enheim, Miss Loeb or Miss Drew. Finally, Chief Williams found an official who said some kind of a warrant had been prepared. By that time, however, Bodenheim, Miss Loeb and her father after a stormy trip by taxi to Hyannis, had boarded a New Bedford bus at Hyannis.

Dr. Loeb accompanied by his fair-haired daughter, smartly dressed in her white and scarlet sport had started down the cape from here by taxi. But the couple had not gone far when Gladys took command of the situation. The taxi driver was ordered to go back and get Bodenheim. When the post finally arrived, the two men engaged in heated argument all the way up the cape. Once the car broke down and was sideswiped by another machine. Finally, at Hyannis, Dr. Loeb registered at 'Dr. Martin J. Loeb and family.' Later the trio left for New York with Bodenheim 'smashing' the baggage.

SAYS ITALIAN EXPLORER STRIPPED MALMGREN

deavour his body after he died, the correspondent said. He declares that while the seven survivors of the Italia rescued by the French rescue party, they spent much time arguing over the necessity for an international investigation of the Nobile expedition.

Nobile's Stand. Prof. Samoylovich, head of the Krassin rescue expedition today stated that when he visited Gen. Nobile aboard the Clitta di Milano the Italian leader of the ill-fated Polar expedition begged to be allowed to accompany the Krassin in his search for Captain Amundsen's party and the six missing men in the Alessandri group.

Samoylovich said he consented with the understanding that the Soviet relief would have to approve. Nobile at the time, said the Italian government was against his participating in the rescue work. He appeared to be extremely nervous and depressed, Samoylovich said.

The correspondent who obtained the Zapf story is named Mindlin and is reputed to be "one of the most reliable reporters in Moscow." It was pointed out that his radio-grams could not have been sent from the Krassin without the consent of the ship's commander.

The Soviet relief commission, however, is without any confirmation of the truth of Mindlin's statements. Members of the commission said that Nobile was not allowed to accompany the Krassin because he is physically disabled and needs medical attention. In view of Nobile's present physical condition it was believed that he could not render any aerial assistance to the searchers.

TO START PROBE. Rome, July 23.—The Italian government will make an inquiry into the conduct of the Nobile Polar expedition, Premier Mussolini announced today.

In his announcement, which was made at a cabinet meeting, Premier Mussolini protested against the "anti-Italian wave of criticism of the unlucky Nobile expedition, whose members have shown courage worthy of universal respect."

The inquiry, the premier added, would not be opened until relief parties have exhausted every possibility of finding the missing Alessandri group—the six men who were carried away with the envelope of the Italia on May 25.

Mussolini said that the investigation would be conducted by Italians. Any other suggestion, he declared, "was absurd and offensive and would be refused."

The premier evidently referred to the demand of certain Swedish newspapers that Sweden propose an investigation by the League of Nations.

MEARS, COLLYER BEAT MOON ROUND WORLD

Make Record by Dashing Around Globe in 23 Days; Arrived Yesterday.

At forty-five seconds past five o'clock on the morning of June 29th, two American adventurers climbed into a seaplane in New York harbor to overtake a fast liner, and begin a journey that would have thrilled the blood of even the French romancer, Jules Verne. For those two were literally to race the moon around the girth of the world, and incidentally to beat the world's record for speed in circling her circumference.

Yesterday just 23 days later, a plane from the west, bearing the two moon-racers, touched New York soil at Roosevelt and the adventure was over. Thus has the great lunar champion been vanquished and thus has John Henry Mears, New York playwright and Charles D. B. Collyer, his co-voyager, regained Mears' own laurels as the speediest world-circling traveller, lost when the Wells-Evans Expedition in 1926 lowered the Mears 1913 record of 35 days to 28 days.

Of the Mears-Collyer 'round the world' dash 12,000 miles were made by plane; 8,000 miles by steamship. They flew partly across both Atlantic and Pacific and travelled overland exclusively by air. The longest non-stop flight was a 1,700 mile hop from Mukden, Manchuria to Tokio, Japan. Governments of the various countries, co-operated by supplying repair crews and weather reports. And at every landing field, the Tide Water Oil Company, American manufacturer with world-wide service stations, supplied the flyers with their chosen motor lubricant, Vedool motor oil.

It is quite a tribute to the international expansion of this popular American motor oil that Mears and Collyer should be able to find it in France, Belgium, Germany, Lithuania, Latvia, European Russia, Siberia, China, Korea, Japan, Canada and the United States. It is incidentally, the same motor lubricant chosen by Commander Byrd for his South Pole flight and by the German flyer, Thea Rasche, for her proposed hop from New York to Berlin.

BASS FISHING POOR, SO SPORTSMEN REPORT

Bass Club Has Few Fish Entered, Small Boy's Being Far the Biggest.

According to information at Barrett & Robbins sport store, headquarters of the majority of Manchester anglers, this year is proving, so far, a poor one for bass fishing.

Although there are at present 63 members of the Bass Club which has its headquarters at the store, only four bass have been entered in the competition for the prizes which are given for the best catches of the season. And only one of these is worth real consideration. That is the one caught by ten-year-old Fred Bonney of Coventry, July 3, with a spinner. This fish weighed four pounds and two ounces.

Two of the other three are below the pounds in weight. The second best is a three pound two ounce bass caught last night by Harry McCormick at Coventry Lake. He also has one entry weighing two pounds, twelve ounces. The other was entered by Samuel Nelson and weighed the same as McCormick's smallest.

The latest members to join the Bass Club are Joseph Albiston of Manchester Green, Clifford Joyce, town; Frank Mahoney, West street; Michael Fitzgerald, Pearl street; William Vennart, town; A. E. McCann, Benton street; Otto Custer, Eldridge street; Richard Johnson, New street; Louis Grezel, Coventry; Joseph Douglas, town; Robert Jones, Ridge street; Joseph Hubbard, Middle Turnpike; Edgar T. Morgan, Main street; A. P. Seymour, north end; Fred McCormick, School street; Frank A. Smith, Talcottville; Carl J. Johnson, town; Walter Senkbeil, Norman street; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Crosby, Robert road.

SIXTEEN RABBITS DIE WHEN DOG CALLS ROUND

Middle Turnpike Man Has Case Against Town—The Dog Is All Done.

Sixteen rabbits owned by Innocenzo Fontano of Middle Turnpike East, were killed Sunday by a dog which was captured and is now at the dog warden's pound buried, where it will do no further harm. Mr. Fontano is among a number of persons in Manchester, who are now raising rabbits. When he found the sixteen dead and the dog hanging around he locked the dog up, reported to the police and they in turn notified the dog warden.

The owner of the dog is not in a position to pay for the damages done to the rabbits and the town will be called upon to make the settlement, but will probably be unable to collect in turn from the dog owner.

REC SWIMMING POOL IS CLOSED FOR A FEW DAYS

The swimming pool and hot water shower baths at the School Street Recreation Center will not be available for use this week because of repairs to the heating plant. It was stated this morning by Director Lewis Lloyd.

Mr. Lloyd said that a coil in the hot water heater had sprung a leak and will require several days to repair. It was decided to close the swimming pool and give this thorough cleaning at the same time. Cold water baths will be available.

DEM'S CAMPAIGN

Four years ago the Republican candidate for President, Calvin Coolidge, received in Connecticut 246,322 votes. The Democratic candidate for President, John W. Davis, received 110,184 votes. In addition to these the so-called Republican La Follette, running on a "progressive" ticket, received 42,416 votes, or more than a third as many as Mr. Davis. The Coolidge plurality over Davis was 136,138. Mr. Coolidge receiving two votes for every one cast for Mr. Davis, with a surplus of more than 26,000 left over.

Today the Connecticut Democratic party opens its headquarters in New Haven and therewith the campaign to carry the state next November for Governor Smith, Chairman James J. Walsh takes command and plans to so "organize" the state that this year the magical transformation of a two-to-one Republican majority into a minority will be effected. Mr. Walsh expresses every confidence that he will be able to do this.

One of the most admirable qualities is courage. It is a possession that compensates, in the makeup of the Democratic party in this state, for many shortcomings. To be sure, it gets the Democrats nowhere in the matter of victories, but it is undoubtedly good for them spiritually. It is infinitely better for a man or a woman to go through life dreaming rosy dreams of achievements yet to come, though the dreams never come within a million miles of fulfillment, than it is to give way to black despair and go down beaten in spirit as well as in fact.

From the Democratic standpoint, Connecticut is, as a matter of fact, a clean washout—a hopeless, fore-ordained disaster. There isn't a particle more chance of this state going for Governor Smith than there is of Vermont going that way. It wouldn't take a bit more sand for the sixteen or so Democrats of the Green Mountain state to buckle on their armor and gallop into the lists, defying the enemy, than it does for the Connecticut Democracy to do that thing. Yet Mr. Walsh and his associates, with a valor worthy of a less forlorn hope, are going to make their little try.

Well, there's one thing in their favor. A majority of a hundred and thirty-six thousand is a fine big mark to shoot at, and the bigger the mark the harder it is to miss hitting some part of the target. Possibly they may be able to cut the plurality this year down to a hundred and thirty-five thousand—and a thousand scalps make quite a handsome decoration for any warrior's wigwam.

If they can only say, the day after election, "Well, we cut into 'em, anyway," the intensive campaign of Mr. Walsh will not have been wholly wasted. Besides, it's good practice. And who knows but, forty or sixty or a hundred years hence, the Democrats in Connecticut may have a Chinaman's chance.

BANDS AND BANNERS

The warmest approbation will be sure to be extended to President Coolidge's proposal for a great international gathering at Paris for simultaneous signing of the Kellogg multilateral treaty, by all those persons who appreciate the emotional value of this compact. It is the President's idea to surround the signing of the treaty with all possible pomp and ceremony.

This newspaper long ago asserted the belief that the value of the Kellogg treaty would depend largely on how much fuss was made over it. We continue in that belief. So far as the legal quality of the pact goes, it is negligible. All its merit lies in its psychological aspects. Not one person out of a thousand in Europe—and perhaps no greater proportion in America—would have any idea whether any treaty was good or no good, anyhow. But the bare fact of more than a dozen of the most powerful nations in the world sitting down and solemnly signing a document that condemns the waging of war, if properly dressed up so as to impress itself on the world's consciousness, is worth going to a lot of trouble to bring to pass.

The stage setting is a great deal, in many a show. If Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey had tested their fistie ability in a back lot, impromptu, without any advertising, Gene would never have been invited to lecture on Shakespeare at Yale and would have been a shipping clerk today. If this treaty were not boomed and boosted and ballyhooed it wouldn't be worth the paper it is written on. But adroitly and lavishly advertised it may do more than a little toward bringing about a general attitude favorable to peace throughout the world.

NAMES IN ACCIDENTS

Unless it should develop, from a search of the automobile registrations in this state, that more cars are registered under names which are indubitably of southern and eastern European origin than under names characteristic of English, Celtic, Scandinavian or Teutonic derivation, there is room for speculation in the preponderance of these southern and eastern European names in the weekly lists of serious automobile accidents. For such preponderance there unquestionably is.

Perhaps there is something about the races represented in these casualty lists which renders temperamentally unfit for the responsibilities of motor management. It cannot be mere stupidity, for no race or group of races has any monopoly on that quality. It cannot be a deliberate disregard for life for it is not on the records that these people think any less of their own skins than other people. But that there is some reason why an undue proportion of these foreign names should appear so conspicuously in the motor accident records is scarcely to be denied. It is to be suspected that one factor is complete lack of valid imagination, which quality enables better balanced persons to foresee danger and so avoid it; and that another factor is absence of that cultural element which makes a proper regard for the rights and safety of other persons instinctive.

It is not practicable of course to require a separate kind of testing of these people before granting them motoring licenses. But in our opinion it would be only fairness to the rest of the population to enforce the revocation clauses of the automobile laws with especial attention when the names involved indicate that their owners belong to the inherently unsafe class.

EILEEN TERRY

Eileen Terry, octogenarian actress who passed away so gracefully at her English home the other day, was another example of the pretty well established theory that it is not always the finest actor who achieves the highest popularity in the theatre, but the one with the most magnetic personality.

That Dame Terry was a player of the first order nobody has ever denied. That she did share with her distinguished co-worker, Sir Henry Irving, the characteristic of employing many and marked personal mannerisms without especial regard to whether they fitted the character in hand or not, has been universally admitted. Irving, it used to be said, was always Irving, no matter what the role. And of Miss Terry precisely the same criticism was frequently made.

Yet for many, many years, this distinguished and beloved actress was undisputed queen of the English stage, while another player laboring under the same handicap of persistent individualism would have lost out altogether.

THE WELL-KNOWN SCRAP

Apparently the strategists of the Democratic party are becoming excited. Beseet by a revolt in the South, the dawning conviction that the Republican farm states of the West are not, after all, going to be debatable ground, and the beginnings of realization that it was one thing to steam-roll the Houston convention and is another to apply the same tactics to the millions of voters in the Eastern states on which they are depending for victory, the generals in council of the Democracy are, quite true to form, beginning to scrap, with Governor Smith's activities as the bone of contention. Some of them think he ought to get right out and show the brown derby and the winsome grin to as many millions of Americans as possible. Others think that maybe it would be just as well if he didn't. And between them they seem to be taking it for granted that Governor Al will sit up or lie dead and nose-pitch biscuits or whatever, according to orders.

The first thing they know the governor will be firing them all out and picking a new board of strategy. Who do they think is boss of the show, anyhow?

GOVERNOR'S CRASH

While we should not at all care to be regarded as criticizing the decision of the authorities at the state flying field at Groton, to the effect that no one was to blame for the crash of Friday last in which the life of the governor of Connecticut and those of three other airmen were seriously imperiled, it certainly is to be hoped that a lesson will be drawn from that accident. If a flying officer under orders to perform a certain stunt in a certain way, by following his orders implicitly lands in such a manner that he cuts across a regular runway liable at any moment to be traversed by a taxying plane, then it would appear that his orders were illy considered.

Such collisions as that at Groton on Friday, being extremely likely to happen if criss-crossing of the field is permitted, most assuredly should be guarded against by definite regulations. No aviator can watch his landing field on the blind side of a banked machine. Neither can a taxying flier do anything to protect himself or his ship if another plane be permitted to cross his path in defiance of the well known physical law that no two bodies can occupy the same space at the same time.

Probably no participant in the collision was to blame. But lack of adequate regulations may well have been.

In New York

New York, July 23.—Several of New York's niftiest haberdasheries are to be found neither on Madison nor Fifth Avenue, but, strange to say, just off the Bowery.

The window displays reveal all those things the well-dressed man would like to wear if he could afford them. Cravats are priced at $7 per each and silk shirts can be had at the modest figure of $20. And there are lavish dressing gowns, vests, spats, canes and all the rest.

And this palace of extravagance can be found just around the corner from "flap houses," Bowery speakeasies and such. The snappiest Fifth Avenue store could do no more than duplicate the wares and the prices, in contrast with the rental, are equal to the most expensive "smart shops."

As a matter of fact, even the Bowery belt has its "spenders." The "sports" of that section make every effort to go the Fifth Avenue boys one better. Since prohibition, a great deal of easy money has been passed out in the one-time heart of the gang world.

The trade of this particular merchant, I am told, comes largely from bootleggers, speakeasy proprietors, gunmen and such. The modern underworld figure is often a replica of the men's style ads. They make all the fancy gestures of the "big-money" boys and a silk shirt that costs less than $20 is "given the gate."

Each night, there appears at one of the most exclusive rooftop dance clubs an entertainer who could buy the roof and toss it overboard, if she cared.

Manhattan has watched, with much interest, the theatrical aspirations of "Lisbeth," of the dance team of Lisbeth and Clifford. Lisbeth is none other than Elizabeth Higgins, daughter of the Ink magazine, and helress to several millionaires who have made gestures toward the stage, she has shown most sincerely that she meant it. Having achieved success, both in America and abroad, she has shown no indication of retiring. Night after night she appears in her dance act upon the Park Central roof.

Health and Diet Advice

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

POISON OAK AND IVY.

In hiking through the mountains you may observe a pretty little shrub, which sometimes assumes very beautiful autumnal colors, leaning vine-like upon stone walls or trees. Many people are ignorant of the identity of this plant, which is known by various names, such as "poison oak," "sumac," and "poison ivy." The leaves are usually bright green and appear in groups of three. You may distinguish it from all other plants because the stem of the middle leaf is always longer than the stems of the outer two leaves.

These plants secrete a clear, transparent poison which is insoluble in water, and their leaves and bark are covered with it. If one of these plants is disturbed, this oil is discharged into the air, and a breeze may become impregnated with its poison. The sensitive person is sometimes poisoned even by being in the vicinity of a clump of these plants.

This poison causes a painful inflammation of the skin and in severe cases may even be carried internally to all parts of the body, with sometimes very dangerous consequences, and has been known to result in death.

It is apparent that some people are more subject than others to these poisons, just as some are more easily irritated by the pollen of flowers or dust from hay, and consequently develop attacks of hay fever. Those who have sensitive membranes or a skin which cannot resist the oak or ivy poisoning, are, in every case, subject to a definite acidosis. If this is corrected, there will be less susceptibility to either hay fever or vine poisonings.

Many people have such a good blood alkalinity that they can chew and swallow the leaves of poison oak without suffering intestinal irritations as a result. Such a normal alkalinity should be kept by all people at all times. If this were done there would be little danger of catching an outside infection, whether of a toxic or bacterial nature.

If, however, you do contract vine poisoning, the following treatment will be of great assistance. On or before the first appearance of the rash, go immediately to the bathroom and prepare a weak solution of dry lye to a quart of water. Do not apply this solution to the skin, but have several inches of water in the bathtub. Next, take a warm shower bath, or dip into the tub of water so that the body becomes wet all over, then reach over and dip a nail brush into the lye solution. Vigorously brush the affected parts and for several inches around and where the rash shows for two or three seconds. This must be washed off immediately after, or the lye will eat into the skin. Use the warm shower or immerse the body completely in the tub of water.

This quick application of lye will counteract the poison and stop the trouble immediately. If the poison has penetrated deeply into the tissues, this treatment may not remove all of the toxin. After this, paint the affected parts twice daily with a mild solution of permanganate of potash. Your druggist can prepare a solution for you. This is another alkali, will help you to neutralize any oil that comes to the surface. It may be necessary to repeat the affected part for several days.

If you are susceptible to this trouble, you should keep this article in a scrap book for future reference. Those who wish to alkalize their blood to overcome this tendency should send a large, stamped, envelope and ask for my article called "A CLEANSING DIET."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Questions: J. F. asks: "Is erysipelas a blood or skin disease? What is the cause and cure of this disease?"

Answer: I consider the true cause of erysipelas to be an acidosis produced through the use of wrong food. It is true there is a particular bacterium associated with this disease, but this microorganism cannot live in a body free from acidosis. Please write for further personal advice, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Questions: W. R. Y. asks: "Are flavoring extracts wholesome?" Answer: True fruit extracts are quite wholesome and may be used commercially being replaced by chemical compounds having similar tastes but much more concentrated in flavor and more economical for use. Some of these extracts may be slightly poisonous but the United States Government has conducted experiment and prohibits the use of the most injurious ones. Soda fountains and many manufactured products using artificial colorings and flavorings are required to indicate this by some type of sign.

Question: Mrs. W. L. writes: "Please advise me if there is any harm in using non-perspirants for checking perspiration under the arms." Answer: Your system is bound to be harmed by anything which will check elimination of poisons from the body. Stopping the elimination through the pores will hurt you in much the same way as if the flow of urine were partially stopped, or in the same way as if you did something to make your bowels more sluggish. It is all right for you to use some deodorant or just plain talcum powder which will keep the sweat from soiling your clothing.

The demand was instant. Within a few weeks he was busy supplying this drug store. He branched out, going from one soda counter to another. He hired salesmen and called in trained sandwich makers. Soon he had a thriving business and plenty of competition was springing up. A few months ago he was turning out about 30,000 a day, with 22 varieties to choose from.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Farnham of South Windsor, have recently moved to Hartford. They will leave in the near future for their summer home in Randolph, N. H.

At the monthly executive board meeting of the Farm Bureau of Hartford County, which was held at the Hale house Friday, July 13, final plans were made for the annual picnic to be held next Thursday, July 26 at Babb's Grove, Lake Congamond, West Suffield.

The sports will start about 10 o'clock daylight time and there will be a basket luncheon in the grove. There will be singing led by George S. Phelps of Thompsonville, also a "Wit and Wisdom" talk by the famous English Mr. Shield of Ridgefield. Horse shoes, rope pull, baseball and a long list of women's and children's games are scheduled for the afternoon. There were about 600 farmers and their families who attended the Farm Bureau picnic last year and it is expected there will be an even larger attendance this year.

WHITEST WASH EVER! SAYS MRS. J. D. MacGOVERN

Local woman tells of time and labor saver

"My very first trial of Rinso showed me why so many women in Manchester praise it. Why, it saves so much rubbing that cuffs, collar edges, etc., are never frayed out as they used to be. You just soak the wash overnight and in the morning it's ready to be rinsed and hung out. You don't even have to boil. Yet the wash always looks so much prettier and whiter than ever before, that I love to see it on the line. No scrubbing for me—I soak clothes whiter! It's a grand soap for dishes, because it contains no grit. It never hurts hands."

(Signed) Mrs. J. D. MacGovern, 52 Spruce St., Manchester, Conn.

Just try it! In machine or tub—Rinso is all you need for the whitest wash ever. No bar soaps, chips or powders. So easy on clothes and on hands, too. Don't forget—look for these interesting letters from your neighbors every Monday in this newspaper. And when you try Rinso—you, too, will be so delighted with its results you may also wish to write us on your experiences.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BERTIE LOU WARD marries ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. They spend an ideal honeymoon and the only shadow on the bride's happiness is Lila's persistence in broadcasting to their friends that she was Rod's first love.

A splendid position in New York is offered Rod by TOM FRASER and he accepts. Anxious to make a good impression, they go to an expensive hotel until they can find an apartment. This seems to antagonize MOLLY FRASER, who urges Bertie Lou to buy more than she can afford. Rod wins money from Tom at poker and, feeling under obligation to them, recklessly invites the crowd to a night club. Bertie Lou scolds him for the extravagance and they quarrel. However, this trouble is forgotten in the rush of moving into their new apartment.

Lila surprises them by marrying a rich MR. LOREE whom she had met at their night club party. She asks Bertie Lou to forgive her past unkindness and be friends, with so much sincerity that she cannot be denied. But keeping up appearances with people who have as much money to spend as the Frasers and the Lorees is a severe strain on Rod and Bertie Lou. Rod becomes discouraged and Lila grasps her chance to offer sympathy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Did Bertie Lou ever tell you how I had to get down on my knees and beg her to accept me as a friend?" she asked quietly.

"You don't want a drink, do you?" she asked, in a negative-intentioning tone.

Rod shook his head.

"Come in here, then," she said, and turned toward the drawing room door, her hand still on the knob. She had left the door open, but now she closed it behind them. There was a friendly fire and an incredibly comfortable looking sofa before it. Lila led Rod over to it and pushed him down upon the cream and gold satin cushions.

"Here," she offered cigarettes in an ivory box.

A golden lamp revealed that Rod's hand shook slightly when he held a lighted taper to the tobacco.

"Losing sleep," Lila commented aloud.

"Up too much," Rod acknowledged.

"And no sleep when you go to bed," Lila went on. "What are you worrying about, Rod?"

"I'm not worrying."

"Do you really think that wealth makes a person free of all worry?" she asked suddenly.

Rod turned his head to look at her. She had spoken with a torch of depression in her voice.

"Even a golden crown must carry a few thorns," she went on as he did not speak. "It is not impossible for me to understand your troubles, Rod, if they are concerned with money. My memory is not short," she added with a significant pause. "Perhaps there are many places in my mind that once were filled with the same thoughts that you were brooding over out there in the hall."

"Well, you found a way out of your troubles," Rod said banteringly; "assuming that they were the same as mine."

"You mean my marriage," Lila returned quietly. "And you're right, Rod. Abracadabra couldn't have done more for me."

"Who's he?" They both laughed.

"But if you really don't know," Lila explained, "it's a magic word. And it can help you, too."

"Is that so? I suppose you captured it in a dictionary or a crossword puzzle and dragged it to the altar with you to do its stuff. But you see I'm already wed. Old Ab couldn't do a thing for me."

Lila did not answer him at once. Bertie Lou and another girl were opening the door. Lila saw them in the mirror over the mantelpiece.

"Men can make money," she said, motioning over her shoulder for the new arrivals to join them on the sofa.

The other girl turned back to the library but Bertie Lou remained. The opportunity for prolonged conversation among them had already passed, however, for guests were now arriving rapidly and Lila had to give up her place beside Rod.

Later in the evening she found another chance for a talk with him. A well-known Broadway entertainer was giving imitations of famous stars and everyone was crowded into the drawing room. Lila and Rod stood near the door.

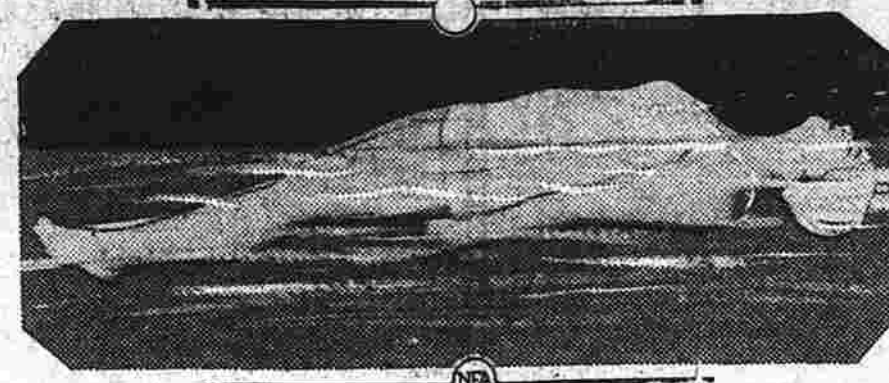

Presently, under cover of the stir at the end of a particularly clever and mirth-provoking sketch, she drew him into the hall. "I must give an order to Wilkins," she said. "Come with me, will you?"

Rod was in no mood for comedy. He did not mind leaving the drawing room. Lila led him into the library. "Wait here a minute," she told him. "I'd better go out to the pantry. Look around. You may find a cup of punch left."

Rod went over to a chair by a window that someone had opened. Outside the weather was below zero but the clean, cold air that came into the 18th floor apartment was a blessed relief from the warm, perfumed atmosphere of the drawing room.

Lila was back in a few minutes. "How would you like some

FLOATING IS EASY!

Bernice Zitenfield shows how to float.

By THE ZITENFIELD TWINS.

Floating is another thing the swimmer must know. It is excellent for relaxing, resting, waiting for that second wind that may be better than the first wind, if it only comes.

Floating is really easy as can be, if you remember to think of your backbone while doing it. If you take the deepest breath you can and turn on your back as you do it. Kick your feet up slightly, if they seem inclined to fall to the bottom, as most untrained feet do. Keep the body arched. Don't be afraid to let the head rest back and the water. It is as if you were sleeping on a bed without a pillow and your head felt a bit lower than your body.

This is the only way you can float successfully. For if you insist on raising the head, that arch of the backbone is flattened and you sink.

Keep your feet together. You can put your arms down at your sides. This is perhaps preferable until you get experienced. Then you can fold your arms under your head for a pillow and it makes no difference.

Open your eyes if you feel at all worried. If may reassure you to see the blue heavens or the top of the swimming tank.

After you get your positions accurately, you will feel light as a cork and find you can ride the billows with the same ease as a cork. Try not to mind if the water breaks over you. You will stay on top unless you get frightened and turn over, or let your back collapse or swallow water.

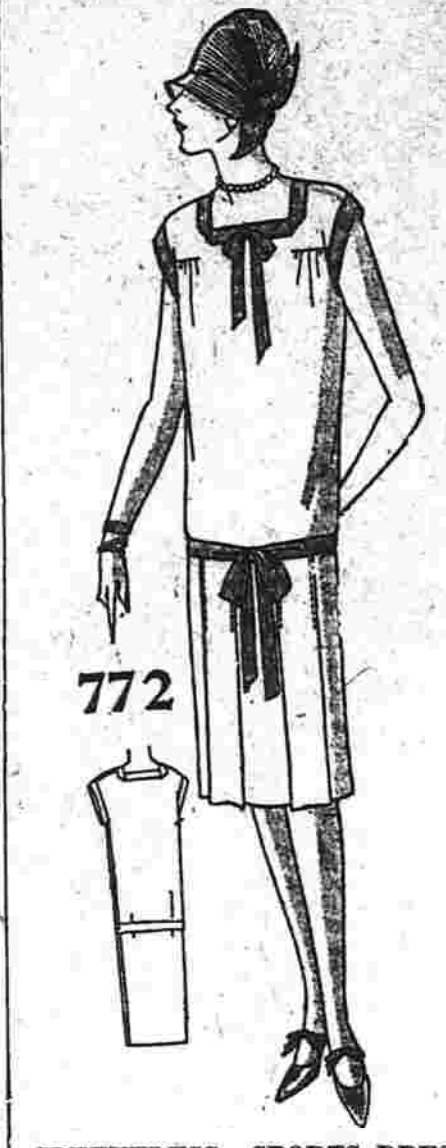

Floating is one pleasure many persons might learn without knowing how to swim, if properly taught.

One can help a beginner, if he is careful not to help too much. Putting the hand under the back and holding it there any length of time accustoms the floater to that much support. But if one just arches a floater's back and leaves him, it might help.

The straightness of the body is the main thing. Keep the feet near the top of the water. This can be done by kicking slightly every time they seem to be getting away.

After you really learn to float, you will find that you can breathe, look at the scenery and enjoy life on top of the waves.

The WOMAN'S DAY

These girls who are always popular as all returning foreigners say, place up offering their fair hands in marriage to any "good man" who will give, in exchange, anywhere from ten to a hundred thousand dollars, give me quite a peeve. The obvious comment that, after all, any able-bodied girl with any ambition can get a job, isn't it so good, for while she might get a $18-a-week job it would take a long time to save up $10,000.

Why Pay For One?

But the real point is any modern girl's assumption that in this modern world with more marriageable women than men, and with wives more of a liability than an asset, with men able to get along very well, thank you, without wives, any of them need to pay for one. Just some philosophy born from the case of Beatrice Albert of Siren, Wis., who recently got into court with her plan to marry a man who would give her parents a home.

Maybe Is Silly

Yet, when I say that men do not need wives so much these days, do I know any more what I'm talking about than does Mary Borden, an English writer who, returning from an American tour, takes her pen in hand to discuss American women? She says, in part, that the American woman is never still, a creature all motion, demanding constant variety and change, eternally dancing, theater-going, collecting "new antiques," Chippendale, China, pottery, et al and ailer, just

All Wiping Noses

One looks in vain for this "American woman" at the beach, at the movies, at the grocery store, wherever one encounters American women so busy keeping ants out of the chocolate picnic cake, cutting the kids' ears and wiping their noses that one imagines Ming pottery and "the dansants" are as far from their minds as the best leprosy cures.

"So, There!"

When Mrs. Frank Wilson, 49, of Indianapolis, got her divorce the other day, the judge gave her erstwhile husband the house. That seems to have made her mad. For she pleaded guilty in court to setting fire to the house. Knowing the quirks of men and women it's only queer that such gestures of disdain for mere judicial decisions don't occur oftener than they do.

Her Own Perfume

Perhaps all this chatter about "matchin' your perfume" isn't so insane after all. A certain woman was coming home from the theater the other night when she and her escort passed three strangers in the apartment lobby. As they passed by the woman cried, "Why, that's my perfume!" The men started to run. When caught, all the household silver was found upon them and they confessed that they had squirted the woman's perfume atoms over themselves.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

ENCEPHALITIS ATTACKS OUR MENTAL FORCES.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN.

During the World War there appeared in France in 1916 and in Vienna in 1917 cases of a disease which had been described more than a hundred years ago and which was peculiar in character.

In this disease the brain and the central nervous system were attacked, the primary symptoms being disorders of movement and of consciousness which caused the disease to be called lethargic encephalitis.

The lethargic or sleepy unconsciousness gave to the disease the newspaper name of "sleeping sickness" which occurs in Africa due to a parasite which causes the disease to be called lethargic encephalitis.

In All Countries.

The epidemic encephalitis disease spread rapidly over Europe in 1918 and 1919 and invaded the United States. It is now appearing throughout the world, and it is impossible to predict its extent or limitations. The cause is thus far not definitely established, although bacteriologic studies have indicated its germ origin.

Unlike meningitis and infantile paralysis, this disease attacks the brain more than it does the spinal cord. As a result, all sorts of unusual symptoms appear, including paralysis, disorders of sensation, disturbances of mental power and moral character.

The Physician's Job.

Since there are many conditions that may also affect the brain, confusion sometimes results in differentiating epidemic encephalitis from other brain disorders.

The sinister character of this disease has attracted studies by the best scientific minds and laboratories in the world. Month by month, day by day, new contributions are being made which point toward the possibility of eventual scientific control.

Today, the physician does what he can to diagnose the disease, so prevent its spread to others, and by the use of scientifically established remedies to control the various symptoms in so far as possible as they develop.

MAKE SUMMER A PLAYTIME FOR THE FAMILY

Too often the turmoil and noise and heat, the disorder and unattractiveness of a home in summer make a game, or at least part of it. And why not let the children have a hand in the game? Why not make the home and yard a sort of "pretend" place?

Vacation is really the only time of year you can sweep and do up things like that when the magic summer time is flying away on wings. You can sweep and do up curtains all winter, and then come. If I were to do it over again I should do these things. I should strip the house of unnecessary things and keep it cool and dark and quiet. I should get out of the house on every possible occasion! I should work that little back porch overtime, or a shady corner of the back yard. I should put in vines or quick-growing shrubs early in the spring, to add attractiveness and assure a certain amount of privacy. I should serve all meals on the porch, or in the yard and turn the entire family into a carry-out, carry-in party at meal time to save the added steps. I should sew outside, and stay outside all I possibly could.

Then the children wouldn't think of me in a world apart. I should be part of their world and we'd all enjoy it together.

I should have an out-of-the-ground supper, with Japanese lanterns bought at the 5 and 10-cent store. A bathing beach would not be out of the question with a tub or two

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Dear Mom:

Your sweet and motherly letter came last week, and I intended to write long before this, but somehow, I don't seem to have anything very cheerful to write about. The whole truth of the matter is that Alan and I are just about as unhappy as two people can be. At least I am.

Truly, I don't know why I have let this "get" me so. We've quarreled often, and had swell fights. I know how to fight—and how to take what someone sends me, but I am just worn down by this sort of treatment. The only consolation I have is Mr. Shelton, who is really turning out to be very sympathetic and nice. He says he knows now what he has always suspected, that in spite of my bravado, I am hopelessly in love with my husband.

I'm not sure, Truly, I don't know but what I hate Alan. Sometimes I am sure I do. As for Helen, she is making hay while the sun does not shine upon me, but certainly she is not making Alan very happy. Rather than being in hot pursuit of her, I should say he avoids her. He spends most of his time playing bridge with a group of men or reading.

This certainly was a gorgeous idea of his to have a nice calm summer on the shore. If I come trailing home some of these days, don't be surprised, I'm just about ready to do something desperate. And before I do, I want to see you, and have some of your dear motherly advice that I have so often scorned. Don't be unprepared.

Miserably,
MARYE.

CHAPTER XX

"There couldn't be any place for my thoughts in your head," Rod replied quizzically and hardly with a smile. The smiling came readily enough, though, Lila's carmine lips. She caught the hint that sounded in his words and voice—the hint that she lacked the power of understanding. The smile crept up to her eyes, an inscrutable smile.

"You don't want a drink, do you?" she asked, in a negative-intentioning tone.

Rod shook his head.

"Come in here, then," she said, and turned toward the drawing room door, her hand still on the knob. She had left the door open, but now she closed it behind them. There was a friendly fire and an incredibly comfortable looking sofa before it. Lila led Rod over to it and pushed him down upon the cream and gold satin cushions.

"Here," she offered cigarettes in an ivory box.

A golden lamp revealed that Rod's hand shook slightly when he held a lighted taper to the tobacco.

"Losing sleep," Lila commented aloud.

"Up too much," Rod acknowledged.

"And no sleep when you go to bed," Lila went on. "What are you worrying about, Rod?"

"I'm not worrying."

"Do you really think that wealth makes a person free of all worry?" she asked suddenly.

Rod turned his head to look at her. She had spoken with a torch of depression in her voice.

"Even a golden crown must carry a few thorns," she went on as he did not speak. "It is not impossible for me to understand your troubles, Rod, if they are concerned with money. My memory is not short," she added with a significant pause. "Perhaps there are many places in my mind that once were filled with the same thoughts that you were brooding over out there in the hall."

"Well, you found a way out of your troubles," Rod said banteringly; "assuming that they were the same as mine."

"You mean my marriage," Lila returned quietly. "And you're right, Rod. Abracadabra couldn't have done more for me."

"Who's he?" They both laughed.

"But if you really don't know," Lila explained, "it's a magic word. And it can help you, too."

"Is that so? I suppose you captured it in a dictionary or a crossword puzzle and dragged it to the altar with you to do its stuff. But you see I'm already wed. Old Ab couldn't do a thing for me."

Lila did not answer him at once. Bertie Lou and another girl were opening the door. Lila saw them in the mirror over the mantelpiece.

"Men can make money," she said, motioning over her shoulder for the new arrivals to join them on the sofa.

The other girl turned back to the library but Bertie Lou remained. The opportunity for prolonged conversation among them had already passed, however, for guests were now arriving rapidly and Lila had to give up her place beside Rod.

Later in the evening she found another chance for a talk with him. A well-known Broadway entertainer was giving imitations of famous stars and everyone was crowded into the drawing room. Lila and Rod stood near the door.

Presently, under cover of the stir at the end of a particularly clever and mirth-provoking sketch, she drew him into the hall. "I must give an order to Wilkins," she said. "Come with me, will you?"

Rod was in no mood for comedy. He did not mind leaving the drawing room. Lila led him into the library. "Wait here a minute," she told him. "I'd better go out to the pantry. Look around. You may find a cup of punch left."

Rod went over to a chair by a window that someone had opened. Outside the weather was below zero but the clean, cold air that came into the 18th floor apartment was a blessed relief from the warm, perfumed atmosphere of the drawing room.

Lila was back in a few minutes. "How would you like some

"Did Bertie Lou ever tell you how I had to get down on my knees and beg her to accept me as a friend?" she asked quietly.

THE FINESSE

In the manipulation of the cards, the finesse is one of the most useful "working tools." It is a maneuver which assists in winning a trick for you with a card lower than one which is still out against you. It also helps to establish a suit, that is, to give you complete control of it so that you may win a trick with every card in that suit.

An illustration of the finesse in a situation frequently encountered may be described as follows: West holds the King and four of hearts; Dummy, the Ace, Queen; East holds none and the declarer holds the two and three of hearts.

The only way in which the declarer can win two tricks in hearts is to lead a small card from his hand to the Ace-Queen. If West holds the King, both the Ace and Queen will win tricks. If West plays the 4, the declarer plays the Queen; if West plays the King, the declarer covers with the Ace in the dummy and the Queen is then sure to win a trick.

If East holds the King, the declarer will lose the Queen and the finesse will fail. This, however, does not lessen the value of the maneuver. There is a chance of making a trick with the Queen and he takes that chance! Should he play from the dummy, he would be sure to lose a trick regardless of whether east or west held the King. This finesse gives the declarer his only chance of winning two tricks in the suit.

Community Takes Worst Licking Of Season, 15-0

Fayites Make Only Six Hits and Commit Six Errors in Loosely Played Game at Kensington Saturday.

Something was woefully wrong with the Community Club-baseball team Saturday afternoon down in Kensington. At least the local out did not function anywhere near the level of which it is capable.

As a result, it begins to look as though Manchester may not capture the championship in the second round, it will have to do some pretty round of the state league. If it tall stepping, and what's more, pronto, Tatville has gotten off to a flying start in this round while the Community shows no signs of a decided contrast from the first round in which it did not lose a single contest.

However, every team has its off day and Saturday must have been the Community's. Perhaps better days are coming by and by. Tommy Sipples started on the mound for the Community but was evidently far from right for the box score shows that Kensington scored seven runs in the first two innings and that Dick Edgar succeeded Sipples. The big lead apparently took the pep out of the Fayites. At any rate, they failed to tally once during the nine innings and made only six hits, the same total as their errors. The summary:

Watch the Aces! That seems to be the cry in the re-organized Community Club twilight league which is scheduled to swing into action again this evening with a three-game slate.

As yet the Green team has not been defeated in the circuit. Tonight they meet the Aces, a team composed of young blood; one that had been trying in vain for several weeks to gain recognition from the other local aggregations.

The Aces were admitted when the league was rebuilt a short time ago. In their first appearance, they were defeated 2 to 0 by the Heights who were reinforced by the presence of Charlie Weber and Pelton of the Community Club team.

The game is set for the West Side Field. The other pairings bring together Gibson's Garage and the Bon Ami at the Community grounds and the Heights and North Ends at the Heights' diamond.

Local Sport Chatter

Fandom is offered plenty of sport entertainment tonight. First of all, there will be (at least) three games scheduled (three games in the Community Club twilight baseball league. Later in the evening will be a popular priced boxing show at the Hartford Velodrome featuring Ruby Bradley and Kewpie Ledoux.

A well known local athlete who plays ball with one of the twilight league teams says he thinks some of the players are getting paid for their services without the knowledge of the other members of the team.

Another water carnival is planned for Globe Hollow a week from next Saturday which will be August 4. The first one which was held recently was a complete success and attracted a huge crowd.

Jack Dwyer's pinch-hitting batting average as substitute sports editor of The Herald for the past two weeks while the writer made his annual "cover" of the doings of the soldiers at Niantic, was very high. It seemed good to read his versions of the local sporting situation as it is today. The change has probably been as beneficial to the readers as to the writer who acquired quite a bit of much-needed rest by inhaling refreshing salt-water breeze at Camp Trumbull.

The Nashs and Fords will meet in their postponed baseball game at the West Side Wednesday night at 6:15. The game was scheduled for Friday night but rain prevented.

We notice that Bill Brennan is entered in the senior horse-shoe-pitching tournament which starts tonight and hope that he is a bit more luck in the sport than he is in fishing and shooting pool. It seems that Bill had a pool match scheduled with a certain person in town and after losing the first leg, has kept in hiding ever since. Fishing is his excuse.

The senior quit tourney starts tonight at the West Side. There will be two matches. Fallon and Schaub will meet Thompson and Lamprecht while the other pairing brackets Leggett and Taggart against Moosely and Brennan. The other team, McLaughlin and McCormick is not scheduled to play until Friday night.

Frankie Zuech is taking quite a bit of interest in golf, having been tutored by Alex Simpson. Wh'c golf does not provide as vigorous exercise as the cauliflower industry. It does, nevertheless, combine both recreation and pleasure.

The Rec Girls baseball team will practice at the 3rd side field tomorrow night at 6:15. Coach Dodger Dowd requests all members to report.

Reports have it that Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Center is going to buy some sort of a fish-stretching machine because of the poor luck he has been having of late. The main difficulty at present seems to be in trying to make nine-and-a-half inch bass measure ten.

At Dowd, local featherweight, will not box on the Hartford Velodrome program tonight as has been announced in Hartford newspapers. Dowd came into the office last night to clear up the matter.

ATLANTIC CITY RACES THIS SUMMER TO PICK MOTORCYCLE CHAMPIONS Atlantic City—The three major motorcycle champions of America will be staged at the Atlantic City speedway, Amatrol, N. J., on July 4. The races were sanctioned by A. B. Coffman, chairman of the National Motorcycle Racing Association.

Co. G Soldiers Bring Home Regimental Baseball Title

Mantelli Socks Pair of Doubles, Triple and Homer; Allows One Hit, Whiffs 16 Batsmen; Frey and Holland Also Hit for Circuit; Beat Co. D in Finals, 14 to 0.

By TOM STOWE Not only has Company G a mighty good military outfit, but it also knows a thing or two about baseball to put matters mildly. The company won the championship of the regiment at Camp Trumbull Saturday afternoon when by handling Company D of Meriden a 14 to 0 lacing in the finals, it marked the third consecutive time that Captain Herb Bissell's outfit has won the baseball honors in the 159th, Infantry, C. N. G.

Private Elmo Mantelli was the outstanding star, leading the G boys to their well-deserved triumph. Not only did he pull his mates through safely when defeat threatened to overtake them in the semi-final argument with the Howitzer Company, but again in the finals, his work was easily the feature.

Here is what he did, summed up briefly: pitched the entire seven innings allowing only one hit, a single; struck out sixteen batsmen and walked but four; was at bat five times and made four hits, a couple of doubles, a triple, a homer and flied to short. That is all! His circuit clout came in the fourth inning with two men out and "Jiggs" De Han perched on first base.

Two other Babe Ruth emulations were made in the game, both by Manchester. Holland crashed one in the third with two out and no one on base and Frey got the other in the fifth with no outs and Pentlage standing off first. The game was somewhat uninteresting because of being so one-sided. Manchester had everything its own way and partook of Meriden's pitching and fielding as it saw fit. Mantelli, Frey and Holland led the batters.

Company G received another leg on a large silver loving cup which must be won three times for permanent possession. It got its first hold last encampment. The summary of Saturday's finale follows: COMPANY G (14) De Han, 1b... 3 1 1 1 0 0 Mantelli, p... 5 4 4 0 1 0 Von De... c... 5 2 1 15 3 0 Holland, 3b... 5 2 2 0 1 0 Penland, cf... 4 1 1 0 0 0 McCavv'gh, ss... 1 0 0 0 0 0 Frey, 2b... 5 1 3 4 2 0 Kearns, lf... 3 0 1 0 0 0 Schiebel, cf... 1 0 0 0 0 0 Crockett, ss... 2 1 0 0 0 0 Wolfert, rf... 2 1 0 0 0 0 Total... 33 14 13 21 8 0 COMPANY D (0) Huszulock, c... 2 0 0 0 7 0 E. Remember how eager the Yanks were last spring to trade Joe Dugan for players, stamps, soap wrappers or cigar coupons? Dugan is only batting about .350 now. And all the other teams wisely turned him down.

The fans missed a nifty battle in Madison Square Garden the other night. One of the males in the marathon dancing contest wanted to quit and his fair one froze him with a right.

Too bad the Cardinals still have Alexander. We'd have liked to see the Yanks win another world series this fall.

Artie McGovern Calls Bout An Even Affair

By ARTIE MCGOVERN either right or left hand punches. Fighting Heart Tom Heeny has proved beyond question that he is a fighting heart. He is willing, aggressive, has marvelous recuperative powers, exceptional stamina and is an effective puncher with both the left and the right hand. Although his muscles are well developed, they are not over-developed and he is by no means muscle bound. He has, however, a style of fighting that might give this impression. He rarely delivers a straight punch. Even his left jab is more or less a half hook. He is a wonderful knock or delivering left and right hand punches to the body which very often do not travel more than a foot, but are delivered in such a way as to have the full weight of his body behind them. He has an awkward, weaving style of getting inside left and right hand punches, at the same time countering with his own left or right hand body punches.

Gene Tunney looks great. His physical condition in the training camp seems to be perfect. His boxing with his sparring partners appears to be as effective as ever. But his reserve, resistance and stamina can be tested only during the Heeny fight. It has been said that Gene Tunney is not a game. Personally, I don't think a game fighter ever lived. Tunney proved this beyond all questions as far back as 1922 when he fought Gene who was with Harry Greb in Madison Square Garden. His eyes and nose were out open early in the fight and the blood streamed down his face so that it was impossible to see his opponent in front of him. But in spite of this, Tunney never backed up for a second. And he got up off the floor to go on and beat Dempsey. I don't think there will be a knock-out. My summary of the coming fight is that Gene will win the first five rounds, hands down. From the fifth to the tenth round, I look for Heeny to get warmed up and to hold Tunney even. From the tenth to the finish, it should be all Heeny's.

I am of the opinion that it will be a bitterly waged contest and will probably be one of the closest heavyweight championship fights in history of the prize ring.

Gene Determined To Fly To Bout On Thursday

LITTLE CHANCE TO COP LEADERS Yanks and Cardinals Too Far Ahead—How the Teams Fared Yesterday.

New York, July 23.—The Athletics and Cubs are beginning to arrive at the conclusion that trying to overhaul the Yankees and Cardinals is like cheating at solitaire—there's little profit or pleasure in it. During the inter-sectional series just concluded the 'A's' won 12 games out of 16—the best record in the league—but the Yanks copied 12 out of 18 and are 10 1/2 games in front. The Cubs won 13 out of 17 on their home lot but gained only a game and a half on the Cards, whom they trail by four games.

The rejuvenated White Sox, with ten wins in 17 starts, were the only other American League team to get better than an even break. Features of the National League were the spurt of the Pirates, who won 11 out of 14, and the top of the Giants, who dropped to fourth place. Each of the western teams in the senior circuit won at least two-thirds of its games. Boston won but two games in the west and Philadelphia only one.

But mark you, Cuthbert, those Philles were no world-beaters with a little tighter defense. Three-fourths of their defeats were by a margin of one run. The poor work of Boston's pitchers offset the fine batting of Hornsby and Sisler. During this period the Pirates, Cubs, Yankees and Athletics had long winning spurts. The 'A's' are still on the rampage, but the other winning streaks have been snapped.

The Yankees' run of 3 straight wins was broken yesterday by Red Faber, veteran spitball hurler of the White Sox. Red suddenly switched his batting stance from right to left-handed in the eighth inning. This so disconcerted Cy Moore, the New York pitcher, that he grooved one which Faber hit safely. The blow gave Chicago two runs which won the game, 6 to 4. Hafey and Hurst, both on a home run spree, hit for the circuit as the Cards' noses out the Philles in the ninth, 8 to 7.

Charley Root's return to form may win the pennant for the Cubs. He held the giants to four hits, beating them 4 to 2. The Pirates nosed out Brooklyn, 6 to 5, after Dazy Vance hit whitewashed them 5 to 0. Vance whiffed eight batters, bringing his strikeout total for the season to 112. Pat Malone, the speed boy of the Cubs, is his nearest rival with 92.

Cincinnati came from behind to nip Boston, 5 to 4. Washington trounced Detroit, 8 to 2, and jumped ahead of Cleveland a fifth place. The Indians took an 8 to 5 beating from the St. Louis Browns.

Bradley Favored To Defeat Ledoux Strong Supporting Card Arranged for Velodrome Tonight; Local Fans Going.

HARTFORD GAME TONIGHT Ruby Bradley, Holyoke, vs. Kewpie Ledoux, Willimansett (8 rounds). Other bouts—all 4 rounds Eddie Elle, Springfield, vs. Ray Sanborn, Hartford; Gerald Emard, Holyoke, vs. Pancho Villa, Hartford; Joe Bard, Hartford, vs. Louis Carmel, Holyoke; Vic Morley, Hartford, vs. Willie Morgan, Hartford; Joe Zetter, vs. Bertin, Syle Frener, Holyoke; Bill Carman, Hartford, vs. Del Poulton, New Britain; Harry Seeche, Hartford, vs. Fred Blaine, Holyoke.

Ruby Bradley of Holyoke is favored to defeat Kewpie Ledoux of Willimansett in the star bout of the popular-priced, new talent, boxing show at the Hartford Velodrome tonight. Bradl, who used to campaign in the ring as "Dark Cloud," is seen as the probable winner because of his superior experience, he having met many of the best boys in the flyweight division, but Ledoux is younger and stronger and a better puncher so there may be an upset as the colored boy and his rival come together.

This bout is of eight rounds and underneath it are eight four-round bouts, which many former amateurs, now turned pro, will be seen in action.

The battle, attracting the major interest, is that between those two great former amateur light heavies, Eddie Elle of Springfield and Ray Sanborn of Hartford. There should be a key in this one, both being hard hitters and neither over skillful on the defense.

Gerald Emard, the Holyoke boy who has been running up a string of victories, meets Pancho Villa, the aggressive Hartford light weight while those two sluggers, Joe Bard of Hartford and Louis Carmel of Holyoke will clash. Al Dowd of this town is not included on the program as was previously stated.

The first bout will be called at 8:15. Ladies will be admitted free, if accompanied by escorts.

Champ's Lawyer Hints That Tunney Will Not Leave Speculator Except in a Flying Machine.

By DAVIS J. WALSH New York, July 23.—It would be passing strange indeed, if, after all the pains I have taken with the situation, there would be no fight for the heavyweight championship of the world on Thursday night, but, if you think I'm turning comic in the matter, you ought to talk to Dudley Field Malone, the barrister, Dudley, or dead, if you insist, was said to have been around Madison Square Garden today remaining to Tex Rickard that spec may prove to be the case and the only thing that served to give the young man a hearing is his understanding that he was speaking for the boy friend, brother Tunney himself.

The writer unfortunately cannot vouch for what Dudley said. He merely can tell you what he is said to have said, the authority for same being an official of the Garden corporation. The alleged statement, in effect, was that, if Rickard persisted in getting out of the injunction restraining Brother Tunney from flying hitherto from Speculator on the morning of the fight, the boy friend would be so miffed that he wouldn't come to Mr. Rickard's party at all.

Represents Champion Dudley has been Brother Tunney's barrister, off and on, for several years. It was my understanding that Rickard's connection in question was off because it was out after the manner of a superfluous hair or something. But when he turned up to heckle Rickard over the week-end, the inference was that he was on again, for Dudley quickly decided his party was over.

May Be Absent The status of the matter otherwise remained, as was, this morning. Brother Tunney insists that he will fly down to the fight on Thursday, a distance of 260 miles, with Bert Balchen, pilot says the good man has no right thus to endanger his, Rickard's interests to say nothing of Heene's and those of the good, old pay-trons, laugh them down, laugh them down. Rickard also says that he will enjoy the gentleman if he does not alter his plans before sundown today.

He was expressing himself along these lines this morning when Dudley uttered his threat that, of all the millions who are planning to stay away on Thursday night, one of them might prove to be Brother Tunney.

Personally, it is my hope some day to give you a time-exposure of a man steadfastly staying away from more than a half million dollars' worth of money. It is my hope that will portray this scene in all its interesting detail but am sorry to state that the apparatus used for this purpose is not yet ready.

However, there is this much to be said for the situation: if Rickard really seems to serve his man with an injunction, he would do well not to wait until Thursday morning, the scheduled start of the fight, if he waits till then it will be tantamount to a postponement of the fight itself, for Speculator is an overnight trip by rail and ten hours of intensive driving by motor.

It is fact, not fancy, too, that Rickard and the boy friend are putting on no act with this controversy. Rickard almost swooned when he learned that Tunney was flying to Philadelphia from Stroudsburg for the first Dempsey fight in 1923. He has been against flying fighters ever since. As for Brother Tunney, he means to fly down from Speculator or if he really meant to use other means of transportation, he would be leaving the camp earlier than tomorrow night. Besides that, if you don't select an international figure like Balchen for the purpose of furthering an intended hoax, it might be mentioned, in this connection, that the boy friend is hoax about his illness during the Stroudsburg to Philadelphia flight.

No, this strange man, Gene Tunney, undoubtedly intends to go flying on one of the most important days of his life.

TRAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Chairmen aren't very interesting in calling meetings to order, if they don't give a rap.

THIS IS GOOD ADVICE During vacation time it's pretty hard to save coin, but you can do it easily, and keep in practice, by working today's letter golf puzzle. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

Letter golf puzzle grid with the word 'SAVE' at the top and 'COIN' at the bottom.

THE RULES 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Alarming If True A local doctor says he heard of a girl who has been married so often that wedding bells sound like an alarm clock to her.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A sick calf acts that way anyhow, but a man only when he is in love.

What we can't understand is, why do the police have to hunt the bootleggers when most folks have difficulty in avoiding them?

She's old enough to be called "Miss" if she no longer prefers sitting on the floor to put on her stockings.

The Correspondent's Flea If we could write the things we feel, could make the imagination real—pencil, paper, pen and ink. Had but the gift to make us think, we'd shed our studied attitudes, inane remarks and platitudes, and write our missives just as though they went to people whom we know.

We'd scorn such terms as "even date" and "in reply we beg to state." "Regarding" would not be "in re," our meanings would be plain as day.

From stilted phrases we'd refrain—How vivid would our letters be in simple phraseology! No "15th inst." or "30th ult." Our readers' senses would insult; from florid bombast like "est-tomest" our sentences would be redeemed.

Oh! What a difference—goodness knows, if we could write plain English prose! Many a poor devil has had his coffin covered in flowers who wasn't given even a buttonhole bouquet while living.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: And there was the Scotchman who wouldn't wear socks because they put too much strain on his garters.

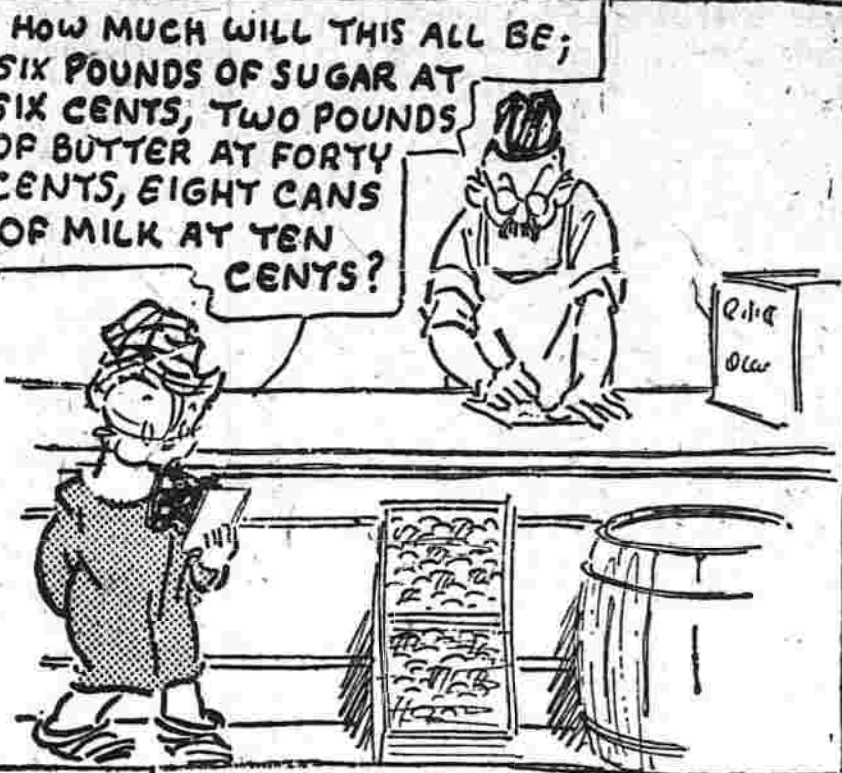

The senator was talking about a tariff victory in Washington. "The thing reminds me," he said, "of a man's visit to a medico. The medico examined the man and then said in a solemn, pompous voice: 'It's a good thing, sir, a mighty good thing, that you came to me.' The man gave a careless laugh. 'Why so, doc?' he said, 'Are you broke?'"

Doings of the Names Club There's nothing in a name, as A. Boss, of Seattle, Washington, who was married last week will soon find out.

Ida L. Shortness was granted a divorce from John Shortness—which indicates the shortness of married life. Dave Tubbs and Rosa Bowles, of Virginia, were married last week. Now that she's got Tubbs, she'll probably want a washboard.

We do not know whether she has ever played hide and seek, but there's May Peake, of Chicago.

88 ATTEND BIG OUTING OF NO. 1

Fine Day Brings Out Fine Crowd; Dinner and Sports Feature.

The weather man favored Hose Company No. 1 of the South Manchester Fire department when he sandwiched in one of the finest days of the season thus far, for the company's annual outing at Marlborough lake. Following the heavy rains of Friday the weather cleared during the night and on Saturday the sun shone and the air was cool and refreshing.

The committee planned to entertain 90 and 88 were present. Besides the members of the company there were invited guests from all parts of the town, including the commissioners of the South Manchester fire district. For years this annual event has taken place at the Cheney cottage on the south shore of Marlborough lake. It is one of the outstanding events of the year for the company and everybody who is favored with a bid makes every effort to attend for a good time is always assured.

The members of the committee and the company went down to the lake early Saturday morning to make the necessary preparations. The dinner was put on by Osano and his force of men. It was served on the broad verandas of the cottage and included clam chowder, fried chicken, spaghetti and other tempting dishes.

On the program of athletic events was a ball game, volleyball and horseshoe pitching. The prizes for the winners were Cheney neckties. The plan was to have the married men of the company play the single men but it was found that very few were present and they had to make the best of it and choose sides. Everybody had a thoroughly enjoyable time. The committee that planned the outing was composed of John Learned, chairman; Arthur Lashinske, L. N. Heebner, Fred Wohlbe, Lawrence Williams, Joseph Moore and Harry Schildge.

LOOT GAS STATION ON OPPENHEIMER FARM

Thieves Who Take Smokes and Gasoline Overlook $300 in Pay Envelopes.

The gasoline station on the Oppenheimer Tobacco Company's plantation on Spencer street near the East Hartford town line, owned by T. J. Neims, was entered Saturday night or Sunday morning and cigars, cigarettes and tobacco to the value of about $30 taken, also 60 gallons of gasoline which had been pumped from the tank and put in cans ready to be taken away.

Mr. Neims, manager of the plantation, had used the gasoline station as an office and it was there that men who are employed at the plantation were paid off. There were some who did not get their pay on Saturday and this was left in the station, but the person or persons that visited the place did not notice the envelopes and overlooked the chance to get about $300.

The thieves broke the lock of the station, probably with a pinch bar. Leonard Kingman of 827 Main street and Bernard Sheridan of Park street returned Saturday from Middlebury, Vt., after spending two weeks with Mr. Kingman's sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hurlburt.

OBSTACLE IN ROAD PROVES TO BE MAN

Benjamin Baranousky of Manchester Run Over on Dark Side Road.

Benjamin Baranousky of 42 Woodbridge street is at Manchester Memorial hospital with a broken collar bone, broken ribs and possible internal injuries as a result of being run over by an automobile on the side road leading to the east from Ogdens' corner in Vernon, last night.

According to the story of Walter Mazottis of 132 Bartholomew avenue, Hartford, who was driving the car and who brought the injured man to the hospital, he was driving east on the street, that leads from South Windsor over to the main road at Ogdens' corner, shortly after 10 o'clock. It had been raining hard, he said, and as the car came up the knoll just east of the school house he noticed a black object in the road. The lights did not strike the object until he was right upon it and before the car could be brought to a stop it had passed over what proved to be a man. Mazottis got the man into the car and brought him to the hospital here. Then he drove to the police station where he reported the accident. Captain Schendel notified the Rockville police, Officer Richard Shea came to Manchester and talked with the driver and also visited the hospital, but no arrests were made pending an investigation.

This morning it was reported at the hospital that the injured man had had an uncomfortable night but that there was a slight change in his condition, possible for the better, although the extent of his injuries were not known.

Captain Tobin of the Rockville police department this morning notified the state police of the accident and turned over to them such information as the Rockville police had.

TWO BOYS RUN INTO MOVING AUTOMOBILES

Similar Accidents Turn Out Fortunately for Youngsters; Blowout Collision.

While driving south on Oakland street yesterday afternoon Mrs. Ernest Smith of Talcottville struck and knocked down a boy by the name of Harris who lives at No. 79 Mill street. In her report to a police made last evening, she said that she was driving slowly when just as she was nearing the corner of Oakland and Mill streets, the little fellow darted out and ran against her machine. The automobile, she said, was almost to a stop when the accident happened.

Mrs. Smith picked up the boy and took him to his home, but was unable to get his first name. Officer Roberts, who later was sent out to investigate, reported that the boy's injuries consisted of a bruise on the forehead, scratched on the wrists and an injury to his elbow. He had been attended by a physician.

Another accident in which a boy and an automobile figured occurred on Warren street. The automobile was owned and driven by Harold Hadden of No. 24 Huntington street. In his report, made to Lieutenant Barron after the accident yesterday, he said he was driving on Warren street when he noticed a boy and a girl doing somersaults over an iron fence. The boy, Alonzo Horan of No. 21 Warren street, turned over on the fence and, landing on his feet, ran into the road against the side of the automobile. Mr. Hadden stopped, picked him up and took him to his home. A physician who called found that there were no serious injuries.

An automobile driven by Andrew B. Conrad of 61 Laurel street, Hartford, on Center street Saturday night took a sudden turn to the right and crashed into a parked automobile owned by Samuel Pratt of No. 194 Center street when a tire on the Conrad car blew out. The front fenders and lights of both cars were damaged.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" PINEHURST WAY A man came into Pinehurst the other day who had never been in this store before "I understand," he said, "that in this place I can buy a Honey Dew melon that's ready to eat. Well, that's what I want. I've got a Honey Dew home right now that I bought two weeks ago. They said in the store where I bought it that they 'guessed' it would be fit in a day or two. It isn't ripe yet, and I doubt if it's ever going to be ripe. Now you see what you can do. Pinehurst provided the newcomer with a fine big Honey Dew melon that was deliciously ready for the table—all but cutting open and taking out the seeds. Told him that if it wasn't absolutely O. K. he was to bring it back. He hasn't appeared yet—but we're betting that he'll be back, to buy more Honey Dews. We speak of this because Pinehurst hasn't any time for the practice of "guessing" about the things it sells. We've got to KNOW whether the stuff that goes out of this store is right—and if it isn't right it doesn't go out. None of the job-lot way of doing food business here. And if there ever were any of it here, believe us it wouldn't be in this kind of weather, when it's about as easy for a person to buy ptomaines as anything else. Pinehurst wants to keep its customers—not kill 'em. Lean Ribs of Pinehurst Corned Beef Sliced Bacon (rind off) 37c lb. Pinehurst Hamburg 25c lb. Pinehurst Veal Ground. Pinehurst Round Ground.
