

HOOVER'S STRENGTH IS SPREAD OVER U. S.

That Is Strongest Card Held By Cabinet Candidate; It Is Hoover Against the Field, Politicians Declare.

Washington, March 12.—Three months from today the Republican national convention meets in Kansas City to nominate a candidate for the presidency.

At this stage, with twelve weeks to go and before a single primary has afforded an insight into the electoral mind, it is conceded Hoover against the field, with many Republican leaders asking themselves in all seriousness: "Can Hoover be stopped?"

The Hoover handlers say no. But the anti-Hoover people, which includes the adherents of every other candidate in the list—Lowden, Dawes, Curtis, Watson, Willis, have a definite answer. They willingly concede that at this early stage the lead which the Cabinet candidate has built up through one of the most efficient organizations on record is a commanding one, but they say that Hoover can be stopped and will be stopped at Kansas City. The events of the next eight or ten weeks may reveal who is wrong.

Hoover Claims
A minimum of 400 votes on the first ballot at Kansas City was claimed today by the Hoover managers, and they cited known facts and figures and commitments to back up their claim. A total of 545 is necessary to nominate. While the 400 was claimed as a minimum, it was admitted at the same time that the maximum, as of today is not much if any greater than that.

The greatest comfort which the Hoover managers have is that their tables of potential strength show votes from every corner of the country—from Maine to California, and from Michigan to the southern states that line the gulf.

Lowden's Strength
In contrast, they point to the more sectionalized strength of ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden, the foremost and strongest candidate that has appeared to challenge the progress of the Hoover movement.

Lowden's delegate strength, as of today, they figure at roughly 200 in the initial balloting, nearly all of which comes from the insurgent and peevish grain belt, from Illinois to the Dakotas. The Lowden people do not claim much more than that at this stage.

In the background is the Dawes candidacy, unnamed and apparently impossible, and yet of such menacing potentialities that the Hoover backers see it lurking in every shadow. If, as the anti-Hoover people claim, Hoover can be stopped at Kansas City, then the Dawes candidacy once becomes overshadowing and all-almost for the Hoover managers say if their candidate can be stopped Lowden can also be counted out.

Big Question Mark
The biggest question mark today.

BABY FACE BANDIT READY FOR 'CHAIR'

To Die Shortly Before Midnight For Killing Store-keeper During a Holdup.

Boston, March 12.—His father and mother having paid their last visit to him in his cell in the death tier in state's prison, Herbert Gleason, 21-year-old slayer of James Monagle, Medford store keeper, was preparing to die today. He will go to the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight.

Gleason was still cheerful and spent the greater part of yesterday in writing and re-writing a letter that he wishes the newspapers of the city to publish after his death.

His Last Letter
The contents of the letter were not divulged but it is understood that in the epistle, the youthful slayer asks that boys take a lesson of bad companionship from his present plight.

The condemned youth will receive the last rites of the Roman Catholic church shortly before his death and will march to the electric chair from the death cell at the side of Rev. Fr. Michael J. Murphy, chaplain at state prison. He will receive the holy viaticum about 11:30 this evening and will probably spend the remaining hour of his life in meditation or conversation with Father Murphy.

OWNERS BLAMED FOR SUFFERING IN COAL FIELD

Senate's Report Replete With Incidents of Brutal Treatment, Near Starvation, Improper Housing.

Washington, March 12.—A story of abject poverty and suffering among thousands of victims of the soft coal strike was spread on the records of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee today in a report submitted by the special committee which inspected the mining fields.

The document as a whole constituted an indictment of operators for permitting what was termed such "un-American" conditions to continue.

The report was replete with incidents of brutal treatment of Union strikers by private coal and iron police. It also described non-union camps which were "hardly fit to house beasts, much less human beings," and condemned the activities of Communists and other radicals who are preaching to strikers "the destruction of the government itself."

Serious Conditions.
"Your committee believes the conditions existing in the Pittsburgh district and other coal fields in the United States are of a most serious nature and dangerous to the best interest of our citizenship," said the report.

"Your committee found no starvation in the Pittsburgh district, yet evidence on every hand was that the food was none too plentiful and was of necessity the cheapest that could be purchased.

"Your committee was impressed with the courage and determination of the miners to stand up for what they believed was their due—an American wage making possible an American standard of living.

One of the most serious conditions the committee found was the interference of the coal and iron police at post offices located at coal mines on the company property, usually in connection with its office and store.

Victims of Police.
"Everywhere your committee visited they found victims of the coal and iron police who had been beaten up and were still carrying scars on their faces and the head from the rough treatment they had received. Your committee found more or less evidence of boot-

ONE MAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Hartford Resident Tries to Outdistance Train at Wallingford Crossing.

Wallingford, Conn., March 12.—L. I. Atwood, of 658 Farmington avenue, Hartford, was instantly killed here today when a south-bound New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad freight train struck and demolished his automobile at the Ward street crossing.

Miss Helen Bowers, of 55 Tremont street, Hartford, jumped from Atwood's car as she saw the impending disaster, and escaped unhurt.

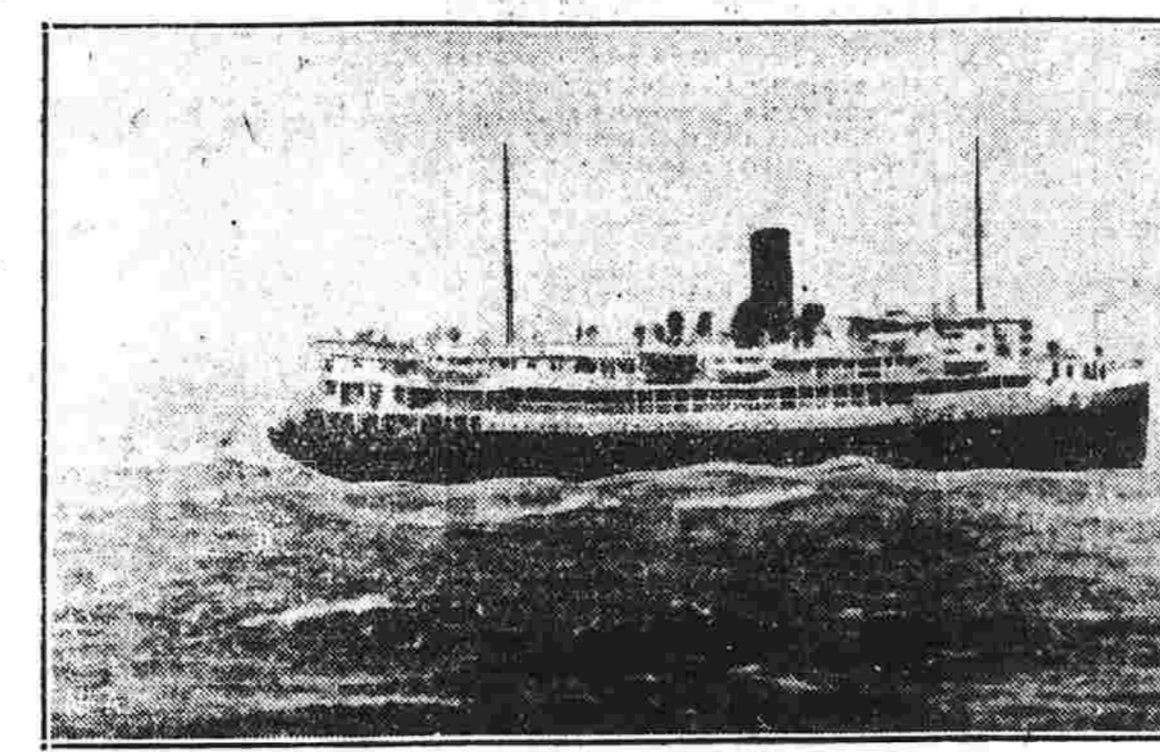

Driver Bewildered
By a strange circumstance the actual collision between train and automobile occurred forty feet south of the crossing. Atwood probably realizing his situation, appears to have been completely bewildered. He swung his machine around so that it headed south on the railroad tracks and seemed to be making an effort to outdistance the train. The train pursued the automobile for some forty feet and crashed into the rear.

Girl Jumped
Meanwhile Miss Bowers jumped from the car in which she was riding, and rolled over and over in a nearby field. Dazed and shaken by her fall she nevertheless was reported as without injuries after a physician examined her.

The accident occurred at 3:55 a. m. The freight was bound from Springfield to New Haven. Atwood was driving south from Hartford.

Lindbergh Has Collected Nearly Million Dollars

And This Despite the Fact That He Has Spurned Many Times That—How He Earned Money.

Washington, March 12.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, still under 27, has already amassed close to his first million.

The tow-headed boy who began his climb to fame and fortune in a mail plane at two-hundred-and-a-half months, has earned more in a year than most people accumulate in a lifetime.

All this he has accomplished without in any way forsaking the calling which made him one of the world's greatest heroes of all time.

Although he is known to have smoked one cigarette, he has never indorsed any brand. He does not favor any particular style of clothing or golf balls and he wears "no man's collar."

Spurns Millions
Millions in vaudeville contracts have been spurned with a snap of his fingers, and millions more in movie royalties have been left for those who go in for that sort of thing. Harassed almost to distraction by airplane manufacturers, inventors and operators who have offered millions to have him sit at their own glass-top desks, he has persisted in his determination never to capitalize his name for mere personal financial gain. Lately, he has never been able to rid himself of the Midas touch thrust upon him by Paris last May. He has run away from more millions than any man in history. But he has not been able to remain as humble in the records of the treasury department as in his own dashing spirit.

Most of Lindbergh's fortune, which has conceeded about him at the average rate of $100,000 a month.

40 PERSONS DEAD IN BIG LANDSLIDE

Between 200 and 300 Injured When Earth Falls on City of Santos, Brazil.

Santos, Brazil, March 12.—While an army of workers labored feverishly today clearing away the debris of Saturday's landslide from the peak of Monte Serrat, the authorities were checking up on the casualties. The death list is put at about 40, but others are missing and their fate is not yet known. Between 200 and 300 persons were injured.

Work All Night
All night long beneath the glare of searchlights the work of tearing away the wreckage went forward in hope of saving survivors who were pinned beneath their shattered homes.

Soldiers, policemen, firemen, volunteers and laborers from nearby coffee plantations are attacking the mountain of earth and stone which roared down the slopes of the mountain upon the city with the force of a tidal wave and the thunder of a mighty artillery salvo.

Private homes have been turned into hospitals. Physicians and medical supplies have been sent on special trains from Sao Paulo.

Guilfoyle Trial
Hartford, Conn., March 12.—Harold N. Guilfoyle, federal veterinarian, may be ready to face Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in Superior Court here tomorrow for a plea in the charge of first degree murder which was handed down by a Grand Jury here last week. Guilfoyle is to be examined this afternoon to determine his exact condition, and physicians representing both the state and Guilfoyle himself will then decide whether he is now physically able to go to court.

NAB TWO SWINDLERS
Atlantic City, N. J., March 12.—After a chase lasting more than six months, two men, alleged by the police to be international stock swindlers, were under arrest here today. They said they were Milton Janis, 29, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Ira Janis, 32, his brother of New York City.

The men were arrested here on a United States federal warrant, issued at the request of Edward H. Lockwood, of New York City, counsel for the British consul general in New York City, acting for the Canadian government. The brothers are said to have defrauded persons in many sections of the United States and Canada of $750,000 during the last five years.

Farmer Chases Coast Guardsman With Rifle and Is Killed By the Latter.
Rochester, N. H., March 12.—Moonshine and an argument over a dog were the reasons given today by County Attorney Bert R. Cooper for the fatal shooting of William Thurston, local farmer, by George Condon, member of the Coast Guard patrol of Portsmouth. Condon and his companion Rodney Eaton, of Dover, were lodged in the county jail here. Condon faced a first degree murder charge and Eaton with being an accessory. The automobile driven by Condon broke down in front of the Thurston farmhouse. A dog started barking, according to Eaton. Condon shot the dog.

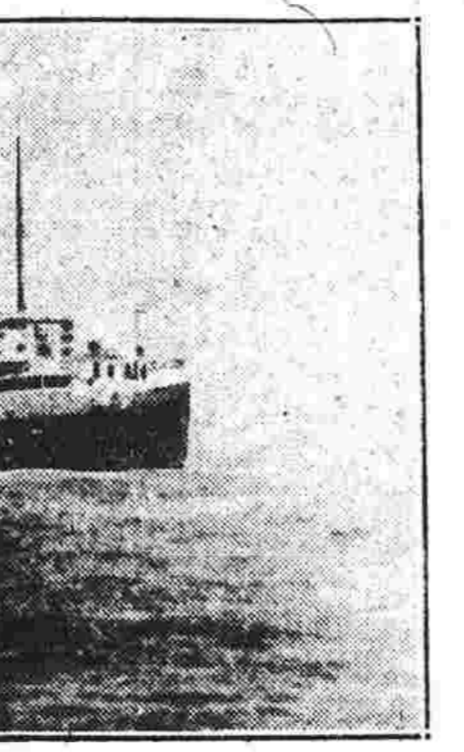

Chase Autoists
Condon and Eaton then drove away. Young Thurston sounded an alarm and a number of men gave chase. Young Thurston took his rifle and shot the dog.

The party caught up with the two men and Condon fired, killing the man almost instantly, according to the prosecutor. Condon then fled to the woods.

A posse formed by Thurston's father, was soon searching for him and he was captured at gun point.

That Condon thought the young farmer was going to kill him with the rifle and that he shot in "self-defense" was before the other could raise the rifle was the defense offered for Condon.

Robert E. Lee Aground Off Plymouth, Will Be a Total Wreck, Experts Report.

Plymouth, Mass., March 12.—Salvage operations at the scene of the wreck of the Boston to New York liner Robert E. Lee were under way today with marine experts predicting that the steamship would be a total loss.

Meanwhile, government steamboat officials were preparing to launch an investigation of the grounding of the Robert E. Lee on the Mary Ann rocks, a mile and a half off Manomet Point.

Captain Harland W. Robinson, who was in command of the Eastern steamship liner during the gale and snow on the evening of last Friday, declared that "undoubtedly the accident was caused by a faulty compass due to severe weather conditions and the snow inside the pilot house."

BULLS, BEARS BATTLE OVER RADIO STOCK

Terrific Excitement on Floor Of Stock Exchange as Fortunes Are Won and Lost—Furious Trading.

New York, March 12.—Bulls and Bears staged another dramatic battle in Wall street today with Radio Corporation stock the focal point. Radio jumped 7 1/2 points to 128 within an hour after the market opened but the Bears quickly countered and, amid furious trading, hammered the price down 4 1/2 points to 123 1/2.

Radio, General Motors and United States Steel, were the star performers in the sensationally bullish market last week. Radio closing the week at 120 1/2, the highest price in its history and an advance of 26 points for the week. During the week General Motors jumped 13 1/2 to 157 1/2 and United States Steel advanced 4 1/2 to 144 1/2. The 13 1/2 point jump of General Motors added $250,000,000 to the market value of the outstanding stock of General Motors Corporation.

Nearly 1,000,000 shares of stock were sold in the first hour this morning. U. S. Steel moved upward 2 points to 148 1/2 and General Motors revolved around its closing price of Saturday.

Exchange a Bedlam
The floor of the stock exchange was a bedlam. Traders gesticulated madly and messenger boys dashed back and forth with instructions to buy and sell. Commission houses buzzed with rumors of a "corner" in Radio. Gossip had it that a powerful pool, operated by Arthur Cullen of Chicago, Fisher Brothers of Detroit and possibly William C. Durant of New York, is behind the movement to buy up Radio stock. Durant, former president of General Motors Corporation, is conceded to be the man who has trended the radio in the stock exchange in the last four years. His profits are said to approximate $50,000,000 in that period.

A Plunger
Cullen was first heard of as a plunger on the Chicago Board of Trade. He fought the Bears to a standstill in the wheat market and made a fortune. Subsequently he operated successfully as a Bull in industrial stocks. The Fisher Brothers were members of the famous firm that makes Fisher bodies for carriages and automobiles. They are now executives of General Motors.

The first block of 10,000 shares of Radio this morning sold at 120 1/2, unchanged, but thereafter for almost an hour the price rose steadily to 128. It Bears brought it back to 123 but it almost immediately resumed its upward trend and around noon was selling at 129 and a word was being heard of a Bears had taken a bad beating of late. One trader was reported today as having lost $400,000 in General Motors stock alone. Other heavy losses have been recorded. A week ago last Saturday the Bears had been in an excellent position. They had been laying stress on these factors:

1. Unsatisfactory conditions in a number of industries.
2. Increase in unemployment in some parts of the country.
3. The poor showing of some industries in their net earnings report for 1927.
4. Falling off of railroad traffic.
5. The attitude of the federal reserve banks in attacking speculation in the market by raising its rediscount rates.

MISS MILLER READY FOR HER CONVERSION
American Girl, Closely Guarded, to Go Through Hindu Ceremonies Tomorrow.
London, March 12.—Accompanied by armed guards carrying sheathed swords, Miss Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, fiancée of the former Maharajah of Indore, arrived at Nassik for her conversion to the Hindoo faith tomorrow, said a Central News dispatch from Bombay this afternoon. The conversion ceremonies will take place at Ganagapur, five miles from Nassik upon the bank of the sacred river Cadaveri.

The marriage ceremony will be conducted by Hindoo priests later in the week.

Miss Miller traveled in a special train escorted by a host of servants. The entire Nassik hotel had been reserved for Miss Miller and her entourage during her stay in that city.

RADICALS DEFEATED

The Socialists carried only ten seats while the remaining seats went to the several minority Radical parties.

ENGLISH FLYER KILLED IN TRY FOR A RECORD
Traveling at Terrific Speed His Plane Dives Into Water and Disappears.
Southampton, England, March 12.—Flight Lieutenant Kinkead was killed today while trying to break the world's seaplane record.

While traveling at an altitude of 400 feet at terrific speed, Kinkead's machine dived vertically and disappeared beneath the water.

Kinkead was killed on his second flight of the day. He hopped off earlier, but the extreme cold crippled his motor and he was forced to descend.

Kinkead came here last week to make an air dash over Southampton harbor in an effort to hang up a new speed record, but bad weather compelled postponements until today.

The world's speed record of 296.9 miles an hour for seaplanes was made by Major De Bernardi, of Italy, during the Schneider cup races.

SEN. NORRIS URGES MELLON'S DISMISSAL FROM THE TREASURY

Insurgent Leader Says Secretary's Silence About Handling Sinclair Bonds Sufficient Cause to Require His Resignation From Cabinet—Robinson Declares Republican Party Betrayed the Government.

Washington, March 12.—So long ago that it was before rain fell, Old Mother Earth, then in geological infancy, exploded—a mighty and unrestrained upheaval that could not be duplicated with a billion tons of dynamite. This blast probably tossed enough crustal material out into space to form the moon—possibly it was responsible for the cast basins where roll the seven seas.

Of all the hypotheses advanced by men of learning from the ancient mythologists down to modern scientists, these appear to Dr. William Bowie, widely known geologist of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, to be the most plausible explanations of the origin of the moon and the ocean beds.

Billions of years ago, in geological antiquity, there came a time in the moulding of the earth when a crust formed over the molten interior. Under the crust were generated powerful gasses.

Terrific Eruption
"It is not beyond belief to imagine that these pent up forces caused a terrible blast with the power of a million volcanoes," Bowie said. "A great area of the hot surface was hurled far out beyond the atmosphere. This mass may have formed the moon—other crustal materials cast upward by the supervolcano possibly scattered into meteoric clouds."

Which the moon was "dragged" away from the earth by some outside attraction, or whether it was literally "shot off," its density is 3.3 times that of water—approximately the same as the earth's crust. While the moon is other geological similarities making it appear that the "moon was born of the earth."

Bowie pointed out that meteorites which reach the earth likewise are similar in composition to the earth once a part of the earth or some other like body.

MARRIAGE UNSUITED FOR GENIUS, HE SAYS
Count Keyserling Declares No Man of Spirit Ever Married in the Past 800 Years.
Chicago, March 12.—The man who aspires to be great, to be a genius, to do unusual things, must never marry.

Marriage overwhelmingly defeats all individuality in a man and makes his thoughts serfs to those of his wife, according to the eminent savant, Count Harman Keyserling, considered by many the greatest thinker in the world today.

Count Keyserling, visitor in Chicago, praised women as rulers, as guides of the destinies of the world, but bitterly denounced them as parasites on men's intelligence.

"During eight hundred years of the world's history no man of spirit ever married. He entered a monastery instead. Genius is not born of genius. It is an accident.

America, according to the German savant, is due for a "gradual change" which will speed Kinkead's machine dived vertically and disappeared beneath the water.

MELLON'S DISMISSAL FROM THE TREASURY
Insurgent Leader Says Secretary's Silence About Handling Sinclair Bonds Sufficient Cause to Require His Resignation From Cabinet—Robinson Declares Republican Party Betrayed the Government.
Washington, March 12.—The Republican Party betrayed the government of the United States in return for huge contributions from Harry F. Sinclair's Continental Trading Company's $3,080,000 Liberty Bond "slush fund," Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, charged in the Senate this afternoon.

Robinson declared the Republicans, even if they returned every dollar to Sinclair, could not reform their party for "what it took from him as the price of treachery to the nation."

Asks Dismissal
The immediate dismissal of Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon from the Cabinet, because of his five-year-silence about Sinclair bonds, was suggested by Senator George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska. Insurgent leader, Mr. Norris declared Mellon's silence about his handling of bonds, obtained from Sinclair by Will H. Hays, former Republican national chairman, was sufficient cause to require his resignation as a Cabinet member.

Mellon, Hays and William M. Butler, Republican national campaign manager, meanwhile were called to appear as witnesses before the Senate public lands committee tomorrow. All have agreed to be present.

Mellon, Hays and William M. Butler, Republican national campaign manager, meanwhile were called to appear as witnesses before the Senate public lands committee tomorrow. All have agreed to be present.

Robinson mined no words in flaying the Republican Party because of the Sinclair bond deals. He described the revelations of Saturday as "disclosures of pecuniary corruption" and reviling the Republicans. If they desired to reform their party, "might have to restore other contributions," aside from those made by Sinclair.

It was the now famous memorandum, written by the late John T. Pratt, New York Standard Oil official before his death, that provoked attacks on the leadership of the Republican Party. In his memorandum Pratt noted his being received $50,000 in Sinclair bonds in return for which he sent Fred W. Upham, of Chicago, then Republican national treasurer, a check for $50,000. In the corner of the memorandum were the names—"Weeks, Andy, Butler, Dupont."

STARS PAY HONOR

TO FRED PATTON

Chamlee and De Luca Publicly Praise Him—Manchester Folks at Debut.

Mario Chamlee and DeLuca, world famous operatic stars, were among the first to congratulate publicly Fred Patton, former Manchester boy, in his first real appearance at Count Monerone in Verdi's "Rigoletto" on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House on Friday evening.

Mr. Patton had previously sung a minor role in Wagner's "Das Rheingold" but his Friday evening appearance was the first in which he had a major role, and even that did not give him the best opportunity in the world to show what he could do.

On Saturday evening Mr. Patton sang the role of the king of Egypt in Verdi's "Aida." This role allowed him more opportunity to display his wonderful voice.

The Manchester and Hartford people who want to hear Mr. Patton on Friday and Saturday report that he was in fine form in both appearances, deserving fully the praise he received and the applause which he was given jointly with Chamlee and DeLuca.

Standing room in the Metropolitan Opera House was at a premium and the doors were closed after the number of people who were in the building had reached the maximum required by the ordinances of the fire department.

Among those who went to New York were Mrs. Otto Nelson, Miss Charlotte Veitch, Robert and George Veitch of this town, cousins of Mr. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Hunter of Hartford, Miss Edith Faulker and Frank Hansen of this town, and Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Rogers of New Haven.

A delegation of singers of the States Indian Choral club, for which Mr. Patton has sung, was also present.

Mr. Patton's rise in the music world reads like a fairy tale. He was born in Manchester and went to work in the silk mills here. Later he removed to Long Island where he furthered his education by working in a music store.

He has sung for many prominent organizations in this country and has had leading parts in traveling opera companies.

His contract began with the Metropolitan on January 3 and will end on March 30. He has been booked for four appearances after that as guest soloist with the Detroit Symphony orchestra.

Telegrams were received by Mr. Patton from the following Manchester people: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crowell, Robert Gordon and Archibald Sessions, the latter director of the South Methodist church choir.

Simon Paloslan of 15 Maple street was taken to the Army and Navy hospital in Brooklyn yesterday to be operated on for hernia.

Miss Eleanor Johnson heads the group of young women in charge of the public bridge party at the White house this evening, for benefit of the Manchester Community club.

POLICE COURT

Russell Barnett of Eldridge street was in court this morning on the charge of non-support.

He was brought in on complaint of his wife who testified that he had furnished nothing for her support during the past two weeks.

After hearing both sides of the question Judge Johnson continued the case for two weeks.

He requested Probation Officer Elliott to look into the case and report back to him.

Charles McBride of Middletown who was arrested yesterday for operating a motor vehicle without a license, failed to make his appearance in police court this morning.

However, he furnished a bond of $25 cash yesterday for his appearance this morning and Judge Johnson ordered the bond called.

FIRST DIPHTHERIA DEATH

HERE IN MANY MONTHS

Tony Vito Dipinto, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Dipinto, 120 Eldridge street, died at the isolation hospital in Hartford yesterday morning.

Diphtheria was the cause.

This is the first death from diphtheria here in many months.

Special efforts have been taken throughout Manchester schools to prevent the spread of the disease.

Tony attended kindergarten at the Nathan Hale school on Spruce street.

The child was one of two in the family. Private funeral services were held this afternoon at William P. Quish's undertaken parlors.

Burial was in St. James' cemetery.

ANDOVER

At the basketball game in the boys club room Thursday evening, between the local team and the Willimantic team, each won one game.

The local boys won 41-32 and lost one 30-28. It is the young men's first season and they have lost three games.

Burton Lewis, Everett Allen and Elsworth Wittenlaid led the basketball game at the Army in Willimantic between the South Manchester high and the Windham high school Friday evening.

Royal Webster of Webster, Mass., visited his mother Mrs. Mary Webster Sunday and attended morning service.

The Ladies Benevolent society will meet with Mrs. Emily Cobb, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Friday evening there will be a social given by the Christian Endeavor society to be held in the old conference house. There will be a collection.

Elsworth Wittenlaid will give a dance in the Town Hall Saturday evening, March 17.

Charles Phelps and Guy Bartlett spent the week-end at home.

Miss Evelyn White, the Misses Ila, Mildred and Beatrice Hamilton and Charles Phelps were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Platt Saturday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Platt served waffles and coffee.

felt that Butler had refused the suggestion that Republicans raise a fund to pay back all Sinclair contributions.

Hays Subpoenaed Third, the Senate committee again subpoenaed Hays to testify Tuesday about the facts that he withheld on his two previous appearances as a witness.

The Sinclair donations to the Republican party had unusual significance because they were made in 1923, within a month after the Senate began to investigate his lease of Teapot Dome.

It was the inscription of the four names—"Weeks, Andy, Butler and Dupont"—on the Pratt note, that smashed the secrecy surrounding Sinclair's gifts to the Republicans.

It was the inscription of the four names—"Weeks, Andy, Butler and Dupont"—on the Pratt note, that smashed the secrecy surrounding Sinclair's gifts to the Republicans.

Butler's Statement Boston, March 12.—"I don't know what those names were there for," said William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee speaking today of his own name and those of other prominent Republicans in a memorandum linked with Harry F. Sinclair.

"Andy I suppose that means Mellon," remarked Mr. Butler, referring to the memo which was found among the effects of the late John T. Pratt of New York and which read: $50,000, Andy, Weeks, Dupont, Butler.

"DuPont, well that's clear," continued Mr. Butler, "Weeks was secretary of war and former Massachusetts Senator, Butler, that's myself."

"But I don't know what the names were for. I know nothing of this connection," said Mr. Butler. "I am going to testify before the committee tomorrow, but I have no comment to make because I know nothing of the matters involved."

"I have sent a letter to Senator Borah, though my letter had no bearing on this affair. I may talk with Borah when I go to Washington tonight."

HICKMAN TO APPEAL Los Angeles, Calif., March 12.—Attorney Edward Hickman today was preparing the appeal which they will argue before the California Supreme Court in an attempt to win a reversal of the Superior Court verdict which resulted in a sentence of death for the slayer of 12-year-old Marion Parker.

While his counsel makes ready for the higher court battle to save him from the gallows, Hickman and his former pal in crime, Welby Hunt, will appear before Judge Elliott Craig tomorrow morning to hear sentence of life imprisonment pronounced for the murder of C. Ivy Toms, druggist.

Commissioner Stoekel Believes Drunk Drivers, Evaders and Reckless Drivers Should Be So Designated.

There are at least three types of motor vehicle law violators who should be classed and prosecuted as criminals says Commissioner Robbins B. Stoekel in discussing the "Automobile Criminal" in the March bulletin of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Although the motor of the car was pushed back into the driver's seat, Ford was not seriously injured and none of the glass on the Ford was broken.

NICHOLS-DICKSON

Miss Agnes J. Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dickson of Spruce street and David Paul Nichols of Rocky Mount, N. C., were married at 5 o'clock Saturday evening in Center Congregational church.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attended by Miss Ellen Towers as bridesmaid, Miss Francis Dickson, sister of the bride was flower girl, and Joseph Melton, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine. Her veil, of tulle fell from a cap of lace, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a string of pearls. The bridegroom's gift to his best man was a gold pen knife.

Following the ceremony at the church a largely attended reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride and groom will make their home at 15 Dorothy street, Hartford. The bride has been employed in the Royal Typewriter company's office and the bridegroom is an adjuster of typing machines in the same plant.

LINDY HAS AMASSED NEARLY A MILLION

month since his Paris flight, fall under the head of "earned income"—which means work for pay at the controls of the "Spirit of St. Louis." About $300,000 has come from his writings.

Two series of daily flight narratives, one from Europe and one from Central America, have netted approximately $150,000 from a newspaper syndicate. His book "We" has been a best seller for months. Royalties have already mounted close to $200,000, with publishers predicting a million sales before the present year is out.

As an author, Lindy earned more last year than Sinclair Lewis and Willa Cather combined.

Pay as Director As a director of the Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Lindy received an annuity fixed by his friends here at $100,000. His all-United States tour last fall added $225,000 more. St. Louis threw $35,000 at his feet for the Paris flight. And the Pan-American flight, undertaken chiefly as a tribute to his friend and admirer Dwight Morrow soon after the latter moved to the United States embassy at Mexico City, further swelled his income for the year.

The Hubbard medal award carried $25,000 cash and a life annuity of $5,000—equal to a cash gift of more than $100,000. The Woodrow Wilson peace award, to be bestowed this month, will bring him $25,000 more. Through it all he remains a colonel in the reserve corps, the pay of which would buy gasoline for a fellow who flew less.

Lindy's expenses have been paid on virtually every flight since his return to America in June. But pilots who have escorted him deplane at the airport. Hotel managers, gasoline merchants and even taxi drivers refuse to accept his cash.

His more pessimistic friends declare that his life is charmed and that, as he will, he cannot avoid the evil luck of amassing a second million soon.

The word "quiz" originated in Ireland.

STAMFORD STABBING

Stamford, Conn., March 12.—Samuel Melchionome, 26, is under treatment in Stamford hospital with three severe stab wounds, one near the heart, while Jack Borea, a Spruce street resident, is being held without bail pending the outcome of Melchionome's injuries.

The stabbing is said to have been the outcome of a Sunday night card party on Spruce street.

ROBITUARY

JOHN METTERHOLZER, JR.

John Metterholzer, Jr., of Coventry, died this morning at his home in that place after a long illness with a complication of diseases. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Metterholzer, two brothers, Aloisio and Leo, and one sister, Mrs. John Covello of Rockville. One of his brothers is employed at the Orford Soap factory. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home, Rev. J. N. Atwood of Coventry will officiate and the burial will be in the Coventry cemetery.

The average cost of each American's trip to Europe, including passage, rail, hotel charges and spending money is in the neighborhood of $1300.

HOOVER'S STRENGTH SPREAD OVER U. S.

three months from the date of assembly, is the attitude of New York and Pennsylvania leaders.

No republican candidate has ever been named without the support of these powerful states, which have 189 delegates in the convention. Thus far, they are uncommitted, although the Hoover managers have been industriously at work in New York and claim a minimum of 30 of New York's 90 votes.

Should New York and Pennsylvania go over to the Hoover cause, it would admittedly be just about all over but the shouting. But neither has done so, and there is no indication that anything of the sort will be forthcoming before the assembly three months from today.

New York leaders are holding their organization in line on the "Draft Coolidge" argument, and in Pennsylvania the organization has been strangely silent.

For Mellon First The Pennsylvanias are expected to cast their 79 votes for Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon on the first ballot until the situation is clarified.

A good deal may depend, too, upon the outcome of the primary fights in Indiana and Ohio, where Hoover has elected to contest for delegates against the favorite sons, Watson and Willis.

A Hoover victory in either of these states—which most practical politicians here do not anticipate—might well prove the beginning of a Hoover tempest that would sweep the impetuous New York and Pennsylvania leaders off their feet.

On the other hand, a sanguinary defeat for the Cabinet candidate might reveal such weaknesses in the Hoover appeal that it would render infinitely easier the task of stopping him.

In any event, the next three months may see the making of the next President of the United States.

CORONER ILL

Greenwich, Conn., March 12.—Coroner John J. Pheasant is under the weather today at his home in Bridgeport and was forced to postpone for another 24 hours his inquest into the death of Ward Elliott Schofield, nine-year-old son of a local doctor who was killed by an automobile here Friday evening.

NORTH ENDERS TO TALK OF FAMOUS HYMNS

"Great Hymns of the Centuries" will be the topic for general discussion at the union get-together of Second Congregational and North Methodist attendants tomorrow evening. This is the fourth in the series of similar meetings and will be held in the North Methodist vestry. The joint leaders will be A. F. Howes and F. B. Clarke. Miss Bernice Lydall and Mrs. F. C. Allen will be the pianists and Mrs. George F. Borst and Rev. F. C. Allen will sing as solos some of their favorite hymns. The vested junior choir of the North Methodist church will sing and the hymns for group singing will be from the Methodist church hymnal.

These meetings have been thoroughly enjoyable and well attended. They begin at 7:30 with an informal hymn sing around the piano and close with a social hour during which light refreshments are served. They have been in charge of the laymen of both churches, with Rev. M. S. Stocking of the North Methodist church as leader of the committee.

TWISTING THE FACTS

Newspaper stories to the effect that there is little apparent sentiment for Hoover among Connecticut Republicans and that the rank and file of the party in this state are still hoping that President Coolidge can be induced to run are most certainly inspired by an objective purpose rather than by the facts.

FORECASTING

C. W. Jones of East Hartford, encouraged when his "three or four feet" of snow predicted for last Saturday, though it was only about seven inches in actuality, did prove to be the heaviest fall of the season so far, challenges the United States weather bureau service to a set contest in forecasting skill.

WALSH

Senator Thomas J. Walsh reminds us of an institution of school days of long ago, the pupil "monitor." There was always some serious minded and highly virtuous youngster whom Teacher, at such times as her own watchful eyes must be diverted elsewhere, deputized to look out for and report any infraction of discipline on the part of boy or girl.

STOLEN GOODS

An extremely interesting legal situation is presented by the claim of the French government that some five million dollars in gold, sent to New York banks by the Soviet Union in order to facilitate certain financial operations connected with purchases of commodities in this country, is actually the property of France, stolen by the Bolshevik government.

COAST GUARD

The loss of three surfmen of the Manomet Point station, incidental to the rescue of the entire ship's company of the stranded passenger steamer Robert E. Lee, is just another brief chapter in the magnificent saga of Coast Guard heroism. Here we have the old Coast Guard of anteprehension days, living and dying in glorious adherence to the traditions of more than a century during which the records of the service shone, unstained by shadow of disgrace, above those of any adventurous body in the world.

Those who have best known and revered the history of the Coast Guard, who have justly appraised its unending diligence in sheer service in the cause of humanity and who have realized its self-forgetful valor are those who bitterly resented its degradation to the sordid task of rum-hunting. They feared the result of a sudden and over-balancing expansion of its personnel for a job that unavoidably would expose its new membership to contact with powerful temptation and put high premium on betrayal of duty.

TIN BLIMPS

There is a growing number of persons in this country who are inclined to attach more weight to the utterances of Edsel Ford than to those of his gifted but unevenly developed dad. So that when the younger Ford expresses the belief that the airplane is unsuited to transatlantic flight and states that he and his father are investigating the subject of all-metal dirigibles there is likely to be more interest in the announcement than if it were made by Henry.

that the property be turned over to its owner, which is France.

This, in effect is like a person, who has been robbed, asking for a court order for the return of his watch, found in a thief's cache, with the identity of the thief unknown. There is no defendant party in the case of the thief because he does not, for the purposes of the case, exist. There would seem to be no defendant party in the case of the Soviet gold, because the Soviet Union, for the purposes of any American law case, does not exist.

The matter looks very simple—if France can make its identification of the gold stick in court. But five million dollars is a lot of money and no doubt there will be plenty of expert lawyers to combat the French claim.

VAUDEVILLE AGAIN AT STATE TUESDAY

Five Acts and Feature Here. "Sorrell and Son" Here Last Time.

Conforming with the State theater's policy of conducting vaudeville shows on Tuesday and Saturday evenings, another collection of five acts will be presented by Manager Jack Sanson tomorrow night.

"San Francisco Nights" is a story of the old Spanish town which grew to become the jewel of the West Coast.

"Sorrell and Son," pictured from Warwick Desiring's popular novel, is showing at the State for the last time tonight.

Many picturesque places in England were used by Herbert Brenon and his company as backgrounds for scenes in "Sorrell and Son."

At historic old Marlow several scenes were made from the ancient Paper Mill Bridge, with Marlow church and bridge in the distance.

Director Brenon chose "The Complete Angler" for his headquarters, where the news of the presence of the noted producer, who was born in Ireland and lived in England as a young man, as well as British members of his cast, quickly spread among the visitors.

Warner and Trevor, reunited acquaintance with the spot where they had lived in riverside bungalows years before.

NEW SMITH CLUE

Montreal, Que., March 12.—Operatives of the Pinkerton Detective Agency searching for the missing Frances St. John Smith, today were running to earth clues furnished by Colonel H. J. Wilkinson of the Canadian Pacific Railroad on the Boston-Montreal run.

Acting upon orders from Boston and New York, Manager H. E. Walker of the local Pinkerton office interviewed Wilkinson at the Windsor street railroad station but later declared himself "in the dark" after a brief conversation.

In order to enable Wilkinson to work in conjunction with detectives, the Canadian Pacific yesterday relieved him from his day train to Boston at Woodville, New Hampshire, bringing him back to Montreal overnight, so that he could be here today for any questioning necessary.

New York

New York, March 12.—When Grand Central station gets on its feet again, it will have within its solid walls practically every attraction and business to be found in the city that roars and rages just outside.

It is possible for an individual to spend many a week in active amusement and business without leaving its sprawling borders—provided, of course, that he is content to go through the catacombs that lead to the adjoining hotel when bed time comes.

And in his journey, the pilgrim would find himself faced with the wares of every land and clime. For the caverns and passageways which line Grand Central cater to the eyes of the world, and all the world passes by—coming and going; everlastingly coming and going.

The pilgrim who would make his progress through Grand Central station can find figs from Smyrna and olives from the Holy Land; he can find shops where a single jewel would take his fortune or where he can buy phony pearls for a quarter.

HIGHWAY CONTRACTS COVER 43 ROAD MILES

Spring and Summer Awards Offered For Bid; One Bridge Job Is Included.

One of the largest contract lettings in some time was announced today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, the contracts offered for bid covering work on about 43 miles of Connecticut highway.

This 43 miles of road work supplements the already extraordinarily large program of highway reconstruction for the coming spring and summer months.

In addition to the paving, the construction of one bridge over the Hoppe river in Seymour is to be let on contract. All contracts will be received in the customary sealed form at the highway office in Hartford on March 20.

The largest contract in the group of 16 offered calls for the laying of 43,967 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Canaan-Salisbury. The other contracts will cover 21,636 feet, waterbound macadam on the Bethel-Redding road; 15,467 feet, bituminous macadam on the Coventry-Mansfield Depot road; 4,215 feet, concrete on the Danbury-Newtown road; 28,601 feet, concrete on the Boston Post road in East Lyme, Old Lyme and Waterford; 17,838 feet, concrete on the Middletown-Saybrook road; 4,660 feet, trap rock macadam on Rock Landing road, Haddam; 11,888 feet, native stone macadam on the Hamburg North Plain road, Lyme and East Haddam; 1,550 feet, gravel surface on the Hatch Corner road, New Fairfield; 28,042 feet, concrete on the Danbury road, New Milford; 8,908 feet, bituminous macadam on Route 135, North Branford and Guilford; 5,130 feet and 2,870 feet, waterbound macadam on the Sharon-Milerton road and $60 feet on the Sharon-Lakeville road (one contract); 12,948 feet, bituminous macadam on First Avenue and Beach street, West Haven; 7,350 feet, waterbound macadam on the Hotchkiss road, Woodbury; 6,450 feet, waterbound macadam on the Georgetown road in Redding; and 25,200 feet, grading and drainage on the new location of the Hartford-Middletown road.

TO TALK ABOUT ROADS TO FRIENDSHIP CLUB

The Men's Friendship club of the South Methodist church will hear a talk after its regular meeting tonight, by Clinton G. Nichols, deputy highway commissioner of Connecticut.

The talk, which will begin at 8:15, will be open to the public and both men and women are invited.

The regular meeting of the club will be held at 7:15 when routine business will be transacted.

Mr. Nichols, who is a brother of George Nichols of Highland Park, will talk on the development of the highway. He will trace the development from the Indian trail to the present improved roads all over Connecticut.

His talk should be interesting to motorists who are affected by road building. Mr. Nichols is well versed in all matters concerning roads.

It had been announced previously that a supper would be served at 6:30. This is incorrect, but a light luncheon will be served after Commissioner Nichols' talk.

Your Local Building Material Dealer

Our grandmothers had their storerooms filled with flour, sugar and other kitchen essentials. Today the grocery store gives the housewife a selection of hundreds of foods, many of them ready for the table.

Just so the building material dealer fills an economic need of our present life. He gathers together a hundred and one materials suited for as many different needs. They are available at a moment's notice. He has at his finger tips the knowledge that prevents clumsy and costly mistakes in building.

From a purely selfish standpoint any community should support its building material dealer for this reason—to increase the service obtainable through him.

Choral Club Date Changed When Engagements Mixed Themselves Up.

Announcement was made today of a change in the date of the next Men's Choral club concert in High school hall. The concert had previously been announced for Friday, April 13, but because of unforeseen engagements which the guest artists have made, it has been found necessary to put the date ahead to Wednesday, April 11.

The guest artists will include Miss Lillian Gustafson, one of the leading concert and operatic sopranos of the day, and the Newport String Quartet of New York, which has among its members Nicolai Berezovsky, famous violinist, who was heard at a previous concert of the club in Manchester.

"STRANDED" FEATURE AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

Shirley Mason Stars in Part of Double Bill—Two Films To-Double.

Two more big features are scheduled for the Circle theater for tomorrow, according to Manager Jack Sanson. They are "Stranded," and "The Red Rider of Canada." The former is a story of Hollywood and the latter takes place in the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

In "stranded" the chief player, Sally Simpson, portrayed effectively by Shirley Mason, is stranded in Hollywood after, like thousands of other girls like her, she comes there without particular talent or influence under the idea that she will become a movie star. This is the problem today; but something else recalls an even more significant one—that portion of the film which brings to light in the recent move of the studios to cut down on the "extras"—those seven-and-a-half-dollar-a-day and ten-dollar-a-day players who furnish "atmosphere" to the films. Hollywood has been going through a veritable cataclysm of "cutting"—and poor little Sally Simpson like so many thousands of her sisters in real life—feels the weight of the casting-director's economy.

The two features showing tonight at the Circle are "If I Were Single," starring May McAvoy, and "Hook and Ladder No. 9," a story of the Fire Department.

In the first picture Miss McAvoy is supported by Conrad Nagel in a story of domestic strife and the ultimate reconciliation of a young married couple who have become at odds through a series of misunderstandings. The latter is one of a number of daring rescues and a love story running through the piece like a melody through a storm.

MARLBOROUGH AD IN HERALD BRINGS WOMAN'S LOST $55

Pay Envelope, Dropped on the Street, Restored Same Day to Its Owner.

A Manchester woman discovered on Friday that it was worth just $55 to her to insert a lost advertisement in The Herald classified page costing about 33 cents. She had lost a pay envelope containing the $55 on Bissell street, she thought, on Friday and the advertisement was in that day's paper.

Mrs. Charles Heckman, of North Coventry, wife of the representative of the E. A. Strout Farm agency of this town, picked up the envelope on Main street on Friday and, thinking it was a pay envelope from Cheney Brothers, called up the plant to inquire about it.

As there are no pay envelopes at Cheney Brothers about the payroll is now distributed by check, Mrs. Heckman thought she would wait until The Herald came out that night to see if anybody had advertised the loss.

The advertisement was there and Mrs. Heckman got in touch with the advertiser, with the result that the woman came to the office of the agency and received her money on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Heckman would not take a reward from the owner of the money.

COMMUNITY GIRLS AND BOYS PLAYING CRUCIAL CONTESTS

Springfield College Here Tomorrow; Girls Beat Meriden 18-14; Play Aetna Thursday in Hartford.

Manchester's greatest week of basketball this season will get under way tomorrow night when the crack Springfield College varsity team plays at the Harding school gym on Hollister street against the Community Club.

This game is one of the real treats of the basketball season. Springfield holds victories over such teams as Dartmouth College, Rutgers, New York Crescents and many others. It has won 18 games and lost two. The game was arranged through Ernest Zwick who is a student at the college.

The Community Club will strengthen for this game but Coach Fay has not as yet announced, who or where. He may play himself. "Babe" Hurley may also be in uniform. It should be a great game to watch and should draw a large crowd.

The Rec Girls will play Broad Brook in the preliminary game, the Community Girls taking it easy for their big game Thursday.

Girls Win 18-14

With Mary Drew and Ethel Richmond leading the way, the Community Girls polished off the Meriden All-Stars in the Silver City Saturday night in their final public appearance before their state championship game with the Aetna Life quintet in Hartford next Thursday night. The score was 18 to 14.

The Meriden team was composed of a pick of the best players and included in their lineup was Miss Fredericks from Arnold's College at New Haven, regarded as one of the best centers in the state. The combination was regarded as much stronger than the Insulo team which was defeated by the Community.

Adrian Brennan, coach of the Aetna Life team, watched the game in order to get a few pointers on the ability of the Manchester outfit. The game with the Aetna Life will be played in the Bulkeley High gym on Maple street in Hartford. Tickets for this game can be secured at either the Community Club or the Recreation Center on School street.

Brennan figures that the Community Club did not show its full ability against Meriden and will play even better against his club. However, he is confident of winning. Coach Jerry Fay is also confident that his team will win. He figures the Aetna is due for a bad night and that the Community will win if they check their players properly.

Mr. Brennan Speaks

Coach Brennan seems inclined to give part of the credit for the Community Club getting a game with the Aetna Life, to the Herald. Following is a circular being sent out to various departments in the Hartford Insurance company, entitled, "A Challenge Is Flung and Accepted."

"We intended closing our season after winning the state championship, but—along came our old friends, the Manchester Girls, and publicly deny that we are champions.

"The Manchester Herald is considerably worked up over the fact that we are being called the state champions—albeit we have not, and we are not even now, claiming anything. Every newspaper in Connecticut but the Manchester Herald has freely conceded us the championship, and every team in Connecticut has congratulated us as the state champions. Manchester, however, denies that we are.

"All right, we'll take our suits out of camp, get over for practice and then Thursday night, March 15th, we'll play Manchester at Bulkeley High school gym on Maple avenue."

But to get back to the game Saturday night, the Community Girls piled up a substantial lead at the start and were never in real danger. When Miriam Welles was ejected on personal fouls late in the game, Manchester was up 18 to 9 but the home team rallied and came within a few points of tying the score. The work by Peggy Boyie showed a marked improvement. She looks like a real comer.

North and South Clash Over Series

If yesterday's happenings are to be taken as a criterion as to what will develop later, then Manchester basketball fans may expect another north-south furor before series are arranged between the Rec Five and Community Club.

Coach Jerry Fay of the north end team and Manager Ben Clune of the south-end team met unexpectedly in The Herald office yesterday afternoon and a discussion arose as to when and where the series would be played. Clune wants the first game at the Rec and Fay contends that that must be settled by the toss of a coin.

KAMINSKY-GALLUP MATCH IS TONIGHT

North End Man Faces Crucial Test In Semi-Finals Of Herald's Pool Tourney

Billy Kaminsky, the boy with the steel nerves and Jim Gallup, rated as a strong favorite to reach the finals if not win the championship will clash tonight in the first half of the semi-finals of The Herald's elimination pocket billiards tournament. They will play one half the points on the middle table at the School street Rec starting at 7:30. Tomorrow night Johnny Benche and Jarle Johnson will play at seven.

Although the odds are on Gallup to beat Kaminsky tonight, they are slim. Any man who is capable of overcoming a 95-71 losing lead as overcame a player as Sam Herron, cannot be overlooked. Kaminsky also had the nerve and confidence to beat Johnny Gardner in the final rack after the score stood deadlocked at 92 all. He found "Ducker" Carlson much to his liking, winning 100 to 21. Carlson, of course is a much better player than the score indicates, but he wasn't that night.

As long as Kaminsky remains in the fight for the title, the north end can be counted upon to give him whole-hearted support. If he can get past Gallup to the finals, it would lend further color to the tournament. What could be better than a north-south clash for the title. But the hope is that Gallup will be too much for their ace. The latter seldom misses once the balls are in any favorable position. His run of 28 balls against "Dutch" Senkbeil is high for the tourney. Gallup's opposition, with the exception of Senkbeil, has been much easier than Kaminsky's. Gallup trounced Tom Stowe 100 to 22 and Cecil England 100 to 47. He is yet to have an off night while Kaminsky, is due for a good one. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Five Schools Tied With 'Us' for Yale Tournament Choice

Manchester Picked Because It Played Higher Class of Opponents; Our First Game Is Friday at 4:45.

BY TOM STOWE

Manchester's selection to participate in the Yale Inter-scholastic basketball tournament at New Haven Friday and Saturday comes as a big surprise to nearly everyone. However, it has been predicted by The Herald as being quite possible the night Manchester High beat West Hartford here. Many figured Manchester had no chance at all in view of its none-too-impressive record which includes ten victories and eight defeats, but they did not stop to think of the caliber of teams the local outfit stacked up against nor the basis on which teams are selected. Teams are picked for the Yale tourney on points rated according to the caliber of the opposition and where the game is played.

The Inside Reason

Casy work on the part of Coach Wilfred J. Clarke and Faculty Manager Edson M. Bailey in arranging the schedule, to no small extent is responsible for Manchester's selection. They clogged their schedule with Class A and B teams and inasmuch as defeats are not considered in selecting teams for the tournament, Manchester had everything to gain and practically nothing to lose.

Yale authorities allow teams to send in their records up to March third. The officials considered the eight best victories and in case of a tie for points, consider the caliber of the opposition in addition to the ninth victory. Manchester earned 44 points and was tied with Central High of Bridgeport, Weaver High of Hartford, New Haven Hillhouse, Bristol and Willimantic. The most number of points out of a possible 48, was held by Wilby High of Waterbury which opposes Manchester at 4:45 Friday afternoon. It was 46. Meriden had 45. Of the six tied with 44 points, Central, Hillhouse, Bristol and Manchester were admitted without much deliberation. The Herald learned from Henry E. Cottle, principal of Bristol High and a member of the selecting committee.

Weaver Kicked Windham

Weaver and Windham were discussed for the eighth choice and Weaver was finally given the nomination. Windham, like Naugatuck, had played high school teams of a higher caliber during the early part of its season. However, there is no denying that both Windham and Naugatuck are stronger than some of the teams entered. Windham triumphed over Manchester both here and in Willimantic. Naugatuck won the University of Pennsylvania tournament. The latter had 41 points and New Haven Commercial, 40. Milford, Rockville, Danbury and Wallingford all submitted their records but had below forty points.

Although Mr. Cottle did not confirm the report, it is possible that one reason why Windham High was barred was because of the questionable conduct of two of its players, Captain Eddie Nichols and Max Heller. Both played with outside organized teams and are said to have received money for their services. A sub-committee from the Connecticut Interscholastic Conference was in the vicinity over the week-end satisfying itself as to their guilt. If convicted, and this seems a foregone conclusion, the boys will no doubt be barred from playing with Windham High in any other branch of sport again.

The charges were brought by Principal Philip H. House of Rockville High after Coach Tommy Callaghan of Windham had protested against Rockville using a player who the night before had "put on a pair of sneakers" and played a few minutes in a game said to have been between unorganized teams. Windham won the game by a single point but has probably lost the services of two of its foremost stars as a result. Nichols played with Plainfield and both he and Nichols with Heller Brothers Five.

Torrington High, the only team in the state to defeat Bristol this season, had 42 points and was selected as an alternate. Bristol, however, later avenged this defeat in a most decisive manner.

Teams and Pairings

The eight teams selected for the tourney together with the time and pairings is as follows: Bristol vs Central High Friday at 3 o'clock; Manchester vs Wilby at 4:45; Meriden vs Warren Harding at 7:15 and Weaver vs Hillhouse at 8:30. At 1:30 Saturday afternoon, the winners of the Bristol-Central and Meriden-Warren Harding games will meet and at 2:45, either Manchester or Wilby will play Weaver or Hillhouse. The finals will be at 8:15.

Manchester's chances of winning the tournament are about as slim as one could imagine. However, receiving a surprise award like this,

What is the total number of mounts, including finishing positions, and money won by Sande horses during his entire career? Has any one-armed pitcher ever played regularly in either of the two major leagues?

Sande has been astride 3427 mounts, finishing first 921 times, second 871 times, third 521 times. His total winnings amount to $2,560,320.

Hugh Daly, who was with the Chicago Nationals in 1884, is believed to be the only one-armed pitcher ever to pitch for a major league club.

The Rec Girls won their second out of town game during the same week, Saturday night when they motored to the Hartford Y. W. C. A. and defeated the Aetna Fire quintet quite comfortably. The score was 22 to 13.

The Manchester team outplayed the Hartford outfit most of the way. At halftime, Manchester led 11 to 7. Alleen McHale was the scoring star for the winners. She made four hoops. Kathryn Giblin and Helen Daley also went well. "Cappie" Giblin was the only player to play a whole game for Manchester.

The local team will play Broad Brook at the Harding gym tomorrow night in the preliminary game to the Community Club-Springfield College encounter.

ought to be something of an incentive to make the boys go down there and give something for their Alma Mater. Now is the time to forget individualism and play together for a change. Coach Clarke said he was as much surprised as anyone at his team being selected. The team will practice on the armory surface this week is possible. Independents Win With Only 4 Men Playing with only four men throughout the entire game, the Independents nevertheless managed to defeat the North Ends by the overwhelming score of 25 to 18 in the Community club senior basketball league Saturday night at the K. of C. Hall.

The Independents were forced to play with four players because one of their men failed to show up. Otherwise, they would have had to forfeit the game. At halftime, the Independents led 14 to 6. M. Nelson was the star for the winners and Charter was best for the losers. The summary:

PHILLY COLORED GIANTS PLAYING HERE ON FRIDAY

One of Best Basketball Attractions In Years Set For Rec Gym; Giants Beat Renaissance By One Point.

One of the greatest basketball attractions which has struck Manchester in recent years is scheduled to take place at the School street Rec Friday night when the Philadelphia Colored Giants oppose the Rec Five. The boys from the coal state claim the world's championship in their race.

The Giants have won forty of their fifty games this season meeting the fastest clubs in the East. They play on the average of six games a week. Many weeks, they are booked for every night including Sunday.

The Philadelphians recently turned back the Renaissance Five of New York City at Boston 27 to 26 in what is said to have been one of the most exciting games ever seen in the Rec. The Renaissance claimed the world's championship. The nearest that the Philadelphia quintet has come to Manchester during its eastern tour was when they stopped off at Plainfield twice, winning once by ten points and losing the other time by six.

An idea of how busy the Giants are kept may be gleaned from their schedule for the this week. Tonight, they play in Millbury, Mass.; tomorrow night, at Worcester; Wednesday at Franklin; Thursday at Lowell; Friday, here; Saturday at Gloucester and Sunday at New York.

The Philadelphia Colored Giants have played in Manchester before, but not in basketball. Their crack basketball team has often thrilled hundreds of fans at Mt. Nebo. Captain Bill Yancey, for instance, played shortstop for the Colored Nine here several times. He is rated as one of the greatest colored baseball players in the world.

Yancey is even more at home on the basketball court. His work in the game with the Renaissance was outstanding. His speed and dazzling plays fooled the New Yorkers time and again. Yancey plays a guard position. Along side of him will be Chambers, another star performer. Bill Cooper will jump center. This lanky young man, who is only 19 years old, is six feet, two inches tall. He weighs 205 pounds and is noted for his speed on the floor. He is also a coming attraction.

Bethard who plays along with Mitchell at the forward posts, is known throughout the basketball world as the Nick Altrock of basketball. This jumping jack pepper box gives plenty of action. Keith will be the fastest player of the five on his feet.

Manager Ben Clune has announced that there will be no increase in admission although it is costing over $200 to stage the game. He hopes that everyone in town will fully realize the treat that is in store for them and do their bit by patronizing the contest.

The third and deciding game with the Knights of Lithuania will be played at the Rec a week from Friday night.

The Fightingest Oil that ever tamed heat

—announcing the new line of super heat-resisting Veedol Motor Oils

THE new high-speed, high-compression motors present a new and difficult problem in lubrication. To solve that problem Tide Water has re-formulated the entire line of Veedol Motor Oils. These new oils are heavier, tougher, longer-lived. They not only lubricate the new type motors safely and correctly but they are better oils for any motor.

- These new Veedol oils give:
- 1 Greater motor protection (heavier body and added heat resistance).
 - 2 Greater mileage (being heavier, they last longer).
 - 3 Greater economy (they cut operating costs and reduce wear, tear and repair on the engine).

Let the new Veedol oils prove those claims. Stop today at the first orange and black Veedol sign you see. Have your crankcase drained and refilled with Veedol. Then watch results. Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

ODDS ON SHARKEY QUOTED AT 3 TO 1

Little Betting Reported, However, Sharps Think Sailor Should Win If He Chooses to Take a Risk.

BY SID MERCER
Special Correspondent

New York, March 12 — Jack Sharkey, of Boston, is standing once more on the threshold of a million dollar match with Gene Tunney.

Last summer it was Jack Dempsey who barred the way; this time it is the stolid, tireless Johnny Risko who bulks formidably on the doorstep of Tunney's title abode.

Temperament may play the leading role tonight at Madison Square Garden. The high-strung, irritable, whimsical Sharkey should win if he chooses to risk everything in this one cast.

It all depends on his frame of mind when he starts or after a few rounds of attuning himself to Risko's plodding style.

Against Tom Heeney, another plodder, Sharkey was never animated by the spark of aggressiveness after he had landed his right heavily on Heeney's jaw in the first two rounds without visible effect. He permitted Heeney to make the fight.

Risko is another "Groove" battler. He can be depended on to hold his own pace for 15 rounds unless badly punished by bodily blows. That was how Heeney defeated him in Detroit. Mere tapping holding or scuffling will not discourage him.

Knows One Style

The Cleveland baker boy knows only one style. He comes in flourishing his left for hooks to the head or body. A clever boxer can "tie him up" at close quarters but he always returns to the charge. It is a question whether Sharkey can beat Risko by awaiting his chance to score as Johnny comes in to him. A few rounds of that might turn it into a purely defensive fight for Sharkey. He may tire coming down the home stretch. His best chance to win decisively is to exert all his skill and strength in a smashing attack early in the fray.

Sharkey is the faster man and by far the better boxer. He can punch effectively with both hands and should be able to break up Risko's hooking attacks by simply stepping inside of those long leads.

If endurance is to be the deciding factor Risko has a great chance. He is young and a score of gruelling battles have apparently not sapped his vitality.

Sharkey came here weighing 193 pounds but it is rumored that he has taken on weight instead of losing it. Risko will be about 193.

Risko, in a year of hard campaigning, has lost decisions only to Tommy Loughran and Tom Heeney. Jack Delaney and Paulino Uzcudun bowed to him in ten-round bouts.

Although this is an important number of the heavyweight eliminations, there has been little betting. The sharps think Sharkey should win if he chooses to fight, but they know where his erratic tendencies will carry him. The odds on Sharkey have been quoted as high as three to one.

NEWTON IS LEADING X COUNTRY RUNNERS

Rhodesian Rambler is Four Hours Ahead of Nearest Rival—In Arizona Now.

Aboard Motor Cruiser Amerika with Los Angeles-New York racers near Oatman, Ariz., March 12.—Good-bye California, hello Arizona, C. C. "Cross Country" Pyle's Marathoners shouted today as they essayed the role of the vulgar boatmen after a scramble to the banks of the Colorado river and started the climb that will within ten days surmount the Continental Divide at Thoreau, 7,000 feet above sea level.

Mohave Indians, those desert tribesmen, who waited through the hours to welcome Quomawahu, Hopi brave of Arizona, ferried the runners across the stream to the Arizona side where they headed for Oatman, the mining camp and the ninth control of the race.

At Needles, Calif., the eastern gateway to the Mohave desert that for six days tried the hearts of the athletes causing some 75 of the original 199 starters to quit, the caravan rested before pushing on the 17-mile jaunt to Oatman.

The co-operation of the Indians came after a most trying test, the 57-mile jaunt from Danby to Needles.

Arthur Newton, 44-year-old Rhodesian rambler, retained the lead in the race when the party left Needles. He was four hours, 44 minutes and 5 seconds ahead of his nearest rival, Andrew Payne, of Clearmore, Okla.

NEW BOWLING ALLEYS OPEN ON THURSDAY

Joe Farr's "Charter Oak Alleys" to Be Christened Thursday Night; Six New Alleys.

Manchester's newest bowling quarters will be opened to the public this week Thursday night. The Charter Oak Alleys, owned and managed by Joseph Farr, are located at 27 and 29 Oak street, half-way between Main and Cottage streets. Six brand new alleys have been built in to the building which in years gone by housed the famous Brink alleys.

A special feature of the new bowling quarters will be a separate entrance for ladies and a large ladies rest room. Groups of ladies who wish to bowl may go to the Charter Oak alleys, hang their coats and hats in a room reserved for them, make use of a large, attractive wash room, and then go to the alleys, without the unpleasant features usually found at bowling places.

Mr. Farr plans to offer prizes to lady bowlers and is considering setting an afternoon a week aside for lady bowlers only.

The Charter Oak alleys are exceptionally well built. The best of wood has been used and experts have set them in place. The interior decorative scheme is of warm cream and brown colors. Pretty electric light fixtures and high candle power bulbs, add greatly to its attractiveness.

Every piece of equipment Mr. Farr has installed in the Charter Oak alleys is new. The finest quality pins and balls have been purchased and he is certain his alleys will prove to be the finest in Manchester.

In the rear and at the side of the Charter Oak building will be found plenty of space for parking cars. Later Mr. Farr will have luncheon facilities at the alleys. A large crowd is expected at Thursday night's opening since bowlers all like the "feel" of brand new alleys and pins.

If mice are a nuisance in the house, sprinkle cayenne pepper near the holes.

MY VARICOSE VEINS NOW MUCH BETTER THANKS TO RABALM

"Dear Friends," writes Mrs. C. L. Kellogg of Williamsburg, Mass. "I have been a sufferer with Varicose Veins for eight years, and have tried everything, but got no results until I tried the Rabalm salve, and I have used only six boxes and they are a good deal better. So I am doing the housework for eight in the family. I will gladly recommend it to all others who are troubled with Varicose Veins. Also it is wonderful for eczema. I never will be without it."

Rabalm is the result of a scientific effort to find an effective remedy for Varicose Veins; to relieve the pain and irritation; to heal ulceration where it occurs; and to reduce swelling. If you, too, are suffering the torture which varicose veins can give, start using Rabalm tonight, and speedily find relief as Mrs. Kellogg and many others have done before you.

Two sizes: 50-cents, and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. Rabalm is for sale by all druggists.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints had been found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret O'Neill, but Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a closet while the stranger did the work. Mannix, Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all lie about their whereabouts the night of the murder. Spotswood, who had called on the girl, had rushed to her room at the sound of a scream but had been reassured through the door that nothing had happened. Skeel is found strangled, after promising to reveal the murderer. Vance has a talk with Cleaver, Spotswood and Mannix to his apartment for a game of poker, promising to name the murderer the next day. After the game's end Vance unusually sober.

CHAPTER XLIX

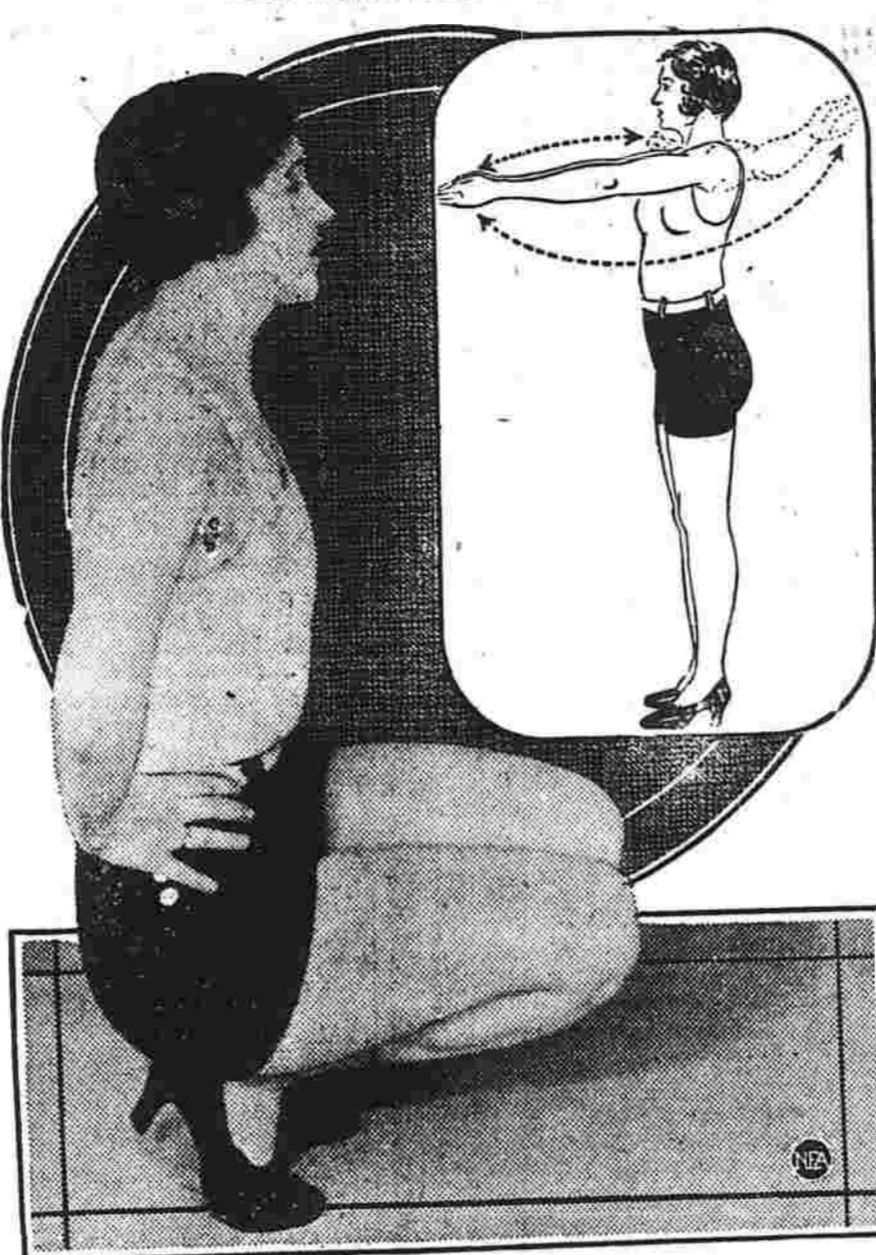

(Tuesday, September 1, 1 p. m.)
 VANCE slept late the following morning and spent the hour or so before lunch checking a catalogue of ceramics which were to be auctioned next day at the Anderson Galleries. At one o'clock he entered the Stuyvesant Club and joined Markham in the grill.
 "The lunch is on you, old thing," said Vance. "But I'll make it easy. All I want is a rather of English bacon, a cup of coffee, and a croissant."
 Markham gave him a mocking smile.
 "I don't wonder you're economizing after your bad luck of last night."
 Vance's eyebrows went up.
 "I rather fancied my luck was most extraordinary."
 "You held four of a kind twice, and lost both hands."
 "But, y' see," blandly confessed Vance, "I happened to know both times exactly what cards my opponents held."
 Markham stared at him in amazement.
 "Quite so," Vance assured him. "I had arranged before the game, d'ye see, to have those particular hands dealt." He smiled benignly. "I can't tell you, old chap, how I admire your desire in not referring to my rather unique guest Mr. Allen, whom I had the bad taste to introduce so unceremoniously into your party. I owe you an explanation and an apology."
 "Mr. Allen is not what one would call a charming companion. He is deficient in the patrician elegance, and his display of jewelry was a bit vulgar—though I infinitely preferred his diamond studs to his plebeian tie."
 "But Mr. Allen has his points—decidedly he has his points. He ranks with Andy Blakely, Canfield, and Honest John Kelly as an indoor soldier of fortune. In fact, our Mr. Allen is none other than Doc Wiley Allen, of fragrant memory."
 "Doc Allen? Not the notorious old crook who ran the Eldorado Club?"
 "The same. And, incidentally, one of the cleverest card manipulators in a once lucrative but shady profession."
 "You mean this fellow Allen stacked the cards last night?" Markham was indignant.

"Only for the two hands you mentioned. Allen, if you happen to remember, was the dealer both times. I, who purposely sat on his right, was careful to cut the cards in accordance with his instructions. And you really must admit that no strictures can possibly attach to my deception, inasmuch as the only beneficiaries of Allen's manipulations were Cleaver and Spotswood. Although Allen did deal me four of a kind on each occasion, I lost heavily both times."
 Markham regarded Vance for a moment in puzzled silence, and then laughed good naturedly.
 "You appear to have been in a philanthropic mood last night. You practically gave Mannix a thousand dollars by permitting him to double the stakes on each draw. A rather quixotic procedure, I should say."
 "It all depends on one's point of view, don't y' know. Despite my financial losses—which, by the way, I have every intention of charging up to your office budget—the game was most successful. . . . Y' see, I attained the main object of my evening's entertainment."
 "Oh, I remember!" said Markham vaguely, as if the matter, being of slight importance, had for the moment eluded his memory. "I believe you were going to ascertain who murdered the Odell girl."
 "Amazim! memory! . . . Yes, I let fall the hint that I might be able to clarify the situation today."
 "And whom am I to arrest?"
 Vance took a drink of coffee and slowly lit a cigarette.
 "I'm quite convinced, y' know, that you won't believe me," he returned, in an even, matter-of-fact voice. "But it was Spotswood who killed the girl."
 "You don't tell me!" Markham spoke with undisguised irony. "So it was Spotswood! My dear Vance, you positively bowled me over. I would telephone Heath at once to polish up his handcuffs, but, unfortunately, miracles such as strangling persons from across a room—are not recognized possibilities in this day and age. . . . Do let me order you another croissant."
 Vance extended his hands in a theatrical gesture of exasperated despair.
 "For an educated, civilized man, Markham, there's something downright primitive about the way you cling to optical illusions. I say, y' know, you're exactly like an infant who really believes that the white mouse generates a rabbit in a silk hat, simply because he sees it done."
 "Now you're becoming insulting," "Rather!" Vance pleasantly agreed. "But something drastic must be done to disentangle you from the Lorelei of legal facts. You're so deficient in imagination, old thing."
 "I take it that you would have me close my eyes and picture Spotswood sitting upstairs here in the Stuyvesant Club and extending his arms to Tish street. But I simply couldn't do it. I'm a commonplace chap. Such a vision would strike me as ludicrous; it would smack of a hashish dream. . . . You yourself don't use Cannabis indica, do you?"
 "Put that way, the idea does sound a bit supernatural. And yet: Certum est quia impossibile est. I rather like that maxim, don't y' know; for, in the present case, the impossible is true. Oh, Spotswood's guilty—we doubt about it. And I'm going to cling tenaciously to that apparent hallucination."
 "Moreover, I'm going to try to sure you into its tolls; for your own—as we absurdly say—good name is at stake. As it happens, Markham, you are at this moment shielding the real murderer from publicity."

 Vance had spoken with the easy assurance that precludes argument; and from the altered expression on Markham's face I could see he was moved.
 "Tell me," he said, "how you arrived at your fantastic belief in Spotswood's guilt."
 Vance crushed out his cigarette and folded his arms on the table.
 "We begin with my quartet of possibilities—Mannix, Cleaver, Lindquist and Spotswood. Realizing, as I did, that the crime was carefully planned with the sole object of murder, I knew that only some one hopelessly ensnared in the lady's net could have done it. And no suitor outside of my quartet could have been thus ensnared, or we would have learned of him. Therefore, one of the four was guilty."
 "Now, Lindquist was eliminated when we found out that he was bedridden in a hospital at the time of Skeel's murder; for obviously the same person committed both crimes."
 "But," interrupted Markham, "Spotswood had an equally good alibi for the night of the Canary's murder. Why eliminate one and not the other?"
 "Sorry, but I can't agree with you. Being prostrated at a known place surrounded by incorruptible and disinterested witnesses, both preceding and during an event, is one thing; but being actually on the ground, as Spotswood was that fatal evening, within a few minutes of the time the lady was murdered, and then being alone in a taxicab for fifteen minutes or so following the event—that is another thing. No one, as far as we know, actually saw the lady alive after Spotswood took his departure."
 "But the proof of her having been alive and spoken to him is incontestable."
 "Granted. I admit that a dead woman doesn't scream and call for help, and then converse with her murderer."
 "I see," Markham spoke with sarcasm. "You think it was Skeel, disguising his voice."
 "Lord no! What a priceless notion! Skeel didn't want anyone to know he was there. Why should he have staged such a masterpiece of idiosyncrasy? That certainly isn't the explanation. When we find the answer it will be reasonable and simple."
 "That's encouraging," smiled Markham. "But proceed with your reasons for Spotswood's guilt."
 "Three of my quartet, then, were potential murderers," Vance resumed. "Accordingly, I requested an evening of social relaxation, that I might put them under the psychological microscope, as it were."
 "Although Spotswood's ancestry was wholly consistent with his having been the guilty one, nevertheless I confess I thought that Cleaver or Mannix had committed the crime; for, by their own statements, either of them could have done it without contradicting any of the known circumstances of the situation."
 "Therefore, when Mannix declined your invitation to play poker last night, I put Cleaver to the first test. I wigwagged to Mr. Allen, and he straightway proceeded to perform his first feat of prestidigitation."

Where Health and Bodily Beauty Begin

Expert Marjorie Dork Describes the Simple Diet and Exercise With Which They Originate.

"Don't be too heroic" when you start on the road to health and beauty, says Miss Dork, who prescribes these two simple exercises as a beginning; the squat (left) and the inhale-exhale.

It seems logical that we should eat all we need for strength and energy, but not manufacture strength and energy in advance. And if we know how to eat, we can do this, and be just the size we really should be.

I may be personal here, I will relate my own experience. At 23, I weighed 166 pounds. Now, at 38, I weigh 118 and have stayed at that weight for years.

Before I took up the exercises I teach in my own gymnasium, I went to a physician for a thorough examination of my heart, lungs and blood pressure. So far as digestion, respiration and physical condition were concerned, I was quite normal. Then I began to exercise and have kept at it ever since, not letting any day go by without a proper amount of limbering and stretching.

A Long Battle
If I were to give up scientific eating and stop exercising, I would probably go right back to 165 pounds. But you rest assured, I shall not.

So if you have a tendency to take on flesh it is just as well to realize that you will probably have to fight it the rest of your life. Do not get your body all toned up with the toxic poisons all eliminated and your physical machinery in perfect order, and then slip back into your old, unhealthful ways.

I advise you not to start until you have convinced yourself you are in earnest, until you are willing to cut down your food and your weight gradually so the change will not in any way effect your good health.

Don't be too heroic at the start. If you have been accustomed to large amounts of starch, sugar and fat, you cannot immediately be satisfied with simply cooked vegetables and fresh fruits.

Begin by eliminating butter from your diet, and eat what that will teach you moderation by degrees—and you won't want so much bread if you can't have butter. I am sure you will reduce a pound or so, just this way.

Then, make a measurement chart; take the measurements of your neck, upper arm, lower arm, bust, waistline, hipline, thigh, ankle and calf. Keep them recorded in a piece of paper which has spaces for many more entries. When you have exercised and dieted as I shall suggest in the following articles, take your measurements again.

You may not lose any weight when you get on the scales, but the measurements will be less. If you are faithful you will see it possible, with very little hardship, to lose inches, and then pounds. And getting down your score will be a game with you.

A Mild Beginning
For your first exercises, begin with these two, night and morning, and practice them daily, no matter what other specific ones you do:

Stand absolutely erect, with your back as straight as you can make it and your knees together. Stretch your arms straight out ahead of you and as you take in a full, deep breath of air, extend them as far as you can to the sides, then as you bring them back to the front, let the air come out from your lungs. Inhale and exhale. Do this at least ten times night and morning. It expands your lungs and is the greatest of all exercises for longevity.

The other one is the squat—it will keep your body limber and fit. With hands on hips, lower your body to a sitting posture until your hips rest on your heels. Do this five times night and morning at first and then increase the number as your muscles limber. Steady yourself by holding onto the back of a chair or you will find it hard to balance with hands on hips.

CRISP MOIRE.
Spring personified is a pale green moire evening gown with a draped skirt that makes an enormous pouf on one hip.

COLLARLESS NECKLINES.
Collarless necklines grow interesting this spring. One, in a blue tulle of ray has a tiny round yoke with the body meeting it in fine pin tucks.

MUSTY CELLAR SMELL Instantly Banished
Here's the way to make your cellar as healthful as any room in a house! Put a tablespoonful of Sypho-Nathol in a gallon of water and sprinkle the solution in dark corners of the cellar. Checks all organic decay, destroys unhygienic conditions and makes your cellar clean and sweet-smelling. Get Sypho-Nathol at all dealers.

Outwitting The Early Forties

By Olive Roberts Barton

We accept the make-up of the young women of today as a matter of course. But we are still inclined to ridicule the older woman who seeks the aid of the rouge pot to put a touch of bloom on her faded cheeks.

The flapper quite frankly dabs at her face in public with her make-up box, and even calmly must nonchalantly forget her own appearance, no matter how she looks, unless she can seek the seclusion of some quiet spot to refurbish her countenance.

In the matter of hair coloring, too, the young woman has all the innings. She will tell you quite openly that she needs a henna wash or that the dark shadow near the scalp is an indication that she must go for another bleach. She may even change from blonde to brunet and back and it doesn't cause a ripple of excitement.

But let an older woman use even the suggestion of hair dye and it must remain a dead secret or again she will be the target of criticism.

It is such a disgrace for a woman out of her thirties to try to look as well as she can? Madam Nature is not going to waste any time doing it for her, and no one can convince me that Nature's neglect, which means thin, graying locks, colorless, larkening skin, and whitish lips, looks better than skillful grooming and cleverly put on make-up.

I could have kissed a man who said to his wife one evening, "Mary, you've got some rouge on, haven't you? I wish you'd always use it. You haven't looked so pretty for years."
One time a man said, "When I see an older woman who thinks enough of herself and her friends to make her appearance pleasing, I feel like shaking her by the hand and saying, 'Thank you!'"

I think most men feel that way. So why shouldn't women stop their tongue-wagging and allow their sisters a little latitude in using a vanity-box if she wishes?
And use a little themselves!

HINTS ON ETIQUET

1. Which is correct for luncheon tables—colored or white linen?

2. For the formal dinner, what linen is usually used?

3. Must dinner napkins match the cloths?

The Answers
1. At present, colorful luncheon sets are more popular though white runners or cloths are always good.

2. Conservative white damask is still preferred by most persons of good taste, though colored damask is making inroads.

3. No. They are often of fine linen, rather than damask.

SILK SHIRTS.
With the growing importance of the blouse, silk shirts return. Finely checked, dotted and flowered silks are used for them.

NATURAL STRAW.
Some of the season's most stunning hats are of natural colored straws. One has stichings in navy blue from the crown through the brim on the whole left side.

STRIPED GOWNS.
An unusually stunning evening gown is one of black mousseline, silver striped. A bolero and skirt yoke use the stripes horizontally, the rest of the gown, vertically.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

"Long hair will not return," says Monsieur Antoine, famous hair dresser, "until life gets less complicated for women. Women will change their philosophy and have less job in their lives before they bother with long hair again."

Which is just about the first sensible word I have heard on this short-or-long subject for some time.
"MEAT"
Should the weak child, the abnormal child in a family, set the pace of that family's life, no matter what disasters this policy makes for the normal strong children? Or should the strong be considered first by parents, in the realization that it is worse to make the fit unfit than to make the unfit more unfit? This is the stimulating theme of "Meat" by Wilbur Daniel Steele, a new novel which no parent can afford to miss.

WORLD IS FOR WELL.
Anne believes that the world is made for the strong until her own defective little son, Rex, is born. Then, with mentality strangled by blind instinct, she dictates her life, her home, and the life of her husband and two normal children to the weakling. As a result, everyone is destroyed, including even the unit one who might have been made more fit if his mother had not pondered to his weakness. Many problems of the age are answered in Steele's blunt declaration that the world was made for well people and must be operated on that basis.

CAN'T WORK ALONE
Women dry agents of New York are especially used to raid night clubs. Since the only way to get the evidence is to mingle with the guests, the lady raiders doll up in their evening duds, line up an escort, and do their stuff. Please note that "line up their escorts." The most capable, independent business woman sooner or later learns that there is one tradition which she cannot flout, and that there comes a stage in her career when she must make a traditional feminine gesture and admit her dependence on a male. She cannot attend formal affairs unescorted. She may weigh 300 and be 7 feet tall but she may not go alone. If she takes a peanut in male disguise with her, said peanut weighing 75 pounds and as capable of raising "you" song at the time he is capable of slugging an elephant, she may go forth among them.

But a man may go anywhere, at any time quite alone, if he cares to.

POOR BERLINS!
When Irving Berlin says that his wife isn't sick, nobody will believe him, for the world points to his new song, "Sunshine" which says:
"Pay your doctor bills. Throw away your pills. You can cure your ills With sunshine."
HERE'S PROOF
They remind the song writer that all his songs have always been expressive of important incidents of his life: "When I Lost You" song at the time he was denying his engagement to Ellen Mackay; "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" song when he was in the army, and the "I'll Be Loving You 'Always" song when he was first married to the millionaire's daughter. Just one more proof that it must be horrible to be famous and not be able to even wipe one's nose without the surmises of the world as to what it all means!

MARYE and MOM

Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Mom:
I hate to tell you what happened on my long drive with Billy Bartlett, but since we've always been such good pals I think I will because I'd like to know if you think I was to blame. I don't see how I could have been and the whole thing was the greatest surprise to me.

I feel terribly sorry because I hadn't any idea such a thing could happen. He seems to be such a kid. And he was so nice about it. I can't help feeling friendly with him. I know how to make him come out of it. It would be cruel to be angry with him for I know he tried to hide his true feelings from me.

Don't you think the best way is just to keep on being friendly with him and let it wear off? I would take a few more driving lessons and it might be a good thing to have him come in and get acquainted with Alan. What do you think, Mom?
Sincerest love,
MARYE.

AMERICA HAS 80 SPECIES OF POISON MUSHROOMS
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The wife, daughter and two sons of the Greek poet Euripides, died many centuries ago after eating poisonous mushrooms.

A French investigator found more than 100 deaths in the neighborhood of Paris in a period of forty years toward the end of the eighteenth century.

Indeed, the medical literature of France, Germany and Austria shows records of thousands of cases with hundreds of deaths each year all over the world from this cause.

Dr. S. R. Damon points out that there are no simple tests by which the laymen can distinguish poisonous from harmless mushrooms. The superstition that peeling the top shows something of the cooking with a silver spoon will indicate the poisonous variety is without the slightest scientific foundation.

The only safe rule for those who want to eat mushrooms is to study the matter scientifically or to depend on those who have made a serious study of the question.

There are more than 80 species growing in America that are known to be poisonous. Almost everyone is familiar with the first symptoms of mushrooms poisoning. These include acute pain in the abdomen and the attempt of the stomach and intestines to get rid of the poisonous material.

In a few days the person becomes jaundiced, turns blue and if the case is going to be fatal, gradually lapses into unconsciousness.

To a certain extent, the methods of treatment used depend on the exact type of poisonous mushroom that has been eaten. In every case, the first thing to do is to get out of the stomach and intestines any of the material that can be recovered. This is the general rule in every type of poisoning. A physician when called will inject atropine, a drug which seems to have special virtue in overcoming the dangerous symptoms. The intense pain is relieved by the giving of sedative drugs and narcotic anesthetics are used to protect the kidneys against the damage that may come to them from the poisonous substances. One of the mushrooms contains a poison which is particularly dangerous to the endings. For this type of poisoning the atropine is almost a specific.

WALSH INSPECTS A $200,000 CLUB Brooklyn Dodgers Rated at That Figure; Expert Analyzes the Various Players

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the sixth of a series of articles by Davis J. Walsh, dealing with developments in various Major League training camps. Other articles of the series will follow.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH (L. N. S. Sports Editor)

Clearwater, Fla., March 12.—The writer had the privilege today of gazing upon a $200,000 ball club. At least, the payroll said it was a $200,000 outfit, a fact that might be deemed sufficient to prompt the late Charley Ebbets to turn turtle in the former club.

When a ball club which holds the head of the second division as its abiding ambition, is willing to pay and does pay Arnold Stutz a salary of $10,000 a season, the faculty of reason fairly totters on its throne.

Robinson to Blame Mr. Wilbert Robinson, the open faced, Swiss movement president-manager of the club, seems to be the spot for this policy of prodigality. It is to be doubted that Charlie would have listened very attentively to Stutz's $10,000 talk of salesmanship.

As for David J. Bancroft, player-manager of the 1927 Braves, Charley would have had him arrested if he had requested a $15,000 contract, plus a $30,000 bonus, $45,000 in all, but Mr. Robinson says it is all right and as far as the rest of the world, including Bancroft, is concerned, that just about closes the transaction.

"Bancroft is the key man of the situation here," Mr. Robinson claims. "Our great pitching last year failed to put us over two reasons; first, our infield was a first class sieve; second, we had no hitting or at least I never caught the boys at it."

"Well, we still have the pitching and more. To my regular staff of Dazzy Vance, Jess Petty, Jim Elliott, Bill Doak, Watson Clark, Ruben Ehrhardt and Doug McWeeny, the best in all baseball in my opinion, we will add the services of Louis Koupal, the Los Angeles boy who was with the Pirates last year, and with Indianapolis, the club that sent Petty up and unless I'm crazy Koupal will do this time."

"Bancroft will improve our infield in himself and with better men at first and third bases, the whole works will be better and more efficient. And if you think an old head like Bancroft's won't steady a young player like Partridge at second base, then you and I must agree to disagree."

"I'll admit 'The Old Man' hasn't a scoring punch but you'll see he runs and more victories this year, also less games lost by one run. With pitching like ours, anything is possible."

Bancroft, as claimed, is the key man of the infield. If he is the old Banny, which is to be doubted, he can and will make an infield out of any three men. The Braves say he has slipped beyond all reason but Robbie only smiles at that crack. It is the latter's idea that Bancroft worried himself out of a job last year, a theory that isn't altogether sustained by the young man's age, which is 35.

Infielders usually do not outlive that milestone. However, if you can't get off a watch crystal out there, you will be a prime necessity to the operation of a kid infield, and other members of which are Del Bissnette at first base; Jimmy Patridge at second and Harry Riconda at third. The latter has been up and down the front elevator but he had an encouraging year with Milwaukee this time and has shown enough down here to take the place away from Howard Freigau, of Dayton, Ohio, and Kansas City, and who had his fling with the Cubs and Cardinals.

D'Arcy Flowers, former Card is available in case Bancroft bows down. Bissnette, who once deemed himself a pitcher with the Yankees, hit so well in the International League last year that he has been wished into Babe Herman's job at first base and Herman informed, much to his surprise, that he is an outfielder.

The Added Punch The added punch of which Mr. Robinson speaks so glibly is supposed to be furnished by Bissnette and Bancroft in the infield and by Ay Tyson, the new addition to the outfield. Albert couldn't hit the size of his board bill with the Giants but he went well in Buffalo and so he is back with the only club that will pay $10,000 to a man who hits .265. Tyson is and will be the regular left fielder until further notice. Carey, no longer a hitter, will be in right, with Harvey Hendricks, always a hitter but never a fielder, available in utility roles but as outfielders and first basemen, Stutz, one of the finest defensive men the game affords, will roam center field. Overton Tremper, former University of Pennsylvania man, has a chance to stay, if he hits, but Dan Taylor, of Memphis and Lash, Penn., has little or none. The old line of catchers, Hank Deberry, Butch Henline and Charley Hargraves, again is around and about, which probably means that Hugh Wise, Purdue University, won't be for goes, he merely will be following Alonzo Lopez of Jacksonville, who took a one way ride, by request, the other day.

Local Sport Chatter

The Rec Five basketball will practice tomorrow night at 7:15. All players are requested to report. The Knights of Lithuania were said to have been so well satisfied with Herb Smith's work as referee in the game last Friday night that they asked him to work in their game with the Yankees this week. Smith, however, is booked for Plainfield.

"Dutch" Senkbell and Jack Nelson both claim that they could beat Jud Gallup in a pool match providing a sidebet was at stake.

Division No. One of the Community Club Junior League will play tonight at the K. of C. Hall. The Bon Am and Construction Company bowling teams are planning a match. The former is in the Herald League and the other was in the Commercial winning the pennant.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Three births occurred at Memorial hospital over the week-end. A son was born Saturday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harrison of 33 Myrtle street. This morning daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of 26 Woodland street and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Douglas of 213 School street.

Patients admitted were Mrs. Camello Aloisio of 239 Middle Turnpike, Paul Brandt of 26 Ashworth street, Miss Anna Zachark of 299 Woodland street, Mrs. Annie Wright of Rockville, Miss Dorothy Vanabrooke of 132 Maple street and two year old Barbara Denler of 13 Winter street.

Patients discharged were Louis Radding of 49 Summit street and Mrs. George Denier and infant daughter of 13 Winter street. The census today is forty.

HOLD LAST REHEARSAL FOR 'HAUNTED HOUSE'

The final rehearsal for "The Haunted House," which the Town Players will present in the Circle theater, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Manchester Girl Scout Council, will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the Recreation Center. This will be a dress rehearsal and all of the players are asked to bring their costumes.

The scene of the play is Cedar Point, Conn., in the summer home of a New York lawyer. The house is supposed to be haunted and the ghosts and spooks make themselves evident all through the piece. A young married couple come to the place and each is in turn accused of murder by a bare-brained author. Before the play is over practically everybody in the cast is suspected and the mystery is not solved until the extreme end of the third act.

Louis Smith is responsible for the direction of the play and Miss Ruth Calhoun has supervised its production. Property and costume committees include Miss Mildred Tinker, Miss Eugenia Walsh and Miss Helen Estes. Committees from the Girl Scout council have arranged for the theater, the program and the ticket distribution. Tickets are on sale at the Recreation Center and may be exchanged at the Dewey-Richman store or at the School street Rec for Reserved seats.

Cervini-Campbell Lead IN SETBACK TOURNNEY

Cervini and Campbell lead the public setback tournament, weekly sessions of which are held on Monday nights at the School Street Rec. They have totaled 412 points in the first three nights of play. Another Cup Please

There's something about the flavor of REALLY GOOD COFFEE that cries aloud for a second cup.

We have some of that really good coffee that many particular Manchester people (and some that live out of town) insist on having. It is not a new brand. We've sold it for years and our predecessor before us but we've never said much about it. It has sold itself.

Not a package coffee; we buy it in quantity and grind it fresh, just as you like it.

Wouldn't you like to try a pound?

WEATHER CUTS DOWN AUDIENCE AT "GALLIA" 86 PER CENT OF PUPILS IN SCHOOLS ARE SAVERS

The G Clef Glee club of the Swedish Lutheran church, assisted by Miss Eleanor Willard, soprano soloist of the South Methodist church choir, gave Gounoud's cantata "Gallia," before an audience which the bad weather made smaller than usual, in the former church last night. Miss Willard's solos were excellently sung as she was in fine voice. The chorus numbers were also well rendered.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monroeville, Pa., U.S.A.

"JEWELS OF DESIRE"

CONTINUES AT RIALTO

Film Stars Priscilla Dean; "Sineux of Steel" Is Co-Feature.

"Jewels of Desire," a Pathé-DeMille special production starring Priscilla Dean opened at W. R. Campbell's Rialto Theatre to a capacity audience last evening. This splendid melodrama, together with another big feature, will be repeated tonight. "Jewels of Desire" is a screen version of the famous magazine story by Agnes Farnes. Paul Powell handled the direction and he deserves worthy praise for such a masterful picture. John Bowers, Luke Cosgrove and Walter Long are seen in the supporting cast.

The companion-features is "Sineux of Steel" starring Albert Vaughn. Sineux Vaughn proves to her admirers that it is but a step from the so-called "slapstick" comedy to drama. Hundreds remember her excellent work in "The Telephone Girl" and "Adventures of Muzic". In this picture she is seen in the role of a young girl who has the entire burden of running a large steel plant on her shoulders.

REScue THREE BODIES

Syracuse, N. Y., March 12.—Three bodies today had been recovered from the icy waters of Jacks Reefs, 15 miles west of here in the Canada canal, and staid troopers were dragging for a fourth. The bodies were thrown into the canal when an automobile failed to make a curve leading up to a bridge, shot through a concrete wall and plunged down fifty feet into the water.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. George N. Knapp, of Auburn, Mrs. Flora Ambuster, a sister of Mrs. Knapp and George W. Davison, of New York.

WAPPING

Mrs. Truman H. Woodward and little daughter, Joan, were ill with tonsillitis last week and under the care of Dr. Moore of Manchester. Mrs. Dorothy Donahue went to Newark, New Jersey over the weekend to see her husband, Daniel W. Donahue, who is working there.

The members of the Wapping Cemetery Association are to hold their annual meeting of the association at the Wapping Library on Monday evening, March 12.

Robert Jillson of Long Hill street is driving a new Chrysler car.

Miss Josephine McGrath entertained a bridge party at her home Thursday evening. Miss Ellen McGrath won first prize.

The supposed phenomenon of red snow, seen many times at 6,000 feet above sea level on Mount Albert Edward, British Columbia, has been explained as being due to the presence of a minute plant known to botanists as proteococcus nivalis.

STALLED CAR CRASH

James Madden of Vernon Brings Accident For $1,500 For Personal Injuries.

James Madden of Vernon, whose Ford stalled on the tracks at Dobsonville on November 3 of last year, and was struck by a New York, New Haven and Hartford train, has brought suit against the railroad for $1,500, alleging personal injury.

Madden, with a companion, was driving over the crossing when his car stalled. It was struck by a train and carried about 20 feet. Madden claims that he was thrown to one side and was bruised about the body and head.

At the time of the accident the Ford was not otherwise damaged. At the time of the accident it was assumed that Madden and his companion had escaped injury. He has engaged Carmody & Shea of this town to press the action.

TRIBESMEN GATHERING

London, March 12.—Outposts along the frontier of Trans-Jordan formerly a part of the Turkish empire, lying east of Palestine and south of Syria, are being menaced by 10,000 Wahabi Tribesmen, who are massed near Tebuk, according to a Jerusalem dispatch to the Daily Express today quoting reports received from Amman. Emir Abdullah, of Trans-Jordan, is reported to have asked Lord Plumer, British high commissioner to Teles line, to take defensive measures.

GAS BUGGIES—Friendly Enemies

I'M CONVINCED HE'S AFTER THE CROWN JEWELS. WHEN HE FOUND HE COULDN'T CATCH US NAPPING AT THE HOTEL, HE DECIDED TO TRAIL US. WELL, FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED. HE'LL BE TRYING TO MAKE FRIENDS NEXT. LOOK HE'S SNEAKING AND SMIRKING AT US ALREADY.

HEM AND ANY DISCOVERED THAT THE STRANGER, WHO HAD BEEN HANGING AROUND THEIR HOTEL DOOR RECENTLY AFTER THEY GOT THE CROWN JEWELS, WAS ABOARD THEIR TRAIN. THEY DECIDED IT WAS NO ORDINARY SALE.

HEM... GOOD EVENING, FOLKS. AWFULLY NICE OF YOU TO LET ME INTRUDE. ALLOW ME TO THANK YOU AND THERE'S THE LITTLE MAN WHO SMILED AT ME AWHILE AGO. HELLO, SONNY!!

HELLO!

HEM... BUT MAY WE SEAT A PARTY AT THIS TABLE? THE TRAIN IS SO CROWDED.

SAY! I PAID ENOUGH FOR OUR TICKETS TO BE ENTITLED TO A...

CERTAINLY, WAITER. IT'S PERFECTLY ALL RIGHT.

YOU'LL NOTICE I'M NOT FALLING OUT OF MY SEAT WAVING BACK AT HIM. NO SIR, I'LL GIVE HIM SUCH A RECEPTION HE'LL THINK HE'S PASSING THE NORTH POLE. COME ON, WE'LL GO INTO THE DINING CAR.

PARDON, SIR, BUT MAY WE SEAT A PARTY AT THIS TABLE? THE TRAIN IS

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

A colored man employed to wash windows at a certain factory was working so modestly that his actions might very well be termed "slow motion."

Mandy Changes Her Name Mandy, the cook, cannot read. She always made the customary cross on her checks until last Monday when she amazed the cashier of the bank by making a circle.

Liza the cook, had worked all week on a dress which she intended to wear to a Saturday picnic. After being satisfied that the garment fitted perfectly, she was careful in seeing that it was laundered properly and put away ready for picnic wear.

When she returned to work the following Sunday morning, her mistress, who had taken an intense interest in Liza's earnest endeavor to be well groomed for the affair, asked, "Did you get any compliments on your dress yesterday, Liza?"

To which, with a roughish grin, Liza replied, "Yes, mam, jist a few drops."

Oscar—"Does yo' wife always hab de las words?"

The applicant for the place of cook was rather untidy in appearance and moreover insolent in manner. "Don't engage her," whispered Smith to his wife, "I don't like her looks."

"But," remonstrated Mrs. Smith, "just consider the reputation for cooking she bears."

"That doesn't matter," said Smith, testily, "We don't want any she bears cooked. We don't like 'em."

"Jedge," a very large and determined colored woman announced as she ushered a frightened ex-husband into his honor's chamber, "dis nigger ain't paid me one cent ob alimony for sebben months."

"What's the matter, Sam?" sternly inquired the judge. "Haven't you been working lately?"

"Nosh," was the response. "Ah ain't bin able to find mah dice."

Liza—"Dat certainly is a beautiful engagement ring. What size is dat diamond?"

Rastus—"Dat is de twenty-year installment size!"

A colored man being interviewed by authorities in regard to a shooting affray gave to the world this bit of philosophy:

"Ah didn't see nothin' so ah don't know nothin'!"

"You all know, boss, I spends six months of every year 'tendin' mah own business and ah spends the other six months of the year tryin' to keep from 'tendin' other people's business so all in all, it's a buy man."

If all the boarders in the world were placed side by side, they would reach.

LETTER GOLF

There isn't so much difference between MEAT and FISH after all—only four jumps in letter golf, and perhaps you can make the change in less. One solution is printed on another page.

Letter golf grid with MEAT and FISH words.

THE RULES. 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

"Bredren," said the colored preacher, "you have come to pray for rain Bredren, de foundation of religion am faith. What is yo' faith. You comes to pray for rain and not one of you brings his umbrella."

We are solemnly warned that jazz dances are leading the white races back to barbarism. It seems that the pit of destruction that yawns for our civilization has a black bottom.

THE TINYMITES

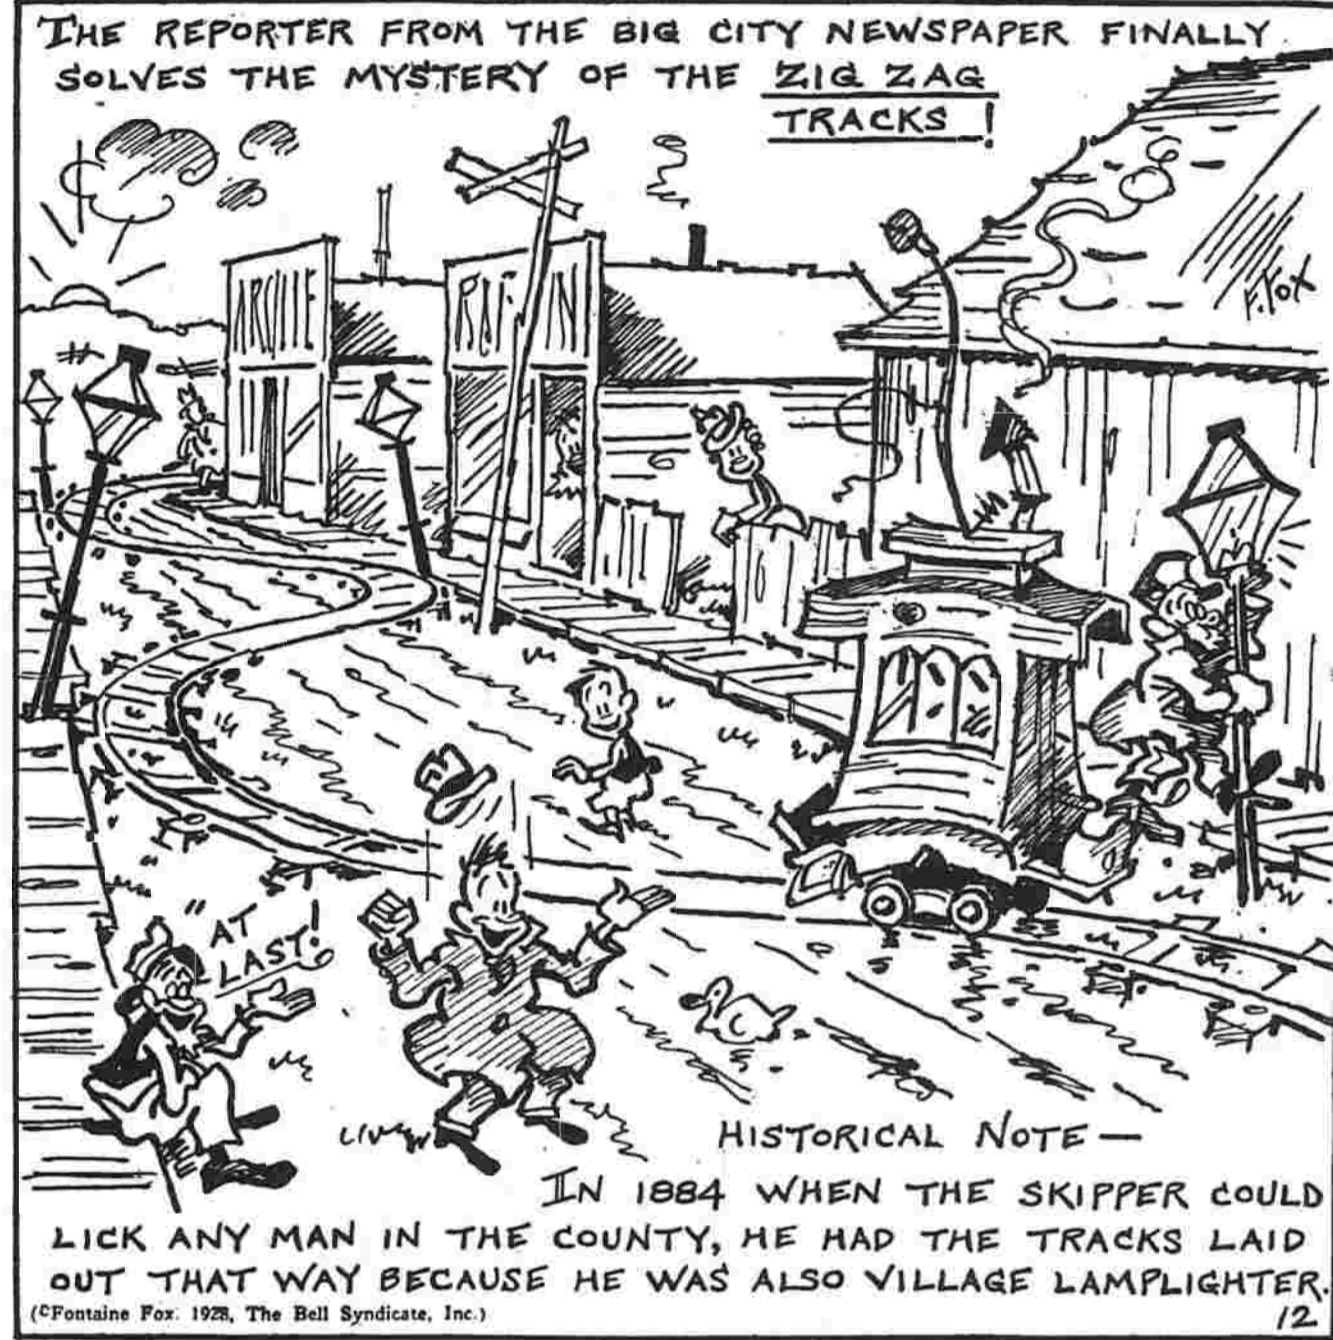

Wee Clowny almost danced a jig. "I never saw a cake so big," said he, "and I am thrilled to think where it will lead us to. Come on, let's walk right through that door, 'cause that is what a door is for." The baker man then added, "That's the proper thing to do."
