

EXPERTS SCOFF AT THEORY OF
S-4 SUICIDES

Say Safety Gear Was Removed to Let Water Kill the Poisonous Gas Within the Hull.

Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., March 21.—Discovery was made today that the interlocking gear on one of the torpedo tubes of the submarine S-4 had been removed while Lieutenant Graham Newell Fitch and his five brave companions were entombed in the submarine on the ocean floor 102 feet below the surface off Provincetown.

Naval examiners, who pointed out that tampering with this safety gear is unpardonable in submarine service, scoffed at a theory of suicide. They declared that undoubtedly the men in the torpedo room took a desperate chance of letting water slowly seep into the room in the forecastle, hoping that the slowly rising water would keep the pure compressed air and oxygen from the chamber of courage and death. The missing gear, which goes the work on a torpedo tube that a safety lock does on a rifle, was found on top of the torpedo tube.

Naval officers, examining the submersible in drydock here, said today they were of the opinion that Lieut. Fitch was the last to die on the ship.

Used Piece of Pipe. Lieut. C. H. K. Miller discovered a piece of brass pipe. This, as well as a socket wrench, had been used to tap messages to the outside world. The lighter piece of pipe was used by the lieutenant when his condition became so weakened that he was unable to handle the wrench.

When naval divers, during the winter entered the engine room of the S-4 they were followed by a 46-pound dog fish. The body of the big fish was found today and discovery cleared up the mystery surrounding the mutilation of some of the bodies brought from the engine room, it was stated by naval officials.

The watch chain of Lieut. Donald Weller, a knife, a stopped boat watch, which had topped a $3.95 open jewel watch key was discovered in the muddy apartments of the submersible today.

SEVEN POINT GAIN IN "RADIO" TODAY

Millions of Dollars Lost By Bears in Wall Street on Exchange.

New York, March 21.—Millions of dollars were added to the staggering losses of the bears in Wall Street today when the advanced of America shot up seven points to 162, the highest point that stock has reached, and General Motors moved upward two points to 175. A record high for all time for that stock.

The seven-point advance in Radio this morning increased the value of the 1,155,000 shares of outstanding stock $8,085,000. Today's jump followed an 18-point rise in Radio yesterday.

"Bulls" in "the street" are making a clean-up, in no way better shown than by the steady advance of General Motors, a standard investment stock. When the bull movement started on March 3, General Motors was selling around 140. This 35-point advance in less than three weeks has added $609,000,000 to the market value of the 17,400,000 shares of outstanding General Motors stock.

Radio opened this morning at 153; a decline of two points from last night's close, but quickly rallied and skyrocketed to 162. Trading was almost as violent as in the spectacular sessions of the last fortnight, more than 25,000 shares of Radio changing hands in the first half hour.

Well-informed Wall street traders say that Radio's recent advances have resulted from buying competition.

MANY FAMILY TREES IN NEED OF SPRAYING

Boston, Mass., March 21.—"It may be a descendant of our early settlers," Judge George D. Alden, direct descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, told 500 members of the Traffic Club of New England at a dinner here, "but I am not one of these ancestry hounds. Neither do I believe in this family tree stuff—too many of them need spraying."

REPORTS THAT AVIATORS ARE FOUND, UNTRUE

Maine Hears That Captain Hinchcliffe and Miss Mackay Are in the Big North Woods.

Portland, Me., March 21.—A report widely circulated here today that Captain Walter Hinchcliffe and Hon. Elsie Mackay had come out of the great north woods of Maine after their airplane had been wrecked on White Top mountain, was discounted later when inquiries throughout the Moosehead lake region and in Aroostook county failed to disclose any trace of the missing trans-Atlantic fliers.

First Report. The first report said that Captain Hinchcliffe and Miss Mackay had made their way to a farmhouse in Patten, Aroostook county, on the northern edge of the Maine forests. Inquiry there by long distance telephone and subsequent search of the district around Patten showed that the intruders fliers were not in Patten.

A game warden suggested that Patten was confused with a little hamlet known as "Potton" 25 miles north of Greenville junction. But inquiry in all the camps around Greenville and Kinsport station half way up Moosehead lake failed to reveal anything to confirm the report.

Telephone offices in Patten and throughout the Moosehead lake region were fairly swamped by telephone calls from all parts of the east.

COLLEGE BOYS AID FIREMEN AT BLAZE

Brown Students Battle Fire in Dormitory—Loss Estimated At Over $50,000.

Providence, R. I., March 21.—Brown University students became firemen in aiding the fire department this afternoon in battling a fire that swept the upper floors of Slater dormitory, the oldest dormitory here.

The fire started on the top and fourth floor occupied by Juniors. There were no undergraduates in the dormitory at the time of the outbreak. Two alarms were sounded but the fire had gained considerable headway. Slater dormitory stood in the center of the Brown campus and for a time other buildings in the group were menaced. The fire loss will be about $50,000 it was estimated.

DEATH OF ATWOOD WAS ACCIDENTAL

New Haven, Conn., March 21.—Coroner Eli Mix finds no one responsible for the death of Lewis I. Atwood, Hartford insurance broker, at Wallingford on March 12, but he recommends that the Ward street railroad crossing, where Atwood was struck by a train be protected by flagman or flashing light.

Coroner Mix tells in his finding of the efforts of Atwood to escape by driving his car down the track ahead of the train and of Frank S. Goble, railroad engineer, trying in vain to stop his long train. The coroner says: "The engineer had no reason to anticipate a motor vehicle would be upon said track and in front of his engine."

Miss Helen Bauer, of 56 Tremont street, Hartford, riding with Atwood, tried to him to jump and he replied "No, I won't jump." Then the girl opened the door and escaped easily.

MORAN GUILTY. New York, March 21.—Brooklyn "Red" Moran, 21-year-old Brooklyn gangster who was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury last night following his second trial for the slaying of Patrolman Edward P. Byrns, was remanded to Raymond street jail today for sentence of death on March 26.

Lindy Gets the Wilson Peace Prize

Colonel Lindybergh, adjudged to have done more to promote international good-will during 1927 than any other living man, receives the Woodrow Wilson Foundation's peace medal at New York from Norman H. Davis, the foundation chairman. With it went a cash award of $25,000.

Our War Correspondence Is Given To Public Today

How Our Diplomats in Europe Told Graphic Story Of Impending Trouble That Lead to War.

Washington, March 21.—"The situation in Europe is regarded as the gravest in history. It is apprehended that civilization is threatened by the demoralization which would follow a general conflagration."

In these ringing words did Ambassador Herrick, in Paris, appeal to President Wilson personally, on July 23, 1914, to stem the mad tide of war then sweeping over Europe from the Balkans.

His message, made public as a part of the American war correspondence released today by the

INDIANA PUBLISHER SAYS BOOZE WAS REMOVED TO BRIBE POLITICIANS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—Alleging that the Indiana political scandal is of federal concern, Thomas H. Adams, crusading Vincennes publisher, here today wrote an open letter to U. S. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, requesting a Congressional investigation of the Hoosier tangle.

"I ask you to present our case to Congress for complete investigation, as there are many federal wrongs that must be corrected," Adams letter said.

The Vincennes newspaperman listed the following charges as being of interest to federal investigators:

1. The famous black boxes of D. C. Stephenson, who was the political ruler of Indiana, contain contracts he made with two Congressmen for political patronage.

2. Bonded whiskey at an estimated value of $100,000 was removed illegally from the federal building at Indianapolis to be used for political purposes.

SEN. ROBINSON AGAIN ATTACKS GOV. AL SMITH

Wonders How New York Executive Would Speak to Europe If He Were Elected President.

Washington, March 21.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith's fiery letter denying that Harry F. Sinclair had ever contributed to his campaign, and his sniping remarks in the House who dragged his name into the oil inquiry, prompted another attack on him in the Senate today by Senator Robinson, Republican of Indiana.

It was Robinson who first introduced Smith's name in the debate on the oil scandals, and he returned to the attack today, using Smith's letter as a basis.

Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, defended Smith as an "upright, untrammelled statesman."

"I understand that Smith is a candidate for president," said Robinson. "I wonder if one of his temperment should go to the White House, what kind of language would he use in his dealings with the United States and foreign countries?"

"It looks as if there might be trouble from the beginning. 'What started it all?' Last Monday I merely asked Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, whether Harry F. Sinclair was a member of the Smith administration in 1922, 1923, 1924 and possibly 1925. I thought that Smith had appointed Sinclair to the state racing commission. Smith said Sinclair was a member. The question was perfectly honest."

"The record shows that Smith twice appointed Sinclair to the commission, once to an unexpired term, and then to a full term. Robinson also dragged E. L. Doheny, former of the Elk Hill naval reserves into the picture, saying that the oil man had received votes as vice presidential candidate in the 1920 Democratic convention.

Copeland read into the record of Smith's denial of receiving any contributions from Sinclair.

HOLD 13 SUSPECTS IN STORE "BREAKS"

New Haven Police Think They Have All Members Of State Gang.

New Haven, Conn., March 21.—Police here believe they finally have completely rounded up a gang that has been active for months in robbing clothing stores and tailor shops, and disposing of the goods so that they could be re-sold. Thirteen men are under arrest, four having been captured in Stamford early this month after an attempted burglary in Norwalk and later committed to Bridgeport jail for trial in the Superior Court. The Stamford arrests led to the round-up here.

Philip Fanichel and Louis Ross, both in the clothing business here, were arrested, and police charge them with being the directors of the gang, and the men who disposed of the stolen goods.

Four Fairfield county deputy sheriffs came here today with the men arrested at Stamford, who agreed to appear as witnesses against the others. The prisoners from Fairfield county are John Sheridan, Ralph Rohloff, Michael Quinn, and William Hunt, all New Haveners. A Police Court hearing of the nine others started at eleven a. m. and was expected to last at least two days unless counsel for the men make some sudden change of course.

Other members of the alleged gang on trial today are Harold Finkle, Dominick Longella, Anthony Corson, Peter George, and Henry Allison. Allison is called the active leader of the men.

Police of other cities are here watching the case, having been informed that the men under arrest had confessed fifteen burglaries in six different towns in the state.

5 YOUTHS ARRESTED. Stamford, Conn., March 21.—Five South Norwalk youths were picked up here today in a car said to have been stolen in New Canaan, and were sent back to that town for trial. One of the boys was a minor. The others were James Timpack, 17, John Bado, 20, William Bado, 19, and Louis Kerekos, 20.

MARSH DENIES A PACT WITH G. O. P. OFFICIAL

Russia Has One Bathtub For Every 1,000 Persons

Moscow, March 21.—Shocking housing conditions are revealed in the first detailed census report ever published in Soviet Russia. This report, copies of which were available today, shows that the average Russian lives in an area no larger than the top of an ordinary dining room table.

In the cities there is only one kitchen to every 12 persons. There is one bathtub for every 1,000 persons. For the 147,000,000 residents of the Soviet Union there are only 187,000,000 square yards of floor space.

Increase in Population. The Russian population increased 41,000,000 or 38 per cent in the past 30 years despite the fact that 2,000,000 were killed in the war; another 2,000,000 died in the famine years of 1920 and 1921, and about 1,500,000 were killed in the revolution and subsequent civil wars.

While propaganda films and newspapers repeatedly picture the slums of London and New York as "terrible abodes of the oppressed laboring masses in capitalist countries," the whole Soviet Union exists on an average of four persons to a room. About 85 per cent of the inhabitants live on farms where the rooms are usually shared with chickens, dogs, cats, pigs and sometimes cows.

ALL FURBISHING UP FOR OPENING DAY

Let Everybody Come, Is Slogan of Merchants For Annual Display.

The first day of Spring is being fittingly observed on Main street. Such a cleaning and polishing, painting and redecorating, and general furbitishing up has not been witnessed in the Manchester stores for many a day.

This is not entirely a tribute to the Goddess of Spring, but rather a concerted cooperative preparation for the annual spring opening of the Manchester retail stores.

The combined retail of this general brightening up by all the merchants in anticipation of the spring opening, combined with the special effects which will be put into the show windows in connection with the window dressing contest, are bound to make Main street the most attractive shopping district within a wide radius, and it should be the mecca of the entire town's population at some time between 6 p. m. tomorrow and 9 p. m. on Friday, during which time the special displays will be in.

The judging of the windows will be done sometime during this period and large silver loving cups will be awarded to the winners of the first prize in the various classifications.

Contrary to the usual practice of having the stores open for inspection only, this year the stores will be open for business all day Thursday until 9 p. m. This will give the public an opportunity to evaluate freely through all the stores and to purchase or not as they see fit. The merchants, however, urge that people come freely and not to hesitate to enter a store simply because they do not intend to purchase.

This will be primarily a Spring Opening, with the stores on parade. The more colorful the merchants have the better pleased they will be, by buying being merely incidental.

PRONOUNCED SUICIDE WOMAN STILL LIVES

Found in Pullman Berth With Poison in Purse—Comes to Life in Morgue.

Washington, March 21.—Capital police were confronted with a puzzling mystery today in the case of a young woman found apparently lifeless in a Pullman berth on a train reaching here from New York at 6:05 a. m.

The body was removed to the station morgue, where it lay for more than an hour while doctors and station officials tried to discover some marks or means of identification. Chloroform and bichloride of mercury tablets were found in her purse, but little else, and she was pronounced a suicide.

The district morgue master was then summoned, and he removed the body to the city morgue where it was laid out. In the process of this operation, a slight twitching of the neck muscles was observed, and a hurry call was put in for a hospital ambulance, and doctor. When the hospital doctor arrived it was found the woman still lived, and the rescue squad was summoned.

Former Official Says He Was Never in Upham's Office Nor Ever Telephoned to Him—Contradicts Statements Made By Republican Secretaries.

Washington, March 21.—Wilbur W. Marsh, former Democratic national treasurer, denied today under oath the charge that an agreement existed between the Republican and Democratic treasurers to conceal campaign contributions in 1923.

Marsh admitted however that he did not file a report in 1923 but explained it was not required by law. Questioned by the Senate oil committee, Marsh flatly denied he ever agreed with the late Fred W. Upham, Republican national treasurer to keep their 1923 contributions secret.

He frequently contradicted A. V. Leonard and Virgil G. Hilpsey, Upham's secretaries, who testified previously that Upham told them of the agreement.

The Democratic deficit of 1920 was about $200,000 which was not liquidated until 1924, he said. $100,000 of the deficit was a "hang-over debt" from the 1918 campaign.

Marsh mentioned the testimony at Chicago about the alleged agreement. "What have you to say about that?"

"There never was such an agreement nor any conversation relating to it in any way," said Marsh. Resigned in 1924.

Marsh explained he resigned from the committee in 1924 as his health had been poor, after serving since 1916.

"What about the contributions that was said you might not want to become public?"

"There were no contributions we would not want public," said Marsh. "All our records were made public."

"What were your relations with Mr. Upham?"

"Always the most friendly," said Marsh. "I was never in his office in my life. I never had an engagement with him and I can remember no telephone conversations with him. Our meetings were very casual—on the street or in a hotel."

Senator Nye, (R.) of North Dakota, and Walsh clashed when the former questioned Marsh about the contributions of E. L. Doheny, lessee of the Elk Hill reserve, to the Democratic cause in 1920.

"Was the Doheny contribution of $75,000 made during your tenure as treasurer?" asked Nye.

Walsh at once intervened. He explained that while Doheny said he gave the Democrats $75,000, George White, the Democratic treasurer in 1920, fixed the Doheny contribution at $50,000.

"That's just the point I want to bring out," said Nye.

"I don't recall ever hearing that Mr. Doheny made a contribution," said Marsh. "If he did, it is a matter of record."

RADIO PLANE KEEPS IN TOUCH WITH KDKA

First Time in History That Phone Is Used Between Air and Land.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 21.—The five aviators engineers making a coast-to-coast tour on the New York American-Toledo leadership plane were highly pleased today by the performance of the ship and its radio plant on its hop from Washington to Pittsburgh.

All along the 24-mile route, the plane carried on two-way telephone communication with "KDKA," Pittsburgh broadcasting station.

Communication between a land station and a swiftly moving plane never before had been attempted.

W. G. Pliske, R. C. A. engineer, is accompanying the flight as a radio operator. At all times during the Washington-Pittsburgh hop, he was in touch with Station KDKA, with "NBF," the naval broadcast station at Anacostia, D. C., and with "3ST," the station at Washington maintained by the Bureau of Standards.

Because of the terrific head winds encountered on the trip, Pilot George Hopkins, of Detroit, had to spend nearly three hours covering the distance.

LINDY HONORED AGAIN.

Washington, March 21.—The highest honor that is within the gift of this government—the Congressional Medal of Honor—was bestowed upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today in recognition of his unparalleled feat of aerial navigation during the past ten months.

HUSBAND MUM AFTER FINDING WIFE DEAD

Action Causes Suspicion and Arrest—No Violence Is Discovers in Autopsy, However

Mrs. Susan Jordan, 38, wife of Joseph M. Jordan, 49, died suddenly at her home at 422 Oakland street yesterday morning. Her death was not discovered until much later in the day.

home about nine o'clock in the morning, his wife was apparently alright. When he returned at noon, he found her dead. For some unexplained reason, he failed to make the fact known for several hours.

An autopsy was performed at the undertaking parlors of Mark Holmes this morning after which it was announced that death was due to gangrene of the stomach. No marks were found on the body to give any indication of violence.

CARLINI'S IS POPULAR WITH EAST SIDE FOLK

Carlini's Department store on Oak street is a popular store with many people living on the East Side. They carry a wide range of merchandise for men, women and children and are now ready with a large display of new Spring merchandise.

Teachers from Districts One to Eight at the north end enjoyed an oyster supper at the Wapping Hall last night which was served by the Parent and Teachers' Association ladies of that place.

A daughter was born this afternoon at the Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Edward McManus of 95 Russell street.

TWO HUNDRED PRIESTS AT RECTOR'S FUNERAL

Middletown, Conn., March 21.—Dr. James P. Donovan was laid to rest today in the cemetery of St. John's church. Thousands who had looked to Dr. Donovan as a spiritual leader for years, or who were engaged with him in building up Middletown, paid a tribute to him today in the church, or unable to gain admission because of the people, stood outside during funeral services.

Right Rev. John J. Nilan, Bishop of the Diocese of Hartford, celebrated pontifical high mass for Dr. Donovan in the church that Dr. Donovan had directed almost a quarter of a century. Rt. Rev. Thomas S. Duggan, vicar-general of the diocese, was arch priest. Other officiators of the mass were: Rev. Robert E. Shortell, L.L.D., of Ridgefield; and Rev. Peter H. McClean, of Bridgeport, deacons of honor; Rev. Robert F. Fitzgerald, D.D., of Derby; and Rev. John J. McLaughlin, D.D. of New Haven, deacons; Rev. Alexander F. Mitchell, of Burnside; and Rev. Joseph W. Barry, of Hartford, acolytes; Rev. Edmund A. Cotter, of Stonington, Thurifer; Rev. Mons. William H. Flynn, chancellor of the diocese, master of ceremonies; and Rev. Francis P. Keogh, of Hartford, assistant master of ceremonies.

The eulogy was delivered by Rev. William J. McGurk, of Waterbury. More than two hundred priests, representing practically every parish in the diocese, were here for the services. Dr. Donovan's body was borne from the rectory to the church at three o'clock yesterday afternoon and lay in state there until ten o'clock this morning. A guard of honor made up of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus members, stood watch through the night, relieved each hour. The Divine officers for the dead were chanted in the church last evening at 7:30. A requiem high mass for the children of the parish was held in the church this morning at eight.

NAVAL SUPPLY BILL BIGGEST IN HISTORY

Washington, March 21.—The largest naval supply bill since the Washington arms conference was presented to Congress today when the House appropriations committee recommended a total of $359,190,737 for the year beginning July 1. In addition a permanent appropriation of $10,000,000 is undisturbed.

The measure provides: Appropriation of $200,000 for experiments on submarine safety devices and authority to convert two ships into submarine salvage vessels, with fund for pontoons in follow. A total of $1,800,000 to begin work on two dirigibles twice the size of the Los Angeles, costing $8,000,000, one to be housed at Lakehurst, N. J., and the other on the Pacific coast.

An increase in the naval aviation fund from $20,100,000 to $31,315,600—the largest air service budget since the World War. An appropriation of $48,000,000 to continue work on eight cruisers and two submarines. An increase in Annapolis Naval Academy by giving each member of Congress four appointments a year instead of three.

An enlisted personnel of Navy at $3,250, same as last year, and $8,000 for the United States Marine Corps, also the same as last year. The increase in naval appropriations is made necessary largely because of expansion of the air corps under the five-year program and the cruiser building program now under way.

The committee can vision no prospect of declining naval costs in the immediate future," said the report. "Indeed, all indications point to an appreciable and immediate upward trend." In addition to the recently authorized new 15-cruiser and one aircraft carrier program, and one to be appropriated for, the Navy must continue its program of modernizing battleships, expanding its air corps and replacing ships becoming too old for war service, the committee said. In explaining its submarines appropriations, the committee said that ultimately salvage vessels will be located on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, Canal Zone, Hawaiian and Philippine islands.

SMITH DENIES CHARGE

Albany, N. Y., March 21.—Governor Al Smith's sharp letter to U. S. Senator Nye, chairman of the Senate Teapot Dome committee in which he flatly denied that Harry F. Sinclair had ever contributed to his campaign, today was the sole topic of conversation at the state capital. The letter caused Democratic leaders to predict that if Gov. Smith is nominated for president he will make the oil scandal the leading issue in the campaign. The attempt of Republicans at Washington to draw him into the oil scandal has aroused Gov. Smith more deeply than any other incident in his long public career, his close friends say today.

STIFF LIQUOR FINES

New Canaan, Conn., March 21.—Fines totaling $1,400 were collected in Town Court here today from three liquor law violators who were arrested last week. Jail sentences totaling 120 days were imposed and then suspended. One offender Harry Miller, up as a second offender, was warned to leave town.

RECORDS INCOMPLETE Hartford, Conn., March 21.—Incomplete records today induced Benjamin W. Alling, attorney general, to advise Gov. John H. Truman not to sign papers sending Evelyn Beers, now in the Fairfield county home at Norwalk to the Mansfield state training school. The girl's transfer was requested by the Norwalk judge of probate, but the attorney-general found that no record was shown of the girl's examination by a reputable physician on order of a Norwalk selectman.

CAR THIEVES ARRESTED Stamford, Conn., March 21.—Joseph Egan, 32, of 312 Ogden street, Bridgeport, now under bail of $2,500, pending the appeal of his case on a charge of possessing burglar's tools, was caught here today in a car said to have been stolen from Bridgeport. With him was William Dellaca, of 244 Fairfield avenue, Bridgeport. Police say both men admitted taking the car. Horse racing is known as the national sport of Great Britain.

YARD GOODS GALORE AT TEXTILE STORE

The Textile Store in the Park Bldg. is one of Manchester's most popular stores and the only store of its kind in the town. You can go in and find most everything in the yard goods line that you could imagine. The wide variety of fabrics handled by this store accounts for the popularity with hundreds of Manchester women who prefer to do their own sewing.
Spring Opening finds the store filled to capacity with new fabrics for spring and summer wear. They will be on display Thursday.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS AT HULTMAN'S STORE

Boys' and Children's Department Carries Apparel For Youths From 3 to 18.

It has been observed by many of the frequent downtown "shoppers" that several merchants are at all times, striving to give to the people of the town of Manchester and vicinity, the same service and pleasure of shopping, that is to be found in the larger cities.
Perhaps one of the most outstanding of such stores, is the one owned by Arthur L. Hultman at 117 Main street. Although, not the largest store of its kind on Main street, several improvements and changes have been made in the last few months that were in keeping with the rapid growth of the business as well as being an advantage to its patrons.

One of the most important of these changes is perhaps, the opening of a complete boys' and children's department, down stairs. In the Boys' and Children's department, may be found all the requirements of apparel, for boys ranging in age from 3 to 18 years, including shoes, clothing and furnishings. All merchandise being of reputable make, such as Pied Piper and Jack and Jill shoes, Jack O' Leather and Right Post, knickerbocker suits, Sprague-Made wool jersey and wash suits for children, Victor blouses and shirts, Hickok belts, etc.
Another important addition to the store, being a complete Men's and Young Men's clothing department. This department can hardly be classed as entirely new as there has been men's clothing sold there for several years, but in years past the variety being counted by dozens, where as now, there are several hundred to choose from.

This department is like wise composed of such well known brands as Michaels Stern, Smithson and Worsted-tex suits and Knit-tex and Michaels Stern topcoats.
It may be well to note that although Smithson suits consist of only five beautiful patterns in woads and serge, they are made of more than twenty models, and sizes ranging from 33 to 50 including sizes 41 and 43. So whatever your build, there's a model to please you, and a size to fit you.

The remainder of the stock carried in this store is also in keeping with the clothing department of the Boys' department, including such as Nettleton, Arch Preserver, Nunn Bush, Smith, Smart and Hultmans Special shoes, Marvin and Hall and Hall hats, Parker and Eagle shirts, Allen A underwear, Temple and Trojan cravats, etc.
As each season rolls along, we find Hultman's ready for the occasion, and through their keen interest to be of service to the public, helping to make the town of Manchester a better and happier place to live.

FRADIN'S TO DISPLAY COMPLETE SPRING OUTFIT

Women's Apparel Shop Is Most Attractive; Large Children's Department.

It is agreed by the many patrons of Fradin's since the store was remodeled it has been made one of the best women's apparel shops in Manchester. The layout is very attractive and a large number of customers can be waited upon at one time without congestion.
As one enters the store one will find first, to the right, the hosiery department and from there on, on the same side of the store, the new dress department with forty feet of display racks filled with dresses for every age, size and taste. The front center of the store is given over to a very attractive display of millinery. The left side of the store includes the coat department with its many racks of fine coats. Accessories, such as gloves, neckwear, scarfs and underwear, will also be found in the center of the store.

The entire rear of the store is given over to the children's department. This is a large department in this store as hundreds of mothers outfit their children at Fradin's.
For Spring Opening a section right in the very center of the store has been selected to display two complete Spring outfits. The color scheme is Nile green and yellow. The outfits include coat, dress, hat, gloves, bag and hose all to match. This display certainly lends a spring atmosphere to the entire store and will prove to be an entrancing spot for every woman who is planning her new Spring wardrobe.
Mr. Fradin does most of the buying for the store and keeps in constant touch with the market in New York. His ability means that Manchester women are wearing the same styles now that they are in New York and yet they pay much less for their merchandise here.

RELIEVE STOMACH DILATION, GAS

Dilation of the stomach usually arises because stomach acid causes food to ferment and form sour gases which are responsible for those unpleasant sensations of swelling and fullness, often very painful.
To avoid and relieve stomach dilation take a tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after meals or when pain is felt. "Pape's Diapepsin" neutralizes acidity and prevents the formation of wind, heartburn and flatulence, and insures healthy, painful digestion.
Druggists everywhere sell "Pape's Diapepsin" at 50 cents a package—not much to pay for complete freedom from digestive pain and stomach troubles, is it? Better get your package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today.—Ady.

What This Spring Decrees For The Well Dressed Man

Color Influential In Design and Selection—Fit More Snug to the Body Lines.

Color continues to be one of the most important style influences in the design and selection of men's clothes—as in everything else. Even Henry Ford has caught the color infection and is turning out cars decked in hues other than the unlamented, funeral black.

Though the spring fabrics have taken their colors from a pretty lively palette, they're more practical, so to speak, than those of a year ago. This is especially true of young men's clothes.

A year ago, if you recall, some of the grays, for instance, ran up the scale very nearly to a light oyster shade. And some of the tones of tan were almost as light.

They looked very smart and cool in the spring sunlight when they were first worn, but they soon lost their immaculacy. And many a young man's weekly stipend suffered serious inroads by reason of unduly heavy cleaners' bills.

Light tans, sand shades, and new blue gray mixtures seem to have the call, judging by the reports of leading manufacturers. Blues, of course, are always good; and there is still some demand for Oxford gray, though a lighter Cambridge shade is more in evidence.

An entirely new note is green—a light, lichen shade—that is making its appearance also in shirts and other accessories.

Neat Stripes Favored. The stripe motif will be a favorite in patterns, but the stripes will be neater, less bold, and in many cases shot through with decorative threads of lustrous silk. This gives a very pleasing, enlivening effect, particularly in the worsteds now fast regaining some of their eclipsed popularity with the young men.

Herringbones, too, are receiving considerable attention; and in the more expensive "customized" lines, small broken check and all-over Scotch motifs are being worn.

The whole tendency is to neater, smarter effects than formerly and away from bill-board loudness of design.

Fitted Lines in the Suits. One of the outstanding trends in suit styles is the fitted body lines. As one witty style observer facetiously remarks, "Fat men stand a slim chance in 1923 styles."

In other words, the man of average build is going to have a chance to show his figure, an advantage hitherto almost entirely monopolized in certain respects by their fair sex.

Wide shoulders, closer-fitting body lines and hips—these are the details that produce the wedge effect now coming into vogue. Trousers, too, are revealing a narrowing trend—all of which makes for a much smarter appearance.

COTTAGE FEATURE AT WATKINS STORE

Suite Is Completely Refinished For Spring Opening Tomorrow.

The Cottage, as usual, will be the feature of Watkins Brothers Spring Opening tomorrow, the complete suite of rooms having been newly furnished and decorated for the occasion. This time the rooms are done in Early American and Normandy style with the use of maple, cherry, chintz and some antique pieces of furniture.

Bright colors have been used in their coverings and draperies in order to give a spring air to the rooms. On the Main Floor of the store, changes have been made in order to display to better advantage Watkins reproductions in maple and cherry and here, too, the bright wicker furniture for Spring will be found.

Three model rooms on the second floor have also been newly furnished and decorated, two with popular priced bedroom groups, showing how attractive low priced furniture looks in the home, and the other room with a fine Shaker dining room suite, reproducing fine museum pieces.

Four demonstrations, one on each floor of the Watkins store will be new features of this store's Spring Opening. On the main floor one of their own upholsters will construct a wing chair, showing how their fine custombuilt furniture is made. On the second floor a demonstrator will make mattresses and on the third floor another of their skilled workmen will be found restoring antique furniture.

This last demonstration will be held in connection with the antique department, for most people do not realize the great amount of work necessary in order to make antique furniture suitable for use. This demonstration will show every step in the restoring of Colonial furniture, from the scraping and sanding of the pieces, through the regluing of legs and stretchers, the replacing of broken or missing parts to the final refinishing.

In the basement a real washing will be in progress using the famous Easy Washer for the work. First the clothes will be washed and then dried for the line in the extractor, which is a new part of the Easy Washer now being made. All the demonstrations will be of an educational kind and should be of interest to home lovers.

GLENNY'S A NEW STORE WITH OLD REPUTATION

"Chris" Glenney Well Known Clothier—Sound Policies Win Him Many Friends.

Glenney's is one of Manchester's newer men's clothing and furnishings stores but the proprietor "Chris" Glenney is one of Manchester's best known business men. Two years ago Mr. Glenney opened his present store in the Tinker building with the idea of presenting to Manchester men a really good line of clothing and furnishings at modern prices.

Mr. Glenney believed that there were plenty of men who wanted first class merchandise of well known makes and would be willing to pay reasonable prices for them. His assumption was absolutely correct as time has proved by the steadily increasing clientele. He has also accomplished the idea of selling the best grades of merchandise at moderate prices.

These policies have made many friends for the store and business has shown a steady and consistent growth.

Mr. Glenney features such well known and nationally advertised merchandise as Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothing for men and young men, Ford overcoats, Bostonian and Florsheim shoes for men and boys, Cheney cravats, Interwoven Hosiery and Carters underwear.

"COLLEEN" AT THE RIALTO AGAIN TONIGHT

Film Stars Madge Bellamy; "Smiling Billy" Is Co-Feature.

Once again that great fighting nation is seen on the screen. We refer to the Irish, a simple and hardy race who have given us our politicians and our cops. In "Colleen," a William Fox production starring Madge Bellamy, most of the scenes of the story are laid in Old Erin, and center chiefly around two prominent sportsmen who are at odds with one another. Each has a horse and each considers his mount faster than the other. Their arguments and encounters prove to be amusing as well as thrilling, especially when the smaller of the two attempts to collect a sum of money that is due him. Real honest-to-goodness Irish fighting and quaint Irish humor are sprinkled into the plot here and there. The climax offers one of the most exciting steeplechases ever filmed. "Colleen" was directed by Kenneth G. Hawks. Besides Miss Bellamy the cast includes such well-known favorites as J. Farrell MacDonald, Charles Norton, Jed Dooley, Sammy Cohen, Ted McNamara and Marjorie Beebe.

The companion-feature is "Smiling Billy," a fast-moving action drama replete with thrills and laughs. Most of the scenes are taken on one of the large United States Navy battleships. Billy Sullivan is starred in its principal role—that of a young sailor who gets himself into all sorts of trouble just to be near a girl whom he has met.

"You Can't Beat the Law," is the title of a thrilling melodrama which comes to the Rialto on Thursday only. Lila Lee is seen in the featured role supported by a big cast of film celebrities.

Tomato juice has been found equal to orange juice in preventing scurvy among children.

REARDON'S SPECIALIZES IN VAN RAALTE LINE

Reardon's Specialty Shop located at 901 Main street has long been a favorite among Manchester women. They are carrying a full stock of frocks, ensembles and appointments necessary for the well groomed woman.

The shopper will find a galaxy of styles in all the new colors at Spring Opening and a visit to their shop will be well worth while.

To the discriminating woman Van Raalte stands for the best in silk hosiery and underwear. The Reardon Shop has a full stock of the Van Raalte line in the entrancing new shades of spring.

EXPECT THROG AT PASTOR'S FAREWELL

Special Service and Music in Honor of Rev. Cooper at S. M. E. Church.

Announcement was made today of the program to be given by the South Methodist church choir on the occasion of the farewell service to Rev. Joseph Cooper in that church on Sunday evening at 7:30. Director Archibald Sessions has arranged a series of ancient and modern church canticles and Rev. Mr. Cooper will deliver a brief address in farewell to Manchester and to his church.

It is expected that the church will be crowded to hear Mr. Cooper in his last appearance here as pastor of the South Methodist church, a post he has filled for six years. He will leave Manchester after the Southern New England conference which meets on March 28 at Fall River, Mass.

Felt Work Here Done

It was during Rev. Mr. Cooper's pastorate that the new church, the finest in Manchester, was built. Mr. Cooper, in his request for a transfer, said that he felt his work was done when the church had been built and the debt on it met.

Following is the program:

Organ prelude, Andante con moto, Volkmär.

Processional hymn, The Church's One Foundation, Wesley.

Choir, Venite, Boyce; Jubilate Deo, Parker; Te Deum, Clough-Leigher; Benedictus, Birch.

Organ offertory, Good Friday Spell from Parsifal, Wagner.

Farewell address, Rev. Joseph Cooper.

Recessional hymn, Soldiers of Christ, Arise, Elvey.

Finale, Finale in B flat, Cesar Franck.

"SALVATION JANE" AT CIRCLE ON THURSDAY

Three Acts of Vaudeville and Double Feature on Bill; Two Features Today.

Two more big features and three vaudeville acts are the attractions at the Circle theater on Oak street tomorrow night and Circle fans are looking forward to the usual good Thursday night bill.

The features are "South Sea Love", starring Patay Ruth Miller, and "Salvation Jane", a story of the underworld with Viola Dana in the leading role. Features at the Circle today are "The Romantic Age", starring Eugene O'Brien and Buzz Barton in "The Slingshot Kid."

"Salvation Jane" is the story of a girl who is saved from being a crook by Captain Carrie of the Salvation Army. She steals some money to save her grandfather but repents.

Her partner in crime doesn't believe her, and accuses her of holding the money back. Bewildered by this turn of affairs she turns to the only friend she knows, Captain Carrie, who advises her in the right direction.

Ferry, her partner, realizes her innocence and promises to "go straight". A happy reconciliation is effected, and to make it lasting a preacher ties the knot.

Viola Dana is supported by Parks Jones, Fay Holderness and Erville Alderson. Phil Rosen is the man who does the directing in this picture.

"South Sea Love" is the tale of the regeneration of a man gone wrong through drink and the heat of the tropics. Miss Miller does a wonderful bit of acting and is ably supported by the clever cast which appears in the film with her. The scenes are laid on a small island in the South Seas, that hotbed of romance and adventure.

37 TABLES AT BRIDGE FOR HOSPITAL BENEFIT

Thirty-seven tables were filled with players at the card party given at Odd Fellows hall yesterday afternoon by the Memorial Hospital Linen auxiliary. It was a thoroughly sociable affair and will net a neat sum toward the purchase of new linen for the local institution. Arrangements were made by the finance committee of the auxiliary.

The winner of the first prize at pivot bridge was Mrs. Harry Maimment, and consolation, Mrs. Hiram Grant. In progressive bridge Mrs. Mary Graziadio captured first honors while the consolation fell to Mrs. F. C. Allen. In whist Mrs. George W. House ran up the highest score and Mrs. Joseph Charter the lowest. The prizes were handmade dollies, bridge sets and playing cards. At the close of the games the committee served homemade cake and ice cream.

The next activity of the auxiliary for the same cause will be a rummage sale, the date for which is set for April 12 and 13. The members and friends are urged to save articles for the sale. The place will be announced later.

SEEK PERMANENT AIRPORT FOR MIAMI'S HARBOR

Miami, Fla.—Col. Robert S. Ross of the aviation section of the department of commerce in a recent address here urged cooperation with the Miami Airport Association in establishment of a permanent airport in Miami. The natural advantages for seaplanes offered by Bay Biscayne in its broad expanse and depth of water are usually inviting to air-pilots, he declared.

The regular meeting of Memorial Temple Pythian Sisters will be held at Orange hall tomorrow evening at 7:15. A public whist will follow with six prizes and refreshments. Mrs. Emil Dickinson heads the committee in charge.

YALE BOWL FACES 'DRY SEASON' UNDER NEW CANVAS COVER

New Haven, Conn.—Hay from the salt meadows of New Haven, has been abandoned by Yale athletic authorities as a means of keeping dry the playing surface of the famous Bowl here, and instead of hay the Bowl will be lined with over 70,000 square feet of canvas, now on the way here from Detroit.

Salt hay, a product turned out by the thousands of tons every year, has been used ever since football was played at Yale learned that a fairly dry gridiron made a better surface than a soggy or ice-bound field. But the present-day leaders are certain the day of salt hay is gone, and they have ordered two pieces of canvas each 90 by 150 feet, and four other pieces, each one 90 by 120 feet.

Since the strips are laid overlapping no moisture can enter, and since the whole covering can be put down and taken up in a mere twenty minutes, the Yale Bowl is believed to be facing an entirely dry spell every fall. When the canvas isn't working on the Bowl it will be used on the Varsity baseball diamond or stored.

Sixty out of every 10,000 Americans are in colleges and universities.

SHOES LUXURIOUS IN COLOR AND MATERIAL

Suedes, Reindeer Leather and Reptile Finish the Thing For Women's Spring Wear.

It's to be a gay and brilliant season for the feet of fashion this spring—what with all the lovely new models to select from. The shoe fashions for spring trip their way to fame and fortune as blithely and calmly as the first spring breezes waft themselves upon the waiting world of fashion. For is there one amongst us women folk who isn't "itching" to slip into our new spring costumes and slip our feet into bewitching spring slippers and lace ourselves off for a jaunt on the boulevard? It has been written that as spring arrives there is a decided tendency toward a great luxuriosity in shoes than ever. Light colored suedes, antelope and reindeer leathers, trimmed with vivid or harmonizing kids or reptiles are some of the most favored models for spring wear. For late spring the gay printed and embroidered linens are expected to be good and these will whirl with much success throughout the summer with chic little sport frocks of plain materials and saucy plaited skirts.

Pastel Kidskins New.
What is spring without several pair of the lovely pastel kids? And the shoe designers, being very designing men and women and knowing this, have presented us with a host of lovely shoes in light shades of exquisite kid. Colors such as "cascade," a very neutral beige, almost white; "Fantom," a cool and subtle gray; Marran, a rich and lovely brown are three of the smartest shades for spring.

Frosted leathers and pearlized kids are being shown in great profusion and are exceedingly smart for afternoon wear.

Effective Combinations.
A great many combinations appear on the horizon of spring foot-year. Kid's trimmed with lizards, pythons, water snake and astralac. Great importance is attached to the almost startling revival of reptilian leathers. Water snake is particularly smart for spring.

Types for Spring Wear.
With the tailleur and the ensemble, strap effects are very good, also the oxford and the open type oxford with medium toe. The materials most fashionable for street wear are brown calf and kid, black kid and calf, reptilian leathers, patent and suede leathers.

When milady lunches, bridges or teas, she will wear any of the following with equally fashionable ease: light strap effects, pumps either trimmed or plain, low-cut step-ins and airy tie effects and these are in patent, rose blush and honey tan kidskin, black leathers and black satin.

In the evening with sheer and lacy evening gowns, straps and pumps remain the most important patterns and the favored materials are silver and gold kid, bullion brocades and satins of all shades to match the gown.

SMART SHOP DISPLAY LARGE DRESS STOCK

The "Smart Shop" in the State Theater Building has one of the neatest and largest assortment of Spring dresses in town. They have all the latest models and styles from which to choose. These consist of the many different colors and gay figured materials which will be very important for Spring wear. Another feature will be the scarf, either attached or separated from the frock and will be worn by many of the fashionable Misses and Matrons.

Coats and ensembles will also be shown at the "Smart Shop" in the season's most fascinating styles and modes for both the sports and dress wear.

OSTRINSKY IS BACK AGAIN IN BUSINESS

William Ostrinsky is returning to business! This will be welcome news to hundreds of his old customers. His new location is in the Gorman block at 28 Oak street, just across the street from his old store now occupied by the Charter Oak Bowling Alley.

Mr. Ostrinsky has had many years experience in the new and slightly used furniture business. On his return to business in Manchester he says that he is going to specialize in bedding, bedroom furniture and floor coverings. He will also conduct a used furniture department.

Mr. Ostrinsky's new store has a fine location on Oak street and the front of the Gorman block has been remodeled with modern display windows. The interior of the store has been entirely renovated. There are hundreds of Manchester people who will be pleased to know that Mr. Ostrinsky is in business again in town.

MANCHESTER ELECTRIC DISPLAYS ATTRACTIVE

The Manchester Electric Co.'s new display room and office in the Dewey-Richman block is always an enjoyable place to visit for their displays are very tactfully laid out and one is tempted to linger and investigate the labor saving devices that are offered. After all is said it is certainly true that electricity is man's greatest servant. It can be applied to hundreds of jobs and can do much work in the home. The Manchester Electric Co. exhibits a wide range of electrical appliances for home use including: Washing machine, ironing machine, toasters, percolators, vacuum cleaners, flat irons, and many other smaller articles. It will be worth while to find out how economical these appliances are and how much labor they will save. The company has a courteous and pleasing sales force who are always glad to explain any of these appliances.

SPRING SMARTNESS DEPENDS UPON HAT

Infinite Colors Mark Spring Fashions — New Lines Adopted.

The time is at hand when madame and mademoiselle must select her spring wardrobe. Of course, she has been thinking and planning and contemplating that very thing for many weeks . . . but the time has come when important selections must be made . . . for spring is here!

Being a woman of fashion and a very wise one at that, she knows full well that any costume can be made or marred by a hat. For that reason, she goes about this business of hat hunting very religiously and before choosing, considers her new spring chapeau from every angle.

Variety is Infinite

But in selecting her hats for spring, 1928, she will find little difficulty in finding the hats of her dreams for the variety is infinite, the colors are spring's own, and the models were conceived in Parisian minds . . . what more can we ask?

And so realizing the fashion importance of hats, she sets about to make her selections. And here is some millinery style information that she kept in mind, when making her all-important selections:

A New Silhouette

There's an entirely new silhouette in the hats as they are being presented for spring. This quite naturally was conceived by the French and the whole secret lies in the novelty of the brim. The general idea, however, is one of simplicity, but the lines are unusually complicated. This new silhouette pertains solely to the brim, the crowns remaining snug and following the contour of the head closely, and are just as simple as ever.

Not only do we notice in the first spring hats that the complicated idea is limited to felt alone, for the straw hats appear to be very soft and flexible in that they are creased, tucked, draped and plaited in every way the felt is used. Straws are particularly prominent for spring, although felt never will lose its smartness and chic. In the straws, ballbuntl, sisol, bakou and parabuntl are the most prominent.

One thing is certain; that with so much variety, it is a simple matter to find a hat that adapts itself to one's face. Spring hats are utterly becoming. We notice the new more feminine aspect—the reason is they have more trimmings—and the silhouette is framed about the face in soft flattering lines, thus getting away from the plain sports-like effect so long in vogue.

Turn Up in Front

Turned up in front hats are being sponsored by many of the leading Paris designers and we notice this effect throughout most of the spring collections in the stores and shops. Brims take on width and are turned up and slashed, plaited and laid back flat to the crown. Some are flat under the brim itself and render a smart note of novelty.

For the reason that turned up in front hats are youthful and flattering, it is expected that they will meet with no end of success. Hats for sports wear take on the wider brims; perhaps this idea was conceived by quick thinking designers who realized the importance of the collarless coat. The eyebrow effect is much in evidence, both in the brimmed and brimless models.

Embroidery is Used

Embroidery is used in new and novel ways. Colors are important and we find bright light greens, coral reds and soft yellows introduced in hats of black. All the light green shades in the interesting apple tones and many of the light blue greens are highly favored. The pinky coral tones that every woman loves appear in both felt and straw models.

And so the woman who loves color may choose to her heart's content for it's to be a season of gaiety and brilliance so far as spring hats are concerned.

The Larger Hat

Several of the Paris designers have made very definite attempts toward the large rhat in their spring collections. And since there will always be devotees of the capeline, it is expected that these will be chosen by women who are the type that can wear them successfully and comfortably. But for the majority of us females, it is safe to say that the small hat will be the favored one . . . especially so, when it is very definitely accepted that the tailored suit and the collarless ensemble are two of the smartest features of the spring mode.

Ornaments are Varied

Gold and silver ornaments have found such favor in milady's eyes that we see them again in all shapes and sizes on the newest spring hats. Some of the very smartest are of three metals frequently a black metal, platinum and copper are combined. Usually they are along geometric lines. Composition ornaments and pins of miniature floral motifs and tiny rhinestones are being used on some of the most exclusive hats.

Designers invaded the jungle again and have come forth with all sorts of interesting animal pins, such as elephants, giraffes, and running dogs.

It takes on the average eight-tenths of a pound of coal to deliver one kilowatt of energy to the switchboard.

The Latest Spring Frocks

NEVER in the history of the store have we been able to display such a remarkable collection (over 250 distinct models) of dresses for afternoon, sport and evening wear. We have paid particular attention not merely to the flapper sizes of 16 and 18, but we have selected sizes 38 and 40, not in the matronly models which so many designers favor, but in youthful designs. The younger married woman who still has every desire to wear the girlish frock but who wears 38 or 40 size, will be in her glory here this season. A magnificent display of exclusive and imported models priced

FROCKS—Main Floor

WITH Easter only three weeks away, with Spring and Summer right ahead of us, with the need for new clothes the paramount thought in everyone's mind; with all these things, why should you consider The J. W. Hale Company?

FIRST—Because our women's apparel shop has never before shown such an unparalleled assortment of properly styled gowns, coats and ensembles as we are now showing this season.

SECOND—Our associated New York office and our foreign connections in Paris enables us to offer you authentic reproductions of merchandise that is in style at the moment and at prices as low, and in most cases lower, than you can find anywhere else.

THIRD—Our alteration department is in charge of Miss Manning, a skilled dressmaker, who does not know how to turn out anything but the very best of workmanship. The fit of your gown is all important.

FOURTH—There isn't any gamble in buying at Hale's this year. Satisfaction 100%, Style 100%, Fit 100%, Price, right or no sale. Exclusive designs, one of a kind and color. Variety: What more could you ask. Coats $10 to $35. Dresses $10 to $39.50. Ensembles $14.75 to $89.10. Nearly one thousand garments to choose from.

SMART ENSEMBLES

SUITS

THAT wardrobe is not altogether fashion-right which omits the ensemble this spring. Nor would many women care to be without a matching coat and frock costume in a season of such lovely ones. We feature three exclusive designs—the printed silk frock with the kasha coat lined with the printed silk; the imported tweed ensemble consisting of a tweed skirt, a heavy quality silk blouse and the seven-eights tweed coat; and, too, the dressy ensemble of georgette which consists of a beautiful georgette frock in the new two toned effect with the long georgette coat trimmed with diagonal tucks. The business woman will find here the tweed and navy cheviot two piece suits that fashion has decreed for spring. Moderately priced

CHARTER BRICKS

Among the tentative suggestions included in the reports of charter revision sub-committees, two at least stand forth as items which most thinking citizens will want to see incorporated in the new charter of Manchester, namely the consolidation of all taxing districts of the town into one, and biennial instead of annual municipal elections. On these points there is really scarcely room for discussion, if the townspeople are in any mood to progress away from the methods of half a century ago, if we could not all agree on such fundamental reforms as these we might as well drop the business of charter building altogether, and we doubt if there are many citizens who would care to see that done.

At a glance, the proposed establishment of an appointive board of finance and the division of the power of appropriation between that body and the board of selectmen may strike some persons as verging on the involved. Separation of the budget making duty and the right to make special appropriations and giving one function to one body and the other function to another body appears to the casual observer as possibly unnecessary and a slight drift away from that simplicity which above almost all things is to be desired. Still, we should not wish to be understood as opposing the plan, for it may have excellent reasons behind it.

Another matter on which it seems to us that the charter builders are on the right track is in providing that the proposed board of education, after funds for the schools have been provided by the budget makers, should have the spending of its own money. We are reminded that one of the most prolific sources of municipal rows is conflict between education boards and finance bodies, not over budgets but over methods of disbursement under which the school body has to "run to papa" whenever it wants to buy a piece of blackboard chalk.

All these matters, however, are more or less in the air. What is definitely established is that the charter revision committee is going about its work earnestly and apparently with very few preconceptions and prejudices, but on the contrary, with open minds and a fixed determination to get at the very best way of doing each thing it can be found.

And especially, it is not hiding its operations from view in the mistaken idea that nothing should be said till the structure is completed. Occasional publicity, as the work goes on, will surely have an educational effect on the citizens, prepare their minds for intelligent consideration of the committee's work when it is submitted and help to bring about an intelligent expression of opinion when adoption of the new charter is put up to them.

DREISER AND RUSSIA

Theodore Dreiser has been to Russia, he has stayed there twelve weeks, he has visited a dozen cities in widely separated parts of the Soviet Union, he has looked into industrial conditions in mines and factories of many different kinds, he has studied the novel system of education in vogue, he has observed the social aspects of Bolshevism, and he has come back to America to write a series of articles for the New York World in which he portrays Russian conditions as being in many respects at least, the finest in the world. He has not, he says, been converted to communism, but he finds far more to admire than condemn in the operation of Marxian theories.

Mr. Dreiser is regarded by many Americans as a person of giant intellect. What he says about Russia will have a great deal of weight with a good many folks. But we, at least, cannot quite get away from the circumstance that he made this survey of Russian conditions in twelve weeks.

In other words Mr. Dreiser skimmed the barest surface of Soviet existence. He flew from place to place and from demonstration to demonstration and from show-pot to show-pot at a rate of speed utterly incompatible with any real inquiry. The idea that any person, even one of Theodore Dreiser's mighty intelligence, could get anything more than the most tenuous and fragmentary line on what is going forward in a vast territory like Russia, engaged in such a huge business of social and economic experimentation, in such a period of time, is scarcely better than nonsensical.

If the author had really stayed in Russia long enough to have had an opportunity to see anything but the barest window dressing, and had then come home and said that Sovietism was good, he would have been entitled to profound consideration. As it is, there is only one conclusion to draw; and that is that Mr. Dreiser, with all his brains, has been made a monkey of, like any feather-headed tourist.

EASILY FORESEEN

Last Saturday this newspaper, in an editorial captioned "One Too Many" called attention to the fact that among the numerous inquiries being made in the St. Francis dam disaster was one conducted by the Los Angeles City Water and Power Bureau, and said:

The Los Angeles City Water and Power Bureau stands in this matter in the position of a suspect—very seriously suspected. It would be as sensible to allow a person under suspicion of a murder to mess around the fingerprints left at the scene of the crime as to allow this bureau to participate in the inquiries into the St. Francis dam disaster.

And now we have the almost inevitable consequence. The report comes that investigators for the Water and Power Bureau have "discovered" evidence that the dam was dynamited—evidence, if you please, consisting of a rope and a diagram chart and "identical with evidence said to have been left by the dynamiters who blew up the No. Name syphon of the Los Angeles aqueduct last year."

Such evidence! But it will provide an excuse for a contest on the question of responsibility. And it, or some familiar junk, was as sure to crop out, under the circumstances, as that the city of Los Angeles will never, if it can help it, make compensation for the ruined lives and homes for which it is responsible.

THIEVEY

It was brought out in the course of the re-trial of a gunman once convicted of the murder of two policemen in New York that three alienists who testified as to the prisoner's salary in the original trial had demanded $4,000 each for their services.

Granted that it might be necessary for each of these experts to give ten or a dozen hours of his time to examination of the prisoner—which is more than is customarily given—and an hour or two or even a day or two in court, the best that can be said for them in making any such charge as this, when the state is striving to protect life and property by convicting a bandit murderer, is that they are engaged in plain, undecorated thievery.

No possible standard of compensation could justify such extortion. The individual who is guilty of it is a disgrace to an honorable profession—and inferior to the criminals on whom he is called on to pronounce judgment in that he takes no chance whatever in his holdup of the community.

MUSICAL DIVERSION

In Enniskillen, Ireland, the authorities have forbidden the Salvation Army band to play outdoors between sunrise and sunset. So far as the prohibitory ruling is concerned it may, however, play as much as it pleases between sunset and sunrise, or all night long if so disposed. For a good many minutes we have been trying to figure out the actuating reason for this somewhat singular ruling. If the music of the band were disturbing it would seem far more probable that its rendering would be prohibited by night, when most folks, even in Enniskillen, want to sleep, rather than in the day time when keeping awake is a virtue and a desideratum. The only conclusion we can come to is that Enniskillen must have a Salvation Army band somewhat approaching in merit the one in Manchester, and that when it tunes up its fascinations distract the attention of the people from their ordinary affairs and causes a suspension, greater or less, of business. It is a tough world where the artistic must so often be subordinated to the economically material.

PERSONAL FEUD

The resolution offered in the Senate yesterday, utterly condemning the record of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and demanding his removal, might be taken more seriously by the country if its author, Senator Couzens of Michigan, had had the tact to get somebody else to father it. Coming from a notoriously bitter personal enemy of Secretary Mellon, its effect fades out.

From time to time there has been very serious disagreement between the Treasury Department and Senator Couzens over the amount of the latter's income taxes, the Department contending that the Michigan man, despite his great wealth, had a pronounced antipathy to stepping up to the captain's office and settling, as per the spirit and letter of the law.

It is rather probable that the Couzens resolution will receive the appraisal to which, under the circumstances, it is entitled.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 21.—One observes with something akin to indignation that at least one congressman who throws large and popular annual liquor parties here for his friends voted in favor of the Prohibition Bureau's policy of using poisons to make alcohol unfit for beverage purposes.

The question doubtless will go unanswered whether this gent was thinking more of the votes back home than of the health of his friends or whether it's just that he is confident of his source of supply. Probably the latter, as no one reported sick after the last party.

The large signs jutting out into the corridor which advertise the offices of the Senators Walsh, Tom of Montana and Dave of Massachusetts, do not indicate any lack of modesty. Other senators are content with minute bronze plaques with their last names and abbreviations of their states, the same being hard to read.

But Senator Dave moved from the third to the fourth floor of the Senate Office Building and took an office about two doors from Senator Horn's. So many of Senator Dave's callers wandered in on Senator Tom and so many of Senator Tom's callers were ushered in to Senator Dave that their secretaries decided to erect signs large enough to enu the confusion.

This Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York is doing a great deal to aid the reputation of Tammany Hall in Washington. Wagner, who delivered his maiden speech on his resolution for an investigation of unemployment, which was promptly ordered, determined at the outset to be a real senator and master his job as soon as it could be done. Early in the session one found him reading such informative volumes as "The American Government," "The American Senate," and "The Condition of Agriculture in the United States and Measures for Its Improvement." He had gained a wealth of legislative experience in Albany, but he frankly admitted that he was down here to learn the science of government.

Al Smith begin to tackle national issues in his campaign for the presidency, Wagner will be one of his most important advisers.

Wagner is on the Military Affairs, Public Lands, Interstate Commerce and Banking and Currency committees and attends all their meetings unless they conflict with each other. One hears that he studies national problems several hours every night.

Former Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama is one ex-senator in Washington who isn't lobbying for anything. He never avails himself of the privilege of the floor of the Senate granted to ex-members lest some suspect that he is. The only recorded occasion when he has visited Capitol Hill during this session was once when he came to call informally on two of his old secretaries, now working for other senators. Mr. and Mrs. Underwood are living on a $150,000 estate at Acetank, Va., a part of the old Nellie Custis estate.

So many experts are predicting that Daves will be nominated at Kansas City that your correspondent begins to doubt it. . . . Robert P. Lewis, attorney, who is running with Nicholas Murray Butler in a New York district as a delegate to the convention, says he canvassed the 88 Republicans in his Riverside Drive apartment house and found the 18 men all for Hoover and the 17 women all for Daves. Then he canvassed the 24 enrolled Republicans in a neighboring apartment house and found 13 men for Hoover and 13 men for Daves. Make your own comment. . . . Victor Murdock, National Progressive Party chairman in 1912 and a Kansas editor, said in Mexico City that the nominees would be Daves and Donahay. That's as good a guess as

SPRING SHOWS HER COLORS

COMES Spring—and with it daring new wicker furniture in colorful cretonnes and gay paints; maple furniture with its light, amber colors; chintz and wrought iron to go with it; and summer rugs in the latest Moderne feeling with cretonne hangings to match.

All these new things for Spring and Summer will be on display in their entirety for the first time tomorrow.

Won't you come in tomorrow morning, afternoon or evening—just to browse around and see the things that will be used this year? The store will be open until 9 p. m. and, as usual, visitors will be welcome all day long!

Spring Opening

Starting at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening, interesting demonstrations will be held on each floor of the store.

UPHOLSTERING DEMONSTRATION
 On the Main Floor you will have an opportunity to peek into the "insides" of a Watkins Custombuilt piece of furniture. One of our skilled upholsterers will be building a wing chair, so you can see exactly how it is done.

MATTRESS DEMONSTRATION
 Step up to the Second Floor and see just how Watkins Quality Mattresses are made. Here you will find a skilled workman constructing Watkins Dreamland and Slumbertime Mattresses.

ANTIQUE RESTORING
 There always seems to be a mystery to Antique restoring but tomorrow, on the Third Floor in our Antique Department, one of our cabinet makers will be found working on these old pieces. Scraping, gluing, replacing broken parts, matching old veneers—and then finishing them!

WASHING DEMONSTRATION
 Down in the basement another interesting demonstration will be going on. A real honest-to-goodness washing will be silently cleaned in an Easy Washer—then whirled dry in the Easy Extractor—ready for the line!

THE COTTAGE

And who wants to miss "the Cottage" with its new, fresh Spring decorations? Everything has been changed so you will never recognize it as the same place.

On the Second Floor three interesting display rooms are ready, two furnished with popular priced bedroom groups and another with a fine Colonial dining room suite.

On the top floor the new sunporch rugs for Summer, in their Moderne designs, are ready as well as signs that make the "gay white way" appear sadly in need of a bath. The little shops betray the cheapness of their wares and theater lobbies seem little more than gray caverns. The racks containing the photos of beautiful girls reveal the need of a good dusting. Catch-penny attractions seem little more than that. The corner "orange drink" stands are cluttered with tired-looking girls, most of whom seem to need a square meal and a good night's sleep. Most of the safety of the traffic is lost and the air of humans reflects the treadmill routine of daily toil. The men who rush back and forth are intent on business deals. There is little to lure the eye in the way of building fronts. Even on matinee days the chattering, well-dressed debutantes add little to the picture.

No, it takes sundown and the illusion of lights and glitter to bring Broadway to life! Even the weariest eyes now seem to sparkle. An infection spreads along the highway. People who have no place to go give the impression of hurrying to some gay rendezvous. The air is charged with brewing romance. Something of the spirit of a masquerade runs just below the surface. Tens of thousands are wearing gay masks and trying to forget themselves. And that's the spirit of Broadway—it's the avenue of escapes; the place where you try to forget the memories you checked at home; the playland for tired little rown-ups of the world.

Longer Skirt, Expanded Silhouette, Spring Mode

Designers Succeed in Getting Slightly Longer Fashion Accepted—Lines All Irregular.

Spring arrives . . . the stage is set and as last season's modes step lingeringly off the stage of fashion . . . those of spring, 1928, appear, more alluringly gay than ever, more youthful and more chic.

Other big news in the world of fashion, so far as the spring mode is concerned, is the expansion of the silhouette. This is accomplished in a number of ways.

There is a world of variety in the new dress collections and they are being offered for spring, 1928. Colors run rampant and gay figured materials are important.

Perhaps the most important single feature of the spring frocks is the scarf, either attached or separate, and in many cases, it is possible to be draped around the throat as mildly wishes it.

Lace is important. At all the smart afternoon gatherings this spring, lace will be most important. It appears in many new and unusual ways and places and is always extremely becoming.

Two-piece frocks appear again in great abundance with lovely monograms, fascinating little pockets and interesting color blends serving as decoration.

Never has there been such a selection in delightful printed silks as are to be found in the shops this season.

Women will be glad to hear that kasha and kasha types—materials so popular for balmy spring days—appears again to be the fabric of supremacy in the cloth coat realm.

Fur trimming of our new spring coats is more as a matter of Madame's choice so often as it used to, but both are equally smart.

Smart coats have wide tuxedo collars of self material with great pockets, narrow front belts and large fox cuffs.

Bleached red fox and beige fox are the most favored furs and appear in some of the more intriguing sport coats as well as coats of the more formal silk type.

One thing to remember when you set about selecting your spring coat is the fact that the fur must be either on the cuffs or one the collar, but it rarely appears on both.

Smart coats have wide tuxedo collars of self material with great pockets, narrow front belts and large fox cuffs.

The Tailleur Prominent. Without a question of a doubt, suits are to be the outstanding feature of the spring mode.

When you go to select your handbags for spring, you will be beset with a multitude of considerations, for all are so lovely, so chic and so utterly Parisian.

Scarfs Flutter. In the spring neckwear family, there is nothing more favored than the silk scarf.

Gloves Are Versatile. The gloves for spring go hand in hand with fashion and are to be seen in both novel and simple versions.

There are eight major planets. When the throat is sore and raw—take this suggestion to relieve the congestion—apply Baume Bengue!

HEBRON

A birthday party was given Saturday evening in honor of the 13th birthday anniversary of Hyman Frankel and his sister, Gussie Frankel, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Max Frankel at their residence on the Marlborough road.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ward and sister, Miss Eunice Porter, all of their two children, and Mrs. Ward's Hartford, spent Sunday at Mrs. Ward's former home here.

Sunday's storm of sleet and snow was so bad at the hour of morning service that it was thought best to omit the service at St. Peter's church.

A meeting of the 4-H Club was held at the Congregational Chapel Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Mark Hills was made assistant club leader.

Parents' Day was observed at Jones Street School. Regular lessons and an exhibition of work done by the pupils was the order of the day.

Jud Gallup Captures Pool Title By Ten Points

Champion Must Accept Challenge By Tomorrow

But Tunney Is Not Losing Any Sleep Over Sharkey, Heeney or Risko, Walsh Says.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, March 21.—Any number of gentlemen who are reasonably confident that they would be able to see an elephant on the other side of a key hole were struck today by the coincidence of Jack Sharkey still being on the New York list of preferred heavyweight contenders and the fact that James J. Johnston represents ten per cent of his management. Johnston is known as a "Lucky" manager in this town; that is, nothing very unlucky ever happens to him or to those with whom he consents to consort professionally.

For example, take the matter of his present affiliation; it certainly was a very lucky thing to be declared "in" on a man like Sharkey, who, at the time, was a stand-out heavyweight, had made critical money and was due to make more. Men spend most of their lives trying to buy into that kind but it seems that Johnston is an exceptional fellow. He didn't have to buy into Sharkey; he already was "in" —just like that. It was just his luck to run across men with whom money simply was no object.

Three Challenges
Anyhow, the New York Commission has notified Brother Tunney that it has on file three challenges for his title from the following: Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko. The commission wants Brother Tunney to answer right away to the three challenges. He is waiting and I gather that somebody's patience is being exhausted by Brother Tunney's dilatory tactics.

I called upon the commission today to inquire just what drastic thing they intend to do if Brother Tunney if he didn't answer their communication by the dead line set, which is tomorrow. The commissioners declined to make any statement.

The delay, of course, will be trying on Brother Tunney. The chances of his not being able to sleep tonight for at least a minute. He may try to evade the real issue by saying that he signed to defend his title more than six months ago; that Rickard is paying him guarantees in advance on this very document. But it won't do.

For, when all is said and done, and the alibis and excuses are forwarded, there is no escaping this onerous fact: Brother Tunney hasn't accepted Sharkey's challenge.

O'Goofy had a field day on puns yesterday. He told us he thought Francis Hogan, the Giants' new catcher, should be a good singer. We fell, and asked why. He said something about him, darned near saying getting the pitch, or something like that.

The New York commission refuses to recognize Strangler Lewis as champion. Lewis has never even met Young Stribling. Somebody asked O'Goofy who wrote "The Thundering Herd," and the only author the old boy could think of at the moment was C. C. Pyle.

TONY LAZZAR
Most baseball experts say Tony Lazzar of the Yankees is the best second baseman in the American League. But that's not all they say of the Yankee youngster. They also say that Tony could easily be the best shortstop in the league if he were transferred to that position. Lazzar came up to the majors as a shortstop but has been used at second base.

There are no blues being sung by the Yankee bosses this year with all the talented members of the club going along peacefully and happily as can be. If any club gets around this harmony and those big bats of Babe and Lou, they might worry the Yankees.

HOOKS and SLIDES

FRANKNESS OF ROCKNE
One of the most attractive of the engaging traits of Knute Rockne is his daring frankness. Through the many recent attacks against football the Notre Dame coach maintained that the game was not in need of defense and he has consistently exploded many of the romantic bunk arguments presented for the game.

"The football coach is supposed to teach boys how to play football. Their moral education is for the Sunday schools," he said recently. "When I tell boys they shouldn't smoke I am not trying to improve their morals. I want them to have good wind on the field."

Since several prominent eastern coaches have said that they felt it was a high obligation of their profession to make good citizens and good men out of the football players, Rockne's remarks might be interpreted as a slap at those moralists. But anyone who knows Rockne knows that he was merely stating a private opinion when he said that.

Rockne's teams always have been well behaved on and off the field, and if they weren't given actual lessons in proper moral conduct by their coach they knew without being told what would happen to them if they didn't behave.

"It's fine to listen to sermons about sportsmanship and that victory is of secondary importance, but every football coach knows that he is being retained for the purpose of developing winning teams. There are no actual rules in the football code to cover the moral angle," Rockne once said.

The emphasis he placed upon the code of morals and sportsmanship was one of the chief arguments made against a coach of a big western conference university this winter.

Some of the old grads, who were emphatic in demanding his resignation, said they visited the locker room between halves of one of the most important games of the season. The team was a touchdown behind and had played such sloppy football in the first half that they expected to hear the coach give the boys a good old-fashioned calling down.

"But what did he do?" they roared. "Why he went to the blackboard, called the attention of the squad and wrote on it—'Fight, Fight, Fight. But Be Gentlemen!' And the boys went out and were as gentle as they could be."

Roper Voices Opinion
Bill Roper, the Princeton coach whose team was put on the pan last year by some Harvard boys for the way they played, is like Rockne. He doesn't turn his collar around when he is talking about football. He was game enough to invite a lot of razzing recently when he ordered all his football players to report to the boxing coach.

The boxing coach at Princeton is Monte Munn, former All-America tackle, a Nebraska legislator and a heavyweight fighter of note. He came to Princeton from West Point, where he had been teaching the cadet football players the manly art of fist swinging. It was reported that his position was abolished at the military academy when the annual football game with the Navy was called off.

Talk of Big Dough
The trade mark of the astute Jack Kearns has not been erased from the heavyweight boxing racket. After he had lost a decision to George Godfrey in Los Angeles recently, Paulino, the Basque wood

CHAMPIONSHIP NOT DECIDED UNTIL THE VERY LAST RACK

Johnson Leads Most of Way, But Poor Safety Shots Kill His Chances; Score Tied at 243, 269 and 290; Not a Single Foul in Three Blocks; Crowd Well Pleased; Another Tournament Next Week.

Jud Gallup is the new town champion in pocket billiards. He won that coveted honor last night by nosing out Jarle Johnson, former town champion, in the final block of their three hundred point match which brought to a successful conclusion, The Herald's first annual elimination tournament played at the School Street Recreation Center.

The salesman from Arthur L. Hultman's clothing store, captured the title by the narrow margin of ten balls! The battle was nip and tuck all the way and was not decided until the very last rack. The contestants were tied at 243, at 269, and at 290. The match was the closest ever seen in Manchester and will long be remembered by the large throng which witnessed it. There was little, if anything, to choose between the players.

However, "to the victor goes the spoils" and likewise, full credit for winning. In triumphing over Jarle Johnson, Gallup beat a great player, one of the best Manchester has ever had. But in defeat, we must not neglect to give the City Club entry a few pats on the back. Johnson, having been ahead at the end of each of the first two blocks although by slight margins, was the favorite of many to win.

He led Gallup most of the way until the very last rack last night and appeared like a sure winner at the end of the thirteenth frame, leading 239 to 277.

His worthy opponent would concede nothing. That's one big reason why he was the ultimate winner; because he kept fighting every second of the way. Gallup scored a 13 to 1 rack after Johnson had rolled up his commanding lead and this deadlocked matters. They exchanged safety shots twice at the opening of the final rack and Gallup got the edge in this respect, a ball being forced out into position for him to play in a corner pocket.

Gallup ran three and then elected a combination kiss shot from the bunch. While the shot appeared good, it required plenty of nerve to attempt it at such a crucial stage. Gallup looked the combination over carefully and played it. The ball went true to its mark and the rest were spread all over the table making it a simple matter for Gallup to run out.

Very Evenly Matched
As soon as the last ball dropped in the pocket giving Gallup the championship, Johnson walked over and congratulated him. They agreed that it was anybody's game and that next frame, did not function properly and then Johnson ran off the rack to again assume a nice lead.

Johnson's Great Shot
Gallup rallied again and the end of the seventh rack found the score deadlocked at 269 all, a poor safety shot by Johnson paved the way for this run. Johnson got the better of the breaks in the next rack and won ten to four. In the next frame, Johnson executed the most sparkling shot of the entire finals, a beautiful combination cut shot from an exceedingly difficult angle. He got a big hand from the crowd. The shot gave him the rack ten to four again and the City Club entry was sitting on top of a fine lead, 239 to 277. It looked at this point as if he would win. However, Gallup made the last shot.

The fifteenth ball was left in break position and Gallup made good spreading the balls all over the table. He cleared the table, tying the score, on a beautiful run. Then came the final rack which has already been explained, Gallup getting the break by outsnuffing Johnson and then winning by virtue of a pretty combination shot.

Newsy Notes From The Training Camps

COMMUNITY SHOWS POWERFUL TEAM, YET TOWN SERIES MAY NOT OCCUR

CUYLER BEST BET OF CHICAGO CUBS

"Kiki" Benched By Pirates Last Year Has Done Much To Strengthen Team.

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles by the International News Service, dealing with developments in connection with various Major League clubs in spring training. Other articles of the series will follow.

Avon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 21.—Training season today, as the Chicago Cubs were making ready to break camp for the east. Manager Joe McCarthy proceeded to reach around his abdomen, reading from left and to right, and shake hands with himself on the trade that brought Kiki Cuyler to the club. Cuyler, a prominent man-about-town, has been with the Pirates last year, has been a "wow" with the Cubs to date, his hitting, fielding and team spirit having been the outstanding feature of the Cub's exhibition games.

"I gave up a good man in Adams," McCarthy said. "But I got a better one in Cuyler. There isn't anything a great ball player can do that he hasn't done for us since reporting. He not only has been invaluable as an individual but has given much of his time and the benefit of his experience to the young players. If Cuyler hasn't strengthened the Cubs immeasurably, then I don't know what I am talking about."

Needed Players
The 1927 Cubs needed some strengthening, as they proved when they blew their league lead in mid-September and wound up in fourth place. Bad infielding and a none too certain outfield defense completely nullified the Club's excellent pitching on that occasion. Cuyler's acquisition, who gets the best care of the outfield situation but the infield still has questions to answer before the Cubs can be rated a sure fire pennant contender.

They have the pitching, the hitting, one of the best catchers in baseball, "Bobby" Hartnett, and an inspiring manager who gets the best there is from the material at hand. But three of the four infield positions are far from watertight. Charley Grimm, the former St. Louis peanut vender, is one of the ranking first basemen in the league, and may be figured to get the other fielders no little. But he couldn't stop the Cub infielders from kicking them away last year, so the natural conclusion is that Johnny Butler, Elwood English, Clyde Beck, Freddy Maguire, Worcester, Mass., Norman McMillan and Elmer Yoter make good strictly on their own or the Cub infield will fall again.

Regular Infielders
Beck, English and Yoter were regular infielders last year, which may not be much of a recommendation. English, however, was coming along as a shortstop late in the season and generally is given the edge in that position now. Beck is his understudy and Yoter is acting in the same capacity for Butler, secured from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Butler is figured to give the Cubs more steadiness at third base than they have known in several seasons. Maguire, once with the Giants, and McMillan, once with the Yankees and several other clubs, are staging a great duel over Adams' former position at second base. McMillan has had the call to date but those close to McCarthy believe he regards Maguire as the better prospect.

However, there is no doubt about the fact that the infield situation is far from re-assuring. The rest of the club is absolutely set. It has pitching strength second to none. Charley Root was the league leader last year; Hal Carlson was not far behind. John Blake, Guy Bush, Percy Lee Jones and Bob Osborn also contributed much toward this strength. All of them are back and so is Art Nehf, the veteran southpaw who seems to have recovered much of his old skill.

Cuyler has been reaming right field this spring and, when everything is straightened out, Hack Wilson will play centerfield with Cliff Heathcote, Riggs Stephenson and Earl Webb battling for the remaining place. All are veterans and good ones, which doesn't sound very re-assuring to Joe Kelley, in from Toledo.

Joe Sargent, third highest bowler in the Commercial League which closed its season recently had a good night at Farr's Alleys on Oak street last night, hitting a three string of 395.

NEW HAVEN COLLEGIANS BEATEN QUITE HANDILY AND GIRLS WIN

Rec Five Indifferent Regarding Series; Thinks Fans Would Rather Have Better Attraction; Season Getting Late With No Signs of Agreement; Community Girls Play Aetna Tomorrow.

In trimming the New Haven Collegians quite handily (45-30) last night at the Harding school gym on Hollister street, Community Club basketball team proved itself as a most worthy opponent for the Rec Five to decide the basketball supremacy of Manchester. Yet, the probabilities are that these two teams will not play this season.

Rec players who watched the game last night said they are not particularly fussy about playing any games on such a small court as Harding. They say that a series would not draw a capacity house and that they can give better service to the fans by bringing topnotch attractions here. All of this, despite the fact that this is the first time in many years that the north end has been represented by a team that has at least a fair chance of beating the south.

However, the managers of the two teams have not as yet held any formal meeting on the matter. They met unexpectedly recently and failed to agree on where the first game would be played. The Rec wanted it played at the gym, but the Community club claimed a toss of coin is the only fair way to settle the issue. Since that time, it is understood that the Rec has gone forward with its plans to bring some high grade attractions here. Once again, the north and south are at swords points and it is the fans who must suffer.

The Community Club was at full strength last night and showed that it has a fine basketball team. Three of the players, Hurley, Stavitsky and Fay form a rangy trio that cannot help but prove a menace for any opposing team. And for those who know Kerr and Gallagher are far from being tiny tots. And then there is the husky and hard-working Kelly to be reckoned with.

This quintet possesses plenty of scoring power, but it also has the possibilities of an excellent defense. The New Haven Collegians were unable to score a single field goal during the first sixteen minutes of play last night. The half was most over before Heyer broke the ice. Halftime ended 22 to 14 in the second half, the Elm City team showed to a much better advantage. The Community club was considerably handicapped when it lost the services of Hurley on personal fouls. Jerry Fay played most of the game and was the backbone of the defense. Playing his first game of consequence since he left Grove City two years ago, Fay did not exert himself much. He was content to play on the defense for the most. Yet, he outscored his opponent, two field goals to NONE. His passes were accurate and they played a prominent part in the victory. Jerry left the game early in the second quarter, but returned and played the whole second half.

Billy Cook, George Heyer and Zeke Chadys were the best performers for the Collegians. Neither Nassau or Narry, Yale stars, appeared. Manager Wexler said that unexpected developments at the last minute, so to speak, made it impossible for them to come. However, the fans were well satisfied in the team he brought here. The scoring by both teams was well divided.

In the preliminary game last night, the Community Girls won hands down from the Broad Brook Mills team 28 to 14. Mary Drew, Miriam Welles and Edith Olsen were the high scorers. The Manchester team could have piled up a larger score, but took things easy for its big game with the Aetna Life in Hartford tomorrow night. Miss Olsen will not play against the Aetna, the latter team having refused to take the floor if she plays. The Park City Girls of Bridgeport, who dispute the Aetna's claim to the title, will play here next Tuesday night.

Cloverleaves Split Danielson Matches; Big Match Tonight

The Danielson bowling teams split even with the Cloverleaves last night at Conran's Alleys at the north end. The local men won and the local girls were defeated.

The Manchester girls were beaten by 29 pins. F. Mikolite was high with 107. Helen Gustafson rolled a score of 90 without a mark. The local boys drubbed Danielson by 84 points. Conran and Brennan shared the high honors.

Tonight Howard Murphy and Bobby Brennan begin their twenty game match for the town championship at Conran's alleys. Murphy is the favorite, but anything may happen. The match starts at 8:30.

FARRELL, WINNER OF $5,000 PRIZE

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21.—Johnny Farrell, dapper young Irishman from the Quaker Ride Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y. today was richer by $5,000 in cash and the $1,000 gold plate—the victor's prize in the Miami Beach La Gorce open golf tournament.

He was winner in the first presentation of the riches, event in golf history, with $15,000 in cash offered a hand-picked field, by reason of a course-burning drive in the concluding round of the event.

DETROITER LEADS BUNION DERBYISTS

Payne Loses Lead When Stricken With Tonsillitis; Red Grange Also Ill.

Holbrook, Ariz., March 21.—A closely grouped field of leaders in C. C. ("Cross Country") Pyle's Los Angeles-New York road race pushed on into the fastness of the painted desert today in the 52-mile trek to the 18th control at Navajo.

Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., youth, was ousted from the leadership of the race yesterday when he suffered an attack of tonsillitis and registered a slight fever. He stepped through the 34.3 miles from Winslow, however, but allowed Arne Souminen, Detroit, Mich., to hold first place by a margin of 1 hour 16 minutes 37 seconds. Souminen's time for the 610 miles from Los Angeles was 106:00:50.

Nestor Ericson, Portchester, N. Y., Finn, retained fifth place in the grind with an elapsed time of 1:14:23:07. Louis Perrelle, Albany, N. Y., held twelfth place with 126:50:30 as his elapsed time.

Harold "Red" Grange, co-partner with Pyle in the direction of the race, was confined to the hospital car today with an attack of tonsillitis. The gridiron star scoffed when race doctors told him that he registered a temperature of 102 3-5 degrees and it was only with difficulty that he was persuaded to forego his duties for today.

Heehey beat Risko, Risko beat Sharkey, Heehey and Sharkey beat one another. Heehey beat Delaney. Nobody hurt everybody happy, and the prospect for June is a lot of weddings.

You've got to admit that an elimination tournament reaches its sourest perfection when all hands are eliminated. The thing to do now would be to have Mr. Tunney box a few rounds for the customers with, say, Jimmy Barry of Chicago, who retired in '08 as world's undefeated champion of all the bantamweights.

O'Goofy is nonplussed. The Boston Red Sox have a young man on their lists this spring named Merle Settlement. The Pirates have Lester Bartholomew; the Phillies, June Green; the Yankees Floyd van Pelt; the Cubs, Elwood English. Terrence wants to know if there ever were any ball players named Mike Donlin and Ed Delahanty.

AN IOWA SENATOR, SCANNING THE $50,000 IN ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT SALARIES PAID OUT BY THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA, LAUGHINGLY ASKS WHY THERE ARE NO COACHES FOR TIDDLY WINKS AND PING PONG. O'GOOFTY, WHO SAYS THE LAST TWO IOWA-ILLINOIS FOOTBALL GAMES, SAID HE THOUGHT IOWA DID HAVE A PING PONG COACH.

Mal Stevens, new football coach at Yale, says the teams which will give Eli the toughest battles in the fall are Georgia, Army, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard. Otherwise, Yale's schedule is easy.

Bridge isn't cultivated, says O'Goofy. It's one of those things you contract.

The experts are picking the Yanks this year. It doesn't mean anything except possibly that the Boston Red Sox will win the pennant.

Last year the experts liked the Mackens. This year, however, the Macks have retired.

WITH SCOTCHMEN, DUTCH, CANADIANS, MEXICANS, FINNS, ET AL., COMETING PYLE'S MARATHON, IT IS O'GOOFTY'S OWN IDEA THAT FIRST PRIZE SHOULD GO TO BILL BURCHER. HE'S THE COOK.

O'Goofy, by the way, has his own name for the bunion derbys. He calls it the Leg of Nations.

Gus Sonnenberg, the wrestler, has won fourteen in a row. Completely spoiling the union rules.

Schools and colleges ought to open up summer courses in Shakespeare this summer. Gene Tunney won't be doing anything.

LOSS WILL HURT SENATORS

An operation will prevent Irving Hadley from pitching for the Senators until the early part of May. That hurts that club's chances at the pennant this season.

WINS TWENTY-ONE IN ROW The Pittsburgh basketball team recently ended its season. They were undefeated in 21 games.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, 16, who has known no other home than the orphan asylum since she was four, is "farmed out" for the summer to CLEM CARSON, a farmer. Before she leaves the Home, she begs Miss Ford, her financial officer, to tell her something about her mother. The orphan is crushed to learn that her mother after leaving her at the orphanage never returned to see her. She lives. Her hope that there is someone to whom she can go.

On the drive to the farm, Sally listens to Clem's boasts about his fine farm. They are met with the harsh voice of Mrs. Carson, who calls to Sally to come in and get to work. As she leaves the car, she sees a handsome young man who she hears called David. In the house she is met by PEARL, Miss Ford's over-developed daughter, who warns her, "Hands off David. He's mine." At the supper table that night Sally experiences a new emotion when Pearl suggests to David that they go to a picture show.

"I like to wash dishes," David said.

CHAPTER VI

"SORRY, but I can't tonight," David Nash answered Pearl Carson's invitation courteously but firmly. "It would be 'way after nine when we got to town, and we wouldn't get back until nearly midnight—no hours for a farm hand to be keeping. Besides, I've got to study, long as I can keep awake."

"You're always studying when I want you to take me somewhere," Pearl pouted. "I don't see why you can't forget college during your summer vacation. Go get some more hot biscuits, Sally," she added sharply.

Except for Pearl's chatter and David's brief, courteous replies, the meal was eaten in silence. Pearl came in, storm-eyed, sullen-mouthed.

"Well, I must say, you're a quick worker—and I don't mean on dishes!" she snapped at Sally. "So this is the way you have to study, Mr. David Nash! But I suppose she pulled a sob story on you and just roped you in. You'd better find out right now, Miss Sally Ford, that you can't shirk your work on this farm. That's not what Papa got you for—"

"I insisted on helping with the dishes, Pearl," David interrupted the bitter tirade in his firm, quiet voice.

"Want to get a dish cloth and help dry them?" There was a twinkle in his eyes and he winked over so slightly at Sally.

"I've got to dress. Five or six of the bunch are coming over to dance to the radio music. Did you hear what I said about you?" Pearl answered, her shallow blue eyes connecting with David's.

"About me?" David pretended surprise. "Is that all, Sally? Well, I'll go on up to my room and study awhile, if I can stay awake."

"You're going to dance with me—with us?" Pearl wailed, her flat nose harsh with disappointment.

"Thought I'd help," he said in a low voice, to keep Pearl from overhearing. "You must be tired and bewildered, and washing up for nine people is no joke. Give me the glasses first," he added casually, as he reached for the wire soap shaker that hung on a nail above the sink.

"Oh, please," Sally gasped in consternation. "I can do them. It won't take me any time. Why, at the Home, six of us girls would wash dishes for 900. They wouldn't like it," she added in a terrified whisper, her eyes fluttering first toward the dining room door, then toward the big pantry where Mrs. Carson was picking over her blackberries.

"I like to wash dishes," David said firmly, and that settled it, at least so far as he was concerned.

happily at his side:

"Take it as easy as you can. They'll work you to death if you let them. And—if you need any help, day or night," he emphasized the words significantly, so that once again a pulse of fear throbbled in Sally's throat, "just call on me. Remember, I'm an orphan myself. But it's easier for a boy. The world can be mighty hard on a girl alone."

"Thank you," Sally trembled, her voice scarcely a whisper, for Mrs. Carson was moving heavily in the pantry nearby.

Fifteen minutes later, as Sally was sweeping the big kitchen, shouts of laughter and loud, gay words told her that the party of farm boys and boys had arrived. With David gone to his garret room to study, Sally suddenly felt very small and forlorn, very much what he had called her—a girl alone.

The sounds of boisterous gaiety penetrated to every corner of the small house, but they echoed most loudly in Sally's heart. For she was 16 with all the desires and dreams of any other girl of 16. And she loved parties, although she had never been to a small, intimate one in a private home in all her life.

She leaned on her broom, trembling, desiring to have a good time fighting with her institution-bred timidity. Then she looked down at her dress—the blue-and-white-checked gingham, faded, dull, that she had worn for months at the orphanage. If they should come into the kitchen—any of those laughing, gay girls and boys—and find her in the uniform of state charity they would despise her, never dream of asking her to come in, to dance—

Her hands suddenly gripped her broom fiercely. Within a minute she had finished her last task of the evening, had brushed the crumbs and dust into the black tin dust pan, emptied it into the kitchen range. Then, breathless with haste, afraid that timidity would overtake her, she ran up the back stairs to the garret.

Her cold little hands trembled with eagerness as she jerked her work dress over her head and arrayed her slight body in the lace-trimmed white lawn Sunday dress which she had worn earlier in the day on her trip from the orphanage. Excitedly, she slapped her pale, faintly flushed cheeks to make them more red, then bit her lips hard in lieu of lipstick.

When she tiptoed down the dark hall of the garret she found David Nash's door ajar, caught a glimpse of the university student-farmer bent over a pine table crowded with books.

She crept on to the head of the narrow, steep stairs, and there her courage failed her. The dance music, coming in full and strong from the radio, had just begun, and on the bare floor of the living room. How had she thought for one minute that she could brave those alien eyes, intrude, uninvited, upon Pearl's party? Hadn't Pearl made it cruelly clear that she despised her, resented her, because of David's interest in her?

"Want to dance?"

She had been leaning over the narrow pine bannister, but she straightened then, a hand going to her heart, for it was David standing near her in the dark, and his voice was very kind.

(To Be Continued)

Sally's first real trouble on the farm comes in the next chapter. It is the result of Pearl's jealousy.

MARY and MOM Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dearest Mom:

Of course the parents of those youngsters who burned the house are to blame. I'm telling you Mom, the kids have 'em hoodooed. If I ever have a girl, or a boy, or both, I'll know if they aren't tucked in bed at a decent hour.

Boys and girls aren't really as defiant as they seem. Just let Dad sit up and wait for them once or twice with the business end of the house slipper and they'll come home when the curfew rings next time.

The whole truth is, Mom, that parents are lax when their children are small and no great harm comes from letting them escape the parental eye a bit. But once the kids reach the age when they can keep their eyes open after ten o'clock, parents begin to find out that the authority they've been using so sparingly doesn't mean a thing in the lives of their offspring. That's when they start worrying.

Now you may wonder how I come to know so much. Lean closer and I'll tell you. I'm a mother, and I'll sock you if I write it out loud. I gleaned it all from one of those awful psychology books. It's the force of habit, Mom. Kids who are used to parental authority keep right on obeying their parents from the time they creep until they ankle authority is real. No self-respecting boy or girl is going to be talked to like a criminal just because pa and ma suddenly wake up to find out that it's Spring time in the lives of the younger generation.

To have any influence, authority must be used constantly. The idea of paying no attention to Sister until she comes in after two a. m. and then jumping on her with a whole calendar of crimes and misdemeanors won't get a parent anywhere with Sister.

If Sister had known all her life that there were rules for her she'd have obeyed the rules. If she knew that her parents would sit up to ask her about her evening and engage in a little get-together talk she wouldn't want to come home with anything much to conceal.

It's the parents who fall asleep at nine p. m., while their youngsters are just waking up, who are to blame.

With all my love,
MARY.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Perhaps the moral, if one must have one, in the story of Mrs. Christine Woodside, fined $100 for flogging her 16-year-old daughter, Lorene, is that a lion tamer should never be a lion tamer by profession before her marriage, and 'tis said that never did lion tamer by gift and scarlet skirt crack a smarter lash than Mrs. Christine Woodside. But the same tactics applied to her child didn't work in this country.

Perhaps, too, the little story is just one more symbol of the ever-increasing power of youth to "get the best of it" over age. It will be harder than ever for parents to make their gals get in at night.

The "Love Legend"

Although he was 103 and she was 96, Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves left her husband the other day. She said that their marriage was not a success; they were not happy together, and would be better apart. How "the love legend" does persist even on into old age! Though

WATCH YOUR WEIGHT

The first beauty that the eye recognizes is beauty of proportion. That is why we are offended by too much fat.

If we should become fat very suddenly, over night for instance, what a shock that would be to us as well as to our friends—and what desperate means we should take to free ourselves from such ugliness. But fat accumulation is an insidious and gradual process, so gradual that we do not realize how far we have departed from our original proportions until some chance comment reaches our ears.

Many bodily defects may be concealed by artistic arrangement of clothes, hair and dress accessories, but fat is something that forces itself on one's attention. If we wish to return to a normal figure, strict measures for correction must be taken at once. A great deal may be done by wearing frocks whose long lines and broken expanses are antidotes for torso bulk, and we should take advantage of all such relief measures. But at the same time, we should pin our faith to diet and exercise for permanent results.

Sweaters Important

Sweaters are no longer an accessory to fashionable dress. They have assumed the importance of a necessity. Sweaters are particularly favored by debutantes and young matrons who take their golf and tennis seriously for they realize and appreciate the comfort of a sweater, to say nothing of its smartness.

The newest sweaters feature two-tone contrasts that are attained through stripes, sometimes encircling the shoulder and just as many times extending only halfway around. Diagonal effects seem just as important. A few lovely sweaters attained importance by the use of metallic stripes and gleaming threads.

Sports Jewelry

The vogue for sports jewelry continues to be most important. Vivid color effects are seen in jade green, lavishly blue, rose and ruby shades and various shades of purple are combined in unique links of silver or gold. Sweater chokers are made of transparent stones in a large variety of colors. Crystal pins are introduced for sportswear and golden necklets, bracelets, brooches and earrings of the pendant type are exceedingly smart. Novel ornaments for sport hats are introduced in silhouettes of feminine figures playing tennis or golf. Serpentine jewelry in both gold and silver and composed of several strands that are flexible, remain exceedingly smart.

MADURA FOOT ONE ITEM IN VAST MEDICAL CHART.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In 1898 a Boston physician reported the occurrence in the United States of a peculiar disease usually found only in the tropics. Another case was reported from Galveston in 1921, and a third from Cleveland in 1925.

In this disease a parasitic type of organism gets into the tissue through an opening in the skin, usually an open wound, and there sets up an inflammation which is associated with granulation and overgrowth of the tissues.

The growth slowly progresses, ulcerates sometimes, and eventually may cause serious disability, if not death. The organisms usually enter through wounds in the feet, so that the condition has been called Madura foot.

In the most recently reported case a negro meat-packer was involved. He had first injured his foot in 1914 and had suffered intermittently with trouble with the foot for 12 years. He was a common laborer during most of that time, and never had attempted to get good medical treatment, but constantly had attempted to manipulate and treat the swelling with simple methods of his own.

As a result, the granulation had grown until the lump on his foot was about the size of a hen's egg. Scientific investigation revealed the presence in the wound of the organism associated with maduro-myosis.

The lump was removed by surgical methods and the resulting wound was treated with special antiseptic solutions which have the power to attack the organism that causes Madura foot. In six weeks the condition from which the patient had suffered for more than 12 years was cured.

Other conditions somewhat similar to Madura foot occasionally occur in the United States, among them being a granulation called actinomycosis, which is caused by an organism similar to the one that causes the tropical disease. However, even actinomycosis is a relatively rare condition.

It is difficult to read all there is to read and keep an even keel mentally.

Formerly writing was done according to a standard. Certain things were told and certain things suppressed according to ideas of good form.

Writers of biography would have been shot at sunrise for divulging the human side of a hero.

Writers of confessions confessed only the trivial affairs that might have been read by the straight-laced reformer. Samuel Pepys was refused a place in most libraries.

Criminal lawyers and divorce court lawyers, if they wrote at all, merely turned out heavy calf-skin tomes on the legal questions involved.

But now the thing is to lay all the cards on the table. Biography is now a style. Confessions—a new style, court cases—a new style and all the rest of modern writing—a new style, are apt to give us the impression that the world has suddenly gone wrong. The cloth is things are not so very different. Frankness is the keynote, but we must not let that frankness upset us.

There is another thing to be considered. Most writers are vi-

WILLIAM HAINES HERE IN "THE SMART SET"

State Shows Popular Juvenile With "Added" Feature, "Doomsday."

William Haines, most popular screen juvenile of the hour, has done more than his usual bit in "The Smart Set," which is one of two features at the State theater today and tomorrow.

Haines enters the picture as a typical rich man's son, a big, boyish field who toils but can play polo. By the time the story is ended, he is a man of men, a personage whom any woman would be pleased to have defending her home and hearth.

Jack Conroy handles the megaphone on "The Smart Set" with even greater skill than he did on "Brown of Harvard," and that's saying plenty.

Florence Vidor takes the part of the toll weary girl who has worked so hard and so long that she feels escape from drudgery is worth any price, even the sacrifice of love.

Gary Cooper takes the role of the former army officer who almost lost his grip on life in the World War and who has found salvation through honest toil on his farm.

Lawrence Grant, as Percival Fream, the man with the wealth but not love to offer in exchange for youth and beauty, and Charles A. Stevenson as the girl's aged father, add strength to an exceptional cast.

The scene of the picture is rural England and all of the picturesque beauty of that section has been captured in the film to weave an aura of time mellowed romance over the story.

BEETHOVEN GLEE CLUB AT C. E. HOUSE & SON

The Beethoven Glee Club, one of Manchester's best known musical organizations will entertain at the store of C. E. House & Son, Inc., on Thursday evening Spring Opening between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m.

The club has 35 members and has taken part in and given concerts in many cities throughout Connecticut and Massachusetts. Helge Pierson is director. Under his leadership the club is preparing for its third annual concert. Albert Pierson and Rudolph Swanson will act as soloists during the entertainment at House's Thursday night. The store has been specially decorated for the event.

4 GENERATIONS OBSERVE EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Friends and relatives attended the 80th birthday anniversary yesterday of Mrs. Augusta Behrend, of 145 Charter Oak street, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Gordon of Charter Oak street. Four generations were present, Mrs. Behrend received many beautiful gifts of flowers and fruit. A harvest supper was served by Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Arthur Hale.

Mothers:

Next to the natural laxative from a mother's breast, a plain, old-fashioned preparation is always best for keeping baby's little digestive tract clean and sweet. When your little one doesn't eat, or can't sleep, give him a few drops of plain Castoria. It is purely vegetable, you know. Any doctor will tell you that it is utterly harmless to the youngest infant. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. Yet its gentle influence is soon felt all through the tiny system. Not even castor oil can compete with Castoria and how much better it is to use this milder means of regulating a baby! Never give baby paregoric or similar opiates, because, a few drops of Castoria are just as soothing, and no harm is done. That's the beauty of using pure Castoria; you can give it just as often as any sign of colic, constipation, or diarrhea—or those times when you don't know just what it is that has caused an upset. Only get the genuine Castoria—bearing Fletcher's signature. It isn't expensive, and with every bottle comes the book, "Care and Feeding of Babies"—worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

LOCAL MAN FINED FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Rockville, March 21.—Peter Balliano of 34 Lyness street, Manchester, and Mrs. Sadie Lewis of Vernon were fined in the Rockville City court yesterday following a disturbance which began at a birthday celebration in Vernon and ended early this morning on Prospect street. Balliano was fined $100 and costs of $12.75 on the charge of drunken driving and Mrs. Lewis was fined $10 and costs of $10.75 on the charge of intoxication.

The disturbance occurred when Mrs. Lewis was driving and refused to ride any further with him. Police Officers Richard Shea and Alfred Say investigated and placed the two under arrest. They were taken to the lockup and held there until police court yesterday.

Well Known Shipping Clerk Back After Illness of Several Weeks Duration

The many friends of Robert J. Sanderson will be pleased to know that he is back at his old job as shipping clerk for the G. E. Keith Furniture Co., after an absence of several weeks on account of a very serious illness. Through the skill of good doctors and the careful nursing of his wife, Bob, as he is familiarly known, has been completely restored to health, and is attending to his duties with the busy firm at the corner of Main and School streets with his old time enthusiasm.

MANCHESTER WOMAN SEEKS MASS. DIVORCE

Worcester, March 21.—Mrs. Ida Kearney of 32 Spruce street, Manchester, Conn., filed an action for divorce against James L. Kearney of Marlboro, Mass., in the Worcester County probate court here yesterday.

Mrs. Kearney, who has three times petitioned that her husband be ruled in contempt of court for failure to support her and their two children, now seeks a divorce on the ground of desertion. In January Mrs. Kearney filed a contempt petition which alleged that her husband was nearly $400 in arrears on separate support payments. Mr. and Mrs. Kearney formerly lived in Grafton, Mass.

BRITISH SAILORS SEEK RIGHT TO "WALK OUT" IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES

Portsmouth, England. — Lower ranks of the British navy are agitating for the extension of the privilege of "walking out" in civilian clothes.

The suggestion was turned down by the Admiralty last December, and the disappointment of the lower deck was intensified by the fact that the War Office simultaneously granted the concession to the rank and file of the Army.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

HALE'S MAIN FLOOR MAKING CHANGES Made Necessary By Growth Of Demand For Ready-to-Wear Garments.

Pick up an evening newspaper. Read the headlines for the news that's interesting to you. Front page, sports, comics, locals, all get your careful attention. The eye is attracted to a heading—

PARISIAN STYLES EFFECT LOCAL BUILDING PLANS.

It doesn't seem possible that the headwriter could have made an error, but then how can the styles that are created in Paris have any possible effect on construction work in Manchester? Yet it is so. At the J. W. Hale Company store workmen have been busy for several weeks remodeling the entire first floor of the local department house. Room is being made to accommodate more "ready-to-wear" goods and at the same time cut down on the "piece" goods.

Paris Did It

These workmen are engaged in making these alterations as a result of the style dictates of Paris. Paris says "ready-to-wear" and the American woman buys her dresses, coats and more personal clothing. Styles change more quickly. The average dressmaker can't keep pace. Milady Manchester cannot be out of date and so goes to the "ready-to-wear" department to be outfitted rather than rely upon her own or her dressmaker's needle.

Hale's has doubled its ready-to-wear department. Women have found that expert manufacturers can make clothes for them cheaper and better than they can do it themselves. The ready-to-wear clothes are adapted more quickly to changes in styles and for this reason women prefer them. At the Hale store the high shelves are formerly reserved for carrying a stock of piece goods are being done away with. Stamped goods are being discontinued although yarns and threads will be carried. Laces are out. Ribbons are in three feet of space and 20 years ago they occupied 30 feet of shelving.

Want Things Finished.

All this is brought about through the desire of the shopper for the finished things. Factory made apparel is of such high quality that women buy that type of goods instead of making their own. Thus it is that Hale's store here in Manchester must undergo changes simply because Paris has dictated new styles.

The entire store has been redecorated for tomorrow's Spring Opening festivities. The art department and notions are together under the new plan—gloves are in the middle of the store—patterens are near piece goods on the north side of the store—millinery is at the north in a much larger and better lighted space where passing shoppers do not interfere—house dresses, wash dresses and women's sportswear are under the cashier's balcony on the south of the store—the children's department is in the center of the store near the millinery—draperies have come down from the second floor and are now near the basement stairway in the center of the main floor—and the new radio department is near the books department at the main entrance.

Second Floor for Stock.

All these changes will be completed in time for the crowds that are expected to attend tomorrow night's opening. The departments which formerly concentrated on the main floor. This is done to make more room for stock on the second floor. Draperies have been brought down and corsets and underwear formerly upstairs are now near the Baby Shop in a more secluded and private location.

The ready-to-wear department in its usual location at the rear of the store now occupies 50 per cent more space than ever before. Miss Florence Johnson formerly in the ready-to-wear department. Miss Minnie Sargent who is buyer for the department goes to New York every Tuesday to buy ready-to-wear goods. Last week she made two trips to the buyers' market.

Price Marking Machine

Other features in connection with the ready-to-wear department include the new price marking device installed just recently. This device automatically places the tags on goods and makes a record of the piece of merchandise for office purpose. All new goods are unpacked in one department fitted to forms and checked right in Hale's store so that customers will not be given wrong sizes through an error made outside the store.

This new system also keeps the stock changing. Through new office machinery the J. W. Hale Company can watch its stock accurately. No goods are in the store over 60 days without being marked down. At the end of 6 months sometimes goods are sold at a loss in order to keep the stock moving. Just recently a winter coat was sold for $5.00.

Goods will be sold at this year's Spring Opening. The store has been prettily decorated and Eric Crawshaw, Hale's decorator is busy in an attempt to win the window dressing contest.

CENTER CHURCH WORKER ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Miss Hazel Trotter, director of religious education at The Center Congregational church, has been granted a leave of absence for several months because of the illness of her mother. The work of Miss Trotter will be distributed among other officers of the church until she returns to her duties. Ernest Lilley of Hartford has been engaged to come to the church once a week to take charge of the boys' athletic activities but his work will not be in the line of religious education.

NO NEED FOR WORRY OVER MEASLES CASES

Dr. Moore Says Epidemic Hits Town Every Seven Years; Only 20 Cases.

The fact that close to fifty cases of measles were reported recently in Manchester is nothing to become alarmed about, Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, head of the local board of health department, said this morning. There are probably not more than fifteen or twenty now, he added.

Dr. Moore said that measles epidemics occur about every seven years and that this was one of the years when the disease is due. The simplest remedy for measles is to keep the patient comfortable and have plenty of fresh air and fresh water.

Dr. Moore was perturbed at the mention made in an out of town newspaper today that there are three cases of diphtheria in Manchester at present. He said that there is no reason for creating any excitement about so few cases. There is hardly a time when there are not a couple of such cases in Manchester and sometimes many more.

Dr. Moore did state, however, that while Manchester has not had any alarming number of diphtheria cases this winter, those reported are more virulent than the average. The best protection against diphtheria is inoculation by toxin-anti-toxin treatment, he said.

ABOUT TOWN

The annual meeting of the North Methodist church family will take place at the church this evening, with supper at 6:30. There will be special music and reports from the heads of the various church organizations.

The Junior choir of St. Mary's Episcopal church will have a rehearsal tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the parish house.

Eastern Star members will meet at the South Methodist church tomorrow at 1:45 p. m. to attend the funeral of Mrs. Julia B. Hutt. Mrs. Hutt was treasurer of Temple Chapter for more than 25 years, a charter member and a past matron.

Mary B. Cheney Auxiliary, U. S. W. V., will hold its regular business meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the state armory.

BIGGEST WATER LOCKS FOR ILLINOIS WATERWAYS COMPLETED BY MAY 1

Lockport, Ill.—The "largest locks in the world," the great iron gates of the Illinois waterway here will be completed May 1, it is estimated.

Steel plates are being placed upon the south gate and the motors for their operation will be installed soon. Each leaf of the gates requires 350 tons of steel. They are 62 feet in height and provide a lift of 41 feet from the lower to the upper level, the greatest of the series of five locks between Chicago and Utica. The locks here are 400 feet in length and 110 feet in width. The approximate cost will be $2,000,000.

PUBLIC RECORDS

The following papers were filed for public record in the office of the Town Clerk today:

WARRANTEE DEED

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR OF PEACE CONFERENCE

More than forty members of the Manchester League of women voters gathered at the home of Mrs. Ray C. Pillsbury, 101 Chestnut street, yesterday afternoon and listened to an address by Mrs. R. T. Nason of Hartford. Mrs. Nason attended the recent peace conference at Washington and in her talk yesterday dealt at length with the proceedings of the conference, which was attended by three times as many persons as attended last year's conference. Her subject was "Is Peace Possible?" and her answer was that it is.

The next meeting of the League will be held at Teachers' Hall and the speaker will be Miss Maude Gaters.

An average of 56,000 vehicles pass Hyde Park corner in London daily between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. An antelope can run 60 miles per hour.

TABACCO FARM LEASES IN FINANCING PLAN

Two leases registered in the Town Hall today are assumed to be part of the new plan of the Hartman Tobacco Company of Hartford in financing tobacco farmers in this section. The leases involve land in the Hilltown and Oakland sections of Manchester and are given for one year from April 1.

Recently the Hartman Company underwent a reorganization and announced the formation of a plan for financing tobacco men and to buy crops from the farmers whom they finance. The leases filed today indicate that they are a part of the plan.

Under the terms of the lease the lessor agrees to furnish everything necessary for the production of Havana seed broadleaf tobacco, and to insure the tobacco, the sheds and the crop. The lessee pays a rental for the year.

"NO SALE" POLICY IS WILLIAMS FEATURE

Same Nominal Prices the Year Round Pleases Customers. Carries Good Lines.

George H. Williams Inc., is featuring a fine line of new spring clothing for men and young men by Charter House, Fashion Park and Williams own make. Included in these lines are a new line of suits with pair of knickers to match. This type of suit is very popular with many men.

Several years ago Mr. Williams instituted his no sale policy of men's clothing. This proved to be a big factor in the sale of men's clothing and has helped to build up a large business on this line. His no sale policy means that he sells his clothing at a nominal price of the year round assuring one of always getting the best values in clothing. It eliminates the hard feelings of customers who pay high prices for clothing at the beginning of the season and find the same merchandise cut 30 per cent and more or little over two months later.

In addition to Mr. Williams' no sale policy he gives 5 per cent discount for cash on the purchase of clothing or if you do not want to pay cash you can pay for it through his 10 payment plan—a down payment at time of purchase and the balance in 10 equal weekly payments.

Mr. Williams also carries a large stock of furnishings and shoes. Emerson hats with the new soft proof interlining which prevents the hat band from showing perspiration stains; Star brand furnishings and shirts; and Tom Wye sweaters.

In speaking of the business outlook for this season Mr. Williams is very optimistic and says that he believes the men's clothing business is better than it has been and that the manufacturers are co-operating to make business better by producing some of the finest clothes ever at very moderate prices.

DEWEY-RICHMAN STOTE HOME OF FINE THINGS

Beautiful Jewelry, Glassware Silver and Stationery Novelties on Display.

The Dewey-Richman store is a veritable palace of lovely things and it would take one many hours to make a tour of the store and see all the splendid things they have. Following is just a random sketch of their exhibits—Let us start off with a tray of new ladies wrist watches set with diamonds, the cases are 18 kt. white gold and are in a variety of unique designs. There are new diamond rings with the square top stones and claw settings. Very attractive and set in white gold.

Soldered mesh bags are the latest and finest things in that line. The ones they have here are satin lined and come in rainbow tints. Another thing for midday is the new short strings of pearls with drops in various tints.

For men there are new vest pocket cigar lighters in silver and gold plate finish. The Gift Shop offers a wide assortment including framed pictures and rose, amber and green tinted glassware. There is also Pickard china, the green luster ware with gold lining.

Another new feature is the Wallace serving tray with removable and holding a set of the new Nancy Dean pattern silverware. They also have the largest display of Sterling silver flat ware and hollow ware to be found in many stores. The Washington and Orange Blossom patterns still continue to be very popular.

There are also some splendid new pen and pencil sets for women in various pastel shades with colored cord to match. Dewey-Richman feature the beautiful Eaton-Crane & Pike line of fine writing papers. They also have a fine assortment of leather goods of quality including billfolds, ladies hand bags and brief cases.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

Dr. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

face. One of them, George Pelnar, scribbled with a red crayon on a piece of cardboard a last message—"My body to Pelnar, 5665 South 19th street, Omaha, Neb." At this address lives Pelnar's mother, Mrs. Kate Miteva.

Briefly, this is the terrible story of the fate of the men of Submarine S-4:

As the ship was rammed to the bottom water entered the battery room slowly. The torpedo room and control room watertight doors were closed.

Officers started the pumps working, in an effort to clear the battery room.

The water continued to rise in the battery room, entered the batteries and generated chlorine gas.

A pipe, used for an exhaust when the ship is submerged, collapsed between the battery room and the control room where had gathered 34 men.

Water Enters

Water began to enter the control room through a valve. The men in the control room tried to stop the valve but an American flag and the piece of green curtain was pushed by the water from the battery room side of the valve, clogging it and finally the valve burst.

As the sea water ran into the control room blinding glasses and sizzling insulation flared up from the switchboard.

The crew was forced to retreat to the engine room and every effort was made to prevent the seepage of water from the control room to the engine room.

Next to the engine room is the tiller room where are kept the supplies.

Ate Raw Potatoes

The entire crew had dragged raw potatoes, raw onions, and cans of sardines from the tiller room. These they ate to keep alive.

A bale of rags, used in cleaning the machinery, was found in the tiller room and was used by the men to cover themselves to keep warm.

Like Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch and his five men in the torpedo compartment, the men in the engine room hammered out signals on the steel walls. But these signals never reached the surface.

The 34 men lay in the darkened chamber for hours covered by rags, with their only food raw potatoes, raw onions and sardines.

Finally the water forced them to their feet.

It was cold and some of them collapsed. They were brought to their feet by their comrades. Time after time the men fell. Each time they rose to their feet. But finally the water reached up to their chests, and, weakened, they dropped and were drowned.

Meanwhile the six remaining men in the torpedo compartment were listening to Lieut. Fitch tap out his messages with a socket wrench.

Bodies of three of the last eight men taken from the submerged were enroute home today under naval guard. These were Lieut. Fitch, whose body went to Washington, accompanied by his parents and his bride; Torpedoman R. A. Crabb, to Riverside, R. I., and Machine's Mate William Dempsey, to Montreal. Bodies of the others were ready for shipment under military escort.

WORLD WAR MESSAGES MADE PUBLIC TODAY

State Department, is characterized as diplomatic circles here as the most prophetic and succinct in the entire feverish exchange of telegrams and cables between world capitals in the dizzy confusion immediately preceding the outbreak of hostilities.

The document makes public for the first time the unabridged story of this government's coming aware of the World War situation, and its late and feeble efforts to stem the onrushing tide of chaos and disaster.

The hazy grasp of the world situation displayed by the American State Department is regarded by diplomatic observers here as among the most interesting revelations of the World War situation, and its late and feeble efforts to stem the onrushing tide of chaos and disaster.

Bryan's Actions

William Jennings Bryan, then secretary of state, is shown to have been vigorously pushing Ambassador Gerard, in Berlin, for a German-American arbitration treaty as late as July 18, 1914—five days before the Austrian declaration of war on Serbia.

Europe began her mad dance of death on her powder stores on June 23, when the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand was assassinated by Pan-Slav fanatics at Sarajevo, Bosnia. Not until 5 p. m. on July 31 did Bryan telegraph the principal American embassies in Europe for daily reports on developments.

"This is the third day I have asked an answer to this question," Gerard cabled preemptorily from Berlin at noon August 2, 24 hours after Germany had declared war on Russia. He had sought permission to take over the German embassy properties in the countries already in the war.

Whitlock's Note

A message from Grand Whitlock, minister to Belgium, advised on August 4:

"I am informed in strictest confidence that King of England in personal message to King of the Belgians, not yet made public, has given formal assurances of support in event of German invasion."

No attempt was made by American State Department to keep the various diplomatic agents abroad informed of developments in countries other than their own.

Bryan asked Page on July 28, "The whole thing after receiving Herriek's message to Wilson, if there appeared any likelihood that American good offices would be accepted. This suggestion was not forwarded to any other country. Page did not reply until 6 p. m., August 3. Germany in the meantime having declared war on Russia."

"My very definite opinion," he said, "is that there is not the slightest chance of any result in our good offices being offered at any Continental capital. This is confirmed by the judgment of the British foreign office. We may have a chance after the war has reached a breathing spell."

Damaging Message

The most damaging message to the Central Powers is one from Gerard to Bryan in February, 1914, giving the American ambassador's ideas as to why Germany was reluctant to enter negotiations for an arbitration treaty. This was months before war was dreamed of on this side of the Atlantic.

"Find public opinion here against treaty," Gerard said. "To sign would be to throw away the advantage Germany has as the result of great sacrifices in being European nation readiest for immediate and decisive blow in war."

Unperturbed by the crashing of the world about his head, Bryan labored on with the work of signing his treaties of arbitration and conciliation.

Bryan did not drop the proposed Germany-America treaty until August 21—when the German armies were more than half way through Belgium—on which date he received the following message from Ambassador Gerard—"Sorry to report no hope peace treaty."

MISS CHURCH DIRECTS ANOTHER BIG PAGEANT

Manchester friends of Miss Lella M. Church of Rockville will be interested in the news that she has been engaged already to direct the sesqui-centennial pageant at New London, N. H., in 1929. Miss Church was recently invited to address a town meeting in that place on the subject of their prospective historical pageant and made such a favorable impression, the commission soon followed. New London has a fine summer colony; many well known people have summer homes there. It is also the seat of Colby academy.

Miss Church, as it will be remembered, was the director of Manchester's centennial pageant and since that time she has been frequently called upon to direct local plays. At present she is working with the young people of the Concordia Lutheran church on a repeat performance of "The Family Upstairs." Her work is so well known throughout New England that during her trip north she had conferences with committees in Keene and Franklin, N. H., and Greenfield, Mass., some of whom had witnessed her pageant at Antrim, N. H.

ROBITUARY

MRS. JULIA BALCH HUTT.

Watkins Brothers rooms on Oak street will be open this evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock for the benefit of those who wish to view the body of Mrs. Julia Balch Hutt, who died yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the South Methodist Episcopal church.

ABOUT TOWN

A daughter was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Donahue of 29 Oak street at the Memorial hospital.

Station Agent Frank Nickerson, who has been confined to his home for nearly two months with neuritis, expects to return to his work the first of next month. During his absence, his work is being done by Joseph Coughlin.

Charles and Fred Nilkowski, local florists, are in New York attending the national spring flower show at Grand Central palace.

A rehearsal of the three-act play "The Whole Town's Talking" to be presented by the Dorcas Society some time next month will be held at the Swedish Lutheran church tonight at 8:45 sharp.

OPEN FORUM

CONN. CO. LOSING BY POOR SERVICE

Editor, The Herald:

I note from time to time you publish articles in The Herald regarding the trolley service conditions on the Hartford-Manchester division. It would be more appropriate to refer to it as extra poor service. Evidently the numerous articles published in both the local and Hartford papers have little effect on bettering or changing conditions.

Not very long ago your paper stated that there were two experts, who had spent three days, studying conditions on Manchester Green lines. Far better if these experts spent their time in looking over conditions on the Hartford-South Manchester lines. Judging from the time spent on Manchester Green lines it would probably take not less than 3 weeks to complete a real survey on the Hartford-Manchester division.

A short time ago an enormous new up-to-date freight engine for the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. was on exhibition for a few days in Hartford. Many were the people who examined this Leviathan. It is very obvious why Consolidated Road obtained this new type of locomotive namely to speed up and improve the freight service, besides increasing the number of cars to a train, thereby cutting down expenses. As a matter of fact—improvement in freight transportation and service has outstripped improvements in passenger transportation in both passenger and trolley transportation.

It is Straphanger's opinion that service on local lines in the Nineties was just as good if not better than at the present time. In former days the trolley company was owned by local people and trolley cars were manned by local crews. With home ownership and home crews there was naturally more pride and humanity connected with the service. Now to get to the point which is of vital interest to trolley patrons including the Straphangers. Why should it require more than one hour to make the run from South Manchester terminus to City Hall? Twenty-five minutes ought to do it.

In the first place there are too many stations and stops, which cause too much wear and tear on the equipment, especially where stops are on grades. Why not run express all the time from Burnside to City Hall and vice-versa, thus cutting out the present method of poking along and stopping to take on Burnside and East Hartford patrons. It is evident that these latter patrons are a discriminating lot, for they choose the double truck trolleys in preference to their "One Hoos Shays". The Unionville-Farmington-Hartford lines run express from West Hartford to City Hall, so we therefore have a good example of express service right near home in a subsidiary line and operated by the same parent company.

There is another point which might deserve some consideration and that is to apply the principle of freight transportation during rush hours in a. m. and p. m. It was a common sight to see three trolley cars coupled up in Chicago away back in 1893 during Columbian Exposition. These trolley trains ran out about 12 miles. This method is much easier applied in Chicago on account of the flat country. During rush hours in the a. m. it is not an uncommon sight to see 5 east bound trolley cars practically empty on Burnside switch. This must be a considerable expense and possibly could be avoided by leaving the extra cars on morning trips in Hartford and coupling these same cars on for p. m. service.

It is the writer's opinion unless there is an improvement in service, that the Connecticut Company will have a constantly decreasing patronage due to a sort of semi-jitney service, which is rapidly on the increase.

BOY MILK DELIVERER HIT BY A MOTOR TRUCK

Grant Skewes, 12, is in Memorial hospital suffering from two broken ribs, consequent upon his being run down by a motor truck. His condition was reported at the hospital today as being good.

Grant was employed by Charles Heckler, Coventry milk dealer as a driver's helper and was on Florence street. He ran from behind the milk truck directly in the way of the oncoming vehicle, which was approaching from the opposite direction to that in which the milk truck was headed. He was taken to the hospital immediately.

SMITH'S HAT IN RING.
Albany, N. Y., March 21.—Governor Al Smith today was "out in the open" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has given his formal consent to have his name used in the Massachusetts Democratic primaries for an expression of presidential preference.

Close friends of the governor intimated today he would make formal announcement early in April that he was a candidate for the presidential nomination.

BE SLENDER and Fashionable

Fat and fad are mortal enemies. You can't be stylish and fleshy. The two don't go together. But there is no need to be stout. You can have the slender figure which fashion demands, and what's more you can have it

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There IS a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascara-tize the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time.

Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. AND EVERY drug store has them.—Adv.

Make Delicious Toast Right At The Table With A Hotpoint Toaster

Serve it hot! Toast is better served that way. For breakfast hot buttered toast helps give excess energy to start the day. When the children come rushing home from school—hungry as little bears—you'll use your Hotpoint Toast-Over Toaster again. And for the club luncheon and that midnight supper, delicious toast sandwiches can be made quickly and easily.

Skipping Drill Sessions Not to Be Tolerated—Policy to Be Continued.

Five members of the Howitzer Company, C. N. G., were fined for non-attendance at drills when they appeared before a summary court martial last night at the state armory. Lieutenant Thomas J. Quish was the court officer.

The names of the members of the company were withheld by company officials. It was stated, however, that the policy will be continued if other members of the company become irregular in their attendance. The next drill will be the first Tuesday in April.

SHAD
Fresh Hard Shad—of the season would be shipped this week. Our shipment should reach us Thursday afternoon. We will have both Buck and Roe Shad ready for your order Friday morning. If it is convenient phone your order Thursday.

Apricots are very much in demand right now, and people are starting to use dried Peaches for pies. Did you ever try Apricot Whip? It's a mighty good dessert—if you want the recipe, just tell the girls, when you phone your order, and they will be glad to read it off to you.
Our 8 o'clock delivery is going over "big"—some mornings we have to press another delivery besides our two Dodge trucks, into service in order to get all the eight o'clock orders out before nine as promised.

Spring Exposition

Tomorrow Night, Thursday, March 22nd

YOU need go no further than this store, to know the many originalities of the new fashion season. At every turn of the head, new tendencies will reveal themselves, everywhere you will see motifs expressly designed for the bright, joyful season of springtime. And you will find them in that wide variety which makes choosing so keen a pleasure.

More New Shades in Hosiery

We have just received three of the newest Spring shades—"white jade," a grayish tan shade, "kasha" and "pawnee" both on the tan shade which can be had in our popular brands—Gold Stalpe, Humming Bird, Phoenix and Pointex. Every pair may be purchased with Hale's guarantee of satisfaction.

VISIT THE
"Health Market"
OUR Health Market does more business per square foot (as near as we can find out) than any market in the city of Hartford. We have the most complete refrigerating system in town. Our stock is never large. We are very particular to have everything constantly fresh. Cleanliness above all is insisted upon. We sell only for cash and our prices are the kind of friends with whom you would like to associate. Join hundreds who now shop daily in our "Health Market."

VISIT THE
"Self-Serve"
A daily habit with so many families in town who are everywhere advertising for us. These people, who appreciate the largest variety to be found anywhere in Manchester, the finest quality groceries and allied food products, and who, in addition, are willing to pay cash and wait on themselves for the purpose of saving ten to fifteen per cent; these people, we say, are the ones who are friendly to Hale's Self-Serve Grocery.
