RECORD CROWD AT MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Perfect Weather Brings Out Throng to Watch Parade and Services—Rev. Geo. S. Brookes, the Speaker.

Perfect Memorial Day weather produced the largest crowd in many years to attend exercises and watch the annual parade in honor of Civil War veterans held here yesterday.

The spirit carried to the organizations in line, too, and the parade, as a result, was bigger and more impressive than ever before.

The exercises in Cheney hall opened at two o'clock with invited guests, the Grand Army veterans, committee members and others.

Rev. George S. Brookes

Rev. George S. Brookes, the speaker at the Memorial Day exercises, presided over the services at Cheney hall.

Another Memorial Day is here, and the sacred memories which have clustered around it for sixty years still abide with us.

What a debt we owe to the past! Our inheritance is a noble one. The lines have fallen unto us in pleasant places, and we have a goodly heritage.

Monuments the Witnesses Standing in profound silence all over the land, in town and city and cemetery, are many monuments.

It was perfectly natural, therefore, when on April 12, 1861, the National Flag was fired on, that the bombardment of Fort Sumter, that the Federal Government should be wholly unprepared to meet the situation.

FIRST PHOTOS—THE ITALIA AT SPITZBERGEN

This extraordinary NEA Service photograph shows General Umberto Nobile's airship Italia moored at the King's Bay, Spitzbergen, base from which it sailed toward the North Pole recently, perhaps never to be heard of again.

CONGRESS TO HOLD PROBES ALL SUMMER

To Conduct Series of Investigations of Various Matters—To Report in December.

Washington, May 31.—An all-summer series of Congressional investigations was in prospect today despite the adjournment of Congress.

Presidential campaign expenditures, government oil leases in the Salt Creek fields, the S-4 submarine disaster, Senatorial election contests, cotton market condition, military and naval affairs and activities of Herbert Hoover as food administrator during the war were among the subjects to be investigated this summer by Congressional committees.

STUDENTS IN RIOT FIGHT CITY'S COPS

Wild Times in New Haven Tuesday and Yesterday; Five Are Arrested.

New Haven, Conn., May 31.—Five Yale men will be presented in Police Court here on Saturday morning to answer a charge of general breach of the peace as a result of a student outbreak Tuesday night and Wednesday morning when considerable property damage was done to public and private buildings and the city police force compelled to use clubs freely in getting the students back to the dormitories.

Until the court has acted officials of Yale college will say nothing of the affair. Dean Clarence W. Mendell, head of the college, has listed the names of the chief offenders including several students who were able to avoid arrest.

Regular Airship Service To London In 18 Months

London, May 31.—The prediction that the formal inauguration of a regular airship service for passengers and mails across the Atlantic will take place within 18 months was made here today by Commander Charles Burney, M. P., who recently visited the United States.

It is Commander Burney's intention to carry out experimental flights with the R-100, the dirigible now nearing completion here, and, if all proves satisfactory, to enter immediate orders for a fleet of similar vessels to operate in the trans-oceanic service.

FOUR NATIONS COMBINE TO SEARCH FOR ITALIA

Great Britain Builds A New Fighting Plane

London, May 31.—Another step towards realization of Great Britain's hopes for world supremacy in the air has been achieved by British aeronautical experts in the form of a new fighting airplane, it was learned today.

Sweden, Norway, Russia and Italy Unite in Quest For Ill-Fated Expedition—Report of Wireless Message From Manila is Denied in Moscow—Violent Gales Raging Over the Arctic.

Four nations are now joined in the search for General Umberto Nobile, Italian Polar explorer, and his 17 companions, but the hunt is still in its preliminary stages, owing to violent gales of snow and wind over the Arctic.

More than six days have passed since the frozen north swallowed up the exploration balloon Italia and its brave crew. Their fate is a secret locked up in the snow and ice of the drifting wastes.

A report from Manila that the Vladivostok wireless station had received a fragmentary message from the Italia was denied in Moscow.

With the ice breaker Hobby en route for King's Bay with a relief crew aboard, another ship will leave Bergen tomorrow morning for the same destination bearing Hjalmar Risler-Larsen, a Norwegian Polar explorer, who will aid in the search.

While a Russian ice breaker is reported pounding her way through the floes off Archangel with a seaplane on board, the Italian supply ship Citta di Milano is at King's Bay being prepared for another attempt to battle her way northward through storm and ice in an effort to find the missing explorers.

Before leaving London in the straits between Danish Island and the northern coast of Spitzbergen, a search party was landed, which is now treading its way painfully through the snow and ice of the northern coast of Spitzbergen in an effort to get some trace of the missing expedition's balloon Italia.

The ice breaker Braganza, chartered by the Italian government, was due at Green Harbor this afternoon. The Citta di Milano also was to go to Green Harbor for coal.

Manila, P. I., May 31.—Nobile, we heard your transmitter on about thirty metres. Please go ahead. This message, intercepted by the Coast Artillery wireless station here, revived faint hopes today that General Nobile and the crew of the dirigible Italia are safe. It call letters indicated that it came from station AP-3-BQ, Valdivia, Chile.

The horrors of death in many forms. We in this generation cannot afford to forget that protracted struggle in the background stood that old relic of paganism, slavery. Eighty years before that time, the heroes of the Revolution had made the supreme sacrifice in order that liberty might be proclaimed throughout the land. But first slavery was not abolished. All men were not free upon the soil. The bondman was still in chains. The Declaration of Independence was not for him, and the Constitution was only for his Master.

Slavery vs. Liberty. The South came to the conflict offering upon its altars the lives of enslaved millions, the products of its servitude, and the fruits of secession. It lighted its fires with the coals of sectional hatred. The North came with the products of free labor, and lighted its altar fires with the torch of liberty. It came with the offering of free education for all, with equal privileges under the law, and with that powerful weapon of the free man—a free ballot.

The cost was great. But when we think of the numerous battles and their losses, when we remember the fearful exposures and the horrible prison pens, we marvel that any of the Federal Army lived to return to their Northern homes. Yet many of them did, and even today a few of them remain, though their shadow is pathetically diminishing. The names of many of the 280,000 who perished on the Union side in that war will never be known. In Arlington Cemetery alone there lie 21,000 of the unknown dead, and other thousands of nameless heroes sleep in Southern graves.

Almost Gone. That was a dark period in our history. Times there were when the Union soldiers had to fight with their backs to the wall—times when the very existence of the Republic hung in the balance. The "London Times" a leading English newspaper then and now had this announcement: "The Great Republic has gone." The ship of state was tossed on angry seas. Would every star in the old flag fade out in the blackness of the night? Many a soldier on the battlefield fell with that question unanswered. Could they have seen the ultimate triumph it would have lighted up for them the pathway to the tomb.

CHANGE YOUR OIL

Use Marland Super Motor Oil Campbell's Filling Station Phone 1551

Thank God, comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic have lived to see that triumph. They have lived to see the passing away of many bitter animosities. They have lived to see the North and the South clasping hands in tokens of friendship and brotherly love. They have lived to see the results of that war in a greater humanity, a purer patriotism, and a more profound reverence for our national institutions.

I have read that in Libby Prison there are still to be seen two bullets, which met in mid-air over the battle field of Petersburg. One is a Union bullet, the other a Confederate. In the shock of battle these two bullets met, and such was the heat and impact of the collision they were welded into one leader star. Beautiful symbol is this, it seems to me, of that glorious union which now exists between the North and the South, welded by the impact of that awful collision, which cost so great a sacrifice.

Memorials of Love. With these remembrances we come today with our memorials of love. We come in the Springtime, when the flowers are appearing in their resurrection garb; we come when the birds, after their winter's silence are tuning in with the infinite, for their melody of song; when the world is bright with renewed life, we come, remembering with gratitude the sacrifices of all our soldiers. We include in our tribute today all Spanish war veterans, forgetting not their splendid services. We are mindful also of those who served in the South. We include in our tribute today all Spanish war veterans, forgetting not their splendid services. We are mindful also of those who served in the South.

Walter Scott describes Old Mortality as going through the cemetery of the numerous battles, and their losses, when we remember the fearful exposures and the horrible prison pens, we marvel that any of the Federal Army lived to return to their Northern homes. Yet many of them did, and even today a few of them remain, though their shadow is pathetically diminishing. The names of many of the 280,000 who perished on the Union side in that war will never be known. In Arlington Cemetery alone there lie 21,000 of the unknown dead, and other thousands of nameless heroes sleep in Southern graves.

How best may we honor the memory of all our brave? Shall we simply weave our tributes into floral wreaths? Shall we merely decorate the graves as a tender expression of our love? Shall we erect monuments only to perpetuate their memory? All these deeds are worthy and beautiful, but they are not sufficient. We shall best of all honor our beloved dead by fulfilling the obligations that are ours today.

We must exercise an intelligent citizenship. It is our duty not only to know something of the history of our country, but increasingly to interest ourselves in its policies and progress. We must teach America to our children, and we must in turn receive the spirit of America to the world. We must have respect for law. If ever there was a time when it was necessary to defend law and order, it is at the present time. It we love our country, we shall support the constitution, obey its laws, respect the flag, and defend it against all enemies. We must promote mutual understanding. We are living in a day of momentous issues. There are delicate, difficult questions to be solved. There are those who would scatter seeds of discord and foster racial prejudices, but the best leaders of America are trying to find

HOP OVER PACIFIC IS STARTED TODAY

Big Plane on First Lap of Proposed Flight to Australia.

Municipal Airport, Oakland, Calif., May 31.—On the first lap of an attempt to link the continents of North America and Australia by the giant silver winged monoplane Southern Cross with four men aboard hopped off today for Honolulu.

Under perfect weather conditions, the take off was made at 6:49 a. m. Difficulty in getting altitude was apparent in the take off. For a mile the big monoplane skimmed over the airport at an elevation of about 15 feet. Spectators feared a crash but at 7,000 foot mark the Southern Cross lifted and rapidly gained safe flying height.

Those Aboard. The powerful plane was piloted on the take off by Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian war ace, and carried Charles T. P. Ulm, flight manager and relief pilot, Captain Harry Lyons, navigator, and James W. Warner, radio man. They will be guided over the Pacific from Oakland to Hawaii by the Army's radio beacon at Crissy field, which led the Army fliers in their historic flight and Arthur Goebel in the race.

From Honolulu the fliers will essay a flight of 3,138 miles to Suva, Fiji Islands, the longest hop over a single expanse of water ever attempted in the history of aviation. From Suva it is planned to fly to Brisbane, thence to Sydney.

Band Excites Comment. Following the C. N. G. companies were Boy Scouts, Girls Scouts and then the South Manchester High School band in their brand new red and white uniforms. The band used considerable favorable comment along the line of march. The Salvation Army girls followed and after them the school children with the "Spirit of '76" in their midst. The Silk City band led the American Legion and other World War veterans and the parade was headed up by the Grand Army veterans, Spanish War veterans and other military organizations.

The parade marched up East Center street and countered back to the Center where memorial exercises were held. The Salvation Army band and the High school band played selections and prayers were said by Rev. William P. Reidy. Then Commander Lucius Pinney of Drake Post, G. A. R., conducted the memorial service for that post assisted by Rev. Charles E. Baker of Stafford as chaplain. Jared Pearl recited a memorial to his dead comrades as he placed a wreath against the monument.

The Spanish War Veterans memorial was conducted by Commander Arthur Keating assisted by Chaplain Seth Leslie Cheney. The congregation sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and Marshall McDonnell read the names of the heroes who had passed on during the year. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Reidy and Harold Turkington sounded Taps. The echo was sounded by Ronald Hickman. Company G. Firing squad fired a salute and the exercises were concluded. Cemeteries Decorated. Cemeteries throughout the town were trim and beautiful yesterday as thousands visited the graves of their loved ones. The weather bright morning was in sharp contrast to the cold, wet weather of the week preceding and it drew crowds of people to the town's burial grounds.

Police here reported that both pedestrian and auto traffic broke all records here yesterday and the local officers were being congratulated today that the crowds were handled easily with no accidents of any kind reported to the department headquarters.

STATE POLICE RAID DANBURY CRAP GAME

Arrest Owners and 21 Players; All Are Held For Further Trial.

Danbury, Conn., May 31.—Nine state troopers under Sergeant Kelly, of the Ridgefield barracks, walked into a gaming room at Main and White streets this morning, and carried twenty-three prisoners to police headquarters. John Gallagher and Charles Ahern were arrested as proprietors of a gaming house, and twenty-one others had charges against them. The principals were released in ball of $300 each and the frequenters in ball of twenty dollars each.

STEWART ON STAND

Washington, May 31.—Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil of Indiana, went on trial in the District of Columbia Supreme court today for contempt of the Senate for refusing to tell about his part in the famous Continental Trading Company $3,080,000 deal.

Secretary Mellon for refinancing operations June 15, which will involve the retirement of about $400,000,000 treasury certificates and possibly a block of the third Liberty bonds, of which $1,328,000,000 are outstanding. This issue matures September 15. Mellon has not indicated whether it will be cut down prior to the maturity date. Officials are examining the market for government securities before taking action for the June 15 financing.

ROBS OWN STORE

Waterbury, Conn., May 31.—William Hood, 32, manager of a chain store here who was arrested after his store was found burglarized on Sunday, today pleaded guilty to theft and went on probation for six months after a Police Court hearing. Hood was to have been transferred to Norfolk, Va., by his firm last Monday. He declared he was attracted by the attempt to tow the big auto from the river. Harvey Williams, passing by, broke in the door of the car and got the occupants out before the machine settled in the river.

REPORT DENIED

Moscow, May 31.—A report from Manila that the radio station at Vladivostok had picked up a wireless call from the Italia was denied today by the president of the Radio Friends Association. This association is co-ordinating and directing the efforts of the naval and amateur radio stations to locate the missing Italia and its crew of explorers.

HOLD TAXI DRIVER AS GIRL MURDERER

Charles Hoppe Confesses He Was Drunk—No Reason For Killing.

Toledo, O., May 31.—Charles Joseph Hoppe, 26-year-old taxi driver, was examined today when arrested on a charge of having slain 7-year-old Dorothy Sielagowski and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. He was held to await the action of a special Grand Jury.

According to his signed statement reported by police, he had become intoxicated with liquor obtained at the wedding of a neighbor and was unable to assign any reason for the killing. Recollections of the slaying were vague, his statement said. Police said they attached suspicion to Hoppe because he and his wife formerly roomed at the home of Alex Sielagowski, father of Dorothy, and because his description tallied with the data gathered of a "man in black with a missing front tooth."

radius; and more local teachers are in the employ now. Once Part of Church. Teachers' Hall has been used for its present purpose for nearly forty years. It was originally built by Rev. Taylor. The front part of the structure previously was the part of an old church that stood in Buckingham. At first, the building was used as a combination boarding house and hotel. Many years later, October 19, 1869, it was purchased by Cheney Brothers and finally turned into a boarding house for teachers. It was first known as East Boarding House and later as Wayside Inn.

Additional alterations have been made on the building until it now is easily the longest building of its kind in Manchester. For many years, it was used by the West Virginia District free of charge. Cheney Brothers even paid for the annual repair work that became necessary through the season's use. In 1919 the district took complete charge of the building and paid a reasonable rental. Mrs. Olive G. Hayward has been matron at Teachers' Hall for many years.

RABBIT CLUB MEMBERS DRAWING UP BY-LAWS

Rolls to Remain Open For Those Who Intend to Go Into the Bunny Breeding Business.

The membership roll is still open for those who wish to join the Manchester Rabbit Club, with a provision that they intend to remain as members, even though they have no rabbits at present. If they are willing to engage in the rabbit raising business, later they may become affiliates now.

This was discussed and accepted last night as one section of the by-laws which are being drawn up. From the by-laws it appears that one of the features will be the office of registrar. It will be his duty to record the arrival into this world of all the rabbits, belonging to club members. Cards are to be mailed to him each week and they will be tabulated as one section of the by-laws which are being drawn up.

ROB 200 GUESTS; $200,000 IN LOOT

Ten Bandits Raid Exclusive Country Club in Indiana; Use Machine Guns.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—Ten masked bandits early today held up the Roadroom Country Club and robbed 200 guests of jewelry and currency valued at between $150,000 and $200,000. The victims were prominent citizens of Indianapolis and their out-of-town guests, here to attend the automobile race. The holiday festivities at the exclusive club were in full swing when the bandits trooped in like a squad of well-trained soldiers.

They were equipped with sub-machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and revolvers. The guests were ordered to line up against the wall. When a few of the men objected a volley of shots roared over their heads and they quickly fell in line. Lined Along Walls. With the fashionably-gowned women and men in evening clothes lined along two sides of the spacious ballroom, the bandit leader asked for their attention and gave the following orders: "Drop your money and jewels in the canvas bag that will be passed down the line."

While nine of the bandits stood menacingly with firearms leveled, the tenth bandit went down the line with the canvas bag and took up the "collection." Here and there a woman fainted, but nothing was allowed to interfere with the orderly progress of the robbery. Some of the victims tried to save their "rolls" and jewels by dropping them behind their backs. Nearly all were detected and cautioned that it was dangerous to attempt to hold out. With the collection completed, the men filed out in military manner, leaped into a large maroon-colored sedan and disappeared in the darkness.

into the Iowa primary was under consideration, while a subcommittee may visit California in July.

The House's presidential campaign fund committee meanwhile will be sitting in reserve, waiting to launch an investigation if conditions require it. Incidentally, if the committee does operate, it will be the first time the House has undertaken an investigation into national politics. Heretofore, it has left such work to the Senate.

The Senate Teapot Dome committee already has started an inquiry into the leasing of the government's Salt Creek fields in Wyoming, said to be the richest oil deposit in the world. This inquiry will be continued throughout the summer, with the committee hoping to file a report next December.

Election Contests Two Senatorial election contests will be carried on during the summer. The Senate election committee will continue its inquiry into the fraud charges brought against Senator-Elect William S. Vare (R) of Pennsylvania, by William B. Wilson, his defeated Democratic opponent in the 1926 election.

The Senate inquiry into the S-4 disaster will be turned into an investigation of safety devices for submarines. Two plans for rescuing the imprisoned crews of disabled submarines will be inspected by the Senate naval affairs committee during the recess. One plan involves a huge helmet which members of the crew would don and then, being released from the submarine, would attempt to reach the surface.

The other involves a giant "elevator" which would be dropped from the surface, fastened to the hull of the submarine and brought up again, after members of the crew had entered it.

The Senate agriculture committee will continue its probe meanwhile into commodity price conditions and especially the cause of the market deflation period of 1927. A subcommittee has planned a visit to cotton exchanges during the summer, in the hope of preparing remedial legislation for submission to the next Congress.

The Hoover inquiry will be conducted by the Senate campaign fund committee under a resolution introduced by Senator Blease (D) of South Carolina. Blease charged that Hoover, as food administrator, purchased sugar in Cuba and Porto Rico during the war at 5 1/2 cents a pound and held it off the home market at a time when the American people were paying 28 cents a pound for sugar.

Federal prison conditions will be investigated by a House committee. Members of the Naval Affairs committee both of House and Senate will investigate Army and Navy matters during the summer.

28 PERSONS TRAPPED IN A BIG AUTO BUS

Car Crashes Through Guard Rail Into Lake—None of the Passengers Injured.

Hammonton, N. J., May 31.—Miraculously saved from drowning, 28 persons were in hospitals today recovering from minor injuries received when an auto bus plunged off the White Horse pike here into the water of Lake Hammonton.

With its driver blinded by the lights of another bus, the machine side-swiped the second bus, crashed through a guard rail, tore away 50 feet of the rail and fell into the lake, trapping the passengers inside. Although the water was only four feet deep, the passengers screamed in terror and many of them were trampled in the struggle to clamber out of the death trap.

Passing motorists and persons living near the lake went to the rescue. They broke the windows of the bus with automobile tools and sticks and pulled the entrapped passengers to safety. A wrecking crew pulled the bus out of the lake and it was ascertained that none was drowned.

The passengers suffered from submersion and lacerations, but none was seriously injured. They were holiday merry-makers returning from Atlantic City to Philadelphia and nearby Pennsylvania cities.

OYSTERS AND SOPRANOS

Undersea radio experiments off Hatteras and Beaufort, N. C., had to be discontinued "because singing oysters made so much noise that the delicate radio mechanism was affected. We suggest some of these oysters be signed up in place of the sopranos." Probably the oysters threw a wrench into the radio works with a few ditties about those old crustacean mothers of theirs.

Or, probably the urge to sing was provoked by thoughts of going back, back, back to where the slimy seaweed grows. . . . But it's barely possible some oyster has written a hit and called it "Bye, Bye, Bivalves" and the oysters are all carolling in their beds. . . . Anyway, it seems to be a job for some censor or other. It sounds like a shell game to us.

The costliest garment ever made was the Royal cloak exhibited at the Fisheries Exhibition in 1883; it was of rare feathers which took 150 years to collect and its value was $500,000.

IT'LL BE A BIG NIGHT FOR THE FISH TONIGHT

Police Emptying Hootch Down Drains at Local Station; High Power Staff.

The beer taken in recent raids was destroyed at the local police station today by the janitor and Patrolman Roberts. The officer said that he will have to don a bathing suit to get rid of the rest of the sporting bottles of high powered home brew shot in all directions as the caps were removed from the bottles. It is expected that all of the beer and a lot of wine and hootch will be down the drains on its way to the river before nightfall.

rary is being built so as nearly to surround the house. Students had jokingly offered to tear the structure from its foundations. A strong police force seems to have been the salvation of the building during the outbreak.

Paper Keeps Silent. Yale Daily News today contained no reference to the outbreak where the publication has often commented on such outbreaks in other years. Students themselves are carefully avoiding discussion of the outbreak, even those who have been nursing bruises caused by police clubs. "The wood was used freely," police say, but no hospital cases resulted.

A portion of the evidence to be presented in Police Court is a full sized brick that was hurled through a window of the police chief's office. The brick did considerable damage.

Acting Mayor Thomas Tully, himself a Yale graduate, today declared that while the city might overlook a tumultuous celebration after an athletic victory, some action must be taken in the present case because city workmen were assaulted by the students when the tumult broke out.

How Fight Started. A pump at work on a sewer construction job in the heart of the college zone is supposed to have been the scene of the first of the outbreak. Some student flung a water bottle at men working at the pump. The sound of breaking glass set the college in an uproar and students swept aside the campus patrol and went into the streets.

Trolley cars and private automobiles were attacked and a fire alarm turned in. Police on patrol attempted to halt the students who fought hand to hand a street. A group of patrolmen walked their prisoner to the nearest station, beating off a howling mob bent on releasing the prisoner. Reserves from every police station in the city were called out and arrived at the Court street station in time to relieve the men who were fighting to keep the mob out of that building.

A long line of policemen swept the students back to the college zone, and finally drove them into dormitories where the campus police locked the doors with the students inside. college officials were in the midst of the student body, taking names and warning the offenders to "go to your rooms."

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1928

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Standing on the greatest battlefield of the Civil War which, he said, "is associated with one of the greatest addresses ever delivered by one of the greatest men ever in the world, Abraham Lincoln." President Coolidge devoted his Declaration Day address to the present movement for world peace. He digressed momentarily to refer to the outbreak of crimes of violence within our own borders with a gentle slap at those who "assume a sentimental attitude toward criminals" to resume promptly his discussion of the possibilities of world peace.

Our habitual unpreparedness for war, in his opinion, is proof positive that we have always been preparing for peace. The need of strengthening our navy is for the protection of our commerce but "we are especially anxious for the world to know that they are purely for defensive purposes and to promote general peace and tranquility." This expression may be taken to indicate that the President foresees that world peace still is in the dim, distant future and that we should at least not go below our normal standard of unpreparedness. He sees that "the trend of civilization is undoubtedly toward peace. The reason for this is not far to seek. War means the application of force. Peace means the application of reason. War is complete lawlessness. Peace is the rule of law. The principal effort of civilization, after all, is to bring the world under obedience to law. The great conflict which raged upon this battlefield had for its ultimate decision the question of whether the power of the sword or the power of the Constitution was to be supreme."

Turning again to world peace he pointed out that obedience to international law is a reciprocal duty. In making agreements with other nations it is as necessary to obey the law ourselves as to see that others conform to its requirements.

Since the proposal of M. Briand in June, 1927, suggesting that France and the United States sign a treaty condemning recourse to war and renouncing it as an instrument of national policy, "this suggestion has developed into one of the most impressive peace movements that the world has ever seen" he said. The treaty draft submitted in April of this year by Secretary of State Kellogg, advocating its extension to include the six great powers has met with very favorable reception, the president pointed out.

"It seems to me," he said in conclusion, "that the greatest honor we can do to those who have died on the field of battle that this Republic might live is soberly to pledge ourselves to bend every effort to prevent any recurrence of war. The government of the people, by the people, for the people, which Lincoln described in his immortal address, is a government of peace, not of war, and our dead will not have died in vain if, inspired by their sacrifice, we endeavor by every means within our power to prevent the shedding of human blood in the attempted settlement of international controversies. It is my earnest hope that success may crown the negotiations now in progress, and that the ideals which have inspired the French Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Secretary of State of the United States in their joint efforts to find a solution of the problem of peace may find a practical realization in the early making of a multilateral treaty limiting future resort to war."

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Congress has adjourned. On the whole the nation may be thankful that it got off as well as it did. None of the appropriation bills failed. Congress voted the money to carry on the government but just whether the budget has been made a little topheavy remains to be seen when the experts have analyzed of the figures. The usual last minute furor, threats of stickups and charges and counter-charges marked the closing days. But Congress would not have it otherwise. Members still believe that this last flash in the pan convinces constantly that the pace is continuously terrific, that there has been no lost time.

Nearly 20,000 bills were introduced and 923 have been enacted into law, a tale of the accomplishments of the first session of the seventieth Congress. Many still await action by one house or the other. On the closing day of the session President Coolidge affixed his signature to 236 measures, all of which thereby became laws. And he pocketed many others. Failure to affix his signature within ten days allows any such to die natural and painless deaths. It may develop that the Muscle Shoals bill, delivered to the President at the White House, carried by him to the Capitol and carried back still unsigned, may meet this fate. But, whatever else happened, the tax reduction bill was passed and when you buy a new cheap automobile at a cost of $1,000 you will not pay an additional $30. Line forms on the right. Don't crowd.

ALL UP FOR NEW ENGLAND

Confirmation, if any be needed, of editorial comment in this column on New England's lack of energy in advertising her charms, is to be found in the report of the third New England Recreational Conference. The point was stressed repeatedly by speaker after speaker that New England has fallen behind industrially because of failure to advertise what New England has to sell.

Nothing could be more convincing of this apathy on the part of all of us than the demonstration at this conference by a representative of the Saturday Evening Post. He unfolded and stretched around the room 180 feet of recreational advertising that had been carried by the Saturday Evening Post in 1927. And not one line of it advertised New England!

The other day we commented upon one of the methods adopted by residents of Florida to advertise their state and its advantages both as a place for recreation and for business. It would be interesting to know how much of this 280 feet of recreational advertisements was sponsored by residents of that state. It would prove a sizeable amount. And a foot of advertising in a magazine of the circulation of the Saturday Evening Post runs in to big money. Other sections of the country find a way to raise the money and find someone to write mighty enticing advertisements. Why shouldn't New England?

We mourn the passing of New England cotton mills. Anyone driving down the principal thorough artery to the South may count in Pennsylvania, Virginia and the Carolinas something like 150 textile mills. They did not all get there without some inducement. Advertising of one form or another helped. It continues to help move folks from New England and the West to sections that are constantly held up to them as where there "is something doing."

It may be that the South does not move rapidly. But it never quite stops and it is keeping everlastingly at it—to the detriment of New England. Possibly one reason for our neglect to advertise New England properly and generally is our own dense ignorance of what we have to offer. While we are about it let's advertise New England to New Englanders as well as to residents of other sections of the country. And let's make it unambiguously. A united New England can put a punch into advertising her attractions that will take second place to no other.

RELATED NEWS

Because Ida M. Tarbell, eminent author, biographer and lecturer, has changed her mind about the efficacy of prohibition and writes about it in a magazine of wide circulation among women, it arouses comment. This widely traveled woman finds that there is drunkenness on Pullman trains and in hotels. The housekeeper of a hotel rushed to her to have her see the "dead soldiers" left in a room and the ruin of her mahogany bureau from alcohol spilled on it. Miss Tarbell has changed her views so completely that she is no longer an ardent dry. And this information reached the astonished world just before the conventions of the two big political parties.

Beyond question this is no very recent discovery of Miss Tarbell's. If it is she hasn't done any traveling for several years until just before she wrote the article. Anyone who has traveled anywhere once in the last eight years knows that liquors bought and sold contrary to the eighteenth amendment are obtainable almost anywhere. The wide open bars of the corner saloons are missing, to be sure, but that's about all. That, and the higher price for poorer stuff. In the last two or three years, especially, the obtaining of liquor by a stranger in a strange community is merely the matter of asking for it. We find Miss Tarbell's writings always interesting and in this instance amusing. Heretofore her biographies have presented something new. In this case the facts she presents are known to every high school boy and girl, the parents of whom, in many instances, preceded Miss Tarbell in changing their minds about the true value of the prohibition law as it now stands.

AN UNFORTUNATE SITUATION

One of those unfortunate displays of feeling marked the observance of Memorial Day in Greenfield, Mass. The younger veterans of wars later than the Civil conflict refused to march behind a non-veteran organization, the Sons of Veterans. The commander of the G. A. R. post insisted that on the right of the line should be the few remaining veterans of veterans and that behind them should march their sons and their comrades' sons. To this latter provision those veterans who served in the Spanish-American war, and those who survived the World War objected. So there were two parades. Neither satisfactory to any organization.

The Sons of Veterans naturally stand high in the estimation of their fathers. Together with the Relief Corps they have formed valuable auxiliaries to the activities of the men of the organization founded so many years ago. But, as an auxiliary only, it scarcely seems that their place was next to the right of line; not in these days when other fighting men were to participate in the parade.

New York, May 31—Manhattan's girls are in open revolt against those cafes which have steadfastly refused to allow women to have a cigarette with their coffee.

Discovery of such places in the very heart of the bright lights belt had for years been a great surprise to visitors who look upon New York as the last word in "free and easy"—next, of course to Paris. Yet Victorian customs are observed quite as rigidly in Manhattan as elsewhere.

The other night I beheld two young men being tossed from a notorious speakeasy for daring to flirt with two unaccompanied young ladies. Piqued to the point of desiring revenge the young men informed a passing policeman that had he been on duty he would have arrested the two. "Yeah," smiled the copper. "Well, if ya want ice cream soda why don't ya go to a drug store?"

In a place on Forty-second Street where milds are not allowed to "smoke," a dignified, white-haired gentleman who looks as though he might have stepped from Victoria's Court, goes gliding about with a white card poised in his left hand. These cards read: "Ladies will kindly refrain from smoking."

The other day a group of young women decided to defy the ruling. Taking out their cigarettes, they began to puff away when the elderly man approached and deposited his card. One of the group looked at it and then, in excellent French, informed him she could neither read nor comprehend the English language. By the time a translator had been rushed up, they had finished their cigarettes and coffee. They returned the following day and were spotted at once. While they ate, the white-haired vigilante sat in a chair and had him read another copy of the rule. Seeing that the game was up another spokesman for the group explained, in excellent German, that she could neither read nor understand the English language. That was her story, and she stuck to it.

Nothing short of "artistes de la coiffure" are tolerated by the debutantes and dowagers who go in for the latest thing in curls and bobs. Scissors wielders who once dignified the backs of barber chairs under the names of Murphy, Mandelbaum, Schiltz and McPherson, suddenly blossom out with such monikers as Pierrot, Jacques, Raoul and what have you. While each incoming boat brings a Pierre, a Francois or a Gaston. Their waiting rooms are often veritable saloons; their operations are accompanied by a great deal of hokuspokus hand manipulation of the skilled magician; they lie awake nights trying to think up some new fol-de-rol to intrigue the vanity of patrons and potential patrons; their fees are those of the specialist, and even as in the old dramas, the woman pays and pays and pays. To escape with a check under $100 is to get off easy in many of these concerns.

Considering the overhead, such prices are essential. For they must boast of their "distinguished clientele" and thus bring in the "celebrities."

TRADE YOUR OLD FURNITURE FOR NEW

Bring your home up-to-date by the Trade-in Plan

EVERY month hundreds of pages in the leading magazines of the country are devoted to helping you to make your home more beautiful and liveable . . . to telling you what is correct in home furnishings. More people than ever before know whether or not your home is furnished attractively, comfortably and correctly. More homes are being refurnished in up-to-date styles than ever before.

If your home still houses an old Morris chair, a golden oak dining suite, a brass bed or the like, you are not yet enjoying the comforts that come with present day furniture.

To help our customers make use of their old furniture when selecting new things, we inaugurated the Watkins Furniture Exchange a year or two ago and hundreds have already taken advantage of the opportunities it offers. With the aid of this new store it is now possible to use your old things as part payment on the new Watkins furniture you select.

Here is how the plan works. You select the new things you want at this store and give us a list of the old furniture you wish to trade in. This list is sent to our Furniture Exchange—a separate store situated at 17 Oak Street—and a representative of that organization calls and places a valuation on your old furniture, based on its true value in resale.

This plan of exchange makes it possible to own Watkins Furniture—furniture you know is the best obtainable at the price you pay—furniture you know is correct in design, workmanship and finish as well as price—furniture you will always be proud to own and to show to your friends.

Why not resolve now to refurnish one room at a time? You'll be delighted to see how attractively it can be done, no matter how much or little you plan to invest. And of course you can use our Plan of Easy Payments to extend the payments over a period of months in easy weekly sums, if you wish.

Used Furniture

The used furniture, made available by these trade-ins, is obtainable at Watkins Furniture Exchange, 17 Oak, St. Many excellent pieces for the cottage and cabin are on display.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—In a presidential year, the favorite words of the Washington correspondent are "but on the other hand."

In such a year he deals with weasel words and never predicts anything without leaving himself a large loop-hole to crawl right back through. Surety anyone who reads Washington political stories at all must have been struck with the frequency of "many say this, but others say that—" formula.

It does seem as if a political writer ought to be able to come out and give his readers the low-down and what's what and what's going to happen. If he can't read the future himself he ought to have enough political friends who can tell him about it.

But it doesn't work out that way at all. At the moment it doesn't take a very bold spirit to predict that the national conventions will nominate Hoover and Smith. Many of "us boys" are beginning to do it. And yet, quite a few others will play safe right up to the conventions. After that, most politicians and correspondents will both enter a long period of doubt running right up to election night.

sorts of possibilities exist that may arise to bar the favorite. Another is that a fellow hears so many contradictory stories, for the truth is that the politicians who are supposed to be so smart and shrewd that they are able to forecast all political results in advance even if they aren't themselves arranging them are usually just as dumb as the correspondent. The correspondent's persistent question is "What do you know?" and so is the politician's.

Until quite recently, hardly anyone around here conceded that Hoover could be nominated. And there are still one or two rather potent politicians who insist that Smith will be blocked.

The boys aren't ever quite sure where lies logic. Thus we find a lot of them insisting that Hoover can't be elected because the farmers dislike him for his opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill. But they all admit that Coolidge could be re-elected—and yet Coolidge is the man who vetoes the bill as often as it comes along. They argue that the agricultural states will desert to Smith rather than go for Hoover, but they know that there isn't anything in recent history to indicate that the farmers won't cast the G. O. P. ballot in November as usual.

The real doubting will come after the nominations and, with Smith running. Already the political wheelmen are busy asserting facts and factors and trying to guess just how they will operate. In another month the "some insist that"—while others believe—"stories will blossom out more profusely than ever.

How large is the anti-Catholic vote? Can Smith get all the "for-sigma-sigma" vote and how important will it prove to be? What will the farmers do in the doubtful states? How many votes can be won by Smith's personality? How many lost by his Tammany antecedents and wet record? If Hoover is nominated, how effective will his radio campaign be? Will his poor platform appearance handicap him at all? Will the border state white voters react unfavorably to his anti-segregation policy at the Census Bureau? What will become of the 5,000,000 La Follette voters of 1924? How many people aren't sharing in American prosperity and will they vote accordingly?

How can anyone answer such questions as these? Even the count of the vote won't answer some of them.

But they're all material for speculation. And there will be a lot more speculation than prophesying. Republicans will be at sleep nights, remembering their land-slides in the last two elections. Democrats will rise in the mornings, full of hope, realizing that 1928 has new possibilities that didn't exist in '20 and '24.

CITIES REPORT SUCCESS IN FIGHT ON TYPHOID; SEVEN PERFECT RECORDS

Chicago.—More cities reported no deaths from typhoid fever during 1927 than ever before, since the American Medical Association began its surveys in 1913, according to the annual report just issued, here.

This date in AMERICAN HISTORY

- May 31
- 1778—Ethan Allen was returned to the American army after 30 months imprisonment.
- 1819—Birthday of Walt Whitman, poet.
- 1832—First Democratic convention at Baltimore more nominated Jackson and Van Buren.
- 1889—Johnstown, Pa., flooded; 2142 drowned; $2,913,000 contributed for relief.
- 1892—Chicago corn "corner" broke; price dropped from $1 to 49 cents a bushel.

HOME OF EMERSON HOUGH HAS "FOR RENT" SIGN AS THE RELICS ARE SCATTERED

Newton, Ia.—Hopes of civic organizations for preserving the old home of the late Emerson Hough as a shrine perpetuating his memory have been shattered. A "For Rent" sign now hangs on one of the stately oaks out front. The house, built by the author's father, Joseph Hough, at about thirty of black walnut cabinets. The son installed modern improvements but his parents' old furnishings were kept intact. On Emerson's death his sister, Ella, still stayed on in charge of the homestead. Now she, too, has passed away. And the furniture, books and antique glassware the author loved so well have been sold or given to relatives and friends.

PRESBYTERIANS AND METHODISTS IN MERGER PLAN

Chicago—The greatest church union in the history of the world, involving a fourth of the people in the United States, will be launched this month, it has been announced here.

The Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal churches will attempt a merger both of members and of property. The two churches, in all their branches have 10,000,000 active members and 14,000,000 adherents, including Sunday school members.

Property involved in the giant spiritual combine totals nearly a billion dollars, in 35,000 churches throughout the country, as well as schools, hospitals, philanthropic enterprises and other investments.

Millions of Members. In the northern branches of the two churches there are 7,000,000 active members and 10,000,000 adherents; in the southern branches 3,000,000 members and 4,000,000 adherents.

Commission in both churches will be appointed immediately. It was learned to investigate the problems connected with the proposed union.

During the month the proposal will come before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kansas City, and the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Tulsa, Okla.

For the first time in the history of American religious history, according to local officials of both churches, the difficulties attendant to a merger are not looked upon as insurmountable.

Various attempts at such a union have been made before, but minor disagreements on teaching as well as property involved blocked action.

Property of the Methodist Episcopal church is estimated in value at $550,000,000 in 25,000 churches. The Presbyterian church has 10,000 churches valued at $300,000,000.

The tremendous valuations constitute one of the most complicated problems to be solved. It was understood in many communities there are churches of the two denominations close together, and the merger might mean elimination of some of these duplications in religious service.

Serious Problem. Division of the Protestant churches, with resultant weakening of all sects, has been a serious problem in the minds of ecclesiastical leaders.

The recent merger of Canadian churches, including the Congregational church and the two involved in the proposed American merger, has been successful, it was pointed out. A similar plan is proposed in this country.

Completion of the unification would be made as quickly as possible, it was understood, after the preliminary differences were ironed out.

Most of the differences, however, do not involve questions of teachings or dogma, but merely adjustments necessary in such a large combination.

Leaders of both churches in Chicago district have expressed approval of tentative plans which are expected to mature into a definite policy this month.

From other leaders in both churches it was learned that other denominations are expected to follow into the merger when it is seen to be successful.

The completed merger, according to those church leaders would include more than half the persons in the United States, as member and adherents.

TWO BIG FEATURES ON STATE PROGRAM

"Hangman's House" and "Love Hungry" Today and Tomorrow—Gloria Swanson Sunday.

Another pair of delightful film features awaits those who visit the State theater today and tomorrow, where Victor McLaglen in "Hangman's House" and Lois Moran in "Love Hungry" are being shown.

In "Hangman's House," McLaglen is seen in the most impressive role of his career, supported by a capable cast of famous screen celebrities. The story is laid in Ireland and tells chiefly of a spirited girl who must choose between filial devotion and the sweetheart of her childhood. Among the many thrills to be found in this rapidly-moving production are the horse-racing scenes, which are said to be some of the best ever obtained for the silent drama. "Hangman's House," is truly the kind of a picture that will satisfy even the most particular of theater-goers.

Something new in the theme and plot is furnished in "Love Hungry," Lois Moran's latest starring vehicle. It is a happy, joyous comedy romance of youth and a fascinating and revealing story of the inner workings of a metropolitan newspaper establishment. Miss Moran is cast as a little chorus girl who listens skeptically to what her lover has to tell her and then proceeds to prove to him that she does not know a thing about the subject. The subject is a rather humorous one, for her sweetheart is engaged as a writer who advises the love-lorn "Love Hungry," is a gem that sparkles brightly with laughter and heart-thrills.

Saturday brings to the State five acts of Metropolitan vaudeville and two big features. Gloria Swanson in "Sadie Thompson," comes to the State on Sunday and Monday.

STOCK TAKING IN 1930 CENSUS TO BE BIG EFFORT

Washington.—The greatest commercial stock-taking in history will be undertaken in the 1930 census if Congress accepts the recommendation of Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The whole story of distribution of products from the factory to the consumer would be told in the elaborate census which is proposed for the first time.

No one can accurately estimate the volume of retail business done in this country, according to Secretary Hoover. Until it is known, he says, no real steps can be taken to improve the nation's distribution system.

"Marketing and distribution are still carried on for the most part along the lines with which our fathers were familiar," said Secretary Hoover in requesting action by the House census.

"To some extent the failure in distribution to make the same progress in production is due to our lack of statistical information and definite facts in this field.

"Also, it is to be observed that we have made far less progress in reducing the costs of distribution than we have in production. As an indication of this, if we take the factory and the retail prices of commodities at 100 for 1914, we find that today falling prices are from 140 to 150, while retail prices are from 185 to 170.

"In any event, it is certain that there is relatively little specific information on the distribution of commodities. We do not even know the volume of our retail trade nor can we guess it within $10,000,000,000. To the best of our information there are upwards of 1,483,000 retailers and some 82,000 wholesalers engaged in our domestic business."

New Experiments. The request for a distribution census was preceded by a study of business economists, who made an experimental census to determine its possibility.

On the basis of this, Secretary Hoover made his recommendation and expressed the opinion that the fact-finding would lead to a marked advance in the efficiency of the nation's marketing system.

More than seven million Londoners are supplied with water by the Metropolitan Water Board.

Harry Mills, of Taftville, who played left-field for the Kensington team against the Community Club yesterday afternoon at Hickey's Grove, lost his baseball uniform on the way from Taftville to Manchester. He had it in a suit roll and doesn't know how it could have fallen out of the car. Director Jerry Fay of the Community Club hopes that should any Manchester person have found the lost uniform, he will return it to the local club so that it can be forwarded to Mr. Mills.

St. Helen, Ore.—The United States Bureau of Fisheries, in response to a request made by M. Tokuhisa, of the agriculture and forestry department at Tokyo and who is here studying U. S. Fisheries, have sent a number of healthy sh. c. from the Columbia River and are preparing to ship them to Japan for propagation purposes.

Large barrels filled with Columbia River water will contain the fishy tribe while they are being transported to Japanese waters aboard a fast steamer. Other shipments will be made, Tokuhisa predicted, if this experiment proves successful.

How's She Lifting?
 Linds on Car Care

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

When steam spurts out of the radiator top in winter, we can usually ascribe it to one common cause—a frozen cooling system.

But when the red goes above the danger line in summer, there are numerous reasons for the overheating of the engine. They may be found all the way from the radiator to the driver. Most of them may be classed under the single category of negligence.

For instance, the radiator. If the motorist neglects to clean it out thoroughly at least twice a year—when it should be flushed once a month—a thick coat of lime rust will collect inside and keep the water from flowing through properly.

The slackened flow of water gives it little chance to cool off fast enough and the result is overheating of the motor.

The motorist, too, may neglect adding fresh water to the system, especially in hot weather when the water boils away rapidly. The reduced supply of water cannot cool the engine faster than the engine heats it, with overheating resulting.

Another cause for overheating may be the fan and fan belt. The blades may be too flat so that the fan has little effect as a cold air blower on the engine.

The belt may be slipping because it is loose, or because the fan bearings are too tight, or because oil has leaked out over the belt and its pulleys. The fan belt in summer is an important part of the car and should be kept tight and dry.

Still in the cooling system, on the search for causes of engine overheating, we come to the water pump. This apparatus may be so worn that the water will leak through it. The pump may also cuck at high speed, through the

High School's Biggest Game Comes Tomorrow

West Hartford Can Tie "Us" By Winning; Middletown Proves Easy, 12 to 6; Good Base Running.

Back in high gear again by virtue of its 12 to 6 victory over Middletown High in that city Tuesday afternoon, Manchester High will journey to West Hartford tomorrow afternoon to play the most important game of its season. The West Hartford team is in second place and a win over Manchester would knot the league standing at seven victories and one defeat for each school.

So, confident is West Hartford of winning, that it has already unsuccessfully attempted to make arrangements with Manchester for a play-off at the end of the season. The boys from across are staking heavily on the ability of Collier to silence Coach Tom Kelley's heavy artillery. Herb Frasier, the boy who blanked West Hartford here 5 to 0 earlier in the season, will pitch for Manchester. Billy Dowd will be in reserve.

Dowd worked only five innings against Middletown. Trueman took his place when a safe lead had been accumulated. Hard hitting and alert base running paved the way for Manchester's one-sided victory. Nine bases were stolen by local players. Two runs were scored on squeeze plays. Nino Boggin got a double after falling to hit in thirteen consecutive times, at bat. The summary:

RUNS OUT OF GAS IN AN AUTO RACE

Attendants Fail to Look at Tank Queering Ganung Out of Sure Victory; Sets Track Record.

After setting a new mile record for the mile track at Charter Oak Park in Hartford yesterday afternoon, Charlie Ganung of Katonah, N. Y., driving a Miller Special, easily the best car competing, fell victim to a jinx that prevented him from winning any of the three remaining races.

His record time for the course was 49 1-5 seconds. The previous record was 52 2-5 seconds set by Ira Vail five years ago. The latter did not compete yesterday. In the final lap only to have motor trouble. In the ten mile race, he was way ahead of the field on his way to a new record when his car ran out of gasoline. In the last event, he was crowded off the track and nearly upset by "Wild Bill" Tuttle of Hartford.

Bobby Sturgeon Fans 14 as Team Scores Surprise Victory; East Side Playgrounds Beaten Too.

The Victors sprung a big surprise yesterday afternoon when they gave the Highland Park club a 19 to 7 trouncing on its own field. Anderson was knocked out of the box in the third and Gorman was also belted liberally. Bobby Sturgeon whiffed 14 batsmen. The hitting of Campbell, Raynor, Vince, Sturgeon and Rohan featured. The former got six out of six.

After showing very poor form at the start of the season, the Heights found themselves yesterday afternoon and won both ends of a double-header engagement with the Wilson Firemen at the Heights field. The scores were 9 to 4 and 6 to 5—two good ball games.

"Dutch" Senkbeil allowed seven hits in the first and made three himself. The score was close until the eighth inning when Manchester scored four runs. In the second contest, Eddie Gleason allowed eight hits, Senkbeil, pinch-hitting in the ninth inning, doubled and scored on Hewitt's double to win the game. Phelps's all-around work featured for the losers.

The Heights played the Economy Stores at East Hartford Sunday. Yesterday's summaries:

Eighth Inning Rallies Decide Both Contests

Weber and Fisher Winning Pitchers; Locals Have Won 6, Lost 0 in League; Torrington Here Sunday.

The Community Club won both games with Kensington in the State League yesterday by big rallies in the eighth inning. The scores were 11 to 3 at Kensington in the morning and 9 to 2 at Hickey's grove in the afternoon. Saturday, the locals play at New Britain and Sunday, Torrington comes here. Manchester has not won six league games without a defeat.

Charlie Weber pitched the morning game for the Community, allowed seven hits and made three. Carroll, former Catholic University twirler, was touched up for an even dozen. A five-run rally in the eighth inning killed any chances Kensington might have had of winning. Singles by McLaughlin, Brennan, Kelly and Weber and Pelton's triple did most of the damage in this frame.

Both teams made ten hits over at Hickey's in the afternoon. Manchester got its, however, when they counted most. Four of them came in the eighth in which Manchester tallied six runs to increase its 3 to 3 lead into the final score of 9 to 2. The Community batted around in this frame, St. John walking twice, Brennan, Fischer and Pelton's batting featured for Manchester with Edgar, Sipples, Kelly, St. John performing the best in the field. Three men tried to steal on Kelly and all failed. The summaries:

NEW PLAYERS' LIST IS DECIDED UPON IN TWILIGHT LOOP

Expect Added Strength Will Bolster Weaker Teams; Four Games Tonight; Lists In Saturday.

At a meeting of the Community Club (twilight baseball league team) managers Tuesday night at the "White House," it was decided to allow the teams to submit a revised player-list of fourteen names which must be in the hands of the league secretary before Saturday. The reason for the alteration was because several of the teams found it impossible to get all of their players on the present list out for their games. Some of the teams were also in need of additional strength.

Director Jerry Fay feels that the revised players' lists will greatly improve the league. He made it plain, however, that this does not allow any of the teams to go out and sign up several of the best players in town, especially those of the Community team. Any player whose name is submitted by a manager must be okayed by Fay before he can play. The Firemen have dropped out of the league and Gibson's Garage with some of the same players, has replaced it. Tonight's games are as follows: Hickey's vs. Depot Square at Hickey's Grove. Gibson's Garage vs. North Ends at Playgrounds. Bon Ami vs. Green at Green. Highland Park vs. Talcoville at Talcoville.

Ants have been known to desert their nests, taking their babies and eggs with them, 24 hours before the outbreak of a forest fire; while rabbits will leave burrows made in low-lying ground long before a flood occurs.

"The Blindfold test convinced me OLD GOLD did not even have a runner-up," says MILTON SILLS

MILTON SILLS, popular First National star, whose recent releases are "Burning Daylight," "Valley of the Giants" and "The Hawk's Nest."

"It's like deciding a beauty contest in the dark", I said when they told me about the blindfold cigarette test. But the experiment convinced me. The beauty of a cigarette is all inside, and I didn't have to see the label to know that OLD GOLD didn't even have a runner-up. I picked it out readily from the other brands as the smoothest and best cigarette. Now it's always OLD GOLD with me.

MR. SILLS made the blindfold test just after some strenuous work in the First National Studio at Hollywood. He smoked the four leading brands and promptly chose OLD GOLD.

Heart-Leaves . . . are the heart of the matter!

HEART-LEAVES are the answer to OLD GOLD's superiority, the reason for their honey-like smoothness, and for the fact that there is "not a cough in a carload." Only the golden-ripe heart-leaves of the tobacco plant are used in this better cigarette. The heavy, coarse top leaves that irritate the throat, the withered ground leaves that coarsen the taste are never used. That is why you can pick OLD GOLD's even in the dark.

SMOOTHER AND BETTER—NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

THE VERDICT OF NUMBERS

Most people know what they want. In spite of bitter experience, they get the best eventually—in tires, as in other things.

Above the baffling claims of rival tire manufacturers and allurements of price-cutting dealers, the judgment of numbers cannot be denied:

More People Buy Goodyear Tires Than Any Other Kind

Millions of motorists believe Goodyear makes "The World's Greatest Tire." Hence, its popularity.

This huge army has tested Goodyear Tires thoroughly, driving over 75,000,000 tire miles last year.

Goodyear leads over every other tire maker by many thousands in yearly production.

BABE IS AHEAD OF LAST YEAR; MAY MAKE IT 72

Slams No. 18—Is Seven Games, Four Runs and Eight Days to the Good.

By DAVIS J. WALSH New York, May 31.—Among the many things I find I can do nothing about today is the fact that George H. Ruth, the prominent right fielder, will establish a home run record before the end of the 1928 season that will leave the populace quite agape. It was freely predicted in some of our best circles this morning that the great man would smite a tall total of 72 for the year and, while it might be to take issue with intellects so staunch as to approach a column of figures without feeling a sinking sensation in the middle of the ante-room, I still can do no less than point out that such a total would call for a home run every second game. You can call any man you want for that kind of thing but it isn't compelled to hear you.

Figures on 68 Barring accidents and if he maintains his present pace through the remaining 113 games of the Yankee schedule, the boy friend figures to close the books with 68 home runs, eight more than the record he set last year and fourteen more than he compiled in 1921, his first great year. If that isn't enough to make you drink with moderation and grow old disgracefully, permit me to add that his potential 1928 total is 39 more than George scored in 1919 when he bettered the Major League record for the first time and everybody thought he was using a loaded bat or his own dice or something. No, there is nothing I can say against George H. Ruth today, even if I wanted to, of which course I do. There is nothing like a good, old fashioned attack on George to relieve that pent-up feeling, soften the fingertips and take the ink spots out of white chevot.

Hits No. 18 I was about due to give him his bi-monthly reviling but all I can do about it is point out that he hit his 18th home run on May 29—and that he didn't get his 18th in 1927 until June 7. Also that, even with the fact that he hit none at all yesterday, George's total of 18 this year shows only 41 games played, whereas last year he didn't get his 18th until the 8th day. And as long as I am in this beatific mood, I might as well point to the fact that George had only 14 home runs by May 30 last year, after which I plan to go out in the garden and eat lilies of the valley with the rest of the bridesmaids.

Anyhow, the sum total of these observations is that George Ruth, alias Herman, is seven games, four home runs and eight days ahead of his record and can afford to waste any or all of the advantages enumerated and still have a white man's chance to beat 60 for the year. One of the reasons that influence our best minds to suspect that George is on his way to bigger and better things naturally is the fact that you can't laugh off figures. It seems any haven of sense of humor. Another reason is that, for the last two seasons at least, George has been less pitched against than pitched to. They used to throw four balls at the umpire's countenance whenever they didn't like the look of George up there but that is all changed now. They have found that it gets them nothing to put George on so that some jobby immediately below can swing from his pants—guards and slough one out of the lot. Directly below George come Gehrig, Meusel, Lazzeri and Dugan. All are among the league leaders in home run hitting.

MADE LONGEST HIT, HAD TO BAT AGAIN

New Haven, Conn., May 31.—To make the longest hit yet sent away from the plate at Yale Field, to be waved around the bases by an umpire after two team mates had carried runs over for Yale, and then to be sent back to bat by another umpire is a queer record that today belongs to George Getton. Playing against Georgetown yesterday at Caldwell, in Yale's half of the first inning, blasted a "Babe Ruth" over the third baseman's head over the left fielder's head, and across the field yard stands completely out of the playing lot. Never, in the many years Yale Field has been in existence, had a baseball taken such a ride. Even the Georgetown rooters, very peevish, rose and cheered Caldwell, as he trotted around the bases and started to the bench. A second later Caldwell was in the batter's box again. The umpire behind the plate had ruled the ball a foul. After that the Yale team assented and Georgetown had an easy time. Captain Vaughn made five errors, Catcher Hobbs, usually very good, tossed the ball into centerfield in trying to catch base runners, and even Caldwell himself made glaring errors. The score finally was thirteen to five.

Shatters District Mark By Sensational Playing

Registers Six Birdies, Five on Home Stretch; Misses Two-Foot Putt on Tenth; Was Playing in Foursome.

Displaying the most remarkable and sensational golf ever witnessed on any course in this vicinity, Alex Simpson cracked out a new record for the Manchester Country Club course which will probably stand for a long time yesterday morning when he shot a 63 for the eighteen holes. This is the lowest record ever made on a Hartford District course.

The Manchester professional who is playing the best golf of his career broke the course record with a 67 only a short time ago. At the end of the first nine holes yesterday, there was no indication that Simpson was going to set a new record. He had often been out in one under par—65. But on the home trip, he burned up the course with his sensational play, making six birdies and missing a two-foot putt on the tenth hole for what would have been another.

Simpson's iron shots from start to finish were remarkable because of their splendid accuracy. Starting with the eleventh hole, Alex had five consecutive birdies. His amazing 63 was not attained through any run of luck, but rather through ultra-perfect play, almost every shot carrying in a bee line for the pin. Playing with him in the foursome at the time of his record were Charlie Willet, Tom Hansen and the Newman, all members of the Country Club here.

Simpson's card for the course: Out ... 445 534 424—35 In ... 482 338 433—28—63

They were Noonan and John McCuskey, running under the colors of the Recreation Center, Noonan placed 24th, and McCuskey several places later.

Director Lewis Lloyd stated that a dual meet with the Wethersfield team, scheduled for June 1, is planned by the Rec cross-country team to take place within the next two weeks. Frank Busch was a timer at the races yesterday. All of the Manchester group attended a banquet and entertainment program in the evening.

When A Girl Loves

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father, goes to live with a friend, CLARISSA DEAN, and her father, her fiance, NATHANIEL DANN, objects to this for the mistrusts DEAN'S motives. Upon planning NIEL'S studio late one night, VIRGINIA is surprised when she meets CHIRI, answers. This causes a quarrel which is later mended.

She was out of his arms in one lightning-quick movement. "Oh, Niel, you're making me forget."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

NATHANIEL'S ardent pleading came to a whispered end. Virginia remained quiet, his cheek touching hers, his heart filled with victory.

Exquisite release from pain, from doubt and haunting fear. She was tired and his embrace was a restful haven, soothing her with a sense of peace and security. They did not count the moments as they passed, the moments of bliss, but one came at last that broke the spell for Virginia. It brought the reckoning of this sweet surrender crashing through the forgetfulness Nathaniel had lulled into her mind.

She was out of his arms in one lightning-quick movement. "Oh, Niel," she cried frantically; "you're making me forget." Nathaniel gasped. "Don't touch me, please," she begged tearfully. "You don't understand."

most conventional person. He often said our modern speed was in very bad taste. And to marry in haste . . . "But Virginia, I just want you to name a day. It needn't be for a few weeks if you insist, but you owe me something. You loved me as much as I do you. I wouldn't have to urge our wedding."

of her passion but not at all loath to accept it. "Don't ever say such things again," she entreated him. "Promise you won't doubt me, no matter what I do. Promise, Niel! Promise you'll believe in me until I tell you I don't love you any more!"

She was as one who feels who has reached terra firma after skating on thin ice. If she could keep Nathaniel in a light mood, keep him entertained, make him forget serious matters, it might be possible to lead him gradually into accepting her changed status without thinking he must do something about it. When he saw that she was not so helpless as people thought her—that she could do what other girls were doing and—though he would not know this until she told him—he would grow to respect her independence, to admire her for refusing to come to him as one who is too weak to weather a storm seeks shelter.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

More than a hundred dead men had been brought up from the charnel house of the Mather, Pa., mine. Then they brought up Frank Kubucka—alive. He had lived down there with the dead about 72 hours. "Ham and eggs" were his first words spoken through parched and swollen lips.

ONE can just imagine Mrs. Frank Kubucka dashing to the store for the ham and eggs, though no such luxurious eating had been thought of in the Kubucka home for months. One can imagine her more than she asked for, even if the Kubucka bill hadn't been paid for months. One can imagine the to-do in the Kubucka kitchen as Ma Kubucka put the grease in the spider and told all the little Kubuckas, "your Pa's coming home" sniffing their ears as they got in the way, giving orders, cooking for her man who was dead but was alive again.

HAM AND EGGS REALITY Probably while Frank Kubucka was going to the mines every day his wife sometimes grumbled about this same cooking—grumbled at early hours, grumbled at lunch baskets to pack, grumbled at dinners to cook with little money for anything tasty.

Curtis Would Make Sister 'First Lady'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth of a series on prospective "First Ladies," by Allene Sumner, writer for The Herald and NEA Service. Today's article deals with Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, who is an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination.

By ALLENE SUMNER
Staff Writer for The Herald and NEA Service

Washington, D. C., May 31.—If Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland should become president, his mother would preside for him in the White House. If Senator Thomas Walsh should live in the big house, his daughter would come down the grand stairway with him to the strains of "Hall to the Chief."

And if Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas should be our first Indian-blooded president, his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, would be the White House hostess.

Mrs. Gann has "taken care of brother," as she puts it, since Mrs. Curtis died some years ago. But from the time "brother" first came to Washington as a congressman, 35 years ago, his sister has lived with him.

"I take home-making for brother just as seriously as for my own husband," hearty Mrs. Gann says.

A "Honey" House
"Brother's" home is no apartment, but a homey, not-too-big house atop Washington's highest hill. There is a garden full of blossoming fruit trees and tulips, hyacinths, hyacinths, lilacs, flowering quince and all the not-too-modish blooms.

The senator's sister explains that "neither brother nor I could live without a garden and a real house and a big cookstove."

"Sister" presides at the cookstove herself. She boasts of her superb health possessed by her 68-year-old brother and defies anyone to say that he isn't just about the best physical specimen and tribute to what good home cooking can do of any man in the capital.

There is no artificiality about Mrs. Gann. She is as breezy and self-possessed and "real" as the western plains of her Indian ancestors.

She is a statuesque woman with masses of auburn hair, kindly eyes, firm chin and a ready smile. Her garden, her home, and her "two boys," Senator Curtis and her husband, are her life.

The new paint on the front porch, and a new trellis in the garden, a good roast of beef, and a sunny morning for "brother's" drive to the capital are more important beads on her rosary of hours than a big official luncheon or dinner.

Rain or shine, winter or summer, she drives to the Senate office building with her brother every morning.

"I have tried to be especially close and companionable with him since his wife died," she says. "Men with big jobs need the warm interest of their own folks even more than less conspicuous men."

Mrs. Gann is very sure that her brother is a great man—just about the greatest in the country. Her home revolves about this greatness. A big deep chair of needlepoint made by Mrs. Gann herself stands beneath a big lamp, with a coffee table at one side and a magazine trough at the other. This is "brother's" sacred spot, to which he repairs beside the cheery fireplace after what other women describe as "one of Mrs. Gann's perfect dinners."

Has Three Children
Senator Curtis has three children, all grown and married. They are Mrs. C. P. George, wife of Major C. P. George, Harry King Curtis of Chicago, and Mrs. Webster Knight of Providence, the senator's youngest child, who will go as a delegate to Kansas City to cast a vote for her own dad.

Pictures of the four Curtis grandchildren, Anne, 8, and Charles Curtis, 6, the children of Mrs. George, and another Charles Curtis, aged 6, and Constance, 4, children of Mrs. Knight, are on most every available table or mantelpiece in the senator's home.

"Brother adores those youngsters," says Mrs. Gann.

Senator Curtis, the Indian-blooded man, in the White House together with "Sister," a great grand daughter of Chief White Plume, too, would make a folksy, unpretentious, hospitable White House!

TOMORROW: Mrs. George W. Norris.

NICARAGUAN PLANTS IN GREAT COLLECTION FOR CHICAGO, REPORT SAYS

Chicago.—Comprehensive collections of the flora of Nicaragua are being obtained for Field Museum of Natural History by a collector who is going steadfastly on with the work despite the difficulties placed in his way by the unsettled conditions in that country.

According to a report received at the museum, F. C. Englesing, the collector, working largely right in the heart of the territory occupied by the United States marines in their operations against the Sandino forces, has secured a large collection of trees, shrubs, ferns, palms, plants and other botanical material, much of it rare, representative of Nicaragua.

OUR TREES

THE RED GUM.

Although the red gum has always been prized for the brilliancy of the autumnal tints of its star-shaped leaves, which rival the color of the maple and the dogwood, it was considered practically worthless as a wood until recently.

Methods of seasoning the wood have been found and red gum now ranks seventh as a lumber producing tree. It is used principally for interior finish, furniture, boxes, veneer and slack cooperage. The beautifully figured red gumwood is sent abroad where it is manufactured into furniture which often finds its way back to America under the name "satin walnut" and sometimes as "Circassian walnut."

As a slack cooperage wood red gum ranks next to elm, the leading wood for this purpose. As a veneer wood it leads all others in quantity.

Red gum is frequently called "sweet gum," the name originating doubtless from the sweetish gummy substance obtained from the tree. This gum is much in demand by the manufacturers of perfumes, tobacco, adhesives, and pharmaceutical preparations. Its properties and composition are similar to those of oriental storax, obtained from a tree which grows in Asia Minor.

The range of red gum is from southwestern Connecticut westward to Kansas and southward to Florida and Texas. The commercial range is largely confined to the moist lands of the lower Ohio and Mississippi basins and to the lowlands of the southeastern coast. Red gum grows to a large size. Average mature trees have a diameter of from one and one-half to three feet and a height of 80 to 120 feet.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

GREAT BRITAIN'S LIQUOR BILL IS LESS EACH YEAR

London.—Great Britain's drink bill gets less and less every year. Money expended on alcoholic beverages during 1922 totalled $1,494,000,000, a decrease of $12,500,000, according to statistics issued by the United Kingdom Alliance, the country's chief prohibition organization. Expenditure on drink per head was $33, as against nearly $34 in 1922.

From the Alliance's figures it would appear that the fall is due mainly to decreased consumption in beer, the favorite drink of the English working classes. More was spent on spirits and wines due to their increased cost.

No Explanation
The beer bill for the year amounted to $943,200,000 as against $957,500,000 in 1922. Spirits cost $418,630,000 and wines $124,700,000.

George M. Wilson, political secretary of the Alliance, declares in presenting the statistics that, in view of the fact that wages on the average were higher than during 1922, it would have been correct to assume that beer consumption would have been correspondingly greater. He offers no explanation for the decrease.

Interesting figures are given showing how heavily the British liquor drinker is taxed by the Government. Against the $418,630,000 paid for spirits, over $200,000,000 went in taxation, and the Government netted $200,000,000 in taxes from beer and $22,500,000 from wines, or a grand total of $542,500,000.

Experts are divided on the question whether the decrease in beer consumption means that the British worker is tending towards a mild form of self-prohibition, or whether the present high price of this beverage places it partly out of the reach of many wage earners.

In recent years many attempts have been made to launch big prohibition drives in this country, with mediocre success. In Scotland many districts have a sort of semi-prohibition and restriction of alcoholic consumption, but this restriction is said to be not proving the boon it was hoped it would.

Another big drive is scheduled for mid-1923, when the Band of Hope Union, a strong temperance organization, plans to capture a million new teetotalers.

The Union is now completing STUDEBAKER has swept the boards! Every official speed and stamina record for fully equipped stock cars is held by Studebaker. Every Studebaker is a champion! Never before has any one manufacturer held all these records!

These remarkable records (listed at the left) offer clean-cut proof of speed, of stamina, of durability, certified officially by the American Automobile Association. Studebaker has proved these three vital qualities by heroic tests of strictly stock cars under unquestioned official sanction.

To you these repeated evidences of Studebaker endurance and speed are conclusive assurance of Studebaker's fitness to meet every demand of everyday motoring. Your Studebaker can give more than you will ever ask.

Studebaker's Championship is beyond dispute

Studebaker cars have proved beyond question their ability to travel great distances at sustained high speeds. No car except the Studebaker Commander ever came within 10,000 miles of The Commander's great record of 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes! No fully equipped closed car ever equalled The President Straight Eight's official records. No cars of their price classes ever traveled so far so fast as did The Dictator and The Erskine Six.

When such performance can be bought at Studebaker's remarkable One-Price prices, why be content with less than a champion?

40 miles per hour even when NEW!

Studebaker's sensational proofs of speed and endurance come from engineering genius, quality materials, precision manufacture and rigid inspections. Because of these, any Studebaker may safely be driven 40 miles an hour the day you buy it. Motor oil need be changed but once in 2500 miles. The President, Commander and Dictator require chassis lubrication only after each 2500 miles.

Today in Studebaker and in Studebaker alone, you can buy the utmost in every phase of motoring—and behind it a name that for 76 years has meant dependable transportation. Come in, and drive a champion!
