ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE POWER ON THE WANE

Goes Down to Smashing Defeat In Ohio by 350,000 Votes—Results In the Other States.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Off-year election results in a dozen states were put under the political microscope in Washington today as party leaders strove to discern "trends" that will aid them in shaping their plans for the really serious business of 1928.

The most outstanding result from a national standpoint, appears to be the waning power of the Anti-Saloon League as a dominant force in a number of states.

Defeated in Ohio by a smashing defeat in Ohio, the state of its nativity, through the voters' rejection of the Marshall Bill—a measure which would permit liquor law violators to be hauled before local justices of the peace and dealt with in rural fashion on a fee basis.

The League was down to a smashing victory that party leaders agree has enormously enhanced its prestige for 1928. New York voted on nine constitutional amendments. Smith favored eight of them, and opposed but one. The voters did likewise. The one point that Smith opposed, which would have made the governor's term four years and synchronized the state election with the presidential election, was favored by the League.

In Kentucky, Judge Flem D. Sampson, Republican, whose views are considered liberal, was elected governor over J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat, a militant dry, who was pledged to drive horse racing from the state. The Anti-Saloon League looked with kindly eyes on the Beckham triumph.

Elsewhere the results ran about as expected. The Vane machine in Philadelphia, which is very, very wet, swept its majority candidate Harry Machee into office, and elected its candidate, Congressman James M. Beck, formerly solicitor general of the United States.

From the Second Congressional District of Ohio, Charles G. Tatgenhorst, Republican and wet, has been elected to Congress to succeed the late Rep. Stephens. In the 35th District of New York, C. E. Hancock, Republican, was elected to the vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Magee. The party lineup in the Seventieth Congress has not been changed by yesterday's special elections.

ALBANY POOL TRIAL SUDDENLY POSTPONED

35 Witnesses From Bay State and New York Were Ready To Testify.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Assistant United States Attorney Hubert C. Thompson sprang a surprise in Federal Court today when 35 residents of Albany and Troy, N. Y., and Springfield, Northampton and North Adams, Mass., were scheduled to go on trial charged with conspiracy to ship interstate tickets of the C. C. & B. M. A. lottery, known as the "Albany Pool."

ELECTRIC LIGHT BULB SETS HOUSE AFIRE.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 9.—Charles Makentis is in the hospital here under treatment for burns received in the queerest accident ever recorded in Stamford.

He fell asleep with an electric light burning over the head of his bed, the bulb dropped onto the bed and set on fire the clothing, burning Makentis severely and starting a fire that did damage of $1,000.

DEMOCRAT ELECTED IN INDIANAPOLIS

For First Time In Ten Years; In Kentucky Republican Candidate Is Governor.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—With L. Bert Slack today in office as the first Democratic mayor of Indianapolis in ten years, a mighty political upheaval was in prospect for Indiana that many observers thought might even affect the presidential election in 1928.

Slack, who was perhaps the most surprised man in Indianapolis to learn that a Republican council had elected him mayor, plunged right into his duties today after a series of conferences with party leaders which many believe will make the city hall rather unsafe for Republican office holders.

Unbound by pre-election promises, Slack was in an admirable position to revive the Democratic machine in Marion county and to play a prominent part in the 1928 gubernatorial contest and possibly to aid in turning the pivotal state of Indiana towards a Democratic nominee for president.

AL IS VICTORIOUS IN HIS OWN STATE

All Measures He Approved Win Out at Election By Big Majorities.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Governor Al Smith today has another feather in his political cap. The constitutional amendment which would have doubled the term of governor from two to four years, and was bitterly opposed by Governor Smith, was defeated at yesterday's election by close to 1,000,000 votes, according to reports received by leaders of both major political parties here early today.

Out of nine constitutional amendments the voters of New York state approved eight that Gov. Smith approved and decisively defeated one that the governor opposed. The governor fought the Republican "term extender" because it provided that after next year all governors should be elected in presidential years. In his campaign through the state he charged that the Republican proposal would confuse the voters with state and national issues and might be the means of an inferior candidate for governor sliding into office on the coat-tails of a presidential candidate.

Smith's Plan. Originally Gov. Smith proposed a four year term for chief executive but under his plan elections would be held in the so-called off years.

Chief among the amendments approved were the constitutional executive budget, sponsored by Gov. Smith, extending New York City's borrowing capacity by $300,000,000, the money to be used for subways, increasing the salary of governor from $10,000 to $25,000 a year, and that of members of the legislature from $1,500 to $2,500 and permitting counties to bear the share of the cost of grade crossing elimination, which now falls on municipalities.

CALL SLEUTHS FOR LINE UP BEFORE JURY

U. S. Attorney Wants Jurors To Identify Burns Men If They Can—Still Seek "Contact Man."

Washington, Nov. 9.—Assembling all of the sixteen Burns detectives who figured in the Teapot Dome jury tampering expose, assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinkshaw today sent out a call for eleven of the twelve men and women who filled the jury box in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial.

It was Burkinkshaw's intention to pass the Burns men in review past the jurors in the hope they would recognize among the operatives the mysterious strangers who approached them during the trial.

Approached by Strangers. Burkinkshaw already has information from John Costinnet and Gardiner Grenfell, two of the jurors, that strangers approached them while the trial was in progress and made statements favorable to the defense.

While the young prosecutor was waiting for the jurors to assemble, he put Sheldon Clark, vice-president of the Sinclair Refining Co., before the Grand Jury. Clark is alleged by the government to have been a "contact man" between the Burns agents and Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire defendant in the oil trial. Burkinkshaw hopes through Clark to forge the final link directly connecting Sinclair with the jury tampering charges.

Don't Know a Thing. "Boys, I don't know a damn thing," said Clark as he entered the questions put to him, or whether he would adopt the attitude of "I am here, identified a handkerchief picked up near a spot where the woman was seen as that of his wife's."

Rev. Mr. Forbush accompanied Chief of Police White's wife and others into the dense woods today. All hunting shacks, caves and abandoned farm buildings were being searched in a systematic manner.

This town is not far from Canaan, site of the Forbush summer home. If Mrs. Forbush is not found within a day or two, Chief of Police White said he might call in police dogs to lead the hunt.

Seen by Hunter. A fitting form in the Lockwood forest seen by Richard Jones, a hunter, gave the clue that brought the search that had been conducted in Rock Creek Park, Washington, Virginia, New York state and elsewhere into this section. The same woman, wearing a bedraggled blouse and skirt, asked for a drink of water at a farmhouse on the Charles town line. Since then several (Continued on Page 3)

'CHENEY' BATTLER K. O.'S KID 'RUMOR'

Fight Broadcast Shows That Whispering Boy Hasn't Any Real Backbone.

Cheney Brothers, through Clarence P. Quimby, principal of the High school, did the unusual last night at a meeting of the Get Together club in Cheney hall in spiking a number of rumors which have been prevalent here concerning conditions in the silk industry in Manchester. The rumors were declared unfounded through Station WEEB, through which Mr. Quimby, as Graham Cracker, the ten-round announcer, described the ten-round battle between Kid Rumor and Young Cheney.

A loud speaker, ostensibly connected with a radio receiving outfit, was turned on when it came time for Mr. Quimby to speak and in a minute or so his voice came out of the horn. He said he was speaking from English Stadium—Yankee Stadium, since E. J. Ho'l had since purchased it—and would give the fight blow by blow and foul by foul.

Says Press Sees Rumor Kid Rumor was reported as being seconded by The Manchester Herald, the Hartford Courant, The Times, and a few other newspapers. In Cheney's corner were Howell, Frank Jr., and William Cheney as seconds.

LINDY'S KIN WINS OUT

Modest and silent like the "Lone Eagle", John C. Lodge (right), uncle of Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, was elected mayor of Detroit yesterday by about 9,000 votes. He did not make a single campaign speech. Early morning bulletins had John W. Smith (left) his opponent who is a "wet" elected.

Claremont, N. H., Nov. 9.—A beautiful hopped-haired woman, seen by hunters in the Lockwood woods on the Claremont-Charles town town line, and described as "the wood nymph," is none other than Mrs. Bessie E. Forbush, of Canandaigua, N. Y., who vanished from a Washington, D. C., theater three weeks ago.

This was virtually certain today when her clergyman husband, who is here, identified a handkerchief picked up near a spot where the woman was seen as that of his wife's.

Rev. Mr. Forbush accompanied Chief of Police White's wife and others into the dense woods today. All hunting shacks, caves and abandoned farm buildings were being searched in a systematic manner.

COMMUNITY CLUB'S TOTAL HITS $1,621

Second Day of Canvass Brings Substantial Gain; All Giving Freely.

Previously Reported ... $1,104.00 Contributions received since ... 517.00 Total to date ... $1,621.00

Very pleasing indeed to the Manchester Community Club, of the report, is the result of the second day of canvassing by the various teams in the club's financial drive.

Following the instructions given at the opening of the campaign, the canvassers each enclose in an envelope his returns for the entire day, writing on the outside of the envelope the names of the contributors and the sums collected.

These envelopes are left at the Community Club at the use of the day's collecting, for the use of the executive committee in compiling the total collections for the day. At noon today it was found that the previous total had been increased $517.00.

Contributors Generous. The committee in charge of the campaign finds the public very generous in its response. Contributions varying all the way from one dollar to $250 were received in the first two days' work. The local manufacturers and business men have been responding freely and the residential districts show that the private citizens are equally generous.

The "score-board" on Depot Square gleamed last evening with its first figures denoting the progress of the drive and again today a fresh line of figures was added, showing a new and higher total.

U. S. TO TAKE OVER NICARAGUA FINANCE

Washington, Nov. 9.—The United States has decided to take over the administration of Nicaragua's financial affairs as well as its military affairs, it was learned today at the State Department.

As the first move in establishing the national receivership, the United States will send Dr. W. P. Cumberland, who is American financial adviser to the Haitian government, is expected to resign that post at once.

Immediate Loan. Part of the financing provides for an immediate loan of two million dollars to the Diaz government to meet claims arising out of the recent revolution.

Eventually, additional American credits totaling approximately $22,000,000 will be extended to meet similar claims and to build an inter-oceanic railway across the Nicaragua isthmus.

Bankers Interested. A New York banking group, headed by J. & W. Seligman & Co., is underwriting these loans. Brown Brothers Co., of New York, who loaned Diaz $300,000 earlier in the year to finance his fight against the Liberals, is reported to have no part in the new credit project.

COL. LINDBERGH'S KIN IS MAYOR OF DETROIT

Wins at Election Over Incumbent by 90,000 Majority; Backed by Drys.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—In one of the bitterest elections in local history, John C. Lodge, former president of the council, was elected mayor of Detroit yesterday over John W. Smith, incumbent, by about nine thousand majority.

Lodge, aside from defeating Smith, a dripping wet, set a precedent by casting in without having made a single campaign speech.

Early in the night Smith was confident of victory as he piled up a lead. He was still in the lead when nearly 500 precincts out of 606 had been heard from.

Suddenly the trend of the returns changed and Lodge caught and passed the mayor. Dry leaders hailed Lodge's election as a victory for their cause. While he steadfastly refused to make public his position on the so-called wet issue, Lodge was supported by the Anti-Saloon League.

Smith campaigned on a liberal enforcement of the Volstead Act. He told the voters the prohibition law was impossible of enforcement and said he thought the police force should give first attention to major crimes and let the drinkers alone.

The social committee of the Highland Park Community club will run the usual setback party at the clubhouse tomorrow evening. The committee has also set the date of Saturday evening, November 19, for the annual Father and Son banquet, details of which will be given out later.

HARTFORD MASONS VISIT MANCHESTER

Tuscan Lodge Officers Confer Master Mason Degree in New Temple Here.

A Manchester boy who has won Masonic honors in Hartford returned last night to occupy the Worshipful Master's chair here when two candidates were raised to the Master Mason degree. Franklin L. Ogden, Worshipful Master of Tuscan lodge of Hartford, a native of Manchester, presided over the officers of his own lodge when they filled the chairs at Manchester's first Master Mason communication since the dedication of the new Temple.

About 230 Masons attended the meeting last night and nearly 100 of them were guests from the Hartford lodge. Associate officer Norman C. Stevens, mayor of Hartford, a founder of Tuscan lodge, and District Deputy Louis R. Brock were among the guests. The most officers were dined in the banquet hall at 6:30.

The Officers. One other officer of the Hartford lodge is a former Manchester man. Charles Legard, son of J. P. Legard, north end storekeeper, acted as Senior Steward for Tuscan lodge. The complete set of officers of Tuscan lodge who were present last night and conferred the degree was as follows: Franklin L. Ogden, Worshipful Master; L. W. Sadler, Senior Warden; H. B. Babcock, Junior Warden; H. W. Hough, Treasurer; E. M. Wiley, Secretary; L. G. Stevenson, Senior Deacon; F. W. Norris, Junior Deacon; Charles Legard, Senior Steward; C. S. Bourne, Junior Steward; E. P. Phillips, Chaplain; James Byers, Jr., Marshall.

The candidates raised last night were Herbert Stevenson, employed in the Stationery Printing department at Cheney Brothers, and Arthur Poirier, district manager of the A & P stores. Stevenson was raised by T. Frank Cassidy, of Hartford, a 33rd degree Mason, and Past Master of Tuscan lodge, Mr. Cassidy's talk to the candidates on the obligations of Masonry was one of the features of last night's meeting. Mr. Poirier was raised by Worshipful Master Ogden.

Following the degree work several of the Masonic celebrities present were called upon for talks. District Deputy Brock, Mayor Norman C. Stevens, Past Grand Master F. A. Verplanck, Past Master R. LaMotte Russell and Past Master T. Frank Cassidy were among those called upon.

Tuscan lodge officers and members were generous in their praise of Manchester's new Temple. They were pleased to be the first lodge to be invited to the new home to work the degree.

REBUILDING HOMES

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Under leaden skies that threatened more rain or snow, New England today bravely went about the work of rebuilding homes, highways, railroads and industries torn by the flood.

Vermont faced an almost Herculean task, the need of cash paramount and the menace of disease almost as great as the waters that laid waste great sections of the state.

Innoculation, whether you like it or not, was the rule in the flood areas of the Green Mountain state today. Forebode inoculation against typhoid was reported in several Vermont towns.

Gov. John E. Weeks had his rehabilitation machine in operation in the form of emergency committees. Because of the washed out highways and railroads, the calling of the legislature was out of the question. The prospects were that a loan of $500,000 would be underwritten by men of wealth.

Millions, not thousands, however, will be needed to put Vermont back on her feet and Gov. Weeks tactfully announced that he would gratefully and officially accept any contributions of funds. These would be authorized agencies for alleviation of the suffering of the thousands of homeless.

Waterbury on Verge of Collapse as Residents Are to Quit By Snowstorm—Plight of Many Communities Made Known Only Today as Wire Service is Being Restored; Will Take a Year to Rebuild Roads and Bridges Destroyed By Flood—Other New England States Almost Back to Normal Conditions.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 9.—Snow in blizzard proportions today whipped flood stricken Vermont, hampering the work of relief parties in the flooded area.

While the stricken town of Waterbury was on the verge of collapse, with many of its inhabitants giving up the task of rehabilitation as futile and leaving for other places, a desperate attempt was made to keep the remaining citizens at home in order to save the little town from complete destruction.

Appeal Broadcast. Far and wide today the appeal by Gov. John E. Weeks, to the people of Vermont to do everything possible to restore normal life was broadcast.

Despite all handicaps Vermonters were going bravely and grimly about the work of rehabilitation. A special session of the legislature was unlikely for some time as many members were unable to reach the capital because of disrupted railway and highway traffic.

The plight of Vermont was only being recognized in many quarters today.

REBUILDING HOMES. Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Under leaden skies that threatened more rain or snow, New England today bravely went about the work of rebuilding homes, highways, railroads and industries torn by the flood.

Vermont faced an almost Herculean task, the need of cash paramount and the menace of disease almost as great as the waters that laid waste great sections of the state.

Millions, not thousands, however, will be needed to put Vermont back on her feet and Gov. Weeks tactfully announced that he would gratefully and officially accept any contributions of funds. These would be authorized agencies for alleviation of the suffering of the thousands of homeless.

Money Needed. The Red Cross and the Vermont fuel and food agencies had penetrated all stricken towns today and had saved the people of Newport, Vt., from actual starvation. But the "crying need" today in Vermont was cash from the outside.

By motor truck and airplane food was being pushed into Vermont to guard for Barton and Orleans via Canada. They were manned by Red Cross workers.

Planes Drop Food. Army airplanes left Boston this forenoon to drop food to marooned towns. One plane carried mail, followed a regular schedule for Vermont mail to Port Ethan Allen. Major General Preston Brown, commander of the First Area Corps Area was in the mail plane to make a more detailed survey of Vermont. On the outcome of his observations future air distribution depends.

As far as could be learned the total death toll of the New England flood was 188 but more bodies may be found above Waterbury section, and where in places is two feet deep. Waterbury had a difficult task in burying her dead as all coffins in town had been used as improvised rowboats. Many residents left Waterbury and village authorities appealed to them to return.

Rochester, Vt., continued to be isolated today and a typhoid epidemic was feared.

No Pleasure Riding. Pleasure automobile riding, where it might be possible, homes were derelict in Vermont, all gasoline being rationed to trucks and automobiles of doctors and nurses. In Massachusetts, Lieut. Gov.

Frank G. Allen and health officials made a survey of the flood damage. Large gangs were at work in Springfield and vicinity pumping out cellars of homes and fumigating them. The Springfield City Council was called into session today to appropriate $50,000 for flood relief work. Springfield, West Springfield, Northampton, Becket and other Massachusetts towns have done quick and wonderful work in rehabilitation.

Connecticut and New Hampshire were also returning to normalcy. Springfield, Vt., reported that flood damage in that town, first estimated to be in the vicinity of a half-million dollars, will reach only about half that amount.

Work on the highways leading out of Springfield was going forward rapidly, the municipal manager having borrowed a steam shovel and several heavy trucks from a contractor to aid in the work. Preparations are already being undertaken by Springfield organizations for sending their bit toward the relief of the stricken towns in the White Mountains.

Telephone and telegraph communications have been largely re-established and mails are reaching that Vermont town irregularly by truck lines from Bellows Falls, fourteen miles distant.

FIRST SURVIVORS. Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Believed to be the first survivors of the flood in Montpelier, Vt., to reach New York state by automobile, C. A. Robbott of Albany, N. Y., and E. P. Fisher of Buffalo, arrived here today.

Robbott and Fisher are commercial travelers. They were caught in their automobile by flood waters five miles outside of Montpelier last Wednesday and they said they waded through Vermont water deep to reach the Vermont capital.

"The conditions at Montpelier were terrible," said Robbott. "Bodies were washed out of a cemetery on the outskirts of the city, and we were told that one day, found her body lodged in the branches of a tree not far from the cemetery."

The two men left here for Buffalo.

NEEDS NO HELP. Hartford, Conn., Nov. 9.—Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health, today received a letter from the governor of Vermont declining Connecticut's offer of engineering assistance and health supplies in overcoming the result of the floods in that state. Thanking the Connecticut commissioner, the governor of Vermont declared his own health department has adequate supplies and sufficient engineers to take care of all the state's troubles.

Dr. Osborn announced today that no requests for aid from his department have come from any Connecticut town so far. The department, however, is ready to handle any emergency that may arise.

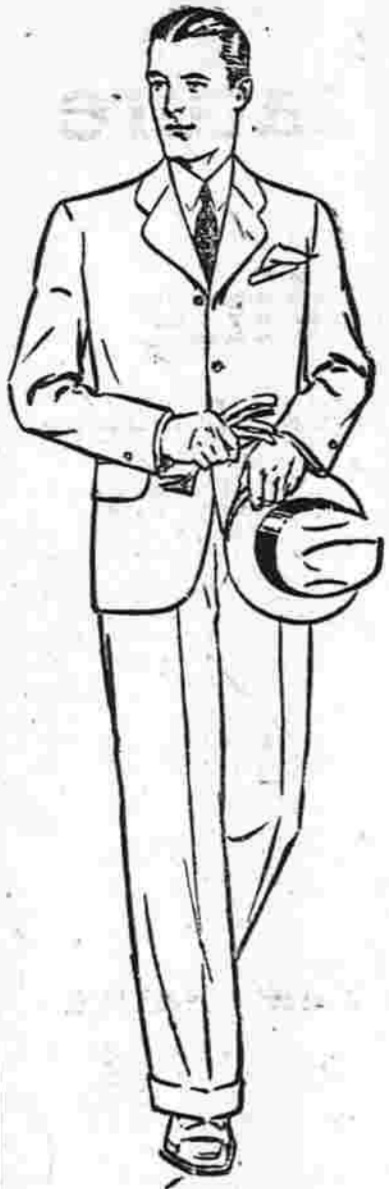

NEED FOR IMPROVEMENT. Hartford, Conn., Nov. 9.—Elimination of waterfront streets with the raising of all buildings now standing thereon, higher river walls, a system of dykes and higher banks all along the Connecticut river's course through Hartford are some of the plans now being considered here in order to free Hartford from future disasters by reasons of freshets in the river.

The flood which reached its peak on Monday and caused damage of at least $1,000,000 here has led to all sorts of plans being proposed to curb the stream that carries most of New England's water to the sea. Nothing definite has been done, however, but municipal leaders feel sure that some action will be taken before the lesson taught by the latest flood has been forgotten.

A light snow falling throughout the river valley in Connecticut today added to the discomforts of the flood situation. The river itself was down to 81.7 feet at noon, a drop of eight feet since five a. m. Monday.

Both in the city and in East Hartford authorities have forbidden families whose homes were flooded to return to the dwellings at present. Fear is expressed that (Continued from page 1)

WHO WANTS A NICE BIG STEAM ROLLER?

Bolton Auction Is Chance For Fellow Who Thinks Flivvers Are Too Fast.

"How much am I offered, ladzee and genlman, for this sturdy, powerful, steam roller?" It isn't every day that steam rollers go to auction sales, but Bolton will see one on Saturday, Nov. 26 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon according to a notice appearing elsewhere in today's paper. Constable Samuel R. Woodward has given notice that he will sell at auction a steam roller, the property of one John Carroll of Naugatuck. He hasn't announced it yet, but it is rumored that Mrs. Maude Woodward, wife of the constable and one of Bolton's representatives in the General Assembly will be the auctioneer.

It seems that Mr. Carroll who was the contractor in charge of the new road at Bolton Center failed to live up to certain agreements with Bolton residents with regard to the fixing of driveways and the crossing of land. These residents obtained judgment against Mr. Carroll and the only tangible bit of wealth the Bolton people have is the steam roller, roller which Mr. Carroll has left behind him.

So, those who object to the speed of modern automobiles can get a good example by purchasing a vehicle that operates at a dignified pace. Someone suggested the Manchester Democrats should buy it.

NEW FIRE DISTRICT BOUNDS PROPOSED

To be Voted on at Annual Meeting in High School Tomorrow Night.

At the annual meeting of the South Manchester Fire District to be held tomorrow night in High school hall the meeting will be asked to consider several applications for changes in the district boundaries. On the east and south a change is asked to include all property west of Gardner street and north of Spring street, the object being to give protection to the houses on the hill southwest of the corner of Highland and Gardner streets, also to others on Spring street.

On the south a change is asked to include property within about 500 feet east and west of South Main street, from the Fourth district school house to the Glastonbury town line, also a slight change to include the residence property of C. Elmore Watkins.

Again on the south, a change is asked to include property within about 600 feet east and west of Keeney street from Hackmatack street to the Glastonbury town line.

On the west, changes are requested which would include some property on the south and west of Bidwell street and property within about 600 feet north and south of Spencer street to the East Hartford town line, also a change to include property east and south of a line starting near the Sixth district school on Olcott street, and running through Olcott street, Love Lane and Center street to Middle Turnpike and thence easterly to and through Middle Turnpike and Adams street where the old fire district line is resumed.

These changes have been asked by a majority of the taxpayers in the proposed additions and will give them the protection of the fire department.

BODIES OF TONG MEN MUST BE BURIED HERE

State Law Says They Shall Not Be Removed From State; Big Funeral Planned.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Ong Leong Tong has run up against a law of Connecticut in its efforts to provide a fine funeral in New York for Soo Hoo Wing and Ching Lung, Tong men who were hanged at Wethersfield Tuesday morning for murder.

Connecticut insists that bodies of persons hanged for murder shall not be removed from the state. Relatives of the men asked the state for permission to remove the bodies and have been told what the law provides. The bodies are still resting in a local undertaker's rooms, and Tong leaders are reported as being considering what move to make next.

FOUR AUTO VICTIMS ALL MUCH BETTER

Gustafson Family, Hurt In Turnpike Crash, All Reported Improved.

Memorial hospital this afternoon reported the condition of both Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gustafson of New London as much improved. When admitted their condition was regarded as critical. Mr. Gustafson's mother is also much improved and his son Harold, Jr., will be discharged today. The four persons were injured in an automobile accident on the New London turnpike when a door sprang open and Mr. Gustafson, in trying to prevent his son from falling out, lost control of the car which swerved off the road and crashed into a tree.

WATER SUPPLY HERE IS GOOD FOR LONG TIME

Equal to Demands For Many Years Unless Growth of Town Greatly Increases, Says Frank Cheney, Jr.

Manchester, the south end, at least, will not have to worry about a lack of drinking water for the next 30 to 40 years, if the town's growing pace doesn't considerably increase Frank Cheney, Jr., president of the South Manchester Water Company, told the Kiwanians at their weekly meeting today.

Mr. Cheney was invited to speak to the local clubmen on "Public Utilities" but because of the lack of time the speaker confined his remarks to the South Manchester Water Company. He did speak of the development of the Manchester Electric Company, of which he is also president, and remarked that a change in rates that would be generally pleasing to users of electricity would be announced soon.

The water company was organized in 1889 with the Taylor reservoir the only source of supply. As the town grew it was decided to develop the Porter brook. This was regarded as a big job and it added to the supply giving three quarters of a million gallons a day capacity.

Further growth of the town warranted the company that another source of supply would be necessary. Roaring Brook Added.

Roaring Brook in the Buckingham section was looked upon favorably and after tests were made it was decided to purchase the water rights and land surrounding the brook. The company's representatives went about purchasing land and it is singular to note that it was not necessary to go into condemnation proceedings to secure any of the land. Good prices were paid for much of the land however. The reservoir has now 8 1/2 miles of water front.

The capacity of the company's reservoirs is now 125 million gallons of water. That is sufficient to take care of Manchester's demands for the next 30 to 40 years, Mr. Cheney believed. The water shed is well protected but this necessitated the purchase of a lot of land. The company owns 1,500 acres of land in Glastonbury.

With a big supply of water at hand the company's next problem was that of purification. The company built filter beds and purification systems on Line street and both of them are being used. These two plants represent a million dollar investment, but they have cleared the water so that there are now no complaints. The water is tested regularly by Cheney chemists and by the state.

Not Money Maker. In the last few years it was necessary to raise the rates for water service, but the company is not conducted to make money. But two dividends have ever been paid and these were voted many years ago. What money the company earns goes back into the plant. An idea of the assets of the company was given and included such items as 2,064 acres of land in Manchester, Bolton and Glastonbury and 50 miles of pipe in the town.

Mr. Cheney explained thoroughly the method of filtering the water and said that chlorine is necessary to insure the freedom of the water from disease. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore attested to the purity of the water and said that the health board has traced many sicknesses and found none of them could be attributed to the water furnished by the South Manchester Water Company.

In conclusion Mr. Cheney mentioned the development of the Manchester Electric Company. Next week the Main street office will be moved to the Dewey-Richman block near Main and Birch streets. The company is desirous of developing its distribution of electrical appliances. They do not desire to compete with other Manchester dealers in the sale of appliances but merely want to educate the people to the use of electricity. In closing Mr. Cheney mentioned that the electric company was at work now on rate changes which would be announced soon.

SIRENS, BELLS TO MARK TIME OF ARMISTICE

Five Churches Agree to Tolling; Order of Parade Is Established.

Fire sirens of the north and south end departments and the bells of five churches will sound at one minute before 11 on Friday morning to start Manchester's commemoration of the World War armistice of 1918. Rev. Marvin C. Stocking will deliver the invocation, the roll call will be read by Otto Serry, Malmid, and by Rev. Watson Woodruff and Bugler George L. Ross will sound taps. ## BLIZZARDS STOP WORK OF RELIEF IN VERMONT

Too early return might result in an epidemic of pneumonia cases.

SCOUTS ON THE JOB

SpRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 9.—Fourteen hundred Boy Scouts have turned out in western Vermont today to help clear the snow from the roads in conjunction with the Red Cross. Their services have been enormous. They have rescued flood-trapped people; saved cattle, property and acted as guards till militia came.

Some have worked 48 hours at a stretch with their leaders who have also rendered yeoman service, it was said today. They also performed first aid for the sick and have collected thousands of garments for refugees.

TRAINS RUNNING AGAIN

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Connecticut river today took its flood waters away from Middletown. Trains were operated again over the Valley branch of the New Haven railroad between Hartford and Saybrook, and all the trolley lines were running as if they had never been closed. Even the South Farms district became available for commerce again. Two families re-entered their homes before noon and all the other refugees were ready to go back before night. Only a police guard on duty against possible looters marked the flood district.

The river at noon was six feet below the high mark, and was dropping then at the rate of three to four inches an hour.

AUXILIARY TO HELP

Bridgewater, Conn., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Ruth E. Pfenning, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, has been in touch with all units of her organization in the Connecticut river valley region, calling for definite organization to furnish relief to the flood-stricken areas, and their forces were put in action today to make a survey of conditions throughout the area. If the survey indicates need, the services of the whole state organization will receive an appeal for action.

Mrs. Pfenning pledged the state's support and aid in units in other New England states suffering from the flood.

John Y. Keur, park commissioner, spoke to the scouts of Troop 6 last night at their regular meeting. Mr. Keur took for his subject, "Forests" and when he was finished he answered many questions asked by the boys. The first spoke on the forests and their value to the state, bringing in the incidents of the present flood that is sweeping through New England, where the forestation would have helped to check the flood. He told the boys that it wasn't a case of how to put out forest fires but how to prevent them, stating that over 50 per cent. of the fires are caused by carelessness. Mr. Keur cleared his points on forestry so that each boy will have something to think about when he is scouting through the woods.

Every member of Troop 6 is to report at the church Friday night at 8:30 o'clock to take part in the Armistice day parade.

Last Saturday, twenty-five scouts of this troop went to New Haven to see the Yale-Maryland football game. The trip was made by auto and the following men were in charge of the group: Assistant Scoutmaster D. Hutchinson, Committee L. St. Clair Burr and M. A. Ferris, Thomas Prentice, Arthur Krob, Ralph Judd and Scoutmaster Mercer.

IN KENTUCKY. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 9.—Horse-racing has won in Kentucky. Totals compiled this morning show that Flen D. Sampson, Republican candidate for governor of Kentucky, apparently has piled up a safe lead over J. C. W. Beckham the Democratic candidate.

Sampson carried Louisville and Lexington while in western Kentucky Beckham's majority in his own stronghold was reported at only 20,000, which is about half of what his campaign leaders had hoped for.

TWO HUNDRED ATTEND TEACHERS' RECEPTION

Fine Entertainment Features Annual Greeting to Town's School Teachers.

More than 200 persons were present at the reception given by the Center Congregational church to the teachers of Manchester last evening. It has been the custom of this church for several years past to thus honor the public school teachers of the town, and last night's program was one of the most successful ever given.

The receiving line was headed by Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck and Mrs. Verplanck. The town school board was represented by Mrs. C. H. Wilcox, while Mr. Wilcox is superintendent of Center Church Sunday school. In the line also were Rev. and Mrs. Watson Woodruff, Clerk and Treasurer of Center Church, Charles House, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eldwell and Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Foster.

The parish hall was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums, ferns and palms. During the reception, the Troubadours, the junior orchestra of the church, played several selections.

The program included a recitation by Miss Hazel Hughes of the congregation, a graduate of Emerson School of Oratory. Miss Hughes' selection was highly entertaining and was entitled "Here Comes the Bridegroom." To an enthusiastic recall she responded with "A Colored Lady at the Phone."

John A. Anderson, local baritone, sang "Friend of Mine" and "Sonny" is a soloist and Mr. Carleton a member of the chorus of Christ Church cathedral, Hartford.

A humorous one-act play, "Suppressed Desires" was given by Miss Helen Estes and Miss Gene Walsh of the High school faculty and Bert F. Andrews. It was a clever satire on psychoanalysis.

A period of games, chorus singing and sociability followed. Girl Scouts of Center church in uniform under the direction of Commissioner Wilcox, served the guests with cream and home-made cup cakes.

WHERE THERE'S NO PLACE TO PLAY. Our playground is the surface of a grey and dirty street. And the entry-ways where loafers smoke and stare; We fight between ash-barrels and dodge the horses' feet, And play at craps in gutters, with a swear. No sorrow, sin or shame that our baby lips can't name, Nor bit of sordid truth we do not share, But if our ways are rude, and the words we use are lewd Who's to tell us? Who's to teach us? Who's to care? Yet we're children—children—children— And in our wistful eyes You can see the white, sweet dreams of us—still born— For neglect and greed enfold us, And temptation soon will hold us— We're the street-and-sidewalk product-headed wrong. Hildegard Hoyt.

Ought you to give to the Manchester Community Campaign? Ought you help the little children as well as the grown-ups get more recreation? You know the answer. We'll leave it to you what to give to the fund of the

Manchester Community Club

Is this good business? Cities have invested millions of dollars in school grounds and buildings which work only five hours out of the twenty-four. Any private business would fail under such conditions. Eighty per cent. of all the offenses against society are committed in the free hours between 6 and 12 o'clock p. m. Isn't it a good plan to invest something in a Community Center for afternoon and evening hours recreation.

Give What You Can

The Manchester Community Club is deeply grateful for the generous gifts thus far received in its campaign. Its thanks go out to all, and especially to those living outside the district served by the Community Club.

Onward we press toward that $5,000 goal! Every gift is needed, whether a dollar or fifty. Look at the long lists of names of givers in The Herald. See that your name appears in this list. Everybody is helping. If you haven't given, give today. Hurry in your contribution.

Rockville

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, Nov. 9.—A considerable number of objectors to the ordinance recently adopted, which prevents parking on the East side of Market street, attended the meeting of the Common Council last night, expecting that the question of the repeal of the ordinance would be brought up and that they would get a chance to be heard on it.

The chairman of the ordinance committee is also the chairman of the police commission. After the meeting the more or less indignant protesters gathered about him and wanted to know how come the proposition for repeal did not come up. Without definitely committing himself he gave them to understand that it might just as well come up at the next meeting.

Will Be In Celebration A letter received from the American Legion Post inviting the city fathers to take part in the Armistice Day celebration, which is to be the largest ever observed in Rockville, was received by the council and accepted, the members being instructed by the mayor to meet at the council rooms at 10 o'clock to be ready to take part in the celebration.

Folling Places Approved The council went on record as favoring the four places selected by the Democrats and the Republicans for the holding of the ward caucuses on Thursday when aldermen and councilmen will be named and delegates to the general caucus to be held on November 14 will be selected.

Six Building Permits Six building permits were granted, with the exception of the permit for the erection of the building on West Main street, which is described as being a two-story brick and stone, two stories high with stores on the first floor and offices and apartments on the second and to cost $55,000. The others were for small amounts.

Bills Paid Bills approved by the different departments were ordered paid. In the police department only $10 was sent for extra work during the last two weeks. Street lights cost $822.51.

Meat Inspector's Report The report of the meat inspector for the city, Dr. J. R. Reynolds, showed that the markets which serve the people are in nearly all cases in "very good" condition, which is one of the highest marks that can be given.

Officers Re-Elected The officers of the Ellington County Farm Bureau were re-elected at the annual meeting in the Prescott Block yesterday. There was an attendance of 60 members. The officers are: President, H. L. Hamilton of Ellington; vice-president, W. H. Thrall of Vernon; secretary, J. E. Kingsbury of Coventry; treasurer, O. K. Driggs of Vernon; directors at large, Miss H. L. Merrow of Mansfield, C. D. Way of Hebron and Alfred Y. Hoffman of Ellington.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with the reading of the reports which took the center of the forenoon. Dinner was served by the East Side Club of Ellington. Following was an illustrated lecture by Raymond Clapp, New Haven County farm agent, who discussed the trip of the delegation of the National farm bureau to Denmark. There was a demonstration by George Kingsbury of Coventry, a member of the Connecticut 4H dairy team at the national dairy show, and a demonstration of the production of clean milk by Ruth and Leroy Kinney of Hebron, champion dairy team of 1927.

That a merger was about to be entered into was denied when Cheney Brothers said that they were at present getting more than their share of the business and did not have so merge.

That their quality was going to the dogs, and that they could not meet competition were some of the things that were said of the firm. In answer to the first charge the firm said that there was nobody who could compete with it as far as quality and price are concerned, and that it was still getting 50 per cent. of the velvet business of the country.

Laying off help, laying off the old men and all that, were other rumors, which were explained by the budget control system and a system of keeping stock moving. That the firm is ignorant of conditions in its industry was answered by the efficiency system, waste elimination and the manufacture of by-products. At the end of the tenth round Kid Rumor was judged to have lost the decision to Young Cheney.

Greenland and China. Other speakers on the program were John Reinartz, radio wizard, who spoke on Greenland as he saw it as a member of the MacMillan Polar expedition two years ago, and Charles Amber, recently returned from China, who talked on that country at some length. A turkey dinner was served by Chef Osano and music was furnished by Bill Waddell's orchestra. Two solos were rendered each by Herbert Ingham and Thomas McGill. The attendance prize was won by Hans Engel.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE POWER ON THE WANE

the partisan fence were agreed today that Gov. Al Smith's prestige has been enormously increased by his victory yesterday. Had the measures which Smith sponsored and fought for gone down to defeat, they would have begun laying flowers on his political grave in Washington today, for defeat would have indicated that the governor's tremendous popularity in his own state had begun to wane. However, it's another Smith victory, another smashing personal success, and it is weighed accordingly by those who have their eyes riveted upon the next Democratic national convention.

The Anti-Smith wing of the Democratic Party were hoping that the governor would accept a reverse yesterday. It would have been of inestimable aid to them in their plans to checkmate him next year, but, as one of them expressed it today:

"How can we stop a man who wins all the time?" Whatever else Smith's victory has accomplished, it is universally agreed that it has shown the nation that New York is behind its governor more strongly than ever. The full significance of this fact probably cannot be made apparent until next June.

al other hunters saw the bobbed-haired blonde in the woods.

Description Tallies. The description furnished by Jones tallies exactly with that of the missing Mrs. Forbush and her clergyman-husband was notified.

Mrs. Forbush has been lost to the world since October 21 and has furnished one of the country's greatest disappearance mysteries. While enroute to Florida with her husband, Mrs. Forbush was seated beside him in a Washington theater when she suddenly asked to be excused for a moment. Since then he has not seen her. He was further saddened a few days after his wife vanished by the death of his father. His search for his missing wife has continued through the long weeks.

A report circulated in Claremont today that a woman answering Mrs. Forbush's description only yesterday purchased a tin cup and an ice pick at a local department store was discounted by Chief White, who said: "Everybody is seeing her now, but we expect to find her in the woods soon."

Flood waters that swept some places near here did not touch the Lockwood woods and if the woman seen by the hunters kept in those woods she is probably safe.

C. E. Loomis's View
Treasurer Charles E. Loomis feels that besides providing recreation facilities for grown-ups the Community club, which has a strong following of local boys, is doing much to keep down delinquency. Director G. H. Washburn is especially popular among the boys. Mr. Loomis's views are as follows:

"Juvenile delinquency knows no season and therefore a recreation program like the Manchester Community club is as important for all year as it is generally conceded to be essential during the summer vacation months. Playgrounds keep children out of the juvenile courts. They are one of the best preventive measures developed. They keep children so busy that they don't have time to do the things they ought not to do. As a local instructor puts it "Bill's been so busy stealing bases that he hasn't had time to steal anything else."
The "Trouble" Hours
Not everyone realizes how much free time children have during the school year. If their day is from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. and if the school takes up the time from 8:00 to 4:00 there are six hours left free, each day for five days making thirty hours a week, and besides there is the whole long Saturday in which they can follow their whims. That makes forty-eight hours, or an equivalent for each child of nearly two entire twenty-four hour days a week of free time, not counting Sunday.
There are just as many temptations in the winter as in the summer, and the rest for them is equally great, if not greater, because the children are tied down to school work for so many hours that when they are released in the afternoon they may well be compared to spirited animals. They are ready for the first thing that offers itself. If there is a Community center where they may turn for expression of pent-up energies, delinquency wanes. If a community closes its playgrounds after the summer months on the theory that children are different in winter from their summer natures, then trouble begins, and the juvenile courts are busy."

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris.—If you believed the average guide books, you would conclude that Paris contained little else than churches, museums and tombs.

If you believed the average myth, you would conclude that Paris was little more than a den of iniquity, with nude chorus girls at every theater and the churches, tombs and so-forth brooding tragically and crumblingly over the sad spectacle.

After one of those hectic hunts, conducted with the aid of trained jungle beaters, guides and sharpshooters I can report that whether in brothels or cathedrals, Paris is one place where it is impossible to move without stepping on history. The mere business of buying a necktie, or a cravat if you will, is accompanied by the reading of a pamphlet telling you that you now stand on the very spot where Napoleon I quartered for three nights or where Louis IV made a date with his latest mistress.

In fact, after a few weeks of Paris, I go about gingerly on tip-toes murmuring: "Don't step on it, it might be Napoleon." And, if that fails, you can substitute Jeanne d'Arc with reasonable certainty of being right.

The shadow of Napoleon is likely to fall over you wherever you stand and when, for a moment you get out from under it, behold you are on the spot where something-or-other happened in the French revolution or you are sipping your "cafe fin" across the street from the oldest cathedral in France.

Coming fresh from New York, so much antiquity is extremely difficult to swallow at first. In Paris they have reached that age where they hold eternal wakes for their dead. In New York, where a century is still a long time, nothing is so sacred that it may escape the hand of the wrecker. In New York the air is filled with chaos; sirders climb to the skies and landmarks go tumbling over to make way for the next skyscraper. New York is brutal, young, uncouth, parading its strength like the muscle-bound agents of the physical culture advertisements.

France has long lived in the past, refighting old wars, venerating old tombs, bowing to old traditions. It is coming out of that and, while so doing, it is saving those rare spots of beauty and classic architecture which deserve being saved.

As for its naughtiness—well I've seen a much better "hootch" dance on 42d Street than they serve you between acts of the Moulin Rouge. And before the Shuberts were forced in buy costumes for their chorines, I have seen almost an equivalent amount of undress. Really vulgar places are vulgar in the same sense as "the circus" at Montreal or the old Barbary Coast in San Francisco. Slummers have forced their women-folk into many of these "peep-show" affairs that flourish in sidestreets bars and cafes and for a few francs a visiting woman from Brooklyn can enjoy the spectacle of a fellow woman reduced to most sorry straits.

True, it is possible in Paris to see depravity at close range a bit more easily than in New York. But the pretense of depravity is one of the "rackets" of the Montmartre bell, staged particularly for the quiet tourist's money and with a dullness that would be difficult to equal.

There really is no need to spend the money if you are coming to Paris to be naughty. New York will do very well, but to come to Paris to get a new perspective on life—that's something else again, Monsieur.....

Old Masters
I stood in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs.
A palace and a prison on each hand;
I saw from out the wave her structures rise
As from the stroke of the enchanter's wand;
A thousand years their cloudy wings expand
Around me, and a dying Glory smiles.

O'er the far times, when many a subject land
Looked at the winged Lion's marble pile,
Where Venice sat in state, throned on her hundred isles.

WILLIAM COLLIER FILM WITH FURNITURE NIGHT

State Offers Good Program Tomorrow in "Broken Gate"; "Life of Riley" Here Last Time Today.

Furniture night comes to the State theater tomorrow again and a gripping drama of modern life comes with it. The film is "The Broken Gate," the story of a boy's fight to save his mother's honor. It is from the pen of Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon" and "North of 36."

The story tells of the battle waged by a lone woman who has been ostracized in the town she was living for what they thought was a youthful indiscretion. Keeping her secret to herself it is suddenly brought to light by the return of her son whom the townspeople thought had died when a child. She is unwilling to let her boy know that she is his mother and also keeps from him the knowledge that his father, a judge, has seen fit to leave the stigma of shame hover over his wife's head. Gossips succeed in fanning the flames of hatred in the minds of the town's riff-raff and through many dramatic scenes the story is unfolded of an heroic woman's fight against great odds, and the intervention of her son who learns his history and fights to the last for his mother. William Collier, Jr., is the star.

Charles Murray and George Sidney are at the State today for the last time in "The Life of Riley," the best comedy that these two have produced so far. It is a small town story, with a fire department, constables, and the rest of it, and the comedy relief is all there in the picture.

Features for Friday and Saturday are "Painting the Town" with Patsy Ruth Miller, and "Barbed Wire" starring Pola Negri. On Sunday and Monday the State will present George O'Brien and Virginia Valli in "East Side, West Side."

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (130) William Murdock

Dr. Clayton experimented with coal gas in 1737 without knowing what it was. He called it the spirit of coal. He would burn coal in a retort and catch the gas in bladders. Then, to amuse his friends, he would prick a hole in the bladder and, putting the hole near a lighted candle, would startle his guests by letting the gas blaze away.

VAUDEVILLE STARTS TONIGHT AT RIALTO

Three Clever Acts From Clements Entertainment Bureau To Be Shown in Addition to Ten Reels of Movies.

The first vaudeville bill of the season will be given at the cozy Rialto theater tonight and Thursday in conjuncture with ten acts of moving pictures—a six reel feature entitled, "A Sailor's Sweetheart", comedy and news weekly. Under the new Rialto policy the top price for all programs, vaudeville and high class pictures included, will be twenty-five cents. Matinee admission is ten and fifteen and at night it is ten and a quarter. Manager Ali has promised to continue the Wednesday and Thursday vaudeville programs should they prove popular in the two-day debut.

The first act tonight will bring forth the Joking Jesters, Higgle and Sidman, two young women with a clever line of comedy interspersed with singing and dancing. These artists are known all over the country having recently finished a vaudeville tour with the Keith Circuit. Next will appear Billie Ziegler, wizard of the baton in an exhibition of skillful and dexterous baton juggling which will be especially effective on a darkened stage. His complete performance makes an excellent performance and is guaranteed to thrill any audience.

The final act produces Eddle Mahoney, known as the "slipping cop". He will score a hit with all who appreciate good old Irish ballads—and almost everyone does appreciate the plaintive haunting songs of Erin when sung as only Eddle Mahoney can sing them.

Manchester Grain & Coal Company

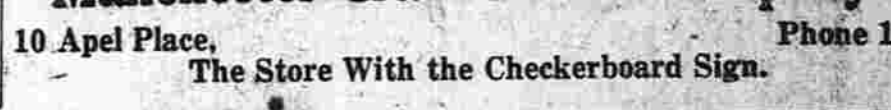

10 Apel Place, Phone 1760 The Store With the Checkerboard Sign.

For fifty years nothing was done with gas. Then one day in 1777 a young Scotsman walked into the offices of Boulton & Watt, steam-engine makers at Soho, England.

The young man asked for work and was so nervous he let his hat drop to the floor. The hat made a great clatter on touching the floor.

Boulton was surprised and asked the reason for the noisy hat. The young man explained that the hat was a wooden one which he himself had made on his father's lathe. Boulton was curious and he hired the young man and sent him to Cornwall, where the firm was building engines. That young man was William Murdock, the inventor of coal-gas.

NEW YORK STATE

Judging from the result of yesterday's election in New York it would not be the part of wisdom for the Republican party, in 1928, to gamble to any great extent on its chances of carrying New York if Al Smith is the candidate of the Democrats for President. Fortunately it is not in the least necessary to gamble in that way. Apparently the voters of New York are still, even at a time when Smith is very generally regarded as a coming Presidential candidate, very largely inclined to give him their ballots. The sweeping victory won by his amendment program is not a thing to be ascribed to special circumstances or coincidence. It simply shows that he has an enormous personal following in his own state and emphasizes the unwisdom of any Republican strategy next year that would depend for success on the electoral vote of that commonwealth.

Also the defeat of the four-year amendment, which was made a direct issue between Smith and the Republicans in the state, goes a long way toward making the more probable Smith's Presidential nomination. He is in a better position than he was two days ago to command the support of his party's convention. It so happens, however, that New York, next year, is extremely unlikely to be a pivotal state. Even if it were granted at the outset that Smith is unbeatable there, even if he were given the vote of that state as a handicap allowance, it would be impossible to figure out where in the rest of the country he could get enough more electoral votes to approach a majority.

And nobody is going to concede Governor Smith his own state. The point merely is that the Republican party can do immensely better anywhere and everywhere else in the country than in New York as against Smith, and that its candidate must be selected for his strength in the country at large and not because he can give Governor Al a harder run in New York than somebody else.

HARTFORD FLOOD CONTROL

Just about one hundred years late, Hartford is beginning to think about flood control. They are talking about raising Commerce street, lifting the railroad crossings in the Windsor street section and building a dike from the Dutch Point power plant to the city line. Any engineering plan to keep the water out of Hartford is bound to be expensive, but it would seem to be a question of whether the city can afford to have these occasional inundations rather than of whether it can afford to prevent them.

Connecticut river floods are fast and furious but not long lived and it would seem probable that a system of levees required to stand a sudden thrust rather than long continued soaking might be erected at a cost not prohibitive. But whatever is done it would appear to be vital that the city of Hartford and the town of East Hartford collaborate on the undertaking. If Hartford succeed ahead independently and succeed in blocking future flood waters from her territory the inevitable consequence, it would seem, would be for East Hartford to get the full weight of the blow parried by her neighbor city. For purposes of flood control Hartford and East Hartford would appear to be Siamese twins.

OLD MAN TARKINGTON

Booth Tarkington—than whom in his day no American writer ever more faithfully interpreted the character of the American boy unless just possibly it may have been William Allen White before the latter spoiled a marvelous child psychologist to make a lopsided political writer—declares mournfully that he is all "out of step" with the new youth and so can't write about it and boys any more. And he is beginning to talk about the probability of his future work being entirely reminiscent.

At 58: And still there are men who consider themselves beyond any question the wiser sex! With substantially every woman of 58 in the United States, unless a confirmed invalid or a congenial grouch, just budding out into a brand new girlhood and fully determined to live her life all over again. Dolefully Tarkington bewails that there are no more Penrods—that the lad he introduced to America has passed on and that his place has been taken by a strange and dreadful creature of wholly different and undeterminable breed. Why, the old grump doesn't recognize his own brain-child merely because Penrod has changed the pattern of his trousers and learned to combat his inferiority complex in the presence of girls by getting fresh instead of stammering. Perhaps, after all, when Tarkington starts in to reminiscing good and earnestly, if he goes far enough back with it he will run up against a sudden realization that the youth of this day isn't so terribly different from the youth of his own day—that there isn't much difference between the idiotic impulse to drive an automobile across a campus at sixty miles an hour and the equally idiotic impulse to lick a cop on the sidewalk—the latter being impulse, something that Tarkington has excellent reason to understand. Anyhow, we'll bet a nickel that if the Hoosier novelist should wake up some morning and discover that all the money he inherited and all he has earned had been hooked overnight he would start in and do a row of "new youth" stories that would sparkle with agreeable verities as truly as anything he ever did. Our belief is that the trouble with Tarkington is neither eye-strain nor age but plain laziness.

BIG BILL'S BREAK

The erudition of Big Bill and his fellow patriots of the Chicago Board of Education is pretty well demonstrated by the joke they played on themselves in the current number of the Board of Education's official organ, the Chicago School Journal.

While they were trying School Superintendent McAndrews for alleged teaching of unpatriotic history and while they were shouting "America First!" at the top of their lungs they permitted an article by Norman Angell to get into print in their ultra-patriotic newspaper. Substantially everybody except Big Bill and his Board of Education knows about Norman Angell, British pacifist who, if he had shown his nose within reach of a group of Tommies any time during the war, would probably have had it torn from his face, and who made more Americans swear than Big Bill has ever made laugh. But so little acquainted with this conspicuous writer's peculiar international philosophies were these educational patriots that they let him put a piece in their paper in the course of which he said:

"Much that masquerades as patriotism is the assertion in the name of our country of a savage egotism which we dare not assert as individuals. If I shout, 'Myself first; myself alone, myself right or wrong,' you know me for a savage unit for civilization. If I shout, 'My country first, my country alone, my country right or wrong,' you know me for a patriot." This Angellism is familiar of old. But in Big Bill's educational organ it takes on a quality to add to the gaiety of nations. The trouble is, however, that it won't make a speck of difference to Big Bill's followers. They can't read.

NO REAL REPORTER

The newspaper reporter rejoicing in the decorative and slightly variegated name of Raymond Emerson De Laney who has been arrested as the author of a large number of house burglaries in Bridgeport has the distinction of being probably the first newspaper raffles in the history of the American press.

Far be it from us to assert that all newspaper men are impeccable, but for some reason or another, perhaps principally because they have occasion to observe the futility of it, they are not greatly given to murder, holdups or the signing of other people's names to checks. At least, if they do these things they are very seldom caught at it, for almost the only offenses for which any of them have ever been in jail in the United States is for telling the truth about the wrong person, which is sometimes construed to be criminal libel. Always excepting, of course, the mere incident of being pinched for getting soured.

But what is particularly mystifying about the fall from grace of this Bridgeport reporter is his fool selection of a department of crookedness. In these days the underworld regards the house burglar as the world's best money, for at best his annual income is a feeble compared with that of a hi-jacker or even a retail bootlegger, his risk infinitely greater and his social position in crookdom is nil. We'll guess that that bird learned his trade in a correspondence school. He was no real reporter.

With a reporter's wits he would have been some other kind of a thief, if any.

CONNECTICUT ELECTIONS

The recent spasm of synthetic enthusiasm among the Democrats of the state seems to have slight effect on the elections on New Haven and Bridgeport, where Republican mayors and city governments were returned yesterday by impressive majorities. The result in Bridgeport is to be regarded as a ratification of the healing of old wounds in the party which was accomplished last summer, for majorities of around 4,000 in an off-year city election where only about 28,000 votes are polled are not to be sneezed at and show real organization.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, Nov. 9.—Congress will open with a great hoop-te-doo over the question of whether or not Senators Frank Smith and Bill Vare are such awful persons as they are said to be and if so, are they too awful to be allowed in the Senate.

As this titanic battle approaches, the ordinary citizen undoubtedly will be asking himself a question which long has caused considerable puzzlement among the unsophisticated. That question is: It will be recalled that something like $4,000,000 was spent in Illinois and Pennsylvania on behalf of three candidates and that half of it was wasted on the Hon. George Wharton Pepper, who was defeated by Boss Vare, the man who cost his backers only a million.

Why those four millions? Did millionaire public utilities men, bankers, secretaries of the treasury and manufacturers chip in out of the kindness of their hearts? Or was it because they were determined that the people must have the best men, at all costs, who would represent the public's interests alone?

One suggests reluctantly that we must seek further for the answer. Samuel Insull, the multimillionaire utilities magnate, gave $125,000—or was it $307,000?—to the Smith campaign, but he also kicked in with at least $25,000 for George Brennan, Smith's Democratic opponent. And Mellon, after announcing that the money he poured into the Pepper sieve was given in as good a cause as money to the church, swung to the support of Bill Vare along with the whole Mellon machine, despite the fact that the Mellon organization had nearly broken its neck and put up all its money in the attempt to beat Vare in the primaries.

That, would make it appear that, after all, it never made much difference from the standpoint of public interest whether Brennan beat Smith or Vare licked Pepper. And we still have the question before us why, in that case, anyone should want to shell out in such large quantities. Attempts at answers, one observes, come more profusely from the self-alleged pure than from the so-called unclean. The candidates are all glad to explain why they needed all that money, but their angelo are reticent as to why they produced.

Thus, one turns to consider the explanation of such an ancient enemy of political sewers as the Hon. Robert L. Owen, for 13 years senator from Oklahoma and now president of the National Popular Government League. It should be remembered, of course, that the Hon. Bob, for all his sincerity, is not invariably dead right and that if the wealthy angelo ever undertake to explain, their words should be given due consideration.

Owen explains as follows: He has been explaining for a long time, that we are governed by an "invisible government" of plutocrats who have usurped the ruling power supposedly held by the people. Three or four hundred men, he believes, buy elections and nominations, fill the White House and the chambers of Congress, appoint judges and control all branches of government. They control everything necessary to allow them governmental favors and a clear, unobstructed sweep, at the expense of us, the people.

"The Illinois and Pennsylvania scandals showed up the plutocracy in action," he says: "It was the invisible government of money, in process of buying or unduly influencing the governing powers of the people and establishing a secret and often an unconscious control over the men who are supposed to represent all the people impartially."

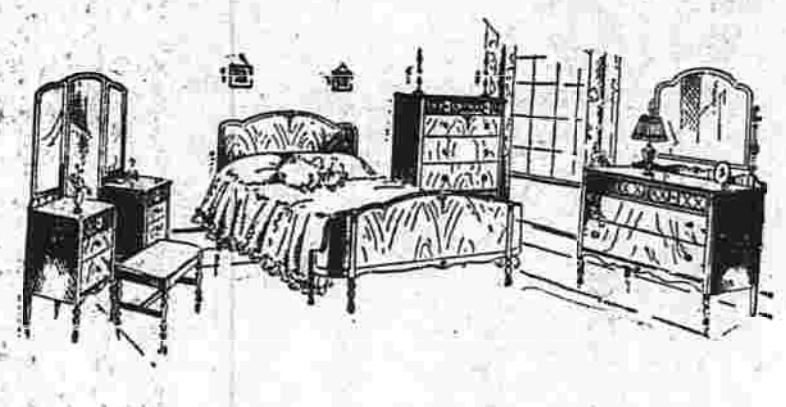

This system, says Owen, is responsible for retention of corrupt officials, relief of the rich from a fair share of taxation, attempts to give away Muscle Shoals and abolish the federal inheritance tax, veto of farm relief legislation, failure to provide for flood sufferers, connivance at defeating prohibition, enforcement and so on. It protects "plundering monopolies" through the tariff. It instituted a deflation policy which wrecked 3,000 banks, still keeps commercial bankruptcy figures three times as high as before and cost farmers and stock men $20,000,000,000, according to Owen.

He quotes Roosevelt and Hiram Johnson about an "invisible government" by an "unholy alliance of corrupt business and corrupt politics" and Woodrow Wilson's charge that the "Government of the United States at present is a foster-child of special interests."

JAPAN'S POLICY STIRRING ANGER ON MANCHURIANS

New Railway Controller Is Virtual Ruler of Great Territory.

Tokyo. — Jotaro Yamamoto, who has just been named president of the South Manchuria railway, which means that he is virtual ruler of territory controlled by Japan in Manchuria, has wasted no time in defining the new "positive policy" which has caused so much excitement among the Chinese. Riots and demonstrations have followed each other in rapid succession in Mukden and other Manchurian cities, in protest against any change of Japanese policy.

So Mr. Yamamoto at once issued a statement, explaining that the "positive policy" used by the government party for local political consumption, is really no policy at all, and that it is not necessary even to mention it outside of Japan proper.

Not a Policy.
"It is ridiculous to refer to this so-called 'positive policy' as a 'new Twenty-one Demands,'" said Mr. Yamamoto, in an official statement. "I will take this opportunity to repeat again what my predecessors have said in the past. Japan has no aggressive designs on Manchuria. She wishes merely to retain what rights she has gained by wars and treaties. So long as the Manchurian government respects these rights, there will be no trouble. But on the other hand, Japan intends to keep her rights, and will not tolerate their violation."

This straightforward statement has had a good effect both in Japan and China. Japanese businessmen were much concerned lest the premier, Baron Tanaka, might become too aggressive in North China, and thus spoil Japan's trade with Central and Southern China. Mr. Yamamoto is a member of the Seiyukai party which the premier heads, and his statement is equivalent to one by the premier himself.

Clarifies Position.
This statement made by the new railway chief clarifies once more just how Japan stands in regard to Manchuria. Mr. Yamamoto makes it perfectly clear that Japan does not intend to give up any of her rights in Manchuria, even if she has to fight for them. She intends to hold onto the South Manchuria railway, with its mines, oil fields, rich farm lands, and cities. She intends to insist upon special privileges for her own subjects in the territory controlled by the railway, and guaranteed by treaties which run indefinitely.

On the other hand, there is thus far no evidence that the Tanaka government intends to usurp new territory in Manchuria. The Japanese have their hands full in holding to what they have. Eut it becomes more clear every day that Japan considers Manchuria essential to her prosperity, even to her existence as a world power, and feels she must hold on to it at any cost.

Mr. Yamamoto's firmness has resulted in termination of the anti-Japanese riots and demonstrations in Mukden and elsewhere. The Japanese believe that these were instigated by the Manchurian overlord, Chang Tso-lin, for purposes of his own. But Chang has apparently decided to "be good" again. He invited Mr. Yamamoto to visit him.

COLD CARS ARE ONE OF FLOOD'S RESULTS

Heat in Trolleys Shut Off Because Power Plant Is Crippled.

Commuters and other people who went back and forth between Manchester, Rockville and Hartford today rode in trolley cars which were unheated. The trouble may be laid to the flood which has damaged the Connecticut Company power house on Commerce street, Hartford.

The big intake pipe which carries water from the Connecticut River into the power house has been crushed and is now out of order. All power was cut over from the Commerce street station to the station at Berlin yesterday afternoon. To conserve power, the order was issued yesterday that no heat shall be turned on in the trolley cars until further notice. It is claimed that actually more power is used in heating the cars than in running them.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World-Famed Authority

SCIENCE STILL PUZZLED ON FUNCTION OF SPLEEN By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine In the abdomen lies a large pulpy organ known as the spleen, which, according to popular tradition, has some association with emotions of anger. The phrase "vent one's spleen" had relationship to a release of wrath. Strangely enough the exact functions of this organ in the human body have not yet been satisfactorily determined although much time and money have been spent in research. Not long ago certain investigators asserted that the spleen could be observed in contraction under certain conditions. The theoretical explanation was offered that this contraction was due to a discharge of blood from the organ. Blood Cells Theory For some time it has been thought that the organ was especially concerned with the chemistry of the blood and with the manufacture of new blood cells. Quite recently British investigators have developed some ingenious experiments which throw new light on the functions of the organ. In animals it is possible to insert a celluloid window into the body and to watch the functions of the organ directly. It is also possible to study its relations under the X-ray...

organs. It is interesting to know that psychological or emotional processes that are likely to culminate in violence also cause the spleen to become pale and to contract somewhat, anticipating the actual exercise. The contraction of the spleen seems to be subject to control through the nervous system, which serves also to link up its action with the brain centers during strong emotions.

Yale Bars Caldwell; Says He's Ineligible

Blue Ace Played With Brown Eight Years Ago Which Breaks "Transfer Rule"; Football Fans Shocked.

Caldwell

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—Yale will play its annual game with Princeton at the Yale Bowl here next Saturday minus the services of Bruce Caldwell, its famous half-back.

Prof. Nettleton, in his statement, announced that Caldwell was disqualified because of his participation at Brown University in 1923 in two football games with the Bruins' freshmen eleven.

The action by the Yale athletic authorities was obligatory in accordance with the "transfer rule" agreed to by Yale, Princeton and Harvard in 1923. This rule states that any student who has participated in sport in another institution is ineligible to represent any of the "Big Three" colleges in the same branch of athletics.

According to Prof. Nettleton, officials at Yale had "no inkling of the impending loss of their star" until yesterday. Caldwell's services were expected to prove invaluable to the Bulldogs against Princeton. Caldwell himself, it appears, did not know of the rule, and did not realize that he was breaking it by playing three years of varsity football with the Bruins.

Caldwell won his varsity letter by playing in the Harvard game of 1925, but last year was out with injuries. He played such season-long football against the Army and Dartmouth this year that he appeared to be riding the crest of football greatness, which was expected to get him All-American honors at the end of the season.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton has not taken official notice of the questioned eligibility of Bruce Caldwell for Saturday's game between the Tigers and Yale. The Princeton athletic authorities intend permitting the Yale officials to settle it themselves.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Dartmouth and Brown will not protest the Yale victories because of the ineligibility of Bruce Caldwell. Harvard regrets that Caldwell will not have an opportunity to show what he could do in the annual battle between Harvard and Yale.

The parents of the famous Yale Yack, who are working in a Rhode Island cotton mill so he will not have to support them, feel sorry but also feel that education, not football, was his big objective.

Brown authorities knew that Caldwell had played on the freshman team eight years ago at Providence but did not see any reason why that should make him ineligible to play at Yale and therefore did not raise the question before or immediately after the Brown-Yale game.

Seventeen years ago today, Cyclone Johnny Thompson of Sycamore, Ill., and Rudy Unholz of Johannesburg, South Africa, clashed in the ring at Sydney, Australia, but the fray was stopped by the police in the sixth round to save the Boer fighter from further punishment.

Both boys were famous in American fight circles. Unholz for his heroic struggles with Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast, Joe Gans and other top-notchers, while Thompson, who vied with Packy McFarland for welterweight honors, afterward became a middleweight title claimant and defeated Billy Papke for the honor in an Australian ring.

Unholz was the nomad of the fight game, having fought in the rings of Europe, Canada, Mexico, South Africa, South America and the United States.

Why they call Hoffman "Big" can be understood easily by seeing this back in action. When he carries a ball, he "bluffs" a line. When he passes, he does it with a beauty that is beautiful to behold. When he punts, he punts! Hoffman was of All-America caliber last season and seems to be just as good this year. He is the key man in most of the Stanford plays.

2 VETERANS LEFT ON S. M. H. S. FIVE Squad Working Out Thrice Weekly Now; First Game Against Hartford; Candidates.

A large squad of basketball possibilities is working out three afternoons a week at the School Street Recreation Center and from them will be selected the team that will represent Manchester High on the basketball court next season.

Coach Wilfred J. Clarke, popular coach of the local team, says he feels quite confident his 1927-28 edition will be fully as good as the one that came within a single point of winning the Connecticut championship at Yale last March.

The team will be built about two regulars from last season in the persons of Nino Boggini and Billy Dowd. Both played backcourt positions last season but in all probability Boggini will be shifted forward. Billy Dowd may be eligible for center position.

For the center position, Coach Clarke will have "Doc" Keeney, captain of the football team, "Tubby" Johnson and Jimmy McCaw as the most promising candidates. At forward, in addition to Nino Boggini, there is Ernie Dowd, Wrenn last year's Trade School team, "Pitt" Healey, Alphonse Boggini and Shannon as the most likely candidates, while at guard much is expected of Campbell and Kittle in addition to the veteran Billy Dowd.

All of the candidates have not yet reported because of connections with the school football team. The High school will open its basketball season on December 9 against Hartford High at the School Street Rec.

Following is a list of players from which Coach Clarke will pick his first and second string teams: E. Dowd, Oppizzi, Campbell, A. Boggini, V. Boggini, N. Boggini, Kerr, McCaw, Wrenn, Moriarty, Greenaway, Keeney, Shannon, E. Dowd, Healy, Hansen, Johnson, Nicola, Moriarty, Treumann, Turington, McCluskey, Aiken, Ferguson and Duncan.

Three Local Boys In Plainfield "5"

Three Manchester basketball players will be on the Plainfield Community Club when that team opens its season on its home floor tonight against the Fall River Club. They are Roy Norris, George Stavitsky and Harold Madden.

Plainfield had a very successful season for 1926-27 and is hopeful of repeating this season. At present the team will carry seven players but later may decide to cut one. Leo Normandin and Roy Dessinger, members of the team last season, will be back. The two newcomers are "Litty" Bernot, former American League, and Billy Schofield, late of Connecticut Aggie fame.

Methodist Eleven Praised by Evans

By BILLY EVANS.

In a topsy-turvy football season, probably the most unusual in gridiron annals, the State of Texas has done more than its share in upsetting the dope.

When the final roundup of the 1927 football season is made, the experts must turn in the direction of the Lone Star state and give the teams of the Southwestern Conference more than passing consideration.

The Southwestern Conference is made up of six universities in the state of Texas and one in Arkansas which has been a literal hot-house for great athletes, particularly in baseball. Outstanding among the Texas teams is that of Southern Methodist University, located in Dallas and having a student body of about 3000.

Three important inter-sectional games were on the schedule of the Southwestern Conference at the opening of the season. All have passed and each has been a victory for the Texans.

First came Texas A. & M.'s annual battle with the University of the South, better known, perhaps, simply as Sewanee. The Aggies turned in a decisive win by the score of 18-0.

Next on the list was the yearly encounter between University of Texas and Vanderbilt. Coach Dan McGugin's formidable team was forced to take the short end of a 13-6 count.

Third and last of the invaders was Missouri, boasting of one of the greatest eleven in the school's history. Full of confidence as the result of an impressive victory over Nebraska by a one-point margin, Missouri fully expected to add Southern Methodist University to its list of victims.

Outrightly sorry pounds to the man particularly in the line, the Methodists, led by their great "Little" quarterback, Gerald Mann, registered an easy victory over the highly touted Missouri Tigers by the lopsided score of 32-9.

One week later, the same Missouri team ran roughshod over Northwestern University of Big Ten fame by the score of 32-19. This is simply offered as a means of comparison, so that you can fully appreciate what a really great team the S. M. U. eleven is.

After their surprising victory over Missouri, the Southern Methodist varsity came right back one week later with a win over Texas, the conqueror of Vanderbilt.

While comparative scores do not always tell the true story, still it is the only source the dopesters have to rate their teams. Working along those lines it would be a very easy matter to get the Southern Methodist boys right up among the first ten leaders.

From many sources I get glowing reports relative to Captain Mann of the Southern Methodists. Last year on my All-American team, picked on information gained from the leading coaches of the country, I gave Mann the position of quarterback on the third eleven.

If I understand him is a much improved player this year. Mann's most recent booster is Ernest Quigley, National League umpire and well known football official, who worked the game between Missouri and the Texans. He says there are few better quarterbacks in the country.

Inability of Fidel La Barba, because of his being retired flyweight champion of the world, to compete in college athletics (he is now a freshman at Stanford) brings forth a bit of sympathy from a column writer in the Daily Trojan at Southern California.

We quote the Trojan writer: "This little fellow, La Barba, came to be admired wherever there were sports fans for his clean living, his sportsmanship, and his modesty, while champion flyweight boxer of the world.

"It seems a pity that he must forfeit all athletic participation for the Cardinals now that he has retired from the ring to continue his education.

FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR ANENT "SLEEPY" CROWLEY

Out in South Bend the other day I met a droll, laughingly, lashed young man, well known by the name of "Sleepy" Crowley. So pleasant and so mild, withal, were the manners of this slender young man, that it required a second look to realize that he was indeed the mighty "Sleepy" Crowley of "Four Horsemen" fame.

There is little suggestion of that thunderbolt speed and strength which swept aside the defense of Notre Dame's opponents in the victorious year, A. D. 1924, about Jim Crowley in his street clothes. He seems light, to have been the terror of Rockne's greatest backfield, but if you happen to recall, when "Sleepy" took 'em out of play in those days, they stayed out.

"Sleepy" Crowley was in South Bend to scout Georgia Tech for Georgia. He is backfield coach at the latter school, and drilled the team which romped to victory over Yale last month.

At the time, Georgia's victory over the Bulldog did not seem particularly surprising, nor yet impressive. Yale was written down as mediocre and little was thought of the Southerners' victory.

Now, with old Ed standing out as the best football team in the entire East, Georgia's success takes on a new significance.

Crowley says Georgia has "a right good ball club." It is collegiate, at the moment, to refer to a football team as "a club."

"Sleepy" watched Tech taking a licking at the hands of Notre Dame and left with the prediction that Georgia will bet its Southern Conference rivals in the big game on December 3.

Georgia Tech went to South Bend with the reputation of having turned back the "Crimson Tide" of Alabama. This had not been accomplished for a couple of seasons, and Tech received a lot of credit from the experts.

Rockne's capable Notre Dame boys took the wind out of the "Golden Tornado" in short order, and before the game was half over, Knute was pulling out his regulars and beginning to save all hands for the more-dreaded Minnesota game the following week.

"Stumpy" Thomson proved himself a good defensive back, but he couldn't gain against the Irish. The punting of Mizell was the most impressive feature of Tech's play.

"Sleepy" Crowley says that his Georgia club has the finest pair of ends in the south, and that Tom Nash and Chick Shiver, the wing men in question, rank with any he ever has seen work.

Of the backfield men, whom he coaches, Crowley had less to say, but he admitted that McCreary, his fullback, was just about the best in moleskins today.

The non-scouting sentiment of the East has not affected Southern and Mid-Western football to any appreciable extent. In South Bend for the Georgia Tech game were Southern coaches watching the "Tornado," army officers spying upon the "Irish," Minnesota grads looking over Rockne's attack.

By none of them need Knute Rockne mind. The day before the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame game, I attended secret practice and saw Rockne's second team run off the visitors' trick plays against the Irish first team, run them off more smoothly than did the Southerners themselves on Saturday, and gain more yards by the use of them!

In three California cities, schools were closed during their performance, so great was the attraction of these slugging stars—Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, drew the greatest crowd during the tour when 30,000 persons in New York, New Jersey, and Ohio, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado and California.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 9.—With both the north and south gridirons going full blast, Army today continued its strenuous preparations for Notre Dame. As yesterday, the varsity was to scrimmage against Notre Dame plays until dark. Drapes and Bell were excused from scrimmage today as Harvard polishes off for the Brown contest Saturday. It is doubtful whether Crosby, also lame, will see action Saturday.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—With Garvey substituting for the ineligible Caldwell in the backfield, Yale was scheduled for scrimmage this afternoon following yesterday's practice session that witnessed the varsity trounce the scrubs for two touchdowns. Garvey went over for one of the touchdowns. Hammersley also is to be given a crack at Caldwell's position and may see action against Princeton Saturday.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 9.—With Scholas and Schumaker, ends, and Wicham and Katch, tackles, absent due to injury, the Cornell varsity went through a brief light drill today, scheduled to train tomorrow for Hanover.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Assured that Joe Roper, guard, would be back on the job for the Yale encounter Saturday, the Princeton squad went through another drill session in mud and cold today while its activities were shrouded with more secrecy than has been employed by any eastern team for many years.

New York, Nov. 9.—With actual scoring barred, New York University was entering upon its final scrimmage session today prior to its clash with the Pennsylvania State College at Stronghold Saturday. The squad entrains for Bellefonte tomorrow evening, using the cars as a hotel quarters and journeying to the Penn field for practice Friday by motor bus.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 9.—Knute Rockne is concentrating this week on his line, trying to shape up a forward wall that will withstand the Army attack. The Irish play the soldiers at West Point Saturday. Owing to the lightness of his forwards, Rockne has to work out some "trick" maneuvers to stop the heavy "Mule" backs.

LINEMEN SELDOM GIVEN DESERVED CREDIT FOR WORK

Attention of Onlookers Always Centered on Man Carrying Ball, Says Evans

By BILLY EVANS

The football public never gives the forwards the proper credit simply because its entire attention is always centered on the man with the ball.

Last season Mike Wilson, Lafayette's great halfback, was the leading scorer in the east. This year, Mike is among the also rans.

Mike Wilson of this year is just as good a football player as he was in 1926. The answer to his failure to run wild as he did last season is due to the difference in the calibre of the teams.

Lafayette of last year was undefeated, one of the very best football teams in the country. This year it has been tied by West Virginia, trounced 14-0 by Washington and Jefferson and simply slaughtered by Penn State.

The failure of the line to hold, the lack of interference and the absence of a good blocking back, explains the failure of Mike Wilson to shine and Lafayette to win.

Watch the men in the line during the progress of some important game, rather than the man with the ball, and you will have a greater appreciation of the worth of the forwards.

For years the point after touchdown has been a source of much dispute. Annually there is a movement started to abolish it but it always bobs up in some form or other.

This year, the rule-makers decided to move the goal posts 10 yards farther back, hoping to make goals from the field as well as any attempt to score the point after touchdown by kicking, all the more difficult.

In that respect it has succeeded, for, as I look over my football statistics, I find that goals from the field have been cut down about two-thirds. In addition, failure to score a point after touchdown, via the place of drop-kick has been the deciding factor in a number of important games.

Yet there is a wide difference of opinion among the leading coaches as to whether the moving back of the goal posts has helped or handicapped.

A perusal of the results of the games that have already been played show that failure of the kicker has cost a number of big battles.

Yale beat the Army 10-6. Yale's point after touchdown and the Army's failure, really decided the game, the three points scored by the field goal were unnecessary.

In Big Ten circles, Purdue and Northwestern suffered defeats by a one-point margin. Chicago won from the former, Illinois from the latter, by 7-6 scores.

Brown lost its fourth straight to Lebanon Valley, 13-12, the biggest upset of the year, due to missing both points after touchdown.

Other games in which the value of the kick figure prominently were Missouri's 7-6 win over Nebraska, Kansas' victory over Drake by the same score, and triumph of Louisiana State over the Mississippi Aggies, 9-7.

He is going after him at the Trenton trial on the ground that he constitutes a trust; not only

Commercial Bowling Loop Organized With 8 Teams

RICKARD FINDING SOME OPPOSITION Kearns, Mullan and Curley Are After Him—Tunney May Leave Him.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 9.—There were indications today that tended to prove that George L. Rickard, the man with the one-way luck, may soon find himself running against traffic for the first time in his public life. Rickard holds the whip hand at this time but they say the real test will come a year from now, provided Gene Tunney still holds the heavyweight championship.

To those close to Tunney, it is no secret that the champion is bound to Rickard only by a matter of commercial instinct; that between promoter and champion the love lost would fill a large eye in a small needle. It is a good guess that, if Tunney can see his way clear at all, he will refuse to tie himself up with Rickard beyond the next championship fight in the hope that some other promoter, Jim Mullan for example, will be able to show something by that time.

So much for some alleged anti-Rickard sentiment from a source that really counts. It counts just this much: That, if Tunney really cares to bolt the janty, Rickard's monopoly on heavyweights—the source of all his recent success—will be broken as you break the back of a beetle.

Got the Million However, it is well to remember that Rickard got Tunney nearly a million dollars for his last fight. And I've noticed from personal experience, that you can't hate a man who has made a million, and is really sincere about it.

There are other influences, quite independent of Tunney, who are turning their guns on Rickard and one of them is said to come from within Rickard's own organization. This man, fathered by Tunney and Dempsey split a million and a half in Chicago and the Garden got some $400,000 for making the match possible and more recently the organization failed to pass a contract Rickard made for Paulino and Phil Scott.

The promoter laughed that one off with a deep contralto but the contract continued to register that the contract remained unapproved. Even the majority stockholder, it would seem, has something to worry about if his own organization fails to stay with him.

Dempsey Suit All of which brings us around to Jack Kearns and the Dempsey suit, which is due to begin next week. According to Kearns' statement, he is going after Rickard just as hard as he will attempt to hurt Dempsey; for Kearns has declared eternal vendetta against the promoter and this may prove to be more important than it sounds.

Nobody takes Kearns seriously about sending Mickey Walker out as a heavyweight contender but the man who can make Walker what he is today is a man who might very well produce another heavyweight champion. If he ever got one, Kearns wouldn't let Rickard sell tickets at the door.

He is going after him at the Trenton trial on the ground that he constitutes a trust; not only

Six More Matches In Herald League

Six more matches will be played in The Herald Bowling League which will convene tomorrow night for its second session. All of the clashes are expected to furnish plenty of thrills. Here is the way the teams pair up:

AT MURPHY'S St. Bridget's vs. K. of P. Cubs vs. Beethoven Glees. W. S. Rec vs. Bon Ami Club.

AT COHRAN'S Cloverleaves vs. K. of C. British A. vs. Concord Church. AT KACEY Masons vs. Highland Park.

It is difficult to predict how the matches will come out but the Highland Park was met at full strength last week. The Center Church and British Americans were both winners last week so that ought to be a humdinger. The Cloverleaves and Knights of Columbus looks like a toss up with the former being a slight favorite.

At Murphy's the best match looks like the go between the West Side Rec and the Bon Ami, the only team to bag four points the opening night. The Cubs are confident of tuning up the Beethoven singers but may get off pitch themselves. The St. Bridget's and the Knights of Pythias are both north end teams of Pythias that alone assures a close match.

All players should be sure to get copies of the league schedule published in The Herald yesterday. They will come in handy many times and save lots of bother.

THE TINYMITES

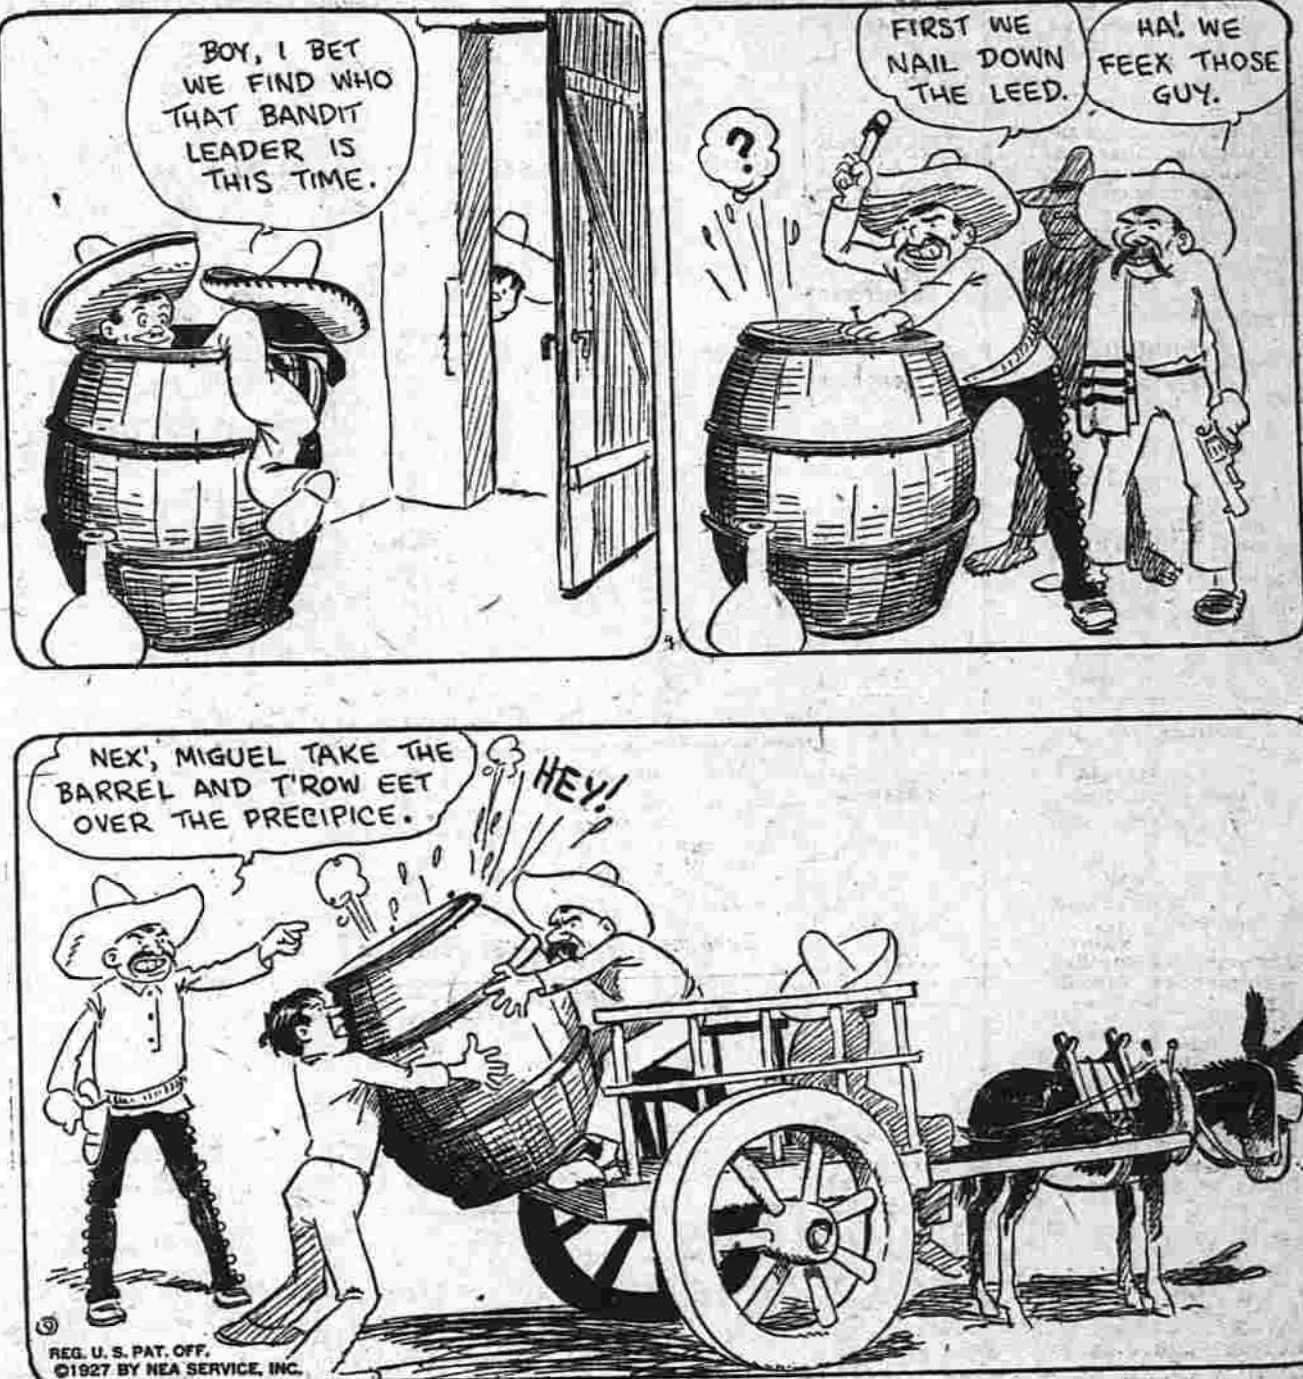

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The queer man thus had had his way, and so he floated far away. The Tynies watched him float along till he was out of sight. Then Carpy cried, "That's what I said, I told you that we looked so strange to 'em upon the barrel. Now I'm sure that it's all right."

RESTAURANT CHEF DOPED AND ROBBED

Uno Lindell Says Drink Put Him to Sleep—Finds Money Gone on Awakening.

It was learned today that Uno Lindell, short order cook at the State Tavern on Bissell street, was robbed by two strangers last Friday evening after being rendered unconscious by a drink of liquor which one of the men had given him.

Gus Ulrich, proprietor of the tavern, had, according to his own story, left the place in charge of Lindell and had told him to close up as soon as the show in the State theater was finished. Business was dull that night, anyway.

About 10:30 two strangers entered the place, ostensibly to have something to eat. One of the men offered Lindell a drink. Lindell took it and that is all he knows. When he woke up about 5 o'clock in the morning he found that he had been robbed of his pension check, which he receives monthly from the government because of his services in the Spanish American War. The cash register, which had contained two dollars, was also empty.

Lindell made his way home, still in a dazed condition, and it was not until later in the morning that he was able to tell what had happened to him. He is unable to give a description of the men who robbed him and does not know how long he was unconscious.
