Nun Also Perishes When Orphan Asylum Is Burned Down In Quebec Early To- day.

Quebec, Dec. 15.—Twenty-six children and one nun were known to have perished and thirty-three other children are feared to have lost their lives in a fire that completely destroyed the St. Charles Orphan Asylum here early today. The bodies of the nun and twenty-six children were recovered, and the other thirty-three are missing. The floors of the building collapsed and the trapped victims were buried in the flaming wreckage. Firemen were unable to penetrate the smoldering ruins this morning to recover additional bodies. The building housed 500 children and forty nuns. Several of the injured were taken to hospitals.

Feats of Heroism
Firemen, police and nuns performed extraordinary feats of heroism in rescuing children from the fire. Under the direction of the nuns, who remained calm in the emergency, many of the children were marched out of the building in an orderly manner. Others were carried down ladders or other devices before the building collapsed.

The fire started in the basement, police said, gained headway on the second floor and mushroomed through the building.

The flames spread rapidly. The entire staff of the institution was quickly marshalled into a rescue force. The alarm was given by a nun, but many of the children in certain sections of the building found escape cut off. They undoubtedly perished while groping their way through fire and smoke to the stairways and other exits.

Not All Orphans
The asylum is operated by the Good Shepherd Sisters for children of ages ranging from five to sixteen. Some of the children were not orphans, but were sent there by their parents for safety before the building collapsed.

The fire started shortly after eleven o'clock last night, and the embers were still smoldering this morning.

The burning walls and floors collapsed so suddenly that despite the presence of the nuns, many were in charge and the fine behavior of the children, it was impossible to escape from a great tragedy. The firemen and nuns risked their lives in saving those who were rescued. A large crowd that gathered outside the building heard the screams of the children as the walls collapsed.

Two Adults Die
Two elderly persons who lived in the asylum are believed to have perished. They were employed at the institution.

The children who were saved were given shelter at the Mother House of the Good Shepherd and in private homes nearby. The horror of the tragedy unseparated the youthful survivors, some of whom cried bitterly for their lost companions. Some of the nuns who had placed their children in the orphanage to be educated learned of the fire and rushed to the scene. Those who learned that their loved ones were dead or missing rent the air with their cries, while those whose

MAYOR LOSES FIGHT AGAINST TELEPHONE CO.

Public Utilities Commission Dismisses His Application For Lower Rates.

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 15.—The Public Utilities Commission has dismissed the application of Mayor A. N. Phillips Jr. for relief from telephone rates charged in Stamford by the Southern New England Telephone Company. The commission's finding declares that Mayor Phillips' statement was "of unusual tenor" and contained chiefly "accusations against the state tribunal to which he appealed."

The statement "contained no facts bearing on the complaint," the commission says, "and points out that no particular rate or class of rates was mentioned as excessive."

"This commission would have been justified in dismissing the complaint without further consideration," the finding declares, pointing out it was because of the desire to be of service to the city of Stamford that the matter was considered at all after Mayor Phillips had finished reading his "typewritten statement." The mayor "did not make out a prima facie case," the finding says, and the company was courteous to residents of Stamford in submitting its side of the case at all.

Senate Is Probing The Hearst Charges

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Senate's investigation into charges published by the Hearst newspapers that the Mexican government ordered sums aggregating $1,215,000 paid to four United States senators got under way here today.

The charges were backed up by the Hearst papers with secret documents that they asserted came from the archives of the Mexican foreign office.

The hearing started shortly after ten o'clock in a committee room filled with witnesses and spectators. Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, was chairman of the investigating committee.

William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the 26 Hearst newspapers, was the first witness. Mr. Hearst was sworn and gave his occupation as a journalist.

Mr. Hearst asked the publisher whether he had the documents published in the Washington Herald and other Hearst papers, relating to Mexican charges.

Turns Over Originals
"I think I have the originals," said Mr. Hearst.

"Will you turn them over to the committee?"

"Yes," responded Mr. Hearst, handing Reed a bulky envelope, which Reed placed on the table in front of him.

Reed asked the publisher what method had been pursued in decoding some of the documents, which were in Mexican government code. Mr. Hearst replied that he was unable to decode them but would have other witnesses who could.

"How did these documents first come to your attention?" asked Reed.

Mr. Hearst replied that he would be glad to tell provided he could refer to "one man" without mentioning his name. He explained that to mention his name might cause considerable embarrassment to the man in question, for he is still in business in Mexico. Reed asked for the name "privately," and Mr. Hearst wrote it out on a slip of paper and gave it to the committee.

Lives in Mexico
"This gentleman was in Mexico and he learned there were documents in the Mexican archives that indicated undue interference in the affairs of the United States," said Mr. Hearst. "He communicated that to Edward Clark, the executor of my mother's estate, by letter."

"What happened then?"

NOTED ECONOMIST MAKES PREDICTION

Makes Business Survey and Tells Why Nation Will Prosper.

New York, Dec. 15.—High wages, steady employment, low inventories of raw materials and manufactured goods, commodity price stability, low money rates, activity in "key industries," stability of foreign currencies and the brighter prospects for American foreign trade are the principal factors that will contribute to American prosperity next year, in the opinion of Francis H. Sisson, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York and one of America's best known economists.

"Although the industrial reaction of the last few months has involved some reduction in working forces, the movement has not reached serious proportions, nor does it threaten to be more than temporary," said Sisson to International News Service today, in outlining the business prospects of the immediate future.

Basis of Prosperity
"In at least one respect," said Sisson, "the basis of prosperity has broadened considerably during the last twelve months. The farm population, the most important group that has failed to share substantially in the recovery from the collapse following the war, has made distinct progress and is probably in the most favorable position it has enjoyed in seven years. The improvement has been remarkably distributed, and not only the farmer, but the nation at large, will be greatly benefited by this reinforcement of the weakest spot in our economic structure."

Business Activity
In spite of our high level of business activity in recent years, Sisson sees no sign of the inventory ac-

MUSSOLINI TO FREE POLITICAL PLOTTERS

To Pardon 600 Prisoners as a Mark of Kindness Toward His Enemies.

Rome, Dec. 15.—All persons convicted of plotting against the life of Premier Mussolini have been pardoned and will be released from prison as a gesture of Fascist generosity, it was announced by Mussolini himself at a Cabinet meeting today.

Mussolini said that Fascism could best give evidence of its strength by showing kindness to its enemies. "Christmas Clemency" will be extended to upwards of 600 prisoners who are serving time for various offenses. They will be released in a few days.

In reviewing foreign policy Mussolini said that both the Italo-Albanian and the Franco-Yugoslav treaties were "correct" and pacific in character.

"In this connection it might be well to speak of the Franco-Italian situation," said the premier. "The Franco-Italian situation is a possible, useful and even necessary to have a broad and cordial agreement between Italy and France. Consequently diplomatic channels will be utilized shortly for examination of the problems which have threatened to create friction. But these problems are neither serious nor unsolvable. After the diplomatic negotiations I shall meet with Foreign Minister Briand, of France, to sanction an agreement."

COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA, DEAD, SAYS IVY LEE

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—Communism has failed and has been replaced in Russia by State Capitalism, which is slowly but surely moving toward an adjustment with capitalism of western nations. Bolshevism is fundamentally contrary to human nature.

The Soviet form of government is stable, and there is no reason to anticipate a revolution in Russia which would upset that form of government. The probability is in the direction of an adaptation of the practices of the Soviet government to those of the rest of the world.

These were among the conclusions, based upon a recent trip to the former land of the Czar, of Ivy Lee, public relations counsel to John D. Rockefeller, given in an address this afternoon to members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and members of the Advertising Club of Boston.

Outstanding Features
Other outstanding features in the Russian situation enumerated by Mr. Lee follow:

The 130,000,000 peasants are demanding more and more from the 15,000,000 industrial workers, explaining the fight between Stalin, representing the peasants, and Trotsky.

Leninism and Socialism are still pursued with religious fervor by some leaders of the Communist Party, who swear that they will never surrender to capitalism; but their shouts are as those of a man living in a house built upon the sands.

Russian leaders are realists and, however misguided, are in the main honest, sincere and earnest.

One responsible Russian asked frankly "How could we expect to make Bolshevism a success in America against 23,000,000 motor cars?"

Greatest Danger
The Communist International is the supreme danger which menaces modern civilization, the so-called Bolshevik propaganda getting all its drive from the International, which is harbored by the Soviet government, but is in fact an organization without a country.

Russian leaders are slowly realizing that the revolution is impossible—the only conceivable method of achieving success is for them to make the Russian state itself a success.

Russia's supreme need is for capital and credit.

Russian people are desperately poor.

What Russia Must Do
Russia will never gain the confidence and support of mankind until she does these things: First, establish a reputation for good faith and a desire to comply with every international obligation; second,

PLANTSVILLE BANK ROBBERY IN COURT

Prosecutor Trying to Connect Southington Man With the Crime.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 15.—Efforts to connect Stuart R. Florian, of Southington, with the robbery of the Plantville National Bank on June 22nd, last, featured the trial of Florian in Superior Court here today. The bank lost $4,438.62 in the hold-up. Beside Florian, three residents of Cicero, Illinois, are being held for the robbery. They are William Kappello, Albert Meyer, and Thomas Di Marco.

When the Florian case opened today, Daniel Donovan, proprietor of the Hotel Matis, Meriden, presented the hotel register showing the three Cicero men registered there on June 19. Harry E. Field, hotel clerk, testified Florian visited the men the same day.

Andy E. Boyce, a Plantville builder, and Earl Jackson, a truckman, told of seeing Florian in the bank just before the hold-up, and Raymond Olsen, bank cashier, told of cashing a check for Florian and then suddenly facing a gun held by one of three men. Olsen was still on the stand at recess.

AUTO BUSES NOW ON C. & E. ROUTES

Once Noted Railroad Will Soon Be a Thing of the Past, Is Predicted.

Winsted, Conn., Dec. 15.—The passing of the eastern division of the Central New England railroad between Hartford and Canaan is indicated by the new time table of the New Haven system which goes into effect next Sunday morning. The Central New England becomes practically trainless after Saturday, for buses are to supplant the two passenger trains now operating from Hartford to Winsted and Canaan and return each day. The only train movement along the rails after Saturday will be a daily freight which runs from Canaan to Grantville, a distance of about seven or eight miles, stopping at Norfolk and Summit, on the way.

The Central New England, now being given up, was once heralded as "Poughkeepsie Bridge Route." A few trains are operated over the western end of the road, but the end of these is believed to be in sight.

PLANS TO FLY BACK TO U. S. IN TWO HOPS

"Lone Eagle" Is Today Before Mexican House of Deputies—City Still Reverberating From Yesterday's Reception Which Was the Greatest Ever Given a Foreigner in the History of the Republic.

Mexico City, Dec. 15.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will fly back to the United States. This time he will make the journey between the two countries in several hops.

These plans were announced today by the "Lone Eagle," who has become the idol of Mexico, virtually every city having set up a clamor to see the famous American flyer.

The trip to Cuba is still to be decided upon. If he makes it, Col. Lindbergh said, it would probably be made out of Washington. He said he had not decided "yet."

Col. Lindbergh awoke today in the home of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who took him in hand.

The Mexican House of Deputies today invited Col. Lindbergh to speak in the chamber, regarding the message he is said to have brought from the American government.

The city still reverberated today from the lusty "Vivas!" that acclaimed Lindbergh's arrival—the greatest reception ever given a foreigner in the republic, regarding the message he is said to have brought from the American government.

The city still reverberated today from the lusty "Vivas!" that acclaimed Lindbergh's arrival—the greatest reception ever given a foreigner in the republic, regarding the message he is said to have brought from the American government.

There President Calles, not content with greeting him with a hand shake, threw both his arms about the young aviator and impulsively hugged him.

Throughout the evening telegrams of congratulation from President Coolidge to just "plain folks" poured into the embassy.

One of the first things Lindbergh did when he reached the embassy was to request that a long distance telephone call be put in for his mother. When the connection was complete, he said:

"We made it, Mother. I have already been presented with a fine Mexican sombrero."

And this sombrero seemed to please Lindbergh immensely. For, upon being asked "had pleased him most on his arrival, he said:

"The sombrero which was presented to me when I landed."

Calles to Coolidge
Washington, Dec. 15.—"I am deeply pleased to send Your Excellency my most cordial felicitations at the very moment in which Col. Lindbergh arrived in Mexico after his notable trip, accomplished with the greatest success," said a telegram to President Coolidge, received today from President Calles of Mexico.

President Coolidge dispatched the following reply:

"I am deeply gratified by Your Excellency's cordial message of congratulation on the occasion of the successful completion of Col. Lindbergh's historic flight, which I sincerely trust may serve to unite more closely our two nations."

Secretary Kellogg and Mexican Ambassador Telega also exchanged messages of felicitation over the successful flight of Col. Lindbergh.

DECLINES INVITATION
Detroit, Mich., Dec. 15.—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh by telegram today declined the invitation of Ambassador Dwight L. Morrow that she spend the holiday season in Mexico City with her famous son.

The telegram said that she would hardly have time and also that she did not believe she could share in any of her son's fame and glory.

"My idea," she told friends, "is that the man's celebration and a woman has no place in it."

SENATE REPUBLICANS NOW REORGANIZED

Insurgents Voted Straight Party Ballots So There Was Little Trouble.

Washington, Dec. 15.—With the insurgents all voting the straight party ballot, the Republicans today completed their reorganization of the Senate by electing their whole slate of candidates for Senatorial offices.

Senator George H. Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, was elected president pro-tem of the Senate by a vote of 42 to 39, over Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, the Democratic nominee. The vote was on party lines, with several Democrats stepping out of the chamber to offset Republican votes.

Col. Edwin B. Thayer, of Indiana, was re-elected secretary of the Senate over Col. Edwin A. Halsey of Virginia by a vote of 43 to 41.

Davis S. Barry of Rhode Island was re-elected sergeant at arms over J. L. Doherty of Montana by a vote of 42 to 39. Barry was attacked as "recalcitrant in his duties" by Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, but the Democrats did not muster enough votes to unseat him.

EXCEPTIONS FILED Salem, Mass., Dec. 15.—Attorney John F. O'Neil, representing George Taylor, the dancing barber, who was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the alleged slaying of Miss Stella Kale, 21, whose body was found at Salisbury Beach last June, today filed in the Essex county Superior Court ten exceptions of error. Taylor has not been sentenced.

MISSING ACTRESS RETURNS Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 15.—Failure of Marjorie Rameau to appear for rehearsals was the reason that Gwendolyn Logan Sellar was substituted for her role in the cast of "The Vortex," the management of the Music Box Theatre announced today.

MISSING ACTRESS RETURNS (Continued) Oakland, Calif., Dec. 15.—Miss Marjorie Rameau, actress, today branded the reports emanating from Hollywood that she had mysteriously disappeared "as ridiculous." She arrived here yesterday to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Eliza Kindelberger. "When my mother wired me that my grandmother was near death," Miss Rameau said, "I sought consolation with friends. All my friends knew the I left Hollywood to attend the funeral of my grandmother."

"There were several letters regarding the importance of these documents," said Mr. Hearst. "He said he could get these documents for a small sum and I authorized an expenditure of $1,000."

"The unnamed man, accompanied by John Page, a Hearst correspondent, brought the documents to him, the publisher said. He found the documents were 'originals,' although he had expected only copies."

"The situation was increasingly serious because these documents affected the Neargagan situation and other matters," said Mr. Hearst. "I pondered what to do with them. I sent Mr. Clark with them out to the president at his summer home but the president did not wish to become acquainted with them."

NOTED ECONOMIST MAKES PREDICTION

At a meeting of the men of the Union of the Congregational church held Tuesday evening, it was decided that the annual banquet, which is always a big event among the men of Rockville and one which is long remembered, would be held Wednesday evening, January 11.

"The low level of money rates reflects a strong financial situation that will operate to sustain business activity and check any reactionary tendencies long before they reach a critical stage. Until some basic change occurs in credit conditions, 'tight money' in the United States is practically out of the question."

The Mexican Government has ever approached me," Hefflin said. He sometimes received expenses from "different American organizations for making my Mexican speech." The organizations included Protestant societies.

Reed then revealed that the documents reported to show that Dudley Field Malone was the financial agent of the Mexican Government in the matter. "He never did," said Hefflin. "I wouldn't know him if I'd see him."

Hefflin said he had later paid to sponsor a resolution to investigate the Hearst articles. "In the words of the Scriptures, 'An enemy hath done this,' and I shall have a good deal to say on the floor of the Senate about this," Hefflin concluded, demanding that the crooks and scoundrels be punished.

La Follette, Too Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, was called next. Senator Reed explained that one of the documents referred to $15,000 being paid to Senator R. M. L., which are La Follette's initials.

La Follette demanded to be sworn when he took the stand. Reed asked him whether he had anything to say. The Wisconsinite spoke slowly.

"The attempt to link my name with the charges before this committee is an infamous and cowardly fraud," said "Young Bob." "I have never been approached either directly or indirectly; by any person or persons in connection with the relations between the United States and Mexico."

"It seems to me the committee is under obligation to prosecute this investigation to the limit, to the end that the authenticity may be established or their falsity proved. I am not unmindful of the fact that these charges appear in newspapers, published by Mr. William Randolph Hearst and his various corporations, and I am not unmindful of the fact that the present administration and I also am not unmindful of the fact that I have been in the Senate and in my magazine—a bitter opponent of the administration's policy. This dastardly attack will not cause me to deviate by a hair's breadth from the course I have laid down for myself on the attitude of this government toward Mexico."

Received No Money "Did you ever receive any of this money?" asked Senator Bruce, Democrat of Maryland. "I never received any moneys, things of value or rewards," said La Follette.

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, was the next witness. He took the oath as La Follette had. Senator Reed then read from the purported ledger account of the Mexican government, indicating that $2,215,000 had been paid out. "Of this sum, it purports to show that $500,000 was taken out of the Mexican treasury for the purpose of being paid to Senator William E. Borah," said Reed, while the crowd laughed.

"In March, 1927, another entry shows that $100,000 was withdrawn for the purpose of paying it to you. Have you anything to say?" Borah said that a newspaperman named R. F. McFarland, had told him of the documents. "He told me that among these documents was one indicating that money had been paid to me," said Borah. "I thought nothing about it until this document was published with the names deleted."

"It is rather difficult to deal with this subject, all I can say is that nobody ever approached me." "The documents purport to show that this money was sent to Arturo Elias by telegraph and that Mr. Dudley Field Malone acted as intermediary between Elias and the Senators mentioned," said Senator Reed.

Reason For Exposure "One of your reasons in publishing these documents was to provoke a Congressional investigation?" "Yes." "You wanted a Congressional committee to publish the names you were unwilling to publish?" "Yes, if they so desired."

"Did you give any consideration to the liabilities for libel if you published the names?" "I don't know—I didn't publish the names."

Mr. Hearst said he would have published the names without regard for libel suits if he had thought it necessary. "It couldn't cost me any more than it has to publish these documents," said Mr. Hearst. "What do you mean?" "I think my properties are unsafe in Mexico."

"What was your object in publishing the documents?" "I thought they were of extreme importance to the interest of our country," said Mr. Hearst. "I thought I had a certain obligation to publish this information to the country."

"That's all right," said Robinson. Mr. Hearst was then excused and Senator Hefflin, Democrat of Alabama, was called.

Hefflin Named Holding one of the documents in front of him, Senator Reed informed Hefflin that he was one of the Senators named in the document as being the prospective recipient of $35,000. "I don't know whether that amount was raised to be delivered to me or not," said Hefflin. "But I do know it was never delivered to me, and that no representative of

26 CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE; 33 MISSING

Children had been saved rushed to their little ones and joyfully embraced them. The orphanage, an historic building and a landmark in the city, was a large four-story stone structure and was built in 1832.

Three hundred and seventy-one children and forty nuns were sleeping when the first tongues of flame swept through the orphanage, shutting off the escape of dozens and prostrating others in their beds and along the corridors where they fell in heaps around windows and doors.

Heroic rescues were countless. Citizens, nuns, firemen and police waded into the blazing furnace. Many children were thrown from the second and third floor windows into life nets and bedding held by firemen and volunteers.

Other children were rushed to hospitals and private homes and until all are traced, no definite figures of the casualties will be available. Some place the total dead at 26, but 18 had been discovered in the blistering ruins as the day wore on.

Something of the confusion that exists may be seen in the statement of an exhausted policeman to International News Service this morning. "There were cries all around us but we couldn't reach them all. As we were rushing through the dormitories saving those we could find, we could hear groans and cries on every hand," he said. The officer's face was blackened and streaked and his hands badly burned.

Some sections of the asylum were completely choked with ice toward noon, hampering search for bodies. The bodies of the 18 known dead were all on their side, coated with ice, victims of asphyxiation. Many believe at least forty more bodies will be found and anxiety is felt for two teachers in the institution who are still missing. None of the sisters is on the missing list.

Suffering was terrible as the hundreds of refugees were forced into the freezing temperatures and clad only in sleeping apparel. One child died of cold and exposure three hours after rescued. A new wing which housed 200 other children was saved. It was only the historic old section erected in 1823 that was consumed like matchwood.

take all possible steps to remove from within her borders any organization which seeks to upset the institution of friendly nations through violence. The way for the western world to "kill Bolshevism" is by contact. The development of sound trade relations with the United States and other countries points the way to health.

Recognition by the United States of the Soviet regime should not be accorded except upon the principles laid down by this government. It is probable, however, that these principles can never be formulated into definite treaty except through negotiation.

Temple Chapter Election Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star held its annual meeting last evening in the Masonic Temple and elected the following officers to serve for the year 1928: Worthy Matron—Miss Mabel Trotter. ABOUT TOWN

Sunset Rebekah members who attended the Trinity Past Grands meeting yesterday afternoon at Glastonbury included Mrs. Henry J. Mara, Mrs. Eleanor Rogers, Mrs. Minnie Weeder, Mrs. Etta Loveland, Mrs. Frances Chambers, Mrs. Carrie Robshaw. The ladies also remained for the supper and meeting of the Rebekah lodge, when a class of candidates was initiated. District Deputy Miss Mary Hutchison also attended.

Manchester Grange had a very enjoyable meeting last evening in Tinker hall, attended by about 114 Grangers from this and other places. The Wapping Grange members who brought the traveling fable came in costume—there were farmers and farmerettes, drummers and door-bell ringers and their appearance and contribution to the program created no end of amusement. A committee headed by W. H. Cowles served sandwiches, home-made cake and coffee.

James Lyman, son of Fred Lyman of the firm of Lyman Brothers of Vernon well known milk dealers, was married yesterday to Miss Audrey Uffandale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eliza A. Uffandale of Waterbury. The young couple will live for the present with the bridegroom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. William Foulds, Sr. of North Main street are planning to leave on Sunday for Sarasota, Florida, where they have spent the winter months for a number of years.

The late King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales, had a pavilion for watching fires. The London fire brigade had orders to call him whenever a big fire occurred.

TO START EXPRESS FROM N. Y. EARLIER

Merchants Win Struggle For Better Service After Conference.

New Haven Railroad and American Railway Express company officials outlined a plan yesterday whereby Manchester merchants may have an earlier express delivery in the morning. The train which brings Manchester express matter to Hartford will be started from New York 15 minutes earlier, which will give all of 28 minutes in which to transfer the express to the Boston train.

The merchants met after the Kiwanis club luncheon with Carl A. Mitchell, division superintendent of the railroad, William E. Edson, division superintendent of the American Railway Express company and F. A. Nickerson, local agent of the express company.

Two Short Time Now Heretofore the morning train to Boston, which passes through Manchester, has left Hartford too early for the express to be transferred. Its starting time from Hartford has been about 15 minutes later than the arrival of the New York train, allowing insufficient time for the transfer of the express.

With the New York train arriving in Hartford 13 minutes earlier, there will be enough time to allow the transfer to be made, thereby assuring merchants that the express will arrive in Manchester in time for an earlier morning delivery.

In the event that the new scheme does not work out, officials promised some other arrangement to insure the early delivery.

REV. G. A. STENHOUSE TO BE BURIED IN MANCHESTER

Word was received here last night by Mrs. L. N. Heebner of 145 Park street of the death of Rev. Charles Alfred Stenhouse, aged 78, in Jamestown, R. I., yesterday. Rev. Mr. Stenhouse, who occupied the same pulpit for 43 years, retired from active service four years ago. He was related to Mrs. Heebner through his wife, who died two years ago. They were first cousins. James McCaw of this town is similarly related.

The funeral service will be held in Newport tomorrow afternoon and the body will be sent here for burial beside his wife in the East cemetery at the grave in which Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church here will assist Rev. George G. Scrivener of Newport.

Rev. Mr. Stenhouse is survived by four daughters.

MEN'S CLUB SUPPER TONIGHT The Men's club of Second Congregational church will have its monthly fellowship supper at the church this evening at 6:15 and instead of arranging for a program will take advantage of the concert to be provided in the auditorium at 8 o'clock by the Piedmont Male Quartette, which is on a national tour campaigning for funds for Piedmont College at Demorest, Ga.

The Christian Endeavor society is in charge of the concert and the social to follow. The supper arrangements are being taken care of by a committee consisting of Rev. Frederick C. Allen, J. L. Strong, John McMenamy and Clarence Sadrozinski.

SHABBYTOWN THINKING

A letter signed "Objector" and printed in this issue of the Herald has the merit of containing just about every conceivable argument to be presented against the plan to purchase the Connecticut company's Center street property.

There are fine towns in Connecticut and there are shabby towns. It costs just as much money to build a certain type of house in one of the shabby towns as it does to build the same type of house in one of the fine towns.

It ought to be as clear as spring water that the realty values in Manchester—in every part of Manchester—are going to be very important affected, for good or evil, according as this town is made a fine or a shabby one.

AIR DIPLOMACY. What amazing young man Charles Lindbergh has just accomplished a feat which, it may be shrewdly guessed, is worth more to this country than even his epoch-making flight across the Atlantic.

polite gestures toward us. But not since the forties has Mexico ceased to suspect the northern eagle, and not since then has there been a spirit of equality and comradeship in our dealings with her.

And it is more than the goodwill of Mexico that is involved. It is the respect, the regard, the confidence of all of Latin America. And Latin America not only means humanity—it means resources, money, trade, markets. It means more of business, more of prosperity on both sides of the Rio Grande, all up and down this hemisphere.

APPLAUSE!

Blond Greta Misses It, So She's Quitting Screen for Stage.

Greta Nissen

Hollywood, Calif.—Greta Nissen is rapidly losing her fascination for the blinding, dazzling klieg lights. The Norwegian actress loaves for the footlights and Broadway—and probably will return there before long.

Miss Nissen, in returning to the stage, is not following in the footsteps of so many other footlight stars who came to Hollywood, "flopped" and hastened back to Broadway again. Greta graduated from the New York stage. Motion picture producers made her flattering offers. She trekked 3,000 miles across the country to this village that has made grease-paint famous. And she has made good. At present she is one of the most sought after actresses in the cinema colony.

"I have several propositions that I am considering," declared the blond star. "And I also have been offered some excellent contracts to stay in pictures. However, the call of the footlights is the loudest and I expect they will get me back again."

"I may go east as soon as I finish the picture I am now making. And I may remain here to do one more picture. By doing that I will miss the most severe part of the winter back there."

"In this film I have two leading men with bedrooms and ballrooms as my principal settings. Oh!—and lots of romance. It is the most romantic part I have ever played. And I like it, even if I do have to act a bit naughty in a few of the sequences."

Greta Nissen came to this country from Norway just four years ago. Over there she was a sensation on the stage. Broadway gave her a big reception and confined its envious. The Viking beauty loved it. She misses the applause in her work here. So she's going back to the footlights again.

IN BANKRUPTCY

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 15.—Joseph Beaudry and Mattie M. Beaudry, operating a partnership in building contracting in East Hartford, filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy in United States District Court here today. They owe $18,503 and have assets estimated to be worth $2,515.

Samuel Levenson, of Norwalk, owner of a cigar stand and news store, also filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today, owing about $3,000 and having assets estimated at $200.

TO SUE CORPORATION

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 15.—Judge Arthur F. Ellis today ruled that the Bankers' Capital Corporation of Delaware, with offices in this city, must stand trial in a suit brought by Ernest Jacquot, of Torrington, to recover money alleged to have been paid to the concern by Jacquot for investment. The company claimed that as the corporation was incorporated under the laws of Delaware, the state of Connecticut had no jurisdiction to try the case. Several other persons in the vicinity are interested in the suit. Judge Ellis declared the suit can be heard in this state.

ASTOR AND HUGHES IN CIRCLE FEATURE

No Place to Go' Comedy of Cannibal Islands Here on Saturday.

Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are co-stars in the feature, "No Place to Go," at the Circle theater on Saturday and Sunday. Others in the cast are Myrtle Stedman, Virginia Lee Corbin, Jed Prouty and Russ Powell.

The South Sea Islands are a favorite locale for writers since Robert Louis Stevenson made them famous in fiction. Picture producers have not failed to utilize the land beneath the Southern Cross as a scene for stories with a romantic trend. And yet they seem an inexhaustible mine of new ideas.

The latest is "No Place to Go." However, it starts in New York, with a fine glimpse of the night life in circles of the socially elect. Thence by yacht to tropic isles, an adventure with supposed cannibals and all the fun and thrills that could be desired, with lots of spirited love-making for good measure.

Mary Astor is delightful in the role of a flapper—something of a departure of her; Lloyd Hughes as her husband-to-be is agreeable as always.

Hallam Cooley, Virginia Lee, Corbin, Myrtle Stedman, Jed Prouty, Henry Barrows, Yoia d'Arville and Loretta Young are all in the cast.

The story is breezy, it covers a wide field and is ultra-modern. It is sheer entertainment and as such fills every requirement. It will repay a visit to the Circle Theater in good measure.

CHANEY STARS AT STATE ON SUNDAY

"London After Midnight" Famous Makeup Artist's Best Picture.

A strange old haunted castle in England, over which hang sinister legends of long ago and astounding vampire superstitions, still believed in by many—particularly the peasant class—concerning the "unclean" which haunt graveyards and wander between life and death, as malevolent avengers—these form the background of Lon Chaney's latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer characterization, in "London After Midnight," coming to the State Theater on Sunday.

Chaney plays a role different from any in his career, for instead of his usual sinister character he appears as a Scotland Yard detective, who, with a scientific trend, utilizes hypnotism as a weapon against ghosts and apparitions in the haunted manor.

Fantastic shadows, weird apparitions in uncanny surroundings, and a supernatural horror are cloaks for an astounding plot which by the use of mental science the detective unearths and reduces to everyday fact in the strange romance. Chaney wears a series of uncanny disguises as the man-tracker, and a notable cast surrounds him, including Marceline Day, Henry B. Walthall, Conrad Nagel, Claude King, Edna Richardson, Polly Moran, Percy Williams and others of note. Tod Browning directed it from his original story scenarized by Waldemar Young.

Reproduction of an old haunted English castle, such as one of those famous historically as a haunt for ghosts, was an amazing feat of construction by studio experts for the picture. The uncanny scenes of the flying "bat woman," and materialization of ghosts and vampires were staged by using famous stage illusions adapted to the screen, and filming them as they were performed. In no case was trick photography used, the camera filming the "spirit" illusions just as the eye saw them.

Leather strong enough for heavy boots can be made from the skin of the porpoise.

"BACKSTAGE" FEATURE AT THE STATE TODAY

Three Features Scheduled For Tomorrow and Friday—Chaney Here on Sunday.

"Backstage," a real drama of the inside of the chorus girl's life, is the feature picture at the State theater for to-day only. It is the story of four chorus "janes" their lives and loves and it is done with a realism that is not commonly found in pictures of this kind.

Included in the big cast are such favorites as William Collier, Jr., Barbara Bedford, Alberta Vaughn, Eileen Percy, Jocelyn Lee and Guinn Williams. It is one of the biggest casts of popular actors ever assembled for anything short of a million dollar feature. The drama itself is well written and well acted, with a thrill or two here and there to help along the action.

Three features are scheduled for the State program to-morrow and Saturday. Pola Negri comes to the front in her latest, "The Woman on Trial," and Johnny Hines kicks in with "All Aboard." The third, a short feature, is "Buffalo Bill's Last Fight," a smashing bit of the old west in the time of the great plainsman.

"The Woman on Trial" is the tale of a girl who goes on trial for the murder of a so-called friend. Her life is at stake and the only thing that will save her is the bargaining herself, her lover and the dead man. The recital of these things will ruin her reputation, but she goes on and strips her very soul naked to convince her persecutors that she is innocent. One of the Polish star's best, is the opinion of critics.

Johnny Hines is funnier than ever and "All Aboard" is a funnier story than any the popular comedian has had to work with in some time. He is cast as the guide on a sight-seeing bus and the things that happen to him there never have happened to any guide since the beginning of rubberneck buses.

"Buffalo Bill's Last Fight" is a short film but an unusual one in that it is featured along with the other five reels on the program.

TRAFFIC COP BEATS LIGHT, SAYS EXPERT

New York—"The trained policeman standing at the congested corner with his hand raised is still the best regulator of street traffic."

With these words, William P. Eno, world famous traffic authority and deviser of the original traffic regulations for New York, Paris and London, denies the efficacy of the growing system of traffic control by means of lights.

Eno has just returned from Europe where he studied the forms of traffic control in the large cities.

"London, Paris and Brussels, after investigating our traffic lights, have refused to adopt them," says Eno, "except as red lights for control of traffic only at the intersections, where they are located."

"The worst impediment to the scientific management of traffic at present," he goes on, "is the attempt to regulate it by a synchronized or progressive system of lights instead of by hand."

"This system appeals to the average person who has not taken into consideration that traffic at intersections varies so greatly in volume and character that what is good for one intersection may not be appropriate for another."

"Millions of dollars have already been expended by police departments in the United States for these lights. However, engineers and students of traffic are beginning to realize the false economy of mechanically controlled traffic."

RED PLOT UNCOVERED

Shanghai, Dec. 15.—The authorities have discovered and frustrated a Communist plot organized to capture this city when Canton was seized, it was learned today.

Officials expressed belief that similar plots exist in all the provinces.

The Russian Consul here has been notified that passports for all members of the Consulate were ready.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Thursday, December 15.

Verdi's most tuneful opera, "Rigoletto," will be broadcast in part by WJZ and the Blue network, as it is presented by the Chicago Civic Opera Company, beginning at 10:00 o'clock on Thursday night. Among the members of the cast will be found Cesare Formichi, baritone, Antonio Cortis, tenor, and Tull Dal Monte, soprano. Radio fans not in the mood for grand opera may tune to WEAJ or a Red network station at the same time and listen to the mirth and music of the Smith Brothers, famous harmony team. KQA will celebrate its third anniversary with Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera, "The Mikado" at 8:30, and the seal cycle, "Flora's Holiday" at 10:30. The Maxwell hour through WJZ and the Blue network will consist of a group of classical selections presented by an orchestra, wood-wind ensemble and instrumental soloists.

SOVIET RAPS LEAGUE FOR REFUSING HIS PLANS

Moscow, Dec. 15.—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet delegate to the preparatory disarmament conference at Geneva, today scathingly denounced the conference for not accepting Soviet Russia's plan for immediate and complete disarmament.

His remarks were made while reporting to the Congress of the Communist Party. He said: "We must not be astonished that the powers accuse the Soviets of impertinent behavior because the powers do not want disarmament.

"The security commission was created to safeguard the territorial robberies perpetrated under the Treaty of Versailles and to postpone, if not to kill, disarmament. "If the powers doubt the sincerity of the Soviet proposal, let them accept and then see the result."

PRISONER ESCAPES

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 15.—Willy Johnson, a husky colored youth, slipped out of the lock-up here today as he was about to start for Bridgeport to serve a sentence of 120 days for stealing twenty dollars from a white man on November 19, last. Though police started instant chase, Johnson disappeared completely and is believed to be hiding in town though police throughout the state have been asked to watch for him.

Forty youthful voices will be heard in this program of sacred music which will feature this week's Mid-Week Religious Sing. The program will be sung by the Schola Cantorum of St. Thomas Seminary, under the direction of Rev. Raymond G. LaFontaine. In the early Christian era, a "schola cantorum" was composed of a choir of male voices selected from students of a monastery school. These choruses sang the chant of the Roman Catholic church in accompaniment to the church services. The chants were written by hand in precious manuscripts, so the music was usually memorized by the choirs after many long hours of drilling. The Schola Cantorum in Hartford is the largest, and considering the finest amateur singing organization of its type in the Hartford diocese. About forty students from St. Thomas Seminary make up the group. The program is composed of some of the ancient chants, and some of the more modern types of sacred music. Rev. Raymond G. LaFontaine, Director. Joseph Cleary, Accompanist. Plain Chant—Rev. Raymond G. LaFontaine. Program of Plain Chant. CHECK PASSER ARRESTED Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 15.—Douglas Godfrey, 28, former auditor of the Chromium Company of America, with a branch in this city, was brought back from Boston today by police and later placed under bonds of $1,000 for a hearing December 17, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. Immediately after the hearing he was re-arrested on a warrant charging him with issuing worthless checks. It is alleged that Godfrey removed goods belonging to the Chromium Company and paid for other goods with worthless checks. He was arrested in Boston when traced there by means of his automobile license. The first diphtheria anti-toxin was made in 1894.

WINS WEALTHY WIFE THROUGH HIS POETRY New York, Dec. 15.—Byron Dexter, a hopeful poet who once won a $50 prize, today had won the wife of Henry A. Colgate, millionaire soap manufacturer. As explained by Mrs. James L. Dexter, of Morristown, N. J., the young poet's mother, the story of their romance is that of the husband who over-indulges in business and the poetic young wife who has at last found true understanding. But Mrs. Dexter still thinks it's all a "big mistake." She said today that Mrs. Colgate's Reno divorce was obtained with the full co-operation of the soap king, who talked things over with his wife and young Dexter, a penniless Princeton graduate. Colgate agreed to give his wife $6,000 annually for the support of their three children and $5,000 alimony. "Their mutual admiration for Shelley drew them together," Mrs. Dexter said. "Byron often sits up all night writing poetry." Byron's chief contribution so far has been a play called "Shelley," staged by amateur players and rehearsed in the Colgate Mt. Vernon, N. Y., home. According to Mrs. Dexter, Colgate took his wife abroad after that and Byron worked for a publisher long enough to save up sufficient funds to follow. The agreement between the three was reached in Paris, she said. The marriage date is unknown to her, Mrs. Dexter added. TWO FAMOUS PERSONS ARE DEAD IN BOSTON Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—Deaths of two famous persons were recorded here today. Bill Prouty, known as "The Daddy of Long Distance Runners," dropped dead on Curtis hall gymnasium track while training for the C. C. Pyle coast-to-coast marathon. Prouty, who was 47 years old, was one of the greatest long distance runners of all time and died of heart failure "in the harness." Miss Ellen M. Stone, teacher, writer and missionary whose capture by Macedonian bandits in 1901 aroused the world, died in Chelsea at the age of 81 years. She was seized and held for $110,000 ransom.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (160) Sorting and Shipping. After the wool has been sheared it is carried to a large shed where men with expert knowledge sort it into various classes according to its weight, texture and quality. When the wool is sorted it is arranged on tables in a salesroom, each lot being marked in readiness for the auctioneer. Here sorters are shown at work. A wool train arriving at Sydney harbor with bales of sorted wool ready for shipment is pictured here by the artist. At the harbor the wool is placed on a large steamer and exported to other countries for spinning and weaving into warm garments. Arriving at the final destination the wool is unloaded and placed in warehouses, where a sale is held. Buyers are shown here sampling the wool in order to test its texture and quality before the sale begins. From these warehouses the wool goes to the mills, where the first steps toward changing it into cloth begin. SKETCHES BY HENRY AYNOPSIS BY ARAUCHEL

HEBRON

Funeral services of the late Frank E. Clark were held from his late residence on Saturday, Dec. 10, at 2:30 p. m., the Rev. John Deeter officiating. Interment was in Lakeview cemetery, East Hampton. Mr. Clark at one time represented the town of Hebron in the general assembly.

Lucius, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Robinson of Valley Farm, is laid up with an injury to his right hand. While the little fellow was at play in the kitchen he started up an electric clothes wringer with the result that his hand was caught and badly torn. His thumb was caught in such a way that it prevented the whole hand from being drawn in but the skin and flesh of the fingers were so torn that the bone was exposed in places. His screams brought members of the family who turned off the electric current. He was taken to a physician and several stitches were taken in the injured member. He has been in bed since the accident with symptoms of fever. He will not lose the use of his fingers it is said.

The Sunday service at St. Peter's church was held in the vestry room as water in the cellar was so high that the furnace was partly filled, and it was impossible to heat the church. The drainage of the church cellar has been upset by the new state road to Amston, and it will be necessary to have new drains laid. It is hoped that this can be done before next Sunday. Sunday school was held at the home of Miss Clarissa Pendleton, as the vestry room is not large enough to accommodate the classes.

Miss Mildred Rathbone is somewhat improved from a recent threatened attack of appendicitis. Clair Robinson was the appointed leader for the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening but the rainstorm so interfered with the attendance that the meeting was called off.

Mrs. Edson Strickland and her daughter, Mrs. Edson Strickland of New London were recent guests of Mrs. Edwin T. Smith, Mrs. Barrows' sister.

Miss Florence E. Smith who was president of the state teachers' association last year, this year has the office of vice-president. Miss Smith spent the week end at her Hebron home. She attended the meeting of the state teachers' association which was held in New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Seyms move this week from Gilead where they have made their home for the past few months, to locate in Colchester. They will occupy the Dr. Robinson place. Mrs. Seyms has been the organist of the Hebron Congregational church for a long term of years. Mr. and Mrs. Seyms have also been active in the grange and in other social affairs and will be greatly missed from this community.

The Rev. T. D. Martin was present on Monday at a meeting of the Pastors' Union held in Willimantic. This union takes in the clergy of Willimantic and vicinity.

Mrs. Anna Kennedy, a niece of Ames W. Sisson, is reported as recovering from the effects of a recent operation for appendicitis. She is at St. Vincent's hospital, in Worcester.

The junior choir of St. Peter's Sunday school met at the home of the Misses Pendleton Monday evening for a final rehearsal for Christmas music.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson is confined to her home by illness. Mrs. Edward A. Smith is ill with a severe attack of grip.

FUTURE OF CUBS' GRID ELEVEN UNKNOWN AS RUMORS FLY FAST

Players May Vote to Split Remaining Money; Several to Retire; Coaching Situation Uncertain; New Talent Possible.

Despite reports to the contrary, Manager Red Vendrillo of the Cubs football team, new crowned town champions, declared today that the Cubs would be back on the gridiron next year with an even stronger team than the 1927 edition. In all probability, there will be several new faces in the lineup. No information has been given out by Manager Vendrillo but Old Dame Rumor has it that Jack Bonadies of the old Hartford West Sides Baris, crack New Britain center, "Doc" Keeney of the 1927 S. M. H. S. eleven and two or three others will be on the team.

It is more than possible that Ding Farr and Elmo Mantell may enter college next fall. In addition to this several of the players on the Cubs have announced that they have played their last game of football. Then, too, there is the report that Jack Dwyer may not coach the Cubs next season. Despite the fact that he moulded together a team that was able to conquer the Cloverleaves, it is a fact that some of the Cubs' players are not over and above in love with his style of coaching. Such persons, however, are believed to be far in the minority. Dwyer, on the other hand, has been tendered at least one consideration and has that under consideration.

Consequently, it is hard telling what kind of a team will represent the south end next season. Of course, the 1928 grid year is a long, long way off and anything may happen before then. Those who are now considering retirement, may change their minds when the boys start booting the pigskin again next fall.

Judging from the comment of many of the players on the Cubs' team, no preparations are being made for next year. It is understood that the majority of the 28 members of the team are in favor of splitting up the $350 or so remaining in the treasury instead of keeping it toward organizing and outfitting a team next season. Yesterday's announcement that a meeting would be held tonight has been rectified. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock next Tuesday night at the Redmen's club house on Brainard Place.

PLAINFIELD FIVE DRUBS N. BRITAIN

Score Is 43-24; Philadelphia Next and Renaissance Five Jan. 4.

(Special to The Herald.) Plainfield, Dec. 15.—With every one lending a hand in the scoring, the Plainfield Professionals overwhelmed the supposedly dangerous New Britain Tabs here last night by the score of 43 to 24. The first half was close, Plainfield leading 19 to 11 but in the second half, the home team ran circles around the visitors despite the fact that they had such talented stars as Reynolds, Taylor, Restella and Sheehan.

TILDEN TO QUIT AMERICA, REPORT

Tennis Star to Give Up Playing For U. S. Davis Walsh Hears.

New York, Dec. 15.—Mr. Bill Tilden, who may or may not amount to something in deciding whether we recover or do not recover the Davis Cup, has announced himself as being willing to compete in Europe while our harrowing amateurs are doing the best they can in America. The writer has information that Tilden will not be a member of the team at all or in any part.

He got this information from a member of the Lawn Tennis Association and to divulge the latter's identity would be a breach of confidence.

"When a man pulls a gun on you, what do you do?" inquired an official of the tennis association today. "If you can get rid of him, you do. That's all I have to say about Mr. Tilden's speculation."

Whether they stay out or not is up to the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The latter makes no particular bones about the fact that Tilden and Hunter are persona non grata. The reaction from the tennis association is that if Mr. Tilden desires to play tennis abroad he may do so purely as an individual.

This puts the issue purely up to Tilden and Hunter. The latter is just a play-along-boy, doing the best he can, and following Tilden's lead. Tilden is the using factor in this fight, if any, against the tennis association and the tennis association's reply is directed against him.

EVANS IS GIVEN THE DOUBLE CROSS

Cash Sale of Sister to Senators Was Not Part of Umpire's Plan.

BY LES CONKLIN, Staff Correspondent. New York, Dec. 15.—Billy Evans, General Manager of the Cleveland Indians, was entertaining a growing suspicion today that the American League managers and magnates still regard him as an umpire. The boys apparently gave the former arbiter the well-known double cross yesterday in the sale of George Sisler, first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, to Washington for a sum variously reported at from $150,000 to $50,000.

Evans and "understood" that Joe Judge, Washington first baseman, would go to St. Louis as part payment for Sisler and that Judge then would be traded to Cleveland. But all that Billy got out of it was an offer from Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, to trade Judge to the Indians in exchange for pitcher Joe Shaut and a bundle of cash.

Ranking Of Women Tennis Stars By British Critics Surprises Americans

New York, Dec. 15.—Ranking of Senorita de Alvarez, the Spanish star, above Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. Molla Mallory, the American veterans, on the international list by British critics caused some surprise in official tennis circles here.

The charming Spanish girl is admitted to be a great player by those Americans who have seen her on European courts but it was thought that she hadn't competed in enough big tournaments this year to be ranked second to Miss Wills.

TO STAGE COMEBACK

New York, Dec. 15.—Ruby Goldstein, pride of the east side, who retired from the ring after his knockout by Sid Terris here last summer, has decided to attempt a comeback as a welterweight and will resume ring operations here next Monday night in a bout with Ray Mitchell, a trial horse.

Billy Evans Says

IS BIG PROBLEM

It seems the question of drafting ball players is again to be the source of considerable argument between the majors and minors.

Relative to having working agreements with major league clubs, a certain clique was strongly opposed to it. Some favored the draft, others were just as desirous of severing relations with the majors.

What Bernard Thinks

In discussing the project with President E. S. Barnard of the American League on the way north from Dallas, he was convinced that the majors were doing everything in their power to be fair with the minors.

A Laugh From Atz

To me one of the most interesting characters at the Dallas meeting was Jakey Atz, manager of the Fort Worth team of the Texas League. Any time I tired of listening to arguments—I have had my share during my 22 years as an umpire—I hunted up Atz, and he never failed to give me a laugh.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—Otto Reisel, world's three-cushion billiard champion, was leading Allen Hall by 52 points today in their 300-point match for the title, after defeating Hall 60 to 51 in the afternoon. Reisel played sensational billiards last night in winning the third block by a score of 60 to 30. In the last match the champion made his sixty points in 45 innings and had a high run of eight.

STATE'S MANUFACTURERS OUTLINE THEIR PLATFORM

Urge More Adequate Merchant Marine, Favor Selective Immigration and Tax Reforms.

The Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut through its Board of Directors has prepared a platform for industry, representing the views of Connecticut industrialists on matters of importance now before Congress. The statement has been forwarded to the National Association of Manufacturers with the request that it be included in a national platform to be adopted by that body through a committee of one hundred manufacturers from all sections of the country.

Included in the statement of the Connecticut Association are sections calling upon the Government to give further study to the question of an adequate merchant marine; asking for its withdrawal from fields which are economic rather than political; requesting simplification of industrial alcohol regulations; favoring the present system of selective immigration; urging legislation which will encourage the voluntary consolidation of transportation agencies and advocating certain tax reforms.

An outline of the platform follows: 1. GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS—In the past few years the function of government was quite as much economic as political. The founders of our government recognized the fact that a government, to be successful, must govern the actions of men, political and legal, and must avoid any attempt to regulate those activities of its citizens which have to do with matters which are fundamentally and primarily economic. Particularly in recent years have the governments, federal, state and local, attempted to regulate in matters which are primarily economic.

2. CORPORATION TAXES—The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut has viewed with satisfaction the attempts which have been made by Congress and have for the most part succeeded, to reduce Federal taxes, but it has realized that the greatest relief to the greatest number can come through the reduction of corporation taxes. It calls upon Congress to recognize the fact that by reducing corporation taxes a few are not benefited but, on the other hand, the millions of stockholders, workers and others dependent upon industry will be benefited. An investigation of this might very possibly disclose that the reduction of corporation taxes would be of far more benefit to a larger number of individual citizens than has the reduction of individual income taxes.

3. INHERITANCE TAX—The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut urges the repeal of the Federal inheritance tax law. It should be the sole privilege of the state to exact such taxes.

4. JOINT CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE—The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut favors the continuance of the Joint Congressional Committee which has been engaged in a study of proposals for the revision of the Federal tax law and simplification and improvement of its administrative features.

5. INTERNAL REVENUE—The operation of the prohibition enforcement laws has been a serious burden to certain manufacturers. While the Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut is not interested as a group in the prohibition of alcohol, as such it cannot overlook the fact that the ability to secure alcohol for industrial purposes has become increasingly difficult. A large number of industries whose principal raw material is alcohol have been so hindered that they have suffered serious financial losses. Therefore, the Board urges the simplification of the present system.

6. TRANSPORTATION—The Board recognizes the interdependence of industry and of transportation. It feels that the need for extreme regulatory Federal legislation has passed. It recognizes the fact that transportation cannot be efficient and that consequently industry cannot prosper unless transportation facilities can be so operated as to give a fair return upon capital investment and so as to provide additional funds which will make possible improvement and extension of service. The Board feels that one solution to the problem lies in more complete freedom for consolidation and urges upon Congress the necessity for legislation which will not only permit but will encourage voluntary consolidation.

7. IMMIGRATION—The Board recognizes the fact that unrestricted immigration is impossible, impractical and dangerous. It favors the present system of selected tests for admission of aliens and favors a system of deportation, but it cannot look with favor upon a system which results in the depletion of necessary labor supply.

8. TARIFF—The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut applauds any tariff system which will provide for flexibility. It recognizes the fact that any attempt at general revision of the tariff creates a spirit of uncertainty which to industry, commerce and finance is disastrous. It does not wish to arm the present tendencies of at least one continental European country to erect high tariff walls.

9. FOREIGN TRADE—The Directors believe in the creation of a revised system for the development of foreign trade and suggest, without attempting to present any tentative evidence in support of their belief, that the consular service of the United States should be transferred from the State Department to the Department of Commerce to which it properly belongs. They believe that such a transfer would be instrumental in developing the foreign trade of the United States.

10. MERCHANT MARINE—Connecticut industry is vitally interested in the development of foreign commerce, and national security demands the maintenance and development of the American Merchant Marine. The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut is unwilling to subscribe to any of the plans at present before Congress which have for their intended purpose the establishment of a merchant marine. The Board feels that a more complete study should be made before definite legislation is attempted.

11. MISSISSIPPI FLOOD CONTROL—The Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, while it cannot subscribe to the present system of Federal aid in connection with state road building, the maternity act, etc., does believe that Federal aid should be extended to relieve the establishment of the Mississippi Valley, and that financial aid should be provided to prevent the constantly recurring disasters which result from the flooding of the Mississippi Valley.

BUNNY EPIDEMIC VICTIMS PUZZLE OHIO DOCTORS

Health Authorities Are Taking Steps to Stamp Out Strange Malady.

Dayton, O.—Interest of the medical profession here is being directed to the strange and baffling disease known as "Rabbit's Disease" (Tularaemia) which has claimed French Williams as a victim. The city health authorities report that they have record of two previous deaths caused by the same disease, and are taking immediate steps to find out how Williams acquired the disease. Samples of his blood have been obtained and are being sent to the government laboratories in Washington, D. C., for analysis.

How It Travels. Dr. A. O. Peters, city health officer said the illness cannot spread from man to man, but it can be acquired through the skin by handling of infected rabbits or squirrels or by the bite of a tick which has been on rodents which have tularaemia.

The fact that Williams died of "rabbit's disease" was confirmed by Dr. Walter Simpson, pathologist at Miami Valley hospital, after physicians had sought in vain to determine the exact cause of death. The disease was discovered in 1911 by McCoy and Chapin and is described as a plague-like disease in various rodents. It is generally believed that it may be acquired by man in three ways. First, thru the bite of a horsefly. Second, by the bite of a tick which has fed on infected rabbits or squirrels. Third, by contamination of hands or contact with internal organs and body fluids of infected rabbits.

Cases Reported. There have been cases reported to date in the last 16 years in 22 states and the District of Columbia. Experiments with the disease germs are dangerous, at best and no less than 18 laboratory experts have lost their lives while so engaged, it is said.

However, it is not always fatal, it is absolute rest. The only way in which it could be avoided would be by not handling rabbits, doctors say. It is believed the germ causing the malady was likely brought in with some imported rabbit. Experts believe that no rabbits in this vicinity have it.

EARLY FOGS BRING HEAVY LOSSES TO ENGLISH RAILROADS

London.—Usually early fogs in England are calling the attention of the railroad companies to the enormous financial loss caused by these nuisances.

An average of $150,000 a day is a very moderate estimate of the actual out-of-pocket cost to the railroads in the London area, on account of fog. This does not include, of course, indirect losses, such as dislocation of traffic and loss of business, especially goods-carrying.

All work on the permanent way has to be suspended, and the platform become look-out men; thousands of these have to be kept at work day and night and the overtime bill is correspondingly heavy.

Millions of detonators, or fog signals, are used, and the cost of these at forty per cent is a heavy item. Then the slower running of trains when drivers have to "feel" their way along means a much larger consumption of fuel.

HIGHWAY DEP'T OPENS BIDS ON 1928 ROAD JOBS

Comm. Macdonald Takes Advantage of Open Weather to Permit Start On 31 Miles of Paving.

Fourteen separate contracts for paving 31.1 miles, or 164,075 linear feet of Connecticut highway to be opened for bid today at the office of the State Highway Commission at Hartford, according to advertisements published today by Commissioner John A. Macdonald. Bids will close on December 22 at 2:00 P. M. The greater part of the new pavement is to be of reinforced concrete. About nineteen and a half miles of that material is to be laid, as compared with approximately six miles of bituminous macadam and six miles of waterbound macadam.

In view of the exceptionally mild weather of the present season, the State Highway Department is making arrangements for the reception of sealed proposals for contracts for next summer's work at an especially early date, so that contractors may be able to complete much of their work for the state by the time the annual summer rush of traffic begins. Such a plan operates to the mutual advantage of the state and automobilists, avoiding the annoyance of detours when traffic reaches its peak, and aids contractors as well, enabling them to finish an important portion of their busy season, although contracts for the work are not awarded until such work as may be done without hindering traffic may be undertaken this winter.

An important improvement to interstate travel by automobile is included for bid in the 5,268 feet of "reinforced concrete" along the "Armory Hill" section of the Boston Post road in the city of Norwich and in the contract for 1,108 feet of concrete on the "Compo Hill" section of the same state highway in the town of Westport. Those additions mark another step toward the completion of the contemplated four-lane automobile pike between New Haven and Wolcott, an improvement to the much used route between Hartford and Waterbury.

The longest single length of pavement will be laid in the town of Brookfield. On route No. 123 through that town, on the Danbury-New Milford road, 27,376 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement will be laid.

Contracts advertised are as follows: Town of Branford: About 3500 linear feet of Reinforced Concrete Pavement on the Pine Orchard-Indian Neck Road. Note: Cement and reinforced concrete pipe will be furnished by the State. Plans and specifications at the office of A. W. Bushnell, Division Engineer, 30 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Town of Brookfield: About 27,376 linear feet of Reinforced Concrete Pavement on Route No. 123, Danbury-New Milford Road. Note: Cement and reinforced concrete pipe will be furnished by the State. Plans and specifications at the office of G. E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

Towns of Brooklyn and Killingly: About 21,450 linear feet of Bituminous Macadam Pavement on the Brooklyn-Danielson Road. Note: The state will furnish reinforced concrete pipe and bituminous material. Plans and specifications at the office of John Smith, Division Engineer, Norwich, Conn.

Town of East Hampton and Portland: About 21,257 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Portland-Cobalt Road. Note: The state will furnish cement and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of D. H. Starr, Division Engineer, Poliner Building, Middletown, Conn.

Town of Kent: About 3,820 linear feet of waterbound macadam on the Macedonia Road. Note: The state will furnish reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of George E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

Town of Milford: About 10,809 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on New Haven Avenue and Shore Road. Note: The state will furnish cement and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of George E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

Towns of New Fairfield and Sherman Road: Sections No. 1 and No. 2 of Route No. 136. Note: Reinforced concrete pipe will be furnished by the state. Plans and specifications at the office of George E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

Town of North Haven: About 11,600 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement State Street. Note: cement and reinforced concrete pipe will be furnished by the state. Plans and specifications at the office of George E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

Town of Norwich: About 5293 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the "Armory Hill" section of the Boston Post Road. Note: The state will furnish cement and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of A. W. Bushnell, Division Engineer, 30 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Towns of Norwich and Preston: About 8766 linear feet of bituminous macadam pavement on the Norwich-Groton Road. Note: The State will furnish asphalt and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of D. C. Loewe, Division Engineer, Winsted, Conn.

Town of Westport: About 8,411 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Riverside Road. Note: The state will furnish cement and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of A. W. Bushnell, Division Engineer, 30 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Town of Westport: About 1,618 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the "Compo Hill" section of the Boston Post Road. Note: The state will furnish cement and reinforced concrete pipe. Plans and specifications at the office of A. W. Bushnell, 30 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Towns of Westport and Ridgefield: About 4,933 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Branchville Cut-off. Note: Reinforced concrete pipe and cement to be furnished by the State. Plans and specifications at the office of George E. Smith, Division Engineer, New Milford, Conn.

INQUEST BEGUN Stamford, Conn., Dec. 15.—Coroner John J. Phelan today conducted an inquest into the death of William S. Gray, 46 Park street, West Haven, and reserved his decision. Gray was killed at Rowayton Monday evening while working on a New Haven road special train spreading oil on the rails. He leaped from a car window to view the spreading oil and was struck by a Boston-bound express.

TELEMOTION IS NEWEST PATENT BY ENGLISHMEN

Device For "Seeing By Radio" Is Work of Young Engineers.

London.—Yet another device which claims to embody practical television—seeing by radio—has been patented here.

Called "Telemotion," it is the work of two young British engineers, and, if the claims made for it are substantiated, in the near future it will be possible for the radio fan to switch on his set and not only hear but see a baseball match or horse race.

For Trial in U. S. Negotiations have been entered into for the device to be given through trials in the United States, France and England.

"Telemotion," according to the patentees, is an elaboration of electrical timing of any movement. The invention will record, for example, the running of greyhounds on a race track. As the dogs race around the course their progress will be "written" by radio signals, which can be broadcast, so that the person having the necessary apparatus at home can see the reproduction of these signals on a miniature track or on a screen, and so watch the actual race run before him.

It is the same with horse-racing or with any sporting event in which the movement of the figures is organized and proceeds on defined lines.

"We can transmit practically any moving objects," said D. J. H. T. Roberts, one of the inventors, to reporters.

Trade Possibilities. "The reproducing arrangement may be connected to a cinema projector, and the race or other sporting event shown on the screen to the audience as the event is actually taking place. One important point about the invention is that it depends entirely upon established electro-magnetic principles. "Telemotion" goes not in any way employ photo-electric cells on the phenomenon of persistence of vision, which have hitherto proved such enormous difficulties in the development of television. It is claimed that the invention has also a number of other commercial possibilities.

THE STORY THIS FAR
Whose JEFF HARRISON, gambler, is killed in a poker game in Caldwell, Kan. His 15-year-old son, TONY, is taken to the Bar K ranch in the Indian territory by JOE CRAIG, who appoints himself the boy's guardian.

He was willfully cruel to himself: "You're just a nobody, and Rita—amounts to something."

There Tony is welcomed by JEFF MOORE, owner of the Bar K ranch, and his little daughter, RITA. Another who has befriended Tony is GORDON W. LITTLE, who later becomes known as PAWNEE BILL, when he enrolls in school at the Indian reservation in Pawnee.

In the months that follow, reports come to the Bar K of the activities of the new notorious Benton gang, TOM BENTON being the murderer of Jeff Harrison. Craig and Tony depart for Pawnee to visit Pawnee Bill, who they learn that he is going to take a bunch of Indians with him and join the PAWNEE BILL'S Wild West Show.

Rita Moore and her mother depart for Virginia to spend the summer, and Tony, now 15, learns for the first time what it is to miss someone.

CHAPTER XXI

THAT year—1883—witnessed the formation of the Cherokee Live Stock Association, almost the first official act of which was the leasing of 6,000,000 acres of grazing land in the Strip from the Cherokee Nation. For this the Association paid $100,000 a year, which was considerably less than the taxes would have been had the members owned the land themselves.

Inasmuch as the opening of the Cherokee Strip to settlement would mean the dispersal of the men and the disappearance of the big ranches, the Cherokee Live Stock Association sought to prevent the coming of that day or, at least, to defer it to the dim and distant future. Consequently it set up a powerful lobby in Washington, subsidized at $500 a year, which fought bitterly every bill introduced in congress, or likely to be introduced, which advocated the opening of the Indian lands to the white home seekers.

Among the most active of the organizers were Titus Moore and George Washington Miller, his closest neighbor. Miller had been a pioneer in the Strip, had in fact built the first bit of fence in all that country. In partnership with another, he had owned the LK brand, but the partnership had dissolved, the brand along with it, and the year before the formation of the Live Stock Association had seen the birth of Miller's new brand, the 101.

This ranch, one of the largest in all the territory, was to be preserved, even after the opening of the Indian lands, by Miller and his three sons, Joseph, Zack and George L.; and was to grow in acreage and national prominence. Today it is one of the show places of Oklahoma.

On infrequent occasions Tony Harrison had been in the habit of riding over to the 101 ranch and visiting with Joe Miller, who was his own age, a big, raw-boned youth of 16.

Many times during that summer Joe Craig would pause in whatever he happened to be doing, to gaze in puzzled fashion at Tony Harrison. The boy now was in the habit of falling into long spells of silence in many ways. He had decided, he was again the old Tony Harrison, the little fellow he had encountered on a certain tragic evening in Caldwell.

"Tony," Craig often urged, "you need a little change. Why don't you run over to the 101 and visit the Miller boys? You're tired of associating with old horses like me and the other no-account hands; what you need is a little spell with someone your own age."

To these suggestions Tony replied with a shrug and a careless shake of the head, and Craig, vaguely troubled, worried about the boy, not in the least suspecting what lay on the mind of his young charge.

Rita's letters to Titus Moore revealed a keen interest in her new surroundings. There was so much to do; she had met so many interesting people; she and her mother had spent several weeks with friends in Washington.

"I am not sure," she wrote, "whether I'll visit the ranch this summer. I am anxious to see you again, but Mother and I have been so very busy, and there are still so many things to be done. Did Mother tell you about our change in plans for my school?"

She enclosed a photograph of herself on a horse. It had been taken in Rock Creek park in Washington and showed her in a very proper riding habit. She was in a side saddle.

Titus Moore exhibited the picture to Joe Craig and Tony Harrison and invited their criticism. Craig shook his head dubiously. Little "it don't seem natural, Colonel. She looks like she's ready to fall off. My golly! She's been used to riding astride ever since she could shilly up on a pony. She's sure pretty, though, in them clothes. She'll be a young lady before you know it." He passed the picture on to Tony.

"Back there," the colonel informed Craig, "it would be unheard of to see a woman sit a horse like a man." He shook his head rather mournfully and solemnly. "It's a rebellion." "Damn it all, I don't want them to go too far in this so-called civilization process. I don't want them to make the girl over so I can't recognize her." He indicated that that was exactly what he feared might come to pass. "You needn't worry about that," Craig informed him positively. "Rita's well, she's Rita. What about it, Tony?"

The boy looked up from his silent study of the picture. "I guess you're right," he said tonelessly, and held out the photograph to Titus Moore. He was telling himself that his fears regarding Rita had been confirmed. There had been, first, that strange, shy smile at parting. And now this. . . .

"I guess she won't be out here this summer after all," Titus Moore was saying. The words fell on Tony's hearing like a blow. Why?—Murmuring some inarticulate excuse, he turned away from them and walked off.

Fumblingly he saddled his horse and sprang savagely to its back with a curt command. The horse broke into a canter, but he impatiently spurred him to a gallop and rode aimlessly beneath the withering sun for the better part of an hour.

Beneath the shade of some trees that lined Cottonwood Creek he dismounted and threw himself prone upon the grass. A dry "spell" was upon the country, there had been no rain for weeks, and the cattle were listless and huggled the banks of the river and creek. The water of Cottonwood Creek had fallen several feet, but from where Tony lay on the overhanging bank he could see his reflection in the little stream, and this he studied in cold appraisal.

He tried to reason with himself. "You fool," he snarled at his mirrored face. "What's come over you? What difference does it make if Rita doesn't come back? What difference does Rita make anyway—didn't your daddy always tell you the biggest fool in the world was a man that cared for a woman?"

It came over him then in a swift rush—the thing he had dared not admit to himself—the realization that this hopelessness that had descended upon him could mean but one thing; he was in love with Rita Moore. It was not, then, that he missed her so lonely, that he missed her sprightly but tyrannical companionship; he—absurd, impossible thought!—cared for her.

Savagely, bitterly, he cursed his reflection, then permitted himself to linger deliciously over the thought; but in the end he groaned and rolled over on his back and lay with his face upturned to the burning sky the while he reflected on the hopelessness of his position and the gulf that was widening every day between himself and the daughter of Titus Moore.

He, Tony Harrison, he told himself, was a hired hand; an orphan boy, the son of a professional gambler who had been murdered while playing his trade. He was willfully cruel to himself:—"You're just a nobody, and Rita—amounts to something."

Even now, he was thinking, Rita would be mingling with the kind of families she would inevitably marry into. There would be a few years at the fashionable school, then a tour of duty in some foreign city, and then her engagement would be announced. It was all very hopeless. . . .

"Besides," and he rolled over once more to stare at his reflection in the creek, "you'll forget all about it in a little while. Joe Craig would laugh at you and call it puppy love. And that's all it is, I guess. Daddy was right."

But it was one thing to revile in love, and quite another when he tried to extract some comfort out of it. It might be that he was too young to know when he really loved, but he felt that this feeling toward Rita was a childish thing and to be easily forgotten; still, it all felt very real to him.

His memory carried him back to the time that he had been helpless for weeks with a broken leg and his customary arrogance banished by touching contritions, had sat beside him and sung songs to him while she had strummed on her guitar. It had been then, he now told himself, that he had overcome that dislike for her that he instinctively had felt at first sight and which had been fed by her impertinence and her occasional cruelties. He remembered, too, how he had led to save her from censure when her father had asked about his accident, and he wondered if he had not been a little beside Cottonwood Creek, the victim of torturing thoughts. When he arose to go the sun was low in the west and he tried to think of an explanation that would satisfy Joe Craig.

In the next chapter Pawnee Bill writes of his adventures with Buffalo Bill.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Hair as an Aid to Beauty—the Opinion of a Popular Film Star
The head of the motion picture actress must have contours that will not offend the eye, as did the puffs and "crimps" of bygone history. It must be symmetrical and graceful. That is why a soft wave is preferable. Every feature of the face can be either killed or made lovely by the hair surrounding it. My own face is small and I was never counted expert hair artists, how to frame it. That is what the hair is—a frame for the face. A soft Circulone permant wave, put in while the hair is fairly long, and then cut to suit my face and personality, has proven not alone an aid but the dominating factor to such beauty as I may be said to possess.

Prices begin for as little as $1.29 a pair.
Bayberry candle, burned to socket, Brings health to home and wealth to pocket.
So runs the old rhyme and modern shops provide means to test its worth. Home-made candles are again in vogue, another case of history repeating itself, and the bayberry leads at the Christmas season. The color of the candle is not so much the bushel, boiled them briskly then let the mixture stand until cold. Every bayberry has its waxen coat and this deposit of wax floated to the top of the kettle in a thick mass. The wicks were dipped into the kettle of boiling wax and the candles cooled by raising the wicks out of the kettle into the frosty air. Often 18 or 20 candles were made at "dip." The modern way is to use molds, wax of different colors is combined. Candle-making is still carried on down on Cape Cod in many a little cottage.

Had you thought of a Prairie metal window ventilator for a Christmas gift? Mrs. Carrie J. Anderson, Tel 2330-3, is receiving many orders for this purpose. She has tried, have tested them out to their complete satisfaction during the driving wind storms we have had.

Christmas holidays mean gifts, feasts, holly, gay parties and dance goings to many people. Picking the holiday gown is as difficult as choosing the Christmas present. There is such a profusion of both. For evening black continues to hold its own and some of the very smartest creations are black, either velvet chiffons or lace. Seven hemlines prevail, necklines are square and backs are all important, the newness of a gown being shown by its back just now. Some of the new evening gowns have a bustle effect or the sweeping train that runs into a train in the back.

Candiesticks make a fine Christmas gift especially when they are of solid brass and the best selection I have seen anywhere is at The Old Wood Shop, Pitkin street. They range from small desk sizes 5 or 6 inches, to the most ornate candlestick, about 28 different types.

Candy-making is always enjoyable and when it is being done for Christmas or to send a gift to a friend, it is especially so. Every day or two now we will print recipes that may be just a little different from those you have tried heretofore. The one today is for Cocoanut Macaroons
Two eggs (white), 3-4 cup shredded cocoanut, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon vanilla.
Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Put in top of double boiler over hot water. When lukewarm add cocoanut, cornstarch and vanilla. Mix well and drop from tip of teaspoon onto pans lined with oil paper. Bake in a slow oven until tops are delicately brown. It will take about thirty minutes.

"Ideal Fashions"
WASH THE FACE WITH THOROUGHNESS
Since so much waste is deposited on the surface of the skin, our first care must be its removal in such a manner as not to injure the skin's satiny texture. This is best done by means of a hot cleansing bath, using a soap which you have found agreeable. Do not rub the face too vigorously. Use your hands, or a very soft cloth for that purpose. A rough cloth will do for the body, but the face must be carefully washed if you wish to preserve its beauty of texture.
And when thoroughly washed, with hot water, examine carefully to see whether the pores are clogged with dirt or sebaceous matter. If left in a clogged condition, inflammation will set in, a pimple will form, and eventually break. This is Nature's way of getting rid of the offensive matter by carefully pressing out the blackheads with fingers, you will prevent the pimple. When this little operation is over, bathe the face quickly in cold water to close the pores. Usually this is all that is necessary, but the application of an astringent such as extract of witch hazel or cologne diluted with water will have a beautifying value. A piece of ice, wrapped in a towel and applied to the face till it tingles, acts both as an astringent and a stimulant.

Makes Fat People Slim
New York Physician Perfects Simple and Easy Method of Reducing Weight.
Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician, of 238 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without unnecessary change of diet or burdensome exercise. He also says that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this source almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 238 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R.—Advnt.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

Just who is the head of the family are as settled at last by none less than the Income Tax department of the Internal Revenue Bureau. At least, so they say. That organization says that, regardless who thinks he or she is boss, the persons is "the head of the family" who supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him, etc." The bureau seems to think that it has solved the problem of receiving more than one "head of the house" declaration from the same family.

It's difficult to see that they have done anything at all. For in a vast number of homes both husband and wife earn and "support and maintain." How the makers of laws do hate to admit the new ways and forget the old ones!

QUEEN WANTS BOB
The Queen of Spain recently confided to a manurist in Paris beauty parlor that she envied every bob she saw but could not have one because short hair would not go with formal court dress. The hair-dressers used to stress the fact that modern way is to use molds, wax of different colors is combined. Candle-making is still carried on down on Cape Cod in many a little cottage.

"I'D DIE FIRST!"
Youth, for instance, has so much to say about prejudices of their mothers in the way of dress. They laugh at their long skirts and feathered hats and bustles and shirtwaists. But just try getting any flapper to be brave enough to wear a long skirt, long underwear, and cast her stockings! She'd die first, which is all her "daring and bravery and independence" amount to!

YOUTH NOT SO BRAVE
Judge Ben Lindsey makes an especially interesting comment in his thought-provoking "Companionate Marriage" on the subject of this "New Woman" and "Younger Generation."
"Our apparently free and independent Younger Generation are no more free from this coercion of custom than their elders," he writes. "It is merely that they have a different set of customs. Youth defies the shibboleths of its elders, but it

URGENT LABELS THAT TELL WHAT'S IN COSMETICS
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Some years ago specialists in diseases of the skin discovered that hair dyes, face creams and similar preparations used for beautification were in some instances compounded with ingredients likely to have harmful effects on a considerable number of people.
Many hair dyes contained a product to which some people were especially sensitive and to which they responded by the development of blisters and eruptions.
Face creams have been reported which contained salts of arsenic or lead, or of mercury, which may produce serious symptoms when absorbed into the body.
It has appeared to many physicians that it would be highly desirable when such dangerous ingredients were included that they be indicated on the labels.
Most of the legitimate manufacturers of cosmetics, and this includes practically all of the concerns that deal with these products on a large scale, have indicated a willingness to co-operate in any plan that might be devised for securing public safety.
A few, and this involves the manufacturers of one or two hair products and one or two creams, have assumed an attitude of defiance which is hardly warranted by the

A Yuletide Shopping Story

By Olive Roberts Barton

As the story concerned a Christmas shopper, I shall pass it over as nearly as possible as the clerk told it to me:
"There I was, ready to drop! I felt as though my heels were going up through the top of my head. Saturday afternoon, all the offices out and people two deep all along the counter.
"The place looked like the fall of Pompeii, or a gas explosion. You know how stockings get tangled with people pawing over them hunting for colors.
"Well, it comes the turn of a woman with a foolish smirk on her face, and she draws out, 'I have to give a friend a Christmas present. Don't you think a pair of silk stockings would be nice?'
"Yes'm says I, 'what color?'
"What colors have you?" says she, rattled off the line. You know—rain, egg-plant, ripe-fig, dawn, mist, sunset, moon, flesh—
"I'd like to see them all, please," says she.
"Then I spent ten minutes trying to hunt out those different shades. I split a sleeve out of my dress, looking for a pair of burnt almonds. She just wanted to see what they were like!
"The show-down came when she declared nude and flesh were exactly the same even when I showed her the difference in numbers. She wanted nude. We hadn't her number. I offered her flesh in which we had the number. She squared her jaw. "I guess I know what I want. I'll take the nude or nothing."

"I'm afraid it will be nothing, Madam," says I.
"I shall report you for your impertinence," says she.
"Very well, go ahead," says I, thinking I'd rather lose my job than wait on any more like her.
"A man beside her heard the whole thing and followed her to the floor manager. I heard what happened afterward.
"When she made her complaint this man spoke up and said I had done all I could and that six people had left the counter while I was busy with her because they couldn't get waited on."
It isn't a bad idea to look ourselves over. While Christmas shopping we might be doing the public a favor to make up our minds as nearly as possible before we go into stores, and not indulge in an orgy of sight-seeing that is cruel to clerks and unfair to people.

circumstances. Indeed, their attitude is much like that of manufacturers who resisted the passing of the pure food and drugs act without inquiring as to the ultimate good of all concerned. In the end they were compelled to accept legislation without aiding in its formation.

Fay Wray Is Star In Three Films--But You Haven't Seen Her Yet

New York. — Not a single audience has looked upon the screen behavior of Fay Wray. And yet she is an outstanding star! Not a single critical orb has gazed upon her performing. And yet Fay Wray has three pictures completed, one of them the most important item on Paramount's next year's list of specials.

Never in screen history has there been such an unusual situation. Here is a newcomer who is a huge success on the studio lots, who is sought after by a half dozen directors—and yet her pictures have never been shown to the public and she is unknown, except through those quotations from officials that have found their way to the newspapers.

Her test will come when Broadway sees Eric Von Stroheim's production of "The Wedding March."

Fay Wray

How Come? This is how it all came about: The Von Stroheim picture had been begun in June, 1926, and the company was busy the greater part of the time for the remainder of the year. Long before the finish she had been placed under a long-term contract.

Emil Jennings, meanwhile, had been brought over from Germany. In his second picture, "The Street of Sin," Fay Wray was picked for unusually long in the process of editing and making ready for the public. By the time "The Wedding March" reaches the screen, it will have been more than a year in the cutting room. The Jennings picture likewise is better held back in the schedule of releases. So no one in the great movie audience throughout the country has seen Miss Wray.

But she keeps marching on. She is engaged now in the production of "The Legion of the Condemned," companion piece to the air spectacle, "Wings." Paired with Gary Cooper for the leading role.

Miss Wray was born in Alberta, Canada. She did some rapid roaming in her early years, moving with her family to California, to Arizona, to Salt Lake City, all before she was old enough to go to school. They came to Hollywood in 1911 and she went to Hollywood High School. There her dramatic ambition began to stir, and she took part in amateur plays.

In the spring of 1923 she had followed the advice of a friend and gone to the office of a movie casting director. She received a job, but was so young she had to have a tutor with her at the studio in order to continue her lessons.

HEBREW COINAGE IS RESTORED TO THE HOLY LAND

Seen as Symbol of New Jewish Freedom—First Time In 1800 Years—Their History.

For the first time in eighteen hundred years, dating from the ill-fated Bar Kochba rebellion, coinage with Hebrew inscriptions is being used in Palestine, showing how the use of currency with Hebrew inscriptions traces some of the most important chapters in Jewish history. The reintroduction of Jewish currency in Palestine is a symbol of the new freedom gained by the Jewish people in the national Jewish homeland.

One of the greatest emblems of Jewish prestige and power, the symbol of Jewish authority in Palestine has been restored to the national Jewish homeland. A new system of coinage went into effect in Palestine on November 1st, when coins bearing Hebrew, Arabic and English inscriptions were issued for the first time.

The new currency, authorized by the British Palestine Currency Board, supersedes the present Egyptian coinage, which came into general use during the war, on account of the depreciation of Turkish currency.

The new coinage is based on the English pound, and the standard coin is the 100 mils silver piece, approximately 50 cents in American money. The 50 mil piece is also of silver, but the 20 mil, the 10 mil and the 5 mil pieces are made of nickel bronze and have holes in the centers.

Only under the Maccabees and Bar Kochba did the Jews as a nation issue their own coinage. In the month of Elul, 141 B. C., Antiochus VII (Sidetes), the son of Demetrius I, forwarded that historical document to Simon in which among other privileges granted, he said, "I give thee leave also to coin money for thy country with thine own stamp and Jerusalem shall be holy and free." From this time Simon began to issue coins. These were issued during a period of five years and there are in existence shekels bearing dates of five successive years of his reign. From 141 B. C. to 137 B. C., Simon issued silver shekels, half-shekels, and quarter-shekels, and also bronze coins.

Simon was murdered at Jericho in the year 135 B. C. and was followed by John Hyrcanus, the priest of the Asmonean Princes. This line belonged to the Maccabean Dynasty and included Alexander Jannaeus, Jonathan Hamelech, Judas Aristobulus, Alexandra the queen, Aristobulus II, and Antigonus Matthias, each one of whom issued coins during his reign. Upon the death of Antigonus in 37 B. C., Herod I ascended the throne, and then began the reign of the Herodian Princes which lasted till 100 C. E.

After the death of Antigonus the coins that were issued no longer bore Jewish inscriptions. Herod I used Greek letters while his children, Antipas, Philip, Archelaus, Agrippa and Agrippina, employed the Greek and Roman characters on their coins. It was not until 132 years after the accession of Herod to the throne of Judea that coinage bearing Jewish characters appeared again. It was during the revolt of Bar Kochba and the temporary independence of the Jews in the time of Hadrian.

The Herodian Dynasty continued to govern Palestine as vassals of Rome until 100 C. E. It was in April of 70 C. E. that Titus commenced his operations for the siege of Jerusalem which resulted in the destruction of the Temple and the massacre of thousands of Jews. In commemoration of this revolt and the utter defeat of the Jews, the Romans issued coins bearing the inscription of "Judaea Capta" and other inscriptions signifying the complete subjection of their victims. Three coins were issued from 72 C. E. to 87 C. E., under the reign of Vespasian, Titus and Domitian.

Between 70 and 132 Jewish resentment against Roman taxation and oppression was being fanned to rebellion, until Bar Kochba led his army of zealous in 132 against the Roman forces. He succeeded in regaining the independence of the Jews for two years. During that time Hebrew coins were again struck, bearing the inscriptions: "Freedom of Zion" and "Freedom of Israel." This short period of independence was ended by Julius Severus, the Roman general, who destroyed the Temple and devastated Jerusalem.

The new Palestine currency thus becomes one of the great historic mileposts in universal Jewish history. Hebrew coinage is restored to Palestine after eighteen hundred years.

WAPPING

Last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Miss Pauline West daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. West of Foster Street, Wapping, was married to George Rattray, of Brooklyn, formerly of Glasgow, Scotland. The ceremony took place in the Olivet Baptist Church, Hartford, with about one hundred guests present.

The double ring service was used and Rev. J. C. Worden pastor of the church officiated. Clifton Strong, a former schoolmate, now organist at the Princess Theatre, played the wedding march. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with lace and a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Marguerite Pulford a sister of the bride. She wore blue georgette trimmed with lace over pink satin and black velvet hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid was Miss Hazel W. Tolland, cousin of the bride. Her gown was peach georgette over satin and trimmed with lace, and she wore a black velvet hat and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The best man was Leslie West, a brother of the bride. The ushers were Clifton Sweeney of Wapping, Carl Gustafson, Walter Camp and Stuart Webster, all of Hartford. A reception followed in the church parlor.

They were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents including silver, china, table and bed linen, and quite a sum of money in gold and bills. After a short trip to Atlantic City, they will reside in Erocklyn, where Mr. Rattray has a position as engineer and draughtsman with an aircraft company. The bride has recently come from a trip abroad where she met Mr. Rattray. Although he was born in this country he has been in Scotland for fifteen years, returning to the U. S. on the same boat with Miss West. The Oakland neighborhood club

ANDOVER

The Grammar School closed Wednesday morning until next Monday. One of the Lagan boys who lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Witter was taken sick last Saturday afternoon with what proved to be scarlet fever. As the boy had been to school right along, New Britain South Church defeated the local "Y" last Saturday night, the score being 49 to 29.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Donahue spent the weekend at their home here.

Manchester High and Meriden High schools engaged in a friendly informal debate this afternoon at the local school on the subject of whether or not there is a danger of overemphasis of intercollegiate athletics. Manchester, represented by Marlon Hill and Joseph McCluskey, argued the negative side.

The purpose of this afternoon's debate was to help establish a more friendly feeling between the schools which contest in the Triangular Debating League. There will be one other informal debate before the formal competitive debates next March. It will take place January 19 when Middletown High will come here to argue that "The Prominent Part Played by Advertising is Injurious." No decisions will be given on these debates. Manchester, in turn will visit Meriden and Middletown.

Shopping Days Till Christmas

Some Christmas lights you had last year. Have lighted away. You'd better check them over and buy what you need today.

Stock at Auction

William Ostrinsky, who operates a furniture store at 27 Oak street and who has been running a disposal of his stock will hold an auction of the balance of the merchandise at the store starting tonight at 6 p. m. and will continue evenings until sold.

Mr. Ostrinsky is well-known in town and has been in business here for a number of years. He is closing out his present business but does not plan to leave town.

This auction of new furniture means an opportunity for people to pick up some real bargains in fine merchandise at right prices. It is a chance to make yourself a Christmas present of some new furniture for your home.

Highland Park

The Community Christmas tree and entertainment will be held at the Highland Park clubhouse on Wednesday evening, December 21, about 8 o'clock, and all children of the community and parents are expected. Santa will be there with a full pack of gifts for the children and they in turn will provide entertainment for the evening. Miss Elsie Lewis has been drilling them for the different exercises. The affair will be under the auspices of the standing special committee.

The usual Thursday evening set-back party will be held tonight at the clubhouse, with prizes, refreshments and a social time.

Teach Contra Dances

At "Green" Soirees

Community Club Reviving "Square Sets" and Other Ancient Figures.

Believing that the old-fashioned dances are becoming more and more popular, the Manchester Green Community Club which has staged mixed dances at the Green School every Saturday night, has decided to precede the dances with a period of instruction in square and contra dances, beginning this week.

Lewis E. Beebe, Manchester's premier old-fashioned promoter, will be the "teacher." The period of instruction will be from eight o'clock until nine o'clock. It will be followed by the dance period until twelve o'clock. Leo Wehr's orchestra will furnish the music. The dances at the Green are regaining their former popularity, larger crowds attending every week.

Police Court

John McKeever who was found at Pine and Walnut streets yesterday afternoon in a helpless condition by Officer Rudolph Wirralia was before the court this morning for intoxication. He is no stranger to the court. McKeever was drinking a concoction of bay rum that usually found in barber shops. The label of the bottle indicated that it contained 60 per cent. of alcohol. The judge imposed a jail sentence of 30 days and then gave McKeever an opportunity to make good by suspending the execution of jail sentence and placing him in charge of the probation officer for one year. McKeever was warned by the court that if he was brought in during that period he would surely be sent to jail.

Littlest Insurance Company Examined

Harwinton Mutual Had $63 Income This Year—Began in 1856.

Connecticut's smallest insurance company, the Harwinton Mutual Fire Insurance Company has been examined by the Connecticut Insurance Department. The report of the examination was released today by Insurance Commissioner Howard P. Dunham.

The company has assets of $48,800, a notable comparison with the largest insurance company in Connecticut which has assets of some $432,000,000.

The Harwinton Mutual's income for 1926 amounted to $63, being policy fees of $3 for the 21 policies issued. The company operates in the town of Harwinton and its immediate vicinity. Deposit notes are taken for premiums and assessments made to cover losses when incurred. There were no losses in 1926.

The company has always been a very small one. Since 1874 it has collected policy fees of $3,732.84, and assessments of $2,044.15, and has paid losses amounting to $23,932.89. The largest amount paid for losses in one year was $2,715, paid by the company during 1906.

The company operates under a charter granted to it by the General Assembly of Connecticut in 1856.

Siberian Eskimos believe the black bear to be a sort of god, and when they hunt it they pray for its forgiveness before they make the kill.

TROOP 1

The meeting of Troop 1 was held Monday evening, Dec. 12, 1927 at the Harwinton school.

The Troop is doing very well under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dean, who has taken over the troop since Mr. Ineson has resigned.

Twenty-seven Scouts were present and while they were at their class instruction work the Scout Troop committee met and inspected the Troop.

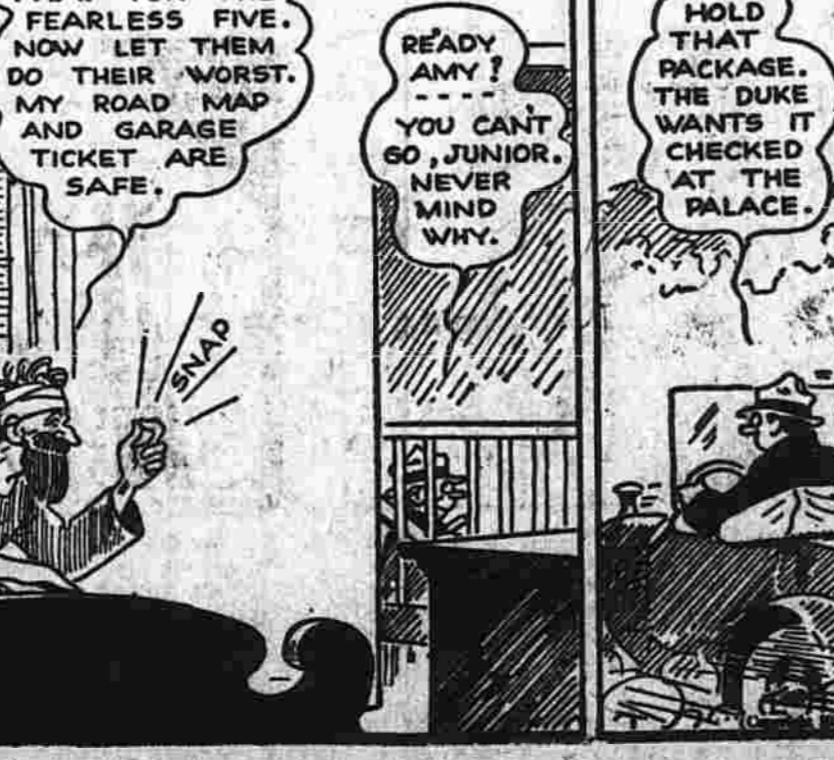

The Troop committee men who were present were: Mr. Phreaner, chairman, Mr. Davison, secretary, Mr. Balla, treasurer, Mr. Allen and Mr. Stocking.

Plans are under way for a big time in the week of the Scout Anniversary in February to commemorate the Scout movement in this county. The meeting adjourned at 9 with the scout oath and salute.

If wives knew what stenographers think of their husbands, they wouldn't worry.

Some of these puzzles are easy, but it's hard for some people to make good. The change here takes five strokes, unless the puzzle editor is very dumb. See the par solution on another page.

MAKE GOOD. A 10x10 grid for a word puzzle with the words 'MAKE' and 'GOOD' starting the first and last rows respectively.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed. He-(at soda-fountain): This ice-cream sure is good. I think I'll take some home with me. She-Gracious, I hope that I'll take all of mine home. Shakespeare never repeats-but then Shakespeare was neither a newspaper paragrapher nor tire-some story teller.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A CHRISTMAS SUBSTITUTE. "She's always wished for a baby-grand. The thousand-pound, three-legged model. But the order got mixed in Christmas-Tree land. And Santa couldn't get it through his noodle. So he sent her a baby, grand and sweet. But the eight-pound kind, with only two feet." Hitch your wagon to a movie star and you'll drive straight for the divorce court. AND VISA-VERSA. Did you stop to think when you get on a sleeper that the upper was the lower and the lower was the higher? In the upper you have to get up before you go to bed and get down before you get up.

It might be worse. There is gnashing of teeth in hell, not filling of teeth.

Bolski: "Wanna go on a sleighing party?" Viki: "Who are we gonna slay?" Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic but he did not fly back. Probably didn't want to be called a double crosser.

There are too many new fashioned flappers because there are too few spankers. My mother always named her children after flowers; my sisters are Violet, Rose and Daisy. What did she call you? Artificial.

It has been said that it takes nine tailors to make a man, and only one newspaper to break him.

Fairy Story: Once there was a man who headed the annual warnings against holiday liquor.

Lady to dog fancier: "Here, take this animal back. You said he was a bird dog and he hasn't sung a note the whole two weeks we've had him."

She was only an electrician's daughter, but she gave me an awful shock.

It takes a lot of money to make the political pot boil nowadays. Expensive fire.

So far as we have observed, the only way to be popular with the boys seems to be just about as popular with the girls.

A woman who has reached sixteen and never been kissed is going to reach sixty in the same state.

"I take a great interest in this transaction," remarked the loan shark, figuring out what twelve per cent would come to.

Teacher-Willie Smith, what do all good boys do on Sundays? Willie-Caddy for their dads.

"Where's Santa Claus?" wee Clowny cried. And then a toymshop man replied, "Oh, he'll be out here shortly now. He's right inside the gate. I'll knock, and bring him forth, don't fear. And you'll be glad when he is here." "Please hurry up," the Tynites cried, "Cause we can hardly wait." Up to the gate the queer man went, and 'bout a minute's time was spent in knocking very loudly. Then the gate swung open wide. The Tynmites just stared in awe at all the wondrous things they saw. Then Scouty said, "Well, that's just fine! Shall we walk right inside?" But then, what happened made them pause. Before their eyes stood Santa Claus. He walked out of the open gate. His face spread in a grin. "Hello there, Tynmites," said he. "You make me happy as can be by coming here to help me with my work. Won't you come in?" "We're glad to meet you," Clara
