HEAVY SEAS STOP RESCUE WORK ON SUB AT BOTTOM OF THE OCEAN

NORRIS RAPS HEARST FOR MEX. PROBE

Nebraska Senator Condemns
Editor For Publishing
Documents—Asks For His Motive.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Senator George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, one of the four Senators named in the Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers, today addressed a lengthy open letter to William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, severely condemning him and questioning his motives in the Mexican expose.

Recalling that Hearst on the witness stand before the Senate investigating committee declared his personal belief that none of the Senators named ever received any of the money mentioned in the Mexican documents, Norris asked: "If you wanted to be perfectly honest with these Senators why did you not state when the articles were published that you had no evidence that any of these Senators were guilty and that you did not believe any of the charges against them?"

What is the Motive
"What is your motive, Mr. Hearst? You have testified before the committee that you have very valuable properties in Mexico. It is almost common knowledge that you were in favor of the overthrow of the present government. You evidently believed that a revolution could be started if you have very valuable properties in Mexico. For the sake of making a few paltry dollars you are willing to blacken the character of honest journalists in your own profession. You were willing to cast suspicion on the loyalty and integrity of members of the United States Senate. You were willing to charge that the president of a friendly republic is a traitor to his country."

Power of Hearst Papers
"Because members of the United States Senate have not followed the course that you believed they ought to pursue, you were willing to go so far as to ruin their reputations and by falsehoods drive them from public life in disgrace and dishonor. You wanted to show the power of the Hearst papers."

A fair analysis of the recent articles published in the Hearst papers showing an alleged attempt by Mexican officials to bribe United States Senators and editors of various publications, and an analysis of your testimony before the Senate committee, leads to the inevitable conclusion that you are not only an entirely untruthful man."

The next public hearing in the Senate's investigation of the Hearst Mexican documents will be held December 27. Meanwhile, the committee may, in the absence of Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, continue its secret investigation.

OVER 700 RADICALS EXECUTED IN CANTON

Nationalist Troops Massacre
Men and Women in Reprisal,
Reporter Writes.

London, Dec. 19.—More than 700 men and women Communists and suspected Communists have been slain in massacres following the defeat of the red forces at Canton and the occupation of the city by Nationalist troops according to a Central News dispatch from Hong Kong this afternoon. The telegram said that only five have been actually identified as Russians, the victims including Soviet Vice Consul Hassel.

It is reported that, on the last day of Communist occupation of Canton, the Reds, seeing defeat inevitable, began firing indiscriminately killing more than 2,000 Chinese. The angry Cantonese thereupon began a bloody campaign of revenge.

The Central News correspondent reported that under the conditions still prevail at Canton, that the anti-Reds are still making reprisals upon suspected Communists and that thousands of Chinese, fearing further massacres, are in flight to Hong Kong.

THE SCENE OF THE NAVY'S S-4 RESCUE WORK

The scene of the disaster which sent the U. S. Submarine S-4 to the bottom of the ocean off Provincetown, Mass., is pictured here. The arrow points to a buoy placed by the navy to mark the spot where the S-4, with all her crew of 40 men, plunged down after colliding with the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding. Standing by are the first rescue ships to reach the vicinity. An NEA Service photographer took the picture from an airplane which circled over the spot.

Whole State Aroused Over Murder of Child

Hideously Dismembered Body of 12 Year Old School Girl Thrown On Porch of Parents' Home.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 19.—Back almost to the spot where the hideously dismembered body of Little Marion Parker was delivered to her father swung the colossal manhunt after the diabolical criminal who murdered her, when police today found gruesome evidence that may prove the twelve-year-old schoolgirl was put to a torturous death in a strange, sacrificial orgy.

Meanwhile police launched a sweeping investigation of a suspect arrested in a telephone booth downtown. It was said this man, who gave the name of Gaylord Barnaman, had been calling up various radio broadcasting stations in the city, and asking them about news of the kidnaping, after declaring that he was "The Fox."

Held as Suspect
Barnaman was booked on suspicion of grand theft. He gave the police evasive answers to questions, and failed to explain satisfactorily why he had clippings dealing with the kidnaping and the murder of the little girl in his pockets or why he was telephoning.

Police said he answered the general description of the man who called at the Mount Vernon Junior High school and told Miss Mary Holt, teacher in charge of attendance, that he wanted to take Little Marion Parker away from her classes and a Christmas party she was attending in her school room.

PLANS TO PUNISH RECEIVER OF TIPS

Give Also Comes Under Ban
According to Bay State Senator's Bill.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 19.—A movement to fine the giver and receiver of tips for service was launched today by Senator Henry L. Kincaid, of Quincy.

The state Senator filed with the Senate clerk a bill providing for the fining of those giving and receiving tips in inns, hotels, restaurants, barber shops, theatres and other public places of entertainment, refreshment or amusement.

Proprietors as well as employees would be liable under the Kincaid anti-tipping bill.

LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN CALIFORNIA MURDER.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 19.—Here are the latest developments in the hunt for the kidnap and murderer of Marion Parker.

Mrs. Lillian Padley, arrested when police said they found her running down a street screaming: "I didn't kill her! I didn't kill her!"

2. Lewis D. Wyatt, arrested in Las Vegas, N. M., by an airplane police squad, following his departure from this city early yesterday, after purchasing a ticket with $20 bills like those given the kidnap-murderer, by Marion's father.

3. More than fifty other suspects arrested in the city and questioned by the police.

4. A suitcase full of blood-stained relics of the crime found a block from the spot where Marion's body was thrown from the kidnap car Saturday night.

REMUS STARTS PLEA FOR LIFE

Makes His Closing Arguments Before Jury—Very Dramatic Is His Appeal.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 19.—Dramatically, like an actor in his great scene, George Remus paced before the jury box today as he made his closing argument to escape the electric chair for the alleged murder of his wife, Imogene.

The jury of men and women regarded him with intense interest. Utter silence prevailed in the courtroom. He began at 11:47 a. m., speaking extemporaneously. The setting was worthy of a Belasco.

Remus flung out his arms, pointing back at the chair from which he had arisen.

"Before you stands Remus, the lawyer," Remus declared his voice vibrating with emotion. "Remus the defendant still sits in the chair."

The jurors leaned forward visualizing that visionary figure in the empty chair.

Stonington, Conn., Dec. 19.—Dr. Charles B. Eldred, 63, died suddenly at the home of his daughter in the Pawcatuck district here today from the effects of an illness with pneumonia. He was a prominent dentist with offices in Norwich.

Divers Facing Death On Bottom of Ocean

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 19.—Navy heroes of the deep—divers in grotesque armor and helmets—face death hourly in 100 feet of frigid ocean water of the Atlantic off Cape Cod today.

The uncertainty of the task was illustrated when the thrilling story of one diver rescuing another came shoreward from the rescue ships today.

Diver Michaels, who went below from the mine-layer Falcon got badly fouled in a compartment blow line. Michaels was trapped on the ocean floor.

Diver Eadie, who had first talked with the imprisoned men in the S-4, learned of the plight of his mate and immediately volunteered to go below again. Eadie had already been below three hours.

Within a few minutes, Eadie had been lowered from the Falcon, succeeded in getting Michaels free and had brought him to the surface.

The naval announcement of this act of the drama of the sea simply said: "It was necessary to send Diver Eadie down to clear Diver Michaels, which he did."

Archives of the diving branch of the United States Navy furnished no more brilliant record than this act of devotion staged 100 feet under the surface of the Atlantic a third of a mile from shore.

BELIEVE 6 OUT OF 40 STILL ALIVE ON SHIP

TO RESUME OPERATIONS LATER THIS AFTERNOON

Chain Placed Under Submarine At Noon But Pontoons Had Not Yet Arrived At That Time—One Diver Disabled
While Working and Rushed to Hospital—Trapped
Sailors Telegraph By Tapping That There Are Six
Alive Yet—Say "Hurry, Please"—May Be Days Before
Submarine Can Be Raised to Surface.

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 19.—Rescue operations for the crew of the sunken United States Submarine S-4 which were stopped by a 45-mile gale, will be resumed between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The mother ship Falcon, which was pumping air into the submarine to displace water ballast ceased operations in order to remove Naval Diver Michaels to the Charlestown Navy Yard for hospital treatment for injuries received when he was caught between a navy tug and the side of the Falcon. The Falcon was pumping oxygen to the trapped seamen. The storm which had arisen prevented other divers from descending.

Word was received that the pontoons, which will be used in raising the submarine, were only 30 miles away at noon. The tugs Sagamore and Iuka, towing the pontoons, were expected to reach the scene of the disaster before six o'clock.

It was known that six members of the S-4's crew were alive; the fate of the others was still to be determined.

A chain was placed beneath the submarine just before noon, but the work of raising the vessel could not go any further until the pontoons arrived.

The U. S. Mohave arrived with 25 tons of working gear and pontoon equipment and was standing by waiting for the Sagamore and Iuka.

Wind May Die Down
Indications were that the wind would die down late in the afternoon giving a comparatively calm sea for the rescue work.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Boston Naval Base, told the International News Service correspondent over the telephone that he expected the storm off the cape to reach its height at about two o'clock, after which it would gradually subside, he said, and that there was no means of communication with the S-4 at the moment.

SEA HAMPERS RESCUERS
Washington, Dec. 19.—Chill, biting winds, coming out of the northwest and whipping the upper Atlantic to heavy waves, is seriously retarding the heroic attempts that are being made to rescue the six men known to be still alive in the tomb-like hull of the Submarine S-4.

This official report to the Navy department this morning from Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, aboard the U. S. S. Falcon, off Provincetown, Mass., diminished hopes here that it will be possible to save the men.

"Sea entirely too rough for diving and is getting worse," was Admiral Brumby's pessimistic message to the department.

One diver whose heroism kept him in the frigid waters beyond the limit of human endurance, already has been taken to a hospital.

40 In Crew
The best naval engineers in the government's service are assembled to perform, if possible, another miracle of marine engineering. Forty men went down with the submarine and six are known to be alive, trapped in their steel tomb on the ocean's floor. Six have signalled their pleas for their release. Their supply of air is fouling rapidly and their sole hope lies in the ingenuity of the experts above them.

Air is being pumped into the swamped S-4 which lies imbedded in the ocean mud, with the hope of ors whose last signals were: "How long now? Please hurry."

As the seas mounted this morning, small craft were sent scurrying to the harbor and before noon were completely land-locked. One craft carrying newspapers attempted to reach the outer harbor where the rescue ships are tossing about, but was forced back, nearly swamped.

Communication is now confined to radio and as seen from the inner harbor, work aboard the salvaging ships seems to be at a standstill as the seas roll and heavy about them.

No One to Blame
Admiral Charles S. Hughes, chief of naval operations, announced that the Navy Department does not hold anyone to blame for the collision.

"If there was ever an accident, pure and simple, this was one," Hughes said, after a thorough study of detailed official information from Admiral Brumby. "Thus far, of course, we have not given thought to anything save the work of rescuing the men. We feel, however, from the information which has come to us during the work of rescue, that the accident was entirely unavoidable. We are not blaming the Coast Guard, nor the officers or crew of the Paulding."

After the fate of the imprisoned men is definitely established, the Navy will turn to an official inquiry of the disaster, Hughes said.

Another obstacle offered by the rough seas was revealed in a message to the Navy Department in which Admiral Brumby advised it would be impossible to use floating cranes to pull up the S-4 because of the heavy weather. The Merritt, Chapman & Scott Company of New York offered two floating cranes.

Diver Collapses
One diver named Michaels, already has collapsed and is being rushed to a Boston hospital aboard the Falcon, the report stated. Michaels became entangled in the twisted mass of wires that shroud the hull and have not been able to raise the sunken submarine, have been delayed, and the Iuka lost one of her pontoons.

The Sagamore sent a message from the mouth of Cape Cod canal died rescue ships, buffeting the seas into frothy waves many feet high.

Heard Tappings
Divers had earlier descended to the broken hull and reported code tappings from the six men trapped in the torpedo room. Other faint tappings were heard in the aft sections of the vessel but whether they were those of men or floating pieces of wreckage washing against the flooded interior, the divers were unable to determine.

Edward Ellsberg, former lieutenant commander in the navy, regarded as the country's foremost authority on submarines, today intimated that raising the entire vessel might be a matter of weeks. The ill-fated S-51 and the tragic and despairing effort that preceded its final rescue from the clutching mud and deep water pressure was recalled as Ellsberg spoke.

The same problems as presented by the S-51 confront engineers here, but the S-51 held no survivors to tap their pleas for relief through the battered hull, no ghost-like messages to add to what almost seems a futile task.

What Must Be Done
To bring the huge pontoons into use, divers must first tunnel beneath the S-4, passing the heavy chains beneath its hull and then fastening them to the pontoons. Air pumped into the pontoons forced them to the surface, bringing the sub with them while towlines attached to each end of the vessel are hauled in. All this is not to be done in hours, even under ideal conditions, the engineers point out, and the men who lie helpless on the ocean's floor cannot possibly survive any rescue operations that might extend into days.

Meanwhile, hasty conferences are under way while the experts try to conceive the new marine miracle that seems to be the only hope remaining.

Conditions facing the salvage vessels today were never more unswat-factory, veterans of these crews said.

One outstanding necessity now confronts those above—the terrific task of getting an airline into the torpedo room that life-sustaining air might be pumped to the survivors.

graphic code to diver Tom Eadie that six of the imprisoned men were alive, a second possible message came tap-tap-tapping early today. Charles Scott, another diver working on the stern of the helpless sub. The first message came from the forward torpedo compartment. Although the sounds heard by Scott were quite faint, they were taken to indicate that others of the forty-odd men and officers were alive. Scott was unable to decipher the tapping into a message, however, and it was pointed out that the faint hammering might be the sound of a chain. Nevertheless rescue measures were speeded with renewed hope.

Message From Grave

The hammering heard by Eadie, a veritable message from the grave—tap, tap, tap, came forth from within the mystery of the S-4, in telegraphic code. It told the world that six of the forty-odd men and officers of the helpless sub, lived on—102 feet below the water surface. Perhaps more are breathing.

Admiral's Report

Admiral Frank Brumby sent a radio to Washington that six of the trapped men were alive, following Eadie's report. Captain E. J. King, in charge of rescue operations, said: "Certain men are alive in the S-4. Everybody in the battery compartment is certainly dead. Just how many died altogether is a matter of conjecture.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Swedish Lutherans Sing Maunders' Beautiful "Song of Thanksgiving"

Four hundred people heard Maunders' beautiful Christmas cantata, "Song of Thanksgiving," given full justice by the chorus of the Swedish Lutheran church last night under the direction of Helge E. Pearson.
Chief among the features of the cantata were the solos by Albert Pearson, bass, and Rudolph Swanson, tenor. The former, who has improved considerably during the past year, had three solos, each of which he made the most of. His solo, "Consider the Lilies," was the best individual effort of the evening.
Mr. Swanson was a surprise to most of those who heard his solos last night. He has been training for only a short time and until this had not been heard in solo work in Manchester. His voice is a robust tenor, almost a baritone, with a full tone and almost perfect pitch. His solo "O Thou Whose Constant Mercy" was his best number.

The choir itself was excellent both in its tone and its obedience to the baton of Director Pearson. Its best number was one for tenors, altos and sopranos, "God the Lord Hath Spoken."
Preceding the cantata Rev. P. J. O. Cornell, pastor of the church, talked for about 10 minutes on the subject of church music and its relation to worship.

Miss Elsie Berggren, soprano soloist of the choir, is a young singer who has yet to make her mark in Manchester musical circles. Her solos, however, were good, and best of the three was the "O Lovely Flower." She was the only female soloist of the cantata.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(17) The Tavern Capitol In contrast to the present-day $3,342,000 state capitol in which the General Assembly meets to enact the laws which govern Connecticut, the General Court or governing body of early Connecticut held its meetings in a tavern.

CHALLENGE

If there were any way of getting an adjudication of the question, this newspaper would like mightily well to chip in on a good sized community bet that Manchester's business district presents the best looking lot of Christmas store fronts, and the best looking lot of Christmas store interiors, of any city or town up and including fifty thousand population in New England.

There is a sparkle and a glow about the whole big group of Manchester stores that you find in very few places indeed, big or little. There is a freshness and a cleanliness and an all around smartness that smack of alertness and interest and enthusiasm on the part of the merchants and their people.

They are an enterprising lot, our storekeepers, and there is no indication of a single lazy bone among them from one end of the district to the other. Their shops are always attractive but it is just now, in the most picturesque trading period of the whole year, that the eminence of Manchester's stores, among those in places of its class, springs most convincingly into notice.

S-4 DISASTER

This holiday week opens gloomily enough, with another soul-rending submarine tragedy commanding the absorbed attention of the nation at a time when tears and heartbreaking suspense are in shocking contrast with the traditional spirit of the season.

Fully as poignant as the tense and straining horror of the S-51 is this disaster. Only this time it is early established, beyond much chance of error, that most of the crew of the sunken submarine are already dead. But six living men, entombed on the sea floor in as desperate a situation as is to be conceived, are the objects of supreme endeavor on the part of the rescuers.

CAROLERS

One of the loveliest, perhaps the most beautiful, of all Yuletide customs is that of bodies of singers going about, on Christmas eve or Christmas day, singing carols to the sick, the crippled and the afflicted—the shut-ins. Only those who have seen the visible effects of this special sort of kindness reflected on the bed-ridden and the house-kept can fully appreciate the warmth and goodness that lie at the heart of a Christmas song.

BULL-FIGHT

Charles A. Lindbergh is a disappointing young man—to some folks. He upset the applecart of those enthusiastic extremists who, having discovered that he was not a smoker, proceeded to exploit him in their anti-tobacco campaign.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Dec. 19.—The president's message to the new Congress makes especially interesting reading when read in conjunction with his last Congress two years ago. He made it known that he left out some of the subjects for lack of space, but he discussed 28 subjects in only 21 pages as compared with 26 subjects in 25 pages in December, 1925.

CRABBING IT

There was a lightweight fight in New York city the other night—a championship affair—between Tod Morgan and Joe Glick. As nearly as we can gather from three different sports writers' accounts of the bout, Glick early in the milling gained the upper hand of the champion by an attack in which he employed practically every foul device known to the prize ring, and continued to fight with utter disregard for the rules until, in the fourteenth round, he was finally disqualified.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. GIFTS FOR EVERY MEMBER OF THE FAMILY

Bureau Federation—that Muscle Shoals can best aid agriculture if its fertilizer revenues are applied to further development instead of its obsolete equipment.

Two years ago, Mr. Coolidge was well satisfied with the condition of national defense and warned against competitive armaments.

Two years ago, the president discussed foreign relations only as affecting Europe and the Far East. This year and less at length, he mentioned Mexico and Nicaragua, expressing hope for continued friendly relations with Mexico and Nicaragua.

Two years ago, the president said that nitrates cannot be successfully produced at Muscle Shoals owing to new and cheaper methods and that the project is now "mostly concerned with power."

He agrees with Norris—and thus disagrees with the American Farm

New York, Dec. 19.—Eliminating the physical difference, it becomes possible to live in New York exactly as one might in any small town of America.

Those activities which do not center about the flesh-pots, the artistic or the literary gathering places, are no different from those to be found in any little community.

Reading any day's list of social functions in Manhattan, you will find that the neighborhood church is having a supper; that the clerks of a Bronx store are putting on a home-made play; that the Epworth League is having a Wednesday night social; that prayer meetings are under way in any number of places; that the Lion's Club is having a dinner and the employees of a fur concern are having a luncheon; that the Wisconsin State Society is gathering its clan; that the parents of a given district are meeting in the schoolhouse to discuss children's problems.

It is just as important and thrilling to the Manhattan parent to know that little Gussie is "reeling a piece" at the Firemen's Hall as it is to the parent of Sauk Waters.

And so it goes. Anyone wishing to carry on the simple social divisions of the small town he left behind can find them by the dozen and the hundred. He need never, unless he so wishes, enter that sort of life that is known as "New York." He need never walk up Broadway. And, attending these various family functions, he will find there the sort of folks he used to live near in Fork Creek. For there are hundreds of thousands such as he caught in this great city and hungry for the more simple pastimes they knew "back there."

On the other hand, extravagance and glitter know no limits when a social thrill is desired.

A few days ago a court action brought against a dancer because she accepted a private engagement revealed one of those glamorous parties in Park avenue's millionaire row where $10,000 was spent for a single evening's amusement of guests. To surprise the guests a Salome dancer had been retained. A stage had been built behind a dining room curtain and, when the diners had finished, they found themselves in an imitation theater.

Such extravaganzas are more common than that rare. But few find their way to the newspapers. What might be considered a comfortable retiring fortune to a man in an average sized city is blown to the winds in a few hours for the sake of display. A sort of social reputation is often built from such lavish entertainment. The people thus drawn are, of course, "fair-weather" friends. At the first sign of a drop-off they flit to the next nest of glitter.

New York still recalls the days when the famous "blackbird pie" dinner was given, and out from a huge imitation pie crust stepped a bevy of lovely girls in various states of undress.

That sort of thing belongs to the "giddy nineties" but the modern cut-ups have found variations on the same theme and it is not at all uncommon for an entire chorus to be retained to amuse the stage diners of today.

WILLIAMS' WINDOW DISPLAY

The George H. Williams store in the Johnson block has one of the most striking and original window displays on Main street this week. Mr. Williams' force has co-operated on the display and its originality, together with the great variety of articles shown, has caused it to be commented upon considerably. The window shows a cross section of the Williams' stock, attractively displayed. It shows that the Williams' store has practically everything in the gift line, from haberdashery to jewelry. Neckties in brilliant and somber hues are contrasted with the latest designs in bandana neckerchiefs.

GATLIN CASE TO GO OVER UNTIL JANUARY TERM

North Carolina Bride In Jail On Charge That She Killed Father.

Reidsville, N. C.—Youthful Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, bride of a few months and alleged patricide, will not learn her ultimate fate until early in January, as a result of a decision reached by prosecution counsel.

It was learned to-day that prosecutors have entirely abandoned the idea of requesting a special trial of superior court for the trial of the sensational case. Thus the trial can not be called until the next term of Rockingham Superior Court early in the new year.

No Special Term. County Solicitor Allen Gwyn, who directed the investigation which led to the arrest of Mrs. Petty's axe-slashed body after he had been reported mysteriously missing for a year, and his pretty young daughter's subsequent arrest, was authority for the statement that the prosecution had decided not to ask for a special term.

The case will be tried at Wentworth, county seat of Rockingham County. While the court docket for the January term is very congested, Solicitor Gwyn said that room would be made for the trial of the 20 year-old alleged murderer. The trial, on account of the mass of testimony that is to be presented, is expected to last for a week or more.

It was learned that the prosecution intends to place on the witness stand as its star witness the Rev. Thomas F. ("Thunderbolt") Fardue, erstwhile Reidsville minister who instigated the investigation into the Petty murder when he divulged to authorities an alleged confession of the horrible crime to him by the accused patricide.

Married Since Murder. Mrs. Gatlin, who, since the time the alleged murder is believed to have taken place a little over a year ago, married Eugene Gatlin, chief of the Reidsville fire department.

When she was arrested on the day her 50-year-old father's murdered body was found she vehemently denied all knowledge of the alleged confession made to the minister.

The alleged murderer is lodged in the county jail at Wentworth. Defense counsel waived preliminary hearing in order not to divulge their line of defense to the State.

Carries Biggest Stock in History—Many Novelties For Christmas Gifts Displayed.

Neckwear, without which no Christmas would be Christmas, is one of the big lines being featured at the George Williams Inc., store in the Johnson block this season. Mr. Williams believes that his stock is the biggest that he has ever carried, and he says that it has no equal for variety.

Many of the neckties are novelties to Manchester, displaying the result of the ingenuity of designers who are forever startling the world with fanciful combinations of figures and polka dots. Quietly, suitable for gifts to elderly men and men who choose more somber things to wear, are also here in good variety. In fact, there is a necktie for every member of the family, even for the mannish girl who affects the masculine shirt.

SING BEAUTIFULLY BY CANDLE LIGHT

Yearly Yuletide Carol Service at S. M. E. Surpasses Others Years'

At the South Methodist church last night an audience of 800 listened to a highly impressive service of carols. This carol service, which is an annual event, is always looked forward to with interest by music lovers and the general public. The performance given last night far exceeded in quality any of the previous services.

The choir, about 30 in number, gave of its best. It would be difficult to say which number was the most charming.

Effective Preludes Prior to the program the choir sang from the tower "Holy Night, Silent Night" and the effect, as the far distant strains of this beautiful carol carried to the audience, was strangely effective and inspiring.

The professional was "O Little Town of Bethlehem," sung by the choir, the entrance being from the rear of the church and along the main aisle up to the chancel. Each member of the choir carried a lighted candle in a quaint old-time candlestick, and as the church was illuminated only by the indirect lights, a solemn and impressive effect was created. The lighted candles were placed on the altar table and continued burning throughout the service.

In their many numbers, the choir sang most effectively and created a marked impression by the beauty of their interpretation of the several numbers.

Some Numbers In the opening number, "From Heaven High," a setting to a 14th century poem, rare beauty of subdued ensemble was obtained, while the solo part was sung by Mrs. Lashinske in a manner as charming as artistic. The sentiment of the theme set in the solo part was finely interpreted, while the expression was everything desirable, both from soloist and chorus.

Another most beautiful number was "The Shepherds Had An Angel," in which Miss Willard was the soloist. Her singing of this number was well studied and delightful, the crooning appeal of the little babe for a guide to help it being very dainty in its setting.

A carol new on this program was "The Shepherds' Story," in which the composition, as arranged by Dickinson, to the quaint old-fashioned wording, of the poem is delightful. This was one of the numbers obviously outstanding in appeal to the audience. Its differing moods and expressions were finely interpreted by the choir.

Uniform Excellence All the numbers were excellent, constituting a program of balance that held the attention of its hearers. The choir again displayed its facility in interpretation of church music and attained a degree of merit exceeding any former program of this nature. The shadings throughout were subtle and the balance in the four parts was remarkable. Expression in the contrasts also was well developed. The direct congratulation for the excellence of the performance.

Incidental solo parts in several numbers were well taken by Sydney Strickland, Robert J. Gordon and Fred Bendall.

The members of the choir that gave the program are:

Miss Eleanor Willard, Mrs. Eunice Hohenthal, Miss Ada Belle Crosby, Miss Olive Nyman, Mrs. Mabel Robbins, Miss Ruth Nyman, Miss Esther Wrisley, Mrs. Inger Roberts, Mrs. E. Fellows, Mrs. Bertelme Lashinske, Mrs. Estelle Olson, Mrs. Florence Anderson, Miss Esther Sturgeon, Miss Miriam Silcox, Mrs. Belle Rollins, Miss Etta Otto, Miss Blanche Merrill, Sydney Strickland, Paul Volquardson, James Hutchinson, Storrs Brigham, Harry Armstrong, Ernest Clough, Robert Gordon, Fred Bendall, Walter Reichard, Earl Trotter, Fred

Sadler, Robert VonDeck, Thomas McGill, C. Elmore Watkins, Wesley Porter, Kenneth Roberts, Orgahis and Choirmaster, Archibald Sessions.

A carol with a fine cage would make a dandy Xmas gift, especially to anyone who likes birds. Our St. Andrewsburg rollers are the best singing canaries we have had. Park Hill Flower Shop.—Adv.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 19.—Ernest E. Rogers, state treasurer and former president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, is returning to Connecticut after a tour of the entire United States as president of the Sons of the American Revolution. Mrs. Rogers is with him.

Mr. Rogers visited fifty chapters of the S. A. R. and addressed them all, going to the Pacific Coast. On Wednesday he reached Washington and called on President Coolidge, who also is a member of the S. A. R. Then Mr. and Mrs. Rogers went to Mount Vernon and laid a wreath on Washington's tomb, the day of the visit being the 128th anniversary of Washington's death.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (163) Weaving Wool Here is a picture of the loom on which the wool threads are woven into cloth. The warp, or lengthwise thread, is crossed with the weft, the crosswise thread, in this wonderful machine. This loom produces cloth at a rate of speed that would astonish the primitive weavers of India and Turkey. Then a shearing machine cuts the nap evenly all over the cloth, much as a man shaves himself with a safety razor. After being pressed to remove creases and steamed to take away the glaze, the cloth is stretched in a drying room. Finally it is folded through a machine, and now is ready for the shop. ## A Message from the Co-Workers of this Great Organization

Inviting the Shopping Public to Solve Their Gift Problems Here Quickly and Profitably

WE, the co-workers of Wise, Smith & Co., extend to each and every individual in Hartford and environs a personal invitation to do their entire Christmas shopping here. Everything from the basement to the roof—everybody from the humble stock boy to the highest executive—is completely ready to serve you better and quicker than ever before. None of us can recollect any time during the history of our store when stocks were larger and the service better than now. We are in the midst of our "Biggest December Campaign" and the response to it has been nothing short of phenomenal. Fact is, reserve stocks have been called upon repeatedly to fill the rapidly diminishing gift merchandise. Our buyers have been rushed to the markets for more splendid offerings. Brand NEW offerings will greet you tomorrow.

AND we want to add, that we have never offered finer savings during any holiday season. We consider this really remarkable, because at this time most stores are asking full and regular prices for gift merchandise, while our store is selling wanted merchandise at money-saving prices. This year, the addition of hundreds of co-workers, more delivery trucks, an enlarged telephone switchboard, we are able to give all those extra services that mean so much to you during the Christmas rush—saving your time—your energy—your patience. In every department, you will feel this same spirit of special service. We want to be of genuine assistance to you, and this organization stands as a man "At Your Service."
 (Signed) THE CO-WORKERS OF WISE, SMITH & CO.

PLEASURE TRIP IN AIR LINER TO BEGIN JAN. 31

3-Engined Plane Leaving
Croydon For a Pleasure
Cruise of 35 Days.

London.—The first air pleasure cruise ever to be undertaken will begin on January 31, when a large three-engined air liner will leave Croydon Airfield for a thirty-five day's tour over Southern France, Spain, Northern Africa and Italy.

The machine, one of the "silver wings" craft which operate as a daily luxury service between London and Paris, will carry twelve passengers. The fare will be $2-175 per passenger, and this will include the finest hotel accommodations, including meals, tips, admissions fees for sightseeing car and baggage transport between air-dromes and hotels, services of English-speaking representatives at all places, and payment of foreign hotel taxes.

Meals Served.
In addition to a pilot and engineer, in a uniformed steward will travel in the machine to cater to the needs of the passengers. Meals and light refreshments will be served to the aerial passengers, while the plane is winging its way at the speed of 100 miles an hour.

Each of the 12 passengers will be permitted to carry sixty pounds of luggage, and additional baggage may be sent ahead to be picked up on arrival at Algiers and Naples.

In describing the extraordinary flight, an official of the Imperial Airways told International News Service:

Visit Many Cities.
"The feature of this first aerial tour, which we hope will inaugurate a new era in aerial travel, is that the speed of the airplane is so great compared with earth travel, that in addition to obtaining a unique preliminary view from aloft of the locality they are about to visit, passengers will have a maximum amount of time on land during which they can examine at leisure local places of interest.

Furthermore, due to the speed of flying no night travel is involved, the aerial tourists spending every night comfortably at some hotel.

The cities the tourists will visit include Paris, Bordeaux, Biarritz, Barcelona, Seville, Tangiers, Casablanca, Fez, Oran, Algiers, Tunis, Naples, Rome, Venice, Pisa and Marseilles.

PERSIAN MINISTER TO PARIS HAS PASSION FOR FAMILY DARNING

Paris.—The new minister from Persia in Paris is a model husband. S. E. Hussein Ala Khan recently arrived in the capital and paid a visit to President Doumergue. They were seated in a little salon. Doumergue offered cigars and then a match which, unfortunately slipped and fell upon the fez which his Majesty held upon his knees. In his attempt to prevent the match from burning the silk, he ended by tearing it.

"Gastounet" was all confusion and immediately started for a seamstress to repair the damage.

The Minister stopped him, began searching his pockets and drew forth a little pochette containing scissors, thimble and an assortment of thread. Then while they continued their interview, he mended the fez in a skillful manner.

"Sewing is my one passion," he explained to the President, "I do all my mending and allow no one else to darn the stockings of my wife and daughters."

LIQUOR STORES PROSPER
Toronto, Ont.—In the five months of their operation, the Ontario government liquor stores have paid a net profit of $4,500,000, almost $1,000,000 more than had been estimated. The gross revenue for the same period was $12,000,000, twelve times as much as was received last year under the Ontario Temperance Act.

ONE "UNDER 18" DRIVER IN 11 IN AN ACCIDENT

Records For Six Months Show
That Only One in 15 Was Convicted in Court.

One in every eleven of those under 18 years of age licensed to drive automobiles during the first six months operation of the so-called sixteen-year-old law was in an accident, according to records of the State Motor Vehicle Department. During the same period about one in every fifteen of these young drivers was convicted in court of some violation of the motor vehicle law.

There were 6,711 boys and girls under 18 years of age licensed during the same period and 569 were in accidents. The percentage involved in accidents, to the whole group, was 8.4, a figure exceeded only by the percentage for the drivers in the age groups from 18 to 20 and from 20 to 30 years old. The accident rates for these last named groups was 13 and 12 per cent, respectively. The percentage of all operators involved in accidents during the six months was slightly less than that for the 16 to 18 years old group, being 8.3 per cent.

During the 7 months between May 1, when persons under 18 years of age were first allowed to operate cars, and December 1, 1927, approximately 7 per cent of all those licensed, were convicted in court of some violation of motor vehicle regulations. As in the case of accident rate this percentage was exceeded only by that of the 18 to 20 and the 20 to 30 years old groups, which were 10 and 7.8 per cent, respectively. The percentage for all groups during the period was 4.4.

The majority of troubles of the young operators apparently came during the second three months of the period, as statistics show that they made a fine start with few accidents during the first three months they were allowed to drive. Another fact that is apparent upon examination of the court records is that youthful drivers are far less successful in "evading responsibility" and the consequent court proceedings than their older brothers and sisters. While nearly equal percentage of drivers between 30 and 40 years were involved in accidents, only 3 per cent were convicted of infractions of the motor vehicle laws, as compared with 7 per cent of those under 18 years of age.

Records for the period indicate that the older group of drivers the less it is concerned in accidents and court proceedings. The best record is set by the 3,000 drivers of more than 70 years of age, only 3 per cent of whom were involved in accidents and only .6 per cent of whom were convicted of motor vehicle law violations.

There are about seven times as many boys as there are girls under eighteen now licensed to operate. The girls of this group are also maintaining the law accidents established by women for the state, which shows that only 6 per cent of the drivers involved in accidents are women. Very few of the young operators brought into court were girls.

The following table shows the approximate number of persons licensed from May 1 to November 1 in each group, the number of accidents for each group and the percentage of accidents to the number operating cars:

Age Group	No. Lic.	No. In Acc.	Pct.
16-18	6,711	569	8.4
18-20	14,000	1,851	13.2
20-30	76,000	9,677	12.7
30-40	86,000	7,197	8.3
40-50	66,000	3,904	5.9
50-60	42,000	1,795	4.2
60-70	16,000	617	3.8
70-	3,000	110	0.3

The number convicted in court in each age group and the percentage to the total number licensed in that group follows: 16-18, 507, 7.5; 18-20, 1,436, 10.2; 20-30, 6,001, 7.8; 30-40, 3,375, 3.9; 40-50, 1,611, 2.4; 50-60, 597, 1.4; 60-70, 137, .85; 70 and more, 19, .63.

DESTROYER BEACHED AFTER CRASH

This picture of the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding, known officially as destroyer 17, shows her beached near Provincetown, Mass., to save her from sinking following her collision with the submarine S-4. Other ships are standing by. The crash which sank the S-4 knocked a hole in the hull of the Paulding amidships. She barely succeeded in making the shore.

LOST SUB'S OFFICERS

The four officers of the U. S. submarine S-4 who went to the bottom with their ship when she collided with the destroyer Paulding off Provincetown, Mass., are pictured above. They are: upper left, Lieut. Com. Roy K. Jones of Halethorpe, Md., in command; right, Lieutenant Graham N. Fitch, Washington, D. C.; lower left, Lieutenant Donald Weller, Los Angeles; Lieutenant Joseph A. McGinley, Norristown, Pa., who was to have been relieved from the submarine service Jan. 2.

"MISSING LINK" COMES TO STATE ON TUESDAY

Syd Chaplin, Popular Comedian, Has Leading Role in Jungle Film "London After Midnight" Closes Today.

"The Missing Link," Syd Chaplin's latest comedy which is the feature attraction at the State theater on Tuesday and Wednesday is a veritable riot of hilarity. The popular comedian, who is rapidly becoming even more popular than his famous brother, seems to be assured of a good production every time he begins a film.

Chaplin has a good supporting cast, many of the actors being animals, mostly lions and gorillas and monkeys and other animals which are good things to keep away from. Syd was forced to act with them, although he seems to have a pet aversion to them.

He is pictured as the man who goes out into the darkest Africa in search of what is believed to be the missing link. An enormous man-like gorilla has been seen by natives and it resembles nothing they have ever seen before. A cry goes out and Chaplin as the explorer answers it.

He runs into all kinds of adventure, both with white men and animals. Head-hunters and cannibals frighten him with their suggestive dances, dances suggesting the black pot and the headman's axe, but goes serenely on. Animals make him wish he were home, but he escapes all of them. When he meets the missing link his trouble really begins, but that is the whole story of the picture and will not be detailed here.

"London After Midnight," Lon Chaney's latest film while not up to the standard of "The Phantom of the Opera" and others of this makeup wizard, is good entertainment for an hour and a half. Its run here ends to-night.

It is the chronicle of one of the most famous murder cases in England's history and an explanation of the solution of the mystery through hypnosis. Chaney plays Burke of Scotland Yard, England's master criminologist, and he goes at the mystery as he would go after anything else, with both hands and his eyes wide open. It is a weird tale of crime, bringing in the elements of "undead," those corpses who leave their graves at midnight to feast on the blood of living people. Those who see it will be assured of a good entertainment.

DRIVER HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR YOUNG LADY'S DEATH

Milford, Conn., Dec. 19.—Gerald Howell, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., member of the Yale freshman class, was today bound over for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of reckless operation of a motor vehicle so as to cause death. Howell was released on bond of $1,000. Through Judge J. D. Browne, Jr., his counsel, Howell waived examination when his case was called in the Town Court.

Howell was driving two Bridgeport girls to their home on the evening of the Yale-Army football game, October 22, last when he passed a car at high speed going to its right, running off the pavement and upsetting. Miss Frances Thomas, of Martinsburg, West Virginia, an employe of a Bridgeport office, was instantly killed and Miss Winifred Smith, another office employe, was seriously injured. Howell escaped injury.

Coroner Eli Mix, of New Haven, found Howell criminally responsible for Miss Thomas' death.

STILL IN THE AIR

Municipal Airport, San Francisco, Dec. 19.—The big tri-motored Fokker monoplane, Pride of California, piloted by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviator, and Lieut. George R. Pond, U. S. N., was in the air 21 hours at 5:23 this morning. The aviators are attempting to establish a new record for sustained flight. The present record of 52 hours, 22 minutes and some seconds is held by two German aviators.

Columns in front of the state capitol of North Carolina were copied from the Temple of Minerva, which was erected in Athens about 500 B. C.

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THUS FAR
The story is told in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the career of the fight...

CHAPTER XXIV
"TY GAWD!" ejaculated Joe...

But Tony had heard and understood only too well. He was thinking that the responsibility he had so enthusiastically assumed had grown suddenly to the proportions of a staggering load.

"What," he asked himself, "if Fancy was to lose through some carelessness of mine? It would be had enough to have her beaten, but I'd hate to be the cause of the colonel losing five thousand dollars and his mare in the bargain."

"Well shake on it, then," Jones was saying to Titus Moore. "And now how about a stake holdout?"

"As far as I'm concerned," he was told, "a stakeholder isn't necessary. Your word's good enough for me, and most men are satisfied with mine."

Jones stared at him a moment, then nodded briefly. "It satisfies me, too."

The news seemed to spread on wings. Within an hour everyone in Caldwell knew that the owners of Black Diamond and Fancy had bet five thousand dollars apiece and their horses as well.

The weekly Caldwell Tribune, issued the morning of the race, carried a stirring editorial by John Blake. Betting on a horse race was gambling, he admitted; nevertheless the editor of the Tribune had a weaker word for it.

"If it be treason," he wrote, "make the most of it. As long as horses run there will be wagering, and our own judgment, which is often wrong, is backing the Kentucky mare."

off and gestured expressively with his hands. The calmest of all of Fancy's backers was Titus Moore himself; half an hour before the start of the race he stood beside the mare and talked to her in an even voice.

"Tony," he said, turning to the boy, "there's just one bit of advice I want to give you. I have an idea Black Diamond's owner is going to order his boy to let the horse out from the start and keep him going that way to the finish. The stallion is big and strong and he won't tire; there'd be no sense in holding him back. But that's not the way to race Fancy. If she'll do it for you, I want you to match the stallion's pace, keeping about half a length behind him, for the first half-mile."

He stroked Fancy's muzzle affectionately, letting his eyes rove over her trim figure in a final appraisal. Tony Harrison nodded. "Something of the colonel's calmness had communicated itself to him during the last few minutes. Considering the restless, well nigh sleepless night he had spent, he now felt unaccountably quiet of nerve, as though soothing hands had stroked his temples."

"She's a great little piece of horseflesh, Tony," Titus Moore went on, still fondling the thoroughbred, "and she's proud — proud of the good, clean blood in her. You don't know how much I'd like to ride her myself."

"I think I do," the boy replied quietly. "You don't know how proud I am myself, of being able to ride her. I'll do my best." He sat down and pulled off his boots, then stood up again and thrust a stocking and foot into a stirrup. "Every pound'll count," he told Titus Moore as he swung into the saddle.

Moore nodded approvingly. The boy had divested himself of every bit of superfluous clothing and sat clad only in trousers, shirt and boots. There was a blast from a pugle and the colonel flung to press his rider's hand, then strode calmly, head erect, to a box where sat Clyde Jones and a party of friends and Joe Craig.

Jones wore a wide grin. "I feel not his way. I'm trying to say that she'd never be the same to him."

"So he's risking her, along with his five thousand. If he wins, it means he was right in his judgment. If he loses—" Craig broke

"Just look at her! Oh, what a beauty!" bag of wind lose. It always goes hard with that kind."

His employer said nothing. Chin in hand, he was gazing intently at a spot some fifty yards away where two men were leading the mounted animals up to the starting line.

"Black Diamond," Craig informed him in his ear, "is carrying a hundred and forty pounds. Jones said he didn't want to have any advantage in the weights."

Colonel Moore nodded. Somewhere a six-gun barked and two horses shot forward in a swirl of dust. A full-throated cry arose from the seats as long-stifed emotions were released, and the colonel settled himself back, his face an impassive mask.

It was all very brief. True to Titus Moore's prediction, the boy on Black Diamond was trying to show Fancy the stallion's heels all the way. He overhauled the mare in half a dozen jumps, and thereafter Tony clung to him, no more than a length behind.

Now she was pulling up on him; daylight closed between them; her head was abreast of his saddle, his neck was even with his; and now she was ahead.

Joe Craig shouted himself hoarse. "Just look at her, Colonel!" he begged. "Just look at her! Oh, what a beauty! What a beauty!"

"She's doing just what I expected of her, Joe," the colonel responded without turning his head. "Tony's run her perfectly."

Jones, his eyes clouded with disappointment, and forcing a smile, was coming toward Moore, his hand outstretched in congratulation.

"By God!" he exclaimed. "I'm surprised, but I'm licked. Colonel Moore, I didn't think it possible there was another horse in this country as fast as Black Diamond. The mare won because she's a better horse; the stallion's yours and so is this," and he fished out his wallet.

Titus Moore got to his feet. A committee was approaching the victoriously Fancy to place a wreath of flowers around her neck and another about Tony Harrison's shoulders. They were very happy; he was even close to tears; but outwardly he was imperturbable.

He faced Clyde Jones and clasped his hand. "My friend," he said, "you say what isn't so. It isn't fair to that he was beaten by a better one. He was beaten by a better one at that distance, that is all. You saw for yourself, and it must have done your heart good to see it, that Black Diamond would have won easily at a mile."

Titus Moore smiled a little more broadly and rested his hand affectionately on Joe Craig's shoulder. "Mr. Jones," he said, "you love me and you're a fine gentleman and a good sport. The hardest thing in life is to lose gracefully and you've done it."

The other bowed a little and murmured something in deprecation. "I'll take your money," Colonel Moore nodded. "You won't take your horse. I cheerfully give him back."

Jones protested volubly. "Nothing of the kind. Nothing of the kind. The stallion's yours; I lost him. I couldn't think of it."

"Nevertheless," insisted Colonel Moore, "I can't accept him."

As Christmas approaches I wonder how many people are worrying because their gifts may not be liked by the ones who receive them.

"There is only one drawback to year-round buying of Christmas gifts," said a woman recently, the provident kind who begins on January first to pick up things for the following year, "and that is, you have just that much longer to worry for the people you bought them for."

There can be no equality in Christmas giving, but there can be equality in sentiment. That is all

Sixteen Pool Players Seek Rec Championship

Pairings Announced; First Matches Tonight; Ballsieper, Berry, Houston and Dunn Favorites.

Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers, who recently conducted a very successful cross-country run that aroused considerable interest, has now made arrangements for an indoor event which he expects will prove even more interesting—a pool tournament for the championship of the Recreation Centers. Mr. Lloyd, who is an excellent player himself, will referee all matches.

Fifteen players entered their names for participation in the tournament which will be run on an elimination basis. Each match will be of fifty ball duration with the rules being observed. A. Walter of the players in the first round follows: Tommy Faulkner vs. Jimmy Nell, Harry Madden vs. Sam Houston, Paul Ballsieper vs. Clarence Thornton, George Stavnitsky vs. Adolph Carlson, Matthew McDonald vs. Arthur St. John, Bill Brennan vs. Walter Dunn, Tom Stov vs. Leonard Berry and McCann vs. Al Dowd.

Sam Houston and Paul Ballsieper are the favorites to meet in the quarter finals in the first bracket while Leonard Berry and Walter Dunn may eliminate the others in the lower division. It is expected that one of this four will win the title. To say which one, would be difficult.

All matches will be played on the end table in the pool room at the East Side Rec. Center each match. Referee Lloyd will explain briefly the rules that are to be enforced. A space will be roped off around the table and no one will be allowed to enter the room. A chair will be provided for the player who is shooting. Mr. Lloyd will referee the score and make whatever decisions are necessary. Players are cautioned to bear in mind that on every shot, the ball and pocket must be named. This includes the most simple "succor."

Faulkner and Nell will play at 7 o'clock tonight and Madden and Houston at 8:00. The other matches in the first round must all be finished this week. Arrangements should be made with Director Lloyd for the play-off. The table will be reserved for the entire week at the hour which the matches are scheduled for.

WILLIE HOPPE WINS

New York, Dec. 19.—A new record had been set by Willie Hoppe today in defeating Harry Walker, 50 to 2, in only 24 innings of play, in an American three-cushion billiard league match. The one-sided score was the most decisive victory ever scored in championship play.

Billy Evans Says

IDEA OF RELIEF PITCHERS

Is it wise to use a veteran star pitcher as relief man when some pitcher is faltering in the late innings. Managers of major league clubs are about evenly divided on the question. There are some who argue it is wisdom to slip the opposition your best bet in an effort to hold a one or two-run lead late in the game.

Others use their pitching ace only as a last resort, where the winning of the game is of vital importance in keeping the club in the race.

I have never seen a greater starting or relief pitcher than Ed Walsh, of the old Chicago White Sox. Walsh, a glutton for work during his career, usually performed in about 50 games during a season, often five or ten more.

I once asked Walsh which he would rather do, start a ball game and finish it, or be pressed into service, say three innings, to hold a one-run lead.

"There is nothing harder than relief work," he replied. "I have often worked three innings at top speed, where it was necessary to bear down on every ball pitched, and felt more tired at the finish than after working a regular nine-inning affair."

Alex Kias Same Idea One of the star pitchers, still in active service, who shares the opinion of Ed Walsh is none other than the great Grover Cleveland Alexander. In his prime, Alexander never demurred to act as pinch pitcher. However, the toll and Alexander feels that had he nursed himself along, instead of stepping into every breach that called for relief work, he would be a much better pitcher today.

"There comes a time in the career of every pitcher when doing relief work is out of the question," says Alex. "When a youngster, it doesn't appear to be at all difficult, but as a pitcher gets up in years, he finds he is not physically strong enough to so perform."

"Back in 1921," I decided that I would since then have rarely appeared in such a role, and then only as a pennant-winning proposition.

"Since then I have pitched consistently good ball. The fact that at 40 years of age you work 20 games last season, is in my opinion, ample proof of the wisdom of my belief that pinch pitching is bad for a veteran twirler, not good for any pitcher."

Marberry Aided Nats Stanley Harris in winning two pennants for Washington in 1924-25 also proved there is no better way to keep a veteran pitching staff on edge than to relieve them of doing any pinch pitching duties.

Harris, with the giant and willing Fred Marberry in reserve, always called on him when any of his regulars faltered, thereby keeping his veteran staff on edge.

In 1926 George Uhlie, in an effort to pitch Cleveland to a pennant, worked overtime as a regular and in relief roles. He was able to win the surprisingly large total of 27 games. Yet Uhlie paid the penalty.

The greatest pitcher in the American League in 1926 could win only eight games last season, less than one-third his conquests of the previous year.

I am inclined to believe that a majority of the managers have been won over to the belief there is nothing quite so necessary to stabilize a pitching staff as a high-class relief twirler, able to go to top speed for two to three innings.

TO BUY ROCHESTER New York, Dec. 16.—Walter Hagen, pro golf champion, and John Gault, former ball player, have been named one week of grace by the International League in which to raise $40,000 to complete their purchase of the franchise of the Rochester International League baseball team. To date they have made only a partial payment of $25,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Ruby Goldstein, who retired from the ring following his knockout last summer, will attempt a comeback tonight when he takes on Ray Mitchell of Philadelphia in a six-round bout here. Goldstein has taken on weight and is now a welterweight.

Uses Rats to Determine Best Diet for Runners

Just what is the best diet for runners? That's the question Ray Conger, outstanding American middle distance runner of Iowa State College, is trying to find out in a purely scientific fashion. Conger is keeping several rats on a different diet and is checking their speed in the hope of determining the diet best suited to runners. He hopes this work will aid him in the 1928 Olympic games.

New Major-Minor Pact Soon To Be Drafted By High Judge Landis

By DAVIS J. WALSH, I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 19.—With Judge Landis Acting as mediator and final court of appeal, a new Major-Minor agreement amicable to all baseball is in the process of being drafted, the writer learned today. The contract will be ready for signature within a month, at which time it will be informed, and once more peace will reign in this most turbulent of families.

The decision to leave the draft controversy in the hands of the Judge was reached at the Major League meetings here last week when the little minors found themselves in possession of a perfectly good resolution and very little to "resolute" about. They had neither the Majors nor the Big Minors with them, which meant that they were out on a limb and it wasn't bird's eye maple, either.

When you climb down in that position, you climb down when invited. So they "climb," as we say at the green grocer's.

In consequence, they had no alternative but to abide by the compromise suggested, which in effect called for a general advance of any logical plan advanced by the minors. It will be submitted for formal approval, I am informed, to presidents Barnard and Heydler, of the American and National Leagues respectively, and to President Mike Sexton, of the Minor League Association, thus bringing all contending factors to a common focus.

Just what the nature of the plan may be at this time nobody seems to know. I doubt whether the judge does; either. All anyone can forecast is that the completed agreement must be a concession to the little Minor because they are the ones who are taking because of the existing modified draft.

They are subject to an insistent pull on this from both the Majors and Big Minors and, between the two, all they have left at the end of a season is the uniforms a lot of pretty fair ball players used to wear. The funny part about the entire controversy is that the Major leagues cannot get along without these little fellows any more than the latter can get along without the majors.

Drury, Spears To Play Against Each Other

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 12.—Two of the best quarterbacks of the past football season will show their wares at the same time and against each other here on Christmas Day. These two stars are Morley Drury, Southern California's sensational back who graced practically every All-America team this year, and Billy Spears, Vanderbilt star, who was the outstanding player in Dixie this year.

CANADA TO CLAIM EDWARDS AS OWN

New York, Dec. 19.—Phil Edwards, flashy New York University track star and national junior half mile champion, will compete for Canada in the coming Olympics. It was decided by the A. A. U., today. It was disclosed by the A. A. U. that Edwards is a West Indian and has been in this country several years. He has not been here long enough, however, to be made a citizen, which automatically eliminates him from possible participation in the Olympic games.

Being a British subject, Edwards did not want to lose his chance to compete in the coming Olympic games and has decided to enlist under the Canadian colors.

Herald Is Praised for Grid Publicity

Cloverleaves' Coach Receives $100 Purse at Banquet But Says Wroteups Made Series Huge Success.

According to reports, George Moonan, popular coach of the Cloverleaves, was presented with a purse of one hundred dollars in gold at a banquet of the team held in Ellington Saturday night.

In his speech of acceptance, Coach Moonan thanked his fellow players and promised to return as coach next year in an attempt to win the town title. During his talk, Coach Moonan paid a splendid tribute to the Herald for its cooperation in making the championship games the biggest success in the town's history.

It is reported that Manager Bill Griffen and Umpire Jake Moskwa were presented with gifts at the banquet.

Eastern football players show greater intellect than western huskies a coach writes in a Harvard periodical. Leave it to the coaches to find such liabilities.

You must reason with the eastern football player and handle the westerner, he says. Maybe the reason eastern teams usually get the worst of it out west is because of a lack of good treaties on philosophy.

Tommy Loughran, it seems, is now light heavyweight champion. All the other champions in this division now have been eliminated.

President of an eastern college objects to the glorification of the paid coach. If a good cursing by the alumni means anything, the mentors certainly get their share of glory.

Jack Sharkey has halcyon days ahead of him. After meeting Tom Heeney, he'll have the pleasure of Mr. Jack Delaney's acquaintance. Which is like passing Ruth to get Gehrig.

Cuyler was traded to the Cubs because he was too temperamental, says Barney Dreyfuss. He was too temperamental and, Barney should add, Sparky Adams is a good second baseman.

STUDENT SPECULATORS Four students at Ohio State University were dragged before the student court recently to answer charges of speculating in tickets for the Michigan game.

Row Figure

Claiming she left Los Angeles without fulfilling certain A. A. U. requirements, the Royal Palms swimming team of that city is seeking to prevent Lillie Mae Bowmer, co-holder of the world record for 50 yards, from transferring her allegiance to a Honolulu swimming team. Miss Bowmer denies the charges. Her manager, Frank Holobrow, says he will bring charges against her at the next A. U. meeting.

HOLDS BRASS CITY BOYS SCORELESS HALF OF GAME

ALL-MANCHESTERS TRIM COLLINSVILLE Grab Substantial First Half Lead and Coast Out To 34 to 30 Victory.

The All-Manchester basketball team traveled to Collinsville Saturday evening and returned home winner by the score of 34 to 30. The locals were not pressed very hard to win.

Right at the very start of the game Manchester took the lead and managed to hold it until the final whistle had blown. The first quarter ended with Manchester having a clear advantage over its opponents. Then Mantell and Holland were inserted into the lineup and the Manchester boys began to draw away from Collinsville. The score at halftime was Manchester 20, Collinsville 11.

In the second half Collinsville put up a stiff battle in trying to overcome the lead. In the last quarter they made three field goals in rapid succession and threatened to overhaul the locals but Manchester tightened up its defense and when the final whistle had blown, declared the victor by the score of 34 to 30. Farr and Boyle led in scoring for Manchester while Maroney and Conover did similarly for Collinsville. The summary:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Points, Rebounds. Lists players like Gorman, Holland, Faulkner, etc.

Manchester scored first and was never behind throughout the game. With a minute and a half left to play in the final quarter, Manchester was ahead 26 to 10 but Crosby came to life and sunk four pretty field goals which brought the score much closer. The game was far and above better than the East Hartford tilt here the night before.

Coach Clarke's tribe passed much better than it did in the first two games, nearly every basket being from under the hoop. Another big factor in our boys' third straight victory was the few personal fouls they committed. Referee Al Lorenz of the Waterbury High School was detected by three two on Alphonse Boggin and one on his cousin, Nino Boggin. Waterbury had ten called against it, one man, Kudrotas, going to the showers by that route.

WEIMAN AND BREEN LEAD SETBACK RACE

Fifty-two players took part in the first sitting of the second C. B. A. A. setback tournament and an even larger number is looked forward to tonight at the School Street Club. Turkeys were won by Eric Weiman and Henry Breen with scores of 168. Cheney cravats were won by George Olds and Francis McClelland with scores of 143.

DIDN'T WANT TO MISS THE GIFT DISTRIBUTION

So Small Boy Confers With Hiss On Schedule

Edward Hess came forward with the prize incident so far during the Christmas shopping season on Main street Saturday night.

In front of the Hess store in the Park building is a Christmas tree, gaily illuminated and decorated. At the base of the tree, wrapped in colored paper with tinsel strings to represent packages, are five or six ordinary bricks. The effect is good, in fact it is so good that it has fooled some people and Mr. Hess has missed some of the bricks, probably stolen during the night.

On Saturday night a rather bashful young fellow of about nine summers came up to Mr. Hess and asked him when he was going to give away the presents. Now Mr. Hess has mentioned no presents to his customers and he could not imagine what the boy was talking about. He was enlightened soon, however. "Those presents around your tree on the outside there," the boy said. "I wondered if you were going to give them away tonight or next week. You see, I have to go to my grandfather's tonight and I don't want to miss being when you give the things away."

Clan McLean, O. S. C., will visit Clan Gordon of Hartford tonight to witness the installation of its new officers.
