

BRAKIE KILLED IN FALL UNDER CAR AT BOLTON

George Fraser, Boston Trainman, Dies Instantly As He Tries to Examine Hot Journal.

George Fraser, 44, of 74 Ellery street, Boston, was cut to pieces when he fell under the caboose of a freight train two miles east of the Bolton railroad station at 10:16 last night.

Fraser was a brakeman on the freight running between Maybrook, N. Y., and Boston, Mass., which was going east. When about a mile west of the Steel siding Bolton, Fraser, who was riding in the caboose, thought he smelled a hot box and went out of the front of the caboose to investigate.

He had swung down to place his foot against the journal box, a method used by trainmen when a train is in motion, trying to feel the hot box with his foot. The train was traveling about twenty-five miles an hour. It was a "double header" and was being pushed over him. He was killed instantly and the body badly mangled.

The train was brought to a stop and Dr. LeVerne Holmes, deputy medical examiner of Manchester, was called. He declared the death due to an accident and gave permission for the removal of the body.

The body was taken to the Bolton railroad station at 3 o'clock this morning where it was met by Undertaker Timothy P. Holloran and brought to his undertaking rooms on Center street.

Mrs. Janet Fraser, wife of the dead man, was notified by the railroad authorities at her home this morning and arrived with an undertaking concern in Boston for the shipment of the body to their place. The body was sent to that city this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Fraser, 44, of 74 Ellery street, New Brunswick, forty-four years ago, has been a railroad man for several years.

HUB'S COPS SENT TO NEW BEDFORD

Authorities Fear Trouble To- morrow During the Big Parade.

Boston, Aug. 3.—Fifty Boston policemen and 25 from Cambridge today were ordered to New Bedford tomorrow, having been "borrowed" by New Bedford to join with 300 New Bedford police to prevent any possible disorders in connection with a proposed parade by the textile mills committee, the so-called "wing" of the strike of 27,000 textile operatives.

Mayor Charles H. Ashley, of New Bedford, has refused to allow the parade of the ground that it was a menace to public safety. It was scheduled for last Saturday but was called off an account of rain and postponed until tomorrow.

Other police from the New Bedford Council over the proposition of a state board of arbitration and conciliation to submit the New Bedford wage controversy to an impartial tribunal. William E. G. Batty, secretary of the council said yesterday he had sent the results to the state board but today the state board had not received the report, which was reported to be adverse.

WATER RIGHTS PROBLEMS

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 3.—Thirty-five different states have controversies over water diversion and interstate water rights, and the various attorney-generals in the United States are to get together to discuss problems arising from such controversies. Ernest L. Averill, of Banford, Connecticut's deputy attorney-general today returned from Denver, where he attended a conference of attorney-generals, with the appointment as chairman of a sub-committee of the conference to study all water diversion projects and interstate water right problems. With him are to serve Thomas J. Balderidge, attorney-general of Pennsylvania, and Ralph Carr, assistant attorney-general of Colorado.

POLISH AVIATORS ON WAY HERE

Here is the big Amiot biplane in which Commandant Louis Itzkowski and Commandant Casimir Kubala, Polish aviators are making an attempt today to span the Atlantic. They hopped off from Paris shortly after midnight this morning.

AMERICAN ATHLETE WINS 400 METRE OLYMPIC RUN

Ray Barbuti, of Syracuse, Smashes Jynx; Other Runners Do Better; Yan- kees Leading in Points.

Olympic Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—At the close of today's events, the first place standing in the Olympic games was as follows:
United States ..... 6
Finland ..... 3
Great Britain ..... 2
Canada ..... 2
Ireland ..... 1
Japan ..... 1
South Africa ..... 1
Sweden ..... 1

Olympic Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—Ray Barbuti, Syracuse University's all star athlete, brought the American ahead in the Olympic games by winning the 400-metre final heat today.

Barbuti's clinching race was timed in 47.4 seconds, just a fifth of a second behind the Olympic record, made by Eric Liddell, Great Britain, at the last games. The Syracuse entry beat a stellar field of six starters, the other American, Herman Phillips, Illinois A. C. finishing sixth.

Ball, Canada, was second; Buchner, Germany, was third; Rinkele, Storz, Germany, fifth.

Lone Victory
America's lone victory on the track came almost at the conclusion of the track and field program, a program that had seen the famed runners of the United States fall in their favorite events as never before. It came, too, in an event that had escaped America's stars of the double furlong since the 1912 games at Stockholm. Oddly enough, it was another Syracuse man, Charley Reidpath, and a driving force, Barbuti, who won on that occasion.

Barbuti's "brackets" in the 400 today recompensed the American contingent in part for the wholesale slaughter of its sprinters; the defeats of its hurdlers and the collapse of Lloyd Stahn, its ace of the middle distances.

The victory climaxed a fairly successful day, Leo Lemmond doing all that was expected of him in finishing fourth behind Ritola, Nurali and Wide in that order in the 5,000-metre final. Identically, James Stewart, Los Angeles, well up with the decathlon field at the conclusion of two events, being in fifth position.

America now has six victories to its credit, five of these having been gained in the field events. The British Empire counting the wins of Canada and South Africa, which are separate in the official scoring, also has six victories.

Barbuti and Phillips, grimly serious.

POLISH-LITHUANIAN CLASH LOOMS AGAIN

Foreign Ministers Doing Everything Possible to Pre- vent Real War.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—Frank apprehension was expressed in official circles today over the growing menace of the Polish-Lithuanian quarrel. There will be a rally of Polish Legionnaires at Vilna on August 12 when Marshal Pilsudski will conduct a review. It is feared this event may have serious consequences.

It is learned that Herr Hoesch, ambassador at Paris, conferred with Foreign Minister Briand and asked that France employ the utmost caution in counselling the Polish government. The German minister at Kovno is warning the Lithuanians against an open clash.

German and Lithuanian newspapers continue to print reports of Polish troop movements although these reports are denied in Warsaw.

PERSONALITY, NO PART OF HOOVER PLAN

Nominee Tired of Crowds, Says He Will Appeal to Reason Rather Than to Emotions Hereafter.

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 3.—Herbert Hoover today served notice on his personal "Board of Strategy" that his campaign in the future will be conducted along the line of an "appeal to reason," rather than to "appeal to the emotions" of America's twenty million voters.

Hoover will leave to Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic rival, all spectacular campaign moves and conduct his own campaign on a business basis. His trip to the north woods was Hoover's last effort to win the election on a "personality" issue.

The Republican nominee made this plain to his personal advisers, most of whom have known him since his school days, the candidate indicated he had had a taste of the "personality" campaign on his five-day vacation trip and that he disapproved of it. Time and again on his tour of northern California and southern Oregon, Hoover made unexpected tours to escape the crowds. He even rode from San Francisco to Palo Alto by motor yesterday to escape a crowd at a railroad station in the former city.

A train was held for him but Hoover never appeared.

Refuses Invitation
On arriving home, Hoover definitely rejected a proposal of his friends that he spend three days in Los Angeles and Hollywood on his way back east. His present plan will keep him in the "City of Angels" but a few hours.

On his trip north, Hoover apparently tried to adapt himself to the "balmy" type of campaign. He posed liberally for the photographers and mixed freely with the newspapermen in his entourage. He didn't like it and whenever he got an opportunity, he slipped away by himself to fish in seclusion. His fishing excursions incidentally were spent wandering through forests and pacing woodland trails, with the angling side issue rather than the principal attraction.

Trip Arrangements
His personal board of advisers arranged the trip. They had had tentative plans to entertain him in various cities. Hoover vetoed them all. He frequently changed even the plans he allowed them to make for the trip. In the end, he reverted to "Hooverism." He played himself a map, aloof from others but warm

SCHOONER IS SINKING NEAR BAHAMA ISLANDS

American Coast Guard Unable to Go to Rescue Because of Treaty.

Washington, Aug. 3.—An unidentified five masted schooner, with 23 men aboard, is sinking at East Brother Rock, five miles east of Great Inagua in the Bahama Islands. The Coast Guard was advised today by its Fort Lauderdale, Fla., base.

Immediate assistance is needed. The schooner's distress was reported by the Belgian tanker Mato Carlebe.

Headquarters declared Coast Guard vessels could not be sent to the rescue, first, because there is an agreement for American cutters not to enter British waters as result of the rum treaty agreement. And second, because rescue ships from Fort Lauderdale, the nearest base, are too far away to give effective aid.

KILLED BY TRAIN
Central Village, Conn., Aug. 3.—William Gellinas, 45, was instantly killed at the Texas crossing of the New Haven railroad here today when his bread truck was struck by the Bar Harbor Express.

POLISH FLYERS ON WAY HERE; COURTNEY IS RESCUED AT SEA

Famous British Flyer and Crew Picked Up 700 Miles From Azores by Steamship; Fire on Plane Forced Them Down; Had to Abandon Plane.

New York, Aug. 3.—Thankful to have escaped the fate of others who unsuccessfully attempted to span the Atlantic, Captain Frank T. Courtney, famous British flyer, and his three companions were aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnewaska enroute for this port today after having been spectacularly rescued from mid-ocean where they had landed in a blazing plane.

The Minnewaska will reach here Monday morning. Radio reports from the liner indicated that Courtney, E. B. Hosmer, Montreal banker and leader of the flight, E. W. Gilmour, radio operator, and Fred Pierce, mechanic, all were in good condition despite their harrowing experience.

The men were picked up at a point about 1,600 miles due east of New York and a little more than 700 miles west of their parting point, Horta, Azores.

In Air 14 Hours
The flyers were in the air about fourteen hours when their plane caught fire. Realizing that nothing could be done in the air, Courtney headed his blazing plane downward towards the sea. He succeeded in landing on the rough sea without serious mishap, radio advice indicated.

The four men aboard the plane succeeded in putting the blaze out after landing on the ocean. Then came terrible hours of waiting with their plane bobbing up and down with each wave.

Meanwhile, Gilmour sent out S O S messages which were picked up by the S. S. Cedric and relayed to other ships. Five ocean liners rushed to the scene.

PLANE ABANDONED
London, Aug. 3.—Capt. Frank T. Courtney and his three companions were forced to land in mid-ocean and thus give up their trans-Atlantic attempt because fire broke out aboard their Dornier-Napier seaplane, the "Whale," a radio message from Courtney received by his wife here today revealed.

"Fire broke out on our plane and we were forced to descend. We had an anxious time while our plane bobbed up and down on the sea for hours and were thankful when our rescuers came but everything is all right now and there is no need to worry," was Courtney's reassuring message.

Courtney also radiated the following graphic message, depicting the descent of his plane, to the Morning Star:

"We were picked up by the Minnewaska after a terribly harrowing experience. Our machine caught fire midnight Wednesday. We were flying at a height of 1,500 feet at the time. We landed in flames on the rough sea. Then we put out the fire and waited for aid. We had to abandon the plane."

MRS. RAY AWARDED ALIMONY OF $50,000

Judge Arthur F. Ellis Orders Charles Ray to Pay Amount in 30 Days.

A divorce and $50,000 alimony was granted Mrs. Lera Ray, of Foster street, wife of Charles Ray, general manager of the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company here, by Judge Arthur F. Ellis of Hartford County Superior court yesterday afternoon. The suit for divorce was heard by Judge Ellis on June 6.

The $50,000 alimony is divided into $47,500 outright alimony and $2,500 counsel fees. All must be paid within 30 days the decision ordered. During the testimony at the trial it was brought out that Mr. Ray's salary is $18,000 a year. Mrs. Ray's suit was brought on the grounds of indelicacy.

The couple was married in Troy, N. Y., on June 17, 1903. Mrs. Ray's maiden name was Lera Board. Mrs. Ray was represented by Campner and Ponzner of New Haven, and Mr. Ray's attorneys were Shipman and Goodwin of Hartford.

Tom Heeney Elopes With American Girl

New York, Aug. 3.—Tom Heeney, erstwhile contender for the world's heavyweight championship, is honeymooning today with the former Marion Dunn, of Port Washington, Long Island, according to an unconfirmed report circulated today.

Heeney is said to have eloped to the little village of Ladtentown, near Suffern, N. Y., to be married by P. Margulies, justice of the peace and proprietor of the general store. Eddie Harvey, brother of Charlie Harvey, Heeney's manager, had no warning of Tom's matrimonial plans.

"But it's a safe bet that it's true," he said. "Tom and Miss Dunn have been very friendly since he came over to America about a year ago."

Judge Margulies was called by telephone at his store in Ladtentown. "Did you marry Tom Heeney and Marion Dunn?" he was asked. "You'd better ask Tom Tyhag," he replied. "Isn't it a matter of record?" "Not yet," was the ambiguous reply.

Heeney and his bride were reported to have sought seclusion in an apartment here which is listed in the name of Isaac Rosenblum. At that address the telephone was answered by a man with a broad English accent. It sounded suspiciously like the voice of Tom Mortimer, Heeney's trainer.

"Mr. Heeney used to live here," the voice admitted, "but at present I think he is on his way to the coast."

FEDERATION RAPS "REDS" IN UNIONS

Pres. Green Says in New Bedford They Play Into Hands of Employers.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—William T. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was on record today with a statement that Communist agitators will be fought to the last ditch by the A. F. of L.

"Communists," he said at the close of a session of the quarterly meeting of the federation's executive council here, "are endeavoring to overthrow this government through revolution by fomenting discontent among the workers of the United States, destroying bona fide union labor bodies and substituting Red organizations."

"The Russian revolution" started among the workers. And these people think they can bring a similar state of affairs about in this country in the same way. The council felt that the situation warranted some consideration. We will oppose these Communists at every point. They take advantage of labor disputes, work upon the already distraught feelings of the workers, and by their very activity, designed to destroy bona fide union bodies, play often into the hands of the employers, as they are doing now at the textile strike at New Bedford, Mass.

The communist influence there is very noticeable, with adoption of the same destructive methods used by the Fiascic, N. J., strike. The Bedford strikers have a just grievance. They are fighting against reduction of wages and lowering of living standards. They deserve the support of all organized labor, and it is a tragedy that these radicals should so distort the situation as to even play into the hands of the textile owners.

AL SMITH IS OPPOSED TO EQUALIZATION FEE

Gives His Views on the Mc- Nary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill.

New York, Aug. 3.—Gov. Al Smith made it plain today that he is absolutely opposed to the equalization fee as contained in the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill but that he does approve the principle of controlling the sale of surplus farm commodities and assuring the cost on the units benefited.

When asked today if he had intended to imply in his latest public statement on farm relief that he favored the equalization fee, the governor replied:

"The Democratic party is committed to the basic principle of equalizing the sale of agricultural surplus—the cost to be borne by the group benefited. It is not committed to the plan of applying the principle which was contained in the McNary-Haugen bill. We have no present plan for carrying out the principle but we promise to work such a plan immediately after election."

The governor was questioned about a recent announcement by John J. Raskob, Democratic national committee chairman, that a sales tax might well be substituted for the equalization fee in bringing relief to the farmers.

Hop From Field in France Shortly After Midnight; Last Sighted Over Atlan- tic Going at 150 Miles an Hour; Expect to Make New York in 48 Hours.

The Polish Aviators—Major Louis Itzkowski and Major Casimir Kubala—started from France today on the seventh trans-Atlantic flight to be attempted this year. They hopped off at Lo Bourget field, near Paris in the biplane "Marzalek Pilsudski" at 6:49 a. m. (12:49 a. m., New York Daylight Saving Time).

The naval prefecture at Lorient, on the northwestern coast of France, announced at 8:10 a. m. (French Time) that the coastal steamer Pequin had sighted a white airplane about 60 miles off the coast traveling at an altitude of about 600 feet. This was believed to be the Polish plane.

Making Fast Time
At the time the plane was sighted it had travelled approximately 370 miles from Le Bourget field at the terrific speed of nearly 150 miles an hour. It was headed towards the Azores.

When Itzkowski and Kubala hopped off they said they expected to "be at New York within 48 hours," but their route was uncertain. Their tentative plan was to fly by the way of the Azores and to land there for fuel, if necessary. The flyers said they would not head straight for New York, but would fly to Bermuda. They had fuel that was estimated would carry them 3,600 miles.

Of the other trans-Atlantic attempts this year three have been successful. The flights were:

Bremen—Flew from Ireland to Canada.
Friendship—Flew from Canada to Wales.
Italian Aviators Ferraro and Del Prete flew from Rome to Brazil.

Walter Hinchcliffe and the Hon. Elsie Macaulay were lost while attempting a flight from England to America.

Captain Frank T. Courtney was forced down at sea while attempting a flight from the Azores to Newfoundland.

The Spanish round-the-world plane Numancia was forced down at Huelva, Spain, after hopping off at Cadiz on the first trans-Atlantic leg.

THE START
Paris, Aug. 3.—Undertaken by the news that Captain Frank T. Courtney and three companions had been forced down on the Atlantic, the Polish fliers, Major Louis Itzkowski and Major Casimir Kubala, were winged off from Le Bourget Air field at 6:49 a. m. (12:49 a. m., New York daylight time) today on another trans-Atlantic attempt with New York as their ultimate goal.

Buoyed by the weight of the fuel which the fliers calculated would take them more than 3,600 miles without a stop, the silver grey biplane "Marzalek Pilsudski" taxied more than three-quarters of a mile across the field before it lifted into the air.

Itzkowski was at the controls. A huge crowd which had been waiting at the field for several hours cheered wildly as the plane rose in the air and headed southwest for the coast.

Parting Words
"We may land in New York or anywhere," were Itzkowski's parting words. Before the start the fliers had announced they would head for the Azores, landing there only if additional fuel were needed. If not, they said they intended flying direct to the Bermudas.

Weather conditions for the flight were ideal. Kubala, acting as navigator, sat next to Itzkowski in one of the two open cockpits. The plane is not cabin-inclosed.

All Metal Plane
The "Marzalek Pilsudski" is an Amiot metal biplane powered by a 650 horsepower Lorraine Dietrich motor. Its wingspread is 65 feet and cruising speed about 100 miles an hour.

Their flight is sponsored by the Polish government and follows months of intensive preparation.

The plane is not equipped with radio apparatus and therefore will not be heard from directly on its flight. Radio equipment was dispensed with because of the heavy fuel load being carried.

FIRST REPORT
Dreux, France, Aug. 3.—The "Marzalek Pilsudski" the plane in which the Polish fliers Major Louis Itzkowski and Major Casimir Kubala, are attempting a trans-Atlantic flight, passed over this city at 6:39 a. m. (1:38 a. m., New York daylight time) today flying easily and making good time despite its heavy load.

The plane was flying at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

NO ARMY MULES TO BE CUSSSED AT FORT WOOD

Baltimore.—Fort Leonard Wood will go down in army history. It is the first camp Uncle Sam has maintained without army mules and the accompanying "mule skinner."

The new camp near here is that of the recently established Mechanized Force with a permanent strength of 1,300 men. This number has been increased by 1,100 troops which have been concentrated here from various camps in the country.

The soldiers, representing virtually every branch of service, will take part in the maneuvers the Mechanized Force will stage during the next two months with their mechanical equipment.

Replaced by Trucks A new six-wheel truck, with a four wheel drive, is predicted to supplant the long-eared animal which has been the mascot of the army since it was organized.

Experiments already made with this type truck have stated the mules for the retired list. For instance the truck went up a sandy slope of thirty-five degrees with comparative ease and without the cursing of "mule skinner."

One veteran officer, whose eyes have inspected many a stable of mules, remarked that a team of mules could drag a burden up a similar incline if their drivers cursed sufficiently. "Utahly they climb the grade when their drivers want them to do the opposite," he said smiling.

An interesting sight at the camp is a group of old French and British war-time tanks. The discard of the mule is still somewhat doubtful but with the tank "veterans," their doom has been decreed.

During the maneuvers these "old timers" of the battlefronts will be started down hill and date under their own power and driverless. Then they will be shelled to destruction by their more powerful successors.

The Latest Tank The new M-1 tank, the latest development of its class, is expected to have little difficulty in putting the war-scarred tanks out of commission. The new types carry a 23 millimeter gun as well as a machine gun on the same ball mount.

It has a crew of two, a driver and a gunner. Its weight is seven and half tons and its speed is a maximum of thirty miles an hour. Tanks used in the war dashed about with a top speed of about seven miles an hour. The new model has a motor of 109 horsepower.

Among the battalions taking part in the experiments are: First Signal Company, Fort Monmouth, N. J.; Company C, First Engineers, Fort Humphries, Va.; Battery Sixty-first Coast Artillery, (anti-aircraft), Fort Monroe, Va.; Provisional Platoon, First Armored Car Troop, Fort Myer, Va.

Old Dobbins, however, is more fortunate than its long-eared cousin. They will be used as mounts for the cavalry during the sham-battles while other branches of the service will use armored cars.

Loading and unloading of personnel and material by day and night is a feature on the program the Mechanized Force is noted for speed in movement.

RESCUED IN MID-ATLANTIC

While Atlantic liners sped to their rescue, the men and the seaplane pictured here floated helplessly on the ocean about 800 miles southwest of Newfoundland, which had been the goal of their flight from the Azores. E. B. Hosmer, Montreal millionaire backer of the attempt, is shown at the left. Right is Captain F. T. Courtney, the pilot. Above is their Dornier-Napier flying boat, Whale. Inset is a map showing where the plane was forced down.

VETERANS TO STUDY CIVIL SERVICE AT INDIANA MEETING

Kansas City, Kan.—Recent defeat of legislation destined to secure preference for veteran seeking civil service positions is scheduled for heated debate at the 29th national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., to be held at Indianapolis, August 26th and 31st.

There is a likelihood that forces of the V. F. W., will be marshalled behind the bill presented by Congressman U. S. Guyer of Kansas for a new campaign when congress convenes next December, declared Adjutant General R. B. Hand, Jr., at national headquarters here today.

Veto of the Fish bill, after being assented by both the House and Senate, came a sore disappointment to champions of the measure during last session of congress. President Coolidge followed-up his veto of the Fish bill with appointment of a special committee to investigate and make recommendations concerning veteran's preference in civil service positions. The committee, of which Congressman Fish is chairman, is scheduled to hear recommendations from the various veteran organizations for presentation to the next session of congress.

In the recommendations submitted by Edwin S. Bettelheim, chairman of the national legislative committee of the V. F. W., eight points are being stressed, urging congress to enact legislation similar to the Fish bill as amplified by the Guyer measure.

STUDY PESTS TO SAVE PEACH CROP

Raleigh, N. C.—An attempt now being made to eradicate the strange disease which is menacing the huge peach industry of the Carolinas and Georgia.

Dr. John G. Dunegan, plant pathologist of the U. S. Government, is now studying the disease in the famous Sandhill peach growing section of this state.

In some sections, according to reports, the crop has been damaged 75 per cent by the bacteriosis. The plant specialist was obtained thru the efforts of North Carolina Senators and Representatives.

MRS. WALKER'S CHECK CASE NOLLED TODAY

The charge of issuing a check for fraudulent purposes and securing $500 from a bank in Hartford, which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Mary Walker of Pine street, has been settled.

Mrs. Walker, it was charged, cashed a check in Hartford during July in the amount of $500 drawn on a Willimantic bank which was written by her father, N. C. Maine and for which she received $500. This brought about her arrest in Hartford Wednesday night and was to have come before the Hartford police court this morning.

Mrs. Walker, it was reported, repaid the bank the $500 that was secured on the check and also the additional costs with the result that the bank does not wish to further prosecute the case. Mrs. Walker did not intend to defend believing that her father had an account in the Willimantic bank.

OUT-OVER SEA Lorient, France, Aug. 3.—The Polish flyer Major Louis Idzikowski and Major Casimir Kubala were reported out over the Atlantic at 8:10 a. m. (local time) by the Lorient wireless station. The naval prefecture announced that the coastal vessel Penzlin noticed a white airplane about 600 feet in the air sixty miles northwest of Lorient. This was believed to be the Poles' plane.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Satisfied that the Republican national headquarters is now organized to swing into the fall campaign at full speed, National Chairman Hubert Work today closed his desk and started out to find what the west holds in store for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

FUTURE AIR RAIDS OVER LONDON ARE VIEWED WITH ALARM

London.—Anticipations of the horrors of air raids in the future, as discussed in the House of Lords, have thrilled every Londoner.

To produce a lethal atmosphere over practically the whole of London, said Lord Halsbury, expert on poison gases, only 2,000 tons of phosgene gas would be required. Yet phosgene gas, for purposes of war is as out of date as the blunderbuss.

There is a new gas so deadly that a concentration of one part in ten million parts of air would probably incapacitate a man in a minute. With this gas only 40 tons would be necessary to make London a lethal chamber from the ground to forty feet in the air.

A bomb filled with this poison gas, dropped in Piccadilly Circus would kill every man, woman and child in London on the north side of the River Thames. "Ask any expert, and he will say that at the present moment London is at the mercy of any nation, reasonably close which is evilly disposed enough to come and obliterate it, and that London could be absolutely and completely obliterated."

PADDOCK CHANGES MIND

Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—Charley Paddock indicated today that he might be suffering a change of heart, on his declaration, after being shut out in his semi-final heat of the Olympic 200-metre dash, that he was through with the running game. Charley said today, in agreeing to run on an American relay team in Paris after the Olympic games, that running was his favorite amusement and that he found it difficult to give it up altogether. He added, however, that he felt he was through with competition of a serious nature.

ALL DAY INQUEST IN TRUCK TRAGEDY

Rockville's Superior Court Room Crowded Today With Witnesses.

Deputy Coroner, Judge Michael O'Connell of Stafford Springs held an all morning session in the superior court room of the Meadway building in Rockville this morning hearing the witnesses that had been called to testify in the inquest that is being held on the death of the boys on the Rockville-Talcoffville road a week ago yesterday.

The state police had been busy for the past week rounding up the witnesses who were called before the coroner and were allowed to tell their stories in versions of the accident happened which resulted in the overturning of the automobile truck, injuring over thirty and resulting in the death of three.

The hearing lasted until 1 o'clock daylight starting when a recess was taken as there were too many witnesses called. They were, in nearly every case, boys and this made the questioning slower than would have been the case if they were older. When recess was taken for the midday meal there were still many of the witnesses that had been called who had not been examined and they came back at 2 o'clock this afternoon. In resuming the hearing this afternoon the coroner intended to go through and complete the hearing of all witnesses so he may be able to go over the evidence as presented. After reviewing the evidence taken today he will render his decision.

STUDENTS MAKE FRENCH VILLAGE AMERICAN TOWN

Paris.—The old town of Fontainebleau, much beloved by the Americans, is once more transformed into a little American village with the arrival of several hundred students at the American conservatory of the old chateau. The Louis XV wing and the Pavillon due Tiro have been set aside for study, classes and sleeping-quarters. Seventy-three women students can be accommodated in the dormitory. The students claim the village which would look very much like any college town in America if the buildings were a bit more modern in appearance.

At the cocktail hour the streets are gay with bright sweaters and hazers and one hears little but American chatter. Several of the prominent cafes have installed large soda fountains, American style, and have been doing a rushing business these hot days.

Even the swans in the lovely little lakes which surround the palace are of American nationality, at least, the students claim them, inasmuch as they provided the new ones when the old swans died.

Many Americans who knew the celebrated amusement hall, "Magic City," will be sad to learn that it exists no more. What was formerly a great enclosure with all that the students claim the most of all, yawning pit in which French workmen are preparing the foundations of the new buildings.

Magic City came into existence twenty years ago and was a reproduction of the smaller scale of London's White City. At one time it was fixed up for a boxing ring or a series of exhibitions, given by Jack Johnston who was then preparing for an engagement with Max Bombardier Wells in London.

The International Foyer for Students in the Boulevard St. Michel, which is presented over a lively American woman from the south, has a young Turkish student among the pensionnaires. She reads her Koran faithfully, and at certain hours feels that she would like to turn her face toward the Mecca and kneel down to say a fervent prayer.

"No," she has been heard to say, "the floor is too dirty. There should be carpets where one does not walk with the shoes on."

For the sum of twenty-eight cents, Serge Gambler, a young Frenchman living near Amiens, has killed two sisters, aged seventy and sixty-four years, respectively. Gambler ordered a glass of beer in the little grocery-shop, the two old ladies kept, drank it and then handled a ten-franc bill for payment. When the elder sister turned around to get the change, Gambler pulled out a small hatchet from under his coat, struck her with it and then slashed her throat with a razor.

The younger sister heard her screams, rushed to her aid and suffered the same fate. Both of the women died and Gambler escaped.

JUDGE AND FATHER HELD RESPONSIBLE

State Senator and Policeman Are Also Indicted in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—A sensational climax to Chicago's fight against election terrorism and alleged crooked elections was written today with the indictment of Morris Eller, city collector and powerful figure in politics, and his son, Judge Emanuel L. Eller.

Father and son were named in indictments charging "general conspiracy" returned by a special election crime and fraud grand jury. The Younger Eller is former acting chief justice of the Criminal Court.

The Senior Eller, by his own admission to the Grand Jury, is the political boss of the "Bloody Twentyeth" ward, where alleged frauds and violence for years were eliminated last Primary Day, April 10, when Otaevius R. Granady, colored opponent of Morris Eller, for Republican ward committeeman, was shot to death by gangsters.

Granady, investigators charged, was followed through the Eller domain by gangsters in automobiles and was shot when he attempted to elude the motor gangsters.

The true bills were returned today before Chief Justice W. V. Brothers of the Criminal Court. Eighteen others, including a state senator and a policeman, were named in the indictment, which charged general conspiracy in vote frauds in the 20th Ward on the last primary day.

James B. Leonard is the state senator named and Peter Pacelli the police officer. Abe Klass, a nephew of Morris Eller, was also named in the indictment.

Assault to kill, assault with a deadly weapon and kidnaping were charges returned against Morris Brownstein, Martin Klass and Buddy Jacobson. Three others named in the indictment were similarly charged.

STRIKERS MAKE PLEA TO CO. STOCKHOLDERS

New Bedford Conservatives Make An Unusual Peace Move.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 3.—Appealing to the thousands of stockholders of the sixteen cotton mill corporations in an unusual and surprise peace move, leaders of the conservative element of the 27,000 striking textile operatives today asked the "real owners" of the 66 mill units here to "help us take down the reductor notices and we will face the future together," according to an exclusive article in the New Bedford Evening Times this afternoon.

The appeal, sent to each individual stockholder, was signed by officers of the textile council and stated that: 1.—The stockholders should make common cause with the workers against the mill officials, who were accused of "lack of courage and occasional down-right incompetence."

2.—The stockholders have lost $68,000,000 by depreciation of their investment in the past five years.

3.—The wage cut of ten per cent was not the real issue but merely the "last straw," and that it would have been accepted had the workers any confidence that the money would have been wisely expended in the restoration of the industry.

4.—Inside cliques of stockholders were accused of milking the treasury dry by organizing themselves into selling houses, fortunes lost through unwise buying of cotton, sons and cousins of mill officials promoted over the heads of more competent workers, equipment allowed to run down and become obsolete and that methods of 1850 have been used in place of those of 1928.

FORD COUPES COLLIDE AT OAK AND COTTAGE

Two Ford coupes, one owned by William A. Burke of 30 School street and the other owned by John H. Carman of 25 Maple street, were in collision at the corner of Oak and Cottage streets at 12:30 this noon.

Burke was driving east on Oak street as Carman came out of Cottage street, going south. Both claimed they sounded their horns, but this did not prevent the two cars coming together. Carman struck the Burke car damaging the fender, but he was less fortunate as he did not stop until his car had gone across the road and ended up against the curbing resulting in both the rear and front left wheels being broken.

Aberdeen.—The people of Aberdeen are so fond of art for art's sake that the authorities of a public library here have had to obliterate nude pictures from periodicals to prevent them being torn out and taken home.

And the people of Aberdeen have consequently protested. They complain that certain nude pictures by the late Charles Sims have been so stamped over with the official library stamp that none can study the pictures for art's sake.

"It is merely a precautionary measure," an official explained. "The kind of illustrations stamped are just the variety that is torn out when the attendants backs are turned."

Its members were said to have plotted against the president of the United States including President Calles. Secret Order Members of this secret order, it is claimed, were compelled to take an "oath of service" and were branded with the letter "L. H. S." which stand for "In Hoc Signo." Mother Superior Accepted Conception was alleged to have admitted that she had been branded twice. Prosecutor Correa Nieto said that, from the evidence, the nun "appears to have been an intellectual author of the assassination." He added, "It is necessary to capture Trejo Morales (or Trejo as he is commonly known) for he is the key to the whole situation. He could clear the case up if we had him in hand. Trejo is not an 'exalted Catholic.' We regard him as a fanatic. What his motives were we do not know. WEATHER MEN PLAN TO MAKE OCEAN SAFER FOR ATLANTIC FLIERS

Paris—Weathermen of eight nations in conference here took steps to protect trans-Atlantic fliers from the fatal whims of the elements. On the proposition of Dr. Chas. Frederick Marvin, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, they agreed to cooperate in centralizing reports and forecast so that aviators would have the most complete knowledge of meteorological conditions along the entire route before hopping off. General Delcambre, chief of the French weather bureau spoke in support of Dr. Marvin. "Most aviators possess but a rudimentary knowledge of meteorology and too often they take it upon themselves to investigate conditions, at the risk of compromising the functioning of legitimate weather services," he said. Other countries represented were Germany, England, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Portugal. Americans, per capita, are 96 cents poorer this year than they were last, the treasury tells us. If we could find the person who got our 96 cents, we'd gladly send him the other four.

SILENT PLANES 30 MILES UP TO GO 2,000 M. P. H.

London.—Silent airplanes, flying thirty miles above the ground and capable of a speed of 2,000 miles an hour, are visualized by a writer in the London "Referee," who claims to have particulars of experiments with a new type of aircraft which are to be carried out shortly in Germany. The new invention, which the writer declares will revolutionize aviation, and make possible a trans-Atlantic flight between Europe and America in the incredible space of ninety minutes, is stated to be based on the principles of the "rocket car," which attained a speed of 450 miles an hour in a recent test. The experiments, the writer states, will be carried out by Herr Wilhelm Raabe, a German pilot, who intends to drive an airplane fitted with "rockets" similar to those which piloted the German mystery car on its record-breaking trip. Revolutionize the Air "There can be no question," the Referee states, "that the rocket car will revolutionize aviation, and although popular imagination may boggle at the idea of flying thirty miles above the ground, the German inventors are confident that their 'wonder plane' will be as safe as the present-day mode of flying. "Air resistance in those heights which have never been reached by human beings so far, is so small that it will hardly play any part at all. Consequently, it will be possible to achieve far higher speeds than in the lower strata of atmosphere. "To combat the risk of life encountered in high rarified air, the new airplane will be hermetically sealed, and made air-proof and pressure-proof. It will be heated so that normal conditions prevail inside the cabin. "To enable flying through rarified atmosphere, a vehicle is wanted which will not be based on the kite-principle, and not on any aerodynamic principle. It is necessary that the machine should be able to do without air support altogether that it should rise and go forward with its own independent powers. This problem has been solved by the rocket motor. "The forward movement of a motor vehicle until now was based upon a motor power driving wheels which had to overcome friction resistance of the earth. The rocket car which has been successfully tested is worked on an entirely different principle. Driven Backward "It is driven by the backward push of exploding rockets. The German engineers who are at present engaged in its construction have greater ambitions than to create a new car, which develop enormous speed but which will have many disadvantages as compared with the oil motor. They aim at the construction of an airplane which will be driven upwards by rockets exploding in the direction of the earth, and driven forward by rockets exploding backwards. "An air vehicle of this description will be able to fly in the greatest heights without having to take any consideration of atmospheric or weather conditions, and as it will not have to overcome any air resistance to speak of, it will achieve a speed, which will make a flight from Berlin to New York a matter of a few hours. Air noise, moreover, will be practically eliminated, as there will be no air waves to serve as medium for sound-waves."

COMPLETE SKELETON OF ANCIENT HUMAN BROUGHT TO U. OF C.

Chicago.—What is possibly the first complete skeleton of ancient man to be found in North Africa was brought to this city by Paul Nesbit, twenty-four-year-old graduate of the University of Chicago. Nesbit has been in North Africa as head of the Logan-Beloit expedition. The skeleton, found in strata that is dated 30,000 years ago, will be studied by the university faculty, and is expected to be of great scientific importance in determining questions relating to the origin of man. Among other discoveries by the expedition is an "escarcolite." This is a mound 400 feet in length and practically 300 feet wide, varying in depth from five to twelve feet, built entirely of the shells of snails on which prehistoric man lived. In addition to the shells several ostrich eggs were found, some of which were engraved. Prior to the discovery of the ancient skeleton, the expedition worked in the neighborhood of Mech-El-Arbi, finding several incomplete skeletons.

WORLD'S OLDEST COUPLE IN SERBIAN TOWN ARE BOTH OVER CENTURY

Belgrade.—What is probably the oldest couple in the world have been discovered in a small Serbian village, Verbitza, near Aranjoivat. The husband, Dimitije Filipovitch, 110 years old, has been married since the age of eight to Jivana, age 107. They live happily in a little house, apparently extremely pleased after long, happy years together. Both are teetotalers at the present time, although during a few years they drank light wine. Dimitije tells interesting facts of past events. His wife is less talkative and has great horror of camera men. On the occasion of their recent anniversary, day, it was almost impossible to make her consent to a little photograph. "You have come around just ninety years too late," she argued, "you would have taken a pretty woman then."

CIGARETTES LOSING CASTE IN ENGLAND; "MANLY PIPE" WINS

London.—Cigarettes are dethroned in London, because they are doing effeminate. The "manly" pipe has superseded them and returned to its old-time popularity. To find this out, one has only to spend ten minutes in the fashionable area of London between Bond street and Saville street. The young men, who, twelve months ago, were drawing clouds of smoke through long and wild-colored cigarette-holders, are now to be seen puffing at a scarcely-seasoned briar, and, to boot, appearing to enjoy it. "It is probably due to the fact that the Prince of Wales hardly ever smokes anything but a pipe, explain the leading fashionable tobaccoists. "And also, practically every young woman nowadays smokes cigarettes constantly and openly. The result is that young men are beginning to look upon cigarette smoking as effeminate and have returned to a pipe as a man's exclusive privilege. "Women play a part in another way. Many of them prefer to see men with pipes rather than cigarettes, and don't hesitate to say so. "To meet the new demand for pipes special designs are being manufactured which can be smoked in doors. One of these, a very small pipe holding enough for five minutes' smoke, has been designed for dances. "Pipes with long stems are the most popular. They are cooler and prevent smoke getting into the eyes. "An airplane trip to Venus would cost $1,400,000,000 according to a scientist's calculation. But there are places right here in the United States where you can spend that much on a vacation.

Press the Pedal and oil your car

Motor cars of high price, such as the Rolls Royce, prize Bijur centralized chassis lubrication as an invaluable feature. Nash, at moderate price, has it as standard equipment on all "400" Advanced Six Models. Bijur operation is simplicity itself—and it is invariably efficient regardless of changes in temperature. There's a lever conveniently placed for your left toe at the floor board. Simply depress it once and 21 points are automatically oiled, including all spring shackles. Both and expense of service station lubrication are eliminated. Wear at vital chassis points is avoided. Annoying squeaks and groans are stopped before they start. The world has a new and finer motor car, with features of excellence hitherto found only on very costly cars. Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication is one of them.

Boston & Maine's Mammoth Station And $1,000,000 Road Soon Ready

Boston, Mass. — Work on the new North Station Industrial Building on the site of the old Fitchburg depot, has been rapid, despite the delays occasioned by the general strike of steel workers. A clear picture of the spacious and ample proportions of the facilities soon to be made available, are given to commuters, who have been somewhat restricted during the early stages of construction, by the opening of the new concourse and the main entrance of the new North Station.

The new North Station has already begun to take form, to the thousands of persons who pass through it daily. The first phase has been completed and will be ready for formal opening early in the fall, it was stated. The Coliseum above it will be finished the first part of the year.

To make possible the new Million Dollar Thoroughfare, 32 feet wide, the Boston and Maine has been taking up tracks and razing most of its freight houses in the Minot street area. The new artery will give direct access between the North Station and the adjacent business district, and the Back Bay, Cambridge and other sections.

In order to clear the way for the construction of the new roadway, it was necessary to demolish the west wing of the old North station. The old Boston and Lowell station, which has served as temporary headquarters of the North Station during the construction period, will also be razed when the new baggage unit is put into use.

Consideration is being given to the construction of a large modern hotel on part of the site that will be Boston and Lowell station to complete the new North Station group. Progress on the new North Station and the Coliseum, and on the new North Station Industrial Building on the site of the old Fitchburg depot, has been rapid, despite the delays occasioned by the general strike of steel workers.

Chicago.—Tales of adventure, romance and love are the windows through which the blind seek to escape from their sightlessness. Over fifty per cent of the books embodied in Braille—the special script for blind readers—in the Chicago public library are for pleasure reading. Among the most popular ones are "Captain Blood," "Saramonche," "The Count of Monte Cristo," "The Music Master," "Stella Dallas," "The Royal Road to Romance" and works by Edna Ferber, Karl Sanburg, Peter B. Kyne, Rex Beach, Harold Bell Wright and Zane Gray. The section of the Chicago Public Library devoted to the blind has a circulation which extends to seven states.

Last year 23,494 volumes, and 3,825 periodicals, all transcribed into Braille symbols were circulated, serving 840 readers. The remainder of the books for the blind, those which are not read for pleasure, are of professional interest. It is difficult to find any occupation which blind men and women have not entered.

After the war, when the Braille system of raised symbols was adopted over the world for the first time, books in other systems for the blind were largely discarded throughout this country. In re-building, the government, which appropriates $75,000 a year to maintain a press for the printing of books for the blind, started with the first grade books and worked up.

High schools have been well taken care of so far but there is little, in comparison for advanced readers. Seven Sisters-rd, Holloway, London, obtains its name from seven old elm trees which grew on Page Green, Tottenham. The original trees have long since disappeared and forty-two years ago seven sisters named Hibbert planted seven young elm trees to continue the association.

Chicago.—Evidence that college and university teaching is undergoing a period of evolution, which will vastly increase its effectiveness was presented at the meeting of the Institute for Administrative Officers of Institutions of Higher Learning by Professor F. W. Reeves of the University of Kentucky, who reported on the results of a tour of eighty-seven colleges which he has recently completed.

Most widespread improvements are the organization of survey and "honor" courses, group criticisms of the efficiency of teachers by students and alumni, separation of classes according to ability, and realization of the "opportunity and not compulsion" theory by student-faculty cooperative research.

Fruitful Research "The results of years of fruitful research in the elementary and secondary schools have made available valuable techniques of investigations, many of which are being applied to the problems of higher learning," said Professor Reeves. "On the one hand we have such teaching methods, and on the other the lifting of all requirements on able students, so that they may carry forward their work on their own initiative, with a comprehensive examination in whatever field they are most interested, at the end of two years."

Particularly interesting have been experiments at the University of Chicago, as exemplified by the classes of Professor W. C. Bowers, in Religious Education. Here the classes are allowed to define their own problems at the beginning of the course, and the members and the teacher work out these problems individually and in committees, and at the end of the term, have not only acquired a great deal of information and acquired a technique of work but have made a definite addition to the constructive work going forward in that field.

In the afternoon session Dean R. E. Rhenow of the State University of Iowa, scored the disciplinary methods prevalent in American colleges. Value of Discipline "In order to maintain order and so that student conduct will not bother us too much, we find ourselves functioning in outworn conventions of discipline," he said. "We regard students objectively, treat them in mass fashion, and when they do something which we disapprove of, punish them with the standard discipline of suspension or expulsion."

"Though intimacy between student and dean is no longer customary, because of the amazing growth of our colleges during the last twenty-five years, we should bend every effort toward individual treatment of individual cases. Insofar as it is possible, we should allow them to discipline themselves. And reformation rather than punishment, of course, should be the order of the day."

"The United States is dedicated to a program of extensive college education; but the colleges are neglecting to instill the students with social responsiveness. Why need America have so overwhelming a crime situation if its college men and women are trained in self-restraint, social responsiveness and leadership?"

Among the contributions to the Republican campaign fund the other day were two fifty-cent pieces. People are beginning to take their politics too seriously.

MASS. REPORT SHOWS AUTO FATALITIES ON GRADUAL INCREASE

Boston.—Reports covering the first six months of the current year, made by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, The Massachusetts Safety Council, and the Boston Automobile Club, show that an average of 19 persons per day were injured or killed during that period in Boston.

The report shows a higher average of automobile fatalities than that recorded for 1927 when the average was 10 persons per day. Although the increase is due to the larger number of occupants of automobiles who figure in accidents, pedestrians still constitute the greater portion of the list of 2,282 for the period up till July 1. On the same date in 1927 the toll was 1,814.

The figures for June reveal that over one-half of the fatalities were children 14 years old or under whereas in the preceding five months only one-third of the deaths were those of children. During June, 1928, 545 persons were killed or injured by motor cars a decided increase over the figure of 385, recorded for June, 1927.

The number of occupants figuring in accidents took a jump from the 1927 figure of 548 to 851 this year, while the number of children between the ages of five and four-

WORLD'S FIRST AIR YACHT IS PROUD POSSESSION OF CANADIAN MILLIONAIRE

London.—Believed to be the first "air yacht" ever built, a luxurious cruiser of the skies is the proud possession of Major Andrew Holt, a wealthy Canadian, who is engaged in the cinema industry here.

The plane, which is reputed to have cost $100,000 is a giant Fokker. It is equipped with a tastefully furnished bedroom and drawing room, the latter fitted with comfortable armchairs and a desk at which the owner can work while in the air.

PHANTOM PLANE IN SUCCESSFUL TRIAL FLIGHTS

Paris.—Now comes the pilotless plane—the "phantom ship" of the air. The pilotless plane has had its tests and proved successful.

The phantom flyer is due to ten years effort on the part of Major Max Boucher and Engineer Raoul Bernady and is based somewhat on the same principle as the automatic gear shift in automobiles.

The plane used for experiment is a Breguet "19" fitted with a Renault 300 horsepower motor. A group of motors, electrically controlled, guide the ship either up or down or from left to right.

Too much list to the left and automatically a motor actuates the all-erons stabilizing the plane.

To leave the ground wheels are placed under the tail. After a short run the speed of the motor controls the ground wheels and the ship leaves the ground under the tail being left behind.

When the plane is ready to land a button is pushed and the motor at once slows down and a long wire is automatically dropped from the bottom of the fuselage.

Once this wire touches the ground a contact is made which controls the position of the plane. The nearer the plane approaches the ground the shorter the wire becomes and consequently the plane straightens out for a landing.

Once the plane touches ground the motor is automatically shut off and brakes are applied stopping the ship in a restricted space.

Major Boucher says that it is only a matter of a few months before he can apply wireless to his plane and then he intends to follow behind his "phantom ship" in another plane guiding all its movements.

"After that, says the Major, "it remains to install a special switch-board whereby an entire fleet of planes may be manoeuvred by one operator even at a distance of many miles."

Major Boucher's plane was tested under the auspices of the French Army and all trials have been pronounced satisfactory by the Army Aviation Technical Service.

"Marriage is a constant menace for the young American man," says George Leblanc, first wife of Maurice Maeterlinck, writing in "L'Intransigent."

"It is like a sharp sword suspended over the head of every young man of marriageable age. By the slightest movement he is lost."

"Of course there is the possibility of a divorce, but that is for the older, hardened ones. Few good Americans will leave their young wives and babies without a good living assured them."

Madame Leblanc admires the hardworking American husband who very often loses his health for his family and finds that their temperament and characteristics are the exact reverse of those of young American women. She is referring to the great middle class.

"Fortunately," she adds, "for the others—there is Paris."

MAYOR WALKER HAS IT ENOUGH FOR FILM STAR

Hollywood.—Mayor Jimmy Walker, who dresses well enough to be a movie actor, also has "it."

Should the dapper New York burghmaster tire of his chosen profession of politics, he can turn to the art of film acting.

He demonstrated his cinematic capacities here recently when he appeared both in screen and person at the brilliant premieres of "Lilac Time" and almost stole the show from his petite star, Colleen Moore.

The mayor was billed as the guest speaker, but brought a thrill of surprise to the first night audience when he essayed the lead opposite winsome Colleen in an intimate screen skit.

The sparkling subtitles may have been written by a high priced Hollywood title writer, but they were so characteristic of the wise cracking chief citizen of Gotham that the audience was almost confident that Jimmy himself was the author.

Skit With Star Mayor Walker was a perfect film sophisticate as he sat with Colleen on a sofa and tried to interest her in politics while she tried to vamp him with all of the arts known to a screen siren.

Colleen smiled her most beguiling smile and flashed her languorous eye lashes in approved Cleopatra fashion.

"What's the matter, have you got blep eyes?" the film hero asked, not the least bit annoyed.

UNKNOWN'S TOMB SOON COMPLETE FOR ARLINGTON

Washington.—The tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery, which since November 11, 1921, has been marked by a plain marble slab, will be completed, and immortalized by an unnamed American dead of the World War accomplished within a year.

This announcement, from the War Department commission in charge of the tomb, was based on the fact that there remains at present only the selection of an appropriate design for the tomb from five drawings and appropriation of the necessary funds for construction, $50,000, by Congress, for actual completion of the work.

It is considered likely Congress will appropriate the funds early in December, and that work will start immediately thereafter.

Five Competitors In the meantime five competitors for the design to be used to complete the tomb are perfecting their drawings. The designs were selected from 73 submitted to the commission. No date has been set for announcement of the winning design, but it will probably be made early this fall.

Much good work was shown in the 73 designs submitted to the judges appointed by the War Department to pick the memorial, and it was a hard matter to pick the best five from the group. The whole group is now on exhibition in the War Department museum here. They range from the utmost simplicity to the grandeur and complication of oriental carving and design work.

The five successful competitors in the contest were picked by a jury representing the American Institute of Architects, the Gold Star Mothers, and the American Legion. The drawings were submitted without names attached, and names were placed in envelopes, which were opened after the winning designs had been picked, by Victor Mindeloff, Washington architect and advisor to the group in charge of the contest. In most cases architects and sculptors combined in submitting designs.

Winning Designs Those submitting the winning designs were: Schweinfurth, Ripley and LeBoutillier, architects, of Boston; Thomas Hudson Jones, sculptor and Mortimer Rich, architect of New York; Harry Sternfeld, architect and Gaetano, sculptor, of Philadelphia; James Earl Fraser, sculptor and Egerton Swartout, architect, of New York; and Horace W. Peale, architect and Carl Moss, sculptor of Washington.

Judges were Charles E. Coolidge, Boston; D. H. Burnham, Chicago, and Paul Crest, Philadelphia, representing the American Institute of Architects; Mrs. William D. Rock of Philadelphia, representing the Gold Star Mothers, and Colonel Sanford MacNider representing the American Legion.

DEBUNKED

Than the New York World the Democratic party has no more truthful or courageous organ. Because it is fearless as a party newspaper it has had the nerve to stick to the party's candidate Smith and oppose its own special candidate Hoover.

But there is another quality about the expedition that is comprehensible to very nearly everybody. That is its expensiveness. According to the latest statement by Commander Byrd the financial necessities of the enterprise will be close to $850,000.

The present attitude of the Democratic party toward the tariff is not new. It is the same old attitude as of yore; not quite a free trade attitude, but that of a "party of moderation on the tariff, and this moderation has grown, slightly, as the South has been industrialized."

It is to be apprehended that this straight-out declaration of the leading Democratic newspaper of the country will occasion weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth among the party's campaign leaders.

HOT DOG STANDS

Truly the appetite for reform grows with what it feeds on. A movement for the beautification of the wayside "hot dog" stand, initiated by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, has attracted to such proportions in New York that an exhibition of drawings of ideal refreshment booths has been opened at the Art Center as part of the campaign for the suppression of the "eyesore" shacks with which the country is speckled.

We wish the promoters luck—and we know one way in which they can put their idea over, if they will just visit all these "hot dog" and fried clam vendors and offer to erect for them beautiful little Japanese pagodas or Russian kiosks, free of charge, there is small doubt that in most cases the offer will be accepted.

The "hot dog" vendor by the side of the road gets his start in business, usually, on a capital of about nineteen dollars. Often he is a schoolboy seeking a few dollars of vacation profit to help him through another year with books and teachers. Very seldom is he a capitalist even in a small way. He does the best he can on a shoestring. Sometimes, if he is lucky his business grows and he could afford to build what the reformers might consider an attractive housing for his "dogs" and his clams. But even in that event there might be a difference in taste.

As a matter of fact there is one kind of mind which sees, in the higgledy-piggledy lunch shack, the charm of a picturesqueness wholly native. There is nothing in any other country like the system of lunch stands which peppers the map of the United States with opportunities for motorists to eat quickly and cheaply. It is as typical as the mushroom mining camp, or as the skyscraper, for that matter. People with super-aesthetic souls that the sight of the ramshackle lunch stands makes them ill would do well to confine their touring to their own private parks.

EXPENSIVE ADVENTURE

The Byrd expedition to the Antarctic commands the attention of the world more, of course, through the element of peril involved than for any other reason. The scientific aspects of the expedition are not in the least understandable to the large majority of persons. Sometimes there is a good deal of doubt, on the part of quite intelligent individuals, as to whether there is likely to be any scientific result entirely commensurate to the hazards involved.

A great deal of money has already been subscribed and an enormous quantity of material has been donated by manufacturers and business houses, the total of these latter contributions being placed at $425,000, while about $193,000 in money has been given by a large number of persons.

Approaching a million dollars seem like a lot of money to chip in so that a group of fine young men may be enabled to place themselves in a position of desperate danger for a period of two years. Still, that's probably somewhat the same kind of thought that was entertained by the many plethoric persons who refused to back Christopher Columbus in his search for a western passage to India.

ANTI-TOBACCONIST

To that bureau of the W. C. T. U. which is devoting its efforts to the task of rescuing the world's tobacco addicts from the clutching fingers of My Lady Nicotine is commended attention to the case of Jurgis Skinderis, father of a Long Island policeman named Skinderis, who has just arrived from Lithuania for a visit with his American son.

The big point is that he attributes his great age to the fact that he does not use tobacco. Nobody, according to Skinderis' belief, could ever be a tobacco user and still reach the age of 104. He constitutes perhaps the most authoritative source of opinion on this subject to be found anywhere.

There would be not the slightest necessity for the W. C. T. U. to make mention of the incidental fact that Jurgis was 98 before his suspicion of the injurious effects of the weed caused him to give up smoking. There is no use going too closely into details in such matters. The big idea is that Skinderis is 104 and he abjures nicotine.

ENTERING WEDGE

"Because he comes of a good family and has a wife and children, Mr. (Detective Edward J.) Hickey agreed to let him (Roger Watkins' associate Barber) alone."

Just the same the tact accepted, as a sound reason for failure to prosecute an offender, that "he comes of a good family," is deserving of some thought. There isn't the slightest doubt that many a prosecution is waived or slighted for that very reason

And at that exact point the even-handedness of justice begins to break down. This is the opening wedge for the whole wretched business of "pull" in the interest of criminals. It is a very short step from dealing gently with an offender for the sake of his relatives' feelings to letting him off on a straw bond at the urge of some crook-politician.

If an individual commits a crime against society the effect is precisely the same whether his father was hanged or is a millionaire banker. To condone the offense in the latter case while punishing it in the former is to destroy the honesty of the balance of Justice. It is impossible to accept "good family" reasons for letting a criminal off and at the same time to condemn political-influence reasons for letting off another one.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

BUTTER IS A WHOLESOME FOOD

Cow's butter contains more of the fat soluble "A" vitamin than any other food in comparison to the amount used. This makes butter a very valuable food for children and they should be encouraged to use a reasonable amount.

Since the earliest primitive times, butter has been the source of one of man's best forms of nutrition. The milk of cows, mares, and, in fact, the milk of every domesticated animal has been used, and is still being used in many parts of the world, but because of economy of production, cow's milk is now the principal source of butter fat in practically every civilized country.

It is advisable to use a certain amount of hydrocarbons or fats each day, both for their nutritive and lubricating qualities. Our best butter at present comes from the large and well organized creameries, since there it can be scientifically prepared, so as to avoid all possibilities of uncleanness. By this process, the cream is separated from the whole milk while it is still sweet by running it through a centrifugal separator.

The old fashioned method was to allow the milk to stand for two or three days and then churn the sour cream, which formed at the top of the vessel. Butter made from sweet cream is not as popular as a table article in this country as it is in Europe, and while it is relished by many, it is no more desirable from a standpoint of health than properly made creamery butter, to which a small amount of salt is added.

The best butter contains only about 11 per cent moisture, and will keep for a long time without spoiling. When much milk is present the butter tends to spoil. The rancidity is caused by the formation of butyric acid. By washing rancid butter in fresh milk, some of this butyric acid is absorbed, after which the milk may be washed out with fresh water.

Many families use oleomargarin. There are some wholesome butter substitutes called nut margarin being placed on the market at the present time, which are an advantage in families where the income is small and the butter bill is often a considerable item.

Question: A. R. asks: "What causes little red spots, like little specks of blood, to appear under the skin? There are a few on my face and over my body."

Answer: Your blood capillaries are breaking down because they do not contain enough calcium or other mineral matter. This may be due to your not eating foods containing these minerals, or simply because they are destroyed after eating by an acidosis in your system produced by a diet that is improperly balanced, from the standpoint of physiological chemistry.

Question: E. L. writes: "Will you kindly print a diet which should be followed by a person sixty years old, of appetitive build, who is getting rapidly stout? We know that starchy foods are fattening, yet what articles of food are it that will give a varied diet and keep up one's strength?"

"Keep up your strength" and, at the same time, not be fattening. Question: F. G. writes: "I have severe attacks of heartburn after meals. I would like to know what causes this and how to get rid of it."

Answer: Heart burn simply means over-acidity of the gastric juice, and is caused by bad combinations of foods, wrong kinds of foods, condiments, too much liquid at meals, etc. A teaspoonful of baking soda taken just after the meal will relieve the heart burn, but a real cure can only be obtained through removing whatever cause is producing the trouble.

MT. SCOTT SCALED BY FOUR AMERICANS

Jasper Park, Alberta—Mount Scott, 10,826 feet, which took its name from the Scotts of Antarctic fame, and is one of the most lofty peaks on the Continental divide between Athabasca pass and Fortress Lake, has been scaled for the first time.

After leaving Jasper Park Lodge, somewhat more than two weeks ago, the climbers established a high camp in an ice basin at an altitude of 8,500 feet. From here they approached the top of Scott. The ascent was made twice, the mountain being divided into two peaks, and the alpinists gaining the top of the southern eminence found it overshadowed by that of the north.

A THOUGHT

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 3.—Very soon now we will have the anniversary of Calvin Coolidge's famous statement: "I do not choose to run."

There is some slight prospect that our posterity will celebrate "Do-Not-Choose-to-Run-Day," in memory of this occasion when a president had a good chance to serve more than eight years and turned it down.

If the election should go Democratic, there might be even some sentiment for a "I Have Not Day," in memory of Al Smith's concise reply when asked if he had changed his mind about modification of the prohibition laws.

On such an occasion as "Do-Not-Choose-to-Run day" or "I Have Not Day" there ought to be simple and impressive ceremonies and perhaps it could be arranged to award a prize to the man in public life who had made the funniest or most remarkable public statement during the year.

If such a prize were to be awarded this year there would be some hot competition. The purpose of this story, in fact, is to point out some of the astonishing public statements made since Coolidge got everybody guessing.

Match, for instance, what George Olvany, titular boss of Tammany Hall, told the Senate committee investigating pre-convention campaign expenses.

"Tammany," said Mr. Olvany, does not take part in politics. Mr. Coolidge himself did very well when he told Congress in his last message that "Employment is plentiful." It is, of course, a little more plentiful now.

No less than honorable mention must be reserved for Marin W. Littleton, Harry Sinclair's lawyer. It was the pudge Mr. Littleton who referred to Senator Tom Walsh, savior of the navy's oil reserves, as a "Meddlesome Mattie."

Will Hays would be sure to get a few votes from the judges for his famous explanation of his original failure to Senator Tom Walsh, heavy contributions to the Republican campaign chest.

"Nobody asked me about bonds," said Mr. Hays plausibly. It was William J. Burns, the detective, who, when sentenced for alleged tampering with the Sinclair jury here, compared the injustice of it with that of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

The oil cases, in fact, brought out the most of candor in this little competition we're suggesting. Remember how Al Smith promised in a letter to Senator Nye to subject Nye to "public humiliation?" Smith never explained how or when.

At about the same time Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana, a leader among a most notorious pack of politicians, attempted to link Sinclair and Smith, referring to them with the line: "Birds of a feather flock together."

There was never made to look quite so sick as the other senators proceeded to hang raspberries upon his ears. Charlie Hilles, the national committee man from New York, gets into the picture somewhere with his assurance that national prosperity hung on Coolidge's decision to stand for re-nomination.

Ex-Senator Rice Means of Colorado might stand a chance with his famous explanation of American imperialism at the Pan American Union here.

"They blew us up in Havana harbor," Means explained, "and we came down all over the world." Senator Charles Curtis might conceivably be counted in for his announcement before the Kansas City convention that Hoover's nomination would put the party on the defensive.

And, last but not least, the famous admission of Senator Simon Pess of Ohio that he had "told what was not true" to the newspapermen so as to impress it upon them.

SOVIETS GIVE TITLE AND $75 PENSION TO FAMED CIRCUS CLOWN

Moscow—V. L. Duroff, for 50 years Russia's most famous circus animal trainer and clown, has been awarded the title of the "People's Practical Joker" and retired at the age of 67 on a government pension of $75 a month. He lives rent free in the former villa of a millionaire with a baby elephant, a monkey, three sealions, four tamed hyenas and innumerable Angora cats, white mice and dogs.

Duroff is known from one end of the country to the other as the man who has made the most people laugh. He went to jail several times in the Czar's regime for refusing to allow the political police to censor his jokes. One time he was exiled to Siberia for six months because he satisfied a grudge against the police by driving a pig dressed in the uniform of a general through the streets of Leningrad.

The title "People's Practical Joker" is equivalent to "People's Artist," the highest distinction which the Soviets bestow on a few actors and artists. He refused to retire, however, without a written guarantee that he could take certain circus pets to live with him. The monkey, who is a well-mannered as a child of 14, is his constant companion at the dinner table even when guests are present. The animal eats with knife and fork and drinks out of a glass even between meals. Half a dozen parrots and talking ravens keep him in good humor. One of the parrots was with him 40 years. The elephant and sealions live in an annex that used to be a kind of Roman bath.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE (1929) TEN STATE TRADE SCHOOLS

Connecticut trade schools are an integral part of the public school system of the state. Since the establishment of the first school in Bridgeport in 1919, nine other such schools have been established by the state. In addition there are two city trade schools that are state aided. Last year the total expenditures by the state for the trade schools was $549,252.

The total student hours in the trade schools for the year ending June 30, 1927, was 2,519,067. Divided by eight, the number of hours in the school day, it represents 314,882 student days for that year. In terms of pupil enrollment the figures are as follows: Day pupils, 2,885; night pupils, 1,826; total 4,711. There are 151 instructors in the trade schools.

The time required for men to complete a trade school course is 4,800 hours; for women, 3,600 hours. One-third of this time is devoted to academic and related subjects. Part-time extension courses for apprentices are arranged with employers, especially in the building trades, and cover periods of 4 hours a week.

The trade schools and the vocational departments of agriculture and of home economics in high schools together constitute the division of trade and vocational education of the state board of education. Classes of vocational agriculture are organized in high schools to accommodate the youth of rural communities and home-making courses are organized for girls, both being on a half-time basis. The two departments have approximately 900 students each session.

MENJOU AND MAYNARD SHARE STATE HONORS

Both Starred in Two Big Features for Tomorrow—Tom Meighan Sunday.

Another big double feature program will hold sway at the State Theater for tomorrow, with Adolphe Menjou and Ken Maynard, two famous film personalities, sharing honors on the same bill. "A Night of Mystery," is the title of Menjou's effort, while "The Upland Rider," serves to introduce Ken Maynard's newest western picture. As usual, the performance will run continuously from 2:15 until 10:30.

In "The Night of Mystery," Adolphe Menjou is seen for once without his far-famous dress suit. He plays the part of the dashing Captain Ferrel of the French African Chasseurs in a manner that is sure to win the hearts of his thousands of admirers. The story itself, is a drama with great love scenes interspersed with charming comedy.

It has to do with a handsome soldier who spurns the love of a married woman for the sweet affection of a single girl. He sees a man murdered and then voluntarily confesses to the deed in order to save the reputation of the married woman who loves him, at the same time saving the life of the brother of his fiancée.

Evelyn Brent, remembered for her work in "Beau Sabreur," plays opposite Menjou in this picture.

The associate feature, "The Upland Rider," in which Ken Maynard has the stellar role, is a fast-action western drama that is replete with daring stunts and spectacular horsemanship. One of the highlights of the picture is a cross-country race between thoroughbreds from famous stables in the west. Tarzan, Maynard's wonderful horse, also comes in for a share of the starring honors.

Sunday and Monday the State will present Thomas Meighan in his latest starring production, "The Rocket." This same picture is now showing on Broadway to crowded houses.

As an added attraction for Sunday and Monday, the management is also presenting the famous Tunney-Heeny Championship Fight which took place last week.

For the final times this evening, at 7:00 and 9:00, George O'Brien in "Honor Bound," and Olive Borden in "Pajamas" will be shown.

WASTE OF BY-PRODUCTS BLAMED BY EXPERTS FOR MANY FARM TROUBLES

Chicago—Pointing out that immense sums are lost yearly through waste of farm by-products, Dr. H. G. Knight, Chemical Bureau chief of the Department of Agriculture declared that chemical research has practically solved this phase of the agricultural problem. In his address before the opening session of the American Chemical Society Institute at Northwestern University, Dr. Knight told the society that "the disposal of corn-stalks, straw, and other agricultural residue to manufacturers should be carefully considered by farmers." While an offer of cash may tempt the farmer to sell the agriculture head said "the product is of far greater value in the end when utilized on the farm."

Dr. Knight further declared that "substantial additions to the nation's wealth will result when experiments are completed."

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

London—Dr. Mildred Trotter has proved to her entire satisfaction that shaving does not increase the rate of growth of the beard. Precise measurements of beard shavings supplied by four students over a period of nine months were used in the test. She also found that hair does not grow continuously, but in short spurts, each of which is followed by a short rest.

The slats of Senator Hoflin's bed in a hotel at Asbury Park, N. J., collapsed the other night and the senator fell through. That's once the senator got the floor, anyway.

Big Water Carnival At Globe Hollow Tomorrow

Out Of Town Swimmers Will Give Exhibitions

Local Events for Boys and Girls Also on Program; Warm Weather Means Crowd of More Than 5,000, Is Belief.

Globe Hollow will be the scene of another swimming carnival tomorrow afternoon and if the weather is anything like it was yesterday, it is taken for granted that the crowd will even exceed the 5,000 who are estimated to have seen the night carnival held several weeks ago.

The program for tomorrow's carnival will be much more extensive than the last one. It will be featured by a troupe of six clever girl swimmers from the Hartford Y. W. C. A. headed by Captain Carolyn Eberol. The others are Virginia Doncoes, Mary Hickey, Mollie Stock, Margaret Hall and Amie Batholomy. Miss Doncoes is the young woman who gained considerable newspaper publicity and recognition when she swam from Hartford to Middletown on the Connecticut river.

The Hartford swimmers will give a diving exhibition, numerous water stunts, stage several dashes and compete in a number of distances. This will be in addition to the senior and junior events for local boys and the events for local girls. Boys 16 years old or more will be classed as seniors. They will compete in the following events: 100 yard breast stroke, 50 yard free style, 50 yard back stroke, 100 yard free style while the juniors will have the first three. The girls will compete in a 50 yard free style dash and a 50 yard back stroke race.

Then in addition to the local events and the contributions of the Hartford girls, there will be fancy diving features by Joe Morris and Frank Siberia, the latter being a former Manchester youth. The famous Mattheu sisters of Willimantic will also give a demonstration of fancy diving as will John Carick, seventeen-year-old fancy diving champion of Pittsburgh, Pa. who is an instructor at the Kiwanis Camp in Hebron.

The program will start promptly at 2:30, Director Lewis Lloyd announced yesterday afternoon. He said it would last about two hours. During the program, music will be furnished by Art McKay's Aquatic Serenaders consisting of William Kanehl, Jack Crawford, Julius Andre, Lawrence Buncie, Edward Driadus, Norman Campbell, Ignazio Ottone and George Smith. In order to cover the expenses of having the out-of-town swimmers here and the orchestra play, it has been decided to charge ten cents admission.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE UPS AND DOWNS

Editor, The Herald:
At the beginning of the second round of the league games, all teams were to strengthen as much as they desired. As a result, most teams did as other teams dropped out of the league, leaving a pretty fast league for the remaining of the series.

The first game played by Gibson's Garage was with Highland Park. This game was won by Gibson's team although Gibson's list of players had not yet been handed in. There was no fuss or holla over protesting the game. (This team was not afraid to take a beating.)

Then Gibson's list of players were handed in and accepted. The next game was played with the Bon Ami. That game was won by Gibson's, but not until the last inning. There were no players in the game who were not on Gibson's list, although the Bon Ami raised an awful fuss and put in for a protest (as usual).

The next game was played with Manchester Green. This team playing the first round without defeat and so far winning two games and losing none, in the second round. This being the same score for Gibson's team in the second round.

This was to be the big game of this round, and it was one of the best games seen in Manchester in some time, barring none. This also was in Gibson's favor 3 to 1, but the next thing on the air was that the Green team had put in for a protest. (This is sure a funny league.) Gibson's list of players had been handed in and accepted, and only those players were used. But the Green and Bon Ami still insist on protesting the games. The Green has gone as far as to say that if they do not win the protest they will withdraw from the league.

This is pretty poor sportsmanship and looks as though they were poor losers.

WALSH DEFENDS OLYMPIC TRAINERS

Blames Committee for the Poor Showing of Our American Athletes.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Aug. 3.—The worst American Olympic team in history. This was the inevitable conclusion today, reached by those content to judge by results, and if there is anything else worth judging by, it had escaped, through a grave oversight, the public's minute attention. Until further notice, therefore, it must be assumed that an American team which fails to win a single race in seven held to date, can't be much better than downright bad.

It is the same team, man for man which less than three weeks ago prompted General MacArthur, president of the Olympic committee, to burst into an oration during which he hailed the outfit as the greatest ever. It was then; it isn't now. What has happened to it in the meantime?

Careless Training
Already tales are drifting back to America purporting to deal with laxity in training and prevalence of conceit in the camp of the American athletes. These stories sight plaintively for the days of hard-boiled trainers like the late Mike Murphy. They very obviously are inspired by persons who know all too little of the system under which an American Olympic team is prepared for its fate.

The writer's guess is that the present team has been "committed" to death. Why make the trainers "take the slap" even by invidio? They are men whose word is law on the college campus for 3-4 years out of every four; but during the fourth year they are appointed to the posts they now hold and immediately become mere overseers for the American Olympic committee. Lawson Robertson, Dink Templeton, Harry Hillman and the others may make recommendations but the orders come from above and, when they come, there is no appeal.

Ignore Trainers
Nine times out of ten, no attention is paid to their proposals. Ten times out of ten, there isn't any occasion for them to coach or train the men under them and they know it. It is an athlete's good enough to make the Olympic team is an athlete who knows exactly what he should do and when. The coaches simply are there to see that he does it.

That is the exact status of an Olympic coach; a position of honor when all goes well, and a shining mark for the passed buck when something happens that isn't in the script.

Meantime, the committee, saved by its anonymous character, takes over all of the authority and none of the responsibility. It is peopled, for the most part, by members who are not "practical" track and field men in the sense that they competed at all in their younger days. One wouldn't expect them to know, for experience, what the modern athlete needs. But they do know. Why? Because they say they do. The result is mismanagement or none at all.

Lost Every Race
However, the collapse of this team is so thorough as to leave no absolutely conclusive explanation at this time. Even a bungling committee could make the athletes lose every race they start. The climate doesn't explain it altogether, either. Amsterdam is below sea level and undoubtedly this took the edge off some of the boys. But what about the Finns, who came down from their brink atmosphere to take part in the games? They have run to form. What about Williams, the double winner of the sprints? His climate change from Vancouver to Amsterdam was even more abrupt than that of the California sprinters, Dappock, Borah and Wykoff, who failed so utterly.

Of course, there must be some accounting for the following "mysteries": How Wykoff could do 10 3-5 here four times in two days in America and finish a disputed fourth in 10 4-5 abroad. How Padock, doing 21 4-5 the day before, finished four in a 22-second semi-final; how Hahn could win the American trial in 1:51 and finish a reeling fifth in 1:51 4-5 in the big race; how, in spite of the fact that he is notorious as a good "repeater," he was forced to quit next day in a 1,500-metre trial that was won in slightly better than 4 minutes. How Conger could win in America within less than two seconds of the winning time at Amsterdam, yet be beaten off by sixty yards.

The Hurdlers
And how, above all things, those greatest of 400-metre hurdlers, Cuhel, Taylor, Maxwell and Gibson, could have failed so completely. Taylor did 52 seconds with the others close up in the Philadelphia trials. At Amsterdam, Maxwell and Gibson were fourth and fifth in a semi-final in 54 seconds and Cuhel and Taylor lost a final that was run in 52 2-5.

THE "600" MAY TALK
It will be interesting to watch the effect of the big flop on Rickard's 600 millionaires. They squawk some more.
The greatest shock to Rickard will be against his vanity. He doesn't care as much for the dough. His blow will be the mark in the record book that he promoted a loser. But it should be entered along with it that the show failed through no lack of ability on Rickard's part. He had nothing to present and he knew for months that the only out for him was to break even.
The big money in the corporation will tell him that he made a terrible blunder in signing Tunney for $525,000, but most any daring soul would have gone that high in the flush of victory after the Chicago show and at that time some of the smart boys thought that he had made a smooth bargain with the champion.
One of Rickard's best friends said after the fight—"I'm glad that they got a flop right in their laps. They haven't been paying Tex enough for a big job. They would have to pay $50,000 to get a man to run a job like that in any other line and they squawked when he made them a million dollars a year. They should have had a flop before this time."
Rickard says he isn't through with the business. There were stories before the fight that he was going to retire and spend the rest of his days spending his money, but he says that he has no such intentions. Perhaps the millionaires will try to persuade him to retire and some of the boys in the racket would like to be around for the killing if any of the Wall Street crowd tried to run what they call "the big joint."

Take Your Choice
The Mortimers, half-owners of Heeneys, said the Harveys, the American half-owners of the same property for the fight Tommy Loughran, the world's light heavyweight champion, said he was staid and overtrained and Tex Rickard said the week before the fight that Prof. Tunney was drawn too fine.
Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, said that Heeneys was undertrained and that he should have boxed eight rounds every day instead of four.
Of all the fighters who saw Heeneys preparing for the fight, the Sammy Mandell, the light-weight champion, came closest to the best analysis when he said: "His arms are too short. He hasn't a chance."
Jimmy De Forest, the veteran trainer, told friends confidentially that Heeneys was in for a sad beating. It was his opinion that Heeneys didn't box enough or work the right way in his training.

CARDINALS—OAKES
The fighting "Red-Birds" came out of a five game losing streak to play the so-called "Sturdy Oakes" to a 3 to 2 tie yesterday. Eight players composed the Cardinals lineup, but nevertheless the "Red-Birds" pounded the offerings of "Big-Boy" Beebe, the Frank Merriwell of the Oakes, far and wide.
Jolly started the first rally by setting down a perfect punt that Beebe could not master—two runs scoring on the 10 foot hit. Then Jolly got up with three on bases and hit a sizzling single to left center—two more runs scoring.
Kearns pitched a fine game for the Cardinals, holding the decaying Oakes to 3 hits. Three of these went through second base where no one was playing.

Bill Tilden stepped right out and beat Lacoste in the Davis Cup matches. We presume it was the net result of his reinstatement.
O'Goofy hears that Jimmy Maloney, with his eyes on heavyweight honors, plans a real comeback. To which O'Goofy replied it sounds like a lot of Maloney—spelled with a B.
But why say Maloney is coming back? Jack Sharkey says his hometown never went any place but to the floor.

League Leaders Clash Tonight; Managers Will Argue Protests

The Heights and Gibson's Garage will collide in a postponed Community Club Twilight League this evening at Hickey's Grove. This will be the only game in town tonight.
As soon as this game is completed, there will be a very important meeting of the league officials and team managers to take action on two protested games. Upon the outcome of this meeting hinges the future of the league.
There are reports that the League will be no more after tonight. Both the Green and Bon Ami have announced themselves as all done. If they do are not the winners of the protested games with Gibson's Garage. It is understood that the garage aggregation is equally firm in its stand.

Just what will happen, it is a matter of conjecture. Joseph Wright is president of the league and he will review the situation carefully before making any decision. In all probability, he will be advised in his finding by Director Jerry Fay, who organized the league.
With Highland Park out of the league and its defeats deducted from the teams which beat it, we find the Heights and Gibson's Garage tied for first place with no defeats and two victories. Therefore, tonight's shindig at Hickey's should be well worth watching. Both teams will have strong lineups. Tommy Faulkner will probably pitch for the Heights with Sipples or Burk-

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD married ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. The latter announced herself by telling their friends that she was Rod's first love, and continues to make life miserable for the bride until she meets a rich MR. LOREE and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the past.

Trying to keep up socially with their wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed. Lila seizes her chance to persuade him to accept a higher salary from Loree, promising security from financial worry.

Shortly after, she asks Rod to put some of her jewels in the office vault during her husband's absence. When he returns the case the jewels are gone. He wants to notify the police but she demurs, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career. They keep the matter secret, and Rod promises to pay for the loss as he can save the money.

Bertie Lou finds out that Rod has deceived her twice regarding his engagements with Lila and is heartbroken. A telegram calls her to her sick mother and she leaves without seeing Rod.

Lila prevails on him to spend the week-end at their country home to keep from being lonely. Bertie Lou is angered at his indifference and stays away several weeks. Lila plants seeds of doubt in Rod's mind and he is so cold when Bertie Lou comes back that she goes out to dinner with another man when Rod tells her that he has an evening engagement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

Bertie Lou experienced a gratifying sense of action in speeding along the parkway with Marco in his open roadster. The rush of a cool wind in her face, the soft whir of the motor—these were in perfect tune with her mood. She wanted movement, activity—even danger she courted.

Marco took a curve on two wheels and Bertie Lou was thrown over against him before he got the car on all four wheels again. Bertie Lou liked it. He stole a glance at her thinking she might be too frightened to speak. There was no hint of fear on her countenance.

"You're a nervy girl," he complimented her. "I hate squealers."

"Go as fast as you like," Bertie Lou told him.

But Marco was through. He didn't dare get another ticket. Neither did he want an accident. His father's ultimatum delivered in dead earnest just before he sailed for Europe a few weeks since, had left Marco duly impressed.

They arrived safely at Sherard's. And Marco was hungry so they took a secluded table and dined without dancing. While they waited the hors d'oeuvre he offered Bertie Lou another cocktail. She did not refuse so Marco poured the drinking water back into the jar and added the cocktails to the ice that was left in the glasses.

Bertie Lou was not accustomed to drinking. The gin she had taken at the apartment was the first she had tasted since her sudden departure for Wayville. And it was after nine o'clock now—nothing to eat since a bit of salad at lunch. Still, she did not feel that drink—the fresh air had overcome its effect.

The orchestra was playing a sentimental waltz. It was too sad to be gay. She drank the second cocktail in Marco's manner—all at once.

"Let's dance," she pleaded, but Marco said no. Said he wouldn't until he'd had something to eat. The food was served but Bertie Lou was now no longer in the mood for leaving the table. There was a curious numbness in her finger tips and she felt as if her clothing was all that held her up.

"You'd better eat something," Marco advised, watching her as she pushed the third plate away.

He didn't want her to feel her drinks too much. A girl who had to be dragged around the dance floor was a flat tire as far as he was concerned. He liked her peppy. They could get "half-lit" if they wanted to, but he objected to having them pass out entirely.

Bertie Lou wouldn't eat so he didn't order anything to drink. After dinner they drove again for an hour and then returned to the dance. When Marco wanted a drink he went out to the bar and got it. Until Bertie Lou reprimanded him. It was one o'clock. The place would close at two. Marco ordered highballs, but Bertie Lou surprised him. She drank only half of hers.

Nothing could make her gay. She knew that. No use making herself sick with stuff she didn't want. She'd broken that silly promise to Rod. That was all she wanted to do. Now she would see if he cared—should he find it out.

Marco came upstairs with her and unlocked her door. She let him come in to say good night to her. Bertie Lou snapped on a switch and the hall was filled with faint light from a golden Chinese lamp. She put out her hand to Marco. He ignored it and kissed her on the mouth.

Bertie Lou was too surprised to speak. Earlier in the evening he had tried to kiss her and she'd told him not to make a mistake about that. . . if he wanted kisses he could take somebody else out. He had been so ready to take her at her word that she hadn't expected him to try again.

"Good night, Mrs. Bryer," he said coolly, and Bertie Lou was rather startled by the swiftness of his departure. She tried the door behind him just to see that the lock had caught, then turned toward her bedroom just as a light was snapped on in the living room.

Rod was standing beside the doorway, trying the knob of his dressing gown. Bertie Lou saw that he had made a bed for himself there—a bed that was in full view of the front door. He must have seen Marco kiss her!

"Yes, I saw it," he said; "if you're wondering about that."

Bertie Lou smiled. "No attempt to hide it," she replied serenely. "What's the sentence going to be?"

"Do you want a divorce?" Rod asked bluntly.

Bertie Lou took it well. Inwardly she quivered from the blow but Rod saw only a nonchalant exterior.

"How about you?" she countered. For a moment they faced each other quietly and steadily. It was agony for Bertie Lou, and Rod was not happy either.

He was doomed, he felt, to misery, even as Bertie Lou herself felt that misery would be her fate. He did not want a divorce. What good would it do him? He did not know that Lila loved him, but even if he had known he would not have wanted to put himself in a position to tempt her to leave Cyrie.

And divorce would mean a lot of trouble; his parents would grove over it, and he and Bertie Lou would have to endure Wayville's gossip for nothing—for nothing, that is, unless a divorce would add to someone's happiness. Perhaps it would be Bertie Lou's.

"I'd rather give you a divorce than witness another scene like that," he told her quietly. "You ought to be free for that sort of thing."

Bertie Lou felt a surge of relief come over her. That sounded as if he really cared! "That was only a little war tax," she laughed. "But of course if you object . . ."

"I expect you not to give any man a chance to laugh at me," Rod interrupted.

"Then you don't object to anything short of a little good night kiss?" Bertie Lou came back, covering her seriousness with an arch smile.

"You may do as you please as long as you don't forget that you're married," Rod replied coldly.

Bertie Lou looked at him with eyes ablaze for a full moment. Then: "May I hope that you will not forget it either?" she cried, coming close to him.

"Bertie Lou!" he exclaimed sharply, "you've been drinking."

Bertie Lou challenged him with lifted chin and defiant expression. "What if I have?" she stormed.

"You've just given me permission to do as I please. But that's a good joke coming from you!" she stopped and laughed in his face.

Rod winced under her sneering tone. She had left him for months, with only brief, cold notes exchanged between them, yet he felt not entirely innocent of blame. But could he help caring for Lila but he regretted it. If Bertie Lou had known about it she could not have said more cutting things, he thought.

"You may make terms, too," he said quietly. "If you think we can live together in any better understanding. I don't want a divorce. I'd rather not have one if there's a chance we can make a go of it; each in our own way." The last came with significant meaning.

Bertie Lou was a little white, she feared. "I'll be easier on you," she said steadily, "because I know how hard it is to remember you're married."

She meant him to believe that marriage was as much a handicap to her as to him. He believed it.

"Any time it's impossible to remember it let me know first," he returned. "I promise the same to you."

Bertie Lou whirled toward the door. In the hall she halted, to see why he didn't use the guest room.

"If you'll put some sheets on the bed I will," Rod answered calmly.

Bertie Lou went on. In a few minutes she called to him that the room was ready. Rod entered as she left.

"Thank you," he said. Bertie Lou did not answer.

"Good night," he added. Very faint and indistinct came her reply as she hurried down the hall. He heard her door close quietly. But there was no sound to tell him what the closed door meant to her.

I hunted up a table of foods by an authority on children's diet and gave it to a friend. Her child was three.

If you would like the table, here it is. It is good for any small child over 2. You may be helped with the diet of your own children. Remember the "big" meal for little children should be at noon. Supper should be light. Light and early. This diet should be supplemented with milk.

Breakfast—six samples:
 Orange.
 Farina with milk.
 Toast and butter.

Apple sauce.
 Oatmeal and milk.
 Toast and butter.

Baked pears, or pear pulp.
 Milk toast.
 Cocoa.

Stewed prunes (prune pulp for young).
 Corn-meal mush (thoroughly cooked) and milk.
 Buttered toast.

Grapefruit (juice for young).
 Milk toast with grated yolk of hard-boiled egg.

Apple (scraped for young).
 Toast.
 Hot milk.

Coddled or soft-boiled eggs may be added to the above breakfasts.

Six sample dinners (noon) are:
 Meat soup.
 Eggs on toast.
 String beans.
 Rice pudding.
 Roast beef.
 Baked potatoes.
 Asparagus.
 Bread, butter and jelly.

Lamb stew with carrots and potatoes.
 Twice baked bread.
 Tapioca custard.

Creamed potatoes.
 Green peas.
 Stewed plums.
 Cereal pudding made with milk.

Baked fish (watch for bones).
 Baked potatoes.
 Stewed celery.
 Baked rice with honey or syrup.

Broiled meat cakes.
 Creamed carrots.
 Bread, butter and sugar sandwiches.

Supper at five or six—very light:
 Baked potatoes with cream or milk.
 Cookies.

Bread and milk.
 Apple sauce.
 Sponge cake.

Potato-milk soup.
 Zwieback.
 Marmalade sandwiches.

Milk toast.
 Stewed peaches.
 Cup cake.

Celery milk soup.
 Toast.

PARIS CHIO

A new slender type combination, fitted through the bodice and hip-line, with lower part cut circular to provide sufficient fullness to hem-line, to take the place of a slip. Touch of embroidery gives it a real French appearance. It is ideal to wear beneath the smart slender hip-line frocks. Style No. 223 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust, and can be made as simple or as elaborate as one chooses. For everyday occasions, washable silk radium, flat silk crepe or batiste is practical. Georgette crepe, nylon, flowered chiffon voile, and crepe satin are fascinating fabrics. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Emb. Trans. No. 11119 (blue) costs 15 cents extra.

So says Mary Elizabeth Dillon, president of a $12,000,000 public utilities company that also has a woman secretary and a woman treasurer.

Miss Dillon champions the woman executive, feeling that women are just as well equipped for such a job as men, so far as their mentality is concerned.

"They just approach an executive job with different equipment," Miss Dillon said.

"Often it is true that a man's prior experience and his observation of other men has enabled him to develop a definite technique which stands him in good stead when he assumes an executive job.

"Also there have been fewer feminine than masculine executives and so women have learned less by studying other women's methods. But this disadvantage is often offset by the keenness of a woman's perception, her quickness to learn."

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL
 by World Famed Authority

SEPTIC SORE THROAT IS SPREAD BY CARELESSNESS

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The epidemic of septic sore throat that occurred recently in a Massachusetts city attracted national attention not because of its rarity, but because of its proportions.

Epidemics of sore throat have occurred regularly in this country for many years; in fact, there were about 104 such outbreaks during 1926 and 1927. In most cases the difficulty is due to the fact that a person with a septic sore throat handles the milk somewhere in the chain of handling before its delivery.

A cow may have its udder infected with the germs and then all of the milk from that cow will be infected. When the milk is collected, this milk is mixed with the other milk and if pasteurization fails, the epidemic may attack every one who drinks the milk.

To prevent such epidemics, dairymen should not permit anyone with the slightest sore throat to milk cows, handle the milk in any way, or be at all concerned with the care of the pails or milk utensils.

Once any employe develops a sore throat he should stop work at once. A sore throat may not only be the result of infections with these germs, but of infection with scarlet fever or diphtheria, two other diseases that may be spread by milk.

Precautions

Before beginning his work, the milker should wash his hands thoroughly, and it will do neither him nor the milk any harm if he will wash them frequently during the milking process. This serves not only as a protection for the milk and the consumer, but also for the cow.

After milk is collected for ordinary purposes, it should be pasteurized. The milk is heated to a sufficiently high temperature to kill the germs of disease, and it is held at that temperature for at least one-half hour.

Ninety per cent of the milk used in the large cities of this country is now pasteurized. In not one of the outbreaks of septic sore throat that occurred in 1926 and 1927 was pasteurized milk at fault.

WOMEN'S DAY
 by ALLENE SWAN UNER

"It is held quite unreasonable that a man who can afford two or three automobiles should be expected to support his own grandchildren for three or four years. Yet the cost need be no greater than the depreciation of an automobile."

Writing an article called "In Defense of Early Marriage," Dr. J. Rosslyn Earp, director of health at an American college, editor, author, and a medical man specially concerned in the sex behavior of the "new generation," backs up Judge Lindsey's belief that early marriages before the couple are economically ready for them, meaning that the parents must assume the economic obligations, are the only solution for the country's malaise. He hits critics of the system who complain that making parents "the goats" is unfair.

JUST AS SILLY

But somehow his "two or three automobiles" argument sounds as futile to me, at least, as the tirade of those who call our modern wives parasites and say they have too much ease and luxury. I always have said that for every wife who doesn't know what to do with her time there are at least 12 who feel the very marrow of their bones crushed because they have not more time.

And I say that for every father with a son of 13 or so who could afford to keep that son's offspring as well as his "two or three automobiles," there are a thousand fathers sweating and slaving to amass just enough to stave off the economic specter of old age for self and wife and to give, perhaps, the children a better start at life than they themselves had.

If they do this, they are content and have a right, one would think, to lean back when "the children" are out of the nest. To be sure, if parents can have their "two and three automobiles," the argument that they can support a litter of grandchildren is good. But how many can?

WOMEN N. G.

Those who despise wage-earning wives will chortle with glee at the words of Lord Birkenhead, writing in a current magazine. He says in part:

"Women in clerical work and the lower grades of industry are permitted to do a man's work because they do it more cheaply. But every woman in industry who by underselling her labor deprives a man of his post is making more difficult the setting up of a home by that man. This prevents some other woman from becoming mistress of his home and from exercising the rights and privileges inseparable from that position."

He thinks that women have failed in industry and politics; that feminine influence outside the home has reached a decline; that women have been in an "unnatural" field, and have hurt the chances of their sisters for success in their "natural" field, the home. They have failed, in part, he thinks, because they cannot direct their own sex. He does believe in all work with children or favored with traditional feminine interests, because these jobs utilize a woman's "natural" equipment. And who shall insist that he is not right, when looking at women in the mass and not at a few isolated individuals?

BENNY, TOO!

Benito Mussolini speaks a little piece in the same magazine on this subject of women.

"No woman," he bluntly declares, "ever has been the dominant influence in a strong man's life—but contact with woman is a necessity for him, for through her he is brought to feel more keenly the human side of things."

I insist that a few men are really dominant until moved to the gesture of supremacy by some woman's weakness.

POTTED BEEF

Cold roast beef makes excellent potted meat. Put it through the meat chopper twice, add some melted butter, a little anchovy essence, salt, pepper and ground macaroni to taste. Press into pots and cover with melted butter.

CLEAN VELVET

Velvet can be cleaned by rubbing with a cloth dipped in powdered magnesia. It can be pressed by putting face downward on a very soft blanket and running a steam iron over the back very lightly and quickly.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product, a healthy remedy meant for young folk, Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every drugstore has it.

WHY WOMEN MAKE GOOD EXECUTIVES

"I have never found that the presence of children at home distracts a woman's attention from business when she wants to be in business. On the contrary, it frequently gives her a new zeal in life—an incentive to work harder."

So says Mary Elizabeth Dillon, president of a $12,000,000 public utilities company that also has a woman secretary and a woman treasurer.

Miss Dillon champions the woman executive, feeling that women are just as well equipped for such a job as men, so far as their mentality is concerned.

GALLIC WHISKER
DISPUTE RAGING
WITH FRENCHMEN

Paris.—Did Vercingetorix, the original Gaul, wear the original Gallic moustache?

Allegations tending to show that painters and sculptors of the whole Christian era put false whiskers on Vercingetorix have provoked learned arguments in the French Academy.

Until the Academicians reach an official decision on the question Frenchmen will have to ask themselves: "What kind of moustaches are we growing, anyway?" And there are a lot of moustaches in France.

The Academy ran athwart Vercingetorix in the French Dictionary which it is revising for the first time since 1878. A woodcut of the original Gaul adorned with a long drooping moustache illustrated the definition of Moustache. "This is the Gallic moustache," it was explained. "The picture is wrong, Vercingetorix was as clean shaven as a North American Indian," objected members of the Academy. For proof they pointed to the writings of M. Franz Funck-Brentano, Academician and historian, who set down: "Ancient money bearing the effigy of Vercingetorix shows him without a moustache."

Others retorted that the late Anatole France described a Vercingetorix who would have scorned barbers and never need hair tonic. Less erudite opinion, outside the Academy, failed to understand how an early Gaul could grow a moustache and still preserve a smooth face but such puzzling will have no weight in the ultimate decision.

Serious consequences will follow if the Academy gives Vercingetorix a scholarly shave. There will be no such thing as a Gallic or national moustache. Men who sport a so-called Vercingetorix droop may dolefully call upon their barbers to cut off something that simply is not French.

Thousands of people who daily visit museums and gaze at paintings of Vercingetorix will do so moustache of another, possibly less realistic he is hiding behind the original Gaul.

And if the French love for historical truth is carried out to the letter, stone chislers will have to mount hundreds of monuments to Vercingetorix and smooth off his upper lip.

"Ladies will please keep their displayed at a local movie, this hats on during the performance!" sign just reverses the old order of things.

The styles are responsible. Before, milady wore an obstructive picture hat with wide brims. She did not bob her hair. Today, she wears a snugly fitting cloche hat, wind blown bob, even more obstructive than the hats of old.

"Stop kissing in public!"—Why that would mar the scenery of Paris?

Thus spoke M. Jean Chiappe, Prefect of Police. He could do a lot to stop public kissing but he refuses to try, so the city is now breathing easy.

But Parisians had a narrow escape. M. Rloter-Berenger, municipal councillor, arose before the council and asked for an immediate ban on kissing, particularly on farewell kisses in railroad stations. "There are too many love scenes on the train platforms," he protested.

"Mais oui," replied M. Chiappe. "That kind of kissing is as old as the hills. When I was young I enjoyed that more than once. Weren't you ever young, Monsieur le Councillor? Didn't you ever have a little sweetheart?"

"I think this love pecking is really delicious and charming. It is part of Paris. Suppress it and you spoil the landscape."

"Please, Monsieur Ritor, let our youths do their kissing at the stations. Better that they do it there than elsewhere."

INDIAN IN KILTIES BRINGS DISPUTE IN BANFF CELEBRATION

Banff, Alta.—Chiefs of the Bloods and Stoneys are seething with indignation here this year and are deciding in their annual powwows whether or not they will allow their tribesmen to attend the gathering and festival to be held at Banff the last of August and the first of September.

One of the braves last year, in a spirit of fun or otherwise appeared before a host of visitors here garbed in kilt, coat, sporran, plaid, ghillie and all, and the dignity of the tribes has been ridiculed to such an extent, the chieftains claim, that it will require a large amount of influence to persuade the Indians to forget the incident.

The Indians last year enacted a peace treaty shortly before the Scottish incident which again caused a breach.

Indian days at Banff this year may prove to be an excellent feature should the braves decide the appearance of an Indian in Scotch dress is not such an indignity after all.

TOUGH ON CROOKS

London.—The business of drug traffickers and other smugglers is made harder by a new stereoscopic X-ray apparatus recently imported from Germany. It will show exactly what is in a boxful of goods or any article lodged in a human body.

The library of Gene Tunney's Connecticut home is stocked with forty books, says a dispatch. Why even lowbrow sports writers have read nearly that many!

TRY NEW VEHICLE ON BERLIN RAILWAY

Berlin.—A new transportation method which is in effect a combination of railroad, airship and suspension car and which promises speeds of 200 miles an hour and more is proposed by Director Krugenberg, of the famous Siemens Schuckert Works in Berlin. The new vehicle is a stream-line car, shaped like a Zeppelin, and driven by an air propeller. It runs suspended from two rails slightly above the ground. When it enters a station it drops to ordinary railroad tracks and comes to a stop. Krugenberg proposes to build this rail road between Berlin and Potsdam and to cover the twenty-mile distance between these two cities in five minutes. A model of the new vehicle, fulfilled all promises and Krugenberg believes that his invention with revolutionize railroad transportation. Rubber prices have dropped so low that tennis courts are now expected to be made of rubber. Tournaments ought to be more interesting than ever, with the stands catching players on the bounce.

MONARCH'S RETURN FROM CONGO TRIP

Brussels.—In August, when King

Albert and Queen Elizabeth arrive in Brussels from their trip to the Congo they will find shops, cafes, and hotels closed with flags at half-mast, if the plans of commercial organizations are carried out. Merchants are becoming increasingly bitter against the prohibition law which forbids the sale of spirits by the glass, consumers being obliged to buy two quarts at a time or nothing. Last November 200,000 people took part in a demonstration against the law but failed to impress the government. By the aspect of a city of closed-shutters and drooped colors the merchants hope to convince King Albert of their feelings.

McLARNIN KAYOES

LOAYZA IN FOURTH

Detroit, Aug. 3.—Jimmy McLarnin's dynamite blasted another challenger out of his way last night at Olympia. His victim in this time was Star Loayza, stolid Chilean. McLarnin knocked out the South American after a flurry in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. Although Loayza was willing and game he was no match for McLarnin. More than 13,000 fans paid approximately $72,000 to view the bout.

Loayza captured the first two rounds and the third went to McLarnin.

The fourth was 2 minutes and 20 seconds old when a left hook to the jaw put Loayza into a position for a short right-hand punch to the chin. Loayza was dizzy, and as he was falling a bit a crushing left hook to the jaw dropped him.

He was attempting to get up "nine" but fell on his face and was out, out for the count.

Cannibal mosquitos have been imported to eat up the kind of mosquitos that bite you. Wonder if, where those hard-boiled mosquitos came from, there are any cannibal insurance salesmen?

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL WILL AGAIN BE OPEN TO PUBLIC BY 1930

London.—St. Paul's Cathedral, the famous masterpiece of Sir Christopher Wren, will be fully open to the public again by 1930, after having been partly closed for repairs since 1925.

American visitors to the edifice in recent years have found the beautiful interior of the building mainly hidden from their view by ugly steel scaffolding.

A "dangerous structure" notice was served on the Cathedral authorities in early 1925, engineers deciding the famous dome and several of its supporting piers had become undermined and in danger of falling.

Since then thousands of tons of liquid cement have been grouted in to the piers, which owing to the hurried methods of the original builders of the Cathedral had been filled with rubble. In addition the dome has been materially strengthened, and when the work is completed the Cathedral will be safe for another 200 years, in the opinion of experts.

An immense steel chain, 450 feet long, is to be used to counter the outward pressure of the dome. The links will be laid in four parallel formations round the outer base of the dome.

POLICE COURT

The assault case of Clarence Jeffers who conducts a filling station at Love Lane was nolledd this morning in the Manchester police court by Judge Raymond A. Johnson. The reason for this action was that the principal witness, Miss Elizabeth Reichard of 99 Walbridge road, West Hartford, failed to put in an appearance. At the hearing last Monday it was stated that Miss Reichard was not in a condition to appear at that time and Dr. Moore suggested continuing the case until Friday.

Jeffers was defended by Attorney John Foley and his statement to the court was that Miss Reichard called him on the telephone and told him that she was not interested in the prosecution of Jeffers. She claimed Jeffers owed her $60 and that was what she was interested in. The attorney frankly stated that in his opinion Miss Reichard would not appear unless she was compelled to.

The alleged assault took place on Thursday, July 26, when Miss Reichard, Jeffers claimed, persisted in hanging around the filling station the greater part of the day.

KING APPROVES PACT

London, Aug. 3.—Royal approval of the American treaty to outlaw war was given by King George in his speech from the throne this afternoon pronouncing Parliament. The King did not attend in person. His speech was read.

"My government is happy to accept the treaty for renunciation of war and it is my confident expectation that, when it is completed, it will constitute a new and important guarantee for the world's peace," said the King.

IN BANKRUPTCY

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 3.—John C. Swett, of New Hartford, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court here today showing liabilities of $38,952 and assets of $36,465.

Michael Bocelo, a New Britain tailor, owing $3,910 and having assets to the amount of $1,793 also filed a voluntary petition today.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

SAVE YOURSELF

It looks as if this Friday forenoon writing, as though this were going to be the season's record breaking hot spell. In fact, it got a good long start in that direction yesterday. Anyhow, it's not enough to justify a little care in saving yourself.

Hot or cool, wet or dry, the housewife has plenty to do, as a rule, that can't very well be left undone—enough to tax her strength and er spiritual fortitude when Ecuador weather moves up into New England—without adding a lot of belated, hurried marketing in order to provide for the week-end needs.

That's where Pinehurst's painstakingly developed telephone and delivery service comes in particularly well. All our old customers know all about it—how we specialize in the accurate filling of phone orders, with a close check on every item and special care that no phone order ever brings to the home one single inferior or second grade thing; and how the delivery is amazingly prompt. But we want quite a number more Manchester housekeepers to know about it, too. The way to find out is to try it.

Friday nights, though Pinehurst's store is closed, the phone service is in operation until nine o'clock. And orders sent in are gotten ready and started out so early Saturday morning that yours will be at your door at 8 o'clock if you indicate that you want it as soon as that.

In such weather as this, an order and delivery system as accurate and smooth working as ours is a tremendous saving of effort to the customer—and every effort saved is a clear gain in comfort and peace of mind.

The phone number is 2000. Service till 9 p. m.

GET NO SUITS AND CAN FIND NO "DORSEY CO."

Patrons of Semi-Lottery Plan Clothes Vendors Disregarded Warning Last March.

Last March the Herald printed the result of the Chamber of Commerce's investigation of the "Dorsey Tailoring Company" of Springfield, Mass., which had agents at work in Manchester soliciting memberships in a "suit club." Members of the "club" were to pay a sum not to exceed $48 at the rate of $2 a week. Each week there was to be a drawing, the member whose name was drawn thenon receiving his suit of clothes without further payments. The worst that could happen to any member would be to wait 24 weeks and then get his suit anyhow. So the scheme read.

The Chamber of Commerce looked up and found that it consisted of a single individual named Charles Howard; that it had no plant and no store, merely a one-room office at 115 Main street, Springfield.

Its showing of responsibility being so slight, Manchester people were warned against falling for the scheme. Despite this a considerable number of persons did subscribe to the plan and continued to pay their $2 a week to a representative of the "company," who came here regularly until two weeks ago. Since then the local investors in phantom suits at $48 each have seen or heard nothing of the "Dorsey Tailoring Company."

One of them went to Springfield a day or two ago to see if he could get trace of the concern or the money he had paid in. He could find nothing of any company of that name, nor of Charles Howard. The office at 115 Main street was vacant.

Last spring a representative of the "Dorsey Tailoring Co." was arrested in Greenfield, Mass., jumped a hundred dollar bond, was re-arrested in another part of Massa-

TAKES MANY BASS, HEARS FIGHT DEEP IN WOODS

Town Clerk Turkington Back From Two Weeks Stay in Canadian Wilds.

Town Clerk Samuel Turkington has returned after spending two weeks in Canada where he did considerable fishing. Mr. Turkington made his headquarters in the little town of Erinville and visited lakes in various sections. The first week he found fishing none too good, but the second week made up.

The section which he visited is noted for the fishing and there were many visitors from Chicago, several

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

(356) A Portable School Sketches by Lessey; Synopsis by Braucher

A strong and convenient folding camp stool can be made from poplar or other close-grained wood.

You need two cross-cleats: One is one-half inch by two inches by eleven and a half inches...

Your dowel or pivot rod should be one-half inch in diameter and eleven and a half inches long...

Bore holes for your cross-rails. The inside of each cross-rail is beveled to remove the sharp edge...

GAS BUGGIES - A Stranger

MY STARS! THIS IS THE THIRD TIME IN AN HOUR I'VE SEEN THAT STRANGE-LOOKING MAN PASE THE HOUSE, AND PEER INTO OUR WINDOWS!

HE SEES ME LOOKING AT HIM... I SURPRISED HIM! HE'S HURRYING AROUND THE CORNER OF SIGHT!

I JUST CAN'T GET THAT MAN OFF MY MIND. I WONDER WHO HE IS! WHAT CAN HE WANT AROUND HERE! HE GIVES ME THE CREEPS... OH! HERE HE COMES! HE!

WELL, I'VE BOUGHT A CAR. IT'S OVER BEING PAINTED. WAIT TILL YOU SEE THE...

LISTEN! DID YOU NOTICE A PECULIAR-LOOKING PERSON HANGING AROUND OUT FRONT? HE'S BEEN PEEKING IN THE WINDOWS, AND MADE ME NERVOUS AS A CAT...

THERE WAS A SNEAKY LOOKING BIRD DOWN BY THE CORNER. HE APPEARED TO BE ONE OF THOSE PEDDLERS WHO HAVE SUCH HARD TIMES AND SOFT BROOMS...

IF HE'S A PEDDLER, WHY DIDN'T HE COME TO THE DOOR? NO, SIR! HE GIVES ME THE SAME FEELING I HAD THAT NIGHT YOU INSISTED A CAR WITH ONE HEADLIGHT WAS A MOTORCYCLE.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

The early bird may not enjoy the worm half as much as the late one does its sleep.

What's this? A CROSS WORDS and Letter Golf puzzle all in one! Par is five and one solution is on another page.

THE RULES
1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

"I'm never going to get married."
"Why?"
"Because you have to have sixteen wives. It says so right in the marriage ceremony, four better, four worse, four richer, four poorer—and four times four is sixteen."

SENSE and NONSENSE

Dear Colyum: There are some rules laid down that will aid bachelors of all descriptions in selecting partners for life.
1-Choose one that is neater and cleaner than you are.
2-Choose one that doesn't consider you merely a meal ticket.

A picnic isn't so far from war if you take along some canned willie and get popular with chiggers.

No employee wants ninety cents for each dollar he has due on pay day—neither does an employer want fifty minutes for an hour. Think it over.

THE TINYMITES

At last the Tinymites were found. They'd made their wood-heap man. "He'll do," said Copy, as he dropped a saw and hammer on the ground. "We've surely done all that we can to make him look just like a man. Come on, let's stand him up now," and then turn him round and round.

FINE BRON $125, COSTS, FOR LIQUOR ENTERPRISE

Frank Bron, formerly of South Main street, South Manchester, but for the last few months living in Coventry, was fined $125 and costs before Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman of Coventry when he pleaded guilty last evening to the charge of manufacturing and keeping liquor with intent to sell.

Bron was arrested Wednesday following a tip from the Manchester police to the state police that he had sold liquor to a Manchester man. The state police went to Bron's place in Coventry Tuesday night, but he was not at home. They found, however, the evidence presented in the justice court in Coventry yesterday—a supply of liquor and a quantity of mash. Bron was not at the house but the state police waited for his return on Wednesday afternoon and then placed him under arrest.

On the charge of manufacturing he was fined $100 and on the charge of keeping with intent to sell a fine of $25 was imposed, together with the cost.

SLAMMING DOOR PUTS D. D. OUT OF PRACTICE

Dr. Ward E. Green, of 12 Parker street, well known local dentist, will be away from his office for two or three weeks as a consequence of an unusual accident which he met with Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Green was just about to shut his garage door after putting his automobile inside when a gust of wind blew the door together with a bang, pinching his right hand and breaking a bone in the little finger.

Dr. Green had planned to go out of town on a vacation next week, but his injury has forced him to change his plans. Dr. Green said this morning that he expected to be back in his office in two weeks, three at the most.

LOCAL GIRL ON STAFF AT TAUNTON HOSPITAL

Miss Gladys Kietzle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kietzle of 43 Holl street, has entered upon her duties as laboratory technician in the Morton hospital at Taunton, Mass.

Miss Kietzle attended the local public schools, graduating with the class of 1924 from High school, and from Brown University, Providence, in June with the degree of bachelor of arts. While at college she majored in biology and also took an active part in social, musical and dramatic events.
