

HOOVER EASILY WINS RACE FOR PARTY ENVOYS

His Machine Rolls Down All Opposition From the Field—Contests Are Now About Half Finished.

Kansas City, June 6.—Rolling smoothly along like a high-powered and luxurious limousine, the Hoover machine was pointed today toward a sweeping and well-nigh complete victory in its first big test against the field, which was provided by the 73 delegate contests before the Republican national committee.

Victorious on the first day, equally victorious on the second, the Hoover managers swung into the third day apparently in supreme control of the party mechanism. There appeared to be no stopping them.

The contests are half over. Thirty-seven of them have been heard and judged by the national committee and Hoover has won 35 of them. His managers could, in fact, have won the other two had they cared to exert their strength, but for future organization reasons they chose to seat two influential negro leaders from Louisiana.

The Moral Effect

The moral effect of this steady succession of victories probably is more important than the 35 seats themselves, important as they may be when the balloting stage is reached. For one thing, it has given the Hoover managers "the winning habit" and for another it has afforded them the opportunity they wanted to get their machine operating smoothly and without friction.

In comparison with the easy efficiency of the Hoover organization, the opposition has appeared unorganized and to a considerable extent leaderless. At least, there has been no unity of direction.

Many Party Captains

Kansas City is undeniably filled with party captains who do

FARM-LOAN BANKS TO BE REORGANIZED

Eugene Meyer Selected By President to Reshape Our Banking Policies.

Washington, June 6.—A far reaching reorganization in the farm loan system has been brought about by Eugene Meyer, former head of the War Finance Corporation, selected by President Coolidge to reshape the government's agricultural banking policies, it was disclosed today in the annual report of the farm loan board.

Meyer's report contains an encouraging note for agriculture. He declared "that there are indications of a turn in the tide and that not only has the bottom of depression in farm values been reached, but that values are gradually improving. Purchasers are beginning to realize the attractive prices at which farms generally can be obtained. Meyer said.

"During 1927 the farm loan system has passed through a period of vicissitudes that have engaged the close and constant attention of the board and the Farm Loan Bureau has undergone a thorough reorganization to meet the situation," the report added.

Much Progress

"A great deal of progress has been made in the way of reorganization and improvement during the year and substantial results have been achieved. For the most part the banks of the system are in good condition; a comparatively small number are confronted with situations which require vigorous attention, but their situation will be facilitated by the improvements in management and methods and the cooperation of the Farm Loan Board."

Three Receiverships

There were three receiverships of banks during the year. Commenting on these as the first in the history of the system, the report pointed out that "naturally public confidence was impaired." Difficulties threatened some of the other land banks and joint stock land banks.

The farm loan system has demonstrated its soundness and usefulness," the report said.

"Banks that have not entertained proper respect for the law and sound policies and practices or have made loans from point of view of volume without proper regard for quality in order to swell the amount of apparent earnings have suffered and three of them have fallen into receivership."

Banks of the system had nearly $2,500,000,000 outstanding December 31.

GEN. PERSHING NOT IN POLITICAL FIELD

Cherbourg, France, June 6.—Reports current from time to time that the name of Gen. John J. Pershing might be placed before the Republican national convention in Kansas City next week held no special interest for the famous American soldier when he saluted at midnight for New York on the liner Leviathan. Arrangements for the general's departure had been conducted so quietly they were almost a secret. He was asked if his return had anything to do with rumors that he would be a candidate for the nomination for president. General Pershing laughed as he replied:

"Anyone in the public eye today might be called a 'dark horse.' But I assure you that in my own case I am returning merely to look after personal affairs."

SOVIETS DOUBT S O S CALLS CAME FROM DIRIGIBLE

May Halt Relief Expedition Which Was to Start for Franz Josef Land in Few Days.

Moscow, June 6.—The fate of the Noble Polar expedition was plunged into deeper doubt and the whole question of Russian relief was thrown into confusion today by developments which indicated that the recent fragmentary radiograms which were supposed to have come from the Italia, did not emanate from that source at all.

After studying the alleged "S O S" wireless calls and the circumstances attending them, experts attached to the communications branch of the Soviet have begun to discredit them. The government relief committee which was formed to aid the search for General Nobile and his 17 missing companions, said today they hesitated to make any move until they had more satisfactory data to work on.

Whether this decision will halt the Russian expedition to Franz Josef Land was not certain. Belief is growing that the fragmentary messages which were supposed to have come from the Italia were from amateur senders, who probably mistook other radiograms as calls from the lost balloon.

WILL NOT DEBATE WITH MISS BURKE

Shaw, British Playwright Says He'll Not Discuss Salaries of Stage Hands.

London, June 6.—George Bernard Shaw, playwright, letter writer and one of the world's most argumentative citizens, today declined to enter into a debate with Miss Billie Burke, American actress upon the merits of the proposition that stage hands should receive the same salaries as stars.

Miss Burke, who is in New York, cited a challenge to Shaw's book "The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism."

After receiving the cable challenge Shaw dashed off a letter to the London Evening Standard in which he said in part:

"I think Miss Burke, being an intelligent woman, has a certain sense of the value of publicity. She is quite welcome to share any I can afford her but I am not disposed to cross the Atlantic. Perhaps there has been a little misapprehension. What I suggested in my book was that stage hands should receive the same share of the national income as actors and actresses. The stage hand has a pretty steady income but the actor has periods of unemployment that are most desperately difficult."

"Actors are a very large body of persons. Their ranks are not confined to what are called stars enjoying startling successes. Miss Burke, of course, has seen so much more than actors, I dare say, she is quite familiar with the idea."

When she sent her cable challenge to debate Miss Burke said: "Mr. Shaw's proposal that stage hands receive as much as a star is ridiculous. I am glad we are living under a regime that does not entertain such queer ideas. Stage hands are all right but who would pay to watch a stage hand. An actress attracts millions to a theater."

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, June 6.—Treasury balance June 4: $49,193,626.31.

When Stultz Pilots the Friendship

This unusual photo of the interior of the tri-motored seaplane Friendship shows Wilmer Stultz, co-pilot, with Miss Amelia Earhart on the controls. On either side of the narrow passageway are two huge gasoline reservoirs holding 250 gallons each. These were refilled at Trepassey, N. F., the last stop on the American continent. Below is a map showing the route from Boston to London.

Chicago Girl Acclaimed "Beauty Queen Of World"

Galveston, Texas, June 6.—Miss Ella Van Hueson, otherwise "Miss Chicago," today resigns as "the beauty queen of the universe."

Already selected as the fairest of the American girls entered in the international beauty pageant here, Miss Van Hueson last night eclipsed forty dazzling rivals for the judges' decision as "Miss Universe."

Along with the title goes $2,000 as first prize money. Ten beauties from foreign countries were among those outdistanced by the golden-haired "Miss Chicago." She succeeds Miss Dorothy Britton of New York, last year's "Miss Universe."

Miss. Raymond Allin of Paris, France, entered as "Miss France,"

LAWN FETE OPENS TOMORROW NIGHT

Community Club's Annual Outdoor Social Offers $1,000 in Prizes.

More than a thousand dollars' worth of high class prizes will be given away to lucky persons who attend the sixth annual three-night Community Club Lawn Fete which will start tomorrow evening on the "White House" grounds. This information was given out last night by Robert M. Reid, general manager of the Lawn Fete, who has personal charge of this work. All of the articles have arrived and are now stored in the Community Club.

The prizes are really much better than those distributed at any previous Lawn Fete and are also of a new type. The big prizes actually cost $3.50 apiece which tends to prove that the lucky ticket holders or number guessers will more than be rewarded for their small investment. The four principal prizes will be special tri-motored airplanes with propellers that actually whirl with the moving of the plane, large sitting rabbits in different colors, something entirely new and fascinating, walking-talking baby dolls with real hair garbed in the latest Paris fashions, Indian bed blankets, 60 inches by 80 inches, in various colors, and many other useful articles such as trays, pots, kettles, aluminum ware, not to mention Japanese parasols, swigger sticks and lots of other worthwhile prizes.

Mr. Reid wants everybody who attends the Lawn Fete to go away well-satisfied. He feels that this is one of the best forms of advertisement. The booths, there will be twenty of them, will be appropriately decorated. Wells A. Strickland and a force of carpenters were busy at the grounds today getting the booths in readiness for the activities that are to follow. William Palmer will look after the installation of electric light service in the

Expected No Trouble

They told companions on shipboard that he did not expect any difficulty in entering England, as he merely planned a short pleasure trip and expected to return home within a few weeks. He said he wished to view some of the "old haunts" he had known in London, Vienna and Paris, more than 30 years ago. Owing to the illness of his mother, he said he did not expect to remain in Europe very long.

Shortly after the Aquitania left Cherbourg Thaw began to get his belongings together and prepared to leave the ship at Southampton. He said he would run up to London, have a good dinner and see a musical show tonight.

"LADY LINDY" SET FOR HOP ACROSS OCEAN

Miss Earhart and Crew of Friendship May Start Lat- er Today or Tomorrow; Adverse Winds.

Trepassey Bay, N. F., June 6.—Fueling of the Fokker monoplane Friendship, in which Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, hopes to fly the Atlantic, was completed soon after dawn today. Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Mechanic Louis Gordon put the finishing touches on the big red and gold plane, inspected the motors, the wing supports, the fuselage and landing gear and then announced:

"We are all set to start." Conditions were unfavorable early in the day but the three flyers were hopeful that they would improve enough to permit a take off either this evening or tomorrow morning.

BANDITS AND COPS FIGHT FOR PAYROLL

Two Policemen Shot and One Robber—Escape With $50,000—Big Hunt On.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—One policeman is dying, another was shot in the foot and one bandit is believed to have been wounded when six men armed with revolvers and sawed-off shotguns held up the cashier of the Detroit News today and escaped with a payroll estimated at $20,000 to $50,000.

The dying policeman is George Harsted, 33, a traffic officer stationed at Second and Lafayette Boulevard. The other officer is Guy T. Craig.

Craig said he shot one of the bandits as they started to re-enter their automobile. The bandit fell and was picked up by his comrades and thrown into their car. The bandits kept up a steady barrage of shots all the while.

The sextet packed their car—a big machine—in front of the main entrance to the News building on Lafayette Boulevard. One man stood guard on the curb, and four—all young and well-dressed—went into the building, carrying their weapons under their coats.

They stroled calmly to the second floor, walked back to the cashier's cage, which is completely surrounded by desks, and isolated in the center of the spacious general business office.

They fired twice into the ceiling then commanded the 100 employees to stand up and hold up their hands. All complied.

Two of the thugs sealed the foot wire wall of the cage and dropped inside. The other two kept their guns trained on the employees. The cashier, George Nichol, was covered and prevented from reaching the head of the stairway, one of the men stuck his gun in the side of the information desk operator, Miss Augusta Harg, 21, and forced her into a corner until his comrades had passed.

At the bottom of the stairway, the four men opened fire across the foyer, clearing the way to the front door. There were a dozen or more persons in the lobby, but none was in range of the bullets.

FALSTEAD, OUTSIDER, WINS FAMOUS DERBY

Pays 33 to 1—Flamingo Runs Second and Black Watch is Third.

Epsom, Eng., June 6.—More than a quarter of a million spectators, including most of the members of the royal family and hundreds of American tourists, saw Falstead, an outsider, win the famous Derby on Epsom Downs this afternoon.

Flamingo ran second with Black Watch, one of the five favorites, finished third. Falstead paid 33 to 1.

The "hot favorite" of the turf experts—Lord Derby's Fairway—failed to get within the money. Flamingo was quoted nine to two to win and Black Watch 33 to 1. Falstead is owned by Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, the tobacco magnate.

PACIFIC FLYERS READY FOR HOP TO BRISBANE

To Fly Across Ocean On Their Honeymoon

Paris, June 6.—A rapid fire courtship lasting less than a week resulted today in the marriage of Murray J. Kanungo, of New York City and Miss Bernadine Guttman, of Chicago.

They plan a non-stop airplane flight to America as part of their honeymoon.

Kanungo, who is president of the Bronx Aviators' club, met Miss Guttman on a liner coming to France last week. The couple fell in love and were married at the first opportunity.

Kanungo arrived with C. F. Johnson, a mechanic, to join P. F. Young, a wealthy British air enthusiast, and to pilot Young's three motored Fokker in a non-stop flight from Le Bourget to New York via the Azores.

"I hope to start in 10 days," said Kanungo. "Now that I am married my bride will accompany me. It will be a honeymoon, non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight."

Kanungo said he served in the 72nd Observation Squadron of the U. S. Regular Army. After his discharge he was engaged in flying at Honolulu and later flew a mail route between Boston and New York. Young furnished the present plane and is financing the flight.

Fortunes Came Too Late For Jersey Folks—Does Not Trouble Them at All; Have No Plans.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 6.—Blue blood that flows in their veins is the sole reason why half a dozen people in New Brunswick who for years have lived in modest circumstances, find themselves today literally "rolling in wealth."

Their good fortune is due to a millionaire's secret, but lifelong friend in aristocratic birth and his desire to have the "best families" live in the style which he felt they deserved.

When James B. Ford, former vice-president of the United States Rubber Co., died on March 29, he left a fortune of $14,000,000.

"To those friends whose birth and breeding deserve a more luxurious means of living," the will stated, the residue of the Ford riches was left as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bishop, $1,000,000; to John Bishop, $1,000,000; to Mrs. Sarah Demott Stevens, $500,000; to Miss Sarah V. Clark, $333,333; to John De Mott, San Diego, Calif., formerly of New Brunswick, $500,000.

Once Were Rich

It would be difficult to write the history of this part of New Jersey without making frequent references to the Fords, the Bishops, the De Motts, the Stevens and the Clarks. These names are to this state what the Cabots and the Winthrops and the Carvers are to New England.

All of them once had wealth commensurate with their ancestry. But fortune is fickle and the riches of these families melted away, all except Mr. Ford's whose millions grew with the wave of war.

MORE SUITS BROUGHT BY RADIUM VICTIMS

Twenty Former Employees of New Jersey Firm Asks For Medical Examinations.

New York, June 6.—A score of additional suits may be brought against the United States Radium Corporation now that it has settled $10,000 and a $600 annuity on each of five girl employees who sued, contending they were dying of radio-active poisoning.

Dr. Harrison S. Martland, medical examiner of Essex County, N. J., said he had received more than twenty requests for examination but referred each prospective patient to a private physician.

Mrs. Marian Clapper Valesco, of East Orange, who worked for the company eight months in 1921, believes herself affected by the radium's Alpha rays.

It is understood she has consulted an attorney, preparatory to filing an action.

Two of the five girls granted a settlement, Mrs. Edna Hussman and Katherine Schaub, have suits against the Luminate Company of Newark. The actions are likely to be compromised out of court this week.

Dr. Arthur E. Rogers, surgical dentist, who discovered fresh symptoms of poisoning among Waterbury clock company workers, declared that the mere touching of radium frequently causes debilitating results.

Dr. Rogers is a former Manchester man, a brother of James Rogers, south end mailman.

Last Minute Change in Plans Made—Southern Cross to Start Tonight Instead of Tomorrow as Originally Planned—Next Leg of Trip 1,795 Miles.

BULLETIN!

Suva, Fiji Islands, June Seventh.—During a last minute change in plans, the plane Southern Cross will hop today from Albert Park to Naselai Beach at 11 a. m. (three p. m., Pacific coast time June sixth).

Revising his plans, Captain Kingsford-Smith announced that all three of his flying companions in addition to himself would be in the plane when it takes off from here for the beach from which it is to start its 1,795-mile hop to Australia.

The hop off for Brisbane, Australia, will be made this afternoon at 3 p. m. (7 p. m., Pacific coast time June 6) if there is no mishap.

Suva, Fiji Islands, June Seventh.—After a day spent in tireless inspection of beaches and level lands, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the America to Australia expedition on the monoplane Southern Cross, late today selected a long stretch on firm sand at Naselai, 20 miles from here, as the site for the take off of the trans-Pacific craft to Brisbane, Australia.

His efforts to locate a suitable take off site meeting with success, Captain Kingsford-Smith definitely announced that the hop for Brisbane, 1,795 miles away, on the third leg of the expedition will be made tomorrow.

The intrepid Australian ace, who with his three companions has already covered 5,538 miles in a trans-ocean flight from Oakland, Calif., to Suva, via Honolulu, pronounced the take off site at Naselai safe and satisfactory.

He hopes to take off from Albert Park here for Naselai early tomorrow, flying the Southern Cross for the 20-mile distance, alone.

All day, the flight commander traveled from place to place on the islands, seeking a spot of ground that would prove suitable for the take off of the huge plane, which will be loaded with 950 gallons of gasoline for the hop to Brisbane.

English airmen, who are residents here, accompanied Captain Kingsford-Smith on his inspection trips. The board assisted by members of the local public works committee and his companions on the expedition, Captain Charles T. P. Ulm, co-pilot; Harry W. Lyon, navigator; and James Warner, radio operator.

After the Southern Cross is transferred from Suva to Naselai, the work of loading the fuel supply into its tanks will begin. The gasoline, oil and fliers' luggage which is to be loaded into the plane will be transferred from Suva to Naselai early tomorrow aboard the government yacht Pioneer.

Captain Kingsford-Smith announced that he will hop from Suva for Naselai in the Southern Cross as soon as the low tide permits tomorrow. Albert Park faces the ocean. Low tide time is about three o'clock (Fiji time).

It was definitely decided tonight that the American members of the crew, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner will continue the flight to Australia. Announcement to this effect was made by Captain Ulm at a ball given in honor of the fliers.

SECOND MERRICK GIRL GETS EARL FOR HUSBAND

Her Mother Known as "Queen of the Night Clubs" in Lon- don.

London, June 6.—A second daughter of Mrs. Kate ("Mother") Merrick, so-called "Queen of the Night Clubs," entered the British Peerage via the altar route today when Miss May Merrick was married to the Earl of Kinnoull.

The engagement was announced last November but the earl could not marry under the divorce decree obtained by his first wife until six months had elapsed. The time was up last week. It was reported that the ceremony would be performed at a registry office on Saturday, but neither showed up. Then it was said that the marriage would take place yesterday, but again the principals failed to appear.

About two years ago Mrs. Merrick's first daughter, Dorothy, was married to Lord De Clifford. Both the earl and his bride gave their ages as 23.

There is still a third daughter, Isobel, who aids her mother in the management of their numerous night clubs.

Report Has it That Dwight W. Morrow Is Working for an Agreement.

Rome, June 6.—Negotiations for pacification of the quarrel between the Mexican state and the Catholic church are under way, it was learned this afternoon from a source close to the Vatican.

It is understood they embrace close to the Vatican, they embrace concessions which would open the way for direct negotiations between Mexico City and the Vatican.

It was reported that Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico, acted as intermediary in bringing the Mexican government and representatives of the Catholic church into preliminary negotiations.

HOOVER EASILY WINS RACE FOR PARTY ENVOYS

want to see Herbert Hoover nominated next week and more of them are arriving on every train. But there is no organization among them, and there is no comprehensive plan for "stopping" him outside of the rather nebulous draft-Cooldown movement sponsored by Charles D. Hillis of New York, and the somewhat hazy plans for a gigantic mass-meeting of farmers in a tented city here during the convention.

You can't stop something with nothing," was the rather gloomy summary of one anti-Hooverite. Not the Convention. The Republican national committee, of course, is not the Republican national convention, and the fact that the Hoover forces control the committee is no conclusive proof that they can equally control the convention but the committee members are representative of the party machines in their various states, and it is a brave committee man who deliberately flies in the face of his state leaders. W. M. Butler, the chairman, is one of these Massachusetts is unstructured, but it expected to go for Hoover, with Butler included.

In the case of these contests, the members here voted almost invariably in line with the known sentiment of their respective states. The committee members have supported Hoover contestants; the members from anti-Hoover states like Indiana and Illinois and Iowa have invariably voted for their opponents. A few have been found on both sides of the fence. W. M. Butler, the chairman, is one of these Massachusetts is unstructured, but it expected to go for Hoover, with Butler included.

In the face of this superior Hoover organization and tactics, as revealed in one instance by seven Hoover campaign managers obtaining proxies and voting as members of the national committee, the opposition has fallen back with uncommon vigor upon the "defeatist" line of attack.

"Can't Defeat Smith" "Hoover can't be elected against Smith," is the cry of the opposition. It can be heard in every hotel lobby in Kansas City, and probably by the time the great bulk of the delegates arrive it will be in full vogue.

George Brennan, the Democratic "boss" of Illinois, is being quoted as saying that Smith will carry Illinois "hands down" against Hoover in November. Other prominent Democrats are being similarly quoted, and the anti-Hoover people from the corn belt are holding new arrivals and telling them of the dire things that will happen to the normally Republican middle west if Hoover is nominated next week.

The effect of this defeatist talk remains to be seen. Unquestionably it will have some effect on some delegates, but how much will not be apparent until some time next week when the convention gets going.

Boom for Deneen The talk of the Republicans losing Illinois, however, has already had one effect. It has inspired a vice presidential boomlet for Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, whose political stock has risen amazingly since the Illinois primary in which he unhorsed Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson. So supremely confident are the Hoover managers of their ability to nominate their man next week that not a few of them are giving serious consideration to the vice presidential selection. Thus far the vice-presidential talk has gone in two directions—to the east and to the west. It is argued by some that Hoover being accounted a Californian, an eastern man must be given a place on the ticket for the reason that Gov. A. Smith is strong in the east. By others it is contended that second place on the ticket in any event must go to the rebellious and discontented "gains belt."

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Frank V. Williams has called a rehearsal for tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 for the Children's Day exercises Sunday at Second Congregational church.

Boy Scouts of Troop 5 will meet tonight at the Swedish Lutheran Church at 7 o'clock. Leonard H. Johnson of Holl street will talk to the scouts on "Electricity." He is connected with the Hartford Electric Light Company.

The Past Matrons association of Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star will have its regular monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. C. Tilden, 40 Russell street.

The Beethoven Glee Club will gather at the store of C. E. House & Con., Inc., shortly before 7 o'clock this evening and will give a concert between 7 and 9 in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary of this men's clothing establishment.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge and Shepherd Encampment will take part in the annual field day events, September 15 of Odd Fellow, Rebekah and Encampment, all over the state. The next meeting of the joint committees will be held at 420 Main street, Hartford, Tuesday June 12 at 8 o'clock. At the last session delegates from 28 different lodges attended. After the meeting the committee will have a light lunch and entertainment.

Eastern Star Bridge club members held an outing yesterday afternoon at Mrs. William Dougan's cottage at Coventry lake. The retiring officers were in charge of the dinner. In the afternoon a bridge was played. At a short business meeting Mrs. F. C. Tilden was elected president and Mrs. N. B. Richards secretary and treasurer.

Property owned and made famous in Manchester by Frank Sokoliski, the "King," today reverted to Jacob Turner through foreclosure. Sokoliski is in the Hartford county jail working out a sentence of thirty days and a fine of $200. This no doubt will end the "King's" career in Manchester.

Since the town has been following the new method of caring for rubbish and garbage at the School street dump practically no complaints have been received about the disagreeable odor in that section. Rubbish is burned every day and the garbage is disposed of daily and covered with gravel.

A new gas holder with a capacity of one million cubic feet is being planned by the Manchester Gas Company, Manager, Fitchner said today. The increase in the use of gas and the extending of the mains here makes necessary this additional local supply. When the new tank will be built and the type of construction are as yet undecided.

Considerable excitement was reported on Spruce street last Sunday night when a house-to-house salesman, refusing to observe the Sabbath, visited a residence and insisted upon showing his wares. He was thrown the salesman bodily off the veranda. The fellow "beat it" without even picking up his case and goods.

Lafayette J. Robertson, of 943 Middle Turnpike East, will have as his guest on next Monday night the members of the Hartford Y. M. C. A. Keene Park Outing Club. Mr. Robertson is one of the five original members of the Hartford Y. M. C. A. and is a member of the first devotional committee. The entertainment for the evening will consist of a banquet which will be addressed by some speaker of note to be followed by a personally conducted tour of the Robertson orchards.

Thirteen tables were filled with players at the W. B. A. whist in Odd Fellows hall last night and a number were present from nearby places. At least one of the six prizes went to Glastonbury. Two of the men players were tied for first place. The ladies of the committee served sandwiches of various kinds, homemade cake and coffee. A request was made for still another whist before the weather becomes too warm, which will doubtless be granted.

CHICAGO FIGHTS FOR STATION ON AIRPLANE ROUTE

Chicago.—Alarmed by suggestions from the east that Chicago would be ignored in laying out an airplane-train passenger route across the United States, leaders here have launched three projects designed to retain for Chicago air leadership suggested by its geographical position.

The first movement is intended to bring pressure on financiers back of the proposed train-plane route, to make Chicago a pivot and division on the route. Second, plans are being made for a service utilizing day planes from here to Ogden, Utah, connecting there with trains for San Francisco and Los Angeles.

A huge airfield on the lakefront of Lake Michigan is the third project which is being launched. Alarmed By Report. Word was brought here that financiers in New York planned to exclude Chicago in the rail-air transport service.

Railroad men, business men and shippers immediately met here and formed protests, to be sent to influential persons in Washington and New York, asking that Chicago be made one of the pivot points in the new system.

The proposed Atlantic-Pacific service will give forty-eight hour service between New York and Los Angeles. Advantages of Chicago, because of the amount of business, which might be had here, and because of its geographical and commercial position, were recited in the petitions forwarded to New York and Chicago.

This city, the protests said, has no intention of being "cheated of its natural heritage in the field of commercial aviation." Urgent demand for completion of the east-west service will be coupled with demand for the Chicago terminal system, it is indicated.

The route by way of Ogden would be put into operation as soon as possible with financial backing of a number of prominent Chicago transportation men. Planes used probably would be the same as those purchased for the New York system, carrying passengers through at approximately the same average speed.

Government Attention. The lakefront airport plans have received the favorable attention of the United States government, according to Col. E. H. Schultz, resident engineer of the U. S. Army.

Aviation and transportation officials here believe work on the airport will be started this summer, in order to put it in commission as soon as possible.

The proposed site for the field, between Sixteenth and Thirty-first streets, is within ten minutes of the loop, thus saving time for passengers bound west or east, since both Chicago and the New York services would use the New York Harbor District No. 3 originally had been suggested for the terminal field. This, according to Col. Schultz, accounted for the federal interest.

Action has been taken by varying local organizations here to give publicity to the route, in order to make them financially successful from date of their inauguration.

NOT TO RACE BIRD. New York, June 6.—Captain George Wilkins will not race Commander Richard E. Byrd to the South Pole when the two Antarctic expeditions start early next year, according to Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographical Society. The society is operating with the explorers in their plans to survey the unexplored territory east of the ice barrier.

Captain Wilkins and Commander Byrd will co-operate with each other instead of staging a race to the pole, Dr. Bowman said in a statement issued here. Byrd plans to fly beyond the pole from the base of the ice barrier. Wilkins will not make a flight to the pole but will fly over the opposite side of the territory which Byrd intends to explore, according to Dr. Bowman.

NATIONAL GUARD NAMES ITS BEST MARKSMEN

Those Who Won One or More Medals on the Ranges; Next Rifle Match. Hartford, Conn., June 6.—The Connecticut National Guard has established a list of "distinguished marksmen" including any enlisted man or officer who has won one or more medals in service rifle competitions or has represented Connecticut's National Guard at national matches. The list was established to date from January 1, 1927, and is finally announced tonight when the 75th anniversary celebration of the firm will be begun. The Beethoven Glee club, a local organization of young men, will render the concert.

The program will be given between seven o'clock and nine o'clock in the House store on Main street. No merchandise will be sold, the concert being a treat to local people by the concern in honor of its birthday.

Tomorrow House's anniversary sale begins. Special offers are being made in all lines of merchandise and souvenirs will be given all purchasers. Recital This Evening at Kemp's Music House. At eight o'clock this evening at Kemp's Music House at 785 Main street, Katherine Holliday Howard will present in recital her students of the pianoforte and violinello.

The program will be as follows: "Piano, 'Dainty Gavotte,'" by N. Louise Wright, Kate Giorgetti. "Piano, 'Apple Blossoms,'" by F. H. Dickman, Edward Turkington. "Cello, 'Canzona,'" by G. J. Gitterman, Marian Roberts. "Piano, 'Happy Hours,'" by Ora Hart, Weddie, Dorothy Turkington. "Piano, 'Idyll,'" by Woods, Agnes Gabby. "Piano, 'Frollicking Waves Waltz,'" by Woodrow, Harry Howroyd. "Piano and Cello, 'Romance,'" by Goltormann, Ruth Custer and Mrs. Howard. "Cello quartet, 'The Rosary,'" by Nevin, Katherine Howard, Euphonia Surgenor, Marian Roberts and Miriam Silcox.

GROOM-TO-BE HONORED. Manager Charles J. Murphy of the local Green store, who is to be married to Miss Mary Curran of Portland, Maine next Monday, was the guest of honor at a party by 40 of his friends from this town, Hartford, Rockville and Southbridge, Mass. The affair was held last night at the Wapping school hall and an eastern coast of Spitzbergen, without getting any trace of the missing exploration balloon. The last radiogram from the balloon was received on the morning of May 25.

Hunters at Mossel Bay said that a heavy snowstorm raged on May 25, that the wind was high and that the snow was followed by thick fog. The four Italian Alpine chasers, that searched along the northern coast of Spitzbergen as far as Mossel Bay will now begin a hunt southward through the mountains. The weather conditions off northern Spitzbergen are now perfect for flying.

(Continued from Page 1.) time prosperity. His sorrow at the financial disaster that overtook the old friends was revealed only at his death. Came Too Late. But there is a fly in the ointment of all this good fortune. Riches have come too late. It appears, to change the current of these half-dozen lives. These people have become too accustomed to modest circumstances to blossom forth into luxury.

Arthur Bishop and his wife would not leave their old home and their neighbors for all the gold in the world. Her maiden name was Durf—one of the Duffs of Virginia—and her ancestors once owned great estates in the south. "About the only thing we'll do with our million," she says, "is to take a trip to see some of my relatives in Charlottesville, and maybe help some public charities."

His brother, John, who is 71 and looks like 85, is virtually a recluse. He is an attorney, an abandoned active practice years ago. "I would not know what to do in a big house," he declared, "I would do something for an old fishing pal of mine, who is ill and in reduced circumstances. I can't think of any other use I might have for money. I'm comfortable here, and I wouldn't know what to do in a big house."

Miss Clark, at her little farm several miles out of the city, insisted, "I'm a plain woman and I'm not going in for any nonsense just because Mr. Ford left me some money." The other legatee, Mrs. Stevens, had planned no further than the Bishops and Miss Clark. Mrs. Stevens is in comfortable circumstances. She has a pretty home and one of her two daughters is a student at Wellesley.

"I'm going to educate my daughters," she said. "And spend the rest of my life in comfort. But I wouldn't think of moving from this house. Money doesn't mean that much."

SWEDES TO HELP. London, June 6.—The Swedish Cabinet has decided to send three military planes and thirteen aviators and wireless operators to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to aid in the search for the Italia, said a Central News dispatch from Stockholm this evening.

Hunters and trappers in the Mossel Bay district said they had seen the Italia pass on its first trip, but saw nothing of it on May 25 or 26—the time of its disappearance. # RUSSIANS PLANNING SEARCH FOR NOBLE

Famous Arctic Expert to Start Saturday For Trip to Franz Josef Land. Moscow, June 6.—The Soviet ice-cutter Malign, carrying an airplane and a searching expedition headed by Prof. Viza, a famous Arctic authority, is expected to leave Archangel, Russia, Saturday to scour Franz Josef Land for Gen. Umberto Nobile and the other 17 members of the missing Italia expedition.

The expedition will establish an airplane base in the northwest region of Nova Zembla. The plans will reconnoiter from the base in an attempt to verify messages picked up by Russian radio stations, which stated that Nobile had made a safe landing on Franz Josef Land. Prof. Viza is thoroughly familiar with the geography and topography of Franz Josef Land. He said today that Nobile knows of the existence of a cache of food supplies at Flora Cape, Franz Josef Land, and would probably locate it if his men lacked food.

The ice-breaker Percey, which is now plying on the Murmansk coast will be used by the expedition as a relay station.

CRAZED BY JEALOUSY HE MURDERS WOMAN

Providence Jeweler Confesses He Killed Mrs. A'Hare at Her Home. Providence, R. I., June 6.—Claiming that he shot her because he loved her, George G. Robbins, 49, local jeweler, confessed to the murder of Mrs. Mary M. A'Hare, 33, on the stairway of her home, according to the police.

Tenants in the apartment house where the death shots were fired early today, told police they heard a man and woman in bitter argument on the stairway leading to the second floor and then heard the woman scream. Shortly after, they said, shots rang out and the fleeing foot-prints of a man were heard. Raymond E. Robinson, east door neighbor, told the police that he heard a man's voice scream: "You won't have him. You'll have me and nobody else."

Robbins at first denied any knowledge of the affair, according to the police, but when brought to the room where the body of the dead woman was, broke down and confessed, police said.

Mrs. A'Hare was the wife of James A'Hare and the divorced wife of William Mulvey of Providence, the police stated. She had one son by the former marriage.

3RD DISTRICT VOTES TAX OF FIVE MILLS

Only 25 at First of Series of School District Meetings Here.

The annual meeting of the Third District, or the Highland Park district as it will be known in the future, held last night was efficiently conducted and the small gathering soon disposed of the business of hearing reports, electing officers, authorizing the expenditure of moneys and ended by voting to lay a tax of five mills on the dollar. This tax will be as of ownership of June 5, this tax to be due October 1 and payable before November 1.

There was more interest shown in the conversation before the meeting. Some of the old residents recalled the history of the district and pointed out just how the school was enlarged from time to time. It was brought out that the district never at any time purchased any land until the new school was built. The first school, a one room building, was built on the corner of Hart Porter, but when an addition was needed land was given by Patrick Cahoun and his mother and also by the South Manchester Water Company. Additional land was also given by Case Brothers. Just how old the school is no one could tell, but several of them were of the opinion that it must be about 100 years old. It was called in early days the Highland Park School, and that is the name that appears on the front of the new school.

Although the meeting was to start at 8 o'clock there was a delay, expecting that more would be present, but even this did not bring the number above twenty-five when Committee member George Wilcox called the meeting to order. Fred Pitkin was named as moderator and Mrs. Fred Carpenter as secretary. The reports of the officers were called for. For the committee, Mr. Wilcox reported that the school had gone along in a good manner, the teachers had proved satisfactory to those of the district who had visited the school, to the superintendent of the schools in town and the general progress made by the children of the district was also good. Mr. Wilcox also stated that the teachers were contented and willing to return and were already picking out just what room in the new building would be their best liking when they return next fall; that the school was almost completed, painters were at work and when the old building was dismantled and removed, or at least removed, it would allow for the school to set well back from the roadway with a sloping effect to the street, which would be planted in grass, with walks leading to the building. He said that there was ample space for a playground as there would be about a 300 foot frontage and a depth of 800 feet.

The treasurer, William Pitkin, reported a balance of about $2,700 on hand and the tax collector, Robert Purinton reported that while there was no tax laid last year that the tax that was laid against the district, together with interest, with the exception of $9.89, which was considered a pretty good report and was accepted.

In the election of officers George Wilcox and James H. Johnson and A. N. Potter were elected to the committee of the district; William Pitkin was again elected treasurer; Robert Purinton was elected without opposition as collector and William Taylor will make the rate book.

The Tax Question Because it is necessary to make a payment upon the building, which is estimated will cost about $95,000 and allow $1,000 for current expenses, it was estimated that at least a tax of five mills should be laid. It was estimated that the grand list of the district is at least $2,000,000 and that $10,000 would be raised in taxes on a 5-mill tax. There was no objection and the recommendation of the five mills was voted. Under the last section of the call, which provided to take up any other matter to come before the meeting, William Pitkin suggested that a picture of the present school be taken and kept as a record by having it hung in the new school building. This was approved and the picture will be taken in a few days.

AUTO RUNS OVER MAN CRANKING IT

David Dickson Slightly Injured In Odd Accident; Wife, Baby Unhurt.

David Dickson of Spruce street met with peculiar accident Sunday night when his own automobile knocked him down and ran over him. It all came about when Mr. Dickson cranked the car without realizing that it was shifted into low gear. When the car suddenly sprang forward, he tried to stop it, but the pressure was too great. In the car at the time was his wife and baby. They had been visiting her relatives on Woodbridge street and were just returning home. Mr. Dickson suffered numerous bruises about the face and legs but was not seriously injured. The car came to an abrupt halt when it rammed a telephone pole a short distance away stalling the motor. Although the windshield was broken, the wife and baby were uninjured.

TO TELL NEW BRITAIN OF GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Dr. Frederick Bushnell to Read Paper, Prepared by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, in Hardware City.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, chairman of the town board of health was scheduled to lead the discussion on "Garbage Disposal" at a meeting in New Britain this afternoon at three o'clock, but will be unable to attend and Dr. Frederick Bushnell, will read from a paper prepared by Dr. Moore, the facts in regard to the work of garbage collection in Manchester.

The paper points out that the estimated population of Manchester at the present time is 23,000 and that the cost for the collecting and disposal of the garbage, done by the town, amounts to $15,395 for the year. This is a per capita cost of 66 cents. The average garbage collection daily in Manchester is 23 tons and in this work three trucks are kept busy during the week days and there is an extra truck that is used on certain other occasions. Each truck makes an average of six trips a day to the town dump. Garbage from the homes is collected twice a week and from the stores, markets and restaurants daily collections are made. The garbage is disposed of by the layer system. That is, the garbage is dumped through a chute and then covered with dirt. Papers and other inflammable matter is burned up each day. Ten men are employed regularly on this town department. The original cost of the collection equipment was $2,110.

CONSTABLE DUFFY COLLECTING TAXES

Warrant Method Meets With Success—Many Large Sums Among the Bills.

There is an impression that in town the persons who are responsible for the Tax Collector Howe has been ordered to collect and for which letters have been mailed to ninety-one giving them until June 1 to make a settlement, are in small amounts, but such is not the case. The tax unpaid is on personal property and includes in some cases automobiles and in some cases there are bills that have amounted to $250. Those who did not heed the warning given them have been visited by James Duffy, constable. He made eight stops and warrants were given him this morning and this afternoon he is again out on an optimistic mood last night at the special meeting irrespective of the driving rain outside. It was the opinion of the committee that the present adverse weather will change to clear moonlight nights starting tomorrow, the storm having already lasted more than two days. Traffic Situations William Foulds, Jr., who has made arrangements for the appearance of the famous Golt's Army Band from Hartford all three nights of the Lawn Fete, reported at the meeting that he had discussed traffic situation with Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon and that the latter thought it best to allow the traffic to remain "as is" for the first night at least, the idea being to push it along as rapidly as possible through efficient police supervision. It was also decided to employ the services of a policeman in the grounds from midnight to eight o'clock in the morning the first two nights of the Lawn Fete.

LOCAL AUTO IN CRASH WITH SILVER LANE BUS

George Holmes's Car Hits Big Vehicle When Turning Out To Pass It.

George Holmes, of the Hotel Sheridan, while returning from a trip to Hartford at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was involved in a collision with the Manchester-Hartford bus at Silver Lane. The bus stopped to let off the passengers and Mr. Holmes who was following closely in his Dodge sedan pulled out to pass the bus when a car approaching from Manchester forced Mr. Holmes to pull back onto his right hand side of the road. The space between him and the bus was so short that even at the slow rate of speed he was driving it was impossible for him to bring his car to a stop. As a result Mr. Holmes's car crashed into the rear of the bus, crushing the right mud guard, smashing in the headlight lens, somewhat damaging the headlight and blowing the right tire.

Officer Martini of the East Hartford police force investigated but made no arrests. A popular event that everybody enjoys, The Community Club Lawn Fete at the Whitehouse Grounds, June 7-8-9—Adv.

grounds which will be enclosed by canvas the same as last year. George F. Borst, chairman of the door committee, reported last night that nearly 4,000 of the 5,000 tickets distributed, have already been sold. Last year there was an advance sale of 3,000 tickets and this was equalled at the gate during the carnival. This seems to indicate that the attendance will be larger this year than ever before. Every Morris Plan Bank is a member of the committee was in an optimistic mood last night at the special meeting irrespective of the driving rain outside. It was the opinion of the committee that the present adverse weather will change to clear moonlight nights starting tomorrow, the storm having already lasted more than two days. Traffic Situations William Foulds, Jr., who has made arrangements for the appearance of the famous Golt's Army Band from Hartford all three nights of the Lawn Fete, reported at the meeting that he had discussed traffic situation with Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon and that the latter thought it best to allow the traffic to remain "as is" for the first night at least, the idea being to push it along as rapidly as possible through efficient police supervision. It was also decided to employ the services of a policeman in the grounds from midnight to eight o'clock in the morning the first two nights of the Lawn Fete.

EDINBURGH TO ISOLATE SEX DISEASE SUFFERERS

Edinburgh.—Widespread opposition is being organized to a bill being promoted by the Edinburgh Corporation seeking power to isolate and compulsorily detain people suffering from sex diseases. If the bill should become law, magistrates would be authorized, on the application of the local Medical Officer of Health, to issue a warrant for the detention of a victim of the disease. Opponents of the bill point out that any extension of the idea would mean that about one in every ten persons would be liable to compulsory detention. Such a scheme would cost millions of pounds and lead to vast disorganization.

MISTAKE IN SPELLING KEEPS BOY IN RUSSIA

Birth Certificate Finally Located and Youth Can Now Return to This Country. Many unusual requests come to the town clerk's office, more especially since the limitation was put on immigration. The latest is a request made by a youth sixteen years of age, born in Manchester, who went to Russia on a visit with some relatives. He decided to return home, but was held up because of the lack of a birth certificate. In investigating the request Town Clerk S. J. Turkington found that there had been an error made in the spelling of the last name. This had to be corrected and a certified copy of the boy's birth is now on its way to Russia. It is expected he will be allowed to return as an immigration citizen rather than being held back for a quota sailing.

Thirty Years A Tailor Under The Same Roof

Olaf Nystrom, House's Longest Employed, is Interviewed.

No history of C. E. House and Son, Inc., can be complete without some reference to Olaf Nystrom in charge of its tailoring department. Mr. Nystrom has been with the firm for over 30 years.

Olaf Nystrom

A visit to the tailoring department yesterday found the man ready to give his impressions gained while in business for so long under one roof. He is a keen-eyed man, of medium height and slight build who has an ever ready smile. He admitted to 73 years.

Born in Warland, Sweden, he learned his trade in Stockholm and later came to this country in 1882. He has therefore been living in Manchester 46 years.

In Europe one must serve a long apprenticeship to learn a trade and Mr. Nystrom was no exception. He took up the work when he was 15 years of age and for the next five years devoted all of his time to it.

"One must know his trade in Europe," said Mr. Nystrom. "The examining board sees to it. I had to make a full dress suit under the eyes of the examiners and it was a stiff test. They gave me a diploma and a medal and I could call myself a journeyman. I worked in various cities in Sweden and then decided to come to the United States."

"Why did you pick out Manchester?"

"Because I had heard of Oliver Magnell."

"It is strange but true that every old timer who lives here and who came from Sweden in some manner learned of Oliver Magnell in Manchester."

Magnell was a tailor and Mr. Nystrom worked for him for 12 years and then came to work for Mr. House.

In discussing styles of those days and these, the tailor said there was little change in men's fashions.

"Forty years ago," he said, "there was the cutaway coat of three buttons and the derby hat. Then came the sack coat. They are with us now. It seems that there has been little varieties in men's clothes in the many years I have been making them. There were break years, of course, as for instance the balloon trousers and the skimpy coats but those styles never last."

"The youngster of the old days and the youngster of today are similar. They may tell you the youngsters were better 50 years ago but they never observed very closely or they could not say that. I have fitted thousands in my times and they seem just the same; no better and no worse."

More Careful Than
"I think the youngsters of years ago were a bit more careful in how their suits were made. They took longer to choose the cloth and were interested in every part of the fitting. Nowadays the standard is kept up in the better grade of suits and the customer seems to know that the suit is O. K. Now the machines make the majority of the suits but in my early days it was all hand made and, of course, the suits were better made then."

Secret of the Trade
Mr. Nystrom was asked why the tailors sit cross legged on tables to sew.

"Well, we have found out that one can work better all around that way. It is a natural position and one does not become so tired as if working while in a chair. The big advantage, however, is that the cloth you are working on is not crawling on the floor. I believe that this induced the first tailors to work seated on a table."

"Yes," said Mr. Nystrom as he gazed out of the window. "I've been looking out of that window for thirty years. It don't seem so long and there have been changes. When first I looked out of that window I looked into green fields and an apple orchard. Now all I can see is the back of a brick structure. Well times do change."

JITNEY PLAYERS HERE

JUNE 13 IN OLD PLAY

Will Present Eighteenth Century Comedy—Have "Big Top" for Rainy Weather.

The Jitney Players with their traveling theater will give a single performance of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "A Trip to Scarborough" on June 13 at Educational Square here.

This comedy by the famous English wit, first performed at the Drury Lane theater, London, one hundred and fifty years ago, is now being produced professionally for the first time in America by the Jitney Players.

Bushnell Cheney and his wife, Alice Keating, were the originators, six years ago, of the Jitney Players. Mr. Cheney's father is Horace Bushnell Cheney of Cheney Brothers, local silk manufacturers. Year by year the motorization of a miniature playhouse has been effected along lines invented by Mr. Cheney and Miss Keating. A specially built motor truck is quickly convertible into a stage with all the appearances of a larger theater, including scenery, a lighting system, etc.

This year new equipment has been added to make the Jitney theater complete to the last detail. Seating arrangements are now furnished for an audience of several hundred people. A canvas, big-top that can be used in case of inclement weather, and a miniature piano are also among the things carried along with the scenery and costumes in the company's motor caravan.

A company of sixteen players will appear in the local performance and a three-piece orchestra will play Eighteenth Century music during the performance.

WANT EX-SERVICE MAN.
Washington, June 6.—A request that a service man be selected as vice president both by the Republicans and the Democrats will be made by representatives of veterans organizations, it was announced today.

A number of veterans' leaders decided upon this course at a meeting here. The organizations will not be committed to any individual for the vice presidential nomination. Mass meetings of ex-service men will be called at Kansas City and Houston prior to the conventions.

The faculty is investigating an election fraud in an Ohio college. Who said young men learned nothing practical in college?

SWIST FINALLY WED.

Stamford, Conn., June 6.—Frank Swist today finally went through his third marriage ceremony, being united with Mrs. Fannie W. Snow, of Stamford, the ceremony taking place in his home, 43 Arlington road, with Rabbi Nathan Mass officiating.

Swist was to have been married on May 3, but May 3rd he was shot in his place of business here by his divorced wife, Ethel Feinberg Marx Swist, of Bridgeport. Swist was near death for a long time after the shooting but finally recovered entirely.

The woman who did the shooting is in Bridgeport jail lacking the bail of $20,000 required for her release pending trial in the September term of the Superior Court on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Some of the papers carried a story about a mighty army of western farmers going to Kansas City to lay siege to the Republican convention. That would give K. C. quite a parking problem.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

Dr. P. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had a great success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

EARNING SUCCESS

Four men, two Australians and two Americans, have set a new record for over-water flight. The day doesn't pass now without a new record of some sort being added to the books. But this particular record has an especial emphasis. Twice has expert navigating enabled the pilots of the craft to hurl it unerringly over vast expanses of water to safe landings on mere dots in the ocean. The navigator of an ocean liner might stray from his course some distance and the error mean nothing more than delay in reaching his destination. With the Southern Cross such an error would have been fatal, so closely was the fuel supply of their plane figured.

In landing at Honolulu a mere matter of minutes would have spelled disaster. They refused there, taking aboard barely enough additional fuel to permit making Suva in the Fiji Islands if they did not deviate from the most direct course. Here again navigation was the salvation of the daring crew.

With the completion of this remarkable air trip from Oakland, California, to Sydney, Australia, there will be little left to conquer except the Antarctic region, and this Commander Byrd will add to the scalps he already has hanging at his belt. What follows will be mere repetitions of previous trips or disastrous attempts to imitate the Lindberghs, Byrds and Kingsford-Smiths. And many of the fatal attempts which will surely follow this and other similar flights will be partly due to failure to take the extreme care in preparation, to devote the same time to study of requirements, and lack of the same skill which has always marked the success of the pioneers. Mechanical failure always is a possibility. But disaster surely follows lack of skill and experience, incompleteness of preparation and impatience at wise delays because of conditions over which no man has control.

Lindbergh's marvelous skill is an old story now. He had it when he determined on that notable flight a little more than a year ago. No one knows the hours he devoted to study of every condition he might expect to encounter. That he did prepare himself he admits.

Few men in the world had better training and preparation for the air tasks he set himself than had Commander Byrd. But Byrd spent much time in finding the men he needed to insure his success. Each must be among the best obtainable for the particular duty to which he was to be assigned. Byrd knew that success depended upon the strength of the weakest link and he made certain that there was no weak link.

If one studies the makeup of this Australian-bound flying party it is apparent that, like Byrd, Captain Charles E. Kingsford-Smith was particular about the personnel of his crew. Himself an aviator with a record of six German planes, later an aviation instructor and then a commercial flier, he considered himself well grounded in the fundamentals of the art of flying. His relief pilot, Captain Charles T. P. Um, a war veteran, has been a commercial flier since the war. Harry Lyon, the navigator, rates as one of the most experienced navigators in the United States naval service and the radio man, James W. Warner, is a veteran of that department of the United States navy.

Here, too, was preparation by careful selection of personnel. The hysterical attempt of Miss Mabel Holt to get a plane and a pilot to carry her on a start to England is typical of the notoriety seeker who merely wants to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic by air. In contrast to her we have the start of a flight across the Atlantic by Amelia Earhart, piloted by Oliver Stultz, an experienced pilot who has spent weeks in grooming the plane they are using for the journey. And this flight, on the strength of the opinion of Commander Byrd, is a pioneering venture. The plane is a tri-motored craft with pontoons, the first of its kind to attempt the flight. Instead of making the hop from New York in one long flight, two stops have already been made at Halifax and Trepassy, N. E., both with landings on the water and the last where there was no field for a land plane.

While the world wishes them all the luck there is the underlying wish is that in every case, the utmost of preparation would be required and only the most expert permitted to make the venture.

HOOVER GAINS

It's a legitimate question, this slogan: "Who But Hoover?" Who, indeed? The Republican electorate wants to know. The Republican politicians, who would pawn Washington monument if it would give them control of this Kansas City convention, want to know. So anxious are these last named gentlemen that they are spending much time and energy in seeking the answer. And while they seek Mr. Hoover continues to win delegates. The result of the hearing on contests Monday assures him that at least nine of ten Florida votes will be for the Secretary of Commerce. Yesterday's session seats sixteen delegates from Georgia who will vote for Mr. Hoover. The Florida battle for delegates was a bitter one, the anti-Hoover sentiment being headed by Mr. Hillis of New York and Chairman Butler of the National Committee, both of whom hope for a draft-Coolidge stampede.

Hoover continues to gain despite the defeatist propaganda upon which the ants are concentrating as they see delegate after delegate won for Hoover. They claim that Hoover could not carry New York against Governor Smith and the Northwest committeemen tell of the danger of Hoover losing their states. But Connecticut will remain Republican whoever is the nominee.

THE LOCUSTS ARRIVE

Seventeen years ago scientists predicted that "Brood II" of the seventeen-year locust would appear in early June of 1928. They have been vindicated. The locusts have arisen from their seventeen years underground existence for their brief career of a month on earth. New Britain discovered some. Other places in Connecticut, New Jersey, southern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina have found them, or will. The same scientists who predicted their appearance almost to the day assure us that there is no cause for alarm. The insect, after leaving the larva stage, lives but three weeks and has not the time to do material damage to crops.

There is the chance that where a swarm of them emerges from the earth near a young orchard that considerable damage will be done to the young trees unless protected by cheesecloth covers. Within two days after the males emerge from their skin they begin their song to their mates and a colony in full blast may be heard a quarter of a mile away, the noise sounding like the hum of machinery. They have only a month to live above ground after seventeen years buried. And, chickens, crows, even cats, were relentless war on them. There really seems to be no reason to greatly worry over shortage of crops even in this year of the seventeen-year locusts and presidential election.

JUDGE CLARK'S VICTORY

As a lawyer Abraham Lincoln's attitude towards his clients was to keep them out of court if possible. Litigation was slow then as now, and expensive. Federal Judge William Clark, who has been the means of bringing about a settlement by the United States Radium Corporation with the five young women believed to be dying of radium poisoning as the result of their employment by that corporation, is the present day exponent of the Lincolnian attitude towards litigation.

Claiming damages on the ground that they had absorbed the radium in using their lips to point brushes while applying luminous paint to watch dials the spectacle was presented of five young women awaiting death in a court room while seeking redress from the employing corporation for their condition. It was then that Judge Clark stepped in with his attempt at some sort of a prompt settlement.

His disinterested intervention in a case with which he was in no way associated has resulted in an agreement by which each of the afflicted women is to receive $10,000 cash, $600 yearly pension, payment of $7,500 for past medical treatment, $15,000 for counsel fees and the benefit of three physicians expert in treatment of radium victims without further expense.

No greater example of the worth of a mediator as contrasted with the slow process of litigation has ever been presented for public attention. Both sides are to be congratulated on the outcome. Judge Clark wins the applause of the country.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, June 6.—While other branches of aviation move forward with seven-league boots, the Army Air Service finds itself almost out of gas.

These days when an army aviator wants practice he often has to fly around overhead in circles. He can't fly cross-country to some distant landing because the army hasn't the fuel to bring him back. The army has tried hard to keep its reserve corps pilots in trim, but the gasoline shortage has limited them to four hours a month in the air, which, from the standpoint of efficiency, isn't enough. The reserve pilots are the ones who have to do most of the circle flying, but even the regular officers have had to curtail the longer flights. The cross-country flying is really the most valuable experience of all, for it allows aviators to land at strange fields, to fly at night and otherwise to pick up more all around training.

The National Guard birdmen are luckier than either the regulars or the reserves, because they are frequently given extra money for gasoline by the state legislatures.

It may or may not be generally known that the army's gas shortage kept its planes out of the joint First Corps Area maneuvers off the New England coast more than a year ago. The original plan was to maneuver the army planes along with the navy and marine plane. But the army didn't have enough gasoline, so its troops maneuvered with none of their own aircraft. Army officers don't like to talk very loudly about their problem, but the gas shortage is purely a matter of appropriations by Congress and the pruning knife of the Budget Bureau. The air service just gets so much money that can be used for gasoline and it has to worry along on that or take money needed to keep its planes in repair.

The army boys wouldn't be quite as sore about the matter as they are if they didn't feel they were being discriminated against in favor of the navy and the marines.

They have always grumbled privately that the navy, by playing politics and lobbying, was grabbing off most of the cream and considerable gasoline. Lately they have been especially peeved because of what they consider evidence that the navy is trying to push them out of the coast defense business.

They charge that the navy seems to have adopted a policy of easing itself in on army aviation fields and then trying to nose the army out altogether.

For instance, Bolling Field here at Washington, North Island off Los Angeles and Luke Field in Hawaii.

The army had a grand big field all to itself at Bolling. The navy, coming to realize that airplanes were useful in bombing battleships, began to expand its air force and asked for permission to put up a little hangar on the field alongside the Potomac.

Obtaining the privilege, they built up a large plant now known as the Anacostia Naval Air Station, which, to the casual visitor, dwarfs the army's layout on the other side of the field.

Recently the two services have had a bitter row over radio towers. The army had its own radio station and the navy undertook to erect two large wireless towers which would, according to the army, just about have ruined the effectiveness of the army station.

For once the army rose up on its hind legs and roared the protest down, one is advised. Now the navy is planning a barracks at the field for about 200 men, which will still further tend to put the army airmen in the shade.

At North Island, the navy is accused of honoring in in the same way and climaxed its indignities by erecting a large mooring mast on the army side of the field, hampering its operations.

At Luke Field, the charge is, the army cut down a row of trees for safety's sake, whereupon the navy planted another bunch of trees—with the intention, some army officers think, of squeezing the army out altogether.

Whether the facts are really as aggravating as pictured or not, there is no question that it even has increased. It is even so bad that the two services sometimes make sneering remarks about foolish fatalities among each other's fliers. Army officers, for instance, want to know what ever became of that proposed navy investigation into its large number of crashes. They chortle whenever the Secretary of the Navy, Willard, makes a bad break in public and say that a clique of admirals leads Willard around by the nose. They'll never stop laughing at the spectacle of Admiral Brumby by paying royal honors to a garagekeeper and Providence under the impression that he was a submarine expert there to rescue the S-4.

They deride the failure of the marine to catch Sandino. And, recalling that the navy was yelling for a $700,000,000 warship program while General Summerall was being bawled out by President Coolidge for demanding decent housing for soldiers, they snicker at the complete sinking of the program in Congress.

EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVES FOR CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES

One of these days, perhaps, there'll be a story about what the navy thinks of the army.

New York, June 6.—Within commuting distance of Manhattan live thousands of people who visit the "big city" once in ten years, or, perhaps, never at all.

To all intents and purposes they might as well be dwelling on an opposite coast. And while hundreds of thousands, whose means will not allow them to make the trip yearly, vainly for a peep at the great buildings or the gay white way or the fashionable shops, those who could be within the heart of Manhattan inside an hour seldom cross its threshold. Often their sons, daughters, brothers, mothers or sisters go to work in New York daily.

The other day four elderly women were arrested for shoplifting in a big Gotham department store. It developed at their trial that they all came from a nearby town in New Jersey. One of them never before had been in a department store. Another had not been to New York for 14 years,

One Sunday, about a year ago, while taking a hike in the hills just back of White Plains, which is one of Manhattan's most popular suburbs, I stopped at a little farm house for a drink of water. While talking with the hill dweller and his wife, they asked me a number of strange questions about the city. In surprise I inquired if they were unacquainted with the ways of New York. Whereupon I learned that neither ever had taken the trouble to visit the city.

"But some day," the farmer's wife told me, "I'm going to run down and see it."

She had spent all of her life just out of White Plains. And White Plains is less than an hour from Grand Central Station.

Just why all this is I do not pretend to know, unless it be that some are born to whom the quiet country is sufficient, and who possess no curiosity or interest concerning the mad and hectic ways of the city. They bear their children, rear them and die, and spend their lives in quiet and peace. And the older I grow the more, I must admit, I envy them.

As we've often had occasion to remark, there's no telling what will draw a New York crowd. For instance—hurrying home recently on an afternoon when the city dripped with a soft rain we were attracted by the sight of several hundred people gathered in a semi-circle. All about windows were open and heads were bobbing out. Taxicabs were attempting to avoid the overflow that was menacing traffic and cross-town cars were actually being held up.

A street fakir was up to some new racket, but we couldn't imagine a pitch-man operating in such wet weather. So we went over to find out the what and the why.

There, in the center of this great throng, a young woman was perched upon a sand pile, left by workmen who had been excavating for a skyscraper. Beside her was her baby and she was engaged in building for the child a handsome mud castle of sand, quite undisturbed by the presence of the gaping crowd.

They do say—that straw hats are having a hard time getting started this year. . . . And that lavender bands will be popular, if the weather ever gets fit for straws. . . . And that there are now 15,000 taxicabs in Manhattan. . . . And that few New Yorkers buy more than 15 cents worth of ice at a time. . . . Because most of them have those pigmy ice boxes. . . . And that those eyelash mustaches will be in style again this summer.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(134) Norwich State Hospital

The second of two great institutions maintained by the state for its mental defectives is the Norwich State hospital. Opened for the reception of patients in October, 1904, this institution today has a capacity population, numbering only a few hundred less than the 2,800 being accommodated daily at the Connecticut State hospital at Middletown.

The Norwich institution, situated on a tract of more than 500 acres of land on the Thames river, has accommodations for approximately 2,200 patients. For several years there has been a steady increase in the daily average number of inmates cared for. During 1921 the average was 1,385; last year it was 2,139, 200 more than the year before. Twenty years ago the daily average was 208.

There are approximately 400 nurses, attendants and other employees at the institution. Maintenance costs last year totaled $579,654, while capital expenditures amounted to $40,133, making the total expenditures, $719,787. Receipts from board last year totaled $305,742 and from miscellaneous sources there was derived $31,614. During 1928, when the daily average population was 208 and the employees totaled 55, maintenance expenses totaled only $78,034. That year capital expenditures amounted to $214,919. Receipts from board and miscellaneous sources in 1928 totaled $54,354. The average per capita cost of the inmates per week last year was $6.11 and in 1925, $4.05. The property of the Norwich state hospital is valued at $2,215,062. Complete facilities for hydro-therapeutic treatment are provided. Considerable attention is paid to the matter of industrial occupation for the patients, several hundred being employed in industrial classes or hospital work.

There is the chance that where a swarm of them emerges from the earth near a young orchard that considerable damage will be done to the young trees unless protected by cheesecloth covers.

JUDGE CLARK'S VICTORY

As a lawyer Abraham Lincoln's attitude towards his clients was to keep them out of court if possible. Litigation was slow then as now, and expensive.

His disinterested intervention in a case with which he was in no way associated has resulted in an agreement by which each of the afflicted women is to receive $10,000 cash, $500 yearly pension, payment of $7,500 for past medical treatment, $15,000 for counsel fees and the benefit of three physicians expert in treatment of radium victims without further expense. No greater example of the worth of a mediator as contrasted with the slow process of litigation has ever been presented for public attention.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, June 6.—While other branches of aviation move forward with seven-league boots, the Army Air Service finds itself almost out of gas.

These days when an army aviator wants practice he often has to fly around overhead in circles. He can't fly cross-country to some distant landing because the army hasn't the fuel to bring him back.

The National Guard birdmen are luckier than either the regulars or the reserves, because they are frequently given extra money for gasoline by the state legislatures.

It may or may not be generally known that the army's gas shortage kept its planes out of the joint First Corps Area maneuvers off the New England coast more than a year ago.

The army boys wouldn't be quite as sore about the matter as they are if they didn't feel they were being discriminated against in favor of the navy and the marines.

They have always grumbled privately that the navy, by playing politics and lobbying, was grabbing off most of the cream and considerable amount of the money.

For instance, Bolling Field here at Washington, North Island off Los Angeles and Luke Field in Hawaii.

The army had a grand big field all to itself at Bolling. The navy, wanting to realize that airplanes were useful in bombing battleships, began to expand its air force and asked for permission to put up a little hangar on the field alongside the Potomac.

At North Island, the navy is accused of horning in in the same way and climaxed its indignities by erecting a large mooring mast on the army side of the field, hampering its operations.

At Luke Field, the charge is, the army cut down a row of trees for safety's sake, whereupon the navy planted another bunch of trees—with the intention, some army officers think, of queezing the army out altogether.

Whether the facts are really as aggravating as pictured or not, there is no question that army men are incensed. It's even so bad that the two services sometimes make sneering remarks about foolish fatalities among each other's fliers.

The other day four elderly women were arrested for shoplifting in a big Gotham department store. It developed at their trial that they all came from a nearby town in New Jersey. One of them never before had been in a department store. Another had not been to New York for 14 years.

New York, June 6.—With five thousands of people who visit the "big city" once in ten years, or perhaps, never at all.

To all intents and purposes they might as well be dwelling on an opposite coast. And while hundreds of thousands, whose means will not allow them to make the trip year vainly for a peep at the great buildings or the gay white way or the fashionable shops, those who could be within the heart of Manhattan inside an hour seldom cross its threshold.

The other day four elderly women were arrested for shoplifting in a big Gotham department store. It developed at their trial that they all came from a nearby town in New Jersey. One of them never before had been in a department store. Another had not been to New York for 14 years.

One Sunday, about a year ago, while taking a hike in the hills just back of White Plains, which is one of Manhattan's most popular suburbs, I stopped at a little farm house for a drink of water.

There, in the center of this great throng, a young woman was perched upon a sand pile, left by workmen who had been excavating for a skyscraper.

They do say—that straw hats are having a hard time getting started this year. . . . And that lavender bands will be popular, if the weather ever gets fit for straws. . . .

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(134) Norwich State Hospital

The second of two great institutions maintained by the state for its mental defectives is the Norwich State hospital. Opened for the reception of patients in October, 1904, this institution today has a capacity population, numbering only a few hundred less than the 2,800 being accommodated daily at the Connecticut State hospital at Middletown.

The Norwich institution, situated on a tract of more than 500 acres of land on the Thames river, has accommodations for approximately 2,200 patients. For several years there has been a steady increase in the daily average number of inmates cared for. During 1921 the average was 1,385; last year it was 2,139, 200 more than the year before. Twenty years ago the daily average was 208.

There are approximately 400 nurses, attendants and other employees at the institution. Maintenance costs last year totaled $679,654, while capital expenditures amounted to $40,133, making the total expenditures, and from miscellaneous sources there was derived $31,614. During 1928, when the daily average population was 208 and the employees totaled 55, maintenance expenses totaled $73,084. That year capital expenditures amounted to $214,919. Receipts from board and miscellaneous sources in 1928 totaled $64,354. The average per capita cost of the inmates per week last year was $6.11 and in 1926, $4.05. The property of the Norwich state hospital is valued at $2,215,062. Complete facilities for hydro-therapeutic treatment are provided. Considerable attention is paid to the matter of industrial occupation for the patients, several hundred being employed in industrial classes or hospital work.

HIGHER MORALS
CHIEF CAUSE OF
"DIVORCE EVIL"

Chicago.—Higher standards of morality are the chief cause of the much discussed "divorce evil," is the opinion of Dr. F. K. Fretz, former head of the sociology department of Temple University, Philadelphia.

Two other major causes for divorce are cited by Dr. Fretz: Industrialism, which gives married women their economic independence and removes the financial necessity which formerly kept marriages from going on the rocks.

Late marriages, entered into after the participants have become set in their habits and ideas.

Family life, Dr. Fretz believes, is not less successful than it was thirty or forty years ago, but more so.

"Divorce is a sign that the wife of today demands more than she did a few years ago from her husband."

Conditions Changed. "The whole fabric of marriage has been changed. A few years ago a lot of things were overlooked."

"Why? Because the wife was not in a position to object to a lot of things, and people lived together unhappily, partly because of the stigma once attached to divorce, and partly because of financial necessity."

Things once were overlooked which now are valid grounds in nearly every state for divorce.

"The higher standards of morality and family life in general lead to dissatisfaction."

The Philadelphia sociologist believes the divorce laws of the present day are overlaid for breaking up homes. Instead, he says they are a healthy sign of awakened morality.

"All year around the newly married couple live under the same roof, occupy the same room and eat the same food. At first there is a rapturous feeling of delight. Then comes a change. The decline of romance, the passing of novelty and the period of disillusionment is a critical epoch. The woman loses her halo. The man falls from his pedestal."

"Every imaginable form of marriage contract has been tried at some time, yet there is none that will insure happiness for all."

"We are now facing a new problem, of companionate marriage that really is little other than common law marriage, with its justice on womankind and making men polygamous without financial competition."

It is known that plans for these ships were prepared some time ago, but in view of the heavy cost of modern ship construction, it was believed that the actual placing of the orders might have been postponed for another year. As it is, however, according to well-founded belief, the hands of British ship-owners have been forced to some extent by the pressure of foreign competition.

According to information from a reliable source, the construction of the new White Star liner will be undertaken by the firm of Messrs. Harland and Wolff of Belfast. The ship will be of at least 60,000 tons and possibly much larger. She will, in any case, far surpass either the Majestic or the Leviathan, and her length will be about 1,000 feet.

The vessel, it is understood, will be driven by internal-combustion engines, a system of propulsion in which Lord Kylsant has great faith.

The Cunard Company, it is understood, is on the point of ordering a liner at least as large as the new White Star vessel, and with a much higher designed speed. As it is, however, the fact is not officially admitted, it is undoubtedly intended to recapture for Great Britain the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, which, having been held for twenty-one years, will be shortly lost to the North German Lloyd, whose new twin liners, Bremen and Europa, are designed for a speed of 26 1/2 knots.

The new Cunarder, however, will be designed for a speed of 28 knots, and she will be driven by high-pressure super-heat turbines of a pattern which has already been tested, with excellent results, in a small experimental liner.

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives or friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Pretentious, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.—Adv.

Working Wives. The new order of "working wives" is blamed by Dr. Fretz with a large responsibility in the divorce question. With their own money, wives now are financially independent of their husbands, he points out. When they have a slight difficulty, that feeling of independence causes them to seek divorce immediately. He lists financial freedom as one of the influences tending instability of the marriage contract.

Both men and women should be married before the age of thirty, according to Dr. Fretz. After that, in his opinion, it is difficult for two persons to adopt themselves to each other.

"The elasticity of youth is one of the greatest insurances to marital compatibility. But as man or woman becomes set in habits and temperament, there is greater chance for an irreparable clash of views and dispositions."

WHO'D FORGET THAT? Cincinnati.—A man must be terribly absent-minded to forget to kiss his wife on his wedding day and not remember until she reminded him the next day. Yet, that's what Lawrence King did, according to his wife's divorce petition. In addition, she charges, that the first kiss was the last, for he left her immediately and went to live with another woman.

"I have had a great deal of trouble with my stomach and every thing that I would eat would turn sour and I would bloat up with gas. I did not sleep and would lie all night and toss around in my bed and wake up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. I read quite a lot about ERBJUS and what it had done for my home town people and I decided to give it a trial. It sure helped me at once. I feel better in every way and sleep the night through and awake feeling just fine. My stomach trouble has left me entirely and I am pleased to endorse ERBJUS.

A LESSON ON THE DIGESTIVE TRACT Part 3

Most of the absorption of this digested food material takes place in the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food all through the body, and each cell takes from the blood that food which it requires.

The small intestine is lined with little finger-like projections which contain blood vessels. They stand up into the digestive food fluid and absorb it. So abundant are these villi that they give the inner surface of the intestinal wall a velvet-like appearance. They absorb food much more rapidly than a smooth wall could do, since they have from four to eight times as much absorbing surface.

The caecum forming the bottom of the ascending large colon seems to be a pouch for the purpose of breaking down the cellulose, and the vermiform appendix which empties into it produces a kind of digestive fluid which assists in slowing down putrefaction. Its secretion is very similar to the secretion of the lacteals.

The large colon has none of the finger-like villi of the small intestine. It has a number of glands which secrete mucus and throw into the colon some of the waste poisons of the body. This mucus acts as an intestinal lubricant, and the mucus which has not been absorbed by the small intestine is mostly absorbed in the ascending and transverse colon. In the descending colon and in the rectum the feces becomes hard in the characteristic form.

The whole digestive tract is lined with fine circuitous villi which contract and push the food forward. If this food material is retained longer than it should be, excess fermentation and putrefaction occur which form powerful poisons. These poisons are absorbed by the blood and are known as toxins. From this we get the word "auto-intoxication" which means "self-poisoning."

If any of the digestive fluids are too weak to properly digest the food that they were intended to work upon, there will occur a fermentation and decaying of the undigested food particles. This is the principal reason why it is important to properly balance and combine your diet so that there will not be too much conflict in the digestive processes.

The whole digestive tract is about three feet long, and that from the contained in so small a cavity is a wonderful illustration of the adaptive powers of nature. Doctors are coming to realize that most of the diseases of the body originate from poisons that are produced by putrefaction in this tract that have just studied. I hope that you will resolve to study so much about dietetics that you will avoid those diseases which are caused in this manner.

I have articles on "THE PROPER FOOD COMBINATIONS," "EXERCISES TO DEVELOP THE ABDOMINAL MUSCLES," and "HOW TO TAKE AN ENEMA." If you will send me a self-addressed envelope with four cents for return postage, I will be very glad to mail any of the articles you desire.

BRITAIN TO BEGIN CONSTRUCTION OF TWO GIANT OCEAN LINERS

London.—Although official confirmation is still lacking, well-grounded reports are current that the coming summer will witness the laying-down of two gigantic liners for the Southampton-New York service. One by the White Star Line and the other by the Cunard Company.

Both vessels, according to the reports, will surpass in tonnage the largest vessels now afloat, and one at least—the Cunarder—is expected to establish a new record for speed.

It is known that plans for these ships were prepared some time ago, but in view of the heavy cost of modern ship construction, it was believed that the actual placing of the orders might have been postponed for another year. As it is, however, according to well-founded belief, the hands of British ship-owners have been forced to some extent by the pressure of foreign competition.

OUR TREES INDIANS LIKED BIRCH Just as the Indian found the birch tree invaluable in his primitive life so man today finds countless uses for the wood of this graceful tree, which ranks twelfth in the production of lumber.

Not only did the Indian fashion his canoe of birch bark but he drew the sap of the tree, cradled his papoose in sheets of birch bark, wrote his "picture letters" on strips of it and lighted his way with torches of birch bark tightly rolled.

Today birch is used not so much for its bark as for its wood which is hard and strong and takes a fine finish. Of the nine American species of the tree the yellow birch, sweet birch and paper birch are most important.

Planing mill products including finish, sash and doors take about a fourth of the cut of yellow birch. Probably more yellow birch goes into furniture than any other wood with the exception of oak.

The rich color and excellent finishing qualities of the sweet birch make it particularly valuable for furniture, musical instruments and finish. It is used frequently as a substitute for mahogany.

Sweet birch produces a birch oil something like the oil of wintergreen, which is widely used as a flavoring in soft drinks, candies, tooth powder and gum.

SEEK LUSITANIA AWARDS 13 YEARS AFTER SINKING

Heirs of Victims Begin to Collect Damages—Commission Allows $2,500,000 Total.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington. — More than 13 years ago the German embassy here advertised in the newspapers a warning to Americans against sailing through the war zone on British ships.

That was the beginning of the story of the Lusitania, which was torpedoed six days later near Ireland with loss of 124 Americans. The incident is now being closed. It was within a week or two of May 7, the thirteenth anniversary of the Lusitania catastrophe, that the heirs and survivors of the American victims began to receive the $2,500,000 damages awarded them by the Mixed Claims Commission against Germany.

Most of the money has been paid and the rest will be doled out as fast as the remaining successful claimants file their applications with the treasury under provision of the War Claims Act. That act provided for immediate payment of all death and personal injury claims and all claims under $100,000. The other claims are being paid by installments. The money will really come from Germany, but as it is being collected over a 75-year period under the Dawes plan, Congress decided to take care of the American claimants while some of them remained alive.

The mixed Claims Commission, under the umpireship of Judge Edwin B. Parker of Texas, started out with nearly 12,500 claims for an aggregate of nearly $1,500,000,000. It scaled them down to awards of about $200,000,000. With one American and one German member, plus Parker, it handled both American claims and those of Germany for war-seized property of her nationals.

Four millions were awarded for 384 American death and personal injury claims, the greater part of this involving the Lusitania fatalities.

These Lusitania awards were made strictly on the basis of what the death of a passenger meant in financial loss to the heir.

For the death of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hubbard the heirs received $57,500—$25,000 to Elbert Hubbard II, $7,500 to Katherine Hubbard, $25,000 to Miriam Hubbard. Elbert and Katherine were children by Hubbard's first marriage; Miriam by his second. Elbert and Miriam were heirs to Hubbard's $400,000 estate. Two sons of the first marriage, Ralph and Sanford, were awarded nothing by the commission because their father had not contributed to their support for a long time before his death.

The estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt entered a $250,000 claim and was not allowed anything. Vanderbilt had spent nearly $300,000 a year on himself and family, but he had left $1,000,000 to his widow and two children and it was shown that he had not been adding to his estate. Hence the decision that his death was no financial loss to the heirs.

Aged sisters of Charles Frohman, the unmarried theatrical producer said to have died with the assertion that death was life's most beautiful adventure, filed a claim which was also denied on similar principle. The commission felt no relief was needed, as Frohman's movie stockholdings had increased in value.

The two sons of Charles Klein, another producer who went down, are receiving $50,000. They were born in America and Klein had filed papers for American citizenship before his death. Mrs. Klein got nothing, as she was a British subject, and still is.

The widow and daughter of Albert L. Hopkins, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., drew $30,000 on the claim that Hopkins had always spent his $25,000-a-year salary on his family "because of business and social connections." He had left no estate except a small insurance policy and the commission held that he had invested his salary for future benefit.

Mrs. Andrew Billicke, widow of a Los Angeles realtor, got $50,000 and each of her children $30,000—the largest award for a single Lusitania death. It was shown that Billicke's earning capacity as a realtor had pyramided an original $16,000 investment into $2,700,000 in less than 25 years. He had spent up to $68,000 a year on his family and the commission decided Germany ought to pay for the loss of his earning power.

Samuel M. Knox, president of the New York Shipbuilding Co., was awarded $15,000 for injuries in the Lusitania sinking and $1,330 for property loss at the time. He barely escaped with his life after going down under a smokestack and being rescued from the water by a lifeboat. He died in 1924, so the money goes to his estate.

Many other claims were made to the commission which were felt to be poorly grounded. A distiller brought an unsuccessful claim for $500,000 claiming that Germany had brought on the war and that the war had brought on prohibition, ruining his business!

Haldeman Says Commercial Flying Both Ways Over Ocean Is Practical

Indianapolis, Ind.—Commercial aviation, both East and Westward across the Atlantic is entirely practical, and commercial and mail planes will be making regular flights on scheduled time in an extremely short period of time, is the opinion of George Haldeman, copilot with Ruth Elder on the ill-fated voyage which ended in their miraculous rescue at sea.

Haldeman has been in Indianapolis for some time negotiating with several local firms for air service and promptly gave an opinion on the future of trans-Atlantic flying, while discussing advancement of aviation in general.

"Due to the rapid improvements being made almost daily in aviation, there is no need for trans-Atlantic commercial flying to remain a mere possibility any longer; it would be a simple thing to make it a reality and remote from any element of danger," Haldeman declared.

Longer Flight
"Of course to be absolutely safe the flight both ways must of necessity be a little longer than those ordinarily attempted in a non-stop flight," Haldeman continued. "But, taking the 'land route from New York to Newfoundland, with a landing field available if needed, and from thence to Iceland, also equipped with an emergency field, and then across to Scotland and on to the continent, is to all intents and purposes absolutely safe. The greatest water hazard of this course would be from Iceland to Scotland, a distance of 540 miles, with a field at either end of the stretch there is little element of danger."

"I do not believe trans-Atlantic flights in single motored planes are either safe or practicable, and since the Atlantic has been conquered in both directions in non-stop flights, I can see no reason for any further risk being taken in that direction, as there is nothing further to be gained," Haldeman declared emphatically.

"The thing to do now is to chart the most feasible and practical route between the two continents, and have every flyer follow that route, just as steamer captains follow the recognized steamer lanes."

Navigation Instruments
Improved navigation instruments for aerial pilots and better meteorological advance information on weather conditions will eliminate most of the dangers of ocean flying, Haldeman believes.

Accuracy of weather reports are absolutely essential to the safety of aerial navigation, both over land and sea," Haldeman continued. "Improvements are being slowly but surely developed by the weather bureaus of both continents. One of the greatest improvements is a mechanical instrument with which the captains of ocean going vessels may accurately determine wind velocity at the 'ceiling' or limit of flying height. Instruments have also been perfected which enable steamer pilots to accurately measure the distance of the 'ceiling' from sea level. Both of these developments will prove a wonderful help to the aerial navigator, as he has heretofore had to depend upon the judgment of the various sea captains for his information as to flying conditions.

"If the captain is not an experienced flyer his judgment is often in error, sometimes as much as 500 to a thousand feet. This makes it hard for meteorologists to determine what degree of accuracy what flying conditions are liable to be even in the comparatively short period of 24 hours," Haldeman continued.

"The earth induction, magnetic compass, which has recently been perfected, is to aviation what the Astrolabi, or principle of the first compass was to Christopher Columbus, and it is constantly being improved. With the exception of allowing for wind drift, the magnetic induction compass is now almost mechanically perfect.

Charted Course
"With a charted course and land marks at every 500 miles flying would be as safe as steamer travel. Practically all planes equipped for ocean travel carry three compasses to preclude all possibility of the flyer becoming lost due to compass failure or deviation."

"There is a demand for regular scheduled service between the continent of Europe and America at the present time, with the progress and rapid delivery of mail being demanded in both continents, it is only a matter of time until safe trans-Atlantic flights will be a daily occurrence," Haldeman concluded.

Haldeman also prophesied that the Atlantic would be conquered several times this summer by adventurous flyers from both continents, but, he added as he prepared to hop off in his Stinson-Detrolter monoplane for a business flight to Detroit, a small two-hour trip of 240 miles, that in his opinion any further non-stop trans-Atlantic flights in single-motored planes would be extremely foolhardy.

NORWICH DISTRICT MINISTERS MEET IN BRIDGETON, R. I.

Feature of Meeting First Part of Week Is Rev. Colpitts' Report of General Conference in Kansas City

The annual June meeting of the Norwich District Ministerial Association was held Monday and Tuesday in the Methodist Episcopal church at Bridgeton, R. I., of which Rev. James E. Greer is pastor. Mrs. Greer is daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of the North M. E. church, Manchester. Owing to the weather and the fact that the meeting was held at the extreme eastern edge of the district, the attendance was not quite as full as usual. Yet a goodly number of the preachers of the district came either on one or the other of the days, and were well repaid for their journey.

Among those present were the District Superintendent, Rev. Myron G. Greer, of Norwich, Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, M. S. Stocking and W. D. Woodward, of Manchester, the two former being accompanied by their wives, and Mr. Colpitts also by his daughter. Others were Revs. Frederick C. Baker, of North Greenford; Jerome Greer, Gales Ferry; George W. Potter, Norwich Town; W. C. Darby, Tolland; Geo. H. Richardson, Oneco and Sterling; O. E. Tourtelotte, East Hartford and Quarryville; H. H. Critchlow and John Pearce, Williamstic; John E. Duxbury, Putnam; H. C. Suter, Westerly; R. L. F. O. Burnett, Hockanum; J. S. Pennepecker, Niantic; L. P. MacLennan, Old Mystic; Albert Abbott, Danielson; S. J. A. Rook, Mapleville, R. I.; F. W. Gray, Burnside; C. E. Spaulding, New London; Joseph Cooper, Norwich; S. F. Maine, Attawagan; Lyman G. Horton, Mystic; Charles Smith, Uncasville. The District Superintendent who is ex officio the president of the association occupied the chair the first day, and the vice-president, Rev. Joseph Cooper, the second day. There was an excellent program which had been prepared by the program committee, of which Rev. W. D. Hamilton, of Thompsonville, is president; the other two members being Rev. Albert Abbott and Rev. H. C. Suter. Without doubt, the chief feature of the program was the report of the General Conference at Kansas City given by Rev. Robert A. Colpitts of the South Methodist church here, who was a delegate to that body from the New England Southern Conference.

The first session of the convention opened with a devotional service conducted by Rev. F. C. Baker. After a few words from District Superintendent Greer, he introduced as the first speaker a young man who came to the Conference in the spring from St. Louis, the Rev. F. O. Burnett, of Hockanum, who gave an earnest address on "What Price Christian Education." He like the former speaker emphasized the need of an all around Christian education, taking into consideration every department of human nature.

The next speaker, Rev. J. S. Pennepecker, of Niantic, presented an interesting paper on "What Price Christian Education." He like the former speaker emphasized the need of an all around Christian education, taking into consideration every department of human nature.

and human life. Revs. Duxbury, Tourtelotte, and Greer spoke on this question briefly. The closing paper of the afternoon was given by Rev. W. C. Darby, of Tolland Federated church, whose subject was, "The Federation of Churches." The gigantic problems of ethics and religion in these days cannot be met by churches pulling apart, but by pulling together. Even then uniformity will not ensue, but unity in variety. Revs. Suter, Tourtelotte, Abbott, Critchlow, Pearce, Richardson and Greer took part in the discussion that followed.

In the evening a preaching service was held in the auditorium of the church and Rev. L. P. MacLennan, of Old Mystic, was the preacher. Rev. Albert Abbott, led devotions. Rev. John Pearce offered prayer and Rev. G. O. Richardson read the Scriptures. Mr. MacLennan's topic was "Conservation," based on Christ's words, "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be wasted." He especially emphasized the conserving of child life, that no child should be allowed to go to the Kingdom of Heaven to which Jesus emphatically said he belonged. District Superintendent Greer pronounced the benediction.

FOREIGN MISSION SCHOOLS IN PERSIA WILL RESUME ACTIVITIES SHORTLY Teheran — Foreign missionary schools in Persia, including the American Presbyterian Mission, may look for a resumption of their activities, since the Minister of Public Instruction who ordered their work suspended has resigned. He has been succeeded by Mirza Yahya Khan Karagulian, a reputed progressive.

A commission including Dr. Jordan, head of the Mission College in Teheran, and the under Secretary of State for Education, has been formed to take up the question whether there is room in Persia for foreign schools, missionary and others.

"COWBOY BARONET" PAYS ALL OLD DEBTS AFTER FORGOTTEN BANKRUPTCY York, Eng.—The Rev. Sir Grenville Cave-Brown-Cave, rector of the town of Londeborough near here and known as the "cowboy baronet" from his exploits in America, has paid his debts in full, with interest. He was adjudged bankrupt at York two years ago with liabilities amounting to $5,000 but has now paid all his creditors and all his debts in connection with his bankruptcy. Sir Grenville wrote a book on his experiences while serving as a cowboy in the U. S.

CHICAGO SEES NO REASON TO MOURN HAYWOOD

Chicago.—There was no love lost in Chicago over "Big Bill" Haywood, founder of the I. W. W. But Chicagoans who remembered as a fellow citizen the Mussolini of the Reds' Industrial cause were not ashamed to bow their heads in sympathy over his tragic end in Moscow.

It was in keeping with his turbulent life that "Big Bill" should have an unusual death. Adventure which had "claimed" Big Bill for her own during his life was reluctant to release him. His bride, a Russian girl, who had nursed him through all the months of his illness, was with him at the end. She spoke to him in Russian, and he to her in English—and each could only guess what the other was saying.

Chicago's most vivid memory of "Big Bill" is a sort of a "Don Quixote" of the Red movement—too radical for the most rabid of the reds—probably will be of a war time scene in the courtroom of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, who sentenced him to Leavenworth prison, for twenty years as "an obstructionist."

He escaped by jumping his $30,000 bail and fleeing to Russia. His arrival in Russia was the beginning of the second great disappointment of his life. His first was his failure to found a "Utopia" in the United States. The second was the realization that a "Utopia" built by his own order in Russia and peopled with men and women of his choice, could not be made to work.

Haywood was born in Salt Lake City in 1869, the son of a poor miner. The father died while Haywood was still a child. The mother, soon married to another miner, placed the boy "in bond" to a farmer at the age of 11. Four years later the boy was sent away to Nevada to begin his long colorful career. Without schooling but with a native talent for clear and forceful speech, and with a bitter passion for the "under-dog," the boy, still in his teens laid the basis for his spectacular and futile career.

POLICE COURT William Thomas Johnson of 58 Harrison street, Hartford, paid a fine of $10 and costs in the Manchester police court this morning for speeding his Red truck on Center street. According to the testimony of Traffic Officer R. H. Wirtalla, Johnson drove the truck with two tons of coal on the flat top to Winter at a speed of 42 miles an hour, going in and out of traffic. He received complaints, he said, from two different people who had noticed the manner in which Johnson was driving.

NEW LANGUAGE Sydney.—American slang has its equal or better in the Australian coinage of words. For instance, "Pommy" in Australia, means "Britisher"; "cobblers" means a chum or a pal; "snogger" "snifter," and "pifter" means a real good fellow and "dinkum Aussie" a fine Australian.

STIFF SENTENCES IN SUPERIOR COURT

Hartford Man Gets 5 to 10 Years for Manslaughter; Other Cases.

Hartford, Conn., June 6.—Stiff prison sentences were given various offenders who pleaded guilty to charges before Judge Isaac Wolfe, of the Superior Court here today.

Isadore Lopez, colored, who killed Vincent Perry here last month in the course of what the state said was a fight over women during a drinking party, was sentenced to five to ten years after he pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn declared that only Lopez's good record previously had saved him from being tried on a charge of second degree murder.

Gordon Loughlin, who tried to escape arrest by kicking a policeman in the stomach, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and was sent to prison for three to six years.

Other Sentences of the ed Rossino and Orlando Williams, East Hartford youths accused of holding up a Glastonbury man in their home town in February, were sent to the county jail for one year.

Joseph A. Fazzino, of New Britain, arrested for transporting liquor, was sentenced to jail for sixty days after he pleaded guilty while Leo Dombroski, of New Britain, pleaded not guilty to a charge of non-support and his case was assigned for trial tomorrow.

DANBURY'S DEAD VET. FINALLY IDENTIFIED

Was Guy Roach of Canada; His Wife Lives in Detroit Now.

Danbury, Conn., June 6.—Danbury's mystery of an apparent World War veteran who died suddenly here last month was solved today when Philip Fortin, of Ottawa, Canada, wrote to Captain George Schoen, of the local police force, that the man was Guy Roach, a Canadian ex-service man, who served overseas during the World War.

Fortin has notified Roach's wife who lives at 110 Calvert street, Detroit. Identification was obtained through Ottawa police through finger prints sent from this city which were checked up with the Canadian war office records.

Captain Schoen, a war veteran, recognized the man's condition when he was first taken to the hospital here as due to shell shock and gas poisoning. Certain rambling remarks the man made at the hospital led Captain Schoen to hit upon Canada as his country or origin.

PERMANENT MEMORIAL DAY COMMITTEE MEETS

E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., Becomes Chairman Succeeding Arthur E. Keating—Other Members.

Few changes in the officers and sub-committees were made at the annual meeting of the Permanent Memorial Day Committee, which was held last night, aside from the fact that both the Spanish American War veterans and the Citizens committee, on recalling that George Rix was a Spanish American War Veteran, wished to have him represent them.

The general committee as composed and organized a year ago this month is as follows: Sons of Veterans, Stephen R. Beebe, Frank Ingraham, Leon Holmes, Mark Holmes, Arthur E. Loomis, Wilbur D. Loveland and George Gammons.

American Legion, Fred Lorch, Edward Quish, Michael J. McDonnell, Harold J. Dougan, Edgar T. Morgan, Walter Sheridan, Victor Bronkie, Thomas J. Rogers. Spanish American War Veterans, George Johnston, William Robinson, Charles E. Warren, Thomas E. Murphy, Arthur E. Keating, and Charles Grabowski.

Citizens Committee, John Jensen, Harold C. Alvord, Charles E. House, E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., W. W. Robertson, Alfred F. Howes, Clarence P. Quimby, George E. Rix, George H. Washburn.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. Chairman, Lucius Pinney, Chairman, E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr.

Committees: Flowers, Wilbur Loveland; Speakers, George M. Barber, Charles E. House; School Children, Jared Pearl, John Jensen; Music, Chauncey B. Ellsworth, M. J. McDonnell; Transportation, O. W. Prentiss, Frank Ingraham; Flags, John Jensen.

The only change in these is the retirement of Arthur E. Keating, and the election of E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., as the chairman, the committees being unchanged.

Monuments Wanted A general check of all graves of former war veterans of every war in which Manchester men took part is to be made by a committee of five, headed by Michael McDonnell.

Stephen Beebe will also be a member. Mr. Beebe has found that there are three graves in the Buckland cemetery and three in St. Bridget's cemetery that have no government monument, although they have markers. These and others that are being investigated will be located and a general request made to the state for monuments.

All of the bills contracted by the committee for the observance of Memorial Day were paid. There was a town appropriation of $500 made for this observance and with the bills all paid there remains a balance of about $30.

CHICAGO DRAWS SONG BIRDS TO OUTDOOR OPERA

Chicago.—Already acknowledged as the nation's summer music capital, Chicago will attain the zenith of world artistry this summer at its outdoor opera season.

In Ravina from June 23 to September 3 the leading songbirds of all nations will sing under the trees and stars, bringing to mid-west music-lovers the most distinguished summer grand opera season ever attempted.

Yvonne Gall will come here from the most famous stages of France and will be heard in two novelties, "Marouff" and "L'Heure Espagnole." The former is by Rabaud and the latter by Ravel.

The beloved Lucrezia Bori will appear in August to be heard in her new role of Magda in Puccini's "La Rondine."

Tito Schipa will sing opposite her in the role of Ruggero, which he created at the opera's premier at the San Carlo in Naples.

Interest is intense in the new opera "Marouff," written by Henri Raboud, conductor of the Paris Opera and Opera Comique. Mme. Gall will sing the role of the princess and Mario Chamlee the title part.

The mezzo-sopranos and contraltos will include Anna Correnti, Philine Falco, Gladys Swarthout, Julia Claussen and Ina Bourskaya.

Others to sing. In addition to Schipa and Chamlee the tenors will be Edward Johnson, Giovanni Martinelli, Jose Mojica, Patrinieri and Tokatyian. D'ngelo, Defrere, Basiola, Danse and Cehanovsky will be among the baritones and Ananian, Lazari, Rothler and Trevisan, the basses.

Among the popular operas to be produced are "Aida," "Carmen," "Savallera Rusticana," "The Barber of Seville," "Faust," "Il Trovatore," "The Jewels of the Madonna," "La Boheme," "Lucia," "Madame Butterfly," "Thais," "Rigoletto," "Roméo and Juliet," "The Tales of Hoffman" and "La Traviata."

NOCTOVISOR INVENTOR TO DISPLACE APPARATUS

London.—Britain is in danger, through official apathy, of losing the new invention of J. L. Baird, known as the noctovisor, which gives the power of vision in total darkness.

It is stated that this apparatus will pierce the thickest fog and will disclose the movements of troops in darkness; spot night flying aeroplanes, and simplify navigation.

But although British officialdom remains uninterested it is understood that several other nations, Germany in particular, have approached the inventor.

It is expected that Baird will visit the United States this month to discuss his invention with American authorities for use in connection with aerial work.

READING RESIGNS.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—Attorney General Arthur K. Reading resigned today.

Ordered impeached by an overwhelming vote of the House of Representatives, the attorney general, it was understood, decided to carry his case to the voters at the fall election.

Impeachment proceedings would have been before the Senate.

Bare-Footed Fellow Tells Police He's Got a Right to Go Shoeless If He Wants to.

The unusual sight of a bare and bald-headed, and bare-footed man attracted the attention of Main street residents this morning. He walked up Main street and when he reached Henry turned up that street. Patrolman Wirtalla noticed the man and believing there must be something wrong, stopped him and inquired his name and where he was going. He refused to give the information asked for, said he had a right to travel barefooted if he wished to and to be without a hat.

He informed the patrolman that he usually went barefoot from the first of April to the first of October and didn't know as it was any business of the police either. The patrolman took him to the police station. There the man told Chief Gordon that his name was Elmer LaChappelle and the chief released him recognizing him as a resident of Vernon.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER, after losing both father and wealth, consents to marry her kinsman with CLARISSA DEAN and her father. Her fiance, NATHANIEL DANN, objects to this for he realizes DEAN'S motives. Meanwhile, DEAN plots to get NIEL away from VIRGINIA but fails. CLARISSA becomes jealous of VIRGINIA, and the latter resolves to marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal that her father cheated him out of $100,000. Recklessly, she promises to earn enough in one year to repay him or marry him.

VIRGINIA leaves but has to pass a ring to the over until she can find a position. She goes to NIEL'S studio to find him of her break with the DEAN'S. Her joy at seeing him is clouded because she does not like his compact with DEAN, and also because of the familiarity with which he treats her. CHIRI treats NIEL.

Next day VIRGINIA asks a broker friend how to earn a hundred thousand. Then she asks his secretary how she can get an agency where she is directed the name of a new secretary who wants a social secretary. NOW ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV.

AS Virginia's eyes became accustomed to the subdued light of the drawing room she discerned a portly female figure reclining on a gold brocade divan, a toy dog in her arms and an open box of chocolates on a table at her side.

"Come over close," Mrs. Gernsner urged. "Pietro, turn on some light. We don't want to save on the electricity," she added to Virginia.

The butler walked pompously to a wall switch and flooded the room with dazzling light from a dozen lamps in the bronze chandelier.

"It's a beautiful day," Virginia began suggestively. "Daylight is so hard on the complexion," Mrs. Gernsner vetoed promptly. "Pietro, bring a chair for the young lady."

Virginia sat in a gold chair that matched the divan and took stock of her prospective employer while the latter returned the compliment.

"You have had experience in nice houses?" she inquired a trifle skeptically, unimpressed with Virginia's elegantly plain black crepe dress and customer's smile.

"Yes," Virginia returned simply. "You know how to fix up swell parties and write polite letters?" "I believe so."

Mrs. Gernsner cleared her throat. "Don't be afraid to say something," she told Virginia encouragingly. Then, as Virginia's face took on an odd expression: "Maybe you should like we were alone," she added. "Pietro, leave the room, please."

"Now, tell me how you should be my companion," she went on when the splendid butler had stalked out of the room.

"Well, I believe I'm competent in the duties you mentioned," Virginia stated and then paused.

"Go on, go on. What else?" "My French is considered rather good but not my German. I can get along fairly well with Debussy and Beethoven and Chopin are beyond my technique."

"That's all right," Mrs. Gernsner broke in hurriedly. "We don't have to invite any professional guests to our parties. I've got plenty of friends of my own."

"Wha..." Virginia broke off her ejaculation in the middle of it and substituted an unintelligible murmur instead.

"I told Mrs. Phelps I don't need anyone to get people to come to my house," Mrs. Gernsner explained patiently.

She crossed over, intending to take a bus downtown and save taxi fare. Having my massage and manicure. And you can help Pietro with the flowers when we have a party... fix up things nice... write out my invitations and go with me shopping."

"Stop it, you blithering little divil!" Stop it, I say. "Maggie!" Mrs. Gernsner's voice rose above the uproar in magnificent crescendo. "Maggie, what does this mean?"

"What does it mean? What does it mean?" Maggie shrilled. "It means I'm leaving and the saints will my mummy's of this past week! Will you be quiet?" she began again upon the children.

"Oscar! Come here! Annie, stop that kicking!" Mrs. Gernsner took a heavy hand in the affair but even so she was panting and disheveled when the children were at last planked down in chairs and reduced to blubbering.

"Now, what's at the bottom of this?" she demanded of Maggie. "Them imps of Satan have been up to their pranks again," Maggie exploded accusingly. "This soap in the candy they're feeding me now. Me innards are blazin' like a three alarm fire." She put her hands over her stomach and groaned.

"Go tell Pietro to fix you up something," Mrs. Gernsner advised unseeingly. "I'm goin' to a clinic," Maggie announced firmly. "I'll send me friend, Miss Casey, to pack me things."

"But you came for two weeks on trial," Mrs. Gernsner protested. "You won't get paid if you leave before your time's up. I got to get someone in your place."

"You can keep the money! I wouldn't stay another day under the same roof with them devilish brats for a month's pay!" Mrs. Gernsner turned to the culprit. "Wait 'til your papa comes home!" she shrieked at them.

"That's the third time this month you've driven someone out of the house! You're goin' to bed, both of you. Pietro! Pietro!" she called, raising her voice even louder. "Take them away and give them castor oil," she cried when the butler came running in.

The children screamed and kicked and bit but somehow Pietro managed to drag them off. The echoes of their struggles could be heard for several minutes before a slamming door somewhere in the apartment restored quiet to the drawing room.

Virginia was amazed at the ease with which Mrs. Gernsner changed her manner back to the calm before the storm.

"Let's see... where were we?" she said, trying to take up the broken threads of the conversation. Virginia got to her feet, shaken and disturbed. "I... really think it's no use going further into the matter," Mrs. Gernsner said.

"I'm sure I never would have taken you to my nursemaid's place," Mrs. Gernsner frowned. "Them Irishers don't know how to handle kids," she scoffed. "A little joke and they fly off the handle."

"Well, I'm sure I don't think it would be any harm to let Virginia check herself."

Mrs. Gernsner smiled. "You don't expect children should be angels, do you?" she snapped.

"I don't expect them to be anything but what they are, as companion to an adult," Virginia retorted.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Phelps. I shall report to Mrs. Phelps that the position is not one I care to accept."

"I'll do some reporting myself," Mrs. Gernsner said. "And if you get a job by Mrs. Phelps I'm a customer what she should never see again!"

On once more in the sparkling sunshine of the spring day Virginia drew in a deep breath of fresh air and blessed her lucky star to be out of that hot room.

She crossed over and walked to a bus stop sign, intending to take a bus downtown and save taxi fare.

As one of them rumbled up a few minutes later she stepped hastily onto the platform and took a step toward the door before it occurred to her that it would be more pleasant on top.

Her quick turn brought her up abruptly against a passenger who had boarded the bus directly behind her. "Oh, I'm sorry," she apologized and smiled brightly at him.

He smiled back at her, and Virginia caught a glimpse of a flashing gold tooth.

Then he stood aside and permitted her to ascend the narrow, curving stairs. She paid too little attention to him to notice that he did not lift his hat and of course she forgot all about him the next second.

But when she got up to leave the bus at 48th Street she saw him in one of the rear seats. He did not look at her nor move, but she felt his eyes fixed on her.

He turned sharply away and started to walk briskly toward a store entrance, but there was something in his expression that hid at her heart's core. The words after he had been so apparently staying on the bus that Virginia experienced a queer feeling of uncertainty about him.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Science in her infinite wisdom has invented a "dust mask" for housekeepers. This is a muzzle-like affair, somewhat resembling a dish strainer and a bulldog muzzle which is coyly strapped about the neck and over the nose and mouth. The idea, says Science, is to prevent Milady of the Broom inhaling germ dust.

It does seem as if the contraption is a bit behind the times. Other forms of household science already have taken care of the dust problem with vacuum cleaners and the like. Besides, most ladies modern enough to wear a nose-cap before the wearing of same becomes a great national domestic habit, are out earning the wherewithal to pay someone else to dodge the germs.

Pa Spanks Teacher. A Nebraska father recently beat up a school teacher who had disciplined his son. The teacher had made the boy stand on one foot for a certain length of time and when the boy tried to change to the other foot, beat him flat on the back with a ruler. The school teacher was left town and is not expected to return.

Preserve Our Feathers! All dressed up with feathers in her hair, so many sequins on her train which was just so many feet long, her fan at just such an angle, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was recently presented at court, into her bow, just as court tutors had taught her, before the Kink and Quenck and had her picture taken for the papers—back home.

Study your type. Your clothes should express your personality or they cannot possibly do you justice," she asserted. "Some women make themselves negative by not bringing out a certain delicate coloring, a finely chiseled profile, or some other individual asset they possess."

One woman might wear best the type of costume that was in vogue during the Crusades. If it is perfect for her, all of her frocks and gowns can get the key to their style from it. Fabrics change. So do colors. But if a style is just the right one for a woman, she never should wander far from it.

"Colors have tremendous meaning. I argue one can read character by knowing a person's color likes and dislikes. But color should be subordinated to other things. Line, cut and style must suit one's type of features and build. Then the right color puts the emphasis on an already lovely thing."

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Dear Marye: I'm glad you replied so promptly, and that your letter sounded so much like your dear sweet self. You are really at heart such a sane person, and so genuine, that I can't bear to have you fritter away your time and your life on the trivial relationships that mean so little.

For you to be jealous of Alan's stenographer, no matter how pretty she is, is so ridiculous. Anyone who views you two with half an eye can see that Alan adores you—that is the real reason you play fast and loose with him. You are so sure of him. And I don't see how he can feel sure of you at all. It always has been my experience, that if I stooped to jealousy it developed I had worked myself up to a frenzy about nothing. The thing you worry about is usually the thing that never happens, and the big surprise comes from something you never even suspected.

Florence is home—and is very dissatisfied. Even the clothes she bought in the city seem quite to have lost their charm for her. It seems to me that she bought with very poor taste. I do not think she wears those large figures, and arty effects well.

She is very eager to return to the city, and I hope you will discourage it. Her mother needs her very much here, and from your letters I cannot see where your big town really did anything for her, or where she improved her opportunities at all. She has a positive talent for surrounding herself with men that cause her to be talked about. Just now, the object of her affection is a man who has just come to town to run the book store that is being opened in the new Jones block.

I nearly forgot to tell you that I had a letter from cousin Julia, asking for your address. It seems she is going to Europe this summer, and she wants to see you before she sails. I mailed it to her at once, and you will doubtless hear from her soon.

I have not seen Julia for several years—she has never kept up much with the family. There was a time when everyone expected her to make a brilliant marriage, she was so much sought after. I never understand why she preferred an old maid. She must be over now, as she is well over, she certainly was pretty when she graduated from Vassar. Be sure to tell me all about her.

Lovingly, MOM.

The average number of quick tricks outstanding in every deal is less than eight, and usually this conclusion by dealing the cards ten times, counting the number of quick tricks and noting the results. It will thus be seen that on the average, a total of less than eight quick tricks is held by all the players in each deal.

Initial Suit Bid. The cards have been dealt. As you study them, you often ask yourself, "Shall I bid?" Uncertain as to what to do, you find yourself in a maze.

There need be no such hesitancy. If you have a bid, it can be detected immediately by a cursory inspection of the cards, determining at once whether the hand contains the minimum requirements for an initial bid.

An initial bid is a bid made by the player who has dealt the cards. He also may be denominated the first hand. If the first hand passes and the second hand is also termed an initial bid. This article is confined to initial bidding, as the requirements for bids in other positions are different.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

TEACHERS SHOW SUPERIOR AVERAGE FOR HEALTH. By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN. Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The occupation of teaching is not especially deleterious to good health. The opinion is voiced by I. H. Goldberger who, as assistant director of educational hygiene of the board of education of New York City, has observed some 33,000 public school teachers for a period of fifteen years.

The health of school teachers is superior to that of industrial workers and clerical groups. School teachers average 3.36 days per teacher away from work because of sickness as compared with an average of 6.9 days per person for those engaged in industry and clerical work.

three of her children. Five had been taken by welfare societies and given homes with other families. If the truth were told, I wonder how many people would acknowledge the defeat of all their hopes by the big city for the lure of which they deserted their happy country homes.

And not all of them are Americans. How many peasants from other countries come to New York and New Jersey to seek their fortune in the crowded tenements of East Side, instead of broad sunny acres in the country, where they could have prosperity, peace and comfort.

In a day's travel one passes mile upon mile of deserted fertile farmland, with good houses and farm buildings falling to decay. The first signs of a decadent nation is the desertion of the country. It may not be so in America—times are different from the era of Rome's decline—but it is true that over-urbanization and the desolation of her fields was the direct cause of the end of that great empire, and it makes us think of ourselves.

But aside from that it seems too bad that land should go to waste with families and children needing the rental of farm properties is low and the farmer is not getting anything about farming. The crop will pay his rent and give him food and a living. There are farms needing people, there are people needing farms. We should have a new kind of social welfare to bring them together.

Tex To Disclose Plan For Championship Bout

Little Being Heard About the Big Fight These Days; To Be Held on Night of July 26.

By DAVID J. WALSH New York, June 6.—Tex Rickard plans to apprise the New York Boxing Commission tomorrow of his "plans" for the Tunney-Heeneey heavyweight championship fight and, four days later, he will have another big story for release. He will tell us when and where the fight is to take place. The writer, for one, can hardly wait.

In fact, the fight is such that I am about to fool Mr. Rickard. I won't wait. Be it known, therefore, that tomorrow he will tell the board just how many seats he has in mind at $45, $30, $16.50 and so on and so on. He will say that, after due deliberation, he has decided to hold the fight at the Yankee Stadium on the night of July 26.

Those citizens who haven't heard of the fight before automatically will be the irrevocable fish hook, which only goes to show how devoutly Mr. Rickard is laboring to bring life to the dead.

"Are you hearing anything about the Tunney-Heeneey fight?" An official of the Madison Square Garden asked a Broadway racketeer in the elevator today. The latter said "no" and then reconsidered with the air of one who wished to be fair about the thing.

"Yes, I am," said he, finally. "I hear them laughing at it." At the same time, I wish to deny that I am claiming the fight to be dying on its feet. Such a declaration is not only inaccurate but untrue. It has never been on its feet.

However, weep not for Mr. Rickard. The right feller who fought his sun glasses won't need your tears, either. He will have plenty of his own and the only reason I'm mentioning the matter is that it reminds me of Mr. Rickard, who is so different. Basing the contention on the current news headlines, meaning the mugs, always turn up for world series and heavyweight championships, it was anything estimated around the garden today that Tunney and Heeneey would gross somewhere in the neighborhood of a million dollars.

If they do, Mr. Rickard will be out from under like an exposed chasiss. Rickard's Share He, in fact, stands to win several hundred thousands under those conditions, with Tunney taking some $25,000 and Heeneey what he can get, including a "punch" on the nose.

CAR BEAT MAN IN HUNDRED YARDS.

Partial proof that an automobile can beat a man in a hundred yard race, both starting from a standing start with the crack of a gun, was given in a renewal of the famous argument here last night.

O'BRIEN HAS PLAYED MUCH FOOTBALL HERE AND SO IS WELL KNOWN

Frankie O'Brien, who boasts the big opportunity of his ring career in the bout with Al Mello for the New England middleweight championship at the Hartford Velodrome Monday night of next week, has had a meteoric rise in the boxing game. Six months ago Frankie was apparently heard of nowhere in the rugged game of give and take; now he is facing a "shot" at a title.

It was a lucky day when the hard-hitting southpaw put himself under the direction of Denny McKea, the American, who brought Kid Kaplan to the peak and who has been a real factor in developing other good boys. A great transformation has been wrought in the Hartford middleweight since the day he rolled on the mat for instruction and guidance.

Monday night Frankie meets a harder test than ever before and the big opportunity of his career, if he beats Mello and wins the New England title, he will loom large in Eastern ring circles and plenty of engagements ahead of him. Frankie is a big kid, a big kid, a big kid, the best fight of his life, he said as he finished a hard workout yesterday afternoon. The bout is set for twelve rounds and the fact that both boys are in great shape and anxious to annex the title, plus the reputation of both for high-powered fighting spirit, promises a great battle.

Promoter Homer Rainault has surrounded the fight with a card which owns the names of a few known for action so it shapes up as a busy night from the first gong to the last.

Frank Senk of Springfield will meet Tommy Hamby of Holyoke in the semi-final of eight rounds; Joe Smith of Hartford takes on Joe Laurier of Boston in an eight; Buster Nadeau of Holyoke and Kewi Leduc will go six rounds and Ray Stron of Hartford and Roland Roche of Holyoke are down for a four rounder to open the show.

OFFERS BASEBALL FIELD TO MANCHESTER TEAMS The Economy Grocery Company, East Hartford, has extended an invitation to all amateur baseball teams in Manchester and environs to use the newly built diamond adjoining that company's office and warehouse on Oakland avenue, East Hartford. Preference will be given to school and factory teams, although any amateur club is eligible to employ it upon due application. Requests will be filled in the order they are posted.

MANY DOUBLE-HEADERS IN STORE FOR THE FANS

New York, June 6.—The St. Louis Cardinals, New York Yankees and other clubs which are handicapped by injuries are profiting by the rain which yesterday held most of the big league teams idle for the second day in succession. The fans are also getting a good break, for a feast of double-headers is in store for them later in the season.

IN THE ONLY GAME PLAYED YESTERDAY, the Washington Senators trimmed the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, with the aid of Braxton's good pitching and homers by Goslin and Mullen.

OLYMPIC HOPES

CHARLES W. PADDOCK

Although he has been running in record time for more than 13 years, Charles Paddock feels sure he will make the Olympic squad for the third time this summer as a sprinter. Those legs of Paddock have carried him along in splendid shape all these years, much to the bewilderment of track experts, and his comeback runs this spring show they have not lost much, if any, of the speed that made Paddock regarded a few years ago as the world's fastest human.

Paddock won the 100 meters and finished second in the 220 meters at Antwerp in 1920, but was a disappointment at the Paris Olympics in 1924 because he was undertrained. He also won the 100 and 220 meters in the inter-allied games in 1919 while a freshman at Southern California.

U. S. Should Win 1928 Olympics

By HENRY L. FARRELL To reach any given point it long has been the approved method to hitch the horse before the cart and in the application of this fundamental it is the accepted style in the arrangement of a serial to begin at the beginning and lead up to the concluding point.

The concluding point is that the United States is going to win the track and field games at Amsterdam and it SHOULD be the logical winner because no other nation in the world has such young man power, such financial resources and such excellence of coaching.

The 1928 team should, by a line of general reasoning, be better than the predecessors which never have been defeated in Olympic competition and should be ahead of any improvement attained in foreign athletics.

Each four years the American team should have better athletes developed almost perfectly for the finishing touch—that final touch which adds an inch or a foot of height or distance and a few seconds to a minute of time. There are nations that have a better runner or a pair of them over distances that do not interest the young Americans, nations that may have a man or two stronger with the weights or better over the jumps but no nation has yet reached the point where it has more better men in all the divisions of athletics than the United States has.

With the spirit that exists among its young college athletes and a source of supply that even developed almost perfectly for the finishing touch—that final touch which adds an inch or a foot of height or distance and a few seconds to a minute of time.

Hooks and Slides

That's Only Plumber's Pay! Tex Rickard says he finished twenty thousands to the good after he had paid all the bills for the Mandell-McLarnin show. That's pretty fair dough, but it was about one-third of what he expected to make when he made the match.

No doubt the heat of the show was cooled by all the postponements, but it was a poor advance sale and not the weather that caused the first postponement. Those who like to delve in reasons for this and that are of the opinion that the fight market is off and that the big heavyweight fight will be whisked also by the indifference of what were once always dependable customers.

The Silent Ballyhoo Rickard's method of approach to his heavyweight thing is very unusual. Jumping into June the actual date of the fight Eugene Tunney is to meet Thomas Heeneey had not been announced. Last winter, when he was giving Tunney arguments against fights, Rickard said it took him six months to steam up a big show, but from all indications he expects to do this one in six weeks.

No one seems to be unduly worried but Heeneey. The New Zealand has a verbal promise that he will get the short end of some kind of a purse. But Tunney has the dough whether he fights or not. He is to be furthered comforted by Heeneey, Jack Sharkey has been yelling around Boston that he's going to get the shot at Tunney and that Heeneey already has been given the air.

If the fight is a terrible bust as a financial affair Tunney can have the chance to blame it upon the promotion. He will not accept the blame himself even if he can be proved to him that he can't crawl without Dempsey.

Doomed From Start If there is any legitimate surprise in the promotion of Rogers Hornsby to the management of the Boston Braves the surprise was that the owners waited so long to make the change. When Hornsby was fired away from the Giants by the Braves it was a cinch that Jack Slatery would be deposed as a stroke of economy, if nothing else.

The Braves weren't getting any place with a $20,000-a-year playing manager, so they sent Dave Bancroft along to Brooklyn and replaced him with the cheaper workman from Boston College. It was figured that no manager could do much with the Braves and that very little dough should be spent for having it done.

When Hornsby came along the club found itself with a $42,000-a-year player who has also proved himself quite a manager, and under these circumstances what further need of Slatery was there? Or what chance did unfortunate Slatery stand with the celebrated and highly advertised Rogers?

Carrigan's Dirty Trick The owners of the Braves, instead of Slatery, deserve sympathy if the tender-hearts have any to give away. Slatery, no doubt, can realize on his one-year contract, and he would have lasted only a year anyway. The Braves would go any farther with Hornsby and the Rajah will be blamed doubly. The Braves owners thought they had a fine break in getting Hornsby. He would be a profit at the gate even if he did not make a first division team out of the club, but now it looks like a total loss.

All on account of the Red Sox Judge Fuchs and the other Braves owners must feel that Bill Carrigan picked one fine time to bring the Sox to life.

BOGGINIS, E. DOWD TOP SCHOOL NINE BATTING OVER .300

Rest, Except Fraser, Are All Below That Mark; Two Games Left to Play. One hit makes a big difference in batting averages. Nino Boggini has this advantage over Ernie Dowd on the High school baseball team and his average is 23 points higher. Nino is batting .380 to lead the team. His cousin, Alphonse, is second with an average of .360, but had played four less games. Ernie's average is .357. The rest of the regular players are below .300. Fraser, a pitcher, is batting .333 for three games.

Manchester plays at Bristol this afternoon (we almost forgot to say, weather permitting) and Ernie Dowd will top the slab. This will probably be his last appearance in the box for Manchester High unless he is chosen to face Windham. McConkey is scheduled to face East Hartford here Friday afternoon. Manchester must win both games to win the West Hartford if the latter team lives up to expectations and defeats East Hartford.

Bon Ami Swamps Highlanders 15-1

The Bon Ami swamped Highland Park 15 to 1 last night in an abbreviated twilight league game at Highland Park. Rain forced a halt to proceedings in the fifth inning.

Just how the winning team scored so many runs is not made clear from the box score submitted for publication. This contained only two errors for the losers and five hits for the winners, and yet fifteen runs. There must have been a lot of passes. Kelley and Beer each made two hits.

HILLIARD NINE WINS FROM CARDINALS 9-0

Rain failed to stop the Hilliard street nine from playing six innings against the Cardinals last night at Hickey's Grove in a Community Club junior league game. During that time they chalked up nine runs while the other team was failing to get one. Consequently, the score, 9-0. The summary follows: Cardinals (9). It's been so long since the Illinois boy crawled through the ropes against a real opponent that some of the New York fans thought he was Benny Leonard staging a comeback.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson and Jess Petty aren't getting along very well. Wilbert could trade Jess to the Phillies for Fresco Thompson except for one good reason. That is Bert Shotton wants to keep Thompson.

He might be able to cook up a deal for Rogers Hornsby. It's almost time Hornsby was traded to somebody.

By Frank Beck

HECK! IF THAT IS ALL YOU'RE BROKEN HEARTED ABOUT, YOU CAN WIFE AWAY THOSE TEARS. I JUST SAW HER DOWN IN THE BARBER SHOP GETTING BEAUTIFIED.

The Phoenicians reached not only Great Britain but Scandinavian lands. They found the natives with very crude boats. Julius Caesar, in 55 B. C., found that the craft of the Britons were rude coracles, that is frameworks of wicker covered with skins. It was amazing, however, how these early Britons kept their craft afloat in the roughest seas.

The Vaneti, a Gallic tribe, had stout oaken ships, quite as seaworthy as the Roman vessels. Sails were leather and oars used only for steering.

The most feared and skillful of the sailors who ruled the seas from the seventh to the eleventh centuries were the Vikings, or Norsemen. "From the fury of the Norsemen, God Lord, deliver us!" was a constant prayer in the churches of England. High in the stern and bow the Norse ships carried a carved figurehead terrible to look upon. Sure enough, he who SOWS in letter golf can REAP. Today's puzzle proves it. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.

The houseboat stood upon dry land. Said Scouty, "I can't understand what happened to the water that was in this winding stream. It disappeared, as like as not because the sun shone down so hot. You see, it soon would have away if it turned into steam."

ness me! What's that protruding from that tree? It looks just like a faucet. We had best investigate. They scampered to the big tree's side, and very shortly Copyy cried, "Hurray! It is a faucet, and a real one. This is great."
