR CO-ED'

Is as Realistic as Any of Them Could Be in Circle Feature.

In "The Fair Co-ed," coming to the Circle theater tomorrow for two days, Marion Davies gives to the picture-going world a screen version of another famous stage play. This time it is from the pen of George Ade and Gustav Lueders.

This is the third stage play which has been used by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a Marion Davies vehicle during the last year. The first was "The Red Mill," a film version of the famous opera by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom; the second was "Quality Street," from the pen of Sir James Barrie, and considered one of the best whimsical plays ever written.

In "The Fair Co-ed," which was directed by Sam Wood, Marion has the role of an American co-ed. It is the first film the screen has ever presented where the story was treated solely from the woman's angle.

St. Mary's Men's Bible class will hold a Father and Son banquet in the parish hall of the church tomorrow evening at 6:30, the first of the kind that has ever taken place at St. Mary's Episcopal church.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS. OUBUNOW ADDITION. Basement walls of the addition to the Ruhpion store in the Park building have been poured and the iron work which will support the ceiling and roof has been put in place. It is expected that the mason work will be started on Monday. The basement has 18 windows above the grade, and one glass paneled door, insuring plenty of natural light and good ventilation. The walls are of concrete and the center beam is of steel supported by steel columns.

We have another fresh supply of Kemp's Salted Nuts. In 1/2 lb. and 1 lb. tins and in bulk. Quinn's-Adv.

SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION PROTESTS UP TONIGHT

Parents of "Half Way" Children to Fight Board's Ruling On "Green" Bus Service.

There will be a hearing at the Manchester Green school tonight to decide the question of whether or not school children living further east on Vernon street than Lydall street are entitled to free transportation to and from school. George R. Sturgess of the State Board of Education will preside.

The Town School Board recently decided that these children were now being transported more than half way to school and that that was sufficient. They further contend that it would be dangerous to try and turn a bus as large as the one now in operation, on a roadway as narrow as Vernon street.

The four families are those of Adolph Schmidt, Henry Charles, Charles O. Steele and Charles Smith. Mr. Steele, incidentally, made the first bid for the school transportation when it was first decided to transport the children, but lost out.

EMBLEM CLUB MEETS

Three Manchester women, Mrs. Thomas Dannaher, Mrs. J. J. Williams and Mrs. John Charlier captured most of the prizes given at the social held Wednesday by the Emblem club at Rockville. Mrs. Nellie Smith Garvan, formerly of this place was chairman of the committee of arrangements. A variety of contests and games of skill were played for which prizes were given.

Other stunts included guessing the seeds in a pumpkin and an auction in which the bidding was by beans, 15 having been furnished each bidder. The party was in the nature of a Halloween affair. Several were in costume and the refreshments served were pumpkin pie, doughnuts, cheese and coffee.

PUNCTURES OFTEN

Rural roads of Europe are hard on tires, not because of the roads themselves, but because of the nails dropped out of the shoes of farmers. An Englishman returning from a 2500-mile trip on the continent says he had a puncture to every 200 miles of travel.

TOWN "ALL SET" FOR SNOW STORMS

Delivery of New Truck Makes Highway Department Well Prepared.

Manchester is "all set" for clearing its highways of the heaviest snowfall this winter with the delivery today of a new Federal 5 to 7 ton truck by the A. C. Hine Company of Hartford. The new truck is a duplicate of another which is now used by the town highway department, and was exchanged for an old Reo truck plus $4,750. The town has just ordered the purchase of two new snow plows to be attached to trucks for snow removal. This gives the town five snow plows to be attached to trucks for snow removal and two tractors. With these seven pieces of equipment at work, in addition to the aid the state highway department gives Manchester's highways can be cleared of snow within a comparatively short space of time.

KING AND PRINCE WILL BUILD MODERN HOMES ON TENEMENT SITES

London.—King George and the Prince of Wales have given an excellent lead to landlords of house properties in great cities.

Both are owners of considerable estates in London which, in places, have fallen into decay and become almost slums, owing to the neglect of sub-landlords. Both, now that the houses are reverting to them under the conditions of leases for a term of years, wish to erect modern buildings instead of the existing dilapidated structures. But both have been met with the difficulty of housing old tenants while rebuilding takes place.

The difficulty has been met by the erection, on the Prince of Wales' "Duke of Cornwall" estate in South London of the "Old Tenants' House." This has been built particularly for aged women and poor cripples. It suits their needs so well that many will be disinclined to quit.

Imagine a quiet quadrangle with little houses ranged in two stories, with balcony entrances giving complete privacy. In most of these the tenants are Darcy and Joan couples paying six shillings ($1.50) per week for two rooms, with lighting free. Other old women are paying one dollar a week for a living room with an alcove bedroom. The tenants have complete freedom of action and are treated as though they were owners of the highest-priced apartments in the city.

Do They Come Back?

What better test for a store than "Do they come back?" meaning customers. Isn't it only fair to assume that they wouldn't come back if they didn't feel a desire to come back? We make it a point of duty here to see to it that they DO want to come back!—and naturally enough they DO! A great deal of our business is "old customer" business—customers who come back—and then come back for more. You, too, will come back—You'll find that not only is it pleasant to trade here—but that it is wise—because a good habit that we never lose sight of is to treat customers right, KNOWING that they'll COME BACK! Isn't it so?

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE SKIPPY

The mother of eight grownup daughters turned to a wealthy bachelor one night and said in a menacing voice: "With your liking for the fair sex it's strange you have never married."

There's more biting than cooking in modern married life.

LETTER GOLF

When hunting for a word in Letter Golf, don't bite your NAILS, but FILE them. It takes a few strokes, according to the par solution printed on another page, but, of course, you may do it in fewer.

Word puzzle grid with the words NAIL and FILE.

- THE RULES
1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Most famous last words: "Start fictionation, Mr. Jones, your wife is peeping over the transom!"

THE ANYMITES

"Well, there you are," the parrot said. And then he proudly shook his head. "I know the call of every bird, as you can plainly see. I whistle and it works out great because they think I am their mate. The birds come flying quickly, just to find it's only me."
