

FARMERS START CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF PLANK

Advance Guard Arrives at Kansas City—Politicians See Their Plans Doomed to Defeat.

Kansas City, June 7.—The first rumbles of a major battle over the Republican platform for the 1928 campaign were heard here today as spokesmen for the agrarian midwest launched a drive for a McNary-Haugen farm relief plank. Outriders of the farm relief army, which will assemble here from every agricultural state, were outspoken in demanding a plank pledging the Republican party to the enactment of farm relief legislation, containing the equalization fee feature which President Coolidge vetoed in no uncertain terms. The drive, popular though it may be in the midwest, appears doomed to defeat.

Aside from this farm relief fight, there appeared no other clouds on the platform horizon. Party leaders, delegates and even the farm representatives were agreed that the platform should contain laudatory reference to Coolidge policies and pledges to continue them through another four years. All were in accord upon other subjects, with particular stress laid upon the Republican record of national prosperity and governmental economy.

Starts Trouble
The farm relief plank however, developed dissension among party leaders and delegates. Both sides threatened to carry the fight to the floor of the convention. It defeated in the committee on resolutions, which drafts the platform. In the end, it appeared, the convention itself will decide whether the Republican platform shall call for another McNary-Haugen bill or support the President by pledging the party merely to "adequate farm relief legislation."

Upon such an issue, there seemed little doubt but that the farmers would go down to defeat. The followers of Herbert Hoover, by far the largest single group in the convention, and the followers of President Coolidge, by no means a small group, were certain to oppose the plank demanded by the farm leaders. Together, these two groups dominate the convention.

To Go Ahead
In the face of such odds, the farm drive will go right ahead. Its leaders may have in mind a strategic move by which they will lose the fight for their plank but compromise by securing the nomination of a candidate friendly to their desired legislation. Such a decision by the convention would uphold President Coolidge and meet the wishes of the farm element.

ANTI-HOOVER ALLIES ARE NOW SCARED

Unable to Beat Him for Delegates, Opposition Now Plans for Fight on Convention Floor.

Kansas City, June 7.—Thoroughly aroused and frightened at last, the anti-Hoover allies were engaged today in a belated effort to whip together some kind of an organization capable of stopping the nomination of the secretary of commerce here next week.

Lowden men, Watson men, Dawes men, Curtis men, everybody, in fact, who regards the nomination of Hoover with sorrow and foreboding, are participating in the effort. Two meetings of this sort were held last night. More will be held today and tonight, and probably every day and every night between now and balloting time.

Up to today the Allies have been such in name and purpose only. All of them have wanted to see the Cabinet stopped, but while there has been unity of thought and objective there has been utter lack of unity of effort and command. The situation 'as been unlike that prevailing on the western front during the World War when the various allies cheered for each other but lacked the unity of command and effort essential to victory. Ultimately, the World War Allies found Foch. Perhaps the hard-pressed Allies in Kansas City may yet find a Foch, but his identity as yet remains hidden.

Hoover's Machine
The Hoover machine has clicked so efficiently, in fact, that Hoover came out of the delegate contests before the Republican national committee with virtually a clean sweep.

These contests were ended today. Of the 71 cases actually heard and voted upon by the committee, Hoover won 65. The Hoover managers could have won 67, but they deliberately voted against their own delegates in two Louisiana districts in order to give seats to and placate two influential negro politicians, one of whom is Coolidge and the other for Curtis. The other four that the Hoover people didn't win were territorial delegates whose affiliations are uncertain. They are technically described as unopposed. Thus, for all practical purposes, the delegate contests resulted in a virtually complete victory and, incidentally, the addition of 65 or 69 votes to the already imposing Hoover total.

At all times, the Hoover managers, some of whom blandly obtained proxies and voted as members of the committee demonstrated they were absolutely in control of the situation.

Nobile's Base Ship Imprisoned in Ice

When the Citta di Milano, the ship which Gen. Umberto sent to Spitzbergen with supplies for his flights in the Italia, tried to sail northward to search for the lost dirigible, it was damaged in attempting to push through the ice floes. Here is the craft held fast off the coast near Spitzbergen.

AMATEUR GETS SOS FROM NOBILE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—A radio SOS which he believed to be from General Umberto Nobile, commander of the lost Italia dirigible on its flight over the Arctic region, was picked up here early today by Albert L. Byler, an amateur receiving set. Byler is the Reading railway towerman here who recently received the flash of the safe landing of the Bremen fliers on Greenly Island on the same set. The message was addressed to the world at large and asked for immediate help. It read: "Rush assistance. Position 84, 15, 10, north; 15, 20, 40, east." (Signed) "Nobile." The message was preceded by the general call letters, "CQ," in English, Byler said. He received the

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT FETE TONIGHT

North End's Community Club Prepared for Gala Event; The Attractions.

All roads lead to the north end tonight where the sixth annual Community Club Lawn Fete will be opened. Favored by good weather and a full moon, it is expected that hundreds of local and out of town persons will come to the "White House" grounds, not only tonight, but tomorrow and Saturday evenings as well. The Lawn Fete is the red letter event of outdoor social activities in Manchester and always draws mammoth crowds.

Fireworks, so to speak, begin promptly at 7 o'clock when the famous Colt's Band of Hartford playing several "warm-up" selections on Depot Square. At quarter past the hour, the band, headed by James R. Mead and Karlowski admitted the officer was right, claiming the victory for his own car. Judge Mead fined each contestant $30 and costs.

Policeman Chases Racers and Hauls Them to Greenwich Court.

Greenwich, Conn., June 7.—Eugene Karlowksi, of Stamford, and Daniel Sattarelli, of South Norwalk, spent about fifty dollars apiece to see which has the faster automobile. They almost went to jail in the bargain. For the two men laid out a mile-and-a-half course along the Post Road as their testing ground, and went to it. Policeman Alfred Long, Jr., of the Greenwich force, happened along on the race course and not knowing what it was all about, gave chase.

JOHN GLEASON DIES AT HOME, AGED 69

Well Known Building Contractor Ill Two Weeks; Funeral on Saturday.

John E. Gleason, well known Manchester building contractor, died early today at his home 249 Main street. Death was due to heart disease. He had been seriously ill only two weeks but had not been in good health for two years. Born in Cromwell, this state, May 19, 69 years ago, Mr. Gleason later removed to New Jersey, coming to Manchester from that state twenty-six years ago. Through his business, he had acquired many friends and was widely known. He is survived by his wife, one son, John, who lives in Omaha, Nebraska; two brothers, Rev. Dr. D. L. Gleason of Stamford and William Gleason of School street; and six sisters, Mrs. Joseph Hayes of Hartford, Mrs. Edward G. Dolan, Mrs. John Shea, Mrs. Jeremiah Shea, Mrs. Elizabeth Gorman and Mrs. Mary Quirk, all of this town. Mr. Gleason was a member of the Royal Arcanians and of the Holy Name Society of St. Bridget's church. The funeral will be held at the home at 8:30 Saturday morning and at St. Bridget's church at 9 o'clock. His brother, Rev. Dr. Gleason, will officiate. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery in Windsor Locks.

MISS MABEL BOLL IS MYSTERY LADY

Nobody Seems to Know Just Who She Is—Has Plenty of Money.

New York, June 7.—That most fascinating of human qualities—mystery-surrounds Mabel Boll who climbed into the sky and the headlines again today when she hopped from Roosevelt field on the first leg of her projected airplane flight to Italy. Just who is Mabel Boll? Nobody seems to know exactly and she won't tell, preferring to be known as "The Woman With the 33 Bracelets," the "Queen of Diamonds," or the "$250,000 A Day Bride."
This much is known. She is a blonde, beautiful woman, in her early thirties, with plenty of money, a magnificent apartment, and above all, $1,000,000 worth of diamonds. She first reached the headlines several years ago when she stepped from a trans-Atlantic liner. She was content to sail in those days, wearing her $1,000,000 worth of diamonds. Mabel said they had been given to her by her husband, a wealthy South American whom she had married in Paris. They were his gifts, she explained, during the first four days of their marriage. Thus her first fame as the $250,000 a day bride, a simple matter of dividing $1,000,000 by four.
Later she became the "Mystery Bride" for the husband failed to appear did he appear later. Then Mabel began appearing at all the fashionable places both here and across the ocean.
One night, at Cicero's, in Paris, she dimmed the scintillating splendor of Peggy Hopkins Joyce. On her right hand she wore a 48 carat diamond, while on her left arm were 33 diamond encrusted bracelets. They flashed and twinkled and glowed in the light and Peggy went back to her table.
Then grew the legend of the "Queen of Diamonds," and the "Woman With the 33 Bracelets."

McCannon-Staiger

A very pretty home wedding took place at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when Miss Elsie Christine Staiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Staiger of 13 Morrison street and George Ellis McCannon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George McCannon of 220 East Main street, were united in marriage by Rev. John F. Baumann, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran church. The ceremony was performed under an arch of yellow and white flowers, the single ring service being used. Miss Carrie Staiger, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Joel McCannon attended with honor. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Chantilly lace with a tulle veil which was caught up with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a showy bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of yellow georgette trimmed with silver, and a bandeau of rhinestones adorned her hair. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and sweet peas. The wedding march was played by Miss Betty McCannon, sister of the groom. Miss McCannon sang "At Dawning" during the ceremony and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles Staiger. A reception was held following the ceremony to about fifty invited guests who were present from Hartford, Manchester, New Britain, Willimantic, Broad Brook and Rockville. Late in the day Mr. and Mrs. McCannon left for a trip to New York and Pennsylvania. Mrs. McCannon wore a going away costume of light blue. They will be at home to their many friends after June 18th at 220 East Main street. The bride was formerly employed at the United States Envelope Co. and the groom holds a very responsible position with the Southern New England Telephone Co.

GIRL TELLS STORY OF LOVE TROUBLES

Explains to Jury Why She Killed Her Boss—A Sor-did Tale.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 7.—Steeling herself for the cross-examination to follow, Marguerite Bumbaugh today continued her revelation of her love life with Walter H. Cook, the man she shot to death in his basket factory at Niles. Her hands gripped the arms of the chair, moving spasmodically she went on with one of the most sordid descriptions of the relations of a man and woman ever told. "I told him (Cook) I was in trouble," Miss Bumbaugh said. "I begged him to help me. I told him he must help me or I would commit suicide."
"He said you're a d—-coward. It would be better for you to work for me for a few months. You're just a cowardly quitter."
Miss Bumbaugh was called to the stand after her attorney, Edwin J. Donahue had outlined to the jury the story she was to tell.
"Tells Story"
"When Marguerite Bumbaugh walked into Cook's office that day on March 30 and shot him she was the victim of an insane delusion," Donahue said.
"As far as the brothers are concerned, they didn't know when they went to the office that she had a gun, nor did she know George had a pearl-handled revolver in his pocket."
The brothers, George and Gerard Bumbaugh, and Marguerite are accused jointly of Cook's murder. The brothers are alleged to have prevented interference from factory workers.
Miss Bumbaugh said she was born in Findlay, Ohio, 32 years ago. Miss Bumbaugh said she first met Cook shortly after she graduated from high school in Warsaw. He asked her to work for him.
"Cook was very kind and courteous for the first few weeks," she said.
"Go On Drive"
"I worked late one night at his request and he offered to take me home. Instead he took me out past the city limits."
"He frightened me so I fainted," those witnessing it.
"I told him I would tell my father."
"He said, 'For God's sake, Marguerite, don't do that. My wife and I aren't getting along. We're not living as man and wife. Don't tell any one. You are mine and you belong to me.' I told him I couldn't love him because he was too old."
"He took me in his arms and said, 'I love you, I have loved you ever since you were in high school.' I told him it was wrong for him to talk that way because he was married."
"Later I tried to break away from his influence. I went to Chicago and Pittsburgh but he followed. Always he seemed to exercise a hypnotic influence over me."

anti-organization Republicans from Texas, who had gone down to crushing defeat in the committee, few hours earlier. The party was attended by partisans of Lowden, Daves, Watson and Curtis. Congressman Ralph D. Cole, an Ohio delegate addressed this gathering. "We want," said Rep. Cole, "a candidate who has been a life-long Republican, a man trained in the battles, not a man who only returned from England eight years ago, and who never has been a worker in the ranks."
In another hotel, Senator Watson was holding forth on the importance of the grain belt to Republican success in November. If the convention in next week names a candidate tuppular in the Mississippi valley, he warned, there will be trouble ahead in November. "Go back to '92," said Watson. "The situation was much the same as today. Then again the Republican leaders extolled the prosperity of industry, but they overlooked the fact that agriculture was in dire straits and needed aid."
"The farmers rose in revolt, defeated President Benjamin Harrison and nearly wrecked the Republican Party." Again in 1912, the farmers rose against Taft. His plan of reciprocity with Canada was extremely unpopular in the agricultural states.
With the exception of Roosevelt and Coolidge, who stepped into the White House from the vice presidency, the Republican party had nominated but two men, Watson pointed out, who lived outside the Mississippi valley—Bainne and Hughes. Both were defeated.
This is the line of attack of the hard-pressed allies—Hoover's alleged unpopularity from the Allies' alleged loss of the vote. "Lose the farm vote and you lose the election," is the burden of their cry.
The warning cry is growing in volume as the Allies become more and more disturbed over the obvious Hoover trend. It will reach crescendo proportions in a few days with the expected descent upon Kansas City of thousands of farmers from nearby grain states.
Meantime, the committee on ways and means of stopping Hoover is constantly in session.

TWO PHONE OPERATORS GIVEN SHOWER PARTY

Miss Virginia De Han and Miss Dorothy Maloney, Soon to Be Married, Showered.

The "Thank You Girls" from the local office of the Southern New England Telephone Co., gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Betty Moriarty at 49 Summer street last night in honor of Miss Virginia De Han and Miss Dorothy Maloney, who will be married in the near future.
The party started at 8:30 and the high light of the evening's entertainment was a mock marriage with the parts played by the following: Bride, Peggy McKinney; groom, Helen McCann; maid of honor, Mildred White; best man Myrtle Matchett; minister, Ruth Sauter; Farmer Jones, who gives his daughter away, Mildred Greenwood.
The evening was brought to a close with a buffet lunch. The brides-to-be received many gifts from their friends at the office.

Brave Mud and Rain to Eat Salmon Dinner at Game Club in Hebron.

Thirty members of the Manchester Kiwanis club drove out to the Hebron Game club headquarters last evening where they enjoyed a salmon dinner. Chef Osgood catered and was assisted by Nate Richards in the serving. Beside the fish there was new potatoes, asparagus, salads, and strawberry shortcake on the menu. The dinner was the outcome of the annual attendance contest and the losers paid the bill. For an hour before the dinner was ready the men pitched horseshoes at pegs in the green turf. The heavy rains of the past few days made the going somewhat difficult. At times the road seemed almost impassable. Most of the men returned by way of John Tom Hill and Buckingham.

As announced yesterday, unusually good prizes are to be given away to the lucky ticket holders and number guessers. In all, over a thousand dollars worth of articles are ready for disposal. The top prizes are valued at nearly four dollars apiece. Bunnies have taken the place of the ancient teddy-bear prizes. Lindy airplanes with propellers that really whirl, are another feature.
William Foulds, Jr., stated this morning that the line situation will be well cared for by the Manchester Police Department. Arrangements to that effect have been made with Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon. Parking will be allowed on the north side of North Main street. However, there will be available spaces for parking about 75 cars in the rear of the Community Club with an entrance from Oakland street. There will be no charge for this. Parking space is also available in Apple Place on Woodbridge street, not to mention numerous other nearby streets.

Past Matrons and Patrons' Night

Hope Chapter, O. E. S., observed Past Matrons' and Past Patrons' Night on Tuesday evening. At 6:30 o'clock a bountiful supper was in Wesleyan Hall by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church to about 80 members. Following the supper, members adjourned to Masonic Hall, where the regular business meeting was held. The Past Matrons and Past Patrons, twenty in number, were escorted to their respective chairs by a group of young ladies in flower drill, the officers passing through a rose arbor. Each officer was presented with a red rose upon reaching her station. This drill was most effective and received high compliments from those witnessing it. During the evening a young ladies' choir rendered several songs. The degree was conferred upon a class of three candidates in a most creditable manner. Mrs. Emily Metcalf and Miss Gladys Palmer rendered several solos which were greatly enjoyed. Guests were present from Hartford, East Hartford and Manchester. Following the meeting, ice cream and cake were served and a social hour enjoyed. The next meeting will be held June 19th and will be observed as "Children's Night."
Loses Suit Against Gulf Refining
The jury in the Tolland County Superior Court, after a deliberation of one hour Tuesday, found for the Gulf Refining Company in the suit brought by Levator J. McIntyre. Mr. McIntyre was suing the company for damages resulting from a fall which he had about six months ago at the company's gas station in Willimantic. The trial started Tuesday and continued all day, the verdict being brought in at 5 o'clock. Judge Christopher L. Avery presided.

tion fee or its equivalent, while actually bringing them relief."
Rawson's Opinion
Former Senator Charles Rawson, of Iowa, was the midwest leader declaring in favor of an "equalization fee" plank.
"We have had too many generalities in the farm relief planks of the past," said Rawson. "We must have a plank this year declaring for adequate farm relief through the medium of an equalization fee or its equivalent."
From the Hoover supporters came an entirely different prediction. Former senator Richard P. Ernst of Kentucky, was outspoken in denouncing the farm proposal for a "McNary-Haugen plank."
"The platform," Ernst declared, "must laud the Coolidge administration and the wise policies the President followed to bring prosperity to the American people. On farm relief, it must pledge a legislative remedy, other than the McNary-Haugen bill. That measure, if endorsed by the Republican party, will be as harmful to us as was the old free silver issue, to the Democrats a few decades ago. The party cannot afford to endorse it."
Whereas storm clouds loomed over the farm plank, the rest of the platform seemed likely to be agreed upon even before the convention assemblies. Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, who will be chairman of the platform committee, already has begun to draft the prospectively financial and tariff planks. He will "point with pride" to the national debt reduction, to economy in government and to tax reduction. Aside from the farm plank, these will be the "Big Three" issues upon which the Republican party rides to its fate in November, so far as the platform is concerned.

THE WIRE TAPPING DECISION

The Supreme Court of the United States in its five to four decision that tapping of telephone wires for purposes of obtaining evidence is not in contravention of the Fourth and Fifth amendments has struck to the bare letter of the law rather than the intent. Had telephones been in general use when the amendments were drafted there can be no doubt but the intent of the law would have been made plain. This decision of the majority of the court has the weight of law but public sentiment unquestionably will believe that private telephone conversations should be free from the possibility of wire tapping by over-zealous or unscrupulous officers intent on obtaining evidence. This privilege seems to open wide the door to blackmail when, for instance, an officer by means of wire tapping seeks possible evidence of a case of bootlegging and overhears conversation relating to domestic difficulties. A dozen variations offer themselves after a moment's consideration of the possibilities.

Regardless of whether the five justices or the four are right it is unmistakable that it is another stretching of the intent of the law in the attempt to enforce prohibition. This was a case taken before the Supreme Court to determine whether six prohibition agents, intercepting private telephone communications by tapping wires, were outside of the rights guaranteed the public by the Fourth and Fifth amendments. The government made no attempt to defend the methods adopted by its agents and the court decided by five to four that the use of evidence so obtained does not constitute violation of the amendments. "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated," reads the Fourth Amendment. The Fifth provides among other things that no person shall be compelled to be a witness against himself. Because the wires leading to the houses are not part of the home the majority opinion holds that they do not come within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment. It is suggested that Congress may enact laws to enlarge upon the meaning of the particular amendment.

We believe that the majority of mere laymen will side with Justice Brandeis in his minority opinion in which he says:

"Discovery and invention have made it possible for the Government, by means more effective than those stretching upon the rack, to obtain disclosure in court of what is whispered in the closet. Can it be," he asks, "that the Constitution affords no protection against such invasions of individual security?"

READING'S RESIGNATION

Arthur K. Reading, attorney general of Massachusetts, yesterday resigned his office. A vote in the House the preceding day of 198 to 180 to impeach him caused his quitting his office under fire. He had been accused of misconduct and maladministration. By resigning he saved himself certain removal from office. It was shown in the preliminary hearing that beyond reasonable doubt he had used his high office to extract money from different concerns for his personal gain.

Mr. Reading's forced resignation will have inevitable reaction on the influence of the Anti-Saloon League of that state and its dictator, William A. Forgrave. Mr. Reading was their candidate "because he is dry." With organizations of that type, led by a man of Mr. Forgrave's stamp, being "dry" is the sole standard of integrity. Nothing else matters. In their usual way they have claimed that "wet interests" were behind the charges made against the attorney general. An innocent man seldom resigns under fire. Mr. Reading has resigned and if it be true that "wet interests" alone were responsible for removal from office of a man who had dishonored the service of the state, it is well for the state that the "wets" are neither blind nor afraid.

AUTOMATIC COPYRIGHT

Delegates from thirty nations have just signed a new copyright law which is to be submitted to the respective parliaments of each country for ratification. It has been nineteen years since the United States has made any important changes in its copyright laws. The introduction of broadcasting has from the first resulted in trouble with authors and composers. This, assuming that the various legislatures approve of the unanimous decision of the delegates from the various countries, is now in a way of being cleared up.

The law proposed is known as "automatic copyright"; that is to say, the works of authors or musicians will be copyrighted without need of further formalities from the very moment they are set down on paper. At the instance of Sol Bloom, the American delegate, "oral copyright" whereby oral utterances were to be automatically copyrighted, was subjected to long discussion but was finally abandoned by the conference. It does seem that this would be opening the way wide to endless dispute and would be impossible of enforcement.

But the most important point won by the American delegation was that whereby broadcasting should be subjected to the ordinary copyright law. On this the agreement states that "Authors of literary and artistic works have the sole right to authorize communication of their work to the public by means of the radio."

The United States does not belong to the Copyright Union and membership in this, Mr. Bloom believes, is vitally important and he will introduce an enabling bill in Congress.

THE BEN BESS CASE
Thirteen years ago this month a well-to-do negro farmer in South Carolina, on the testimony of Maude Collins, a white woman, was convicted of criminal assault and sentenced to 30 years imprisonment. He protested that he was innocent. It now develops that not a lawyer in the court room believed the man to have been guilty. A few days ago this woman, believing that she was about to die, confessed that her testimony had been false. Ben Bess was promptly released but he was financially ruined. A newspaper of that state promptly opened a subscription for him and several hundred dollars was received within a few days. The woman, so far as press reports show, is free and unfettered. What her object might have been does not appear. But the whole case may be taken as another example of the fallibility of the American jury system, particularly where racial prejudice is absolutely certain to be in evidence among those who have the decision to make.

THE STATE APPROVES

The re-appointment of Hugh M. Alcorn as State's Attorney of Hartford county for two years more is reason for gratification throughout the state. For twenty years he has repeatedly demonstrated exceptional fitness for the office he has honored, not only as a lawyer but as chief prosecuting officer. His time has been the state's which he has served so well. He has faithfully and unselfishly given of his best for the good of all. Legal skill, keenness of mind and determination in the prosecution of the cases that have been his to handle have won for him a success well deserved and which but few so completely achieve. The state may rest secure in the knowledge that a capable, honest, efficient State's Attorney is in office for two more years.

OFF TO EUROPE

Commencements and graduations have released a throng of professors, teachers and students for the annual pilgrimage to Europe. To most of us a sea voyage holds a strong attraction, at least until we know definitely whether we are immune from the disturbing influence of the motion of the sea. Undoubtedly the cheap automobile has had much to do with seeing America first. But not so much as the cheap living abroad has had in influencing many to take their first, or second, or eleventh, trip abroad. And this matter of expense enters greatly into this matter of a vacation. As one prominent professor of a Massachusetts college, who is preparing to leave next week with his wife for a five months' trip abroad, said in referring to a shorter trip last year: "I doled out more cash in getting from the pier in New York and on our train than I had done to live a week in comfortable quarters in London." And that explains the familiarity of many born and bred New Englanders with historic spots of England and France, even though they never have viewed Bunker Hill monument, Plymouth Rock or Concord Bridge that could be seen at the expense of the cost of a few gallons of gasoline. And the hotel proprietors of Europe are set for the influx.

OFF TO EUROPE

Commencements and graduations have released a throng of professors, teachers and students for

New York, June 7.—From Will Hays' new front window, Manhattan is indeed a dream city.

Perched, as Mons Hays soon will be, 37 stories above the street—or some 60 feet above the pavement—the panorama of the city is breath taking. True, a windy day in the street below may seem like a couple of gales to the "car of film." And a mild zephyr may appear to be whipping it up at a 60-mile-an-hour gale when one is perched at one of New York's highest apartment points.

But, just below, stretches Central park, with the morning mist rising from the lakes and the acres of trees dew-drenched and hazy. Or, upon a sunnier morning, the parkway drives become a diamond bed of sparkling stones and the trees and flower gardens are bathed in a golden flood.

While, all about, the city flaunts its angles, cubes and turrets, like some gargantuan improvisation on the old Mayan architecture. For that which man has built in New York can be quite as beautiful and spellbinding as anything on this whirling globe—and that, in spite of all the ugliness that this city tucks under its silken, rustling skirts.

What we started out to say, however, is that Will Hays will soon take up apartments in one of Gotham's highest residential spots. A large number of active men find quiet and comfort in the sky-touching apartments. Eight or nine floors above the ground the sounds of traffic and the echoes of mechanical conflict begin to seem little more than echoes of a far-away surf. After the 13th floor the din all but dies. Arthur Brisbane has for years done a great deal of his writing in the high places and reports it quite as quiet as in the country-side.

Strangers invariably point out that a great deal of Manhattan's traffic strain could be lessened if empty taxicabs were to be kept off the main thoroughfares. The fact is that more than 50 per cent of the taxis that cram the New York highways are unoccupied, and the drivers g. back and forth where the crowds are densest looking for trade. One of these days they will be allotted certain routes, and will have to remain in them.

Better Ranges and Better Values

Quality was the chief point we considered when selecting our line of ranges. Designs had to be the newest. Materials that went into the ranges had to be the best and the construction, from the first castings to the final polishing, the finest.

Ranges of this high quality are as low in price, and in many cases lower, than inferior kinds. The 4 burner cabinet gas range sketched, with separate broiler and oven—a genuine Crawford—is only $40.

EATING FOR BRAIN POWER

Successful business men have undergone a remarkable change in personal appearance within the past two generations. A few years ago a man was not considered a capitalist unless he was fat, but now, with scarcely an exception, the keenest minded industrial leaders and those who have captured the greatest fortunes are lean individuals.

The older generation of moneyed men was inclined to be corpulent, such as the elder Morgan and Diamond Jim Brady. Henry Ford, Andrew Mellon, and John D. Rockefeller are examples of the modern industrial leader.

At one time it was the custom of the business man to doze away several hours of valuable time after his hearty noon dinner, but these old fashioned, easy going habits will not fit in with the changes of this age of keen competition.

It is interesting to inquire about the diet of those who are in the ranks of the foremost thinkers. Almost without exception they are the light eaters. They may smoke to excess—they may drink themselves under the table—but they have learned from experience that eating rich food cuts down their earning capacity.

Almost everyone has experienced that drowsy feeling after eating a heavy meal. While it does not make much difference to the average person, it is of the utmost importance for one who lives by his brain, to be clear and wide awake during his working hours. Heavy meals make such a great demand upon the alimentary organs that the nervous system must be robbed of the blood which would be used in thinking processes. All vital functions that are not essential to life are suspended, and a state of body and mental lethargy ensues. In other words, we become "luggish."

If by a supreme effort of will, one were to force mental activity immediately after a heavy meal, he would be very apt to suffer indigestion. It is possible to indulge in mental activity for a limited time with the use of stimulants, but this is only a spur on the already overtaxed nervous system and if continued, will eventually result in a nervous breakdown.

Mental power should improve with age, and if a light non-starchy diet is adhered to, this will be the natural happy result.

The diet of a brain worker should consist mainly of fresh fruits, non-starchy vegetables, protein and small amounts of fat and natural dried fruits. The starch should be closely restricted, the amount used depending on the exercise.

The man who wants to be a success cannot afford to burden himself for the day with a breakfast of sausage, sinkers, and hot cakes; he will very likely be out-distanced by his keen minded competitor who has eaten a simple, wholesome breakfast.

The amount of bread and cereal foods that a brain worker uses should be kept at a minimum. The idea of eating for efficiency may seem a bit restricted, but you will be richly repaid by an increased mental and nervous energy.

Try it, and you will be able to pluck the plums of success; and those who are too lazy to change their habits of eating, exercising, and thinking will wonder why you are so "lucky" or how you get your "pull."

Questions and Answers
 Question: Mrs. H. G. writes: "I have read with interest your various articles, and especially have watched for an item or gaining instead of reducing. I think there are just as many slim people who need advice as there are fat ones. Do you think milked milk all during the day will make me take on flesh? I want to gain just a little—I am so thin."

Answer: I have written many articles on the subject of gaining weight and will be glad to send some of them to you if you will give me your name and address. You will not gain any good weight by stuffing yourself. A reasonable amount of wholesome food is all that is necessary: if you will take proper exercises and build a strong muscular body.

Question: Mrs. J. L. asks: "Living in a small town it is not always possible to get fresh vegetables; still, we wish to follow your menus exactly. Would it be all right to use canned vegetables?"

Answer: There is a widespread belief that canned foods are unwholesome but with our modern methods of canning, this is not true at the present time. Also, there are arguments about the vitamin content being lowered by food standing in a can for very long before being used, but there is no evidence to show that this decrease is very great. By all means use the canned foods if you cannot get the fresh ones, and I especially suggest spinach, asparagus, string beans, corn, French artichokes, ripe olives and pineapple. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my article "Substitutes for Fresh Vegetables."

Question: Mary S. writes: "Am troubled with stomach and intestinal gas. Would yeast be apt to cause more gas?"

Answer: Yeast will cause more gas if used with a meal. If you want to experiment with the yeast treatment, take it when the stomach is empty.

OUR TREES

THE STOUT ASH
 So strong is the ash tree that the Scandinavians, who long regarded it sacred, recorded that the whole universe was supported by a mighty ash tree called Ygdrasil, which sprang from the body of the giant Ymir.

Today ash is of commercial importance because of its strength and stiffness. It is the favored material for agricultural tool handles and for vehicle construction. Because it is free from odor and taste ash is particularly well suited for food containers.

The ashes, of which there are four principal ones—the white, green, black, and blue ash—grow throughout practically all of eastern United States. Their favorite haunts are near the banks of mountain streams where they can lean gracefully over the water.

The ash will not grow in barren soil. Hence the old expression of our forefathers: "May your foot fall by the roots of the ash," meaning may you live in a fertile, well-watered land.

Wood of all four of the ashes is tough, straight-grained and pliable. That of the white ash is of great value in cabinet work. Most of the ashes take a good polish and are well adapted to making furniture. Black ash lumber divides easily into its annual layers. It is used extensively for barrel hoops, splint basket work and similar purposes.

About 22 per cent of the ash cut goes into handles of agricultural implements, 22 per cent is used for butter tubs, 15 per cent is used in vehicles. Other uses include planing and refrigerating, kitchen cabinets, ladder-rungs, tennis racket frames and airplane frames.

Certain magical qualities were attributed to the ash in ancient days. It was firmly believed in Shakespeare's time, even among the learned, that a snake could escape through fire rather than through a barricade of ash. Babies suspended in their cradles from the branches of the ash were considered safe from harm while their mothers worked the fire.

But what a difference there is in a Garber Brothers' Custom-built Living Room Suite

"I'd never have believed it... such beautiful furniture and such low prices!" This seems to be the comment of nearly every visitor to Garber Brothers.

How they do admire the lovely furniture assembled in our show rooms and then when they ask and learn the prices, how amazed they are.

Take living room suites for example, they are constructed right in our own factory. At Garber Brothers you buy direct from the maker. This means that the furniture is always lower in price here than elsewhere.

The living room suite is not built just like "sale" furniture is. No, indeed. Every piece of Garber Brothers living room furniture is hand made to order.

And finally whether you buy a simple suite at $75 or a suite at $850... its internal construction is guaranteed. Please read this over again... it's important. It's comforting to know, isn't it, that no matter how little you spend, you are getting the best that money can buy for it. This fact distinguishes Garber Brothers living room suites from other living room suites on the market.

Charming In Its Simplicity . . . 3-Piece Angora Goat Mohair Suite . . . Years of Comfortable Service

What beauty! What comfort! What value! All three are represented in this suite which was made in our own factory. Expert, careful workmanship applied to high grade materials. Reinforced webbing. Reversible cushions in damask. The covering is genuine Angora Goat, mohair of finer grade and should not be confused with other materials of mohair weave, but of much inferior quality. Comprises davenport, club chair and wing chair. A $250 value.

$195

Custom Built in Our Own Factory . . . This Beautifully Proportioned 3-Pc. Mohair Suite With Frieze Cushions

It is safe to say that you cannot purchase the same size suite, of the same fine construction and covered with the same quality mohair for less than $350. It is built for comfort... and you'll just thrill at its luxurious cosiness. Hand tied, resilient, coil spring on reinforced webbing. Covering is genuine ANGORA GOAT (the only real) MOHAIR. Cushions are reversible in frieze. Large, roomy davenport, wing chair and club chair, exactly as illustrated. A $350 value.

High-Back Occasional Chairs

$17.50

Aside from the fact that this chair will do much to brighten as well as add comfort to the living room... it is a marvelous value. A chair of this quality commands at least $27.50 elsewhere. It is of substantial construction and covered with fine figured tapestry.

Solid Mahogany Gateleg Table
$14.50

A value without precedent or equal. A gateleg table of solid mahogany construction, which measures 36x48 inches when open and has eight legs (not six) retails everywhere upward of $20. A great combined purchase enables us to offer them at this ridiculously low price. Take advantage of this opportunity.

BILLIE DOVE PLAYS AT THE STATE TODAY

Beautiful Star Has Leading Role in "Yellow Lily"; "Thief in the Dark" is Co-Feature.

Hungarian court life in the days when Emperor Charles held sway in Europe's most brilliant and colorful court, forms the background for Billie Dove's latest starring vehicle, "The Yellow Lily," which comes to the State Theatre for today and tomorrow.

The story goes behind the scenes of royal life in Budapest, only a few years ago, and it mingles intimate romance with its exotic color and intrigue. It centers chiefly around a beautiful country girl who scorns the love of a nobleman—a man that nearly every girl in the community is infatuated with.

In "The Yellow Lily," Miss Dove is cast in the most convincing characterization of her screen career. She seems to be more beautiful and more charming than ever before.

Coupled with the Billie Dove feature is "The Thief in the Dark," a chilling fun-drama of spooks and crooks. An all star cast of film celebrities are starred in the production.

The strange and fantastic adventures in a house of mystery in which a gang of fake mediums materialize the spirit of their dead victim in an effort to steal a fortune, are the chief highlights of this fast-moving photoplay.

How She Hints? Listen to Car Care

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Failure of the cooling system, discussed last week, is the first cause to check up when the engine overheats. The next is the engine itself.

The engine, the carburetor, the ignition, the clutch, all these have their parts to play in overheating of the engine, if they fail to work properly.

If the engine has been freshly overhauled, it will result that it will produce an extra amount of heat from friction between piston rings and cylinder walls. Oil cannot get in easily, with a tight engine, to reduce this friction.

The only remedy for this state of affairs is to drive slowly and carefully until the newness or tightness has been worn out of the engine.

In this event, the motor meter should be watched carefully and the water system be kept filled even to the point of draining the hot water and replacing it with fresh, cold water.

oil to all frictional surfaces of the motor, and the oil itself must be fresh and undiluted.

If the oil is too thin and diluted, the film on the cylinder walls will be broken and friction between pistons and cylinders will result.

Sometimes the valves are improperly timed, or aren't well seated, causing some of the burned gas to be left in the cylinder and heat up the engine.

If the pistons and rings aren't properly fitted, some of the unburned fuel will seep into the crankcase, dilute the oil and render it less effective as an anti-friction film.

Scored cylinder walls also furnish pathways for the unburned fuel to reach the oil in the crankcase.

The carburetor should be adjusted to furnish the proper mixture, not too lean or too rich, in order to keep the engine running smoothly and avoid overheating from this source. Sometimes too much heat is applied to the mixture, thinning it down excessively and cause it to ignite before it should. The hot spot therefore, if there is one, should be removed, or the valve closed.

points, a worn and wabbling igniter cam shaft, fouled or improperly set plugs, a weak breaker spring, the automatic advance stuck or operating too freely, or the ignition itself improperly timed.

Any of these may cause the spark to occur at the wrong moment, or to be too weak to permit igniting and exploding all the gas injected into the cylinders at the proper time. The result will be a remainder of hot burned and unburned gases in the cylinders, diluting of the oil and overheating of the engine.

A slipping clutch also will cause the engine to overwork and overheat. It should therefore be adjusted or repaired before the motor itself is injured from overheating or the car stops altogether.

When A Girl Loves

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER, after looking both ways, she consents to make her home with CHARISSA DEAN and her father. Her fiance, NATHANIEL BANN, objects to this for he mistrusts DEAN's motives.

CHAPTER XXVI WHEN Virginia entered Mrs. Phelps' office a few moments later her cheeks were pink with excitement and fresh air. "You look as if something had happened," Mrs. Phelps remarked cheerfully. "Everything was satisfactory, I hope."

"It doesn't matter, for I'm sure it would be a mistake to undertake to refine that household," Virginia assured her. "Mrs. Gernsner is happier than she ever could be again if she knew how funny she was. It would be tragic to open her eyes, even if it were possible, for she hasn't a bit of natural taste or feeling for anything that isn't starchy or garish."

Virginia hurried out and was in a descending elevator before she asked herself what to do next. There was a slight sinking feeling at the pit of her stomach that made her uncomfortable but she did not realize that it was hunger until she heard someone in the car speak of luncheon. Virginia looked at her watch and was surprised to learn that it was almost one o'clock.

Virginia moved forward by right of being "next" but she was too late. A woman behind her pushed her aside with subway technique and went on ahead. Virginia gasped and looked at the guardian of the gate. "Will you do me a favor," she said, "I'll seat you next, but watch your place, please."

A moment later Virginia felt a sharp elbow in her back and her ire was fully aroused. She turned and looked haughtily down her nose at the offender and the elbow was quickly removed. When finally she was shown to a two-by-two table at which another girl already sat she was so weary and annoyed she had lost her appetite. A toasted sandwich and tea sufficed her and she left half the sandwich at the table.

Virginia opened the door cautiously. Her eyes were fixed on the hotel she had left filled her with nervous dread of further unpleasant encounters even here. A bellboy stood there, bearing a florist's box. Virginia took it and tipped him generously.

For a moment after she had closed the door she held her hand to her forehead and let herself speculate over the possible sender. The box was small, violets from Niel perhaps. Who else would know her address? She had not given it to Oliver.

Her heart warmed at the thought of her lover's devotion and she quickly stripped the ribbon away and pulled off the lid. It looked like a terribly expensive shop for Niel to be going to for a love offering. But how dear of him!

She lifted the green paper aside and she was not a moment too soon. A card with a picture of a girl's face and a message that read "I love you" was tucked inside. She looked at the card and then at the message and then at the card again. It was a picture of a girl's face and a message that read "I love you".

The WOMAN'S DAY

A court room laughed the other day at the naïveté of a servant girl who, accused of stealing her former employer's string of matched pink pearls valued at $32,000, explained that she didn't think they were better than her own string of 50-cent pearls and that she only traded because the pinkish ones looked better with her best dress and her creamy ones were okay for her employer.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, June 7.—A presidential nomination costs money, but too much money is likely to cost a nomination.

The investigation of the Senate campaign funds committee has proved the first of those facts and demonstrated that the candidates are well acquainted with the second.

In 1920 slush funds wrecked the two leading Republican candidates. That sad experience is undoubtedly partly responsible for the fact that the reported outlay of all the candidates is less than half the Wood and little more than one-sixth amount spent for General Leonard Wood and little more than one-sixth of the total reported spent in that year on the aspirants in both parties.

Thus, there are those to say that the nation has been saved from a condition in which nominations could easily become a matter of purchase. And it is pointed out that the barring of Vore and Smith from the Senate as well as the revelations about the money will come from Harry Sinclair for the G. O. P. fund have also served to dampen the enthusiasm of both collectors and contributors.

It is not, of course, certain that the $500,000 or more reported spent in this year represents the entire expense. A member of the investigating committee points out that it is a very easy matter to conceal large disbursements by making them through unofficial representatives who wouldn't be called before the committee so long as their activities were unknown.

There is no evidence that anything of the sort has been in progress, but it is obvious that if any questionable use of money was made, the spenders must have realized the danger of investigation and publicity and hence acted to cover their tracks.

It appears, however, that all the candidates were rather careful to warn their supporters to be very careful about accepting and spending.

Analysis of the expenditures shows that the greater part of them come under the general head of publicity. For both Hoover, who spent more than $200,000, and Smith, with more than $100,000, it is said that their forces found it necessary or desirable to combat false propaganda spread against them.

Hoover was a fighting candidate. His fight, in contrast with those of Ohio and Indiana, cost money. More money was needed to propagandize New York in the face of the opposition of dominating politicians there.

Undoubtedly he would have had to pay more had he been up against a primary free-for-all like that of 1920. As it was, he did not come into direct battle with Lowden, his most important opponent, in a single primary. And when a bill of $40,000 for a Hoover primary campaign in a large state is compared with the $2,000,000 Pepper fund in Pennsylvania, it doesn't look like so much.

It seems likely that there will never again be such an expensive pre-convention of 1920, when nine Republican candidates admitted spending $2,800,000 and five Democrats $128,000.

The Kenyon committee, which exposed the enormous investment, reported that: "Undoubtedly as to some of the candidates more was spent than is here indicated." Whether the present committee will say anything like that remains to be seen.

So much money was spent in 1920 because nearly all Republicans felt that the party nominee would be the next president. At least $3,000,000 proved to have been wasted.

The Wood campaign expenses of $1,773,000 proved a boomerang. Lowden, with a layout of $415,000, presumably would have won if a little of the money had not been spent improperly without his knowledge.

Expenses for other candidates were: Hiram Johnson $195,000; Hoover $173,000; Harding $113,000; Poindexter $77,000; Coolidge $58,000; A. Mitchell Palmer $50,000; and James W. Gerard $14,000.

TO ORGANIZE A STATE DEMOLAY ASSOCIATION

Big Gathering at Bridgeport On June 22 and 23—To Be Held at Pleasure Beach.

Bridgeport, June 7.—Organization of a state association of Demolay chapters will be effected by state convocation to be held here June 22 and 23, on the occasion of the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Bridgeport chapter, William E. Andrews, advisor, announced today.

Robert Schadwald, general chairman, conservatively estimated Saturday that more than 2,000 delegates and Demolay advisors would attend the two-day convention, and more than 14 Connecticut chapters would be represented. It will be the first meeting of its kind in Demolay history in New England, and possibly in the entire country. The plan was originated by Bridgeport chapter.

Delegates will spend the greatest part of their time at Pleasure Beach, an amusement park located here on the famous Steeplechase Island. They will march through the city's principal streets, and will invite the general public to participate with them in the festivities there that will bring the convention to a close. Saturday evening a dance will be held in the palatial ballroom at the park under the auspices of Bridgeport chapter. Demolay drill teams will march at this affair.

The convocation will be called to order Friday evening in the Masonic Temple here. Organization of the state association will take place at the initial session, Saturday morning, when sessions are resumed, the election of state officers will be held.

OLD NEWGATE PRISON MOST INTERESTING PLACE

Public Can Now Visit Ruins and See the Old Granby Copper Mines.

The fire-swept and time-ravaged ruins of historic Old Newgate Prison are now open to the public. Located on the western declivity of Talbot Mountain in East Granby about two miles east of the College Highway and over the ancient Granby Copper Mines, the ruins form what is doubtless one of the most interesting works of antiquity of which New England can boast.

Surely, in Connecticut, no stone ruin can be found to compare with Newgate. Teeming with tragic incident and historic lore it cannot fail to impress the visitors, and ever remains an object of interest to the intelligent traveler.

Underneath this site the first chartered English mining company in America dug for copper. On this spot the first Colonial prison of Connecticut was established. It has been a place of interest for over 220 years. Competent guides will show visitors through and tell many of the strange stories about it.

The council will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Melkillohn, 131 Park street, Tuesday afternoon, June 12 at 2:30 o'clock.

Twenty scouts attended the picnic in the Center Spring woods Saturday. Patrol II presented a pantomime "Hansel and Gretel." Patrol III planned the refreshments, which were very elaborate. Mrs. Hood presented pins to the following: Dorothy McKinney, Pearl Schenkel, Lorraine Brooks, Mary Howard.

This troop started the year with but two of its active original members—namely Naomi Foster and Dorothea Holland. Since then it has been able to accomplish following things: Dorothea Holland, who had been living in Glastonbury, was soon aided by a Hartford Scout, Margaret Carlson, who moved to Manchester and a returned Troop 3 member, Grace Giglio, who had been living in Glastonbury.

Margaret Carlson has passed her requirements for a child's nurse badge; Naomi Foster, Margaret Carlson, Grace Giglio, and probably Dorothea Holland, will become First Class Scouts before the troop ceases its activities for the season. The 16 girls in Patrol 2 and 3 and two girls in Patrol 4 hope to complete their Second Class work. Patrol 4 should have seven tenderfoot scouts by June 22. Patrol 4 had two new members namely Dorothea Hynes and Bertha McNeill; 3 more new members are expected next week.

The work accomplished at the regular meeting Friday: Patrol 2 and 3 revived tenderfoot knots, studied and completed various parts of second class tests in fire prevention, table setting, history of flag, and knowledge of compass. In Patrol 4, Evelyn Wilson and Mary McNeill will finish their tenderfoot requirements next week. Clara Boyle, Dorothy Kanehl, Gladys Stevenson, Dorothea Hynes and Bertha McNeill are working on their tenderfoot requirements with Lieut. Foster.

Brownies Pack I
Brownies will meet at the Harding School at 3:45 today.

Pack II
These Brownies had their last meeting for the season. The picnic at "The Rauch" was greatly enjoyed by all with the meeting held on the lawn. Betty Robinson and Mary Alice Andrews were given the golden band.

Mary Mitchell was presented with her golden bar.

Giants Picked To Win National League Pennant

But Walsh Thinks It's Anybody's Because There is Not One Stand-Out Among Leaders.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, June 7.—For the same reason or maybe none at all, Broadway has decided that the New York Giants are going to win the National League pennant and is making bets accordingly. In several of the up-town pool rooms today, the Giants were held at the rather short price of 2 to 1, whereas one could get a half dollar extra for one's money provided it was riding on the Reds, Cubs or Cardinals. The Pirates are 3 to 1. There may be sense in these odds but not much.

Wall street, for example, knows to the nickel just how much a bet should be worth and has rated the first admitted contender in a dead heat somewhere in the neighborhood of 3 to 1, which is as it should be, considering the fact that the Reds, Cards, Giants and Cubs are separated by only three games and the Pirates are conceded to be better than the Reds, Cubs or Cardinals. This point, in fact, is very well taken. They couldn't be worse.

No Stand Outs. The fact of the matter is that there isn't a stand-out club in the Big Five and, if the so-called sharpshooters are betting the Giants, they are doing so on a hunch. Mc Graw's ability to lead his team has been to get more than two pitchers who can go out there and finish what they started. The outfit has made its share of errors and Jackson, once said to be the "perfect shortstop," has blown himself to the most indifferent season so far, pitching, or lack of it, in the Giants' halter, in the final analysis or in the first, for that matter. They say McGraw could have had Burwell, who finally landed with the Pirates on Indianapolis; it is true, in any case, that McGraw's effort to bid Clarence Mitchell, who has remained in the league well past his time purely on his ability to harass the Giants. He relieved Alexander and helped to beat them again yesterday. So maybe McGraw is due to release weight already. The last one made him say that he was satisfied with the Giant's pitching.

All Weak.

However, there isn't a contender that hasn't left some question unanswered to date. With the Reds the question is whether Critz around whom the success of the outfit revolves, will be able to carry his pace through the warm months ahead. They say he is solid and will weigh twelve pounds under his normal weight already. You can bet about the hitting of Callaghan, Pietnich and Purdy and the day to day effectiveness of Cincinnati pitching but, when you have spoken your little piece, the situation reverts to this fact: Unless they continue to reel off their remarkable run of double plays, via Critz, the Reds are just a ball club. The Cards have been weakened so far at a point where everyone expected them to be strong. Alexander and Haines, who won some 42 games only about half of their games and Sherdel also is having an ordinary season. Rheim and Reinhart have been carrying the club and the intellectual's claim Reinhart won't stand prosperity. Anyhow, the Cardinals look no better than anybody else in the race, which automatically prohibits a comparison with the Pirates. They simply have been shot to pieces with one thing and another, mostly both, but they have too much speed to run in the company they are keeping at present. As for the Cubs, they seem to be facing the old question of balance. Any club looks great when it is winning and the Cubs looked even better than that when they were pushing through 13 straight earlier in the year. Since then, however, they have dropped 9 of their last 15, most of them on the road. The records seem to prove that the Cubs are not a good traveling club.

BISSONETTE LEADS NAT. L. SLUGGERS

Shoots Ahead of Rivals When He Slams No. 10; How Teams Fared.

New York, June 7.—The only home run race this season that is close enough to be exciting is in the National League, where Del Bissonette, Hack Wilson, Sunny Jim Bottomley and Horace Hornsby are staging a merry battle for circuit-closing honors. Bissonette, with a total of ten, is leading the pack today by one.

The Brooklyn first sacker drove in five runs yesterday as the Robins trimmed Cincinnati 8 to 5, and now leads the league in that department as well as in home runs. The Reds now enjoy a lead of only two games over the Cardinals and Philadelphia, who are practically tied for second place.

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Brooklyn outfit, spent the afternoon wondering why he ever let Rubie Bressler get away from him. The Rubie led Brooklyn's attack with four hits in as many times at bat.

Cardinals Win. Vic Aldridge of the Giants run himself ragged yesterday by hitting six against the Cardinals and was yanked from the mound in the seventh. Then the Cards scored six runs off his successor, Faulkner, and went on to win by an eleven to six score. Old Clarence Mitchell, who pitched for St. Louis after Alexander was kayoed, won his first start for the red birds.

Pinch-hitter Cy Williams of the Phillies smacked a home run against the Cubs but his mates couldn't help him and the Quakers lost, 5 to 3.

George Uhle, Cleveland mound ace who used to be poison to the New York Yankees, was shelled off the landscape by the world's champions. With Herb Pennock holding the fort, the Yanks won in a romp, 8 to 3.

The Athletics lost to the Browns, 5 to 2, a now regular Yankee base line games. Sam Gray, former Mackman, chalked up his ninth victory. Ty Cobb collected three hits. Rain cancelled all other games scheduled.

A GREAT GUY AM I

The first impulse on listening to a braggar is to let him have it right on the nose, but there are some individuals who are not often wise when they adhere to no modesty in admitting that they are very remarkable.

Such an individual is Jole Ray, who is about the cockiest little guy that ever owned two dogs. Jole always admitted that his dogs were just about the best in the world, and he is proving it. When the dogs ran out on him in the mile he turned them into marathons and they delivered so well for him that he is now a favorite to win the real prize of the Olympic games.

In his first marathon at Boston Ray nearly wore the dogs off to the ankle joints, but he finished third and he tickled his fans when he popped off—"I'll win at Long Beach run and I'll win in Amsterdam, too."

He did win the Long Beach run and he knocked about 15 minutes off the best record that ever had been made for the distance.

Jole then popped off some more. "Wait till I get used to this racket. I'll have to give this golf racket a little more time and get down around those seventies. Maybe I won't be able to run in about 20 years and then I can be a golf pro."

The drone of the motors will be heard at the Hartford Velodrome bike track tonight for the first time this season, this evening marking the inaugural of the summer racing season at the big saucer on the Connecticut Boulevard.

Featuring this opening bike meeting is the forty-mile motor-paced race in which six of the leading pace-followers in the game will compete. This is the field: Franco Giorgetti, Italian star and present American champion; Vincent Madonna, former champion; Frank Keenan of Rivers, Sammy Gattman, noted Jewish rider; and Rene Boogman, champion of Holland.

The American riders do not take kindly to the fact that a foreigner has won and won the title and they will be riding hard all season in the effort to dethrone Giorgetti and return the crown to possession of a homebred. Tonight's race is one of the championship series.

In addition to the motor-paced event, there will be several amateur and professional races bringing into competition a record field in these races:

Professional: 2.5 mile handicap; three mile open. Amateur: 2.5 mile handicap, two-mile handicap, match race.

There will be a band concert before the races.

EMANUEL VS. MCGUIRE
New York, June 7.—Armand Emanuel, young Jewish heavyweight, makes his Metropolitan debut tonight against the venerable Michael Francis McGuire in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Armand passed the bar examinations in California last fall and has already won several verdicts in court. When McGuires was recently informed that his opponent tonight had won four burglary cases he arose to remark with Celtic warmth that three of them must have been the referee and two judges who decided that his first bout with Emanuel in San Francisco a few weeks ago was a draw.

PUZZLING PLAYS Baseball

By BILLY EVANS

COMPLETING LEGAL CATCH

What is regarded as necessary to complete a legal catch of a thrown ball on a play at first base or a force play?

MAJOR league umpires regard the hands as the means of completing a play on a thrown ball. That is, the ball must be securely held in the hands of the fielder making the play.

If on a play at first base, or a force play at any other base, the ball arrives ahead of the runner, he is out, provided the ball is securely held by the fielder prior to the time the runner reaches the base.

If a ball is thrown to the first baseman and it reaches him several feet in advance of the runner, the runner is out if the ball is securely held in advance of him.

However, if the ball which reached the fielder in advance of the runner is juggled, and in the interim before the ball is securely held the runner reaches the base, he is safe.

There have received many inquiries in which the player juggles the ball, then has it roll up his arm, and prior to the runner reaching the base, the fielder has the ball firmly under his arm or held against his body by his elbow.

The question is, does such a holding of the ball complete the play and should the runner be called out?

As I stated above, major league umpires work on the theory that baseball is played with the hands relative to the actual catching of the ball. For that reason they would not regard such a happening as the completion of a play at first or a force play at any other base.

Billy Evans

To complete the catch, the ball must be securely held in the hands of the fielder making the play, is the way the umpires view it.

TENNIS TALKS

Learn The Ground Strokes as Primary Fundamental

BY GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.
America's Third-Ranking Player.

The basic and fundamental shots of tennis are the ground strokes. A beginner should learn these first, and the player who has played a bit but is not in championship class should practice them. You will notice that even the top-flight players are continually trying to improve their ground shots.

The first and probably the most important of the ground strokes is the forehand drive. It is the foundation of a championship game. Inability to master this shot kept Bill Tilden in the class of second-rate players for five years, but as soon as he mastered it he became champion. Of course he had other shots that were of great advantage to him, but the drive furnished the final touch. Many players go a long way on nothing but a forehand drive.

The forehand drive is not only a strong defensive weapon, but it is the keynote of the offense. With a good drive you can repel a net attack. With a good drive you can start a net attack of your own.

It is true of the backhand. The backhand is ordinarily the weaker of the two drives, but the forehand drive should be learned first because it is the easiest, and it is possible to cover up a weak backhand with a strong forehand. A successful net attack, which is really the winning game, is successful only to the extent of the forcefulness of the shot that precedes the attack. It is futile to go to the net behind a weak shot. You will be passed easily. The shot you take the net on must be one that forces the very beginning is easily seen. The development of the chop and other variations of the ground shots should be left till the fundamentals are mastered.

O'BRIEN AND MELLO PREPARE FOR BOUT

Hartford, June 7.—Frankie O'Brien and Al Mello, principals in the 12-round New England middle-weight championship match at the Yvelodrome next Monday night, have resumed intensive training for their important tilt which will usher in the outdoor boxing season in this city. Trained to the minute for their appearance last Monday, which was thwarted by rain, neither of the contestants expect to encounter any difficulty in once again rounding into fighting shape. The Casino gym in Meriden has again been selected as the site of O'Brien preparation while Mello will go through his paces once more at Jim Toland's gym in Boston. A hurry call has been sent out for sparring partners and the rival performers took delight yesterday in whaling them around the ring in their first solid workouts since the postponement from the original date. Promoter Homer Rainault is in hopes he will be greeted by much more favorable weather the coming Monday and along with this desire he has received word from officials of the United States Weather Bureau here that fair and warmer weather is forecast for that day. The postponement of the bout for one week did not result in any decline of interest, but instead has pushed the ticket sale to a new high mark with every indication pointing to a monster turnout. With all the supporting bouts remaining intact Promoter Rainault looks forward to the largest audience that has ever witnessed a fist show in this city. Mello and O'Brien will both move onto Hartford Sunday afternoon after finishing their training in their respective gymnasiums. They will be required to weigh in again, but neither has any trouble in coming under the maximum poundage. Reservations for the show can be made by calling Holyoke 5900 or Hartford Laurel 1707, anytime during the day or night. The first bout will start at 8:15 o'clock, daylight saving time.

PLANE DROPS 1,000 FEET BUT NO ONE IS INJURED

Pilot Manages to Get Out of Tailsipin a Few Feet From Ground. New Brunswick, N. J., June 7.—In pulling a Pacer monoplane out of a tail spin a fraction of a second before it crashed to the ground, Dean C. Smith, ranking air mail pilot of the National Air Transport Company, saved the lives of his two passengers, one of them a woman, and emerged himself with a scratch on his nose at Hadley Field airport here. The plane was completely wrecked. The injured, now in Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, are: Mrs. Marion Meyer, of Plainfield, and Frank DiFilippo, of South Plainfield. The former suffered a fractured arm and leg and the man fractured ribs, according to hospital physicians. Unruffled by his narrow escape, Smith said he would take the air mail out as usual on his regular route to Chicago. According to spectators who saw the accident, the plane was up about 3,000 feet on a pleasure jaunt, when it went into a tail spin which Smith managed to work it out of after a 1,000 foot drop. It immediately went into another, from which he swung it just before he hit the earth.

FERRYBOAT RUNS WILD. New York, June 7.—Three hundred passengers became excited today when a Fort Lee ferry bound from Fort Lee, N. J., to the 125th street slip lost its rudder in mid-stream and whirled aimlessly away with the current. The craft was quickly carried down to 98th street and rapidly was drifting into the heavier traffic of the lower river when a pair of tugs succeeded in throwing lines on to her and bringing her under control.

WILCEY MOORE HASN'T BEEN MUCH HELP TO THE NEW YORK YANKEES THIS SEASON AND THE REASON IS A SORE ARM. ALL WANT "LITTLE TRAIN" Walter Johnson, Jr. only 12 years old, is much in demand as a pitcher by the kid players in Newark. One kid team sought his services but found to their disgust that their rivals already had him. They say he has his dad's fast ball.

Manchester People Now Well and Strong Who Were Sick and Unhappy. "Erbjus" The Wonder Remedy Did It

You may find a friend and neighbor here. If not look around your neighborhood; there are plenty of them who will tell you about "Erbjus" and what it did for them. You run no risk buying "Erbjus" because we stand back of it.

COULD NOT SLEEP AND COULD NOT EAT WITHOUT GREAT DISTRESS

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien of 118 1/2 Charter Oak St., South Manchester, Conn., is Also an Indorser of the Herbal Tonic, ERBJUS.

Sleeplessness is generally caused by worry or nervousness. There is nothing that will undermine the constitution any more than nights of laying awake counting the hours until morning. You get more nervous as the days go by and the different organs of the body do not function because of the weak nerves. Nervous indigestion often follows, dull headaches, achy limbs and constipation with its ill-effects. ERBJUS will tone up the system and many a good night's sleep has followed its use. ERBJUS is not in any way a dope or narcotic and the results it gets are natural. It gets at the root of the troubles and attacks the cause and the symptoms disappear. You can get good blood, a good digestion and strong nerves by using ERBJUS. Herb

HOW "ERBJUS" WAS DISCOVERED

Chicago Man's Sensational Revelation Has Set the Whole Profession Talking About It. Taking the Theory That Nature Itself Provides a Cure for Every Ill, He Revolutionized Many Ideas in the Medical World. He Watched the Wild Animals.

When a Chicago Doctor made the statement that nature had a cure for every disease under the sun, he proved his theory that animals are rarely carried off before their allotted span of years and that, unless poisoned, they cure themselves of sickness. Meat eating animals are known to hunt for HERBS and PLANTS to cure themselves of sickness; a sick dog will eat grass or leaves; a cat will eat cat-nip. Bears, both carnivorous as well as herbivorous, will eat WILLOW BUDS when indisposed. Elk and Deer will eat GREASEWOOD, SAGE and WILLOWS. Gophers and Prairie Dogs eat BUFFALO GRASS and ROOTS, DANDELION, YELLOW DOCK and sometimes GOLDEN SEAL are used by many

MANCHESTER LADY HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOR 14 LONG, LONG YEARS

Mrs. Mary Bonkowski, of 147 Spruce St., South Manchester, Testifies as to How the Tonic ERBJUS Relieved Her of Indigestion.

This message from Mrs. Bonkowski is addressed to the many sufferers from sour acid stomach and constipation and to those people who bloat and belch up gas from sour and fermented stomachs. Stomach trouble will make one sick all over and the cause is simple. The food ferments and turns sour and the blood takes up this sour and fermented mess and the consequence is a tired worn out and poisoned body dragging around and wondering why they are tired. ERBJUS will work wonders with these people. It will start the stomach into action, spur up the lazy liver and purify the system. Those achy legs and headaches will disappear with the stomach trouble.

MANCHESTER LADY WAS ALMOST NERVOUS WRECK WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Mrs. Samuel Taggart, of 80 Wells St., South Manchester, Conn., Indorses ERBJUS Because It Helped Her. It Will Help the Reader Too.

You people who suffer from headaches will be interested in the story that Mrs. Taggart is telling. Headaches cause untold suffering and also loss of time from work and many a picnic and theatre party or an important business engagement have been spoiled and ruined by headaches. If the reader is one of these sufferers, he or she will remember that many a time they prepared for an outing or a business engagement and along came that dreadful headache and Oh! How it spoiled everything. ERBJUS will get rid of headaches if they are not caused by the eyes. ERBJUS gets rid of headaches by removing the cause and is not a dope neither does it have a harmful ingredient in it. Mrs. Taggart says:—"I have had

SIX WEEKS OF TERRIBLE STOMACH PAINS YIELD TO THE MAGIC ERBJUS

Mrs. R. Lovett, of 72 Wells St., South Manchester, Conn., Had an Attack of Acute Indigestion That Left Her With Stomach Trouble.

ERBJUS appeals to those people who are starving themselves to death because of painful stomach trouble. They are afraid to eat because they know that food will bring distress and pain. These people usually take pepsin, soda and other digestive aids and when they quit they have lazy stomachs that will not work at all. ERBJUS tones up the walls of the stomach and starts the flow of gastric juices. It stimulates the liver and positively relieves constipation. We have hundreds of testimonials from people who had subsisted on toast and milk for months and these people can now get anything that their heart desires. Read the testimonial of Mrs. Lovett and it should convince you if you are a stomach sufferer.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURITIS SUFFERERS INDORSE "ERBJUS"

FIFTEEN YEARS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE AND CONSTIPATION RELIEVED BY ERBJUS

Mrs. Isabelle Best, of 83 Church St., South Manchester, Conn., a Resident for Forty-Six Years Indorses ERBJUS.

Constipation can cause more sickness and disease than any single disorder that the human flesh is heir to. If the bowels are stagnant it means that undigested food remains in them and is absorbed into the blood stream thereby poisoning the entire system. You get headaches, backaches, dizzy spells and one gets tired out and draggy. In fact, you are poisoned. There is no use in getting rid of this trouble by oils or harsh remedies for if you do you will have to stay with it and increase the dose as time goes by. Oils will grease the lining of the stomach and bowels and food will not absorb and in the end there is a semi-starvation. ERBJUS tones up the muscles of the bowels and promotes the flow of intestinal

HUSBAND AND WIFE BOTH RELIEVED OF RHEUMATISM BY ERBJUS

Mrs. Sadie Green of 180 1/2 Center St., South Manchester, Tells the Public How Both She and Her Husband Were Relieved of Rheumatism by ERBJUS.

People who have taken ERBJUS are enthusiastic over this remedy because it has relieved pain and given them pleasure and what pleasure is greater than health. If you who are reading this now are in ill health you know just how you would feel to regain that great blessing. ERBJUS is a nature remedy and you cannot improve on nature. Nature has the power to create and there is no doubt but what she has the power to heal. ERBJUS is balanced in every way and there is not an herb in it that works against each other. A few doses of this remedy will convince you that it has merit. You can taste the herbs and smell them. ERBJUS is pure HERB JUICE and GLYCERINE. The herbs have been squeezed out raw and not boiled, therefore it has its healing powers in the same form as the animals get it.

MANCHESTER MAN COULD NOT RAISE ARMS ABOVE HIS HEAD UNTIL LATELY

Mr. Thomas Russell, of 189 Maple St., South Manchester, Conn., is Another Rheumatic Sufferer That Extols the Healing Virtues of ERBJUS.

Rheumatism is one of the most terrible ills that the human flesh is heir to. It sometimes cripples and deforms a body until they are helpless wrecks. The pain is terrible and every movement causes agony and suffering. Too many remedies doctor the pain and dope the system and the disease goes on until finally the sufferer awakes and finds that they are worse than they were before. ERBJUS is not a dope or a pain killer, but it will destroy the cause of rheumatism in most cases. The sufferer will find blessed relief and in a short time those pains and aches will be a thing of the past. ERBJUS eliminates poison from the system and enriches the blood. Mr. Russell says:—"For over a year I have been bothered with

STOECKEL DESIRES
PUBLIC VIEWPOINT
Administrator Unsuccessful
Without Help of Citizens
In General.

A community of interest in the actual administration of motor vehicle laws, including all users of the highways, is asked by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel in an article, "Help wanted," written for the June bulletin of the State Motor Vehicle Department.
"As conditions exist today, and in view of their probable trend in the future," he says, "it is self evident that a state administrator, working alone, sitting in isolation at state office and trying to administer laws made for the management of the automobile in traffic, is hardly adequate to cope with conditions.
The administrator needs the help of every person from whom help can be expected by the circumstances, be expected."

Wants To Be Told Commissioner Stoeckel says that probably there is no more valuable touchstone available to the administrator than to have the individual freely express himself. No public representative is in a position to be able at all times to judge surely how things are going, he says. He is entitled to know. So the attitude of the part of any citizen that he has no part in an official job is a false one. The principle of isolation in government call for its immediate and complete participation. This time is past where a state representative can be considered as omniscient.

The commissioner points out that consequences of expression of public opinion are not always successful and presents two sides of the case as affecting law administration.
"The American public," he says, "is tenacious of the rights and privileges of its citizenship. This is rightly the case and the expression of this right by the expression of public sentiment is invariably a safe guard. On the other hand an administrator understands much better in almost every instance than the average citizen just what the far reaching consequences of a false opinion are. The administrator is forced to be a pioneer and to correct some such actions in time to prevent public calamity. In this connection there are some business men who, as soon as the position of an administrator is taken, acknowledge that he is right and say so, but it remains a fact that there are also many who think he is not right and these are more apt to express themselves publicly than the comparatively large competence portion of people who see the consequences of ill-thought-out action more clearly than the others.
Here the administrator needs cooperation and support. If he is wrong he should be told and he will probably be the first to see it and say so. If he is right there are a considerable number of persons who believe in him, they ought to back him up by public expression and assistance.

For The Public
"State department, exists for the public. It is for the public, but it has limitations which must be recognized for it operates under a law and has fixed appropriations.
It is compelled to conduct its business along lines from which it is not allowed to deviate and finally it is dependent, so far as expansion is concerned upon favorable public sentiment and legislative action.
Its main policy should be to do its daily work as well and economically as possible, keeping its limitations in the foreground.
"The public attitude towards the administration of a state activity is apt to be that since there is a state representative charged with duties, nothing more need be done about it, leaving him to work out such problems as arise. This is all wrong. Every public duty is the duty of all the people, and the selection of a representative to perform acts does not cancel their obligation, but their participation by keeping interest alive and by cooperation in every possible way is essential for success."

Suggests Cooperation
The public, as represented generally by the users of automobiles, should not be alone in the matter of co-operation, he says, as probably first in importance is the need for co-operation from manufacturers of motor vehicles. "It is only natural," he adds, "that each manufacturer should be looking first and foremost and all the time to the marketing of his product. He knows where his competition comes from, what it consists of and how serious it is and he makes his plans to meet it. It would seem, however, that manufacturers and administrators should by conference and agreement suggest new laws which will provide for safety in mechanisms, so that on the one hand the simplicity of construction may not result in inadequacy, and on the other, that worthy systems may not be refused registration by reason of drastic interpretations of existing laws. The object is to secure upon the highways vehicles which are safe for daily traffic and law and practice ought to recognize this."

In summing up, Commissioner Stoeckel makes a plea for help in the matter of motor vehicle administration to a far greater extent than has ever heretofore been granted. "Transportation," he says,
"working alone, sitting in isolation

BOTTLES LONG TRIP
Greenwich, Conn., June 7.—Reward is to be sent from Greenwich to Svein Ingimundesen, of Ber-unes, near South Malaysia, on the coast of Iceland. Ingimundesen's name became familiar here when a letter from him came today into the hands of Thorvald Kroyer, of Edgewood avenue, declaring Ing-imundesen had found a bottle containing a note that bore Mr. Kroyer's name and address and a request that the finder notify him.
Mr. Kroyer, sailing for Denmark on the SS Frederick VII on May 5 1927, was five days out of New York when he put a note in a bottle, sealed the affair and flung it into the ocean. Ingimundesen found the bottle 323 days later on April 3, 1928.

1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.

2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump.

4-The order of letters cannot be changed. The burglar, finding the lady in her bath, covered her with his revolver.

He-"What would your mother say if she saw you smoking?" She-"She'd say, 'Did you offer the young man a cigarette?'"

Shek: Mr. Smith, I love your daughter passionately. Mr. Smith (very suspiciously): Which daughter did you say you love?

THE TINYMITES

While Scouty shut the faucet tight, the others ran, with all their might and heaped aboard their floating boat. "Ah, everything's just fine," said Carpy, as he looked around.

"Will you let me off this afternoon, sir?" asked the clerk. "My wife would like for me to clean our wall paper."

Home runs are again listed among the items for which the demand is greater than the supply.

Revenge may be sweet but it doesn't keep sweet long after you get it.

Customer-How long must I wait for this prescription? Druggist-About twenty minutes, sir.

Police Judge-What instrument did your wife use to inflict these wounds on your head? O'Halloran-She hit me wid a mottler yer honor.

Police Judge-A mottler? And what is a mottler, may I ask? O'Halloran-A mottler is a frame, your honor, like a pitcher, only inside it says, "God Bless Our Home."

Money talks, but not as much as man talks money. To cure a cold in one day take fifty grains of strychnine at one dose.

Here is one way to test your loyalty to your job. Suppose your boss was out of town and the team was playing at home-would you work?

Doctor-I'll have to charge you $50 for improving your hearing. Patient-"What?"

Doctor-I say, your bill is $50. Patient-Can't hear you, sir. Doctor-Then I won't charge you a cent.

Patient-Thanks, doctor!

ABOUT TOWN

Harold Symington was unable to be in Philadelphia today to attend the graduation of his brother, Clifford, as a doctor of osteopathy from the Philadelphia School of Osteopathy, which takes place this afternoon. It was his intention to be present at the graduation, but business made it impossible to do so. Dr. Symington will leave Philadelphia this afternoon and tomorrow will take his medical examination before the Connecticut Medical Examination Board which will meet in New Haven.

The annual meeting, which includes the election of officers and the reading of reports, of Hose and Ladder Company No. 4, on School street, scheduled for last night has been postponed until a week from last night. The annual meeting of Orford Hose No. 3, will be held tonight. Following the election of officers there will be a dinner served under the direction of James Schaub and Peter Happeney.

The Good Will Club of the Fifth District will give a whist and dance at the City View dance hall on Keeney street tomorrow evening. Six prizes will be given and refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Mrs. Howard Keeney. A three piece orchestra will furnish music for dancing and Irving Keeney will be in charge of the floor arrangements.

Mrs. Walter Cassells of 28 Wap- tage street, who was recently married, was tendered a shower at her home last evening, by a party of her young women associates at Cheney Brothers. The girls brought a plentiful supply of delicacies as well as a choice collection of gifts for the bride. Games, music and dancing rounded out a pleasant evening. Mrs. Cassells prior to her marriage was Miss Anna Krawski, of Wap- ping.

The Cosmopolitan club will have its annual outing tomorrow afternoon at Highland Park. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 at the Community club; by the Ladies' Sewing society. Mrs. C. R. Bur- well will tell of her trip to California last winter and Mrs. R. K. Anderson and Mrs. H. A. Nettleton will report on the recent convention of federated women's clubs.

Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Union War Veterans will hold its regular business meeting this evening at the state armory.

Miss Florence R. Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Robertson of Manchester Green will leave shortly on a western trip. She will be one of the few women hereabouts to attend the Republican national convention at Kansas City. From there she will go to California where she will spend several weeks, taking in the international Sunday school convention at Los Angeles. Miss Robertson is librarian at the Hartford Public library.

Mrs. Albert Harrison of Myrtle street won the occasional chair canvassed by the Dorcas society of the Swedish Lutheran church. The drawing took place last evening at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. William Munsie of Bigelow street. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed during which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

The Women's League of the Salvation Army gave a farewell party this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Brigadier Albert Bates, who is leaving shortly for a visit to her home in England. Mrs. Pennick spoke on some of her experiences while engaged in missionary work in the Orient. Refreshments were served by the society.

Miss Ruth P. Marlow of 20 Holl street will present a program of Dramatic Art and Piano Solo time from the K. of C. Hall on Bissell street tomorrow night. Miss Marlow is a student of Anna Weyland and R. Augustus Lawson both of Hart- ford.

About 150 people attended the piano and violin recital given by Katherine Halliday Howard and her pupils at Kemps Music House on Main street last night. All the numbers were well received, particularly the cello quartet which concluded the program.

DR. McEVITT VISITING
HIS MOTHER HERE

Has Just Received His Master's Degree From University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Joseph McEvitt of Akron, Ohio, is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Joseph McEvitt of Walnut and Cedar streets. He has just completed a special course at the University of Pennsylvania and was graduated this week with the degree of Master of Surgery. Dr. McEvitt, since his graduation from Yale has spent much time in surgery and went over-seas with the Yale unit as a surgeon, being invalided home. He soon after located in Akron and has been in that city since. There are four hospitals in Akron, he being a member of the surgery staff of all four. He intends to spend but a few days here before returning to Akron and getting back to work again.

Dr. McEvitt is probably the most advanced physician and surgeon yet to enter the medical profession from Manchester.

ZION LUTHERAN
LADIES IN MEETING

The Ladies' Society of the Zion Lutheran church held its regular monthly meeting last evening in the basement of the church. Seven new members were admitted so that the total membership of the society is now 52. A historic survey of the society and its work during the period of its existence was given by the pastor; bringing back many amusing and pleasant recollections of other days as they were recorded in some of the old record books. These same records showed that the members in those days labored faithfully for the welfare of Zion congregation and at works of charity despite the fact they were handicapped by a smaller membership and less funds to work with. Today new members have replaced those who have passed on and the good work they started yesterday is being carried successfully on. The younger generation being worthy of its trust.

The charter members still active in the society are: Mrs. August Laschinske, Emilie Brunke, Minnie Sadrozinski, Auguste Hill, Maria Kuehnbau, Maria Kanofski.

EXTREME POVERTY
CAUSES CHINA'S ILLS

Salvation Army Missionary
Says Ancestral Worship
Is to Blame.

Brigadier Pennick who will conduct a missionary service on China at the Salvation Army Citadel this evening in an interview gives some of the conclusions he has drawn from personal observation of conditions in China. The poverty of the majority of her population has caused the Chinese to become very materialistic in their outlook on life and even in their religions. They worship the god of wealth and make sacrifices in his honor. They judge a man and all their actions on the way it will affect themselves economically. This naturally has the tendency to retard advancement and keep China in the stagnant stage of undeveloped- ment that has held China in its grip for over a thousand years.

The poverty of her people is due to a large extent to the belief of her people in ancestral worship. The ruling of that religion that for a proper enjoyment of an after life a man must have male offspring to conduct ceremonial rights after his death results in early marriages. The increased birth rate resulting from these marriages, especially as the majority of the cases the parents have not sufficient income to support themselves much less a large brood of children, tends to in- crease the poverty of all China. For example in one province 80 per cent of the populace lives below the economic poverty line. That is 80 per cent of her people have not an income equal to 75 dollars per an- num for a family of five. From this, some idea of China's economic con- dition may be realized.

The present political upheaval in China is nothing more or less than the struggle between the Chinese students returning from the schools and colleges of the western nations with an awakened nationalistic spirit; a desire to bring to their own country the advantages of the West, and the old guard steeped in the traditions of their ancestors. The influence of outside factions working in their own interests have prolonged the turmoil and period of reconstruction but eventually the student party is bound to win out. Then and not till then will China come to the front to take her place among the nations of the world. The many ways in which the Sal- vation Army has tried to help China find herself and the numerous prob- lems faced, by an organization en- gaged in such work will be brought out by Brigadier Pennick in his lecture at the services this evening.

NEAR EAST CAMPAIGN
DINNER ON TUESDAY

Those Desiring to Attend Should Notify Committee Before Next Monday.

Although invitations have been sent out to many in this district for the Near East Relief Campaign dinner that is to be held in the South Manchester Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening there may be some who have not as yet received one. In such a case it may be due to an oversight, and should there be any who desire to attend this dinner one of the following should be notified by telephone before Monday: George E. Keith, Miss Emma Colver, Mrs. William J. Crawford, Miss Emma Eldridge, Mrs. James Harrison, Mrs. Le Verne Holmes, Mrs. Howard Keith, Mrs. Max Kasulki, Mrs. E. B. Kibble, Mrs. E. A. Letney, Mrs. Charles Mead, Mrs. Charles Loomis, Miss Gertrude Pur- nell, Mrs. Edna C. Parker, Mrs. Scott Simon, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. W. E. Thuruth, Miss Myrtle Fryer, Mrs. Elmer Knofia. Exhibition Tomorrow.

Tomorrow there will be an exhibition of work done in the Near East, in a window display in the small store connecting the Cheney & Hale building with the Cheney block, space for which has been given for the display through the House & Hale Company. Every article exhibited represents rare skill and art. The assortment consists of oriental rugs, luncheon sets, pottery, hand woven curtains and dainty bags of Near Eastern design. Skilled masters were selected from among the refugees to train the older orphan girls in the arts of their fore- fathers, which otherwise would have been lost. The revival of the production of handwrought pottery is a good illustration of what has been accomplished.

Starts to-night folks! The big Lawn Fete at the Community Club Grounds. Entertainment, band concerts, novelties.—Adv.
