STATE ALIENISTS CALLED TO STAND TO OFFSET EFFECT OF "SCARLET H" TEST ON HICKMAN JURORS.

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 6.—Prosecution alienists today sought to erase from the minds of the jury in the Marion Parker kidnaping and murder trial a scarlet letter "H" which, the defense contends, brands William Edward Hickman as a bearded mad man.

Dr. Paul E. Bowers who drew with a door key the crimson letter on Hickman's snow white chest and back as the key strokes would have raised a welt and not the "diffused erythema" which the jurors beheld last Saturday when Hickman stood half naked before them.

The defense alienists contend that dermatographia is a symptom of dementia praecox, and account of the frequency of endocrine disturbances in this disease.

Dr. Bowers' opinion "One Aut does not make a machine. Neither does a top and set of tires make an automobile."

Dr. Victor Parkin, Dr. Herman Schor, Dr. Frank M. Nikels, Dr. Thomas Ardison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams all waited to testify that Hickman was sane and knew the difference between right and wrong when he kidnaped and murdered the 12-year-old school girl.

LOCAL D. A. R. PICK ENVOYS TO PARLEY MISS ALICE DEXTER AND MRS. W. E. ALVORD TO REPRESENT ORFORD CHAPTER AT CAPITAL.

Orford Paris Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held its February meeting Saturday afternoon at the South Methodist church. The attendance was large and the items of business included the appointment of delegates and alternates to both the Fundamentalists and Washington in April congress at the state meeting in Derby to be held March 20-21.

The delegates to the state D. A. R. meeting in Derby will be the regent, Miss Alice Dexter, Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Mrs. Gertrude Purcell, Mrs. A. A. Wassall. The alternates, Mrs. J. Wesson Phelps, Mrs. Lucia Foster, Mrs. P. A. Ver-lucius, Mrs. Arthur Loomis.

Miss Mary Cheney reported the recording of deeds which will eventually convey to Orford Parish Chapter the old glass works property on Pitkin street.

The speaker of the afternoon was A. K. Potter, principal of the local evening schools. His subject was: "The Assimilation of the Foreign-Born."

The hostesses Staturday were Mrs. W. E. Alvord, Mrs. Byron Carrier and Mrs. John L. Brown, assisted by Mrs. F. H. Jones and Miss Helen Carrier.

BRITISH WORKER IS FAR BEHIND LABORER IN U. S.

London.—The English worker produces one article while the American produces two. England has a total production of only one-fourth as large as America's production and she has half the number of workers.

Figures point to in a recent number of the British Economic Journal, "The Round Table" bring out these astounding facts, the magazine says. It is rather because he works with inferior machinery.

Less drinking among American workers and a greater chance in America for advancement, the "Round Table" admits, do tend to make the American a slightly better worker.

The police seized an automobile and stoking of furnaces is now being performed automatically. The human element is represented by a few engineers walking about in clean elite ducks.

England, the opinion is, has these machines, but she hasn't them to the same extent that America has.

POLICE ARREST MAN COMING FROM CHURCH

BOWERY TO GO IN N. Y. PLANS FOR EAST SIDE

New York.—The dungeons and human sink holes of New York's East Side tenements, which are the horrors made notorious in ballad and fable for half a century, are finally crumbling before the long heralded onslaught on sanitation.

The subject that has been a political football for many decades, did not find its final solution in Tammany Hall that had long promised such sanitation measures, but in the work of a philanthropist, the late Fred L. Lavanburg.

Mayor Walker, a vigorous exponent of tenement reform, who recently toured the centuries old slums of London's White Chapel district and the Apache alleys of Paris in seeking information on his project to clean up New York's slums, presided over the ceremony that marked Lavanburg's triumph.

Through the Lavanburg Foundation a trust fund created by the philanthropist, dozens of the model houses will be constructed while Mayor Walker goes ahead with his plans for a park and boulevard system that will eventually plant the city with greenery.

BREWSTER FIGHT UPSETS MAINE G. O. P. AXIOM

Portland, Me.—"As Maine goes so goes the country," was a phrase that politicians used for many years.

It fell into disuse when Republican majorities annually returned Republican leaders to state and national positions.

Opposes Hale.—Frederick Hale, the present incumbent, is seeking re-nomination for the Senate and opposed to him among the others, is Ralph O. Brewster, at the present time Governor of the State.

Two years ago, he repeated and earned for himself the cordial dislike of Republican leaders, by his victory.

BIRCH STREET The complicated situation arising from the sale of the Dewey-Richman property at Main and Birch streets while the widening of Birch street is held to be a pending problem, is one which, in the opinion of the Herald, ought not to be complicated at all.

This newspaper does not believe that the widening of Birch street ought to be a pending question. It does not believe there is the slightest necessity for the widening of Birch street or any other cross street extending between Spruce and Main, either now or at any time in the future. It believes that any money that might be expended by the town on such widening would be money wasted on mere display for which there is no justification and for which there would still be no justification even if there were not many more imperative demands on the exchequer—which there are.

Birch street is narrow. But a narrow street, in the present way of regarding municipal traffic problems, is no longer necessarily a useless street; nor is it in the least certain that the usefulness of a street is appreciably increased by widening it a few feet, or a good many feet for that matter.

In every considerable community in the country the one-way street system is coming into vogue. It has decided merit, as against two-way traffic, whenever it is practicable, for it eliminates nine-tenths of the danger of intersection accidents. And the piecing out of narrow streets only helps to prolong the fast out-wearing two-way habit.

It happens that the street layout in and about the business section at the south end ideally lends itself to the adoption of the one-way system. Between Charter Oak and Center streets, on the east, there are no less than eight streets connecting Main and Spruce. Making these eight streets one-way thoroughfares, alternately carrying traffic east and west, will provide four excellent routes for cars bound in either direction, within a distance of a trifle over three-fifths of a mile, without taking into account Charter Oak and Center streets. There are very few towns or cities so abundantly supplied with traffic routes so simple and orderly and abundant in so small an area.

So that when traffic congestion threatens to choke any street in this group, be it Oak or School or Birch or any of the others, the trouble can be magically disposed of by adopting the one-way system. And if there anyone who believes that, in a hundred years, that checker-board at the south end will not be adequate to all the movement of vehicles that can possibly grow up in the area served by it?

If there were not plenty of streets already in existence to take care of all possible traffic for many years to come, if the widening of Birch street were in any way an economic necessity or even an advantage, the Herald would be for it; it is no cheapsparing policy that prompts its opposition. But this town, like every other town in the country, has got to stop wasting even dollars. And the widening of Birch street, with any part of the expense born by the community, is a proposal to which we cannot subscribe because it is absolutely needless.

QUOTATION MARKS We take the liberty of expressing the opinion that the immunization of the President of the United States from liability to being directly quoted in the newspapers when he has given out matter for publication is senseless, lacking in dignity and savoring of a kind of hokum that has no place in a republican form of government.

Presumably the President of the United States—we refer of course to the incumbent of the office at any time and not to any one incumbent in particular—is a mundane being, a citizen and a sane and responsible person. He has the same right to speak that any other official has; and when he speaks to the press the readers of the newspapers have a logical right to know that what he says emanates from him and precisely what he said, and not be compelled to guess whether the reporters have correctly interpreted words which they have been forbidden to print as spoken.

Nothing could have been more undignified or less satisfactory than the nonsensical device of the "White House spokesman," over which the country shamefacedly giggled until even officialdom realized that it would not do to longer continue the foolish fiction. But this mythical creature was only the natural outgrowth of the baseless tradition that "the President must not be quoted."

The President ought to be quoted. He ought to be quoted with absolute accuracy. His statements to the press upon any public matter are far too important to be garbled. Yet if the correspondents are not allowed to use the President's own words and to place them between quotation marks, but are driven to the device of expressing his meaning in their own phraseology, miswriting of the chief executive's meaning are practically inevitable.

If instead of such circumlocutory tricks as attributing statements to a "spokesman" or to "White House sources" and then printing them in language originating with the reporters, the press were enabled to say: "President Blank today said"—and then proceed to give the exact language of the statement or opinion or whatever the item might consist of, letter for letter as spoken by the head of the government, the situation would be an immense improvement. Misinterpretations would be impossible and the President of the United States would become as reasonable and dignified, in his relations to the newspapers, as an ordinary mayor—which he can never be, no matter who may be occupying the office, as long as he is wrapped around by this mumbo-jumbo tradition which is worthy only of ancient Egyptian priestcraft or of a modern African witch doctor.

FRENCH TREATY

After a delay which cannot fail to have taken some of the bloom from the grape the new peace pact between the United States and France was signed at Washington today. Fortunately there is some compensation for the delay in the circumstance that the sealing of the treaty now comes almost simultaneously with the arrival in Washington of the French trans-Atlantic fliers Costes and LeBrix, whose stupendous flight ranks closely with that of Lindbergh.

The treaty, which outlaws war between France and America, and which provides new machinery for the adjustment by arbitration of any possible disputes between the two nations, is regarded by many people as a mere gesture. Grant that it is—grant that that is all any treaty can be in default of any means of enforcing it save recourse to arms—it is still an extremely useful gesture. The country is to be congratulated that its signing has at last been reached.

Now, above all things, the treaty should be ratified speedily and without controversy. That it will be is, however, a good deal to expect of a Senate which contains a few members who never by any possibility fail to improve an opportunity to register as objectors and obstructionists. If Tom Heflin should happen to be struck by the thought that most of the French people are Catholics he would probably devote a few hundred hours to an attempt to defeat the ratification.

However, we can hope for the best.

MURDER BY FIRE

The State of Connecticut has established a reputation for the conviction of murderous bandits which has had an undeniable effect in keeping these people out of its territory. If it were to establish a similar reputation with relation to arsonists, particularly the homicidal type which for the sake of an insurance swindle sets fire to buildings in which people are sleeping, it would do well indeed. Recently the state did obtain the conviction of a presumably highly respectable business man who had procured the firing of his own property by gangsters, which was an achievement in itself. But in Connecticut, as in every other state, the number of convictions in proportion to the number of cases of incendiarism is unfortunately extremely small.

If the dynamiting of a Waterbury furniture store yesterday turns out to be anything like the kind of a case it appears at this writing to be, then no amount of effort on the part of the police can be too great to expend on the conviction of the guilty persons. One of these, apparently, is dead and beyond the reach of the law. But crimes like this are not, in one case in a thousand, the work of a single individual, and every one in the conspiracy, if conspiracy there was, should go to the gallows.

There is no more callous crime than the firing of a building in which there are helpless human beings. The death of two little boys in this Waterbury fire cries for the punishment of their murderers.

WHITE HOUSE FLAG

Gridley Adams of New Rochelle, N. Y., chairman of the National Flag Code Committee, tells a congressional committee that flag ethics are violated even by our White House.

The eagle on the President's flag, it seems, points the wrong way. This has pained Mr. Adams, and he wants something done about it.

Probably he's right. These sticklers for points of etiquette usually are. But somehow, for the life of us, we can't get excited about it.

We hope it is not unpatriotic for us to remark that there is just a wee bit too much fussing nowadays about "ethics of the flag." After all, the flag itself is the important thing. It is a symbol of our country and the love we have for it; an emblem of our patriotism. So that it be honored in spirit, who cares whether the former details be absolutely letter perfect?

Too much officious attention to minor points doesn't do a bit of good.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—If the Army and the Navy ever look on Heaven's scenes They will find the streets are guarded

By the United States Marines. After that, though the marines' song ends there, there will undoubtedly be a few casualties among the innocent bystanders to be taken care of by the heavenly undertakers.

In the last batch of bills received from Capitol Hill, one finds, without bothering to make a complete list, these provisions for legislation: To pay the British government $1000 as indemnity for the death of Samuel Richardson, a British subject "alleged" to have been killed by U. S. marines at Consuelo, Dominican Republic, Nov. 1, 1921.

To pay the Chinese government $500 for a man's injuries received from an assault by a U. S. marine in 1923.

To pay the Dominican Republic $2000 for the death of Juan Soriano, killed by a Marine Corps airplane landing at Guerra, San Domingo, in 1923.

Myrie, killed by a U. S. army truck in the Canal Zone in 1921.

Also $500 apiece to the Netherlands for two Dutch subjects killed while the U. S. government ship Canibus was loading at Rotterdam in 1919 and amounts ranging from $25 Mex. for Mexico to $23,791.35 for Great Britain to several foreign nations in settlement of claims of their subjects arising out of the occupation by American bluejackets of Vera Cruz in 1914. Austria, France, Germany and Spain are the other recipients.

Although payment is rather late, we still don't admit liability, as it is provided that all payments shall be made "as a matter of grace and without reference to the question of liability therefor." Even in doing the decent thing, we often have to be self-righteous about it.

Thoughtful Jim Watson, senator from Indiana, introducing a bill to regulate amateur boxing and ban professional boxing in the District of Columbia, aimed it not only at "whoever shall voluntarily engage in a pugilistic encounter between man and man," but also at the man who engages in "a fight between a man and a bull or any other animal."

Senator Frazier of North Dakota, apparently persuaded by the International Longfellow Society, that the New England post should be more highly honored than any other American except Lincoln, has a bill to provide coinage of up to 10,000,000 large one-cent pieces bearing a likeness of Longfellow to be issued only on the request of the International Longfellow Society.

Senator Norris of Nebraska has a joint resolution providing for a reunion of surviving veterans of the Civil War, on both sides, in Washington this year at government expense.

Congressman Dyer of Missouri has introduced a three-fourths vote of a jury may render a verdict. He would also have one or two alternate jurors for all protracted trials, to be herded with the rest of the jurors at all times and ready to dash in as substitutes in case any of the jurors become ill, die or both.

A THOUGHT

There is no new thing under the sun.—Ecc. 1:9.

There is nothing new except what is forgotten.—Mlle. Bertin.

POOR BUSINESS

New York—Business was bad. Merman Schwartz, junk dealer, could visualize all sorts of difficulties—bankruptcy, insolvency court, the sheriff. So he decided to provide business where there wasn't any. He proceeded to smash up soil piping owned by the Brooklyn Construction Co., whose president, Max Epstein, placed a valuation of $1,000 on Schwartz's attempt to make business better.

Fine Grand Rapids Bedroom Furniture

worthy of

Manchester's Beautiful Homes Specially Priced for February

THERE is no doubt in most everyone's mind of the superiority of Grand Rapids-made furniture. We might even go so far as to say that outside of small quantities of furniture made entirely by hand there is none its equal! But not so many realize that Grand Rapids furniture need not be high priced. Modern manufacturing methods, coupled with skilled workmen and concentration on a few excellent patterns, has made it possible for everyone to own and enjoy this fine furniture. Today we have sketched a number of the new Grand Rapids suites that are now on display at our store—New furniture worthy of the fine type of homes Manchester has always been famous for—marked specially low for February only. All sketches have been made from the identical pieces described.

3 Spanish Pieces Reduced to $229

Old Spain—the city of Salamanca with its brilliant festive days—inspired this Berkey & Gay Spanish suite. It combines beautiful American walnut, butt walnut, gumwood and popular burl in its construction—with hand-rubbed finish. Full size bed, dresser and chest of drawers. Formerly $286.00.

6 Puritan-Colonial Pieces $398

The rugged simplicity of Puritan life is reflected in this group by Berkey & Gay. Walnut is combined with maple burl, American gumwood and birch, and beautifully finished. The suite includes the dresser, full size bed, dressing table, chest drawers, chair and bench, as sketched, formerly $486.00.

6 New England Pieces now $398

Old New England with its experiences on the open sea, formed the background for this sturdy suite created by Berkey & Gay. Figured, croch and striped mahogany, combined with maple burl, birch and gumwood are beautifully blended. Dresser, twin poster beds, chest, dressing table and bench. Formerly $600.

6 Old American Pieces now $675

America during the Revolutionary days created the originals which inspired this Berkey & Gay suite. Figured, striped and croch mahogany, maple burl and American gumwood are the many woods combined in a suite of this high type. All the pieces sketched are included. Formerly $792.00.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

thousands of employees are poured in and out. Most of these travel by subway. If all are scheduled to arrive at a given hour, then tens upon tens of thousands rush at once to catch their trains and choke the cars, the gates and the stations. It has gradually dawned that this cannot keep up.

And so the bigger concerns now distribute their working hours over the day. A certain number are due to arrive at 8 o'clock; a third at 9 o'clock, and so on. Thus the strain on traffic becomes distributed through the 24 hours.

Sitting back in a comfortable room, your feet sprawled out by the fire, such confusion may seem fantastic. It remains one of a scene out of some wildly imaginative photoplay. Like "Manhattan," where humans lived beneath the street and tunneled their way out.

Yet, I am told, the present state of affairs indicates that the day may come when a corps of tens of thousands of girls will arrive in offices, go through their mechanical routine of opening the mail and getting things in readiness. After a few hours they will leave. Meanwhile certain clerks will have come and attended to their duties; stenographers will have arrived for dictation and more important dictations will have come trailing in. The same distribution will apply to all business concerns. To accommodate the odd hours that would result from such a routine, theaters would add performances and cafes would serve on rearranged schedule.

There is no better instance of this facility between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock. Since these are the hours when most of New York goes to lunch, the rush to tables and counters oftentimes completely floods the dining rooms. Instead of fast service, the reverse takes place and the law of "grab and run" is enforced.

Something of the problem can be gained by contemplating that in one building in Wall street belt nearly 10,000 persons—the population of many a little town—come and go to and from work each day. Many others contain from 2,500 to 5,000 persons and as many as a dozen such buildings are contained in a few blocks.

MASS. TECH INSTITUTE TO OFFER NEW COURSE IN RAILROAD OPERATION

Cambridge, Mass.—Creation of a cooperative course in railroad operation, combining scientific education at Massachusetts Institute of Technology with fundamental training in modern transportation practice on the Boston and Maine Railroad, a course said to be the first of its kind and unique in engineering education, is announced by Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, president of the institute.

Details of the course were revealed at a dinner in the home of Dr. Stratton when he had as his guests President George Hannauer of the Boston and Maine; Homer Loring, chairman of the board of executives and other officials of the railroad.

HERE ARE FEATURE PLAYERS IN JACK SANSON'S PRESENTATION

This photograph of the principals in Jack Sanson's presentation was snapped at yesterday's rehearsal. A good show with plenty of pep, music and has been gathered together by Mr. Sanson, who is manager of the State and Circle theaters here. Little Billie Shea, who plays a prominent role in the show is seated in front. The musicians are Jack's own aggregation of syncopators. The inset is Jack himself who has been planning this show for several months.

BIG PRESENTATION IS AT STATE THIS WEEK

Half-Hour Show Written and Directed by Manager Sanson Comes on Wednesday and Thursday Nights.

State theater patrons will be treated to something unusual on Wednesday and Thursday, evenings when Jack Sanson's stage presentation is made. The whole affair will last for more than half an hour and will be a rapidly changing program that will be in itself a miniature vaudeville show.

The Syncopators themselves have been organized by Manager Sanson and contain almost all of the available young musicians in Manchester. They have been rehearsing for several weeks and are rounding in to good shape for presentation.

The feature picture on Wednesday and Thursday is "Baby Mine," starring the famous comedy team of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. George Hills have had as their guests this week, Mr. and Mrs. George Hills, Mr. and Mrs. William Lehman of West Hartford.

SCHOOL STREET DUMP BECOMES JUST SMELLY

Fire Merely Smolders Now But There's a Fine Ripe Odor All About.

After a disciplinary action covering several days, the School street dump was almost normal today after a week or more of bad behavior. The fire which has been smoldering since Friday before last seemed almost tame and only a small volume of smoke was issuing from the sand which covers the dump.

Chief Albert Foy of the South Manchester Fire department has been working on the dump all week and today said that he had the fire almost under control.

CHAMBER RENEWS FIGHT ON FRAUDS

Same Old "Bunk" Dressed Differently, Being Peddled In Manchester.

In March 1926 the Chamber of Commerce issued the first of a series of stories designed to warn the public against house to house canvassers and salesmen for questionable securities and merchandise.

The immediate result of these stories was that hundreds of people consulted the Chamber of Commerce and literally, thousands of dollars were saved to them.

There is nothing particularly new—just the same old "bunk", dressed up a little differently in some cases, but all with the same end in view, namely: to get YOUR money.

Following is a list of schemes which have been reported to the Chamber during the past few weeks and which have in every instance found some victims:—

Negro women soliciting for charity. They should be made to show their 1928 license from the State Board of Charities or else refused for the impostors which they are.

Italian newspapermen soliciting alleged advertising which is nothing in the world but a free gift.

Salesmen for ladies shoes on sample. Orders filled from job lots of small sizes and obsolete styles.

Book salesmen—Their name is legion and their prices are extortionate.

Cheap clothing solicitation by mail.

Solicitors for donations to alleged organizations of railroad men.

Mail solicitations for medical or electrical therapeutical apparatus.

Magazine solicitations.

Salesmen of all kinds demanding deposits on goods which in many instances are never received.

CHURCH BURNER IN HUB

Boston, Feb. 6.—State police, local police and the Boston fire department officials co-operated today in the search for a pyromaniac, believed to be waging an anti-religious crusade by setting fire to churches in South Boston.

Three church fires, two of them last night, are believed by police to be of incendiary origin.

The first fire was discovered in St. Eulalia's Roman Catholic church at East Broadway. Hardy had it been extinguished when an alarm was sounded for another and greater fire in the auditorium of the South Baptist church at East Fourth street.

Only a few weeks ago St. Augustine's church, South Boston, was the scene of a disaster of this kind.

PLANS TO WIPE OUT CHICAGO'S NIGHT LIFE

Dry Chief Arrests 105 Patrons and Will Close 12 Leading Clubs.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Chicago's so-called "night life" will be wiped out in one broad sweep if a legal move prepared today by E. C. Yellowley, dry chief, proves successful from a prohibition point of view.

Chief Yellowley, on the basis of evidence acquired in a series of dramatic raids Saturday night and early Sunday morning, hopes to close by permanent federal injunction, twelve of Chicago's leading night clubs and cabarets.

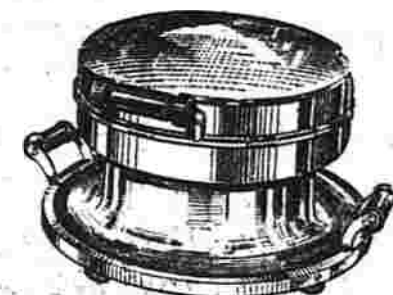

According to a Supreme Court ruling, a place can be closed on proof that a patron has imbibed liquor therein, regardless of whether or not it was purchased on the premises.

Chief Yellowley and his dry raiders claim to have arrested 105 persons, who not only were seen drinking in the raided cafes, but were found with bottles in their possession.

Movie Folks Start Fund For Poor Actors' Relief

Dolores Del Rio helped to start fund for improvident movie actors.

Hollywood, Calif.—At last the highly paid film celebrities have found a good and rapid way of spending their immense salary checks—after they die.

Millions of dollars have been pledged by leading members of the celluloid colony to the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Like Stage Fund The stage, for years, has provided a means for aiding improvident players of the legitimate drama.

The new plan, according to Joseph Schenck, who has headed the movement, will insure ample funds for the erection of hospitals in New York and Hollywood.

Headed by Joe Schenck, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Dolores Del Rio, D. W. Griffith, Norma Talmadge, Cecil B. DeMille and other big figures in the film world, the entire celluloid colony is lining up behind this movement.

1928 GREATEST BUSINESS YEAR OF FREE STATE

Dublin.—The Irish Free State, at the beginning of another busy year, is stock-taking.

The indications are, according to Patrick Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, that 1928 will be the greatest in the history of the Free State.

"The average Irish farmer is working hard," Hogan declared in an interview with International News Service.

"Of course, the farmer who is entirely dependent on the grazing of store cattle to fatten is not in a good financial condition, simply because the present low price of beef cattle bears no profitable relation to the price he bought at last spring."

TOWN SILENCES 'INTERFERENCE' TO AID RADIO

Fairfield, Iowa.—The experiment in "silencing" all electric machines in this city in order to do away with all possible radio interference is being watched with interest by mayors, members of city councils and radio listeners throughout the middlewest.

The town's new ordinance, violation of which is punishable by fine or imprisonment in the county jail, provides that all electric motors, generators and similar machines must be grounded or "muzzled."

Only one electric machine in the city has been exempted from the general ban. It is an x-ray machine in the local hospital, but little interference is expected from it as it is not in use often.

That the new law is attracting a great deal of interest in the middle west is attested by the number of inquiries received daily from city governments in various states.

The pleasant little volumes of sniping at idols and administering culture in homeopathic doses show no signs of weakening.

Reading over the monthly list of best sellers we find that, on the non-fiction side, Katherine Mayo's "Mother India" (Harcourt-Brace) still is among the leaders.

VAUDEVILLE AGAIN AT CIRCLE ON THURSDAY

Three Acts Scheduled With Double Feature Bill—No Price Advance.

Another vaudeville show is scheduled for the Circle theater this Thursday and two big features are to be shown at the regular price.

Three big acts of vaudeville have been engaged in Hartford and the two pictures are "The Clown," starring Johnny Walker, and "The Girl from Rio," with Carmel Myers, famous vamp star, in the main part.

"The Girl from Rio" is a gripping story of life in the underworld and the flight of a lone woman who desires to retain her honor in the face of great opposition.

"The Clown," supplies the thrill of "behind the scenes," and makes a vivid bit of screen entertainment. The story deals with an old circus-owner, who, after 18 years in prison on an unjust charge of murder, escapes, and returns to the circus to take revenge on the partner who has despoiled him of wife and daughter and liberty.

Director Craft has handled the theme of revenge and sacrifice with commendable restraint, and has effectively used the circus atmosphere to bring out the story's swiftness of action.

William V. Wong in the title role gives an excellent portrayal of the clown, while Dorothy Revier is convincing in the dual role of wife and daughter.

"LES MISERABLES" CONTINUES AT RIALTO

Victor Hugo's Powerful Story Is Here Two More Days; Jewell-Lithgow Co. Tomorrow.

Victor Hugo's powerful work "Les Miserables" is coming to life on the screen of the Rialto theater. Produced by Cinerama of Paris and purchased by Universal Pictures Corporation for exhibition in England and America, it might be declared that this, the greatest of Hugo's epics, was specially created for this medium.

Nevertheless it is about half a century ago that, one by one, the ten volumes of the work went forth from Guernsey to the great public.

Beginning on Tuesday Manager Campbell will present a superb stage attraction in the Jewell-Lithgow Company.

Advance critics claim this to be one of the most sensational acts of its kind touring the country.

It features Madame Jewell, the mistress of mystery and Professor Lithgow, master magician. This startling attraction, which openly defies mediums and spirits, is here for a three day engagement.

FLOOR LAMPS GIVEN AT STATE TUESDAY

Six Beautiful Stands Offered Ticket Holders in New Country Store Night.

Tomorrow is gift night at the State theater and Manager Sanson has purchased six handsome and expensive floor lamps which will be given to the holders of the lucky tickets.

The feature picture tomorrow is "Silk Legs," with Madge Bellamy and Jimmy Hall in the leading roles. It is one of these light comedies in which Madge is so good and with Hall for her foil she makes the most of the numerous funny situations.

On Wednesday and Thursday the State will have a big program. Manager Sanson's stage presentation will be put on with "Baby Mine," starring the well known comedy team of "The Rookies," Karl Dane and George K. Arthur.

The presentation includes the Silk City Sycophants, organized and directed by Manager Sanson, Billie Shea, star of the popular Kid-die Revue, the famous Spirit of '76 which is seen so many times in Manchester parades, the three dancing maids.

It's quite a program to be given as a regular night at the State but Manager Sanson is making this week a special one at this theater. He is confident that his presentation will be well received.

Tonight for the last time the State is showing "Old San Francisco," with Dolores Costello in the leading role. This is a story of the wickedest city in America at the time of the great earthquake and fire.

POLISH FARMER SERVES THREE YEARS IN PRISON. FOR FIFTY DOLLAR FEE.

Warsaw.—For fifty dollars a Polish farmer agreed to go to jail for three years. Police of the city of Lodz have just discovered that Wojciech Piele one of the prisoners in the county jail, was serving a three year sentence in the name of Andrej Pysch, the original defendant who was condemned for stealing.

Piele admitted that he had accepted Pysch's offer of fifty dollars to serve his sentence for him. The two men exchanged passports and Piele had served eighteen months of the prison term before the deception was discovered.

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Spotswood had gone out with the "Canary" to the club but the murder. When he left, he asked Jessup, on the switchboard, to call a cab. "Then," said Jessup, "we heard Miss Odell scream. We ran to her door and she called through it that everything was all right." But the next morning she was found strangled. Clever, known to be an intimate of the girl, is questioned but gives no clue. He mentions Dr. Lindquist, who orders Markham out of his house when he lets questions him as to his whereabouts the evening of the murder.

CHAPTER XIX

VANCE shook his head in a look of discouragement.
 "Really," he knew, Markham, old things," he added, "you should study the cranial indications of your fellow men more carefully. Did you, by any chance, note the gentleman's wide rectangular forehead, his irregular eyebrows, and pale luminous eyes, and his outstanding ears with their thin upper rims, their pointed tragi and split lobes? . . . A clever devil, this Ambrose Lindquist. Imbecile. Beware of those pseudo-psychic faces. Markham: leave their Apollonian Greek suggestiveness to misundereed women."

"I wonder what he really knows?" grumbled Markham irritably.
 "Oh, he knows something—rest assured of that! And if only we knew it, too, we'd be considerably further along in the investigation. Furthermore, the information he is hiding is somewhat unpleasantly connected with himself. His euphoria is a bit shaken. He frightfully overdid the grand manner: his valetedicty fulmination was the true expression of his feeling toward us."

"Yes," agreed Markham. "That question about his nose, but like a petard. What prompted you to suggest my asking it?"
 "A number of things—his gratuitous and obviously mendacious statement that he had just read of the murder; his wholly insincere homily on the sacredness of professional confidences; the cautious and Pecksniffian confession of his fatherly regard for the girl; his elaborate struggle to remember when he had last seen her—this particularly, I think, gave me suspicion; and then, the psychopathic indicants of his physiognomy."

"Well," admitted Markham, "the question had its effect. . . . I feel that I shall see this fashionable M. D. again."
 "You will," iterated Vance. "We took him to the club, but when he had time to ponder the matter and concoct an appeal tale, he'll become downright garrulous. . . . Anyhow, the evening is over, and you can meditate on buttercups till the morrow."

But the evening was not quite over as far as the Odell case was concerned. We had been back in the lounge-room of the club but a short time when a man walked by the corner in which we sat, and bowed with formal courtesy to Markham. Markham, to my surprise, rose and greeted him, at the same time indicating a chair.
 "There's something further I wanted to ask you, Mr. Spotswood," he said, "if you can spare a moment."
 At the mention of the name I regarded the man closely, for, I confess, I was not a little curious about the anonymous escort who had taken the girl to dinner before the theater. He was a typical New England aristocrat, inflexible, slow in his movements, reserved, and quietly but modestly dressed. His hair and mustache were slightly gray—which, no doubt, enhanced the pinkness of his complexion. He was just under six feet tall, and well proportioned, but a trifle angular.

Markham introduced him to Vance and me, and briefly explained that we were working with him on the case, and that he had thought it best to take us fully into his confidence.
 Spotswood gave him a dubious look, but immediately bowed his acceptance of the decision.
 "I'm in your hands, Mr. Markham," he replied, in a well-bred, but somewhat high-pitched voice, "and whatever you think advisable, I am prepared to do. . . . He turned to Vance with an apologetic smile. "I'm in a rather unpleasant position, and naturally feel a little sensitive about it."

"I'm something of an antimoni- amian," Vance pleasantly informed him. "At any rate, I'm not a moralist; so my attitude in the matter is quite academic."
 Spotswood laughed softly.
 "I wish my family held a similar point of view; but I'm afraid they would not be so tolerant of my follies."
 "It's only fair to tell you, Mr. Spotswood," interposed Markham, "that there is a bare possibility I may have to call you as a witness."
 The man looked up quickly, his face clouding over, but he made no comment.
 "The fact is," continued Markham, "we are about to make an arrest, and your testimony may be needed to establish the time of Miss Odell's return to her apartment, and also to substantiate the fact that there was presumably some one in her rooms after you had left. Her screams and calls for help, which you heard, may prove vital evidence in obtaining a conviction."

Spotswood seemed rather appalled at the thought of his relationship with the girl becoming public, and for several minutes he looked at Vance with averted eyes.
 "I see your point," he acknowledged at length. "But it would be a terrible thing for me if the fact of my delinquencies became known."
 "That contingency may be entirely avoided," Markham encouraged him, "I promise you that you will not be called upon unless it is absolutely necessary. . . . And now, what I especially wanted to ask you is this: do you happen to know a Doctor Lindquist who, I understand, was Mrs. Odell's personal physician?"
 Spotswood was frankly puzzled.

"I never heard the name," he answered. "In fact, Miss Odell never mentioned any doctor to me."
 "And did you ever hear her mention the name of Skeel . . . or refer to any one as Tony?"
 "Never." His answer was emphatic.
 Markham lapsed into a disappointed silence. Spotswood, too, was silent; he sat as if in a reverie.
 "You know, Mr. Markham," he said, "after several minutes, 'I ought to be ashamed to admit it, but the truth is I cared a good deal for the girl. I suppose you've kept her apartment intact.' . . . He hesitated, and a look almost of appeal came into his eyes. "I'd like to see it again if I could."
 Markham regarded him sympathetically, but finally shook his head.
 "It wouldn't do. You'd be sure to be recognized by the operator—or these might be a reporter about—and then I'd be unable to keep you out of the case."
 The man appeared disappointed, but did not protest; and for several minutes no one spoke. Then Vance raised himself slightly in his chair.

"I say, Mr. Spotswood, do you happen to remember anything unusual occurring last night during the half-hour you remained with Miss Odell after the theater?"
 "Unusual?" The man's manner was eloquent of his astonishment. "To the contrary. We chatted a while, and then, as she seemed tired, I said good night and came away, making a luncheon appointment with her for today."
 "And yet, it now seems fairly certain that some other man was hiding in the apartment when you were there."
 "There's little doubt on that point," agreed Spotswood, "and the suggestion of a shudder. 'And her screams would seem to indicate that he came forth from hiding a few minutes after I went.' . . . 'And you had no suspicion of the fact?' when you heard her call for help?"
 "I did at first—naturally. But when she assured me that nothing was the matter, and told me to go home, I attributed her screams to a nightmare."
 "I knew she had been tired, and I had left her in the wicker chair near the door, from where her screams seemed to come; so I naturally concluded she had dozed off and called out in her sleep. . . . If only I hadn't taken so much for granted!"

"It's a narrow situation," Vance was silent for a while; then he asked: "Did you, by any chance, notice the door of the living-room closet? Was it open or closed?"
 Spotswood frowned; as if attempting to visualize the picture; but the result was a failure.
 "I suppose it was closed. I probably would have noticed it if it had been open."
 "Then you couldn't say if the key was in the lock or not?"
 "Good Lord, no! I don't even know if it ever had a key."
 The case was discussed for another half-hour; then Spotswood excused himself and left us.
 "Funny thing," ruminated Markham, "how a man of his upbringing could be so attracted by the empty-headed, butterfly type."
 "I'd say it was quite natural," returned Vance. "You're such an incorrigible moralist, Markham."

Prints Are The Mode In Fashion's Edict

Coin spot crepe elects grosgrain ribbon to make bows, and for bands to outline the bateau neck, to simulate a bolero effect on the bodice, and to trim the sleeves. The skirt front is laid in flat pleats which provide enough fullness to make the dress seem plain and in one-piece. Light-weight woolen crepe, Jersey or plain silk are smart materials for this design which is adapted to sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch plain or printed silk and 8 yards ribbon. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

WE'RE ALL GREAT APES
 By Olive Roberts Barton

The bible of psycho-analysis has burst. The followers of Freud are off on another path hunting for another bubble. But when they find it they will play with it for a while and then stick a pin in it, too.

I am no follower of psycho-analysis. I never have been. But that is because I didn't know much about it perhaps. I often wonder how much the people who have turned it down did or do know about it. It is true, but that much of it must have been and still is good, probably also true. It got into the hands of quacks, too, of course, for there are more kinds of quacks than the medicine-show man.

But the big change has come chiefly because the American people are tickle-toddish and tickle. Poor Dr. Coo! His every-day-in-every-way philosophy was a sweet thing. It cheered people up and did them good. But because it was cure tooth-ache or gall-tones, and because it didn't improve anyone's golf game, it died a sudden death. "What next?" says the public, peering toward the horizon with expectant eyes. Companionate marriage came along but it hadn't a universal appeal. I almost said university.

But never mind, there will be something. What is there in us that makes a hobby so necessary? And what is there in us that makes us tire so quickly of them as soon as they get a good hold?

It is because we have ceased to be individualists. Incapable of forming our own tastes? Most our interests always be the interest of the mob? We don't go to see plays that haven't made a big hit. We don't buy books that are not best sellers. A little bird must tell us that a certain phonograph record is "it" before we cart it home.

How we struggle to be "in the know" and to ape that great thing called the public. There is something psychological about it that no one can explain.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

The picture of one of the town's prettiest, snappiest, choicest girls was recently put in "the century box" of a big life insurance company's new building. The box will not be opened until 2028 A. D., exactly 100 years from the day it was sealed. Some might question why nothing more important than a girl's picture was put in it. But what more important is there as record of any period? What tells more vividly than a girl labeled a certain period's "most beautiful girl," the whole story of that period's viewpoint and customs? Taste is told here, customs of dress? The dress tells the story of woman's position in society, and her position tells the story of social customs in general.

"Just Wives"
 "One reason why women office-holders have not done better is that they have been selected for usually had great wives because they would not have married them if they were not of corresponding quality, and that great women always have great husbands. But it doesn't work out that way. In fact, cynics sometimes opine that the bigger a man the smaller the wife, and that the greater the woman the more nincompoopish the husband. Fortunately, in many marriages water seems to seek its own level. Or is it fortunate? Even if the cynics are right, isn't contrast possibly a good thing?"

"Easter" Hats
 Do women buy "Easter" clothes any more? Many merchants say no. They say that "continuous buying" is the policy of today's woman. When one hat is shabby she gets another. When she needs a new dress she gets that. Season has nothing to do with it.
 If this is true, it is probably because women have more money for clothes than in the day, not so long ago, when a winter hat and a spring hat and an everyday dress and a best black dress featured the average woman's wardrobe. Women who can't buy much must consider the season, however.
 And yet if there really is no "Easter buying," why does fashion city have its gorgeous "Easter parade" every Easter? Nobody'll parade in old clothes. Maybe it's a question of having Easter clothes, but not ONLY Easter clothes.

THE SHORT MONTH
 February it is, though leap year this year makes it longer than usual. An added day may mean much or little to you, but there's one thing that means much—your personal appearance. If your clothes are clean and well pressed, you'll be comfortably inconspicuous. The day when a man or woman dressed up only "on occasion" is no more. To be well dressed now-a-days excites no special comment, but attention—unfavorable attention.
 Cleaning and dyeing promptly and perfectly done. Your clothes are called for and delivered. They are taken care of as your individual clothes, not huddled together in a suburban bundle.

ITALY ORDERS FISH FROM ILLINOIS FOR FIGHT ON MALARIA
 Springfield, Ill.—Illinois' fight on malaria with fish has proved such a success that the Italian government will follow suit. To launch the project in the Mediterranean nation one of Premier Mussolini's secretaries has ordered 500 fish from the hatcheries of the Illinois State Department of Public Health, which are being maintained at Carbondale. These fish already are on their way abroad and will be used by the Italians as a breeding strain.
 The appetite of a few Cambusia Affinis, the technical name of these fish, a minnow like species, Dr. D. Rawlings, Illinois health director, declares, will destroy more of the larvae than the mosquito can supply. Consequently malaria is vanishing from "Little Egypt" or Southern Illinois. Its last stronghold in this state. Health engineers have been stocking the streams, ponds and lakes there with these fish for the last five years.

CURES FOR THE NAILBITING HABIT
 Of all the sins that spell ruin to the appearance of the hands, nail-biting is absolutely the worst. The habit of biting the nails, if not conquered in infancy or at least in early childhood, is apt to remain unconquered throughout a lifetime. So with the exception of a few hints to grown-ups who occasionally sin in this manner, the advice given here is largely for those who have in their care young children of formative years.
 Correction of the nail-biting habit, after it has once become fixed, is largely a matter of character building. If corrective measures are taken in infancy, the best method is to make the biting as unpleasant as possible. This may be done by dipping the finger tips in a weak solution of bi-sulphate of quinine, made just strong enough to be intensely bitter.
 An older child may be reformed through his vanity and an appeal to his will. Scolding and shaming him seems only to make him more perverse. But I have in my own experience known of a complete cure being effected by the simple method of taking the child to a good manicure for weekly treatment until his pride in his hands became a real thing. This, coupled with an appeal to his will, brought about a lasting cure.

 By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
 The blisters that sometimes occur around the mouth, the shingles that may occur along the ribs, or similar blisters on the eyes or on parts of the body are seen not only after diseases in which there is high fever, such as pneumonia or meningitis, but also in connection with common colds, disorders of digestion, changes from low to high altitudes, after the use of certain drugs and under many other circumstances.
 Investigators have attempted to find a specific cause for these eruptions, perhaps a germ or a virus, but the evidence is not yet certain as to what part may be played by such a cause, and what part may be played by a condition of the nerves. If there is a virus-cause, it is probably so small that it cannot be seen under the microscope. It has been determined that it is small enough to pass through the pores of filters that are able to filter out bacteria.
 A consideration of the investigations of this condition made by Prof. Charles E. Simon caused him to believe that the virus may be constantly present on the human skin or in the human body, and that it is only under special conditions that it reacts to produce the types of blisters that are so familiar. Attempts have been made to find

The Rec Five had little difficulty snowing under Taftville at the Rec Saturday night in a well played game of basketball featured by the brilliant passing work of the home team and the individual work of Elmo Mantelli and Tommy Faulkner. The score was 59 to 39, twenty points.

In the preliminary game, the Community Girls ran circles around the Winsted Y. W. C. A. Girls in a score of 36 to 11 victory. The girls from the "City of Freaks" were no match for Coach Jerry Fay's outfit and were lucky the score wasn't bigger.

Next Friday night, the Rec Five will tackle the Springfield Y. M. H. A. and in the preliminary game, the Community Girls will probably be seen in action. Anne Scranton and Miriam Welles were the high scorers in the victory over Winsted. Both played a splendid game. Coach Fay found opportunity to use his entire squad of nine players. The local team played far better ball than it did against the Meriden St. Stanislaus Five. The foul shooting, what little there was of it, was a marked improvement. The visitors did not score a field goal until the first half was over.

COACHES DISCUSS FOOTBALL TROUBLES Goal Posts Also to Be Topic Of Conversation When Rules Committee Meets.

BY DAVID J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor) New York, Feb. 6.—Having retreated in good order for two days to a spot where "one can be alone and faith renew," the football rules committee this afternoon will report whether it has decided to move goal posts to the side lines in order to encourage lateral drop kicking or to make the new football look like a pocket flash in order to discourage fumbling. To be consistent, it should do one or the other or both.

Last year the committee decided that the defensive side could not advance with a ball that was recovered after a muffed punt but could do so, provided the muffed was a fumble; it took the goal posts off the goal line, declared that a lateral pass, if fumbled, regardless of who recovered it, and reduced the shift to a problem for the stop watch. The new rules for 1927, therefore, were four in number and only three of them were slightly fatuous.

The prevailing idea today was that officials next fall still would be trying to determine whether a muffed punt was a fumble, meantime busying themselves with the detail of counting "one-two" with every shifting team. The goal posts, too, they say will remain on the end zone.

Lateral Pass Rule The only addition to the code that may be disturbing, it seems, is the lateral pass rule. Indeed, Chairman E. K. Hall declared himself in favor of the entire list at the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention in New York. Besides the coaches' committee, the lateral pass rule, removed by the only committee member who might seriously object to its passing from the books and the presence of advisory committees of coaches and officials at the meeting assured, many who felt they could bear up bravely without it.

Those advisors did not vote, of course, but if you think Knote Rockne and Hugo Bezdek didn't talk you are assuming that they had lockjaw. The coaches' committee, a third member of which is Bill Spaulding, University of California, southern branch, was definitely instructed to oppose this rule. Many coaches also object strenuously to the muffed or fumble proviso and to the presence of the goal posts on the end zone, and their sentiment has been duly conveyed to members of the rules committee. But it is understood that the majority of coaches are reconciled to another season of them, provided they gain the moral victory of having the lateral pass rule rescinded.

Rockne probably would like the two-second restriction removed from the shift but, at that, I don't seem to remember him being unduly abashed by his operation last year. Besides, the majority of football men think it is a good rule, which automatically makes it a very good rule.

As for the officials' committee, headed by Walter Okeson, it probably suggested that they write the whole book over again. There was endless dissatisfaction last season and most of it was caused by the fact that an official had to take up fortune telling as an adjunct to his regular trade. By no other method could he decide whether a punt was muffed or fumbled or whether a score was good or bad. The result of an ill-directed lateral pass or the kind of fumble that was just a fumble up to and including the season of 1926.

As a result, the carnival was postponed until next Sunday.

The action of the weather man was totally unexpected. After the season's heavy snowstorm, it was hoped that a period of cold weather would follow. A large space, 300 feet by 100 feet, was cleared of snow and everything was all set for the mammoth event which has aroused considerable interest in town. Saturday afternoon, the sun came out and melted the snow with the surface of the ice by melting the snow.

Manchester Trade School took a lesson in basketball Saturday night at West Hartford when the local scrubs passed well but both teams were having a hard time scoring because of the well-organized defense each team spread across the floor.

After trailing for a good share of the game, Manchester High rallied in the closing quarter Saturday night at West Hartford to squeeze out an 18 to 14 victory. In the preliminary game between the two schools, Manchester was victorious 25 to 15.

Coach Wilfred J. Clarke started an entire second team. "Hop-easy" Opizzi, Dick Kerr, V. Boggini, Shannon and Billy Dowd were the mainstays. This combination was able to give Manchester a 11 to 10 lead at the end of the third quarter and to pull through a 18 to 14 winner. Although Opizzi made three out of four free throws in this half besides getting a floor basket. The other three hoops were made by Nino Boggini, Keeney and Billy Dowd.

CHAGNOT UPSETS DOPE AND BEATS JARVIS 50 TO 49

Wins West Side Rec Title By Trimming Holland; To Meet Ballsieper Soon.

The West Side Rec elimination pool tournament ended with an unexpected outcome Saturday when Louis Chagnot nosed out "Bode" Jarvis 50 to 49 in the semi-finals and trimmed Holland 50 to 32 in the final. "Ducker" Carlson had been a warm favorite to win the title with Jarvis running second, Chagnot third and Holland fourth.

The first big upset came when Jarvis eliminated Carlson in a close match. Then came Chagnot's one-ball victory over Jarvis in a match that was anybody's right up until the last ball dropped over the precipice into the chute. Chagnot's win was a combination of perfect shots, clever shooting and luck.

The luck element entered into the match when Jarvis made his 53th ball but failed to get position for the next one, a feat that would ordinarily have been easy for Jarvis. However, the rack before that Chagnot failed to name a shot and lost a chance to make a good run. The score was 48 to 47 going into the final rack.

It was Jarvis' shot as the fourteen balls were racked up. The fifteenth ball was not in position to get a break and Jarvis played safe by pocketing the ball. He left the cue ball against the cushion and Chagnot in trying to play safe, forced three or four balls out of the bunch. Jarvis ran two but played his last shot too hard with the result that the cue ball was frozen to another forcing him to play a difficult cut shot. Jarvis missed and Chagnot ran out.

Then Chagnot beat Holland quite easily. This game was much different than the Chagnot-Jarvis match, being much more open. The previous one had been crammed with pretty safes and careful shooting resulting in short runs. In this match, Chagnot "let out" more and as a consequence succeeded in winning quite handsily.

A match will now be arranged between Chagnot and Paul Ballsieper who won the championship of the East Side Rec recently. It will be a home and home affair with a third game to be decided by a return game to coin. It is also possible that a doubles match between Carlson and Jarvis and two East Side players may be arranged as a sort of a preliminary. Walter Dunn and Sam Houston might be paired against them.

Reached Agreement Speaker who arrived here yesterday from the south after a hunting trip said he and Mack reached a salary agreement in a long distance telephone conversation yesterday afternoon. He declared that both he and Mack were satisfied with the terms. Speaker said he would report to the Philadelphia training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., on March 1.

All-Middletown Quintet; Bloomer Girls Coming

Overtime Game Won by Score of 50 to 48

Saturday morning's play in the Grammar School Basketball League at the School Street Rec was featured by an overtime period contest between Miss Eaton's Room and Miss Reed's Room in the eighth grade division. The former team won 50 to 48 in a free-scoring tilt. Smith and Viot were the big guns for their respective teams. Each team made 23 field goals.

BY DAVID J. WALSH High McQuillan, big time stars in their own right only a few seasons ago. Fournier can't get off his own instep around first base but he still can hit them far in Newark. He should go over to the American League yet if he didn't try to give Clark Griffith a shake down, proving Bill's ambition but not his horse intellect. It doesn't seem so long for Bentley; now Jack is back in the league where he attained his greatest success and notoriety. McQuillan and Lutke will more than set by, particularly if the former decides to take the world and himself more seriously.

After Others Stars In addition, it is understood that Johnson is after Johnny Tobin, former star outfielder in St. Louis and Boston, and old Jack Wheat. The latter may not be able to go, but get them but, then, opposing outfielders experience similar difficulties when they really get hold of one. Each, too, has been a popular attraction in this vicinity for years.

However, the most interesting news of the New York experiment in management. It is known that he entertained similar dreams in Washington and was much hurt when Griff was trying everybody except newspaper men and ushers. However, Walter took the appointment of Stanley Harris in good part and was one of the latter's staunchest followers. His prediction for veteran players would seem to indicate that he strings along with Stanley's theories.

SATURDAY'S THAW KAYOES CARNIVAL

Leaves Sheet of Water on Cleared Space Causing Postponement Until Next Sunday.

Despite the indefatigable efforts of Park Superintendent John Y. Keur and a score of volunteer workmen to remove the snow at Center Spring Pond and get the ice suitable for the skating carnival yesterday, Old Sol spoiled everything by causing a thaw which made the pond more suitable for swimming. As a result, the carnival was postponed until next Sunday.

The action of the weather man was totally unexpected. After the season's heavy snowstorm, it was hoped that a period of cold weather would follow. A large space, 300 feet by 100 feet, was cleared of snow and everything was all set for the mammoth event which has aroused considerable interest in town. Saturday afternoon, the sun came out and melted the snow with the surface of the ice by melting the snow.

A thin sheet of water spread across most of the bare ice. In some places, it was hardly noticeable, but in others it was an inch or two deep. The carnival committee decided that the only thing it could do was pray for cold weather Saturday night to freeze this thin sheet of water. However, the warm spell continued into the wee hours of the morning yesterday. Then it began to freeze a little, but it was too late. And rather than to make a failure of the carnival, it was found necessary to make the second postponement.

Bulldogs, Cardinals Tied for First Place

In Division One of the Community Club junior basketball league Saturday night at the Harding gym, the Bulldogs were tied for first place by trimming the Woodland A.C. 47 to 23 while the Cardinals were beating the Warriors 20 to 15. The Bulldogs' victory was achieved by a first half rally that gave them a 26 to 10 lead.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

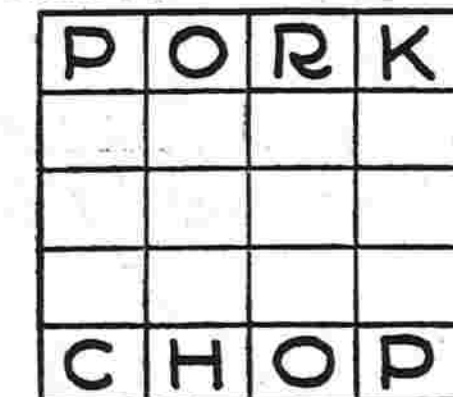

The height of fashion usually is found on price tags.

It takes but four strokes to change PORK to CHOP, but you have to catch him first. Par is printed on another page.

catch him first. Par is printed on another page.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

There certainly is something to the law of compensation. Just when husbands are relieved of the job hooking up dresses, along comes the responsibility of keeping their wives' necks shaved.

"I have often wondered where all the rumors come from. Now I know. They follow in the wake of a bank robbery."

SENSE and NONSENSE

TELEPHONE PESTS
Wouldn't it be a joyous act of undiluted bliss,
To smash the goof who greets you
On the phone with, "Who is ziss?"
-Southern Pacific Bulletin.

Sure-they're bad, but might be worse,
I'm telling you, I know!
Let's swat the bird who answers
With that discourteous "HELL-O."
-From Railway Life

But one pest who is quite the limit,
Has turned my fair life sour:
He says, "Just wait a minute,"
Then let's me hang on an hour!

Fussey Old Lady: Can you give me two seats in the coolest part of the house?
Ticket Seller: Sure, her are two in Z row.

A NATURAL BORN CARPENTER
An Irishman out of work applied to the "boss" of a large repair shop in Detroit.

When the Celt had stated his sundry and divers qualifications for a job, the superintendent began quizzing him a bit. Starting quite a random he asked:
"Do you know anything about carpentry?"
"Shure!"
"Do you know how to make a Venetian blind?"
"Shure. Poke yer finger in his eye!"

A man was looking at a house in prospect of renting it.
"There's no bathroom in this place," said the renting agent.
"Oh, that's all right," was the reply, "I would only want the house for six months."

All our wife's relatives ever pay is visits and all they ever give us is suggestions.

RESULTS MAY BE TERRIBLE
To costly food my taste aspires,
I wish to travel o'er land and sea;
And ah, what these suppressed desires
May do, my dears, to me!

Picking up a modern Western novel, a man said: "If that had been issued when I was a boy it would have had a yellow back, priced at ten cents, and I would have been paddled for reading it."

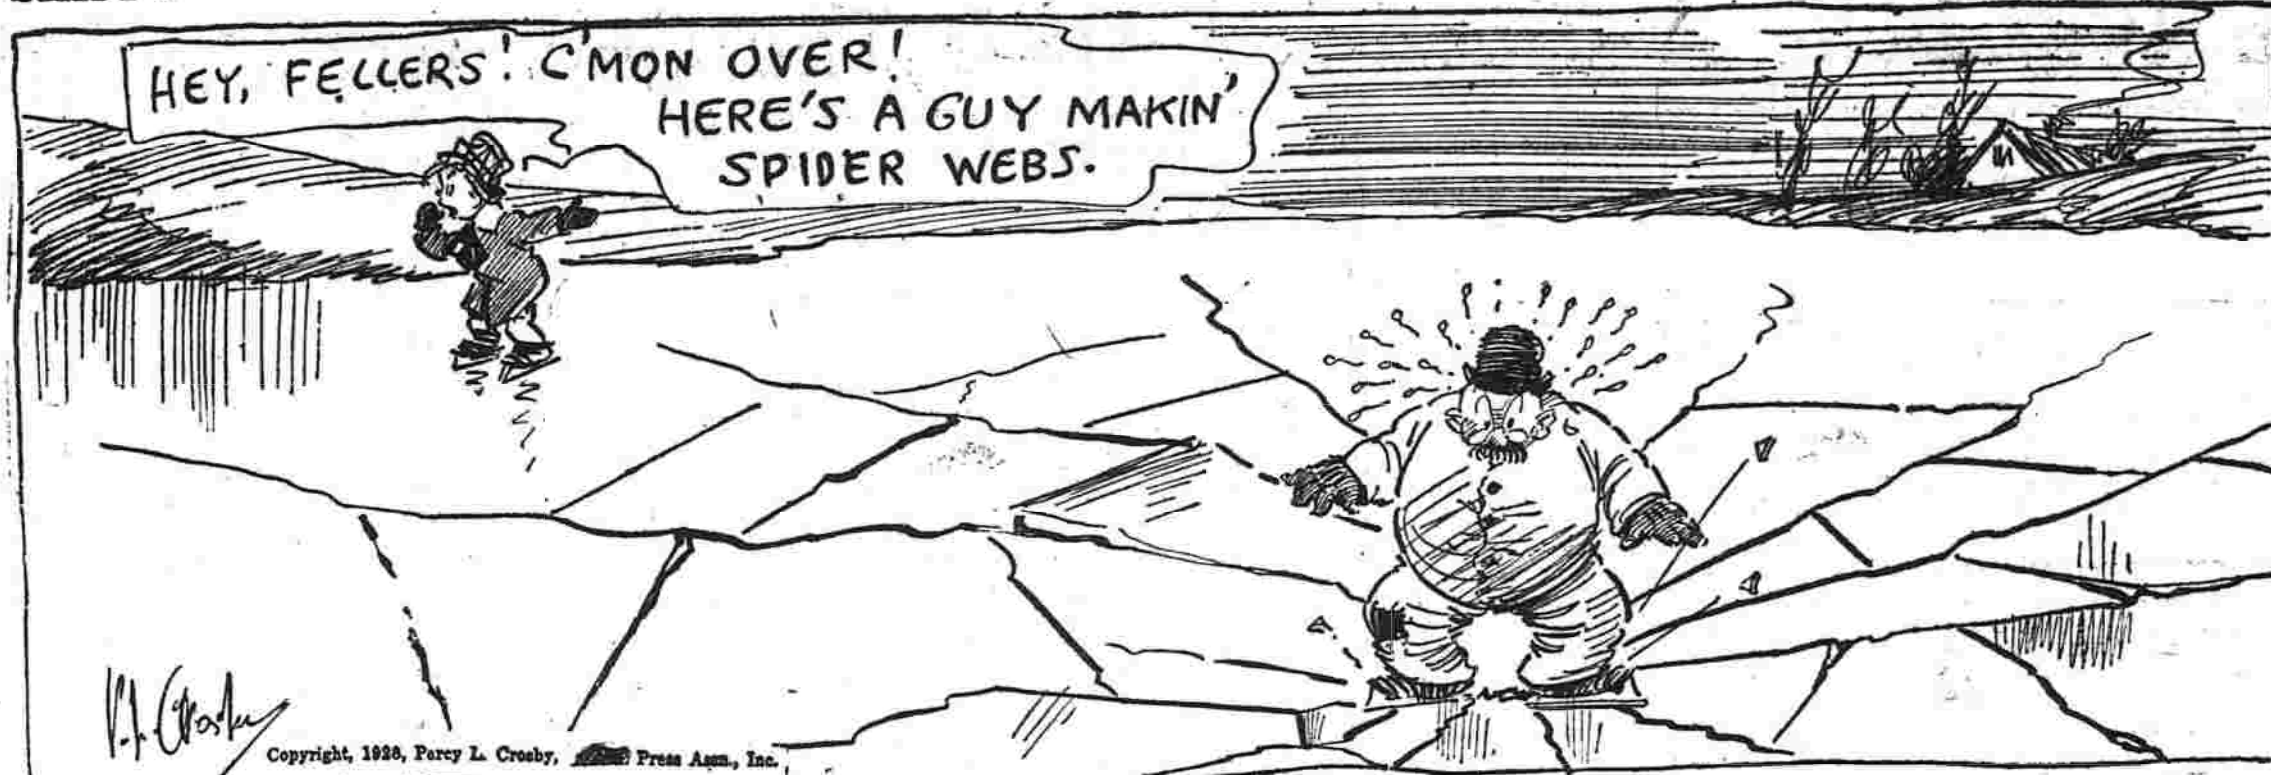

A tack points heavenward when it means the most mischief. It has many human imitators.

ROUGH STUFF
"I didn't say you took my ball,"
The irate golfer cried.
The words waxed warm between the two,
Each said the other lied.

"But this I'll say," the first one raved
"when in the rough it bounded,
If you had gone—and not helped hunt,
I think I would have found it."

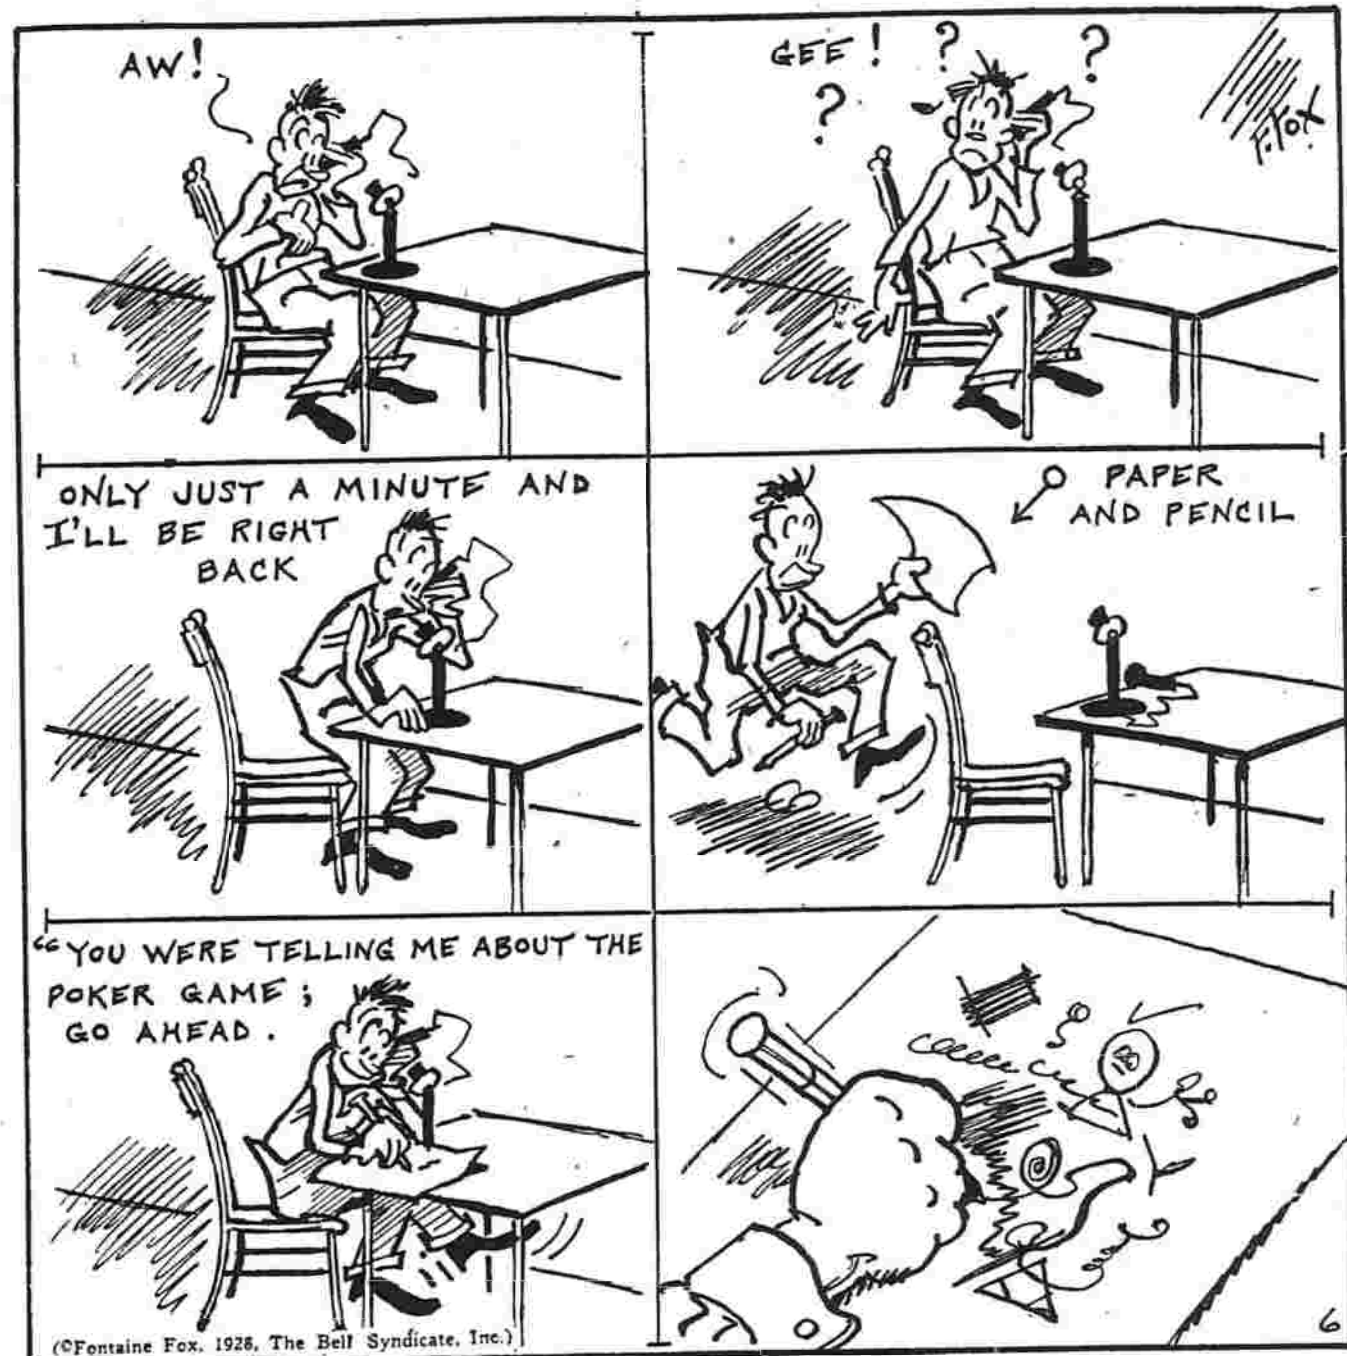

One indignant old lady, who has her opinion of the way things are going in this day and age, declares that she frequently sees six inches of stocking above the knee and six inches of bare skin above the stocking but she may know some pretty long-legged girls.

THE TINYMITE

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tinies watched the rabbit run. To save its life had been real fun. It hopped across the ground real fast and disappeared from view. The dog that Scouty held real tight stopped whining and seemed quite all right. Said Clowny, "Well we've done a thing that was real nice to do."
"Now let's run back to where we crashed. Perhaps our wagon is not smashed. If it's all right, we'll hitch the dog and ride around some more. We know that he can fairly sail. We'll travel over hill and dale, and look around the country just to see what is in store."
They found the wagon on its side. Wee Carpy shouted, "We can ride! Our wagon isn't hurt one bit. I'm glad it's safe and sound." And then this little Tinymite grabbed hold and set the thing upright. The way to hitch the dog again was very shortly found.
And then the bunch climbed in Teachers of the Eighth district schools will conduct a public bridge party at the Manchester Community club this evening and for its benefit. Miss Esther Anderson, head of the social committee among the teachers, is chairman of the card party. All players of bridge will be made welcome.

Mathew Merz of North Main street has received a card from George Pero who left for Mexico a few weeks ago. Mr. Pero is a member of the firm of Pero Brothers who have large peach orchards on Avery street. During the winter season it is Mr. Pero's custom to try to see as much of the world as possible. He has taken a trip to Italy and on another occasion visited the Panama canal zone, planning to sail from there to China but because of the uprisings changed his mind. Mr. Merz says evidently George enjoys watching bullfights, for when he wrote he had seen six and perhaps that number has increased by this time.

 To keep it right—keep it tuned!
 YOUR piano is a very wonderful instrument that deserves real care and attention. Think how valuable it is, not only in money, but as a source of entertainment and culture in your home. You keep it spotlessly clean outside—how much more important to keep it tuned! Then you will always be sure of perfect music for your children and for the sensitive ears of your discriminating guests. The main thing is to have your piano tuned regularly. Twice a year is the absolute minimum. Three or four times a year is much better—and fully worth while. Drop in today and let us talk over this important matter with you—or phone us and have our representative call.
