

COUNTY Y. M. C. A. OBSERVES 10TH BIRTHDAY HERE

National Council Secretary
Albert E. Roberts, Principal Speaker—C. W. Holman Again President.

Albert E. Roberts, national council secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, warned Hartford county "Y" leaders in conference here last night they must never be satisfied with the work they are doing reminding them that Napoleon's maxim was

Albert E. Roberts

"The way to hold the ground you have taken is to take more ground." Mr. Roberts, an eloquent speaker of the inspirational type, addressed the Y.M.C.A. workers following a banquet in the South Methodist Episcopal church last evening.

Mr. Roberts' address was the feature of a novel program staged as a memorial of the work accomplished in this county in its first ten years of existence. Other features were a pageant, the appearance of the Marlborough Junior-Y Band, Hanjo solos by Orville H. Emmons and greetings from Clarence P. Quimby, principal of the Manchester High School and Harry Hedley Smith, secretary of the Connecticut Y.M.C.A.

Adaptability
Mr. Roberts was asked to speak on "What Next?" The theme of his address was the adaptability of the Y organization to the rapidly changing times. He said that the ultra-modern times we are now experiencing has an extremely vital effect upon the youths of the country. In addition the Y finds itself forced to take care of the backwash which comes in the inevitable wake of a war. Today's generation is matchless and the Y leaders find they cannot plan for the future but must meet problems as they arise.

Reality Needed
Tradition means nothing to the modern youth. They merely ask "Does it work?" For that reason there must be reality in everything that is passed on to the youths—reality in religion as well as education. But the basis of the upbuilding of the life of the youth is charactor. Mr. Roberts quoted Thomas Edison as saying that the world should stop inventing things for a time so that man can become assimilated to what he already has to work with.

Mr. Roberts urged the Y leaders to enrich and expand their programs, never being satisfied with what has been done. He urged that the boys from the city meet the boys from the country and said that President Coolidge in his Omaha address stated it right when he said "It makes no difference if your fathers came over in the Mayflower or not, we're all in the same boat now."

Divine Aid
Ninety per cent of the ministers in the pulpits today come from the country, Mr. Roberts declared. He attributed this to the fact that the young men in the country found

Plan Air-Train Line From Coast To Coast

New York, May 15—Forty-eight hour service from coast to coast for the traveling public of the United States will soon be a reality. Announcement is imminent, it is being known today, of the organization of a trans-continental air and railroad system, capitalized at $5,000,000, which will undertake to cut down the time it now takes to cross the country.

Linked in the new organization are the Pennsylvania railroad, the Atchafalaya, Toledo and Santa Fe railroads, the National Air Transport and the Boeing and Western Air Transport companies. The object of the company will be to provide a regular 48 to 52-hour passenger service from New York to San Francisco. The regular schedule from New York to Los Angeles will require 48 hours. Later the service is to be extended to San Francisco.

Passengers will be carried on hour service from coast to coast on the daytime. The new train-plane organization will be headed by C. M. Keys, president of the Curtis Aeroplane & Motor Company. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was approached to head the company when it was in a formative stage but declined. It is understood that he explained that while he saw in such a combination of services the swift advancement of aviation he reiterated his frequently expressed intention of not becoming financially interested in any individual aircraft company, at least not for the present. Present plans call for the following method of traveling: Passengers bound for the west coast will entrain from New York to Col-

LAYS TELLS STORY HOW NINE DROWN

He and Doctor Jumped Overboard to Lighten Boat; He Alone Alive.

Greenville, Me., May 15.—Bodies of nine prominent citizens of Brocton, Mass., and their Maine woods guide were sought in the lower reaches of Moosehead lake today by Sheriff A. G. Rodgers and a party of searchers in a motorboat.

Grief-stricken relatives of the men, who had come here by airplane, automobile and train, waited patiently to receive all the news about the ill-fated lake craft. Meanwhile, the lone survivor of the expedition of amateur salmon fishermen, Captain James E. Lays of the Brocton police department, gave an interesting account of the north woods tragedy.

Chief Tells Story
Exhausted, but believed on the road to recovery, his right arm still numb from contact with the frigid water, Captain Lays described the frantic efforts to clear the motorboat of water, the call of the skipper to "get out the life preservers" and how he and Dr. David Bridgwood, eye and ear specialist of Brocton, attempted what they believed was an act of sacrifice—a leap overboard to lighten the fast sinking craft.

Besides Dr. Bridgwood, last seen by Captain Lays swimming shoreward, the lost were: Fire Chief William P. Daley, of Brocton; Sheriff Earl P. Blake of Plymouth county, Mass.; Dr. Arthur F. Peterson, former Brocton city physician; John Sandberg, manufacturer of Brocton; Dr. Frank Moberg, of Brocton; Fred Dahlberg, highway commissioner of Brocton; Mayor Harry C. Howard, of Brocton; Knute S. Salander, Brocton business man and Sam Buddin, of this town, Maine woods guide and skipper of the ill-fated lake craft.

Bodies Not Found Yet
Shores of Moosehead had been combed but only the overcoats and sweaters of the men together with a piece of the boat were found.

Wind of gale force swept the lake today, making grappling impossible for the present. The sheriff and his searchers in their motorboat were tossed about by the waves as they rode down the lake.

By a strange twist of fate, the only man to reach shore in safety was the only one in the party in delicate health. All winter Captain Lays had suffered from fainting spells. The others were in robust health but apparently only the police captain was able to withstand the immersion in the icy water of the lake.

The cause of the sinking of the motorboat remained undetermined but it was believed that the craft struck a sunken log or an "ice growler."

IN TROUBLE AGAIN
Hartford, Conn., May 15.—Helen Bradshaw, a newcomer to Hartford, was sentenced to six months in jail on a statutory charge today.

She was first known to police as the sweetheart of George S. Borsini, alias Stephen Hoppe, who was arrested here in January as an escaped convict. The Bradshaw girl and three Bristol girls were arrested last month with three members of the Hartford police force. The policemen later were dropped from the force.

Annie Fahy, of Bristol, one of the Bradshaw girl's companions, also went to jail for six months while her two sisters, Beatrice and Violet, were given suspended sentences of six months each.

BLAME UNCLE SAM FOR SPECULATIONS

Experts Say There is Too Much Idle Money in the Country Now.

Washington, May 15.—Uncle Sam is responsible for the phenomenal speculative activities of the New York and other stock markets.

Despite threats of legislative action to curb speculation, increase of re-discount rates at some of the reserve banks, and frowns of disapproval from certain quarters in Congress, the government is indirectly furnishing the cash to make the markets hum as they never hummed before.

This view was taken today by a number of the government's leading financial experts, who attributed the following factors the long continued "bull" market:

Reasons for Rise
1. Retirement of over a billion dollars a year in the public debt.
2. Reduction of surtaxes in 1924 and 1926, enabling the extremely wealthy to invest in stocks instead of taking refuge in tax-exempt securities.

3. Release of millions of dollars of corporate surpluses in the form of dividends—directly the result of lower surtaxes.
Experts said that these three post-war developments have provided a gigantic surplus of capital, far in excess of the requirements of productive business, either domestic or foreign, and that naturally the unemployed funds found their way to the stock markets.

Speculative loans from member banks of the federal reserve system in New York alone are close to $5,000,000,000—five times the present national debt.
In addition to the government's unwitting part in the release of cash, real economies have been effected in the use of capital by private enterprise. Quick production and distribution of the tremendous output of commodities, elimination of the necessity of tying up capital in inventories. This automatically has released billions of dollars for other purposes.

STATE AID FIGURES FOR TOWNS PREPARED

Meeting Called For May 28 to Hear Complaints, If Any, From Officials.

Hartford, Conn., May 15.—Notices have been sent to eighty-eight towns in Connecticut by the State Board of Equalization giving the 1928 equalized figures, as determined by the board on towns with grand lists of less than $3,500,000. These towns will receive state aid grants for educational purposes. A meeting of the board has been called at the state capitol for Monday, May 28, 10:30 a. m., to hear any towns which may wish to dispute the board's figures.

Of these 88 towns, 82 are in the same classification, for state aid as they were in 1924. The six exceptions are: Avon, Beacon Falls, East Granby, Monroe, Rocky Hill and Voluntown.

The amounts paid by the state to these towns last year totaled $59,365, varying from $12,518 paid to Lebanon, to $861 paid to Clinton. The state paid $370,312 towards teachers' salaries, and $185,873 for high school tuition; $63,049 for high school transportation, and $30,150 in other special aid grants.

FORD RELICS
Marlboro, Mass., May 15.—A steam engine which had stood in a local shoe plant for forty years, was dismantled today for shipment to Henry Ford's engineering museum in Dearborn, Mich. An ancient scoop shovel presented to Mr. Ford when he visited the plant some weeks ago was also being sent west.

EPISCOPALIAN BISHOP QUILTS POST IN STATE

Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster to Resign, He Announces Today; Rt. Rev. Acheson to Succeed Him.

Hartford, Conn., May 15.—Right Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut, told the annual diocesan convention assembled here today that he intends to resign his bishopric in September "so that the resignation may take effect when acted upon by the House of Bishops in October."

"The bishop declared 'In this way it is my hope to save the presiding bishop any possible inconvenience in complying with the requirements of Canon Eighteen. When the resignation is completed my stipend of course ceases.'"
"The bishop said: 'I should be glad if I might be allowed for a time the bishop's house, paying, of course, a fair rent for the same. For my successor in office I confidently ask the same kind consideration in a loyal co-operation through the thirty-one years given to me.'"

"It may be of interest to note in these now not quite thirty-one years I have ordained to the episcopate 149 persons, have advanced to the priesthood 99 persons, making a total of 248, and have thus far confirmed 44,584 persons."

60,342 Confirmed
"The bishop-coadjutor confirmed 1,212; other bishop 1,546, making the total confirmed in something less than 31 years 60,342 persons."
"With the resignation of Bishop Brewster, the Rt. Rev. E. Campion Acheson, coadjutor bishop, automatically becomes bishop of Connecticut, and no further action on the part of the Connecticut diocese is necessary."

Makes Report
Bishop Brewster made known his intention to resign when he delivered his annual report in Christ church cathedral. In the course of his report he told of his official duties since the last convention. "I have visited 87 churches, chapels, missions and other places of worship," he said, "six of them more than once. I have officiated on 172 occasions and delivered 195 sermons and addresses. I have officiated at nine funerals and two memorial services; solemnized two marriages, baptized two persons and have confirmed 1,068."

The coadjutor bishop has confirmed 1,277 persons, while the bishop of New Hampshire has confirmed 18, making a total of 2,362. "There have been received into the communion of this church by

Deputy Sheriff Gerald R. Risley of 24 Strong street has been exonerated from all blame in connection with the death of Frank Beccio of 46 Norman street by Coroner Gilbert J. Calhoun of Hartford County. Beccio died from injuries received when Risley's car struck a cart which Beccio was driving.

In his finding made public today, Coroner Calhoun declares Sheriff Risley in no way negligent and attributes the accident to the fact that Beccio was driving his team with loose reins and that something other than the automobile frightened the horses, which swerved and caused the collision.

The accident occurred on Center street about 10:25 a. m., a week ago today. The finding is dated May 11, which is the same day that Risley had been exonerated, which report was denied that day by the coroner. It has been reported that a civil suit will be brought against Risley by members of the Beccio family. In such event, Sheriff Risley said this morning, he will retain Attorney William S. Hyde as his counsel.

At Coroner Calhoun's inquiry, the following witnesses testified: Gerald R. Risley, Dennis J. Harrington, Mrs. Julia Coleman, Lieutenant William Barron of the Manchester Police Department, and Elmer H. Schwalm of Rockville.

The Finding
The full text of the coroner's finding follows:
"The above named Frank Beccio, a man of 50 years of age, was driving a pair of horses and cart, ordinarily known as a dumpcart, along Center street in the town of Manchester about 10:25 a. m., daylight saving time. The dumpcart was of the ordinary form with the driver's seat over the front axle and large enough for one person at a time. Apparently having confidence in the Sailors from the supply ship City of Milan were pressed into service. For a time it appeared as though the dirigible could not escape disaster, but General Noble never gave up hope.

Long strips of canvas were placed above the balloon and at intervals the volunteers shook the snow from the canvas, thus keeping it from the gas bag.

General Noble is anxious to be on his way for another flight but weather conditions are not yet favorable.

Bathing Beauty Is Accused Of Setting Fire To House

New York, May 15.—The shapeless Miss Mobble of 1926, who was voted the country's third most beautiful girl at the Atlantic City bathing beauty pageant, today faced the charge of being a firebug.

She was scheduled for arraignment in Washington Heights court, accused of having burned down a six-family apartment house in Media, Pa., as revenge for the landlord's impounding of her trunks for not paying the rent.

The flight is said to have the backing of the Italian government.

CORONER ABSOLVES RISLEY OF BLAME

In Nowise Chargeable With Beccio Death, Calhoun Report Declares.

Deputy Sheriff Gerald R. Risley of 24 Strong street has been exonerated from all blame in connection with the death of Frank Beccio of 46 Norman street by Coroner Gilbert J. Calhoun of Hartford County. Beccio died from injuries received when Risley's car struck a cart which Beccio was driving.

U. S. ADMIRAL STARTS FOR CHINESE WATERS

Chinese Refuse to Leave Tientsin and Americans Fear Trouble.

Tokio, May 15.—Evidence of the increased seriousness of the Chinese situation was seen today in the announcement that Admiral Mark Bristow, commander of the American naval units in Asiatic waters, will leave for Tientsin on Wednesday in a destroyer.

Shanghai, May 15.—Shinese Nationalist troops plan to occupy both Peking and Tientsin, it was stated today by leaders of the Nationalist movement.

The advance of the Southern troops towards both cities continues without meeting serious opposition from Marshal Chiang Tso Lin's Northern army.

Tien-Tsin is the seaport of Peking and has a large foreign colony. There is a garrison of international troops at Tien-Tsin including Americans.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTE WILL GO TO HOOVER POLITICIANS ASSERT

TAX SLASH BILL IS READY TO PASS

Reduction of 227 Millions Proposed in Measure; Outstanding Features.

Washington, May 15.—The new tax reduction bill, authorizing a $227,000,000 slash in Federal taxes payable next year, was ready for enactment by the Senate today although dilatory tactics by the opposition may delay the final vote for several days.

The administration-insurgent alliance stood shoulder-to-shoulder throughout the tax battle, losing but one clash when the Democratic plan for a graduated tax on corporations was adopted. A second vote will be taken on this item and the reduction, opposed by the administration, may be eliminated. Administration spokesmen charged it would permit large corporations to divide their earnings among subsidiary corporations and evade millions of dollars in taxes.

Two more tax issues may be raised, one by conservative Republicans to repeal the Federal estate tax, and the other, by progressive Democrats, to increase the exemptions under normal income taxes. Senator Dill (D) of Washington, declared the exemptions should be increased to $5,000 for married men and $2,500 for single persons, instead of $3,500 and $1,500 as at present.

The Present Bill
The bill in its present form carries the following reductions, as compared to the House bill:
Corporation, $82,000,000, $164,000,000.
Increase exemption for corporations $12,500,000, $12,000,000.
Graduated tax on small corporations $24,000,000, $24,000,000.
Surtaxes $25,000,000, none.
Automobile, $65,000,000, $65,000,000.
Club dues, none, $5,000,000.
Capital stocks, none, $10,000,000.
Produce exchange, none, $3,500,000.
Admissions, $17,000,000, $8,000,000.
Cereal beverages, $200,000, $200,000.
Total $226,300,000, $226,630,000.

The House bill according to its authors, carried a reduction of $289,000,000 but some of the estimates differed from the treasury's, which are used above.

The three outstanding differences between the two bills involve corporation, admission and surtaxes to $3 while the House increased it only to $1. The Senate authorized a downward revision of surtaxes while the House retained existing rates.

Administration leaders were in doubt whether the final vote would be reached today. Democratic Senators have made numerous attacks on the measure and there was no indication they would stop.

COL. R. M. PATTERSON DIES IN STAMFORD

Retired Army Officer Had Lived in State Since 1911, Long Ill.

Stamford, Conn., May 15.—Col. Robert Hammen Patterson, U. S. A., retired, died at his home in Shippan Point today after an illness of eight weeks. Col. Patterson will be buried in Arlington on Friday, following funeral services at St. John's Episcopal church here Thursday afternoon.

Col. Patterson was born in Washington, D. C., in 1847 and entered the Army in 1865. He was in command of Fort Morgan, Mobile, Ala., during the Spanish-American war, and had charge of Fort Banks, Boston, when he was retired in 1911.

Col. Patterson had made his home here since retirement. For seven years to 1927 he was secretary of Stamford Yacht Club and then was made honorary secretary. He belonged to many military organizations, including the Loyal Legion and the Veteran Artillery Corps.

Col. Patterson leaves his wife, two daughters, and a son and a sister.

Last Lingering Doubt Is Removed When Sec. Mellon Amplifies His Statement; Says With Coolidge Out of Race the Nomination Can Only Go to Cabinet Candidate.

Washington, May 15.—The capital wrote Pennsylvania's 79 voters in the Kansas City convention into the Hoover column today.

Almost the last lingering doubt that the Mellon-Vare organization will go solidly for Hoover was dispelled today by Secretary Mellon's amplification of his Philadelphia statement.

"I don't see any reason for any doubt as to what I meant," said the secretary. "I spoke plain English. I think Mr. Hoover is the man who is nominated, and I think he is the man to be elected. Many things can happen between now and the convention, and for that reason it was thought unwise to make final commitment so far in advance."

The one thing that apparently can switch Pennsylvania from Hoover, it was indicated, would be for President Coolidge to consent to stand again. And that is a very remote possibility, not only in Mr. Mellon's opinion, but in the opinion of every politician in Washington.

Numerous Callers
Mr. Mellon has had numerous callers since he returned to the capital. To them he has explained that with President Coolidge out of it he doesn't believe the Kansas City convention can logically go to any other man than Hoover. He considers that the party must go to the country in the approaching campaign. "The record of the Coolidge administration, and he believes it would be entirely illogical for the convention to nominate a candidate who has disagreed with Coolidge policies as have both Lodge and Dawes."

The definite talk of the anti-Hoover Allies hasn't impressed Mr. Mellon much. In discussing this phase of the campaign, Mr. Mellon sagely observed that in the heat of pre-convention fight there were usually harsh words and discussion, but that opposition usually separates after the convention. It was true of the Garfield campaign, he observed, and he believes it will be true of the approaching campaign.

"Allies' Plans
Nevertheless, the hard-hit "Allies" are going to push the "Hoover-Coolidge" line of attack vigorously for the next four weeks. It is their one big hope of stopping the Cabinet candidate—to convince the party leaders that Hoover cannot carry the rebellious Grain Belt states, and that he will lose to Al Smith in the populous and wet eastern states.

The two South Dakota Senators, Norback and McMaster, are persistently pursuing this line of attack. The Republican Party, McMaster said, has always had to rely upon the "normally" Republican element of the middle west, but it in power and keep it there, and in his opinion the support of the corn belt is all the more vital this year because of Al Smith's admitted strength in the east.

In substitution of their argument of Hoover's weakness in the middle west, the South Dakotans point out that between the Ohio-Indiana line and the Rockies Hoover has been able to garner less than a score of delegates in a dozen states, despite the fact that the Hoover managers have conducted energetic campaigns in most of them.

In Indiana Hoover has no delegates, in Illinois none, in Iowa he has two, Kansas none, Minnesota six, Nebraska none, South Dakota none, North Dakota none, Oklahoma none, Wisconsin four and Missouri six. That is a record of weakness which "The Allies" believe should give the party leaders considerable pause. In any event they plan to harp on it pretty continuously right down to the point where the voting begins at Kansas City.

EDITOR'S COMPLAINT
Washington, May 15.—A reported threat by Hoover leaders to "make things hot" for the publishers of "Politics," a weekly newspaper, if Herbert Hoover were elected president, was aired today at the Senate's presidential inquiry.

Harry N. Price, editor of the weekly, said the threat was delivered to Frank J. Hale, the publisher, by two of Hoover's secretaries, after the publication had attacked Hoover's candidacy.

Price said George Akerson and Lawrence Ritchie, two of Hoover's secretaries told Hale the country

REFUSES TO LEAVE

Stamford, Conn., May 15.—Stamford's police lock-up charmed Edw. Yerk, 27, of Boston, so completely that he refused to leave today when police opened the door of the cell that has held him since May 8, offered him a good cigar, and told him to get forth. Judge Justus Fennel, in City Court, had imposed a thirty day sentence and suspended execution on condition that Yerk would go to work. When Yerk declared he would not work, he intended to stay in the police station because he had received such good treatment, Judge Fennel revoked suspension of the sentence and ordered Yerk to Bridgeport jail.

ROUND WORLD TRIP New York, May 15.—Attempting to set a new speed record for a trip around the world, John Henry Mears, theatrical producer, and Charles B. D. Cuyler, stunt flyer of Richmond, Va., will leave here June 9, to circle the globe by airplane and ship, they announced today. The two hope to be back in New York, after their 20,000 mile journey, in 21 days. Mears held the former record for a round-the-world trip, having completely circled the earth in 85 days in 1913. This mark stood for 13 years, the Evans-Wells expedition making the trip in 35 days in 1926.

reality in religion whereas the city youths did not have that opportunity. He told of the Dartmouth football captain who called his squad together, young men of many different creeds and asked them to pray for victory.

He said Rusty Callow, famous U. of Washington crew coach, told him that in training his champion crew he taught them all the techniques he knew and then taught them to seek divine aid, saying "The longer I live and the longer I study men the more convinced I am that we must utilize the divine as well as the human resources."

Afternoon Sessions Judge Ralph M. Grant, of East Windsor Hill, clerk of the proceedings in the afternoon sessions. He said that the following officers and directors were re-elected:

President, Charles W. Holman; vice-president, R. O. Clark; treasurer, Calvin C. Bolles and clerk, Ralph M. Grant.

The directors include: F. C. Bidwell, Bloomfield; Calvin C. Bolles, South Windsor; Henry R. Buck, Hartford; A. Storrs Campbell, Shelton; Lawrence W. Case, Highland Park; R. O. Clark, East Berlin; Sherman W. Eddy, Avon; Malcolm Farmer, New Britain; Phillip Graham, Suffield; Ralph M. Grant, South Windsor; Charles W. Holman, Manchester; George P. Kane, Hartford; Francis S. Knox, Glastonbury; George R. Marsh, Bristol; R. H. Phillips, Farmington; John H. Thompson, Farmington and Earl P. Parmelee, Windsor.

Judge Grant reported that the treasurer's report was exceedingly pleasing saying that the year started with a balance of but $2.00 and continued with a final balance of over $1,500.00. The budget for the coming year was outlined and all but $1,700.00 of it was already guaranteed.

President Charles W. Holman, of this town, was in charge of all sessions of the anniversary conferences. Elmer Thienes, secretary of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A., introduced the leaders from all the town and cities in the county and each was roundly applauded.

Orville Emmons rendered several solos on his banjo which were greatly appreciated and a group of Wapping young men presented a pageant "Ten Years in Hartford County." The pageant admirably demonstrated what the County Y associations are doing for the young men outside the city. It was produced under the direction of Rev. Truman H. Woodward of Wapping.

A group of interesting motion pictures of County Y activities was presented. Lawrence W. Case operated the machine. The Marlborough Junior Y Band made up of 14 youngsters and scarcely organized two months played several short selections. The band was led by Howard W. Porter, who is only 15 years old and was directed by A. E. Lyman.

Resolutions chairman of the committee on resolutions, read his report thanking various men and organizations for their aid in the making of the 10th anniversary of the County Y. Harry Hedley Smith, state Y secretary, preceded Mr. Roberts as a speaker and said in addition to its adaptability to the needs of the times, the County Y has the ability to find leaders and hold men together and during the war Elmer Thienes is doing in the county.

President C. W. Holman's report was as follows: To the members of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A.: My report for this Tenth Anniversary convention naturally deserves to be different than that of the annual report, and should deal particularly with the trends and important happenings for the ten-year period which we are bringing to a close today. This report will also be fairly brief, inasmuch as much material which might usually be included in a report has been embodied in the pageant to be presented this evening.

It was in April 1918 that the first group of men met, who authorized the organization of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. On June 5, 1918, the organizing convention was held in Hartford, which completed the stop. On October 1st of that year Mr. Thienes became identified with the organization as its first secretary. With those various steps completed, the work began in earnest. We desire to express our appreciation of the fine piece of preliminary committee, particularly through the service of Harry Hedley Smith.

The war was just drawing to a close when our work began, and consequently our first effort was to hold men together and during that carry through the United War Work Campaign. After the war ended in November, we soon got into the swing of what we now know as our regular work—and during that first year our work was started in Rocky Hill, Southington, Bloomfield, Granby, Marlboro, Avon and Windsor, seven communities. Subsequently in the ten years 48 communities attempted to enjoy the advantages that have come from a fine Christian program for boys and young men.

One thing in particular has marked the work of the entire ten years—a determined effort to do everything possible to expand the service and improve the quality of work to the greatest possible degree. During the very first year, working in this direction, steps were taken to develop a special work in Southington. A local organization was developed which, with the co-operation of the industries, employed a secretary for a time. But this proved unsatisfactory and much of the work subsequently lapsed. But the seed sown for a larger opportunity was not in vain for it now blossoms forth again with the reorganization of the work on much sounder lines and with decided strength, with a legacy bequeathed by a building project.

Industrial Work In 1921, assisted by war work funds made available through the International Committee and the interest of industries in the County, we began an industrial work, called the John Y. Lamberton as our industrial secretary. We continued with two field men for a time, having for some months the additional help of Mr. Sweetland, who was employed by the United Y. M. C. A. Schools for educational service. Through the efforts of Mr. Lamberton a new field of industrial service and athletic activity was developed. The secretaries had in that period of 17 years just about doubled the volume of work carried on.

In 1925 after the industrial depression had occurred and we had incurred a considerable indebtedness, it was deemed necessary to reduce our staff. When the staff was reduced, the problem arose of maintaining the work already developed with a very limited employed personnel, for we were determined by one means or another to carry on. The solution came through the greater use of volunteer help to carry important responsibilities, which we developed under stress of circumstances.

Cooperative Training The Leadership Conferences and the most recent Field Service Committee under the direction of Mr. Parmelee have been factors in keeping up the quantity and quality of the Group Work. We have had valuable help from Springfield College through a cooperative training plan evolved during this same period. The athletic program has even been increased materially through the leadership of Harry Anderson, athletic commissioner, so that this year our tenth year, we are carrying the largest volume of group work and athletic program in our history. The indebtedness incurred. This was a matter that gave us great concern three years ago, but your board tackled this problem with the same spirit that they have tackled all other problems and they were able to report to you a year ago that all current bills for that year had been met, and, in addition, the indebtedness had been lifted. This year the board was determined to go still further and head and make what appeared to be a difficult time the opportunity for making unusual progress. We have again paid all bills and have a balance in our Reserve Account for this present year.

This feat accomplished with only one campaign, that in the Manchester District a year ago. Meanwhile, during the year we have worked toward building a financial organization that could raise our funds satisfactorily before the new fiscal year began. This financial organization has been ably led by John H. Thompson in the county at large, and in the several districts by Calvin C. Bolles, So. Windsor; C. P. Quimby, Manchester; S. J. Nagill, Thompsonville; S. W. Eddy, Avon; and Walter N. Bassford of New Britain. In March we staged a concerted county-wide financial campaign which makes it possible for us to report to you today that all bills for the last year have been paid and that substantially $10,000 out of the $12,000 budget has either been raised by cash and pledges, or underwritten.

The balance will be secured without great difficulty from many people whose renewals for the new year have not yet been received.

Sound Business Basis We feel, therefore, that we have passed through a cycle in these ten years, one that has brought in its development, difficulties, retrenchment, and new developments—until we present to you at the beginning of the second decade an organization that has developed a sound business procedure, a dependable giving constituency, a practical service program that has reached into practically every part of the County. Thus far we have been intent upon rounding out this cycle, but it now remains for us to determine what the developments of the next ten years are to be—and that is the project immediately before our Association. We appreciate most thoroughly the splendid united way that all who have been in touch one way or another with our work have worked together, particularly contributors, leaders, and members of our local committees.

Chas. W. Holman, President. A summary of the work of Hartford County at the end of the first ten years of its existence was presented to each one present. The summary was as follows: At 85 Points. The Hartford County Y. M. C. A. operates with a Y. M. C. A. program at 85 points in the County. The work is carried on by volunteer leadership except in one case where a physical director is paid by the community, his community. These leaders have to be discovered, enlisted, and trained by the County Secretary.

Most Variety of Activities Most of the well-known phases of Y. M. C. A. work are carried on in these centers, modified somewhat as required by conditions peculiar to small communities. Some of these phases are club work, physical and athletic work, Bible Study, Older Boys' Conferences, Camp, local entertainments, etc. Greatly Stimulated Use of Local Equipment No local equipment is owned by the Association, but it has developed new centers for local work in a number of cases and made for more efficient use of existing parish houses and community centers in 1928 Boys and Young Men in Clubs The Association is operating this year 43 clubs with work for small boys at one end and for adults at the other. There is a membership of 1030 in these clubs. Their activities are widely different. (we encourage clubs to develop the program that meets their need best) for there are 5 Friendly Indian Clubs for small boys, 9 Hi-Y Clubs for boys in High School, and 3 community clubs for grown-ups in industrial places, and an equally great variety in the rest of the clubs.

145 More in Clean Athletics In athletics we are operating 3 basketball leagues, conducting 2 other County basketball tournaments, a volleyball tournament, indoor track meet, swimming meet, outdoor track meet. We are also entering teams in the following State championship meets—swimming, Junior basketball, indoor track (all three of which we won), Senior basketball, volleyball, and outdoor track. The athletic program reaches 145 boys and young men in addition to a large number who are members of the clubs.

300 Helped by Conference and Camp Our Older Boys' Conference last April in Simsbury drew 170 older boys from 30 of the County's communities, 100 of whom were boys not in clubs. To Camp Woodstock, our beautifully situated and efficient camp, came 125 boys outside of our own membership.

405 Members in Active Work Altogether, 1405 boys and young men members were active in these 4 phases of the Association program.

Economical Operation To carry this volume of work, a budget of $12,000 is required, an average cost of a little over $8 per person for each member taking part in the program. These funds are secured and administered by a capable Board of Directors.

umbus, Ohio, fly from there to Wichita, Kansas, sleep on a train to a point in New Mexico, and then fly to Los Angeles. Plane-train service from Columbus to points south and west is planned as soon as the trans-continental route is established.

Financing of the new company is in the hands of Hayden, Stone & Co., Blair & Co., Glamble & Dysart of St. Louis, J. C. Willson, of Louisville and other banking houses in the United States today is thirty-one hours. It is upon this swift service that the new traffic service is to be built up.

No definite date has been set for the inauguration of the new transportation system.

Tentative Schedule Mrs. Clarence P. Quimby, who has been worked out, however, calls for the passenger to go aboard a limited train at the Pennsylvania station in New York City at six o'clock in the evening. He arrives in Columbus at about eight the next morning. There he will be driven to the airport where he will board a multi-motored passenger air liner, built for a cruising speed of more than 100 miles an hour and equipped with the restaurant service of the Red Harvey restaurant system.

At Wichita, the passenger will leave the plane and board a west-bound limited of the Atchison. He will be on the train through the night, changing once more to a plane in the morning at some point in New Mexico. At five o'clock in the afternoon he will land at the Los Angeles airport.

An east-to-west schedule, equally fast, has been worked out although details have not been revealed.

"There is no dearth of passenger business for air lines," said Col. Paul Henderson, president of the National Air Transport, this morning. "The passenger travel on air lines has become a great deal faster than we expected and much faster than we have been able to handle it. The business of the future is most promising."

ANOTHER DROWNING New Haven, Conn., May 15.—The fourth drowning of the spring season and the third case of a boy perishing in local inland waters was sent to the attention of Dr. Marvin M. Scarborough, medical examiner, today. The victim was Neilson Johnson, seven, who slipped from a raft on a fifteen foot quarry hole in the Fair Haven Heights section late yesterday and sank in thirty feet of water. Firemen recovered the boy's body.

Previously, this spring, West River claimed two boys who were playing with leaky craft. Morris creek, on the East Haven boundary, was the scene of the drowning of a fisherman.

WILKINS IN NORWAY London, May 15.—Captain George Wilkes and Capt. B. E. Eielson, of the U. S. Navy, who flew from Tromsø, Norway, this morning from Spitzbergen, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. They were given an enthusiastic reception by Eielson, who flew from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen by the plane, crossing just south of the North Pole.

D. A. R. REGENT QUILTS New Haven, Conn., May 15.—Mrs. Charles P. Messenger, regent of Eve Lear Chapter, D. A. R., since June, 1915, today resigned her post and was succeeded by Mrs. Grover F. Powers, Mrs. Messenger had been honorary regent and life member of the chapter council. Many members of the chapter recently resigned because of the "black-list" controversy.

Rockville While doing her family washing Monday morning, Mrs. Frank Wisniewski, who resides in the rear of Grand street, was taken suddenly ill and after complaining of not feeling well to a neighbor who had dropped in to visit her, she collapsed in a chair. Dr. Metcalf was immediately called but death came before he could reach her. It was found that death was caused by heart trouble.

Mrs. Wisniewski was born in Austria in 1896 and had lived in Rockville about seven years. She is survived by her husband and two children, Joseph, aged 12, and Stanley, aged 5. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's Polish Church. Burial will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery.

Marriage Announced Mrs. Rose Bowers of Village street announces the marriage of her daughter, Edith L. Bowers to Robert A. Twible of Hartford. The marriage took place at the parsonage of the Union Congregational church, Saturday, May 5th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George S. Brookes. They will reside at the home of the bride's mother on Village street.

Rev. Brookes to Speak in So. Manchester Rev. George S. PUTS HOOVER OVER

One of the strongest cogs in the anti-Hoover mechanism in New York state, around which mechanism has centered the camouflaged opposition to the Presidential nomination of the secretary of commerce, has been George K. Morris, chairman of the Republican State Committee. Mr. Morris has up to now played with National Committeeman Charles D. Hillis in the "draft Coolidge" campaign which the latter organized in association with William M. Butler of Massachusetts and a handful of other eastern leaders.

Now Mr. Morris, after a close personal investigation of up-state sentiment, has cut entirely loose from the obstructionist movement and has come out flatly in favor of Hoover. He finds that the opinion of up-state voters and of up-state delegates has been badly misrepresented. Instead of 29 delegates favoring Hoover Mr. Morris reports that he found 52. Much of the territory canvassed by the state chairman is agricultural, and in spite of the legend that has been sedulously promoted about the farmers not wanting Hoover, the Hoover sentiment was as strong in the country as in the cities.

This outspoken pronouncement of the New York state chairman, coming on top of the Mellon declaration, which the secretary of the treasury yesterday reaffirmed in unmistakable language, is a stunning blow to the attempts that have been made to deadlock the convention.

The nomination of Herbert Hoover as the Republican candidate for the Presidency now seems to be as sure as any political event, lying in the future, can possibly be.

TROUT LAWS

Whether or not there is anything to the rumor that the state angling license fee may be increased, where it applies to the right to fish in state leased waters, we do not know. It would seem, however, to be a proposition that should be approached with the greatest caution. To create a special class of licenses for state leased streams and to make those licenses available only to those willing or able to pay for the privilege of angling in state-leased streams would quite obviously be to make a first attack on the complete democracy of public-water fishing in Connecticut. To what lengths it might go would then depend on the temper of the Legislature at any particular time—or, more particularly, on the temper of a single Legislative committee.

Frankly, we do not like the idea at all. And not because the creation of a selective class of state-lease anglers would be any real hardship on the excluded fishermen, either, since the fishing in state-leased streams this year offers no temptation to real sportsmen; it is not trout fishing, as any true lover of the sport understands that diversion, to go to a pool and snake out a creel of tame hatchery trout that are hanging around the spot where they were dumped in, waiting for somebody to come along and feed them. It is entirely the principle of the thing.

On the other hand, a recently moot suggestion that the legal limit of trout to be taken in one day by any angler be lowered from twenty to twelve would find very few objectors among sportsmen, we believe. A dozen legal sized trout will satisfy any fisherman who possesses the divine afflatus. A hundred wouldn't satisfy the fish-hog. So the limit might as well be a dozen as any larger number.

MUSSOLINI'S JOKE

One of the oddities of this generation is the prevalence of a certain type of American citizen, always of the class prepared to tremble and to rage at the mere mention of such words as "Bolshevism" and "reds," who are much given to saying their heads wisely and comfortably about Benito Mussolini and to pronounce him a great man, who "certainly does do things." By forcing a new electoral bill the Duce is taking away the last vestige of the elective power of the people in choosing their representatives to the Chamber of Deputies. This elective power is henceforth to be vested in the corporations created by the Charter of Labor, in which are grouped employers, workers and professional persons.

It will probably seriously shock these American admirers of Mussolini when they eventually discover, as eventually they must, that the Italian dictator has succeeded in putting over a kind of state socialism which, as like the communism of Russia as two peas in a pod, in principle, the difference being that Mussolini has kidded the world and has been infinitely cleverer in what he has been doing than the rather stupid adherents of the same generic system in Russia. For his Corporations of Labor are blood-kin to the Soviets of Russia.

Mussolini was a socialist in his youth. He is a super-socialist in his prime. The difference between him and Lenin and Trotsky is that he called his socialism something else, baited his bourgeoisie with a lure of apparent favoritism and wog it, hook and line and sinker, instead of murdering it off as did the thick headed Russian Reds. Having made his "ruling classes" imagine they were being put in the saddle while as a matter of fact they were being put under it, he had no trouble, of course, with the workers.

Whether Mussolini is one of the greatest men in the world or not, he is beyond question the greatest of practical jokers, and the class on whom he has played his stupendous joke is the conservative, the pronounced anti-radical.

IN RUMANIA

That strange and most dramatic crusade in Rumania, where many thousands of peasants sent an army of representatives to protest at the nation's capital against the continuation of the Bratiano regime, has been reported as having come to naught. It would be a mistake to believe any such statement. No political movement as extensive as this, and carried on as that one has been, can possibly result in nothing at all.

Even if the fruit of such an immense expression of discontent does not immediately ripen, the awakening of a great people to a determination on a voice in their own affairs is not a matter that prime ministers or the soldiers or police of prime ministers can successfully nullify by a gesture of brushing it aside.

The Russian peasants, though almost inarticulate in the face of the Bolshevik movement, have qualified and amended in certain respects nullified the whole scheme of Russian communism in Russia, outside of a few large centers, isn't actually much more communistic than the United States or any other organized nation. The peasants of Rumania, if they stick to their determination and because they hold the food supply of the country in the hollow of their hands, will eventually get their way. The embattled farmer is still invincible—when he fights with the weapon of national sustenance.

PICK A POOR TIME

Twenty special airplanes and four dirigibles are being built in Europe, every one of them intended to fly westward across the Atlantic, either in one hop or several. Some of the intending negotiators of the westward flight intend to come by way of the Azores, one hopes to fly from Poland to Chicago, stopping at Ireland and Newfoundland. One aspires to fly over here and back, then back here again. The planes range from little two-seaters to a big fellow carrying more than a hundred passengers, on which tickets will be sold, if there are customers for them.

But if these folks are planning to get typical American publicity and American receptions this summer, they are going to be out of luck. They are figuring without their host in the form of an American Presidential campaign. Air adventures are good diversion to the people of this country when there is nothing bigger in sight. But in a Presidential election season a successful transatlantic flight will be lucky if it makes the first page at all.

NEW JERSEY STRAW

In New Jersey today five candidates are struggling for the nomination for United States senator to succeed Senator Edward I. Edwards, who will be the Democratic nominee. Among the Republican aspirants are Mrs. William F. Felckert, who, as a bone dry, has the financial and moral backing of the Anti-Saloon League, and former Congressman Edward W. Gray, who is an openly avowed wet and would have the eighteenth amendment dragged out of the Constitution. The other three are more or less non-committal on the liquor question and one of them, former National Committeeman H. F. Keane is supposed to have the inside track for the nomination. To the outsider the larger interest in the New Jersey primaries will be the outcome of the contest as between Mrs. Felckert and Mr. Gray. It will be more or less illuminating to discover just what proportions of the Republican vote in a state like New Jersey can be controlled by the militant dry organizations and by an equally militant wet.

A ROAD RACE

How cheaply some motorists hold their lives and those with whom they come in contact is shown over and over again, but a Sunday tragedy in western Pennsylvania provides especial illustration. Drivers of two automobiles filled with women and children not only engaged in the perilous business of racing on the highway but became so absorbed in their relative speeds that both drove their cars full tilt into the locomotive of a fast moving train on a grade crossing. Eight persons were killed. That race probably began with a laughing, "That bird's old junkheap isn't going to pass me!"

SILENT ON MONOCLE

One of the absorbing points in the news has been ignored altogether. When Baron von Huenefeld, wearied out by the strain of a series of American style receptions, collapsed and had to take to his bed in a Chicago hotel, not a single Windy City reporter thought to find out whether the baron wore his monocle while ill and prostrate. Which indicates that Chicago newspaper men may be in danger of losing their well earned reputation for doing the human interest stuff right up to the mark.

NEW MADRID ARENAS TO HAVE SEATS FOR 50,000

Madrid—Fifty-one thousand citizens of this city will be able to attend their favorite sport—bull-fights, every Sunday, as soon as the new arena has been completed, on which laborers have been actively at work for the past two years. This new arena, the largest to ever have been built in Spain's capital, will hold twenty-six thousand spectators. Another arena, at the other end of Madrid will also be completed this year, and will have a seating capacity of twelve thousand persons. Thus these two, together with Madrid's old arena which holds thirteen thousand people will give the opportunity to a greater number of people to attend the famous Spanish diversion on the same afternoon than in any other city in the country.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, May 15.—Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter welcomes the Senate investigation into the residential campaign funds.

If the investigators can find any evidence of large contributions to the McWhorter campaign, the senator offers to split with them. He has been trying to find some for the last year and needs help. He canvassed about every industry in the country but they're all dead.

Not that McWhorter positively went running to the captains of industry and promised each one to boost the tariff on his particular product when he became president in return for the moral and financial support. Senator McWhorter simply let his actions speak for themselves and hoped for the best. Every day or so, for months, the senator introduced a bill to raise the tariff on a few articles that might afford to help a poor man become president if he could show himself to be worthy.

First it was crank-handles, camshafts, cork-screws and calipers. Then it was strawberries, seneca root, scallions and scammonies. After that typsaums, tachometers, tablespoons and tippets. And so on until Senator McWhorter had introduced a bill for the relief of nearly everything that is made or grown. After each bill, Senator McWhorter sat back and waited for someone to come around with something tangible. He received an inspiring collection of congratulatory letters, complimenting him on the fearless brand of genuine statesmanship which had so bravely displayed. But none of the letters enclosed checks, except one of two dollars for 500 copies of one of the bills.

Senator McWhorter sat down and answered each letter as follows: "Dear sir: 'Thanks for the apple sauce. 'It certainly does a poor man good to know that his efforts are partly appreciated. 'Maybe you don't know I'm a candidate for the presidency. 'Cordially, your friend, 'J. BOOMBOOM McWHORTER.' Not being laden down yet with contributions, except for $15 from his Aunt Addie, who recently left after staying with the McWhorters all winter long, Senator McWhorter's principal worry in the face of the investigation is as to whether he should report the small expenses he has made from his own pocket.

Most of it has been for publicity, because the senator realizes that just to have a candidacy never does any good unless a gentleman can get his name in the papers. But the well-known McWhorter patriotism does not this time impel him to reveal just how the money was spent lest he be accused of seeking publicity or something.

Every time the senator hears that a photograph is to be taken he hops into a taxicab and heads for the spot. This you are likely to find the Senator McWhorter in a picture of the House Military Affairs Committee, the officers of the Federal Employers' Union, the starving coal miners, the city sewer commissioners or even a bevy of visiting high school graduates, who are especially glad to pose with a senator mentioned are not.

When the German flyers were here, he just got to the flying field in time. Dashing to the front, Senator McWhorter plopped himself down on the ground, and Senator McWhorter stood there gamely with a happy smile until the pictures were taken and was even good natured enough to offer to pose with the flyers without any other of the American greetings.

But a new pair of shoes cost the senator $3.98 and he fears he will have to be honest and report that to the committee as campaign expenses along with the taxi fare.

New York, May 15.—Believe it or not—but a Broadway bootlegger now sends out business cards which tell you "not a coffin in a carload." . . . New York's swanky men order shirts on 42d street that are made in London and shipped back, requiring many weeks of time. . . . And dokaks are being shown in Fifth Avenue windows made of leather to match your dress or suit—greens, grays, browns and all the rest. . . . A popular marrying parson of Manhattan needs four assistants to take care of the overflow these summer days. And men's unmentionables run to green stripes and polka-dots this summer.

Broadway has done a complete about face" where its publicity men are concerned. Time was when "press agents" were nothing to write about and something to be feared. They were looked upon as a fakery, untrustworthy band. About two years ago a new order began to arrive. Young men were hired who could write copy that the papers were quite pleased to run under a "by-line." There was Samuel Hoffenstein, of the Al Wood's office, who was in demand among the magazines and columnists. Finally he retired and, lo! out came a book of verses, "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing," which has proved one of the best selling books of verse in many a year. The other day Gilbert Miller retained William Drake, perhaps the best authority in American letters on the new generation of European novelists, and artists, the author of an erudite book on this subject and a "highbrow" of some standing. Sidney Skolsky writes stories, essays and plays. Arthur Kober, after doing sophisticated articles, was turned away from his theater as a Paris correspondent for a witty Manhattan weekly.

Walter Kingsley is a patriarchal journalist, with experience in every port. Walter Crockett has done a book of reminiscences of old journalistic days, under the title of "When James Gordon Bennett Was Caliph." Mary Margaret McBride was "ghost" in the writing of Paul Whiteman's book, "Jazz," and a dozen biographies of celebrated persons.

And it gets more so every day. Hesse, and many others, actually are requested by the New York drama departments to write signed articles, all of which are executed in a highly worthy fashion and without any of the old onus attached to "press agency."

A THOUGHT

We all do fade as a leaf—Isiah 41:6. I love everything that's old—old friends, old times, old manners, old books, old wine.—Goldsmith. Senator Hoffin now is taking liberal whacks at both Smith and Hoover. Well, the senator is liberal about that, anyway.

Hospital Corporators Hold An Annual Extraordinary

The corporators of Manchester Memorial Hospital turned out to the number of three last night for the annual meeting of the body. According to the constitution the secretary had given a five day notice of the meeting, legally advertised, and announced to be held in the High School building.

Annual meetings in the high school building are usually held in the main hall. Five minutes before the time for calling the meeting a reporter took a peek through the French glass door, saw three girls and a young man apparently rehearsing a scene from a play.

In the office of the superintendent of schools, however, were F. A. Verplanck, secretary of the hospital corporators, Miss Mary Cheney and Mrs. A. L. Crowell.

Mr. Verplanck sat at one end of a long table and Miss Cheney and Mrs. Crowell were deployed along sectors of the council board. The reporter asked if it would be permissible to stay to the meeting.

Acquiescing, the secretary announced that in the absence of the president he would call the meeting to order, and asked for the nomination of a chairman. Mrs. Crowell nominated Miss Cheney and Miss Cheney nominated Mrs. Crowell. To break a deadlock Miss Cheney consented to serve. Secretary Verplanck, with a big pad, took down the minutes.

In a few well chosen words the secretary informed the meeting that at the meeting a year ago trustees were elected for three year terms with provision that they serve until they resign or die and no such catastrophe having happened there was nothing to do and a motion to adjourn would be in order. He made this motion himself and Mrs. Crowell seconded it. Miss Cheney put the motion and it was carried without a dissenting vote.

"There Mr. Reporter," said Mr. Verplanck, "there is the whole business. See what kind of a story you can make out of it."

LAKEVIEW P. T. A. IN ANNUAL SESSION

Mrs. Stephen Hale, President; Plan For Whist Party on Friday Evening.

The Lakeview Parent-Teacher association held its annual meeting last night at the South Main street school. The election of officers resulted in practically all the old officers being re-elected. Mrs. Stephen Hale is president; Mrs. William Rusb, vice president; Miss Ethel Haddon, secretary and Frank Hicking, treasurer. In place of Robert Martin who declined reelection. Mrs. Robert Martin continues at the head of the social committee, and is planning for a whist to be held at the school-house on South Main street Friday evening of this week.

Piano solos were played by Mrs. C. Ely Rogers and Mrs. Stephen Hale. Frank Hicking kept everybody in an uproar with his jokes and violin solos were played by Harold Civello.

MANCHESTER TO GET LAWYER FROM MAINE

William Hill to Open Office in Cheney Block—Is a Young Man.

Manchester is to have another lawyer, whose name is William Hill and who comes from Maine. Like all lawyers for the past thirty-five years he will have his office in the south end. He will open his office in the Cheney Block, occupying the quarters that the late H. O. Bowers used years ago.

Mr. Hill is a young man. He has passed the Connecticut bar examination and has been co-sidering several locations. Two months ago he came to Manchester to visit and was impressed with the town. Mr. Hill has since been living here while Attorney Hill was closing up his affairs in Maine. He expects to open his office within a few days.

WOODSMAN DUPONT GETS BAD CUT BY AXE

Leon J. Dupont, of 235 School street, veteran woodsman, is confined to his home with a severe injury to his right foot which he suffered while chopping near Bush Hill road. Mr. Dupont is the man who recently had charge of felling the trees on the old Tinker property.

The axe was somehow deflected and struck across the top of his foot. A tendon was severed and he lost considerable blood. Nevertheless, Dupont, who was working alone, had the presence of mind to pull on an overshoe before he walked through the mud to a point where other workmen were cutting trees.

He was taken to a doctor's office in an automobile truck. It was necessary to take seven stitches to close the cut, which was deep.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NATHANIEL DEAN, struggling artist, is engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, whose father is a prominent Wall Street financier. After losing his fortune in speculation BREWSTER dies of heart failure and leaves his daughter penniless.

NIEL urges VIRGINIA to marry him at once, but an old family friend, FREDERICK DEAN, and his daughter CLARISSA persuade her to make her temporary home with them.

NIEL is angry when VIRGINIA tells him her decision, for he suspects DEAN'S motives and does not like the shallow CLARISSA, who has just announced her engagement to RUSSELL WAIN-GOLD. He takes VIRGINIA to her new home and returns un- happily to his studio.

Where he finds his model, CHIRI, waiting with the studio maid. He knows that CHIRI is the lover of VIRGINIA, and fearing that she will become a nuisance he re- pulses her and she leaves in a temper.

Meanwhile, VIRGINIA is puzzled by a talk with CLARISSA in which she tells her that she will tolerate no trespassing where RUSSELL'S money and af- fection are concerned. She says: "Your grief has not clouded your good judgment as a Modern."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"At three, then?" Mr. Dean asked. "Oh, sooner," Virginia urged.

CHAPTER VII

"COME in," Virginia called. She expected to see one of the servants enter. Instead, it was her host who opened the door and stepped inside.

"Aren't you coming down to lunch?" he asked pleasantly.

"Not if you don't mind," Vir- ginia answered wearily.

"Poor child; you're exhausted. Well, do as you like, of course, but I hope you will be able to join us at dinner. Perhaps it would benefit you to go for a drive this afternoon. Shall I order a car?"

Virginia glanced out the win- dow at the clear blue sky with lazy, white clouds drifting over it like sheep in a meadow. She had a sudden feeling of oppression, as though the charmingly furnished room in which she stood were about to contract upon her, to smother her.

"Yes, please do," she cried with unexpected fervor. "It will be glorious to get outdoors."

"At three, then?" Mr. Dean asked. He appeared surprised at her eagerness.

"Oh, sooner," Virginia urged; then conscious that her manner was strange, added in explanation, "I'm sure I'll be able to think better outdoors."

Dean frowned. "You aren't worrying about your future, I hope. That isn't necessary, my dear."

"I don't know exactly what I'm worrying about," Virginia ex- claimed, her voice resting on a note of hesitancy.

"You haven't let yourself go to pieces," he warned her. "You know you can count on me to help you in any way I can."

"It isn't anything I can talk about," Virginia told him.

He came over and took her hands in his.

"The car will be ready when- ever you want it," he said gently. "And now may I send up some lunch to you?"

Virginia nodded.

But when the lunch arrived she left it untouched. Her win- dows gave on Fifth Avenue, and she sat, hatted, watching for the car to arrive.

After what seemed to Virginia a long time Mr. Dean's dark blue limousine drew smoothly up to the curb. She ran from the room and down the stairs, pulling on her gloves at the same time.

She was crossing the hall when Dean appeared in the door of the dining room and spoke to her.

"Would you wait just a mo- ment?" he said. "I'd like to go happiness is yours for the asking. Be true to what you know is for your own and young Dean's best good and you can't fail to be happy. Don't be weak, Virginia. Don't let yourself be swept off your feet just because you are in love."

"Perhaps you are right," she admitted hopelessly; "but I wish I felt as sure of it as you do."

"You will soon, I know. Now, won't you tell me—is there any way in which I can help you ma- terially? You will be doing me a great unkindness if you allow yourself to go in need of any- thing I can provide for you, my dear."

"Thank you," Virginia said; "there's nothing. . . ." She was genuinely sorry that her voice carried so little warmth of grati- tude but she could not help it. There was about his generous- sounding offer some tone of patronage—perhaps the only imag- inable that left her cold.

"There is something you can tell me, though," she added a moment later. "And please don't think that I have anything to complain about, but I just would like to know if Clarissa was per- fectly willing to have me come and live with you."

"I rather thought she would do you in some way, Virginia, but you know Clarissa is an out- spoken person. Of course, I don't know who she has to be outspoken about to you, but at least I can allay any doubts you may have concerning your wel- come with us. We both are over- joyed to have you. Clarissa was the first to urge the arrangement, although I had it in mind before she mentioned it to me."

"I may have imagined some- thing she didn't mean," Virginia confessed generously; "yes, I'm certain I must have."

"I'm glad to hear you say that. I should like to see you with us to be clouded in any way."

"Then I'm sure you mean to extend your welcome to Nathaniel," Virginia responded, bright- ening.

"Oh," flatly, "yes, of course. But don't think it will only make it harder for you to keep your purpose if you listen too often to his pleadings?"

"I'll have to take that risk," Virginia said firmly. "I couldn't stand not seeing him every day. I should like to see you and Clarissa to have him call, but I must tell you that I could not stay where it wasn't possible to be with Nathaniel."

"He's quite welcome," Dean returned stiffly.

A little later, after an awkward silence, Virginia suggested that they return home, and he acquiesced without protest.

There was no more talk of Nathaniel then. More of silence than talk of any kind, and when they reached the Deans' house Virginia did not know what to say but ran swiftly to her room and lifted the telephone to put in a call for Nathaniel's number. She felt a great need to hear his voice, to assure herself that he actually was near, ready to come if she called.

She became really agitated, waiting for the beloved, growly voice to answer.

And then there came a lazy, "hello," that struck on Virginia's heart like a cat's paw on a but- terfly.

(To Be Continued)

Had Virginia been observing his face she might have wondered that he showed so much dis- pleasure over so small a matter.

"You know, Virginia," he said, and somehow managed to speak agreeably, "I'm sure I could help you solve your problems if only you would trust me."

"Why, it isn't a matter of not trusting you, Uncle Frederick. I know what you think about Na- thaniel and myself and, well, I'm wondering if you aren't wrong—if I shouldn't let him take care of me as he wants to do."

"I was afraid you might lose your courage, my dear. Naturally you would want to let him do that but . . . you're very much in love with him, aren't you?"

Virginia smiled. "He has taught me the meaning of the word," she said simply.

"Then you must know better than to let him wreck his life," Mr. Dean replied with a serious- ness of expression that carried a touch of conviction to Virginia.

"But would I? I could help him, I'm sure of that."

"Virginia, please let me save you from the greatest irony of life. I mean the failure to profit by the experience of others who have lived before you, meeting the same problems, facing the same obstacles. It is a great pity, but wisdom seems always to come when it is too late to be of serv- ice to us in making our decisions. You are standing on the threshold of a new life. You will make a mark by whichever voice you heed now—that of sound advice offered you or the impulse of your own heart."

"You . . . frighten me," Vir- ginia shivered slightly. "You make happiness seem so . . . remote."

"No. If you will but see it,

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Dearest Mom:

Just time for a word or two be- fore I dash off to the office on an errand for Alan. He asked Flo- rence to go but I don't want to take her time for things like that when she's leaving so soon.

Besides, I really think I ought to drop a hint down there about the nuisance of telephone calls. That girl, Alan's new stenograph- er, must do her work with a typewriter in one hand and a tele- phone in the other. I told Alan I thought she must be too emotion- al to be able to concentrate and he just grinned at me. Why is it that a wife can't suggest anything about a husband's work with- out having him jump to the con- clusion that her remark is prompt- ed by jealousy?

I haven't seen this new girl, so how could I be jealous of her? Anyway I've never been jealous, but I suppose I would if Alan gave me any cause for it.

If I were of a jealous disposi- tion I would be willing for Nor- man and Florence to trot around together, would I? Because even if I have no right to a share in Norman's affections I feel that one never entirely closes the door that was open to a sweetheart or a lover. I might hear of Norman's marrying, and not turn a hair, but I must confess that I'd prefer not to come in direct contact with his happiness.

Now I suppose I'll call down a shocked torrent of criticism on my head for saying that. But it is the truth. It's a mean little streak but I think it's in all of us who are honest enough to face it. Nothing but a matter of ego. And certainly if a person has no ego he has no personality. Who wants the definite proof of his ejection from a favored place in life, or another person's heart, thrust upon him?

For instance, no one, I presume, would expect to stay in the White House all his life, but don't tell me that anyone could leave that beautiful place without regret. That's what I mean about old lovers. You don't want them and you wouldn't want to keep them. You don't want to see you, but darned if you would like to sit on the sidelines and watch your own eviction.

Even if Florence hasn't done so well with her boy friends she's an attractive girl and far be it for me to say that Norman couldn't all in all live with her. So, with that possibility to face, I think I'm of a very magnanimous nature to permit her to "ghost" for me.

Devotedly,

MARYE.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Do men need women more than women need men? That they do is the firm conviction of Henry C. Beers, writer on economic and social subjects, who, in an article in "Harpers" entitled "Women and the Marriage Market" was this— and other things, to say:

"Female companionship is the one thing, next to food, that men will have at any price. Women get on most handsily without men; men can hardly turn a wheel without women. Women may like men, may want them, but do not need them."

"There are some exceptions on both sides, but very few, and I should say from my own observa- tion, about equally divided. I have seen some half-dozen men in my life who seemed independent of women's companionship, and about as many women who could get along indefinitely and comfortably without men."

"Man, therefore," the observant Mr. Beers continues, "requiring female companionship more than any- thing in the world except food, and having to deal for it with beings who do not nearly so much require his companionship—who can, in fact, get on quite well without it— must deal for it on such terms as he can get. This throws women at once into the role of a merchant. She can make her own terms for her certain goods, her certain lines of trade, in whatever market may be open to her."

Is He Wrong?

Mr. Beers is knocking into a cocked hat my exact opposite con- tention so frequently expressed in this column—namely, that women need men so infinitely more than men need women that all the alarm about the destruction of the home, the death of romance, as a result of the modern woman's way of life, is stuff and nonsense.

Perhaps Mr. Beers is right. Per- haps I am right. Of course, I be- lieve the latter. The whole point is that the opinions of any of us are based on the little cross-section of life coming within our own par- ticular radius. None of us, no matter how many contacts we may have, can cover more than an infinitesimal part of the human range, and none of us is apt to have the same little microscopic cross-sec- tion as another. Mr. Beers, for in- stance, probably has observed men more than women, and I have re- versed this.

And still I say, Beers or no Beers, that men can make quite satisfactory lives without women, but that very few women can settle down and live in peace and contentment without at least the shadow or the faintest flavor of the mere distant hope of romance in their lives. They may never make this feeling articulate. They may bluff beautifully and echo all the femi- nist sophistries of the modern day. But watch what happens the minute the most externally self-suffi- cient female has a "go" at romance with the most insignificant nincom- poop that ever wore bifurcated garments!

BEEF FOR MURDERERS, MUTTON FOR LOVERS!

In her newly-published book on food and health, A. Barbara Calow points out that Edmund Kean, the famous actor, is said to have altered his diet according to the part he had to play; pork for ty- rants, beef for murderers, mutton for lovers, and that crude as this principle is, it implies more thought than most people give to the question of diet.

Old-fashioned diets, used to in- clude plenty of fresh foods, particu- larly meat, milk, butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables.

Modern diets are sophisticated and include canned or dried foods, egg substitutes, butter substitutes and predigested cereals.

Adding Vitamins

In order to overcome the defi- ciency of modern diets, it has be- come necessary to irradiate foods or supplement preparations to provide the deficient factors.

In our ordinary diets we obtain proteins from eggs, meats, vegeta- bles and cereals. Dried peas, beans and lentils contain 50 per cent of protein, but vegetable pro- tein is believed to be inferior to animal protein for tissue building.

Among the other factors largely deficient in modern diets, mineral salts are of great importance. Many of the methods by which extra amounts of salt or sodium chloride.

The scientific conception of diet is exceedingly complicated and technical, but the person who learns the fundamental facts will find increased health and happi- ness in their utilization.

Home Page Editorial Crashing the Hall of Fame by Olive Roberts Barton

The longer I live the more I am amazed at the devious ways Fame has of choosing certain men and women to sit for portraits in her en- vied Hall.

True, some are born to greatness and technical, but the person who become famous get there by their own efforts.

It always is an inspiration to read the honest life stories—writ- ten by celebrities, stories that re- veal not talent alone, but amazing perseverance and a determination to succeed.

There was a woman who compos- ed songs and sold them for a mere pittance. There came a day when she had an opportunity to make a public appearance and present some of her own work. She had no gov- ernment money to buy one, but she knew how important it was for her to appear. She did appear and look- ed well in a white lace gown: No one knew that it had been a certain dust-red, bow-of-matching color that she had made it herself. That was Carrie Jacobs Bond, who

A FAMOUS COUTURIER TELLS HOW TO PLAN A WARDROBE

Chic, according to Frances Clynne, exclusive New York couturiere, is not only the art of wearing clothes smartly but of having one's costume suited to the occasion to which it is put.

"One perfect costume will give a woman more confidence in herself than a whole wardrobe full of make-shifts," says Miss Clynne.

"The average girl will do well to follow the precedent set her by the smart society woman, who often has unlimited means at her disposal for clothes."

Here are Miss Clynne's rules for being well dressed:

"Budget your wardrobe each season. The well-dressed woman allows no haphazard buying in her life."

"Plan the type of clothes your personality and activities need. Then decide on the number that will fit into your budget."

"Choose your color scheme. If your wardrobe must be limited, you will do well to choose a basic color. Though various items may feature different tones of it, all will blend nicely."

"Pick your most important costumes first, whether they be utility attire, dinner gowns, evening frocks or informal attire."

"Remember that accessories make or break a costume. Choose for perfection rather than num- bers."

BUCKLAND P. T. A.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Andrew Healey Again Made President—Children Given Entertainment.

Upwards of 125 of the parents, teachers and children attended the annual meeting last night of the Buckland Parent-Teacher Association in the school hall. Officers were elected, committees appointed and a general plan for the coming season's activities outlined. The officers and committees who will take office immediately are as follows: Andrew Healey, who has been a district committee man and president of the association last year, was re-elected to that office. David Armstrong, elected vice-president; Mrs. Marion Pierce, principal of the Buckland school, treasurer; Miss Buckland, one of the teachers, was chosen treasurer.

Frank E. Smith succeeds Mrs. E. S. Culyer as chairman of the Ways and Means committee. Associated with Mr. Smith will be Gustave Magnuson, Alfred LaChance, Mrs. Inez Batson and Miss Nellie Smith. Purchasing committee, Mrs. John Derrick; membership committee, Miss Hilda Magnuson; social committee, Mrs. Louis L. Grant, chairman. Mrs. Grant was given the privilege of choosing her assistants. Program committee, Miss Anne Sullivan. Auditors: John Donahue and W. F. Pickles.

The program was given by children of the first to the fourth grades. The stage was arranged as a flower garden, with a large window. The poems were by Robert Louis Stevenson, whose health during his childhood was so delicate that often he could only look out on the flowers and the children at their romping games.

REMOVALS OF STORES

ON MAIN ST. NEAR Woolworth Co. May Be in New Quarters by First of Month.

The building at Birch and Main streets, which is being erected by the L. & W. Leasing Company, the real estate department of the Woolworth Company, is so far advanced that trucks are now bringing some of the fixtures for the store.

The lease of the Woolworth store in the so-called Tinker Block expires this month. The owners of the building, E. G. Seaman, Chris. Glenney and Arthur Hultman have agreed to an extension if necessary, but it is said it may not be taken.

The store space vacated by the Woolworth Co. is to be taken over by the F. T. Blish Hardware Company, of which E. G. Seaman, one of the owners of the building, is also chief owner. The store will be extended to the rear, a right-of-way to the bakery being supplied by an underpass.

This work will be started soon after the Woolworth store is vacated, as the lease of the Blish company's present store expires in September.

With the completion of the smaller stores on the west side of Main street Alfred Greel, who now occupies the south store in the fifth building, is planning to move into one of them.

When the outdoor bathing season rolls around in about another month, Manchester swimmers will find the Globe Hollow pool considerably improved, according to a statement made today by Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers, which take care of the pond.

During the past few days, workmen under the direction of Frank E. Busch, who was liegeward at the pond last summer, have cleaned the pond, which was recently drained. They removed many old shoes, broken bottles and tin cans, had found a resting place there, considerable mud and weeds growth was also removed.

In addition to cleaning the bottom of the pond, there will be other improvements. Two diving platforms are to be built out from the south bank and the other on the south bank where the finish of races is made.

The platform which stands in the middle of the pond will be reinforced and re-painted. New rubber footholds will be placed on the three springboards. The dressing quarters will also be renovated.

Although no official announcement has yet been made, it is probable that Frank Busch will again be in charge of the pond as liegeward. Fred McCormick will probably be one of his assistants. That date on which the pond will be opened depends almost entirely on the weather. Usually it opens about the time that school ends but last year opened earlier because of unusually warm weather.

STRAW HAT DAY

The straw hat season arrived today but only a few Manchester men appeared on the streets with the new vogues. Jack Sanson was among the first. It was noticeable that Manchester dealers carefully refrained from displaying any of the straws until well into this forenoon when they had made sure that there would be no ice on their show windows. One dealer said he was getting out his straw hats in fear and trembling, in view of the thermometer hovering around freezing point three nights a-running, lest they be "blasted."

These are dangerous days. A man never knows when he goes home early whether or not the lawnmower is going to be in the front yard.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The program was given by children of the first to the fourth grades. The stage was arranged as a flower garden, with a large window. The poems were by Robert Louis Stevenson, whose health during his childhood was so delicate that often he could only look out on the flowers and the children at their romping games.

A daughter was born last night at the Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller of 33 Bigelow street.

Admissions included Harold Wilson of 19 Stockhouse Road and Dorothy Hollister of 42 Hollister street.

ELINSKAS-OBRIGHT

Miss Mary O'Bright of 10 Congers street and Joseph Elinskas of Waterbury were married Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Bridget's church. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. C. T. McCann. The bride attendants were: Miss Stella Rodonors, sister of the bride, maid of honor; Miss Agnes Elinskas and Miss Isabel O'Bright, bridesmaids, Clement Elinskas, brother of the groom, best man.

Custom O'Bright and William Morris were the ushers. The bride wore a gown of white satin and lace and a veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was attired in yellow georgette crepe and carried a shower bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses with sweet peas. Miss Agnes Elinskas was attired in green crepe de chine, Miss Isabella O'Bright was attired in peach georgette crepe. Both carried Madame Butterfly roses.

The ceremony was followed by a largely attended reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elinskas on their return from a wedding trip will make their home at 39 South street, Hartford, where their home is newly furnished.

(289) Bread and Butter

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

By Frank Beck

There are still some old-fashioned mills that use a water-wheel for their power, but generally these have given way to huge roller mills with facilities for grinding thousands of bushels of wheat in a day. In these the grain is crushed between sets of steel or porcelain rollers.

GAS BUGGIES—Information

AH... GOOD MORNING... ER... MISS AVOLON. I NEARLY SAID WHOA! YOU KNOW YOU MIGHT CALL ME CECIL ANY TIME YOU WISH.

OH, BY THE WAY, I NEED ADVICE. I HAVE A FEW DOLLARS TO INVEST, BUT I DON'T KNOW A GOOD INVESTOR. I HEARD THAT A MR. SMART, IN ROOM 12, DABBLED IN THE STOCK MARKET.

ALEC! I'LL SAY SO. ON HIS ACT IN WALL STREET, HE HAS THE BULLS AND BEARS ALL TRAINED SO THEY'LL JUMP THE WAY HE WANTS THEM TO, WHEN HE SNAPS HIS FINGERS.

THEN HE MUST BE A VERY SUCCESSFUL MAN...

SURE, HE ONLY PLAYS THE MARKET FOR EXERCISE NOW. HE'S GOING TO LET ME IN ON A GOOD THING THAT'S COMING UP SOON NOW. ONLY A RICH GUY CAN AFFORD TO BE LIBERAL LIKE THAT.

DEAR ME, IT'S GETTING LATE. I HAVE AN APPOINTMENT AT THE HAIRDRESSER'S SO TA-TA.

AH... A ROSE FROM HER, CECIL, YOU RASCAL, THEY CAN'T RESIST YOU.

THAT SILLY CLERK TELLS ME EVERYTHING HE KNOWS WHEN I SMILE AT HIM A FEW TIMES. SO... ALEC IS A MILLIONAIRE. THAT IS INTERESTING.

Long ago man learned to crush grains between two stones and make a paste of the fine particles. This he baked in a crude oven.

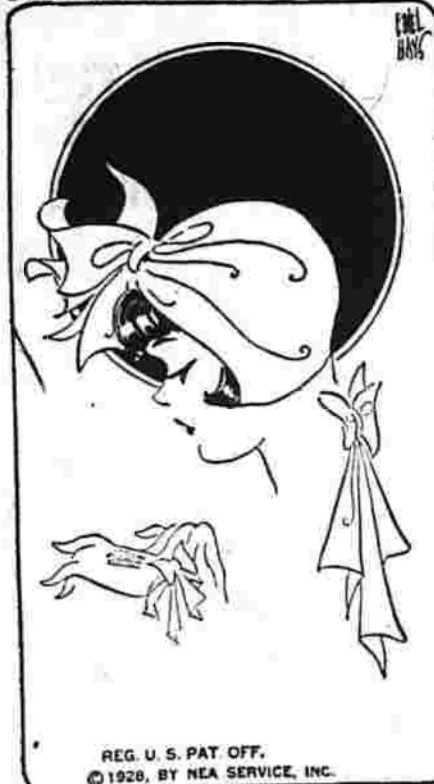

Next the grain was ground by mortar and pestle, later between two great stones, one of which revolved against the other.

There are still some old-fashioned mills that use a water-wheel for their power, but generally these have given way to huge roller mills with facilities for grinding thousands of bushels of wheat in a day. In these the grain is crushed between sets of steel or porcelain rollers.

THIS IS LOVELY!

It couldn't be helped! Today's letter golf puzzle just had to come some time, so here it is—from LOVE TO SICK without a wasted stroke for the unbeatable par of four. One solution is printed on another page.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Truth crushed to earth again. It would make a splendid pedestrian. Well, let the game disappear. There is thrill enough in hunting for a parking space.

LOVER'S LANE

'Tis a long boulevard that has no parking places.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The "last word" in automobiles is out; but the manufacturers will increase their vocabularies next year.

Don't believe all you hear—except the train's whistle at a grade crossing.

A mile is 5,280 feet, except on a detour.

Hubby—Oh, boy! I accidentally caught sight of the maid today in her combination. Do you know, honey, she's almost got as good a figure as yours.

Wife (absently)—so the chauffeur says.

RED HOT MAMA

Fireman were called to Mound and Spring Streets this morning where an automobile caught fire from a crossed wire in the car. The damage to the car was considerable. —Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch.

George: What a smooth gear shift you have on your car. Gergette: Hey, will you take your hand off my knee?

THE SENTENCE COMPLETED. She: "Open your mouth and shut your eyes and—" He: "And that's the way a woman drives a car."

Ignorance of the law against children driving automobiles excuses no one.

Salesman (giving driving lesson): "Choke it! Choke it!" Little Blonde: "Where's its neck?"

A motor car with one horn can toss a man farther than a bull with two horns.

Back Seat Driver: Pass that darned driver, John, pass it! Front Seat Driver: Oh, what's the use—there'll be another one just ahead.

'Spring is the season when you go to bed feeling like a flat tire and get up in the same humor as the man who has just changed one.

Gladys: I hear they're putting beards on Ford cars now to make them look like Lincolns."

It's not the shape of the roads but the shape beside the drivers that causes so many automobile accidents.

Some men get 10,000 miles and more out of a set of tires—and some men tell the truth.

ETIQUETTE OF THE RUMBLE SEAT

When four persons, evenly divided as to sex, ride in a car equipped with a rumble seat, places shall be assigned as follows:

- Two men and their wives. The men sit behind.
- Two boys and their sisters. The sisters sit behind.
- Two boys with girls not their sisters. All four sit in front.

Some auto wreck victims are like doves shot over a baited field. Having the law on their side did not help any.
