'Presidential Campaign Portraits' THE STORY OF JIM REED

Fiery Missouri Senator Battles His Way Toward the White House Staging Greatest "Comeback" in Political History

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of articles on the outstanding presidential candidates, written especially for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley. A second article on Senator Reed will appear tomorrow.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Washington, April 9. — Eight years ago he was rotten-egged in Ardmore, Okla., condemned by the North Carolina legislature as "a traitor who ought to be shot," threatened with being ridden out of town on a rail in Arkansas, upbraided by millions in his own party and even denied a seat in the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco.

Today, Senator Jim Reed, the fiery Missourian, is a leading candidate for the presidency, with a record of one of the greatest "comebacks" in the history of politics.

In place of the "Rid Us of Reed" clubs that swarmed in his state in 1920, there are now active organizations working for his nomination.

The real story of Jim Reed is the story of his fight with Woodrow Wilson over the League of Nations. It was a clash of political giants, bitter with hatred on both sides and trailed by inflamed public opinion.

Jim Reed sits in the senate today, known as a man who is rugged, honest, and utterly fearless. He has many good attributes, but there is nothing lovable about him despite his grandfatherly appearance. He is a bitter fighter who neither asks nor gives any quarter; in the heat of debate his face distorts to a snarling mask, his clenched fists quiver, his words sting his enemies like poisoned arrows.

"Fighting... fighting... fighting; everything I've ever got in this world I've had to fight for," he once said.

And that is true.

Orphaned when eight by the death of his father, he and an older brother had to fight to support their widowed mother on a farm in Iowa, to which the family had moved after his birth in Mansfield, Ohio, in 1857.

He fought to get an education during the three months of the winter that the country schools ran, he fought to continue his studies at Coe College, he fought poverty to study law in a lawyer's office, he fought his way into politics.

He fought his way into the mayor's office at Kansas City for two terms and in 1910 he fought his way into the U. S. Senate. And, after 18 years as a member of that body, and at the age of 66, he still is fighting.

The silver-haired veteran is not only one of the most eloquent men in the Senate, but also one of the most elegant. He always looks as if he had just stepped out of a bandbox—clothes faultlessly tailored, collar and cuffs immaculate, a color that he fixed just so, nails gleaming from a fresh manicure. He is one of the Senate's Chesterfields.

Reed decided to become a lawyer when he was 19 years old. A farm boy, he chanced one day into a courtroom at Cedar Rapids, Ia., and watched in silent admiration as two country lawyers tore each other to tatters in a bit of frenzied litigation over a dog. It fired his youthful imagination.

A half century and more has rolled by since that day, but Senator Reed still tells the details of that famous law suit have come down to posterity, although nothing more is known of the dog.

Education completed, he sold a horse for $135 to buy a law library and was admitted to the bar at 24. At 27, he married Miss Laura M. Olmstead and, seeking newer and brighter fields, moved from Cedar Rapids to Kansas City.

In Kansas City, Reed hung out his law shingle. There were lean years with few clients, but his ability as a speechmaker began to win him fame in political circles. So, in 1896, he was appointed county attorney—his first political office.

For two years he was prosecuting attorney and the record shows that he prosecuted 237 cases and got 285 convictions. How the other two escaped is still a mystery.

"There is nothing remarkable about that record," Reed says. "I never prosecuted a man until I had convinced myself that he was guilty. And then I went after him with everything I had."

The year 1900 found him beginning his first term as mayor of Kansas City, to be followed in 1902 by a second. His administration went after the public utilities and secured many beneficial concessions in the way of reduced rates for the people. He also was the first mayor to force a street railway to bear the cost of street paving between its tracks.

In 1904 Reed returned as mayor and ran for governor against Joe Folk. He was beaten. That may or may not have disheartened him, but at any rate he quit politics for six years and engaged in the practice of law.

In 1910, he returned to the political arena to oppose David M. Francis for the Senate. Francis, unhappily for him, had bolted Bryan in 1896 and Reed made the most of it. Reed was elected to the Senate where he has served ever since.

Years rolled by, the World War was fought and won, and then came Reed's bitter battle with Woodrow Wilson over the League of Nations which, it seemed then, had wrecked Jim Reed's chances for all time. They said Jim Reed sat up late at night just to hate Woodrow Wilson—but that bitter, merciless and historic clash, and what followed, is another story.

Tomorrow: Wilson, Reed and the battle of a century.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK.

New York, April 9.—An order to replace all wooden cars with steel cars is to be directed against the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company by the transit commission, it was learned from an official source today, as a result of a rear-end collision on the Liberty avenue elevated line in which two men were killed and sixteen persons were injured.

A triple investigation into the cause of the collision was being pushed today by the transit commission, police and the B. M. T. Assistant District Attorney James A. Dayton said inquiry showed the wreck was due to the negligence of Joseph Curtin, 50, a motorman, who was killed. The other person killed was Harry Smith, also a motorman. Four of injured are in a serious condition.

NEW MOTOR STAGE FOR JITNEY ACTORS

Regular Canvas Top to Be Used on Tour This Coming Summer.

A completely equipped, motorized theater has been invented by Bushnell Cheney to transport his organization of stage folk called the "Jitney Players" over New England highways during the coming summer. Mr. Cheney, a Yale graduate and son of Horace B. Cheney, of this town, tried out his idea of a theater on wheels in the spring of 1923.

A specially built auto truck that could be quickly converted into a modern stage was the first of Mr. Cheney's ideas. To this he added a novel system for generating stage lighting effects. Motor cars, for stage wardrobes and other theatrical accessories were added to carry his portable theater into the most remote corners of the country.

This year Mr. Cheney has added the final touches to his Jitney Player organization so that his theater is the most complete travelling playhouse in the country. For the 1928 tour, which will start about June 1, a huge canvas big-top will be carried by this group of outdoor performers to the most remote corners of the country. The last touch added this year to perfect the idea of a complete playhouse has been the addition of hundreds of red lacquer chairs that were made according to Mr. Cheney's specifications. Future Jitney Players' audiences will be able to witness performances with more comfort than is to be won from hardwood benches.

On the laws of hotels and country estates, in summer camps and beside village commons, the Jitney Players will be able to erect a big playhouse with all the lights shining in less than an hour. Costumes, scenery, actors and lighting equipment will be loaded on a train of five trucks and motor cars. Actors whose names are familiar to Broadway audiences will assist in moving the playhouse over New England, in addition to playing the leads in the Jitney Players' productions.

Between acts, the actors will lead a gypsy existence, travelling along unfrequented roads, stopping to bathe in streams and cook their meals and at night sleeping by the roadside under canvas shelters. The adventure of this care-free existence has proved so great an attraction to well-known stage folk that they are willing to accept minor parts in the cast of the Jitney Players.

Mean-while Mr. Cheney and his wife, better known by her stage name of Alice Keating, are choosing their 1928 plays and players. When the cast has been decided on, the players, prior to the summer tour, will be summoned to Madison, Conn., the home of the Jitney Players for a solid month of rehearsals. So popular has been the reception of this band of strolling players during the five years it has taken to the highroads that the 1928 tour has been extended to the middle of September and the itinerary, in addition to all the New England states, will include many towns in Eastern New York, northern New Jersey, and on Long Island.

FATEFUL SPOT HAS ANOTHER ACCIDENT

Three Persons Have Close Call at Chestnut and Park Streets.

The intersection of Park and Chestnut streets, scene of many accidents, some of them fatal, added another to its list last night when three persons had a miraculous escape from serious injury or death in an automobile collision.

The cars involved were an Oldsmobile sedan, owned by the Crawford Motor Sales Company and driven by Harvey Alcock of 57 Florence street, and a Studebaker driven by Carl Johnson of 227 West Center street.

According to the story told by Alcock, he was driving east on Park street and had come to the intersection when the Johnson car, going southwest on Chestnut street, struck his car almost in the middle on the left hand side.

Car Turned Over
The Oldsmobile was thrown to the left of the Johnson car, landing against a big oak tree at the corner of the lawn on the southwest corner of the intersection. The side of the Oldsmobile was smashed in and the top was also smashed when the car turned over on its side. Mrs. Alcock and a daughter, who were passengers in the Oldsmobile, were slightly hurt and the driver escaped without injury. Damages to the Studebaker were slight and its driver was not hurt. The accident was investigated by police who said that no arrests would be made.

A Chicago balliff was shot by dry raiders. Oh well, he won't be bombed, anyway.

WORLD BIDDERS FOR MASTERS AT CHRISTIE'S SALE

London.—Representatives of nineteen countries are expected to attend Christie's famous sale-rooms here next May, when nearly 200 old masters, the property of Sir John Holford, come under the hammer.

When the earlier section of the collection, chiefly Italian old masters, was disposed of last year a sum of $885,000 was realized.

In the main the pictures were collected by Sir George Holford, the present owner's father. All the Rembrandt's are portraits, one painted as early as 1632.

Bristol Bows In Defeat As Season Closes Here

FORSEE LIVELY TUSSLE FOR BASEBALL PLAYERS BY REC AND COMMUNITY CLUBS

Basketball Rivals Expected to Organize Baseball Nines and to Clash For Town Title Again in September.

Although official announcement is yet to come from both the Recreation Center and the Community Club, it is believed that these two recreational institutions will be represented on the diamond this season with baseball teams. All of which means there will be some more "that north-south competition" along about Labor Day.

Among the best ball players in Manchester today are Frank Walllett, "Young Pop" Edgar, Pete Partons, Lefty St. John, Jim McCaughlin, Tommy Sipples, Jack Stratton, Jack Linnell, Guido Giorgetti, Vin Farrand, Frank Brennan, Elmo Mantelli and several other whose names can't be recalled offhand. It is expected that a merry battle will ensue for the services of these stars.

It is rumored over across the tracks that "Breck" Wilson will attempt a comeback. It is known that Jerry Fay would like to have his services in a Community team. Wilson used to pitch third base and shortstop for the old Manchester team and his long distance hitting featured many of the contests.

Last year, Edgar, Partons, Mantelli, St. John were among those who played on the Community Club team which broke up in the middle of the season, partly because of dissension among the players. Although the baseball uniforms were the property of the Community Club which received them as a gift from a prominent north end resident and were supposed to be returned, several of the players have not returned them and have no intentions of doing so.

Probably the reason for the delay in the announcement that both the Rec and the Community are going to have baseball teams is because each feels that it has a better chance to secure the services of players on the quiet. In other words, each is trying to steal a march on the other. It will be interesting to see what happens.

NATS DEPEND ON WELLS

Because he won 13 games while losing only one in the Southern League last summer, Eddie Wells, former Detroit hurler, is expected to be one of the most reliable members of the Washington squad this summer.

WOT?—NO HOME RUNS!

Neither Babe Ruth nor Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' home-run thrillers, hit a home run during the spring training schedule at St. Petersburg, Fla., this year.

Local Sport Chatter

Al Dowd, promising local featherweight boxer, is booked to box in New York City tonight. His opponent's name is not known here. Dowd will make the trip together with Dave Hayes and Billy Taylor.

It is reported that George Stanivsky, star for the Community Club in the recent basketball series, will try out for a berth on the Recreation Center baseball nine, if one is organized. His friends, however, advise him to do nothing of the kind. George has ruptured muscles of the knee and if he expects to get anywhere in basketball next season, the best thing to do is to give the injured member plenty of time to heal.

Three members of the Rec Five basketball team are expected to make a strong bid for a position on the Rec baseball nine, if one is organized. They are Elmo Mantelli, Vin Farrand and Ty Holland. Mantelli and Holland are good outfielders and can hit well. Farrand plays shortstop and is the best slugger of the trio.

Arrangements for the exhibition pool match between Jud Gallup, town pocket billiards champion, and Bill Cotter, will be arranged today if possible and the details announced in tomorrow's Herald.

The past indoor sport season has been the most eventful of any in many years here. Bowling, pocket billiards and basketball were all huge successes.

You members of The Herald Bowling League, don't forget the big banquet and entertainment set for the Hotel Sheridan for Thursday night of this week at 6:30. If you haven't bought your ticket yet, do so immediately from your team captain, so that proper reservations can be made.

THREE ON SAME TEAM

Three former members of University of Alabama baseball teams are now with Washington—Grant Gillis, Emile Barnes and Jack Hayes.

It is estimated that the minimum cost of "producing" a man of 21, is $2500, which includes parental and governmental expenditures.

HEENEY ALREADY TALKING ABOUT NEXT OPPONENT

After He Flattens Tunney He Says He Will Meet All Deserving Candidates.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, April 9.—According to confidential advisers from the scene of action, Tom Heenev, the willing opponent, has been having a very enjoyable visit in Paris since the news became rampant that he had been named as Brother Tunney's man for the next public demonstration in heavyweight circles. Heenev, however, is in Paris or has returned to England but, in my general uncertainty on this point, I am not altogether different from the Parisians themselves. They have experienced a certain amount of difficulty in seeing a great deal of the young man.

Heenev got quite a break when they told him he was to go in there for an eighth of a million and the exclusive rights to Brother Tunney's fist full of knuckles. In this case, one break led to another, for it seems that Heenev was headed for Paris when the news came. If he hadn't been very careful about it, the news might have arrived while he was on his way to East Orange.

Tom Is Happy

Anyhow the tidings in question naturally left him feeling somewhat jocular and, from what I have been able to gather, nothing has happened in Paris to alter the situation. The young man still was far from depressed when last heard from. He was sporting himself in a very chic swimming pool somewhere on or near the Champs Elysees to the accompaniment of a large number of "tres Jolies" from the populace.

Previous to that occasion, the correspondents had succeeded in running a dead heat with Mr. Heenev only at isolated and very temporary junctures. In brief, they found many difficulties at times but Mr. Heenev very seldom.

I note with pained incredulity, too, that the tenor of Thomas' remarks has altered and for the worse. Previously, he was the soul of self-abnegation, a shrinking fellow who disliked publicity and so spoke of his art in an appealingly deprecating manner.

"I'm not much of a fighter, but what of it?" He seemed to imply. And while you agreed with him on both points, you admired his finger nails and the way he did his hair or something. Anyhow, you felt that a man who talked about himself in that sotto voce manner ought to be stood back from and admired at regular intervals.

But now my faith is ravished. The news has changed the serene role of modesty and is talking like a chief second. If the advice are to be believed, he has declared for "flattening Tunney" and even has promised to give every deserving candidate a shot at the title when he is champion.

COACH CAROLL SEES ACES AS POWERFUL

The Aces held their second practice Saturday afternoon at the McKee street grounds. Coach Ed Carroll says the outlook for his team for the coming season is most promising. He claims with Wagonman, Winzler, Wiley, Kletchka, Dugan and a few not yet decided upon, that his team should go through a very successful season.

The Aces have decided to hold a dance at the City Dance hall, on Keesey street, May 2. The boys feel quite assured that the financial outcome will be good, in other words that the Aces will be decked out in new uniforms for the coming season. Tickets for the dance may be obtained from the members and from the committee, Wagonman, Angelo, Bronkie and Nelson.

The Aces will hold another meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock sharp at the usual place. All members are requested to report.

Newsy Notes From The Training Camps

Kansas City, Mo., April 9.—It was "just another workout" for the Cubs, beating the Kansas City Blues here in an Easter day special, 13 to 4. Gonzales led the Bruin's attack with four hits in as many times at bat. Cuyler hit a triple and Hack Wilson kept up his fierce pace with three hits in four times up. Jones and Malone did the Cub hurling.

Indianapolis, April 9.—Cold that followed on the heels of a midwestern April snow storm, kept the White Sox from playing their Easter exhibition game against the American Association Indians. Refusing to count the day as lost, Manager Ray Schalk summoned his charges to the ball orchard and put them through an hour of stiff drilling.

Mexico City, April 9.—The United States Davis Cup team, with a clean sweep over the Mexican net team, left here this morning bound for San Antonio, where they will start a series of exhibitions. Led by Captain Bill Tilden, the Americans made their stay here a complete success by winning the final matches of the five-match affair and eliminating the Mexicans for another year.

Murphy's Nighthawks Beat New Britain But Two Pins

In one of the most thrilling five-man bowling matches ever witnessed in Manchester, Murphy's Nighthawks won a two-pin decision over Teller's Big Five from New Britain here Saturday night. All team singles were well over 500.

Manchester won the first game by nine timbers, 543 to 534, lost the second by twelve, 559 to 547 and then managed to win the last by five 541 to 536 to erase New Britain's three pin lead and win by two.

Manchester got a setback in the beginning of the final two team boxes when "Sparky" Saidella, shooting on a spare, sent the ball down the gutter. Spares by Chappell and Belletti coupled with splendid pinning by Murphy in the last two boxes, however, saved the day.

INTEREST IS HIGH IN TRAP SHOOTING AT BOLTON RANGE

Manchester Rod and Gun Club shoots attracting more gunners each week; good scores.

Despite a choppy wind, several good scores were made by regular gunners at the regular Saturday afternoon shoot conducted by the Manchester Rod and Gun Club Saturday afternoon. Several beginners also turned in exceptionally good records.

Another large gallery watched the afternoon's sport. With the arrival of good spring weather, more shooters are coming out to shoots and better scores are resulting. Any sportsman interested is invited to come to the range any Wednesday or Saturday afternoon. Veteran gunners will be glad to coach them.

R. O. Cheney joined the "25-club" Saturday by going straight on his last string. Patrolman Al Roberts, making his first try at the elusive disk, broke 21 out of 25 in the final game of the intercollegiate basketball tourney, were given a rousing send off when they left for the blue grass state yesterday.

Grand Forks, N. D., beat out Vienna, 27 to 25 for third place, second place of course going to Canton, Ill.

Wheeling, W. Va., won the consolation final, defeating Naugatuck, Conn., 29 to 28.

In fighting their way to the national championship, the Ashland team defeated the following teams in order: Naugatuck, Conn., Oregon, Ohio; Morris, Ala.; Vienna, Ga., and finally, Canton, Ill.

Champion Rec Five Beats Maple Ends Quite Easily

Beat the Yankees is the pet slogan of the American League and it has no greater advocate than Connie Mack of the Athletics.

Apparently, the tactician Mr. Mack, in his desire to over throw the champion of the New York Yankees, has decided to fight fire with fire. To be more explicit, he intends to give the Athletics an offensive punch that will rival the Yanks.

That is the one and only explanation that can be offered for his signing Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb. While these two famous stars have slowed up in the field and on the bases, they are as dangerous as ever at the bat.

It is one of the phenomena of the game how the outstanding stars at various positions first show signs of going back as to their legs. Such a fault reacts in their work on the bases and in the field, but somehow they retain the old batting eye, which age does not seem to dim.

Probably manager in the history of baseball ever opened such a field for debate as did Mack when he added Cobb and Speaker to the roster of the Athletics. You can find plenty of supporters pro and con on the question.

If one were to name the 12 greatest players in the history of the game it would be difficult to overlook Cobb and Speaker without being deluged with letters requesting that your sanity be investigated. They have been outstanding as outfielders, batsmen, base runners, smart baseball men.

Not only have they starred as players but each has had a fling at the managerial game. Speaker in 1920 won a pennant and a world championship for Cleveland. Cobb had varying success with the Detroit Tigers.

There are many experts who question the wisdom of Connie Mack in placing two of the game's greatest stars, players who have been big league managers in the lineup of the Athletics. There is in many quarters a belief that "won't work out. That remains to be seen.

Pear is expressed that other players of lesser reputation won't like the situation, the "hogging" of the spotlight by the stars, and there will exist that there isn't the proper ratio as to salary.

I am inclined to the belief that, in the parlance of sport, Mack is "shooting the works." In other words, it is my opinion that Connie would be glad to retire if he could put over another pennant winner. He doesn't like to get out while numbered among the also-rans after leading the procession for so many years.

For several years the New York Yankees have usually battered or battered their way to a pennant, as you prefer it. When pitching failed, when slowness of foot handicapped, when errors in the field made the Yank's defense look like a sieve, the trusty bats of Ruth, Gehrig, and company invariably came to the rescue.

The Yanks have in a sense triumphed because the club boasted the greatest offense in baseball. Mistakes in other directions didn't matter.

In placing Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker in his outfield, Connie Mack is unquestionably adding a real punch but is sacrificing speed on the bases and a defense in the field. Reid, rs, lg ..... 6 1 13

He doesn't like to get out while numbered among the also-rans after leading the procession for so many years.

For several years the New York Yankees have usually battered or battered their way to a pennant, as you prefer it. When pitching failed, when slowness of foot handicapped, when errors in the field made the Yank's defense look like a sieve, the trusty bats of Ruth, Gehrig, and company invariably came to the rescue.

The Yanks have in a sense triumphed because the club boasted the greatest offense in baseball. Mistakes in other directions didn't matter.

Victory Over Ancient Rival Brings Appropriate End to Manchester Basketball; Score is 45 to 21; Norris Plays Best.

They say that when a dog bites a man, it is not news, but that should the latter become ferocious and sink his jaws into canine flesh, it most emphatically is. And so for very much the same reason, it is news to report that Manchester closed its most successful basketball season in years Saturday night by putting the skids under its traditional rival, Bristol, to the tune of 45 to 21. Bristol has been beating Manchester so much in the past few years that a Silk Town victory is something worth celebrating about, especially when it is as juicy as Saturday's.

Bristol's superiority over Manchester has been chiefly in scholastic sports. It is true, but he is also a fact that usually when amateur or professional aggregations from the two cities clash, the Bell City representatives come out on the top of the heap. At the end of the football season last year after the Cubs and the Cherokees had bagged their historic series, the Bristol Maple Ends came up here brimming over with confidence and laid the Champion Cubs low at the stadium.

This was the same outfit which came to town Saturday night just after we had settled the town basketball championship. Again they were matched against our champions, but this time, they met their masters. Although the margin which separated the two teams throughout the majority of the forty minute game averaged only five points, the Rec Five, nevertheless, proved itself to be a much better team. It was the second time this season that the Rec had aced the Maple Ends. The first time was early in the season in Bristol, but Saturday night the Maple Ends came here with a stronger team determined to win at all costs.

With three players who have been warming the bench most of the season, in the lineup at the start—Ty Holland, Ev Strang and Ding Farr—the Rec ram up the command lead of 13 to 1. This was increased to 13 to 5. Manchester played splendid ball after the first few minutes, its passwork often paving the way for scores from under the basket. Toward the end of the half, Bristol found itself and slipped in several long shots with the result that when halftime occurred, Manchester was leading by only five points.

In the second half, Elmo Mantelli and Tommy Faulkner went in forward positions and "Cap" Bissell at Farr's guard for Manchester, continued to show his superiority over the visitors who managed to keep close by means of long shots and occasional suckers. However, nothing to brag about. Its scores came more from individual playings.

"Dutch" Leonard, Hartford Kacey veteran, kept the Bristol team in the running with his clever shooting. Leonard led both teams in scoring with six field goals and two from the free throw line. He made seven points in each half, outscoring Holland in the first and Mantelli in the second. Herb Carlson also played well for Bristol. The Bell City's chances weren't expanded when Carlsson found himself and slipped in several long shots with the result that when halftime occurred, Manchester was leading by only five points.

Boy Norris played the best game for Manchester. This tall and rangy athlete who played such an important role in his team's town series triumph, got the jump practically every time on Andy Commertford, former Bristol High star, and his passing and cutting were unusually good. He led Commertford to one bucket and led the Rec in scoring. Others who played particularly good for Manchester were Farr and Holland. Bissell also figured heavily in the scoring in the second half when he scored nine points, but he missed two or three easy shots under the hoop.

Referee: Herb Smith; Halftime Score, Manchester 20, Bristol 15; Personal fouls: Manchester 7, Bristol 12.

WARRIORS PROVE RIGHT TO TITLE

Dispose of Phantoms Easily After Even Half; Reid, Sturgeon, Bycholoski, Moriarty, Feature.

The Warriors further proved their right to the junior basketball championship of Manchester Saturday night in the preliminary game at the Rec, beating the Phantoms, composed of High School second string players. The final score was 42 to 22.

During the first half, the Phantoms succeeded in holding their rivals on even terms, but in the second half, the champions struck their real stride and it was goodbye Phantoms. The first quarter ended twelve all and halftime sixteen all. At the termination of the third period, the Warriors were ahead 24 to 18. In the final quarter, the Phantoms fell completely to pieces.

GARAGE, HENS GO, BUT SEDAN'S SAFE

Center Street Fire Spectacular in Wind But Kept From Spreading.

A three-car garage, about 15 chickens and a Ford truck worth $200, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin in the rear of 519 Center street at 9 o'clock last night. The garage and truck were the property of Aceto & Smith, concrete contractors, and the chickens were owned by James Aceto, a member of the firm, who lives nearby.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Aceto who had just come from the garage into his home. He saw the flames out of his window and ran to the garage where he was just in time to run his sedan out. He did not have time to get out the truck.

Fanned by Wind. Soon the entire garage was in flames, fanned by an east wind. An alarm was sent in and Hose Companies No. 2 and 3 answered the call and laid several hose lines which were turned on the blazing building. Sparks flew high and wide and for a while it was feared that nearby houses might take fire.

No other houses in the vicinity caught, however, and the firemen were allowed to give their whole attention to the garage. Two explosions, said by Mr. Aceto to have been those of the Ford gas tank and a supply gasoline tank kept in the garage, did no damage, although they made plenty of noise.

The glare of the fire could be seen for a long distance and automobiles from all over town were attracted to the scene. The big crowd made it necessary for two policemen to direct traffic at the corner of McKee and Center streets and long lines of cars waited while the fire department was doing its work.

Mr. Aceto said that the garage was probably worth $1,500 and the truck $200. Damage, he said, would not exceed $2,000, and everything is covered by insurance.

CRAPSTERS PICK WIDE OPEN SPACE FOR GAME

See Cops From Afar and Beat It From Scene of Easter Sunday Fading.

Special Easter services were held by the north end crap shooters on the flat near the power house on North Main street. Three separate groups participated. Neighbors who did not sympathize with this method of celebrating the day complained to the police. Officers Wirtella and McGinn found the crap shooters' strategy, in selecting the open flat as an all fresco gambling room, to be of a high order. It was impossible for the crapsters to be surprised. They saw the cops coming and fled. Net result of the raid.

BLACK LISTS Quite a tremendous pother about the "black list" some organizations have set up against speakers who they deem undesirable for their meetings. The black listed speakers become sore and sarcastic and the blacklisters insist that they have a right to pick the kind of speaking they want to listen to. And there's a lot of assing back and forth and much ill feeling and everybody's digestion suffers. Somehow we feel rather pleased at being in business—where there are no black lists. Black lists, when you come to think of it, aren't for really busy people—that is, busy in the serious sense of getting a living and being a cog in civilization; they are for people who are only busy over ideas. In business you are not particularly interested in the other fellow's politics, his religion, his sociological views. You and he meet on a mutual footing. You are both engaged in the vital affair of living and doing things, and your contacts grow out of living and doing—not out of your abstract notions.

Imagine, if you can fancy anything so ludicrous, as Pinehurst insisting on selling chickens or grapefruit or sugar only to one kind of folks—say to estoteric Bhuddists! Or only to the rich or only to the poor? Wouldn't that be a scream! No sir. That's one fine thing about storekeeping. You deal with all sorts of folks, and treat every one of them, rich and poor, big and little, all alike; because you treat them, if you really belong in the store keeping business, the very best you know how. Nay, nay. No black lists for us!
