Rockville

Notes Rev. and Mrs. George S. Brooks have cordially invited the Christian Endeavor and their friends to watch the New Year in at the prosonage on Saturday evening. Miss Charlotte Deacher of Prospect street is spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Lang of Springfield.

THROUGH THEIR ATTORNEY, JOHN F. FOLEY, ALBERT M. SIRE AND HIS SISTER, MARY SAULT, OF 333 HARTFORD ROAD ENTERED A PLEA OF GUILTY TO THE CHARGE OF SELLING LIQUOR.

Through their attorney, John F. Foley, Albert M. Sire and his sister, Mary Sault, of 333 Hartford road entered a plea of guilty to the charge of selling liquor. Three of the members of the local police force paid an unexpected visit to the Sire house on December 18. The place had been under suspicion for some time previous. The policemen found a large quantity of mash, some liquor and also a quantity of beer and wine. At a hearing the day following Attorney Foley asked for a continuance of the case until this morning.

POLICE COURT

Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway reminded Judge Johnson that Mrs. Sault had been convicted before for a similar offense in the local court. It was the first time Sire had been arrested on such a charge. Mr. Hathaway recommended a fine of $150 for Sire and $200 for Mrs. Sault. Attorney Foley made plea for leniency for his clients. He asked the court that the Manchester police would never again be bothered by either Sire or Mrs. Sault. He said they were through with the liquor business.

EMERGENCY DOCTORS

Dr. LeVerne Holmes and Dr. D. C. Y. Moore will be on emergency call tomorrow.

ABOUT TOWN

The G Clef club will omit its regular rehearsal this evening. The children of Center Church Sunday school will have their Christmas entertainment this evening at 8:30. A short one-act play, "Serendip Santa Claus" will be given. The part of "Miss Muffett" will be taken by Dorothy Hollister, substituting for Marjorie Brown who is ill.

BEST CHRISTMAS BUSINESS EVER

Manchester merchants are pretty generally agreed that this year's Christmas business was better than last year's and that 1927 was a record-breaker in local trading. Some merchants said that their net receipts were 10 per cent higher than those of last year's Christmas period. All those whom The Herald could reach today said that they were very much satisfied.

IMPOSSIBLE TO RAISE S-4 SOONER THAN JUNE

(Continued from Page 1.) Navy will stick by its guns and salvage the submarine if it takes the entire winter to do so. Operations will only cease when weather forces a let up and will be resumed immediately when the seas calm down. Shortly after the completion of the work last night Captain King, aide to Rear Admiral Brumby, issued the following statement to the press: "This is the same kind of salvage job as that of the S-51 now. It appears to be somewhat easier. As far as we can tell it may eventually prove much easier. For one thing there is less water. The depth here at low tide is 101 feet while during the salvaging of the S-51, the depth was 130 feet. Of course, this makes it easier for the divers. This means a lot to the divers. In addition, the S-4 is approximately 100 tons lighter than the S-51 war."

LINDY IS PREPARING FOR TOMORROW'S HOP

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—Preparations were begun in earnest today by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his flight to Guatemala. After a study of weather reports, America's flying ambassador decided definitely to take off early tomorrow morning. He will fly in a direct line to Guatemala City, a flight of about 800 miles which he expects to cover in approximately nine hours. Today he planned to test the motor of the Spirit of St. Louis thoroughly and to gather all the equipment necessary for his journey. While Col. Lindbergh takes off tomorrow to the south, his mother will begin her air journey to the north, back to Detroit.

TOO MANY LAWS AGAINST FARMERS

(Continued from Page 1.) In the last two months indicate that there will be a slight recession from this fine condition during the coming year. Wrong Impressions Edgerton points out that some erroneous impressions have been held as to the real significance of American prosperity. "Because of the fact that our factories are active, employing tremendous numbers of people, distributing large sums of money, paying high wages and higher taxes," he says, "it is a misimpression that they are enjoying the larger part of this prosperity. The manufacturer and the farmer, who constitute the two great producing classes in America, are the only elements of our entire population whose condition on the whole have not advanced."

ENTERTAINS HER PUPILS

Mrs. Harry R. Trotter entertained with a Christmas party for her younger piano pupils at her home on Hill street Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Trotter makes this an annual affair and the children always look forward to it and are anxious to assist in making the arrangements. This year's committee who planned the various games and musical numbers included Viola Weigold, Alice McKee and Louise Janssen. They played a trio "Under the Mistletoe" and one of them filled the role of Santa Claus when the time came for distributing the presents. Various games were played for which prizes were awarded and refreshments were enjoyed. During the afternoon Vivian Lytle played the violin accompanied by Mrs. Trotter.

NEXT YEAR'S CHRISTMAS

Now that that's over, and the next Christmas is about as far off as it is possible for Christmas to be, how would it do to start one of those holiday savings accounts?

There were, quite without doubt, a good many of us here in Manchester who found, to our disconcerted surprise, that we couldn't do just as much Christmas giving as we sincerely wanted to do.

That's where the Christmas savings fund comes in. There is a peculiar quality about that kind of money. It is special purpose money, dedicated from the beginning to the rite of gift making.

Another thing about it, the Christmas savings money in nine cases out of ten is money that otherwise would be frittered away on small nothings.

Almost anybody, almost everybody, can run some kind of a Christmas savings account. The banks are ingenious in inventing varieties to suit pretty much every condition.

And this is pre-eminently the time to get ready and make a start. There's always more fun marching at the head of the procession than in bringing up the rear.

THE EIGHTEENTH

Discussion of the Supreme Court's decision that state officers lack authority to enforce the Volstead act continues and is likely to continue. It is being more and more frequently pointed out that not only does the opinion absolve state police authorities from any responsibility for the enforcement of the federal dry laws but goes to the length of insisting that they must not, on their own initiative or otherwise than as assistants to federal officers, make arrests or seizures under the Volstead prohibitory statute.

One of the utterances that provides food for thought is that of the Chicago Herald which recently said in the course of an editorial article: "It is difficult to reconcile any proper regard for the constitution as a whole with the excesses of prosecution and punishment which have marked the enforcement of one amendment to it. That amendment has been growing in hostility to the principles and general purposes of the main body to which it has been attached. The Supreme court's decision was unanimous and that may indicate a perception that zeal for a sumptuary law has been undermining the whole structure of law, producing lawless and sometimes inhuman conduct in the promotion of one idea."

We should say that it is difficult to reconcile any proper regard for the constitution as a whole with one amendment which, it ought to have been obvious from the start, could not be enforced without excesses which in themselves must violate both the letter and the spirit of the fundamental instrument. We should say, too, that the unanimity of the Supreme Court's opinion in this New York decision may not be so far from indicating a dawning perception that the sumptuary law in its own character, rather than the zeal for it, has been undermining the whole structure of law.

only wise readjustment of thought to face. As conditions are developing the hostility of the Eighteenth amendment to the whole significance of the Constitution is rapidly passing from the realm of doubt into that of absolute certainty.

We have never ceased to believe that eventually the Supreme Court will, in spite of decisions already made, declare the Eighteenth amendment invalid because impossible to that of absolute certainty.

UNWARRANTED WEEPS Uninformed scribes and writers of western tales who have never been west of Syracuse have made the people of the United States actually believe that the "Old West" and the open cattle range are no more, that all that vast area where the cowboys used to ride has been turned into market gardens and that people were pushing each other off sidewalks all over the place.

Here are a couple of paragraphs from a recent address of Major General Jadin, chief of engineers of the United States army, before the Mississippi Valley Association convention:

"The commerce on the Mississippi river between St. Louis and New Orleans is now greater than ever before. In the first official census of transportation by water in the United States, made in 1839, the total waterborne shipments from points on the Mississippi river above New Orleans were reported at 4,206,745 tons. This figure includes all traffic between points on the Mississippi river between St. Louis and New Orleans, and all shipments to points on the various tributaries. It does not include, however, receipts from the Ohio and other tributaries, which are nearly as can be ascertained, amounted to some 1,700,000 tons. Making allowance for incomplete records in those days, it appears that the total traffic was in the neighborhood of 6,000,000 tons. For the calendar year 1926, the total river traffic between St. Louis and New Orleans, eliminating all known duplications, was 14,462,000 tons, a gain of 1,321,000 tons over 1925.

"The census of 1839 gave the total commerce on the Mississippi river and its tributaries as 25,229,503. The total, eliminating all known duplications, was about 50,000,000 tons in 1926, or more than twice what it was in 1839. The gross traffic for 1926 on the Mississippi river and its tributaries, counting the freight once for each section over which it moved, was 77,036,000 tons."

Apparently we may dry our tears over the abandoned Father of Waters just as we are beginning to dry those others shed over the "departed" West.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(23) In Manufacturing—Bridgeport Leads. Since 1904, Bridgeport has led all Connecticut cities in the value of manufactured products. New Haven started the twentieth century in the lead. The 1904 census put Bridgeport in first place and New Haven in second, a position the latter held at the 1914 census.

In 1925—the last year for accurate figures—Bridgeport's manufactured products were valued at $149,098,353; Waterbury's at $127,172,564; New Haven's at $110,506,218; Hartford's at $109,678,463. No other Connecticut city produced $100,000,000 worth of manufactured goods. New Britain was fifth with products valued at $72,676,424. Other cities ranked in the following order: Ansonia, Meriden, Bristol, Norwalk, Stamford, Danbury, Torrington, Norwich, Middletown, Naugatuck, New London, Willimantic and Derby.

Tomorrow—What Is Connecticut's Leading Industry? alertness, even though fully retaining their faculties in the ordinary sense of the term. Dexterity, quick thinking, the capacity to meet physical emergencies, are not, presumably, their strongest points.

There is, of course, only one answer to this phenomenon—caution. The old folks are simply careful. And they do so well in keeping out of accidents, to say nothing of not causing them, as to well-nigh prove that substantially all automobile mishaps are avoidable. If the younger, stronger, more physically fit drivers combined with their superior or dexterity the carefulness of the old folks it is easy to imagine the complete disappearance of the ghastly death list that has come to be a part of the institution of motoring.

One feels instinctively that Shipstead is an honest man when he admits that he doesn't believe the assertions of aviation enthusiasts that airplane riding is safer—or as safe—as automobile riding. Shipstead was flown about considerably during his visit to Hall's last spring.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

"MOON OF ISRAEL" OPENS AT RIALTO TOMORROW

Unusual Drama of the Old Testament at Local Playhouse Two Days.

"Moon of Israel," an EBO production, based on Sir H. Rider Haggard's famous novel, and directed by Michael Curtiz, comes to the Rialto Theater tomorrow for a two day engagement.

"Moon of Israel" is a gigantic spectacle of the enslavement of the children of Israel; their miraculous deliverance by way of the Red Sea. It has for its theme the love story of Merapi, an Israelite maiden, and an Egyptian Prince, with the Book of Exodus as its background.

Maria Corda is cast in the leading role, that of Merapi, Moon of Israel, while Arlette Marchal portrays the Princess Useri. In addition to the principals, a cast of 30,000 was employed.

The colossal finishing with a tremendous climax, depicting the crossing of the Red Sea and the drowning of Pharaoh's army. It has been pronounced by those who have already seen the picture as greater than "The Ten Commandments." Among its many record-breaking engagements is listed the Roxy Theater in New York where it played to packed houses nightly.

OBITUARY

JOHN LUDWIG REINKE

John Ludwig Reinke, aged 57, of 46 School street died at his home at 8 o'clock yesterday morning following a seven month illness with a complication of diseases.

Born in Germany, Mr. Reinke had lived in Manchester 23 years. During that time, he was employed in the Velvet mill at Cheney Brothers prior to the time of his illness.

Mr. Reinke is survived by his wife, Minnie, and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence R. Wetherell and Mrs. Howard D. Warnock, both of whom live at 123 Wells street.

The funeral will be held at the late home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. E. T. French, of the First Church of the Nazarene, will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET McGRAIL

Mrs. Margaret McGrail, aged 85, died at her home at 48 Russell street Saturday after a brief illness. Mrs. McGrail was an aunt of Judge W. S. Hyde and John Hyde, chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

The funeral was held at Watkins Brothers at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Rev. James Stuart Neill officiated. Burial was in the East cemetery.

New York, Dec. 27.—The ghost of an over-fat, over-listless man haunts the steps leading to a movie stage door on Forty-second street.

Not long ago he slumped to this spot for the last time and waited for a world that had once known him well to drop silver in his palm. For the last time he slumped back to a basement b provided by a widow of a man who had known the over-fat, over-listless one in days when he was tossing money around like so much water.

I've mentioned this character of a hectic highway before. But they hurried "Young" Griffo the other day. They buried him in a silver coffin that Tex Rickard had procured. And into such immediate propinquity with their Maker came those past-haunted prowlers of Broadway's side lanes; fellows with striped and dirty sweaters, four-rounders and cheap pugs, pan-handlers, pallid jacks-of-no-trade—persons obviously uncomfortable in the presence of hymns and church surroundings and ministerial intonations. Had the corpse of "Young" Griffo been able to stir in its silver coffin it would have felt strangely out of place and uncomfortable.

I know of no story that better illustrates those various elements that go to make up Manhattan. All that is maudlin and sentimental, all that is gross and coarse, all that is ironic and bitter, all that is sympathetic and kind come and go through his story.

As you may have heard before "Young" Griffo was once a ring champion and a public idol. Then, as in later years, he was the victim of over-indulgence. He went down and out from inebriation. He had squandered a healthy fortune and a lot of youthful energy. It wasn't long before he was a "has been" and quite a serious drinker. One of his many benefactors in late years was a man with whom he had spent many a dollar in the "days when." When the man died the widow carried on and helped Griffo. Many people helped Griffo—prominent Broadway actors, for the most part, who would see him sitting night after night in his favorite 42nd street place, just watching the crowds go by.

"Young" Griffo was literally killed by kindness. He had not worked in a long time and money came easy. He took no exercise and grew puffed and puffed. Eventually his heart was affected.

I remember stopping to talk with him for a moment one night. He had come out, as usual, with the first Broadway lights and was sitting alone on the stage door steps. Now and then one of his besweated cronies would come out of the night and talk with him. Now and then a down-and-out "pug" would drift by and talk about the fight game. But "Young" Griffo had forgotten what the fight game was all about.

When you asked him why he sat there and what he saw, he would answer just a bit inarticulately—"I don't know—just watching—just watching—it all goes by and it never stops. It's always changing and it always keeps me from being lonely. It keeps bringing me back. I don't know why—just watching it go by—"

Wherever a subway exit would send a new throng whirling past as bits of paper fly in the wind. And, to me, "Young" Griffo became

LUDEM MILLIONS MAY BE SPENT IN PHILANTHROPY

Retiring Candy Man Is Ex-pected to Devote Life to Charity Work.

Reading, Pa.—What is "Bill" Luden going to do with his millions? This is the question foremost in the minds of the multitude of people who know the millionaire candy king's charitable heart.

The name of William H. Luden, retiring "Cough Drop King" of this city, is foremost in the minds of all.

Luden surprised the world of industry recently by announcing that he had sold his plant for nearly $7,000,000. A former Reading high school boy just reaching his 24th birthday was instrumental in the sale which will take place in January of next year.

The youthful purchaser is Daniel W. Dietrich, Young Dietrich associated with baking firms of Philadelphia started the entire universe by his sudden purchase of the long established Luden firm.

The rapid rise of Dietrich, who only recently graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, carries as much interest in the story as the sale of Luden's great candy plant.

Insists On Retiring
Luden will be 69 years of age next March and now after 54 years in making of candy he insists on retiring.

The people of Reading have known Luden to be a charitable man for many years. He has been constantly helping the poor. Now it is said that after retiring from the manufacturing of candy he will devote all this time to philanthropic work.

He has given away millions to the needy of Berks county. He has always been known to his employees kindly. He entertained them with opera, art and literature. When the soldiers of Berks county returned from France at the end of the war each enlisted man from the community was given ten dollars by Mr. Luden and the same to the parents or relative of those left over there.

Luden started his career under the most trying conditions. It is said that after putting in five years apprenticeship the growth of his firm to a nationally recognized plant was made on thirty pounds of sugar. He started by making penny candies which led to greater enterprises. His idea was to put out candies that the street urchins and school children could purchase for a penny. He built up a huge plant. He was nicknamed the "Cough Drop King." His wares went over the entire nation and abroad.

Has Large Family
Mr. Luden raised a large family. The first Mrs. Luden died in the midst of his struggle to reach success.

Naturally after Luden became prominent among the millionaire manufacturers he was sought by welfare associations. He does to this day.

"The Cough Drop King" for many years has been responsible for the support of the Olivet Boys' Club, an organization patronized by the young working class who could not afford to belong to larger fraternalities, and has sent many Reading boys to college who lacked financial funds.

GAS FREE IN OLD TURKISH CAPITAL

Constantinople.—Gas is free in Stamboul, the ancient quarter of the Turkish capital and will be as long as the new concessionaire cannot get the plans of the mains and the accounts from the former holders who say they are lost.

Numerous leaks and cases of asphyxiation are being reported daily, but it is impossible to remedy them unless the old cobbled streets are taken up at the concessionaire's expense.

Turkey will soon have plenty of pork, too. For, in spite of the fact that the Constitution declares Mohammedanism to be the State religion and the Koran forbids the eating of pork, a factory is soon to be opened in the Vilayet of Adana where wild boars are numerous. They do so much damage to the crops that the hunters will furnish the factory with plenty of supplies.

For some time past, hams have been imported into Turkey from the Balkans, for there are enough Turks who do not refuse to eat this meat. And Mustafa Kemal says he will never allow the State religion to interfere with Turkish progress.

ROBERS SNATCH PAYROLL—OF IRON.

New York.—For eighteen months, Thomas Reilly, private detective for a foundry company, carried payrolls from a bank. Each week, he carefully rehearsed with his two assistants, just what they would do if bandits ever attacked them. The other day they went through the program—dumping the money into a bag, with much flourishing of revolvers, the trip to the automobile at the curb and the drive to the company offices.

This time their car was crowded to the curb by a big sedan carrying six men, who leaped out and demanded the payroll. They grabbed the bag and dashed away. Reilly, grinning despite the loss of the perfectly perfect iron, drove on to the foundry with the money safely hidden under the back seat.

The nose is the only feature of the face that undergoes no change with the lapse of years. Next to the nose, the ears, as a rule, show fewest signs of old age.

EUROPE AND ASIA RAILROADS COMBINE TO FIGHT AIRPLANES

Moscow.—To meet the threat of airplane competition, 23 European and Asiatic nations have agreed upon the linking up of the longest continuous railroad line in the world. It will extend from the Atlantic and Mediterranean to the Pacific ocean, or more than one-third of the way around the globe, and will connect directly 11 world capitals. The longest stretch of the route runs through Russia and Siberia.

Starting from either Rome, Paris or London the new Siberian express contently lands passengers in 12 days with only one or two changes of cars to span the seas which separate London from the Continent and Japan from China. The service is expected to start May 15, 1928, and the express is to run two or three times a week.

The running time from Moscow to Vladivostok alone will be shortened from nine to seven days. The trip over the same route can be made today—but only with frequent changes of cars and transferring of baggage.

Talk of a Moscow-Peking air line financed by American and German capital is believed to have been responsible for the recent international chimes in the United States are in St. Augustine, Fla., in a Spanish cathedral.

FASHION'S FALLACIES

YOU MUST BE IN TIERS IF YOU WOULD HAVE CHIC -

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Girls with jobs have three times the chance to get husbands that stay-at-home girls have.

That's not the reason. The office girl meets men, and the cook and chambermaid rarely see anyone but the iceman and the men of the house.

Speaking of girls, some more statistics present some facts about unwed mothers. They say that the majority of unwed mothers come from small towns, the next largest group from the city, and the fewest from the country.

The average American woman never considers herself especially lucky because she's allowed to go shopping. But Sannyeh Haboob, a Mohammedan woman studying in this country, says that she can hardly wait to return to her own women and tell them of the joys of a land where women may go to market and stores, and "know the thrill of rubbing elbows with other women shoppers, and seeing gorgeous displays."

'S FUNNY! The "stay at home" life of her Mohammedan sisters is pitifully depicted by Sannyeh Haboob who harps on "the new world joys of the outside world where the interesting things of life go on."

1. What are the hours of "open house" on New Year's Day? 2. Are refreshments served? 3. What may be served? The Answers 1. From three to six, or even nine, depending on personal taste. 2. Certainly. 3. Unusual sandwiches, Christmas cakes or pastry, nuts, candies and a beverage. Never very formal refreshments.

The Blazing Horizon by ERNEST LYNN

THE STORY THUS FAR The story is told of the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '60s, when a fight was being waged for the opening of the territory to settlement.

CHAPTER XXX

THE show closed in Denver the following spring and Tony Harrison went back to the Bar K. Some time later Pawnee Bill and his Indians went east again to join Healy and Bigelow and Tony heard from him from time to time, his letters coming first from Brooklyn and, later, Philadelphia.

"Cherokee, can you understand? Ahead of us is a man who murdered my father and plugged Joe Craig. Run, boy, run!"

to the west. "I discovered a spot where it had been run down. Craig's face was dead. Rapidly he wheeled his horse and rode over to the main herd. "Near as I can figure," he announced, "about a hundred of them are missing. Let's get back to that fence."

"... Tony, here's to you." He swung around and raised his glass. He set it down again without drinking. A fusillade of shots had sounded down the street, intermingled with shouts and the thudding of horses' hoofs.

"Cherokee, can you understand? Ahead of us is a man who murdered my father and plugged Joe Craig. Run, boy, run!" He had passed the last of the pursuit party half a mile back, and ahead of him in the gathering twilight, flying dust had evolved into the figures of mounted men; they specks of men, growing larger and at the same time more indistinct as the night fell.

HOME TO RULE

To go from HOME to RULE requires four strokes, according to the puzzle editor's par. See his solution on another page:

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

Let love be blind. But it shouldn't switch on the lights of a parked car and blind people.

Any considerate motorist will give a woman half of the road if he knows which half she wants.

"Pa," asked Willie, "what's pedestrian?"
Pa: "Just a girl who goes for an auto ride."

SENSE and NONSENSE

She was only a taxi driver's daughter, but she always got her man.

The pedestrian is not only a nuisance but he's an expense. If it weren't for the pedestrians a city could get along with half the traffic cops it now has.

The pedestrian who allows the grass to grow under his feet soon finds it growing over his head.

A Girl Can't Be Too Careful These Days!
Passack Yerspersky, 111 year old, was buried today, and his widow, 109 years old, walked from the funeral to her room at the Hebrew home, declining offers of "lifts" from friends who own automobiles.—Baltimore paper.

The driver who blows his horn when there is no reason other than to attract attention to himself, also has no brain to blow about.

Scientists have produced a more permanent finish for cars, but nothing yet invented beats a locomotive.

"Did the traffic officer arrest you?"
"Why, yes," replied the autoist. "When I couldn't start, he arrested me for blocking traffic."

Some men are such good financiers they can afford to own an automobile and raise fancy chickens too.

The church isn't the only thing that follows the flag. The filling station is there just about as quickly.

What does this pedestrians' union, formed in Paris, intend to do—walk out?

There isn't much difference between Lot's wife and the modern woman, except that when Lot's wife looked back, she turned into a pillar of salt, whereas a modern woman, when she looks back, turns into a telegraph pole or ditch.

Most of the folks who drive 70 miles an hour to get some place don't seem to have anything important to do after they get there.

Gladys: Gracious, isn't Mr. Smith speeding terribly?
He: Yes—He's trying to get that latest model home before it becomes obsolete.

How times change! Once the crank was used to start the car instead of drive it.

Prisoner: I admit, your honor, that I was exceeding the speed limit, but I was afraid of being late at court.
Judge: And what was your business in court?
Prisoner: I had to answer the charge of exceeding the speed limit.

Of all sad works that strike his ear, "He didn't know it was in gear."

When out motoring a miss on the seat alongside of you is far more interesting than a miss under the hood.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tynmites were still on hand resting up in Santa Land, when Santa Claus came sailing back, tired-out, with empty sleigh. He'd left his load of dandy toys for little girls and little boys, and thus he'd made them happy when they woke up Christmas Day.
Wee Clowney shouted loudly, "I see Santa coming through the sky!" They all jumped up to greet him when he landed in the snow. "Hello, there, Santa," Scouty cried. "Did you enjoy your thrilling ride? That's what we want to know."
"Hello, hello," they heard him say. And then he jumped out of his sleigh. "You bet I had a dandy time. I spread a lot of cheer. I rode for all that I was worth to reach all little tots on earth and now I'm back in Santa Land to stay another year."
Some little toy men scampered near to lead away the brave reindeer. Then Santa said, "Well,
