Only Two Safe, So Far; Seal- er Says He Saw Amund- sen and Companions Re- pairing Plane on Ice Floe.

Of the sixteen men aboard the Italian Polar balloon Italia when it met with disaster over the Arctic on May 25, only two have been saved, four others are located on the ice, one is dead and nine are missing.

General Umberto Nobile, chief of the expedition, and Motor Chief Natale Cecconi were saved.

Motor Attendant Vincent Pomella (Vincenzo Pomella) was killed.

Four of Nobile's companions and Swedish relief pilot Lieut. Lundborg were marooned on an ice floe off Foyne Island.

The fate of the six men who were carried away with the envelope of the Italia and the fate of Fr. Malmgren and his two companions is not known.

Captain Roald Amundsen, Lieut. Lief Dietrichsen and French Aviator Rene Gullbaud, who were lost while seeking the Nobile groups are still missing and their fate and whereabouts are not definitely known, although their plane was reported wrecked off the southeast coast of Spitzbergen.

RELIEF EXPEDITIONS

London, June 27.—While several relief expeditions continued their search of the Arctic wastes for Captain Roald Amundsen, confirmation was eagerly awaited today of the report received at Copenhagen that the noted explorer had been seen by a seal hunter on an ice-breaker southeast of Spitzbergen.

According to the report, relayed from Copenhagen by the Exchange Telegraph Company, Peter Freuchen, the Danish explorer, who is now at Murmansk, was informed of the seal hunter's story by the crew of a fishing boat which met him. The seal hunter told that the fishing craft's crew that he saw Amundsen, Major Rene Gullbaud, Lief Dietrichsen and the other members of the crew of their French plane, attempting to repair the machine on the ice-floe.

Amundsen apparently had a premonition of the difficulties he would encounter in searching for the crew of the lost dirigible Italia, according to the Daily Mail today. A few days previous to his departure, the dispatch stated, Amundsen declared that the Italia tragedy might easily lead to many minor tragedies among the rescuers scouring the northlands for Gen. Nobile and his crew.

MECHANIC KILLED

Rome, June 27.—In an official communique to the Italian government, General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated dirigible Italia which is now safely aboard the Clitta Di Milano, today stated that Vincent Pomella, chief motor mechanic of the airship, was instantly killed when the craft crashed in the ice on the morning of May 25.

Pomella's body was later recovered by other members of the Italia's crew, Nobile said, and buried with appropriate honors.

Nobile also revealed for the first time that when the gas bag of the dirigible floated away with six men aboard following the crash of the gondola, a column of smoke appeared on the spot on the horizon where it was last seen, about ten kilometers away from the scene of the crash.

Nobile expressed the belief that it was possible the gas tank attached to the float-g portion of the

LADY LINDY TO SAIL FOR HOME TOMORROW

Companions to Return With Her—Disappointed in Not Seeing Prince of Wales.

London, June 27.—Miss Amelia Earhart will leave for Southampton today preparatory to sailing for America aboard the liner President Roosevelt tomorrow with her two flying companions, Stultz and Gordon.

She was disappointed that she was unable to meet the Prince of Wales last night. The prince was expected at the Olympia horse show but did not appear. Miss Earhart had dinner with Lord Londsdale, "prime minister of sports," and then the party sat in the royal box at the horse show.

Stultz and Gordon were forced down at Berck, France, by bad weather while flying from Paris to London, accompanied by two French pilots. They then motored to Boulogne and caught the 7 o'clock channel boat which brought them to London at about 11 o'clock.

Miss Earhart announced she plans to tour the United States in the month plane she purchased from Lady Heath, one of England's foremost woman fliers.

How It Looked at Opening of Convention

Here's Sam Houston Hall packed to the eaves with Democrats for the first time. The Houston convention hall is a huge one, but the nation's Democracy found it none too large when formal dedication of the structure took place. Notice that nearly all the delegates are in shirt sleeves. They found the Houston climate a warm one. This splendid picture was taken from the rear of the hall, looking toward the speaker's stand.

Men Delegates in Suits of All Hues—Mrs. Al Smith Bewildered Over the At- tentions Shown Her.

By Ruth Ridenour.

Houston, Texas, June 27.—This convention is more colorful and less orderly than one recently held at Kansas City. The color is especially evident in the faces of the delegates. If they aren't wearing a sunburn they are flushed with excitement. But most of them have had time when the convention was coming to a halting start to acquire a sunburn between halts. I counted 799 1/2 cases of sunburn among the delegates last night and that's over the required two-thirds majority, or enough to elect anybody.

A delegate from Louisiana, I believe it was, had on a palm beach suit of bright sky blue. Raymond T. Baker wore a handsome cream colored suit, with a perky red tie, and sat through the brief morning session mopping his ruddy face with a large dark blue handkerchief.

Few coats are being worn these days except by the boys who play in the halls. They have a tough break. Some of them have to wear capes as well as coats and tall fur hats.

LEGISLATORS DESERT BUSINESS FOR PARLEY

Louisiana House and Senate Quits Work to Go to the Convention.

Baton Rouge, La., June 27.—Defying Gov. Huey P. Long, 47 members of the Louisiana House of Representatives and most of the state senators were in Houston today attending the Democratic national convention instead of remaining in session to attend to important business, as was requested by the governor.

The legislators left here at an early hour this morning and after attending today's session, are expected to return here tomorrow. Gov. Long requested the legislators not to attend the convention in view of the fact that it would adjourn July 11 and much important business remains to be done before that time. He said they should stay in the state and not go on a pleasure trip at such a time.

Many members resented this however. They said they were paying their own fares and expenses for the trip and no one could stop them.

Efforts were made to hold meetings of committees with members who did not go but there was no session of either the House or Senate today.

An exchange of lands at the Center owned by the Town of Manchester, the Ecclesiastical society of the Center church and, if that body also approves, the whole property in question abuts that on which both the Municipal building and Center Congregational church stand and also includes the site of the Center horse house.

The Selectmen last night voted to have an agreement embodying the several points in connection with the transaction drawn up by Town Counsel William S. Hyde. This agreement, approved by the Selectmen, will be put before a meeting of the Ecclesiastical society of the Center church and, if that body also approves, the whole question will be put to a vote at the next regular town meeting.

The land involved includes a triangular piece in the rear of the new Municipal building, now owned by the church society, another piece of land owned by the town and in the rear of the Center church, land owned by Frank Cheney, Jr., in the rear of the Center church, and the small piece of land at the point of

New Game of Building Poker Gives Texas City a Won- derful Skyline.

Houston, Texas, June 27.—The entire New York City contingent of the Empire State delegation was suffering today from stiff neck, a result of southern methods of poker playing.

The south, as everybody knows, always has played poker like nobody can. Well, the poker players of the south must have learned it from Houston. Houston plays with buildings.

The New Yorkers, in the innocent way that New Yorkers have, always had thought that they had quite a few nice, tall shanties on Manhattan island. They've been so used to the 63-story Woolworth building that they got over walking skyward at it.

Before they arrived in Houston, they expected to find it a well-meaning cow town that hoped some day to amount to possibly a hill of beans, but certainly nothing higher than that.

Many Tall Buildings.
Since they got here the New Yorkers spent a lot of time looking straight up. This city is simply seamy with tall architecture.

Here's how it started: About every third person in Houston counts his wealth in sums running over ten million dollars. Just by way of informing the world that they're not such small potatoes, these folks put up buildings, illuminated at night with concealed floodlights.

A Mr. S. F. Carter, East Texas lumberman and banker, started the ball to rolling with the Carter building. His opener was 18 stories.

Mrs. N. E. Stewart wouldn't be bluffed by that. She raised Carter

'THROW RASCALS OUT' THE TEXT OF THE KEYNOTE

Claude G. Bowers, New York Editor Sounds Ringing Call to Arms in Address; Raps Corruption.

Sam Houston Hall, Houston, Tex., June 27.—A ringing call to arms for the enlistment of all Democrats in a great battle to "throw the rascals out" was sounded here last night by Claude G. Bowers in his keynote speech opening the Democratic national convention.

I was accompanied by a slashing, stinging, savage attack on the Harding-Coolidge Republican administration of the last eight years—an indictment that for sheer severity of tone and brilliancy of expression probably has had few equals in the history of American political conventions.

"Plunderers," "Pillagers," "Corruptionists," "Criminals," "Auto-crats," "Bureaucrats," "thieves," "Rascals"—these were but a few of the terms used by the New York editor in describing the kind of governmental leadership, the nation has had under two Republican administrations. He lashed them by innuendo and he scourged them by name.

His first sentence was a clarion challenge: "The American Democracy has mobilized today to wage a war of extermination against privilege and pillage."

Appeals for Unity
His last sentence was an appeal for Democratic unity in the great undertaking: "The predatory forces before us seek a triumph for the sake of sacking. Their shock troops are the black horse cavalry whose hoofbeats have made hideous music on Pennsylvania avenue for the last eight years. In the presence of such a foe the who dally is a dastard and he who doubts is damned. In this connection we close debate and grasp the sword. The time has come. The battle hour has struck. Then to your tents, O Israel."

Bowers clearly marked out for the Democrats the path they are to follow in the oncoming presidential battle "throw the rascals out."

In the face of the oil scandals, the Veterans' Bureau scandals, "The most shameless carnival of corruption that has ever blackened the reputation of a democracy by self-respecting people," in the "banking of commissions"; in the face of "invisible government for privilege" or every hand, "in the contemptuous looting of the farmer"—in the face of all this, and more, he asserted the duty of the democracy to be crystal clear to sink its own differences and petty quarrels and "throw the rascals out."

Raps Leaders
Bowers did not confine his attack to those Republican officials whose acts have brought them up against the turbs on criminal charges. He went after the leaders of the Harding-Coolidge administration from the highest to the lowest and he named names in the process.

"Shameful as these (scandals)

"Privilege and pillage are the Gold Dust twins of normalcy."

"We face a foe grown arrogant with success."

"The (Republican) organization has been a beneficiary of the (oil) scandals' crime."

"The enemy enters the campaign unembarrassed by debt—Harry Sinclair paid that off."

'BIG TIM' MURPHY DEAD; KILLED BY MACHINE GUN

Chicago's Most Picturesque Demi-Gangster is Riddled With Bullets When He An- swers His Doorbell

Chicago, June 27.—"Big Tim" Murphy, labor leader, politician and "racketeer" de luxe, lay dead here today—a victim of machine-gun bullets.

Chicago's most picturesque demi-gangster was riddled with leaden slugs on the front lawn of his Rogers park home late last night after he had answered a mysterious summons to the front door.

When the deadly rat-tat-tat of the machine gun died away, the gangster assassin had bagged their most prominent quarry since the dramatic shooting several years ago of Dion O'Banion.

Murphy, whose checkered career has perhaps been more colorful than any other of his kind, was listening in on the radio to the Democratic convention when his front door bell rang. With him was his brother-in-law, Harry Diggs.

Remembering his gangland schooling, Murphy peered from a

Thirty-Five Contests Devel- op Before Credentials Committee at Session.

Houston, Texas, June 27.—The "Brown Derby Steam Roller" from the sidewalks of New York rolled out a complete victory for the Smith forces today in the credentials committee of the Democratic national convention.

Thirty-five contested seats were at issue. In every case, Smith delegates were seated by the committee. On no contest in the executive session did the opponents gather more than seven votes.

Smith men organized the committee at the beginning of the five-hour session which ended just before daybreak this morning. They put Bruce Kramer, of Montana, an ardent Smith worker in the pre-convention campaigning, in the chair, determined upon the order of the hearings without a struggle and then permitted the contestants to present their cases virtually without limitation. When the crucial vote was taken at three a. m., on Louisiana's twenty contested votes, the count stood 42 to 7.

Anti-Smith Forces
The anti-Smith coalition which had thrown its influence with the contestants from Louisiana were somewhat deflated by the count and postponed until later their final decision on whether they would submit a minority report on Louisiana to the full convention. They had expected at least ten votes in the cre-

Delegates an Hour Late in Arriving at Second Ses- sion—Platform Builders in Tilt With Farmers; "Kicked Out of Kansas City They Seek Our Aid" Say Leaders—Want Real Farmer on Committee.

Houston, June 27.—A row over farm relief developed at the first session of the Democratic platform committee today. Representatives of the Farm Bloc opposed the personnel of the sub-committee appointed to draft the platform because no spokesman for agriculture was included in the list. After a sharp but brief debate the committee, by unanimous consent, added T. E. Cashman, head of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, to the sub-committee.

John A. Sifton, of Oklahoma, and T. J. Thomas of Nebraska led the fight for farm representation. "Farm relief is going to be the paramount issue of this convention," said Sifton, and "I demand we recognize the farmers on this committee."

"The farmers were kicked out at Kansas City and they are looking to us for help," Thomas declared. "The farmers demand to be in on the ground floor here."

Senator Glass of Virginia interposed that members named to the sub-committee were fully conversant with the needs of agriculture.

"That isn't sufficient," retorted Thomas. "We should put a real farm representative on this committee."

Senator Caraway of Arkansas jumped into the breach by proposing that Cashman be named by unanimous consent. This was done.

Sam Houston Hall, Houston, Texas, June 27.—While the platform builders took off their coats today and went to it behind closed doors, the thousands of other delegates to the Democratic national convention trouped persistently again to Sam Houston's glittering pine palace for another act in the quadrennial show.

Senator Joseph P. Robinson of Arkansas, who presided over the stormy San Francisco convention eight years ago, and who is the probable running mate for Governor Al Smith in this one, was the ringmaster of the day. His speech as permanent chairman of this convention was calculated still further to drive home to Democrats the party need for agreement and dissonance on the eve of the campaign.

A test fight that may afford the first official insight into the overwhelming power of the Smith forces appeared not improbable as the session got under way.

Fear Test Fight
The credentials committee voted 42 to 7 early this morning to seat the Smith delegation of 30 from Louisiana, as opposed to the anti-Smith faction backed by Mrs. Genevieve Clark, Thomson of New Orleans, a daughter of late Champ Clark, who has been an indefatigable worker for Senator Reed of Missouri.

The ousted delegation threatened to force a vote in the convention itself on the action of the credentials committee by presenting a minority report.

An easy victory for the Smith delegation, headed by Gov. Huey P. Long and Col. Robert Ewing, was anticipated whenever the convention got around to the voting stage. The Smith party are securely in the saddle and riding easily all down the line.

Expect Harmony
In every direction save that of prohibition, the Democrats seemed today to be steering toward the harmony that has "put their teeth" since the 1916 election.

And the leaders were hopeful that even there strenuous fight can be avoided.

The young red-headed governor of Texas, Dan Moody, however, has still to be placated on the wet-and-dry issue.

The Texas Democrat in their state convention adopted a real bone-dry plank, and Gov. Moody, who is credited with aspirations toward becoming the "Boy Orator of the Brazos" as Bryan was "The Boy Orator of the Platte" considers he has a mandate to age a fight in this convention for the adoption of the Texas plank.

Gov. Moody announced this morning he would be content with no mere law enforcement plank on prohibition.

"In all the years of prohibition,"

The early arrivals, however, were rewarded with a program of old time spirituals, sung by a chorus of fifty negroes—Johnson's Jubilee Chorus, for nearly an hour at the hall and the streets outside rolled and rumbled to "Swing Low, Sweet Charlotte," "Walk in Jerusalem Just Like John," "Wait 'Till I Put on My Crown," "Little David Play on Your Harp," "You Got to Bear Your Light and a Candle," "All Over God's Heaven," etc.

At eleven o'clock, the scheduled hour of convening, most of the delegate seats were empty. Whole blocks of them yawned vacantly. The galleries were filling rapidly.

Since then you hear 'Daddy' wherever there's a band. When there's no band and no Dixie you hear that Texan yell that they've done the main thing and now it's time to shake off the straddles and be Texans.

You can't imagine how versatile the human race is until you've heard an enthusiastic Texan yell loose a standard, all-American rebel yell. There's a lot of callisthenics go with the yell. It begins with a squinting posture. You sing suddenly until you're sitting on your heels. Then you spring up with alacrity, throwing your arms upward and outward. And your yell in any direction and seeing if you can't rip the lining out of your windpipe. Three rebel yells and anyone save a Texan is ripe for treatment by a trout specialist.

There is some dude down here running for county clerk and first assistant of the department of fish and game or something and he has a lot of admirers. Until three a. m. today they were giving yells in the Rice hotel lobby for their man There's not a ready today to fall off its perch as a result of this.

How the Union army ever won the war with this rebel yell floating around is beyond me. Possibly the confederate forces suffered laryngitis to a man. Just one more yell and here's a damned Yankee who will be ready to feed north to a more soothing locale where squealing dry brakes on automobiles and the put-put of citizens machine-gunning one another to death are all that break the calm.

We submit in no spirit of political hubbub that it is a shocking thing that we have waited vainly for seven years for one word, one syllable, one whisper of the mildest criticism of these crimes and criminals to come from a single representative of the administration.

They heard La Follette's denunciation of Teapot Dome—and were silent. They saw the various processes in the alienation of the nation's property—and were silent. They heard the gossip of the capital that buzzed for weeks and months—and were silent. There was not a man among them with enough will power, or lung power, to blow a police whistle.

"Sometimes silence is golden—for the thief." Why, he demanded, were the leaders of the administration silent? and he answered his own question thus: "Because of the organization of the party man was a beneficiary of the crime."

"We see," he went on ironically, "the erstwhile chairman of the national committee of the regime in power laying aside his duties as an elder in the church to sink into the office to get the tainted bonds. We see him sneaking about like a receiver of stolen goods to men of means to persuade them dishonestly to contribute these to the party fund under cover.

"We see him sending a portion of these bonds to the dictator of the administration, affectionately known as 'Andy,' and thus we know that the high functionaries of the state knew that the party was to be made a beneficiary of the crime.

"And thus the campaign debts of the regime in power have been paid by Harry Sinclair, and with pliant pliancies, enters another campaign free from debt—because there was a Teapot Dome."

As for the Democrats, Bowers declared, "we put no legislation on the auction block, no Harry Sinclair has paid our debts. We are free. We unfurl the Jeffersonian banner: 'A Good Government is an Honest Government,' and we invite all enemies of corruption to fight with us beneath its folds for the redemption of the violated honor of the Republic."

The conflict between the Republicans and Democrats this year, Bowers declared, goes back to the very fundamentals of government—the question of whether the Hamiltonian philosophy "government for wealth and privilege" or the Jeffersonian concept of "equal rights" shall prevail for the next four years.

It was in this connection that he dwelt upon the controversial question of agricultural relief. He asserted that for eight years "big business" as represented by highly protected corporations and profited enormously while unprotected agriculture had languished and sickened.

"Thus," he said, "while the little group represented by Mr. Mellon has found fine plucking in the vineyard of the state, there has been nothing left but thorns and thistles for the tillers of the soil."

He declared there has been a thirty billion dollar depreciation on the value of farm property in the last eight years, and "two million farmers have been driven from the paternal acres within the year."

"The result is a condition of ruin that is a disgrace to our civilization."

Patriotic Statesmanship "When business profits from legislation," he asserted, "it is described as 'patriotic statesmanship,' when the farmer demands his share they denounce him as a radical and a crank."

"One day the head of the state by a scratch of the pen increased the tariff loot of the pig iron industry by 50 per cent, and the next day he delivered a hearty invitation to the wickedness of expecting profit from a governmental act."

"The Democrats," he said, "do not ask paternalistic privilege for the farmer but we do demand that the hand of privilege be taken from the farmers' pockets and off the farmers' throats. We do not propose that the most basic of all our industries shall longer be a door-mat for all the others to wipe their feet on as they enter the temple of privilege."

SEER EXONERATED Salem, Mass., June 27.—Nesth El Jah, Mystic seer and fortune teller, was acquitted in Superior Court today on a charge of kidnapping Frederick W. Enwright, Lynn newspaper publisher. He was acquitted on a charge of assault with intent to rob. The jury deliberated 2 1/2 hours and a sealed verdict was opened today.

BOARD O. K.'S SWAP OF LAND AT CENTER

the curve at the intersection of Main and Center streets. The church society, it is proposed that it be sold to the town piece of land in the rear of the Municipal building, that the town in turn give a piece of land in the rear of the church to the church society, that the town abandon its right of way in the rear of the Center church; the church society will in turn abandon its right of way in the rear of the Municipal building and will give to the town land at the Center which is needed for straightening the highway there. Frank Cheney, Jr., enters into the transaction by offering his property to the Center church without cost providing the Center church society gives the town of Manchester the land it requires.

Fair All Around The entire transaction is a "swap" of properties of equal value, but which under present ownership are of little avail for building or development purposes. The Center church needs the land which the town owns, and the town needs the land which the Center church owns. The Board of Selectmen feels that the transaction is a very fair one, that benefits all parties concerned.

The committee appointed by the Ecclesiastical society to act with the Selectmen in the transaction, R. LaMotte Russell, Frank Cheney, Jr., and William L. Parks, was present at last night's meeting to explain the church society's plans. Mr. Russell explained that the society desired to build an addition to the church and that the right of way existing in the rear of the church and owned by the town prevented building in that direction. If the church were added on the west the beauty of the church and the Municipal building would be injured. This swap of properties would solve the entire problem, Mr. Russell said.

Members of the Board of Selectmen brought out the fact that the town owed it to the State highway department to acquire a slice of land at the Center corner. This was a gentlemen's agreement with the state when Center street and Main street were improved. It was also brought out that the church society does not intend to start building its addition for some time. No campaign for funds has been started and will not be started until the town accepts the proposed exchange of properties.

Another point that was advanced in connection with the proposed swap was that the abandonment of the right of way in the rear of the Center church will add greatly to the safety of the entrance to the Lincoln school. The sidewalk leading to the south entrance of the school is used as a driveway by autos and fire trucks and has always been a menace to the safety of the children. Another site for the Center house would have to be found since it could no longer stand in the rear of the church and the Lincoln school.

Brings Question to Head In tentatively approving the plan the Selectmen have brought to a head a discussion which has been going on for nearly two years. When the State Highway department constructed the new pavement on Center street it was proposed to take a part of the Center church property so that a better turn toward the north end and toward East Center street could be made. The Center church people, however, objected because they desired to add to their church building and they had little ground land. When the Connecticut company decided to abandon its local car barns and the town purchased that property the society's officers saw that there was an opportunity of getting land in the rear of the church for building purposes.

The land which the town would acquire through the exchange thoroughly protects the Municipal building on all sides. It also gives an opportunity for a line entrance into Center Springs Park. A proposal was made at last night's meeting that a large central house could be built on the town property west of the Municipal building. This would be impossible, however, until the consolidation of fire districts here is accomplished.

Other Business Thomas D. Faulkner, former local man but now a Hartford real estate agent, is anxious to have a plot layout of the property on Prospect street accepted so that he can develop the property for sale. The plan as proposed is not acceptable to the Selectmen since it has a dead end street. The Selectmen never accept dead end streets. The board decided last night not to act on the question as long as the proposed layout stands.

Frank Busch was appointed a special constable in the Globe Hollow swimming pool. Mr. Busch is instructor at the pool and is vested with a constable's authority so that he can prevent rowdyism. The application of William F. House and Company for the relocation of two gasoline pumps at their station on North Main street was approved. Town Treasurer George H. Waddell reported that about $5,000 has already been collected in back taxes. This is on personal and personal property delinquencies only. The collection of back taxes on real property will start on July 15 and foreclosure proceedings will be taken if the tax is not paid.

SEN. ROBINSON MAKES FERVID HARMONY PLEA

contention he recited a long list of bank failures, of depressions in individual industries, of the plight of the agriculturalists, and then compared the record with that of the Wilson administration.

Talks On Prohibition But it was on prohibition that he dwelt most. There appeared, he asserted, no prospect of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment "for many years." That being the case, he argued that it would be futile for the Democrats here assembled to incorporate a wet plank in the platform, when by so doing they might "drive out of the party many who favor prohibition and are unwilling to yield their views."

Peace on prohibition, and a united attack on the Republican record of fraud and corruption during the past seven years was his advice to the convention assembled.

Senator Robinson's speech, in part, follows: "The responsibility as well as the honor associated with the chairmanship of this convention, is fully recognized. The obligation to serve with patience and impartiality is readily acknowledged. Seldom if ever, have the representatives of the National Democratic Party gathered under more impressive conditions. We face a notable political crisis. The exercise of sound judgment and common sense in the nomination of candidates and the demonstration of fidelity to the recognized party principles constitute a sane way to harmonize our differences and are essential to success in the approaching campaign."

Democrats' Mission "The Democratic Party has a mission which has not materially changed since the days of Jefferson. The necessity for political reform is greater now than ever before. Our party, from its birth, has safeguarded the rights of the masses. It has championed personal liberty and opposed centralization. Jefferson sought to protect the unselfish against the employment of laws and government agencies for private profit.

"Jackson aroused the public to the menace of plutocracy. Cleveland voiced resentment at the abuse of the taxing power to enrich favored groups by the exploitation of the masses. Wilson defined anew Democratic ideals of justice and equality.

"In this campaign the Republicans cunningly seek to raise false issues through which to win their way back into public favor. "The national administration during the last seven years is indefensible from any standpoint. For corruption and inefficiency it is paralleled only by the disgraceful prostration of power in states dominated by the Republican Party. The assertion of our opponents that the Democratic Party cannot be trusted to promote sound business is totally false. The Democratic Party has at no time interfered with lawful enterprises. It is the defender of legitimate business. What other period since our government was established compares favorably with the eight years of the Wilson administration?"

"The holdest champion of the opposition cannot recall another time when prosperity was more general. Labor was profitably employed; industry full time; agriculture was on an equality with other business. "The prosperity of the present by no means equaled that under Democratic control. "The facts on the whole do not justify the boast in the Kansas City platform.

"The secretary of the treasury admits in his annual report for 1927 that conditions during that year were worse than in 1926. "The President's Industrial Conference Board asserts that business prosperity in the United States is confined to giant corporations. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce examined one hundred thousand concerns in 1927 and reported thirty-four thousand of them earning no profits whatever. "The Commission of Internal Revenue states that only three-fifths of the corporations manufacturing textiles and the same percentage of corporations manufacturing leather products reported net incomes for 1927. "The record of commercial and bank failures reflects the falsity of this claim of exceptional prosperity."

AWAITING HER BACKER. Grande Mere, Quebec, June 27.—Miss Thea Rasche, the German aviatrix who plans to fly across the Atlantic to Berlin in the Belanca monoplane North Star, today awaited the arrival here of her backer, Mrs. James A. Stillman, before making any definite announcement regarding her plans.

The North Star is now at the Can De La Madeleine Airport, near Three Rivers. Pilot Koenen, who flew the plane there from Hadley Field, N. J., will put it through several tests before Miss Rasche starts her flight. It is believed probable the aviatrix will stop for fuel in Newfoundland before heading over the Atlantic.

ONE DEAD, 7 HURT Chicopee, Mass., June 27.—One man was killed and seven others injured today in a collision here when an automobile containing the man crashed into an approaching trolley car. Cornelius McCarthy of Holyoke, 65, was instantly killed in the smash up. The men were all residents of Holyoke on their way to work in the Flyke Rubber Company's plant here.

FOUR CANDIDATES ARE MADE MASONS

Last Meeting Before Summer Vacation Held Last Night—Eat Shortcake.

Manchester lodge of Masons last night conferred the degree of Master Mason on four local business men in the last regular meeting before the summer season. About 120 members and several visitors attended the communication last night. The four candidates were George A. Brown, garage proprietor; John H. Hewitt, milk dealer; Arthur L. Hultman, owner of a local men's furnishings store, and Scott H. Simon, president of the Carlyle Johnson Machine Company.

The degree work followed a job, business session in which reports for the year were read. Upon being raised in Masonry all four men were presented with emblems by Masonic friends.

Following the communication the Masons adjourned to the banquet hall where a strawberry shortcake supper, prepared by Walter Waddell, was enjoyed.

S. A. TRAINING SCHOOL GRADUATES LOCAL GIRLS

Miss Mina Maxwell and Miss Edith Leggett Take Part in Impressive Ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maxwell and Mrs. Mary Leggett, a number of other local friends attended the graduation exercises Monday evening of the Salvation Army training school in New York. The meeting was held in Carnegie hall, one of the largest auditoriums in the city and was filled with relatives and friends of the young cadets. Miss Mina Maxwell and Miss Edith Leggett completed the ten month course and previous to training there were recognized here as corps cadets having had a six year probation period. Dr. Lydell Rader of New York who spoke at the Salvation Army here Sunday and to the Kiwanis club Monday, was also present, his daughter being one of the commissioned cadets.

Up to the time of receiving their commissions the cadets were not informed as to where they would be stationed. Some were sent to Northern Maine, some to western states and all over the U. S. Miss Edith Leggett has been retained with the rank of sergeant-major on the teaching staff of the training school in New York City for another year.

The cadets on coming forward received their commissions from the hands of Commander Evangeline Booth, and each was handed a lighted torch, symbolical of the pledge taken to go forth as torch-bearers in the dark places of the world. It was a very impressive scene as the lights other than the torches were extinguished and the hall was in darkness.

"GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES" AT STATE

Story of Modern "Gold-Digger" Has Unusual Cast; "Lady Raffles" is Co-Feature; Two Pictures Tonight.

Men of Manchester had better keep their hands on their pocket-books all day tomorrow and Friday. Lorelei, champion gold-digger of the ages, is coming to town! Lorelei is the wide-eyed, flirty little flapper whose inimitable diary was opened for all to read when Anita Loos wrote her now-famous satire, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." So sensational were the sales of the book and so loud the guffaws of its readers that it has been made into a most entertaining motion picture. In the picture, a mystery book and play, the career of the dumb-looking (but not so dumb) gold-digger provides one of the funniest plots ever unwound in movie celluloid.

Lorelei is played by Ruth Taylor, former Mack Sennett comedienne, who was picked from hundreds of candidates for one of the biggest roles in the history of the movies. She gives a remarkably comic performance.

Others in the cast include such prominent names as Chester Conklin, Ford Sterling, Alice White and Mack Swain. If you like sparkling comedy-dramas you can't really afford to miss this picture.

The companion-feature for tomorrow and Friday is "Lady Raffles," a red-blooded and thrilling drama of the underworld that fairly sizzles with action and mystery.

Eselle Taylor is starred, supported by Roland E. Drew and Lilyan Tashman. The story has to do with a beautiful young female bandit who meets and falls in love with a clever criminologist. After a series of hair-raising adventures, she is persuaded to reform, but not until the audience has feasted on a bit of tense and dramatic entertainment.

LEAGUE PUBLISHES FACTS FOR ELECTION

Women Voters Group Prepares Schedule of Events for This Coming Fall.

The latest assembling of facts about political events by the Connecticut League of Women Voters is "The Connecticut Voter's Program for Fall Elections" which has just been published and sent all local branches in the state. It contains a calendar of approaching dates for party registration, for filing applications to be made a voter and for being made, approximate dates of summer caucuses and fall elections and dates of elections with the list of officials to be elected.

Exceptions to the general rule of town elections on October 1 are listed under the headings, "No Local Elections this Year," "Local Elections Already Held" and "Local Elections on Special Dates." Attention is called to the fact that some cities and some boroughs are also towns and that some of these hold city or borough elections on different dates from their town elections. These dates are given.

When the dates of the fall caucuses are known a second edition of the flier including these dates will be printed. This "Voter's Program" was prepared by Miss Beatrice H. Marsh, the Executive Secretary of the League.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, June 27. The National Grand Opera Company will play the winter opera season on the radio with Verdi's "The Masked Ball" to be relayed over WEAF and associated stations at 10:30 Wednesday night. The opera consists of three acts and was first produced in Rome in 1859. The scene was originally laid in Naples but for political reasons was later changed to Boston. The action is supposed to take place in the late seventeenth or early eighteenth century and will be presented on N. B. C. stations with the Philco hour in which will be presented the musical play "The Madcap Princess" by Victor Herbert. Other highlights of this hour will be excerpts from such musical comedies as "Irene," "Wild Flower" and "Flora." The United Synagogue of America will broadcast a thirty-minute musical program over WEAF at 7. Among other interesting features of the program there will be two tenor solos, the grand aria from "La Juive," "Tachens" by Max Zerkow will introduce violin variations of Jewish folk songs. At 7:30 WGY will radiate military selections by the Remington band, and half an hour later a similar program by Golden Gate. A far away feature well worth waiting for is "The Pagoda of Flowers" at 8 o'clock broadcast by the air from KOA at 11. Wave lengths, the meters on left of station time, kilocycles on the right. Times are Eastern Daylight Saving and Eastern Standard. Black type indicates best features.

BRIDGE MADE EASY by W.W. Wentworth

OPENING BIDS There should be no "bugaboo" about bidding four-card suits if judiciously handled. Doing so furnishes most valuable information, and failure to bid it may result in throwing away a game-going hand. For those who never bid a four-card suit, and ultra-conservative players, as a "flyer" I would suggest that when holding as good as a K X X or A Q 10 X or K Q 10 X in a major suit with an outside A they need have no hesitation about bidding that suit initially. Of greater necessity, however, is to bid any sound four-card minor suit, as it may encourage a betterment bid, or develop such additional information as will lead to a game-going declaration. It is not sufficient that the opening bid shall guarantee the minimum requirements for an original bid. It also should be so made that partners will interpret it correctly and with a view to encouraging partner to improve the bid if possible. The opening bid should furnish the maximum amount of information. If partner can mirror your hand, assistance can more readily be given to you. Rigidity in the declarer or in the opening bid has no place at the bridge-table. The battle cry of every opening bid should be, "We want game!" Failure to make game is almost a waste of time. To make game, nine tricks are required at no trump, ten tricks in a major suit and eleven tricks in a minor suit. The difficulty of making game in a minor suit is obvious, as it allows for only two losing tricks. There are many who prefer playing the game at no trump to doing so in a major suit. They forget, however, that it is worth at least one more trick to play the game in a suit, as there is the possibility of ruffing one of the losers which cannot be accomplished at no trump. At no trump you cannot make more than the longest number of cards in either hand. Before bidding, examine your cards to see whether you have (1) sound, (2) a major suit bid, a no-trumper, or (3) a minor suit bid, and give them preference in this order. Where one of two bids is possible, doubt may arise in the choice of the bid, and this is where the expert recognizes the best declaration that will encourage bidding on the part of the partner. Players often complain that they do not hold good cards, but very often when they do hold them they do not make the most of them.

EIGHT YEARS MAKING WORLD WAR CLASSIC

Film Showing Complete Action During Great Conflict to Be Shown Here in July. Many lives were lost, the archives of a dozen or more nations searched and eight years consumed in the making of the great film classic, "THE WORLD WAR," which will be shown at the State Theatre, beginning July 17th. Mr. George F. Zimmer, connected with the U. S. Naval Intelligence Department during the war, and who was commissioned by the United States Government to make the film, went personally into all fields of action with his staff of camera men to obtain the "shots" seen in this picture. Zimmer was with the Grand Fleet in the North Sea; with submarines in their under-sea work off the coast of Ireland; he crossed the ocean to France and England countless times, on destroyers, battleships and transports, always in the zone of action. He was with the aviators, not on the ground but with them in the air where the action was taking place; he used land planes, sea planes and dirigibles. He went aboard surrendered U-boats, destroyers and secured never-to-be-forgotten close-ups of submarine warfare. His cameras were trained on the greatest concentration of artillery fire in history. His men recorded the bombardment of seacoast towns from vessels thirty miles out at sea and his cameras were covering President Wilson's moves while he was in London and Paris. Commenting on Mr. Zimmer's service to his government in making this film, Admiral W. S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, said: "Mr. Zimmer has performed a great service to the Government and to history. Throughout the entire work of making this great picture during the war and during the aftermath, he personally directed the making of pictures, and the actual experience of having seen and lived through them has given him a special knowledge of all our actions 'over there' possessed by no other person. He executed his duty in an excellent, efficient manner and obtained splendid results. The conscientious and fearless way in which he carried out his work amid hardships and dangers deserves the warmest praise."

PLOT TO BREAK JAIL Elmira, N. Y., June 27.—Following the frustration of a plot to kill the guards at the Elmira Reformatory and escape, one convict is dead, another is seriously injured, and two badly beaten guards are in Arnt Ogden hospital today. Frank Frawley and Peter Apenowich, guards, were assaulted with hoes by two inmates, Morris Caster, 18, of Richland, and Cecil Berry, 17, of Sandy Creek, on the reformatory farm. Apenowich was knocked unconscious by the two youths. Frawley, warding off a rain of blows, killed Caster and shot Berry in the lung. Berry admitted later that they had planned to kill the guards. Nineteen other inmates watched the fight.

HOSPITAL NOTES Two patients were reported admitted to Memorial Hospital in today's report. They are Elsie Balseifer, five years old, of 27 Church street, and Harold Tanner, of 15 DeWitt street. There was one death, Frances Elizabeth Gowan, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gowan of 26 Hollister street, who was admitted Saturday ill with diphtheria.

DRIVE OF DISABLED VETS IS DISOWNED

National Body Repudiates Hartford Group's Attempt to Raise Money.

Two weeks ago, William Frost, representing the Hartford Chapter of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, called at the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and asked for sanction from Secretary George E. Rix to solicit funds and advertising among the merchants and manufacturers of Manchester. Mr. Rix refused to approve until he had investigated the work of the organization. After investigation Secretary Rix refused to endorse the campaign and sent out letters in which he gave reasons why he did not deem the organization worthy of local support. Frost, upon being shown the letter, became very indignant and said he would report the matter to the officers of the chapter and that they would sue the Chamber of Commerce for five thousand dollars. Nothing further has been heard from them. Mr. Rix, however, wrote to the national headquarters of the Disabled Veterans and the following is a reply from Vivian D. Cprby, national adjutant: "I haven't heard of it. Until receipt of your letter of the 11th, national headquarters had not received any information regarding soliciting of advertising funds by representatives of the Hartford unit of our organization. "Our national constitution provides that chapters must have authority of the national organization before putting on fund raising programs of any nature. "I have written to the Hartford chapter to find out what the proposition is. "Our organization has the best record of any social agency with respect to disabled veterans nationally. It is not my opinion that the funds being raised by the Hartford unit, however, are to be used for relief work. However, I do not know if this statement is correct. The Hartford unit has not been active throughout the year and I am afraid they are using this method for raising money for convention purposes rather than for relief. I would not recommend the Hartford proposition to you, although I do not want to prejudice you against them without looking into the matter further. "The funds collected by the Hartford chapter would go entirely to the Hartford unit, inasmuch as we know nothing of same. I cannot answer your questions regarding what the chapter is planning to do with the fund. Our organization in the past two years has not collected $200 nationally in Connecticut to my knowledge. "I do not believe that the funds being raised by the Hartford chapter should be solicited and I would not recommend to you or any of your merchants to support this program. "Any information that you can give us concerning the Hartford activities may be of help to us, for as soon as we find that a chapter or department is not functioning properly we take immediate action to eliminate same."

KELLOGG AND HOOVER

Almost everybody in almost every community is familiar with the phenomenon of the majestic but mentally not particularly active lady who is possessed by a slow but determined passion to be chairman of every notable community movement and lacks every conceivable attribute essential to the job.

Somehow this type of lady suggests rather forcibly Mr. Kellogg in his well intentioned effort to round out his reputation by getting the signatures of the powers to his peculiar little treaty for the renunciation of war.

We think we can see eye to eye with the secretary of state, part of the way at least, in this enterprise. We conceive it to be the Kellogg theory that you couldn't possibly draw a general peace treaty that would bind governments anyhow, so the best thing to do is to formulate a compact so vague, so innocuous, so loose in its bonds that no government need hesitate to sign it.

All this for the effect on the various populations rather than on the governments themselves. In which there is a difference greater than the distinction.

We suspect that Mr. Kellogg fancies that if he can only get some kind of a general anti-war treaty signed—any old kind at all—and have fuss enough made over the signing, the impression made on the peoples of the world will be that all hands are in honor bound not to go to war.

On such a theory as this the Kellogg treaty might, conceivably, do some good. That, of course is a matter of opinion, but we should hate to take the position that it would do any harm.

Because of and by Herbert Hoover is going to be President of the United States. And when Hoover becomes President of the United States the United States is going to be able to address the nations of Europe on the subject of world peace in a voice of such authority that it can issue from no other capital in the world than Washington.

No word of promise has Hoover uttered in this relation. He needs utter none. All creation knows where he stands on the principle of universal amity.

In comparison with what the genius of Hoover is sure to evolve, Mr. Kellogg's little toy treaty shrinks into insignificance. If it should be forgotten, so much the better.

ANOTHER KEYNOTE

Claude Bowers, New York newspaperman, came through as Houston keynote in a manner to fully justify the fame that became suddenly his after the Democrats' Jackson Day dinner.

Wise is Mr. Bowers in the measurement of his periods. Canny is he in the placing of vowels and consonants in euphonious arrangements; his speech roars at one, even out of the page of cold type. Skillful is he in the cadences of his tom-tom; for the speech is a battle song, cunningly designed to set fire to the passions and the blood, totally regardless of any appeal to the intelligence—or, especially, to the memory.

We said the other day, after the Republican convention, that we didn't think so much of keynote speeches. Now we're inclined to take that back. Such keynote speeches as that of Mr. Bowers are worthwhile contributions to the music and to the fiction of a nation, even to its dramatic authorship.

Of course they have nothing whatever to do with fact. Mr. Bowers, carried away by the tempo, the resonance and the tomahawk gleam of his composition, was as carefree of historic limitations as the gentleman who wrote the life of Buffalo Bill Cody.

As a keynote calthumpianade Mr. Bowers' effort was a cookoo. As a calm argument why anybody should vote for Governor Smith in preference to Mr. Hoover it was as empty as any dry Texan's flask as befit the hour of adjournment.

ARID HOUSTON

In dry Dan Moody's Texas it was to be taken for granted, of course, that whatever the personal predilections of the delegates from New York and way stations, the Houston convention would be physically dry—in other words that whatever booze was consumed would have to be that brought in by the delegates.

There are innumerable amusing tales of temperamental outbursts growing out of this egocentric, vain display. Actors, of course, will tell you that vanity has nothing to do with it. If they are featured players then, b'gosh, they should be featured. If, by any chance, another actor should steal a bit of their publicity thunder, their fellows in the craft would think them on the toboggan.

One of the most amusing stories in this connection concerns a vaudeville team, a member of which fell dead while dancing. The other member of the team grieved for many weeks and ordered an elaborate tombstone to be built.

A few days later he ordered a gravestone for himself. "Friends, worried about his grief, came to console him.

"Listen Ed, old boy," said one, "don't break your heart. What's the big idea of having a tombstone made for yourself? You're not going to bump yourself off, are you?"

"Oh, no," the actor replied hurriedly. "I'm having my tombstone made now so's I'll be sure that my name's in as big letters as his."

CENTER LAND DEAL

Manchester people will undoubtedly receive with much satisfaction the news that negotiations for the long discussed land swap between the town and the Center Congregational church have reached the point of practical completion.

Here is one of those rare things, an exchange of property in which there is no loser. Even Frank Cheney, Jr., who makes a free gift of a potentially valuable parcel of ground, for the good of the common cause, ought to be at least partially compensated in appreciation of his generosity on the part of the public.

The town will gain much needed elbow room for its Municipal building. The Center church will be enabled to so square its lines that it can build its new parish house where and as it most appropriately should be built.

One of Manhattan's best dancing teams has, fortunately, escaped this difficulty. They are the Astaires, a real brother and sister team—who have placed their art above all else and thus have become favorites all over the world.

CONSTRUCTIVE VACATIONING.

Many people take vacations to obtain a rest from their work and then discover that it takes about two months of work following the vacation to rest up from the effects of the vacation.

This is vacation time all over the North American continent. It is a season when the office seems dull and one has visions of the "great open spaces" with green trees, cool breezes and fishing poles.

Vacations are usually planned with only one object in view and that is to have a good time, with pleasant amusements. Frequently one finds after resuming his customary daily grind, that he is much worse off than before in health and spirits.

It is advisable during vacation time to put aside all thoughts of worry. This is not as easy to do as to advise, but it is good to amuse yourself with simple pleasure such as swimming, fishing, or perhaps, fishing. A mental worker would do well to become an ardent physical culturist.

Do not labor under the delusion that during vacation time you can stuff your body with "hot dogs" and candies which you do not eat while you are working.

(143) Private Institutions for Children.

Approximately 3,000 children are cared for each year by the 21 private institutions for children in Connecticut. Many of these homes provide care and instruction for orphans and destitute children free of charge, the income being derived from membership dues, donations, community support, or endowment funds.

Almost $1,000,000 is spent annually for maintenance. The cost per week per child in these homes ranges from an average of $4.65 to an average of $15.82.

The 21 homes have a total capacity of 2,235 children. A year ago the average number cared for during the twelve months was 2,135.

Many of the homes are attractively situated and very much unlike the orphanages of old. Instead of being bunched together in one inadequate building, the children are kept in "community centers"—modernly equipped plants that provide ample facilities for training and recreation most beneficial to the children. In most cases the children of school age attend public schools in the vicinity of the school and the churches of the city.

Included in the classification of private institutions for children is the Newington Home for Crippled Children which was established by the Connecticut Children's Aid Society thirty years ago, remaining under its direction until 1921. Since then the state has spent nearly $500,000 for construction work at the Home and pays about $60,000 annually for board of the children at the rate of $8 per week per child. An additional $2 a week per child is paid by relatives, if able, and if not, by the town in which the child belongs.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SCAMNER

In this day of almost skirtless dresses and nude colored hosiery as sheer as skin itself, nothing seems funnier to me than the annual edict made in first one and then another of the watery places of this vast realm, that all bathers must wear stockings. Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physicians and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

YANKEES MAY TRADE PLAYERS TO HELP ALONG OTHER CLUBS

Lary and Reese Coast Infield Stars May Go to Clubs That Need Them for "Good of the Game."

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, June 27.—Gossip, the undefeated sprint champion at all weights and ages, mounted a dark horse and rode down the backstairs today with the story that American League pressure may be exerted, under cover, to have the Yankees pass along Lary and Reese, coast infield stars, to another club "for the good of the game." They are alleged to have cost the Yanks $125,000 for 1929 delivery, which might make any proposal that they be sold, traded or given away with coupons sound slightly false.

It has distinct possibilities, as a matter of fact, in the first place, the American League affair virtually has become "no contest" against the league can't afford a further repetition in 1929. In the second place, the Yanks don't figure to need Lary and Reese any more than they need somebody to go up there and bash one for Ruth. In the third place, it is the writer's impression that the Coast League investment was made mostly with the idea of closing a trade for a pitcher or two in 1929.

The outfits that should be interested are the Cleveland Indians, the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox. All three might be ready to sacrifice some of their pitching for a capable second base duo.

It may be an item of interest, however, that the coast pair has pulled up somewhat flat-footed this season. Notably seems to have spoiled them.

Good or bad, you can bet the week's boloney that no potential contender will get them and that eliminates the Athletics and Senators automatically, even if they wanted them, which probably they don't. The Tigers and Browns seem to be well set around second base, too, but the Indians, White Sox and Red Sox must do something about their infields or resign themselves to the business of going nowhere at a frightful clip.

No Regrets From Navy

Wilson Honored as Best Athlete as He Leaves Military Academy.

With the handshake of its commanding officer, Major General William R. Smith, West Point bade farewell to Cadet "Light Horse Harry" a few days ago and the army welcomed Lieutenant Wilson of the air force. In the football uniform that he had worn in so many memorable battles, Wilson was called out to receive two sabres, one honoring him as the captain of a great team and the other as the most distinguished athlete of his class. When asked for his choice of service, Wilson picked the most hazardous line a soldier could undertake—the air. General Smith, on the left of the picture above, is shown extending the best wishes of the cadet corps to Wilson in his new game.

DODGERS IN HOP TO 3RD POSITION

National League Teams Bunched Closely at Top; Giants Outslug Phillies.

New York, June 27.—Four of the National League teams are bunched so closely that the fast-stepping Brooklyn Dodgers were able to jump all the way from fifth to third place by beating Boston twice yesterday, 6 to 3 and 6 to 5, in stretching their winning streak to six straight games. Uncle Wilbert Robinson's nephews passed Cincinnati and Chicago and advanced to within one game of the second-place Giants.

Good Pitching
The big league pitchers are thriving on the hot weather. Grady Adams, Shreveport rookie with the White Sox, held the Detroit Tigers to three hits and beat them 5 to 2. Milt Gaston of Washington also yielded only three hits against the Athletics and won a brilliant four to one duel from Ed Rommel with the aid of two home runs by outfielder Barnes. Burleigh Grimes, registering his eleventh victory of the season, limited the Cubs to four hits and batted in the only score of the game, but Chicago won the second game by a seven to three score. Larry Bettencourt pulled a Frank Merriwell by clouting a homer with the bases full against Cleveland, the Browns winning six to three.

TEST ANSWERS
The Athletics, staggering under three straight defeats by Washington, are in poor shape for their allegedly crucial series with the Yankees, starting today. The Mackmen are ten games behind the champions.

Chapman to Ride at 'Drome Races

George Chapman, known in the bike world as "Big Six" because he won the American motor-paced championship six consecutive years, will make his first appearance of the season at the Velodrome track Thursday night.

Chapman will ride in a motor-paced race in which the other contenders will be Francesco Zuchetti, Larry Gagnay and Don Pischione, all leaders in Division A of the American championship field. Pischione defeated Frank Keenan of Revere two straight heats at the Velodrome last week and this was characteristic of the fine riding he has been doing all season in Eastern tracks. Chapman is back in fine physical condition after two seasons when he was not up to the standard. Last winter he spent in Florida where he made a business of getting in the pink and he says he is fit for another such season as those in which he swept the field.

This motor-paced race will be run off in four heats, three of ten miles each and the last of fifteen miles and the scoring will be under the point system. In addition to the motor-paced race, there will be several professional and amateur events. There will be a special professional sprint race and in the field will be such riders as "Chic" Meyers of Providence, John Bruskie of New York and Frank Bartell of Newark. The first races set for 8:15. Tassilo's band will play a concert at 7:30. George Olds of this town will do the announcing. His work last week was of high order.

But TYDOL ETHYL does more than "knock the knock." It increases the power... gives faster starting, quicker pick-up, lessened gear-shifting and MORE MILEAGE. It makes carbon a friend instead of a foe, converting it into a power-maker.

SENSE and NONSENSE SKIPPY

Advice to motor-car ad-writers: Consider the pedestrian.

Examiner—what would you do if you saw a woman driving a car in front of you put out her hand? Applicant for license—Slam on the brakes.

An automobile dealer in a nearby town lists his used cars under the heading, "Among My Souvenirs."

Professor—Students, take this sentence: "The automobile was going fifty miles an hour." Can you parse it? Johnny—No, but dad can if his car is working right.

Traffic Cop—"Come on! What's the matter with you?" Truck Driver: "I'm well, thanks; but my engine's dead."

The thought that there is a railroad track a train was approaching is so simple it ought to be in the mind of every one who drives an automobile.

There may be an auto for every five persons in this country, but there are also apparently about five filling stations for every auto—counting the hamburger stands.

A complicated traffic tangle was caused recently by a lady motorist who signaled that she was about to turn to the right and did so.

A town has no cash value. About the only person who gets paid for being disagreeable is a traffic cop.

Old Simms on his death bed called for his chauffeur and said: "Well, James, I'm going on a long and rugged journey, rougher than any that you drove me."

"Yes, sir," replied James, "but there's one consolation. It's all down hill."

"Home" used to be the sweetest word in the English language. Now we have two words: "The car."

Why Not? What kind of a car have you? "I got a Wreck." "A wreck?" "Yeah. Every time I park it a dozen people come up and ask if I've reported the accident yet."

Batson: "I understand some of your hens have stopped laying?" Belfry: "Two of them have, anyway."

"What's the cause?" "Motor-car."

She—have you ever been pinched in this car? He—No, but I've been slapped!

"To what do you attribute your great age?" "Well, for the first seventy years of my life there wasn't no automobiles, an' for the last twenty-five I've been confined to the house."

"If you've spotted the man who stole your car, why don't you get it back?" "I'm waiting for him to put on a new set of tires."

If all the pedestrians in the United States were laid end to end the reckless drivers would have an easier job!

LETTER GOLF

LOTS OF THINGS DO THIS Tides, bride's cakes, empires, and a lot of other things RISE and FALL. Even today's letter golf does. Can you do it in four strokes? One solution is on another page.

R	I	S	E
F	A	L	L

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each step. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

In the old days college students burned the midnight oil in a dreary attic. Now they burn it in a high-powered car.

It is strange that a motorist will ask a garage man a hundred questions as to the make, quality and brand of a car before he will permit a drop of it to be put in his car, but will refrain from asking his bootlegger a single question for fear of injuring his feelings.

There is one physician to every 735 persons in America and an automobile to every five.

goodness sake, the monkeys still are in the tree. They simply will not leave. I guess that coming here was wrong, 'cause we may have to stay so long that we will miss a lot of sights, and that will make us grive.

"Now, wait a minute," Scouty cried. "I have a plan that might be tried. He then picked up some apples that had fallen from a tree. 'I'll make those monkeys feel ashamed,' said he. "I soon will have them trained. The bunch of you just stay back there, and leave it all to me."

Then, to the open Scouty went, and just a little while was spent in coaxing several monkeys to come down and have a treat. He held the apples in his hand. The monkeys thought they looked real grand. So, down they came and gathered 'round, and all began to eat.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

- FRESH FISH Mackerel Sword Cod Fillet Sole and Haddock Halibut Butter Fish Tender Rib Roasts of Beef Veal for Stewing Broilers Chickens Fowl 1st Delivery 8 a. m.

One Friend Tells Another "We're dealing at Pinehurst now, so the more he eats, the better I'm satisfied."

THE FOOD BUDGET Understand, please that Pinehurst does not admit, and has no reason to admit, that its prices are not rock bottom—quality considered. That's that. The question is—Is it good domestic economy, good tactics, good sense, to establish a food budget for the family at a point just low enough to force the housewife to buy the family food with Price as the first and major consideration? Good food is a prerequisite of good physical health, mental content, actual achievement. Poor food—even relatively poor food; food that may not be actually harmful but is not attractive—may very easily lower the whole scale of life of the entire family. And did you ever really figure up the difference in the cost of a week's supply of the best food—Pinehurst grade food—and a similar amount of the cut-price, second or third grade food? Really, it isn't so very much. Often it turns out to be surprisingly little, because of the difference in wastage. And the meager "savings" that lies between a poor food budget and a good food budget—how many times is that money as well applied, for the happiness and well being of the family, as it would be if it were applied to buying of highest grade instead of indifferent grade food? Pinehurst has a good many customers who used to market on the cut-price basis. They have tried both ways and they are firm converts to the Pinehurst system—lowest possible prices for really Good Things to Eat; with all Pinehurst's particular and painstaking service thrown in. They know that they actually get better value for their money this way.
