dist Episcopal churches in session in Fall River, late yesterday. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking was reappointed to the pastorate of the North Methodist Episcopal church here. Rev. Joseph Cooper goes to Trinity church, Norwich.

Rev. Colpitts is a man of considerable influence in the Methodist conference. He is one of the highest paid clergymen in the conference and comes to Manchester from a brand new $400,000 edifice erected in Fall River during his pastorate. He has great executive ability and is looked upon as one of the leading pastors of the Methodist Episcopal faith in New England.

His Record

Mr. Colpitts graduated from Colby College, Maine and later took two years of post graduate work in literature — Boston University. There he received his Master's degree. His theology study was at Mount Allison college, New Brunswick, Canada, and at Boston University. His conference record is as follows: 1898-99 Robinson, Me.; 1899-1901 Fort Fairfield, Me.; 1901-04 Vinal Haven, Me.; 1904-07 Vassalboro, Me.; 1907-11 Portland, Me.; Congress St.; 1911-16 Springfield, Mass.; 1916-18, Baltimore, Md.; 1918-20 Somerville, Mass.; 1921-28 Fall River, Mass.

At Fall River Mr. Colpitts amalgamated three rather poor churches and formed the Union Methodist Episcopal church. He then started a building fund, sold the old churches and superintended the erection of the new church, said to be one of the finest in the East. Mr. Colpitts has already transferred most of his effects to Manchester.

Rev. M. S. Stocking

Rev. M. S. Stocking of the North Methodist Episcopal church was appointed to the local pastorate a year ago. His reappointment to the church at the North end of the town was expected and was asked for by a unanimous vote of his parishioners. His one year here has won him a great many friends without the church as well as within.

GERMANS STILL DELAYED

Dublin, April 3.—When the Junkers monoplane Bremen will take on its proposed flight to America is still a matter of conjecture today.

Weather reports continued unfavorable although local conditions improved sufficiently for the plane to make a trial flight over this city yesterday with the new relief pilot, Commandant James Fitzmaurice, head of the Free State Air Forces, at the controls.

SEEK BIGGER FISH FOR GOVERNOR SMITH

Bangor, Maine, April 3.—Anglers were out in full force at Bangor pool today, attempting to beat the size of the first Penobscot salmon caught here—a handsome fifteen-pounder—which was sent to President Calvin Coolidge by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Democratic leaders here said that Gov. Al Smith will also eat Penobscot river salmon, but not until one is caught that is larger and handsomer than the one sent to the White House.

BANK DEPOSIT OF $522 LOST IN QUEER WAY

Cash and Checks Disappear From Possession of Mrs. Thomas D. Smith as She Goes to Trust Co.

The complete and utterly inexplicable disappearance of a bank deposit of $522 belonging to Thomas D. Smith, well known North End marketman, has baffled Mr. Smith, his wife and the police since yesterday afternoon.

Monday noon at his home, 4 Oakland street, Mr. Smith made up his bank deposit, intended for the Manchester Trust Co. and Mrs. Smith was to take it to the bank in the afternoon. Two hundred and twenty-five dollars in currency and $97 in checks were placed together with the deposit slip, in a long bill fold which has done service of this sort for a long time. During the afternoon, Mrs. Smith carrying the billfold, took her seat in the car of Mrs. W. H. Cowles of Manchester Green, who had called for her and the latter drove to the bank.

Money Just Gone

Mrs. Smith got out of the car in front of the Trust Co. building on Main street, crossed the sidewalk and entered the bank—to discover that she had nothing in her hands but her gloves.

She had not been jostled by anyone, nor had she been even momentarily in a crowd; but billfold and deposit were simply gone.

Mrs. Smith hurried back to the car on the off chance that she had left the money on the seat, though she had no recollection of laying it down. The billfold was not in the car.

Driving back to her home, Mrs. Smith made a thorough search, though quite certain that she had not left the deposit there. Having completed this hunt, which was fruitless, she reported the loss to the police.

None of the endorsements on the checks alone would inform any person who found the wallet as to its ownership, nothing had been heard from the missing money up to noon today.

"JIMMIE" GALLIVAN OF BOSTON IS DEAD

Congressman Known All Over Country Passes Away Quietly at Sanatorium.

Boston, Mass., April 3.—"Jimmie" Gallivan, congressman from the South Boston district and one of the outstanding and aggressive national leaders against prohibition, passed away peacefully in a sleep at Ring Sanatorium, Arlington Heights.

Congressman Gallivan, one of the best known Democrats in the country and beloved by all who knew him, was found dead in bed at five a. m., today by the night nurse at the sanatorium. A heart trouble was given officially as the cause of death but officials at the sanatorium stated that the Congressman was worn by overwork and that this had brought about a hardening of the arteries.

Congressman Gallivan, who was 61 years old and a native of the district he represented in Congress, had been in poor health for some time. Last evening he went to the sanatorium for a few weeks rest. He was in good spirits during the evening and retired early. His death came peacefully during the night.

Word of the Congressman's death was circulated in Greater Boston for hours but was believed to be a hoax as on an average of twice each year since he has been in office reports of his death have swept the city. This noon however came confirmation of the passing of one of the outstanding figures in national politics.

Equestrian Prince Gets the Horse Laugh

Princely dignity, it seems, goes simultaneously with a fall. Here is the crestfallen Wales walking home after one of his recent upsets and the spectators at the race are trailing him with what look suspiciously like dirty laughs. The young lady at the right, for instance, seems to be reflecting that the prince is the sort of fellow who seldom sits out of a dance—or a horse race. He tumbled white riding for the Inter-Regimental Challenge Cup at Risley, Bradfordshire.

CITY, 1,000 YEARS OLD DISCOVERED IN SIAM

American Finds Ruins in Jungles—Trees and Vines Hide Magnificent Ruins, He Says.

London, April 3.—The discovery of a ruined city built over 1,000 years ago in Siam, which was the home of a mysterious race now extinct, has been made by a young American novelist and playwright—Harry Hervey—according to the London Times.

Hidden beneath huge jungle trees and surrounded by thick vegetation in a country, the city is held in awe by the natives who know nothing of its history. Hervey was told about the ruins by a human derelict in Shanghai whom he had befriended. This man said that the place was known to the natives as Wat-Phu, and was built by a race of people known as the "Kmers."

Long Journey

Securing traveling directions how to reach the spot, Hervey started on what proved to be a long journey, during which he suffered ill-treatment and great hardships. Finally he reached Wat-Phu at the foot of a great range of mountains. After penetrating the jungle he came upon a ruined terrace grown over with weeds and bushes. Then a body of water that he had evidently once known kept pool, was found. Across it rose the piles of ruins while higher up on the mountain side was the remains of a temple.

Leading up to the temple was a series of once handsome buildings which constituted the town.

JUDGE WOOD QUILTS AS PROBATE CLERK

American Finds Ruins in Jungles—Trees and Vines Hide Magnificent Ruins, He Says.

Retired 10 Years Ago

Judge Olin R. Wood, for 29 years Manchester's judge of probate, and for ten years probate clerk, today resigned his position in a letter to Judge of Probate William S. Hyde. Judge Wood, who will be 80 years old next month, suffered a fall two months ago and until yesterday was confined to the Manchester Memorial hospital. He intends to take a much needed rest.

Securing traveling directions how to reach the spot, Hervey started on what proved to be a long journey, during which he suffered ill-treatment and great hardships. Finally he reached Wat-Phu at the foot of a great range of mountains. After penetrating the jungle he came upon a ruined terrace grown over with weeds and bushes. NEW HAVEN REFUSES TO BUY WATER PLANT

Question Will Not Come Up Again During Next Twenty- Five Years.

New Haven, Conn., April 3.—New Haven will not apply municipal ownership to its water supply system. The Board of Aldermen early today voted 9 to 9 to renew the present contract with the New Haven Water Company for a matter of twenty-five years, and let a future generation decide whether the city shall take over the system.

The vote came at 12:30 a. m., after a discussion which started at 8:30 p. m.

While the water company has capital stock outstanding of a par value of $3,993,350 and outstanding bonds representing $3,749,000, it was expected that an inventory would show the property worth over $25,000,000. The deal never reached the point where a price was set on the property.

Under the water contract the company offers its plant to the city each 25 years. The contract, expiring next November, was made in 1903.

MELLON PLANS 200 MILLION TAX REDUCTION

Increased Expenditures and Not Revenue Losses Re- sponsible For His Change Of Position.

Retired 10 Years Ago

Washington, April 3.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today recommended a maximum tax reduction of $200,000,000 to Congress, a decrease of $25,000,000 from his proposal last October.

Appearing before the Senate finance committee today Mellon declared that his "top" cut is based upon appropriations already made. Should Congress appropriate $30,000,000 for flood relief Mellon said the maximum reduction would be reduced to $181,150,000.

Increased expenditures and not revenue losses were responsible for Mellon's change of position from last October, he said.

On the basis of $181,000,000 cut Mellon recommended:

- (1) Reduction of the corporation tax from 13 1/2 to 12 per cent and rate applicable to insurance companies from 12 1/2 to 12 per cent, entailing a revenue loss of $123,000,000.

- (2) Revision of rates applicable to incomes from $14,000 to $75,000, resulting in revenue decrease of $50,000,000.
- (3) Repeal of federal estate tax with loss of $7,000,000 in 1929.
- (4) Exemption of income from American bankers acceptances, held by foreign corporations. The loss of revenue would be negligible.

New York Corporation Plans 'Chain' Airports

Washington, April 3.—The remarkable development of American aviation during the last year has brought into existence here the world's first commercial airport construction corporation.

The new organization, encouraged by Air Secretary William F. McCracken, of the Commerce Department, and headed by powerful New York financial interests, plans to build and operate community airports on the chain-store principle. It is launched as the American Airports Corporation, with headquarters in New York, to make available a standard expert advice and supervision for the hundreds of communities now undertaking landing areas. It will plan, finance, supervise and manage the local projects.

Directors of the organization include William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Co., George Mixer, vice-president in charge of aeronautics for Stone & Webster, former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, Major General John F. O'Ryan of New York and Stedman S. Hanks, New York banker.

Aviation authorities declare the chief advantage of such work on a national scale will be in the coordination of hitherto unregulated activities by numerous communities, in establishing standard hazard signals and in providing expert technical knowledge for problems few communities are equipped to handle with existing engineering staffs.

CUTS EXTRA FINGERS OFF BABY'S HANDS.

El Paso, Tex., April 3.—Baby David Vallejo was born with six fingers on each hand. The extra digits were attached to the little finger joints and were perfectly formed.

When the baby was brought to Health Commissioner P. R. Outlaw he decided the fingers would be useless and a source of embarrassment to the boy, so he obtained the parents' consent to remove them.

STATE TAX LISTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Assessments Total Two and Half Billion; Various Items On List.

Hartford, Conn., April 3.—If all the taxable property in Connecticut were turned into cash and the cash divided among Connecticut residents, every man, woman and child would receive $1,550. Assessments totals in 1927 reached $2,549,237,341, according to the state tax board. Population, according to the state health board, is 1,600,000.

William H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner, today issued his annual report on assessments and taxes, and besides showing how much the state wealth had reached, he pointed out that Connecticut appears eminently a state of homes having 25,995 dwelling houses valued at $965,859,038 in the aggregate. Dwelling houses lead all other property on the state tax books.

Home building lots, totaling 497,598, are valued at $264,593.

The average value of the Connecticut dwelling house, as far as taxation purposes are concerned, is $3,318 and the average value of a lot is $1,038.

What the asking prices of various properties may be is not indicated.

Connecticut building used for store, shops, theaters, banks, hotels and a few other things commercial are valued at $290,317,587. Mills and manufactories, including dams, water power and machinery, are valued at $269,720,879. And the goods of "merchants, traders and manufacturers" are placed at $234,079,966.

Auto Values

One of the signs of the times is the increasing difference in the value placed on automobiles, and that placed on animals used for transportation. Mr. Blodgett's report shows that horses and mules are and farther down the list.

Automobiles in Connecticut are valued at $92,381,788; horses and mules at $2,621,189.

Some of the large items on the state tax lists are:

Land, $137,908,202; furniture, libraries, radios and musical instruments, $16,080,841; cattle $5,460,963; bonds and other intangibles, $2,468,660; boats $2,099,006; farm implements and tools $1,145,164; jewelry $1,123,794; wagons, carriages and bicycles $938,311.

Get Warnings That They Are Marked For Death—Police Believe They Have Master Mind of Bomb Throwers—Federal Men to Continue Their Work in Chicago.

Chicago, April 3.—Heavily armed police guards were posted today about the homes of John W. Gibson, Cook county commissioner, and Charles L. Swanson, a leader of the Thompson-Crowe Republican faction. Both men received warnings that they were marked for assassination. Gibson, a candidate for 47th ward committeeman under the Thompson-Crowe banner.

Solution of many recent bomb attacks, including those against the home of U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate for state's attorney, was predicted today as a result of the arrest of Lorenzo Juliano, a notorious figure in gangland.

Juliano, who was arrested last night by government operatives, is also believed to hold the key to a number of recent sensational gangster murders.

ONE OF FOUR ASSOCIATES ARRESTED WITH JULIANO HAS CONFESSED, ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT MEN, THAT HE PARTICIPATED IN SIX MURDERS AND MANY BOMBINGS, ALL OF WHICH WERE ENGINEERED BY JULIANO. THIS NAME IS BEING WITHHELD UNTIL THE GANG LEADER CAN BE CONFRONTED BY ALL HIS SUBORDINATES NAMED IN THE CONFESSED.

The gangster roundup was engineered by Pat Roche, one of the government special intelligence unit, and U. S. District Attorney George E. O. Johnson.

Prominent among the murders which Juliano is alleged to have directed is the assassination two weeks ago of "Diamond Jim" Brant, overlord of Chicago's "Little Italy" and a leader in the Denen Republican faction. Juliano is said to have posed as an intimate friend of Esposito, but secretly nursed a grudge against him, because he failed to provide protection for Juliano's bootlegging activities.

Denies Guilt

Agent Roche and Attorney Johnson questioned Juliano for many hours during the night, but the latter steadfastly maintained his innocence of any connection with the bombings and murders. After the interview, Roche departed for Blue Island, the alleged scene of Juliano's operations, to search for additional witnesses.

An interesting angle of the investigation involves Arthur Forshman, who according to Agent Roche, had been an under-covers agent of the federal prohibition department. He had been assigned to "hire out" to Juliano to get evidence against the latter's alleged business of transporting liquor into Chicago from other states.

Spy Sells Out

Instead of providing the government with this information, Forshman is said to have "sold out" to the enemy. According to Agent Roche, Forshman even tried to extort money from the members of Juliano's gang by promising them protection against federal prosecution.

Marked currency, totaling $375, was given to Forshman by the operator of a Blue Island saloon, just before the undercover man's arrest, Roche said.

The names of the three other men arrested with Juliano and Forshman were withheld by police. Agent Roche would not even discuss the confession which one of them is said to have made. At the federal building, it is generally understood the confession explains a motive for the murder of Esposito and for the bomb attacks against Senator Deneen and Judge Swanson.

At the time of the raid on Juliano's home, 36 sticks of dynamite and a quantity of liquor were found. These were seized as evidence. Additional arrests in the case are expected to follow today.

NOT TO BE BLUFFED

Washington, April 3.—The federal prohibition bureau does not propose to be "bluffed out" of Chicago by Mayor William Hale Thompson, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Loman said today.

The government is out to clean up Chicago regardless of local politics, Loman asserted. He said the charge that the Deneen forces had inspired the raiding activities now under way there is "absurd."

It was disclosed that the investigation of prohibition violations in Chicago has extended out from the city as far as East St. Louis and Minneapolis and St. Paul, through which territory Golding's forces program Mellon, in addition to these items, approved provisions of the House revenue bill as follows: (1) Increase in exemption from $2,000 to $3,000 for corporations with incomes not over $25,000.

Opposition to the principle of graduated corporation taxes, Mellon remarked that there is no sound justification for such procedure. He added that the adoption of a graduated corporation tax will lead back to the excess profits tax which "impossible of administration and generally discredited was repealed in 1921."

are operating. Officials disclosed that Mayor Thompson, when in Washington recently, conferred with Secretary Mellon and indicated that the prohibition authorities should be as liberal in Chicago as in New York.

No difference is being made between Chicago and New York. Mellon said. Officials insisted the federal government is making an effort to upset the bootleg traffic in both cities.

In Thompson's wire of protest to the treasury, he declared Chicago is a law-abiding city. Droran declared Myron Caffey, the special agent who shot William Beatty, Chicago court bailiff during a dry raid, acted in self-defense.

Droran is now on duty, will remain on duty, and the power of the treasury and justice departments will be exerted to keep him there, Droran declared.

According to a report made to Droran by A. I. O'Connell, deputy prohibition commissioner, who has just returned from Chicago, Beatty pulled a gun during the raid, and pointed it at Caffey. The agent, quicker on the trigger, and Beatty "got the lead," the report said.

"Prohibition agents are prohibited from using firearms except in emergencies," Droran said. "This does not mean, however, that they must stand up and be shot down."

COMPUTERS IN COURT New York, April 3.—Dr. John Bauer, retained by New York City and numerous suburban communities, took the stand again today before the Public Service Commission to defend his contention that a regular passenger is six and one-half times as expensive to transport as a commuter on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Dr. Bauer testified in the fight of the commuters against the railroad high rates claimed that the company in filing its petition for an increase assumed erroneously that it costs as much to carry a commuter as an ordinary passenger.

HOOPER DECLARATION

Maine and Michigan Republican delegations to the Republican national convention are for Hoover. The Secretary of Commerce is already off to a good start. Connecticut Republicans have the opportunity to register in the Hoover interest at a psychological moment. Their convention comes on the 17th and 18th of this month, earlier than the primaries and conventions in most of the states. An expression by the convention of the belief that Herbert Hoover is the best possible candidate for the Presidency would be effective, even though the traditional policy of sending uncommitted delegates is adhered to.

There is considerable question about the virtue of the plan of pledging delegates to a national convention. But there can be no sound reason why the state convention, made up of the direct representatives of the party's voters, should not make its preference clear to its agents.

CHICAGO

A great many people, some of them not altogether unsophisticated, are wondering what this obvious demoralization in Chicago is all about. Largely it is about the profits of alcoholic beverages.

There were about seven thousand saloons in Chicago, in the days before prohibition. There are now something more than twice as many speakeasies. Most of the business of the old legalized saloons was in beer at five cents a glass. A great deal of the business of the speakeasies is also in beer, but at twenty-five cents a glass. Seven million dollars of the profits of the five cent beer went to pay legal licenses. None of it is used up that way nowadays, and the profit, besides, is four or five times as great. That is, there is four or five or six times as much easy money in the rum business as there used to be.

Naturally there is, in the spread between the actual cost of making beer (which is little more than it used to be) and the retail price, a tremendous inducement for unscrupulous officials of all sorts to "get in on the fix." Chicago beer sellers pay $55 a barrel for the stuff they serve in their speakeasies—which are merely the old saloons doing business under protection. There are many thousands of barrels sold every day, a thousand dollars a day being not an unusual intake for one saloon.

SPEED AND DEATHS

Statistics issued by the Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles show that the number of automobile fatalities is increasing. It is poor satisfaction that is found in the spoliators' discovery that the number of deaths is decreasing slightly in proportion to the number of vehicles registered. What the people are interested in is not percentages but killings—and these are on the increase.

Increases are particularly noticeable in the number of children run down and in the number of hit-and-run cases. The door was opened for both classes of offenses when the Legislature was induced to eliminate the specific speed limit.

Whether the average speed on the highways has been increased by the act of the Legislature is doubtful, for the old speed limit was high enough to suit most careful drivers. But the speed of the road scorchers has unquestionably gone up terrifically. And it is these people who cause, not most of the bumps, perhaps, but the great majority of the fatal accidents. And if anybody can recall a single instance when a hit-and-run driver was not operating his car at a recklessly high rate of speed he must have an exceptional memory.

We have had a couple of years of experimentation in keeping the lid of automobile speed—and the death rate has increased. That is the cold fact.

Another point is that the communities, under the state law, are practically helpless in the matter of establishing speed limits in settled territory. We have examples of this in Manchester, on some important streets of which it is quite the customary thing for motor cars to be driven at rates of speed suitable only for the open road—streets through which little children have to pass several times a day on their way to and from school.

Unless motor drivers reduce their speed the death toll will go on. Unless the Legislature makes them they will never reduce it.

TOUGH CURE

The Health Commissioner of New York city found that several commercial lodging places of the grade known as "flop houses" and several mission shelters were so unsanitary that he peremptorily closed them, driving about eleven hundred homeless men and boys into the streets on a bitterly cold night. Later he asserted that he was personally outraged at the lack of decent accommodations for such homeless derelicts, and earnestly hoped that his action would result in something being done, by the well-to-do, to provide shelters that would be at least better than pigsties.

It transpires that when Commissioner Harris requisitioned a couple of hundred Red Cross cots and sent them to the lodging houses, so that the lodgers need not sleep sitting on benches or lying in windrows on the floor, they filled all the space previously occupied by more than a thousand sleepers and so eight or nine hundred were still doomed to find shelter in doorways or where they could.

Conditions in the ten cent doss houses of a great city like New York are often unspeakable, it is true. But it would seem as though Commissioner Harris' cure was a little worse than the disease. It may be terribly unhealthy to sleep in such a place. But it's probably just a shade better than either freezing to death or catching pneumonia on a park bench in sub-freezing weather.

GERMAN TOURISTS

An unusually large number of Germans are arriving in America as tourists. They are not at all the same type of tourist as those who go from this side to Germany and to other European countries. They are coming here to find out as many things as possible that can be used to the advantage of their own country.

Two separate groups of German business men landed in New York yesterday and on the same day a crowd of twenty-eight school teachers who plan a three months tour of the country.

McLean, Washington newspaper proprietor. For our part we are reminded of the little girl who insisted on going behind the returns to account for the malevolence of Satan, asserting her conviction that "he couldn't possibly be so bad unless somebody put him up to it."

LINDBERGH GOSSIP

Lindbergh says he is not going to fly across the Pacific, or the Atlantic either, for that matter. He has no round-the-world trip in mind. And that he is all done denying ridiculous rumors.

That last, we fear, was a serious error. It leaves the way open to the rumor fabricators to give it out that he has just said he intends going to the South Pole with Byrd, to Mars with the rocket gent, or to marry Mary Garden.

There is nothing in the world that the inventive mind of the gossips can think up, about Lindy, that can't now be given out as assured fact and immediately gain credence. Seems to us that Lindy sidestepped when he made that crack about no more denials, and that he'd better readjust.

"LEAD KINDLY LIGHT" STARTS CHOIR ROW BETWEEN ORGANISTS

Minneapolis, Minn.—Hamin Hunt, organist at the Plymouth Congregational church here, takes exception to the statement of R. Buchanan Morton, choir director and organist at the House of Hope Presbyterian church, St. Paul, that "Lead Kindly Light" is too sensuous a hymn to be sung in churches.

"Lead Kindly Light," Mr. Morton said, "is a beautiful, well written hymn, which in no way could offend the taste of any churchgoer, nor could by the greatest stretch of imagination be termed sensuous, unless sensuous was interpreted in a turgid and likely to be remembered by the listeners."

It is a temper in a teapot. The statement that "Onward Christian Soldiers" is set to music indicating comic opera, is debatable. It is a well written hymn and has served its purpose well. Written for a period in church history when martial music, for it is only a march, was perfectly apropos, it has never caused offense. Of course today when we are advocating world peace and international fellowship, a martial hymn might not be proper. The question is, as I have said, purely debatable."

The occasion for Mr. Hunt's statement was a speech delivered by Mr. Morton before the Professional Men's club here. Mr. Morton at that time protested against quartets, choir or soloists in churches. He criticized ministers and singers, stating that they intrude their personalities into the services. He stated that Protestant evangelical music "has been in a bad way for the past 50 years."

"The market," he said, "has been deluged with hymns so bad they cannot be taken seriously any other place than in the church. There are very few good hymn tunes."

New York, April 3.—Each liner that steams away from Manhattan bound for Europe carries with it a dozen untold tales of the magic part America plays in the life of European immigrants who have cast their lots on these shores.

Here is a millionaire banker, who arrived in New York not more than a quarter of a century ago. He had not more than a few dimes in his pocket. Now a great building flashes his name and he goes back to the homeland to show them how a "boy from the home town" made good. Here is a merchant prince who came out of south Germany and began in the push-cart belt, one of the East Side's most prosperous realtors. And so it goes. Sooner or later they all try to get back to see the home folks and leave behind pictures of America as the land of plenty.

Of course they don't all make fortunes. They don't all so much survive. Otherwise the tenement belts would not be what they are. But those who have their name in legion—become the monuments to success easily achieved. It is, almost in every instance, an epic of struggle and persistence and grasping of opportunity.

New York is filled with great armies of men and women who hope to go home some day and show the "folks back there" that they could make good in the city.

It is one of the reasons for "putting on the dog" when visitors from the home town arrive. It is one of the reasons that tens of thousands keep on, year after year, battling against the city's windmills. They resent going back with the brand of failure. They look upon Manhattan as the test. And it is an unfair test of survival, since so much depends on fortune and circumstances. Yet, such is the illusion, that a failure in New York seems to many to symbolize a complete failure. I have heard hundreds say they "couldn't face the home folks" until they had at least made their mark in the "big city."

It offers a constant challenge, not only to those who are here, but to those who dream of achievement. I sometimes think that New York is not so cruel. Those who are defeated, as a majority must be more or less defeated anywhere, are inclined to blame the city. Feeling broken they cry harsh things against the city's ears and it does not hear them. In a smaller community they would fit into their inevitable niche and find a certain degree of comfort therein.

If most folk were more honest they would admit that they came to New York because they felt inhibited and thwarted elsewhere. It seemed that a city where nobody knew them and "where they could start all over" would be a fair test. Few who have this point of view succeed in New York, any more than they would succeed at home. The more successful are those who start all over in Manhattan and who attack them in much the same manner.

Those who begin with the notion that they have been frustrated elsewhere and recognize that Manhattan is but a magnified version of all the places they might ever live in—and accept it as such—come to accept it on its own values. Few are really happy in New York. The life is too much unrest, too much of fever burning just under the surface, too much of yearning for the unknown and too much of envy, too much of hurt pride and too much of dishonesty with one's self and too much of outside distractions.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 3.—These have been perilous times for the Federal Radio Commission. Congress has been accusing the commission of favoring the big chain broadcasters and the commissioners have been accusing Congress of gumming up broadcasting in general by playing politics with it.

Here's a story told by a person not exactly unconnected with the commission: In a southern city dwells a wealthy broadcaster whom the commission limited to 1000 watts. Most of his broadcasting is confined to phonograph records. Other selections from this station are most often terrific broadsides at the owner's enemies, which includes the commission and those listeners who write in to complain about the programs. The listeners tuned in on these stations sometimes hear howlings-out directed at a single person for as long as half an hour.

Occasionally the broadcaster confirms a general suspicion by announcing to his unseen audience that he has a "bottle of likker" at his side. Along about midnight he's well warmed up and many lurid expressions penetrate the ether. The boss yells to his engineer: "Put her all on!" And on goes two or three thousand more watts and the big transmitter begins to spread the message to far corners. The other morning an army officer in Washington called up the commission and complained at the profanity issuing from this station. "But we can't do anything about it," one is advised. "This fellow has the whole southern bloc in Congress lined up behind him."

Just a little excerpt from the Congressional Record: The vice president: Then joint resolution requesting the president to withdraw the armed forces of

ALONE?

No — not with a telephone at hand.

Far from it, in fact. Though there may be no one else in the house, she has beside her an instant contact with neighbors, friends; a dependable guardian to bring help if over it should be needed; a constant link with the outside world, so that she need never feel deserted.

And there is the other side of telephone service, too—the calls that may come to you. Your name in the telephone book gives you standing among the people who use it for reference; it enables your friends to reach you as easily as you can reach them; it keeps you within speaking distance of the rest of the world day and night.

And it costs so little!

For as little as $2.00 a month you can enjoy the benefits of a telephone in your home. Convenience, economy, protection, contact with the outside world at all times, day and night. All this at so small a cost to you.

The local 4-H club girls gave a dance Saturday evening at the town hall, which was well attended in spite of the unpleasant weather. The dance was under the management of Misses Marion Tennant and Mabel Porter. They plan to give dances about once a month, the receipts to be applied to the use of the club.

Through the night and early Saturday morning before daybreak the crashing of ice from trees and shrubbery resembled a hard hail storm. There was a hard wind blowing and in the morning the ground under the trees and near the shrubs was laden with the particles of ice. The sun shining on the trees which were still covered with the ice made a gorgeous spectacle from sunrise up to nine o'clock or later. Many different colors of the rainbow were noticed in the gem like particles shining on the trees.

The 4-H club girls in connection with their dance Saturday evening held a box social in which boxes of lunch were sold at auction. Bidding on these was high and the lunches were eaten afterwards.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips" Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. SAN DIEGO HAS POLICE FIGHT ON 280 BOOKMAKERS

San Diego, Cal.—San Diego is over-run with bookmakers—not book composers or book binders, but makers of books for betting on horse races.

In this city of 140,000 people there are 280 bookmakers and Chief of Police J. Moran has announced a campaign to reduce the number by 100 per cent.

The move to stamp out bookmaking was started by indignant citizens who complained that there were "at least three bookies in every block" in the downtown section, and that these gambling gentlemen, "takers" and "payers" constituted a nuisance and an economic loss to the general public in that they contributed nothing of a constructive nature and served no useful purpose.

Coffroth to Help A seeming paradox developed when James W. Coffroth, president of the Tijuana Police Association, announced himself as heart and hand behind the police fight, and offered to finance a squad of special detectives to aid in eradication of the bookmakers.

San Diego bookmakers are a great handicap to my racing plant," Coffroth said. "They induce our potential patrons to remain in San Diego and bet on the horses 'on paper dope' instead of paying the gate charge and watching them run at Tijuana. Thus the track is deprived of most revenue which we would receive were it not for the bookmakers of San Diego."

Los Angeles and Detroit are the only cities in California which prohibit the printing of race news," Coffroth said. "And they are notorious for their bookmaking rings. Why, certain operators along Spring street in Los Angeles have made and are continuing now to make millions out of their hands."

Police Warning Chief Doran served warning upon the owners of cigar stands, pool halls, soft drink stands, card rooms and other places under supervision that their licenses would be summarily revoked if evidence is found that bookmaking exists on the premises.

BETTER WAR PICTURE AT THE STATE TODAY

"Under the Black Eagle" Story Of Other Side of Great Conflict—Ralph Forbes Stars.

Ralph Forbes, Marceline Day and "Flash," the wonder dog, combine to make "Under the Black Eagle," one of the features at the State Theater today and tomorrow, one of the best pictures that the theater has ever known.

Harry Raff, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer who first presented on the screen such successful dog stars as Peter the Great and Rin-Tin-Tin, has made another dog star discovery in Flash, a huge police dog said to be the most highly trained animal in the world.

The picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke from an original film story written by Norman Houston. Strategy, spectacle and tense action describes the photoplay entitled "Stage Kisses." While there are several types of the oscillatory art shown in the production, these by no means occupy a prominent position in the plot.

The story revolves around the problem of whether an actress is capable of true love and if the life of a football star is worth the stage is one of sham and pretense or not.

Out of this interesting speculation has grown an entertaining photoplay into which are introduced glimpses of New York night life and the interiors of exclusive homes.

An exceptionally fine cast headed by Kenneth Harlan and Helene Chadwick, and including such popular screen players as John Patrick, Phillips Smalley, Ethel Wales and Frances Raymond has been selected to present the screen story. Without exception they draw fine character delineations.

Non-Coms' Club New PLAN AT THE ARMORY At a special meeting of non-commissioned officers held after the regular drill of Company G, 169th Infantry, C. N. G., last night at the State Armory, plans for organization of a NCO Club were discussed.

WISHBONE BROKEN, CAR CRASHES AND BURNS

A broken "wishbone" is blamed for an automobile collision which occurred on the Bolton road just east of Manchester-Green yesterday afternoon resulting in one of the two cars involved overturning and being destroyed by fire. No one was injured nor was the other machine badly damaged.

The destroyed machine was a Ford truck operated by Gilbert Wittmann, 29, of Bolton. He was driving east when, he says, the "wishbone" of his car snapped, causing him to lose control of the truck, which collided with a Red driven by Arthur G. Peck, 52, of Bolton. Mr. Peck was on his way to work at the Manchester Green mill.

THEATER DEAL HAS NEW THIRD ANGLE

Reported That Circle Is to Go to Commercial Firm; Rialto "On the Fire." Although rumors to the effect that the Rialto theater is to be leased or sold to the Hoffman Brothers Enterprises, owner of the State and Circle theaters, have been prevalent in Manchester during the past few days, Nathan Marlow, one of the firm of Jaffee & Marlow, owner of the building, said today that the deal was still in the works.

Both theaters have in turn been operated by John F. Sullivan and the Circle was built by him after he had disposed of the Rialto, then called the Park. Mr. Sullivan sold the Circle to the Hoffman company and the Rialto has been in the hands of several operators since he disposed of his interests there.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Tuesday, April 3.

Russian Easter music as interpreted by an orchestra of 35 pieces and a male chorus of 50 voices, will be presented in the early hour of the evening on WEAF and the Red network at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Selections of both Russian folk music and Russian liturgical music, the latter considered as the most marvelous choral music that the world has known, will be given. Another feature has been scheduled for WOC at 9, when Jacques Jolas plays Frank Liszt's piano, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," a whimsical tale made memorable by Washington Irving. It will be dramatized in the Socony hour through WEAF and the Red network at 7:30. The fatal love of Ichabod Crane and his fair Katrina and his mad encounter with the headless horseman are all to be depicted in this radio performance. At 7 o'clock the Red network will broadcast the Voters' service during which two newspaper men, Charles G. Ross and Frederick Essary, will discuss "Getting Ready for the Convention." One hour later the Stromberg-Carlson quartet will feature a program of soft, airy and gentle melodies through the Blue network and WEAF at 8:30, will present theatorio "Seven Last Words of Christ."

FALSE TALES OF CRIMES AND RUM INJURES CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill.—Chicago is not a naughty city! Aroused by what he terms a nationwide conspiracy of the press to blacken the city's reputation, State's Attorney Robert Crowe has launched a stinging defense of Chicago's civic virtue. Here are some of Mr. Crowe's figures on crime: There are more murders per capita committed in Washington, D. C. than there are in Chicago. Milwaukee has more crime per capita than Chicago. Thirteen large cities in the United States have a larger ratio of violent crime and murder than has Chicago. This much maligned city, according to Crowe, convicts 66 out of every 100 criminals arrested by the police department and brought to trial. Vice, murder, ordinary shootings in gangland and bootlegging are decreasing here rapidly, according to Mr. Crowe, who cites from the records of his department. Bad Reputation The chief trouble with all this "naughty Chicago" propaganda, Mr. Crowe finds, is that it scares away all the desirable citizens and invites all the persons who want to launch a bright career in crime. "Why, everybody in Pookunk Corners, or Walla Walla, Wash., reads these stories in the papers," declared Crowe. "What impression do they get?" "They are afraid of Chicago. They get visions of automobiles flying around the streets loaded with gangsters and the gangsters armed to the teeth with Thompson sub-machine-guns and dynamite bombs. They think everybody in the Loop district wears a bullet proof vest. "Old ladies from Kansas or Vermont come here to visit and shiver with fear when they look down the safe and respectable reaches of Michigan boulevard. "The result is that a lot of people who would be a big asset to the city are kept out. They fear for their lives, so they go to live in

ENGLISH BULL PUP IS NEW MASCOT AT YALE

New Haven, Conn.—The old appeal of Yale students for a mascot to rank with Brown's bear and Army's mule seems to have been answered with the arrival at Yale of "Dougford Peter," an English bull dog so like the famous old "Handsome Dan" of historic note, as to make old graduates rub their eyes and to their thoughts back to the days of the Tontine, Trager's and Morxy's. "Dougford Peter" is just now the personal property of Ed Leader, famous rowing coach, and was sent him by John Hay Whitney, Yale 1926, son of the late Payne Whitney, Yale 1898. "Dougford Peter" sniffed the Yale atmosphere, wriggled against the legs of his new master, and proceeded to make himself at home. He is going over to Gales Ferry in June to be crew mascot. When the college re-opens next Fall, "Dougford Peter" may sit on the sidelines in the Bowl.

GIRL ALONE

should not be here," and her little eyes were suddenly filled with loneliness and a Providence that elected to make her so different from other women.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 The summer she is 16, SALLY FORD is "kicked out" to GLEN CARSON, prosperous farmer, she leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known since she was four. At Glen's farm, Sally finds a friend in DAVID NASH, athlete and student of farming, who is working on the farm. Sally, a cousin of the late Mrs. Carson, is the daughter of Pearl, who is angry at both Sally and Glen.
 When Carson makes insulting remarks about Sally, David sends him crashing to the ground. David and Sally run away and come upon a carnival train. Sally finds a friend in EDDIE COBB, former inmate of the orphanage. Eddie, who is in charge of the carnival, offers Sally a place in the cook's car and Sally becomes "Princess Lalla." The carnival is a success.

The midges, "PITTY SING," for supper and as she trips along with the little woman, she catches sight of her husband on the midges' newspaper. The story of David's fight with Carson is told in a big headline. Sally runs to show David the lie that is being published. As Sally leaves, David, Bybee and his wife, they ask her to join them at supper. Sally tells Mrs. Bybee all she knows about her mother and that she lives in a one-time Stanton. The towns they are now in. Mrs. Bybee agrees to go scouting the next morning to see what she can learn.
 NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XVII

HOURS more of "crystal-gazing," of giving lavish promises of "long journeys," success, wealth, sweethearts, husbands, wives, bumper corn and wheat crops, babies—until 11 o'clock and the merciful dwindling of the carnival crowds permitted a weary little "Princess Lalla" to slip out of the "Palace of Wonders" tent, Pitty Sing, the midges woman, cradled in her arms like a baby. For Pitty Sing had promptly adopted Sally as her human sedan chair, uncompromisingly dismissing black-eyed Nita, the "Hula-Hula" dancer, who had previously performed that service for her.

"I don't like Nita a bit," the tiny treble voice informed Sally with great definiteness.
 "Poor Pitty Sing!" Sally soothed her, as she picked her way carefully over the grass stubble to the big dress tent which also served as sleeping quarters for the women performers of the "Palace of Wonders." "Have you anyone to look after you? I mean?"
 "Why should I have?" the indignant little piping voice demanded from Sally's shoulder. "I'm a woman grown, as I've reminded you before. I've been paying Nita five dollars a week to carry me to and from the show tent for each performance. Of course there are a few other little things she does for me, but if you'd like to have the position I think we would get along very nicely."
 "Oh, I'm sure of it!" Sally exclaimed, laying her cheek for an instant against the flaxen, marcelled little head. "Thank you, Pitty Sing, thank you with all my hearting!"
 "Please don't call me 'Pitty Sing' the little voice commanded tartly. "The name does very well for exhibition purposes, but my name is Miss Tanner—Elizabeth Matilda Tanner."
 "Oh, I'm sorry!" Sally protested, hurt and abashed. "I didn't mean—"
 "But you may call me Betty." The treble was suddenly sweet and sleepy like a child's. One of the miniature hands fluttered out in adequately to help Sally part the flaps of the dress tent, which was deserted except for the fat girl, already asleep and snoring stertorously.

 Sally knelt to enable the midges to stand on the beaten down stubble which served as the only carpet of Sally's new "dormitory."
 "Thank you, Sally," the midges piped, her eyes lifted toward Sally out of a network of wrinkles which testified that she was indeed a "woman grown." "You're a very nice little girl, and your David is one of the handsomest men I ever saw."
 "Your David!" Sally's heart repeated the words, sang them, crooned over them.
 "Nita evidently thinks so, too," the weak little treble went on, as Sally looked toward her. "I'm looking like an animated doll. I might as well warn you right now, Sally, that I don't trust that Nita person as far as I can throw a bull by the horns."
 "What do you mean, Betty?" she gasped. "Has Nita—?"
 "—been wearing your David?" finished Elizabeth Matilda Tanner, with her sentence for her. "It would not be Nita if she overlooked a prospect like your David. It is a prospect like your David that is a person of breeding and family, even if he is helping Buck in the 'privileges' car kitchen. Nita is always so broke that she has to eat her meals in the cook tent, but she borrowed or stole the money today to eat in the privilege car, and she found it necessary to confer with your David on a purely fictitious dietetic problem, and then went boldly into the kitchen to time the eggs for the boiling. "But David isn't with you," the midges snorted contemptuously.

 "Thank you, Betty," Sally interrupted gently, as she knelt beside the midges to help her with the lid of the trunk. "But David isn't my David, you know. He's—he's just a friend who helped me out when I was in my real trouble. If Nita likes David, and—he likes her—"
 "Don't be absurd!" the midges scolded, her seating herself on a tiny stool to take off her baby-size shoes and stockings. "Of course you're in love with him, and he's crazy about you—a blind person could see that. Will you untie this shoe-lace, please? My nightgown is in the tray of the trunk, and I wear a nightcap there, too. I wear the weak little treble toward her. "I'm looking like an animated doll. I might as well warn you right now, Sally, that I don't trust that Nita person as far as I can throw a bull by the horns."

This And That In Feminine Lore

Miss Anne McAdams, known to many of you as a skilled beautician with the Milton Beauty Salon in Hartford and as manager of their New Britain branch, is now with Mrs. Alda Pettigean, 875 Main. Miss McAdams specializes in permanent waving and invites her friends to consult her on all phases of beauty work. Mrs. Pettigean's ring is 1872.

The newest thing in the small close fitting hats is "blotter felt," and the fact that they come in delicate pastel shades, such as blue, pink and yellow shows that a simple dress or suit in these shades. They are trimmed with a buckle in many instances or threaded through with a deeper-toned gros grain ribbon.

Many mothers now make their daughter's felt hats. Less than a dollar will buy not only enough felt for a hat but for a harmonizing hand-bag and shoulder flower. The little girl wants a hat to harmonize with her best dresses, just as her mother does. The patterns may be bought at the pattern counter in any head size. Plain ribbon bands make a suitable trimming, or if rosettes are wanted the clerks at the ribbon counter can make up rosettes much more expertly than it can be done at home. Vari-colored wool flowers are another pretty trimming.

Useful little handbags may be made by folding up a square of felt, stitching it on both sides to make the pocket part, bringing the rest of the material down over the pocket and fastening with a button. The edges may be finished with wool or flax in any color desired.

Someone has suggested making the discarded dress into a growing girl has outgrown into a serviceable smock, either with long or short sleeves. If there is material a yoke might be added across the back at least, and a couple of pockets if the material is sufficiently strong to warrant it. The pockets might be put on to represent baskets of flowers, outlined with black floss.

Another pretty make-over for the small girl is a taffeta frock cut from one of mother's, and trimmed with little ruffles. Put on at angles they are a fad of the hour. If the color is somber it may be relieved with dainty collars and cuffs of lace, and have a colorful shoulder bouquet.

A clever way to lengthen a dress for the growing girl is by the use of broad lace insertion, or if lace is not suitable organza bands, contrasting colored material, or better still a different hue of the same shade of the dress.
 Scientists have discovered during the past few years that fish is one of the most important foods for children, being rich in the essential vitamins necessary to the growing child. The way fish should be cooked depends upon whether it is oily or lean. Fat fish are baked or broiled. The lean fish are cooked had, and others, trout, black bass, blue fish and others. The oily fish are salmon, mackerel, halibut, shad, butterfish, herring and still others. Fish should be cooked at a low temperature and never overcooked. This is particularly true if it is boiled. About a tablespoon of vinegar is added to each quart of water to keep the flesh white. Allow one-half pound for each person served.
 To acquaint its women customers with the uses of rayon, artificial silk, one of Hartford's leading stores is conducting a demonstration twice each day for three days this week, in collaboration with the Rayon Institute. A promenade of models in fashionable gowns and explanatory talks will be features of the event.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters
 BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES
 Mom, Dearest.
 You'd never have thought it of Alan! I'm so wild I could live in a cage, and I don't mean a bird cage.
 Florence told him that Billy was coming to the party—she just sort of let the tidings slip out. We thought it was all right with him because he didn't even frown. But I ought to have known that his cat-at-canyan smile meant something more than a mere smile.
 When Billy arrived upon the scene Alan was all molasses candy. Even then I didn't tumble. It was a grand party for a while and everything was going beautifully when in walked Alan's lady friend of the scented stationery.
 Just play that on your ironing board, Alan actually invited that hula-walker to my party. Well, thereafter all the frost was not in the icebox. Oh, no, I didn't let her suspect that I hadn't expected her. Alan stood off grinning after he'd introduced her to me. I dripped I made Alan come right out in the kitchen and take an active part in the main features of our entertainment. He's always sidestepped the heavy stuff and considered he'd done enough with his parlor-tricks. But this time he cracked ice and ground coffee and spread caviar while I told him what I thought of his nerve. He tried to fink it but I told him I'd go out and give his friend the bum's rush if he didn't listen to me. Then he said he'd do the same to my special guest and if I had any sporting blood I'd see that he'd only handed me the kind of a nifty I had coming.
 That sort of tied my hands. But the party was spoiled for me. So I didn't care when Mable Gray showed up. She was another surprise. Florence invited her. By this time I was prepared to see anybody walk in. No that I've anything against Mabel but I was going to mind the influence she might exert over me. Florence'd I don't want her around while Florence's here.
 It wouldn't take much urging to get Florence to stay and I don't think she's got enough talent for the stage. Besides she told me that Mabel wants her to share a studio. If I thought Florence had a chance to make the grade I'd do all I could to encourage her. But I can't see why she should make it difficult and everyone in order to take a flop.
 With all my love,
 MARYE

TENNIS MAKES DEMANDS ON THE MUSCLES AND NERVES
 BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In a recent symposium on the health aspects of sport Dr. F. H. Lorents of Hamburg points out that tennis makes special demands on the nervous system.
 It is no longer a lady's game but demands a well-developing musculature, a quick hand, and a lightning-like ability to grasp a situation. It demands co-ordination of brain and muscle, of eye and hand, and a sense of position above that of almost any other sport.
 Must Begin Early
 His analysis leads Doctor Lorents to believe that tennis is one of the sports which must be begun with early youth if the player is to achieve championship form. The lists of accomplished players include few, if any, who have begun playing tennis after reaching their twentieth year.
 While tennis is no longer in any sense of the word a lady's game, it is one of the few games in which women have achieved great prowess and in which men and women may play at the same time without ruining the competitive features of the game for either sex.

 BIRD TIME
 Is Spring Time And Don't Buy Your Boy a Shotgun.
 By Olive Roberts Barton

Every spring, before the sun has nosed out all the snow from behind fences and stones, there is a warment to my window. The birds, suddenly realize that it is house-hunting time and there is one particularly desirable apartment in a crotch of a maple tree that all of them are after at once.
 It is a sort of duplex, this apartment, and one spring robin had the lower floor while a nosy flicker ruled upstairs. It was amusing to watch the old busy-body upstairs sticking her head out of her window and peering down at her red-

Only six members of the squad which reported for practice yesterday are regulars from last year's team. The remainder are new comers whose ability is yet to be tested.

The schedule, which opens Wednesday, April 25 at Rockville, contains fifteen games, eight of which are to be away and seven at home.

The others who reported and their positions follow: Alphonse Boggini, infield; Louis Farr, infield; Otto Seelert, pitcher; Jim McCaw, pitcher; Sherwood Trueman, pitcher; Frank McConkey, pitcher; Joe McDuff, pitcher; Terry Shannon, infield; Hugh Moriarty, outfield; Francis Sullivan, catcher; Frank McCormick, catcher; Jack Shea, infield; Ted Lupien, outfield; Charlie Holton, outfield; and George Falkowski, outfield.

Owing to the interclass basketball games, several other candidates failed to report. Among them were Frank Miller, Marcus Moriarty and Robert Eels. Coach Kelley had the players spend the first afternoon limbering up their arm muscles by light throwing and batting. The

New Haven, Conn., April 3.—Yale's undefeated swimming team was hailed as the college champion of the United States today as a result of its 99 to 23 victory over Michigan, big ten champions, in Carnegie pool last night.

FUGAZY PLANNING BOUTS FOR SUMMER

Has Signed Up Enough Men To Start Another Elimination.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, April 3.—The old story about Gene Tunney finding two opponents where exactly none were supposed to exist bobbed up again today in a new guise to further complicate that in no wise had been clarified by the recent announcement that Tom Heene, the well-known boloney, would be the champion's opponent in July. The second fight, they now say, will duly take place in September, under auspices other than Rickard's and that there will be a concerted rush by the heavyweights left holding the reticule to climb aboard the band wagon sponsored by Jack Fugazy and Jim Moran.

They are supposed to have the second Tunney date sewed up for Chicago, which is said to be the reason Fugazy made no move here to stop Rickard from taking over the Polo Grounds. So much for that development. Others figured to follow today in this order:

1. Tunney to wire his acceptance of Heene as the challenger to the New York Commission, which must be pondered to because the Tunney-Heene enterprise will be held in this city. The commission, they say, will declare Tunney null or void or both if he doesn't come through at the appointed hour and he was so informed over the long distance telephone yesterday.

2. Fugazy to return from Boston where he is presumed to have attempted to persuade Jack Sharkey to join the band concert to which reference was made above.

Fugazy to confer with Joe Jacobs, manager of Jack Delaney, on the same subject, Jacobs having explained his refusal to dicker further with Rickard for the proposed Sharkey fight. April 30, on the ground that he, Jacobs, had "positive information that Tunney would fight twice and that he meant to play ball with the man who would get the champion for his second fight."

Delaney also Sharkey already is said to be signed with Rickard for the Delaney match but he can get out from under, if he so desires, on the precedent set by the coes two names to make a contract. Fugazy, they say, will line up both Sharkey and Delaney within a week and that he plans to start them out from opposite corners during the early outdoor season, with Ebbs Field as the locale.

In brief, Fugazy is threatening us with another of those elimination tournaments, this one to include men already well eliminated and others who weren't considered even good enough for that.

Among those definitely aligned under his banner are George Godfrey, the colored man; Paulino Uzcudun, Roberto Roberti, the well-known human being; Les Martin, former Illinois football player; Napoleon D'Arval, the Kearns entry, and Knute Hansen, the dismal Dane. The Godfrey-Hansen affair, scheduled for May 2, will inaugurate the series, which is one of the easiest things to do with it. One of the hardest, I imagine, will be to stop it.

Bunions Bedouins Leaving New Mexico On Long Trek

Tucumcari, N. M., April 3.—C. C. Pyle's Bunions Bedouins today pushed on 45 miles to Glenrio, the last encampment in New Mexico, today.

While Arne Suominen, De Oil Naprapath, headed the van with an elapsed time of 177:43:45 for the 1,070.6 miles from Los Angeles to Tucumcari, the pack was at his heels and daily cuttings down his margin.

Olli Wantinen, diminutive New York, who, during the past week has maintained a dazzling pace through the long stretches, was second into Cucumcari, covering the 34.3 miles from Newkirk in 4:32:40, elapsed time 221:55:32, making him fifteenth in the standings.

ACES TO DISCUSS BENEFIT TONIGHT

The Aces will hold an important baseball meeting tonight at the home of Lester Brankie at which plans for the season and the benefit performance at the Circle Theater will be discussed. All members are requested to attend.

Second Game Of Title Series At State Armory

Seating Capacity Close to 800; Both Teams Believe Bigger Floor Will Help Them; Denial Made of Changes in Lineups; Military "Preliminary."

Physical condition of the players will have a lot to do with deciding the better team tonight when the Recreation Center and the Community Club meet in the second game of their "best out of three" series to decide the basketball supremacy of Manchester. The State Armory floor is much larger than the Rec gym and will take much more out of the players during the forty minutes of play.

Play will start promptly at nine o'clock with "Red" Ball, Amherst College basketball coach, as referee. If the Rec wins, the series will be over. A Community Club victory would necessitate a third game at the Rec next week Friday.

It ought to be a torrid struggle. If confidence means anything, both teams have already won. The Rec expects to beat the Community much easier than it did on its own floor because of the larger floor space in which to develop its teamwork. And for the same reason, the Community can see nothing ahead but a north end victory.

The doors will open at 7 o'clock tonight. The Howitzer Company under Captain Allan L. Dexter will drill from 7:30 until 8:45 at which time the basketball teams will take the floor for practice. The public is invited to come to the armory early, thus making sure of their seats, and witness the military drill which will be far more interesting than the average preliminary basketball game.

Bleacher seats from the Rec and the Kacey hall were removed to the armory this morning and these together with the seats at the armory should make the seating capacity at least 800. And what's more, it is predicted that close to that number will be on hand when Referee Ball starts the game.

PUT OFF POOL MATCH BECAUSE OF BIG TILT

Because of conflicting with the town basketball championship game at the armory tonight, the pool billiards match between Bill Cotter and Jud Gallup has been indefinitely postponed. The men were to play three hundred points in two blocks, half at Coughlin's Pool Parlors tonight and the other half at the south end next week. Although there is a great deal of interest in this pool match, there are many who want to see both the basketball and the pool. Therefore, it was necessary to make a postponement. A new date will be announced shortly.

My Best Girl Coming to Town
LET'S SEE NOW, WHAT'S THAT ADDRESS AGAIN... 732 PINE... THIS IS PINE... IT'S DOWN HERE A FEW BLOCKS...

My Best Girl Coming to Town
From a fire-lookout observatory, high in the mountains, a ranger sees a tiny wisp of smoke miles and miles in the distance.

My Best Girl Coming to Town
A few minutes with the telephone and men are hurrying to the scene by rail speeders, in automobiles and on horseback.

My Best Girl Coming to Town
A tourist leaves a smoldering fire in the heart of a dense forest. A tiny spark bursts into flame among the dried leaves and wood. Quickly it spreads to the underbrush and begins licking at the trunks of the trees. In the dry season it is no time at all before a raging fire is eating up the forest.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Young folks of today are pretty tame compared to the young folks of tonight.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Many an accident has occurred because the man at the wheel refused to release his clutch. Some people live to a ripe old age and others step on the gas. A ten ton truck has the right of way—if you're a wise driver. Jack—That's a fine looking horse; but what's the idea of the two saddles? Betty—That's the rumble seat. Thought for the husband whose wife is a back-seat driver: Airplanes of to-day fly too fast for words. Motto for motorists: Pedestrians should be seen and not hurt. In the survival of the fittest we fear the automobile will win out against the pedestrian.

LETTER GOLF

Playing the stock market isn't the only way to go from GAIN to LOSE in a hurry. It's just as easy—and much more fun—in letter golf. Par is five, according to the solution on another page, but you may be able to beat it.

Letter golf grid with words GAIN and LOSE. THE RULES: 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

One of the surest ways of being a bachelor these days says Tom Hyde is being too poor to support both a wife and an automobile. First Dog—"How'd you lose your tail? Too much wagging?" Second Dog—"No, too much automobile."

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE. The cake the Tinies saw was round. Wee Scouty cried, "Where was that found?" "I fooled you," said the baker. "This was made some time ago. I feared your own cake might fall flat, and that's what happened. Think of that! 'Tis always best to have another cake on hand, you know." "My, that's three layers," Clowny cried. "Say, is there frosting spread inside? I just love tasty frosting. I could eat that cake myself. But maybe it's too hot to eat. If so, we'll just postpone our treat, and wait until it cools a bit upon your pantry shelf." The baker laughed, and then he cried, "There's lots of jelly spread inside. But you will find there's plenty frosting all around the top. Don't worry 'bout it's being hot. That would be foolish, 'cause it's not. I fear to let you start to eat. You won't know when to stop. Remember, if you eat too much, you'll have bad tummy pains and such. The frosting's very sweet, you see, and one piece is enough. Whatever's left we'll put away, and finish it some other day. Now, promise me, you Tinymites, that none of you will stuff." The Tinymites all cried, "We do! And we will keep the promise, too. One piece for each is all we want, 'cause more might make us sick." "All right" replied the baker man. And then he took the big cake pan and said, "Come on, we'll find a knife, and cut the cake real quick." Right near at hand the knife was found, and as the Tinies gathered round, the baker sliced off piece by piece, which filled the bunch with glee. And when they all began to eat, they found the frosting nice and sweet, and Scouty cried, "Oh, yum, yum, yum, it's good as it can be." (The Tinymites make a new cart in the next story.)

WHO STOLE WHOSE COW IN A TRUCK?
 Birch Mountain Bossy Is "Taken For a Ride" If Kids' Story Is Correct.

What some regard as a possible belated April Fool joke and others take more seriously, is a report from the hilly region of Highland Park that someone stole a cow from a Birch Mountain farmer and "beat it," cow and all, in a Reo speed wagon.

Children returning from the Porter street school for lunch yesterday reported having been hailed by an excited man in an automobile who asked them if they had seen a man with a cow in a Reo speed wagon go by. He said that someone had stolen one of his animals about a half an hour previously.

Efforts to learn the identity of the farmer were fruitless.

SURPRISE SHOWER
 A surprise miscellaneous shower was given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Mullen of Bissell street in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Covell of Coventry. About twenty-five were present, including guests from Wilmanatic, Stamford, Coventry and this town. Mrs. Mullen's home was tastefully decorated in a color scheme of pink and yellow. The time was spent singing, dancing and playing various games. Miss Covell who is to be married in the near future to Edward Frany of Coventry received many useful gifts in linen, silver and pyrex.
