

E. HUGH CROSBY DIES ON SUNDAY AS HEART FAILS

Herald's Advertising Manager Succumbs After Sudden Attack—With Newspaper Here 31 Years.

Edwin Hugh Crosby, advertising manager of The Herald, died at 2:30 yesterday morning at his home at 75 Robert Road. Death was due to angina pectoris.

Edwin Hugh Crosby

Mr. Crosby had been suffering for nearly a year with heart disease and for a short period last winter was forced to give up active work. He suffered a heart attack on Friday night, but recovered sufficiently so that he was able to return to his duties at The Herald office Saturday. He complained of being ill and was advised to take to his bed until better. Mr. Crosby remarked to his associates in the office that he guessed he would spend the rest of the day in bed.

At nine o'clock Saturday night Mr. Crosby suffered an attack and at 2:30 Sunday morning passed away. He had been under the constant care of Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, who had persistently urged his patient to take a complete rest, warning him that active work would be fatal.

Hugh Crosby was 58 years of age having been born in Addison on October 23, 1870. He was the son of the late Lincoln E. and Sarah Crosby. His father was a member of the firm, the Crosby Manufacturing Company, which made high

BURGLARS FAIL IN RAID ON THEATER

Interrupted as They Try to Open Safe of State at Midnight.

A twisted screw driver, tossed-up papers, rifled desk drawers and open exit doors were found in the State Theater just before midnight last night, and the unexpected return to the theater of Lucius Sherman, an employe, is probably the only reason that there was not a robbery of the receipts for both Saturday and Sunday, which were in the safe in the manager's office.

Manager Von Pilski and Mr. Sherman left the theater at 10:45, after Sherman had made a tour of inspection, seeing that the doors and windows were locked, and the lights all out. They walked up Main street and both spent an hour or so in the lunch cart, two blocks north of Von Pilski then went to his hotel and Sherman returned to Bissell street to get his automobile, which he had left parked there.

As was about to enter the car when he noticed that the exit doors, just west of the Bissell street office entrance were open. He entered the building and found that the inside exit doors were also open. Then he started to investigate. This was at 11:53. Going to the upper part of the theater he opened the office doors and snapped on the lights. The papers on the desk had been rummaged through and the drawers in the desk were open. Lights were burning in the men's rest room. Sherman found nobody, but heard a noise as of someone hurrying out of the theater.

He hurried down stairs, through the lower part of the theater and out onto the street, where he met Lights Officer Donaldson who had since notified police headquarters. Manager Von Pilski was just about to retire when he was notified

Racing Auto Plunges Into Crowd; 21 Killed

Monza, Italy, Sept. 10.—The death list in the tragic accident which marred the sixth automobile Grand Prix of Europe was increased to 21 today when two of the injured died.

The accident occurred on the eighteenth lap when Materassi, the best known motor car racing driver in Italy, while passing the grand stand at a speed estimated at 120 miles an hour, struck the car driven

WESTERN TOUR FOR SMITH IS NOW OUTLINED

Candidate to Make Speeches In Omaha, Oklahoma City, Denver, Helena, Minneapolis and Milwaukee.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Governor Al Smith's forthcoming western tour is not going to be any hurried succession of one-night stands with the candidate dashing madly from his special train to the speaking platform and then hurrying on to the next stop.

Instead, it is going to be somewhat of a leisurely journey with the barnstorming element that has characterized presidential campaign trips of other years almost completely eliminated.

The complete itinerary, made public today, disclosed that the Democratic schedule-makers have so skillfully arranged Governor Smith's trip that he will have ample opportunity to meet and confer with party leaders in all of the nine states in which he will make public appearances. It is so designed to afford the governor a chance to "sell" the personality for which he is famous.

Governor Smith's schedule calls for six major speeches—at Omaha, Oklahoma City, Denver, Helena, Minneapolis and Milwaukee. In each of these cities, the governor will spend the night. And in all of them save Helena he will spend

PROHIBITION REAL ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN

For First Time Democratic National Committee Admits It.

New York, Sept. 10.—For the first time since the presidential campaign began, Democratic national headquarters today formally recognized prohibition as "the principal issue" in the Solid South.

Heretofore Chairman John J. Raskob has steadfastly maintained that farm retail tax was the outstanding issue of the campaign throughout the south and west, but through the regular publicity channels today, the national committee made public an endorsement of Governor Alfred E. Smith by Brig. General W. H. Cockett, superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute, in which it was accepted that "prohibition is the principal issue of the campaign."

"I believe that the country would be more temperate with the liquor question handled by the state, as advocated by Governor Smith," Cockett wrote to Frank L. Polk, president of the Smith College League.

Another endorsement of Governor Smith on the modification issue came from Cyrus Adler, author and educator, of Philadelphia.

Adler added: "It is time that we bring our professions of religious liberty into actual practice."

The Democratic offensive in the Solid South will be continued this week by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, his vigorous demand for nomination with a speech tonight at Richmond, Virginia, and others, on successive nights at Raleigh and Charlotte, N. C., Columbia, S. C., and Jacksonville, Florida.

Mrs. Ross, former governor of Wyoming, has assumed the task of aligning all classes of women voters behind the Democratic banner, but she will place particular emphasis upon her appeal to the normally dry feminine voter. As in Maine last week, the burden of her message to the south will be that despite his vigorous demand for modification of the Volstead Act, Governor Smith would be powerless to alter the present regime without the consent of a majority in both Houses of Congress.

NEW YORK-TO-LOS ANGELES NON-STOPPERS

Politicians Watching The Maine Primaries

Old Adage: "As Maine Goes So Goes the Nation" to Be Put Again to the Test.

Portland, Me., Sept. 10.—The first barometer of the prospective presidential weather for 1928 will throw out its message to the nation today from the Maine elections.

Although no presidential electors are to be elected, the relative poll of the two parties in the contests for United States Senator, governor, state officers and members of the Legislature will be a straw in the political winds. The old political adage, "as Maine goes in September, so goes the nation in November," is again to be tested.

Senator Frederick Hale, chairman of the Senate naval committee, and tenth ranking member of the Senate in point of continuous service, is seeking his third term. His Democratic opponent is Herbert E. Holmes of Lewiston. A bitter primary fight between Hale and Governor Ralph O. Brewster for the Senatorial nomination left some ugly scars on the Republican side.

By turning down the pointers about the names of the candidates a person wishes to vote for it is meant that in every case a person wishes to vote for a candidate it is necessary to pull down a pointer if he wishes to have that vote registered. The mere pulling over of the curtain does not record a vote. The party lever on the left of the machine can not be used in the primary election.

The first offices on the list are the seven selectmen. In both parties there have been seven names presented. There is no contest in this office for either party and one vote will nominate the republican candidates and the same is true of the Democratic candidates, but to give the candidate a vote it is necessary a turn down the lever.

PRESIDENT TO LEAVE FOR CAPITAL TONIGHT

To Make Farewell Address at High School in Superior, Wis.

Superior, Wis., Sept. 10.—President Coolidge this evening is scheduled to appear on the steps of the Superior central high school—this summer's site of the temporary executive offices—and tell the people of the surrounding neighborhood how glad he was to have spent three months fishing on the Brule river.

Immediately following this "farewell address," the President and his party will entrain for Washington. Wednesday morning will find him back at his desk in the national capital.

A crowd of sizeable proportions is anticipated for the final appearance of President Coolidge in Superior. Mayor F. A. Baxter has issued a proclamation calling upon all the good people of Superior, Douglas county, Duluth and everywhere else to be present for the occasion. The local newspaper has estimated 20,000 will be on hand. Lacking only a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge have spent three months at Cedar Island Lodge, the spacious Pierce estate on the Brule. The President has had the most successful year of his White House incumbency insofar as vacation fishing is concerned.

"NO MUD SLINGING" IS ORDER SENT OUT TO G. O. P. LEADERS

AIR DERBYISTS NEARING END OF RACE TO COAST

One More Stop Before Reaching Los Angeles; Rankin Leading the Class A Planes.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 10.—Leading the vanguard of the New York to Los Angeles Class "A" Air Derby, Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kan., landed his Cessna monoplane at Rockwell Field here at 8:30 a. m. (Pacific Coast Time) today on the next to last leg of the transcontinental race.

The planes left the runway two at a time.

The first pilot to lift his machine into the skies was Tex Rankin, Portland, Ore., flying a Waco biplane.

Within a few minutes after Rankin's take-off, all 21 race planes had left the ground.

Rankin led the pack into Yuma yesterday, at the end of the El Paso to Yuma leg of the race.

The next stop, San Diego, is to be the last before the final dash. The air racers are expected to remain in San Diego until 1:30 p. m. (Pacific Coast Standard Time), when they are scheduled to take off for Mines Field, Los Angeles.

AT THE FINISH LINE.
Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—Still gasping from the spectacular aeronautical exhibitions of yesterday, spectators of the national air races at Mines Field today prepared for new thrills as the airplanes in the Class A New York-to-Los Angeles

EXPECT DECISION
ON NAVAL TREATY
Washington is Now Studying Anglo-French Pact—May Call Another Parley.

London, Sept. 10.—It was revealed by International News Service by a high official source today that Great Britain and France plan to ask the world powers to submit an alternative naval proposal in the event that Japan, the United States and Italy react unfavorably to the Anglo-French naval agreement.

CHINA IS REFUSED
A SEAT BY LEAGUE
Unable to Get Two-Thirds Vote at Geneva—Japan the Reason.

Geneva, Sept. 10.—China today was refused a seat on the League of Nations Council. When the issue was put to a vote in the Assembly the result was 27 in favor of granting the Chinese request and 23 in opposition. A two-thirds majority was necessary.

SECRETARY KELLOGG HOME
New York, Sept. 10.—Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state, returned from Europe today aboard the Leviathan, bringing with him the recently signed peace treaty. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg. They were taken off the ship at Quarantine at dawn, disembarked at the Battery, and went directly to the Pennsylvania station to catch a train for Washington.

National Chairman Work Denounces Whispering Campaign—Has Approval of Presidential Nominee—Calls Attacks on Both Candidates "Offense to Common Decency."

Washington, Sept. 10.—"No mudslinging."

This order went forth from Republican national headquarters today to the army of party leaders seeking to place Herbert Hoover in the White House. It followed a public denunciation by Hubert Work, Republican national chairman, of "whispering campaigns" and it marked a very definite effort by Republican leaders to halt under-cover attacks on both Hoover and Governor Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic rival.

The move had the approval of the Republican nominee, who deplores all types of scurrilous attacks on candidates for public office. Hoover looks on "mudslinging" as beneath the dignity of a presidential campaign and he feels that battle should be won or lost on party issues. He doesn't even favor attacks on Democratic issues or the record of the Democratic Party. He has told his advisers he prefers that his campaign be made an affirmative one, confined to extolling Republican issues and praising the Republican record.

Hoover made it clear at the outset of his campaign that he would not countenance Republican attacks on Governor Smith. He has done his best to stop mudslingers any were called to his attention. The Work statement was issued after the national chairman conferred with the nominee, and undoubtedly was prompted by Hoover.

Attack On Americanism
During the pre-convention campaign, it was learned, Hoover was deeply moved by attacks on his Americanism. He did not mind criticism of his record as a public administrator nor attacks on his Republicanism. When some of his foes referred to his Americanism in slighting terms, he felt a personal injury. He told one friend, on one occasion, that such attacks had no place in American politics.

In issuing his statement, Work revealed that anonymous pamphlets, attacking Hoover have been placed in circulation. The national chairman denounced them as "scurrilous and false."

"Some of them are letters sent by presumably responsible persons in the opposition under seal of confidence," said Work, "but intended to start whispering campaigns. Some of them have been sent broadcast in certain sections of the country under the protection and privilege of the Congressional frank."

"There are real and fundamental issues in this contest and vital principles of government are at stake. These immaterial utterances of foolish extremists on either side should not be used to obscure the real issues. The Republican Party submits its record of a prosperous country. We advocate certain principles and policies which the administration has followed and which we believe necessary for the country to follow."

"Upon these and the character and capacity of our candidates to administer the highest office in the world do we submit our cause to the people of the United States and repudiate any recent malignant and under cover methods either to elect or defeat a candidate for the presidency."

Work declared he had received information of attacks against both Hoover and Smith. He denounced both as an "offense to common decency."

"I wish to denounce these utterances or statements that may have appeared or that may subsequently appear from whatever source," he added, "and irrespective of which candidate they attempt to malign. I cannot be too emphatic in saying that no personal attacks have been made either with the sanction or authority or knowledge of the Republican national committee. We do not want to win votes on tactics that are opposed to every standard and tradition of our party. Once elected for all, I denounce all such activities as vile and beyond the pale of decent political campaigning."

Hoover today held a conference with Louis Liggett, national committee man. John S. Richardson, his pre-convention manager, and Francis Prescott, the state chairman in Massachusetts. They came to arrange a date for his New England address, probably early in October, and to discuss the situation "Down East."

grade woollens in the mill at East Glastonbury, and which is now owned and conducted by the Angus Park Manufacturing Company.

Attended Wilbraham. Mr. Crosby attended the schools in Glastonbury and also attended Wilbraham Academy, Wilbraham, Mass.

Mr. Crosby was survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Clarke Crosby, two daughters, Miss Priscilla A. and Miss Ada Belle, one son, Lincoln L., and two granddaughters, Edwin Andrew and Ann Louise.

His wife and two step-daughters had left home about 8 o'clock Saturday night to go to West Hartford to the State Fair and arrived home about 11:30.

Efforts were made to call doctors, but being informed that it was a case of being overcome by gas and that the person was probably dead, no further action was taken.

The body was removed to Holloran Brothers' undertaking rooms and the funeral will be held there Tuesday morning at 8:30 followed by a mass in St. James's church with burial in St. James's cemetery.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at his late home at 2:30. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of the North Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate and will be assisted by Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church.

Air Derby roared toward the finish line.

Naval Lieut. G. E. Hasselman was the first to cross the finish line. While participating in the race for Scout planes his ship crashed as it rounded a pylon at 150 miles an hour.

The first race of the meet—the around-the-world memorial race—for marine corps planes was won by Lieut. Decker. He covered the 50 miles in 23 minutes, 23 seconds.

Another thrill was added when George Brink a Navy parachute jumper, fell 1,600 feet before his parachute opened.

Navy and Army bombing planes also put on thrilling exhibitions for the huge throngs.

JOURNEYS FROM TEXAS TO KILL WIFE IN HUB

Shoots Her Down in Cold Blood As She Starts on Her Way to Church.

Quincy, Mass., Sept. 10.—Because his wife refused to live with him in Texas and refused all attempts at a reconciliation, Wallace Graham journeyed here from Texas and shot her down in cold blood as she stepped from her home, according to police today who stated Graham had made a complete confession.

Graham fired four shots into his wife's body yesterday morning as she left the house to go to church. The woman was alive when police reached the scene but died en route to the hospital.

After a police dragnet was thrown about Greater Boston, Graham was found in Charlestown, and when confronted by police he readily admitted the killing, they say.

DEATHS

TAKES NAP ON COUCH, OVERCOME BY GAS

Henry Calabria of Dudley Street Succumbs Waiting for Coffee to Boil.

Overcome by gas while asleep waiting for a coffee pot to boil Henry Calabria of 26 Dudley street, died Saturday night. His body was found by his wife and two step-daughters on their return home.

On the gas range, where the gas jet was found open, was a coffee pot. This indicated that he had placed the pot on the stove with the intention of making coffee, had evidently laid down while the water was boiling and fallen to sleep.

His wife and two step-daughters had left home about 8 o'clock Saturday night to go to West Hartford to the State Fair and arrived home about 11:30.

Efforts were made to call doctors, but being informed that it was a case of being overcome by gas and that the person was probably dead, no further action was taken.

Mr. Irving Lane, 38 Grove street, died at his home yesterday afternoon following a lingering illness.

He was 37 years old, being born in East Hartford, August 26, 1891, son of the late Dr. Davis E. Lane and Adrienne E. Lane.

For two years and three months Mr. Lane was employed as a pressman at the Evening Herald plant on Hilliard street.

Mr. Lane is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Marion Dart, of South Windsor, one sister, Miss Jessie A. Lane, and two brothers, Farnum H. and Homer B. Lane, also of South Windsor.

The funeral will be held at the home at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Truman H. Woodward, pastor of the Wapping Federated Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Wapping Cemetery.

Four-year-old Richard Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Small, of 363 Keeney street, died at Manchester Memorial hospital Saturday night following an operation.

NEW ROMEO GOVERNOR.

Rome, Sept. 10.—Francesco Boncompagni Ludovici, former Italian ambassador to the United States, today assumed the duties of governor of Rome, in succession to Prince Potenziani, resigned. It is reported that the domestic troubles of Prince and Princess Potenziani, which led to a double divorce action, were responsible for the prince's decision to retire from public life.

SUN SUITS FOR SONNY

Washington.—A recent invention of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, is a sun suit for children. The suit is sleeveless, with an open-mesh waist. Through the mesh the sun can penetrate, changing chemical substances in the skin to vitamin D, which enables the child to grow better bones and teeth.

out and ordered the stranger to get into the car. Before anything could be said the stranger remarked: "I told them not to go in there," proving to the satisfaction of the police that he, too, was mixed up in the trouble. He was Danny Taglianetti, the lookout, who had started to run away when he saw the man with the rifle.

When the police reached the station they found Clarence Jeffers in his pajamas holding the gun pointed towards the two men inside and the two men had their hands pointed heavenward. The arrest was easy.

Disturbed Sleepers. When the two entered the station from the north side of the building they did not notice that there was a person sleeping in the back room. Saturday night Clarence Jeffers, the proprietor had an early morning business Sunday and had decided to stay at the station over night, as he has often done before.

What the district attorney terms the "Blue Book" of the racketeers was set up by the agents in a raid last week, he revealed. The book contains the names and addresses of every bootlegger, gunman and criminal in the city, Monaghan declared. It contains even the names and addresses of their wives and sweethearts, and what use they can be in an emergency, he asserted.

In the book, also are the names of police officials and special investigators of the force. There also are names of attorneys here and in cities even as far west as the Pacific coast, who have been active in defense of captured bootleggers.

A number of police officials will be called before the jury today. Among the first to be called will be Capt. West, Monaghan indicated. Conditions in his district have been "disgraceful" the prosecutor declared.

It is also understood Captain Merritt will be called. He had previously been suspended by federal prohibition officers on a large still close to his station house. Inspector Carlin, commanding the second police division, will also be called it was understood.

Robbery is Major Crime in Nation

Hartford Insurance Company Announces Results of Their Crime Survey.

Hartford, Sept. 10.—Nearly sixty per cent. of the men prisoners confined in the state penitentiaries, prisons, and reformatories in the United States have been sentenced on the charges of burglary, robbery, theft or larceny, or as a result of more serious crimes such as murder, which were the aftermath of such acts. This disclosure on the crime situation has been revealed by the burglary insurance department of the Travelers Indemnity company which conducted a nationwide survey comprising seventeen state prisons, eleven state penitentiaries, and eleven state reformatories in thirty-five states.

Almost 60 P. C. In twenty-four of the institutions where information was obtained on the number of prisoners, 57 per cent. had been sentenced on more serious charges resulting from burglary, robbery, theft, or larceny, it was disclosed that the addition of these brought the total to nearly sixty per cent. of the prison population.

Crime Problem. Since the survey disclosed that practically three out of every five of the men inmates comprising the population of the state penal institutions covered by the investigation have been convicted on the charges included in the study the conclusion was reached that these crimes constitute the major factors in the most serious crime problem in the United States. It is also pointed out that people have more fear of burglary, robbery, theft, and larceny at the hands of the criminally inclined than from all other crimes combined.

NO POISON USED

Paris, Sept. 10.—The report of the French coroner at Bologna, who investigated the death of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, a Belgian captain, shows that there was no trace of poison in the stomach. It was announced today by Dr. Paul, the Parisian police, to whom a copy of the coroner's findings were sent.

ROGUES' GALLERY PICTURES STOLEN

Photos Torn From Records At Police Headquarters in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—Angered by the abrupt disappearance from the Rogues' Gallery records of the pictures of millionaire bootleggers, District Attorney John Monaghan promised revelations concerning grafting, police that will shake the police department to the very foundations as the third week of the probe into underworld conditions here began today.

Among the photographs torn from the records was said to be one of Charles Schwartz who has been linked with May "Doc" Hoff in a firm that is under investigation. The records of the men whose pictures were removed still remain on file, however.

Monaghan refrained from direct accusation of any one but intimated he regards the incident as additional evidence on collusion between the police and bootleggers.

VEITCH HAS HAD LONG EXPERIENCE ON LISTS

Present Republican Registrar Opposed for Office Has Served Party Many Years.

Robert N. Veitch, Republican registrar of voters, who is being opposed for re-nomination for tomorrow's Primary, has the support of Manchester's leading citizens in his contest. Mr. Veitch has been connected with politics in Manchester for over 15 years and only two years ago sought office.

Robert N. Veitch

For over 15 years the present incumbent has had experience with the voting lists. He was employed as a checker and election official for many years and often worked in the interests of candidates for office because of his knowledge of the lists.

At present Mr. Veitch is employed in the main office of Pratt and Whitney Manufacturing Company in Hartford. He has devoted much of his spare time to his office since he has been in charge of the lists. He is in unquestionable shape. He has made a thorough canvass of the voters in an effort to hold the office and seems to have a big lead on his opposition as far as caucus predictions are concerned.

Mr. Veitch will use the office of the Board of Assessors as his headquarters tomorrow.

FRENCH GUARDS REWARDED WITH LEGION HONORS

Paris, Sept. 10.—Valiant deeds, some of them dating back one whole century, will be awarded when President Doumergue pins the Legion of Honor on the colors of the Republican Guard early in October.

The Republican guardsman as he has existed for the last hundred years, did always seem to be the cut and dried answer to a maiden's prayer. With his gorgeous red and white uniform, his helmet, his sabre, and the patent leather boots, he adds that much color to everyday Paris. He puts the light opera touch to Paris, favorite locale for musical comedy writers.

The bloody days of 1830 and 1848, when civil war converted the streets of Paris into battlefields, saw the Guard in action, as did the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. And previous to that, the original guardsmen marched with Napoleon at Burgos, Alcolea, Danzig and at Friedland.

"All Americans are not millionaires," warns Fred G. Hoffert, Professor at Columbia University, writing in the "Paris Midl." "Don't treat them like nabobs," he continues, "or France will very soon find herself without any tripsters from the other side of the pond."

She has already frightened away a large percentage of them who begin to feel that Paris is only the "Paris Midl."

The National Office of Tourisme has recently announced that the tourist is more and more only passing through France and seldom remaining more than a week. Nevertheless, it points out and nearly everywhere agrees that it is one of the most delightful corners of all Europe and certainly gives more value for the money than any other one.

Professor Hoffert urges French citizens to remember that in addition to the few rich Americans who consider a short stay at Deauville, Cannes or Biarritz a social obligation that must be fulfilled, there is a large mass of middle class citizens with middle sized purses who are getting the habit of passing nearly every summer in Europe. These are the ones who should be attracted to the old corners of Paris and other parts of France.

Chairwarming may be a lost art in America, but in Paris it thrives and can even be well paid. Night clubs need men and women to act the part of a gay crowd during opening hours. Nobody wants to come into an empty place, and night club proprietors know it.

Results: a clan of evening dressed extras who receive so much per night for stirring up gaiety whenever called upon to do so. Many of the supernumeraries at the local theatres receive a welcome addition to the income in this manner.

KIWANIANS SEE COLORED MOVIES

Pleased With Unusual Exhibition; Watkins Wins Putting Contest.

Members of the Manchester Kiwanis Club were afforded an opportunity to view colored moving pictures following their noon-day weekly luncheon this afternoon at the Manchester Country Club.

Winslow Richmond of South Main street was present and gave an interesting illustrated lecture on the colored movies which have recently come into prominence. Mr. Richmond explained the operation and machinery during the showing of the films.

The films were of various colored flowers and of a lake and its surroundings. The Kiwanians were immensely interested in the new type of moving pictures revealing the true colors of objects.

The attendance prize, a Boy Scout hatchet donated by William A. Knoff, ex-president of the organization, was won by C. Elmore Watkins. Ten names were drawn by lot and the group went to the eighteen green on the golf course to put for the prize.

Mr. Watkins and Lawrence W. Case were tied for the honor with two strokes apiece and the former won the play-off only to find his reward a mere hatchet.

SWEET MAY SURPRISE IN CONSTABLE VOTE

Has Surprising Number of Supporters and Is Town's Most Familiar Character.

Charles A. Sweet, Manchester's original taxi man, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for constable in tomorrow's Primary, may surprise the townspeople with his voting strength. Mr. Sweet has the pledged support of a large number of influential men here, who believe that he would make a valuable constable.

His friends argue that Mr. Sweet is on the streets and is available more often than any other candidate and insist that he would handle the work judiciously.

Mr. Sweet is in a race for office with six other men and only four of them can be named.

Party in Ontario, on Way to Pacific When Struck at Railroad Crossing.

Blind River, Ont., Sept. 10.—Bernice McCain, 17, sole survivor of an automobile party of six, was struck by a train at a railroad crossing yesterday, resulting in the death of five and one dying.

The dead are Mrs. Frank McCain, of Cleveland, O.; Margaret McCain, 19, of Ottawa; Marie McCain, 13, of Blind River; Miss Beulah Bell, 50, of Blind River.

They were on their way to a picnic when the accident occurred.

STAR FOR SMITH

New York, Sept. 10.—Madame Ernestine Schumann Heink today added her celebrated operatic voice to the chorus which sings the praises of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

"My family were all Republicans," she explained. "Now they're all Democrats. My family makes fourteen votes for Al Smith. Excuse my bad English. I learned it by the marines. But I'm sure, I wish I had a million dollars to bet, that he will keep every promise. He always has."

MIDDLETOWN PRIMARIES

Middletown, Sept. 10.—Mayor F. J. Bielefeld, and former Mayor James F. Conery are today in best title for the Democratic nomination for the post of chief executive in the city election that will be held on Monday, October 3. Primaries are being held this afternoon and evening. The Republican candidate is Robert B. Brand. Beside the two-sided fight for the nomination for mayor the Democrats have a four-cornered battle for nomination for registrar, while three candidates are seeking the nomination for city clerk.

Since the Canada Colonization Association came into being January 1, 1925, it has placed 2,629 families on 645,998 acres.

WESTERN TOUR FOR SMITH IS NOW OUTLINED

the entire day preceding his speech at night. He will arrive early one morning and depart the next morning. Thus, county and district leaders, farmers and those from the smaller cities will be afforded an opportunity to meet the famous "Al" of whom they have read so much and seen so little.

Three Other Visits. In addition to the six states in which he will deliver major addresses Governor Smith will also make shorter visits in three other states—Kansas, Wyoming and North Dakota. After leaving Oklahoma City on September 21, his special train will be routed through southwestern Kansas, with stops at Newton and Dodge City. En route from Denver to Helena, on September 23, the train will stop for an hour at Cheyenne, and between Montana and Minnesota, where he speaks of public affairs, the governor will make two stops in North Dakota, at Bismarck and Fargo.

Public Receptions. At none of these in-between stops is the governor scheduled to speak, but public receptions will be held in each instance, and those who know "Al's" weakness for crowds, are betting there will be some remarks from the candidate, however much he is determined to do no open-air speaking and to confine his voice to the strenuous days ahead in the east.

Governor Smith is personally well pleased with the itinerary. It has been carefully thought out, and so designed as to have him appear in all the important states west of the Mississippi, with few exceptions, where the Democrats are conceded a fair chance in November. The states in which he will appear have a total electoral vote of 81.

"Give us half that western vote, Texas and west of the Mississippi and Al's elected," said one of his advisors today.

His Special Train. The train upon which the governor will leave Albany next Sunday is to be the most pretentious, from the standpoint of equipment and personnel, that ever went west on a political trip.

It will consist of eleven coaches back of the engine. Governor Smith and his immediate party will occupy the private car St. Nicholas, owned by the governor's close personal friend, William F. Kenn, and an observation car. The St. Nicholas is perhaps the only private car in the country that is figured in a Senate hearing. During the Senate's investigation of campaign expenditures last spring, Kenn was questioned on the witness stand concerning his reasons for lending his car to Governor Smith so frequently.

"Because he is my friend," replied Kenn. "He can have anything I got."

Four cars will be occupied by newspaper correspondents and photographers, three of them as living quarters and one as a work-room. The governor was surprised when informed of the number of war correspondents accompanying him westward.

Governor Smith plans a comparatively quiet week, preceding his bid for the west. While he will deliver no prepared speeches, considerable preliminary work is necessary in getting up the data which he will use in his western addresses, and a good part of his time this week will be devoted to this task.

Mrs. Smith went to New York today to register so that she may vote in November.

SIX PERSONS KILLED IN CROSSING WRECKS

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10.—Three women and three men are dead, another woman is dying, and an eighth victim is in a critical condition as a result of two grade crossing accidents last yesterday.

One crash occurred in Milwaukee and the second near Kenosha. Three persons returning from a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin, were killed when they crashed in front of a Milwaukee interurban train.

The Kenosha tragedy climaxed an evening of dancing enjoyed by two couples who were soon to have been married. Their automobile struck a Northwestern passenger train near the Kenosha city limits. Three were killed.

POLITICIANS WATCHING MAINE'S PRIMARY TODAY

William Tudor Gardner, Republican gubernatorial nominee, has waged his fight solely upon the state platform, which closely follows the national platform on the vital issues of the tariff, prosperity, waterways, and taxation.

Edward C. Moran, Jr., his Democratic opponent, has waged an uphill fight almost exclusively on the issue of exporting the surplus water-power electricity beyond the Maine borders.

Republicans count upon Gardner's tremendous personal popularity to roll up a tidal wave of votes for the Republican ticket.

Born on the shores of the Kennebec, Gardner won fame as stroke of the Harvard crew and tackle of the Crimson eleven in his college days.

He entered the World War as a private in the ranks and won his lieutenant's commission here in France.

His opponent, Moran, who is now only ten years out of Bowdoin, has been handicapped by a small campaign chest.

To offset this, however, he has waged a vigorous campaign with the talent which made him a star debater of the Bowdoin team.

Preaches Farewell Sermon at St. James—Sorry to Leave Manchester.

Rev. James P. Timmins delivered his farewell address to the members of St. James' congregation at the 8:30 and the 10:30 masses yesterday morning and did so with difficulty as the ties formed during the ten years that he has been in Manchester were not easy to sever.

There was much feeling shown by Father Timmins in his short valedictory during which he took occasion to say that his leaving was not as though he was going to be so far removed that it would not be possible to often visit Manchester, but there was a new field that he was to enter that would sever the close relations that had existed before.

He said, one week after he had been ordained to the priesthood and had been fortunate in being given training under such a capable pastor as Rev. William J. McGurk, to whom he took occasion to pay his respects.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY BOLTON LAKE HIKE

Members of Troop 6 Spend Week-End Outdoors; Report Splendid Time.

Troop Six of Boy Scouts affiliated with the South Methodist church went on a hike to Bolton Lake Friday, leaving the church at 6 o'clock and arriving on the camp grounds at the lake about 8 o'clock.

The hike was in charge of Ray Mercer, Tom Corder and David Hutchinson. Upon arrival, tents were pitched and the fires were built.

Soon the majority of the scouts gathered about the camp grounds and the things they had observed during the hike.

Saturday morning all turned out of their bunks early and soon made short work of the bacon and eggs and corn flakes that had been prepared under the supervision of Tom Corder.

The majority of the scouts spent the day fishing or hiking about the surrounding country.

In the safe was the receipts of the theater for two days, Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday's shows having drawn large crowds there was an exceptionally large amount of money in the safe.

This was evidently known to the person or persons who made the raid.

The intruders had arranged a double getaway, the exit on Bissell street nearest Main being left open, but the one near the east end of the building was also opened.

An investigation indicated that the thieves had remained in the theater after the show, concealing themselves until the employees had left.

The doors were not opened at 11:15 when the box at the corner of Main and Bissell street was rung in by a patrolman and it was not noticed to be open by the officer who rang in from the same box at 11:35.

It was just after midnight when Mr. Sherman came out of the theater and reported to Officer Donaldson, as he was then going on duty and was ringing in at 12:02, the tape at the police headquarters showed. There were no windows unlocked and as far as could be learned nothing was taken.

E. HUGH CROSBY

If today the ardor of the newspaper shop droops and the Herald carries on but wearily it is because this organization is weighed down by a stunning sense of loss.

To that branch of the newspaper business to which he devoted himself Mr. Crosby brought a fine intelligence, a bright enthusiasm and a tireless industry.

As a matter of fact, Connecticut is infinitely more concerned with other issues than that of dryness or wetness, which is not an issue at all, as matters stand.

It is far more concerned, in truth, with the question of immigration. We, together with other northeastern states, have had more than our share of the consequences of ill-regulated acceptance of the unassimilable alien.

And, very differently from prohibition, here is a business with which Smith, as President, might successfully concern himself.

It, indeed, a vote for Governor Smith were a vote for rationalization of the liquor laws, and if, indeed, a vote for Herbert Hoover were a vote for a continuance of present conditions as opposed to sane reform, then it would have to be freely admitted that the Democrats in Connecticut had the better of the argument.

But nothing even remotely approaching such a situation exists. Governor Smith arouses sympathy with his position up to a certain point—but that point is reached when he lets it be known that he does not approve of the Eighteenth amendment. Just so far do Connecticut anti-prohibitionists go with him, but no further. In the first place they do not believe that his plan to give every state the right to define the word "intoxicating" is either workable or desirable.

On the other hand they know that if Hoover is elected he will be in control of Congress, that he will have the confidence of his own party, and consequently of a Congressional majority.

In view of this, what hope is there that the Smith candidacy can avail anything on the score of prohibition in this frankly, honestly and rationally "wet" state? None, of course.

As a matter of fact, Connecticut is infinitely more concerned with other issues than that of dryness or wetness, which is not an issue at all, as matters stand.

It is far more concerned, in truth, with the question of immigration. We, together with other northeastern states, have had more than our share of the consequences of ill-regulated acceptance of the unassimilable alien.

very alien vote constitute a large part of their support. Again we insist that prohibition is no issue in this election. But immigration is a mighty issue.

POOR NEWS

If Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut, and John Coolidge, son of the President of the United States, should announce their engagement to marry, that would be an interesting piece of news.

But it is submitted that it is rather poor and tawdry business for every move of this young woman and young man to be watched and peddled to the public when those movements have no news value save insofar as they bear on the possibility of an engagement.

If these children eventually announce that they are to be married, or if they announce that they are not to be married, this newspaper will, of course, print the announcement as a good, if not world-shaking, piece of information.

As a matter of fact, Connecticut is infinitely more concerned with other issues than that of dryness or wetness, which is not an issue at all, as matters stand.

It is far more concerned, in truth, with the question of immigration. We, together with other northeastern states, have had more than our share of the consequences of ill-regulated acceptance of the unassimilable alien.

gence of violating sobriety, have been brought up for generations to believe that one drink of whiskey would turn an archangel into a devil. With a Presidential candidate looming who is at once Catholic and wet, it is conceivable that Maine voters will get out today in determination to beat all records in the way of a Republican majority.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY. Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald, Enclosure stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

MANY CAUSES OF CONSTIPATION.

Constipation, perhaps the most usual ailment of the human family, undoubtedly leads to serious self-poisoning from the toxins of putrefying, uneliminated waste products. The toxins of this disorder have been blamed by physicians for starting a large variety of disorders, from alopecia (loss of hair), to tarsalgia (neuralgia of the foot).

People having one movement per day do not usually consider themselves constipated, and yet they may be seriously affected by intestinal poisoning because this movement may be one, two or more days late, or it may be only partially complete.

Constipation is usually a very chronic disorder of years' standing, sometimes present in some degree from birth to death. The causes of constipation are numerous. The diet of our modern civilization is most at fault, since we use too many of the soft, mushy foods that do not provide enough bulky material for bowels to act upon.

Where the small intestine joins onto the large one, there is a valve that is supposed to prevent the backing up of the waste matter so that it can only flow forward. This valve sometimes becomes weakened and allows the putrefying contents of the large intestine to back up and return into the small intestine where the liquid parts are absorbed and lead to a very serious type of auto-intoxication or self-poisoning. Headaches, sleeplessness, inability to concentrate, melancholia, biliousness, and gas are frequent symptoms.

Tomorrow's article tells about the cure of constipation. Question: "I have been smoking cigarettes for thirty years. Have tried to stop them but cannot, as I get that feeling in the throat and cannot stop. If there is anything to take, please let me know, as I cannot sleep at night."

Question: "Mrs. A. B. asks: 'Will you please state what are the hepatic disorders?'"

New Fall Ideas in Floor Coverings

THE electric cleaner has wrought a great change in the floor covering ideas of the nation. When it no longer was necessary to take rugs out-of-doors for beating and sweeping, large sizes began to gain favor.

For fall all figured floor coverings are showing a trend toward richly designed all-over Persian patterns and center medallion designs in the softest, most subdued colorings imaginable!

Plain coverings, where such are necessary due to figured walls, can be had in three shades of taupe with deeper border, soft green with border and rich rose with border in Axminster rugs.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVES FOR CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES

LIQUOR, IMMIGRATION

The platform of the Democratic party in Connecticut in effect consists of one long rousing cheer for Governor Smith. And particularly for Governor Smith as a wet. Its purpose is to stimulate the belief that liquor is the big issue of this campaign, and that those who do not believe in federal prohibition as operating through the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act owe it to themselves to vote, this year at least, with the Democratic party.

If, indeed, a vote for Governor Smith were a vote for rationalization of the liquor laws, and if, indeed, a vote for Herbert Hoover were a vote for a continuance of present conditions as opposed to sane reform, then it would have to be freely admitted that the Democrats in Connecticut had the better of the argument.

U. S. MAIL PLANES FLY DISTANCE AROUND WORLD EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR

Chicago.—The modern mail plane is produced in fleets, which are necessary to maintain the average speed of 100 miles and hour on the great network over which the planes fly daily a mileage greater than the distance around the world at the Equator, the American Air Transport association here reports.

The mail planes are flown an average of 500 miles and then a pilot and plane takes the cargo speeds to the next airport, where the plane just used undergoes a complete check, refueling, etc. The careful selection of pilots, equipment and care of the machines explains why the slogan of the "mail" must go through "is a boast which comes true.

- September 10. 1846—Elias Howe patented his sewing machine. 1859—Edwin Booth made his first stage appearance, in Boston. 1862—Governor of Pennsylvania called for 60,000 Civil War volunteers.

New York, Sept. 10.—Random notes on an evening stroll along Broadway: Something has happened to the Great White Way; it has taken on a reddish cast. Especially on nights when clouds are hovering over Manhattan, as they have been doing consistently of late, is the reddish tinge reflected down upon the vicinity of Times Square. It's all on account of a new aviation beacon that has been installed on the roof of the Times building. Technicians explain that it requires 15,000 volts and is 25 times as strong as any other light in its vicinity. The sign is one of the soon variety, those gas-filled tubes that are becoming so popular for advertising.

Those furtive hawkers who lead such a transitory existence in Gotham's night life, keeping just a jump ahead of the police, are selling little tin whistles now. They're shaped like tiny saxophones and are played by humming into them. People buy them, too, and quite as readily as they did the imitation silver watches, crimped paper dancing dolls and other worthless trinkets.

An unhappy mother stands on the edge of the rushing sidewalk traffic that seems to have swept away one of her offspring. "Marion—Marion!" she calls into the crowd. "Mother's right here on the curb." Marion—Marion—each hand she clutches a little boy; the third child must have been just too much for her to manage.

A taxi driver alights from his cab during a momentary lull in traffic and nonchalantly begins to put down the top. The lights change and cars behind him honk furiously. The nearest policeman is too busy to do anything except curse into the din. Finally, his fare made comfortable, the driver shoots ahead in a musty, but choicest, of cabs.

A handsome man in evening dress pauses before one of the innumerable pineapple juice stands. In paying, he draws forth a great handful of change, quarters and halves. Could he be a Yale man? A closer look leaves no doubt of it—the man is a waiter.

A crowd before the miniature cigarette factory in a corner window. Through the glistening nickel-plated machines, their wheels and conveyors and all sorts of marvelous mechanical gadgets busily functioning, come thousands upon thousands of a well-known brand of cigarette. Among the watchers is an anguished westerner. With undisguised delight he watches the whirring machines, and without once taking his eyes from them produces from a pocket the "makin's"—brown papers and tobacco in a muslin sack. Next, glancing down from the fascinating cigarette machines he rolls one of his own. A dextrous flip, a lick and a twist. He quits the window and goes away puffing contentedly.

It was inevitable that something should succeed the hand-organ-and-monkey man as a troubadourish entertainer. The Italian-Simian partnerships seem all to have been dissolved, but there still are strolling musicians. Most of these are negroes—banjo, mandolin or guitar players—and the best of them all, perhaps, are Hen and Arthur.

This pair recently haunted the cheap restaurants and pool rooms of the water fronts, but generous applause and a shower of coins in Arthur's hat have infected them with ambition. Now they make forays on Greenwich Village.

Hen—his name must have been Henry—and Arthur play wherever they're permitted. Gian, jolly, coal-black Hen plays the smaller instrument; Little Arthur, high-yaller and wistful looking, capers up and down his long-necked banjo. Arthur never plays a collar, but his shirt front is bedecked with a $20 gold piece on a massive watch chain. Or it would be a watch chain if Arthur had a watch.

And how that pair can play! They have a composition, or a musical contortion, called "Nobody's Business," that never fails to bring the quarters clinking into Arthur's hat, set in mute appeal on the floor in front of them.

Arthur, however, is always more, always disgraced. "Come on, Hen," he urges. "They ain't much silver linin' to our clouds tonight. Let's go where they's some depreciation of real music."

So they put away their instruments and go out into the street. A few doors down, they climb into a large but very old automobile and clatter away in clouds of carbon monoxide.

COVENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mushman of New Haven spent Sunday with Mrs. Mushman's sister Mrs. A. B. Porter.

Mrs. Lucy Geisecke has moved down near New London where she will make her home with her daughter Margaret.

Mrs. J. E. Kingsbury has returned having spent the week at the Hartford Fall acting as the Girls' chaperone.

Miss Cora Kingsbury took second prize on her Jersey calf in the 4-H exhibit at the State fair.

Geo. Dart and John Skinner, members of The Tolland County Dairy Club, won first place in their dairy demonstration—"Casting an Animal and Treatment of Foot Rot." Cora Kingsbury and Buelah Breamont won second place on theirs which was "Milk and Some of the Uses of Milk." The first and second place very nearly tied. By Tolland County winning first and second places and having the most number per dairy animal, it entitles its Club Agent Donald C. Gaylord of Rockville to chaperone the team to the National Dairy Show which will be held at Memphis, Tenn., that being the reward for winning first place.

Monday evening, members of The Second Congregational church are asked to meet at the chapel for a short business meeting. Tuesday evening the choral society will meet at the chapel at 7:30 (s. l.). Everybody try and be present.

LEARNED NEW STUNTS FOR STATE'S FEATURE

William Haines Learns Juggling and Tight Rope Walking—Gilda Gray Tomorrow.

William Haines had a new sport to learn for his recent starring picture, "Excess Baggage" playing at the State theatre for the last times tonight.

For his previous starring pictures Haines had to develop himself into an all-around athlete, for "West Point" he learned football, "The Smart Set," polo, for "Spring Fever," golf, etc. But in "Excess Baggage" Haines had to learn two new stunts.

For the opening sequence he had to learn to be a juggler, an art which usually takes at least three years to learn. Haines had to learn in a short time to juggle four balls at a time, throw ten-pins and even to catch balls and hats on a fork in his mouth.

For a later scene in the picture he was forced to learn to walk a tight rope and even to slide down it backwards.

Tuesday and Wednesday, Gilda Gray's first Samuel Goldwyn photograph, entitled "The Hot Dances," comes to the State theatre. It is a tale of the mysterious Black Lamas, or priests, of unknown Tibet, and the virgins confined in their temples and bound to service of the evil gods of devil worship.

There was a meeting of the Sunday School Board, held at the church last Thursday evening, at which time plans were made for the next Sunday school social, which is to be held at the Parish House on Friday evening, September 28. The committee for the games will be Miss Harriet Sharp, Miss Faith Collins, Raymond Burger and Luther Burnham, and the refreshment committee is to be Mrs. Albert E. Stiles and her Sunday school class.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rattray who have been visiting Mrs. Rattray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George West, of Foster street, for the past two weeks, left last Saturday morning for their home in Minneapolis, L. and their cousin, Miss Hazel West, of Tolland, accompanied them for a stay of a few weeks. She has been in ill health all summer.

Lisle West, who has been recuperating at the home of his parents here, has returned to his work in Danbury where he met Mr. and Mrs. Collier Browning and they all left by automobile for Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. John Helm have been the guests of Mrs. Esther Denning recently. They have been spending the summer in New Brunswick and will soon start for their winter home in Eustis, Florida.

Turkey May Sell Sultans' Jewels To Get Fund For New State Bank

Washington.—One of the world's most beautiful and valuable collections of precious jewels may be put on the market soon by the Turkish government.

The present regime in Turkey is considering the disposals of these gems, worth millions, for the purpose of establishing a state bank. A plan which perhaps would cause the old Turkish Sultans, who loved to gaze upon their jewels, to squirm and twist in their graves if they knew, according to the National Geographic Society.

"The Turkish crown jewels for years hidden in the Green Vaults of Constantinople, are among the bulwark from the Society. The Sultans' throne is of massive beaten gold, studded with diamonds, rubies and emeralds, set in mosaic. It has been appraised at more than $15,000,000."

Recently photographed. Few travelers ever have broken through the seclusion of the treasury room to see the jewels and only recently have photographers been permitted to take pictures of the collection. There is another throne of ebony and sandalwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl, rubies, emeralds and sapphires; a toilet set thickly studded with turquoise and diamonds; an armor, pistols, saddles, sandals, simlars, turbans, daggers, swords and canes all jeweled, not to mention the long strands of pearls as large as cherries, rings, bracelets, anklets and all sorts of other gorgeously designed jewelry for various uses.

"One wonders if the old Sultans were thrilled to drink out of a tankard gleaming with 3,000 diamonds, or to stick their hands into a salad bowl containing a half bushel of unset stones, or half a pack of buttons studded with diamonds," the bulletin said.

"One of the world's largest emeralds, as large as a man's hand, is included in the collection. Since the Tsar was overthrown evil spell upon a masculine owner, hence it always has been considered Queen Mary's stone.

The golden "Crown of England" is worn but a few minutes during the coronation ceremony. It is a magnificent creation weighing five pounds, nearly hidden by diamonds, rubies and sapphires. The King's crown lighter in weight, contains the Black Prince Ruby and 400 diamonds cut from the Cullinan stone, the largest ever found. In the rough it weighed 3,035 6-8 carats. Queen Victoria's crown, on exhibition, sparkles with 3,000 diamonds, 341 pearls and many sapphires.

The princes of India have been collecting jewels for thousands of years and among them are some of the most elaborate displays of gems. The Carpet of Pearls, in the Nuzbah Palace at Baroda, is among the world's famous jewelry creations, six by eight feet and made up principally of pearls but containing a profusion of diamonds, rubies and emeralds.

GLOBE HOLLOW POOL CLOSED FOR SEASON

Was Used by Many Thousands of Bathers During the Hot Weather.

Globe Hollow swimming pond was closed officially yesterday for the season. According to Lifeguard Frank C. Busch, it has been a most successful season from the standpoint of patronage.

Although it is impossible to check the number of persons who have bathed at the pond during the summer months, it would run into the thousands. Three water carnivals were held and all attracted considerable interest, especially the first which was held in the evening of an unusually warm day. On that occasion, it was reported that five thousand persons were either in the water or on the banks. During the season, Lifeguard Busch got about forty bathers out of difficulty. His assistant, August Slidner, also did commendable work, according to Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers, who supervises the swimming pond.

During the fall, winter and spring months, Recreation members will have the advantage of the Rec pool; for swimming classes for beginners will be organized in addition to the open nights.

VICTORIOUS

in Every Test and Fulfilling Every Promise the NEW Maytag observes Its First Anniversary

ONE year ago, I announced the New Maytag as our latest and greatest achievement. Noteworthy refinements and striking improvements, including a new method of soap and water removal, were incorporated in the new washer. It set standards of convenience and washing efficiency that had never been known before.

During the year that has passed, hundreds of thousands of NEW Maytags have been introduced into as many homes, and each time subject to the famous Maytag trial basis: "If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it." Rigorous, exacting washday tests assailed the New Maytag, and it has emerged victorious to a degree exceeding my highest expectations.

A year ago, the New Maytag enjoyed a prestige inherited from Maytags of the past. Today the New Maytag enjoys a prestige in its own right, won by demonstrated performance. It has advanced still farther in its world leadership.

Maytag dealers everywhere follow the standardized rule of sending a Maytag to a home to do a week's washing free, and without obligation of any kind. This is the way all Maytag Aluminum Washers are sold. The Maytag must sell itself solely upon its performance in the home. It must wash everything to your entire satisfaction. Must wash everything quicker, easier and cleaner than other washers. Must wash everything—collars, cuffs and wristbands, without hand-rubbing. Must prove to you, in your own home, that it is the most helpful home-laundrying unit you have ever seen or used.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Monday, September 10.

Sir Walter Raleigh will again spread his cloak so that Queen Elizabeth may cross a mud puddle dry, in a historical drama to be presented for the guests of the General Motors family party to be broadcast by WJZ and allied stations at 8:30 Monday night. A musical program in keeping with the days of "Good Old Days" in "Merrie England" will be offered by Green's Novelty orchestra and the "Fisher quartet. Another drama, "Real Folks" with George Frimousse, actor-playwright, will go on the air over WJZ and allied stations at the same time. At 10:15 WJZ will present "Away Down South in Old Virginia" with stories, banjo pickers, spiritual songs and instrumental melodies of the Southland. Three quarters of an hour later military music as interpreted by the Kenwood Legion band will entertain fans of WJZ, and a far-away midnight highlight will be the drama "Sue" through KOA. Verdi's famous opera, "Rigoletto" will be given in English by the United Opera Company Tuesday, September 11, 1928. Freigau of the Braves also is said to be outgrowing his uniform and may try on the suits provided by some other team next year. McGraw seems to be the only gent in the big league baseball who can get fat and get away with it. He didn't get that way beating the Braves recently, however.

Increases Shown Harold Crary of the American Air Transport association reports that operators are recording increases of about 30 per cent in the volume of air mail now being carried compared to one month ago, following the new five-cent air mail rate for letters and reductions in the air mail parcel rate. Crary estimated that mail planes will fly between nine and ten million miles in the next twelve-month period. Business men of America, Crary said, are finding use of air mail more important daily.

SAID HE WASN'T DRUNK BUT HE LOOKED THE PART Egidio Fiore, of No. 134 Charles street, Hartford, came to Manchester Sunday night to call on his brother-in-law. He had a few drinks and instead of waiting until morning to start for home he put in an appearance on Main street at 9:30 this morning. It was unfortunate for him that he was seen coming out of Purnell row onto Main street and he could give no good account of himself and there was indication that he had been drinking he was taken to the police station. This morning he was charged with intoxication. He pleaded not guilty. Officer Harold Heffron said Fiore looked as if he had fallen, his clothes being covered with dirt and hay. Lieutenant Barron, who was there when Fiore emerged from Purnell Place, verified this statement and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

Banks are the largest users of air mail and in a single day mail planes have carried more than $24,000,000 in stocks, bond and checks.

OCEAN FLIGHT PRIZES EXPIRE UNCAPTURED. MAY NOT BE RENEWED. Berlin.—The Aero Club of Germany and the German Air Traffic Association last year offered a prize of 100,000 marks for the first German aviator who should fly in a German plane from a German airport to New York within 84 hours. The offer expired on August 1 and has not been renewed. Whether it shall be renewed, and if so, under what conditions, is now being debated. A prize offered by an American newspaper for a flight from Philadelphia to Germany also expired on August 4, and has not yet been renewed.

AMERICAN TOURISTS IN GERMAN IN GREATER NUMBER THAN EXPECTED. Berlin.—Those optimists who had predicted that the number of American visiting Berlin this summer would exceed last year's figures by 20 per cent, were too modest in their estimates. Complete figures for July show an increase over July, 1927, of 26.5 per cent. More than 27 per cent of all foreign visitors in the German capital, or 7,924, came from America, and the June record was surpassed by 62.2 per cent.

"I left a boy at home, Rich. I'm sort of engaged to him. He expects to marry me when I go back. Forgive me, Rich."

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SYBIL THORNE, prominent in Boston society, permits a ship-board acquaintance, RICHARD EUSTIS, to make violent love to her. He finally begs her to marry him.

Sybil is on her way to Havana with MABEL BLAKE, a social worker. Before sailing she promised CRAIG NEWHALL, considered the most desirable bachelor in Boston, a decision upon her return.

Craig loves her devotedly and there is a sort of engagement between them. To please her dying father Sybil had consented to marry Craig, but following Mr. Thorne's death the affair was kept secret and no announcement had been made. Sybil still believes herself in love with JOHN LAWRENCE, who went to France with the A. E. F. when she was only 18—and never returned.

The marriage of her brother Tad, adds to Sybil's worries, for she distrusts the pretty little girl he has wed. In order then to unravel her perplexities, she goes to Cuba and encounters Richard Eustis, who proceeds to make life more complicated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV
Mornings are dazzling things to Havana. The sun shone on castles and forts and houses of rainbow hue. It sparkled on the azure sea and the colored boats that rode the waves.

Sybil and Mabel stood at the rail, spellbound by the beauty of it. And, when they had caught their breath, they laughed aloud for very joy.

Natives put out in boats to greet them, and sailors on the lower deck scrambled for little white cards that were tossed aboard.

"What are they?" asked Sybil.
"The purser, missing, handed her a bit of pasteboard."
"Marguerite Fernandez," she read aloud, "Nine Economía, Arriba, Una rubia."

"What does it mean?"
"Oh, Senorita Fernandez lives at number nine Economía street, upstairs. Una rubia means she is a blond."

"Bad women fascinate me," Mabel confided. "I've always been so darn good, myself."
The purser laughed.
"Keep your eyes open," he advised, "and you'll be fascinated plenty."

"I wonder where Rich is?" murmured Sybil. "He must have forgotten he was planning to marry me this morning."
"Sib! What do you mean?"
"Honestly, it seems that captains are like ministers on the sea—no-likes, or justices, or something. Rich thought it would be romantic to be married in the harbor."

"Hello, sweetheart!" Eustis came up behind them, suave and smiling, long-stemmed roses in his hand. "Hello, Mabel." With a flourish he bestowed his flowers. "All the way from Boston, and still fresh. The steward says he puts aspirin in the water. Will they do, my darling, for a bridal bouquet?"

Sybil surveyed him humorously, her nose in their fragrance, her eyes lifted in mocking gaiety. "Imbecile!" she retorted. "Don't pay any attention to him, Mab."

Eustis laughed as one humoring a stubborn child. "The captain's shining his brass buttons, darling," he chided. "You mustn't spoil the party. You'll be Sybil's maid of honor, Mab. And the first mate wants to be best man."

"Maid of honor nothing!" Mabel turned a scornful back.
Richard regarded her soberly. "Jealous!" he sighed, and began exploring his pockets. "I've a little trinket somewhere. Ah, here we are." He held up a pair of long ear rings. Little golden discs strung on end.

"Oh, they're beautiful!" Sybil reached for them eagerly, and when she held them in the dazzling light they sparkled like distilled sunshine. "Lovely, lovely things!" she cried. "Where did you get them, Rich?"

"Come for a walk," he invited, "and I'll tell you."
He took her arm possessively. "We're going up on the boat deck. Mab, see you here when we come back?"

"See that you come back!" she admonished him curtly.
"Mabel's awful upset because I didn't go to bed last night," explained Sybil as they sauntered off. "I don't blame her either. She feels sort of responsible, you see."
"Never mind Mabel!" she exclaimed. "How about getting married this morning?"
"Oh, Richard, stop!"
They were on the deserted upper deck, and when he tried to take her in his arms, she pushed him petulantly away.

"For goodness' sake," she cried, "let's talk about something else!"
"But, darling," he insisted, "you love me! And love and marriage are twins in your sweet mind, child."

"No, I don't either," she informed him coolly. "At least I don't think I do. And, anyhow, I didn't quite finish being honest with you this morning."
"I left a boy at home, Rich. I'm sort of engaged to him. He expects to marry me when I go back. When I lie, you kiss me, I never dreamed you were going to ask me to marry you. Forgive me, Rich. It was a sweet little romance that bloomed on a moonlit sea, and died in the light of day."

"But, Sybil—you love me, dear. Here—I'll show you."
"Don't, Rich. That isn't love. Suppose some perfectly wicked creature kissed me—and did it as nice as that. Suppose it was a pitch black night, and I couldn't see him. But I let him make love to me. And then suppose I got him under a big arc light, and discovered that he was absolutely villainous looking and shabby, and dirty and everything."

"Then suppose next morning I read in the papers that he had beaten his wife, and run away from his seven hungry children. I'd hate him, wouldn't I? I'd loathe and dislike him. But just the same he might have thrilled me with his kisses, and I might have whispered to him, 'I love you.' But you COULDN'T call that love, could you, Rich? It's sort of the same, you see."

"But, Sybil, you foolish child, I'm not absolutely villainous looking, am I? Nor shabby, nor dirty? And I haven't a wife to beat, nor seven hungry children at all."
"Well, perhaps my argument wasn't very good. But I know what I mean, even if I can't say it."
"Does that man at home thrill you the way I do, Sybil?"
"No-o-o."
"But, darling, don't you see that because you don't love him as you love me, he's much nicer than you are, Rich. He hasn't all those horrid ideas."
"How do you know he hasn't?"
"I just know—that's all. And he's more patient than you would ever be, and tenderer, and more dependable."
"How do you know I'm not patient, and tender and dependable? Oh, Sybil, give me a chance!"
"And break his heart?"
"How about mine?"

"You said, yourself, the world is full of girls that are nicer and prettier and smarter than I am. Go pick yourself a knockout—and a good luck to you, Rich. You're wonderful at making love. But you'd make a rotten husband. You even admitted it. Now, please—"

she regarded him severely—"the whole thing's over—and we won't talk any more about it."
Mabel was coming to join them. "I'm sick and tired," she complained, "of being deserted. The way you two run off! You ought to hear the things people are saying about you."
Richard was holding Sybil's hand, pressing her fingers, one after the other, idly.

"Sybil!" he exclaimed, "that sapphire circlet! I never saw it before."
"I don't believe I've ever worn it," she explained. "I don't particularly like it. Why do you?"
"It's the very thing," he announced, "for a wedding ring. Here, dear—let me have it."
"Richard Eustis, are you mad!"
"Mad!" he cried. "Oh, very, very mad, my darling!"

And, suddenly—as though it were a magic thing—a strangeness was born within her, that coursed through her body, made her tremble.
(To Be Continued)

(Richard had his way. In the next chapter Sybil pledges herself and her love—forever and forever.)

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

I do not believe in "forcing" children. There is seldom any thing gained in hammering away at a child day in and day out to get him to do something that is absolutely beyond his comprehension.

Nothing is likely to result from that but mental confusion. But on the other hand I should not encourage him to give up too easily. It is good for a child occasionally to have things to do that are not quite within his scope of understanding or accomplishment.

There isn't a thing wrong once in a blue moon for the mother of twelve-year-old Elizabeth to say, "I won't be home in time to get dinner this evening, but there is plenty of food to cook. You see that your father and the boys are fed."

Elizabeth may be thunder-struck, unhappy and indignant. Furthermore, her father may have to get out his indigestion pills afterwards and the boys sneak off to the hot-dog stand an hour later to fill up the vacuum that nature seems to abhor, but Elizabeth surely will have learned something of culinary skill in the experiments and make mistakes she won't make again.

Jack's father may say to him, "I ordered some lumber today for the partitions in the vegetable cellar your mother has been wanting. Tomorrow is Saturday and I want you to get it and do what you can."

Jack may not claim cousinship with the gentlemen of the rhyme. "This is the house that Jack built."

Perhaps he knows no more about a hammer and a saw than I know about wireless telegraphy. But if he is worth his salt he is going to put together some boards in such a way that the potatoes, apples, cabbage, carrots, and turnips, or whatever else one keeps on the dirt floor of a "vegetable cellar" through the winter, won't be rubbing elbows with one another.

The next time he does any carpenter work, he will know more about wood and nails, angles and corners, sawing and planing, than he did before.

It need not be cooking. It need not be hammering. It need indeed be nothing requiring physical prowess or cleverness, but merely a process of the mind.

No one deserves praise so much for the things he knows how to do well, as for the thing that he does not know how to do but isn't afraid to tackle.

It is one of the greatest character builders I know. But, of course, like all other things, should be done within reason. And allowances should be made for failure.

FRESH DRAINS

Whenever cauliflower, cabbage or other strong vegetables are drained into the sink, the hot or cold water tap should be turned on immediately for a few seconds to wash out the drain and keep it smelling fresh.

A dumb girl won a beauty contest in Beaver Falls, Pa., recently. At last it has happened, "beautiful but dumb."

SELECT YOUR SHRUBS NOW.

By Romaine B. Ware.
Do not wait till spring to plant the shrubs your garden needs. Fall is the season to put them in place. Just as soon as the leaves have fallen they may be moved with safety, and then when spring comes they will start growth long before you could work the ground. In this way many weeks are gained and, too, you always have so much to do in the spring that it never gets done.

In selecting shrubs you should study them and get the kinds that will most nearly fit into the scheme you have. For a tall, dense hedge there are few that equal the lilac. The French lilacs are by far the best but they must always be on their own roots. Any other kinds of root stock will not give satisfaction on the long run. Plant lilacs about five feet apart and in a few years they will make a solid background. The Japanese barberry makes a good shrub where one not so tall is desired, it grows very thickly and is dense and due to its spines discourages any walking through. The brilliant fall color and the red berries in the winter make it especially desirable.

A flowering shrub that is especially good is the double flowering plum (prunus tri-loba), it has very beautiful pink flowers that fairly cover the branches. Being hardy in all sections it may be planted everywhere. Five feet apart is about the right distance to set this also. It will grow six to eight feet tall and quite dense. In planting shrubs set them so that they are a little deeper than they were in the nursery row and dig the hole plenty large enough to take the roots without crowding. Mulch them lightly the first winter so that the frost will not heave them. Coarse litter, corn-stalks, hay or straw may be used.

PREVENT CURDLING

Cream tomato and similar soups can be kept from curdling if the tomato and the milk are of even temperatures when mixed and the tomato is stirred into the milk.

FEMINE SMARTNESS

A charming dress, indispensable for your Autumn wardrobe that employs printed crepe satin with plain satin crepe, ideal for all-around occasions. The neckline is distinctive, with front closing vestee. The long-waisted bodice creates snug neckline, with novel belt marking normal waistline. The flared skirt concentrates fullness at either side with shirring through hipline, with draped effect at left side front. It is stunning in black sheer velvet with red silk moiré vestee. The two surfaces of crepe satin, canton-faille crepe, crepe Elizabeth, georgette crepe, flat silk crepe, printed sheer velvet and crepe Roma are appropriate for Style No. 255. Patterns can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

SIX ALIBI CONVENTIONS

When to cover an honor with an honor and when not to do so is the subject of the following illustrations:

Dummy holds diamonds A K 10 9; declarer leads diamonds J; west holds diamonds Q 8 7 6.

West should not cover. If he does, the dummy will take every diamond trick. The lead is sure to be in the dummy after the second round and declarer may be compelled to lead up to the Queen of diamonds eventually. There is nothing to gain by covering.

Dummy holds clubs A 7 6; declarer leads clubs J; west holds clubs Q 5 3.

West should not cover. There is nothing to be gained there. If east holds the King of clubs he will take it in any event. When the declarer leads a Jack up to the King-Jack-10 in his own hand, Dummy holds spades A 8 5; declarer leads spades J; west holds spades Q 9 7 6.

West should cover on the first round. When you hold the 10 or 9 in your card suit, cover an honor, with an honor and it is probable you will establish your 10 or 9.

Dummy holds hearts A 7 6; declarer leads hearts Q; west holds hearts K 10 4 3.

Dummy holds diamonds Q J 7; declarer leads diamonds A 4 3; east holds diamonds K 8 5 2; dummy leads diamonds Q.

WHITER BRIGHTER WASHES—WORKS LIKE MAGIC

Says Mrs. N. Blanchard of 70 Fairfield Street

"A sample in my washer started me to using Rinso. This fine soap has proved satisfactory from the first. Week in and week out it produces clothes washed beautifully clean, white and bright. I often wonder what I'd do if I were unable to get Rinso for my washing machine. Honestly, this soap works like magic. On goes the electric current, into the washer go the clothes and a Rinso solution, and in a few minutes the wash is all ready for the clothesline. Yes, I keep myself supplied with Rinso at all times because it's a time-saver, and invariably does a first-class job on washday." (Signed) Mrs. N. Blanchard, 70 Fairfield Street, Manchester, Conn.

It's so safe! No scrubbing—no boiling—for the whitest wash ever! Rinso, the granulated, "no-work" soap, saves hands, too. The makers of 34 leading washers endorse Rinso for safety. Two sizes—most women prefer the large package. Try Rinso today—follow easy directions for best results.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Gene Tunney is much aggrieved because "the whole world is in on my love affair." With a nice choice of only three words becoming a gentleman and a scholar he deplores the plain snootiness of a curious world which wants to know how his girl looks, when they'll be married, where they'll live, how they'll get along, and all the things that a romance-hungry world has wondered about young lovers since the beginning of time.

POLLY TALKS

The charming young lady, on the contrary, has consented without much urging to discuss her engagement to one of the nation's most eligible bachelors, to pose in various charming settings, and does not seem to hate the world's attitude at all. One would have expected her to be the annoyed one, not a man who, having made fame and fortune through the marvels of publicity, should have learned by now that the penalty of fame is no privacy, and that the price one pays for welcome publicity is the price of the unwelcome kind, too.

I'D BE PEEVED

Seriously, if I were Mary Josephine, alias "Polly" Lauder I would be a little hurt at the young man's attitude. It almost looks as if he were so shrouding his own sense of dignity and importance in cotton batting that he forgets that the girl might really care to see the whole world. Her Gene doesn't give an upper right if the whole world sees him kiss his girl good-by, or knows that he sends her a cable every day or will fight mobs of reporters at the doorsteps, he's going to see and be seen with his girl, anyway! Even his cables are carefully couched to include all her family. Gene may be a good fighter but he uses funny tactics as a lover!

WHERE'S THEA?

Would you cross the road to see the dresses that Lillian Gish wore in "Way Down East" or the shoes Charlie Chaplin wore in "The Kid"? Hollywood believes you would, for it has just opened a museum containing wardrobe pictures together with celebrated props such as the wooden horse of "Helen of Troy," French villages of "The Big Parade," and the like. One imagines that the day is not far off when these things will have a real historic value, judging by the many changes made in the movies right now. I am not willing to call the changes improvements, however. Who, for instance, wants a talkie movie, anyway?

RUSSIA'S CHILDREN

Hundreds of Russian boys and girls, from mere infants of 5 and 6, to young men and women of 20, marched to Red Square on Labor Day to prove their support of Communism and dedication to it. Hands, many of them, are raised in holy horror at what the hand letters call "this exploitation of youth." But why? We have our own school children stand in pretty little rows and pledge allegiance to their flag. Why shouldn't children of the Soviet do the same in their own way.

WOMEN'S DUDS

How this matter of clothes does continue to agitate the world! A Belgian priest criticizes Princess Astrid, wife of Crown Prince Leopold, for wearing too short skirts. Little girls appearing in kickers for their first day of school are sent home for "more suitable raiment," and a lady judge wouldn't even let a woman witness tell what she saw in a certain fracas because the lady came into court in kickers and a peek-a-boo waist. One might say "what of it?" But there is something to it, after all! Both men's and women's dress has throughout all ages had more social significance than most any other factor in human living.

NEAREST A BIG FACTOR IN TUBERCULOSIS.

This is the first of a series of three articles on Tuberculosis. Tomorrow: Food for the Tuberculous.

By DR. MORRIS FISHEEN.

The treatment of tuberculosis as emphasized by Dr. Lawrason Brown, is based on four fundamental factors—rest, good food, fresh air and education. Rest is considered today as of the greatest importance, whereas formerly the greatest emphasis was placed on food and fresh air.

Most patients begin to protest against too much rest, arguing that the organs will not function without exercise. However, a diseased organ particularly requires opportunity to recuperate after fatigue.

Hurts Require Rest.

Every living thing requires rest because activity uses up certain materials. Injuries demand rest for repair. If the skin over the knuckle is broken, the knuckle must be held still so that the tissues may be properly recover.

Tuberculosis is a disease that burns up body tissue. Hence prolonged rest is necessary for repair. The time given to rest varies with each person and the patient with tuberculosis must be studied as an individual in order to determine just how much and what kinds of rest he should have.

Dr. Brown insists that when high fever is present, the patient should not be allowed to move either hand or foot, writing must be forbidden and even reading greatly curtailed, if it is permitted at all.

Visitors are excluded, all excitement avoided, and talkative nurses particularly kept away from the patient. Rest in such cases means not only absolute physical rest, but also complete mental rest.

The length of time the patient remains in bed depends entirely on his condition and the speed of his recovery. This must be determined by the physician in each case.

Dear Ethel (extract from Norma's Letter)

Lucile was saying that she never can be popular because she can't afford to buy distinctive clothes. I interrupted, "You could if you want to."

MOVIE THEATER ON BYRD'S SHIP FOR AMUSEMENT

New York.—When Commander Richard E. Byrd and his expedition arrive in the Antarctic regions on their contemplated journey to the South Pole, they will have with them a travelling motion picture theater. Always solicitous of the comfort of his men, Commander Byrd has arranged to transport a motion picture projector and a well stocked library of films for their entertainment.

Selecting Films
For several weeks the selection of films which are to be taken has been underway and as it was deemed advisable by Commander Byrd and his associates to choose films as much in keeping with the spirit of the expedition as possible, it was necessary in many cases for producing companies to develop new prints of films considered appropriate.

A large number of films selected are photographic records of historic expeditions in both the Arctic and Antarctic as well as other unexplored territory.

Chief among these films is "Shackleton's Last Antarctic Expedition" which will be viewed repeatedly by the expedition on the southern journey as a means to familiarize them with the problem which they will face in the same territory.

This film deals with Sir Ernest Shackleton's ill-fated voyage to the Antarctic in "The Quest," the little 125 ton vessel which covered 30,000 miles on the voyage.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (387) Our Presidents. Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher.

It was during the Creek and Indian War that Andrew Jackson won the term of "Old Hickory."

Jackson was among the candidates for president in 1824 but the election was thrown into the House, which chose John Quincy Adams.

Jackson's beloved wife, Rachel, died in that year, leaving Jackson stunned and heart-broken.

When Jackson came to the presidency in 1829, he provided the White House with no mistress, but during his eight years of residence there, he kept the gentle face of his wife constantly before him.

Jackson's first term William Lloyd Garrison's Liberator was published, and its ideas of emancipation caught a great stir through the land.

LETTER GOLF

FORE! HAM AND!

You can't go from HAM to eggs in letter golf, but if you aren't too hungry and can be content with one EGG, it makes a nice par seven. One solution, which you may be able to beat, is on another page.

H	A	M
E	G	G

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

The most modest girl we know even blindfolds herself when she takes a bath.

The most hopeless optimist is the man who still believes hens can be fed so as to make them lay as freely in winter as in spring.

Do you remember way back when it was considered very discourteous for a young man to smoke in the presence of his girl friend?

People used to get married when they knew each other thoroughly. Nowadays that's when they get divorced.

Making home brew sets a bad example for the home brood.

THE ANYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"I'll take a hot dog," Copsy cried. A great big fat one then was piled. "Oh, that's the one I want," said he. "Put mustard on it, too. Just tuck it right inside a bun. To eat it will be lots of fun. I'll eat this one, and then perhaps another when I'm through."

"Now, just a minute," Clowny said. "Please get this fact right through your head. 'Twill cost you just ten cents before I give you food to eat." Then Scouty cried, "Well, fix up three. I've thirty cents, as you can see. To show you I am generous, this food will be my treat."

"Course Copsy cried, "Hurray for you!" And Carpy added, "Yep! Here too." So Clowny fixed three hot dogs, and the Tinies had a feast. "My goodness, these are very good," said Scouty. "I am sure I could eat more." And Clowny answered, "Fine! My sales will be increased."

"Then Copsy jumped and cried, "Oh, gee, the trainer has a task for me. I think I'll run and find him. He has promised a surprise." He scampered off and left the rest to eat and eat and do their best to have their hunger satisfied. They soon were hearing sighs.

Back to the trainer's private tent wee Copsy very quickly went. "Ah, here you are," the trainer said. "I'm glad that you have come. I'll very shortly turn you loose where you can put a whip to use." When told that he'd train animals, it struck poor Copsy dumb.

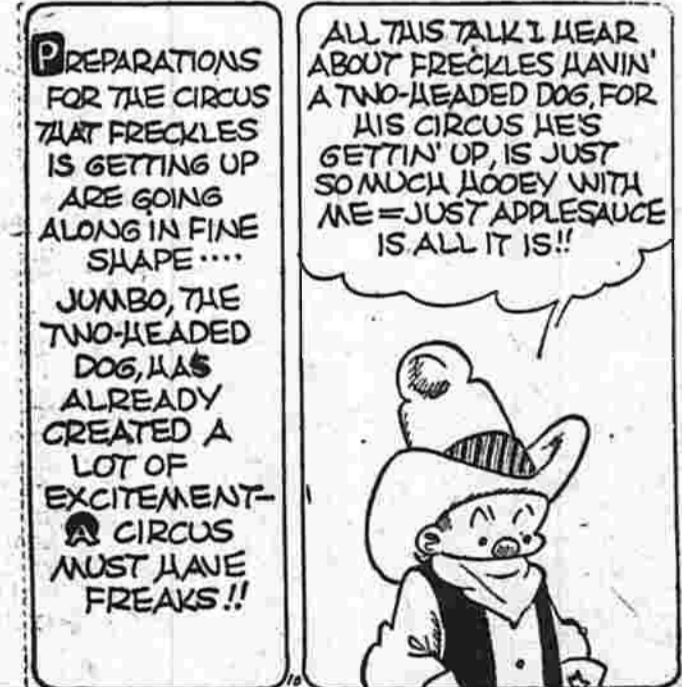

But, he was game and went along when told that nothing would go wrong. A tiger and a lion soon were chased into a ring. When Copsy's nerve was finally found, he had them jumping all around. "See there," exclaimed the trainer. "It is quite a simple thing."

TAXI NOT A TAXI WHEN NOT WORKING AT JOB

Court Rules Driver Does Not Need Service License During Personal Use.

When is a public service car not a public service car? This was the question that was solved in the Town court this morning when Tony Tumliensky of North School street, employed by James W. Foley, owner of a Yellow Taxi Cab, was charged with operating a public service car without having secured a driver's license to operate such a car.

Prosecuting Attorney C. R. Hathaway told the court that he was of the opinion from his investigation that the car had not been operated for hire—that it had been loaned by Mr. Foley to the driver for his own personal use. There had been an accident, but the driver of the taxi was in no way to blame, Officer Seymour had told him. The car carried a public service marker while the driver had only an ordinary driver's license.

Attorney William S. Hyde, who appeared for the accused, said that the idea of the license was to guard passengers against any improper person driving a taxi but that when the car was used for carrying passengers he did not think that there had been any such violation. Judge Johnson took a similar view and suspended judgment.

GIVE PARTY IN HONOR OF GIRL'S BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hutchinson of 133 North Elm street entertained a luncheon yesterday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Doris, it being her birthday anniversary. The guests, only the immediate relatives of the Hutchinson family, included Mrs. Alfred W. Hutchinson, grandmother, Justice and Mrs. J. Banks Jones, Representative and Mrs. Robert E. Foote and four children, all of Hebron, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll W. Hutchinson and four children of Manchester, all uncles, aunts or cousins of Miss Doris. She received several very useful gifts.

Alfred W. Hutchinson, her grandfather, who is in his eighty-eighth year, was unable to attend, by reason of the infirmities of advanced age. In his younger years Mr. Hutchinson did considerable business in Manchester and is well known to several of the older residents in town.

Immediately after the reception, Miss Hutchinson, who is a registered nurse, received an urgent call from the Waterbury Hospital for two weeks' duty in anaesthetic work, one of the subjects in which she has specialized in post graduate study. Miss Hutchinson was reluctant to leave as her time and thought are fully occupied here in Manchester, but the call being very pressing she finally yielded.

AGOSTINELLI GETS NEW RUM CASE CONTINUANCE

The case of Ustilo Agostinelli, proprietor of the Capitol Soda Shop on Oak street, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell, was again continued in police court today. Agostinelli was arrested when police visited his store two weeks ago and found a large quantity of the alleged beer. The case, when first called, was continued until today at the request of Attorney William S. Hyde, who represents the accused. The court was told this morning by Prosecutor Hathaway that Agostinelli would be unable to appear this morning and that he had agreed to a continuance of the case until September 17. A cash bond was posted when Agostinelli last appeared in court and this bond was continued for his appearance next Monday.

SCHUBERT-ROTH

Miss Lena M. Roth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Roth of Cooper street was married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the German Concordia Lutheran church to Max J. Schubert, son of Robert Schubert of Cooper street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. O. Weber in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. As the bridal party entered, the church which was tastefully decorated in gladiolus, ferns and palms, Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mrs. H. O. Weber and as a recessional played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Miss Anna Tuck sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me."

Miss Roth was attended by her sister Miss Louise Roth as bridesmaid and the best man was Thomas Kearns of this town.

The bride was attired in light blue changeable georgette crepe trimmed with rhinestones and she also wore a bandeau of rhinestones and carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's dress was of peach colored chiffon with rhinestone trimmings. She carried an arm bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The home was decorated with palms and gladiolus and George Roth, uncle of the bride, catered, about fifty friends and relatives being in attendance. The gifts received by the young couple were numerous and beautiful.

The bride's gift to the groom was a hammered silver smoking set and his gift to the bride was an ivory toilet set. The bride gave her bridesmaid a white gold flexible watch bracelet, while the best man received a cigarette lighter from the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Schubert left Saturday evening on an unannounced wedding trip and on their return home will reside at 57 Cooper street, their newly furnished home.

FOUR SPEEDSTERS HELD FOR TRIAL; ONE FINED

Three Out-of-State Hasteners Get Continuances on Bail Bonds.

Officer Albert Roberts and his motorcycle had a busy time yesterday and as a result four cases of speeding came up before Judge R. A. Johnson at this morning's session of the Town court. Only one went to trial. Ferdinand Lazzari, of No. 45 White street, pleaded guilty to speeding. Officer Roberts said he was driving east on Center street between McKee and Cooper at a rate of forty-five miles an hour and had passed between ten and fifteen other cars going in the same direction. Lazzari said he did not know how fast he was driving. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed. Total $18.32. He paid.

FIRST QUAKER PHEASANTS LIBERATED HERABOUTS

Fifty more pheasants were turned loose by members of the Manchester Fish and Game club. The birds were furnished by the State Fish and Game Commission and were shipped to Manchester from Harrisburg, Pa. These birds were bent to replace fifty that the state was to have purchased from August Senkbell, but which he was unable to deliver when 300 birds disappeared from his coops. The birds that arrived Saturday afternoon are the first to come into this section from the Key Stone state.

Kemp's RADIO SERVICE

PEEKABOO, OFFICER!
 Newton, Mass.—While police of two cities, her parents, relatives and friends frantically hunting for Pearl Gallagher, she lay peacefully sleeping behind the bath tub in her home. She fell asleep after hiding there for fear of a spanking as a result of dropping her baby brother, Pearl woke up six hours later, found her "couch" uncomfortable and moved to her bed, where she was found. China's unused resources are said to be similar to those of the United States 400 years ago.
