Local Singer Will Be Given Real Debut Role Later In Season—To Play Donner In Wagner's "Rheingold."

Fred Patton's first role with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York will be "Donner" in Wagner's "Das Rheingold," which he will sing on Friday afternoon. This will not be Mr. Patton's real debut, as he expects to be cast in a more important part in the near future. He has written to Manchester friends that the part he is singing this week will not be a big one and has asked some of them not to come to New York because this is not to be regarded as his debut. Mr. Patton who is a local man is one of the number of new singers signed up last year by Gatti-Cazazza impresario of the Metropolitan, and is engaged on a long-time contract. Miss Grace Moore who recently was feted upon singing the title role in "La Boheme" was also given a small part in another opera before her real debut.

POLICEMAN SHOTS HARTFORD BURGLAR

Man Found In Front Street With Bag Full of Money Stolen in Norwich.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 20.—George F. Bersig, 27, of the Ambassador apartments, Farmington avenue, was shot and probably fatally wounded here today by a policeman. As the result of the shooting the robbery of a Norwich theatre was disclosed and the proceeds of the robbery regained. Policeman Daniel Hurley, patrolling Front street, found an automobile bearing but one marker. On a seat within the car was what appeared to be a bag of money bearing the name "Palace theatre, Norwich." Hurley waited near the car until its owner appeared. Hurley questioned the man who made a sudden dash. When the man refused to halt, Hurley fired a single shot which knocked the man down.

Police swarmed into the street immediately and the wounded man was taken to St. Francis hospital where he was found to have been shot through one lung. In his pockets were found a car registration and a driver's license, each with the Bersig name and address, and a bank deposit book in the same name showing deposits of $463. Meanwhile the car had been taken to police headquarters where about $700 was found in the cloth bag. Police communicated with Norwich and found that the theatre had been robbed of about $700.

THE "BLUEBIRD" TRAVELING A MILE IN 16.76 SECONDS!

Captain Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird racing car going full tilt along Ormond-Daytona Beach, Fla., in the International Speed Trials—that is this remarkable photograph. The photographer exposed his plate for only the barest fraction-of-a-fraction of a second. Otherwise the picture would have been but a blur. Captain Campbell broke the world's record by making 207 miles an hour. Says he can go still faster.

Englishman Shatters World's Auto Record

London, Feb. 20.—British automobile circles in general and Major H. O. D. Segrave, former record holder, in particular, were most enthusiastic today over Captain Malcolm Campbell's feat at Daytona Beach, Fla. yesterday, when he broke the world's automobile speed record. Captain Campbell established the record of 206.95602 miles an hour thereby wresting the championship from Major Segrave who had driven his car at the rate of 203.79 miles an hour over the same stretch of beach. "I am delighted to hear of Campbell's feat," Major Segrave said. "I have always thought his car capable of beating my record with a decent margin. "Campbell deserves all the credit he can get, for he had against him all the money and brains of the American automobile world and in Frank Lockhart had America's strongest contender."

BIG MONEY BILLS GET RIGHT OF WAY

Over a Billion Dollars Involved In Measures Now Up Before Congress.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Giving all "big money" bills the right-of-way after routine business is disposed of, Congressional leaders today paved the way for a final decision on tax reduction. More than a billion dollars is involved in the "big money" bills, which include flood control, naval expansion, Muscle Shoals, farm relief and alien property return. The Senate moved toward a vote today on the alien property bill to return to Germany possessions seized during the war involving an immediate treasury obligation of $50,000,000 to pay for German ships, radio stations and patents. The Morris resolution for government operation of Muscle Shoals and completion of the hydro-electric and nitrate plants, also involving millions, is scheduled to follow it. The House will take up the flood control bill, proposing an expenditure of $473,000,000, immediately after disposition of budget appropriation bills. A naval expansion bill, involving the Wilbur $740,000,000 program, is slated for action in the House naval affairs committee this week, and an early decision on the floor, with farm relief following.

The Senate public lands committee will meet again Thursday and officers of four great banking institutions have been subpoenaed. The banks named were the Continental and Commercial National of Chicago, the Chase National and Liberty National of New York, and the First National of Boston, the subpoenas ordered officers of the banks to bring along all their records relating to loans made to the Republican national committee. Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat of Montana, the Senate's famous "oil prosecutor," ordered the subpoenas issued after receiving some private information. It was reported, as a result, that Walsh had learned these banks loaned money to the Republican national committee in the 1920 campaign, which was later repaid through Liberty Bonds. Whether these bonds were once the property of Sinclair has yet to be learned.

TWO HOUR BLOCKADE ON NEW HAVEN ROAD

Fire in Power Station Ties Up 25 Trains at Grand Central Station.

New York, Feb. 20.—Service from Grand Central station on the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads was back to normal today after a tie-up which delayed electric traffic for two hours. A fire in a sub-station power house caused a short circuit, hampering the third-rail power and the telephone and signal systems of the railroads. With a crowd of 7,000 persons jamming Grand Central station, the 125th street station the lights were put out of commission and police had a difficult time watching pickpockets. The Buffalo Express, scheduled to leave 125th street at 8:11 p. m., was delayed more than two hours. Excursion trains for Brewster, N. Y., and Troy also were delayed.

Let Young Folks Dance Says Wise Man Of East

"And Dance With Them" Is Advise of Mayor Wilson to Farmers of New England Communities.

Bangor, Me., Feb. 20.—"For heaven's sake, let them dance—and better still, dance with them." Up and down the Pennecon, from the rim of the great north woods to the sea, today re-echoed these words of advice from John Wilson, known as "the Wise Mayor of Way Down East."

Grangers of eastern Maine had been talking of barring dancing in Grange halls and at Grange meetings. The "Libergh Glide," the "Varsity Drag" and other modern rhythmic and daring movements had "hit" the country towns and "Ma" and "Pa" had been frowning. "Imitate wise city mothers and others who make home so attractive for their boys and girls that even you join them, and it will help you," said his honor, the mayor's advice to the eastern Maine patrons of the ladies and it may keep some of you men out of trouble."

Champion of Youth Modern youth, weary of being condemned and wishing a little confidence, understanding, and trusting in these days of changed social conditions, has a valiant champion in the "Wise Mayor of Bangor." In fact, his honor is inclined to the opinion that the young people of today are better than the boys and girls of yesterday—at least, they are "not one bit worse." Yet the older generation, like the ostrich, he believes, seeks to avoid the dangers by burying heads in the sand. "We must meet these changed conditions in the social order," declared Mayor Wilson. "If we don't the young people rebel. It is not their fault. You and I, as parents are the ones to blame."

Farmers' Problem Incidentally, the "Honorable Wise Man of the East" is convinced from observation that the only way to solve the "greatest problem of the farmer"—to keep young people on the farms—is to provide social life for them. The youngsters will go away from the farms unless the lure of good times in the cities is met with good times in the country, he said. "The general subject of young

RADIO IS USED BY POLITICIANS AS A FOOTBALL

Federal Commission Unable To Settle Problems Put Up to It, May Quit the Job.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Taking the view that radio legislation has been turned into a political football, the Federal Radio Commission virtually has ceased to function and its members are preparing to return to their homes, it was learned today. Unless developments within the next few days indicate there is a probability of prompt action in the House on the resolution to extend the life of the commission another year, the commission is ready to drop its job.

Cannot Agree Letters indicating that the commission has despaired of accomplishing its plan to stabilize broadcasting by further reallocations of frequencies and eliminations of surplus stations have been written by members to a number of senators. Opponents of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who will become radio czar March 15 if the life of the commission is not extended, would like to see the task of unscrambling the jam on the ether lanes tossed back into Hoover's lap. They feel that nothing could embarrass a presidential candidate more than this.

The manufacturer cannot guarantee maintenance against unreasonable use and lack of proper care, he says. "A good car, in fairness and justice, not only to those who ride in it but to

$900 COAT IS STOLEN AT POLICEMAN'S BALL

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—The normal serenity of police headquarters was upset here today as sergeants and corporals and plain patrolmen puzzled over the possible identity of the elusive persons who crept into the hall where the annual policemen's ball was in progress and filched a $900 sable coat, a purse, a wallet and $50 in cash—and with policemen literally on every foot of ground.

FORD IS ACCUSED BY STOCKHOLDERS

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 20.—Charges that Henry and Edsel Ford are resorting to technicalities and themselves "perpetrating a fraud against 2,000 former stockholders of the old Lincoln Motor Company instead of seeking a prompt trial to exculpate themselves of the wrongs alleged against them," were made in a brief filed today by counsel for Henry M. and Wilfred C. Leland, who are suing the Fords for $5,000,000.

DEATH LIST AT FIRE IN FERRY DISASTER

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 20.—Five lives, it was feared today, is the toll claimed by the strange mishap on the ferryboat Peralta last Friday night. As the federal hearing to determine the cause of the near-disaster resumed, mystery still cloaked the fate of two women and three men who are believed to have been passengers aboard the trans-bay ship when the huge wave swooped down upon her decks and caused panic in the rank of some 4,000 homeward bound commuters. After a perusing check that included every known source of information these five names stood out as the list of the missing: Isabella Robertson, Oakland; Hugh Findlay Berkeley; J. W. Collins, Oakland; Dar Petker, Oakland. The name of Isabella Robertson was added to the list of missing yesterday when her mother, Mrs. A. Kussman, reported her disappearance and informed investigating authorities the young woman had telephoned from San Francisco that she was coming home for supper on the evening of the accident. Miss Robertson, a beauty parlor operator, had boarded the Peralta, her mother feared.

Committee to Visit Pittsburgh District on Wednesday; Thousands of Families Facing Starvation Because Of Evictions From Com- pany Houses, Reports Say.

Washington, Feb. 20.—A full and impartial investigation of actual conditions in the strike-torn Pennsylvania soft coal fields was promised today by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho, chairman of the special Senate coal committee. The committee leaves here Wednesday for Pittsburgh to inspect mining camps in that region. Side trips probably will be made to West Virginia and central Pennsylvania fields but the definite itinerary has not been mapped out. The investigation is not expected to require more than a week as the committee is anxious to return to Washington to begin hearing witnesses on general conditions in the bituminous industry.

No Axes to Grind "We are not going to the mines with any preconceived ideas or with any axe to grind," said Gooding. "We want to see conditions as they actually exist in order to submit a fair report to the Senate." The inquiry was ordered as a result of the Senate adoption of a resolution by Senator Johnson, Republican of Calif. He charged that conditions in the soft coal fields are "deplorable," with thousands of miners and their families facing starvation and untold hardships because of eviction from company houses.

Officials of the United Mine Workers amplified these charges with allegations that three big railroads, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, had entered into a "conspiracy" to depress coal prices by restricting the union. This angle of the inquiry likely will not be touched by the committee until it opens public hearings here.

To Hear Witnesses The committee has been authorized to swear witnesses and take testimony at the mining camps and an official stenographer will be taken along. Only those witnesses who are physically unable to make a trip to Washington will be examined. Leading operators reported to the committee today they welcomed the first-hand inquiry. The Pittsburgh Coal Co., largest non-union soft coal company in the country, declared its camps and facilities would be open for fullest inspection. The company has been in operation with non-union labor since 1925.

John L. Lewis, president of the mine union, does not plan to go to Pittsburgh with the committee. The union's case will be presented by Philip Murray, vice president. The committee will be in complete charge of the Pittsburgh district. Besides Gooding, members of the committee are: Senators Metcalf of R. I. and Pine of Okla., Republicans, and Wheeler of Mont., Democrat. Wheeler will act as prosecutor of the committee.

The soft coal strike is now in its eleventh month. It started last April when operators in the central fields refused to renew the $7.50 a day minimum wage agreement.

PAN-AMERICAN PARLEY OVER; PEACE REIGNS

Delegates Formally Ratify Final Acts of Pan-Ameri- can Conference — No Speeches on Last Day.

Havana, Feb. 20.—The sixth Pan-American Conference ended today with outward signs of general amity. At a full plenary session the delegates representing all the American nations formally ratified the achievements of the conference by signing its "final acts." The signatures covered declarations, resolutions and recommendations as well as the "titles" of the treaties and conventions agreed upon by the representatives of the 21 republics during their five weeks of deliberations.

The actual treaties and conventions were to be signed separately by the plenipotentiaries. No Speeches No outward incident marked the proceedings of the session and the delegates formally signed their names. The speeches which had featured the previous plenary sessions were absent. All the delegates signed all the agreements with here and there a reservation such as that of the United States against the declaration that armed merchant ships should be classed as men of war.

COL. KNOX TO HEAD ALL HEARST PAPERS

Editor of Manchester, (N. H.) Leader to Manage Big Chain of Newspapers.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 20.—Appointment of Colonel Frank Knox, for years one of the outstanding editors of New England, as general manager of the newspaper properties of William Randolph Hearst was announced today at the opening session of the convention of Hearst executives at the Biltmore hotel. Colonel Knox was presented to the convention, for which are assembled executives of Hearst newspapers from coast to coast, by V. Y. Polachek, of the Hearst general council who made thus officially the first general announcement of his appointment. Mr. Polachek explained that Colonel Knox becomes the first actual general manager of the Hearst newspapers since S. S. Carvalho, one of the great figures of the Hearst services, retired in 1917. Bradford Merrill held the title of general manager for some time before that event. Mr. Polachek said, although functioning almost altogether in an editorial capacity rather than as a general executive, Editor of Leader Colonel Knox has been long prominent in New England as owner and publisher of the Manchester, N. H., Union and Leader, control of which he retains. He has been associated with the Hearst service for more than a year, beginning as regional director for Hearst newspaper properties in New England with headquarters in Boston where he was publisher of the Boston America and Daily Advertiser.

BIRCH STREET

Taxpayers who berate the tax rate and at the same time neglect to do anything toward keeping it down rather spoil the effect of their protests against too much municipal expenditure. The widening of Birch street would cost somebody a considerable number of thousand dollars. Perhaps the town would pay a third—that is the usual custom; perhaps not. But the probabilities are that seven or eight thousand dollars of the taxpayers' cash would go into that project if it were approved. It is for the voters in town meeting to approve or reject the scheme to spend seven or eight thousand dollars on a change of more or less doubtful benefit, or to keep that amount of money in their own pockets.

There are numerous expenditures called for, from time to time, which are in the line of obvious public benefit. This newspaper favored the purchase of the car barn site, for instance, because it was completely apparent that, in the natural course of development, the town would become the owner of that tract eventually, and probably pay through the nose for it ten or twenty years hence if it did not buy it now at a bargain price. We believed the purchase to be good business, and favored it. We do not believe it to be good business for the people to spend money on the widening of side streets which are practically certain to become one-way streets in any event within a very short time.

For every dollar of public money expended there should be received some sort of public benefit. We cannot see the slightest benefit to the public through the widening of Birch street. We can only see an entering wedge for the widening of several other narrow but adequate side streets, the spending of other similar sums by which the people of the town at large will not be benefited at all.

It was perfectly proper for the selectmen to put this matter up to the voters. It will be perfectly proper and altogether sensible for the voters to decide against it.

FAKE

"You can't believe anything you see in the newspapers." Thousands of times a year this bromide is uttered by somebody or other. Yet the most sensational piece of news in today's papers is the utter repudiation by Herbert Hoover of an alleged interview sent to the Miami Herald by its Key West correspondent, in which Mr. Hoover was made to declare that he would enter no state primaries, outside of Ohio, in which a "favorite son" might be contending for the delegation.

Mr. Hoover's denial of any such "interview" is sensational because it is an extraordinary thing for any newspaper to print a cold fake in connection with matters of serious importance. Even in Florida, where they got in the habit of more or less wild exaggeration of fact during the boom, one is not prepared for a deliberate lie in a newspaper. When you come to think of it very few people are prepared for a deliberate lie in any newspaper. So that when a newspaper does print an outright lie there is considerable shock to the exposure of it.

The Miami paper's correspondent at Key West must be a remarkable sort of person. We should like to get a look at him. In a good many years of experience in this calling we never ran across one of his kind—the reporter who will hand over to his newspaper a sheer invention dealing with a serious subject and pass it off for the truth. This kind of reporter comes only once in a box and such packages are almost unknown in newspaper shops. We speak, of course, of the ex-correspondent who committed the fake, because he has been fired and the Miami Herald doubtless has another and different sort of man on the job at Key West.

Newspapers make mistakes in facts and in deductions. But the framing up of a deliberate canard like this Hoover interview is so extremely rare that such instances go down in the memory of every newspaper man as history. And the history of American newspaperdom since the Civil war holds very, very few of them.

WRONG END TO

In Iowa they sent an 18 year old boy to the reformatory for ten years for perjury when he lied on the witness stand in a case where a man was accused of driving an automobile while drunk. It seems to us that this young fellow has a just grievance against society.

Any boy of eighteen whose eyes and ears are open has long been familiar with the unpleasant fact that perjury in our courts is about as common as dust in our streets. He has had, by the time he is eighteen, numerous experiences of perjury all about him—and nothing whatever done about it. What more natural than for an eighteen year old boy to accept the common formula that a witness' oath is a joke, at best a meaningless rite?

It would seem to most folks that the place to begin inflicting heavy penalties for perjury is not upon eighteen year old boys who tell lies in police court cases. There is better game about, and an infinite quantity of it.

We have in mind a Connecticut case. A clothier, assisted by a relative, burned his store for the insurance. Overhead was a lodging house in which 22 men were asleep. None of them lost their lives but several were rescued in the nick of time by firemen who ran ghastly risks. The insurance people smelled incendiarism, refused to pay. They proved in civil court that the clothier had perjured himself as to the amount of stock in the store—most of which he had removed; as to his whereabouts and that of his relatives, as to the conditions at the point where the fire started. Incidentally they proved the arson conclusively enough for any criminal court jury. They won their case and the clothier didn't get a cent of insurance. Yet he was never put on trial even for perjury, let alone for arson.

This is merely one case in tens of thousands. Perjury is treated with the utmost leniency by prosecuting officials. Until it is made in fact what it is in legal theory—a crime—other crimes will flourish like the green bay tree.

But we maintain that to begin the crusade with an eighteen year old boy, and start him off in life with a ten year prison sentence, is decidedly beginning at the wrong end of the line.

FALLING PLANES

The fall of an airplane into a street of a Southern town, killing a citizen and injuring several others, after the occupants had been blown to death by an aerial bomb thrown from the plane and exploding prematurely, suggests anew the peril of permitting aviation to go uncontrolled by law. In Connecticut this particular kind of accident would not have occurred because we cannot imagine anybody being allowed to throw bombs out of a plane over the heads of a lot of townspeople. Here at least the control of plane flight and handling is conducted with a measure of sanity. In most of the states the business or science or fad of flying has been permitted to run wild.

Nevertheless, the circumstance of airplanes tumbling into the streets with engines running and propellers whirling must be reckoned on, by life insurance companies, by police authorities and by individuals, as an occasional incident of that flying which it is so commonly predicted will soon take a place alongside automobilism.

If the air is filled with planes, some of them will come down with a bang. And if they fly over towns and cities some of the tumblers will be into streets. So far as we can recall this is the first accident in which a plane, falling into a settled community has taken the life of an innocent bystander. But it will be an extraordinary thing indeed if it does not prove to be the pioneer in a long chain of similar tragedies.

However, the sooner the states adopt the Connecticut system of aviation control, require the licensing of local pilots and prohibiting fool stunts over the heads of defenseless people, the better.

STILL RAILROADS

Samuel Rea, retired president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, does not think the railroads need to fear airplane, water or motor competition very greatly.

In a speech in Philadelphia recently he predicted that 50 years from now motor buses will have absorbed a larger part of short-haul passenger traffic than they now carry, and that airplanes will be supplying a de luxe fast passenger and express service; but the railroads, he feels confident, will still be doing the bulk of the work on long shipments.

So far as the railroads themselves are concerned, the progress of the next 50 years seems more likely to be a matter of orderly de-

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(70) Cosmetics; Soap; Patent Medicines

Not all the perfumery, cosmetics and toilet preparations are made in France. The United States has a product in this industry valued at approximately $130,000,000 annually. Connecticut factories produce more than 4% of the total turned out in this country. The value of Connecticut's output, which has been increasing approximately $1,000,000 yearly since 1921, during 1925 was $5,527,844. This was 4.2% of the total value for all the United States. In 1900 Connecticut plants, with a product worth $198,629, produced but 2.7% of the total. Connecticut ranked sixth in 1925.

Connecticut also produces considerable soap, the value of this product in 1925 being $3,384,963, or 1.3% of the total value for all factories in the United States. This is the same percentage of the total as for 1914 when Connecticut plants produced soap worth $1,652,123. Connecticut ranked eighth at the last census. Now Jersey led.

Five million dollars worth of patent medicines and compounds and druggists' preparations are manufactured yearly in Connecticut. In the production of patent medicines and compounds, which were valued at $3,328,291 in 1925, Connecticut ranked fourteenth, and in the production of druggists' preparations, which were worth $1,242,708 the same year, the state stood tenth. New York led in the production of both. Connecticut's output in each is approximately 1.5% of the total output for the United States.

velopment than of radical change," he says. This, of course, is the view of a railroad man and you probably could find men in other professions to disagree with him. To a layman, however, it does appear that he has hit the nail pretty squarely where it ought to be hit.

CLEANLINESS AND HEALTH
Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the American Public Health Association, says that a health commissioner's duties do not end with the simple enforcement of the health laws and the sanitary code. Above all, he says, such an officer must promote community cleanliness. For cleanliness is the basis of all public health measures. Dirt and disease are inseparable companions. Banish one and you discourage the other. Cleanliness, to the health officer, is indeed "next to godliness," as the old proverb says.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, Feb. 20.—When politicians fall out, honest voters sometimes are permitted to kick them in the pants. True, the voters do not always fall to this task with all the gusto that might be desired, but that's their own business.

It may be doubted whether the selection of presidential candidates offers as good an example of this truth as some of the senatorial and gubernatorial contests, but it is conceivable that some of the ordinary voters may actually have something to say this year about the choices of the convention.

The ray of hope appeared when Hoover's managers decided to fight Senator Frank Willis in the Ohio primary for convention delegates and to enter primaries in other states whose politicians had planned to send favorite sons or unstructured delegations. It may be that Hoover will lose his shirt in some of these primaries, but at least the voters will have had a hand in the process.

Tuesday, April 24, may prove to be the Hoover Armageddon. On that day primaries are held in Ohio, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, which have 169 delegates to the Republican convention. Previously, Hoover will have won 33 delegates from Michigan and 11 from New Hampshire and Lowden or someone else presumably will have captured nearly all the 122 delegates from Illinois, North Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin. Hoover is assured of a healthy platoon of delegates in subsequent primaries, but the dominant politicians of Ohio, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have refused to put up a Hoover ticket.

After the 24th, there will be much light on the claim that Hoover is the choice of the great majority of Republican voters. That claim is what Hoover is trying to establish in these three primaries. It has not been proved to date. Hoover will invade the three states only because the politicians have fallen out. In Ohio, for instance, every effort was made by the Hoover camp to arrange the eventual delivery of the Wilson delegates to Hoover. There are several anti-Hoover politicians. The latter include such veterans as Walter Brown, recently appointed assistant secretary of commerce; Secretary Work, Postmaster General New, Ogden Mills, and Senators Moses and Edge.

There may be little choice between the rival sets of politicians, but the Hoover politicians have the advantage of possessing a real candidate, whereas the eastern anti-Hoover politicians merely ask the voters to leave everything in their hands with the assurance that it will come out all right.

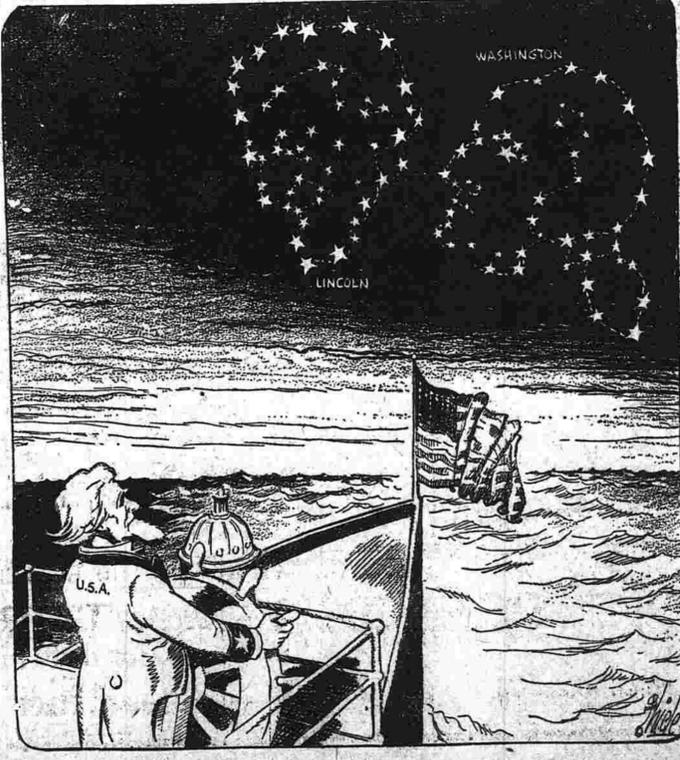

Until a few days ago, the pre-convention campaign was almost entirely one of politicians. Hardly anyone wondered how the voters felt. It was a question of how the organization felt in Michigan, how Watson stood in Indiana, Edge in New Jersey, Mellon and Vane in Pennsylvania, the divided leaders in New York, Charles Innes in Massachusetts, Moses in New Hampshire, Dave Mulvane in Kansas and so on.

Thus far the presidential primaries have never produced a president. Only 17 states, with 502 delegates in the Republican party and 456 in the Democratic party, have it, and in some of these, as already demonstrated, the machine politicians generally control the situation. Roosevelt mopped up the terrain with Taft in the 1912 primaries and was licked. Wilson beat Clark by one state and 40 or 50 delegates, all of which helped but was far from decisive. In 1920 Harding carried only Ohio, running fifth in popular vote. Leonard Wood and Hiram Johnson cleaned up in the primaries and were in turn cleaned at the convention.

But delegates are delegates and politicians want them even if they sometimes resort to the perilous expedient of allowing the voters a small voice in determining the party candidate.

While the country is talking about this disappearance and that, wouldn't it be a good idea to find out what become of those fellows who used to make their living playing Hawaiian guitars?

PERPETUAL MOTION

IDEA MAY LEAD TO CLOCK REVOLUTION

Geneva.—A new bid for the solution of the perpetual motion problem has been made here by a young engineer, Jean Louis Reuter, the son of the municipal treasurer of Neuchatel.

Reuter, who has been pursuing his experiments for more than ten years, started by assuming the feasibility of harnessing the energy produced by the perpetual motion present in the varying differences of the atmospheric pressure and the temperature. His instrument is really a clock propelled by a metal barometer.

Realizing that the clocks to be used in the experiments must be so constructed that they run with a minimum amount of energy, he set to work, and perfected two clocks which have now been running without stopping and without rewinding for several months. They require only one-thousandth part of the amount of energy necessary to drive an ordinary clock.

The smallest daily variations of temperature and atmospheric pressure are sufficient to keep the clocks in motion.

FALLS IN OWN TRAP

Brookville, Ind.—Authorities here believe that John Koetter, 70, was a victim of his own folly. His charred body was found in the ruins of a barn on the farm of Albert Schulte, Franklin County. Bitter contestants in a lawsuit, it is believed that Koetter sought revenge by setting fire to Schulte's property, but apparently was caught in the flames before he could escape.

SOME FAMILY

Washington.—The death of George F. Marshall, Confederate war veteran, at the soldiers' home near here, disclosed the fact that he is survived by 121 direct descendants. The total is made of 15 children, 75 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Advertise in The Evening Herald-It Pays

New York, Feb. 20.—Believe it or not, but the Ritzy rich of the Park Avenue belt, seeming to have nothing to do with their money, are now having door keys made of platinum, gold and silver. So popular is the extravagant fad, I am told, that a shop recently opened in the upper Fifties for the turning out of ornate keys.

Robert Coleman, a fellow columnist, advises me that he heard of one such key, made of platinum and set with diamonds, the cost of which was well over a thousand dollars.

Such costly toys are generally brought into vogue by those pampered gossamer of the night club route whose reputations start out by being uncertain but gain certainty as time goes on. It is no secret that these blase products of an artificial life are ever on the search for luxuries as useless as their own existences. These Loreleis, who are not always blond, pass from the hands of one rich spender into the hands of another. And they gather such favors as they can while the going's good. It is from this parasitic parade that we get most of the sensational fads in dress, behavior and jewelry. To some extent they take pattern after the mannikins of the French race tracks who, on sunny Sundays, seek to startle the crowds by exhibiting some extreme innovation.

The bejeweled key is nothing particularly new under the sun. It is a cut-back to the Orient when keys were bedazzling and sparkingly ornate. The decadent European courts took up the idea and any museum today displays hundreds of specimens of the goldsmith's art in key making. It is, however, a reflection on the extravagance of a certain Manhattan set, a group that tosses its money about for the achievement of effect.

In sharp contrast are the long rows of dim and dirty tenements that back up to the very back yards of these extravagant apartment houses. Here the sleek and hungry cats pounce on the preserves of the pillowed poms and crows. Here babies by the score are wheeled about in broken buggies and a few crusts of bread is often a meal when times are hard.

Scores of college students in New York make their way through the universities by working as bell hops in the big hotels. Al Crockett, of the Waldorf, tells me that he made a recent survey of his hostelry. He found one bell hop was a sophomore at Columbia and another was preparing for the ministry at Hamilton College.

Edward Carewe, the Hollywood movie producer and director, told me this one the other day while lunching at the Algonquin: A stranger in the movie city noticed one of those truck-loads of movie actors being taken to location.

"What's that?" asked the stranger. "Oh, just a load of junk and actors," said the cynical Los Angelino, who was showing him about. A film actor, who happened to overhear the conversation, stepped angrily up. "It seems to me, sir," said the performer, "that at least you could have said—actors and junk." GILBERT SWAN.

BRITISH-NORWAY ROW CAUSED BY SMALL ISLANDS

London.—Out of rival claims to two small islands in the South Atlantic Ocean 1750 miles from the southernmost point of South Africa, is developing a difference which is being watched with amused interest by the rest of Europe.

Not only is the sovereignty of the islands involved in doubt, but the situation is complicated by the fact that one may be non-existent, having been sharply divided regarding its position.

Bouvet and Thompson, the islands in dispute, are allegedly situated on the fifty-fourth parallel of south latitude, and the controversy has been brought about by the British Government officially leasing them to a Norwegian Company for exploitation and as a whaling station.

Norway Wakes Up This woke up the Norwegian Government, which promptly formed the British that Bouvet is Norwegian, the Norwegian flag having been hoisted there on December 1 last by Norwegian explorers, and that it was unaware of the existence of Thompson island.

Making investigation, the British Government soon discovered that confusion exists regarding these islands. British charts show there are three islands there; Norwegian sailors declare there is only one. Thompson apparently being Bouvet out of position; old maps show four islands; while such an authority as the famous English explorer Captain Cook declared centuries ago that there were none.

As far as is known, a certain French officer returned from the South Seas in 1739 and stated that he had discovered land surrounded by water somewhere in the neighborhood of 45 South by 10 East. He decided this was not the mainland of Australia, which he was seeking, and so decided to call it Bouvet Island, after him.

Subsequently Captain Cook searched the locality but failed to find the island, and reached the conclusion that Bouvet had only been an iceberg.

On Old Charts It was not until 1808 that the island again came into prominence, when Capt. Lindsay, of the Whaler Swan, discovered an island in the neighborhood of 45 South in these waters, and it was entered on the charts accordingly. In 1825 Captain Norris located two islands: one he called Liverpool, and the other Thompson.

After that the islands were lost sight of for ninety years, but all apparently were recognized as British possessions. The British Government is taking the attitude that is granted the islands in good faith to the Norwegian firm, but admits that the existence of Thompson may be "doubtful." And yet the Rasmussen Company of Oslo has agreed to pay royalties on guano collected there and on oil from whales fished from its waters. The next move would seem to rest with Britain, and observers are wondering just what form it will take.

"GINSBERG THE GREAT" AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

George Jessel, Comedy Star, Featured—"Singed" Shows Today.

"Singed" is the title of the Blanche Sweet production which is playing its final engagement at the Circle theater tonight. On Tuesday and Wednesday the Circle will present George Jessel, famous musical-comedy star, in "Ginsberg the Great."

"Ginsberg the Great" is a ludicrous series of slapstick, youthful adventures. An ambitious tailor apprentice, reads up on magic, joins a carnival and sets forth to see the world, and does! Funniest film of the year! Anthony Coldeway wrote the story and did the directing. The cast includes Audrey Ferris, Gertrude Astor, Douglas Gerrard, Jack Santoro, Theodore Lorch, Jimmie Quinn and Stanley Sanford, Byron Haskin, directed.

"Singed," the Fox production in which Blanche Sweet is starring, under the direction of John Griffith Wray, who was her director in "Anna Christie," is a vehicle ideally suited to her shining talents.

In the role of Dolly Wall, a dance hall girl who cannot undo her past in spite of her enormous wealth, gained through a venture in oil leases, Miss Sweet is called upon to express the gamut of her emotions. It is a colorful role and one in which she is destined to win much sympathy during the unfolding of the story. Warner Baxter, popular leading man, who plays opposite the star, is also emphatically adapted to the demands of his part. He is appearing in the role of Royce Winsate, philanthropist, handsome, vain, one of those men who can never be convinced that the word women has a singular which can be used on occasion.

LOUIS SMITH TO DIRECT 'WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING'

Louis Smith, director of three successes for the Town Players, and director of "The Haunted House" which is to be given by the Players in March, has been engaged by the Dorcas society of the Swedish Lutheran church to direct "The Whole Town's Talking," a three act comedy.

The play is the product of John Emerson and Anita Loos, famous playwrights and scenario writers. Miss Loos, who is the wife of her collaborator, has written many stage and screen successes and was formerly chief scenario writer for Douglas Fairbanks. She is the author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Tryouts for the parts will be held on Thursday evening at the Swedish Lutheran church and the cast will be picked at that time. ### GILBERT AND RINTY PLEASE RIALTO FANS

To Be Seen Again Tonight: Three Vaudeville Acts Tomorrow.

A capacity audience was on hand at W. R. Campbell's Rialto Theater last evening to welcome the splendid double feature program. The management is presenting, Friday and Saturday, three vaudeville acts, which will be offered again tonight for the final times at 7 and 9:15.

The Gilbert feature is "Cammy Kirby," a re-production of the picture that made him famous. Thrills and adventure along the colorful waterfront of New Orleans during the '70's serves as the background for this colorful story of a Mississippi-River gambler. "Cammy Kirby" is a William Fox special production made under the direction of John Ford.

"A Dog of the Regiment," is the title of Rip Tin Tin's latest starring vehicle for Warner brothers. It presents the ever-popular Rinty in a new role—that of a carrier for the Red Cross during the World War. Dorothy Gulliver, one of the screen's new beauties, Tom Galloway and John Peters are seen in the supporting cast.

For tomorrow and Wednesday Manager Campbell is offering one of the biggest and finest bills ever seen in Manchester. Three acts of high class vaudeville and a big double feature program will be on view. The features are Con-

Yield in "A Man's Past" and "She's My Baby." The latter is a comedy-drama deluxe featuring an all star cast.

Scheidemann Memoirs Tell How Kaiser Planned To Flee Germany

Berlin.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's formula for saving his throne and Germany from revolution during the critical days of November was to "let President Wilson go hang, and do business only with England," reveals Philipp Scheidemann in his new memoirs.

Scheidemann, the first chancellor of the German Republic, had unparalleled opportunity to observe at first hand the historical events attendant upon the birth of the new state, and his memoirs are crammed with fresh contributions to the chronicle of the times.

Among the disclosures Scheidemann makes is the fact that up until the last moment the Kaiser promised on his word that he would not flee. When he finally appeared at the border of Holland, the Dutch guards were astonished and confused.

Kaiser's Advice

"Prince Max's heart knocked in his breast as he went to the Kaiser under no circumstances to stir from Berlin. He said to His Majesty: 'We are faced with the necessity of making the most critical decisions.' The Kaiser replied, 'Ach nonsense! If you only do what I advised you to do everything will be all right.'"

"That fact is that days before the flight of the Kaiser, a Dutch Adjutant General was at General Headquarters without anybody there knowing what he was there for. I have been assured that the Dutch General van Heutz was sent on behalf of Queen Wilhelmine of Holland to Hindenburg, and afterwards negotiated with the Kaiser for a long time."

"The Kaiser finally took the Dutch General's hand and promised him not to flee. He said he would go back to Berlin, and leading his troops would put the revolution down."

"As the Kaiser, nevertheless on November ninth stood in supplication at the Dutch border, thumped and begged for admission, the Dutch government was astonished and confused in the extreme."

"Every probability speaks for the fact that the flight had been carefully prepared for days and doubtless the Kaiser had considered his plans to escape long before Prince Max of Baden asked him not to leave Berlin."

Scandal Leaks Out

The scandal leaked out in Sverdlovsk. Needing room, the director of the stone cutting and polishing factory, Kutikoff, sold 120 tons of partially cut red crystalline stones to the city of Sverdlovsk for $80.

The city needed paving bricks, and because it acquired the semi-precious stones at a bargain promptly used them for repaving one of the main streets. Hundreds of chunks of stone were stolen as they were piled up at the curb waiting to be laid.

PIPERS WHO WENT OVER WITH LEGION ARE HIT IN PARIS

By MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris.—Although nearly all of the American Legionnaires who attended the convention here last September have managed to get back home, two of their most picturesque members are still here. And they are still making a big hit. These two are the Hamm brothers, Billie and Emil, the "Cowboy Musicians" from Watsonville, Calif. Wearing their big sombrero and dressed in their vivid cowboy clothes, with riding boots and spurs, they have become familiar figures around the streets, but they always attract attention. Paris is blasé about strange visitors, for men come here from many lands and often wear weird garments, but the touch of western atmosphere about the Hamm brothers remains a novelty.

Billie plays an elongated cornet and Emil works musical wonders with a large white accordion which he straps over his shoulders. The pair was a knockout in the legion parade and now they are much in demand here as entertainers. They are called to all sorts of functions, have played to the war wounded in the Invalides, at swanky dinners and banquets and in popular cafes. Children follow them about, eyeing with astonishment the ugly but harmless "gat" that Billie wears in the approved cowboy fashion at his hip. At night, they are usually to be found at Johnny's American bar and restaurants near the Opera, which is popular with American war veterans now resident here.

Johnny of Rochester, N. Y., being a seasoned veteran himself. No puns are permissible about the family name of these cowboy musicians, for they play very well and within a few minutes can start everybody in a place dancing. They are both husky, and Emil particularly likes to engage in feats of strength, at which he is expert.

SOVIETS FACING CRISIS IN WAR WITH PEASANTS

TEX. DEMOCRATS STRUGGLE OVER 1928 LEADERS

Moscow.—A crisis in the 10-year-old war between peasants and the Communist regime is generally believed to be approaching. Unless by some unseen miracle a natural solution is found before many months, leaders of the Soviet government will find themselves confronted with the problem of either making further retrogressions from Socialist theory or fact serious economic difficulties. The first month of a gigantic nationwide campaign to purchase grain from the peasants has been sorely disappointing. Despite various inducements and all manner of threats short of actual confiscation, peasants are refusing to sell their grain, which has a legal monopoly of the grain trade. Passive Resistance And without wheat exports piling up credit abroad the whole program of building up Soviet industry with machinery and money from foreign countries is in danger of collapse. The passive resistance of 120,000,000 capitalistic lords of the land has never been greater than now. All the elevation of the tenth anniversary celebration has been displaced by gloom. The crux of the problem is that the peasants refuse to sell grain because they cannot buy any reasonable amount of manufactured goods with the money they might get. The grain trust has bought less than 500,000 tons of grain in January, or only 33 per cent of the average for the month in previous years. The purchases of grain for 1927 according to government statistics were 2,000,000 tons, or 23 per cent behind the preceding year. Grain exports made up one-half of all exports in the first quarter of previous years. Now they have sunk to less than one-quarter of the total exports for the first quarter of the fiscal year which began last October. The value of grain exports for this period decreased by $32,000,000. To make up at least a fraction of the deficit the exports of butter, eggs, cheese, and furs have been boosted to such a point that there is a severe shortage for home consumption. Butter and eggs have become scarce in Moscow. If obtainable at all butter costs more than $1 a pound. The exports of furs have also decreased. Oil shipments have increased but the value has decreased because of lower world market prices. Grain is the government's only hope. Peasants have stored away about 450,000,000 bushels and are sitting on top of the Soviet world.

Would Be Threat to United States In War Time; Business Here Faces Staff Fight.

Austin, Texas.—The first rumblings of the forthcoming fight to control the "fatful forty" Texas delegates to the 1928 Democratic national convention are being echoed in the announcements of prominent political leaders in the state. State Senator Tom Love, assistant secretary of the treasury, in the Wilson administration, and one of the leaders of the McAdoo forces in the latter's two attempts to secure his party's endorsement as presidential candidate, recently issued a statement to the effect that he will work to have a resolution introduced into every precinct convention in the state pledging the Texas delegation to oppose any "wet" for the nomination. While Love's statement declares that "any wet" is persona non grata to him, it is generally accepted as a way of saying he is "again" Governor Alfred E. Smith, who is believed to be "front running" the field in the Democratic presidential nomination race. The statement had the wholehearted endorsement of the Anti-Saloon League forces in the state, and members of the W. C. T. U. saw much to approve in it. Love Is Criticized There was considerable criticism of the Love statement, however, from many who sincerely believe that prohibition, on any candidate stand on it, should not be made the test of Democracy. Albert S. Burleson, of Austin, postmaster-general in the Wilson cabinet, is an outspoken champion of the Smith cause in Texas. Former United States Senator Joseph Eldon Bailey is very partial to the New York governor, and Thomas W. Gregory, attorney-general of the United States in the Wilson cabinet, is favorably disposed to the Smith candidacy. They are three pretty big men in Texas—men of the "Old Guard"—who have been temporarily shelved by the younger Democrats, headed by Governor Dan Moody. Bailey, in a recent speech, declared that those who would make prohibition a test of Democracy have no place in the party. The former senator called these people "purblind ignoramuses" and pointed out that "if the dregs have the right to bolt the party because of a wet nominee, the wets have the same right. Under such circumstances, it is useless to hold a convention at all."

EX-CZAR'S GOLD WATCH LOST FROM COLLECTION OF NOBILITY'S JEWELS Moscow.—The diamond and pearl-studded gold watch of Czar Alexander III, father of the murdered Czar Nicholas II, has been stolen from a state commission's shop where many precious jewels of the former nobility were on sale. The watch was valued at $13,000 for its gold and jewels alone. It was carried by Alexander when assassinated in Leningrad 35 years ago by two bombs hurled at his carriage. A dent on the outer casing marks the spot where one of the pieces of shrapnel hit the timepiece. Thieves gained entrance to the shop by sawing the bars of a rear window. They took nothing of historical value except the watch. Police inquire to the belief that the robbery was engineered by those who did not like to see Czarist possessions pass into the hands of anybody having the price.

New Electric Inventions Include Many Unusual Mechanical Devices

By REGIS CURRAN Pittsburgh.—Science, leaping forward in great strides, is recording new inventions and achievements whose very suggestion in the dim and distant past would have excited mirthful ridicule. In proof whereof there is offered the exhibits which the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company presented at the winter session of the National Association of Iron and Steel Engineers, attended by 250 experts from all parts of the United States. Some of the exhibits, developed by Westinghouse engineers, were: The "Televox"—a "mechanical man" which receives orders from the telephone and executed them automatically, doing such domestic duties as sweeping, dish-washing, etc. A "Photo-glow" tube—a device which controls electric currents by its sensitivity to light and shadow. Counting Shadows A "shadow-counter"—an instrument for tabulating attendance. A beam of light was centered on a delicate relay, extremely sensitive to shadows. A person interferred with the light beam, thus casting a shadow on the relay which then operated a meter similar to that on a street car which "rings-up" fares. The working principle of this invention revolves around the "photo-glow." A cobalt magnet—capable of lifting 30 times its own weight. A new electric locomotive—which eliminates the "third rail" and overhead trolley. An automatic rolling mill—a miniature rolling-mill was constructed to show how a billet of steel could be automatically carried through various process of rolling.

GERMAN-ENGLISH RACE TO START OCEAN AIR LINE

Berlin.—Germany and England are now engaged in an "air race" the object of which is to be first to open a transatlantic passenger airship line. In this race Germany hopes to beat England by four months. Two hundred experts are working overtime in the huge shed of the Zeppelin Airship Building Co., at Friedrichshafen, where the Los Angeles was built, putting the finishing touches to the first transatlantic passenger airship in history. They hope to complete it by May. The first of the five giant airships which England is now building for a transatlantic airline to America is not expected to be finished until late in August. The Zeppelin will open up a regular transatlantic passenger airline between Sevilla, Spain, and Buenos Aires, Argentina. The operating company, the "Sociedad Colon Transoceana Espanola," is an agency of the Spanish government, but the airship itself will remain German property, having been built largely out of the 2,200,000 marks raised in Germany by popular subscription for a national "Zeppelin-Eckner Gift." Financial Difficulties The construction of the airship was delayed because of financial difficulties but now Dr. Hugo Eckener, the directing genius of the Zeppelin plant, sees light. "The airship will be finished if I have to paw my last chair," he says. "Once our first trial flight is over, things will come our way." With this first trial flight, Dr. Eckener plans to spring a big surprise on the world. So confident is he of the performance of the ship that he plans to fly immediately to New York and from there perhaps right on to Buenos Aires, perhaps without stopping. In the English construction of giant airships Dr. Eckener sees, in fact, a vindication of the Zeppelin idea and a victory of the airship over the airplane in long distance transportation. One of Dr. Eckener's favorite plans is to make a trip around the world, which he thinks the airship could complete in thirteen or fourteen days, with only three stopovers in Vladivostok, Vancouver and Los Angeles. "I have already started preparations for this round-the-world flight," Dr. Eckener admits. The new Zeppelin the original plans for which have been changed a little, carries the number "H. Z. 127" is 235 meters long and 33.5 meters high. It will be driven by five reversible Maybach motors with a total of 2,650 horse power, will lift a total load of ten to fifteen tons, and will be able to fly some 20,000 kilometers, or half around the world, without stopping. Fuel Innovation The big innovation will be the fuel, which will be not heavy gasoline, which preempts a good part of the lifting capacity of every airship—but gas—glacio gas of the same specific weight as air, and therefore, as far as the airship is concerned without any weight. The ship will be able, therefore to carry that much more paying freight. On the possibility of supplying this gas in America will depend the final decision regarding the first transatlantic flight. The passengers will be housed in ten cabins with two beds each. A big central room will serve as saloon, dining room and dancing room. An electric kitchen will furnish hot food. The quarters of the crew, which will comprise about 28 men, are located in the interior of the big hull. A strong radio telephone is to keep the airship in constant tele-

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

CHARACTERS
PHILO VANCE
JOHN F. X. MARKHAM, District Attorney of New York
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY")
CLEVER, a man-about-town
KENNETH SPOTSWOOD, a manufacturer
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer
DR. AMBROSE LINQUIST, a fashionable neurologist
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator
HARRY SPREVELY, telephone operator
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau

THE STORY THUS FAR
The jewel case in the apartment of the New York City Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile hammering with a mallet. This leads Vance to the theory that Skeel did not commit the crime, but that he was in the closet while the stranger did his work. Vance attributes Clever's words that he had been in the night of the murder, Alys La Fosse tells him Mannix had been in her apartment from ten-thirty until two the night of the murder. Vance tests her by asking her to repeat the words she said and she admits Mannix did not come until after midnight, which was after Margaret Odell was strangled.

CHAPTER XXXI
"I LIKE you more and more," said Vance, and when she gave him her hand at parting he lifted it to his lips.
As we rode downtown Vance was thoughtful. We were nearly to the criminal courts building before he spoke.

"The primitive Alys rather appeals to me," he said. "She's much too good for the oleaginous Mannix. . . . Women are so shrewd—and so glib."
"A woman can read a man with almost marvellous insight; but, on the other hand, she is inexplicably blind when it comes to her man. Witness sweet Alys's faith in Mannix. He probably told her he was slaving at the office Monday night. Naturally, she doesn't believe it; but she knows—knows, mind you—that her Louie just couldn't have been concerned in the Canary's death."

"Ah, well, let us hope she's right and that Mannix is not apprehended—at least not until her new show is financed. . . . My word! If this being a detective involves many more reverses, I shall have to resign. Thank Heaven, though, the lady didn't attend the cinema Monday night!"

When we arrived at the district attorney's office we found Heath and Markham in consultation. Markham had a pad before him, several pages of which were covered with tabulated and annotated entries. A cloud of cigar smoke enveloped him. Heath sat facing him, his elbows on the table, his chin resting in his hands. He looked pugnacious but disconsolate.

"I'm going over the case with the sergeant," Markham explained, with a brief glance in our direction. "We're trying to get all the salient points down in some kind of order, to see if there are any connecting links we've overlooked. I've told the sergeant about the doctor's infatuation and his threats and of the failure of Traffic Officer Phipps to identify Clever. But the more we learn, the worse, apparently, the jumble grows."

"The truth is, we haven't any real evidence against anybody. There are suspicious circumstances connected with Skeel and Doctor Lindquist and Clever; and our interview with Mannix didn't precisely allay suspicions in his direction either."
"But when we come right down to it, what's the situation? We've got some finger-prints of Skeel, which might have been made late Monday afternoon. Doctor Lindquist goes berserk when we ask him where he was Monday night, and then offers us a weak alibi. He admits a fatherly interest in the girl, whereas he's really in love with her—a perfectly natural bit of mendacity.

"Clever lent his car to his brother and lied about it, so that I'd think he was in Bonton Monday at midnight. And Mannix gives us a number of shifty answers to our questions concerning his relationship with the girl. . . . Not a word about the Odell murder, taking a chair beside the sergeant. . . . "It may all prove devilish valuable if only you can put together properly. The difficulty, appears to me, is that certain parts of the puzzle are missing. Find 'em, and I'll warrant everything will fit beautifully—like a mosaic."

"Easy enough to say 'find 'em,'" grumbled Markham. "The trouble is to know where to look."
Heath relighted his dead cigar and made an impatient gesture.
"You can't get away from Skeel. He's the boy that did it and if it wasn't for Abe Rubin, I'd sweat the truth out of him. And by the way, Mr. Vance, he had his own private key to the Odell apartment, all right." He glanced at Markham hesitatingly. "I don't want to look as if I was criticizing, sir, but I got a feeling we're wasting our energies after these gentlemanly friends of Odell—Clever and Mannix and this here doctor."

"You may be right," Markham seemed inclined to agree with him. "However, I'd like to know why Lindquist acted the way he did."
"Well, that's a deep one," Heath unprompted. "If the doc was so far gone on Odell as to threaten to shoot her, and if he went off his head when you asked him to alibi himself, maybe he could tell us something. Why not record him, if you can't get anything out of him?"
"An excellent idea," chimed in Vance. Markham looked up sharply. Then he consulted his appointment book.

"I'm fairly free this afternoon, so suppose you bring him down here, Sergeant. Get a subpoena if you have to—only see that he comes. And make it as soon after lunch as you can."
He tapped on the desk irritably. "If I believe in anything else, I'm going to eliminate some of this human foetus that's cluttering up the case. And Lindquist is as good as any to start with. I'll either develop these various suspicious circumstances into something workable, or I'll root them up. Then we'll see where we stand."

Heath shook hands pessimistically and went out.
"Poor hapless man!" sighed Vance, looking after him. "He gives way to all the pangs and fury of despair."
"And so would you," snapped Markham, "if the newspapers were butchering you for a political holiday. By the way, weren't you to be a harbinger of glad tidings this noon, or something of the sort?"
"I believe I did hold out some such hope," Vance sat looking meditatively out of the window for several minutes. "Markham, this fellow Mannix lures me like a magnet. He irks and whirrets me. He irks my stumbers. He's the raven on my bust of Pallas. He plagues me like a banshee."

"Does this jermiad come under the head of tidings?" pursued Vance, "until I know where Louie the furrer was between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday. He was somewhere he should not have been. And you, Markham, must find out."

"Please make Mannix the second offensive in your assault upon the fotsam. He'll parley, with the right amount of pressure. Be brutal, old dear; let him think you suspect him of the throttling. Ask him about the far model—what's her name?—Fris's be— He stopped short and knit his brows. "My eye—oh, my eye! I wonder. . . . Yes, yes, Markham; you must question him about the fur model. Ask him when he saw her last; and try to look wise and mysterious when you're doing it."

"I believe that if I hadn't known you for fifteen years," Markham inspected him shrewdly; then shrugged his shoulders. "I'll have Mannix on the tapis when I'm through with Lindquist."
(Friday, September 1; 2 p. m.)

We lunched in the district attorney's private sanctum; and at two o'clock Doctor Lindquist was announced. Heath accompanied him, and, from the expression on the sergeant's face, it was plain he did not at all like his companion.

"What is the meaning of this new outrage?" he demanded coldly. "Is your prerogative to force a citizen to leave his private affairs in order to be bullied?"
"It's my duty to bring murderers to justice," replied Markham, with equal coldness. "And if any citizen considers that giving aid to a murderer is an outrage, that's his prerogative. If you have anything to fear by answering my questions, doctor, you are entitled to have your attorney present. Would you care to phone him to come here now and give you legal protection?"

Doctor Lindquist hesitated. "I need no legal protection, sir. Will you be good enough to tell me at once why I was brought here?"
"Certainly," to explain a few points which have been discovered regarding your relationship with Miss Odell, to elucidate, if you care to, your reasons for deceiving me, at our last conference, in regard to that relationship."
"You have, I infer, been prying unwarrantably into my private affairs. I had heard that such practices were not uncommon in Russia. . . ."

"If the prying was unwarranted, you can, Doctor Lindquist, easily convince me on that point; and whatever you may have learned concerning my relationship with Miss Odell, is true, is it not, that your interest in Miss Odell went somewhat beyond mere paternal affection?"
"Are not even a man's sacred sentiments respected by the police of this country?" There was insolent scorn in the doctor's tone.
"Under some conditions, yes; under others, no," Markham controlled his fury admirably. "You need not answer me, of course; but if you choose to be frank, you may possibly save yourself the humiliation of being questioned publicly by the People's attorney in a court of law."

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, Dearest:
I'm glad to know you enjoyed the jelly even if I do think you have too many late parties. It may be all right for you because you can sleep all morning, but it is fair to Alan? His work is sure to suffer for it. How do you think your father got ahead in business? Not by going to bed at all hours of the morning, I assure you. He had his full eight hours of undisturbed slumber every night, and don't you see he's a success? He kept on his feet it we'd tried to go around as much as we did before we were married.

But it seems to be that you modern girls want a beau and a husband rolled into one. You don't realize that a man can't keep up the pace he sets when he's courting you. And even if he thinks he is equal to it you ought to have sense enough, you girls, to know that a man who has a right to interfere with anyone else. Maybe you think that if you interfere with your husbands, even when you should, they will interfere with you, whether they should or not.

Let me ask you if you'd consider it interfering if you saw Alan walking out on thin ice and warned him? It's his life just the same whether he chooses to risk it that way or through neglecting his health, but I'll bet you'll say something about the thin ice.
And if you think he isn't neglecting his health by getting to bed late—getting up just in time to dress and gulp a cup of steaming coffee that maybe he's made himself or got in a restaurant, why you just try it and so.

And if Alan insists that you go out, you'll probably fly off the handle and tell him he has no consideration. And the last thing you'll think of, if he says he believes you're overdoing it, is that he's interfering. You'll call it loving thoughtfulness. It's all in the way it comes home to you, call it what you like.
You can tell Alan I'll send some more jelly and preserves and I want you to get up and make him a decent breakfast to eat with them.
With loving interference,
MOTHER.

Will it ever come to pass that a woman will feel entirely within her rights in making a proposal of marriage to a man?
We hear that some women do. Indeed I believe there have been sporadic cases of reversed courtship all through history. We may go still further and quote certain authorities as saying that women do and always have done the courting.
Very well, you may lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink. Courtship and marriage are two different things entirely. Girls may woo to their heart's content, but when it comes to saying, "Will you be mine?" had you a dollar for every girl who has taken advantage of leap year to date, it is safe to say that you would still lack enough to buy a ticket to the Folies.
Will the day of equal privilege ever come to pass? Until it does there isn't the slightest use of pretending that woman is man's equal, for upon that privilege hangs the entire structure of her independence.
We have set aside squeamish ideas of feminine propriety in other things, why not this? As long as woman was a chattel and a dependent it was perhaps natural that the male should use her prerogative of making the first advance toward union, or what he had reserved as his prerogative through centuries of custom.

But now when marriage has become a recognized partnership and a wife is less of a social and economic dependent every year of history, why not make the approach to a partnership possible to all parties concerned?
Such a change must be made by custom. It cannot be accomplished by an amendment to the Constitution. But one may make a fairly good guess that assembled guests at a wedding in 2023 will most likely be wondering whether John proposed to Mary or Mary to John.
And won't it be a great deal better than some of the social experiments we are hearing about every day?

BOBBED HAIR VIEWS

BRING DOWN WRATH ON DR. LANE'S HEAD
London.—"Bobbed hair fashions will not last much longer," said Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, famous English physician, and he brought a hornet's nest about his ears.
His argument was that nothing showed a woman's head to such advantage as her hair. Women, he said, could always see an advantage sooner or later. The tendency seemed to be towards the Greek style of hairdressing. That had never yet been surpassed for giving beauty to the womanly form.
But this argument seems to leave women unconvinced.
"As long as short skirts are popular, bobbed hair will be fashionable," says Lady Plunket, well known English beauty. "I do not think that long hair goes well with short skirts, although I admit there are exceptional cases."
"I do not think we shall ever go back, because men like bobbed hair, which also has the merit of being convenient," says Viola Tree.
"Moreover there is an aesthetic reason. The practice of bobbing the hair has never happened before in history. Very few great beauties do their hair to amuse themselves and it is obvious that it makes women look younger. It takes ten years off the woman of forty."

On the other hand, Lady Beauchamp agrees with Sir Arbuthnot Lane. "A woman's head is of a different shape from that of a man, and the growing of the hair long is necessary if the head characteristics of the woman are to be preserved. It is true that many find that bobbed hair suits them better, but many would be glad to get back to long hair."

WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

Thomas Edison's 81st birthday meant to him, as much as anything else, that he could forget his "dilettante" for the day and have strawberries for luncheon. Into what simple pleasures does life pass? Well, itself for even the mightiest! Cots, bed, warmth, light, good food, and an occasional new garment are about the sum total of the average human being's needs and wants. It is significant to note, too, that the wiser and greater the human being, the simpler are his wants.

Leap Year Bric.
The oldest Leap Year bride is probably Mrs. Joseph W. Curl, 74, of Bloomfield, Iowa, who admits she proposed to Mr. Curl, aged 62, when she heard of his loveliness. She would probably deny that she "came right out" and asked for his hand in matrimony, but she told him she was lonesome, too, and so they were married.
Here is true pioneering. It's one thing for a 1923 model of femininity to "get her man" for she lives in an age which is thinking these things out and asks, "why not?" But it is something quite different for a woman born in an age which just took it for granted that man should both propose and dispose to take marital and romantic matters into her own hands.

Doesn't she which doesn't match distress you? Do you need a hole in your stocking when it's little? Would you like to be presented at court? Just three samples questions from the "How to Choose a Husband" list in that entertaining new volume "Marriage Made Easy," by Webster and Hopkins. If you fuss about unmatched china, if you like the superficialities of life, such as court presentations, and are so exact and careful that you mend little sock holes, you are advised to pick a husband with corresponding characteristics.

Like Kissing?
The "How to Choose a Wife" list of questions includes such dandies as these: "Do you think women should be allowed in the smoking-car? Do you like to be kissed? Do you think a woman should have her husband's consent before she cuts her hair?"
This book is wonderful party stuff. It enlivens the duller crowd.

CANNOT BLAME DEATH RATE ON FLIMSY DRESSES

Paris.—Modern clothes aren't killing off the women, according to the dressmakers on the rue de la Paix. Short skirts have not so much to do with the colds and flimsy dresses have increased the death-rate from pulmonary diseases since 1915, as American doctors have recently declared.
"The figures, produced by the American doctors prove nothing," says the head of the fashion houses, "because short skirts were already having great success at this time. If American women are more susceptible to tuberculosis now than before this period, they must seek other reasons than this—very likely those of the social order."
"Besides," he continues, "women can wear light frocks but warm underclothing and warm coats and furs when she goes out into the cold."
"And as for short skirts—ono must be a hard-headed Puritan inclined to imagine that an inch or two off near the knee would affect the fair wearer's lungs."

Paris never said they should be worn in the streets. Look at the fashion papers of the Second Empire and you will find much more exaggerated styles and certainly women did not die at a faster rate during this period.
"Anyway," he concluded, "doctors know very little about dress making—especially American ones."

Endeavoring to corner the "Suicide Market" has led to the arrest of Emile and Pierre Couderc, aged respectively 19 and 21.
Some sixty years ago the boys' aunt's father committed suicide. He had travelled much in the Orient and had brought back with him a peculiar laquered box containing a white powder. It was with this powder that he committed suicide. Death was instantaneous and without suffering.

The aunt, Madame Pierre, was ten years old at the time. The box was left among the effects, still containing a large quantity of the fatal powder. Several weeks ago, Mme. Pierre, knowing its quality, tried the powder out on two old dogs that were nearing the end of their days. It worked perfectly. The dogs died instantly and without pain.

The two brothers, Emile and Pierre, were present at this demonstration. Shortly after the poisoning of the dogs, thieves broke into

Mme. Pierre's home and stole the box of poison.
Police were called in. Mme. Pierre could not understand why anyone should steal such virulent poison. Neither could the police.
Reports reached detective headquarters of the peculiar actions of the two young boys. Men were sent out on the case. Emile and Pierre were arrested.

Questioned they confessed to the robbery, explaining that they were about to form a suicide trust.
The news that Auguste Escoffier, the famous cook of a king and king of all French cooks, had been made an Officer of the Legion of Honour, came to the well-known chef when he was celebrating his eighty-third birthday.

From the moment he began his cooking under the Second Empire at the celebrated Moulin Rouge in the Champs Elysees, he fed kings, princes and millionaires, as well as those who would like good eating. In 1885 he became chef at the celebrated Maire restaurant and then left for the Riviera where his reputation spread as fast as butter over some of his hot cakes. In 1893 he invented his famous "Pêche M.Us" in honor of the great songbird who came here to sing.

Then London snatched him away from France and he began preparing his famous dinners at the Savoy and later at the Carlton. He soon taught the E. High to eat frogs' legs and it was only a short time before they ate "Nymphes a l'Aurore" with as much relish as their French cousins.
A few years before the war, Emperor Wilhelm ordered him to organize the great dinners which were to be given for the inauguration of the largest ship on the Hamburg line. Escoffier accepted on one condition—that all the personnel under his orders be Frenchmen, and that the china and glassware be French as well.

The Kaiser granted this concession and at the end of the banquet invited the chef to his table for a talk.
Miss Grace Moore from Tennessee crashed into stardom in Metropolitan opera the other night. The queer part of that is that she weighs only 120 pounds.

Daily Health Service

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL
by World Famed Authority

DOCTOR STUDIES TEETH OF AFRICAN NATIVES
BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIM
Editor of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine
There is a common superstition that negroes and the savage tribes of Africa invariably have sound pearly white teeth, and this in spite of the fact that they pay no special attention to their diet or to the care of the teeth. Now Dr. A. T. Till provides the results of an investigation into the dental condition of children in South Swaziland in Africa. Only 25 per cent of the children were found to be free from carious teeth.
The diets of these children were based principally on maize, milk, butter and eggs were seldom eaten. Meat was taken only irregularly and then in large amounts. The nursing women of the tribe take no milk, because of a superstition that the drinking of milk prevents the mother from being able to nurse her child. An exactly contrary opinion is held by most white mothers.
In South Swaziland the mother nurses her baby from 18 to 24 months, and begins to feed it sour mealie-meal porridge from as early an age as two or three weeks.

Today the scientific evidence available indicates that the pregnant mother should have diet rich in vitamins and calcifying substances. The diets of the African mothers and children were poor in vitamins and high in cereals, which is full of anti-calcific substance.
On the other hand the African children have a great deal of sunshine which aids the formation of vitamins in their bodies. They wear little clothing and the skin is constantly exposed freely to the sun's rays.
It is customary among the tribes of South Swaziland to rinse the mouths with water after meals, rubbing the teeth and gums with the fingers. Children are given stones and bones to bite on as exercise for the teeth and gums. Undoubtedly the presence of caries in the children and the early decay of many teeth are due to the bad diet, the pregnant mother and the children indulging in.
Dr. Till noted that in every case where a child had no decaying teeth, it was also free from signs of infected tonsils, adenoids or rickets. Neither there any records that it had ever suffered rheumatic symptoms.
The heights and weights of all of the children studied were noted and the children with decaying teeth were found under weight in more instances than those free from this disturbance.
Mummies have been found with gold-filled teeth.

Flashy and deceptive passwork enabled the Rec basketball team to polish off Watertown at the school street Rec gym Saturday night by the score of 42 to 29. In the preliminary game, the Rec Girls defeated the Aetna Fire quintet, 13 to 9.

Manager Ben Clune announced today that the Rec Five will oppose the crack Knights of Lithuania of Hartford here next Saturday night. The Knights have won something like twenty games in a row and hold a verdict over the Community Club in addition to heading the local defense in Valley League. "Cap" Bissell will be in the Rec lineup for this game as will Ty Holland.

Manchester played rings around its opponents in the first half holding them to three field goals and scoring eleven buckets itself. The local defense was airtight and the visitors scored only from mid-floor. Manchester's halftime advantage was 25 to 9 and in the second half the teams played an even ten.

Elmo Mantell led Manchester in scoring but three others, Norris, Strange and Farr, tallied three times. Vic Radevich was the outstanding star for Watertown. The Torrington boy showed a mean eye for the hoop from long range. Briggs and McCleary also went big.

In the preliminary game, the Rec Girls scored a surprise victory over the Aetna Fire girls of Hartford. The score was 13 to 9. Marjorie Finnegan was the star with nine points, three from the field and three from the foul line. The teams were deadlocked at five all the first half. The summary:

The Commercial Bowling League comes to a conclusion tomorrow night when all eight teams swing into action. The pennant will be settled when the two leading teams clash. The Manchester Construction Company is leading by three points over Watkins Brothers who have to beat them all three games to win the title. It will be impossible to tie the standing making a play-off necessary. One victory will give the contractors the pennant.

Five postponed games to be played and some of these will probably be run off after the final scheduled games tomorrow night. However, in the case of teams who cannot bowl two matches tomorrow night, a reasonable time will be allowed. Failure to play off the games will result in forfeit of the five dollar fee which is otherwise returnable. Keiths have three matches to roll in addition to the one scheduled for tomorrow. They have to meet the High school faculty, Trade school faculty and Trust Company. The latter is a postponed match with the Atlantic & Pacific which also has a match to roll with Manchester Plumbing & Supply. League officials hope that all teams will do their utmost to see that the league winds up in a successful manner.

Axel Anderson leads the individual averages with a mark of 102.31 against 102.31 Bill Wiganowski. Joe Sargent is third with 100.31. All the other averages are below a hundred. Wiganowski and Anderson are tied for high single honors with a score of 133. Wiganowski has the high three string, 344. Watkins Brothers hold the high team string, 520.

Fighter—Aviator

He's Our Old Friend, Young Stribling, Who Soon Will Fly to Bouts.

Young Stribling, Atlanta heavy weight, pulled a new one several years ago when he toured the country in an auto van, meeting corners at all the crossroads. Keeping abreast of the times, he has now become an aviator and has bought a plane to keep his appointments.

Stribling hasn't been mentioned much in Tex Rickard's heavyweight eliminations but he attracted considerable notice recently when he knocked out Martin Burke in two seconds of the first round.

Twenty-Four Entries For Pool Tournament

Tomorrow's Last Time to Enter So Do So Today; Play Starts Thursday Night at Rec; Hundred Point Elimination Matches.

Local Sport Chatter

Now that the one-man town bowling championship has become history, Howard Murphy says that he and "Lefty" Curtis will take on any two men the north end can get together for fun, money or marbles, preferably the former.

"Bodo" Jarvis, who has entered the town championship pool tournament, formed by The Herald, secured a run of 100 balls in a friendly game with "Ducker" Carlson, the other night at the West Side Rec.

The West Side Rec basketball team will play the Rovers of Glastonbury a return game at the School Street Rec gym tomorrow evening. Manchester won the last game in Glastonbury.

Jack Fiedler says Bobby Brennan is anxious to bowl Herb Stevenson or any side bet he wishes with all rules observed. This includes foul line and lobbing the ball.

The Clerical bowling team of The Riverside League will roll a match in Thompsonville tonight with the town team. In the preliminary Conran's Girls will meet the Thompsonville girls. The following girls will make the trip: Ruth Peterson, Helen Gustafson, Alice Ponticello, Katheryn Turek, and Laura Mathison. A return match will be rolled at Conran's Friday night.

The latest dope in basketballdom is that Jim Quish, who was dropped by the Rec Five has been signed by the Community Club Quish is one of the hardest working players who ever owned a uniform and he ought to be a big help to Jerry Fay.

Herb Angell, former local basketball player, passed the Central Board examination for basketball officiating held in the New Britain Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon. Angell correctly answered 37 out of forty questions. He has many friends here who will be glad to learn of his success. Angell has been handling the Rec, Community and Wapping games here.

Mary Drew Signs With Local Team

The Community Girls' basketball team has been greatly strengthened by the addition of Miss Mary Drew. Announcement to this effect was made today by Coach Jerry Fay who is still angling after the state championship. Mary Drew is one of the cleverest basketball players in the state barring none. She is a student at Arnold's College New Haven and is well known through her work as playground director here last summer.

Miss Drew played center on the Arnold's Collegians which beat the Community Girls week before last in a great battle. She will play center for the Community Girls, Miriam Welles, scoring ace of the team, going back to guard. Miss Drew will be in the lineup against the Meriden St. Stanislaus who play a return game here Wednesday night at the Harding gym in the preliminary to the Community Club Hartford Yankee game. The local teams will practice tomorrow night at the K. of C. hall, the girls at 7 o'clock and the boys at 8 o'clock.

The Rec basketball team will practice from 7 to 8 tomorrow night and all members must report.

CURTIS' 142 DEFEATS GAINES' PETS 2 PINS

"Lefty" Curtis' 142 proved to be a life-saver in the bowling match between Ed Gaines' Pets of Hartford and Howard Murphy's Aces at the Community Club Saturday night. Manchester won total pinfall by two pins winning only one game. The visiting team was practically a pick of Hartford.

Manchester High got back into the win column Saturday night by scoring a 28 to 16 victory over Middletown High on the latter's floor.

The contest was a postponed affair caused by the recent small-pox epidemic. In the preliminary game, Manchester's second team won 33 to 26.

The victory was the seventh of the season for the local variety team which has been defeated six times. Only four more games remain on the schedule. West Hartford plays here Friday. Saturday the locals travel to New Haven to meet Hillhouse High. The other two games are with Middletown and Willimantic. The latter is the only other real important game on the season's slate.

Manchester and Middletown played an even terms the first quarter Saturday which ended 5 to 5 and the locals led by only two points at halftime, 13 to 11. The victory was really recorded in the second half during which Middletown was held to five points while Manchester scored fifteen. "Doc" Keeney sunk four field goals in the second half. Middletown scored only one therein lies the story of the game. Manchester's second-half defense proved Middletown's downfall.

 Belgrade, Feb. 20.—Yugoslavia was plunged into a new Cabinet crisis today after the ministry of Premier Vukitchevitch had been in power only eight hours.
 Premier Vukitchevitch handed his resignation to King Alexander after he had quarreled with members of the Coalition Cabinet over questions of policy.
 It is understood that King Alexander threatened to appoint an army general premier unless the present government quarrel is patched up within a fortnight.

SEEK LAUDER RECORDS FOR LIGHTHOUSE MEN
 "The Mainstay," organ of the Seaman's church institute of Newport, received this week by officials at St. Mary's Episcopal church, carries an appeal for Harry Lauder photograph records to be given to those men who spend their time on the lightships off the American coast.
 These records may be sent direct to the Institute in Newport, addressed to Rev. W. Magoun, superintendent. Rev. Magoun asks those who have no Lauder records but wish to help out to send a dollar or more to the institute.
 Old Magazines, of which Manchester people have many, are also appreciated by the institute. Many of these magazines go all over the world through exchange with various ships that pass each other on the high seas.

MOTORCYCLE DEALER PLANS 'INDIAN DAY'
 In accordance with the yearly custom of celebrating "Indian Day" as well as Washington's Birthday, at the same time, Indian Dealers throughout the country will again hold open house in their establishments on February 22nd. It will be a day in honor of both the "Father of our Country" and the American Motorcycle Industry's twenty seventh year of popularity and successful growth.
 Stavinsky Bros. of 24 Birch street, Indian Dealers, asserts that the local establishment will be elaborately decorated for the occasion and open to guests from early in the morning till late in the evening. Indian's complete line of 1923 models will be on display which range from a single cylinder model to the four cylinder new Indian Ace. This model together with the Indian Armored Motorcycle and the Indian Fire Patrol, a miniature fire engine, was displayed at the recent National Motorcycle, Bicycle and Accessory Show held in Madison Square Garden, New York city.
 Besides holding open house, the local firm will distribute useful souvenirs to its guests, and in the evening there will be entertainment to train and trolley.
 Music is being furnished this year by Lieut. Bill Tassilo's augmented Foot Guard concert orchestra. The great drill shed of the army was beautifully decorated for the show, the top being transformed into a vast blue "sky" with a huge cut glass revolving ball in the center, lit by hundreds of electric lights. Judging from the crowds at Saturday's show, the 50,000 total attendance aimed at by the show committee will be easily accomplished. While the formal opening of the show did not take place until 8 o'clock Saturday evening, the doors were really opened at 1 p. m. and the interested visitors flocked in immediately. For most aspects of the show was the dealers' dinner at the Hartford Club at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, the invited guests including the governor, mayor of Hartford, Adjutant General George M. Cole, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoelckel and many other notables.
 Commenting on the contrast to the first auto show, Fred W. Dart, pioneer automobile man of Hartford, and former president of the dealers' association said that only 47 cars were exhibited at Hartford's first show held in the Old Palace Garage on Trumbull street. Then the show moved to the Trav-down hall in Main street, since torn down, finally moving to Foot Guard Hall and to the State Armory, where there is some 50,000 square feet of floor space. Two hundred beautiful 1923 models occupy the vast floor space this year. They are apparently the very last word in automobiles. Luxury is pronounced feature of the latest model motor vehicle, with a strong tendency to colors.
 This year's show opens daily at 1 p. m. with the exception of Washington's Birthday when it opens at 10 a. m. the closing hour is 10:30 p. m. The admission is fifty cents.

HARTFORD AUTO SHOW OPENS WITH 'BANG'
 Hartford, Feb. 20.—Hartford's twenty-first annual automobile show opened with a bang Saturday afternoon, and continues all this week. Thousands of people around the state attended the opening and appeared to enjoy it. In addition to the cars shown special attention has been given by the show committee of the Hartford Automobile Club, an association to the comfort of the guests, lounges being provided, adequate parking space being given around the armory and the location being specially favorable for out of town guests, the club of Broad street and Capitol avenue, not far from the main arteries of traffic and also convenient to train and trolley.
 Music is being furnished this year by Lieut. Bill Tassilo's augmented Foot Guard concert orchestra. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: 216) The Pike
 Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

 The Pike, found in the northern waters of three continents, is a grim terror. The fish reaches four or five feet in length, with a weight of seventy to a hundred pounds, according to legend, but certainly fifty pounds. With its weight are associated great power, huge teeth in the lower jaw, and others in the upper part of the mouth which curve backward.
 Fishermen often have found two pike battling, mouth to mouth. The victor has been known to swallow its adversary alive.
 Likely as not a pike's prey may be its own young. It may be a rat or water hen or a young salmon going seaward. One was seen to seize a wild duck, then a wood pigeon which fell into the water after being shot by a hunter. Stories about pike slaying dogs and devouring them are not exaggerated. The muskellunge is a cousin of the pike.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"How will men look in the future?" asks a writer. It all depends on how the women dress. That school-girl complexion is great stuff if you get it on both cheeks at the same elevation. Wife: "It is possible to cut some people by ignoring them completely." Husband: "That is so, and I wish I could cut the lawn that way." To think correctly is of greater value than to be considered smart. It takes a rough sea to tell the good sailors from the bad. She—Are you in favor of clubs for women? He—Yes, if kindness has no effect. When a locomotive whistles for a grade crossing, it is best to believe all you hear. LETTER GOLF

CAN YOU HONK A HORN?

It doesn't take long for some people to make the HORN HONK when the view on the sidewalk is... right. In letter golf, however, according to the editor's count, it takes five strokes. Perhaps you can beat the solution printed on another page.

THE RULES.

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2—You can change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

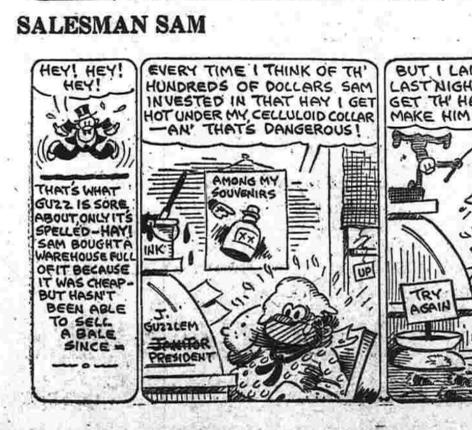

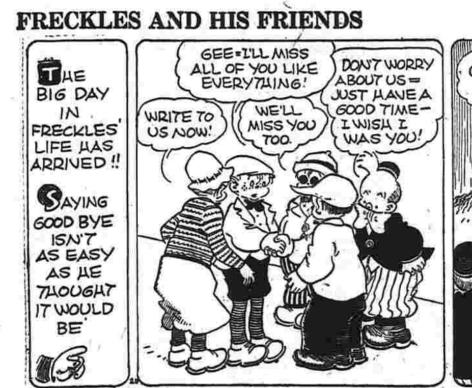

WASHINGTON TUBBS II

THE TINYMITES

"Oh, my," yelled Scouty, "This is said. Poor Clowny may be hurt real bad. He's flying high up in the air. His fire blew right out. We'd better gather all around to get him when he hits the ground. Say, when he lands I'll bet he won't know what it's all about. The tires that they rode then stopped, and out the Tines quickly flopped. They stood right close together and watched Clowny, still in the air. "My goodness but that blast was strong to make him stay in the air so long," said Scouty. "I am glad that I am not the one up there." Then Copy cried, "Ah, see him now! He's stopped his upward flight somehow. He's coming down. Oh, mercy me, I wonder where he'll land. We'd better all stand back a bit to make sure we won't be hit." The bunch agreed, and soon they found a real safe place to stand. Then Clowny landed with a thump, which might have been an awful bump, but, shucks, it didn't hurt him. He began to laugh out loud. He hit the ground kerplunk, and then bounced right back in the air again. This really looked quite funny, and it sure amazed the crowd. Again he hit. Again he rose. It looked like real fun, goodness knows. Then Clowny cried, "Oh, this is great! A brand new sort of treat. I know what makes me bounce this way. It's Rubber Town we've reached today, and I am having all this fun upon a rubber street." "Oh, gee, he's right," wee Carpy cried. "I think that same trick should be tried by all of us. Come on, let's jump and see if we will rise." So, all the Tines jumped around and soon began to gally bound. They laughed so hard it almost brought the teardrops to their eyes. (The Tinymites meet the king of Rubber Land in the next story.)

Who Sells The Best Meat?
There are 29 meat markets in town and every last one of those butchers will admit, without argument, that his meat is every bit as good, if not a little better than what the other fellows sell. So it's up to you.
Same thing about shoes. Every one of the dozen shoe dealers is willing to tell you why his particular line is the best.
Still we are rooting strong for WALK-OVERS.

ITALIANS AND NATIVES IN BLOODY BATTLE
Tripoli, Feb. 20.—Several hundred native troops were killed or wounded in an engagement which culminated today with the occupation of Oasis Jofra by Italian cavalry.
About 800 rifles were captured by the Italian troops, who were led by the Meharists of the Duke of Pula.
Jofra was taken after General Graziosi had seized Soma, Hon, and other small towns in the vicinity ruled by Adel Gellil Selamassar. Italy had withdrawn from Jofra thirteen years ago.
A recent estimate credits Great Britain with 6,000,000 crystals.
