First Class Graduates From Town Controlled Institution—Dr. James L. McConaughy Speaks.

One hundred and twenty-four young men and women were certified last night as having completed a satisfactory four years of study in Manchester High school. They finished the course carrying with them invaluable bits of advice from the tongue of Dr. James L. McConaughy.

Dr. McConaughy, president of Wesleyan university, Middletown. These 124 constituted the first class to graduate from a town-owned high school, and for the first time the appellation Manchester High school was used rather than the old, familiar South Manchester High school.

This thirty-fifth annual commencement from a local high school seemed to proceed more smoothly than such exercises generally do. Everyone knew the part he or she was to play and it was done perfectly. High school graduates are more impressive than any other commencement programs, either grammar school or college. Here are young men and women at the most important point in their lives. Whether or not they continue their education in other institutions these one hundred and twenty-four go out from high school "on their own." It's their battle now.

Keep on Fighting
Dr. McConaughy addressed the students using their own class motto as his theme. The Latin motto reads "Qui non proficit, deficit" and is translated "He who does not advance, falls behind." Dr. McConaughy is a pleasing speaker. His voice is wonderfully clear, his words easily understandable. His address last night did not promise the graduates great rewards for their success in passing through high school, but rather warned them they must fight to keep on the level they have already attained.

all decline." Dr. McConaughy developed that thought through citations from literary gems and stories from life. He said the theme was admirably illustrated in several places in the Bible and declared that the lesson carried even to the athletic field. He told of the Bowdoin freshman who scored against Harvard simply because he picked up a fumbled ball on the football team and chose to carry it rather than fall on it where it had been dropped.

"Smug Complacency."
He cited the case of a war hero a college graduate who was the subject of a memorial on the campus of his alma mater. The inscription on the memorial tablet reads "He

DRY QUESTION IS BOTHERING THE DEMOCRATS

Mack's Statement Backed by Al Smith Arouses the En- mity of the Anti-Saloon Leaguers—Their Threat.

Houston, June 22.—The prohibition issue stalked like a gaunt grey ghost today among the early arriving delegates to the Democratic national convention.

It was uppermost in everybody's mind; it was gossiped about and speculated upon in the hotel lobbies wherever politicians gathered; it figured in every brand of pre-convention speculation.

Only negligible few of the arrivals, whether delegates or so-called leaders, believe that the fight over the presidential nomination will be anything but short and snappy. The opinion that Gov. Al Smith will be nominated within three ballots is so universal that it is accepted on all sides as a fact, with the possible exception of those who are backing Senator James A. Reed. The Reed managers still firmly insist that Smith isn't getting little encouragement.

The prohibition issue, or rather the question of how the Democrats are to deal with it in their platform next week, has become, for the time being at least, the paramount issue in this pre-convention maneuvering.

Mack's Statement Norman Mack, the veteran New York national committeeman, raised the issue by his bald statement that Gov. Smith was and is in favor of allowing each state to make its own interpretation of the dry laws; Sen. George R. Van Namee, campaign manager for Gov. Smith, contributed to it by his rather sharp rejoinder that no one was authorized to speak for the New York governor, and Smith himself added to it by re-asserting at Albany last night his belief that the present Volstead law should be amended.

FARMERS PLEAD WITH DEMOCRATS Repulsed by Republicans They Ask Other Side to Espouse Their Cause.

Houston, Texas, June 22.—Crusaders in the cause of farm relief, here to lay their orphan child on the doorstep of the Democratic national convention, today predicted its adoption and a rapid bloom into full maturity after the November election.

Trekking southward in record time after their futile fight for the McNary-Haugen bill in Kansas City, the farm leaders already are engaged in a quiet but intense plea for recognition.

Herrin, Ill., June 22.—Members of the United Mine Workers local union here went on record today in one of the most drastic resolutions, demanding release from the present policy pursued by the administration of John L. Lewis, international president.

The resolution put the miners on record as condemning the wage scale adopted in the several contracts signed with individual as "unbearable matter," and demands that the entire matter be sent to the miners for a referendum vote.

The resolution condemns the present day wage basis for contract for mechanical devices in the mine of this size, and demands that it shall be terminated by a contract which shall provide a tonnage basis instead.

Shuck, 32; "Tack" Reese, 35; "Bubber" Kent and Minton, who have not yet been arrested. Wheeler was the man who confessed his part in the lynching and implicated the others.

played on the scrubs for four years, and never quit." He read the poem English cricketers delight to recite "Play Up—Play the Game." And so, he said, that school in which the pupils do not strive for the best is a school of "smug complacency."

Dr. McConaughy quoted the late Theodore Roosevelt on the same theme. Roosevelt told a Harvard graduating class that "Gentlemen are content with one or two things—attaining the best grade possible, or gloriously flunking out." And don't forget warned Dr. McConaughy, there are only two grades in spelling. You either get a zero or you get 100 per cent. Saying that any fool can chop a sapling, but it takes grit to fell a giant tree, Dr. McConaughy referred to the old Greek axiom that a man was esteemed famous according as he lifted up an axe at the foot of a tree.

Debt to Society

Dr. McConaughy told the students that the education Manchester High school had given them was an opportunity for which people had sacrificed to make it possible. He warned them not to go out as Snylocks seeking their pound of flesh. They owed a debt to society and to Manchester. The opportunity is now at hand, he said, and those who don't take advantage of them—those who are content with present attainment will slip back. He told of the man who was made a saint simply because he climbed a high pillar and sat there high above the vice and wickedness of the world below him, never once coming down to try to correct the world's condition. Dr. McConaughy said that the modern way to become a saint was not to try and imitate the saint on the pillar.

THEY WON THE SINGING TROPHY

The Boys' Glee Club of the High School won the Central Connecticut Interscholastic championship. They are, left to right, first row: Walter Snow, Warren Case, Victor Swanson, John Johnson, Edward Dziadosz, Fred Tilden, Reginald West, second row, Director Miss E. Marion Doward, Miss Thelma Carr, pianist, Howitt Wilson, Carl Spears, Matthew Watson, Fred Edwards, Elmer Anderson, Winston Bendall, Raymond Benson, Russell Remig; third row, Harry Juul, Edward Hunter, Richard Smith, Andrew Rankin, Angelo Pontillo, Ludwig Hansen; back row, Kenneth Graham, Peter Chrzanowski and Francis Burr.

They found that the man was trying to burn the light from the battery designed to ring a door bell. "Don't fool," laughed the repair man, "don't you know it takes 500 times more power to produce light than it does to make a noise?"

Diploma Not All

Dr. McConaughy warned the students they wouldn't get many jobs on the strength of their diplomas. Rather the employers will ask "What do you stand for behind it?" The speaker closed his address with the story of the railroad president who went into a roundhouse owned by the road. No one there knew him. The president started giving orders and one old fellow who had been on a job over twenty years resentfully protested. He asked the president who he was. When told the old employee said "Let's see your switchkey." On this railroad every employee carries a switchkey as a badge of his employment. "All right," said the old employee, when the key was produced. "I'll see as you say. You're all right—you carry the switchkey."

Thus, said Dr. McConaughy, the graduates should go out in the world carrying their switchkeys, their badges of ability to do the tasks that are set for them.

Before the graduates entered the hall the high school orchestra played several selections. The orchestra was led in one number by Andrew Rankin, a member of the graduating class and an accomplished musician. Miss Doward, faculty music instructor, led in the other numbers. The numbers played were "Queen City" by Weidt, "Song of Love" by Sigmund Romberg, and a selection from "Marianita" by Wallace-Secordy.

March In

The graduates filed to their seats in the front center of the hall led by Terrence E. Shannon, their president and Miss Clara L. Emonds, their vice-president. The young men wore dark blue coats and white flannel trousers. The young ladies were dressed in white. They took seats at a command from their president, and when occasion demanded arose as Mr. Shannon gave a signal with his green and white baton.

The first speaker on the program was Ludwig Bernard Hansen. Mr. Hansen was second highest honor pupil in the class and was salutatorian. His address was well delivered, and his topic an interesting one. He dealt with the importance of the high school to the community. It is well worth reading and is printed herewith in full. The salutatory:

SALUTATORY
By Ludwig B. Hansen

We, the class of 1928 extend a hearty welcome to you—superintendent and members of the school board, who are the executives of this fine school system; principal and faculty, who have prepared us for our life's work; parents, who have sacrificed continuously for our education; friends and relatives, who have been our well wishers during the past four years; and schoolmates, who have helped make our high school life a pleasant one. We are glad to have you here tonight to enjoy, we hope, the last ceremony in which we as Seniors may participate, and to witness the graduation of the first class from Manchester High School.

A high school is one of the most important institutions of which a town can boast. This fact was realized about thirty-five years ago by three far sighted people and resulted in the establishment of the South Manchester High School. Those to whom we are indebted for this wonderful institution are Mr. Charles S. Cheney, who served thirty-five years as a committeeman of the Ninth School District; Dr. O. B. Taylor, for nearly forty years Secretary of the School Board; and Mr. Leroy Collins, for several years principal of the Ninth School District.

The first high school consisted of three rooms in the old building that was also used for a grammar school. Mr. Verplanck, besides his duties as principal, was one of the three teachers that made up the faculty. Before the first year had ended, Mr. Peterson was added to the teaching staff. He later served as principal for seven years, and was instrumental in preparing many boys and girls for college.

ploma on the completion of 4800 hours of shop work. In 1925, there was another addition to the curriculum, that of community civics. At the present time the course of studies contains all the subjects necessary to prepare for college, normal school, or business life.

The graduates of this High School have been very successful in life. There have been, and are, successful business men, lawyers, doctors, college professors, teachers, ministers, and politicians among our alumni. We can boast of graduates from every prominent eastern college and many of these graduates have obtained the highest possible honors at the various colleges. A fact worth noting is the exceptionally high number of our alumni that have attended a normal school and become teachers. We can further boast that many of our graduates took part in the World War, in which five made the supreme sacrifice.

Most of the graduates of this school attribute their success to a great extent to the wonderful building in which they have studied, and the fine materials with which they have worked. The High School building was built, owned, and maintained by Cheney Brothers until the spring of 1928, when the

in the High School during the first year of its existence. In June, 1894, the first class, consisting of six pupils, five girls and a boy graduated from the High School. The boy was Reuben Gray and his residence was where this building now stands. During the next few years there was a rapid increase of pupils, necessitating a proportional increase of teachers. As a result of the increase of students, this fine High School building was erected. In the fall of 1904, the students began work in this building, using only four rooms on the second floor. At this time part of the building was used for a grammar school, but the whole building has been gradually taken over for the High School classes. In 1925, we spread out still further, taking over the Franklin Building for the freshman class with a special freshman faculty.

There were but two courses of study in the first curriculum—a college preparatory and a general course. In 1912, a commercial course consisting of stenography and typewriting was introduced and limited to upper and seniors. The following year bookkeeping was added for the sophomores. In 1916, a cooperative high school trade school course was introduced and was primarily for those who wished to become efficient in some trade, such as carpentry, drafting, or study of silk. This course leads to a high school diploma, with a trade school di-

Champions in Argument

By Emma E. Strickland

Within the past few decades certain changes have taken place in America which have greatly affected the individual. Better citizenship has been demanded; a new economic order has come into being; and people have come to enjoy more leisure. With these changes have come new problems, and it school to reorganize to meet these demands for their young people.

In 1916 a commission, appointed by the National Education Association, drew up a report in which they set forth seven cardinal principles of secondary education as follows:

1. Health. 2. Command of fundamental processes. 3. Worthy home membership. 4. Vocation. 5. Citizenship. 6. Work. 7. Ethical character.

Before this time the secondary schools had fulfilled only one of these aims, command of fundamental processes. Since these elements were not included in the academic program, the school authorities turned to other fields to supply the needs. This brought about extra-curricular activities. The ideal of a physically fit body, together with the realization of the necessity for control of mind and muscle, could be taught in no better way than by sports. In addition, sports teach the idea of "playing the game"—another name of ethical character.

"There's a breathless hush in the close tonight— Ten to make and the match to win— A bumping pitch and a blinding An hour to play and the last man in. And its not for the sake of a ribboned coat, Or the selfish hope of a season's fame, But his Captain's hand on his shoulder smote— Play up, play up, and play the game!

Sports also bring ideals of fairness, good sportsmanship, and loyalty of which O. S. Davis writes: "It is easy to shout when the victory's won, And to stand on the winning side. But I love the pluck of the boy who cheers. For his losing team, and who never—er fears To back with a stubborn and loyal pride His cause till the game is done." The next aim, that of worthy home membership, is more difficult to meet. The nearest approach is made by the Freshmen and Sophomore English Clubs which teach the preclusion of the best literature and authors, and by the musical organizations which increase our capacity for appreciation and enjoyment of a more artistic side of life. These organizations enlarge the circle of outside interests and result in more beautiful homes with more joy therein.

Civic education is an all important objective. This is, of course, partially met in civics classes, but the actual application of the principles learned in class-rooms comes through extra-curricular activities. Ability to serve on committees comes through work done in managing dramatic presentations or social activities of the various clubs. But the best citizen is the one who can vote and talk intelligently—to lead others by the power of his eloquence. It is here that debating finds its purpose. Training in quick and logical thinking, training in collecting material and evidence and evaluating it, training in ability to present facts clearly and concisely and training in public speaking are most valuable assets in either the business, profes-

property was purchased by the town and the name changed to Manchester High School.

From the time the building was erected until now, it has been in constant use. It has been used for years as an evening school. When the grammar school burned, the building was used both as a grammar and a high school. There was a session for grammar students in the morning, and one for high school students in the afternoon. It has been used for town meetings, entertainments, concerts, lectures, dances and other functions of town interest. From these illustrations you can readily see how important and indispensable the high school has been to the community.

Now the high school building and the institution therein belong to you, townspeople. Are you going to carry on the good work accomplished by Cheney Brothers during the last twenty-five years? I hope so! I have tried to show you what an important part a high school plays in the affairs of the community, and I am certain that, if in the future every person has the interests of their school at heart, it is bound to progress as it has in the past.

The Girls' Glee Club sang two numbers following the salutatory. They were "River, River," a Chilean folk song and "Ma Little Banjo" by Dichmont and were both well done. Miss Arlene C. Cummings, a member of the graduating class, played two numbers on that most difficult of instruments, the harp. Miss Cummings is a very accomplished musician and demonstrated her ability in two difficult numbers, Schuetze's "In a Garden" and the popular "Song of the Volga Boatman" by Adois Hass.

Following Miss Cummings harp selections came Dr. McConaughy's address. Then the Boys' Glee Club sang "Yonder, Yonder" by Plumhof and "Gipsy John" by Clay. Both numbers are favorites with all, and they put their best efforts into them and sang them unusually well.

Valedictorian

Miss Emma Elizabeth Strickland, highest honor pupil of the class, delivered her essay and valedictory next. Miss Strickland spoke on "The Value of Extra-Curricular Activities." Her presentation was excellent and announcement clear cut, but not overdone. High school valedictorians, almost without fail, use the words "appreciation" and "education" in their essays, and by their pronunciation of those two words they stand or fall in the opinions of regular attendants at the exercises. Miss Strickland called both words perfectly. Her essay and valedictory followed in complete form:

Police Station Hobo Dog, Assertive, Gets 'In Wrong'

A mongrel bull dog has had his place of residence recently right under the eyes of the Manchester police station. Although he has neither collar nor tag to show that he has any right of abode anywhere, to say nothing of under the windows of police headquarters, he has seemed to be safe enough.

For three weeks he has lived there, immune to the catcher—for who would look for a stray dog right in the police courtyard? Mr. Dog had gathered together enough leaves and bits of paper to make a comfortable bed under the bushes at the southeast corner of the building. And there he has developed such a sense of proprietorship that he now takes exception to people walking by and disturbing him. He barks at them and after they have passed is liable to emerge and growl after them, pretending that he has chased them away.

He might have gotten by for some time longer had it not been for this practice. He seemed from the first to have enough dog sense, not to bark at policemen, and they are still exempt, but otherwise he has become so assertive that the dog warden is sure to hear about him. Then—Good-bye, Doggie.

WAR FOR U. S. IS NOW PREDICTED BY ASTROLOGISTS

Paris.—One of the worst wars in history is predicted for the United States between the years 1940 and 1943 by Evageline S. Adams, world-known astrologist, sojourning in Paris on her way to Berlin. "This war will be religious, racial and economical," says Miss Adams, "and will be disastrous and devastating in its results. Every time that Uranus enters the circle covering America, a war breaks out: the War of Independence and the War of Secession are two proofs of this fact."

For France, Miss Adams sees better times ahead. She thinks the French will have a few dark days, but in general, a good time is in store for them. She foresees treaties of friendship with Germany and Italy and no serious war clouds on the horizon.

Asked if she had studied the destiny of the Dictator of Italy, Miss Adams replied that the horoscope of Mussolini was very simple and resembled that of Napoleon to a striking degree. "If Mussolini is still head of the State in two years," she added, "he will do great things, but..."

"But what?" the correspondent eagerly asked. "That is all I can tell you. Besides, he knows what he is about. Do you realize that he never makes a move without consulting an astrologer, personally attached to his suite?"

Astrology is never wrong, she affirms. The only mistake is made by the astrologer who, when figuring out mathematically the position of the planets to learn of the thing desired, sometimes makes an error in detail.

When knights of old fell in battle their armor served as coffins. A skeleton entirely encased in a suit of mail was found at Somme, Stuppe by laborers who were digging a roadbed. The armor was scarcely damaged by rust. Experts said it was more than 300 years old.

A two-mile sector of the old western front near Ars-sur-Moselle flamed up for the first time in ten years. The fire was started by a bomb dropped into forest brush from a military plane during maneuvers.

The war game was turned into serious fighting as soldiers from Fort Driant deployed under the command of General de Vaulgront to dig new trenches and throw up obstacles. The only casualties were trees.

Another America has won fame in Paris—this time an American woman. It is Berthe Warshawsky of New York City and Cleveland, Ohio, who is turning out many of the little frocks for which French children are so famous.

Berthe, as she signs herself, began by sketching clothes for wee tots in Vogue and Le Jardin de la Motte, adding now and then original ideas of her own which very soon made a reputation for her. The director of the fashion magazines suggested that she think seriously about designing children's clothes, creating them as well as making the sketches.

This Berthe decided to do and now has her own atelier for children's clothes. She has had immediate success for the things she designs are just what many mothers are looking for, little clothes that are very simple and yet very smart, made of washable materials in many cases for hygienic reasons practical for play and yet as dainty and chic as any smart French woman wears.

sen, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen stated today. Grave fears are now felt for the safety of the famous Arctic explorer, who with Major Rene Guilbaud and three others left Tromsø, Norway to search for General Umberto Nobile more than three and a half days ago and has not been heard from since.

With fears for Nobile's safety allayed for the time being, all relief efforts were today directed to the search for Amundsen and the ten members of Nobile's expedition who were separated from the party of six signed by Major Umberto Madalena, the Italian Aviator.

TO PUT TAMMANY IN THE BACKGROUND

(Continued from Page 1.) candidacy was formally launched by the state committee in New York in April. Lunn was picked to make the speech offering the New York executive to the country. Tammany also will be overlooked in the selection of Gov. Smith's floor manager, it being understood this post is to go to Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City. Four years ago at Madison Square Garden, James J. Hoey, one of the powers of Tammany Hall, acted as Smith's floor manager.

There also is a possibility that in order to complete the picture and show the convention that the New York Democracy is not dominated by Tammany, the Smith leaders may decide to have Mrs. Carolidge O'Day of Westchester, as chairman of the delegation. Mrs. O'Day is vice-chairman of the Democratic state committee but never has been actively identified with Tammany Hall.

TWO BIG FEATURES AT STATE TOMORROW

"Diamond Handcuffs" and "Wyoming" to Be Offered; Richard Barthelmess Tonight.

To complete a week of glorious screen entertainment, the State Theater is presenting another of its famous week-end double feature programs for tomorrow. As usual, the performance is continuous from 2:15 until 10:30.

A picture in which the central character isn't a human character at all—but a great, glittering diamond—is the startling novelty that forms the colorful background to "Diamond Handcuffs," one of the film features for tomorrow. Eleanor Boardman and Conrad Nagel are starred. The action ranges from the white hot African mines to New York's deepest underworld, but through it all the great gem is the central theme.

This new picture traces a diamond from its discovery in the mines—its theft for a woman's love and the sinister spell by which it spreads theft, tragedy, intrigue and deceit through every walk of life. Lust for it perpetrates a society scandal; desire for it launches a war in which police and gangsters battle with machine guns in a city street. Finally, out of its sinister influence, emerges a sweet and pure love, but not until the audience has been swept through a series of thrilling and exciting episodes.

The associate feature for tomorrow presents Tim McCoy, popular western favorite, in "Wyoming," his latest starring vehicle. Plenty of thrills and action are packed into this romantic drama of the early west in the days when a man's six-shooter was law, and a woman's courage was her essential quality. The dauntless and darling of McCoy predominates throughout this rapidly-moving western.

Tonight marks the final showings of Richard Barthelmess in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," and Lois Moran in "Don't Marry."

On Sunday and Monday the State is presenting William Haines in "Telling the World," a comedy-drama extraordinary.

DRYS GATHERING FOR CONVENTION

Arrive in Throngs, Open Headquarters — To Demand Bone Dry Plank.

Houston, Texas, June 22 —Just around the corner from the Rice hotel, where are housed headquarters of Smith, Reed, Hull and other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, is a bare furnished office.

Blazoned across the entrance is a plain sign reading: "Headquarters for All Dry Forces."

Plastered on the windows are placards, including: "Allegiance to the Constitution," "Buyers Make Bootleggers," "Lawbreakers Must Not Be Lawmakers," "Do Not Fear Politics, Make Politics Fear You."

Inside earnest groups engage in animated conversation. People hurry in and out the open door.

Dry Headquarters

Here are entered all the activities of the national prohibition organizations which are seeking not only to block Gov. Al Smith's nomination, but to force the writing of a bone dry plank in the 1928 Democratic national platform.

There was nothing like it at Kansas City. Prohibition leaders, representing the anti-saloon League, The W. C. T. U., the Women's National Democratic Enforcement League, and church organizations say there was no need for such a headquarters at the Republican convention with Hoover as the nominee, but here it is different, because they say "Smith must be stopped to prevent a backward step on prohibition."

The Drys will demand a plank that specifically pledges the party to enforcement of the 18th Amendment, similar to the one adopted by the Republicans. It is over this that the big platform fight centers here.

Could Run on Platform

Smith leaders declared today the governor easily could run on such a platform, as naturally he would stand for enforcement of all laws, whether the Volstead Act or the 18th Amendment, so long as they are on the statute books.

But Miss Jesse Nicholson, head of the Women's Enforcement League, and the leader of the militant group which threatens to vote for Hoover if Smith is nominated, held a different version.

"We cannot support a man holding the prohibition views the governor does," she said, "he could not stand four-square on a prohibition plank. His election would be a setback to prohibition."

She declared Smith's reply to Norman Mack's widely discussed statement "reaffirmed Gov. Smith's position as a wet."

Aside from prohibition, the Democrats, like the Republicans at Kansas City, must hurdle the farm relief issue in drafting the platform.

Foreign Relations

The foreign relations plank may be a highly contentious issue, but this is expected to be hurdled with a denunciation of the Coolidge-Kellogg foreign policies, particularly in Nicaragua, and an endorsement of the World Court, with no mention of the League of Nations.

Other important planks will be a denunciation of the tariff and further reduction of taxes with more relief to the "little fellows."

Strong language will be used in attacking alleged Republican corruption and incompetency during the last two administrations. A pledge will be made to "clean house and throw out the rascals."

Raps G. O. P.

One of the many planks proposed on this subject reads: "No period of our history has shown greater corruption and greater apathy towards the corruption than has been shown during the past seven years by the Republican Party and the administration under its control. The apathy of the present head of the government, and his apparent lack of interest in showing up the evils and standing forth courageously for honesty and integrity in public office and administration, is amazing, and were the facts not before us, it would be beyond belief."

The Republican claim of prosperity and economy will be attacked as "only apparent and not real."

Senators Pittman, of Nevada, and Glass of Virginia, are being most prominently mentioned for chairmanship of the platform committee.

LOCAL BOYS GOING TO W. J. CLARKE CAMP

Wilfred J. Clarke of South Main street, director of physical education in the Ninth School District, left this morning for the boys' and girls' camps at Lake Stinson in Rumney, N. H., which is conducted annually by himself, his brother, Erwin W. Clarke of Schenectady, and his two sisters, Mrs. Vera Lawson of Stoneham, Mass., and Miss Phillis Clarke of Nyack, N. Y. All the Clarkes are directors of physical education in various schools and every summer conduct the camp up in the edge of the White Mountains for two months.

With Mr. Clarke at the boys' camp, known as Camp Wamind, this summer will be four Manchester boys. They are Leslie Buckland, manager and captain of the High School swimming team this season; Stuart Ferguson of Woodbridge street, Winston Bendall of Chestnut street and Marshall Finlay of Park street. Buckland will be an assistant instructor. He and Ferguson went to the lake today but Bendall and Finlay will not leave until the first of next month, when the camp officially opens.

Although the camp enrollment is not yet fully known, Mr. Clarke said that there probably would be about sixty girls and thirty-two boys. The girls' camp, known as Camp Waemen, has been established five years while Camp Wamind was only started last summer.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION MEETS THIS EVENING

Upwards of 150 young people are expected at the meeting of the Manchester Young People's Union to be held at the South Methodist church tonight at 7:45. Electric lights have been put up to illuminate the grounds as it was planned to have the meeting outdoors should the weather be favorable. If cold or rainy it will be held in the church. A social time with refreshments will follow the business.

The union is made up of the young people's societies from the Center and Second Congregational churches, the South and North Methodist churches, the Swedish Congregational and Swedish Lutheran and the churches in Wapping and Talcottville. Allen of Second Congregational.

TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD.

London, June 22.—Miss Amelia Earhart, American aviation heroine and the first woman to fly the Atlantic, paid homage to the British empire's war dead today. Miss Earhart, accompanied by Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Friendship, placed a wreath upon the cenotaph—the memorial to the Empire's war heroes. A large crowd watched the ceremony.

ANDOVER

Mrs. Charles E. White celebrated her birthday by a party at Andover Lake. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, Misses Evelyn and Carolyn White, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Covell and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hilliard and two children. Motor boat rides on the lake and a social time were enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

The graduation of the 8th grade grammar school was held in the Town Hall Wednesday evening. Eight pupils graduated and gave a little play "Silas Marner," which was much enjoyed by the audience. Those graduating were Persis Allen, Lila Halsted, Alice Palmer, Emily Yeomans, Clarence Palmer, Russell Thompson, Francis Rosenblum and David Yeomans.

A party of young ladies from the office of the Bon Ami factory of Manchester held an outing at Andover Lake Wednesday evening. C. E. White opened the corporation house at the lake, where the party ate their lunch. Then Wallace Hilliard took them for a motor boat ride on the lake. Mr. Hilliard has a fine motor boat and takes much pleasure in showing and taking out people in it. He also sells motor boats.

Mrs. Allison L. Frink thinks there is a gold mine or Captain Kidd's treasure on her place. Mrs. Frink since living there has found seven pieces of money. The last was found Wednesday while working in her flower garden. It was a silver dime dated 1857. While Mrs. Frink found a large silver teaspoon marked M. O. Bush which she uses for a sugar spoon.

Mrs. Lewis Phelps and son motored to Hartford Thursday to meet Mrs. Phelps' brother, the Rev. John

h. Fitzgerald of Bayridge, L. I., N. Y., who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Fitzgerald was to have been married June 16 to Miss Gertrude Saxton of New Haven, but on account of his illness the wedding was postponed until June 30.

The Grammar school closed Thursday. The same teachers, Miss Young, Miss Bradley and Miss Cooke, will teach next year. Miss Young expects to spend the summer in Maine.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

"Telling The World" Real Newspaper Tale

William Haines, as the cub reporter, is pictured above as he writes his "big story" in "Telling the World." Below are Haines and Anita Page.

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif., June 22.—Telling the world!

Such is the theme of William Haines' latest opus—and incidentally it's the main title, too, and it plays at the State theater, South Manchester, next Sunday and Monday.

As you probably already have surmised, "Telling the World" is a newspaper film, picturing the exploits of a go-and-get-'em reporter and a huge press association in saving an American girl from Chinese revolutionists.

There have been scores of newspaper stories filmed during the last few years. Very few have been good. "Telling the World" ranks high, mainly because it was written by Dale Van Every, a newspaper man who also stayed right on the ground and saw that it was filmed right. It is a comparatively easy matter for a director to make a mess out of a perfectly good newspaper story.

Perhaps one of the most important features of the production is that it brings to the screen for the first time the gorgeous Anita Page. After seeing "Telling the World" I am predicting right now that Anita is all set for a long journey on the cinema highway.

RULES FOR MOTORISTS VISITING BORDER AID CUSTOMS OFFICIALS

Chicago—three rules for motorists to aid in facilitating passage through the American customs at the United States-Canadian border.

The rules are: Motorists should stay in their cars. The law requires every automobile passenger to remain with the machine in which he or she is riding.

Cars should be kept in line. This prevents traffic congestion, which causes inconvenience and discomfort to other motorists.

The motorist should be sure to have his state license certificate readily available. The information which it contains is necessary in filling out entrance blanks.

"These simple rules concern only the motorist and should not be mistaken for international law," customs officials pointed out. "They are the 'rules of the road' which, if followed, will make it easy for the international motorist to cross the line and prevent congestion which in the past has caused long delays and inconvenience."

STATE TO BUILD UNIQUE ROAD TO TEST PAVEMENTS

To Construct 12 Sections of Experimental Highway on New Hartford-Springfield Route.

In order to determine exactly comparative costs of maintenance of the various types of pavement used in the construction of Connecticut highways, the state highway department will construct an experimental highway consisting of 12 different types of pavement in the towns of Windsor Locks and Suffield on the Hartford-Springfield road.

Contract bids for the construction of this test highway were received at the department's Hartford headquarters today.

Careful statistics will be maintained covering the original cost of constructing each of the 12 sections and complete data as to the cost of maintenance of each will be recorded over a period of several years. At the conclusion of the experiment the department will be able to determine the exact cost of each paving material as compared with every other.

The road selected for this experiment is especially adaptable for the purpose. It is known as East street, although it is a rural highway, and it runs from Windsor Locks through Suffield on a direct line to Springfield along the west bank of the Connecticut river.

The factory officials intend to have the plane flown to Worcester, Springfield, Hartford and New York for demonstration.

the entire stretch, and no one section will be more heavily traveled than the others. In order to insure complete uniformity, it has been decided to have one contractor lay all 12 sections of road.

Beginning at the Windsor Locks end, the first pavement will be of the tar penetration type over a seven-inch trap rock base. Then continuing northward the sections will be as follows: asphalt penetration over a seven-inch trap rock base, gravel surface, waterbound trap rock macadam, amiesite surface over a seven-inch trap rock base, trap rock base with sheet asphalt top, sheet asphalt over a seven-inch concrete base, sheet asphalt top over a six-inch reinforced concrete base, amiesite over a seven-inch concrete base, tarvia lithic top over a seven-inch concrete base, an eight-inch pavement of plain concrete without reinforcing, and an eight-inch reinforced concrete pavement. The road throughout will be 20 feet in width.

Upon their completion, all sections of the road will be maintained in first class condition at all times, the costs of maintenance being tabulated and statistics being compiled to show the relative cost of construction and maintenance of each type of pavement under uniform traffic conditions. The existence of different types of paving will in no way inconvenience traffic.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

J. B. Sheridan of St. Louis, director of the Missouri Committee
on Public Utility Information, has been testifying before the Federal Trade Commission, which is inquiring into the publicity methods
of public utility corporations
throughout the country.

Since it is perfectly well known
that many public utility concerns
have been joined for several years
in the manufacture of propaganda
to offset any possible leanings toward public ownership of utilities
monopolies, the disgust of this Mr.
Sheridan with the job he has been
filling is too easily understandable
to need much development. But there is one bit of his evidence which is interesting. It refers to what he says was a plan proposed
among the utilities concerns to
"brand all advocates of public ownership as Reds and Bolsheviks."

It is to be suspected that this plan was not only proposed but to some extent put into effect, judging from the quality of the articles
of this trend that have appeared in numberless magazines, reviews and newspapers.

What intrigues us, in this connection, is the stupidity of the utility
people in challenging by such methods the antagonism of thousands upon thousands of intelligent
people who, if let alone,
would be perfectly willing to in-
turn let the utilities corporations
alone, believing that private exploitation of great public services operates better. In most cases, than public operation, even while they are under no illusions as to any
god-given right of the corporations
to control these services.

As a matter of fact it is well understood by any number of the best kind of citizens that in the interest of immediate progress, they are waiving their own inherent rights in letting private interests control the public utilities. They are not disposed to make a fuss
about it. But when the utilities are foolish enough to dare such persons to assert their rights on penalty of being termed Bolshevik
they are bringing the match pretty close to the gunpowder.

The automobile driver on the left, for whom the driver on the right pauses, does well when he rolls right along and says nothing.
Because when it comes to arguing right-of-way he hasn't a leg to stand on. The service corporations are in much the same boat. It would be excellent judgment to accept the acquiescence of the majority public gracefully and fall to hear the occasional public ownership advocate who has all the attract right on his side if not much of practical sense.

TOO MUCH OPPORTUNITY

As a land of opportunity it is possible that America may have overplayed her hand. It is beautifully democratic to point with pride, to the long lists of names
that indicate alien-privilege appearing at this time of the year
and representing a heavy proportion of the graduates of American professional schools. But it is a serious question whether, in receiving into the professions of the law and medicine, particularly, so many thousands of young men and women lacking any cultural background save the smattering of their own college courses, this country
is not doing herself a grave injury.

Scan the rosters of the questionable criminal lawyers of any considerable city and note the names. How many of them are here that do not arise from eastern or southern Europe? And now more than two hundred physicians
in New York are suspected of being in cahoots with ambulance
chasing lawyers in the manufacture of fictitious evidence in accident
claim cases. Nine out of ten of these physicians' names originated
in the same part of the world.

It may not take long to make an American citizen and voter, but
out of some distinctively alien

stocks it takes more than one generation to produce a class capable of appreciating the ethics of the American bar and the American medical fraternity.

HERBERT PICKS HUBERT

Herbert Hoover the worker picks
Hubert Work to Hooverize the electorate. We doubt, however, that he selected the medical secretary
of the interior as manager of his campaign for any alternative reason but for the much better one that Dr. Work is an experienced politician and a clean one, besides being a loyal friend.

Dr. Work is no amateur at the game of political strategy and
though he did not enter politics
until after he had had a successful career in his profession he has had twenty years of the liveliest sort of experience in campaigning. No man serves as first assistant postmaster
general and then as postmaster
general without learning every move in the manual of political
tactics that he did not know before.
Nor is he likely to forget much of what he has learned while serving at the head of the Department of the Interior.

Dr. Work is 68 years old, to be sure; but his years sit lightly upon him and his name does not belie
his ability to stick to the job. As a westerner he will assuredly be less liable to misjudge the situation in the farm belt than some of the eastern men who might have been picked for the commanding general of the Hoover forces.

HOUSTON WAR CLOUDS

In spite of the assured talk of Smith proponents during the last three or four weeks it is increasingly obvious that the Houston convention is as likely as not to develop about as strenuous a row
next week as the Democrats staged
at New York in 1924; though it probably won't last as long.

Stranger things have happened
than a split in the convention, even before reaching the nominating point. First Norman Mack, the Buffalo veteran, and now Smith
himself, have indicated that the Eastern Democrats intend to fight
for a dripping wet plank in the platform. The Southern leaders have already begun to see red at
the prospect of such a plank, and
the biggest of rumpuses is likely to develop over the platform itself—
with the ever present possibility of a bolt.

All along it has been the hope of the expediency hunters in the party to nominate Smith to catch the wet vote, on a platform sufficiently squeezed to satisfy the dry vote. Now it is apparent that Smith won't run on that kind of a platform—or at least that he won't if he and his supporters can manage
to get the other kind.

Of course there isn't the slightest chance of any other candidate
than Smith getting a two-thirds majority at Houston. But that doesn't mean that Smith necessarily will, in view of the looming
split on prohibition.

Maybe there will be two Democratic conventions at Houston before they get through.

CHINA AND JAPAN

Nationalist China, having apparently disposed of all her effective internal foes and having brought
some sort of unity out of the
garbled state in which the country
has been for the last several years,
now faces a task of the first magnitude in preventing Japan from establishing herself, beyond possibility of ousting, in Manchuria and Eastern Mongolia.

Challenging the Nationalist government, Japan has declared that she will permit no military operations in this area which, inherently Chinese, is twice as big as
the whole of the Japanese empire.
She hopes of course that the victorious
Nationalists will be tempted to try to redeem this Japanese-seized territory by force of arms—to be inevitably beaten and to lose forever
the chance of driving out the inter-loper.

It is very much to be doubted
that the Chinese will fall into any trap of war at this time. Their patience is proverbial. They can wait and wait. And if they wait fifteen or twenty years, and in the meantime shake China down to her
bearings, they may then in safety,
no doubt, serve notice of eviction
on the Jap—and, in case he resists,
put him out.

THE BETTER WAY

Americans are sometimes inclined to believe that their representatives in Congress do not take seriously enough the questions they are called on to determine. They feel that there is too much extraneous talk and not enough realization of the gravity of the job.

responsibilities as a legislator. But it is better than to become so worked up over a question of government as to pull a gun and shoot up
the opposition, with fatal effect.

Just think what would happen to
a Tom Hefflin in the Jugo-Slavia
House of Deputies! And what a lot of excellent fun would be blotted out.

NORWALK

Leigh Danenberg, Norwalk publisher, has obtained a divorce from Nina Sutherland, writer, on the ground of desertion. It appears that Mrs. Danenberg just could not abide the idea of living in Norwalk
and so has had her being in New York City, while Mr. Danenberg
continued to publish in Norwalk.

Our sympathies go out to the di-voiced lady. If the Danenbergs home had been in Barkhamsted
or Morris or New Fairfield we should be able to maintain the stern faith that it was her duty
to remain with all possible conten-ment in such locale as commanded the presence of her husband. But Norwalk! Surely there are limits to the requirements for a wife's submission.

HENRY

As a sociologist Henry Ford is the very greatest of automobile manufacturers. His pronouncement in favor of prohibition and his faith in its efficacy in the up-
building of civilization is much more akin to his promise to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas than to his understanding of raw material and manufacturing problems.

NEW YORK

New York, June 22.—Scattered
notes from a Manhattan ramble...
The trick cyclist who, in years
ago, saw his name on the big billboards... Today, with a sand-wich
sign upon his back, and a straw hat-
line duster make-up of a burlesque
rue comedian, he pedals an ancient unicycle through the crowded
traffic of the Broadway belt.

A kilted, loose in a Fifth Avenue
window, slapping at the hem of a $250 gown... Babies roped in buggies while "the mamma" runs a vegetable stand... A radio screeching from a push cart... Tommy Nolan and Annie King, who once were the Charlestown champions of somewhere-or-other?... This town is full of "yesterday heroes."
... And is continually on the look-out for tomorrow's...
Whereupon the yesterday people must shift for themselves... The law of clean-up quick is the standard... Walter Donaldson, who wrote "Blue Heaven"... And made enough money to become a partner in a new music firm...
Nicholas Murray, the "artistic"
photographer, who holds the fencing
championship and will go to the Olympic games, with his folks...
That's the inevitable adjustment of things: the photographer would
fedge be the fencer and the bridge
champion would give all his cups to be able to play golf...

Oh, yes, those golf schools that have sprung up in the lofts in and around 42nd street... And the fat pupae of the theater, going to "school" in plus fours... The rogues' gallery flavor that attaches
to the taxicab license photos...
Stock tickers operating in the better class speakies... The boys need many "shots" to steady their if-any nerves... Sour faces in the Wall Street belt... "Well, Bill, what goes up, must come down!"

Which reminds me that mechanical advances are going to take an awful wallop at the Horatio Alger tales of Wall Street. Time was when the favorite theme concerned the rise of the "Streets" messenger
boys to positions of trust and power... Thousands of lads—particularly those from out-of-town—beg their careers as "runners" on the street.
But machinery is soon going to put them out of business, I am told. A large number of the errands and message carrying can be done by a wire-ticker system that is to be adopted in the money belt.

With aviation so wildly in the air, Broadway might have been expected to experience an invasion of the "flying racket." Just as "movie schools" opened by the dozen when
the films were young and innocent,
just so is the youthful imagination
fired by assurances that one can learn to fly without leaving the ground. Several such rackets refer to themselves as "wing ground"
and have been holding their classes
in Broadway rehearsal halls.

They tell of a salesman of "giggle
water" who insisted that he had genuine pre-war stuff. A prospective customer demanded a sample
and was accommodated.
"Omgosh!" cried the taster, as
he swallowed down the usual variety of embalming fluid. "I thought you said you had pre-war stuff."
"Well, there's gone to be another war some day, ain't they?" came back the indignant bootlegger.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Doctors sometimes refer to America as a nation of neurasthenics,
which means those with nerve debility. One peculiarity of a neurasthenic is that he may develop the symptoms of almost any other disease because he readily receives suggestions, especially about sickness.

The symptoms of neurasthenia
are many and the most exasperating is the inability to sleep, or
to get up at night and retire, or
to get up in the morning and continue to work, and yet be unable to do so when they retire. There are weakening pains, headaches, eye-ache, night sweating, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, muscular
spasms such as difficult breathing,
choking sensation, and fainting
and criticism.

Most people who have a nervous
breakdown compliment themselves
with the belief that it is due to overwork, but it is more likely due to a toxic condition of the body,
associated with an unpleasant environment. Many of these sufferers are under the impression that their disease is incurable and that they are doomed to death. Doctors sometimes add to this trouble
by assuring these patients that they are "just a bundle of nerves" and that they need a good rest or trip
to the seashore, or any place where they are not living to death.

The sooner the nervous patient
realizes that he alone is responsible for his trouble, the more quickly
will he find the real cause. One cannot get away from one's own bad habits by taking a trip to the country. It is destructive habits that are practiced twenty-four hours a day at home that are causing the nervous breakdown, and if these bad habits are not changed to good ones, the patient will then be
on the road to health and happiness.

Many men and women patients
of forty-five or more claim they had had from five to ten nervous breakdowns. These people will generally assure the doctor that they have been overworking when they probably have really been suffering from a lack of enjoyment of their work.

Really successful men and women seldom complain of nervousness. It is only those who waste energy with dissatisfaction with
what they are, and are constantly disappointed at their lack of success, who develop real nervous
breakdowns.

When really nervous women become angry, they sometimes work
themselves into a hysterical state,
almost losing their reason, screaming and kicking until they are exhausted or get what they want.
This is a little different from nerve exhaustion, but it usually shows a spoiled nature that is simply having an acute attack of bad temper.
In almost every case of hysteria
there is a pelvic congestion. Temporary paralysis is frequently produced by hysteria. The patient is sometimes unable to move, although perfectly conscious, and retaining
the power of reason and speech.

Sometimes there is a paralysis of
the vocal cords or inability to swallow. This paralysis usually only lasts a few minutes, but in extreme cases may continue for years if the cause is not removed. In almost every case there is a congestion in
the womb of the female, or the prostate of the male. This may be caused by prolapsed organs or inflammation. This trouble which is often related to or mistaken for nerve exhaustion, is all brought on by pelvic congestion.

Real nerve exhaustion is usually brought on by the absorption of poisons from the intestines, so you
see that in both these cases, a cure
depends upon a proper functioning
of the abdominal region, combined
with good mental habits and proper recreation.

Questions and Answers
Question: Mrs. O. J. L. writes:
"Please tell me the cause of severe pain at the lower end of the spinal column. When sitting or lying down it is the most painful. What would you recommend as a remedy?
I suffer from piles and constipation."
Answer: First, get rid of your constipation, then your rectal trouble will quickly disappear, and perhaps the pain in the lower spine, as such pain is often caused from constipation and the distention of the rectum because of the packing up
of fecal matter.

Question: K. L. M. asks: "What
special element does the grapefruit
contain that makes it such a healthful fruit?"
Answer: The large amount of organic quinine contained in grapefruit is beneficial in liver complaints.

came from Watkins it must be correct in design, construction and finish.

The best part of owning such furniture is that it costs no more than the ordinary kind. In many cases, Watkins prices are even lower than those asked for inferior goods offered elsewhere.

Then why not own furniture you will always be proud of—Watkins furniture? Convenient terms—a budget plan which extends payments into weekly sums—is available to all.

with heavy, turned legs and stretchers. Walnut and gumwood are the woods used, while the drawers (one with plush lined silverware tray) are of oak!

GENTRY CIRCUS DOES EXCELLENT BUSINESS

Gives Really Good Show With Exceptional Riding; High Class Acts.

Gentry Brothers' Circus was the feature attraction for Manchester yesterday. The afternoon performance drew only a fair attendance but the evening show packed 'em in. The circus performance was far beyond the expectations held out by the street parade.

The gaited horses in the show, and the skill of the women saddle riders attracted more favorable comment from the audience perhaps than any other number. They were all trained by John Davenport of the famous English family of circus riders. Other acts were of the calibre that one sees at the better grade of vaudeville houses in the winter show season. The Manchester people that attended were not disappointed for there was what one could term a cheap or trashy act in the lot.

The menagerie though very small, was made up of rare and excellent specimens.

The Manchester Herald newboys, through special arrangement of the Herald, with the circus management, attended the evening performance in a body. The boys were all warned that they must be at the main entrance of the show by 7:20 and at 7 o'clock practically every boy was at the gate. After they were inside and the show got under way several of the performers "played" to the boys and the latter got a great kick out of the special favor showed them. The news group consisted of 80 boys and during the entire show were orderly and well behaved.

The circus was entirely loaded within an hour and a half after the main show was over and at 12:15 the engine hitched onto the cars and the circus pulled out for Middletown, the next show town.

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE VISIT ALLYN THEATER

Herald Coupon Offer is Readily Accepted by Readers of This Newspaper.

We are very glad to hear from the management of the Allyn theater that readers of The Herald have taken so heartily to their coupon offering in their advertisements in this paper. The coupon appeared in yesterday's Herald. The Allyn is equipped with a gigantic "Typhoon" fan cooling system which will make the theater comfortable in sultry weather. The reduced prices prevailing all week except Saturday, the beauty of the theater and the good shows make it an excellent stopping place for the evening drive.

For this week end with a complete change of vaudevilles the feature picture is "Broadway Daddies" with Jacqueline Logan and Alec Francis the latter recently triumphing in "The Lion and the Mouse". This is a graphic portrayal of a beautiful dancer in one of Broadway's famous night clubs, who spurns the attention of wealthy "daddies" and seeks the true love of a poor, but ambitious youth. You'll enjoy this colorful drama. It takes you behind the scenes in Broadway's famous night clubs—lays bare the secrets of society and furnishes you with choice entertainment.

For the first three days of next week the feature picture is "The Desert Bride", in which Betty Compson has the leading role. Here is a swift moving tale of the Near East with plenty of color and red-blooded action. The value of the drama is enhanced by an exceptionally fine cast. The outstanding features of this rather elaborate production are a sand storm on the desert, the auctioning of the heroine to a group of vicious natives while her lover, in chains, watches the bidding; a colorful military ball and finally a powerful mass scene, when the French troops storm the fortified palace of an Arabian Prince. This last action furnishes an exciting climax to an already tense picture. Betty Compson has a role which will long be remembered as one of the best she has ever portrayed. She is ably supported by Allan Forrest in the leading masculine role.

SOUNDS INTERESTING.

More than 60 mothers with their children attended the annual cradle roll party yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's Episcopal church. Through the courtesy of Miss Ella Washburn, kindergarten supervisor in the Ninth district, some of the school apparatus was used, the games being under the supervision of Mrs. John Jenney. A feature that was popular with the mothers was the weighing and measuring of the children under the supervision of Mrs. William Thornton. Rev. Alfred Clark, curate of the church gave an interesting talk on the work of the "Little Helpers" organization.

Mrs. Albert Dewey and Mrs. Max Kasuki saw that all were supplied with ice cream, assorted cookies and other good things. Sand toys were distributed to the older children and rubber toys to the babies.

Even Money Betting On Yale's Regatta Tonight

HARVARD AND YALE BATTLE FOR HONORS

Crews So Evenly Matched That Neither Can Be Called Favorite—"Tiny Tim" Clark May Be Unable to Row for Crimson—New London Entertaining a Crowd of 100,000.

By MALCOLM ROY

New London, Conn., June 22.—America's oldest sporting event, the Harvard-Yale regatta, dating back three quarters of a century, will tack another chapter to its long history at dusk this evening when the undefeated Harvard varsity crew and all-conquering Yale eight battle through the four miles of the historic Thames river course in a race which gives promise of being one of the most brilliant in the long string of contests between these ancient rivals.

Few times since the two first met in the almost forgotten past of 1852, have they sent to the Thames crews better matched than are the crews which will fight it out before a crowd of close to 100,000 this afternoon after the freshmen and junior varsity races have been held. All the betting is at even money. Yale drew first blood last night by winning the combination race by a slender margin.

Clark III, the big race draws near, one factor tends to depress the confidence of the Crimson and that is the indisposition of "Tiny Tim" Clark, the 205-pound No. 6 man in the Harvard crew who has been under the weather for the last few days. In the opinion of Coach Ed Brown, Clark's illness has been a material check in the development of the crew towards today's race. If Clark is unable to develop the power of which he is capable, then Harvard's prospects of victory will be dimmed.

Doubtful Weather None too promising weather greeted the garsmen at the advance guard of the army of enthusiasts which has swamped this picturesque whaling town of bygone days. But although the skies are dark, with heavy clouds, the London atmosphere is everywhere and the carnival spirit pervades the town. Automobiles and speakers of trains are dispersed through the sight-seers every hour, while the Thames, flowing southward between its verdant green shores, tosses on its tide scores upon scores of floating palaces and humble small craft, all lured by the lodestone of the annual tussle between the Crimson and the Blue.

Many Boats For more than two miles the regatta course, beginning at the bridge and running north to the Navy Yard, is lined on both sides with the most costly and most beautiful yachts that millions can buy. The Aloha, owned by Arthur Curtiss James, and the huge Corsair, owned by J. Pierpont Morgan; the Consolation, the Vanitie, the Wildfire, the Advance and the Hussar are anchored in the stream among dozens and dozens of others.

Cocky confidence is the feeling that permeates the Yale quarters while grim determination is the spirit of the Crimson. Although Harvard snatched Yale's long string of victories last season, a string which began when Ed Leader first took hold of the Blue in 1923, the Cantabs are far from overconfident. Yale, on the other hand, with a crew admitted to be the fastest short distance crew it has ever had, and with a string of decisive victories behind it, is hardly able to restrain itself until the starting time.

That it will be a race from the gun is evident and Yale hopes and expects to make it a runaway one. Harvard believes that once the race is under way it will be able to row the Blue down and that the slower conditions are, the better will be the chances for the Crimson.

WALKER'S VICTORY WAS NOT DESERVED

Walsh Gives Champion Two Rounds, One Even and Seven for Hudkins.

By DAVID J. WALSH

Chicago, June 22.—They pulled one out of the hat for the boys at Comiskey Park in the rain last night when they met Mickey Walker was the winner over Ace Hudkins in their ten-round fight for the middleweight championship of the world. Walker didn't win, according to my scoring, any more than he won the title he now holds at the expense of the late Tiger Flowers.

But I've had a hard, hard life and somehow I find I'm mellowing in the aging wood very nicely. No longer do I react violently to decisions that fail to cajole my judgment. The pass has been reached where respect for the opinions of others has become strangely tolerant and the fact of the matter was that two local citizens, Ed Keina, a restaurateur, and Harry Carroll, an auditor, sat in the judges' chairs and said that Walker had won. Ed Purdy, the referee, voted for Hudkins but quite a few newspaper critics saw it the way the judges did. The crowd of some 30,000 didn't like it at all.

Margin of Doubt So maybe there was a margin of honest doubt about the business and maybe, too, I'm as blind as a hook without an eye. It must have been one or the other it couldn't be both.

Walker as the writer saw him, carried just two rounds of the ten, one of them by a convincing margin. This was the fourth in which he had Hudkins drooling on the edge of a knockout from a flurry of lefts and rights to the jaw. This was Walker's big moment virtually his only one, just as the seventh round was Dempsey's climax with Tunney. It also was Dempsey's anticlimax before the bell sent them to another round and strangely there was some resemblance of this to Walker's failure to put Hudkins on the floor in the fourth last night. One more punch might have won for both of them but neither had it.

Walker blows up Walker blew up with victory in sight. So did Dempsey. His arms and legs went dead when, by all odds of the game, he should have been trudging with life. Dempsey did the same. I think Walker is through. I know Dempsey is. Mickey was so weary after the fourth that he could barely lift his arms and then only to protect himself against Hudkins' incessant attacks on the body. It is difficult to see how they could give a decision to a man who did nothing very steadily for the last six rounds. But they could; in fact, the matter went a trifle further than that. They did.

Some observers said they thought Walker won because he landed the cleaner punches. Personally, I would like to know just how many he landed, clean or otherwise, in the last six rounds and I'll even then count the ones he would have liked to start, had he been able. The champion just didn't have a punch in him for the second half of the fight. Occasionally, he lashed out in the briefest of rallies but these always were succeeded immediately by the old Army game—safety first and always.

Having shot his bolts in the fourth round, Walker simply was out-roughed and out-buffed by a younger, tougher man. The latter was warned several times for low punches and as many times more for hitting on the break, a possible source of point-reduction by the judges. It didn't seem, however, that even this could have made the decision a just one.

The writer saw Walker only one round besides the fourth. This was the opening heat in which he had all his pep and nerve and easily outscored the Ace by as much as two to one. I called seven rounds for Hudkins and one even conceding meanwhile that none of his many punches really hurt Mickey. But these were many after the fourth round and Walker's were few and until last night I thought that was the way they paid off on these things.

Pictured above is the Manchester High School baseball team which won a tie for the 1928 C. C. I. Four schools were defeated by Manchester; three matches ended in a tie while St. Thomas Seminary of Hartford was the only school to stop the local combination.

GREEN NINE HOME SATURDAY, SUNDAY

Meets Windsor Locks Tomorrow and South Windsor on Sabbath at Woodbridge's Field.

Manager Sam Prentice announced today that his Manchester Green baseball team will play home games both Saturday and Sunday. Tomorrow, the Windsor Locks Cardinals will come to Woodbridge's Field and on the Sabbath the South Windsor team will be the attraction. Both games are expected to be close and interesting.

The Green will use the same lineup which is proving too much for the other clubs in the Community Club league. Eddie Boyce and Joe Prentice may do the pitching for the home team.

Lou Gehrig, of New York, and Joe Sewell, of Cleveland, were the only two American League baseball players who played in all their teams' games last season.

Weather permitting, there ought to be a baseball game worth seeing tonight when the Community Club and the Kensington nine clash in a state league encounter over at the West Side field. Ralph Russell and Bill Brennan will do the "umpiring." Play will start at 6:15.

The game will mark the initial appearance of the Community on the West Side field. The team has been playing its home twilight games at Hickey's Grove but has made continuance, financially advisable. It is believed that the change will improve the situation greatly.

Tommy Sipples will start on the mound for Manchester with Carroll or Berg throwing them across for Kensington. Two other former members of the old Manchester Club will be in a Community uniform. They are "Punk" Lamprecht and Sammy Kotsch. Sher Robb will split up the first base job with McLaughlin. The presence of the new faces in the lineup is expected to prove beneficial in more ways than one. Kotsch may play either second or left.

LEAGUE PITCHING MUCH IMPROVED

Hurlers Getting Their Stride As Season Advances; Hits Become Scarcer.

By LES CONKLIN
New York, June 22.—The hot weather is writ large, or should be, according to the almanac—and big league pitchers who are at their best under the brilliance of old Sol's summery smile are beginning to strut their stuff. Hurlers of the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, celebrating the first day of summer in a double-leader at Chicago yesterday, unleashed some of the finest pitching ever crowded into one afternoon. Base hits were scarcer than corsets at a senior prom.

Sheriff Blake of the Cubs held the slugging Cardinals to two hits and beat them 2 to 1, although his mates reached the veteran Clarence Mitchell for only five bingles. The Cubs got a dose of their own medicine in the nightcap when they were limited to three hits by Sylvester Johnson and took a 4 to 1 licking. Johnson's victim was Charlie Rood, last year's sensation, who suffered his fifth straight defeat.

A paltry total of 17 hits was made by the two teams in the double bill. Hack Wilson hit two singles and a spectator who commented at length upon the Cub outfielder's failure to deliver any home runs recently.

Another Johnson, Elbert Henry, pitched the Yankees to a 4 to 0 victory over Lefty Grove of the Athletics. The A's now trail the Huguenots by 9½ games and must win today to get an eye-break on the series.

The Cardinals lost ground in the National League race, as the natty CinCY Reds nosed out the Pirates in the ninth, 5 to 4. Both starting pitchers, Hill and May, took their showers early.

The Braves and Giants broke even—Young Art Delaney's pitching and Roger Hornsby's two doubles gave the Braves a 2 to 1 win in the second game over Larry Barton, the league's leading pitcher. The McGrawian maulers copped the opener by a 9 to 4 count.

The sprightly Browns two-timed Detroit, 8 to 3 and 9 to 5. Big Ed Morris, prize Rookie of the Boston Red Sox, toyed with the Senators, winning 9 to 2.

Cleveland trimmed the White Sox, 4 to 2, but Chicago won the second game in the ninth, 4 to 2, when Bill Cissell, drove in two runs.

CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

Stamford, Conn., June 22.—Vincent Marzio, 1, of New York, finally fell into the hands of Stamford authorities after they had waited more than three months for him and today he was ordered held in bail of $2,500 for a hearing next Monday on charges of carrying concealed weapons, assault and breach of peace. He fled from a policeman here on March 8th and then eluded police of Greenwich, Port Chester and Bedford Hills in a wild ride through back roads in Westchester county. Marzio was spotted yesterday afternoon and followed until he crossed the Connecticut line when he drew into a group of waiting policemen at Greenwich.

Tunney was reported to be missing punches in his first glove workout on the other day since the Chicago fight. But that doesn't mean anything—you can't miss Heeney.

JUDGING BY THE LETTERS TO THE SPORTING EDITOR, ARGUING OVER THE MATTER OF THE YANKEES' SUPERIORITY AND SUGGESTING WAYS TO MEET IT, THE POSTOFFICE IS HAVING A SPLENDID YEAR.

In New York these days you can stir up a street brawl almost anywhere by merely dropping the hint that the Yankees were in the National League they'd have to fight.

It is this cock-eyed observer's advice that fans in the American League bleachers should not debate these matters when games with the Yankees are being played. The other day in St. Louis a fan, forgetting where he was for the moment, and declaiming the virtues of the Cardinals, was benched by one from Ruth's bat.

Before the season it was predicted the Indians' pitching staff would stop the Yankees. But then Polinpaugh says he doesn't like to use more than four pitchers per game.

Mr. Rickard took a load from the mind of the anxious fans the other day. He says there will be ringside seats enough for all at the Tunney-Heeney thing, at $40 a piece.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Bridgeport, Conn., June 22.—James Monroe Saxton, 76, junior warden of Trinity Episcopal church and former city official, was found dead in the bath room of his home on Fremont street, today with gas pouring from an open jet. Dr. H. R. De Luca, medical examiner, investigated and issued a preliminary statement declaring he believed death was due to an accident.

OLYMPIC HOPES

HAROLD OSBORNE

Although he won both the high jump and the decathlon events in the Paris Olympics, Harold Osborne, former University of Illinois athlete, is expected to participate in only the high jump at Amsterdam this summer.

The bespectacled all-around athlete scored 20 points in the 1924 games and holds the world's record in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 8½ inches.

He also holds the Olympic record in the high jump with a mark of 5 feet 5¾ inches.

Besides winning the decathlon at Paris, he has won the national A. A. U. all-around championships three times, in 1923, 1925 and 1926. In 1925 he set an all-time record by scoring 7706 points.

Osborne's recent competition indicates he is in excellent condition.

FRENCH MILITARY CADETS STUDY BATTLE TACTICS IN WORLD WAR FILMS

Paris.—Motion pictures of the World War may form a study for military cadets in France if present experiments are enlarged upon. "The Battle of Montdidier, March 21, 1918" was projected before the students of the polytechnical school composed of engineer cadets, and reserve officers of the general staff, as a movie primer. Representing 80,000 separate pictures taken by the Motion Picture Section of the French Army the film was said to have described graphically how reserves were brought up and distributed, how the service of supply and liaison between units were maintained, besides the actual contact with the enemy—a complete study of a giant operation.

We have been looking over the Republican platform and must confess disappointment. Not a word was said about rainfall.

HOOKS and SLIDES

GHOST WRITING

Some surprise seems to have been produced by the frank admission of Jack Dempsey in court that he does not write his own stuff for the syndicate that sells it under his name to the publishers.

Jack Kearns, trying to get $777,000 back pay from the former heavyweight champion, introduced evidence some clippings under Dempsey's name in which this former champion referred to Kearns as his manager.

Dempsey said he didn't write it and that he never wrote any of his literary masterpieces. It was "Jake" he said, for his ghost to write them.

It was thought that everyone knew that few of the bright public figures write the copy that appears under the names.

Gene Sarazen recently threatened to sue a magazine that printed a story under his name, although the copy was sold by his agent and bore his O. K. Walter Hagen recently dismissed the writer who had kept him before the public as an author for years.

John McGraw does not write his own stuff. Neither do Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Rogers Hornsby or Andy Cohen. Most all of them, however, pass upon the copy before it is printed.

Tunney Has a Ghost

Considering his great intellectual capacities and his flair for exhibiting his familiarity with literature and the classics, Gene Tunney does not write his own stuff.

Helen Wills and Bobby Jones write their own copy. So does Mary K. Browne and, incidentally, Miss Browne's copy is the smoothest and easiest to handle that the crabbliest of copy readers would demand. This compliment to Miss Browne means a whole lot, as the public doesn't always know what a terrible time the poor copy readers have with the material of some of the highest priced and most widely advertised newspaper stuff men.

The fact that so few of the big celebrities write their own copy is not a reflection upon their intellectual attainments. They are too busy, most of them, to bother with the tedium of typewriting, and they can get a ghost for from ten bucks up.

The Bigger They Are—

The kidding telegram that Tex Rickard sent to Dempsey assuring him that if he fought Gene Tunney in New York he would have no trouble choosing his own judges and referee rings a lot like the kidding that Frisch, Kelly, Dolan and Young did at the expense of Jimmy O'Connell in the last Giant baseball scandal.

Rickard said he didn't use the right words to express his meaning and that excuse is as good as any because the public isn't overly interested.

The amusing feature of the incident is what caused a $100,000 lawyer to expose the chin of his clients and their business by reading such a telegram in court when it had no vital bearing on the case.

You May Not Know That—

Baseball players as a class do not like the writers. Eddie Mead is keeping under cover a new midweight sensation. . . . Victorio Campolo, the new Firpo from South America, is signed aflight to Tex Rickard. . . . Col. Jake Ruppert burns up when the writers quote him in broken English. . . . Hornsby turned down $500 to sign something nice about a cigaret. . . . John McGraw doesn't smoke either. . . . Whispers are getting louder about the Dempsey-Sarkey fight last summer. . . . Gene Tunney, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Joe Dundee, Sammy Mandell, Tony Canzoneri, Tom Heeney and Paulino couldn't belong to a certain organization. . . . Dempsey likes kummel. . . . George Von Elm is not popular with the golf players.

GERSTER BOUND OVER

Bridgeport, Conn., June 22.—Herman Gerster, 48, superintendent of the municipal garage was bound over today for trial in Superior Court on a charge of embezzling city funds to the amount of $16,000 and was ordered held in bail of $20,000. Gerster had been unable to secure bond early this afternoon and was locked up at police head quarters.

The state today put on a single witness, a special auditor who had examined Gerster's accounts, and probable cause was found after Gerster's counsel protested the state's methods.

When a Girl Loves

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER is in love with an artist, NATHANIEL DANN, but she has tricked into promising to marry FREDERICK DEAN in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of.

CHIRI came out of the kitchenette holding a pan in which she was stirring a white sauce. "Oh, it's you," she said flatly when she saw Virginia. "I thought it was Niel. He generally comes in with so many bundles he can't open the door."

Virginia tried to turn her mind from the whole thing, feeling wounded and somehow cheapened by the presence of this girl who made herself so much at home in Nathaniel's studio.

There was one bright angle in regard to her decision, one that gave her a shred of comfort. It was something to have her own apartment, and she would be free to do as she pleased.

REED OPTIMISTIC; 'SMITH CAN'T WIN'

Senator From Missouri Says Democrats Cannot Win On a Wet Platform.

Houston, Texas, June 22.—A wave of optimism swept through the presidential headquarters of Senator James Reed here today following the announcement that Gov. Al Smith, chief rival for the Democratic nomination, had reiterated an earlier stand for amendment of the prohibition law.

Reed's lieutenants predicted Smith would be eliminated because of the "radical wet views" and that with the New York governor stopped the Missouri Senator would be an easy victor.

Reed himself will arrive on the scene of battle this evening. He will see newspapermen at a conference Saturday morning and then he is expected to say something about prohibition himself.

"The nomination of Smith or any other wet" means dire things next November. Despite the avalanche of statements and threats on both sides, it appeared wholly likely today that the platform which is to be adopted next week simply will reaffirm the plank of 1924, which pledged the party to rigorous enforcement and respect for all laws. Such is the advice of even those temperate dries like Sen. Pat Harrison, of Miss., who already is looking beyond Houston and toward November.

Senator Harrison does not believe for a moment that the Democrats to single out one law, the Volstead law, for example, and pledge it undying support and allegiance. If that law is to be singled out for specific support and observance, Senator Harrison observed, then there is no reason why the convention should not go down the line for other laws about which there is controversy.

"The Democratic Party," said Senator Harrison, whose opinion reflects that of other southern leaders who are more or less resigned to Smith's nomination, stands for dry laws, of course, and that is enough. The militant dries, however, will not content themselves with this view of it. What they want they intend to fight for. It is a plank that goes at least as far as the Republican platform in naming the 18th Amendment. They will be satisfied with nothing less and they are going to demand a good deal more in the resolutions conference.

NOTICE!

Notice is hereby given that the Annual Meeting of the Seventh School District,

of the Town of Manchester, will be held at the school house in said District, on Monday, June 25, 1928, at 7 o'clock, in the afternoon, (Standard Time) for the following purposes, to wit:

- 1. To choose a Moderator. 2. To hear a report of the District Officers. 3. To elect its officers for the ensuing year. 4. To see if the District will lay a tax. 5. To see if the District will authorize its Treasurer to borrow in the name of the District, a sum, or sums not to exceed in the whole Five Hundred, ($500) Dollars, when in the opinion of the Treasurer, it is necessary so to do, and to give the District's note or notes, or other obligation, or obligations, therefor. 6. To see if the District will vote to compensate the Secretary and Treasurer for services rendered. 7. To see if the District will vote to authorize its Committee to make the necessary repairs. 8. To do any other business proper to come before said meeting. ANDREW J. HEALY, EDW. P. STEIN, DAVID L. ARMSTRONG, Committee. Dated at Manchester, Conn., this 20th day of June, 1928.

governor's representatives in Houston will make no serious fight for such a plank here, principally because they realize the futility of it their real fight is to prevent the radical dries from building a bonedry platform upon which Gov. Smith could not stand without stultifying himself.

The Smith representatives here point out that no candidate for any office could run on a platform of not enforcing the law. Therefore, they say, even a platform that pledged the party to "rigid enforcement of the 18th Amendment" by name, could be accepted by Gov. Smith because he has repeatedly asserted in his state papers that so long as the present prohibition laws are on the statute books they should be enforced. In the final analysis, then, according to Gov. Smith, because he has repeatedly asserted in his state papers that so long as the present prohibition laws are on the statute books they should be enforced.

It is this "moral righteousness" aspect of prohibition that the radical dries are going to insist upon. Their principal weakness, from the standpoint of practical politics, is that they have no outstanding leader. In other years the fight was made and led by William Jennings Bryan. He is gone, and there has appeared no one yet that seems capable of filling his shoes. There are candidates galore for the post, but none of them seems equipped with the evangelical fervor and the canny political capacity of the great commoner.

"The extreme dries are talking of 'drafting' Gov. Dan Moody, of Texas, for the leadership of the dry fight, and undoubtedly he will play a prominent part in it, but the plans have not yet crystallized to the point where they have no outstanding leader. As paving the way for such a selection, however, Lieut. Gov. Lynch Davidson, of Texas, was out today with a statement, criticizing Tammany's attitude on prohibition, and asserting that Mack had let the prohibition cat out of the bag."

Outside of the platform scrap, the principal contest before the convention appeared today to be over the vice presidency, and in this the old Biblical quotation of "many are called, but few are chosen," seemed apt. Two candidates appeared outstanding in the pre-convention discussion—Rep. Cordell Hull, of Tenn., and Evans Woolen of Ind. Both are Protestant and dry, although not identified with the fanatical wing of the prohibitionists. Both come from important and doubtful states.

Some of Representative Hull's friends here asserted with positiveness today that he would not accept it. However, it was recalled that Sen. Charles Curtis vehemently refused to be considered for the vice presidency at Kansas City until just a few hours before the nomination was made. Hull has made an enviable record in Congress, and has a wide acquaintance among the delegates because of his three years' service as national chairman at a time when the party fortunes were at low ebb after the Cox defeat.

Woolen is Indiana's favorite son for the presidential nomination. He is one of those bankers credited with strength among the farmers. Indiana Republicans at Kansas City asserted vehemently that if Hoover was nominated Indiana would be a doubtful state. Democratic leaders are pondering these statements. Moreover, there is a tradition about Indiana and the vice-presidency. Woodrow Wilson was twice elected with a Hoosier, "Tom" Marshall, for his running mate.

The first five books of the Bible are known as the Pentateuch.

TWO BIG CITY STORES TO OPEN ON SATURDAYS

Wise, Smith & Company, and Brown, Thomson & Company, two of Hartford's largest department stores, will close at Wednesday noon effective from June 27 to September 5, inclusive, has been announced. This policy is in keeping with that in most New England cities, and is adopted by these two stores because they believe that the trading customs of thousands of customers prevent a Saturday afternoon closing.

A member of one of the firms gave the following statement to a Herald representative: "We will keep our store open Saturdays as usual for the benefit of our customers—who have always made Saturday one of their most important shopping days. This plan will not only benefit our customers, but will assure an additional half-day of recreation for store employees during the summer months. The June 27th to September 5th period is some what longer than has been customary so that this year the employees will have a total of two additional days as time off due to half day closing. And so now you can shop in Hartford as usual on Saturdays and receive the same courteous and prompt services as always."

175 PUPILS END 8TH GRADE WORK Ninth District Boys and Girls Get Diplomas in Exercises Today.

One-hundred and seventy-one boys and girls received their diplomas at the eighth grade graduation exercises of the Ninth District held this morning in the High school assembly hall. The 'sheepskins' were presented by Superintendent F. A. Verplanck.

The number of graduates is not as large as last year, due largely to people moving out of the district according to Miss Elizabeth M. Bennett, principal of the Barnard school, from which all of the children are graduated.

Miss Bennett also said that mid-year graduations from the Eighth Grade will begin year after next. This system has already reached the seventh grade and next February a group of pupils will be advanced into the eighth grade. The following February, a class will enter high school.

In the course of a few years, a class will be graduated from the High School in February. One major advantage in this system is that a pupil who fails in his studies does not necessarily have to lose a year's time, while especially bright pupils have opportunity for speedier advancement.

The Exercises

The graduation program opened with three selections by the eighth grade chorus, 'The Linden Tree,' 'Hark! Hark! The Lark' and 'Sylvia.' Ralph W. Proctor and Clarence P. Quimby, respectively vice-principal and principal of the high school, spoke in that order on the advantages of high school education. Their talks were interspersed by two selections by the seventh grade girls' glee club, 'The Shell,' by Schubert, and 'I Will Give You the Keys of Heaven,' an old English air.

The seventh grade boys' glee club then sang 'Buccaneer,' by Schubert, and 'I Would be a Sailor,' by Avery. A short talk by Mr. Verplanck, the presentation of diplomas and a selection by the combined seventh and eighth grade chorus, 'O! Turn Thee,' brought the program to a close.

FALLS FROM WAGON IN A FAINT SPELL

Francis Conwell of Burnside Avenue Suffers Head Injury In Tumble.

Evidently overcome by a 'dizzy spell,' Francis Conwell of 731 Burnside avenue, is in Memorial hospital as the result of a fall from a wagon to the pavement late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Conwell, who is 65 years old, was driving a pair of horses hitched to the empty wagon to his farm on Goodwin street in Burnside. He was found by a passing motorist and taken to the local hospital. X-ray pictures were taken this morning to see if he is suffering from internal injuries or has any broken bones. He has an extensive scalp wound, but his condition is not considered serious.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

The rising young man can't get a raise by reading success stories.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Caller—Is the manager in? New Office Boy—No, sir. Caller—Are you real sure, boy? New Office Boy—Well, that's what he told me. Go in and ask him yourself if you don't believe me.

Only the Hungry One "Chew" The light of the moon went out one night From the sparkling dew no spark, No sound that would guide the traveler. Not even the dogwood bark; A short in political circuits Had suddenly blown a fuse, For the wireless was overloaded With the words, "I do not choose."

Statistical Note—Bootleggers do not have a steady income but they make staggering figures.

"How do you like my daughter's play?" asked the proud Mrs. Slimper. "You know she enrolled with a professor who guarantees to teach anyone the piano in ten lessons."

Observation: Some folks look you straight in the eye all the time they're speaking to you, and others think what they're talking about.

Flying, is at least one game where you have to begin at the bottom and work your way up.

Love is one thing married people ought to know by heart.

Until They Escape: Men behind the bars are always compelled to live according to their convictions.

Clothes don't make the man, but his wife's often break him.

Now they say that the reason George Washington never told a lie was because he married a widow and knew better.

Before the Fight Wife at Head of Stairs: Is that you, John? Heavy Voice from Dark—Who was you expectin'?

A New York law office was held up by five masked men and it is reported that the highwaymen lost only $100.00.

If we did not like the preacher who presided in our church we would get out of it and not go around knocking him, as so many do in these days of free thought and action.

Rocketeer has seven dollars for every person in the United States. Have you received yours?

"I don't believe you love me anymore," sobbed the sheba. "Why do you say that, Dearie?" asked the sheik anxiously. "Well, for the last week you've left every night before father threatened to throw you out."

No woman who married a man named Bugg would name her baby daughter June.

LETTER GOLF

IT'S IN THE CARDS How often in bridge have you wished that a JACK in your hand was a KING? In letter golf it's easy to make it so. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

Letter golf grid with letters J, A, C, K, K, I, N, G.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. This is done by changing COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Careless Daddy or Careless Printer? Dr. Moore sends in the following clipping from a Nebraska newspaper. It's too good to keep so we'll pass it along. Here it is: "Mrs. Fred Jones, of Wymore, who gave birth to a fine boy Tuesday at the Mennonite Hospital, is reported as getting along nicely. Her uncle, N. A. Saverger, of Lincoln, who suffered a broken leg in the same accident, is recovering at Fall's Sanitorium."

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.

The Gairymaids ran here and there. The cat had given them a scare. "Climb up a tree, one tiny cried. "Then you'll be safe and sound. Don't run! That's not the thing to do. The cat will catch right up with you, 'cause he's so big he travels very fast along the ground."

That! We mustn't try to hurt the cat. The rest of you can hide, but I am going to try a plan. He hurried to the barn, nearby, and then he heard a happy sigh. "I'll save you all," he shouted. "I have found a nice milk pan."

But Scouty shouted, "Oh, not of fun in the next story.)

He went to the circus last night and did not return home last night nor was he at home this morning.
