

13 ARE BURNED TO DEATH AT A WEDDING PARTY

Mother, Her Six Children and Six Guests Die as Flames Destroy House in Pennsylvania.

Blairfour, Pa., April 16. Thirteen persons, a mother, her six children and six wedding guests, were burned to death shortly after midnight today when fire swept the two-story frame home of Ambro Krepachalk, a Slavish worker in this little quarry settlement.

Van Verbonitz, 19, whose marriage to Ann Krepachalk was celebrated on Saturday, met death with his bride in the flaming building.

The dead:

Mrs. Ambro Krepachalk, 38.
Sara Krepachalk, 15.
Michael Krepachalk, 12.
Verna Krepachalk, 10.
Father Krepachalk, 17.
Nicholas Krepachalk, 7.
Van Verbonitz, 19.
Ann Verbonitz, 18, his bride.
Carl Chissom, 31.
Thomas Horchlich, 43.
Peter Verbonitz, 26, brother of the groom.
Joseph Renbolich, 31.
George Krepachalk, 8.

The fire, which was believed to have started at midnight, swept the frame dwelling before the family and guests could escape. All apparently were suffocated, according to coroner Chester C. Rothrock, and the bodies were charred almost beyond recognition.

The bodies were removed to the morgue at Williamsburg.

According to F. M. Nizely, chief clerk at the Blair Limestone Co., which maintains quarries at Blairfour, only the Blairfour fire department responded to the alarm, and they were too late to check the roaring flames.

He said that the wedding which took place Saturday, was a quiet affair, and that apparently a party followed on Sunday. It was thought the guests and bridal couple had planned to remain overnight.

AL REFUSES TO TALK POLITICS ON VACATION

Turns Down All Invitations to Social Events—Talks With Tammany Men.

Asheville, N. C., April 16.—Governor Al Smith of New York isn't going to let work interfere with his vacation here.

He made this plain today in turning down an invitation to attend the Biltmore horse show tomorrow. He has steadfastly refused to accept local invitations.

Sleet and snow prevented the governor getting in his round of golf yesterday. After attending church he received another enthusiastic ovation.

The governor today expressed unconcern over the fact that resolutions to be adopted by the New York Democratic committee Tuesday when the Smith candidacy for president is expected to be launched.

"Some of them tried to talk with me about that matter before I left New York," he said, "but I informed them that was their business, a suppose it will be the usual form of resolution, and they may get the one they used four years ago, for all I know."

Gov. Smith was emphatic in his effort to discourage a political impression of the visit over the week-end of Governor W. Oliver Tammany leader, and surrogate James J. Foley, who stopped in on the governor on their return from a Florida vacation.

HARTFORD'S ELECTION IN THE COURT TODAY

Expect a Decision Late This Afternoon—Democrats Ask For a Re-Check.

Hartford, Conn., April 16.—Political workers of all parties crowded the Superior Court room where Judge Arthur P. Ellis here this afternoon took up the contested Hartford city election at the request of U. E. Guthrie, city moderator, who wants a re-check of the voting machines. Judge Ellis was expected to require from two to three hours or more to hear both Republican and Democratic leaders, and then to take the matter under advisement to decide whether a re-check is required.

The Republican town chairman had been served with an order to appear before Judge Ellis and show cause why the re-check should not be made.

The Democratic forces contend that the machines showed about 250 more votes than could be accounted for by the check lists that were marked by the ward workers.

"Mitchell Field or Heaven?" It All Depended on This.

Here is the single 770-pound motor of the airplane Bremen upon which Colonel James Fitzmaurice, Captain Herman Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld risked their lives when they started on their flight across the Atlantic. Berlin newspapers severely criticized the flyers for placing their dependence on a single-motored plane.

BLACKLIST OF D. A. R. MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Sole Topic of Discussion as 4,000 Delegates Meet in Convention in Washington Today.

Washington, April 16.—With Mrs. Helen Tufts Ballie's recent charge that the Daughters of the American Revolution maintain a "blacklist" containing some of the country's most prominent names, overshadowing every other issue, the thirty-seventh Continental Congress opened here today.

Some 4,000 delegates and alternates filled the Washington auditorium, and little else than the story of controversy which with publication of the "blacklist" was manifest on the convention floor. Even the campaigning for the election of officers faded into insignificance except as to the bearing the election would have on the one great issue.

Efforts of leaders to keep the Ballie charges out of the deliberations of the Congress were expected to prove futile, and an open split was thought to be inevitable before adjournment next Saturday.

Mrs. Ballie, of Boston, executive secretary of the so-called D. A. R. committee of protest against the "blacklist" was neither a delegate or an alternate, but she will be present at the session as a speaker, and leader of her forces within the Congress. She refused to divulge her plans today.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general, opened the Congress today with a speech of warning against "the growing tendency to destroy American ideals," which she ascribed to Modernistic church doctrines and "the flashing of lights from foreign shores."

Concerning movements for world peace, the D. A. R. president said that our colonial history has all these years been misrepresented and the ideals of the founders enormously magnified; that the present day nationalism is narrow and insular and must be replaced by the broader viewpoint.

"We do not, however, subscribe to the theory that America should totally disarm, so long as other countries are not only maintaining but are materially increasing all of their defenses," she added.

YOUNG DOHENY IS NOT ALLOWED ON THE STAND

Prosecution Suffers Smash-Blow at Oil Conspiracy Trial; Governments Rests Its Case.

Washington, April 16.—The prosecution suffered a smashing blow today in the oil conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair when Justice Jennings Bailey refused to permit in evidence one of the government's biggest pieces.

Bailey denied the plea of Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts to put E. L. Doheny, Jr., on the stand to tell of his father's $100,000 "loan" to Sinclair, which he believed the former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall at a time the elder Doheny was leasing the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Roberts wanted to show that Fall had been "in a thoroughly corrupt state of mind" and freely accepted money which didn't belong to him from the men who the leases on the oil reserves. Bailey, however, ruled that any transaction between Doheny and Fall had no bearing on Sinclair and the Teapot Dome oil lease.

The judge permitted Roberts to introduce evidence about $25,000 that Sinclair sent to Fall in June, 1923. The defense had objected to this on the ground it took place long after the leasing of the Teapot Dome.

This $25,000 brought the total of money Fall received from Sinclair to $294,100. The government contends the money was a bribe.

G. D. Walberg, former secretary to Sinclair, told the oil man's departure for Europe in May, 1923, first instructing him to hold a large block of Liberty Bonds at the disposal of J. W. Zevely, former Sinclair attorney.

In June Zevely called for $25,000.

LATE SEN. WILLIS 'KILLED BY WORRY'

Dr. Copeland, Health Expert, So Says in Talk Over the Radio.

Washington, April 16.—The late Senator Frank B. Willis, Republican of Ohio, was "killed by worry" over the fight made in Ohio against his presidential candidacy, Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat of New York, health expert, declared today in a radio speech in which he broadcasted a health code for men in public life.

Copeland warned statesmen, politicians and public office-holders not to worry if they wish to live. The six principal faults of men of affairs, Copeland listed as: over-eating, under-sleeping, getting too little exercise and sunshine, living too much in bad air, taking too little recreation and worrying.

THE COURTS' ADVICE

Middletown, Conn., April 16.—August Schultz, a cook, arrested on Saturday for petty annoyances he worked on his wife and sick child, was shown out of court by Judge S. Harris Warner after the judge said: "The next time you feel the urgent desire to fight, pick out a person of my race, an Irishman. Then you will get what you deserve. Meanwhile, get out of my sight."

GERMAN FLYERS RISKED DEATH TO LAND ON GREENLY ISLAND

10 Parachute Jumpers Lost in a Dense Fog IN LAST FEW HOURS

Chanutte Field, Rantoul, Ill., April 16.—A new parachute-jumping record has been made today as the result of ten student flyers leaping from an airplane here yesterday within an elapsed time of eight and one-fifth seconds.

The purpose of the daring feat was to prove that passengers flying on commercial planes may escape quickly during an emergency.

The students also aimed to wrest the world's parachute-jumping record from the Navy, which they did. The former record was nine men in 18 seconds.

The plane, driven by Lieut. John V. Hart of Galesburg, Ill., was flying at a height of 2,000 feet and at a speed of eighty miles an hour when the record leap was made.

The men, all of them graduates of the Chanutte Field parachute-jumping course, could have cleared the plane within five seconds, it was stated, had they not been held back. They alighted on Chanutte Field unharmed.

A giant Fordson all-steel plane, capable of carrying 15 passengers, was used in the experiment.

It was first planned to drop the men through the bombing tube, as the marine record was established, but a last minute change of plans had the men leap from the side door of the plane, one after another.

None pulled the release string of his chute until he had fallen approximately 150 feet, enough to clear the tail of the plane.

TO EXHUME BODY OF BLAST VICTIM

Officials Hope to Decide Whether Burns Were From Fire or Acid.

West Plains, Mo., April 16.—An hour after his funeral this afternoon, the body of J. W. Weiser, proprietor of the garage in which an explosion Friday night killed 40 persons, was ordered exhumed for an examination to determine whether burns on his face were caused by fire or acid.

Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Green, Jr., in issuing the order to Weiser, told him that doctors had told him they believed the burns were caused by acid.

Prosecutor Green said he was not entirely convinced the explosion in the garage, which wrecked the building while a dance was in progress on the second floor, was caused by gasoline fumes. He said he would recommend an appropriation by the county to bring experts on explosives here to examine the ruins.

Investigation today. The coroner's inquest will be resumed tomorrow. Green announced one of the witnesses summoned is a man who said he noticed a sputtering in the garage five minutes before the explosion.

Weiser was not accustomed to visiting his garage at night. A. E. Selberling, night chief of police, who walks a beat past the place, said he had seen Weiser at the garage only once at night. The explosion occurred shortly after 11 o'clock at night.

Another body, taken from the ruins today, brought the total dead to 39 or 40. There was some doubt whether a few bones recovered were of a distinct body or parts of other bodies previously uncovered.

Three more bodies were identified today, which lowered the number of unidentified bodies to 16.

CONVICTS IN REVOLT IN SOUTHERN PRISON

Guards Use Tear Bombs to Quell Mutiny—Three Convicts Injured.

Caledonia Prison Farm, N. C., April 16.—Fifty Guards, armed with sawed-off shot guns and tear gas bombs, early today quelled a mutiny of more than 200 prisoners in Cell House No. 2 at Caledonia prison farm.

The convicts began their revolt early last night, seriously injuring three fellow prisoners who refused to join them, and continued to wreak violence on the prison.

Dr. J. H. Norman, warden of the penal system, who arrives here early this morning from Raleigh, told International News Service that he would not yet make an appeal for aid, as he believed the situation was well under control.

R. R. DEPOT DESTROYED

Boston, Mass., April 16.—Authorities today began an investigation of the disastrous $1,000,000 fire that destroyed the Back Bay station of the New Haven railroad. Twenty-nine fire men were injured, some seriously, by the falling debris in the five alarm fire.

No trains will be run under the station or adjacent to it because of the danger of walls falling due to vibrations.

The fire caused a tie up of the trains running over the New Haven tracks and the adjoining line of the Boston & Albany, and a complete rerouting of schedules was necessary.

GERMAN FLYERS RISKED DEATH TO LAND ON GREENLY ISLAND

Gas Running Low Over Island—Plane Breaks Through Ice on Lake But Crew Escape Injury—Last Half of Trip Made Through Snow Storm—More Details of the Flight—Planes on Way to Aid Flyers.

Quebec, Que., April 16.—Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen's crew hopped off at Greenly Island for Quebec today according to announcement by the Canadian Government Signal Service. He is due to arrive here at five o'clock.

Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, and Baron von Huenefeld, financial backer of the overseas flight, remained behind with the Bremen, which was damaged in landing on Greenly Island Friday evening.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, April 16.—For many hours before their forced landing on Greenly Island, Captain Herman Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice, of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen faced death, according to fresh details of the flight received here today.

The first half of the flight was made under unexpectedly good conditions. The dangers developed during the latter half when the Bremen ran into a gale at sea and later encountered strong headwinds, snow and fog.

While in mid-Atlantic the Bremen ran into thick weather which made it necessary at times to dip the plane almost to the surface of the water. Attempts to ride over the fog failed, so Pilot Koehl kept as close to the water as possible, hoping to ride through the mist.

The head winds grew stronger and it was seen that the gasoline was going to be consumed more quickly than had been expected when the plane hopped off at Balldonneil Airport.

Koehl thought he had enough fuel for 42 hours but long before the expiration of that time the gas was running low.

The pilot held the plane on its course and after some hours the fog began to lift. However, there was a strong wind blowing out of the west and a snow squall blew up occasionally. Due to the forethought of the men in coating the plane with paraffin before leaving Balldonneil no ice formed on the wings. This was one danger that Lindbergh faced when the German-Irish flyers did not have to contend with it.

Runs Into Fog. Just as the alrmen believed they were off the Canadian coast they ran into a blanket of fog which obscured everything. It is believed that it was in this fog that the men lost their way and steered too far west and then south, toward Labrador when they sighted the island of Greenly. At that time it was snowing and the Bremen was fighting terrifically against the wind.

The compass had evidently gone wrong, as the men in the conditions of the gulf of St. Lawrence. The men "sensed" the presence of land before they made out the coast line through the murk and snow. It was then late Friday afternoon and the northern dusk was falling. The men did not know exactly where they were but believed they were over Newfoundland.

SETS GARAGE AFIRE; KILLED BY LESSEE

Fire Caused $300,000 Damage in Heart of Troy's Business District.

Troy, N. Y., April 16.—One man was murdered, 12 firemen were injured and one man is in jail charged with murder, as a result of a spectacular fire here today. A garage, in the heart of the city's business district, went up in flames, causing damage to about $300,000.

Lones Herbert, 24, lessee of the garage, is alleged to have shot and killed William L. Kelly, 33 owner of the garage, when Kelly set fire to the building.

Kelly dropped dead just as he dashed out of the burning building, according to the police.

STEAMER REFOLOATED

Boston, Mass., April 16.—The Eastern Steamship Company's liner, New York, which ran aground on a sand bar in the entrance to the Cape Cod canal, was towed safely into the harbor here today.

The 400 passengers were removed from the liner by Tugs and Coast Guard boats before efforts to float her were successful. They were conveyed by twenty motor buses to Boston from where they continued their journey to New York.

Failure to allow sufficient leeway in steering the craft against a stiff wind and tide was given as the cause of the accident.

PLANES ON WAY

Quebec, Que., April 16.—Another relief airplane of the Trans-Continental Airways was fueled and groomed at the Murray Bay Airport this morning, and made ready for a flight to Greenly Island, where the three airmen of the Bremen were still marooned. It was understood that this plane would make the flight in two hours, landing at Seven Islands on the way. An International News Service correspondent was prepared to hop off in it.

With "Duke" Schiller's plane already at Greenly Island, the Canadian ice breaker Montcalm was due to arrive there about 9:30 this morning. The steamer was retarded by bad weather and conditions were still so unfavorable today that it was feared the second relief plane could not get through.

Schiller and his companion, Dr. Louis Cuisinier, reached Greenly Island between 5 and 6 o'clock last night after battling their way through a gale.

Asks For Fuel

Baron von Huenefeld, financial backer of the Bremen's flight, sent urgent radio messages to Mitchell Field asking that fuel, new running gear and a new propeller be sent to Greenly Island by plane so that repairs could be made and the Bremen could continue on the way to its original destination—Mitchell Field, N. Y.

Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, von Huenefeld and Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice, the Irish member of the Bremen's crew, all have sent out messages to friends and relatives saying they are safe but none revealed their future plans.

The fact that von Huenefeld was so anxious to get fuel and new parts to Greenly Island indicated that the alrmen would not abandon their plane but would accompany it if it were taken on board the Montcalm today.

Schiller hoped to take the flyers in his plane and land them either at Murray Bay or North Sydney. It was regarded as possible that Schiller would hop off at Greenly Island and return with the fuel and extra parts wanted by the Bremen's crew.

Details of Landing

Addition to the landing of the Bremen have been received by radio from Point Amour. After losing their course the alrmen struggled blindly through a gale of snow, battling adverse wind. When the men were sighted late Friday afternoon, the alrmen thought it was either Newfoundland or Nova Scotia. They did not know they had traveled so far north as Labrador.

During the last half of the voyage from Ireland the plane was continually hampered by thick weather and at times the alrmen descended so low that the Atlantic almost lapped the landing gear. Approaching Greenly Island the alrmen saw the ice pack and realized for the first time that they had strayed into the frigid north country.

The Bremen, it is now learned, did not land upon the snow, but upon the ice. Its weight caused it to break through the surface. The propeller was badly bent and the tail of the machine was damaged. The landing gear was ripped off by the ice.

Desolate Island

As soon as the Bremen came to a standstill the three alrmen scrambled around and to get their bearings. They found themselves upon a desolate island that was apparently uninhabited. The northern dusk had already fallen and stars were visible during lulls in the snow storm. The plane had been sighted by a wireless operator and news of its arrival in America was being flashed back to civilization while the alrmen were still exploring the rocky, ice-bound islet. They came upon the lighthouse keeper who gave them food and shelter and sent their messages across the strait to the Labrador mainland where they were dashed out by the Point Armour operator. This operator had previously sighted the plane assuming it was the Bremen.

No Gasoline

After stretching their legs and getting over the stiffness occasioned by their long confinement in the plane the alrmen hastily examined the Bremen to learn the extent of its damage. They had intended to keep on flying along the coast line but for the fact that the fuel tanks were practically empty. The lighthouse keeper told them of nearby trading stations where quantities of gasoline could be obtained, but it was found that the propeller was so

G. A. BILLINGS AND WIFE DIE IN CRASH

Former Manchester Residents and Rockville Boy Killed in New London.

George A. Billings, 47, and his wife, formerly of this town, and Ernest Clark, a Rockville boy, were killed yesterday at the Maple Avenue railroad crossing in New London when their car was struck by a switching engine.

Five persons were in the automobile, which was driven by Henry C. Russell of New London. Russell is in Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital in New London. His wife, who was also in the car, was uninjured.

Well Known Here Mr. and Mrs. Billings were well known in Manchester. They lived at 44 Florence street and Mr. Billings sold real estate. They left Manchester three years ago to live in Rockville where Mr. Billings became a real estate salesman. They moved to New London about three months ago.

The party had left New London early yesterday morning to visit friends in Rockville. They returned, accompanied by the Clark boy, to New London about 6 o'clock and made a right turn into Maple Avenue, on which the crossing is located. Mrs. Russell said her husband shifted the car into second gear before crossing the tracks and as the car rolled on to the tracks the switching engine hit it.

The engine struck the automobile on the right rear fender, turning it completely around and throwing the occupants out. After a hurried examination Dr. George P. Cheney of New London, who was near the scene, took Mr. Russell to the hospital.

No Arrests All three bodies were removed to an undertaking room in New London after an investigation had been made by the medical examiner. No arrests were made.

The Maple Avenue crossing is about a mile west of the center of New London and as it is unguarded and the vision is obstructed somewhat, it is considered one of the most dangerous crossings in the vicinity of New London. An investigation is to be made by officials of the New Haven road.

Mr. Billings is survived by a sister and a brother, both of this town. Mrs. Billings is survived by three brothers and two sisters, all of Rockville. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

Judge Johnson continued the case until May 19. This will give the Barretts an opportunity to settle their differences.

According to the testimony of Thomas Weldon, John Mes, a stranger in Manchester, was intoxicated and acting very strangely on Porter street yesterday. He was arrested and brought to the police station and this morning he was found guilty and fined $10 and costs. The $40,000 program of sidewalk construction, for which the contract was given last week to Henry Ahern of this town, was started this morning when Mr. Ahern's employees began to prepare Summit street for sidewalks. Part of the street had been left without sidewalks last year and this job will be finished before new streets are started.

Following the completion of Summit street's walks the contractor will move his men to Strant street and will go to the other streets needing sidewalks in turn. The job, it was said at the office of the highway department this morning will require about three months.

Was Lowest Bidder Mr. Ahern was awarded the contract over five other bidders at the meeting of the Board of Selectmen last Tuesday. He was the lowest bidder and as he has done the work here for several years and has always given satisfaction, the board gave the work to him.

The estimated cost of the sidewalks as prepared by Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen will be $33,345. They will be laid on McKee street, Hartford Road and Lewis street.

There will be 65,000 square feet of sidewalks, 10,000 square feet of driveways and 9,000 feet of curbing.

TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF TRAVELS

Mrs. G. D. Olds Speaks at Second Congregational Church On Experiences.

Mrs. G. D. Olds, who spoke at the Second Congregational church last evening, proved to be most enthusiastic in her work in Japan. She was born on the island and like many of the missionaries there, she is the daughter of a former Japanese worker. She spent much time in teaching in a Normal school, in kindergarten and social service work. She gave a most inspiring talk.

A unique feature on the program for the evening was a showing of pictures taken in France, Italy and Switzerland by Miss Marion Tinker. They were made by an ordinary, small Kodak camera on the Cine-Kodak Safety film strips, which are about three-fourths of an inch wide and fifty or a hundred feet long. These films are pieced together until they are 400 feet long and are exhibited by a small motion picture machine on a screen especially adapted for the purpose.

An entertaining close-up view of noted places abroad was given. The snow-capped and glacier tipped Alps, the beautiful drives through the passes and the lakes among the mountains were very picturesque, while the inactive objects which were carried along across the screen were pleasing, perhaps the figures in motion were the most attractive.

The cascades among the Alps and the gondolas and row boats plying the waters around Venice were beautiful. Row boats with the oarsmen always standing conveyed passengers from steamships to the hotels. The scene of the pigeons which are sold in hundreds was one realistic picture of Venice. The Square was filled with people who came to see and feed the birds. Each one tried to see how many pigeons they could attract on their shoulders and arms, with grain which they distributed.

Miss Tinker's description of the pictures and of her experiences with the French auto which she bought to tour with, was interestingly told and was long remembered by her hearers.

TAXES COMING IN BUT NOT IN GREAT FLOOD

Only Two Weeks Left For Settlement of Property Levies. Collector Reminds.

Property and personal taxes are coming in a steady stream, George H. Howe, tax collector, said today. He said, however, that there is no rush, although there are only two weeks left for the payment of property taxes. Personal taxes may be paid any time between now and June 1.

Mr. Howe said that he expects the majority of the taxes to be in before the last day of the month. He is being kept busy every day and he is keeping his office open in Tuesday evenings for the accommodation of taxpayers who are unable to come to his office during the day.

The Tuesday evening opening, while conforming with the store-closing act of last year, is a business night and there is no business on Main street now. The notice of the collector was copied from the notice of last year and some confusion resulted as stores are now open on Thursday evenings instead of Tuesday.

ST. MARY'S CLUB PLANS HOUSING BETTERMENT

The meeting of St. Mary's Young Men's club, scheduled by the by-laws for this evening, has been postponed until Monday, April 23, it was voted today by William J. Morrison, secretary of the organization.

The meeting next week will be held for the purpose of deciding on improvements to the clubhouse. There is a considerable sum of money in the building fund and the meeting will decide whether or not this money will be used for improvements and repairs.

Certain repairs and improvements have been made on the clubhouse within the past few months but it is expected that the exterior will be painted and the roofs repaired. Talk of a new clubhouse to replace the present one is not taken seriously by most of the membership.

MINTZ NEW OWNER OF HASKELL BLOCK

North End Merchant, Booster For Theater, Gets Building.

Harry Mintz, north end clothing merchant and owner of the Cowles hotel, who has been advocating a theater for the north end of the town, today became the owner of the Haskell building adjoining the hotel. The deed transferring the property from Charles Skrabacz to Mintz was registered at the office of the Town Clerk today.

Rumor has it now, however, that the Haskell building, which is occupied by the ground floor by a store of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, will be remodeled and that the company, which operates several stores here, will establish a meat market there.

The transfer makes Mr. Mintz the owner of all the property from the eastern side of the Cowles hotel to the Buckland building on the corner of North Main and North School streets. The latter property is owned by Joseph Rollason, shoe merchant, whose place of business is on the square and near the New Haven railroad tracks.

Mr. Mintz suggested last week that shares in a theater could be sold among north end residents and a building erected in the rear of the Haskell block, which has been the right of way between the two buildings for an arcade and entrance.

He told The Herald that he had not been approached regarding the sale of the hotel building but did not say if he was in the market for the Haskell block, although rumor had it that interests favorable to the erection of a theater were planning to buy.

The theater business in Manchester, however, has not been of the best, according to testimony given by the Manchester Entertainment Enterprises, owner of the State and Circle theaters, at a hearing before the Board of Selectmen some time ago.

Only One Operating Since that time the Circle theater on Oak street and the Rialto on Main street have been closed and the State theater is the only one operating here at present. Mr. Mintz, however, said that a theater at the north end would benefit everybody, keeping business in that end of the town and he further said that if north end residents were shareholders in the enterprise they would patronize it rather than go to the south end or to Hartford for their entertainment.

Reliable authorities today said that the building would be used for the meat market of the chain store company. The Haskell block, which is to be installed in the building, will be the first of the chain to come to Manchester.

MURPHY'S RESTAURANT HAS NEW PROPRIETOR

Springfield Salesman Leases Business Conducted by Androetta Brothers; To Move Family.

Morris E. Jacobson of Springfield, Mass., leased what is known as Murphy's Restaurant at the south end Saturday afternoon from Edward Murphy. The business has been conducted for more than three years by Androetta Brothers, Emil and Louis. The lease has about three and a half years to run. The fact that the business was likely to change hands was told in The Herald Saturday.

Murphy's Restaurant is considered one of the best paying propositions of its kind in Manchester. The Androetta brothers have no immediate plans for the future. It is understood they will continue to live here for a few months longer. The new owner came to his own children living in Springfield and he plans to move his family here after the completion of the present school term. The new owner said today that he plans no radical changes in the operation of the business.

FRENCH LEAVE TAKEN BY A LONESOME HORSE

Harry England's Steed Bolts From Driver For Second Time to Visit Mate Back in Stable.

Love of one horse for another, caused what appeared to be either an accident or runaway at Manchester Green Saturday afternoon. People who saw the horse running along East Center street toward the Green with part of its harness dragging on the road believed that there had been an accident and that the horse was running away. When the animal was stopped on Lydall street, he was found to be a 3-year-old horse owned by W. H. England, a proprietor and postmaster at Manchester Green.

Mr. England volunteered the information that the horse probably had taken "French leave" from the man in charge of it at a job on Glenwood street. A few minutes later when the workman appeared at the England home, it was found that such was the case. The man had gone into the barn after a halter and upon unhooking the horse from a dumpcart and when he came out all he could see was dust down the road.

Mr. England said this is the second time the horse has bolted from the same job. About a month ago, he broke loose and raced to his stable. Mr. England said that his two horses are very fond of each other and that if one is ever taken out of the barn to water, the other puts up a "holer."

But New Yorkers' Auto Upsets and Occupants Are Caught and Jailed.

Greenwich, Conn., April 16.—A group of New Yorkers who visited Greenwich for the week-end and wound up in the lock-up after creating excitement were sent to jail today by Judge James R. Mead after hearings in the Town Court. They are Louis Grizzappi, fined $25 and costs and given thirty days in jail for reckless driving, and evading responsibility; and Louis Berardo, Athony Berastendi, Salvatore Canonizer, and Stanisloa Perino, given ten days each in jail for idleness. In addition Grizzappi will be turned over to New York authorities who charge the car he had here was stolen.

Motorcycle Policeman Frank O'Connor chased the car more than a mile and then the driver tried to run him down. The car then sideswiped a machine on Put's Hill and upset. Five men in the car, escaped injury, fled into the woods on the Milbank estate and were rounded up only after a long chase.

UNIQUE TRIAL

Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle of Hartford is to go on trial tomorrow for the murder of Mrs. Clare Cavanaugh. The case is likely to arouse more genuine interest of a perfectly sane character than any murder trial in a long time.

The 1927 session of the Connecticut Legislature passed the following brief enactment:

"Section two of chapter 267 of the public acts of 1921 is amended to read as follows: In all criminal causes, prosecutions and proceedings the party accused may, if he shall so elect when called upon to plead, be tried by the court instead of by the jury; and in such cases the court shall have jurisdiction to hear and try such cause and render judgment and sentence thereon. If the accused shall be charged with a crime punishable by death or imprisonment in the state prison for life and shall elect to be tried by the court, the court shall be composed of three judges consisting of the judge presiding at the term and two other judges to be designated by the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Errors. Such judges, or a majority of them, shall have power to decide all questions of law and fact arising upon the trial and render judgment accordingly."

It is our impression that this act, passed just short of a year ago, is the only one of its kind in force in any state in the Union, and in any event this will probably be the first time that the issue of guilt or innocence of a person charged with murder has been determined by the bench instead of by a jury. For that reason the Guilfoyle case will be unique and will be followed with the closest attention by a great many people who would not ordinarily concern themselves with a trial of this sort.

The principle of jury trial is dear to the hearts of all liberty loving people. Its avoidance would be regarded with the utmost apprehension by any number of thinking people who are, nevertheless, fully aware of its many weaknesses. But trial of a murder case by a court, upon the face of things promises to yield more of precise justice than trial of such a case by a jury, and to deprive the accused of nothing in the way of moral right.

THE FIRST NEWS

There is a point on which enlightenment may come at any moment—may have come by the time this is printed, but which strangely enough has not been explained up to this moment of writing, in connection with the dramatic issue of the German-Irish flight across the Atlantic. And that is how the news of the landing of the transatlantic fliers on Greenly Island became known to the folks in the little Labrador fishing settlement of Lourdes de Blanc Sablon, when it was transmitted by a single wire telegraph line, since broken down, to the nearest wireless station.

Greenly Island is probably twenty miles off-shore, and according to all reports the Straits of Belle Isle are so filled with pack ice that a great ice breaking steamer is making scarcely two miles an hour in an effort to reach the island, while the sealing vessels flatly refused to undertake the job. It is also stated that the dozen or more inhabitants of Greenly habitually consider themselves alone in the world throughout the entire winter, making no attempt to reach the mainland. The ice in the straits, as may be inferred from such statements of conditions as have come, is by no means a fair field, over which dog sleds or foot messengers might travel the score of miles in safety but a jagged jumble. There is no cable to the island, no wireless. Then how did the news come out?

Whether flashed in preconcerted code by the lighthouse on Greenly, whether communicated by smoke signals, whether carried ashore by some unnamed and even unmentioned hero, is yet to be developed. It is something to guess about.

TROUT FISHING

Trout fishing on the opening day of the season, particularly when that date falls on Sunday, is getting to the point where it suggests a championship baseball contest in the crowds it calls out. Game wardens report the presence on state leased streams yesterday of 3,149 anglers. And that, of course, makes no account of the great number of old timers who inevitably must have figured on avoiding being stepped on by doing their fishing in streams that are not leased by the state. The total number of anglers must have been several times the number reported by the game wardens because there are many times as many miles of trout waters not directly controlled by the state as there are under state lease.

Perhaps a better simile than a baseball game would be one of those rushes that accompanied the opening of new and rich government lands to settlement, like the stampede into Oklahoma when the gun was fired indicating the zero hour for the staking of land claims. Going a-fishing, nowadays, so far as the opening of the season is concerned, resembles the original angler not at all. No longer does the angler start out after an early breakfast, hiking or driving a sleepy old horse over lonely country roads to some selected spot where he might spend the day in solitary communion with nature, seeing perhaps no single human being between sunup and sundown. Instead he starts out at midnight and drives fifty miles over roads swarming with folks bound on the same errand. He has to hunt for a parking place when he reaches his stream, and when it is light enough to rig up and start in he falls in line like a ticket purchaser at a box office. Five hundred and thirty anglers were reported as fishing in Salmon river yesterday!

Oh, it's all right—it's all right. No kick to make. Times change. But if that's "going fishing" with the old time implications, we want to know!

HANDS OFF!

Under the stimulating influence of the Chicago Bar Association what appears to be a very genuine effort has been started to trace out and punish the perpetrators of the election day crimes which were part of the futile attempt of the Thompson-Crowe gangsters to forcibly control the recent Republican primaries. Action by a special grand jury called into being by the Illinois attorney-general, who is a reputable official, is expected to reach to the roots of the plotting.

This is reassuring, but the Chicago situation has developed an aspect which appears to outsiders to be of extraordinary importance. Alongside of this new activity by Illinois authorities in the interest of honesty and decency within the state, appears a tentative proposal by the United States district attorney for the Chicago territory to bring the election crimes before a federal grand jury—instituting in the first place a test case to ascertain whether jurisdiction can be maintained.

It is very much to be hoped that no such proceeding will be followed. It would be a new and further extension of the principle of federal usurpation of the police powers of the states, which is already the occasion of sufficient protest and indignation. If we should have the federal courts thrusting themselves into the Chicago situation on the tawdry excuse that the nomination of a United States senator was involved it would establish a precedent which is exactly what no one but a few extreme reactionaries wants to see established.

The subject of state's rights is becoming a sore point with a great many people in the United States. It might easily blaze up into a major political issue if fanned by such a thing as federal intrusion into the Chicago primary affair.

The people of Illinois have demonstrated their ability, when awakened, to manage their own affairs. There is no state which cannot manage its own affairs. If there should develop such a one, the thing to do with it is to let it suffer the consequences until it learns how. Emphatically the last thing to do is to have the federal government intrude itself into essentially state matters. We have had a sufficient example of that in Volsteadism.

Five dead in automobile accidents in this state yesterday would be impressive, not to say startling,

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(112) The State Prison.

For 100 years persons sentenced to prison under state laws have served their time at the Connecticut State Prison at Wethersfield. Prior to the removal of the prison to Wethersfield in 1827, state prisoners were held at the famous Newgate Prison in East Granby.

The Wethersfield property consists of about 50 acres of land, bordering the Connecticut river and of a group of structures, of which the original part was erected in 1827 and to which extensive additions and alterations have since been made. The last inventory places the valuation of the property at $1,116,804.

When the removal was made from Newgate there were 127 prisoners. Today the number of inmates averages around 550. The population recently totaled 568 prisoners, 553 males and 15 females. The average daily number of inmates for a recent year was 546. Twenty years ago it was 486. The normal capacity of the prison is 700; officers and employees total 62. Fifty-one persons have been hanged at Wethersfield.

Last year the total expenditures for the prison including some $45,000 for repairs and reconstruction amounted to $288,124. Receipts from sales, however, totaled $139,932. Personal service cost $101,150; food, $50,379; heat, light, power, and water, $34,849 and convict pay, principally in the shirt factory where approximately 350 prisoners are employed, $20,986. The per capita cost of inmates per week averages $6.87. Twenty years ago total expenditures were $39,480, $61,893 of this amount being met by receipts from prison labor. The per capita cost was $2.31 a week.

The prison has a library of some 6,000 volumes, an inmate band, radio concerts and other entertainments consisting of moving pictures, vaudeville, musicales, lectures, etc. Outdoor exercise is enjoyed Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

If we were not getting utterly hardened to the destruction of human life on almost every Sunday and holiday during the pleasure motoring season. And even the long succession of these fatalities to which we have become accustomed, there are few persons who can read of the road killings without being somewhat affected.

Yet the potentialities of the automobile for destruction of human life are nowhere near approached by the actual fatalities. If all the drivers were as ignorant or as reckless or as unrealizing as the few, we should not be counting our dead by units or tens but by hundreds, each Sunday.

Yesterday, in a ride from Manchester to Storrs and back, hundreds of automobiles were encountered. Yet only one of all the drivers was seen to commit a serious breach of the rules of safety. That individual pulled out of a traffic line that was traveling at thirty, rushed past three cars on a grade and a curve—and nothing happened. It was his good luck, and that of others on the road with him that he did not meet some other car coming around the curve at a speed equal to his own. He had set the stage for a killing.

It is such drivers as that who cause most of the fatalities. And they can be checked only when rational drivers overcome their squeamish reluctance at "informing" and begin to take the numbers of the irrational and send them in to the Motor Vehicle Department. When every sane motorist becomes in effect a policeman, then the crazy ones will learn to behave. And the death list will shrink.

CORRUPTION BALKS SOVIET PLANS FOR OWN MERCHANT SHIPS

Moscow.—Efforts of the Soviet government to build up its own state-owned and operated merchant marine are meeting with even less success than has attended the experiment in many other countries. Charges of "gross inefficiency, extravagance and probable corruption" have been lodged against the Shipping trust with the Commissariat of Works and peasants' inspection, the efficiency department of the government.

With an appropriation of $30,000,000 for ship construction last year, it is alleged, the Shipping Trust built only four vessels. It had promised to build 54 freighters of about 8,000 tons each. This year with a similar appropriation it is reported that the Trust will be able to construct a maximum of 18 ships. The ordinary freighters built last year, it is charged, were outfitted with luxurious suites for the captains, elaborate mahogany lobbies, smoking rooms and guests cabins when there was no necessity for such appointments.

Millions of dollars have been wasted, it is known, but just where the money went to is being made the subject of an investigation. Ship building costs have gone up five times since the war, but allowance was made for that in appropriations. Meanwhile it is pointed out the Soviet government is paying $25,000,000 annually to other nations for hauling its goods. Many of the ships confiscated from private owners during the revolution are going to pieces. The treatment and pay of sailors, however, is better than before the revolution.

Apparently the only logical deduction is that such agents as Chairman William M. Butler and Vice Chairman Charles D. Hillis of the Republican National Committee were anxious to strengthen the impression among the brethren that Mr. Coolidge was still a potent fac-

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington, April 15.—Your correspondent cannot help being impressed by the probable significance of the honor which has been thrust upon the Hon. Simeon D. Fess, senior senator from the undoubtedly great state of Ohio. It is difficult to dodge the impression that the election of the Hon. Simeon as keynoter for the Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio... he'll start the booms booming in Kansas City in June.

Republican National Convention was encompassed after careful forethought by those gents who hope to draft President Coolidge for re-nomination and by those opponents who pretend to hope to draft the president as a means of reducing the delegate strength of the candidate they oppose.

Anyone who has heard Senator Simeon make a speech knows that he is not exactly the best inspirational orator the party could produce. And neither is he an ideal keynoter from the standpoint of prestige or popularity.

True, he was boomed as a presidential possibility the other day by zealous Ohio colleagues, but this has been regarded generally as rather an ornamental gesture.

The one thing which has brought great credit to him is the fact that all of those who have shouted for the renomination of the Hon. Simeon's close friend, Mr. Coolidge, he has shouted loudest, Simeon, oftentimes and by those opponents. Again and again he has reiterated that Mr. Coolidge had not closed the door—that he would never answer the party's call in its hour of need.

Aside from that, the only thing that might have been expected to weigh more heavily against Senator Simeon's chances as a keynoter than his lack of assets for the job was his relative unavailability.

For all men in public life, the Hon. Simeon is perhaps the only one who can be called a liar without fear of a libel suit. Senator Simeon admitted on the Senate floor that in his effort to help Mr. Coolidge he had prepared and to newspaper men at the White House. The evidence is on Page 2378 of the Congressional Record, where you will find that the mendacious salons, smoking rooms and guests cabins when there was no necessity for such appointments.

Now there are many men in public life who are far greater liars than the senator from Ohio, but there are few who admit being liars at all.

Whether it is more honorable to lie and deny it or to lie and admit it, the fact remains that a reputation for mendacity would ordinarily be counted against a man when the parties pick their keynoters.

We now seem to have demonstrated that some remarkably obscure reason was behind the selection of Cousin Fess. Was that reason the fact that he could make heck of a good speech in praise of Mr. Coolidge and so get the delegates roused up over the president with a good four-and-a-half-minute outburst for "our Chief"? Fess had certainly probably not, for any keynoter would be forced to brag a great deal about Mr. Coolidge and there are several others who could do it more effectively than the Hon. Simeon.

30,000 ON STRIKE

New Bedford, Mass., April 16.—A general strike of 30,000 cotton mill operatives went into effect here today in protest against a wage reduction of ten per cent in the twenty-seven cotton mills. Reports said that the strike was one hundred per cent. Similar wage reductions have already been made in textile mills in Lowell, Lawrence, Fall River and Rhode Island mills. Labor leaders here said that there was a possibility that the strike would extend outside the city.

Almost time for the hog-calling contest—or, is it husband-calling? We always get them mixed up.

CAMPAIGN PORTRAITS—THE STORY OF HERBERT HOOVER FIGHTING A FLOOD How Hoover Met Mississippi Disaster

This is the last of four articles describing Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and the seventh in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley. Tomorrow will begin the story of Governor Al Smith.

By ROBERT TALLEY,
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, April 16.—The spring of 1927 saw the worst flood in the history of the Mississippi valley. Six hundred and fifty thousand people were homeless, barns and houses were floating down toward the Gulf, crumbling levees had chased thousands to the refuge camps on high grounds, crops were ruined, everything was lost and disease stalked in the wake of grim isolation.

Into this crisis, President Coolidge sent Herbert Hoover as director of relief forces. The man who had fed and clothed hungry and shivering Europe went among his own people on a smaller mission.

Hoover wasted no time. Even before he left Washington, the telegraph and telephone wires were humming.

How many tents did the army have? Fine! Send 40,000 of them to such and such cities. Get 100,000 more ready for use when called for. Send every available cot to cities like Memphis and Vicksburg. Ship 200,000 army blankets. Commandeer all small boats, barges and the like. Select sites on high ground for refugee camps. Set up telephones, telegraphs and radios. Summon every doctor and nurse available. See that every refugee in every camp is inoculated against typhoid and vaccinated against small pox. Get the army engineers busy designing those camps so they will be sanitary. Get clothing, food supplies, medicine, mosquito netting. Buy everything possible in the flood zone so as to steady the markets there as much as possible. Such was Hoover on the eve of his departure for New Orleans.

The story of that heroic fight is too fresh in the minds of readers to require repetition here, but it might be well to show how Hoover went about it.

He described the task thus: "The first thing to consider at all costs is to get all of those people out of danger. They must be rescued whether they want it or not.

"Next, they must all be got into camps. They must be fed and clothed and inoculated so there will be no epidemics.

"Third, we'll have to get them back into their old jobs and on their own farms and plantations. We must get livestock for them and see that they get their crops replanted.

"Fourth, we must organize credit for them. They've got to be financed."

And thus Hoover tackled the gigantic task with the typically analytical mind of an engineer.

At the end of a long day's work of rescue, Hoover would retire into his office to study the day's work as his office at the time—a Pullman compartment, a stateroom on a river steamer, a railway smoking room or whatnot—and begin planning the next step.

"What can these people plan?" in this area after June 15 and still harvest?" he would ask. "What can they grow to help feed their cattle and mules, if they have any left?"

Men familiar with the south would explain. Then Hoover would resume:

"I want to know the amount of seed needed in each package to provide for a family of five. Larger families can have two packages. Telegraph all the agricultural colleges and nurseries in this part of the country to start plants right now so they can be transplanted when the flood recedes—a million heads of cabbage—a million tomato plants—and so it went, day after day and night after night.

The nation responded nobly to the Red Cross appeal, the government sent airplanes and supplies, states loaned their troops, the American Legion volunteered its services, the Red Cross doctors and nurses came, army engineers looked after camp sanitation, trainloads of food and clothing poured in. And so Hoover moved toward the consummation of the big task that lay before him.

Hoover's efficiency was not of the impersonal kind. Once a soldier entered a railway car where Hoover was studying a map and asked:

"What are we going to do with all those dogs, sir?"

"What dogs?" asked Hoover. The soldier explained that many of the refugees had brought their dogs to the camps with them, and some had even brought cats.

"Take good care of them," said Hoover, promptly. "These people haven't saved much. If any of them have pets let them keep them and take care of them. Some of the refugees can build kennels for them."

The soldier hesitated. "Some of 'em have got canaries, too," he said.

"Order some bird seed with the rest of these supplies and charge it to me," Hoover said, turning to his secretary.

There are thousands of negroes here. Didn't he come down from

Hoover and Secretary of War Dwight Davis with children at a Mississippi flood relief camp.

Washington?

Once a relief worker was trying to convince an old negro preacher in the Mississippi delta who believed that Hoover is president to Mississippi that Hoover was merely secretary of commerce.

"Well, hit's all de same, ain't it?" the old negro asked. In Arkansas once an old negro, after hearing Hoover speak, approached him and said: "Ah es alwahs wanted to meet yuh, Mistah Hoover."

The rich and the poor, the humble and the proud had suffered alike. The water that ruined the oil paintings in the home of a rich plantation owner and laid waste to his crops, likewise drove the negro tenant farmer from his 40 acres and perhaps drowned his mule. Hoover aided all impartially.

The Mississippi valley flood is history now, but the memory of what Hoover did there is one of the chief reasons for his popularity as a presidential candidate. Yet, he has never sought to capitalize this.

The record in which Hoover takes most pride is in having made a big job out of a little one at the Department of Commerce. By intensive and extensive organization, he had reached out to get foreign trade for America and today the United States' foreign trade is 35 per cent. above pre-war level, even after the depreciation of the dollar has been deducted.

He has saved millions for American industry by standardization, eliminating odd and needless sizes in many products by agreement. Measures to eliminate waste have saved many more billions. As a building aid, he has initiated the Better Homes movement in 4,000 communities of the United States. He has promoted employment by co-ordinating seasonal activities, engineered a radio treaty with the nations of the world and done much to promote commercial aviation.

Steadily, the secretary of commerce has gone about his task of organizing the business of a nation and into this government activity he has put his tireless energy and ability as an engineer.

The Hoover day begins at 8 a. m. when his bureau chiefs take breakfast with him at his home and plan the day over eggs and coffee. He is at his office promptly at 9 o'clock. There is an hour's intermission for lunch at the Cosmopolitan Club at noon. And then he goes back to his desk, which he seldom leaves before 7 or 7:30 p. m.

And so ends the story of Herbert Hoover, a tireless, capable genius for organization and efficiency whose fame spans the world—but just about the weakest politician that Washington ever saw.

Tomorrow: The story of Al Smith.

RAFFLE OF SUITS ANOTHER FRAUD

C. of C. Investigates Springfield Man's Game—But Can't Find Him.

Prepared by Chamber of Commerce. A number of local men entered into a contract with the Dorsey Tailoring Company to buy suits on the $2.00 a week plan, with a weekly drawing to decide who if anybody, gets a suit. The Chamber of Commerce has been investigating the Dorsey Tailoring Company and finds that it is nothing but a name adopted by a man named Charles Howard. Neither the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, the Springfield Better Business Bureau, the Springfield police, the Springfield banks, nor any of the Springfield tailors knew anything about the Dorsey Tailoring Company, and the landlord of the single room at 115 State street says that the room is not leased but rented by the week. A man cannot be punished for what we may think he is going to do, but from the way the stage is set, it certainly looks as though the Dorsey Tailoring Company were on their toes ready to fade away as soon as they had carried their $2.00 a week collections as far as they felt it safe to do without delivering any suits.

Gibson Tailoring Company. Warnings have just been received by the Chamber of Commerce of the operations of the Gibson Tailoring Company who have swindled thousands in other parts of New England and adjacent eastern states. Anyone approached by representatives of this concern should report them immediately as several national organizations are not on their trail.

$800 Memorial. During the past week, one of Manchester's well-to-do women called the Chamber and reported an experience which she had with a salesman who attempted by all kinds of devious methods, to get her signature on a contract for $600.00. This contract was supposed to cover some sort of publication in which the photographs of the woman's husband and ancestors were to appear. The man is alleged to have tried to get the lady to practice writing her signature on blank sheets of paper which if done, would probably later have been filled in in the form of the desired contract. This is a well known form of fraud practiced by gyp advertising solicitors. Unfortunately, the woman did not get the man's name or that of the publication he represented, nor the registration on his car. Several leads which the Chamber has been following have proved to be false trails.

Anyone having similar experience with this man should secure his name and address, and the firm he represents and report it to the police or the Chamber of Commerce. Don't invest in a Name. Evidence continues to present itself that people do invest their money in euphonious appellations. The Coco Cola Bottling Company was a magic phrase which coaxed a considerable flock of dollars from local pockets, the supposition being that they were investing in the parent Coco Cola Manufacturing Company. As a matter of fact, it was only an arbitrary title adopted by an organization who were to act as local distributors for Coco Cola, Whisk and other trade marked drinks. They failed to live up to their contract with the manufacturers and their distributing contracts have been cancelled. Such titles as Bankers Securities Corporation and other equally impressive combinations of words always seem to act as a lure to the inexperienced investors or to the men who do not investigate.

Long-Wear Ties. The New Process Company of Warren, Penn., have for some years been circulating Manchester people all sorts of wearing apparel and general merchandise. They do not send the merchandise by mail, but send illustrations and glowing descriptions emphasizing the low prices and the high quality. The Chamber tried the experiment the past week of sending for six neckties on approval. These were represented to be equal to any $3.00 tie which could be bought in the local stores, and the price was $4.95 for six ties—$2.12 cents each.

When the ties arrived they were compared with ties in several local men's furnishing stores. The New Process ties were rayon, lined on the skirts with mercerized cotton. A sample of what looked like upholstery's webbing, except that it was much coarser, ran through the back of the tie. There was no slip-easy patch on the back and altogether they were inferior in every way (except in the colors which were rather attractive) to the 75c to $1.00 ties in the local stores.

Needless to say, the ties were returned to the New Process Company with a suitable letter of explanation. This is only one of several experiments which the Chamber has made in mail order merchandise. It has been proved in every case that a pay relatively more to the mail order houses than to your local merchants. Snackover or Shallcross Syndicate. The Chamber has recently been investigating the above organization and has secured information that there is a small sum due holders of these securities from the receiver in bankruptcy. Anyone wishing information regarding the above may secure it at the Chamber of Commerce.

Within the past three years a relatively small number of Manchester people have consulted the Chamber of Commerce in regard to investments or supposed investments which they have made. The totals of these transactions are roughly—$200,000 and they represent every imaginable form of investment. The $200,000 so invested had been put into local insurance stocks which are right at hand and always available for purchase from reliable brokers, this same small number of Manchester people would be some $440,000 to $1,400,000 (according to which stock was bought) better off than they now are. Inquiry before purchase of practically any of the stocks which have shown their lack of value and conviction of the prospective purchaser of the wisdom of passing them up. This is one service that the Chamber can always perform. It can obtain and present facts regarding any unlisted security. This service is free for the asking.

REPORTS THAT RUTH AND COBB ARE SLOWING UP, DISCOUNTED

Walsh Wants to Know How Anyone Can Tell From the Few Games So Far Played.

By DAVIS J. WALSH New York, April 16—They are ringing the curtain on old Ty Cobb over in Philadelphia, which may be quite according to script with every body except old Ty Cobb and the man who is paying him $30,000 to help him prove that this will be his last season in competition.

My understanding of the judgment of the accompanying innuendo that George H. Ruth himself is no longer himself, if he is allowed to have given unmistakable signs of slowing up in the field and on the bases.

It probably isn't good taste to argue an opinion of this kind with a man like Huggins, except to inquire just what magic he used in discovering that a player had slipped because of his performances in March.

There are, we believe that Ruth showed Huggins he was beginning to go during the 1924 season or in the 1927 World Series.

However, if Huggins said so, may be it is so. This will be the only break in sight for the discerning critics, in case the great man blows himself to a big year.

That, apparently, is what they are making ready to do with the great Cobb. Reports on his decadence are almost unanimous.

Another observer likened him to Pagliacci, spoke of his appearance as "strangely old and grotesque," and deplored the fact that he had not retired "while there remained the unsullied memory of the Cobb that was."

Anybody who knows Cobb and his fighting spirit can answer that one. Ty's is the heart that never says die. There has been plenty of ball players who would quit, it was claimed, when the uniform was out of their backs.

The next battle for the 600 millionaires, it begins to appear, will not be held in dear old Luncheon, after all. We never did think much of that London talk, anyway.

Or, maybe it's the British fighters who are the prone ones.

It does seem silly to pay more than 50 cents for the privilege of watching a man chin himself on the floor.

The big fight isn't going to be held in Cambodia, either. Rickard also has passed up a couple of thriving villages in Wales and Scotland. It will be held in New York state, where prize fights are prohibited by law.

This isn't really to be a prize fight, you see. Just a kind of a gentleman's agreement to get together and see who's the best boxer.

YOU CERTAINLY CANNOT SAY THAT THE PRIZE FIGHT LAW HAS BEEN VIOLATED, IF YOU TAKE THOSE ELIMINATION BOUTS AS THE CRITERION.

Baseball has its international favor this year, too. On the University of Illinois team is a third baseman named Lymperopoulos.

Trains For Olympics

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl From Brookline, Pa., May Be Youngest Member of Team.

Jean Shiley, 16-year-old high school girl of Brookline, Pa., who recently cleared the bar at 5 feet 1 inch in a scholastic meet, is being trained at Franklin Field, Pa., by head Olympic Coach Lawson Robertson. Here she is shown practicing for her Olympic tryout.

Harvey Found Heeney Smile From The Fates

This is the third of six articles by Henry L. Farrell, The Herald and NEA Service sports writer, telling the interesting story of Tom Heeney, who fights Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship in July, and his manager, Charley Harvey, who finally received a "break."

When Firpo came to the United States without money and among strange people with whom he couldn't even converse, he had the luck to stumble into the company of one of the best advisors in the country, Jimmy De Forest, but he didn't play his cards.

When Tom Heeney, almost under the same circumstances, arrived in this country he placed himself under the direction of another old-timer, the most beloved man in a business where honor is not always a bond and where

He had beaten a lot of Archie Moonlights, Johnny Brickhouses, and Kid Podunks in New Zealand and Australia, but he was just after losing to Phil Scott in London and Scott was rated as a horrible bum by the New York managers.

Heeney told Harvey to get him wanted as good as Heeney was back to New Zealand and the shoeing-smith trade and he would fight anyone to get that dough. He didn't have any ambition to be a great fighter. He was disgusted, broke and discouraged and he wanted to get back home.

Harvey knew the song he heard. He had been through it himself, out of it and back in it again. But he still had his great faith in the coming of a good break and he took Heeney on.

He began that bitter fight to keep up courage while the promoters laughed at them. Worse yet, for Harvey to impress them that he wasn't an object of charity or sympathy and that he had a desiring fighter.

He finally got Heeney started and then the nice wolves in the business tried to steal Heeney away from him when it became apparent that there was some money in Heeney even if he never got very far. Heesey, unlike Firpo, wouldn't listen to the back-knives and he doesn't regret it.

TOMORROW: Heeney wins his first big and a little attention is given him because he wasn't knocked horizontal.

GIANTS ARE NOT WANTED Because the New York Giants passed 'em by this spring after training there for four years, the Sarasota (Fla.) chamber of commerce recently voted that they "did not want" the Giants there next spring.

WOULD RETURN TO MAJORS Ernie Wingard, former St. Louis Brown, who now is with Minneapolis in the American Association, says he hopes to return to the big leagues after this season. He is 24 years old.

FRANK D'AMICO CHALLENGES JUD GALLOP TO POOL MATCH

Sande Is Back Tonight's Match With Cotter Again Postponed; Latter Can't Play Until Saturday; D'Amico's Challenge Accepted.

Earle Sands rides again! The premier jockey of the American turf, who was reinstated by the Maryland Racing Commission only a few days ago, is riding again for the Widener Stable and will be aboard mounts in all the important meets of the season. Sands is shown here returning to the stables after an early morning workout at Belmont Park, New York.

The life of a champion surely is not a peaceful one and Jud Gallup, town pocket billiards champ, probably realizes that fact by now. Scarcely had he won the coveted honor by capturing the Manchester Evening Herald's first annual elimination tournament, than he received a challenge from Bill Cotter, professional cue welder who lives out of town, but often is seen about the north end.

A match between this pair is scheduled to get under way next Saturday night, but wait! you ain't heard nothing yet, as Al Watson says. The latest news is that Cotter has accepted D'Amico's challenge.

However, that as it may, Frank is perfectly frank about declaring that if he can get Gallup to play him an exhibition match, there will be a new open champion, unofficially at least. If such a match is arranged, Gallup's title cannot be placed at stake. In accordance with the rules of the recent tournament, Gallup's title is protected until the next tournament.

D'Amico used to be quite a pool wizard a few years back and is said to be far from a "has been" now. Further proof of this apparently comes from the fact that D'Amico says he is willing to play Gallup for fun, money or coconuts. Some of the spectators who watched the town champion in action say that Frank will be wiser to select the last named and not to bet too many either.

CHENEYS WIN 6-1 FROM HARTFORD IN SOCCER ENCOUNTER

McConkey Leads Scorers in Attack on Scandia Workers' Goal; Poor Attendance; No More Home Games.

Cotter and Gallup were scheduled to play tonight but the former has been transferred to New York and will be unable to be here. Consequently, it was necessary to call off tonight's match. Present plans call for the match to be played Saturday night at the Park Billiards with the final half of the match to be played at Coughlin's Pool Room the following Saturday.

It is possible that the challenge which Frank D'Amico is hurling at Gallup through the press today will be accepted and the match started this week. Gallup said yesterday when informed that he was being challenged in Monday night's paper, that he would accept it. If D'Amico doesn't handle a cue stick any better than a golf stick, the match wouldn't be worth watching, Gallup said in conclusion.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN? The Chicago Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates five straight games during the spring training season. The Cubs are stronger than most experts think.

WINTER GOLF

Looking over the winter golf records it can be seen that the season was not so bad for Johnny Farrell and Macdonald Smith, who won most of the important prize money in the California, Texas and Florida events.

Farrell and Smith earned $6500 each and some $15,000 in other cash prizes went to Bill Melhorn and Gene Sarazen, Bobby Cruikshank and Tommy Armour.

Cruikshank failed to win a single big tournament, but he finished third in four tournaments and managed to place third among the money winners for the season with $4500.

Smith played in nine tournaments, won three, was second twice and finished third and fourth in two others, a total of seven times when he was well up in the money.

Farrell played in eight tournaments and won only one, but that one victory in the La Gorce open at Miami Beach netted him $5000. He tied for first place in the Nassau open and finished second and third in two others.

Smith's best killing was in the rich Los Angeles open where he won first prize of $3500 with a total of 284 strokes. Farrell's best killing was in the La Gorce prize was the most spectacular performance of the season but he was pretty even with Smith on the season's scoring. Smith's average for thirty-four rounds was 72.2-34 and Farrell's for thirty rounds was 72.12-30.

Gene Sarazen played in only a few tournaments, but he did exceptionally well financially winning more than $2000. He won

The next battle for the 600 millionaires, it begins to appear, will not be held in dear old Luncheon, after all. We never did think much of that London talk, anyway.

Or, maybe it's the British fighters who are the prone ones.

It does seem silly to pay more than 50 cents for the privilege of watching a man chin himself on the floor.

The big fight isn't going to be held in Cambodia, either. Rickard also has passed up a couple of thriving villages in Wales and Scotland. It will be held in New York state, where prize fights are prohibited by law.

This isn't really to be a prize fight, you see. Just a kind of a gentleman's agreement to get together and see who's the best boxer.

YOU CERTAINLY CANNOT SAY THAT THE PRIZE FIGHT LAW HAS BEEN VIOLATED, IF YOU TAKE THOSE ELIMINATION BOUTS AS THE CRITERION.

Baseball has its international favor this year, too. On the University of Illinois team is a third baseman named Lymperopoulos.

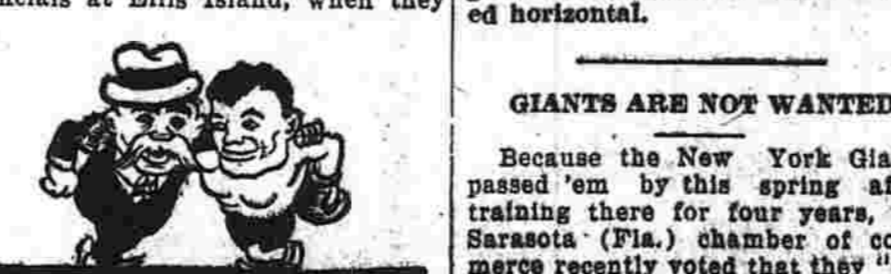

NEW PITCHING ACE AT STATE'S PRISON

Despite the rain the Aces traveled to Wethersfield Saturday afternoon to meet the Prison nine. Although they only played two innings, they showed a wonderful start for the coming season.

The Aces will be given another chance to show their ability against the prison nine at a later date.

FINEST RECREATION PARK New York City officials think they will have the largest and finest playgrounds in the world when improvements costing $100,000 are completed at Macomb's Dam Park.

Maybe Rickard will have to boost the price a little on this Tunney-Heeney fight. Otherwise the customers never will think it's worth going to see.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (264) Orioles Sketches by Bessey; Synopses by Braucher

The glorious golden-tinted feathers of the Orioles suggested precious metal to the man who named these exquisite members of the Crow family, for their name is derived from the Latin word for gold. Not all the genus is golden of feather, but there is luxuriant beauty in the Green Oriole's covering and sweet melody in his voice.

American Troupials are a species akin to the Orioles. Of this family, the Cassiques are often ornately crested.

Then come the Hangnests, of which the Baltimore Oriole is noted for the structure of a gourd-shaped nest, wider and shallower than that made by the Cassique, but exquisitely fashioned. It is cunningly threaded upon a bough so slender that not the boldest cat dare venture out, and high enough to defy the wildest spring of a hungry assailant. (To Be Continued)

GAS BUGGIES—Hunting for Trouble

MY WIFE FALLS FOR ANY CAR WITH A FINISH YOU CAN SEE TO PART YOUR HAIR IN. I WANT A BUS THAT'S FAST ENOUGH TO MAKE THE WIND DO IT.

WE OUGHT TO SEE SOON... SHE'S IN A RED ROADSTER... SHE IS... QUICK... STEP ON THE GAS!

COME ON, BIG BOY, SHOW THE LADIES WHAT A 'BLUNDERBUS' CAN DO!

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Many a girl who isn't a stenographer knows how to use the touch system.

You don't have to paddle far to go from RIVER to LAKES—par is only four, but it's a tricky treacherous trip and you may find it difficult to achieve the par solution on another page.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

"Don't you know," said Charlie Hedge, "that you can't sell life insurance without a license?"

"Boss," said the dorky, "I knowed I couldn't sell it, but Ah didn't know the reason."

"Is dem aigs fresh?" asked Mandy of her dusky grocer, pointing to a basket of hen fruit.

"The nerve of you all, usin' my massage cream for shoe polish!"

SENSE and NONSENSE

"This false! "Brethern and sistern, when the last day arrives there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." "Oh, Lord Gawd!" "Sister Mandy, what ails you?" "I ain't got no teeth." "Teeth will be furnished," added the parson.

A revival was raging in a Virginia negro church. The fruits had been considerable. One obdurate soul, however, resisted the efforts of the elder. Called to account for his reluctance, he replied: "Yo' see how it is, elder. How's Ogwine get mah shirt on ovah my wings when I gets to glory?" "Dat ain't you' problem," retorted the exhorter promptly. Yo' problem is how yo' gwine get yo' hat ovah yo' horns."

Rastus: I tells you, Sambo, I done found out de difference between men and de women at las'. Sambo: What-what is it? Rastus: Well, a man 'll gib two dollars for a one dollar thing dat he wants, an' a woman 'll gib one dollar fer a two dollar thing she don't want!

All American Easy Mark Is Found In New York Motorist James Rooney, negro, cannot read, so someone sold him a "back seat driver's license" signed "U. Worry Em, commissioner of by-ways" and with that he drove an automobile for a year.

Judge Howe in traffic court last night suspended sentence upon Rooney, who said three negroes examined him and issued the license for $3.

Her Party Affiliation Some time ago a colored woman presented herself at a registration booth with the intention of enrolling and casting her first vote in the ensuing election.

She gave her name, her address and her age; and then the clerk of registration ask' this question: "What party do you affiliate with?"

The woman's eyes fairly popped out of her head. "Does I have to answer dat question?" she demanded. "That is the law," he told her. "Den you just scratch my name offen de books," he said. "Ef I got to tell his name I don't want to vote. Why, he ain't got his divorce yet!"

And she stalked out. "Rastus," said the negro minister, "dis am da fust time Ah ever saw yo' in dis here church, and Ah's mighty glad to have yo' here."

"Pahson," replied Rastus, "Ah just hadda come. Ah needs strength, Ah does, 'cause Ah got a job whitewashing a chicken coop an' building a fence 'round a watermelon patch."

Sydney Shields, well-known actress, has an Old Negro mammy from the South in her employ. The other day a colored man appeared at the door seeking work. The woman met him and the following was the conversation between the two: "I don't reckon you-all knows of nobody what don't want to hire nobody to do nothin', does you?" "Yes, indeed, I doesn't."

As Clowny sat down in the nest, he looked to east and then to west, but couldn't see a thing except the mountains and the sky. The bird that carried him that day had flapped its wings and flown away. It now was just a real small speck away up in the sky. Four little birds chirped very loud. "Oh, my!" said Clowny, "what a crowd of hungry little fellows. I just hope they don't eat me. But, shucks, I needn't fret at all. They couldn't, 'cause they're much too small. How I am going to get away from this place, I can't see." He then leaned back against the nest, deciding he would take a rest. The small birds cuddled close to him. 'Twas fun to hear them peep. And then the chirping all died out and things were quiet all about. It wasn't long till Clowny and the birds were fast asleep. The other Tinties, far away, had

600 ATTEND MUSICAL AT S. METHODIST CHURCH

Reinforced Choir Gives Musical Treat, Aided by Violin and Harp Artists.

Despite the chilly weather more than 600 persons were present at the musical given last night by the choir of the South Methodist church under the direction of Archibald Sessions. Probably a contributing reason for the large attendance was the presence of the two additional musicians, Mrs. Laura Wheeler Ross of Hartford, violinist, and Mrs. Mildred Godfrey Hall, harpist, both of whom have been heard here before.

The best number of the musical, in which the entire female section of the choir took part, was Marchetti's "Holy Redeemer," arranged for a trio of women's voices. This was a number of an appealing rhythm, given with harp and violin accompaniment.

The typical Russian hymn numbers were sung by the combined choir. They were "Christ is Risen," by Gaul, and "The Cherubim Hymn," a composition of the Russian Gretchaninoff.

"In a Monastery Garden," a descriptive piece by Keteoy, was one of the best in the entire musical. This was given by the violin, harp and organ, with the chime effects of the organ lending color. The descriptive is laid in the garden outside of a monastery and in one part the chant of the monks as they raise a psalm of rejoicing to their God is heard.

An unusual number, which had not heretofore been given in Manchester, was "The Twenty-Third Psalm" of Franz Liszt, sung by Miss Eleanor Willard. Miss Willard's voice is of excellent quality one of the salient features of the musical.

Robert Gordon in his solo, "Go Forth Upon Thy Journey" by Elgar, was better than he has ever been, which is saying a great deal. This was a long affair, an Easter song, but Mr. Gordon maintained his quality of tone and treatment throughout.

A fitting climax to the musical was Martin's "Hail, Gladdenings Light" sung by the choir with the accompaniment of the organ, harp and violin. It is jubilant in its theme and the chorus made the most of its opportunity. As the postlude, the violin, harp and organ were heard in "Andante Religioso" by Thome, through which the congregation remained seated, and as a request number the trio played Handel's "Largo."

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" THE WEATHER If you don't trust the United States Weather Bureau's forecasts, why "roll your own." These simple rules are what the farmers and the fishermen go by—along with others of their own; each individual has his particular favorite signs: When the sun rises red out of a bank of cloud, or rises red and then the clouds begin to lower, it's a good bet that it is going to rain. A grey sunset, or one where the clear sky is green or yellowish-green, is another forerunner of rain. A ring around the moon promises a storm if it grows smaller during the night. If it grows bigger it means fair weather ahead. A rainbow in the morning means more rain—not no more rain. A rainbow in the late afternoon is a sign of fair weather to come. When the sky shows deep blue, even through many clouds, you can leave your umbrella home. When the sky, though clear, begins to grow whitish and keeps on growing whiter, there's a storm approaching. The same is true when the air is unusually clear and you can see unusual distances or when the stars are uncommonly bright and twinkle more than ordinary. Two or three uncommonly warm days in the fall are almost always followed by the first frost. And the last frost in the spring is almost always preceded by a similar unseasonably warm spell. But the biggest thing about the weather, so far as Pinehurst is concerned, is that it doesn't make a scrap of difference in the need of the people for Good Things to Eat or in Pinehurst's eternal vigilance in supplying them, nor yet in Pinehurst's service and delivery. Except that in aspect, in stormy weather, take care of more trade by telephone, which is just as safe a way of trading, at this store, as in person. 6 Bags Charcoal 99c Cannon's Potatoes $1.90 bushel Creamery Tub Butter 49c lb. "RECKLESS" CHARGE TO FOLLOW AUTO UPSET Nobody Involved in Accident But Lone Driver, But Skidding Wreck Is Suspicious. Will H. Jencks, well known Pleasant Valley dance hall proprietor, will face trial in the Manchester Police Court next Monday morning on a charge of reckless driving growing out of an automobile accident in which he figured Saturday afternoon. Jencks was the driver and sole occupant of a Reo touring car which skidded and overturned on a wet roadway at the intersection of Woodbridge and Lydall streets at 4 o'clock. He was pinned under the wrecked machine, according to a telephone report which someone sent into Police headquarters.

Iam Barron arrived Jencks had been removed to his home by a passing motorist. State Police were called because Jencks lives in Pleasant Valley, South Windsor, which is outside the jurisdiction of the local police.
