NONE ARRESTED AS MANCHESTER KEEPS THE 4TH

Town Has Least Disorderly Celebration in Years; Cops in Mufti, Prevent Any Rowdiness on Streets.

Manchester's 1928 Fourth of July celebration, while sufficiently noisy to gratify all appetites for raucous sound and to frazzle the nerves of invalids and some others, was the least turbulent and disorderly in more than fifteen years.

There was no damage to public property, the period over which the noise making was spread was shorter and for the first time in many years there was no police court business as an aftermath.

Plain Clothes Effective The police appeared on their beats in civilian uniforms Tuesday night, a fact which had a marked effect in deterring lawless celebrants, who had to watch their steps. There was no large gathering and although the firework stands did a big business in the early part of the night, many of the purchasers were people who were taking their supplies home for the observance on the Fourth.

TWENTY TO THIRTY ARE INJURED HERE

Not a Single Serious Fourth Accident But Many Children Are Hurt.

As far as could be learned today by check-up through all physicians who could be reached, between twenty and thirty persons were injured as a result of the Fourth of July celebration in Manchester.

Most of the victims were children. So far as is known, not a single person was seriously injured. Only one victim of explosives, was admitted to Memorial hospital. He is Zigmund Godz of Talcottville, who was treated for injury to a hand by an exploding firecracker.

A canvass of doctors this morning revealed an average of only two or three accident cases each. All these were classified as minor ones and consisted of powder burns and sun-burn wounds. Blank cartridge pistols, as usual, were responsible for most of the injuries.

FAVOR STOPPING OF JULY 4TH BLASTING

Business Men Would Like to See Sale of Noisy Fireworks Banned.

Several Main street business men this morning said they were in favor of stopping the sale of noisy fireworks to individuals in Manchester. It was their opinion that much better results would be obtained by taking a contribution for a community celebration on Fourth of July night.

"I don't believe that one person in a hundred sets off fireworks or blank cartridges with any thought of the intended meaning—celebration," one man said. "And when it comes to a point where young men spray passing automobiles and pedestrians in machine gun fashion with balls of fire from Roman candles and skyrockets. It is high time something was done to put a stop to such roudiness," he concluded.

Hundreds of dollars was spent in Manchester in the purchase of fireworks for individual use, yet there was no community celebration of any kind, nor was any attempt made to raise any funds for such an affair.

Textile Strikers Picket Bedford Mills

This scene at the New Bedford, Mass., textile strike, the largest that has occurred in New England in six years, shows why the attempt to open this mill failed. Seven thousand striking textile workers moved along the picket lines surrounding all the mills. A few non-union workers were taken by motor car into this plant, the Nonquit, but the plan soon was abandoned.

Springfield Man Goes Over Niagara In A Rubber Ball

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 5.—Jean Albert Lussier, 36, a gay French Canadian of Springfield, Mass., is the third person to go over the mighty Niagara Falls in a rubber ball.

More than 150,000 spectators who lined both the American and Canadian banks of the Niagara river yesterday saw him defy death and successfully plunge 170 feet over Horseshoe Falls in a huge red rubber ball.

Lussier had announced he would have the ball with himself sealed inside, dropped into the upper river from an airplane. American and Canadian officials made every effort to prevent the stunt.

14 PERSONS HURT AS BOMB EXPLODES

Man Sets Off Explosive Because Woman Objected to His Advances.

New York, July 5.—With a story of unwelcome advances to a married woman as a background, three men were locked up in Brooklyn today on a charge of planting a bomb that injured fourteen persons.

The accused men are Pasquale Arillano, 32, gangster, who was shot five weeks ago by another man's pretty wife, whom he tried to woo; Thomas Arillano, 28, his brother, and Joseph Wmondio, 31.

The bomb, a time device, was exploded early this morning in the rear of the home of Luigi Zanfordino.

Police declare Arillano was infatuated with Zanfordino's daughter, Mrs. Rae Prozo, wife of a music teacher.

She Shoots Him He persisted in annoying her, Mrs. Prozo said, and five weeks ago she shot him several times when he refused to leave her home.

SMITH DEFENDS TAMMANY HALL IN HIS SPEECH

"How Can Anything Live in This Country 139 Years That is Not All Right?" He Asks.

New York, July 5. Gov. Al Smith planned to return to Albany today after having played the leading role at an Independence Day reception at the City Hall last night.

He was given an enthusiastic reception. These were eulogistic productions of "The Next President" and wild cheers for "Al" but, at each affair the governor calmly deflected such enthusiasm and stuck to his own role—that of the principal speaker.

At Tammany Hall the governor took occasion to pay a tribute to the organization which, years ago when he was a young man, sent him to Albany as an Assemblyman.

"I have listened to a great deal of public and very caustic criticism of Tammany," said Gov. Smith, "and I asked myself the question: 'How can anything live in this country 139 years that is not all right?'"

He read from the public announcement which dealt with the equality of man, as defined by the Declaration of Independence and, above all, to America her freedom, and standing before the Constitution that gives life and vitality to the declaration.

It was in a similar vein that the governor talked before freshly naturalized citizens massed before the City Hall. He urged them to study the aims of both national political parties, to recognize their new responsibilities and, above all, to use their citizenship by voting.

"The Constitution," he told them, "does an important thing. It protects the minority from the majority."

To Join Parents Mr. Childs's son and daughter, Richard S. Childs and Mrs. Mary Childs Draper, sailed yesterday on the Leviathan for France where they will join their father and mother. Mr. Childs is 71 years of age, and is well known to older residents of Manchester. He formerly conducted a grain and coal business in the north end, and his family holds the controlling interests in the Bon Ami Company. He is also a principal stockholder in the Congoleum Company and is director of several New York banking institutions.

Wilmington, Calif., July 5.—Rescued from a drowning by the timely arrival of a seaplane, Miss Jean Cupples, 18, of Altoona, Pa., today owed her life to Franklin Young, commercial aviator.

With two companions, Miss Cupples was canoeing off Santa Catalina island when the boat swamped. Young was flying his regular route over the channel when he sighted the girl struggling in the water. Steering off his course, Young swooped down upon the almost exhausted swimmer and pulled her out of the water.

"RICHEST MAN" STEPS OUT OF PLANE TO DEATH

Tragic Disappearance of Capt. Loewenstein, Belgian Millionaire; Fallen Into Channel is Belief.

London, July 5.—Belief was expressed in financial circles this afternoon that Captain Alfred Loewenstein, famous Belgian capitalist, who plunged to his death from an airplane over the English channel, may have committed suicide.

It was understood that Loewenstein had been seeking big loans in both the United States and England, to prevent the loss or control of his vast enterprises but failed to obtain them. Recently he was thwarted in an attempt to gain control of the Bank of Brussels.

Paris, July 5.—All Europe was horrified today at the tragic disappearance of Captain Alfred Loewenstein, the Belgian millionaire who was reputed to be the third richest man in the world.

Loewenstein left the Crocydon airfield in his private Ploker plane at 8:00 p. m., yesterday, accompanied by two women secretaries and his valet. While the plane was over the channel, the banker apparently went to the retiring room in the rear of the plane, but opened the wrong door and stepped into space.

He was missed by his companions when the plane was more than half way across the channel. The pilot of the plane brought the machine down on the sands of Dunkirk, on the coast of France.

At Brussels where the plane was expected at 10:30 last night, there was little uneasiness when the plane failed to appear. Loewenstein was in the habit of making frequent air trips and changing his mind en route. Friends waiting for him at the Belgian airport were shocked when they were informed of his tragic disappearance by a telephone message from Dunkirk.

In Good Spirits Those in the plane with Loewenstein said he was in the best of spirits at the time of the flight. Searching parties were organized to look for the financier's body but it was believed their efforts will be futile as it is not known just where over the channel Loewenstein stepped out.

Loewenstein was a mighty figure in European financial circles. His interests included steamship lines.

Boston, July 5.—New England's heat wave continued today with the toll up to fourteen dead.

Thirteen men, women and children seeking relief from the sweltering sun were drowned in three when the motor yacht Pirate capsized off Marblehead during one of two terrific electrical storms. Dazed by the heat, a man fell from a roof where he sought a breeze and was killed.

Youth Is Not Ungodly, Says Baptist Leader

Kansas City, Mo., July 5.—"Modern youth is not ungodly!" This terse challenge to the critics of the younger generation was issued here today by John Singleton, of Chicago, who although not yet thirty, is serving his third term as president of the Baptist Young People's Union, now in convention here.

Mr. Singleton, "is not losing his young people because it is using them. Whenever a church realizes that it can attract the younger generation by giving them responsibilities, and an active part in its vital affairs, it has solved the youth problem."

As an indication of the faith the governing body of the Baptist church has in the youth movement Mr. Singleton said that the annual budget for the youth movement has been increased $10,000 for the ensuing year. All other departments of the church have been derided increases, he said.

Dr. David Bryn-Jones, of Minneapolis, who yesterday addressed the 2,000 members of the B. Y. P. U. gathered here, made a plea for a Christian loyalty which shall triumph even over national loyalty.

"One country," he said "should not consider itself superior to another."

Rio De Janeiro, July 5.—The Italian seaplane in which Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo De Pretis, hopped off at Rome to make a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil, was off the Brazilian coast this afternoon. A report that the plane had landed was proved untrue by advices from Natal and Pernambuco. The Olinda radio station at Pernambuco sent a wireless call to the plane shortly after noon requesting its exact position.

Rome Report Rome, July 5.—Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo De Pretis, hopped off at Rome to make a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil, was off the Brazilian coast this afternoon. A report that the plane had landed was proved untrue by advices from Natal and Pernambuco. The Olinda radio station at Pernambuco sent a wireless call to the plane shortly after noon requesting its exact position.

100 MILES AN HOUR Rio De Janeiro, July 5.—Driving steadily westward through the clouds at nearly 100 miles an hour, the Italian seaplane, Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo De Pretis, which hopped off at Rome on Tuesday night, was near the Brazilian coast today.

Preparations are under way to give the aviators a tumultuous reception when they land at Natal. They are due this evening, barring bad weather or mechanical trouble.

It was first reported that the airplane would land at Natal or Pernambuco (Recife) to refuel, but a later radiogram from the plane said the flyers would try to make Rio De Janeiro without a stop. If their gasoline held out.

GERMAN LIBERALS URGE CRIMINAL COURT CHANGE

Execution of Innocent Man Starts Investigation of Manners of Conducting Murder Trials.

Berlin, July 5.—The blood-stained image of Joseph Jakubowski, former Russian war prisoner, who was executed in a German prison as a murderer, although supposedly innocent, has risen from an unmarked grave to lead the Liberal hosts of Germany in a crusade for abolition of the death penalty.

Belief was expressed here today that the new Socialist Cabinet of Chancellor Hermann Mueller will make an issue of the death penalty, using all its influence to have it abrogated.

Jakubowski's image has become the focusing point in the war which these same Liberal forces have been leading for years for drastic reform of the whole judicial system, which, they claim, has become the last refuge of the German Reactionaries and, therefore, a menace to the young republic.

The "judicial crisis" has been one of the chief topics of political and newspaper controversy for years.

One result of this controversy has been that more and more voices are being raised for an adaptation of the German judicial system to that of the United States where every defendant has the right to be tried by a jury of his peers with the judge merely acting as "referee." Under the German system, the judge conducts the whole trial, and asks all the questions, with the result that the judge automatically puts himself in opposition to the accused; especially, if the judge is full of caste feeling or political bias, and the accused either in a lowly position or of an opposition political faith.

This movement toward "Americanization" of the German judicial system received an impetus through the performance of the American play "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

There were also upwards of 100 persons injured by premature explosions and carcases, drowning, heat and lightning were reported as seventeen.

Washington, July 5.—The rapid fluctuations of the call money market, incident to speculative activities, are not having a pronounced effect on long term securities, in the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The Treasury took this into consideration, it was learned today, in announcing an issue of 3 3/4 per cent bonds, dated July 16, and maturing in 1940, to be exchanged for outstanding Third Liberty Bonds and to obtain about $250,000,000 in cash.

Mellon had been contemplating a long-term issue for reducing the Third since the first of the year. However, the heavy speculation in the Stock Market, and the heavy outflow of gold, coupled with two successive increases in the federal reserve re-discount rates had discouraged the operation until this time.

Following the close of the government fiscal year, the large debt reduction of over $900,000,000 quarterly dividend payments, and other financial operations incident to the end of the fiscal year, a somewhat different situation has developed and apparently the government anticipates some easing off of the money rate tie-up.

It is significant that the rate of the new issue of bonds is the same as that on the securities employed (Continued on Page 3)

He spent nearly two years in the United States service during the World War. He was employed for a time by the Associated Press and recently had been in the employ of the Bankers Trust Company at Albany, N. Y., office.

Besides his wife, Mr. Eddy leaves his father, one sister, Miss Sarah Eddy, of Hartford, and one brother, Willard Eddy of New Britain.

A funeral service will be held in Castleton-on-Hudson, N. Y., at eight o'clock tonight. Burial will be in the East Cemetery tomorrow afternoon at about 2:30. It is probable that Rev. Robert A. Colpitts will officiate.

ALLYN THEATER WILL CONTINUE COUPONS

Vaudeville Discontinued for Summer But Two for One Ticket Policy Goes On.

Following its regular policy the Allyn theater is discontinuing vaudeville for the summer. This will affect the price of admission but not the offer of two seats for the price of one if the coupon in the advertisement in today's Herald is presented at the box office.

The feature picture, "The Sporting Age" has been held over from the first three days of this week. It will be shown for the rest of this week with a comedy, the news and a special organ program.

Next week "The Angel of Broadway" with Leatrice Joy in the lead will be shown on the screen. The story is about a cabaret dancer who masquerades as a Salvation Army lassie in order to get "atmosphere" for a burlesque act. She meets the boy of her heart while doing this work and he supposes her a real worker. This mixes things up and adds to the many interesting situations. The night club scenes are a glittering array of brilliant costumes quite in contrast to the dull Army mission where the plot begins. Cecil B. DeMille produced the picture which should be enough to recommend it.

DETROIT'S TOLL

Detroit, July 5.—Fourth of July celebrations cost the lives of eight persons by drowning and three others by auto accidents in and near Detroit. Two men died from heat prostration.

WAPPING CREAMERY TO BE RE-ESTABLISHED

Early Reopening Announced as Result of Closing of Vernon Plant.

The Wapping Creamery, which has been closed since April 1, will be reopened soon, it is announced. Fred Adams of Vernon, who was the butter maker at the Vernon creamery, which closed on July 1, will return to Wapping and become buttermaker there.

The local creameries are finding it hard to get sufficient milk supply for the making of butter. When the Wapping creamery closed on this account Mr. Adams went to Vernon, but the owners of that creamery, also finding it difficult to get sufficient supply of milk decided to close down.

The stockholders in that company have declared their intentions of selling the plant, which is on High street in Rockville, and will not attempt to resume the business. The closing of both the Wapping and Vernon creameries has resulted in a shortage in the supply of buttermilk in Manchester, where there has always been a good demand for it.

ENGAGE ASSISTANT TO REV. COLPITTS

FOUR DIVIDE THE LEADS IN 1928 KIDDIES REVUE

Manager Jack Sanson has divided equally the leads in the Kiddie Revue, now in rehearsal, between Billie Shea, Doris Roy, Rossanna Lindey and Buddie O'Leary.

The various dance routines that Manager Sanson has arranged for the revue and is teaching at the rehearsals held on the State theater stage mornings are more complicated than the simple steps used in previous years. The children, however, are mastering the steps rapidly and already the show has begun to take on a finished appearance.

The theme of the show deals with the rise of an East Side girl to a stage stardom and her acceptance by society until her lowly origin discovered. How her standing in the social world is affected by this development creates the climax to the revue.

Costumes and sets will be obtained from New York and the revue very handsomely staged. The date of the revue will be announced in a few days.

RAMON NAVARRO PLAYS AT THE STATE TODAY

Is Starred in "A Certain Young Man"—"Stormy Waters" Co-Feature—"The Dove," Sunday.

The glamor of London society—the appeal of true romance—the fascination of beauty!

They are all present in "A Certain Young Man." Ramon Navarro's latest starring vehicle, which is one of two film features being shown at the State Theatre today and tomorrow.

The story centers principally around the adventures of Lord Jerry Brinsley, a philandering young nobleman, who is famous throughout London for his love affairs with a sprightly Mrs. Crutchley and others. Finally he becomes involved in a love affair with a woman who, to his disgust, turns out to be the wife of his valet. To hide his chagrin he leaves for a fishing trip in Europe.

It is here that the most interesting part of the story takes place. Navarro is again called upon to demonstrate his ability, both as a comedian and dramatist, which he does in a manner that cannot be duplicated. The picture is crowded with comedy and more serious qualities that are sure to please Ramon Navarro's followers.

Supporting him in "A Certain Young Man," are such popular stars as Renee Adoree, Marceline Day and Carmel Myers.

The companion-feature for today and tomorrow is "Stormy Waters," a thrilling and red-blooded romance of the high seas. An all star cast of screen favorites have the principle roles in this picture.

Norma Talmadge in "The Dove," her latest production, is scheduled to arrive at the State for Sunday and Monday.

Tuesday evening brings back to the State the famous Country Store and Fun Nite. Loads of valuable presents and loads of hon-st-to-goodness fun are awaiting those who visit the theater on that night.

dumps from the federal government—and then turned them against that government. It cost a lawsuit to get Teapot Dome back. It cost six hundred thousand lives and sixteen billions of dollars to get back into the hands of the government the military power which the Democrats stole under Buchanan.

There is precisely as much sense in attempting to tie the oil scandals to the Republican candidacy of Herbert Hoover as there is in trying to tie the ante-bellum treason of Democrats to the Democratic candidacy of Alfred E. Smith. Not one whit less.

There then, is one good fat mud-ball to throw back in answer to the Bowers' fling. But it is thrown at a party, not at an individual, and we'll grant without hesitancy that it is a foolish kind of throwing—exactly as foolish as Bowers' Black Horse Cavalry speech.

Why not drop this sort of thing, all around, before it fairly starts, and debate the succession to President Coolidge after the manner of intelligent citizens of a common country, seeking the best possible government for the nation?

NOW FOR SANITY

Now that the Fourth is over and the needless crop of burnt fingers, frazzled nerves, damaged eyes and property damage has been reaped, it is an excellent time to take stock of the situation and determine whether anything, any slightest thing, of advantage to the moral, spiritual or physical well-being of the community is gained by countenancing a gunpowder riot once a year.

We do not know the figures, but we are quite sure that the fire-cracker and pistol type of Fourth of July celebration is no longer permitted in four-fifths of the communities in America. It is an institution as much a part of the past as the presence of rum barrel at the raising of a meeting house frame. It is an expression of sheer, stark primitiveness.

A hundred years ago the farmer and the farmer's boy had no other way in the world of making a suitable anniversary impression on their own and each other's mind than by loading up "old Betsy" and shooting her off half a dozen times to greet the return of the Glorious Fourth.

Out of the custom of the old time lonely farms grew the distorted custom of the towns and cities and for many years it took an appalling toll of life, sight and limb, through explosives accidents.

In the course of time it dawned on the communities that there could be no poorer way of celebrating America's independence than by dooming a certain proportion of its young people to perpetual dependence on others as the result of Fourth of July injuries. Most of them by law put a summary end to it. And nothing in the world could be more nonsensical than to pretend to believe that the young folks are any the less happy for being denied the privilege of risking their lives and their members in what is, after all, a very poor sort of fun.

The shoddiest of all patriots is the one who uses the word "patriotism" in connection with the shooting of firecrackers and the development of lockjaw through blank cartridge wounds. Ask the young American who threw hand grenades into German machine gun nests, and who knows the sensation of shellshock, what he thinks of the gunpowder variety of Fourth.

Lacking any adequate ordinance the police are helpless to prevent a world of rowdiness during two, sometimes three days of our barbarous Fourth of July celebration.

Lacking adequate laws the beautiful, edifying and thoroughly enjoyable display of night fireworks—fitting feature of a real celebration—have had to be abandoned, rendered unhappy and nervous affairs by gunpowder hoodlumism.

Lacking adequate laws hundreds of Manchester children are placed annually in peril.

It is our belief that the time has arrived when the people of this town are ready for a safe and sane Fourth of July ordinance—would support it in town meeting. We respectfully suggest that it is up to the selectmen to prepare and submit one.

SAVING TIME

The old aphorism that "Death loves a shining mark" seems to bear with singular aptness on the tragedies of the air. The flying reaper has cut down a particularly notable figure in the person of Alfred Loewenstein, famous Belgian financier who has been for a number of years almost as conspicuous a personage in Europe as Henry Ford is in this country.

Loewenstein apparently utilized the airplane for its speed as a means of transportation rather than through any innate love of aviation. Just recently, while in the United States, he bought a great plane to do his traveling in—trains were too slow for his purposes. And he evidently gave too little attention to the business of the moment, which, when one is in or near an airplane, is the business of aviation. He very narrowly escaped death by walking into the whirling propeller of his own plane. Now the reports state that, crossing from England to Brussels over the North Sea, he absent-mindedly opened the wrong door of the plane's cabin and walked out, falling into the sea.

The sum total of the time an individual saves by airplane travel is best totted up after he gets through traveling.

There is a Hartford man who last year made frequent motor trips to Crescent Beach. Toward the end of the summer he frequently bragged about the considerable number of working hours he has saved by making the trip in an hour and twenty minutes as compared with the hour and three-quarters or two hours taken by his more circumspect neighbors. Early in the fall he got a blowout and spent three solid months in the hospital. He can now tell you more accurately how much time he saved than he could before his car hit that tree.

REMEMBER?

Anyway, we had this to be thankful for, that our Fourth of July in 1928 was a normal sort of Fourth in the matter of temperature. Those whose memories serve them for twelve months will recall that the Fourth of a year ago was the coldest on the records of the weather bureau, that heavy sweaters were none too warm in the middle of the day and that fireplace fires contributed to comfort in the afternoon as well as the evening.

They will also remember that long-range weather forecasters were telling us that, cold and unseasonable as was the summer of 1927, that of 1928 would be worse. Well, maybe. But anyhow we had an American summer holiday, not an Eskimo one, this year.

WIFE SETTLES DEBTS.

Cincinnati.—Fifteen years ago T. Merrill Hagens of Terr Haute, Ind., went into bankruptcy. His wife, Clara E. Hagens, took it upon herself to settle his debts. A recent check for $2.40, received by the Cincinnati and Suburban Bell Telephone Company from Mrs. Hagens, was in payment of her husband's telephone bill, she said. The bank, however, could find no record of the debt.

SOUPS ARE WHOLESOME

Liquid foods with a meal sometimes interfere with digestion. This is particularly true of starchy soups. Starch is the one food that requires the thorough mastication to make it digestible and it is almost impossible to learn to chew liquids, or to hold them in the mouth for a sufficient period to enable the ptyalin, or digestive element of the saliva, to prepare liquid starches for the digestion of the stomach and intestine.

In preparing soups, one should remember that the most wholesome kinds are made from non-starchy vegetables, and that food combinations must be observed in soups as valuable mineral elements which are near the outside. They can then be mashed, and seasoned.

One should never use any acid with a meal in which one of these starchy soups is used. This means that tomatoes, peaches, oranges, berries, etc., are taboo for the time being.

Meat soups are quite wholesome when only one kind of meat is combined with some of the starchy vegetables, as I have suggested with the starchy soups. It is permissible, however, to combine tomatoes with the meat soup, but all starches must positively be excluded if you wish to avoid fermentation.

The meat does not add a large amount of nourishment to the soup, but it does add to the flavor, and is not harmful. A good plan is to use the same kind of meat as that served at the meal. The meat may be ground up and left right in the soup, in which case a soup might serve as a whole meal by itself.

An exclusively non-starchy soup may be used to advantage with any kind of a meal, even with those who have weak digestive organs. By treating well and squeezing the vegetables through a colander or sieve and adding warm cream when ready to serve, one can make a most palatable dish from any of these vegetables: spinach, celery, string beans, carrots, parsnips, or asparagus. If tomatoes are used for this soup, it is well to remember that no crackers or other starchy food should be added to the same meal.

A wholesome raw soup can be served in hot weather, prepared by grinding tomatoes, parsley, spinach and celery through a meat chopper. A small amount of salt may be added. This is really a liquid salad, and may be served as such. This soup tastes better than it sounds.

If you wish to avoid digestive disturbances, never use flour to thicken soups, and it is also better to avoid garlic and onions because of their gas-forming tendencies. By avoiding the pitfalls of dietetically wrong combinations, you can make soups into very wholesome, appetizing additions to your meals.

Questions and Answers: "Your articles are most interesting and educational—we certainly think them full of good suggestions and common sense. Will you kindly state what is meant by the following: (1) A colon bordering on diverticulosis (2) what are some of the causes of colitis? (3) suffering from colitis be on a diet? (4) Do you think colonic irrigations are very helpful?"

Answer: This simply means that pockets are forming in the colon in which food lodges, where it decomposes and putrefies more readily. (1) Wrong food, too much food, bad combinations, and everything which can produce constipation. (2) Diet is the only cure, and no special "ques" foods are necessary. Just follow the diet recommended in my weekly meals. (3) The daily enema is perhaps the best single treatment that can be given for colitis. In severe cases, two or three enemas daily should be used, and at least one enema taken daily over a period of several weeks.

It is always helpful and can be no more harmful than washing the face, as long as you use only plain water.

Question: Seventeen writes: "I have had pimples for about a year. My weight is about right, but I eat at the meal. The meat may be ground up and left right in the soup, in which case a soup might serve as a whole meal by itself. Answer: The common cause is from indigestion, but sometimes stomach or intestinal worms are responsible.

WOULD KILL JUDGE.

As an officer was leading her from the courtroom she seized his revolver from his holster and attempted to shoot the judge. Court attaches prevented her from using the weapon.

PARDONS UNPOPULAR WITH THIS GOVERNOR.

Denver.—Governor "Billy" Adams has made pardons in Colorado very unpopular since his inauguration more than a year ago. TROLLEY RUT BLAMED FOR TWO-CAR CRASH

Celebrated Wheel Trap on Main Street Blocks Him, Says Motorist.

Two automobiles were badly damaged in an accident near the corner of Main and Haynes street at 11:30 last night, due, the driver of one asserts, to the poor condition of the road which prevented him from turning out.

A Ford coupe owned by Myer Robin of 248 Enfield street, Hartford, was parked on the west side of Main street, in front of the Memorial Soda Shop. It was headed south, the occupants of the car being in the store. A Jordan touring car, driven by Emil G. Brenner of 523 Colony street, Meriden, which was being driven south, struck it. The driver of the latter car told Sergeant Crockett, who investigated the accident, that he saw the parked car and attempted to turn out but his wheels caught in the well-known trolley rut, throwing his car against the Ford. His father and mother were with him, riding in the back seat, but they were not injured.

The Ford was wrecked and the Jordan was badly damaged, having a bent fender, a rear tire was torn and the running board smashed. After making an investigation Sergeant Crockett made no arrests.

SMITH'S EMPLOYEES PICNIC AT CRYSTAL LAKE

Thomas D. Smith's clerks with their families and a few invited guests numbering 30 held an enjoyable outing at Crystal Lake yesterday. They played ball and other outdoor games, but the favorite sport was swimming an account of the heat. It was an ideal Fourth for business at the lakes hereabouts. Mr. Smith says the party found it difficult to find a parking space for their automobiles so great were the crowds at this resort. A dog roast in the open was one of the features everybody had a part in, but the picnic supper scheduled for later in the day was consumed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith on Deane street and the evening was spent there. The rainstorm in the late afternoon at Crystal Lake was especially heavy so that the Manchester party left about 6 o'clock.

The Romance of Growing Better As Well As Bigger

BIGNESS, alone, is not to be admired, but those who scoff at bigness often forget that in this very competitive age, an organization grows bigger only as it grows better. Bigness, whatever else it may stand for, certainly is a monument to service satisfactorily rendered, confidence which has been deserved, faith which has been justified. And so as we celebrate this anniversary our boast is not that we are bigger but better than when we started. We are glad that given an opportunity to serve this community, our physical growth gives evidence of the sincerity with which we have discharged our obligations.

mit oil and gasoline to seep through and cause leakage of the electricity that otherwise should be concentrated at the points. Weak explosions would result. In many cases the spark plugs would be entirely short circuited.

By wearing away the electrodes, the sand blasting method would open the spark gap so wide that no spark could be obtained and misfiring would result. Ordinarily the spark gap should be equal to the thickness of a thin dime or a calling card.

With the introduction of higher compression engines, the spark gap has to be even narrower to overcome the highly compressed gas.

It was further disclosed that the "reconditioned" spark plugs were even of less use than when they were discarded by their original owners. After going through the cleaning and rebuilding process, in which new but unsuitable gaskets were used, the plugs would be subject to more gas and electrical leakage than when they were first taken out of the engine.

Sometimes a new electrode would be installed. But it would not be of the proper type for perfect operation. The electrodes have to be of the proper manganese-nickel alloy to avoid expansion under terrific heat. If the electrode expands, it will break the porcelain around it and cause gas and electrical leakage.

It is essential, therefore, that only brand new spark plugs, of acknowledged superiority in manufacture, be used. A poor grade plug will cause poor throttling, poor pick-up, missing on hard pulls and high speed, and loss of power through gas leakage.

But even the best plugs deteriorate through use and gradually lose their efficiency. The glaze wears off. The points wear down. The parts loosen up. And the oil and gas leak through.

If your car has been driven over 10,000 miles and is not working properly, check on your spark plugs.

"GYP" AUTO CLUBS REAP BIG HARVEST IN BUCKEYE STATE

Washington, July 5.—Barnum's "one a minute" suckers are falling hard for "gyp" automobile clubs in Ohio.

According to the American Automobile Association, that state is now the stamping ground for many fake motor clubs and motor service organizations. Worthless service contracts and "the deceptions of the 'gyps' that have imposed a heavy toll on garages, service stations, filling stations and hostilities catering to the motorist" are cleaning up many thousands of dollars for their operators.

Through the American Automobile Association, which has secured the co-operation of the Post Office Department, the Department of Justice and better business bureaus all over the country, motorists are being protected and advised.

When the trail gets too hot for a "gyp," the association says, "he moves his booty, starts operations elsewhere, and leaves hundreds of motorists with nothing but a scrap of paper to show for their departed cash."

WESTERN OHIO MAY GET SUPER-HIGHWAY TO SPEED BUSINESS

Dayton, O., July 5.—A super-highway that will rival the world's greatest is in the planning here.

Representatives of 14 western states of the state gathered here recently and the plans that resulted from ideas presented indicate that a highway, extending from Toledo, inland harbor on the Great Lakes, to Cincinnati, the Ohio gateway to the south, will be realized.

The direct linking of Toledo and Cincinnati, with Cleveland, Dayton and other important cities near its line, will form an extensive network of highways that will place Ohio in a position to dominate all other states, it is said, by bringing raw materials into the district at a lower cost and permitting manufacturers to distribute their finished products in a more economical manner.

The road, as planned, will follow the latest methods of construction. It will be 244 miles long and will have four lanes of traffic.

It will be the only "water level" highway in the world, say its sponsors, having a grade of only 960 feet between Cincinnati and Toledo, compared with a 12,000-foot grade on the Dixie Highway, which parallels the proposed route.

How's She Lifting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN.
A motorist on a long tour had been driving for some time along a dusty road when the motor began to sputter and then stopped.

The driver looked at his gasoline gauge. The tank was half full. He checked his battery and ignition. Then he tested the carburetor and vacuum tank and found them empty.

There was the trouble. The fuel had stopped flowing from the tank. Most likely a clogged fuel line.

After the line had been opened up and blown out, the motorist stepped on the starter with a sigh of relief. But nothing came of the effort. The motor failed to budge.

It wasn't till late that evening, after the car had to be towed to a garage and the mechanic had given up, that a careless helper accidentally revealed the cause of the trouble. He had opened the tank to assure himself there was enough gas in it, and failed to replace the cap. After working the starter for a minute, he surprised himself by hearing the engine sputter and die off.

Stepping again on the starter, the boy got the engine running in perfect shape. There was nothing wrong with it.

This incident is given in detail to show what troubles can be encountered from the failure to consider the slightest detail in the operation of the engine before the little vent in the tank cap is important, and so are many similar parts and adjustments.

Usually, sufficient warning is given beforehand, from the spot where the trouble can be traced. The spluttering of the engine before the car stopped, in the incident recorded, was enough to warn the driver of something wrong in the fuel system.

Usually, sufficient warning is given beforehand, from the spot where the trouble can be traced. The spluttering of the engine before the car stopped, in the incident recorded, was enough to warn the driver of something wrong in the fuel system.

A recent decision of the U. S. district court of New York ordering some 50,000 reconditioned and cleaned spark plugs dumped into the Atlantic ocean, brings out the importance of having only good plugs in the motor.

This judgement stopped a large business in the sale of old spark plugs as new. Motorists would stop at garages and have their plugs changed. The discarded plugs would be bought up at a few cents each by the persons now stopped from this illicit trade, would then be cleaned and put back into cartons.

The garage man buying these at low cost would then sell them to innocent motorist at about the same price good ones would bring. And the motorist would discover his mistake after driving a few miles.

The suit that stopped this business brought out the way the defendants "reconditioned" the old spark plugs. They would direct a sand-blast into the ends of the plugs in order to clean out the carbon and make the plugs appear as new.

At the same time, however, this treatment would destroy the glaze on the porcelain and would wear and reduce the size of the electrodes.

The unglazed porcelain would therefore be porous enough to per-

LOVE FOR TWO

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1925 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD BRYER, receives a paper knife as a gift from LILA MARSH, who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy.

The feel of the metal chilled Bertie Lou, and she thought that it was a dagger to pierce her happiness flashed across her mind so that her dreaming anticipation turned to miserable foreboding.

Bertie Lou receives a second blow to her pride when she accidentally overhears one bridesmaid ask another if she thought the bride liked being second choice.

CHAPTER V "I hope that's not a caller," Mrs. Ward remarked as Bertie Lou left the bedroom to see if Rod was answering the door.

"I'll see who it is," she heard him say and then Bertie Lou ducked back to scramble into a dress.

"Thank heavens you aren't having company," his mother-in-law said fervently. "Give me my hat, Bertie Lou. Where did I put it?"

"With 'Lila's' compliments," Rod explained, glancing at a card in his hand. "Wishes us happiness."

Bertie Lou thought it was very silly. Just the sort of thing Lila would do. But she said nothing of what she thought to Rod, Lila was his concern.

"I hate the damned stuff," Rod replied. "Throw it in the garbage pail."

"Let's see first what mother left for us," Bertie Lou said, hiding her satisfaction. They went to explore the kitchen and found what Bertie Lou hoped would be there—a big, juicy blackberry pie.

They set about preparing their first dinner in their own home. Bertie Lou found peeled, cut potatoes, ready for French frying, a thick steak, corn, lettuce and tomatoes, and a melon.

"I can cook that steak to the queen's taste," Rod volunteered. "That means you'll like it, Bebs."

"Oh, can you?" Bertie Lou cried. "Gosh, that's lucky, because I'm the same as a Chinese laundry ticket to me. Guess mother couldn't think of anything easier, though. I can do the potatoes, and here's the salad dressing already mixed. We're sure of that, anyhow. And I don't see how we can spoil the melon, but if we do there's still pie. I wish you were a New Englander. Then I wouldn't have to worry about breakfast."

"You won't anyway," Rod told her. "Just you sit opposite me and I won't know whether I'm eating toast or shoe leather."

Half an hour later he knew he had spoken hastily. For never was shoe leather tougher than that steak. And Bertie Lou's potatoes were a pale, soggy mess. She was boiled too hard, but the melon was collier delicious and the pie made up for all disappointments.

"If you can stand an eatless week I'll have mother teach me to cook," Bertie Lou promised. She had a burned finger and a cut thumb, but she had no tears for a culinary fiasco. The idea of a bride weeping over the kind of dinner that lay before them would have made her laugh. The new way was to turn in, tattle and master—well, if not master, at least get a toe-hold on the art of cooking.

"I can cook that steak to the queen's taste," Rod volunteered.

make it one to be remembered as well as they'd be likely to remember the disaster accompanying the first one.

"I think we'd better go and see your mother," she said, when they had finished clearing the table and washing the dishes.

He couldn't keep his eyes off Bertie Lou's lovely arms plunged deep into a pan of soup—she'd added a half cup of soap flakes to the dish water and the foamy consequence all but flooded the sink.

"Let's wait until it gets dark before we leave the house," he said in answer to Bertie Lou's suggestion that they visit his parents.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Dear Mom: I don't exactly know why I am letting myself in for a scolding by telling you all about Brother Shelton, except that I always have confided to you the worst about myself and habits do stick.

After I reported, I was duly introduced to Mr. Shelton, by Madame Elise herself. And I was interested in him from the start, for no particular reason except himself.

We had lunch at a very elegant but very quiet French restaurant. I was glad that I had worn what I called my black felt crepe dress with the white organdie collars and cuffs, my untrimmed black felt hat, and my pearls. I always feel secure and prepared for anything in it, because it is perfectly non-committal.

He was not at all the type you would expect would be waiting with his car the first time he ever saw a girl. Strangely enough, I always expect to do a little maneuvering to attract a man. Maybe that's faulty technique.

He had ordered a delicious luncheon, which he did in a delightfully offhand sort of way—as though he were giving an order for ham and eggs—and then the most unusual foods began to appear, he said he was very much interested in the menu.

I imagined she rather feared his soul, but he was not the least sentimental about her. He said she had my clean-cut and rather hard features, and that she carried herself as I do—it seems she always reminded him of a falcon, and he always expected her to take flight.

While beautiful women long have been supposed to get away with murder, arson, theft, and most any sin they select, it is rather unusual for a maiden to come openly articulate about this and warn his jury not to be influenced by the defendant's beauty.

They both refuse their monthly checks; Bindford has never called for his and Condon lets his remain with the city clerk for several months and then signs them over to the firemen's relief fund.

PRE-EMPTIVE BIDS. Today are given further illustrations in the art of pre-emptive bidding. When two pre-empt and when not to do so is shown by the explanations following each sample hand.

Spades—X; hearts—A Q J X X X X. This hand is weak in every suit except hearts. A bid of three hearts may not shut out bidding. Bid four hearts.

Spades—A K Q J X X X; hearts—X X; diamonds—none; clubs—A J X X. This hand does not contain any support for a heart bid. Bid three spades to discourage partner or opponents from bidding, as with normal support from partner game will be made.

Spades—A K 10 X X; hearts—X; diamonds—none; clubs—A J X X. This hand is weak in hearts and diamonds. It contains strength in clubs. Bid one spade. In all probability the bid will not be bought at one spade, and you may be driven to three or four spades and then doubled by opponents.

Spades—X; hearts—X X; diamonds—A K Q; clubs—A K Q J X V. This hand is weak in spades and hearts. Shut out all bidding. Bid five clubs.

Spades—A K Q 10 X X; hearts—K Q X; diamonds—K; clubs—X X X. This hand is too strong to pre-empt. It contains support for a heart bid. Bid one spade.

Spades—K Q J 10 X X X X; hearts—X; diamonds—X X; clubs—X. This hand does not contain two quick tricks. It is too strong, however, to pass, as it contains eight sure tricks, and in order not to deceive partner, bid four spades, immediately shutting out all bidding. This freak hand should not, however, encourage you to vary the rule of making an opening bid on two or more quick tricks.

COMPANIONSHIP ALLOWS CHILD TO TRAIN HIMSELF

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON. It is easier to teach a child good traits if there are other children in the house. Kindness, sympathy, patience, interest in affairs other than his own, indeed all sorts of desirable things can be cultivated more quickly if he has playmates.

But an only child makes it more difficult. How can we teach a child behavior toward others, if there are no others to behave toward—except his elders? Adults will not produce any natural reaction as companions. Adults are in a word beyond a child's comprehension.

He may be dominated by adults, guided by them, and disciplined by them, but except in cases where parents have a rare conception of the child mind there will be little of what we may call character contact.

Two children will develop more quickly mentally if they are together than if they are allowed to grow up alone. Their mental processes are stimulated and personality takes on a positive rather than a passive tone. Character begins to shape itself, and after all, what is character except behavior toward others?

What would character avail us if we lived as hermits in a world alone? Man is a "social creature." He has lived in groups practically always. It is to prepare the child for his contacts with people when he is older that is the object of his training in babyhood and childhood. The way to teach him behavior toward others when he is grown is to teach him behavior toward children when he is little.

A child brought up alone is likely to keep on developing the elemental traits he was born with and which, in spite of centuries of civilization, are almost his sole heritage from primeval ancestors.

He is born with fear—one of the two kinds, called subjective fear. He is born with a temper or develops it at a very early age. Jealousy, selfishness—in fact about the same characteristics we find in the lower animals are heritages of the ages. He does not have to be taught these. Keeping them under control call for patience and wisdom on the part of his parents.

Must Cultivate Virtue. On the other hand, he possesses virtues, if he possesses them at all, in the most incipient form. They must be cultivated. If you wish a child to be honest, truthful, kind, unselfish, brave, friendly, helpful and all the rest, it is up to you. He won't know how to do these things until you show him how.

Don't wait until a child makes mistakes and think you are teaching him by whipping him. Child training doesn't mean punishing. It means to take him in hand as a little baby and patiently show him over and over again the right things to do.

This will be easier to do if he has a brother or sister to play with. Otherwise it may be difficult for you to know exactly what processes are going on in his mind.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

TEACHER CAN HELP WITH EYE PROBLEM. EDITOR'S NOTE: Traffic and other problems of modern life have made eye defects costly liabilities. This article on vision is the second and last of a series by Dr. Fishbein.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In the report of the joint committee representing educational and medical interests as well as special organizations for the care of the blind, an analysis of visual defects is made which should be suggestive not only so far as it applies to the child, but also to the adult.

For purposes of school medical examinations, ability to read the line marked 20 at twenty-foot distance is considered normal vision. Inability to read the line marked 30 and 40 at twenty-foot distance is a sign of near-sightedness; in ability to read the lines above 40 is evidence of serious eye disturbance.

Symptoms of Strain. Far sightedness is marked not so much by the reading of the chart as by symptoms of eyestrain. Usually any child with normal vision may read the 20 line at twenty feet at the age of four, five, six and seven years. After the age of seven, it may do better than 20-20.

If, however, the child complains of headaches, inflammation of the eyelids, fatigue of the eyes, symptoms of nervousness, watering of the eyes, or if it frowns or squints while reading, it should be examined for far-sightedness or hyperopia.

Weakness. Such disturbance as crossovers or weaknesses of the eye muscles so that a special effort is required to keep both eyes directed toward the same point to avoid double vision is easily apparent.

If the teacher observes such symptoms, she should refer the child to a properly qualified investigator for study and treatment.

Scars on the eyes result from previous infections. Color blindness and severe astigmatism also demand special attention.

DESIRE FOR BEAUTY IS INSTINCTIVE. Woman's desire for beauty is not merely a superficial vanity, an amusing something to be laughed at lightly. It is a fundamental instinct, a desire for self-respect in this competitive life.

So says Dorothy Cocks, whose "The Etiquette of Beauty" justifies the mad quest for beauty that the woman of today conducts.

"The reasons women want to be beautiful go down to their very souls," she said. "They are women together with their dreams of happiness, of love, of success, all the hopes they lug to their hearts."

"Romance lives with beauty. Things happen to beautiful women. Material things, if you want them, Money and jewels and clothes and motors."

"Or things more real, if you like. Friends, sympathy, contentment. People seek beauty. If you are beautiful, they will seek you, surround you, serve you."

Strong Afternoon Finish Subdues Torrington Nine

Timely Hits by Edgar, Kelly, Linnell, Stratton, St. John and Kotsch in Ninth and Tenth Innings at Torrington Give Locals 6-5 Win After 8-1 Morning Triumph; Bristol Here Sunday.

In order to win both ends of a doubleheader engagement with Torrington in the State League yesterday, the Community Club had to stage a desperate and thrilling ninth inning rally in the afternoon game in Torrington.

Having won the morning encounter with little difficulty 8 to 1, Manchester was trailing 5 to 2 with two men out in its half of the ninth inning. Edgar and Kelly were on the sacks with singles at this delicate moment.

Jerry Fay, who filed in at first base in both games due to the illness of Jim McLaughlin and the fact that Sher Robb was away over the holiday, ended the inning with a grounder to second base on which he was retired at first. Then came the hectic tenth after Torrington had been held safe in the last of the ninth by Weber. Pelton skied out, but St. John singled and scored on Sammy Kotsch's double to left.

Two base hits Pelton and Linnell made two hits apiece. Manchester's next league game will be with Bristol at Hickey's Grove, Saturday. Yesterday's summaries:

CARDINALS, OAKS WINNERS 9-8; 8-3

The Cardinals won their fourth straight game in the Community Junior League, Tuesday night. The "Red Birds" displayed the same brand of baseball that they have been showing in the last five games, but barely won, 9-8.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt. The Cardinals took it easy reversing the battery, Spillane catching and Falkowski pitching. The latter pitched a fine game. Oaks Won Another
The sturdy Oaks trimmed the Hilliard streets for the second time, 8-3. Bebe and Tanner pitched good ball, both retiring seven batters, but the Oaks out-batted their opponents and Smith, who is the Oaks best hitter, made a triple and a homer. The latter was the first homer in the league.

Too Many Good Athletes In U. S. Make Picking Hard

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, July 5.—Athletic America will spend the rest of the week trying to book first class passage on the President Roosevelt, official Olympic ship Amsterdam bound, and when you get right down to it, as one sportsman writes, that happens to be exactly our greatest trouble in international competition. Experts are busy at this moment, hovering between the selection of Germany or Finland as America's outstanding opponent at the Olympic games.

In case you think I ought to take an aspirin right away, I shall explain that one by mentioning the fact that Morgan Taylor won the 400-metre hurdle yesterday in the almost incredible time of 52 seconds and that all seven finalists defeated the accepted record of 53.4. Naturally, all seven should go to Amsterdam; only four of them will. And by the time the Olympics are on, it is possible that the second or third best 400-metre hurdler in America will be, unfortunately, in America. It is possible that he will be one of the three who are left at home.

How It Worked Out
It worked out that way in Paris in 1924 when Alfred Leconey was recognized as the fastest moving American sprinter in the Columbus stadium. Did he win? No, Wilmer, he did not; he didn't even run, except in one of the relays. He simply was "short" in the trials at Cambridge and didn't place but once they got him aboard in a purely honorary position, which isn't being done this time, he found his running and was ready for the world. It was just his hard luck and the world wasn't ready for him.

This easily can happen again with all the sprinting stars we have this year—Brace, Paddock, Simpson, Hussey, Wyong, Scholtz, Locke, Russell and possibly Borah; to mention only a few. Eight places are open in the two sprints and our top flight sprinters probably number as many as twenty. If one of those mentioned above has an off day at Cambridge, he doesn't go with the team. Maybe the next time out, he will be unbeatable but they don't pay them. John Bananas duly qualified in the trials and we must stick with John for better or worse.

The thing isn't confined to sprinters or 400-metre hurdlers, either. We have a lot of neck and neck quarter milers—Barbuti, Tietner, Phillips, Spencer, Alderman, Sulder, et al. Maybe the best man of the lot will be left at home because he failed to run his race this week. The time we want him to do it is August, of course, and the place, Amsterdam, but if he is off now, he will be out then.

Norwich Gets First Six Places; Haraburda, McCluskey, Crawshaw and Sullivan Finish Run for Manchester; Former Places Seventh; Sullivan Makes Great "Comeback"; Kerr's Winning Time Beats Course Record; Forty-four-Year-Old Man Comes in Twelfth.

Taking part in his second long distance run, William Kerr, eighteen-year-old Norwich lad, placed first in the dual five-mile cross country race between the Recreation Center and the Lowell A. A. of Norwich yesterday morning over the local course. In doing so, he clipped 42 seconds off the record set by John McCluskey Thanksgiving Day morning in winning the town championship. This, despite the hot weather and unfamiliarity with the course. Kerr's time was 29 minutes flat.

Hard. The heat affected the runners considerably and many of them were bothered by pains in the side. The efforts of Sullivan were as outstanding as any. At the verge of quitting as early in the race as Rogers Paper Mill, he pulled himself together and finished the race. He asked attendants for a ride at the paper mill, claiming he was "stuck it out." Kerr also was in "bad way" at the turn at Highland Park, running doubled over with both hands on his sides. It looked as though he was at the point of collapsing, but he, too, managed to weather the storm and finished as strong as he started, comparatively speaking.

Not in Condition.
Ted Chambers was running second at Highland Park, but was forced to drop out on Porter street. This is where Vince also gave up. It was evident that some of the runners had not trained carefully enough for the grind and this does not necessarily apply to those who did not finish the race alone. Several who finished were not in the "pink of condition," to say the least. Nevertheless, the race was a

GAFFNEY FAVORITE IN TONIGHT'S RACE
Larry Gaffney, brilliant young motorpaced rider from Brooklyn, N. Y., is the favorite to win the motorpaced special race at the weekly bike race meeting at the Hartford Velodrome track tonight. Two seasons ago Gaffney was rated low on the list of pace-followers, but now he has vaulted up into the ranks of the select and is looked to as rider who will give Chapman, Giorgetti and the other leading contenders for the American championship plenty of trouble.

two Champions in one TYDOL & ETHYL

Like adding Bobby Jones' Accuracy to Walter Johnson's Speed

IMAGINE combining the delicate touch that can sink a putt from the edge of the green with the arm that can send a baseball with cannonball speed across the plate. Merge those two qualities in one champion and you'd have a superman.

TYDOL ETHYL ANTI-KNOCK GASOLINE
You can see it's red in the color gauge at the orange, black and gray TYDOL ETHYL pumps.

CLARK'S TEABERRY GUM
Most folks chew Teaberry Gum for pure enjoyment. It aids digestion, soothes the nerves and sweetens the breath. But the big thing is the delicious Teaberry flavor which you can get only in Clark's Teaberry Gum. Look for the Teaberry pink package.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (331) Tips to Busy Boys

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

If young carpenters will take good care of their tools, work can be done more easily and quickly. To remove rust, first cover the tool with sweet oil, rub it well and allow to stand for a day. Cover with a second coat of oil applied freely with a piece of cloth. Rub with powdered unslaked lime. Repeat if the rust is not entirely removed.

To prevent rust, clean the tools with a mixture of one-half ounce of camphor, a pound of melted lard and enough graphite to give it an iron color.

Another mixture to prevent rust is two ounces of tallow and an ounce of resin, melted and strained while hot. A thin coat may be applied with a brush.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Inside the cage the Tingles stood, and Copy said, "My, this is good. I'm going to sit right down and take a good long nap and rest." So down he sat upon the floor, and soon began to loudly snore, and wasn't very long till he was joined by all the rest.
With all the Tingles sound asleep, the monkeys watched, but didn't peep. Then, one by one they went outside and closed the big cage door. It seemed their plan had worked out slick and they had pulled a clever trick. They knew what they had led the Tingles in the queer cage for.
All through the night they sat nearby, and now and then they'd yawn and sigh, but each one stayed awake until the sun came up behind a tree. When Scouty "woke, he shouted, "Geo, I guess we're left here all alone. The monkeys all have gone."
"Come, let's go out into the air. We soon will find if they are

A Sure Thing
Sambo: "Boy, I see gwine to bring yo' knces!"
Rastus: "How yo' all gonnt do dat?"

"Son, how come you didn't jine de lodge?"

An Englishman and an American were arguing about queer dialects. "Your dialect certainly are queer," complained the Englishman. "The other afternoon I asked your colored porter if he thought it would rain, and he said 'Little dogs it will and little dogs it won't.'"

The American was puzzled, and later he questions Rastus about 't. The Negro scratched his woolly head and said: "That ain't what Ah said. Ah just tol' him that p'ups it would rain and p'ups it wouldn't."

It had always been Sam's ambition to own a fur coat, and after years of scrimping he had achieved it. On the first day of its possession, as he was strutting down the street, a friend approached him. "Mo'nin', Sam," the friend remarked with his teeth chattering from the wintry blasts. "Pretty cold day, ain't she?"

Sam lifted his chin haughtily from the depths of his huge fur collar. "Ah really kain't tell 'bout the weather," he replied carelessly. "Ah ain't looked at de paper to-day."

Rastus was proudly sporting a new shirt, when Mose asked: "How many yards does it take fo' a shirt like dat?"

Said Rastus: "I got three shirts out o' one yard las' night."

A Negro made a trip to the doctor's office for a nervous condition. "If I were you," said the physician, "I'd go to the hospital and take an electric bath. I believe that will cure you."

"You all isn't talkin' t' me," exclaimed the excited patient. "Ah had a fren' whut took one of dem baths at Sing Sing, and he wuz drowned."

"So, your name is George Washington," the old lady asked the small colored boy. "Yesum."

"And do you try to be exactly like him, or as nearly as possible?" "Lak who?"

"Why, like George Washington." "Ah kain't help being lak Jagh Washin' ton 'cause dat's who Ah is."
