

2 COPS REDUCED BY BOARD FOR IMPROPER ACTS

Prentice and Galligan Lose Regular Rank, Vacations; Raids Parked Party and Borrowed From Woman.

Police Joseph Prentice and David Galligan were today notified by Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon that the Board of Police Commissioners, after hearings last night at which both men testified, had found both guilty of acts unbecoming an officer and had decided that in each case the officer was to be demoted with rank and pay of supernumerary, be deprived of his nine days' vacation period and also lose his two days off a month for the next three months. This means that the two officers' pay will be reduced from $5 a day to $4.75 and that the clothing allowance given to all regulars will be cut off.

Three Hour Session
The session of the commissioners was over three hours in length during which the two officers appeared and were questioned as to charges which had been made against them. Later on a woman witness, who was connected with the charges against one of the officers, told the commissioners a story very different from that told by the officer.

Officer Galligan, who was called first, was questioned concerning a complaint to the effect that he had borrowed a sum of money from a widow who is the mother of two children and who is receiving state aid from the Widows' Pension Fund.

The case was brought to the attention of Chief of Police Gordon by a relative of the woman who said she had investigated the story and that the widow admitted having lent the money to the officer and that it had not been repaid.

Officer Galligan said that the amount of the loan was smaller than had been stated and that he considered it an entirely personal matter; that he had repaid all but $50 of the loan and was making payments in small amounts as he could; also that when he borrowed the money the woman assured him she was in no hurry to have it repaid.

The widow appeared before the board and denied that any part of the money had been repaid. She admitted receiving state aid and said her father and mother both worked and that she stayed at home doing housework and was assisted by her parents in her support and the support of her two children.

Galligan's attitude that the affair was nobody's business did not please the board members, who

NEW SYSTEM TO DOUBLE OUTPUT OF CRAVAT MILL

Conveyor Method of Mass Production to Be Installed by Cheney Bros., Giving 57,000 Dozen a Week.

Cheney Brothers today announced a new department of far-reaching importance whereby a system of quantity production of cravats will be instituted in keeping with the speed systems of such lines of industry as the manufacture of automobiles. It is anticipated that the cravat department of the big silk mills will attain, under the new system, to a production more than double its present capacity. A very large installation of mechanical appliances will enter into the adoption of the new methods. The new capacity of the cravat department will be, it is stated, not less than 57,000 dozen a week. This means more than 14,000 cravats an hour.

Conveyor System
One of the principal features that will make this increased production possible will be the installation on the first and second floors of the Ribbow mill, of conveyor system that will pick up the material, carry it to the cutters, then on to the folders, the sewers, the pressers, the inspectors and finally down to the first floor to the stock department.

This conveyor system might be compared to the change carrier system in use in department stores for years and its working principle is like the belt system first instituted by Henry Ford at the Ford Motor Plant and found so successful in attaining quantity production.

To assist the girls employed in this department in speeding up their work the sewers will have individual machine motors, instead of the machines being driven by the belt and shafting system in use in so many of the mills. Thus the worker can start and stop her machine in less than half the time formerly required. The machine itself has been modified to meet the special problems of sewing ties, avoiding small delays that experience has

Mother and Daughter Both Claim Shooting

New York, Aug. 21.—Five years after he is alleged to have attacked his ten-year-old stepdaughter, Joseph Mikushanskas, 41, a longshoreman, lay in a critical condition at a hospital today from three bullet wounds.

"I shot him," the police were told by the step-daughter, Mary Mulasunas, now 15. "He dishonored and slandered me."

"No, she didn't—I shot him," protested her mother, Mrs. Ludvise Mikushanskas.

Later the mother admitted that each had fired five shots at the man. Two bullets entered his back. He said his wife had fired the shots.

The girl said she had obtained a pistol last month while visiting her uncle at Worcester, Mass., where she attended the classical high school.

"I wish I had killed him," she declared, "he kept telling my friends things about me."

SMITH ANSWERS WHITE ON ASSEMBLY RECORD

Democratic Nominee Calls Editor's Attack "Cowardly"—Explains in Full His Votes on Saloon Question.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Convinced that he has completely shattered William Allen White's charges that he is morally unfit to be the President of the United States, Governor Al Smith today anxiously looked forward to his notification ceremony, set for 7 o'clock tomorrow night, when he will launch his campaign for the presidency.

Declaring that his record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secured," the Democratic nominee, in a formal statement, charged that White and the Republican national committee had pursued a "cowardly" course in attempting to picture him as a friend of the saloon, gambling and prostitution.

While the governor did not mention Dr. John Straton by name, he told friends that his reply to White also could be taken as an answer to the New York City clergyman's charge that he was the "deadliest foe of Europe recently in the Kansas." In answering White the nominee served notice on his moral critics as well as his Republican opponents that he did not propose to have the issues of the coming campaign bogged by a discussion of how he voted on legislation when he was a member of the State Assembly twenty years ago.

Out in Open
"I am glad to have this matter taken out of the whisper stage and put into the open, once and for all. I shall meet it now," the governor declared. "I regard it as purely political and when the campaign begins, I do not propose to have the issues of that campaign bogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago."

White charged that Smith, when a member of the Legislature, always voted to protect the saloon, gambling and vice. Before he sailed for Europe recently the Kansas editor retracted that part of his charge relating to gambling and vice. Subsequently, however, through Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican national

CONSOLIDATION, FINANCE BOARD WIN APPROVAL

Charter Revision Committee Unanimously Favors Dis- trict Absolution and Com- mittee on Finances.

That an entirely new charter for the Town of Manchester, or it may be, the City of Manchester, be sought rather than amendments to the present charter, is the procedure favored by a majority of the members of Manchester's Charter Revision committee. Last night's meeting of the committee received a copy of the codification of the present town charter, recently prepared by Carmody and Shea, local attorneys. The committee empowered Judge William S. Hyde and Judge Raymond A. Johnson to decide from the codification all sections which it will not be necessary to re-enact. The committee also asked these two attorneys to prepare drafts embodying some of the new principles the town desires in its charter.

MIX MIXED UP IN COURT CASE

Cowboy Movie Star is Accused of Beating Up Another Actor in Hollywood.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 21.—Who hit who and what for was still a matter of conjecture today in the film colony as officers prepared to serve a brace of battery warrants on Tom Mix, film cowboy.

Will Morrissey, actor, claims that Mix hit him on the jaw when he extended his hand as a token of friendship at the conclusion of a party at the home of George Beban.

Morrissey's wife, Midgie Miller, says that Mix "applied the boot" to her husband while he was in a prone condition. She also stated that she was knocked down when she attempted to interfere.

Mix, however, alleges it was Morrissey who started the rumpus and says he did not hit the actor until he was forced to defend himself. He denies that he used his famous boots for weapons.

FOUR COUNTRIES UNITE IN SEARCH FOR FLYERS

Holyoke Man Picked To Succeed Hoover

Washington, Aug. 21.—President Coolidge today accepted the resignation of Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce and immediately appointed William F. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., to succeed him. Whiting, who had arrived in Superior unknown to other members of the party, was sworn into his new post in the office of the President by the clerk of the local court who was summoned over to the postal building by Mr. Coolidge.

Whiting is a close personal friend of President Coolidge and has been a guest at the White House and at the Coolidge home in Northampton.

As a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1920 Whiting was one of the original supporters of the Coolidge boom and voted for his nomination on every nomination as the Republican presidential candidate.

Holyoke, Mass., Aug. 21.—William F. Whiting, whose appointment to succeed Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, as secretary of commerce, is announced today in dispatches from Washington, is owner and operator of the Whiting Paper Company mills here.

He has long been prominent in Massachusetts politics although he has never held public office.

Whiting is a close personal friend of President Coolidge and has been a guest at the White House and at the Coolidge home in Northampton.

As a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1920 Whiting was one of the original supporters of the Coolidge boom and voted for his nomination on every

United States, Canada, Denmark and Greenland to Scour Arctic Wastes for Missing Aviators—Now Two Days Overdue; Rockford Refuses to Give Up Hopes.

Four countries—the United States, Canada, Denmark and Greenland—are engaged today in search for Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, missing American flyers who became lost while attempting a flight from Canada to Sweden.

The Americans, who originally set out from Rockford, Ill., to fly to Stockholm, Sweden, were due at Mount Evans, Greenland, on Sunday morning.

The last heard of the airmen was on Sunday morning when they were 75 miles off Cape Chidley, on the Labrador coast.

NEW YORK'S REPUBLICANS SPEED UP THE CAMPAIGN

Report 368 Hoover Clubs in State, 63 of Them in Tam- many Controlled City Dis- tricts.

New York, Aug. 21.—Ignoring the broadside upon Herbert Hoover's stand on prohibition and world peace by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Republican campaign managers here today intensified their drive for New York's 45 electoral votes and completed arrangements to inaugurate their speaking campaign in the pivotal eastern battle sectors on Thursday, the day after Gov. Smith's notification ceremony.

Never Tested
The matter of school consolidation has never had a test vote in Manchester. Most of the local political leaders who are able to sense the trend of opinion in town believe that the consolidation of the school districts would be voted

TWO DAYS OVERDUE

Mount Evans, Greenland, Aug. 21.—Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, missing American airmen who became lost while attempting a North Atlantic flight from Canada to Greenland, were more than two days overdue this morning and no trace of them has been found.

The failure of radio stations to pick up any trace of the missing airmen increased fears that disaster had overtaken their plane at sea.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Marion, which has been operating in the Hudson Strait, near the projected route of the flight, was instructed to aid in the search for the missing men.

Canadian, Greenland and Danish fishing boats have joined the search, at the request of the United States government.

The Canadian government, it is understood here, has requested trappers in the northeastern wilderness to keep an extra sharp watch for traces of the missing plane.

HUB GOES AFTER FAKE ACCIDENTS

Starts Campaign to Get Rid of Ambulance Chasing Attor- neys.

Boston, Aug. 21.—The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, declared foe of rampant speakasies, "unscrupulous" auto insurance rates, quack doctors and other evils of modern life, today declared war on another breed of pest, ambulance chasing attorneys.

Attorney General Warner was called into conference by Insurance Commissioner Monk today and it is understood they discussed methods of prosecuting lawyers, whom he said are well known among members of the Massachusetts bar, suspected of falsifying claims in automobile accident cases.

Commissioner Monk blames false claims for the high rates, scheduled to go up next year. The rates are also under fire along with the "easies" and the medicine men. Gov. Fuller is keeping a watchful eye over all the current inquiries.

ROCKFORD STILL HOPES

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 21.—Rockford citizens today took new hope for the ultimate rescue of Aviators Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, lost en route to Sweden, when it was learned a fleet of Canadian planes had been ordered out from Fort Burwell to search the course taken by the missing "Greater Rockford" monoplane.

The search for the planes was ordered last night by A. J. Wilson, head of the civil aviation branch of the Canadian department of national defense, on telephonic request of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce.

Fort Burwell is 300 miles from Davis Straits, the region from which the adventuresome flyers were last heard. The flyers had agreed that, in the event of trouble near the straits, they would turn back and attempt to reach Fort well.

The Rockford Chamber of Commerce also called the Danish government asking that its ships in the vicinity of Greenland and Labrador instruct their operators to listen constantly for radio news of the aviators.

OUTLAW WAR PACT STARTS DEBATES

Anglo-French Agreement Disturbs U. S., Berlin and Tokio.

London, Aug. 21.—Despite the perturbation aroused in Washington, Berlin and Tokyo by the Anglo-French naval agreement, the British government today reiterated its determination not to make public the terms of the new understanding with France until they are placed before the next meeting of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations for discussion by all nations. It was stated in official quarters, however, that the agreement does not represent a naval or political "alliance," as intimated in Washington and Berlin newspaper reports, but merely a formula which French and British naval experts believe can be accepted by the naval powers as a basis for a new agreement for the limitation of armament.

Nothing Final
Neither the foreign office nor the admiralty regard the understanding with France as possessing the finality of a definite agreement, pointing out that it can be set aside entirely if it does not have the approval of the American or other governments in the Geneva conversations. On the other hand, the argument is brought forward in favor of the agreement that an understanding between England and France on the disarmament problem provides a starting point which may readily lead to a general agreement. While believing that some progress has been made toward an ultimate solution of the problem by the reconciliation of the British and French views, the British government does not feel

ONE TOPIC FOR TALK

Throughout the city of Rockford there is only one topic of conversation. "Hassell and Cramer! Are they safe?" Every family with a radio listened through the night for word of the flyers.

Four telephone operators are on duty constantly at the chamber of commerce headquarters to answer queries on the fate of Hassell and Cramer. C. E. Patrick, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has slept only three hours in the last thirty-six.

Members of the flyers' families refuse to give up hope. Among these are Mrs. Rosalee Hassell, wife of the pilot; Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hassell, his mother, and Mrs. Fannie Cramer, mother of the navigator.

"We feel sure they have landed somewhere in Greenland," said Hassell's wife. "It may be days before we hear from them, but we are confident they are safe."

LITTLE CHANGE

Washington, Aug. 21.—If Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer landed in the water off the Labrador coast, the chances of rescuing them are remote, according to a message today from the Coast Guard cutter Marion which is directing a search for the missing flyers in the vicinity of Davis Straits.

The message said:

"Taking stations on line of Hassell's flight, but no signs of him. Will make search, but if he is down on the water chances of rescue are infinitesimally small. Hard north-west storm Sunday. If he landed on water it would have been impossible to last even a few hours."

Commander E. H. Smith of the Marion reported today that the weather is becoming stormy, which will make more difficult the search for the Greater Rockford.

HARVARD MOURNS DONOVAN'S DEATH

Famous Coach, Known as "Pooch," Passes Away in His 62nd Year.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—Sons of Harvard in all parts of the world today will pay tribute to the memory of the Crimson's famous William F. "Pooch" Donovan, trainer and coach, who passed away at his Natick home early today after an illness that invalidated him from the peak of prominence as an Olympic coach.

"Pooch," stricken seriously in Amsterdam with heart disease while coaching American athletes who later won the world's title in track and field sports, was brought home only a few days ago by Eddie Farrell, president of Harvard track coach, and seemingly was on his way to recovery. He was 62 years old.

The Harvard which Donovan gave the best years of his life and to which he referred frequently as the greatest and most democratic institution in the world, came to his aid in his final days. Famous Harvard medical men journeyed from far distances in a vain effort to prolong the life of "Pooch" Donovan.

Professional Athlete.
Donovan was one of the three Natick youngsters who started life as professional athlete and carried the name of Natick to athletic fame. He was associated with the athletic fortunes of Harvard, while the late Johnny Mack became a track authority at Yale. The third of the trio, Keene Fitzpatrick, a first cousin of Donovan, is at present track coach at Princeton.

All three, in company with Steve Ferrall of Michigan, Tale, played the circuit as pro racers for years.

TWO STATES LASHED BY TERRIFIC STORMS

Seven Deaths and Much Property Damage Throughout Iowa and Minnesota.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 21.—The state treasury has received sixty-one thousand dollars in cash from nine police courts in Connecticut by reason of the Board of Finance and Control pushing an investigation into motor fines collected in the courts, according to a statement issued here today by Edward F. Hall, commissioner of finance and control.

With such results in hand, Mr. Hall will push the investigation into every town in the state to determine if accurate returns have been made.

Towns Contributing
The towns which have shared in the $61,000 contribution to the state are Hartford, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, Middletown, New London, Stamford, Greenwich and New Britain. The commissioner refused to say how much money each town restored to the state treasury.

Shortages were due in some cases to poor bookkeeping which led to an underestimation of the share of motor vehicle fines which the state must receive under the statutes. By checking with the motor vehicle department the finance and control board was able to get exact figures and so could demand payments from the town court treasurers.

ALBANIANS WANT MONARCHY AGAIN

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Conflicting claims, which may lead to international complications, are being put forward for the throne of Albania, where, for the first time since the war, Europe is about to witness the restoration of a monarchy.

Dispatches from Tirana today stated that demonstrations demanding the crowning of President Ahmed Zogu as King of Albania have broken out in all parts of the country, and that Zogu is scheduled to proclaim himself king within a week. For four years Zogu has ruled Albania with an iron hand, and it is only a short step from his present dictatorship to monarchy.

Another claimant for the Albanian crown appeared today, however, in the person of Prince William of Wied, who ruled Albania for six months in 1914. Prince William accepted the Albanian crown at Newburg, Germany, in February, 1914, after the independence of Albania had been proclaimed, and the London ambassadorial conference had agreed that a European prince be named to rule the new country. After the outbreak of the European war, Prince William and the members of the international control commission which aided him in the government, fled the country. German newspapers said today that Prince William has the first claim to the Albanian throne if a monarchy is restored.

Prince William is now 52 years old, while Ahmed Zogu, the native claimant to the monarchy, is twenty years younger. If Zogu ascends to the throne he will assume the title of King Scanderbeg III, reviving an ancient royal name, as the first Prince Scanderbeg ruled in Albania nearly 500 years ago when the country obtained its first period of independence from Turkey.

European governments are giving political developments in Albania their closest attention.

MERCHANTS' NIGHT AT STATE THEATER

An innovation in gift nights will be inaugurated at the State theater here this evening when a selection of presents purchased from a local store will be offered to lucky ticket-holders and a description of the article and the place in which it was purchased told. The plan is a combination business promotional scheme between the State theater and the group of merchants whose wares are being given away as presents.

Rubnow's Garment Fashion Center, Glanney's, The Smart Shop, the May Jewelry Company, the Manchester Plumbing and Supply Company, Kemp's Music House, Marlow's, Watkins Brothers, and the Benson Furniture Company are co-operating with the State theater in this first Merchants' State theater Gift Night. Others will probably join the plan next week.

TWO STATES LASHED BY TERRIFIC STORMS

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Aug. 21.—With wire communications being gradually restored, efforts were made today to check on the loss of life and property damage caused in Iowa and Minnesota late yesterday by a series of freak wind and rain storms.

Seven deaths in the affected area were laid to violence of the storm. Three persons were reported killed at Clear Lake, Iowa, while two others were reported killed near Austin, Minn.

Fifteen cottages were razed by the terrific wind at Twin Lakes and tremendous damage to crops resulted.

Rain of cloudburst proportions last night drenched flag-draped West Branch, Iowa, where Herbert Hoover was to be feted today. According to reports from that section, roads were washed out and great damage was done to crops.

Rockville

Rockville was well represented at the State Convention of the American Legion and its auxiliary which was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Middletown. Miss Jennie Bates of this city was re-elected District Vice President for second term. Mrs. Marzle Potter of Danvers was elected district delegate to the National convention at San Antonio, Texas, which will be held in October. Miss Bernice Hammond of Rockville was elected alternate. A special trophy was awarded the local legion to be kept permanently for the initiation of forty-seven members, the largest number to be initiated at any time by one unit. Other citations were awarded Rockville and Ellington.

Attending Tournament.
Frederick W. Stengel is attending the Great American Championship and Handicap Tournament which is being held in Vandalia, Ohio, this week.

Seriously Injured Sunday Evening.
Miss Bessie White of No. 152 Union street is in a very serious condition at the Rockville City hospital as the result of an automobile accident on Windsor avenue Sunday evening. The car in which Miss White was riding was struck by a car driven by Thomas Donahue of Park Terrace, Hartford. In the city court Monday morning, Donahue pleaded guilty to intoxication and was placed under $3,000 bond.

There will be no municipal band concert this week Wednesday owing to the Elks' Carnival which is being held all week at Burke's lot.

NEW SYSTEM TO GIVE TWICE CRAVAT OUTPUT

shown to be a factor in decreasing production. Certain processes formerly performed by hand will now be done by machine.

Announcement of the new department was made by Wank Chivers at a meeting of cravat salesmen held at the mill yesterday. The salesmen, representing sales districts all over the country, are attending a sales convention at the mills this week.

Mr. Cheney, in the course of an address in which he described the new system of cravat production also outlined a style creation system that will give Cheney cravats a complete line of neckwear in the newest and most distinctive designs and colors. He told how that department of the mill is now working on these styles, which will soon be ready for the market.

In the past year the demand for Cheney cravats has increased so rapidly that the mill, despite overtime work and maximum utilization of the number of employees, has been unable to keep up with the demand. Salesmen have found this matter of delivery a problem to contend with and the news that delivery was soon to be eliminated through the installation of high speed production was hailed as glad tidings by the sales force as it clears the way for salesmen to book more business than ever before.

OVERLOADED TRUCKS
Willimantic, Conn., Aug. 21.—Three New Britain truck drivers working for the Arrow Construction Company on a state highway contract between North Coventry and Mansfield Depot, were fined $1.30 each in Coventry town Court today after they had each pleaded guilty to overloading their trucks.

The men are Clinton Daniels, Leonard R. Arute and Peter Bernacchi. State police made the arrests. The company paid the fines in court today. The men were carrying trap-rock.

SIMPLE BREAKFAST AT HOOVER'S HOME

Ham, Eggs, Biscuits, Potatoes and Coffee Served at Old Homestead.

West Branch, Iowa, Aug. 21.—Herbert Hoover today ate breakfast of ham and eggs, hot biscuit, baked potatoes and coffee in one of the two rooms in the house where he was born.

It carried him back to his boyhood days—this world famed citizen who is the Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States, because it was just such a breakfast as he often ate when he was a boy here, in this sedate, hilly town of 800. And because so long ago has been a public man, it is doubtful if he has eaten such a meal in such fashion for many a year.

A matronly, grey-haired woman was in the little vegetable garden back of the house last night dextrously turning up wonderful looking white, thin-skinned potatoes.

It was Mrs. S. J. Sellers, the woman who owns the home where Hoover was born and who prepared and cooked the meal which was served to him this morning. She has been a "widow woman" for years, is not well off financially, and her son is ill.

No Style
"There will be no style," she said, "and I am not sending around any fancy silverware to try to put on style. In the first place, I don't think Mr. Hoover would care for it, and in the second place I wouldn't know how to put on the style he was used to if I tried."

And that was typical of the welcome that was given Herbert Hoover, West Branch boy who went into the world and returned a far bigger man than the community had ever produced.

And it would have been a purely home affair if the outside world did not also take a tremendous interest in West Branch's son, and just literally crowded the little town to death.

The Banners
"West Branch Welcomes Hoover Home," read some of the banners stretched across the town's streets, while others bore the legend "Welcome to Our Native Son."

When he stepped from the train at 7:30 this morning, he was confronted with a row of giant cornstalks, that had been pulled from the ground—roots and all—so that the bottom clod made a pedestal. They were lashed to the station fence, and resembled a forest of young trees, from 12 to 16 feet high.

In the automobile which carried him to the old homestead, were Miss Molly Curran, his one-time schoolteacher, Mrs. Hoover, former Iowa, his western campaign manager, and John Thompson, a "dirt farmer" who was head of the "Hoover for President Farmer's Club." They composed the breakfast party.

Following the breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Hoover went alone to the little cemetery, overgrown with trees in the older part, where Hoover's father and mother are buried, near the west fence.

It was Mr. Hoover's express wish that no one attend them, and their wishes were respected.

At 11 o'clock he returned to the high school, where he made his headquarters and where a huge telegraph and press office had been installed across from his room. There he greeted old friends until 11:45 when he went to the home of O. O. Yoder for luncheon. Mrs. Yoder is a distant cousin of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Yoder is postmaster here.

dividing $50 to $60. The proceeds of a day's work at an Irish athletic meet.

Goos to Harvard.
In 1906, "Pooch" cast his fortunes with Harvard and immediately the days of the Crimson's fame were at hand. He was the right eye and right arm of the late Percy Haughton and aided Haughton no little in developing and retaining the famous system that kept Harvard undefeated in football for years.

Donovan's knowledge of football was gained on the field of many schools. He delighted to tell of playing on one Saturday with Exeter against her traditional rival, Andover, and scoring 25 points for Exeter. The following Saturday, "Pooch" declared, he played for Georgetown University.

His alma maters were many but only one was claimed by "Pooch" and she was Harvard. Harvard in her turn, claimed Donovan as a true son of her traditions.

WOULD MOVE LIQUOR
Hartford, Conn., Aug. 21.—Gordon Ireland, a New Yorker who has a summer home at Westport, has inherited "the remnants of a wine cellar" which his grandfather laid down at 241 Maple street, Springfield in 1880, and he wants to move it first to Westport, and later to New York.

In applying to Attorney-General Benjamin W. Ailing for a removal permit, Mr. Ireland said the bequest consists of 28 1-2 quarts of very fine goods, including wines, gin and whiskey.

The attorney-general has asked the prohibition enforcement agents to investigate the matter.

DEALER WINS SUIT TO GET BACK AUTO DEPOSIT

Judgment was given for the defendant in the suit brought by Edward C. Hunt, Middlebury, local automobile dealer, to recover $100 due as a deposit on an automobile which he contracted to purchase from Tinker, but which was never delivered.

The case was heard before Judge Raymond A. Johnson sitting in the civil side of the Manchester Town Court this morning. Attorney William S. Hyde appeared for Tinker and Attorney William Shea represented Hunt, who set up in his bill of particulars that he had entered into an agreement to purchase from Tinker a Buick automobile and that as part payment he had turned in his Studebaker car on which an allowance of $100 was made, to apply to the purchase price of the car; that Hunt was ready to take the car on condition that Tinker, who had signed a subsequent agreement, would teach him how to drive and assist him in getting a driver's license.

In reply Tinker admitted that he had entered into such an agreement as to the purchase of the car and the allowance that was made for the car turned in by Hunt and disposed of by him, and that he had fulfilled his agreement, inasmuch as he had been ready to deliver the Buick automobile and that driving lessons had been given to Hunt and that he was sufficiently advanced to be able to take the necessary test to secure the license, but that Hunt did not complete his part of the agreement and take the car, and that the $100 allowed on the agreed purchase price of the car had been liquidated by the expense that was incurred by Hunt's failure to take the car when it was ready to deliver.

looked upon the borrowing of the money under such conditions as improper in a policeman and so found.

Prentice Charges
In the case of Officer Prentice it was charged that on the night of July 31 that Prentice and State Policeman Mitchell were together on the Bolton road, returning from the Willimantic. Nearing Manchester Green, about midnight they came upon an automobile parked at the side of the road. There was a young woman in the car and it is charged that the policemen ordered her to get into the car driven by Green, about midnight they came back to Bolton, where, it is charged, improper advances were made to the girl.

Later, according to the report received by the commissioners, the girl was driven by Prentice to the western part of the town and let her home, arriving there after 1 o'clock.

Prentice denied that either he or the state officer had been guilty of any improper conduct. The hour was not as late as was stated in the report, he said, and in taking the girl home after the state policeman had left him he was only seeing that she reached her home safely.

The story told by the girl, who was not asked to appear at the hearing, but who had made a written statement, did not agree with that of the officer.

The officer was told that his story did not agree with either the girl's statement or the evidence of other persons who had talked about the case.

GARDENITES SEE CHENEY'S LILIES

Special Meeting Votes to Have Show Here on September 11 and 12.

Proceeding the special meeting of the Manchester Garden club at the School street Recreation Center last evening, a number of the members accepted Mrs. William C. Cheney's invitation to view the golden-banded lilies, lillium auratum, now in blossom in her garden. Due to the heat and moisture of this summer, or the particular soil in which the bulbs were planted, they have attained the unusual height of over eight feet. Three bulbs were placed in proximity to each other in the border of other flowers, and the three stalks have borne more than 75 large, fragrant blossoms. Mrs. Cheney has had several photographs made of the lilies at the height of their beauty. They have all blossomed out and the lower ones are now beginning to droop, but the spectacle is worth going a long way to see and especially interesting to lovers of flowers and perennial lilies. Bulbs of the same species in other parts of this beautiful circular garden have borne only the regular season's growth. Mrs. Cheney has a fine collection of the newer phloxes which are the most striking thing in all perennial gardens just at present.

The garden fans then took the wooded path leading to the gardens of the Misses Chapman on Forest street, and while a multitude of other flowers are in blossom in the beds and border, phlox again predominated. The natural appearing pool and the rock garden received their need of praise before the members were ready to go indoors for the meeting.

In the absence of the president, Miss Mary Chapman, who has since returned to Iowa, Vice-President J. W. Galavin presided and the reports of the officers, minutes and other routine business was transacted. The purpose of the meeting was to vote on the question of a fall flower show, set the date and place for the same, and to discuss the society's show in Hartford which will take place September 13 and 14. It was voted to hold the local show on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 17th and 18th. Several places were suggested but the consensus of opinion seemed to be that Center church chapel was ideal for the purpose and centrally located. It was here that the club's very successful spring flower show was held for the last two seasons. The choice of a chairman was left with the executive committee.

Miss Madeline Smith, the club's treasurer who was also chairman of the awards committee for this year's exhibits, spoke in favor of additional awards other than ribbons being given to prize winners at the coming show. The majority of those present agreed with Miss Smith and a sum of money was voted for the purpose to be used at the discretion of the awards committee. At the close of the meeting voluntary contributions were made by members who believe this will be an incentive to exhibitors.

The Manchester Garden club is a member of the Horticultural society, whose autumn flower show is to be at Foot Guard armory, Hartford, it is their wish that the various garden clubs enter basket arrangements of flowers, and an effort to be considered, with a first prize of $10 and second of $5. A baskets florist will furnish the baskets. The club voted to have its president, Miss Mary Chapman, who has frequently won prizes on her flower arrangements, take charge of the exhibit.

It was also moved to postpone the regular September meeting until the third Monday evening in the month.

Flying And Loving Are Ruth's Jobs In Films

Hollywood, Calif. — Hopping the Atlantic, even with a little swimming party thrown in, wasn't half as trying as the first day before a movie camera.

Ruth Elder is the authority for that statement.

Miss Elder hadn't been in Paris more than five days of a proposed two months' visit when she received word from the Paramount studios here to rush back for her first picture, opposite Richard Dix. And, by the way, Dix was always her favorite movie star.

"Can you imagine sort of half worshipping some movie star and then suddenly finding him making love to you in a picture?" asks the aviatrix-actress. "Those are the things you see on the screen, but I never dreamed that they ever came true."

Naturally there is some flying in Miss Elder's first film. She is the daughter of the commanding officer of the marine base where Dix is stationed. At just the proper moment in the film, she climbs in a plane and goes up. And then Dix goes up and rescues her, battling a squadron of Chinese aviators to do so. However, it is more of a love story than an aviation picture, with Richard and Ruth doing the heavy loving.

Miss Elder seems to fit in with the film color perfectly. She can hold her own as far as beauty and charm are concerned with anyone in the village. Two things are going to be greatly in Ruth's favor; her strong screen personality and the fact that she has no exaggerated illusions about her ability as an actress.

"No, I have no idea what I will do after I finish this picture with Mr. Dix," she says. "It may be the last thing I ever do in pictures. Nobody knows yet whether or not I will be any good or whether the public will like me. All that depends upon this production."

Jesse Lasky, however, says that Ruth had been signed because of her screen possibilities and not because of her fame. As far as billing and exploitation are concerned, she will receive very little more notice in the picture than any of Dix's other leading ladies have in the past.

NEW YORK TO ROME PLANE IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 21.—Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, of New York, is going to Italy on the "Roma" when that plane, now here for tests, takes off, and the plane is likely to start for Old Orchard, Maine, tomorrow morning, according to Count Cesare Sabelli, the leader in the proposed New York-to-Rome flight.

"No one has said the doctor could not go," the count declared today, after describing his week-end trip to New York which he said was for the sole purpose of clearing up this situation. No formal court action has been started in Connecticut, the count said, and he hardly expects one. "I expect the matter will be cleared up soon, and the doctor will go as a passenger."

FARM LEADERS GREET HOOVER AT BIRTHPLACE

Nominee Visits Old Homestead in West Branch, Iowa—Breakfasts at House He Was Born In.

West Branch, Iowa, Aug. 21.—Herbert Hoover, as Republican nominee for president, met the farm problem face to face today as he returned to the place of his birth.

Thousands of farm leaders from all sections of the grain belt gathered here to hear Hoover expound upon his program for the relief of American agriculture. The nominee was to move on to Cedar Rapids after the speech tonight to hold a series of conferences there with the farm leaders. At Cedar Rapids, during a two-day visit, he will participate in a farm parade, lunch with farm editors and attend a real old fashioned farmers' picnic.

At the end of the three day visit to Iowa, the Republican nominee probably will have all the details of agriculture's problem. It was the hope of his advisers that while the farm leaders were discussing their problems with him, that his sympathetic attitude toward their situation would win them to the Republican cause. Thus far, the nominee has been successful to a remarkable degree in winning over those farm leaders with whom he conferred.

Hoover breakfasted in the house of his birth this morning, leaving his special train to visit the old homestead. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and his two sons, Herbert Jr., and Allan, besides a number of other advisers. During the morning, he visited with old residents of his birthplace, some of whom he recalled from his childhood days, and took another look at the fishing spots, swimming hole and hunting scenes of his youth.

Praised in Kansas
In touring through the mid-west to reach Iowa, Hoover found Republican leaders pleased not only with his farm program but with his stand on prohibition. In Kansas especially, the Republican leaders lauded Hoover for taking the dry side of the prohibition question. His reference to prohibition in his acceptance speech, incidentally, was accepted on all sides as a dry pronouncement. Kansas, being one of the pioneer prohibition states, found the stand of Hoover particularly agreeable.

"The American people have accepted Herbert Hoover as the representative of the dry side of the prohibition question," said Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, for one.

committee, he withdrew the retraction about gambling and prostitution.

"My record as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure," Smith wrote in reply to White. "Publicly and by many letters in my possession, the late Rev. Canon John P. Peters, when chairman of the Committee of Fourteen, the leading anti-wise society of New York, repeatedly thanked me for my co-operation with that organization. No one in all of the 25 years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican national committee."

Then the governor trained his guns directly upon the Republican national committee. He said: "What a cowardly creature the Republican national committee pursued. It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity Bureau and then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play."

Public Approves The governor asserted he was confident that the people of New York approved his legislative record or they would not have elected him four times to the governorship, something that has never been done before in the state's history.

"I cannot, however, let go unchallenged the political attempt to tear down my character and reputation by seeking to align me on the side of opposition to the regulation of the liquor traffic and in favor of gambling and prostitution."

White's charge that Smith's record showed him to be a friend of prostitution drew his sharpest fire. He said this charge was based upon a bill which would have prevented the renting of a hotel room twice in one night.

Explains Measures After explaining each legislative measure referred to by White, the governor concluded:

"I denounce as unfair, unmanly and un-American this slanderous attack upon me and my record. I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of my own state who have year after year expressed their confidence in me. My record stands as a large part of the matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies. I am sure that I am right when I say it is not concurred in by the fair-minded, intelligent thinking people of the country."

"I have been called by my party to the leadership in a great campaign. I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my own state and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters."

In formally accepting the nomination the governor's confidants predict that he will state his views so clearly on every major campaign issue that they cannot be misunderstood or misinterpreted.

The governor already has said that he will "clearly and unmistakably" express his views on this subject. The vanguard of 100,000 Democrats, who are expected here for the notification is due in Albany today. The city already is decked out in its holiday clothes while the notification meeting will be staged, have been transformed into an open air theater.

COMPLICATION

Considerable speculation is being indulged in by political forecasters as to possible combinations of electoral votes in the coming Presidential election which would leave the result to be determined by such segregated groups of electors as the hill-billies of Kentucky and Tennessee and the Indians of Oklahoma.

The speculations are predicated on the theory of a very tight election, with so close a division of the large states that the result would depend on a few electoral votes, the direction of which in turn would be determined by the ballots of politically isolated groups animated by any and every sort of reason except the larger ones of national policy.

It would be unfortunate indeed if the choice of an American President were to turn on the verdict of any such balance of power as these—as unfortunate as it was that John Y. McKane should make Grover Cleveland President by turning in a bigger Cleveland majority in the town of Gravesend than there were voters in the entire town, thus carrying the state of New York and the election for Cleveland.

It is more than doubtful if the decision on the Presidency is put up to Kentucky, Tennessee or Oklahoma, or all three. The earlier conclusion that the state of New York was almost sure to go for Smith appears to have been altogether unwarranted.

There is little religious prejudice against Jews in New York city, and what there is mostly within Governor Smith's own party. But in the small towns and the cities of the upstate areas, a different story is likely to be told. It would be asking considerable of a lot of Republican York states who have mildly backed Smith for Governor in the past to ask them to back him for President. It will be asking a great deal more when he is bracketed with a Jewish candidate for governor.

Colonel Lehman is a banker and a World war veteran—an altogether distinguished citizen. Doubtless at another time he would have made a formidable candidate for the governorship in an off-year election. But the religious prejudice situation is already plenty strained. The combination would, in every probability, lead to a net loss to the Democrats in the upstate vote. And of the state itself.

SMITH'S REPLY It has taken Governor Smith a long time to dig out the details relating to the "liquor and vice" votes which William Allen White accused him of having delivered while in the New York Legislature, and even now the governor's explanation of the votes will be more satisfactory to people living in New York state than to those on the outside, because the average American will still be left more or less wondering what it is all about.

Just the same, Governor Smith makes it clear enough that a number of the bills cited in the White charges were duplicate measures, and anybody with any legislative experience at all will understand that there are always countless bills that must be voted down, for the reason that their purpose is already covered by existing laws, unless confusion of law-making is to be worse confounded. He also declares that the White charge that he was identified with the opposition to anti-vice legislation is based on a single vote against a bill regulating the renting of rooms in hotels. The governor declares that this bill was twice voted on—the first time "overwhelmingly" defeated on the ground of unconstitutionality and the second time passed because of pressure brought to bear on the Legislature by special interests.

Perhaps the most telling point scored by Governor Smith is his showing that most of the "reform" bills which White accused him of helping to kill, or the "pro-saloon" bills he accuses him of supporting, were opposed or supported respectively by very large majorities of all the state's legislators. Apparently if Mr. White makes his indictment stick he must also indict the Legislature of New York, which he would not of course care to do.

We do not at all want to see Governor Smith elected President of the United States. We do want to see Herbert Hoover elected. There is no reason why Governor Smith should come anywhere near being elected. But as good a way as any to cut down Mr. Hoover's majorities is to bring a lot of scandalous charges against an opponent whose public life has been at least reasonably free from any occasion for them.

The one thing which Mr. Hoover certainly does not need in this campaign is the kind of support given to him by such people as William Allen White and Dr. John Roach Straton.

FATAL RESCUE WORK Some day there will arise a hero adventurer who will take thought of the chivalrous traditions of the race, and as he embarks on his perilous exploration or flight or whatever it may be he will say to the world:

"If I do not return let no man jeopardize his life in search for me. This is my gamble. I am staking my life against my objective. If I lose I want no other person to be involved in my disaster." And he will make his injunction so impressive that it will be obeyed.

The British explorer Colonel Fawcett three years ago disappeared with a party of followers in the Brazilian wilderness. Early this year Commander George M. Dyott set out with a sizeable party from the coast of Brazil to find Fawcett or learn his fate. He had a wireless outfit with him. By means of it he has now sent out word that he has learned that Fawcett and his men were killed by hostile natives.

But the sad part of it is that the Dyott party describes itself as on the point of starting on a desperate attempt to reach the coast, in imminent peril of extinction by the same set of savages. The wireless was to be abandoned and nothing is likely to be heard from the rescuers for five or six weeks—if ever.

It cost many more lives to find Dr. Livingstone in Africa than would have been saved even had not Livingstone died. The death list of rescuers of the Noble party was appalling. And so it goes. Still, men will probably continue to throw away their lives trying to save other lives needlessly self-imperiled, until a new system of ethics arises under which the rule shall be as suggested above.

NICKY OUT OF TEMPER Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler is thoroughly disgusted with the operation of prohibition. So are plenty of other people. Dr. Butler takes out his disgust by attacking Mr. Hoover's stand on the liquor question as expressed in his speech of acceptance. He is obviously all out of temper because Mr. Hoover did not come out with a perfectly useless and suicidal declaration that he proposed to get rid of the Eighteenth amendment. So he attacks Hoover in a manner entirely unworthy of his own usual excellent common sense.

In doing so he quite misrepresents the Republican Presidential candidate. He declares in so many words that Hoover is "opposed" to the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. Mr. Hoover has never said anything of the kind. He said he did not favor the repeal but expressly declared that it was the perfect right of any citizen to work for repeal. Manifestly Mr. Hoover would not, with his practical and well balanced mind, "favor" or advocate, an impossibility.

Reform of the horrible liquor situation that waited for the repeal of the amendment—which could be blocked by thirteen weakling legislatures in thirteen little states—would be terribly delayed. We feel very sure that if Dr. Butler were the candidate himself he would urge nothing of the kind but would seek some other way out of an intolerable situation. So will Mr. Hoover—and Dr. Butler ought to know it.

Dr. Butler is consistent with his previous utterances. If he had been nominated, instead of Mr. Hoover, it is our faith that he would still be consistent. But he would not be ridiculously violent. Which is what he now is.

New York, Aug. 21.—There's many an off-key note in the Manhattan theme.

It is, for instance, in the most gauche sector of the Broadway belt that you come upon a strange sort of shrine to the immortal Stradivarius, who left his soul in the ribbed wood of a few hundred fiddles.

On the mezzanine floor of the Wuriltzer building there is a room patterned in Gothic dignity. Well wrought and venerable tapestries cover two of the walls. The cathedral windows bear a neat heraldic design. But on the fourth side is a very competent looking safe. They do not trust the souls of man in the presence of the soul of Stradivarius. So they keep a dozen or so of his master fiddles barricaded behind an almost impenetrable steel door. It seems they have a value of $5,000 each, or some such sum—not unamusing when one recalls how little the great Stradivarius cared for the money-value of his handiwork. He was a man of means. He did not have to create to sell. He could afford to destroy ten fiddles to every one he let leave his hands—and did! He could spend years to perfect one instrument of master tonality; something which artists hold more precious than gold.

Just across the street, the chromo of a heavily tressed lady is bathed in a summer rain. Just below, a large painted letters inform you that Mme. Platois is prepared to provide you with a marcel wave or a rejuvenated face.

Just across the street, another sign tells you that Dottie Allen will turn you into a chorine in 10 lessons or reduce your girth in a dozen dancing lessons. The maestro of an orange drink stand stops to dust off the ice.

From the ground floor, just below, come the monotonous repetitions of phonograph records being demonstrated. Down the hall someone is getting a ukulele lesson. And in the strange shrine to a great fiddle maker, a young musician who has made himself an expert on rare violins, rubs a bow tenderly over the strings of an instrument he hopes some day to be able to possess. Meanwhile he holds his job as salesman, expert and custodian. And when no one is about, he can take out one of the precious fiddles and practice a bit.

If you sit about for a time in a severe Gothic chair, a strange assortment of people will pass through. Each will be carrying beneath his arm, a fiddle. Stories have gone out of the fabulous value of genuine Stradivari. Anyone who comes upon a battered fiddle in an attic or hidden behind the coal bin runs down to find out if a fortune has suddenly tumbled out of the skies into his lap. They come and go throughout the day. To them a Stradivarius is merely something that will bring tens of thousands, and comfort. Not one in thousands has a fiddle that is even

THE CURE OF ASTHMA.
The first thing for the asthma sufferer to do is to stop the use of any drug that he is taking. This includes the elimination of adrenalin serum, morphine, opium, smoking powders, coffee or caffeine in any form.

The next step in the cure is to completely cleanse the alimentary canal of any accumulated food or toxic fecal matter. At least two enemas daily should be taken, and more if necessary to assist in eliminating intestinal gas.

No food of any kind should be used for at least four or five days—no milk, soup, coffee, cocoa, or any other drinks, except whatever water is desired. This is a simple "water" fast, and will bring about the quickest relief in getting rid of asthmatic wheezing, and will work wonders in assisting in the elimination of accumulated bronchial mucus.

The water fast should be continued for longer than four or five days if it is necessary, extending it to ten or fifteen days if symptoms persist or the tongue remains heavily coated and the breath foul. No fear need be felt about the consequences of the longer fast, as only good results will follow. This fast has been taken by many thousands, and thousands of actual cures reported, without a single harmful experience.

After all symptoms have subsided, and it seems advisable to break the fast, the following dietary regimen should be followed: Upon arising in the morning take a few calisthenic exercises in a room with plenty of free circulation of air. Follow the exercises with a cold shower bath then.

BREAKFAST: The whites of two eggs prepared in any manner except by frying; two or three pieces of Melba toast, browned all the way through. Choice of a small dish of the following stewed fruits: Prunes, figs, raisins, or applesauce. These should be prepared without sugar or any kind of sugar. No cream nor milk should be used.

LUNCHEON: Choice of one or more, as desired, of the following vegetables: Celery, spinach, small string beans, capers, summer squash, cucumbers, egg plant, small tomatoes, green peas, cauliflower, tops, small carrots, small parsnips, lettuce, okra, chapotes, oyster plant (salsify), mallow, kale, zucchini, parsley, nasturtium leaves and flowers, endive, avocado (alligator pear), or ripe olives. These may be used either cooked or raw, or both cooked and raw, and in any reasonable quantity.

Late in the afternoon some more calisthenic exercises should be taken, as well as a fairly long walk, followed by a shower bath and thirty minutes rest in bed.

DINNER: Choice of one of the following proteins: Beef, mutton, chicken, fish or rabbit. No more than one quarter of a pound should be used. The vegetables should be chosen from those listed for luncheon, and the combinations should be kept simple. My suggestion is to use only one cooked and one raw non-starchy vegetable at this evening meal. No dessert.

An enema should be taken just before retiring. The daily use of the enema should be continued for at least several weeks.

If there is any return of asthmatic symptoms it may be well to return to a fast for a few days and then resume a diet which I have just suggested.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Question: High School Girl asks: "Will you advise for a girl that wanted to sleep all the time?"
Answer: If eight hours of sleep do not refresh you it is because your system is burdened with poisons from bad habits of eating, and from the effects of too much study and not enough physical exercise. If a physician's examination has failed to disclose any definite disease, you can rest assured that you need a thorough bodily housecleaning which will eliminate the morbid material in your blood stream with which you are burdened.

Question: L. S. writes: "Please advise when cottage cheese is used in place of meat, what is the ample portion per person?"
Answer: It is all right for most people to use about one quarter of a pound of cottage cheese in place of the same amount of meat. This is approximately an ordinary sauce dish full.

Question: Mrs. K. writes: "I weigh 190 pounds and should weigh 130. If I take off my surplus flesh at the rate of ten pounds per month would that be too much? If I walk five or six miles per day will that help me very much in taking off flesh?"
Answer: It is all right for you to take off surplus flesh at the slow rate of ten pounds a month, but you can lose much faster than that if you will first take a short fast and then follow it with a limited diet, free from carbohydrates. There is no danger in reducing rapidly if you will follow the plan I have so often suggested in this column. It is essential for you to walk at least five miles daily if you wish to reduce the weight around your hips and buttocks.

Worthy of an expert's attention. Now and then someone actually has a fiddle that proves to be an antique—but never a Strad. There are, I am told, something like 400 in the world. Experts, generally speaking, know where they are. They almost wait for the owners to die in hope that the heirs will sell them.

JOHNS HOPKINS LIBRARY IS NEARING COMPLETION; DEDICATED NEXT SPRING.
Baltimore.—The William H. Welch Medical Library of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, which will house one of the greatest collections of works of medical knowledge in the world, Hopkins said, is nearing completion. Although the structure probably will be completed in the fall its formal dedication and acceptance by the medical school may not take place until next April.

The library will be used in connection with the recently established history of medicine department. Dr. William H. Welch, former director of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, and a noted medical educator, will be in charge. He will be assisted by a librarian and a staff of office workers.

Dr. Welch is now in Europe gathering material for the library.

THE VAMPIEST VAMP IN HOLLYWOOD TURNS OUT TO BE A FINE COOK

By DAN THOMAS.

Hollywood, Calif. — Margaret Livingston, the vampiest vamp in Hollywood, is as domestic a housewife as you could find.

I was interrupted by the telephone yesterday. It was Margaret, wanting to know if I would come over for lunch. I arrived at her home just as she was going into the house, loaded down with bundles—each containing something to eat.

"Today is the cook's day off so we will have to eat whatever I fix," said the redheaded Margaret. "I hope you didn't mind."

I didn't, though I did sort of wonder if it wouldn't have been a good idea to have eaten a sandwich or two before going there. However, those thoughts departed in a hurry. Margaret's lunch was positively the best I have ever eaten, both from the standpoint of quality and quantity. I couldn't help but wonder what her fans would think if they could have seen the vampying Margaret Livingston doing all sorts of culinary acts.

Since she is an actress, though, perhaps you would like to hear something about that side of her life.

"This free lance game isn't all it's cracked up to be," Margaret declares. "That statement in itself is out of the ordinary, with so many of our players refusing to renew their contracts in order to free lance."

"I used to be a grand feeling to get my check every week whether I worked or not. But now the day I stop working, my pay all work free lance players twice as hard in order to get through with them and get them off the pay roll. I believe it is doing me a lot of good, though. I have made eleven pictures already this year, which is more than I made during the three years I was at the Fox studio."

Margaret really has come along tremendously fast during the last year—faster than at any other time during her career. And there's a reason. All a person has to do is visit with her for an hour to learn that Clara Bow isn't the only "it" girl in Hollywood.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 21.—Romantic legend hovering over Yellowstone National Park is recalled by the announcement by the National Park Service of the discovery of a new geyser.

The new phenomenon spouted forth with more than a million gallons flow the other day, in the Perry Creek district of the park. Its volume is greater than any known since the old Excelsior geyser stopped boiling over in 1888.

The discovery recalls the storied names of John Colter, the first white man to visit the territory and Jim Bridger, scout and trapper, whose trading post was far up in the snowy Rockies.

Colter returned to civilization about 1807 with a tale of the natural wonders of the park that people refused to believe. Forty years later an official exploration party confirmed the story that Colter told.

Colter was a member of the Lewis and Clarke expedition that blazed a trail across the virgin west. He was a trapper at heart and he wandered away alone in quest of the beaver's lodgings. He was captured by Indians near the junction of the Madison and Jefferson rivers, but escaped.

Jim Bridger confirmed his story about the "big tea kettles" of the region, but Bridger was given to out stories, too, so he wasn't believed.

The whole Yellowstone area once was the seat of tremendous volcanic activity. Far below the earth, traces of this volcanic heat linger and now and then send a hot column of subterranean water spouting high into the air. That is what the new geyser is.

"Old Faithful" shoots a column of water 120 to 170 feet into the air every 65 minutes and the display lasts for four minutes.

"The Giant," another of the park's famous geysers, sends its water 250 feet high and lasts for an hour. It plays at intervals of six to 14 days. An unpleasant odor of sulphur sometimes permeates the whole geyser district.

The newest geyser sends its water 120 to 150 feet high and lasts for four hours at a time, at intervals of eight hours.

The mouth of a geyser appears to be the crater of a volcano. The valley is shrouded in mist and steam, given off by scores of geysers and hot springs. Some of these geysers are very tiny, sending little spurts of boiling water three and four feet into the air. Sometimes, near the big geysers, a hollow roar can be heard, suggestive of the great caverns far below the earth's surface where the geysers are born.

One of the park's wonders is the "Dragon's Mouth." This phenomenon is a hot spring which hurls seething water back and forth in a small basin. The flow never ceases. Year after year this huge churn has kept up its boiling activity.

The "big paint pots" also attract many tourists to Yellowstone. These are like huge cauldrons containing what appears to be boiling white lead, its surface dotted with bubbles. Steam, forcing its way up through mineral substances, causes these wonders.

MERCHANTS' NIGHT AT THE STATE TONIGHT

Loads of Gifts and Surprises for Everyone; Letrice Joy on Screen; "White Sister" Thursday.

Tonight the State theater is presenting the first of a series of Merchants and State Theater Nights. This feature, which is entirely new to local theatergoers, promises to be a most entertaining and unusual affair. Loads of valuable gifts will be given away, all of them coming from stores in Manchester.

The principal screen attraction for tonight and Wednesday is Letrice Joy in "The Angel of Broadway," her latest starring vehicle. There are numerous scenes of great dramatic power in "The Angel of Broadway." The story is unusually active and it holds the interest until the final fade-out. Letrice Joy is most attractive and convincing as the pretty night club dancer, who laughs at religion until she faces a crisis in her life.

The night club atmosphere, which prevails throughout the picture, provides a glittering array of guests—a syncopated orchestra—apollights—snappy dancers—a spirit of reckless gaiety that is destined to be long remembered by film fans.

A splendid supporting cast aids Miss Joy to an excellent advantage. Such popular favorites as Victor Varconi, Alice Lake and May Robson have important characterizations.

The usual choice selection of State Short Subjects will be shown in conjunction with the feature.

On Thursday and Friday the management is bringing back to Manchester a return showing of "The White Sister," one of the greatest pictures ever produced. Lillian Gish and Ronald Coleman

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

SESSIONS BEGIN AT CAMP GROUND

Interesting Series at Willimantic Meetings—Rev. Dr. Frick Present.

Willimantic Campmeeting, Aug. 21.—The opening morning watch was held at 8:15 o'clock yesterday in the tabernacle. A number of songs were sung by the audience led by Mrs. Florence Manuel, with Pianist Pierce at the instrument. The district superintendent introduced the speaker, Rev. J. Scott Pennepacker, of Manlio, who read Scriptures relating to prayer, calling for brief petitions. Several were offered. Mr. Pennepacker stressed the need of coming to Jesus as a little child in simple faith, with no pretenses, but with trustfulness and willingness to do His will. Several testimonies were given at the close by both ministers and laymen.

At 9:30, there was an interesting lecture given by the organizer of the New London E. Church, Howard T. Pierce, on "Music as an Art." He spoke of the three arts of Painting, Sculpture and Music. The first two arts concern artist and observer only, but music has to do with three—composer, performer and listener. Music is very important in church worship. A drama has hitches and pauses, but real music has smooth continuity that uplifts the soul. He spoke of the desirability of having hymns and anthems in line with the thought of the preacher. He advocated the training of junior choirs, and commended congregational singing also. Singing by sheer lung power without paying attention to proper modulation is bad. This period closed at 10:30.

At 11 o'clock came the next period. An excellent feature this season is the having breathing spells between the morning periods. In previous years the audiences rushed from one service to the next with radio rapidity.

This morning the large number present greeted with applause the coming into the tabernacle of Rev. Philip L. Frick, D.D., of Schenectady, who comes for the fourth season to Willimantic camp. His theme for the six daily talks is "Finding God." His particular subject Monday was "Finding God in Non-Living Things." The greatest thing a man can do is to find God. Suppose this were a Godless world—what gloom and terror would result? The pessimist is so because he has thrust God out of the universe. It is an imperative that we must find God, not in parlor discussions, but by earnest and intelligent search. We are to find God in His world everywhere, even in non-living things. How came the forces, the powers and purposes seen in stars and suns and planets? Either everything happened by chance, or a designing mind is behind all these mysteries. Accidental happenings of the universe is not consistent with what we see.

If mind is behind this universe, it will reveal itself, and it does, in law, relationship and in purpose. This great intelligence we call God. The scientist does not create law, he simply discovers it. The universe is not a multi-verse, but a uni-verse. Telescope or microscope show its oneness. It was made for man. Especially do we see that everything on earth has some relation vance to the welfare of man. Matter and motion cannot be taken for granted. God must be the source of all energy. A great God is our God. The spectroscope reveals that chemically the matter of which suns and stars are made is all one with the 89 elements of our earth. Mathematics is everywhere demonstrated in this law-abiding universe. God built the very harmonies of music mathematically. In the movements of electrons and chemical gases we see a God doing things according to law. The purpose of all this is to create an earth on which man can live.

Justin Lawrie sang at the close an appropriate nature piece in a very effective manner. Woman's Foreign Missionary Society

At 2 p. m. in the tabernacle the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held its annual gathering which was presided over by the president of Norwich West District, Mrs. Howard Keith, of South Manchester. Scripture was read by the campground auxiliary president, Mrs. Albert Boardman, of Norwich. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Myron E. Genter. Mrs. Florence Manuel rendered a pleasing solo.

Rev. M. E. Osborne, of Rockville, a native of India, was the speaker of the hour. He was accompanied by his two sons, Wesley and Melville. These with a number of young ladies at the camp were arrayed in the costumes of India. Mr. Osborne is the son of Rev. Dennis Osborne in his day an eloquent preacher and missionary.

Before reading the Scripture Mrs. Boardman remarked she was pleased to read from a Bible which had been to Japan with Miss Frances Willard McIntyre, daughter of the late Rev. Walter S. McIntyre, a former member of the New England Southern Conference.

Mrs. H. H. Critchlow, of Willimantic, conference president of the W. F. M. S. made an announcement covering the coming W. F. M. S. convention in Hartford.

At the commencement of his afternoon talk Mr. Osborne costumed himself and played on the harmonium used as a young fellow in India, and sang India songs, also getting the audience to join in with him. He contrasted with the usual minor tunes of the Orient some in major cadences. Music in major keys came when the joyful gospel banished the minor ones.

Mr. Osborne said it was owing to the W. F. M. S. that he was in America. There is today a crisis in India. Western control in business and politics is in discredit in India today. Home rule is uppermost in the minds of its inhabitants. The speaker said that only America could prevent the eastern hemisphere from fighting the western hemisphere. The Orient suspicious of a degree that Christianity is a smokescreen of the Occident in order to exploit India politically and commercially. Christendom is the Judas Iscariot of Christianity. The oriental people may be brown, but they are not green. When England, professing Christianity, gave China with one hand the Bible and opium with the other, they said we don't want that Christianity. But we do love Jesus Christ as the New Testament presents Him—unselfish, the Prince of Peace, and the God of love, not of race hatred.

The second of his illustrated lectures on the subject of Missions. His theme was "Beautiful Brazil." His colored slides are very fine. He has familiar hymns also thus illustrated, line by line, such as "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," "America, the Beautiful," and others. Tonight his closing illustrated address will be "The Land of the Incas, Peru and Bolivia."

Notes and Personals
Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Phreaner of Manchester, spent yesterday on the grounds, returning home after the evening lecture.

Mrs. J. M. Von Deck and children, Alita and Charlton, are at Friendship cottage on Church Circle. Rev. J. M. Von Deck comes tomorrow from his parish in Moodus for the balance of the meeting.

Mrs. Sarah Ballou and granddaughter, Miss Ruth Bosworth, of Staffordville, are at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard on Wesley Circle. Mrs. Howard is a daughter of Mrs. Ballou.

Miss Ethel V. Woodward of Storrs, was at camp last evening for the illustrated lecture of Dr. Spaulding. She has just returned from a ten days' auto trip to Detroit, where she visited her brother, Alvah G. Woodward.

The children have been about the grounds with miteboxes for the benefit of the Jane E. Read scholarship of a girl in India. This fund for which they solicit annually is named in honor of a noble woman, who for 35 years conducted children's meetings on the Willimantic campground, resigning several years ago. Mrs. Read later led children's meetings on Douglas campground. Last Decoration Day she passed from earth. She was a regular attendant at camp, occupying Gem cottage on Wesley Circle with her sister, Mrs. Mary Taylor of New York. The latter is at Gem cottage for the season.

Rev. O. E. Tourtellotte, of East Hartford, together with Mrs. Tourtellotte, are at their cottage on Wesley Circle for the month of August. As guest they have Mrs. Chauncy Hollister, of Hockanum.

A beautiful duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," was sung previous to last evening's lecture by Justin Lawrie and Mrs. Florence Manuel.

INTELLIGENT AUTO REPAIRING

MOST cars are good cars today, but every now and then some defect shows up. It can't be helped when you consider the thousands of revolutions your motor makes—the hundred and one moving parts, rough roads, etc., etc.

Yet, something goes wrong under that constant pounding, but the wise motorist doesn't wait until the thing is hopelessly ruined. He comes to us at the first sign of trouble. Usually some minor fault and ordinarily a job that can be corrected in a short time.

Eddie Goodridge and his Bristol New Departure baseball team will come to town tomorrow evening to oppose Jerry Fay's Community Club outfit. The game will be played at Hickey's Grove.

It goes almost without saying that what happens will be worth seeing. Manchester and Bristol have long been arch rivals and every time they get together the result is most pleasing to fandom. What's more, Manchester and Bristol are tied in the state league standing.

The schedule has been divided into three rounds according to information furnished The Herald today by Manager F. Gordon McCarty of the Community Club. Manchester, as we all know, won the first round. Taftville won the second and Windsor Locks, the team which replaced Torrington, now leads the third round. A play-off for the title will follow the regular schedule.

Bristol's lineup will be Scott, sr.; W. McHugh, ss.; Malcolm, 2b.; J. McHugh, 3b.; Ryan, c.; Goodridge, Commerford or Baldwin, p. and 1b. The Community will use Lamprecht or Kelly, c.; McLaughlin, 1b.; Linnell, 2b.; Wright, ss.; Kotsch, rf.; Sipples, Burkhart or Webber, p.; Ralph Russell and Bill Brennan will umpire.

COLORED BOXER FEATURES CARD

Brownie Tucker Spots Bay State Boy Big Lead Then Almost Kayoes Him.

By TOM STOWE.

The so-called feature bout at the Hartford Velodrome last night was a farce. "Farmer" Hill of Westley proved a "ham" against Eddie Adams of Athel, Mass. The latter won by a technical knockout in the third round. "Nuff said."

The best bout of the evening in our opinion was the slashing go-between Brownie Tucker of Hartford and Rene Chabot of Springfield. The Capital City lad is unpopular with many fans because he appears to have a swelled head, but he sure can fight. For two rounds, Tucker kept up his comedian stunts letting his opponent paste him at will and pile up a tremendous lead on points.

When Brownie turned around and proceeded to kick the stuff out of his opponent in the third and fourth rounds during which the white boy barely avoided being knocked out. Despite the overwhelming lead, he spotted his man, there was absolutely no question as to the winner. Brownie hit much harder and more effectively. Tucker seemed to enjoy matters most when he stood with no guard and let Chabot hit him at will about the head. He would smile back and then appear to become enraged, pucker his lips in true Negro fashion, and tear into his opponent for all he was worth, only to stop up a bit after cuffing him a few solid times.

Tucker is being plied with his Waterloo somersault punch next Monday night. Results of the other bouts on last night's card follow:

Red Winer, Springfield, 142, knocked out McCoy Mitchell, Hartford, 137½, first round; Del Penult, New Britain, 122½, decision over Billy Carmen, Hartford, 121½; Harry Blunker, Hartford, 175½, decision over Jack Dietel, Holyoke, 180½; Art Polowitz, Hartford, 141½, decision over Douglas Alexander, Hartford, 144; Billy Johnson, South Deerfield, Mass., 123½, won on technical knockout over Soldier Guzzo, Springfield, 158, third round.

Local Sport Chatter

It seems good to get an idea what's what in the State League once more. Manager F. Gordon McCarty's information regarding the league standing was the first received since Manchester won the first round. Good work Francis—beg your pardon, we mean Gordon.

The box scores of the Community Club games have not been submitted for publication so regularly since Scorekeeper Hal Chase was traded to Manchester Green.

Stephen P. Cheney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Cheney, and Harry Kohls have taken the places of Herbert Kerr and Bennie Schubert in the men's tennis tournament for the town championship.

Alex Simpson and Ben Cheney played as partners in the New England P. C. O. Amateur golf tournament at the Sequin Golf Club yesterday and had a card of 71-75-146. Louis Chiappetta and Frank Ross tied Syd Covington and George Smart for low gross with 140's.

The East Side playground tennis courts were to be re-taped this afternoon. No matches in the town tournament took place last night but some are expected to be played tonight.

When Brownie Tucker was letting his opponent hit him at will in the face at the Velodrome last night, an excited supporter of the white boy yelled, "Hit him in the bread-basket, you can't hurt mahogany."

The boys down around Murphy's Sirtes are kidding Earl Judatz about his entrance in the tennis tournament. They point to the fact that although he is recognized as the best in their gang, he was eliminated in the first round of the town pool tourney. Earl only smiles.

"Dodger" Dowd's All-Stars play the Green Girls tonight at the Green.

At Jersey City, N. J.—Corporal Izzy Schwartz, flyweight champion, knocked out Felix Martinez, Spanish boxer, third round.

At New York—Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light-heavyweight, knocked out George Smith, of Newark, N. J., fourth round.

At Philadelphia—Pete Latzo, of Scranton, Pa., former-welterweight champion, outpointed Matt Adgie, Philadelphia light-heavyweight, 10 rounds; Tom Toner, Philadelphia, knocked out Tom Nelson, St. Paul heavyweight, second round.

At Lynn, Mass.—Frankie Moore, Boston, outpointed Chick Sugga, colored boxer, of New Bedford, Mass., 10 rounds.

At Springfield, Mass.—Al Mello, of Lowell, Mass., outpointed Canada Lee, New York, 10 rounds.

At Buffalo, N. Y.—Jimmy Goodrich, former light-weight champion, won a decision over Mickey O'Donnell, 6 rounds.

COCHRAN QUITS BILLIARDS

Welker Cochran has quit professional billiards and will devote all his time to the future of his position with a New York brokerage house.

BIG MONEY WINNER OF TURF

When the halfway mark was reached in August, Blue Larkspur, owned by E. R. Bradley, led this season's two-year-olds in winnings. He had, at that time, won $61,870.

The Larder's home at Greenwich, Conn., is called Tighnabruich. Mr. Larder, if you know, is a Scotchman.

THEIR ROMANCE FORMS THRILLING STORY

SYBIL THORNE

CRAIG NEWHALL

W HAT should a girl who has lost her sweetheart in the war do, if the finest young man in town wants to marry her? That is the problem faced by Sybil Thorne in "Whirlwind," Eleanor Early's great serial story starting in The Herald Thursday, August 23.

After the war Craig Newhall proposed to her, but Sybil told him that to marry anyone else would be to betray a dead man. Her soul, you see, belonged to John Lawrence. At least, Sybil, with all her youthful romantic ideals, thought it did.

But it was tragedy of her own doing. "They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind." That is the quotation from which "Whirlwind" takes its name. If you miss reading "Whirlwind" you will miss the outstanding serial of the year. Be sure to read it, beginning Thursday, August 23, in The Herald.

With her first serial novel Eleanor Early has produced a masterpiece of modern fiction . . . a throbbing drama of war and its aftermath . . . human, thrilling, powerful

THE AUTHOR

ELEANOR EARLY

“WHIRLWIND” is the story of Sybil Thorne, a new kind of heroine. At 18 she fell in love with a soldier boy, and when they told her how he had died she thought life had ended for her too, whereas it was just beginning. . . But the war changed Sybil Thorne. When her youthful romance perished there emerged an embittered and disillusioned, though fascinating, Sybil whose career forms one of the most unusual serials ever written. . . Be sure to read about her in “WHIRLWIND.”

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU and ROD BRYER are happily married, until LILA LOREE plots to separate them. For months she works to arouse Rod's interest while poisoning his mind against his wife.

When Bertie Lou discovers that they see each other secretly she is heartbroken and flirts with young MARCO PALMER to retaliate. . . . Rod will not commit himself to Lila, and she finally gets tired of waiting and wants him to go away with her. He repudiates her disloyalty to her husband, and she taunts him by saying that his wife is out with Marco.

Rod goes to the Palmer estate where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in lounging attire and departs without learning that they were coming upstairs from the swimming pool.

Rod leaves Bertie Lou with no explanation, resigning his position and drifts from one job to another trying to avoid old haunts. Both women try to find him in vain. Bertie Lou obtains a position, expecting Rod to get a divorce. Loneliness causes her to accept Marco's attention although she refuses to marry him.

Bertie Lou decides to buy a little house that she and Rod had admired when they were first married. When the house is furnished, she decides to sell it and is surprised when Rod answers the ad.

Acting through her friend BESSIE, as agent, she finally arranges to let Rod live there as caretaker. Things went well until Bessie reported one day that Rod had had a woman caller in the "dream home."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLV

It had been Tom Fraser this time who had told Bertie Lou that he had found Rod had stayed on in Bertie Lou's little cottage until his money was gone.

When he took himself to task for being so impractical, he excused his weakness on the ground that it benefited his health.

But he had been forced to go to Tom for a loan, and because he was not sure that Lila had obtained his former address from the Frasers he did not ask Tom not to let her have the money.

He had no wish to tell anyone the truth about Lila.

As for his health he had in truth lost the emaciated look that had wrung Bertie Lou's heart and caused her to keep him in the cottage in spite of her belief that his conduct toward her had been unfavorable.

She did not forget his remark to Bessie either and she still felt that he wasn't happy in exile from the Loree ménage.

This kept him from making even the slightest overture toward a reconciliation with him.

But as the time when she must "discharge" him came nearer she knew more and more that she would be another heartbreak to lose him.

And what would become of him if she let him drift on again? After all, Rod was still very young; he could make all kinds of mistakes before the manate struck.

Bertie Lou asserted herself and he was ready for the highway of progress again.

Bertie Lou put it off as long as she could. And then came Bessie with her story of the golden hairpins and a dress which had been Rod's dresser.

One factor that colored the tale was Bessie's misguided devotion to Bertie Lou. She knew that Marco wanted to marry Bertie Lou and she hated to see a dead romance start in the way.

How could anyone compare these two young men? Of course Mr. Brown was good looking; she told Bertie Lou that it was "cropping" on him now like new hair on a flea-bitten dog.

But Mr. Palmer was good looking too, and wasn't he just wonderful to Bertie Lou? Bessie forgot that she had always said she would marry for love.

It was her opinion that Bertie Lou was "batty" to refuse Marco Palmer.

So she did not hesitate to let Bertie Lou see that she believed Rod had used her house as a rendezvous for a clandestine love affair.

Bertie Lou was furious. In her house! And there was no mistaking who the woman was. Lila used golden hairpins. In her rage Bertie Lou had a flash of enlightenment.

It came to her as a clear as crystal that Lila had sought Rod out and brought this thing to pass. That would account for his having changed his name.

In an instant her opinion of Rod was reversed. He had some decency after all! But not enough to withstand Lila's vamping. Unless. . . .

Bertie Lou wished she hadn't thought of it—she cared too much for Lila to risk causing Cyrus to divorce her. But at any rate it was Lila who pursued him there was no one else he needed to hide from.

It wasn't likely that he would crawl away under an assumed name unless he wanted to escape a temptation she feared.

Bertie Lou wished she could take hold of him and shake him as a dog shakes a rat. Why couldn't he stand up and tell Lila to go to the devil? But at least he had run—that was something. He had made an effort to break with Lila. His ought to be shot, Bertie Lou declared in a rage.

would be through with both of them forever and if Marco wanted her to she would marry him as soon as she was free.

"If I didn't despise you and Rod both too much to care anything about you I'd go to Cyrus and tell him that you were at Moonfields," she said in a tight, hard voice.

Lila sat up with a start. She had been contemplating some cutting insult to offer Bertie Lou, but the latter's knowing about her visit to Rod made a difference.

Lila wondered apprehensively how she had found out.

Bertie Lou's remark revealed something else besides—something which Lila was not too disturbed to realize. If Bertie Lou despised her and Rod too much to care what happened to them she wouldn't be here.

Lila smiled slyly. So Bertie Lou still loved Rod, did she? Well, she would give her a point or two to wriggle out of.

"Sit down," she said, motioning toward a chair near the bed. Bertie Lou continued to stand.

"Why don't you let Rod alone?" she blurted out at last.

"Let him alone?" Lila repeated. "My dear," she laughed, "do you imagine I want anything to do with the caretaker of a dinky cottage?"

Bertie Lou turned white with anger. So Lila wasn't good enough for Lila now!

"You know who's responsible for that," she cried furiously. "Rod can thank you for ruining him."

"Oh, can he? Well, maybe you'd like to know that he thanks you!" Lila returned mockingly.

Lila returned mockingly. She enjoyed Bertie Lou's look of amazement.

"Yes you," she went on sweetly. "You made a nice mess of everything right in the beginning. But Rod tried to be true to you in spite of finding out that he'd never loved anyone but me."

She paused to savor Bertie Lou's slight wince. "He loves me now," Lila went on, "and he always has. It didn't take your affair with Marco Palmer to open his eyes to that."

But he stuck to you until his twentieth year, he saw Marco come out of your room. And you can be sure he'd heard Marco address you as the future Mrs. Palmer."

Bertie Lou stared at her like a person in the grip of cataplexy. No muscle of her body moved; only her eyes burned with a sudden brightness that frightened Lila.

Finally: "What did you say?" she asked. Her voice sounded strange to her own ears, with a faraway dissonance straining through it.

"You heard me," Lila told her crisply. "The night I refer to. . . . She stopped significantly for a second. . . ."

was out at the Palmer place on the South Shore. . . . that "house party," last fall. I guess you were right."

Bertie Lou leaned forward and gripped the footwork of the bed with hands that showed white as snow through the knuckles.

"Did Rod tell you that?" she asked, still speaking in an unnatural voice.

Lila shrugged. "Why not? Everyone's been talking about you and Marco. I asked Rod what he was going to do about it and he said there wasn't any need to do anything because you and Marco were going to marry. Naturally I didn't believe him, and I dare say I taunted him a little for letting you get a divorce to save your own face."

"Then he told me he'd heard it from Palmer himself. Well, after that it was easy to get the rest. And I don't see where you get off to talk to other people about despising them!"

"You mean that Rod was there, at the Palmer house?" Bertie Lou whispered. "That night?"

"Yes, are you worried?" "And he believed. . . . what he told you?"

"What else could he believe? It was very simple. The morning you don't think Rod is a fool, do you?"

Bertie Lou did not answer her. She was thinking of her return from Marco's party, when she found Rod's note. Could he really have been at the Palmer estate? Yes, he had time to reach home before she arrived. And if he hadn't been there when she said he was how could he have known that Marco had brought him out there anyway?

He had an impression the Lila could tell her, but she would not ask.

No wonder he had deserted her if he had seen or heard nothing but Marco's exit from her room and his parting words—his promise to return and breakfast with her.

"I think both Rod and I have been fools," she said to Lila, a remark which puzzled the latter. "And thank you very much for telling me what you have. I thought Rod left me for your sake, she said.

me to know that he's sunk so low he has to borrow money from his old friends, do you?" she asked calmly.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

There are two kinds of mother love. One is right—one is wrong. While a child is little—a dependent little being, looked to by his mother for care and safekeeping, there can be only one kind of love, the love that cherishes, cares for, and defends.

But there comes into the child's life, at five or six years, a time when the character of mother love must change, for the child's good.

If she does go on with her coddling—selfish coddling—an authority puts it, she is going to hamper his development as an all-round independent human being.

Later in life, stifle his ability to strike out and think and act for himself, and in some cases even lower his efficiency for work to such a degree that he may be unfit to earn a living.

A Strong Term
Dr. Joseph Collins, one of the country's foremost behavior specialists calls this hampering type of mothers "Murderous Mothers," in a recent plea he has written for the freedom of the child. It is a strong term but it is easy to see what he means.

He says, "There is a long period of childhood when it must be given freedom and responsibility. . . . Mothers harm their children by over-tending, over-watching, over-warding, over-swaddling. . . . As soon as children are old enough to understand what danger is, some of the responsibility of avoiding it must be shifted to them."

It is an illustration of physical risk, but a child should be allowed to take other risks as well. Risks of judgment, for instance. He will learn by his own mistakes.

I have always emphasized the idea of teaching very young children initiative in little things. Don't do their thinking and choosing for them invariably, although you are doing, the struggles they are having—their little difficulties.

Patting is Hampering
Allow them to do their own little acts in their own little way. Don't suggest too much. "Keep an eye on them and put them right when necessary, but allow them largely to work out their own ideas. Don't make a child a helpless carter-copy of yourself. Don't do his living for him. Pamper has a synonym in hamper."

He must learn to surmount obstacles. Don't always rush to help him out of his childish troubles. Don't have him feel that defense is constantly behind for defense. Teach him to look to himself for defense.

Of course parents must use common-sense. There is a safe halfway. It can be overdone in either direction. But after all perhaps the most dangerous of the two extremes is over-coddling.

HELEN WILLS GIVES RULES FOR HEALTH

"Keeping fit is an all-important matter, and I recommend tennis as one contributing factor, but only one," said Helen Wills, international woman's tennis champion.

"Tennis alone will not put a woman in the prime of condition or keep her there. To be really beneficial, tennis should be played regularly and in moderation. Indiscriminate play has little value and violent exercise is dangerous to those unaccustomed to the strain."

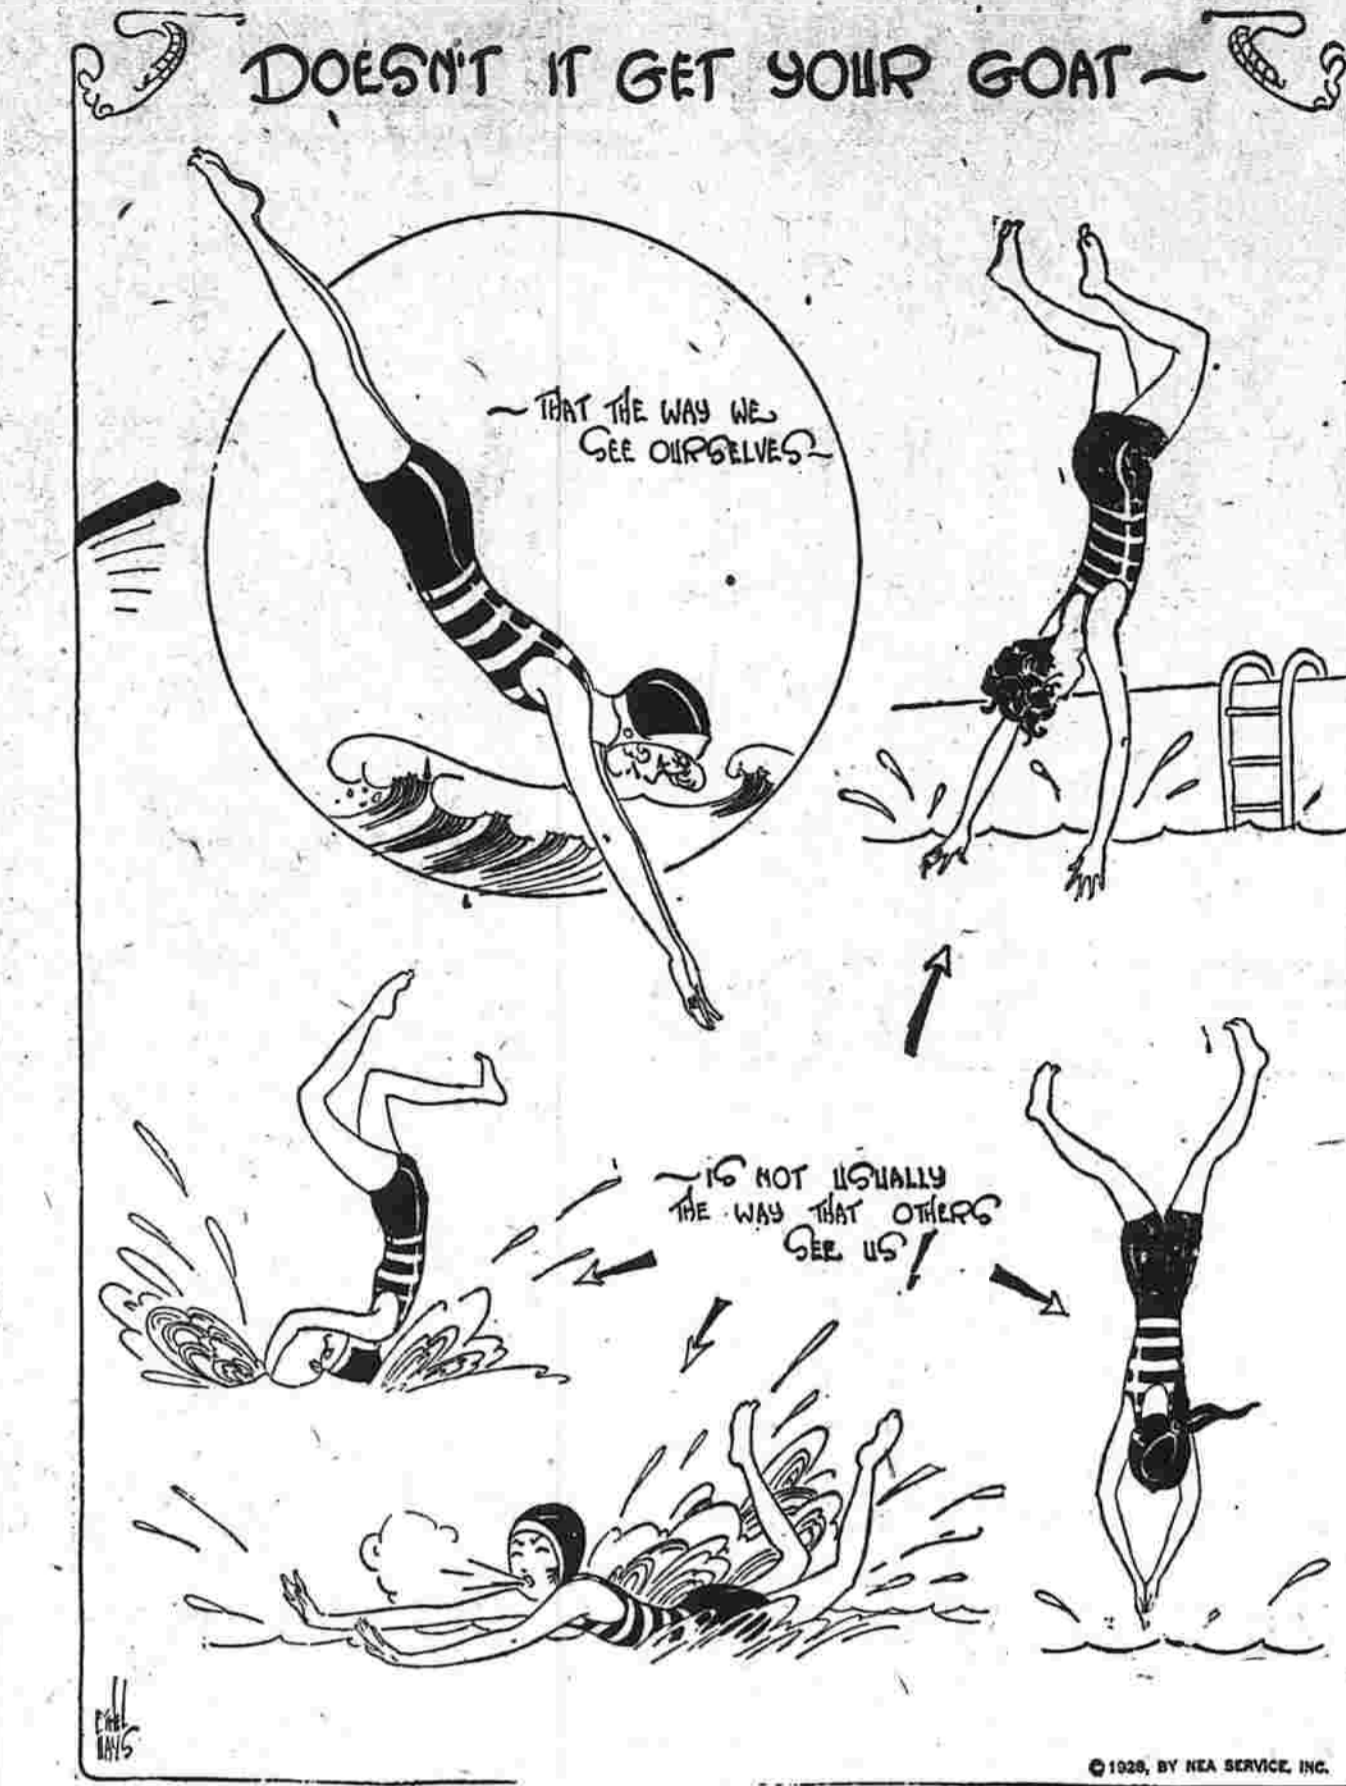

Here are her rules for health: "Rules that she actually follows and that have given her the superb constitution she needs for her play: "Nine hours of sleep."

"No two late hours in succession." "Regular meals."

"Balanced diet, with no fads—just fruits, vegetables, milk and meats that build firm tissue."

LINDBERGH TO BE GUEST OF SAN ANTONIO LEGION
San Antonio, Tex.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will be one of the distinguished guests at the tenth national convention of the American Legion to be held here October 9th to 12. Nat. M. Washburn, general convention chairman, had intended him through Edward B. Spaffor, national commander of the Legion.

The flying colonel is scheduled to speak at one of the convention sessions and will be an interested spectator at the air circus planned as a part of the convention entertainment. As usual, the Lone Eagle will make the trip here by air. It will be his first visit to the Alamo since he received flying train here in 1924 and 1925.

LOOK AT YOUR HOUSE AS A NEIGHBOR SEES IT

You'll Find Chances for Improvement, Says Mehitabel Amsdell.

Try coming back from vacation this year with absolutely new eyes. Pretend that you are a neighbor, visiting, and then what a chance for improvement you will see at once.

Harmony in Paint
You will discover that some of the furniture looks dingy and worn. There may be many good pieces that simply require with each other. There is nothing like paint to bring alien pieces of furniture into peace and harmony.

Before deciding the color, be sure you have decided where each piece is to be used. Then perhaps you can add a lovely touch of color that will be a stimulating note in the room.

Work, soiled, and faded upholstery spoil a room. Chairs or davenport which may not be quite worth the cost of reupholstering can be made all bright and new again by carefully fitted and tailored slip covers. Unless you are expert with the needle don't try to make them yourself, for they are tricky things to get exactly right.

For winter use choose materials with some body like repp, flat mohair or heavy cotton satin. To brighten a dark corner, a cover of printed linen or cretonne is good.

Weed Out Pictures
Then take a look at the pictures. Perhaps we have some hanging there that are really not very good. Our new eyes will ruthlessly weed out all such.

In the use of decorative accessories we Americans usually have too much about. We might profit by the Japanese idea, which is to have only one on view at a time and to change it every day. Some women have sets of pictures which they change frequently to keep their rooms interesting.

Lovely pictures are available for

YOUTHFUL—SWAGGER

The discriminating woman who seeks individuality and smartness in detail will choose Style No. 269 in semi-formal styling. The simulated double-breasted closing bodice adds interest to this navy blue wool crepe with huge buttons and novelty grosgrain ribbon belt.

The long-waisted bodice gives the same effect as hip yoke, to becoming all-around box-plaids of skirt. Printed jersey, sheer tweed, crepe satin, canton-tulle crepe, printed velvet, sheer velvet and silk crepe printed in modernistic patterns are smart suggestions. Patterns can be had in sizes, 16, 18, 20 yrs., 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

PRACTICE HELPS MAKE VOCAL SOUND PLAINER

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles on the human voice and how it is best used. Tomorrow: Vocal Defects.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The organs of speech include the lips, the tongue, the gums, the palate and the lower jaw as well as the uvula. The uvula is the little tip which comes down from the soft palate to divide the throat cavity in two parts.

Action of Jaw
If the lower jaw projects too far, the lips do not meet properly and the person has trouble in saying "f," "v," "b," and "m," and sometimes trouble with the "s." On the other hand, if the lower jaw is too short and receding the "s" sound is too prominent and may even sound like "sh." In order to say "s," "n," "t," "p," and "v," the upper lip must be raised.

Speakers and singers practice movements of the lips in order to obtain facility in such pronunciation. The tongue is the organ that gives most trouble to singers.

Exercises
The following exercises are for singers who wish to obtain good control of this important organ: Push the tongue out of the mouth as far as possible and downward toward the chin.

Rotate the tongue to the right, then down, then to the left, then up. Repeat ten times.

Protrude the tongue, grooving it at the same time by raising both sides.

Point the tip of the tongue upward and downward alternately for a count of ten.

Rotate the tongue to the right, then down, then to the left, then up. Repeat ten times.

Press the tip of the tongue back of the front lower teeth. Press and relax for ten times.

Let the tongue lie flat on the floor of the mouth, with special care that the front, middle or back are not elevated.

The WOMAN'S DAY

For six years Hansel Williams played a hoax on the American public all because a girl once told him that she'd never have him until his picture had been on the first page of every newspaper in the country.

He pretended that he was a shell-shocked World War veteran and appealed to the nation to tell him who he was. But the girl married another man, anyway, and Williams married another girl, so he decided to stop the hoax.

Somehow one feels more ashamed of the girl than of the man in this case.

Nasty Nice
When an artist who has painted the loveliest nudes ever seen on canvas—driads and fauns and nymphs and wood sprites—suddenly announces that she will never again paint another, one has a distinct feeling of being "let down."

For while one takes the layman's point of view regarding indecency and impropriety of the human figure, one looks to the world of art to give on the same, decent view-point here that one needs and feels is so innately right.

Which is why one blushes a little for Lillian Genth, painter of lovely nudes, who vows that all her canvas figures will hereafter be draped!

It's Natural
Mary Hickey who works in New York domestic relations court suggests "Schools of Marriage" where in young men and women would learn how to select husbands. She

A New York psychologist calls Al Smith a "syntonic type." Another gentleman trying to work up a debate?

SUNBURN VICTIM IS GRATEFUL TO RABALM

"An unusually tender skin coupled with a love of the out-of-doors make me a frequent victim of sunburn. In spite of the best precautions I can take, I don't believe anyone has tried more remedies than I have, but with them all I have had to stand my share of suffering. I can tell you, that is, with all except Rabalm. Since a friend recommended Rabalm, the pain of sunburn has no more terror for me. I never saw anything like the way it soothes the skin. Its benefits begin the moment it is applied. While it is several days before the redness is all gone, the pain and smart go almost instantly. And since I have used Rabalm my skin has never blistered."

If you also suffer from sunburn; you, too, can obtain quick relief with Rabalm. It requires no painful rubbing in. Will not stain clothes or bed linen. Pleasantly fragrant. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE:
(371) Tops
Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

The making of tops is a fascinating pastime for most boys. The top to the left may be made easily with a large round button or disc of wood. A peg is fitted into the button or disc. The peg should be about a quarter-inch in diameter and made to fit snugly. The top shown to the right is made in the same way, a spool being used instead of a button.

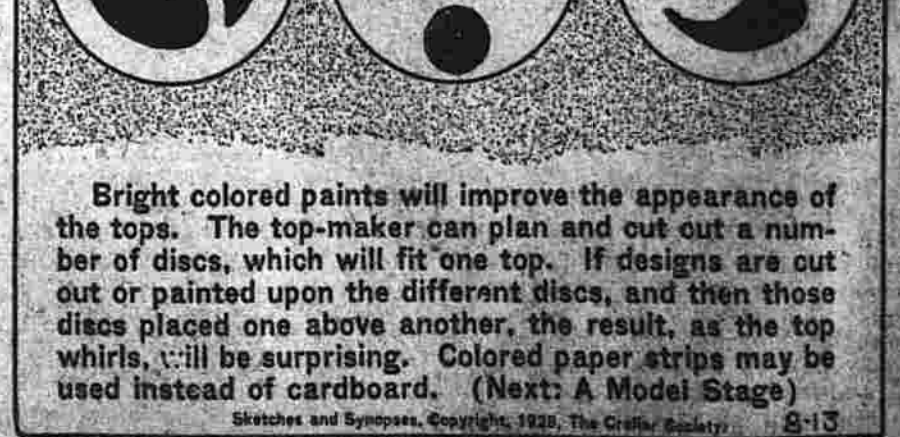

A large spool cut in half makes the top pictured above. The spool can be whittled or shaped to the proper size.

This top, with an attractive design cut in its top, can be made with an ordinary pocket-knife. Draw the pattern, then cut it out.

Bright colored paints will improve the appearance of the tops. The top-maker can plan and cut out a number of discs, which will fit one top. If designs are cut out or painted upon the different discs, and then those discs placed one above another, the result, as the top whirls, will be surprising. Colored paper strips may be used instead of cardboard. (Next: A Model Stage)

GAS BUGGIES

EVER SINCE DON AVALON'S LETTER CAME, I'VE BEEN TRYING TO FIGURE OUT SOME WAY TO GIVE HIS FEELINGS BY PERSUADING VIOLA TO DROP ALEC, AND GO BACK, BUT IT SEEMS USELESS.

I MIGHT AS WELL GET THE REST OF THE DOPE ON ALEC THAT DON WANTS, AND THERE'S ONLY ONE PERSON HERE WHO CAN GIVE IT TO ME.

MY STARS! THERE'S THAT PECULIAR LOOKING MAN WHO'S BEEN PATROLLING THE STREET IN FRONT OF OUR HOUSE LATELY. HE GIVES ME THE CREEPS! HE HAS A HARD FACE!

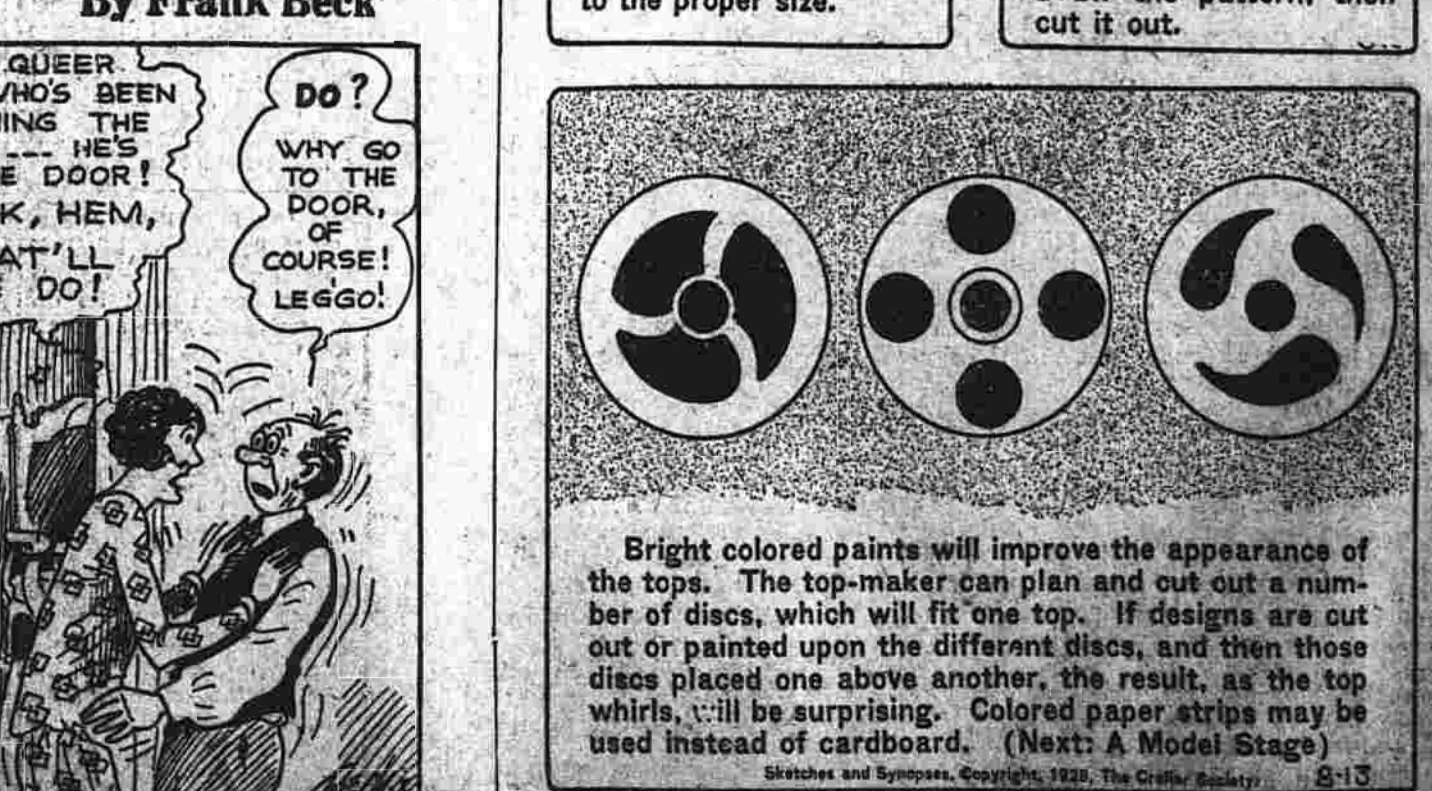

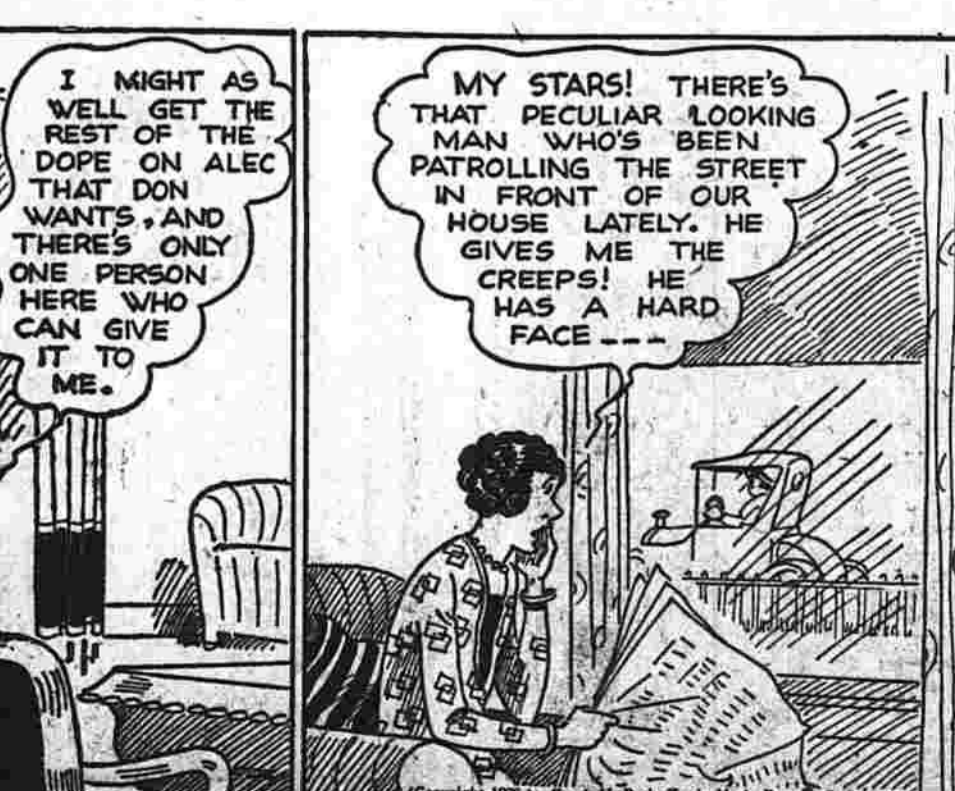

GOOD HEAVENS! HE'S STOPPING BY THE GATE!!

OH HEM!

HE'S COMING IN!

THAT QUEER MAN WHO'S BEEN WATCHING THE HOUSE HE'S AT THE DOOR! QUICK, HEM, WHAT'LL WE DO!

DO? WHY GO TO THE DOOR, OF COURSE! LEGGO!

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

A woman in love is just finding herself, while a man in love is lost.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"My dear," said Mr. Meekton, "you should talk over the radio every night and tell the world of some of the wonderful things you say to me."

"Leonidas, look me in the eye! Are you trying for an arrangement that will enable you to shut me off as soon as you get tired of listening?"

Tune In On This One. Sweet Young Thing—"Joe is awfully dumb."

Another S. Y. T.—"How come?"

S. Y. T.—"I was talking to him about radios."

A. S. Y. T.—"Well?"

S. Y. T.—"I asked him if he got the Quartet from 'Rigoletto' last night and he said, 'No, admission from an Irish Bootlegger.'"

How To Torture a Tourist—The Maid—"Yes sir, your suitcase looked so untidy with all those old labels on it from Japan and America that I thought I'd clean them all off."

I WONDER: Adam, after awakening from a deep sleep and viewing for the first time his helpmate in all her marvelous beauty, smiled broadly in amazement as he began to count his remaining ribs.

"I wonder," he mused, "if a man can do without all his ribs."

"Who wrote the poem beginning, 'When you come to the end of a perfect day?'"

"What do you make of this, Holmes?" asked Watson, passing the clipping to his friend.

"Elemental, my dear Watson," responded the great detective. "The correspondent has a radio and the police would do well to take precautions at once to forestall the murderer."

The junior partner was interviewing a very pretty girl who had applied for a position.

"I'd hire her."

"I have."

"Can she take dictation?"

"We'll find out later," said the junior partner.

"Well," said a man as he reached for his hat.

"I guess I'd better get back on the job."

"I started to say work, but I didn't want any smart comeback."

Manufacturing Evidence.

A policeman on the beat was puzzled by the appearance of a house.

It was a large place, and, although well past midnight, every room from the attic to basement was well lighted.

At last he thought he would make inquiries.

"It's quite all right, constable," said the man who came to the door.

"Nothing to be alarmed about. You see, my wife's been away for a month and, of course, I've written her and told her how lonely I've been."

"Well, I'm just making sure the electric meter doesn't give me away."

LETTER GOLF

BLAME THE WEATHER

Blame the weather for turning the MILK SOUR. But it takes more than the weather to do that—in letter golf. Par is six, but perhaps you can better the solution on another page.

Letter golf grid with words SOUR and MILK.

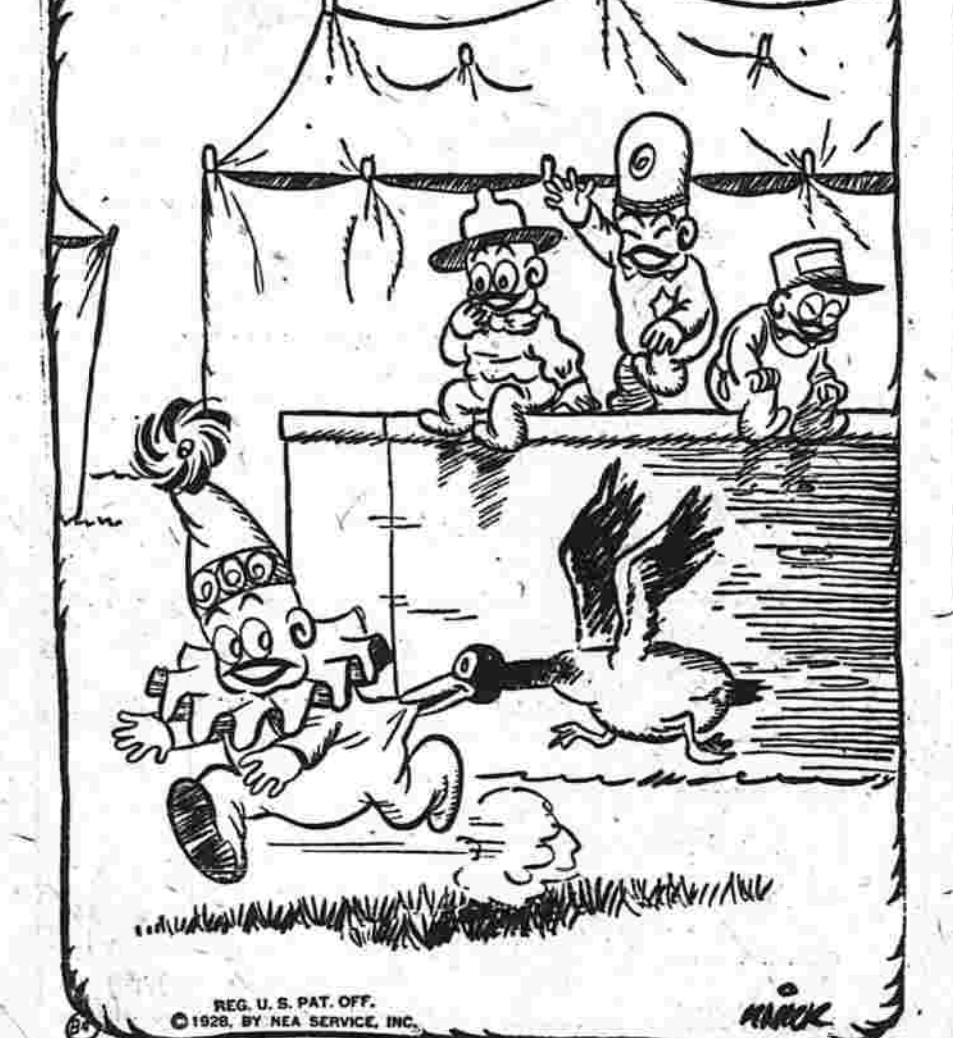

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

From the Radio—"All those who enjoyed the program please wire a letter to the performer, care of this station."

Farmer—"Gosh darn it. That city feller sure put one over on me. Now I've got to write a letter."

THE KNYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

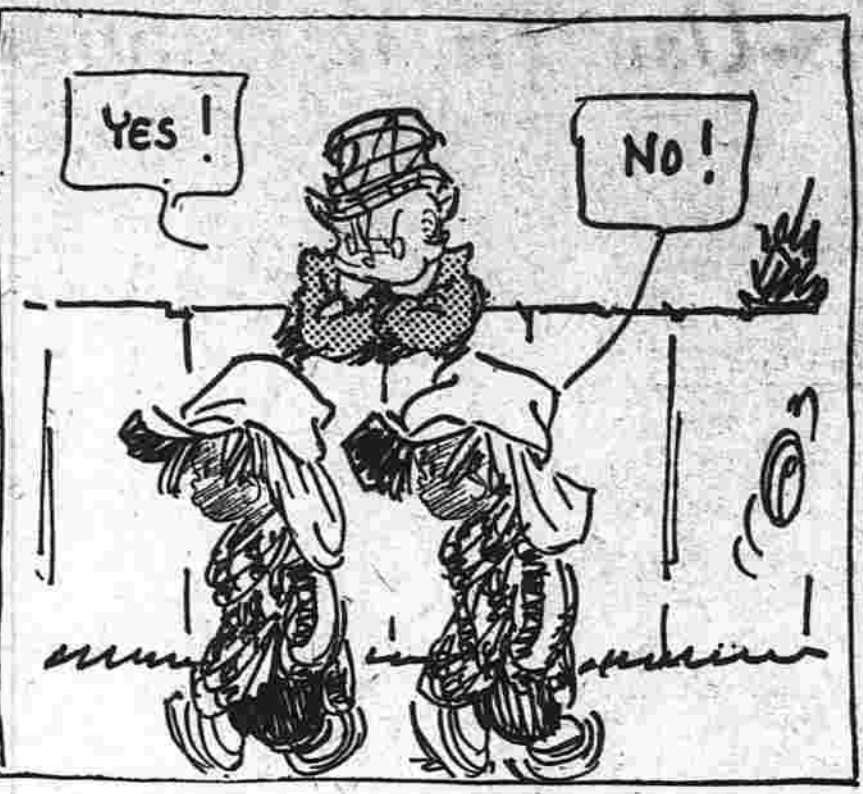

With all the crowd inside the tent, about a half an hour was spent in looking round the side show. There were funny things galore. The thin man, and the fat girl, too, told everyone just how they grew. One youngster, to the fat girl said, "Gee, you can't grow much more!"

Oh, can he talk? "You bet he can! Just go ahead; say howdy to the youngster," answered Clowny with a grin.

ABOUT TOWN

Fred Rogers of Garden street is spending his two weeks' vacation at White Sands Beach.
Edward C. Elliott, Sr., janitor at the municipal building, starts his two week vacation today.
Mr. and Mrs. Scott H. Simon of 124 Henry street left today for a week's stay at Cape Cod.
There will be an important meeting of the members of the Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church at 7 o'clock tonight at the West Side Recreation Center for the purpose of making plans to attend the annual convention of the Luther Leagues from all over the state in New Britain on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3.

EMERGENCY DOCTORS

Dr. Edwin C. Higgins (505-2) and Dr. LeVerne Holmes (814) will be on duty to answer emergency calls tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harvey and children of Cambridge street are occupying Mrs. George F. Borst's cottage at White Sands Beach this week and next.

Mrs. Malcolm Mollan of North Main street is spending the week with relatives in Greenwich, Conn.

William McKee of Griswold street, well known auto repair man, has entered the employ of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Company of Hartford.

Mrs. C. T. McCue, of East Center street, has returned home after spending her vacation at her summer cottage at Cornfield Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oman of the Midland apartments are in Northampton, Mass., and will spend the remainder of the week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Waddell of East Center street returned home yesterday after a motor trip through Maine as far as Portland and back through the White Mountains. They were registered at the Sinclair Hotel, Bethel, N. H., and the Granlden, Lake Sunapee.

A daughter, Barbara Ann, was born at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, August 20, to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ross of 59 School street.

Mrs. John Walsh and two children, Betty and John, of Eldridge street, have been visiting relatives in Jamaica Plain and Nantasket, Mass., the past two weeks.

Miss Irene Genest, employed in the bookkeeping department of Cheney Brothers, has returned after spending her vacation at her former home in Chalmersford, Mass.

LEGION'S CARNIVAL IS THE REAL GOODS

Ferris Wheel, "Rides" and Everything That Makes a Carnival "Big" on Hand.

The carnival of the American Legion, Cornell-Dilworth post, which opened on the federal lot at the Center last evening, is a real carnival—a big one. Brilliantly lighted, with a Ferris wheel, airplane "ride", carousel and chairplane all a-whirl and a big orchestra steadily tooting the right kind of music for an outdoor exciter, the grounds were thronged with people, old and young, from the hour of opening at half past seven last night until closing up time after 11. It is probable that at least twenty-five hundred persons visited the carnival during the evening, the crowd present at any time varying from three hundred to twice that number and visitors were constantly coming and going. It was the first time since the great centennial celebration of 1923 that a layout of carnival "rides" had been brought to Manchester, and the Legion post tackled a heavy expense in the innovation, but judging from the patronage last night it will prove a profitable investment. There were very few empty seats in the Ferris wheel and no delay at all in getting "cargoes", while the other rides were almost as well patronized. Loaded With Souvenirs
There was a big variety of prizes offered in the various booths and heaps of people tried for them. The result was that before the evening was half over most of the folks one met were carrying armloads of souvenirs ranging all the way from baskets of groceries to big dolls, blankets and household equipment. There seemed a general disposition last night to "loosen up" and let the Legion have some of the spare silver in the public pocket. This is readily enough accounted for in the fact that wherever money is made on the carnival will go toward defraying the expenses of the big Armistice Day celebration. The excellent music so liberally provided is by McKay's 15 piece orchestra.

The carnival is to run every evening this week.

BREAKING OF OAR BARS "BUD'S" VICTORY

A broken oar was all that prevented Frank "Bud" Simon, twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott H. Simon of 124 Henry street, from winning the most points at the annual field day program at Groton Long Point where the Simon family has a summer home.
"Bud" had a big lead in the single-man rowboat race when the oar snapped. Ten points were at stake in the race and the loss of them kept the Manchester boy from getting first place for the most points in any class. At it was, he was second, with 19 points against 26 for the winner.

Miss Mabel L. Wetherell Weds Sherwood G. Bowers

Miss Mabel L. Wetherell, daughter of Mrs. Josephine P. Wetherell of Deming street and the late Henry W. Wetherell and Sherwood G. Bowers, son of Mrs. Lillian S. Bowers of North Elm street and the late Judge Herbert O. Bowers, were married this morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick C. Allen at the parsonage of Second Congregational church in the presence of the mothers of bride and bridegroom. The bride was gowned in blue chiffon velvet with hat to match. On their return from an unannounced wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers will occupy the residence on the farm at Oakland purchased by Mr. Bowers several years ago, and which has been remodeled this summer.
The bride was graduated from the local public schools and from New Britain Normal school and has been a teacher in the schools of the Eighth District. The bridegroom after his graduation from the Manchester High school attended Dartmouth college at Hanover, N. H., for two years, after which he took the four year course at Connecticut Agricultural college and graduated with the degree of bachelor of science. Since completing his studies Mr. Bowers has devoted his entire time to agricultural pursuits.

All Right For Dog Maybe, But Don't Try It On Kitten

Does it pay to be too clean?
If a little kitten were in a position to answer this the reply would be "No." But the particular kitten in question is not saying anything, for this particular kitten is dead.
Yesterday morning the small cat was given to a little girl on the West Side. The child's mother decided that the cat should be properly washed and freed of fleas before it was fully adopted.
Some boys in the vicinity had performed a laundering act on a dog a few days before and had used a delousing powder, which seemed to give good results. So it was decided to use the same powder on the cat.
As the cat had to be exceptionally clean a much larger amount of the powder was used. The kitten inhaled the powder, became very ill. All day it lay half dead. A mixture of hot water and whiskey was administered. No good. Early in the evening the kitten died.
This is printed for the information of those who might otherwise use delousing powders on little kittens.

"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

HUCKLEBERRY PIE

One of the signal blessings of being an American is the privilege of eating huckleberry pie. Perhaps it isn't, in a serious sense, as great a blessing as being able to feel, once in four years, that the fate of the nation depends on your own particular and individual vote—but is a close runner-up.

Many books have been written about wonderful things to eat. But they have been written for the most part by folks who never in their lives tasted huckleberry pie. So for the most part they stand for just so much wasted paper and ink.

Nobody, if he hasn't eaten huckleberry pie, really knows much about the possibilities of life. He may be an expert judge of caviar and pate de this and pate de that and every kind of meticulously fussy sauce invented by the famous chefs of Europe, but he may be as empty as a last year's gourd of any real understanding of the last word in gastronomic delight—unless in his wanderings he has fallen upon a cut of New England huckleberry pie.

Huckleberry pie so running over with purple nectar, that, be you ever so finicky nice in your table manners, it runs down your chin. Oh, boy!

Pinehurst has huckleberries. Hurry, hurry, hurry!

Phone two thousand.
