

MEMBERS OF NOBILE CREW ARE RESCUED

Three Men Who Started Out Afoot to Seek Help Are Saved by Dog Sled Expedition.

London, June 15.—The Swedish professor Malgren, and the Italian navy commanders Zappi and Mariano, the three daring members of the Italia's crew who set out afoot over the ice to seek aid for their marooned comrades, have been rescued by a dog-team expedition sent out by the ice-breaker Hobby, a wireless message from the steamer Braganza stated, according to a Central News dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen today.

The Braganza has now reached North East Land. A party of hunters brought the news of the rescue of the three members of the Italia's crew, the steamer radioed.

No confirmation of the reported rescue has been received from the Hobby by the radio operator of the Citta Di Milano, Gen. Umberto Nobile's base ship at King's Bay.

Alpinists Aboard
The Braganza has aboard eight Italian Alpinists, a team of dogs, and a sled, medical supplies and provisions. An attempt will be made to create a base in North East Land so that relief expeditions may be sent from there to search for Gen. Nobile and his companions—who are adrift on an ice floe somewhere north of Spitzbergen.

The Russians and some of the other relief parties plan to establish bases at or near Foyn Island which, from present indications, is the nearest land to the Nobile party.

Latest radio advice from Operator Blagi indicated that the party could not move from its present isolated camp owing to injuries of some of the members and the softened condition of the ice. Recurrent sunshine through rifts of fog have softened the surface of the ice into slush which is making living conditions almost intolerable.

Ice Melting
So soft is the surface of the ice pack that it may be difficult to move dog sledges over it.

The main aim of the rescuers now is to get planes over the stranded explorers so that food, medical supplies, boots and collapsible boats may be lowered on parachutes if the aviators themselves cannot make a landing.

TO THE RESCUE
Leningrad, June 15.—The powerful ice breaker Krassin, which is capable of cutting through ice floes 15 feet thick, sailed today to join the combined sea and air fleet that is trying to rescue the Nobile expedition. It carries a Junkers plane equipped with pontoons.

The ice breaker Malgin, which left Archangel earlier in the week, has sailed from Alexandrovsk and expects to reach Foyn Island on Sunday.

Stockholm, June 15.—A Swedish Junkers plane hopped off this morning to aid in the search for the Nobile expedition.

COOLIDGE PARTY ARRIVES SAFELY

Thousands Turn Out to Receive the President at Superior, Wis.

Superior, Wis., June 15.—Northern Wisconsin turned out seemingly en masse today to greet President Coolidge, come to spend the summer fishing and relaxing along Brule river.

Thousands of the citizens of Superior, Duluth, Ashland and other nearby towns jammed into the railway station and the streets this morning to render a rousing welcome to the executive, when he arrived at nine o'clock this morning in a special train from Washington.

Gov. Christianson of Minnesota, flanked by the leading residents of Superior and Duluth, were crowded in under the train shed. Flashlights beamed incessantly as the advent of the President was recorded patriotically and the immense crowd gave vent to a vociferous welcome.

The guns of the 12th Field Artillery of the Wisconsin National Guard also roared out a 21-gun salute, while police restrained the town folks from breaking through the lines and making the welcome more intimate.

BORAH THE AUTHOR OF PARTY POLICIES

G. O. P. Platform, His Work Almost Entirely—His Pet Theories.

Kansas City, June 15.—Republicans who have read their platform are cogitating today the future of the nation's new partnership of "We"—Senator William Edgar Borah of Idaho and his water-cooled, whirlwind typewriter.

His friends already are suggesting that the G. O. P. campaign slogan this year may be "Me and My Typewriter," or "Among My Questions."

The new alliance came into the world a little more ostentatiously than the celebrated "We" of Le Bourget—public statements, debates and all that sort of thing—but save for the fact that there was a modicum less of kissing among the gentlemen of the committee on resolutions than at Paris a year ago, Borah and his Underwood have made almost as much history.

One Man Platform
It has been many years since one man, single-handed, has so generally influenced a party platform as Borah has saturated this notorious creed of 1928. Presidents occasionally have achieved it in the past but never before, if the memories of the best minds serve, has a lesser figure so firmly impressed his political personality upon the campaign text.

When you read the platform—as, of course, you intend as soon as you can find time—you will discover the Borah watermark on every sheet you hold to the sun.

In the two issues which reached the floor Borah was in the vanguard of the offensive ranks. He won on prohibition by a roar, and on agriculture by something like 600 votes.

Borah the chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations, was the only member of the drafting committee to effectively bludgeoned the plank on international affairs, and it was later Borah, the indefatigable foe of the high cost of elections, who championed the vigorous declaration on "campaign expenditures" and "honesty in government."

ENGLAND BANS GLAND TRANSFER

No License for Voronoff Operation Will Be Issued in Country.

London, June 15.—Widespread discussion was aroused today by the British government's ban upon rejuvenation operations in England. Home Secretary Sir William Joynson-Hick said that the government would not issue any licenses for operations in which monkey glands are transplanted to human beings.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, inventor of the monkey gland rejuvenation treatment, recently delivered a lecture in England in which he predicted that men could live in perfect health to the average age of 150 if they took advantage of gland operations.

This speech was attacked by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, who declared that it was immoral to prolong life beyond the natural span.

England is the only country in Europe to prohibit gland operations, most of which have been conducted in Paris and Vienna.

TIRED OF SPEECHES, SAYS GIRL SCRIBE

Wonders What it Was All About at Parley—Her Impressions.

By Ruth Ridenour
Kansas City, June 15.—Now that Will Rogers and I have nominated a president for the Republicans there is nothing more to do at this convention except to see that the vice presidency is well taken care of. We'll do that later today after everybody's recovered from the ordeal of yesterday.

I hope they put more speed into that job. Everybody seemed to know last Tuesday that Hoover was nominated. But right or wrong they have to do things according to science. All the candidates anyone had heard of, except Dawes, were nominated to accomplish which somebody had to get up and tell the assembled multitude how nice his nominee was, in spite of the fact that the information had already been printed in campaign pamphlets, on banners, and told in permit himself to be buttonholed by a campaign manager. I'm sort of fed up on hearing what "good guys" all these aspirants to the throne of America are. I believed it before the convention opened. They must have had something or no one would have printed their names on arm bands and elephants and all the what not that has been sold on street corners and given away at headquarters.

Had to Be Repeated
But it had to be repeated apparently for the benefit of those who couldn't get to Kansas City. There are some left in New York and California and intervening points I suppose. Otherwise the nomination would have taken place yesterday afternoon after the platform was settled. However we had to recess until night in order that those who couldn't attend the party might hear the fun over the radio.

Senator Borah takes the prize as far as this judge is concerned in the speech making competition. He sounded less like a parson, more like he knew his stuff, and put forth more complicated facts with less artistic verbiage than anybody else who ever stood up before those

London, June 15.—It was reported in ecclesiastical circles today that the Archbishop of Canterbury will resign as a result of the action of the House of Commons in rejecting the proposed revision of the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England. This was the second time within six months that the House of Commons voted down a resolution to legalize the revised prayer book. The "antits" had a majority of 46 votes in last night's balloting.

Disestablishment of the Church of England, or a separation of the union which has existed between the church and state since the reign of King Henry VIII, is likely within the next few months.

Those favoring the new prayer book contended it would end the schisms within the church. The proposed alliance of the Church of England and the Catholic church also played an important part in the situation.

SENATOR CURTIS IS NAMED RUNNING MATE TO HOOVER

Job Seekers Already Are Besieging Hoover

Washington, June 15.—Scarcely had the reverberations of the cheering Kansas City convention died away from three or four powerful radio-speakers in the "S" street home of Herbert Hoover early today, when the Republican nominee turned his attention to preliminary campaign preparations.

Refreshed after a few hours sleep, Hoover arrived at his office in the Commerce Department early. Long distance telephone conferences were started at once with Kansas City managers for the G. O. P. new standard bearer. The immediate matter at hand was the selection of the vice-presidential candidate in which Hoover will have an important part.

With this situation cleared up Hoover will arrange to turn the Commerce Department over to a successor. It may be conducted temporarily by Walter F. Brown, former Ohio political leader, whose appointment as assistant secretary

FARMERS MAY TAKE HOOVER'S MESSAGE TO THE CONVENTION

Disappointed Republicans Say They Will March to the Houston Convention.

Kansas City, June 15.—Militant leaders of the farmers crusade—still full of fight despite their defeat here—today planned to carry the famous McNary-Haugen bill to Houston.

The same platform plank which was overwhelmingly rejected by the Republican convention, will be dangled before the eyes of the Democrats—with a promise that it will be a rich prize on election day.

Informal conferences were held to map out the strategy for the Republican campaign. All of the arguments of economic advantage for the farmers and political gain for the Democrats will be carried to the southward, the farm leaders declared.

Not all of those who stormed the Republican ramparts with demand that President Coolidge and his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill be repudiated, will be found in the councils of the Democrats, a canvasser revealed.

While displaying a deep disappointment at the outcome of their efforts in Kansas City some farm leaders indicated that they would continue their fight within the Republican party.

The Fighters' Plans
The more militant—including William Hirth of Missouri, chairman of the corn belt committee, and William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Federation—declared that the Democrats would not only accept the farm plank but would beat Hoover with it.

Others expressed doubt that Gov. Smith, if the Democratic nominee, would favor the bill either as an economic or political aid. Belief was expressed that he would see in it a blow at the consuming masses of the west who buy the farmers' products.

"We are going to Houston and if the Democrats adopt the farm plank they'll get our votes," declared the speakers.

Knows Responsibilities
"By these experiences I have observed the burdens and responsibilities of the greatest office in the world. It deals with the peace of nations, and no man could think of it except in terms of solemn consecration."

"You ask me for a message. A new era and new forces have come into our economic life, and our setting among nations of the world. These forces demand of us constant study and effort if prosperity, peace and contentment shall be maintained."

"This convention, like those which have preceded it for two generations, has affirmed the principles of our party and defined its policies upon the problems which now confront us."

"I stand upon that platform. At

English Archbishop IS LIKELY TO RESIGN

House of Commons Rejects Revised Edition of the Prayer Book.

London, June 15.—It was reported in ecclesiastical circles today that the Archbishop of Canterbury will resign as a result of the action of the House of Commons in rejecting the proposed revision of the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England. This was the second time within six months that the House of Commons voted down a resolution to legalize the revised prayer book. The "antits" had a majority of 46 votes in last night's balloting.

Disestablishment of the Church of England, or a separation of the union which has existed between the church and state since the reign of King Henry VIII, is likely within the next few months.

Those favoring the new prayer book contended it would end the schisms within the church. The proposed alliance of the Church of England and the Catholic church also played an important part in the situation.

Kansas City, June 15.—When the roll for vice-presidential nominations was called but three names remained before the convention, those of Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut and Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts. Tilson and Fuller both withdrew from the race leaving Curtis alone in the field and the nominee of the Republicans for vice-president.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, June 15.—It's Hoover and Curtis. This Republican ticket for 1928 appeared virtually certain here today a scant half hour before the Republican national convention met to complete its work.

The powerful delegations from New York and Pennsylvania caucused solidly for Curtis soon after 11 a. m., and with the middlewestern strength to which he naturally is heir this made the selection of the Kansas Senator as second place on the ticket about as certain as anything can be in politics.

The selection of Senator Curtis was said to be eminently satisfactory to the secretary of commerce, if, in fact, he did not personally direct it. Some of Hoover's closest advisers and strongest supporters were in behind the movement for the Kansas.

Borah to Name Him
Senator Borah of Idaho, will place Senator Curtis' name before the convention, it was said at 11:30 o'clock, and there will be seconds from some of the most powerful delegations in the convention.

Borah was said to have been largely responsible for the selection of the Kansas Senator, who as late as twelve hours ago was still persistent in his refusal to have his name voted upon for the vice presidency. Not only did Borah persuade Curtis to change his mind, but he also was credited with having won over the support of Andrew W. Mellon, and a few other eastern leaders who were either backing other candidates or were non-committal.

Leaders Satisfied
Curtis' selection meets the demand voiced by a number of the party leaders for "a dry from west of the Alleghenies," and also for a candidate who is friendly to the agricultural interests of the midwest. Curtis voted for the McNary-Haugen bill in the Senate, but later voted also to sustain President Coolidge's veto of that measure.

Curtis declined, it was said, to allow either his native Kansas or Oklahoma to place his name before the convention because in that event he would "appear to be seeking the nomination," which he repeatedly vowed he never would take.

A first ballot nomination appeared not unlikely as the big hall filled up.

The Curtis people were trying hard to secure a decision on the first ballot—the making of this one of the rare two-ballot national political conventions in American political history. They wanted it done quickly for numerous reasons—a compliment to the veteran Kansan, because they told him it was possible, and also because the action would be calculated to show the rebellious and discontented grain country that the Republican national convention was overwhelming for one of its most prominent leaders.

Informal caucuses were going on all over the floor at 12 o'clock, the hour of convening, and the Curtis promoters were jubilant and confident.

New Jersey spokesmen announced on the floor that their 31 votes would go for Curtis on the first ballot, and that Senator Edge, New Jersey's own candidate at one time for second place, would second the nomination of his senatorial colleague.

This insured the aligning of the east's most powerful delegations—Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey—for the Kansan, with most, if not entirely all of the middle west.

It was a few minutes after 12 o'clock when Senator Moses, the permanent chairman, banged his gavel and ordered the delegates to break up their conferences on the floor and hunt their seats. He had some difficulty in getting obedience for the caucuses and passing to and fro with messages was still on.

After banging vigorously for several minutes, Moses himself went into a huddle on the platform with Senators Borah and Smoot, who were the mainstays of the Curtis swing. They conferred for a few minutes, then broke up smiling.

"It's all over," said Borah as he came down from the platform.

At 12:07, Senator Deneen said he believed Illinois would go solidly for Curtis, despite reports that the Illinois delegates would give its vote to Dawes, at least on the first ballot. The Illinois conferences were still in progress then, despite the vigorous gavel work of the chairman.

The band helped the confusion. In vain did Moses wig-wag for it to stop. It was the last day of the convention and the bandmaster wanted to do his stuff.

"All delegates will take their seats," bawled Moses through the "mike." He repeated it at regular momentary intervals.

greatest Borahism in the platform appears in foreign relations section in which the current international negotiations for a treaty renouncing war is characterized as "the first step in outlawing war."

The declaration on Mexico, "to protect American rights" while seeking "to promote and strengthen friendship and confidence" might have come from any one of a half dozen of Borah's Senate speeches during the last two years.

The presidents and secretaries of the thirteen local chambers of commerce in Connecticut for a policy of "wise moderation" meet tonight in the Willimantic chamber.

And if there is any doubt about Borah's part in the declaration for limiting campaign expenditures, one has only to read the concluding paragraph of that plank in the light of the recent fight against Senator-elect Frank L. Smith in the Senate.

The party further pledges that it will not create, or permit to be created, any office which shall exist at the close of the campaign.

Pay-as-you-go politics on the grand scale has been Borah's hobby since the Newberry contest from Michigan a decade ago. He has preached it from coast to coast and taken it to his typewriter in constant meditation.

Four years ago, when the La Follette Third Party candidacy was the great political question mark in the agricultural west, Borah walked in the last day set by the Idaho law to announce whether he would enter the Senatorial primary under the Progressive or Republican banner.

flashlights and microphones. That lad didn't need a microphone. Personally I don't care if I never hear another speech. Speaking and singing are obnoxious talents. Now bring it easier on the public. Nobody has to read this unless they want to. You can shut your ears. Some of the things that were inflicted on the 2,400 ears in that hall yesterday were too much for me.

The hall was packed last night for the first time. Over-packed, but many notable faces were missing from their usual spot. Mr. Nicholas Murray Butler wasn't there. He lost interest I suppose when his pet plank was knocked out.

Teddy Roosevelt was there in a glow. Really that grin of his is bigger than he is. He made much whoopee with a tin rattie when he carried the stick with the New York label on it with much gusto in the snake dance around the hall.

Rockville

Ballroom Nears Completion

Such rapid progress is being made on the new Sandy Beach Ballroom, that it is now expected the opening will be held Saturday, the 23rd, or possibly Wednesday, the 27th, of this month.

The building of the new ballroom which will be the largest in eastern Connecticut is being followed by hundreds of fans who are awaiting the opening of the new ballroom in order to plan for the extra buses which will be put on for the patrons of Sandy Beach and plans are being perfected to have the buses run direct to the beach from Martin's crossing.

LOWDEN'S ACTION WORRIES LEADERS

Withdraws Name in Letter; Says He Will Stick to His Cause.

Kansas City, June 15.—The new dynasty of Republican leaders who have taken hold of the Republican Party were endeavoring today to pick a running mate for Herbert Hoover.

But the question that is really worrying them was the effect that Frank O. Lowden's bitter valedictory to his party will have on Republican chances for success in November—if any.

Lowden's letter to the Republican National convention withdrawing his name, was the climax to the unsuccessful fight which the loosely knit farm organizations have waged in and out of the convention to secure what they characterized as their "rights." Lowden was their champion.

"Unlucky Break"
Eight years ago, Frank O. Lowden would have been nominated for the presidency but for what the politicians call "an unlucky break." Four years ago he was nominated for the vice presidency by unanimous vote of the Cleveland convention, only to turn it down later.

Yet, with his record of more than forty years of Republican regularity, Lowden sent this message to the Republican national convention last night that was in the whooping process of nominating Hoover.

"I have stated publicly that I do not want the nomination unless the Republican Party was prepared fully and fairly to meet the agricultural problem.

"I have waited upon no particular remedy but I have stated at all times that if there was a better method than the so-called equalization fee I would gladly accept it. I have urged, however, that it is the duty of the Republican Party to find some way to rescue agriculture from the ruin that threatens it.

"This, in my judgment, the committee by its platform just adopted has failed to do.

"I therefore, authorize the withdrawal of my name from the floor of the convention.

"Though I cease to be a candidate my interest in the cause is in no way abated."

"A Bad Loser"
It was noted that Gov. Lowden did not say that it was the Republican cause in which his interest was "in no way abated." The inference was left that his future interest, and more particularly his interest so far as the forthcoming election is concerned, centers around the agricultural "cause" rather than with the cause of his party. In any event, it is taken by party leaders in Kansas City today that Gov. Lowden is not exactly to take off his coat and work for the success of the party this year in the territory in which he admittedly is popular.

The Hoover leaders today characterized Lowden's attitude as that of a "bad loser" and as due to petulance.

On the other hand, the defeated Allies contend that the Illinoisan had acted in the only way possible consistent with his dignity and known views in withdrawing from the contest and in the semi-threat of bolting.

Running Mate Race
The vice presidential row enters this situation to a considerable degree. It accentuates the conflict between the industrial east and the agrarian west.

Some contended that Lowden's withdrawal had killed any chance Vice President Dawes may have had for the Republican vice presidential nomination because Dawes was mainly instrumental in showing the bill, with its equalization fee, through the Senate.

Others, however, asserted it had "made" the Dawes candidacy because it became now more apparent than ever that the Hoover ticket needs a strong middle-westerner to balance the ticket.

With such a controversy raging, and in such an atmosphere the Republicans will go back into convention at noon to determine the vice presidency. Numerous conferences were held all last night, but they failed to name the identity of the future next vice presidential candidate of the Republican Party.

WOMEN GOLFERS GET LOW SCORES AT CLUB

Ladies' Day on the Manchester Country Club's golf course yesterday was marked by the low scores of the contestants. The excellent condition of the course helped the players to do much better than the previous week.

Miss Alice Cheney and Mrs. J. Clark Baker led the field, tying with a low gross of 96. The event of the day was for low score on six selected holes, three on each nine. This was won by Miss Alice Cheney with a 22.

The scores for the six best holes were: Miss Alice Cheney, 22; Mrs. J. Clark Baker, 25; Mrs. John P. Cheney, 27; Mrs. Fred T. Bliss, 29; Mrs. Fred J. Bendall, 29 and Mrs. W. Dexter, 32.

The prizes last week were donated by Alex Simpson, club professional, this week by H. A. Hyde and next week they will be provided by J. Clark Baker. The next tournament will be held next Thursday. The time limits for starting has been extended to 2 p. m. for both nine and eighteen hole events.

BELGIAN O. K. HOOVER
Brussels, June 15.—Belgian newspapers today hailed with satisfaction the presidential nomination of Herbert Hoover by the Republicans at Kansas City. Many of them recalled the Belgian relief work directed by Mr. Hoover in wartime.

NANCY GILL WINNER OF TOP ESSAY PRIZE

Eighth District School Children Get Awards in W. C. T. U. Contest.

At the assembly at the Robertson school this morning prizes were presented to the winners of the annual essay contests maintained by the local W. C. T. U. The prize for the best essay in the town was awarded to Nancy Gill of the Hollister Street school. This prize was $2. The others were $1 each and were awarded as follows, Flora Babcock, Hollister Street school; Edith Lippincott, Robertson School; Eunice Brown, Robertson School; Helen Barron, Robertson School; Dorothea Hastings, Manchester Green; Doris Lohr, Manchester Green; Sandy Burns, Buckland school.

The prizes were presented by Mrs. George Keith of the W. C. T. U. assisted by Rev. M. S. Stocking of the North Methodist Episcopal church.

After the presentation of the prizes the children listened to an address by Rev. Charles M. Warren, a recently returned missionary from Japan. Mr. Warren told the children in a very vivid and entertaining manner about the reception in Japan to the 33,000 Friendship Dolls sent over a year ago by the children of the schools of America and about the preparing of the 58 Japanese dolls sent to this country as a return gift.

These Japanese dolls, it seems were made by expert dollmakers. One of the most skillful in the world, and their market value in Japan was more than $200 each. They were made, however, as gifts of friendship.

The girls of Districts 1 to 8 made three dolls to send to Japan. Two of the 58 sent by Japan to this country made a three day's stay in Manchester.

Mr. Warren expressed the opinion that the results of the interchange of the Friendship Dolls would be far-reaching in the promotion of friendship between the U. S. and Japan.

McNab In Glowing Speech Nominates Herbert Hoover

Convention Hall, Kansas City, June 15.—The American people will be led into an era of greater prosperity and the Republican Party to victory in November by the nomination of Herbert Hoover, the Republican convention was told by John L. McNab, of California, as the name of the Secretary of Commerce was placed formally before the party as a candidate for president.

McNab, a boyhood chum and life-long friend of Hoover, declared the secretary of commerce was a great engineer, a practical scientist, a splendid executive, a noted statesman, a kindly neighbor, a beneficent American and the world's greatest administrator of human welfare. He reviewed at length Hoover's career during the war and in the cabinets of Presidents Harding and Coolidge.

McNab declared "the faith and prayer" of millions were fixed upon Hoover.

"If there is one quality that dominates his life," said McNab, "one overmastering desire that animates his every act, it is the passion to serve his country. Within his soul there glows that strong, robust Americanism—that Americanism that will not be satisfied until it achieves its ultimate aim—the advancement of the welfare of the United States."

Emphasizes Americanism

It was plain to the convention that McNab sought to impress Hoover's Americanism upon the delegates. The Californian declared Hoover descended from "seven generations of American ancestry," and added that "his career is a living example of the heights to which pure Americanism, by sustained effort and devotion may reach."

McNab also sought to silence criticism of Hoover among farm representatives. He declared "it would require the gratitude of a generation of farm producers to repay Herbert Hoover for his efforts to save the whole industry from collapse" following the World War.

"He compelled the disposal in Europe of the huge surplus of farm products," McNab asserted. "Had it not been for his prestige and his genius of persuasion the doors of Europe would have been locked to the products of our fields and American agriculture would have crashed beyond all hope of recovery."

California's Vote.

After reciting how 600,000 Californian Republicans voted to send her delegation to the convention to battle for Hoover's nomination, McNab said:

"I can hear the approaching tread of unnumbered millions of mothers and sons whose hearts are bound up in the future of the Republic. Their faith is fixed upon the man whose name we shall here place before you. They will follow him more enthusiastically than any other leader in the country. He has interpreted their hopes. He understands their cravings. He has been able to satisfy their longings for the better things in life. They recognize in him a Republican who has been able to bend the finest energies of the Republic to the service of the men and women who compose the home life of the United States."

"Their faith and prayers are fixed on him. And shall we dash their hopes and ignore their appeals? Better, is it not, that this mighty force for human betterment should find its abiding home in the Republican Party than turn to other faiths. Our people are aroused to the need of a strong, courageous man to carry forward the constructive policies of a great administration."

"This historic party of achievement has never been able to submit to the American people a greater record of constructive human action than the administration of Calvin Coolidge. And of the constructive part of that administration, from its inception, Herbert Hoover has been a vital and intimate part."

McNab extolled Hoover's services during the World War. He said Hoover heard and answered the cry of "women and children first" at a time, said McNab, when Hoover took charge of the greatest errand of mercy ever known, when millions knocked at hunger's gate.

"Here was a task such as never before confronted man. The feeding of these hungry women and children is the greatest practical romance in history."

As Food Administrator

When America entered the war, McNab said, Hoover came home to help this country. Touching on Hoover's food administrator days, McNab said:

"From the day that he was appointed he insisted that the one essential group in America that must have protection was the American farmer. He imposed none of the crushing regulations which drove European peoples to despair. He enforced no drastic rationing upon the American people. He appealed to their co-operative patriotism. He urged farmers, businessmen and the women of the country into a union of patriotic effort."

"His measure trebled the surplus food in the United States. When the Armistice came he saw with the prophetic vision of a seer the peril that awaited the farmer and the producer. Already food supplies were on hand for another year of gigantic combat. With the supplies of the southern hemisphere free to European markets he saw American agriculture faced with the greatest peril in its history."

"Europe repudiated its contracts to buy the hops and wheat of American farmers. Damming back that flood on the markets of the United States meant ruin from which our agriculturalists would not have recovered in a quarter of a century."

"It would require the gratitude of a generation of farm producers to repay Herbert Hoover for his efforts to save the whole industry from collapse. Only by an administrator with a spirit of prophecy to foresee the impending tragedy could the task have been accomplished."

"He compelled the disposal in Europe of the huge surplus of farm products. To him is due the early opening of the blockade on Germany. Had it not been for his prestige and his genius of persuasion the doors of Europe would have been locked to the products of our fields and American agriculture would have crashed beyond all hope of recovery."

The Big Flood

McNab gave Hoover great credit for the work in the Mississippi river flood disaster. His work there, McNab said, won Hoover the heartfelt gratitude of millions of Americans.

In concluding McNab virtually laid down a personal platform for his candidate.

"To insure to every American child equal opportunity in training and education; to remove the drudgery of the American housewife; to brighten the toil of the workshop; to find ration, not artificial means to relieve the distress of the producers; to stimulate healthy business methods; to advise, to encourage and to protect—these make the pattern he has been weaving for the last seven years for the domestic America of the future."

Fitted For Job

"No one is so fitted by years of training and experience; no one is so adapted by temperament and sympathy to direct these forces to the betterment of his country as this wholesome son of the sturdy forebears of the midwest."

"All the world knows his public service. But only the few understand his graciousness and kindness as a human being. He is no superman in private life. He loves his friends. He likes to laugh and play. He loves the world and craves its affection in return."

"And now we dedicate this man to a greater public service."

"His nomination will kindle a brighter faith in the breasts of all who love America and wish to keep her a living symbol of the world's best hopes."

"Engineer, practical scientist, minister of mercy to the hungry, administrator, executive, statesman, beneficent American, kindly neighbor, wholesome human being, I give you the name of Herbert Hoover."

CITIZEN TRAINING CAMP QUOTAS ARE ALL FILLED

Waiting Lists Only Available Now—Over 4,500 Applications Are Received.

Announcement was made yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the Citizen's Military Training Camps in the Post Office Building, Hartford, by Judge John L. Gillson, the state chairman that the quotas for the New England states have been entirely filled, and that hereafter no applications for enrollment in the Camps to be held during the month of July at Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., Fort McKinley, Portland Harbor, Maine; Fort Ethan Allen Burlington, Vermont and Camp Devens, Massachusetts, could be received unless the applicants are willing to remain on a waiting list with very doubtful chances of their assignment.

In Massachusetts alone where the total quota was set at 1,584, over 3,000 applications have been received, and while the War Department has made provisions for the accommodation of 3,000 students for the New England camps, the total number of applications received approximates 4,500.

The camps this year will open on July 6, and will close on August 3. Those in Manchester desiring to get on the waiting list should call James H. McVeigh of Oxford street.

FREE RAMONA-HATS, DRESSES AT STATE

To Be Given Away Tonight; "Ramona," Sunday and Monday.

Tonight at 8:30 the State theater is giving away, absolutely free, to the lucky ladies, two Ramona dresses, one Ramona jacket and four Ramona hats.

The two film features which made such a lasting impression with audiences at the State last night, will be repeated again tonight for the final times. They are Milton Sillis in "The Hawk's Nest," a thrilling drama of the underworld, and "Lady Be Good," a picturization of the famous musical comedy of the same name.

For tomorrow the State is presenting another of its popular week-end programs, which consists of two big features and a splendid routine of interesting short subjects. As usual, the performance is continuous from 7:15 until 10:30.

Clothes make the man—and sometimes clothes make the woman do things that she does not exactly want to do. This is emphasized in "The Play Girl," Madge Bellamy's latest starring vehicle, which is one of the two features coming to the State tomorrow.

Miss Bellamy portrays the role of a salesgirl in a fashionable hat shop, a position that gives her wide opportunity to study gay life, which intrigues her to the extent that she craves beautiful clothes, jewels and other things that her salary cannot buy. How she manages to get them is done in a manner that is both clever and funny. She enjoys her brief illusion and the awakening come when she is asked to pay the price demanded. It is here that the story has a very unusual twist that is both entertaining, as well as dramatic. Miss Bellamy reaches new screen heights in this picture, with the able support of a well-known group of film favorites.

The companion-feature for tomorrow presents the one and only Fred Thomson, popular western star, in "The Sunset Legion," his newest thrill-drama.

"The Sunset Legion" is one of those cheer, applaud and laugh stories. It starts off with a roar, slides around the turns at break-neck speed and has some amazing action.

Thomson is seen in the role of a Texas Ranger, designated to solve some mysterious thefts and he has some tense and exciting moments. Supported by his wonderful horse, Silver King, he performs stunts that are daring and clever.

"Ramona," the long-awaited film production, is due to arrive at the State on Sunday evening for a special two-day engagement. Tickets are now on sale at the box-office for Sunday night.

PARIS CAT SHOW TO ADMIRE PETS

Paris.—Every dog may have his day but the cat comes in for hers as well in Paris. The Annual International Feline Exposition has been open to large crowds of cat admirers recently. There were Tommies and Tabbies of every color and combination; big fluffy cats and very small ones; cats with blue eyes and cats with green. Persians and Siamese vied for attention and in the end, a plain old alley-cat of which there are thousands in the French capital, which happened to stray in by chance, received more caresses than any of the caged beauties.

Charles Mestorine is undoubtedly the most original criminal in Paris has seen for many a day and his wife follows close after his heels.

The notorious assassin, when all else seemed to fail, dragged out the ever-sympathetic excuse of "crime passionel" and revealed his love-story with his sister-in-law to the eyes of the world, including those of his poor wife.

Instead of thinking of a divorce, Madame Mestorine immediately pardoned the erring husband and announced that they had only been married before civil authorities. At present she desires a religious ceremony to strengthen the bonds. If the courts allow it, the consecration will undoubtedly take place in the historic chapel of the Consergeries, prison of Robespierre, Madame Roland and other famous historical personages.

Paris' famous Flea Market has vanished. For the first time in seven hundred years the little heaps of rusty nails, rings of keys, old stoves, rags, fire-screen, tooth-brushes and countless nameless "junk" that stretched along the fortification at the Porte de Clignancourt, have disappeared, and with them the curious types of old French, Russian, Syrian and gypsy merchants, the women with brightly painted cheeks and elaborate coiffures piled high with combs, the men with cheerful, wrinkled faces.

"The Marche aux Puces," so called because of a little flea or two is usually included in the bargain, has been tottering for a long time. Sometime ago it was ordered to shut down and set out of the way for a children's playground. Then it was argued that the land was far too dear to be used for such purposes and some fine apartment would go up on the familiar site, rendezvous for many American tourists on Sunday mornings.

This announcement caused a great stir among the merchants who banded together and appointed a representative to plead with the prefect of the Seine. He was so sympathetic that he won the case for them.

Then came the Sunday closing law which succeeded in wiping out the picturesque corner of Paris. The Merchants were called before the bar the President of the Tribunal said that the stores were obliged to conform to the law and why shouldn't they. There was nothing to say. Each one had a small fine to pay. The Flea Market is silenced forever.

DOCTOR'S BRAIN SNAPS
DURING AN OPERATION ON NOTED SONG WRITER

Vienna.—Johann Varsagh, Hungarian song-writer, had his eyesight seriously damaged and just escaped losing it altogether in consequence of a doctor losing his reason during an operation.

Varsagh underwent an operation in a Budapest nursing home for the removal of a gastric ulcer, and during the administration of the anaesthetic the brain of the doctor acting as anaesthetist seems suddenly to have snapped.

It is alleged that after Varsagh had become unconscious, the anaesthetist deliberately poured the contents of the ether bottle into the patient's eyes.

It was not until Varsagh had been taken back to his ward that it was noticed what had happened. A specialist succeeded in saving the sight.

The anaesthetist was taken to an asylum a raving lunatic.

We are wondering if Mrs. Levine is one to be asking Pilot Levine where he has been when he comes home late for dinner. Of course, he always might answer, "Oh, up in Mabel's plane."

CANDIDATE HOOVER

Herbert Hoover, 53 years old, native of Iowa and in the view of scores of millions of people all over the world America's most distinguished man of achievement, is the Republican party's candidate for President of the United States. His nomination, distinctly the result of mass desire in the party and accomplished in the face of desperate opposition from many of the veterans in party management, removes the issue of the November election from the region of reasonable doubt.

The Republican party has made the strongest nomination possible to make, from the strategic viewpoint. It has also, which is not always the same thing, nominated the one man in America best equipped to administer the office of President during what is certain to be a momentous period in American economic development. There is going to be a need for genius in the Presidency. Herbert Hoover will bring that rare quality to the office. It is the quality of genius to be able to do whatever task arises not only acceptably but with amazing success. And such successes make up the record of Herbert Hoover's life. No problem that he has ever attacked has baffled him, and they have been immensely varied and immensely great. There could be no better illustration of his capacity than this nomination itself. They said he was no politician—and in the sense that he has not given his life to the practice of the hackneyed methods of the professional politician this is, to his credit, true.

But when Hoover entered the contest for the nomination he brought to the job of winning the same capabilities that enabled him to win to the top of his profession, to bring many thousands of stranded Americans out of Europe in the first months of the World war, to feed the Belgians, to maintain equitable price levels for food in America and keep the great torrent of supplies going to hungry allies, to prevent a farmers' debacle after the armistice, to rescue the scores of thousands of Mississippi flood victims. He saw farther and clearer and acted more decisively and quicker, on a score of stricken fields of political combat, than the allied experts in the game who sought to overthrow him.

To be sure he had the supreme advantage of being the people's choice. But it is also the mark of genius that he himself knew this while his political opponents could not get it through their heads; or, sensing the fact, determined to ignore it and bully and outsmart the majority of the party into acceptance of some candidate it did not want.

In Herbert Hoover the Republican party offers to the country a candidate for the Presidency of whom it is absolutely no exaggeration to declare that he is "the biggest man in sight." And one who, at the same time, can be utterly depended on to employ all his wisdom, his experience and his genius for the welfare of America.

Not only Republicans but all Americans should be happy in the outcome of this unparalleled contest.

CONNECTICUT'S 17

The people of Connecticut have been for Hoover since the beginning of this nomination campaign. A very large proportion of the Republican press of the state has been for Hoover. A considerable number of the delegates to Kansas City were, actually, Hoover men and women. Yet Connecticut Republicans have been compelled to read reports of their delegation's behavior at the convention which have caused them to squirm in their skins. Even at the last moment, when the simple dictates of sportsmanship demanded that the Connecticut representation bow gracefully to the will of a vast majority, this state's standard stood obstinately in its place and the delegates sat sullenly in their chairs—because the tail could not wag the dog. It is generous to say that no more than that the Republicans of this state would have been well pleased to have had it otherwise.

However, there is no use in being petulant over lost prestige when you have garnered the substance of victory. By the time the delegation gets home it will have received, no doubt, chastening enough. And we expect to see every one of its members, inside of six weeks, boasting for Hoover with as sincere enthusiasm as if Connecticut's standard had led the parade at Kansas City.

NEW ENGLAND SHOPS

During the last six months or so there has been a blessed diminution in those well intentioned but utterly mistaken shrieks, emanating from various booster organizations, the tenor of which was, "Rally! Get together and save New England's threatened industries!"

Intended to stimulate and spur the business men of New England into more "snap" and "pep," this propaganda actually had the effect of the wall of the defeatist; and without the shadow of a reason it came as near as possible to convincing otherwise confident and enterprising people that there must be something seriously wrong with this section from an economic standpoint.

Nothing could be further from the truth. New England is not now and has not been losing industries on any scale worth considering. There was never any likelihood that she would. It is perfectly true that some cotton mills quit and were re-established in the South, but that was substantially the whole of the loss and it was nothing in the world but part of the movement of occasional industries that has been going on in this country since it first had industries.

Figures obtained in a survey of the New England Council show that in the past year these six states have lost 92 industries, and that sixty of these were merely undertakings that didn't succeed—the lame ducks that every section has and always has had. Meantime there was a gain of 209 new industries employing a total number of workers considerably in excess of the number made idle by the failures and the few removals.

These figures represent a greater gain in fact than in arithmetic, because they indicate a larger variety in the gained industries than in those lost, and if there is any one factor that New England should congratulate herself on it is the variety of her manufactures. Any time we can swap one standardized factory employing a thousand hands for ten varied ones employing a hundred each we can count ourselves as having made the best possible kind of a trade. It is the little factory that has been the source of New England's greatest industrial prosperity. Sometimes it has remained small and still prospered through especial merit. Give this section enough little factories, manufacturing a dozen or a hundred different lines of product, to compensate for the number of employees in the big cotton mills of eastern New England, and we could afford very well indeed to have that branch of the textile industry depart forever from our boundaries. In twenty years we should be a hundred per cent better off.

If anybody thinks there is any need of starting a New England rescue movement let him look at the building and engineering contract record for last month. It amounted to sixty and one-fourth millions of dollars—a greater sum than ever before contracted for in New England in one month in history!

ROCKETEERS

Whether it is merely another development of the twentieth century speed mania or whether there is some definite objective behind it, the Germans are manifesting an uncanny interest in rocket propulsion. Just now there is a dispute on between the Berlin newspapers and Fritz Von Opel, rich automobile manufacturer, as to whether already a man has been propelled through the air by rocket, energizing glider, or whether, as Von Opel insists, such an experiment is still several days in the future.

The newspapers declare that the thing has already been done and

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(188) HOSPITAL BEDS FOR 5,000

With some 30 general hospitals scattered throughout the state, Connecticut has approximately 5,000 beds available for sick and injured. The total daily average number of patients is more than 3,000. Maintenance costs of these hospitals amount to approximately $5,000,000 annually.

During 1922 thirty-two general hospitals having a total capacity of 4,924 beds expended a total of $5,364,548 for maintenance. This was $145,450 less than the aggregate income for the institutions from all sources. Approximately $1,000,000 additional was expended for construction.

Twelve of the institutions showed a final deficit totaling $124,162 in maintenance at the end of the year. The remainder reported a total final surplus of $269,612. Of the $5,500,000 in total income from all sources for the year, approximately $4,000,000 was obtained from patients. The state appropriations for the year for all the institutions, ranging in single amounts from $1,009 to $21,875, totaled $331,125. The remaining income was obtained "from other sources."

The total number of persons cared for during the year by the general hospitals in the state is close to 100,000. The average cost per patient per week is around $31.00.

Twenty years ago the 23 general hospitals then in operation had a total bed capacity of 2,192. The number of patients admitted to these institutions during the year totaled 15,635 and the daily average was 968. The average cost per patient per week was $23. The state appropriation to the hospitals amounted to $80,000.

Monday—Tuberculosis Cases Decreasing

that the individual in question moved through the air faster than any human being has ever moved in any element or with any motive power. They knew few details, however.

"Rocket experts" are referred to in German dispatches nowadays in as commonplace a way as automotive experts were spoken of a few years ago. And certainly more than a little money is being spent in investigating this peculiar form of energy.

Aside from the understandable theory that it may be possible to attain to much higher altitudes through rocket propulsion than in any other way yet conceived, it isn't clear to the ordinary American mind what good rocket travel would be, if it could be controlled—and why should anybody want to ascend to twenty or thirty miles above the earth, even if he could?

In such case, it being Germans who are concerned and the habits of years being hard to break, it is likely that they will be suspected of having some secret military purpose back of their determination to whiz through the air on the nose of a rocket. Probably, however, the rocketeers are merely a perfectly innocent variety of the purposeless speed maniac.

FLOWER SHOWS

Manchester, as a community, owes a considerable debt of appreciation to the Garden Club for the institution of periodical flower shows on a scale rapidly assuming first class proportions. There is no one factor in small city life which contributes more to the joy of existence and does more to place the town dweller in a position of advantage over the big city resident than the development of an interest in horticulture. The flower gardens of such a place as Manchester are one of its prime assets when interest in gardening becomes general. And the Garden Club, and especially its exhibitions, are exerting an influence in this direction that is already readily discernible and promises to rapidly become greater.

A THOUGHT

Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.—Matt. 6:21.

If we are rich with the riches we neither give nor enjoy, we are rich with the riches that are buried in the caverns of the earth.—Veesnao Sarma.

PHILADELPHIA BANKERS TO BE HOSTS TO 3,000 BIG FINANCIAL MEN

Philadelphia.—Philadelphia bankers will be hosts during the week beginning June 18th to 3,000 representatives of the American Institute of Banking, which will hold its 26th annual convention in this city. The delegates will represent the younger group of bankers in every institution of importance in that field through the United States.

The business session of the convention will be held in the Academy of M. S., beginning on Tuesday, June 19th, with the final session on Friday, June 22nd. The Bellevue-Stratford Hotel will be convention headquarters.

New York, June 15.—Upon a rain-drenched, mist-hung night "Mac" and his horse, and his cab seem like wraiths of another era. Mac and his horse and his cab stand at the Central Park roadway, just across from the Plaza hotel. In the broad light of day they might not so much as catch your eye. But whizzing past them in snug comfort of your taxicab upon a rainy night like passing a specter. That which first intrigues you on such a night is the flicker from the tiny oil lamps at the side of the cab. The flame is no greater than that thrown by a small candle. On a rainy night in Manhattan it resembles a lone firefly making its way over a fog hung south ern swamp.

If, as I did, you order your driver to stop and pull over you will see Mac drooped in his seat, the reins held limply in his hands. His shoulders are sheltered by a venerable storm cape and his bat-tored cabby's bowler sags over his forehead and drips water like a leaking eave.

The street is practically deserted. Now and then a lone dark figure bursts out of nowhere and rushes by. Or the whistle of a hotel doorman reveals a shrouded figure. Out of the night come shouts of "Hey, taxi!" Nobody wants a cab. But Mac sits stolidly, as though carved of stone.

I have often thought that the city should subsidize him just to sit there and furnish the color of a by-gone day.

Which reminds me of another strange encounter. Strolling in the mid-forties, I came upon a woman wheeling a baby carriage. There's nothing strange about that. But upon the carriage hung a sign which read, "Little Bobbie asks you to buy his daddy's books."

Now I have heard as much about struggling authors and all that, as the next fellow. But this unique method of getting sales seemed to me to merit attention. For ten cents, I learned, one could buy "daddy's book." This turned out to be a pamphlet, cheaply printed on cheap paper, and entitled, "The Destruction of a Modern Babylon." It was written in pretty bad verse.

And therein I read again that Manhattan is another Babylon, a Sodom and Gomorrah in one, doomed to inevitable destruction because of its wicked ways. The author trusted and prophesied that his destruction would come about by means of an earthquake—although geologists seem to differ on this point.

But observing the number of people who smile upon the baby and dropped their dimes, I wondered if the poet was entirely right. I wondered if the young wife really believed his was right. The real kick came when I asked her just why she took this means of sale.

"So that my husband will have more time for his writing," she told me. "He hasn't anyone to handle his works, so I attend to that. And since I have to take care of the baby, I sell his poetry while wheeling baby out in the sunshine. He's working on a beautiful piece now that he calls 'The Soul of the Artist' and there's another one he calls 'Necropolis' that's on the press now."

And yet they say all the poets are in Greenwich Village! Harry Hersfield tells me that he passed a flower shop window and read the placard, "Say it with flowers!"

"But the only flowers they showed were orchids at $20 a dozen. So I only whispered," observed Harry. GILBERT SWAN.

SOME EGG RECIPES
 Eggs are easily digested if prepared in any manner without the use of grease. For this reason, fried eggs are not advisable since they can only be thoroughly digested by one who has a cast-iron stomach. Raw eggs are more difficult to digest than soft boiled eggs, especially when they are swallowed "en masse" like an oyster.

I have no doubt that many tuberculars have been killed by stuffing with raw eggs and milk. The healthiest person living cannot digest twelve eggs per day, and certainly one with a weak digestion, such as a tubercular patient, would be poisoned by this excess of protein food. (I have prepared a special article on feeding tuberculars which I will be very glad to mail to you if you will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

CODDLED EGGS are prepared by placing the whole egg in a quart of boiling water, first removing from the fire, and allowing it to remain in the water for about eight minutes. This will give the amount of coagulation which makes the egg most easily digested. Hard boiled eggs are difficult to digest unless they are finely chewed. The best way is to prepare them as in the coddled method, but allow them to remain in the water from twenty to thirty minutes.

POACHED EGGS may be deliciously prepared by placing the egg in about four ounces of milk and putting the pan on the broiler so that the heat will cook the egg and milk on top. This may then be poured over Melba toast, with the addition of butter and salt as desired.

BAKED EGGS: Place a small round of Melba toast in the bottom of a muffin tin, moisten slightly with milk, break the egg onto the toast and place in a slow oven until it is of the desired consistency.

CUP CUSTARD may be prepared by beating three whole eggs together, adding a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place the cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, until the custard is slightly browned on top. Figs or other dried fruit may be substituted for the raisins, as you will find they make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey. Eggs prepared in the form of custard would not be considered merely as a dessert, because they really should form the protein part of a meal.

FRENCH OMELET. Another delicious way of preparing eggs is to beat together two ounces of milk for each egg and cook slowly while constantly stirring, in an ungreased pan. The heat should be turned low so that the egg will cook to a jelly-like consistency without sticking to the pan. This resembles a yellow cottage cheese when finished, and may be served either in egg cups or by pouring over Melba Toast.

Questions and Answers
 Question: Mrs. A. L. writes: "My four year old son has flat feet. Will arch supporters cure this? Should he ride a tricycle, or is it better for him to walk a lot?"
 Answer: Arch supporters cannot cure flat feet any more than crutches can make you strong. Riding a tricycle should be good exercise, but the best one of all is to take your son for a walk once or twice daily, having him walk "pigeon toed" part of the way. This is walking with the toes turned in like the Indians do. Just tell him to walk Indian fashion part of the time and let him think he is playing a game.

Question: Interested writes: "How do you prepare Melba toast as given in your 'Cleansing Diet'?"
 Answer: Cut all of the crust from an ordinary loaf of white bread, and slice the entire loaf in pieces one-quarter of an inch thick. Allow these to dry at least overnight and preferably even longer. When thoroughly dry, they should then be put into a moderately hot oven and toasted so that the heat will entirely penetrate the dried bread and it will be browned all the way through.

Question: V. H. writes: "I have what the doctors call 'encephalitis lethargica.' I am told that there is no cure for this. I, that so feel as if I want to sleep all the time and have pains in the pit of my stomach—pains more at night than during the day."

Answer: Most people who think they are suffering from sleeping sickness are really only toxic and bilious. The chances are, you can get rid of your sleepy feeling as soon as you de-toxicate yourself with a fruit fast followed by the right diet.

"RAMONA" OPENS AT STATE SUNDAY

Helen Hunt Jackson's story, "Ramona," which comes to the State Sunday and Monday is regarded as one of the present day American classics.

When Mrs. Jackson decided to write "Ramona" she had a deliberate purpose and as high an aim as that associated in the writing of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She did not realize that her story would prove one of America's most interesting romances.

It was the writer's motive to bring the treatment toward the Indians by the Americans, before Congress in the hope that Congress would enact just laws. That was Mrs. Jackson's whole desire.

Before "Ramona" recalled the Indians' plight in fiction form, she had written "A Century of Dishonor" in which was an account of the United States government's dealing with the Indian tribes that had widespread influence. Being a plain, cold statement of facts, with copies of evidence to bear it out, "A Century of Dishonor" was really an indictment of the government for its failure to keep its promise with the Red Man from early times down to the date of the publication of the book, 1880.

It was later that Mrs. Jackson became convinced that public sympathy on behalf of the Mission Indians of California, could be awakened if revealed in story form; hence her novel with a purpose—"Ramona."

"Ramona" would never have reached a 94th printing had it not possessed unusual literary qualities, for public interest in the Indian question alone could never have kept the book alive. As it is, "Ramona" is regarded as one of the American classics.

SIXTH DISTRICT CALLS ITS LAST MEETING

Swan Song to Be Sung at Annual Session on Monday, June 25.

The annual meeting of the Sixth school district, now annexed to the Ninth, will be held June 25 in the school house. This will be the last meeting to be held by the district. For three years the district has been working out the amount that had to be paid the Ninth district in an equalization payment of $12,000. Three years were allowed for the old Sixth to do this in. Three different taxes were necessary. The first was a four mill tax. The following year a three mill tax was also advanced money. laid and last year the tax was two and a half mills.

Committeeman Clarence I. Taylor said last night that the reports of the different officers would be presented at the annual meeting and that in addition to turning over the money that was due to close the balance of $12,000 there will be a slight balance left over. This will be needed, however, to pay for the bills of advertisements, care and upkeep of the building and also the salaries of the officers of the district, which have never been paid, as the vote required that all money be paid for the debt. The district officers, Committeeman Clarence Taylor, Clerk and Treasurer Gustave Schreiber, Collector P. H. Moriarty have given their services for the past three years without receiving any pay for them and in addition to this they have also advanced money.

SOME EGG RECIPES

Eggs are easily digested if prepared in any manner without the use of grease. For this reason, fried eggs are not advisable since they can only be thoroughly digested by one who has a cast-iron stomach. Raw eggs are more difficult to digest than soft boiled eggs, especially when they are swallowed "en masse" like an oyster.

I have no doubt that many tuberculars have been killed by stuffing with raw eggs and milk. The healthiest person living cannot digest twelve eggs per day, and certainly one with a weak digestion, such as a tubercular patient, would be poisoned by this excess of protein food. (I have prepared a special article on feeding tuberculars which I will be very glad to mail to you if you will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

CODDLED EGGS are prepared by placing the whole egg in a quart of boiling water, first removing from the fire, and allowing it to remain in the water for about eight minutes. This will give the amount of coagulation which makes the egg most easily digested. Hard boiled eggs are difficult to digest unless they are finely chewed. The best way is to prepare them in the coddled method, but allow them to remain in the water from twenty to thirty minutes.

POACHED EGGS may be deliciously prepared by placing the egg in about four ounces of milk and putting the pan on the broiler so that the heat will cook the egg and milk on top. This may then be poured over Melba toast, with the addition of butter and salt as desired.

BAKED EGGS: Place a small round of Melba toast in the bottom of a muffin tin, moisten slightly with milk, break the egg onto the toast and place in a slow oven until it is of the desired consistency.

CUP CUSTARD may be prepared by beating three whole eggs together, adding a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place the cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the custard is slightly browned on top. Figs or other dried fruits may be substituted for the raisins; as you will find they make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey. Eggs prepared in the form of custard would not be considered merely as a dessert, because they really should form the protein part of a meal.

FRENCH OMELET. Another delicious way of preparing eggs is to beat together two ounces of milk for each egg and cook slowly while constantly stirring, in an ungreased pan. The heat should be turned low so that the egg will cook to a jelly-like consistency without sticking to the pan. This resembles a yellow cottage cheese when finished, and may be served either in egg cups or by pouring over Melba Toast.

Today the book enjoys its largest sale and now come, the film that will give it perpetual life on the silver sheet. Inspiration Pictures and Edwin Carewe produced the story with Dolores De Rlo in the star and title role. It is regarded as one of the important pictures for the new year and a vehicle entirely suited to the star's histrionic talents.

High School To Lose 11 Players By Graduation

Glenn Wright To Remain With The Pittsburgh Club

Despite Many Rumors, the Star Shortstop Not to Be Traded; Reports of Other Transfers.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, June 15.—After due inquiry, I am able today to confirm without reservation stories in circulation here concerning occasional incompatibility between Glenn Wright, the shortstop, and the Pittsburgh club. These stories are absolutely right up to the point. A year ago the player was called up on the club and informed that he must be a very good boy in the future or he would hear no more about the adventures of Topsy and Flopsy and Uncle Robert. Terrified by the threat, the young man was reduced to groveling submission forthwith.

His subsequent behavior has been exemplary, they say, which made it inexpedient for Donie Bush, manager of the ball club, to admit that such a situation ever had arisen in the first place. Now it is necessary for Bush to admit that Wright was not to be traded to the Chicago Cubs by midnight, as allegations would have it. Joe McCarthy is not giving away infielders these days and I don't blame him a bit, either. Nobody would take the kind he has.

Comes to a Head
The Wright business came to a head today largely because trades will be taboo by midnight when the Major League deadline for the season becomes effective. The fact is that all kinds of under-covering activities including the placing of Virgil Barnes on the counter by the Giants and the prospect of trades developing between the Pirates and Phillies and the Cardinals and Braves.

Bush says he naturally is satisfied with any club that can have upward of 15 players out of action at one time or another, and still remain within striking distance of the pace. And now that most of the boys are beginning to peep timidly out from under their splints and cold compresses, he thinks the club can't miss—and won't.

However, they say he is trying to get Pitcher Hub Prueitt, Babe Ruth's favorite, and Fred Leach, the outfielder, from the Phillies in exchange for Outfielder Brickell and Joe Dawson, pitcher. Dawson cost the pirates $25,000, making him owe the club about $24,783.05.

Hornsby's fair for his former St. Louis boy friends might lead to something in connection with Tommy Thevenow, according to reports. These mention Eddie Farrell, shortstop, and a couple of pitchers as being concerned in the Boston end, which seems like a great plenty for an infielder now sitting very skillfully on the bench.

CARDINALS ALL SET FOR THE FIRST PLACE

New York, June 15.—Only three points behind Cincinnati, the St. Louis Cardinals today are poised on the National League runway for a non-stop flight into first place. The significant feature of the Red Birds' four straight victories over Boston is that their pitching aces, Alexander and Haines, are again in top-notch shape. Haines beat the Braves yesterday, 3 to 2.

Chick Hafey's third homer in two days won the game. Rogers Hornsby was banished for protesting a decision and the fans showed the offending umpire with paper bottles. The left field stands at Braves Field are being set back and so-called homers hit into that territory are now held to two-baggers.

A crazy bounce which stretched Adams' single into a triple gave the Pirates a four to three win over the Giants in the eleventh.

The Cubs finished strong and plastered Brooklyn, 7 to 3. The Bruins are now close on the heels of the Giants.

Aided by Lazzeri's homer with two on base, Herb Pennock of the Yankees chalked up his tenth victory, beating the Browns 4 to 3.

The Athletics are still going strong. They nosed out Cleveland, 9 to 8. Cochran and Joe Sewell each got four hits.

Boston's Red Sox are headed for the cellar. They lost to the tail-end White Sox on six to four, when Metzler doubled with the bases loaded.

The Senators tamed the slipping Tigers, 8 to 3. Detroit has lost four straight.

Cincinnati and the Phillies did not play.

Five Players Remain In Local Tournament

Five players remain in the elimination competition for the girls' tennis championship at the High School. They are Kathryn Giblein, present holder of the women's singles championship of Manchester and heavily favored to win this title Janet Simon, Ruth Behrend, Elizabeth Washkewich and Eleanor Run-

Only four more matches remain before the champion will be made. Miss Giblein plays Miss Runde this afternoon and the winner will meet Miss Washkewich for the right to oppose the winner of the Miss Simon-Miss Behrend match for the championship.

While Miss Giblein is considered to be a sure winner, there is a possibility that one of the other four will eliminate her, leaving it in the hands of Miss Washkewich. In case Miss Giblein should lose, she will still retain the town championship. She will defend this in The Herald's annual tournament this summer.

Miss Washkewich, who will meet Miss Giblein unless Miss Runde springs the unexpected, was eliminated by Kathryn in the town tournament last year in the second round. Their match went three sets before Miss Giblein won out. The scores were 6-4, 4-6 and 6-1.

The match between Miss Simon and Miss Behrend may prove to be the best of the entire tournament. They are believed to be very evenly matched.

The results of the first round in the tournament follow: Janet Simon beat Ruth Shorts, 6-0, 6-0; Olive Smith beat Margaret Quinn, 6-7, 6-4, 6-0; Dorothy Smith won from B. Litwinski, 6-2, 7-5; Ruth Behrend defeated Marion Kelum, 6-0, 6-0; Elizabeth Washkewich won from M. Curran by default; Kathryn Giblein won from Elsie Roth, 6-0, 6-0; Eleanor Runde trimmed Betty Tierney, 6-3, 6-2.

In the second round, Janet Simon defeated Olive Smith 6-4, 6-0, Ruth Behrend eliminated Dorothy Smith, 6-1, 6-2 and Elizabeth Washkewich won from Mary Reardon by default. The finals will be played early next week.

Manchester High, which closes its baseball season this afternoon up in Rockville, will lose eleven players through graduation. The entire infield including the first string battery, one outfielder and four utility players are included.

These graduating are Captain Jimmy Foley, Nino Boggini, Herby Fraser, Otto Seelert, Dick Kerr, Alphonse Boggini, Louis Farr, Billy Dowd, Ab Lupien, Wells and Luddie Hansen.

Players returning next season are Ernie Dowd, Ted Lupien, Hugh Moriarty, Dave McConkey, Johnny Hedlund, Bobby Eels and Marcus Moriarty. Much is expected of McConkey who in addition to being a pitcher, is a competent infielder.

The local schoolboy outfit has won ten games and lost four this season. Its greatest achievement was tying West Hartford for the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League championship. East Hartford, Middletown, Meriden and Bristol were bumped off twice by the Killites while West Hartford and Rockville each felt the sting of defeat once. The locals were defeated by Willimantic twice, by Bulkeley High of New London once and by West Hartford once.

Vienna.—A chess-game with living chessmen will take place in Vienna during the festivities commemorating the hundredth anniversary of Frank Schubert's death. On the famous Kriesau trotting course a giant chessboard has been erected. The game will be a bizarre mixture of a historical parade and real chess and will be conducted by renowned chess-players and theatrical managers.

The costumes selected are from 1683, in which year Vienna was besieged by the Turks. The white king will impersonate Count Ruediger Starhemberg, the defender of the Austrian capital, and the black king will be the leader of the Turkish army, the "Terrible" Kara Mustafa.

While some trees may grow in a poor soil after they have become established, there is no advantage in starting trees in anything except the best garden soil.

HIGH SCHOOL TIES IN TENNIS MATCH

Manchester High's tennis team played East Hartford here in a return match yesterday which ended in a tie. The doubles were broken up by a heavy shower at the end of the first set and after the rain East Hartford went out to win both of these matches. Olinstead and H. Ballard defeated Yulys and Smith 6-2, 7-4, 6-0, while Gatti and Markley lost to Bjorklund and M. Ballard 12-10, 6-4. Manchester then proceeded to win three of the singles and tie the match.

Smith lost to Olinstead in two hard sets 9-7, 7-5. Olinstead played a good game in defeating Smith although inclined to use loft too much.

Yulys played good tennis in defeating M. Ballard winning quite easily 6-0, 6-4. Yulys had his cut stroke working to perfection while he sent over a steaming loft, when the opportunity presented itself, to completely upset his opponent.

Gatti defeated Schmidt, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, while Markley won from M. Ballard 6-3, 6-4, to tie the match.

Manchester showed clearly yesterday that it is sadly in need of practice.

PUZZING PLAYS OF Baseball
BY BILLY EVANS

TWO SEVERE PENALTIES
What is the proper ruling if a baserunner trying to score from third on the squeeze play is retired at the plate because the catcher pushed the batter out of the way to complete the out?

This is one of the very few plays in baseball where two penalties are inflicted for one offense. When the catcher interferes with the batsman by pushing him out of the way, tipping his bat or running in front of the plate to receive the ball; he commits an interference. The act of the catcher, however, is construed not only as an interference, but a balk as well.

Billy Evans
The interference on the part of the catcher entitles the batsman who was prevented from striking at the pitched ball to go to first. The balk has a direct bearing on the baserunner trying to squeeze from third on the squeeze play. The calling of the balk entitles him to score and the run counts even though the man coming from third apparently was retired at the plate. Thus the catcher is twice penalized for his interference with the batsman, a balk and interference being called on the same play. This is quite unusual.

Western and Eastern Grips Are Explained by Lott

BY GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.

THE WESTERN GRIP... AS USED BY LOTT.

Article Eight
For the ground strokes I consider the western grip the best, both backhand and forehand, although some advocate the eastern grip. It seems the most natural and most effective. There never has been a better forehand drive than Billy Johnston's and he used the western grip.

If you will lay a racket flat on the ground and pick it up so that the palm of your hand is parallel to the ground before picking it up you have the western grip. With the palm in the same position tip the racket on end and then pick it up you will have the eastern grip.

With the western grip you can get a good deal more power than with the eastern grip. The speed comes from the wrist in the former while in the latter the power must come all the way from the shoulder.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

Good morning, moto!

Some gas. Tell him you'd like to give me the once-over. Offer to drive him up to the house and then bring me back. The point is, the Madam thought some cheap oil last week and it's nearly killing me. If I don't get rid of it and dose up on some of your good old medium, I'm going to be sick. Already my crank shaft is rheumatic and my bearings are squealing. If the boss starts to argue, draw a little of the oil from my crank case and show it to him. Ask him how I'm taking the hills. That'll make him blush. You are the only one who understands my innards and how much I need the best gas and oil. Go to it, Red."

YOUR SPEEDOMETER DOESN'T TELL YOU THE HALF OF IT

MILEAGE? Yes, but that's the least important of several good reasons for stopping at the Socony pump and nowhere else. Motors stay young on a regular diet of Socony Motor Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil. Some members of our own big automotive fleet have run 90,000 and 100,000 miles with only minor repairs. Any car owner who standardizes on Socony Motor Gasoline and Oil can do as well and some do.

Try Socony Special

If you drive one of the new high compression motors, or an older model with carbon in the cylinders, try Socony Special Gasoline. It eliminates knocking, improves pick-up and gives you an extra lift of power on the steep hills. It works as well in spring and summer as in winter. Like Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil, Socony Special is tested thirteen times before it reaches your car.

The new Jantzen 'Twosome' combines smartness with swimming freedom

NEWEST of models is the Jantzen "Twosome!" Distinctive two-piece appearance... the comfort and swimming freedom of a one-piece suit. Plain and bizarre-striped uppers, white-belted trunks of navy blue. This is the suit you'll see smart folk wearing at all the fashionable beaches... at Miami, Atlantic City, Brighton, Deauville... almost everywhere.

Many are the reasons why world-wide favor has turned to Jantzen. Foremost is its perfect fit. Tightly knitted from long-fibred-wool by the Jantzen-stitch process, a Jantzen grazes your body, lightly, snugly, smoothly... without a wrinkle. Being extremely elastic, it retains its shape.

See the new models now displayed here! Solid colors, bright hues, gals stripes. Color-fast; being literally dyed-in-the-wool. Jantzen's size-by-weight system assures you a perfect fit.

Ask for your copy of the "Jantzen Color Harmony Guide." The key to individual harmonious swimming attire.

Call PHONES Pinehurst Call
2000 "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" 2000

WHEW!

WheW! Yesterday was a tough one, sure enough. Just as we expected, some of the folks were caught without ice and some housewives found themselves compelled to chuck out perfectly good leftovers and phone to Pinehurst for emergency rations—right—straight—off!

Oh, they got 'em, all right. We were all set for the first real broiling day. Pinehurst delivery trucks run just as well when the thermometer is up to 90 as when it's normal—and Pinehurst workers keep the pace in giving service, no matter what the weather. Pretty well tucked-out sometimes, this bunch, at the end of the day. But a clear conscience brings sound sleep and we're up and at it again in time for those highly desirable early deliveries.

Too early to tell what kind of a day this is going to be at the windup, but it don't make a scrap of difference—Pinehurst will be just as ready and eager to render typical Pinehurst service as it always is. And that goes for tomorrow and the next day and every business day—even if there is a convention in Kansas City or Houston or a torrid wave in Manchester.

HOOVER PUSHED INTO LIMELIGHT BY WORLD WAR

Famous Over Night for Belgian Relief—Insisted on Feeding the Enemy Countries After War.

Herbert Clark Hoover, who was made the standard bearer of the Republican party last night's session of the national convention, came into world prominence during the war. Through his work first as commissioner for relief in Belgium, then as food administrator in the United States, and finally as food director for the war-torn nations, his name became better known in Europe perhaps than that of any other living American except President Wilson.

Born in Iowa on Aug. 10, 1874, Mr. Hoover had lived a comparatively full life in Belgium, where he began relief work in Belgium, migrating to California when a youngster, he was graduated from Leland Stanford university in 1895 as a mining engineer. Before he finished college he had worked in the geological survey and after his graduation he spent a year with the survey in the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Within two years after he had obtained his university degree, he set sail for Australia where he became manager of a mine. After two years there Mr. Hoover went to China as chief engineer of the Chinese Imperial Bureau of Mines, doing extensive exploration in the interior of China. A year later he took part in the defense of Hsin-ching against the Boxer uprising, manning a machine gun during the fighting.

Meantime his work had attracted attention in the mining world and he went to London to organize a mining company to develop concessions which he held in China. That venture proved successful and he finally established headquarters in London as director of a dozen mining companies after spending several years developing properties in Siberia, the Alps, Asia Minor and Burma.

In 1899 he married Miss Lou Henry of Monterey, Cal., who was a student at college with him. They have two sons, Herbert Clark Hoover, Jr., aged 25, and Allan Henry Hoover, 22.

War Makes Him Famous.
The opening of the world war found Mr. Hoover in London and his first relief work was in setting up a committee to furnish gold to Americans caught abroad with credits smashed and transportation difficult.

With most of Belgium overrun by the German armies and the Germans refusing to feed the population unless Great Britain lifted the blockade, the plight of the 7,000,000 Belgians within the German lines had become desperate. German finally agreed to let American relief supplies to enter via Holland if the allies would agree. Hoover was drafted for the job of administering.

Mr. Hoover directed that work, involving the handling of millions of dollars, hundreds of thousands of tons of supplies and a big fleet of relief ships, for nearly two years when the United States finally was forced into the war and President Wilson summoned him home to be food administrator.

All Europe was on rations, with cards for meat, fats, bread and every other essential. There were those who favored inauguration of this system in America, but Hoover succeeded so well that the United States was able to feed itself and its allies but to aid its allies as well. This voluntary rationing of the nation came to be regarded by America's associates in the war as one of the chief contributions of the United States to the defeat of the central powers.

After the war came to an end Mr. Hoover returned to Europe as a member of the supreme council and began the work of feeding the people of central and eastern Europe. After four years of fighting and fasting the people of central Europe were almost in an open state of revolt. With Russia overrun with bolshevism, Hoover insisted that food alone would stay the westward sweep of the "red" danger.

Finally Gets His Way.
Allied diplomats did not agree wholly with his theory and Hoover had many obstacles to overcome before there was an agreement to feed the late enemy countries. He had prepared in advance the ultimate decision by dispatching food ships to Gibraltar and northern Europe, and when the agreement was reached these vessels were only a few days' steaming distance from Austria, Germany and Poland.

With this work under way Mr. Hoover again came home to become, in 1920, a figure in the field of American politics. Little was known then of his party affiliation. Some leading Democrats were inclined to adopt him for their party. Some of the Republicans said he had once voted the Republican ticket. Others claimed that he never voted at all.

Mr. Hoover himself finally settled the issue when he announced in a message to the Hoover Republican club in California that he would accept the Republican nomination "if it felt that the issues necessitate it and it is demanded of me."

Falls in Convention.
Friends immediately became active in his behalf in practically every state and his name was entered in a number of presidential primaries.

But with no organization and viewed with suspicion by the practical politicians, he got only a handful of votes in the Chicago convention that year, but his war and post-war achievement were recognized when President Harding a few months later selected him as his secretary of commerce.

Mr. Hoover accepted the place only after stipulating that he was to have an utterly free hand in the management of his department.

He has kept his portfolio under President Coolidge, refusing suggestions to shift over into the interior or agricultural departments. "I am more useful where I am," he said.

Mr. Hoover also served on the American debt funding commission and during the present administration has been frequently consulted by Mr. Coolidge on important questions of policy.

Immediately after President Coolidge's "I do not choose to run" pronouncement, Mr. Hoover's friends thrust his name before the public as the logical candidate to carry on the Coolidge policies and lead the Republican party to victory next November.

In the various presidential primaries where he contested, he showed much strength, his only conspicuous setback being in Indiana, where Senator Watson, running on the farm relief issue, defeated him.

Mr. Hoover is a millionaire who lives simply. He occupies a residence in Washington a few doors from that of the late President Wilson. His California residence is on the campus of Stanford university at Palo Alto.

The oldest tree in the world is believed to be in Ceylon; it is now in its twenty-second century.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS HONOR WELL KNOWN MEMBERS

Give Surprise Party for Mrs. Alexis Tournaud and Mrs. Wilbrod Messier.

Twenty of the Royal Neighbors from Manchester Camp No. 2840 surprised Mrs. Alexis Tournaud and her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Messier at their new home on Center street yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Tournaud was a charter member and a first polley holder in the local branch of the Royal Neighbors. Mrs. Rachel Munroe in behalf of the gathering presented to Mrs. Tournaud a handsome silk scarf, and to Mrs. Messier an electric toaster. The time passed enjoyably with games of cards and other pastimes. The neighbors brought with them a generous supply of sandwiches, ice cream and coffee and cold drinks were served.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MISS WERDELIN

Mrs. Arthur Knofia and her mother, Mrs. Oscar Peterson, entertained last night at the home of Mrs. Knofia on Monroe street, with a shower in honor of Miss Anna Werdelin, whose marriage to Clarence Burke of Rockville will take place next month. Fourteen of the friends and relatives of the prospective bride were present and showered her with gifts of linen, pyrex, kitchen articles, silver and glassware.

Mrs. Knofia's home was decorated in yellow. The centerpiece on the dining table was of yellow iris. Wedding bells were suspended from the chandelier. The favors were in the same color with yellow daisies palated on them and contained hats, while smaller ones enclosed verses to be read by the guests. A dainty repast was served by the hostesses.

SUMMER TAILLEURS.

Semi-formal tailleurs from Paris now use printed velvet, in black-white design, with circular or pleated black satin skirts and white blouses.

HOME LIFE IN ENGLAND IS THREATENED BY GOLF

London.—Golf threatens to destroy English home life this summer more than ever before. Hundreds of women—some perhaps in desperation—are joining golf clubs so as to be with their husbands at week-ends.

The Ladies' Golf Union of Britain announces a membership of well over 10,000, while there are thousands of women who are non-members of the Union.

HOOVER IS QUAKER; WIFE SAME FAITH

Nominee and His Family Live in 17-Room Colonial Mansion.

Washington, June 15.—So far as Herbert Hoover's intimate friends are concerned, he was nominated to carry the G. O. P. banner, not in Kansas City but in a luxurious sun-room, which spreads the entire breadth of the 17-room Colonial mansion where the Hoovers have lived since coming to Washington.

It was here that they heard the old time, spell-binders, as they nominated the secretary, and the booming voices of the state delegation chairman brought over the radio as they placed the one-time orphan boy from Iowa in a position to achieve his greatest ambition.

The Hoover home is decorated in early American style surrounded by great trees which were left when the forests were cut away. The reception hall, of high ceilings, is paneled in Colonial cream, and hung with Colonial lantern chandeliers.

There is an oil plaque of George Washington against the panel background over mahogany table upon which rests an old copper coffee urn pre-dating the American settlement.

The hardwood floor is partially covered in a dull pattern, forming a base for an oil painted Flemish "highboy," facing the door from the rear. To the left is a library with bookcases lining two walls and an antique "whatnot" in one corner. A Ralph Peabody painting of Secretary Hoover graces the middle of the front wall.

The Hoover family in America apparently dates from Andrew Hoover who in 1740 settled some farms in the uplands of Maryland. There was no record of the Hoovers prior to that date, according to genealogists.

There is a difference of opinion as to Andrew Hoover's lineage, it being held as French, Dutch and English. Hoover's people were converted to the Quaker faith—now the Society of Friends—probably in Holland by the English.

The name is common in north-west Europe. In French it is Huber, in German Hofer and Hofer, while the Dutch and Flemish use the American spelling.

Hoover is a "birthright" Quaker. Mrs. Hoover, who was an Episcopalian when she married the secretary of commerce in 1899 adopted the faith of the Friends.

COVENTRY

The Coventry 4-H Sunshine Seissor club would like to thank the public for the splendid spirit of co-operation shown them at the entertainment and New England boid-dinner which they gave Wednesday evening. Those interested will be pleased to know the club cleared $27.50. It costs $12 to send one person to Junior Short Course, so with the special boxes of Fab, that Colgate & Company are giving to the 4-H clubs all over the state the children feel sure they can raise enough money to send at least three members to Storrs this summer.

Fred Lawrence of Brimfield, Mass., a student at the Massachusetts Agricultural College is helping John E. Kingsbury for the summer. Kenneth Dyke and Ray Kendall graduates of the Vermont School of Agriculture have both entered the employ of John E. Kingsbury.

PUPILS CONTRIBUTE MILK TO FAR EAST

Members of the Calvary Baptist church of Willimantic will put on an entertainment at the Chapel Hall Friday June 22 at 8 p. m. standard time. Tickets now on sale. Charles Christensen is chairman of the committee. Tel. 141-14.

The 4-H Sunshine Seissor club will meet Saturday at 1:30 standard time at the home of Mrs. Bryon Hall. The children are to bring a sample of material suitable for a school dress which is to be shown and the name of material told in response of roll call. County Club Agent Donald C. Gaylor will be present and bring Miss Elizabeth MacDonald, the extension nurse with him to give them a health talk. The children are asked be sure to bring their entire sewing kit with their latest work. Owing to graduation duties every evening this week Mrs. Wells was unable to meet with the Choral club.

WATER

ONE FOR THE PLUMBER. Considering the fact that WATER and PIPES are five-letter words, today's puzzle is fairly easy. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

Word puzzle grid with 'WATER' and 'PIPES' filled in.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Some men think it's smart to write such a poor hand that nobody can read it, but it isn't.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tynmites said for, oh, so long, and Copy said, "There's something wrong. This chutes must have an end some place wonder where it is. We've traveled for a long, long ways. Supposing this keeps up for days. We all will grow real dizzy, judging from the way we whiz!" "Oh, what's the difference? This is fun," said Scouty. "I'm the only one who hasn't been complaining. We will surely land some place. That flying man was surely kind, and if we wait I know we'll find that we'll be paid real well for going on this crazy race." "And so the bunch kept still a while. They slide along mile after mile. The chutes would rise up in the air, and then head down again. Each time they'd bound up over a peak, the Tynmites would loudly shriek. They had a chance to catch their breath at straight spots, now and then. All of the Tynmites seemed to know their houseboat had been right below the platform that they started from. Wee Carpy shouted, "Say, I wish you all would please take note we will never find our boat. Instead of going near it, we are sliding far away!" "Oh, no we're not," wee Scouty said, "cause I can see it just ahead. We're going 'round in circles and some good luck's due to come. This chute leads right down to our craft." This pleased the bunch, and they all laughed. The slide had brought them right back to the place they started from. Just then fat Clowny left the slide, and landed on the boat. He cried, "Come on there, all you Tynmites!" They all roared, "Out of the way! We're coming fast." And they all landed, safe, at last. Then Scouty cried, "We're set to sail, now that we're all aboard."

(The Tynmites visit Midgot Land in the next story.)

ABOUT TOWN
Members of Orford Parish chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution are reminded of the special meeting for the election of officers to be held at Center church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

John McMenemy of Marble street is planning to leave tomorrow for San Diego, California, for a visit with his son, Lieutenant Edward McMenemy who is stationed at the submarine base there. Mr. McMenemy who is to have a month's vacation will take the steamer route by way of the Panama canal. It is the plan at present that he and his son will return by automobile from California.

George F. Harris and Charles Burr of the G. R. Burr nurseries left yesterday to catch a special train at Rochester, New York for Denver, Colorado, where they will attend the convention of the American Association of Nurserymen in that city, June 20, 21 and 22.

G. Raymond Young of Willimantic is now with the C. R. Burr nurseries in the capacity of credit manager. Mr. Young will be remembered as one of the clerks with the Manchester Trust Company several years ago.

The regular business meeting of the Manchester Green Community club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the school assembly hall.

A meeting of the recently organized Young People's Union from churches in town and nearby places, is scheduled for Friday of next week at the South Methodist church. The speakers will be Rev. Mr. Colpitts of the latter church, Rev. F. C. Allen of Second and Rev. Watson Woodruff of Center Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Knofskie of Flower street and Miss Lottie Bamberger, sister of Mrs. Knofskie left yesterday for Waterville, Maine, to attend the commencement exercises of Colby college. Walter Knofskie is a member of the graduating class and was graduated with the 1924 class from the Manchester High school.

TOWN PLAYERS GIVE DIRECTOR A SURPRISE

Make Gift to Miss Calhoun, Who is Retiring; Make Plans.

Miss Ruth Calhoun, director of the Town Players, knew nothing about a meeting of the Players held at the Recreation Center last night, so that when she came upstairs after the close of her swimming classes she was surprised to find the Players assembled and waiting for her. The purpose of the meeting was to express concretely the appreciation of the members of the organization for her efforts to make the organization a success. Their gifts consisted of a volume of "The Best Plays of 1927" and a basket of spring flowers.

Plans were discussed for the continuance of the Town Players as an active organization next season and a system of securing new productions that seems to offer good possibilities was adopted as part of the future policy. This need has been felt by the players for some time and the death of the president, Albert Addy, who was one of the mainstays of the organization, makes it all the more necessary for next season.

Raymond Tilden, easily recalled by the followers of the Town Players as the milkman in their last production "The Haunted House," will not be with the Players next season as he is going to New York to study.

It is thought that the Players may operate on a slightly more commercial basis next season so that it will be possible for the organization to purchase its own sets and some much needed stage props. The Town Players will continue to co-operate with organizations that desire their services in running benefit performances.

Refreshments followed the business meeting. The party was in charge of the following committee: Chairman, Edith Schultz; Leonard Johnson, Raymond Tilden, Helen Estes, Genie Walsh, Mildred Tinker, Beatrice Armstrong and Louis Smith. Miss Schultz is acting president of the Players until election in the fall. Louis Smith will act as director of the organization until Miss Calhoun's successor is appointed.
