JAPANESE AND HENRY FORD IN SOUTH AMERICA

Brazilian Bishop Tells of Colony From Orient Near Equator.

By International News Service.
St. Bonaventura, N. Y.—In an interview published by the "St. Bona Ventura," the college weekly, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Amado Bahlman, O. F. M., who recently arrived here from his diocese, in Brazil, makes several startling disclosures, including these:

That 20,000 Japs are scheduled to settle in the northern part of Brazil next year; that numerous Americans who had come from the United States ostensibly to chase butterflies, before the auto king's recent purchase of a million acres of land with which went the concession of a thousand miles of the right-of-way from a Brazilian railroad; and that Theodore Roosevelt was in error when he believed he had discovered the River of Doubt.

A Big Diocese.
The Bishop, whose diocese he says is somewhat larger than all of Germany and Italy combined, has spent thirty-six years in Brazil, twenty of which have been devoted to missionary work in his present diocese.

Mr. Ford's newly acquired property," said the Bishop, "extends from Santarem to Cuyaba, the capital of the State of Matto Grosso. When you consider that Santarem is in the fourth latitude north of the equator, while Cuyaba is in the fourteenth south of the equator, you may judge the size of the property. Its resources in rubber, oil and asphalt, as well as in minerals, are well-nigh inexhaustible."

Speaking of the emigration of the Japanese, he said: "That Japanese have obtained vast concessions from Brazil, and will unquestionably derive great wealth for their homeland. One of the outstanding things they contemplate is the establishment of a steamship line between Japan and the Amazon."

River of Doubt.
The Bishop declared that the River of Doubt, so named by Roosevelt, had been known and navigated for many years by the white men engaged in the rubber traffic. It is a tributary of the Rio Madreire.

"True, the River of Doubt had not been shown on maps of Brazil; and Roosevelt's merit lay in having the river put on the map. But, if that is a criterion of discovery, I may lay claim to the discovery of four rivers, for I have put four tributaries of the Arapuru River, the Mental, the Maro, the Inhambu and the Aruan, on the map. The latter has a waterfall about the same height as Niagara Falls, only not as wide."

MANCHESTER AUTO MEN MEET HENRY AND EDEL
Three Manchester men who attended the big Ford automobile show at Madison Square Garden, New York, had the experience of a personal meeting with Henry Ford and his son Edsel. The two Deans, P. Coleman, manager of the Manchester Motor Sales Company, Le-a Clark, his machinist, and Clarence H. Anderson, head of the L.A.W. Finance Corporation.

Mr. Anderson, spokesman for the party, which returned last night, said he could not estimate the number of people at the exhibition. He termed it an immense throng. Mr. Anderson said that all of the models of the 1923 Ford were on exhibition. The new Ford truck, he said, is particularly impressive. The exhibition showed the various steps in the building of Ford cars, tracing it "from the mine to the street."

HEBRON
The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church will give a cafeteria supper at the church parlors next Friday evening at the usual hours, from 6 to 8 p. m. The proceeds will be used to help defray expenses for having electricity installed in the church.

Miss Irma Lord of the Willimantic State Normal School, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Lord, in Hebron. Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Smith and family were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Smith's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer of Columbia.

The 4-H Club entertainment, repeated at Gilead Hill was given to a full house, and was well received. Following the program a cafeteria supper was served and dancing was enjoyed. Proceeds were divided between the 4-H Club and the Gilead Hall Association. Mrs. Della Porter was in charge of the entertainment.

Representative Ames W. Sisson spent the week end at his home in Hopevale as usual. Miss Estelle Broome has returned to Worcester, Massachusetts, where she is engaged in teaching, having spent her two weeks mid-year vacation at the home of her father, Paul Broome, in Hopevale.

A number of automobilists driving through the green Sunday afternoon were seen to stop their cars, dismount and walk around the other side of the post which bears guideboard signs, in order to let the way to Willimantic and Columbia. These signs can be read only by those using the old road south of the green, not being visible to those going on the federal road.

At the session of the Sunday school of the Congregational church Sunday morning. Mrs. Lucius Robinson sang a solo, "Hushed was the Evening Hymn." It is planned to have a special musical number at each session of the Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Belcher and son Craig of South Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. William K. Raymond and family of Westchester were Sunday guests at "Raymond Manor," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Henry Raymond.

Reports of small pox cases in the nearby towns has caused some flurry of anxiety here. Vaccination has not been enforced as a preventive measure for a good many years and there is quite a proportion of the pupils of the public schools who have never been vaccinated, as well as many adults.

The approach to the Post Office from the new road across the green has been filled in with a layer of trap rock, so that during thaws the Post Office can be reached without getting into deep mud or ruts in frozen weather. The pedestrian has a hard time of it in attempting to reach the office or library or any of the other public buildings of the town.

HEAVYWEIGHT FUNERAL
New York—When Mrs. Mary Emory died here the other day the funeral director could not get the specially built coffin into the house. So he hired ten men to carry the body out into the street and place it in the burial case. Mrs. Emory weighed 600 pounds.

FLOOD CONTROL

TO DEPEND ON SAVING FORESTS

Extension of Ownership By Public Is Necessary Part Of Program.

Denver—Extension of public forest ownership, intensified protection from forest fire, and aggressive reforestation of denuded lands, are declared outstanding necessities in the program for national flood control in the annual report of Col. William By Grealey, chief of the forest service of the Department of Agriculture.

"The great flood disasters which occurred this year have called into question the adequacy of our public program of forestry," Colonel Grealey declares. "While the main reliance for the control of destructive floods must be placed upon engineering works, the improvement or extension of forest cover is an essential supplement, and must be taken into account in any far-sighted program for flood prevention."

To Control Floods
To attain the most complete control of floods, says Colonel Grealey, "prevention of the rapid movement of water and silt at the source of rivers is necessary no less than structures for controlling the results of such movement in their lower channels. Forests cannot prevent floods, but can reduce them. They retard the melting of the snow. They retard surface runoff both directly and through the possibility of the underlying soil which they maintain. They retard erosion and reduce the silt burden of streams."

Pointing out the most obvious needs in applying forestry to the flood situation, the Chief Forester says: "A need will undoubtedly appear for the extension of public forest ownership in the mountainous drainage where the natural balance is easily upset and surface conditions augmenting flood discharges are easily brought about by destructive lumbering, forest fire, temporary and permanent agriculture."

"Need will undoubtedly also appear for intensifying the protection of forests from fire on critical drainage of the Mississippi through enlarged co-operation between the States and the Federal Government. Forest planting should undoubtedly be promoted aggressively on abandoned or eroding farm lands and denuded forest lands where erosion and run-off are now serious."

State Co-operation
National leadership and the need for national action should be fully recognized, Colonel Grealey declares. "Every measure of co-operation with the States and landowners immediately concerned should be secured."

In a statement issued just prior to the submission of his annual report, Col. Grealey took issue with recent statements of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association which implied, he said, that there is no danger of a timber shortage and that the forest as a whole are continuing to grow timber.

Col. Grealey protested against "creating public misconceptions as to the gravity of the forest situation," contained in a nationwide lumber trade extension campaign.

While declaring his sympathy with a liberal use of wood, the chief forester asserted that an "optimistic portrayal of the situation as to timber supply and growth" made by the lumber association "could not be accepted as 'accurate.'"

The investigations of the Forest Service, according to Col. Grealey, show that "our timber supply is being used up much faster than it is being replaced by new growth, and that most of our lumber still comes from diminishing virgin forests."

SEATS FOR SKATERS

As a reader of The Herald I would like to ask through your paper if there is any possible chance of having a row of seats put around the Center Springs pond so that skaters will have something to sit on while changing their shoes.

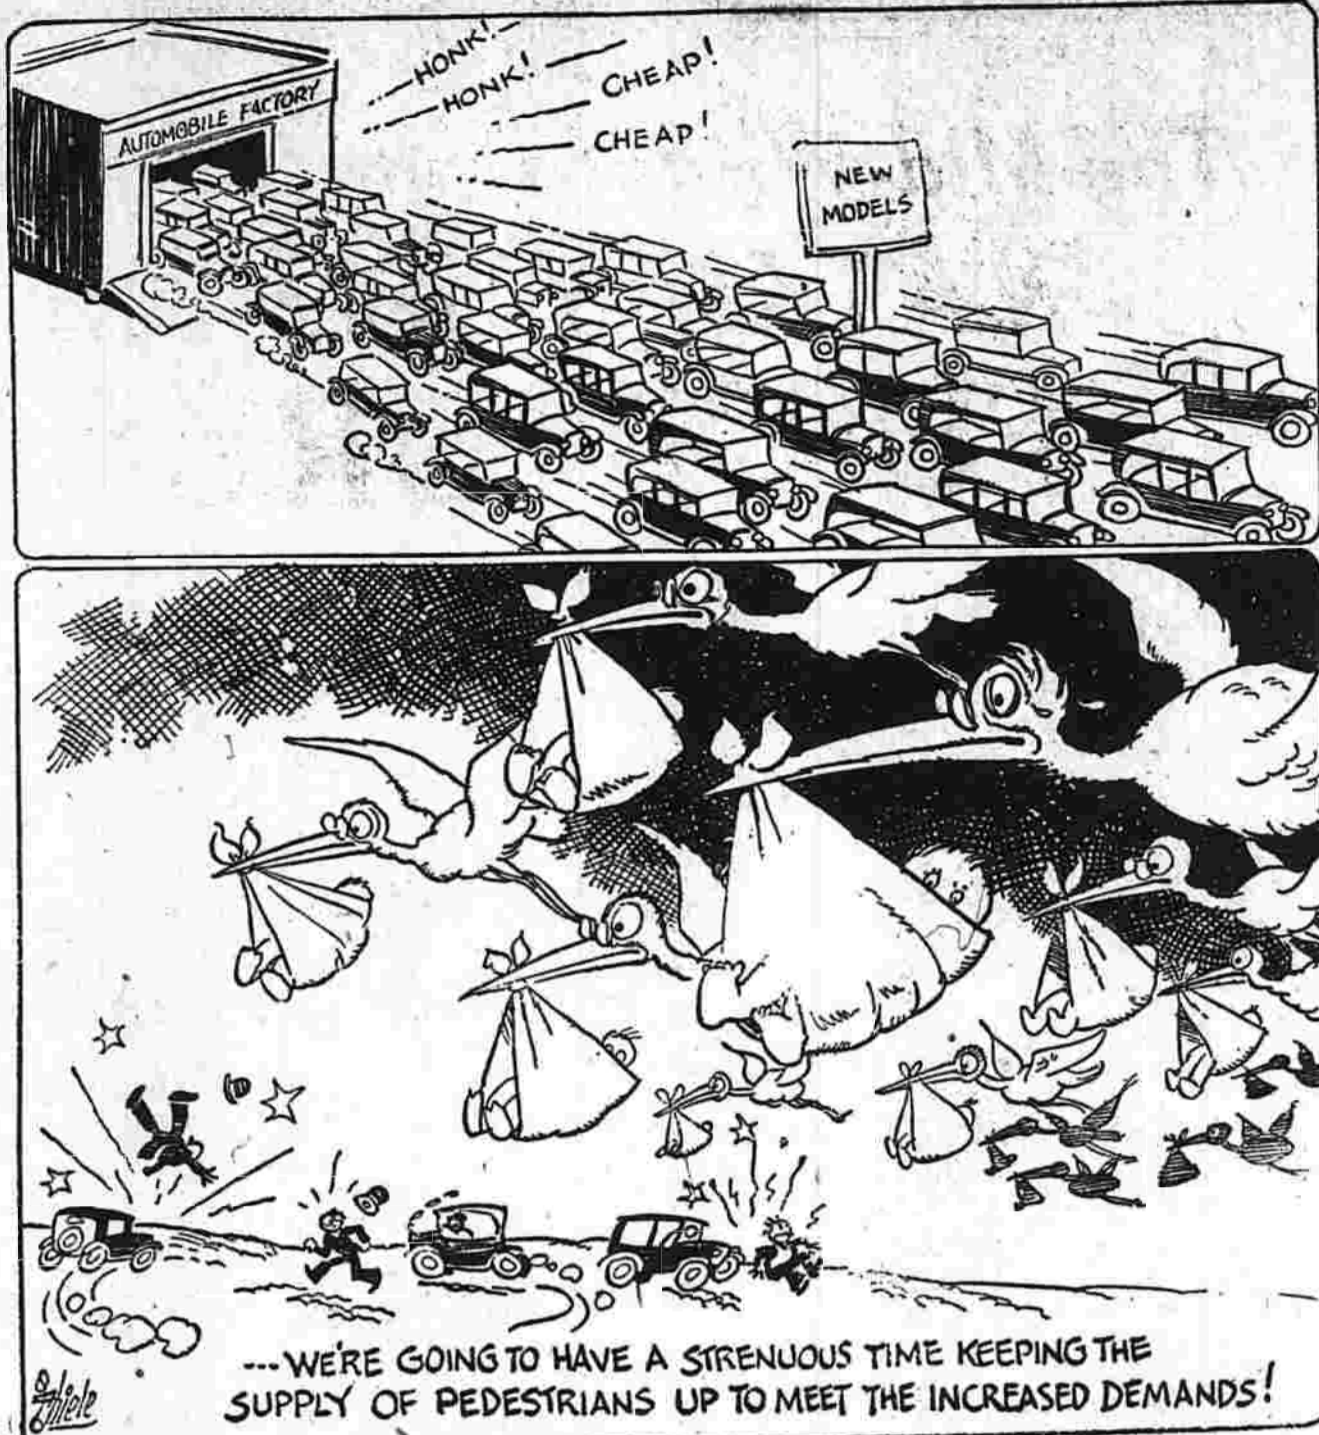

It would be a protection for shoes and overcoats, as it would keep them from being trampled as they are now when laid on the ground.

I suggest some old telephone poles, sawed in three-foot lengths, sunk two feet in the ground with planks laid across them.

PICKERAL PICKS PETE'S PROBOSCIS

A fisherman named Pete, otherwise unidentified except that he hails from Buckingham caught a pickeral through the ice yesterday, and HOW?

The fish was nibbling away at the till until Pete became impatient. Then he had a clever idea. He lay prone on the ice and manipulated the string as a hand line meanwhile peering intently through the hole in the ice. Then it happened.

Up jumped the pickeral thinking Pete's nose a shiner and by the way it is rather shiny looking.

Back sprung Pete in amazement and pain with the pickeral dangling from his proboscis.

And so endeth another fishing yarn.

WOULD USE WAR DEBT PAYMENTS TO ASSIST SCHOLARSHIP TRADES

Indianapolis, Ind.—Use of war debt payments to the United States to finance international exchange of scholarships is the latest world peace proposal brought to the American Legion national headquarters here.

The suggestion, made by the Rev. G. R. Wilson, of Trenton, N. J., Legion national chaplain, was the 25 per cent of the money received from European countries to repay war-time loans be used for exchanging students with other countries.

The Rev. Wilson cited the use of Boxer uprising indemnity for American schools in China and the Rhodes scholarships to finance American students in British universities as precedents for his proposal.

"Why did the German people go to war?" the Rev. Wilson asked. "Because they did not know the other nations of the world. Now I propose that this fund should be established as an international memorial fund, and then take a thousand boys from Germany and scatter them in the universities of Japan, America, France and England and other countries, and then take another thousand boys from America and scatter them in Germany and other countries; then Poland and the Balkan states, pehaps, and Japan, so that they will learn the international consciousness, so that they may come to know their customs and traditions and their economic situations."

With a surplus, in the national treasury, the fourth of the war debts payments easily could be diverted to the scholarship fund, according to the Rev. Wilson.

Before Wilson became a minister of the gospel, he had scored a brilliant record as an American aviator in France. One of his warmest friends was a young German aviator whom he had battled in the air.

Meeting after the Armistice, as "two young fellows who had battled out their differences and held no malice," according to the Legion chaplain, they discussed their mutual hopes for future world peace.

Copies of the Rev. Wilson's program will be sent to every State Legion organization and the proposal will probably be considered by the Legion's national executive committee and its next national convention, it was believed.

SET TREES TO HOLD SAND ON ATLANTIC COAST

Raleigh, N. C.—Can the hand of man stay the forces that leave the famous "banks" of the North Carolina coast a playground of drifting sand dunes, subject to the whims of variable winds?

This question is receiving the attention of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, which sees reforestation as probably the most logical means to this end.

A beginning already has been made by the department in seeking a solution to the problem affecting the coast country of a large part of North America.

The experiment has been started in a reforestation project at Fort Macon State Park, across the sound from Morehead City and Beaufort. Results, which are to be reported on soon, will give an idea of the success, with which the program has been attended thus far.

Although the planting of seedlings has not been attempted by the Forest Service, thus far upon the worst of the sand-blown areas, the experiments up to the present have been along the line of determining what form of forest growth is most suitable to the conditions found along the coast.

When the species are found that will thrive in the soil and under the atmospheric conditions prevalent in the coastal section experiments will be extended to the more sandy areas, it was said.

Success in France. France has successfully reclaimed large areas of denuded and waste coastal lands by the use of maritime pines which have been found to thrive under conditions similar to those on the North Carolina coast, department officials said.

A number of these trees have been set out at Fort Macon and if they are found to thrive, the Department of Conservation and Development will urge a comprehensive program of reforestation with this variety of pine, officials stated.

One of the most attractive features of the maritime pine, it was pointed out, is its suitability for naval stores production. It was recalled that France, upon its reforestation projects, has built a large turpentine industry. Observers believe that the same success should attend effort along the North Carolina coast.

GERMAN BREWER FACES 14,977 YEARS IN JAIL, OR $2,000,000 MARKS FINE

Paris.—Otto Nodding will serve 14,977 years in prison or pay his fine of eighty-two million marks according to the finding of the Mayence courts.

Herr Nodding is a brewer and was found guilty of defrauding the Government on taxes—the court fined him eighty-two million marks.

Nodding is not in a position to pay the fine. The law provided a one day prison term for each fifteen marks the condemned is unable to pay, which makes in Nodding's case 14,977 years.

SEVEN MORE CASES OF SMALLPOX TODAY

Middletown Now Has 23; Common Council Plans to Fight Disease. Middletown, Conn., Jan. 11.—Middletown today began a determined effort to check the invasion of smallpox. Health Department records this afternoon showed a total of 23 cases in the city, an increase of seven during the morning. The Common Council, holding a special meeting just before noon, voted to authorize Mayor Frederick J. Blodgett, Fire Selectman Howard S. Peck, and Dr. Thomas P. Walsh, town health officer, to arrange for an isolation hospital, or a strict quarantine, and to conduct a municipal clinic, with doctors and a corps of nurses on hand at all times.

Doctors Busy

Meanwhile the physicians of the city were swamped with citizens waiting patients filled the offices. In the midst of the patients in one office walked a youth from Portland who reported he had been put out of his boarding house in that town. The physician found the boy suffering from the disease. The State Hospital here ordered all its 350 employees to be vaccinated at once. Restrictions were placed on visitors from the districts where smallpox has been found, and all new patients received at the institution were being vaccinated on arrival. Factories throughout the city ordered their workers to be vaccinated and assisted them in the matter. Vaccination of school teachers also went forward as rapidly as possible.

The First Case

According to physicians here the first case of smallpox in this section really occurred early in December and from that patient the disease spread rapidly. The Middletown district had 51 cases of the disease this afternoon but no new cases were reported from the suburbs. The list of towns at noon was Middletown 23, Cromwell 15, East Hampton 8, Portland 5, and Chester 1.

CHICAGO GUNMEN INVADE SOCIETY IN DRESS SUITS

Leaders of Gangland, in Spite of Reputations, Are Gentlemanly. Chicago—What manner of persons are Chicago's gangsters? And the answer is they are entirely absolutely contrary to any impression one may have gained from underworld motion pictures, stage plays and novels. They are almost without exception quite gentlemanly in appearance, especially the leaders. They dress in good taste, visit manically regularly and in a crowd would more than hold their own with successful business men, newspaper reporters, actors or automobile salesmen.

Two Social Sets

The gangmen have established two distinct social sets. One is made up entirely of their own members and their favorite women friends. The other is composed of the most successful of their number from a financial standpoint and their wives. Very few of the gangster element acknowledge the nature of their business and their wives and sweethearts generally learn only lived outside the law when a machine-gun riddled body is carried home.

It is interesting that all gangsters are young and dark. They are inclined to the sleek type with sideburns, slick hair and flashing teeth. It is said none ever lives to the age of 35. That is probably an exaggeration.

Distinguishing Gents

Recently when police officers raided boxing clubs and extracted 100 or more gangsters in a series of raids, ringside fans were startled to see many gentlemen removed from their seats. The raiders made many arrests in the expensive ringside section where the gunmen sat side by side with society swells, politicians and city officials.

Scandalous

Scandalous, the notorious, now called by the police the chief of the gangster element, despite a scare on his forehead and another on his cheek, is suave, almost distinguished in manner and appearance. He was, police claim, at one time a member of the notorious "Fire City" gang of New York and was imported to Chicago nine years ago to become a lieutenant of the then chiefs of the underworld, most of whom have long ago fallen victim to revolver, bomb or machine gun.

DRUSE REBEL LEADER AWAITING NEW CHANCE AS WAHABI'S GUEST

Jerusalem.—Another "war lord" is taking to cultivating a small patch of land while biding his time to strike a fresh blow. His tribal army reduced to a handful of loyal followers and relatives, Sultan Atrash, the vanquished leader of the Druse rebels, has accepted an offer of a 75 acre farm near Amman, the Transjordan capital. Atrash has been a fugitive in Transjordan territory ever since the French conquered the Druse mountain and forced most of the tribe to surrender. He and a few diehards, over whom hangs a death sentence passed in their absence by a French court-martial, have been living on the border of the desert at a place called Kiryat Meleh.

GREEN, GREEN STREET

Newark.—No trouble locating Green Street here the other day. Not at all. A truck loaded with green paint was wrecked on Green street and then the road turned green. But police didn't like the way traffic skidded about in the fluid and so one must again consult the signs to find Green street.

YALE BOYS SEIZED AS STRIKE AIDES

45 Students Arrested For Distributing Pamphlets Telling of Strike. New Haven, Conn., Jan. 11.—New Haven's neckwear strike has finally gained the public ear. A group of Yale students accomplished in a few minutes what members of the labor union promoting the strike failed to do in six months. The students to the number of forty-five, sons of some of the wealthiest Americans, forced police to arrest them by distributing pamphlets containing the strikers' story, and their arrests promptly were broadcast.

Neckwear Strike

The neckwear strike started in New York last summer when an agreement with the union ran out. After a few weeks all manufacturers except two yielded to the unions. The two hold-outs came to New Haven and opened a large factory. Until the university opened last September the factories were undisturbed. Then the union leaders clubbed the Yale Liberal Club. The club in turn worked up the rest of the student body. A group of Divinity school students investigated the affair, aided by faculty members. They agreed the strikers were right but they were forced to publish and distribute their own report. They were aided by the League for Industrial Democracy of New York whose name appears on the pamphlet which caused the arrests last evening.

Must Be Controlled

"But suppose the children are born with criminal tendencies which do not yield to preventive measures?" Chief Vollmer was asked. "The rattlesnake can be controlled," he replied. "If you are aware of those tendencies—and so directed by preventive measures. Until more attention is paid to preventive measures, there always will be revolting crimes like the one in Los Angeles."

Supervision

"Supervision," answered Chief Vollmer. "Suppose you were given unlimited money and authority to carry out this idea: what would you do first?" "Adopt and develop the plan already being used at Highland Park, Mich.—place a psychiatrist in each school. Perhaps not one in each school, but a sufficient number in

SOCIETY BLAMED FOR HICKMANS AND LEOPOLDS

Berkeley, Cal.—Society—and society only—is to blame for the Hickman and the Leopolds whose crimes have startled the nation. "There is a potential Hickman in every school," pointed Leob and Leopolds are everywhere. "But society concerns itself chiefly with apprehension of these youngsters when they become criminals, with their punishment, but not with preventative measures. Until more attention is paid to preventative measures, there always will be revolting crimes like the one in Los Angeles."

Potential Criminals

"By means, for example, take a child who is three to four years, ahead of the others mentally. This child is a potential criminal just as much as the imbecile child, unless his mentality is recognized by teacher and parents. Such children need guidance, expert counsel, more than average children. Unless it is given, the high mentality of the boy or the girl may be directed into ruinous channels.

But this fact does not apply to brilliant children.

"But this fact does not apply to brilliant children. The child who exhibits some talent for drawings, or music or mechanics and is not given opportunity to express that talent is headed for the shoals. "Leopold and Leob were apparently bright boys. Suppose their minds had been directed into useful channels when in the formative stage. They might have become valuable assets to their community. "We must grant that heredity enters into the question. The trees do not grow, all nature prove that heredity plays a strong part in the shaping of our lives. But solution of that problem is still ahead of us. "That with which we are concerned today is the guidance of youthful footsteps. This, as I said, is not police work. It is the obligation of the country at large. Particularly is it the obligation of teacher and parent.

Begins With Trampety

"We find that in the case of practically every habitual criminal—the recidivist—the record of wrong-doing begins with trampety. That brings the case right back to the door of the home or the school house. "Correctional methods as used today do not go far enough. In Berkeley we have the child guidance clinic, a part-time institution. In Los Angeles the court of institution functions on a full time basis, but this is only the beginning. "All cases must be treated individually. There is no broad rule, no panacea, which will miraculously solve this problem—the most important before the American people today."

NAGGING HOMES TURN OUT BAD BOYS AND GIRLS

Love of Adventure and Something New Blamed For Delinquent Cases.

Denver—According to Miss Mary A. Barnard, director of the girl's department of the juvenile court of Denver, love of adventure is one of the chief causes of delinquent attitude cases brought before the court for attention.

Girls whose parents continually nag them and those whose homes are not suitable in which to entertain their friends are especially susceptible to this longing for something new, said Miss Barnard.

In order to satisfy this desire, girls and boys meet on street corners and form gangs. Here, mob psychology rules their actions. Sometimes they do nothing more than shout at passers-by, while at other times they have been known to halt passing motorists, scramble into the machine and proceed to "joy ride" until the wee small hours of the morning.

Parents Helpless
After returning from these continued rides of other types of jaunts, their parents take them to the juvenile court for reprimand, said Miss Barnard. The girls then take an air of defiance. They resent being sent to the court.

Some of them also have a well developed delinquent attitude. Their parents usually remark, "Nothing can be done with my daughter at home, we have no control over her." The delinquent attitude then asserts itself in scorn, sarcasm, antagonism and indifference. It is a defense reaction in that it resents adult criticism.

However, young people are always desirous of adult approval, asserted Miss Barnard, but if they cannot get it, they conceive all manner of methods to attract attention even though such methods result only in adult shock.

"Sometimes," remarked Miss Barnard, "revenge will enter into the childish mind. At 13 there is generally a feeling of revenge that is very strong. The child does not reason. She just acts. Perhaps by running away from home she will cause worry. She derives an enormous amount of satisfaction in this, and she hopes that something will happen to her."

Steal to Adorn
"Stealing also has its beginning at the dangerous age of 13. The girls want personal adornment which will serve to make them attractive to 'boy friends.' The articles stolen are small things—compact or silk stockings, usually, because at the beginning dresses are too hard to 'get away with.' When these girls are brought before the court they are terrified and promise never to do it again.

"There are also fine attitudes displayed by the majority of these delinquents. In some instances it is loyalty to their group, the street gang, for when questioned, they will never place the blame on any one person."

CLEVELAND BOASTS
CHAMPION LINGUIST;
KNOWS 80 TONGUES

Cleveland, O.—Cleveland boasts of the champion linguist.
W. E. Sommer, language expert, who is classifying the John G. White collection of the public library, is familiar with no less than 80 tongues.

Sommer, who was born in Speyer, on the German Rhine, 37 years ago, admits that he knows so many languages that he can't keep track of them. There is no language in Europe, and few dialects, that he doesn't read, write and speak. He is equally at home in the Orient, for he knows all of the important tongues used in both the Near and Far East.

The story of his life is like a book on adventure and travel. He graduated from Commercial Academy of Antwerp, Belgium, in 1912. He then went to Russia,

From a Doctor:
"When I took your Life Income Policy, I had not been ill for 30 years and it seemed foolish to include disability protection. I am glad now that I did."

The doctor's car collided with a truck. While he is laid up he receives a disability income from his life insurance. At 60 a life income of $100 a month starts. In case of premature death, his family gets $10,000.

ENGLAND SUBSIDIZES 4 AEROPLANE CLUBS TO STIMULATE FLYING

London.—To increase public interest in flying and advance private ownership of aeroplanes, the British government has decided to grant $10,000 a year to four different aeroplane clubs in England.

The light aeroplane movement is rapidly gaining popularity among the social elect of Britain, and strange to say there are more young women members than men. It started about two years ago and when the Government noticed how interested the public became in it, special arrangements were made to enable private ownership without a large output of money.

Thus the aeroplane club came into existence. Not only can a member of this club use it as a hangar for a privately owned machine but it is mainly for the use of cooperative ownership. Here anyone can pay the club so much money, in cash or on the installment plan, and be allowed the use of the plane at certain times. When enough persons have joined in the ownership of this one plane to pay its cost, then it passes out of the government's hands and belongs solely to the share holders who arrange with themselves the use of it.

Since the movement started six clubs have sprung up with very successful results in the training of pilots and popularizing of flying generally. A membership of 1,500 is at present divided among these six clubs.

CAT SAVES BABY

San Francisco—A stray cat has been credited by doctors with saving the life of a baby at Medesto. Eighteen months old Norman Cabasa had wandered from home. Searching parties were out all night but it wasn't until dawn that the boy was found lying unconscious on the damp ground with the furry animal nestled nearly underneath. Physicians say that Norman would have died from exposure but for the warmth supplied by the cat.

The Lucky Star of the Home

Is your home built under the sign of the Blue Star Seal? Then you know how complete is the convenience and help of Gas Service at its best.

The Blue Star Seal is a symbol of approval placed on gas appliances that conform to the rigid tests of the Laboratory of the American Gas Association. These tests are based on standards of safety, efficiency and durability set by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, the U. S. Bureau of Mines, the U. S. Public Health Service and the gas industry. The seal of approval means that the gas appliances thus marked are constructed properly, that they will operate with the highest degree of efficiency and economy, that they will hold up and be a permanent source of satisfaction, help and safety. It is not a manufacturer's trade mark, but the Seal of recommendation of a century old industry.

CHEMISTRY CLASSES
LEAD BOY TO BOOZE
New York—When a high school youth of Irvington, N. J., was arrested for violating the prohibition laws, he blamed his high school training for the predicament.

He told police that the 25-gallons-a-week stills were manufactured as a result of knowledge obtained in his chemistry class.

However, no increased enrollments have been noted in the study of chemistry. Officials say that knowledge other than set forth in school is necessary to build booze plants.
