

BIRTH CONTROL CASE PUZZLES THE OFFICIALS

Bridgeport Woman Has Husband Arrested Because She Does Not Want Any More Children.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 22.—"It was the mistake of my life when I married him. I don't think it's right to go on bringing children into the world when they won't be properly cared for. And I love children—don't misunderstand!"

These assertions were made today by Mrs. Ethel Cromwell, 35, mother of thirteen children who has caused the arrest of her husband, Edward, 39, because she wants no more babies—at least not while her teamster husband brings home $18 to $30 a week, depending upon how long and how regularly he works.

Attracts Attention

The case has attracted considerable attention and discussion. Cromwell was arrested after his wife appealed to the authorities to take charge of her husband who is an advocate of still larger families. He is in the police jail in default of bail pending hearing Thursday. The police, as though at least not as to what charge to press against him but finally resorted to that of "technical breach of peace."

No Drinker

Mrs. Cromwell does not speak harshly of her husband. "Edward seldom spends money for drink," she says, as though in an effort to be fair to him. "But he has not the right sense of economic relations in the raising of a big family. He insists on more children, saying the Lord will provide for them in some way, yet year after year the same thing happens to me in poverty. I don't think it's right."

She sat in a clean, albeit ill furnished room for the family. She and one of her children, Eleanor, 12, were folding lengths of light blue elastic into piles. She explained that it was "home work" that they get fifty cents per gross for their labor.

Married 10 Years

"I've been married to Edward almost ten years," she continued. "I've borne him thirteen children. Only four of them, and a married woman by my first husband, are alive today."

"My baby is in the hospital, a helpless cripple. They tell me he hasn't any spine. The midwife says that if I continue to have babies it will mean the death of the baby."

"Do you blame me if I ask the authorities to keep my husband away from our home? All I want is peace and quiet. It's been so hard. I love children but I don't believe they should be brought into the world to struggle and suffer privations."

Mrs. Cromwell's story will be thoroughly investigated by court officials, the Connecticut Humane Society and Dr. Daniel P. Griffin, court alienist and mental hygienist. Prosecutor James C. Shannon said today that he knew of no specific statute applicable to the Cromwell case.

"It's a case that's easy to dig—"

BOULDER DAM BILL READY FOR PASSAGE

Is Only Important Matter Left to Congress—May Be Passed Within the Next Few Days.

Washington, May 22.—Heeding the recommendation of President Coolidge and fearful of a new flood disaster being laid at its door, the House today took up the Swing-Johnson bill for the building of Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado river.

With the threat of filibustering tactics met by the firm decision of leaders to bring the bill to a vote, all indications pointed to its passage within three days.

In an effort to relieve the federal government of the cost of flood protection, sponsors of the bill evolved the scheme of building a 550 foot dam generating electricity, and selling water.

This would save expenses of the repayment of the $125,000,000 cost of the project to the federal government within 20 years, backers of the measure claimed.

The only stumbling blocks in the path of the measure appeared to be the opposition of power interests to a government dam, and the refusal of Arizona to join with six other states.

To Sell Power

To meet objections of many anti-government ownership members, the committee provided that the secretary of the interior could sell power from Boulder Dam to private companies which would distribute it.

Powerful support was expected for the bill both from Republican and Democratic sides. Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader, was expected to back the principles of the bill with Rep. Garner (D) of Texas heading a strong Democratic group for it.

With the tax bill disposed of, the Boulder Dam measure was the unfinished business of both the Senate and House.

TAX SLASH BILL PASSES SENATE

Cut of $204,000,000; Boulder Dam Bill Expected to Pass in Few Days.

Washington, May 22.—The new tax reduction bill, which the Senate held within the treasury limit of $204,000,000 after the House authorized a $289,000,000 slash, was sent to conference today while administration leaders revived hopes of adjourning Congress next Saturday night.

The Boulder Dam bill, likely to pass the House in a day or two, but facing a desperate filibuster in the Senate, and a final settlement of the tax differences between the two branches, alone stood between Congress and adjournment.

Aids Corporations

The new tax reduction bill, as it passed both House and Senate, carried no reduction in the normal income taxes but granted heavy relief to corporations. The general public was benefitted by increased exemptions on amusement taxes. Lightening of the club dues tax and repeal of the automobile tax. An effort to repeal also another to reduce the federal inheritance tax was defeated.

A number of efforts to attach farm relief and tariff legislation to the bill as "riders" were rejected by the Senate. Proposals to increase the tariff on farm products, to establish a $300,000,000 farm debenture fund for allowing farmers to import articles free of duty, and to refund transportation costs on exported farm products all were defeated.

Daves Breaks Tie

At the last minute the Senate struck out the reduced graduated tax applying on small corporations but it took the vote of Vice-President Daves to do it, 34 to 33.

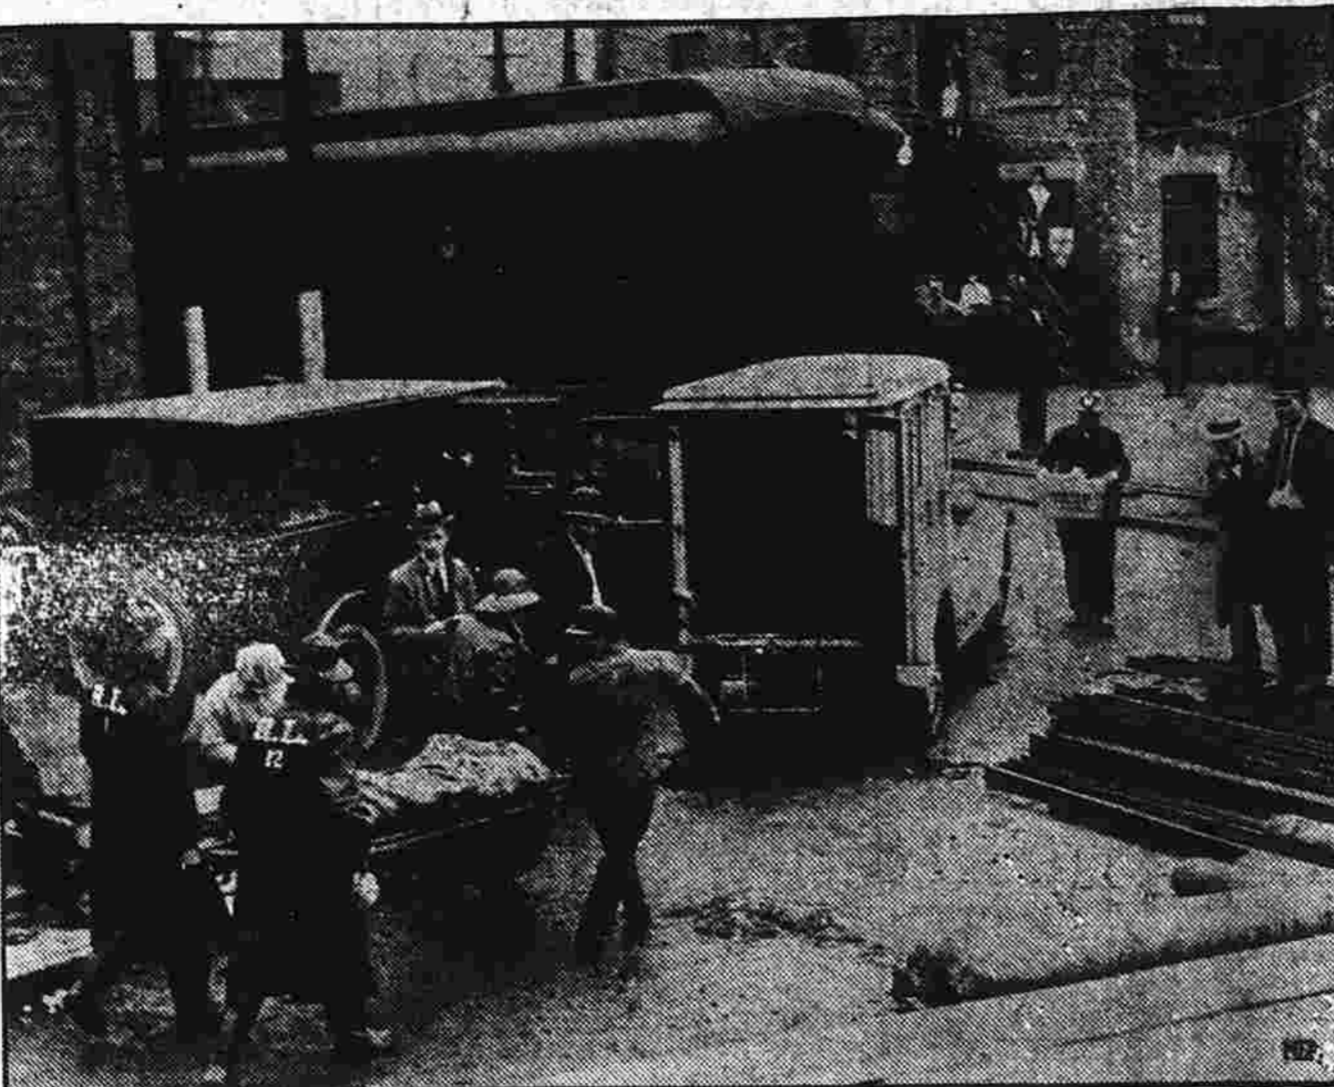

As the bill passed the Senate, every administration proposal had been adopted. This was due to the alliance between the administration ranks and the Insurgent Bloc. The Insurgents supported the administration program in return for a pledge to retain the inheritance tax.

PRICES ON MARKET TAKE SUDDEN DROP

Wall Street Bears Have Their Inning Today; Wright Aero at 170.

New York, May 22.—The "Bears" in Wall Street, long on the defensive, had an inning today and sharp declines were recorded in some stocks that had been skyrocketing of late.

Wright Aero dropped sixteen points to 170. This is a 71-point drop from the high point it had reached last week, 241. Curtiss Aero also fell off 8 points to 120 this morning. A week ago Curtiss sold as high as 193. The declines in these two stocks were largely due to profit taking.

Radio Drops

Radio Corporation of America slipped down 6 1/2 to 173 and General Motors fell off 5 3/4 to 185 1/4. Greene Cananea Copper was down 3 1/2 to 118, Studebaker off 2 1/2 to 74 1/4 and Westinghouse down 2 1/2 to 100.

The declines were general although some of them were slight. Even U. S. Steel was easier, selling at 142 1/2, a decline of 1 1/2 from last night's close.

Some Wall street traders regarded the drop in the market as evidence that the confidence of the public in prices could remain at their recent high level had been shaken. Orders to sell were numerous.

Candidates For First Lady

THE wife of one leading candidate for president—therefore herself a candidate for "First Lady of the Land"—has written a book on mining. Another has been accused of naming 10,000 Pullman cars, but pleads "Not guilty."

Beginning today The Herald will publish a series of articles by Allene Sumner, noted writer on women topics for The Herald and NEA Service, describing the wives of the leading presidential candidates in both parties. They present a new angle on many of our best-known political figures.

Lights In The Morse Code Aid French Night Flyers

Paris, May 22.—Illuminated signs for "aerial streets" are now in operation throughout France for night flyers. They are electrically lighted glass tubes built in the shape of dots and dashes, arranged as the Morse code spelling of the names of towns along the four commercial airplane routes—Paris-London; Paris-Brussels; Paris-Marseilles and Toulouse-Perpignan.

The Morse telegraphic code was employed to save space and insure visibility, as many of the towns have long names and must be further identified by adding the name of the province in which they are located.

Although installed primarily to guide passenger and mail traffic, the signs will be lighted up for any flyer on 24 hours notice. The use of the signs requires a night flying airman to learn the Morse code.

Aviators are being trained also in night flying by a Parisian school which utilizes a set of indicators perfected by Henry Farman. With these instruments, it is said, a plane can be kept on its course despite fog and darkness.

TSO-LIN ASKS JAPS TO HELP HIM FIGHT FOE

Northern Chinese War Lord Wants Aid in Checking Drive on Peking—Japanese Refuse the Request.

London, May 22.—Chang Tso-Lin, the Northern Chinese war lord, has unofficially approached the Japanese government with a proposal in which he intimated he would withdraw his troops to Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, if the Japanese would hold back his Nationalist foes in the drive toward Peking, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokio stated today.

The Japanese government refused to accept Chang's proposal, the dispatch added. The Japanese, it is reported, fear that a disorganized retreat of the Northern armies in Manchuria might result in a repetition of the Tsinan incident.

There are many Japanese in Manchuria and Japan is determined to see that none of its citizens are endangered. It is reported that all available Japanese troops in Manchuria are being concentrated at Mukden.

If fighting between the Nationalists and Northerners spreads northward to Manchuria, Japanese troops are ready to take strenuous measures to prevent looting. Troops will be dispatched to strategic points at the first outbreak.

May Check Drive

Meanwhile, according to reports from Peking emanating from Chang Tso-Lin's headquarters, there are indications that the southern drive upon Peking may be checked. Chang announced that his troops had recaptured Pingchow and had repulsed a Nationalist attack upon Hoken.

Although the United States does not wish to interfere in any way with Chinese affairs, both Chinese factions have been notified by John Van A. MacMurray, that American troops will be held in readiness to protect American citizens, if any should be endangered by the expected hostilities.

HURTS FOREIGN TRADE

Washington, May 22.—The Japanese invasion of northern China is affecting American foreign trade, a radiogram today to the Department of Commerce from Commerce Attaché Arnold at Peking, said.

"In North China," the message said, "all railway lines are hampered by military activities. The situation is generally depressive to trade and has led to the failure of several of the smaller Peking banks."

Exports to the United States in April totaled $3,940,000 compared with $4,500,000 from China in the corresponding month of 1927.

Manager of Late Sen. Willis' Campaign Says He Spent $41,000 in Campaign.

Washington, May 22.—Ohio's presidential campaign came under the Senate's presidential funds committee's spotlight today.

Carmel Thompson, manager of the late Senator Willis' campaign against Secretary of Commerce Hoover, testified $41,216 was expended on behalf of Willis.

Ex-Senator Alton Pomerene, Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, declared he spent but $100, which was used in Cleveland where a contest developed over one of his delegates.

Willis' Expenses

Thompson said only $14,117.63 was spent before Willis' death and that his organization stopped the fight after that. The expenditures made later, he explained, were for bills contracted before Willis died and for traveling expenses.

"Outside of traveling expenses, I can say that no contract was made to spend money after Senator Willis' death," said Thompson. "Some contracts, entered into and carried out before his death, were paid for afterwards."

Quotes Figures

Thompson said the Willis organization received $15,300 before Willis' death while $26,110 was received and $27,099.25 spent after his death.

Thompson filed a list of contributors, Beman G. Dawes, brother of the vice president, gave $7,500 while Thompson gave $6,800. J. W. Hopkins and T. Robinson of Chicago, each gave $5,000. So did Michael Gallagher, of Cleveland. L. M. Willis, a brother of the Senator, gave $1000.

Thompson revealed he made some personal contributions to county committees. In all, he said he gave "about $10,000."

Thompson explained that he accepted these "large contributions" only because "contributions fell off after Senator Willis' death."

Each one present was asked to recite a poem memorized in school days, or otherwise perform in keeping with such a program. The reward was some memento of the Sunny South, accumulated during Mrs. Thrasher's winter there. When the wrappings were removed there were tiny fans, painted with oranges, little orange trees for the men, and for favors at the dainty lunch, little china dishes in the form of an orange, with the handle formed of orange blossoms and filled with candy. AIR TRAVEL IN EUROPE NOW IS LOW AS BY RAIL

Cleveland.—Joseph Schaeffer, former local automobile engineer, now an airplane builder, recently returned from a three-months tour of England, France and Germany and Belgium, where he studied latest foreign developments in aviation. He states that increased numbers of commercial aircraft being built in Europe, especially in Germany, have lowered cost of air travel to where it compares with continental railroads. In the instance, Schaeffer declared, the cost of transportation from Leipzig to Berlin—about 200 miles—is only $4.50 with prices gradually being lowered as more aircraft is built. Frequent Service An average of fifty planes per day arrive on the Berlin flying field, Schaeffer said. "Sleeping accommodations are being put into use on longer trips of large passenger craft," Schaeffer continued. "Small planes used for transportation develop a speed of between 100 and 150 miles an hour. If they crash they escape with little damage but the bigger planes are sometimes damaged irreparably if forced down in a rough area."

PATRONS OF R. F. D. MAY LOSE SERVICE

Must Fix Up Mail Boxes or U. S. Will Put Ban on Deliveries.

As a result of unsatisfactory conditions revealed through the annual inspection of the rural free delivery route from the South Manchester Post Office by Postmaster Oliver F. Toop a few days ago...

In event such patrons fail to remedy the defects, upon notification by the postmaster, their names are forwarded to Washington and after review by the department, to insure correctness, service to them will be discontinued...

The purpose of Postmaster Toop's annual survey of rural delivery conditions is to see that patrons comply with the department's regulations and to keep the department in touch with the situation in general.

Herbert E. McCann is the rural delivery carrier. There are 365 boxes in his route, which he covers daily, serving 463 families and a total of 1,352 persons.

During the first fifteen days of May each year a count is kept of all pieces of mail delivered and collected on the route, with the number of money orders issued by the carriers, value of the postage on mail collected by the carrier, and value of all postage sold.

He collected 86 pieces of mail from patrons, issued 14 applications for money orders, and sold $10.35 worth of postage to patrons.

It will be seen by the above figures that the carrier, in order to give the patrons good service, is entitled to all the help and consideration that can be given him by the patrons on the routes, by correcting all defects in location of boxes, and conditions surrounding same.

TRANSFUSION

The fine old Adams house on Main street, near Woodland, for several years has been the object of many commiserations on the part of north end residents. People have felt, about that handsome property, unoccupied and lonesome looking, somewhat as they might about an entirely worthy human being of imposing presence who was very much out of luck and yet quite unapproachable with word or expression of sympathy. For ten years, or ever since it passed out of the hands of C. M. Ely, the mansion has been a sort of speculators' football, until now.

When north end citizens learned that the property had been bought by Edward J. Holl, they felt somewhat as if the hypothetical admirer but austere human being had been freed of his troubles and emerged from them with a rose behind his ear and a medal on his breast.

Whatever Mr. Holl does with that property, Manchester will feel assured that it will be something besides letting it stand idle, mournful and inviting the slow processes of disintegration. It is one of the distinguishing characteristics of that gentleman that his reality touch is revivifying, always, and we shall at least know that the Adams place's period of moribundity is over.

MILITARY TRAINING

It is no answer to the attitude of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference toward militarism to assert that the policy of the United States government in naval and army matters is none of the church's business. If a church has any business at all it certainly is to exert all its influence in the cause of peace and against the horrible waste of human life and human effort that is the inevitable corollary of war.

In the present instance we wish we could find ourselves as enthusiastic over the Conference's action with relation to military training camps as over its protest against further appropriations for the extension of the cruiser building program.

It has never seemed to us that there is historic or logical justification for opposition to military training on humanitarian grounds. It is very much to be doubted that in any single instance it can be pointed out that the training of citizens against the exigency of war has precipitated, or helped to precipitate, a war. Great standing armies, huge armaments, the existence of a caste of professional soldiers—these things, to be sure, are as dangerous as adders. No nation can support them without perpetual hazard of conflict. But the fitting of the workaday citizen for the defense of this country—that has never yet started the drum-call to an avoidable war.

There is no people on earth more universally trained for national defense than the Swiss. And it is imaginable that that tiny country could have preserved her integrity throughout all the fluxes and turbulences of the last hundred years if she had been specifically defenseless? Yet Switzerland alone, in that time, has been able to keep out of the wars of Europe.

To train America's young men in military science is to train them against war, not for it. Our colleges train toxicologists. For what? To spit forth and poison off their fellow men? By no means. Rather so that the race will not be poisoned accidentally, and so that accidental poisoning may be counteracted.

ing. They fell into a trap of their own making—because they had not been trained in the art of war. It is to provide against such needless sacrifices that America is teaching her young men something about the science of war. Not to make professional soldiers of them. There is all the difference in the world.

THE PALISADES

One of the astonishing things that are forever cropping up is the development of the fact that the famous Palisades of the Hudson were never, as a matter of fact, "saved." Every person who has ever sailed up or down the Hudson will remember, or will have heard, that in 1900 the Palisades were saved from utterly barbaric quarrymen, who were beginning to convert them into traprock, by the creation of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission. It was generally supposed that the legislation then adopted by the states of New York and New Jersey gave the commission actual control of the Palisades area. It now turns out that it did nothing of the kind but only safeguarded the face of the cliffs, and while it is no longer possible for vandal contractors to blast the Palisades out of existence, the crest is almost wholly private property and can be built on to the very edge.

Now that the new Hudson River bridge is about to become a reality it is being anticipated that there will presently be a row of skyscrapers for a dozen miles along the west bank of the Hudson, the effect of which, of course, will be sheer ruin to the scenic grandeur of the region.

So that the defenders of the Palisades still have a battle on their hands. They are starting a movement for the establishment of a bi-state parkway along the edge of the cliffs several hundred feet wide. It will cost millions and there will be a deal of opposition from the "practical" realty people on the Jersey shore. But if future generations have any pull with present day Legislatures the saviors will save the Palisades.

NEEDN'T WORRY

Sir Austen Chamberlain having replied to the Kellogg proposal for a treaty to outlaw war, and having incorporated in his reply a series of reservations calculated to arouse risibilities of Americans, a good part of the British press is worrying lest the reaction to the Chamberlain note among the people of this country be extremely unfavorable.

We doubt if these British newspapers would worry so much if they could possibly apprehend the state of mind of the people of this country toward these peace proposals. As a matter of fact probably not one-tenth of one per cent of the American people take the slightest interest in the treaties. There has never been any body of opinion for the treaties and there has never been any body of opinion against them. Very few people care a rap whether the pacts are accepted, with reservations, without reservations or at all.

Because there are extremely few people in the United States who have the slightest idea that such perfunctory agreements as these mean anything. Mr. Bryan made a terrible fuss about anti-war treaties and put over a whole flock of them. And none of them has ever amounted to anything. Three quarters of the signatories never even appointed the commissions which those compacts provided for.

It is fair to say that our relations with Britain as well as with France and the other potential signatories will be just as friendly, if they forget the Kellogg treaties before they agree to them, as if they agreed to them and then forgot them, as they surely would.

CRUELTY TO PUGS

The only "preventive" society which conceivably might exist, yet does not, would be a society for the prevention of cruelty to prize-fighters. Every athletic trainer knows that it needs a deal of experience and skill to bring an athlete to "weight" at a certain stipulated time without overtraining. It requires, in many cases, pretty nice calculation to have a boxer in exactly the right condition to weigh in at the class limit at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight and it is the aim of every skilled trainer to keep the athlete at that minimum weight for just the fewest possible hours. To require boxers to make the class weight several days in succession, as was done in the Mandell-McLarnin bout, is to impose an obligation on them which can hardly fall to have an injurious effect on the physique of the victims of the senseless demand.

We are not usually much concerned with the thumps and all-around abuse that a boxer gets from his antagonist, because they constitute the game itself and those who live by the punch must suffer from the punch. But a prize fighter is a human being, at least, and greedy matchmakers and promoters who impose such conditions as those of the Mandell-McLarnin bout deserve booting if nothing more.

THAT RIVER CHANNEL

Though the Rivers and Harbors bill appears to be doomed to go over to the short term of Congress next December, it has been announced that when it does come up for action it will contain a favorable recommendation for the proposed hundred foot channel, twelve feet deep, which will extend the existing channel of the Connecticut, at the same width and depth, all the way from Hartford to Holyoke. Provision will be made for adequate locks at the dam of the Northern Connecticut Power Co. at Windsor Locks.

Though this channel enterprise has been largely promoted by Massachusetts interests and Massachusetts Congressmen, it is of almost as much concern to Connecticut, since it is obvious that the more commerce is borne by the Connecticut the more importance the beautiful and economically important river will assume in the eyes of the government and of Congress.

We look to see, at no distant date, the people of Connecticut taking far more interest in this noble waterway than they have ever done in the past. That interest will come suddenly with the realization of the importance of cheap freights for bulk raw materials for Connecticut's factories.

New York, May 21—Manhattan's most successful beggar is a woman they call "the madonna." Possessed of a delicate oval face, the illusion is continued by means of a carefully draped black scarf which accentuates the olive pallor of the skin. It is well not to approach too close, for then the illusion is quickly shattered by the hardness of the mouth and the carefully affected drooping of the eyes.

Thus wrapped in garments that seek to imitate certain European paintings of the madonna she appears at subway entrances during the rush hour, carrying a child that is not her own—and not always the same child. But it works. Hundreds of scammers stop and stare and rub their eyes and quickly feel in their vest pockets for coins. She is said to have one of the largest incomes of any of the New York seekers of alms.

Over on the East Side, where Manhattan bridge sprawls into the edge of the pushcart belt, I met a beggar with a new and clever racket. Since his territory is one in which handouts are not likely to be large he finds that he can get along very well on shorter rations.

He approaches with his hand outstretched and displays three pennies lying in the palm. And his wall goes something like this: "Say, mister, can ya spare two cents? . . . Just two cents to make this a nickel so I can get street care fare over the bridge home. . . . Been on the bum all day and ain't got strength to walk a couple miles. . . . Just two cents."

And, after all, who can turn down an appeal for a couple of coppers? Slang changes from day to day to meet the requirements of the occasion. The speakasies and bootleggers have created an entire new dictionary.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By HODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, May 22.—And rather persistent means over the demise of justice a ray of hope appears that the corpse, if such it is, may be revived.

If justice has had its fallure there also have been successes in its administration and if successful methods were substituted for unsuccessful methods there ought to be more and better justice all around. So why not exchange information about the successes of justice among its administrators?

Anyway, that is the rather plausible theory upon which the United States Federation of Justice is being incorporated under the best of auspices. The federation will aim to be a clearing house of information on the best concrete practices now in use among judges, prosecuting attorneys, wardens, sheriffs and cops.

The federation is endorsed by Chief Justice Taft, Vice President Dawes and scores of judges, legislators, university presidents, probation officers, police chiefs and others concerned with justice and its administration. Its national preliminary committee includes Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Chicago municipal court, Franklin Holt of the New York juvenile court, Law L. Callaway of the Montana supreme court, John H. Dempsey of the Cleveland municipal court, Commissioner Sanford of the Massachusetts department of correction and 20 or 30 other persons of similar caliber.

For two years the work has been in process of organization by Ewing Cockrell, circuit court judge of Warrenton, Mo., and son of the Hon. Francis M. Cockrell, who was U. S. senator from Missouri for 30 years.

Committees of officials will receive reports of successful administration of justice and digest them. They will then issue reports and manuals designed to be the combined wisdom of officials over the country. They will outline the best fair and efficient justice, with suggestions how best to prevent crime and how to catch criminals, prosecute them, try them, sentence them, imprison them and watch them afterward.

One, however, among the minor methods which will be studied are those of catching and transporting prisoners with maximum safety. Each year there is a sizeable death toll of policemen and sheriffs who let murderous criminals get the best of them.

Members of the organizing committee refuse to make any public statement pending incorporation and decision as to immediate plans. One, however, discussed the movement anonymously—and cautiously. He pointed out that there were schools for lawyers, but none for judges, prosecutors, sheriffs, wardens and policemen.

For instance—the burly bouncers of the beer bars are called "fire-water extinguishers." To stage a merry cocktail party is to "make whoopee," an expression invented by one Walter Winchell. . . . A "two-faced person" is a "double record." . . . A newspaper man is a "Park rogue." . . . A very exclusive bar is a "whisper." . . . A very hectic and busy resort is a "sizzle." . . . A week-end cocktail party is an "alcoholoiday." . . . New arrivals are "be-ginners." . . . Places where the entertainment is particularly warm are "furnaces," and a delicatessen meal is an "ice box dinner." . . . And so it goes.

While the immediate sensation of the night life is a python used by a dancer at Tex Guinan's. It never fails to sober up the boys who have been visiting too many of the giddy places.

CHESTER CONKLIN AT STATE TOMORROW

Will Share Honors With Patsy Ruth Miller in Double Bill; "Legion of Condemned" Again Tonight.

Chester Conklin, hailed by many as the screen's outstanding comedian, plays the role of a subway guard who falls in front of a subway train and wakes up to find himself a hero, in "The Big Noise" his latest document of joy, which is one of two big film features scheduled for the State tomorrow only.

"The Big Noise," from the prolific pen of Ben Hecht, deals with the power of the press in connection with politics throughout the country and depicts to a remarkable degree the drama, pathos and humor that are present daily in the editorial rooms of a metropolitan newspaper.

Most of the hilarious scenes take place in the subway with Conklin again responsible for most of the guffaws and giggles. Sam Hardy, Alice White and David Torrence are seen in the big supporting cast.

Paired with the Conklin feature is "The Tragedy of Youth," a thrilling drama of human understanding. Patsy Ruth Miller is starred and is supported by Warner Baxter and Buster Collier.

In bold, dramatic strokes the picture unfolds an absorbing story of the lives of two modern youngsters, a boy and a girl, who while enjoying the hectic life of the city's cabarets, fall in love. While on their honeymoon the bride is introduced to a friend of the husband's and the two form an innocent friendship. The husband grows jealous, however, and situations begin to shape themselves in a way that makes this picture very entertaining. There is a reconciliation, another quarrel and then a very dramatic and unlooked-for climax.

Tonight affords Manchester film fans their final opportunity of seeing "The Legion of the Condemned," that marvelous epic of the air.

LINER SINKS AT PIER.

New York, May 22.—The Holland-American liner Veendam, one of the half score of ships which figured in Saturday's collisions around New York, was resting on an even keel on the bottom of the Hudson today, off her pier at the foot of Fifth street, Hoboken. The vessel sank when the fifteen feet of water in her hold swelled the cargo of grain and further opened the smashed plates in her side.

Special dredges and pontoons will be used in raising the ship, which will then be put in drydock. Her 500 passengers have been offered transportation to Europe on other ships of the line.

OPERA STAR VISITS

Vivenna, May 22.—Mme. Maria Jeritza, famous Austria opera singer and beauty, has quit the Vienna state opera and will never sing here again, she announced today. The trouble arose over a French decoration. When the intimation came from Paris that the French government intended to decorate Mme. When she got only a minor decoration known as "Officer of Public Instruction" she immediately blamed the director of the opera company and resigned.

OUR TREES

CYPRESS, MARK OF GRIEF

Mentioned more frequently in classical literature than any other one-bearing tree, the cypress was considered by the ancients a symbol of immortality. Its somber foliage was the badge of grief and the branches were used in strewing biers and graves.

The cypress is noted for longevity and in southeastern United States, where it grows in practically pure stands, the trees reach large size and great age.

Ranking eighth as a lumber-producing tree the cypress is one of the most important commercial trees in the United States. Especially noted for its durability, cypress is used extensively for the outside finish of buildings in such forms as siding, casing, sash, doors, blinds, steps and shingles. Cypress is the preferred material for tanks, vats, tubs and buckets and is one of the leading woods for greenhouse construction.

The southern cypress, frequently known simply as cypress, is also called bald cypress, red cypress, black cypress and white cypress. It grows naturally in deep swamps and on poorly drained soils.

The tree develops a wide-spreading conical base and in soft, wet soils, especially where water covers the ground for long periods, it has peculiar conical growths known as "knees" which extend up from the roots for several feet above the surface of the water.

The prospects for a continued supply of cypress depend largely on whether or not the swamp land where it grows naturally is reclaimed on an extensive scale by drainage. The best virgin stands today are in southern Louisiana and Florida.

In the early days of the south, especially in the French and Spanish settlements, houses generally were built entirely of cypress and old cypress houses, still standing and wonderfully preserved, are evidence of the durability of the wood.

INTRODUCING MRS. ALFRED E. SMITH---

Wife of New York Governor and Prospective First Lady of the Land Puts Children and Home Life Above All Else

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on the wives of presidential candidates by Alfred E. Smith, The Herald and NEA Service writer. Miss Sumner has spent much time visiting and interviewing prospective "First Ladies" and presents many facts in connection with them.

Here is latest photo of Mrs. Catherine Smith, wife of Governor Al Smith of New York, taken just the other day. Below, Mrs. Smith is seen with two of her grandchildren, Arthur Smith, Jr., and Walter.

By ALLENE SUMNER, Staff Writer for The Herald and NEA Service. Albany, N. Y., May 22.—If Governor Al Smith goes to the White House that's perfectly okay with Mrs. Governor Smith, but if "Alfred" doesn't land here the lady in the case doesn't "see any use in fussing around about it; it's meant that way, and as long as we have each other and the children we'll be happy any place."

Contentment and happiness in her home and family anywhere and anytime so permeates Mrs. Smith that she fairly radiates her contentment to all who meet her. McLarnin Was No Match For The Crafty Mandell

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Polo Grounds, New York, May 22.—The fact that once thru Tara's hall played lullaby music to willing and unwilling chins had a slightly sour twang this morning.

Jimmy McLarnin still wore the hump on his back as he stepped out of the ring last night after 15 rounds with Sammy Mandell but that was only what he had planned to do. Meanwhile taking a bow to left, right and center as the multitude blatted in unison. What the haddn' expected to wear was the "mouse" upon his tightly closed left eye or the vin rouge upon his upturned Irish nose, for this wasn't part of the act at all.

Neither was the fact that he saw occasion to take no bows as he went. In truth, he took nothing all evening, unless one wishes to include Mandell's inevitable left to the countenance and his occasional though authoritative right to the lobby or foyer.

rounds, instead of fifteen. As it was, McLarnin's only chance then was to fling right and left hands at the profile and never stop. Of course, it is none of my business that he never started but I nevertheless reserve the right not to like the performance.

It might be pointed out that McLarnin couldn't reach Mandell's head and I will agree with this contention to the extent of saying that nobody can reach another man's head without trying.

However, the fact of the matter was that McLarnin apparently didn't know enough to beat Mandell the worst night the latter knew. And last night was one of his best.

He slipped inside the right punch that leveled Terris and absorbed it innocuously with shoulder and elbow. He whipped his left hand into Jimmy's face without surcease, absolutely the worst thing to be without. And when he felt the urge, he crossed a right that had James' knees in a drooping condition in more than one of the late rounds.

That was the fight, as it happened to be fought. McLarnin tried but he never found the combination, which is not to his discredit. He tried to open it with the wrong key, which is.

He carried on the ring, in addition to the harp, the mouse and the vin rouge, one distinct attribute. He "made" the fight with his rushing and leading. But, as to that, his pushing got him nothing but a punch on the nose and his leading got him the exercise.

I am becoming a bit weary of these kids who "make" fights. Tunney doesn't make them, either. He wins them.

EVEN WITH TWO CHAMPS COACH HAS NO HOPE

By DAN THOMAS
Los Angeles, May 22.—Even with two of the greatest college athletes in the country, the University of Southern California does not expect to do better than the probable fourth in the eastern intercollegiate track and field championships at Harvard.

"There is not a chance that we will win the meet this year," Cromwell said when he left for the east with his little band of eight men. "I expect them to score about twenty points for a probable fourth place. Charley Borah is a sure bet for ten points in the sprints and I think Lee Barnes will win the pole vault. The other six boys ought to bring in at least five points."

Even if Southern California does not win the title the team will present two of the most celebrated athletes in the country and two of the prospective Olympic point winners in Lee Barnes, the world's record holding pole vaulter and Borah, regarded by many experts as the fastest sprinter in the world.

CLOSE AND ONE-SIDED GAMES START LEAGUE

Green and Soap Makers Look Most Impressive; Former Beats Heights 11-2; North Ends Nose Out Talcottville; Highland Park Pushed Hard.

The Community club twilight baseball league got away to a flying start last evening, all eight teams swinging into action. Two of the contests were decided by one run margins while other pairs were one-sided.

The Bon Ami and Manchester Green teams looked the most impressive of the field, not so much because of the large scores they compiled as of the talented players in their lineups. However, some surprises are doubtless in store for Manchester fans who follow the teams.

After a poor start, the Bon Ami pounded the Firemen hard and won 19 to 5. Manchester Green scored nine runs in one inning and beat the Heights 11 to 2. The North Ends surprised by turning back Talcottville 7 to 6 and the Depot Square outfit gave Highland Park a scare, losing 6 to 5. The league resumes play Thursday night.

The pairings were announced today as follows:
Bon Ami at Manchester Green.
Heights vs Depot Square at Hickey's.

Highland Park vs Firemen at Playgrounds.
North Ends at Talcottville.

Highland Park won its opening game from the Depot Square combination by virtue of an early lead. The boys from over in God's Country made a strong showing in their attempt to get one run short of tying the score.

The hilltop boys took a five run lead in the first three innings but the Depot Square combine tied the score in the sixth. From then on, it was anybody's game and the boys from the lofty section succeeded in pushing the winning run across the plate in the sixth inning. C. Dougan and Macdonald hit well. The box score:

NORTH ENDS SURPRISE
One of the best games of the evening was between the North Ends and Talcottville, the former winning 7 to 6 after an extra inning had been played. Charlie Varrick was the winning pitcher. He struck out nine batters and scored three runs, including the winning tally.

The Talcottville outfit opened up strong scoring four runs in the first inning. This lead was evened by the North Ends with a similar rally in the third frame. From then on, it was nip and tuck, Talcottville tied the score in the sixth inning but the North Ends won out in the eighth.

Lott Known Well by 2 Local Men

Two Manchester sport followers in particular were quite interested when they read in The Herald last night that George M. Lott, Jr., America's third ranking tennis player, was going to write a series of fifty articles dealing with the fine points of that great sport. They are Herbert Flavell and Frank D'Amico.

Both Flavell and D'Amico met young Lott in the sunny south at Ormond Beach two winters ago and grew to be personal friends of his. They have chummed around with Lott and are staunch supporters of his ability to play tennis. Flavell said last night that they were both present when Georgia, as he calls him, won his greatest of all battles, beating Tilden to win the Florida championship. Herb said Lott was about the happiest person in the world when he performed this feat.

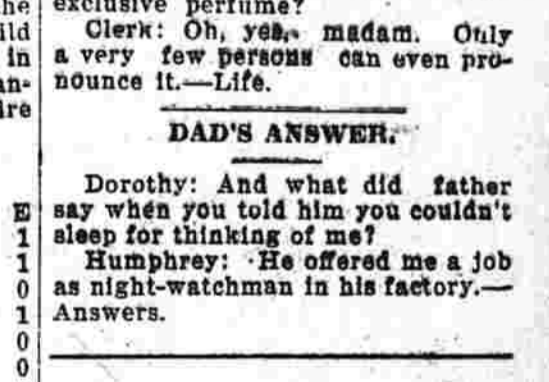

Lott ranked fifth in 1924 and 1926 and third this year, has won, among others, the following tennis championships:
New Junior, 1924-25.
Chicago City, 1923-27, inclusive.
Ohio State, 1923-24.
Chicago Junior, 1923-25, inclusive.

Tri-State, 1924-24-26.
Michigan State, 1924.
South Atlantic, 1925-26.
Carolina, 1928.
Florida, 1927 (beat Tilden).
North and South, 1928.
Mason-Dixon, 1927-28 (beat Hunter 1928).

New England, 1927.
Western, 1927 (beat Hennessey).

Clery: Oh, yes, madam. Only a very few persons can even pronounce it.—Life.

Humphrey: He offered me a job as night-watchman in his factory.—Answers.

Manchester High will open the second half of its baseball league schedule tomorrow afternoon at the West Side Playground when it meets Meriden High. Manchester at the north end playgrounds Friday night. Sunday's game is not yet certain. It will, however, be played at home. There will be a practice session for Community players tomorrow night at the playgrounds.

There will be two baseball games in the Community Junior league tonight. The Oaks and the Hilliard street nine will mingle at the playgrounds while at Hickey's there will be a clash between the Cardinals and Woodland street outfits.

Arthur Woodbridge, well known Manchester Green business man, has loaned the "Moon" Erickson's Falcon Knights a tract of his land for use as a baseball field. This is being gotten into shape for the game Thursday night with Bon Ami at a meeting last night. Sam Prentice was elected manager of the Green team, Jack Hayden named captain and Robert Boyce, secretary and treasurer.

The State Trade school baseball team plays at Simsbury this afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon, the Trade track and field team goes to Simsbury. Rockville high plays the Trade school in baseball at Mt. Nebo Friday afternoon.

The Heights will play at Wilson Sunday against the Firemen of that place. Borst and Schiebenpluff will re the local battery. The players will leave from Reizer's store at 12:30.

The East Side Playground baseball team, managed by Jimmy Hapenny, will meet the Victors at Mt. Nebo Saturday afternoon.

The Washington School baseball team which has won all of its seven games would like to meet any sixth grade teams in town. They have beaten Miss Adam's Room 16-8, South School, 19-3, 12-11, Parochial School, 12-5, 11-0, Mrs. De Wolf's Seventh Graders, 16-12 and a team picked from Miss Adam's and Miss Nymann's rooms, 13-8. Their lineup is: Heres, s; Smith, 1b; Neubauer, p; Rautenbemb, 3b; Rowe, c; Fracchia, 2b; Gordon, cf; Chambers, lf; Taggart, rf.

TENNIS TALKS

Tennis Changed Slightly Since Game Was Started

BY GEORGE M. LOTT, JR., America's Third Ranking Player.

LITTLE more than fifty years ago the game of lawn tennis was standardized and became as we know it now. Today the net heights are the same as in the days of old—the rules differ only slightly, and there is no call for a change, nor is there likely to be in the near future.

The only possible change in the rules is having the "net cord" apply to all shots as well as the service. This idea, however, has received very little backing and there is little chance of the rule being changed.

This is truly remarkable and is due mostly to the wisdom and foresight of the men who originated the game. Tennis is unlike other sports in this respect. Football, basketball, baseball, golf and hockey, all have suffered changes in the past years. The skill with which tennis is played has increased enormously and the balls and rackets have improved along with it, yet there is no call for a change in the rules.

The vogue of the game has increased beyond the wildest dreams of the originators. It is played all over the world by every race and in every climate. Players just learning the game accept it as it is. None seek to change it. That is because tennis is a game for the whole world, giving pleasure to millions and at the same time improving them mentally as well as physically.

Tennis always will stand as it is now because the men who founded the game built the foundation on a rock that will stand the test of time.

TOMORROW: Lott talks of good form for players.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
 Miss Eleanor Rogers yesterday resumed her duties as secretary to Principal Quimby after an absence of several weeks.
 Several new developments have necessitated changes in the tennis elimination contests now being conducted. The first of these is the decision of Louis Farr captain-elect to abandon tennis in favor of baseball which brings about a condition similar to that when Ty Holland left the tennis captaincy to play baseball. By the dropping out of Farr, McCann advances to the second round and will meet the winner of the newly arranged Goodwin-Cluskey match. By defeating Gatti yesterday in the best match of the elimination, Smith advances to the semi-finals. The scores of the Gatti-Smith match were 6-3, 7-9, 6-2. Gatti's defeat probably means that Smith will take Gatti's place as number two man on the team. The Yulyses Carlson match was again postponed on account of wet courts.
 Although it is rather late in the year to elect officers, the debating club had its first opportunity to do so yesterday and the following officers were chosen: president, Emma Strickland; vice-president, Carl Cuddey; secretary, Marian Hills; treasurer, Jacob Rubinov.
 Next Monday at Bristol Everett Gienney and Eleanor Dwyer will debate on "Installation Buying" and the following Thursday, at the assembly, Marian Hills and Julia Shaw will debate Middletown on "Advertising." The following week, Carl Cuddey and Sylvia Hagedorn will debate at Weaver High on the same topic.
 Due to the fact that the track at New Britain was under two or three inches of water the meet there last Saturday was postponed. Plans are now under way to hold the meet there next Monday, but up to date no definite arrangements have been made.

CHENEY WORKER IS PAINFULLY SCALDED
Ernest Crawshaw Injured When He Slips and Spills Cleaning Mixture.
 Ernest Crawshaw of 113 Maple street met with a painful accident Saturday noon while at his employment in Cheney Brothers' mills. Mr. Crawshaw, who works in the print department was heating a water, soap and soda combination preparatory to washing the machines, as is the custom every Saturday upon finishing the week's work. He slipped and fell and some of the mixture splashed over him. His shirt sleeves were rolled up at the time and his left arm was badly scalded from the shoulder to the wrist.
 He was hurried to the medical department quarters where he was treated by Dr. Robert P. Knapp, head of the department. Mr. Crawshaw's arm was put in a sling and he will be out of work for at least a week.

ASSESSORS TO MAKE USE OF AERO MAPS
 In the work to be done by the Board of Assessors this fall the aero maps that were taken as part of the general appraisal scheme, but which have never been used, it is now expected, be put into use. This will make possible the measurement of much of the farm land right in the office. The method has been used in East Hartford, where there is much tobacco land, and successful results have been obtained.

ASKS ADMINISTRATOR PROFITS ON TOBACCO
Big Grower Predicts Largest Crop at Best Prices in Years Hereabouts.
 The best and more profitable crop of tobacco that has been raised by the tobacco growers in this section for this season of Arthur Manning, one of the largest growers and packers of tobacco in this section.
 Tobacco, he said is a little behind because of the cold weather, but it will come through and blossom on time and when harvested it will bring a much higher price than in years past, because of a general shortage.
 Application was made today to Judge of Probate William S. Hyde for a hearing on Saturday on the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Frank Beccio, who died as a result of a collision between an automobile driven by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Risley and a dumpcar which Beccio was driving and from which he fell.
 There are ten persons in the family, seven of the nine children minors. There is a house on North Street in which there is a small equity and in order to support the children and herself it is the desire of the widow to sell the property.
 Louis Polo, who employed Beccio, carried compensation insurance which will help out, but Mrs. Beccio asks to be relieved of the burden of keeping up payments on their home.

It's easy to COOK at HOME in letter golf. Par is four easy strokes. You'll find one solution on another page.

Letter golf grid with words HOME and COOK.

THE RULES 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY NAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

"Come on," yelled Copsy, with a grin. "No loafing now. We'll all turn in and soon we'll have this lumber stacked along the water's shore. We will not stop until we're through. At first there was a lot to do, but we have finished part of it, and there is not much more." "You're doing fine," the woodsman said. He placed a plank upon his head and shouted, "Watch me carry this. I'll bet it will not fall." The Tinymites thought him very strong, and watched him slowly walk along. He reached the shore and shouted, "See, it wasn't hard at all." The same thing Clowny thought he'd try, but couldn't lift a board that high. The woodsman laughed and watched him. Then he broke out in a smile. "I guess that you're too small," said he. "Of course, if you were big, like me, it's likely you could do it. You may grow up, after while." Just then they heard a weak voice cry. "Hello, there Mister Woodsman, I have something here that you will like. It really is a treat." A pretty girl came toward the bunch. The woodsman said, "Ah, that's my lunch." And, sure enough, the little girl had brought some food to eat. "We'll have a banquet now," he cried. She set a basket by his side and asked, "Who are your little friends? I'd like to meet them all." "Why, they are little Tinymites, and they are here to see the sights," the woodsman said. When Clowny bowed, he almost took a fall. They soon decided they would eat upon a tree trunk, sawed off neat. The food was shortly spread out and the bunch sat down to dine. Nice sandwiches and bits of meat, and cake with frosting, oh, so sweet, were taken from the basket. Scouty shouted, "This is fine!" (The Tinymites start building something in the next story.)

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" GASOLINE AND FOOD

What has gasoline got to do with food? Quite a lot. Gasoline mixes into the food situation most beneficently, though it would mix with food just terribly.

It gets beneficently into the food situation solely, but very importantly, in the matter of deliveries. The motorized age has put the food shop, wherever it may be, as good as next door to the home of the customer, wherever that may be.

Two delivery trucks from Pinehurst are scooting all over town all the time—three often, when there's a press of deliveries. And they don't spend all their time circulating around a few neighborhood blocks either. Not noticeably.

Pinehurst deliveries go to Buckland, Manchester Green, Lake View down by the Country Club, out Woodbridge street—ever corner of the town and its outskirts.

The phone and the gas wagon, they cut a lot of figure in this business. They enlarge its scope tremendously—spread it out and make it a general, instead of a neighborhood institution.

They help to get the food to the customer pronto, while everything is as fresh as it came from the farm or the ice.

So you see gasoline has something to do with food.
